Nation Ice Going Out

The first movement of the ice out of the Nation started yesterday afternoon, but is not likely to prove the interesting sight of former years as the flow of water for some time has worn the greater part of the ice away in the centre of the channel. The break-up is about three weeks later than last season.

Delay in Securing Information

It was expected that an announcement of a public meeting would be made this week for the purpose of discussing the proposition for the erection of a covered skating rink and Community Hall. Owing to the delay in securing data relative to costs and other information the meeting will be announced later.

The Best in Moving Pictures

The Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian Church scored another success, Monday night, in their endeavor to give the best in moving pictures when George Arliss appeared in "The Man Who Played God." While the title seemed fearsome to the "unco' guid" the picture was one of the best ever exhibited here in artistic merit and moral direction. The Harold Lloyd Comedy "The Sailor Made Man" rounded out a programme very much above the average. The next big picture will be presented early in May, the date of which will be announced later.

Berwick Women's Institute

The March meeting of the Berwick branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Chas. Gray. An unusually good musical programme was provided, also instructive and interesting papers were given by Mrs. D. B. Cameron entitled "How to make and keep a friend" and "In the Realm of the Home" by Miss Elizabeth Ruddy. A darning contest was held, and among the many competitors, Mrs. Bill Elliott secured first prize, and Mrs. Walter Whittaker second. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, and it was announced that the next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Simeon Hutt.

Gallant 600 in "Game of Life"

One of the most remarkable scenes ever staged in pictures is found in "The Game of Life," the immortal charge of the Light Brigade. We see the 600 light cavalrymen charging into the mouths of Russian cannon at Balaklava—

"Right through the line they broke; Cassock and Russian Reeled from the sabre stroke."

The famous charge was staged by permission of his Majesty King George V., who loaned the producer of "The Game of Life" 600 light cavalrymen from the very same regiment which performed the glorious exploit on the battlefield of the Crimea 67 years ago. "The Game of Life" which since its opening in Great Britain three months ago has smashed all cinema records in England, will open in Canada at Massey Hall on Friday, December 22. Town Hall, Chesterville, Friday April 5th.

Margaret McLean, Finch, Passes Away

On Wednesday March 28th, death came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George L. McLean, Finch, and claimed their youngest daughter, Margaret, aged 20 years and six months, as its victim. The deceased had been ill for some months with a form of heart trouble, and notwithstanding the utmost that medical skill and careful nursing could do, she passed into her rest on the above mentioned date. There was a charm of character, a winsomeness in Margaret's personality, which made her a general favourite with all. She was never heard to express a rash or unkind judgment of anyone. "How untimely!" "A promising career closed!" So, in our blindness, we are apt to speak. May we be wiser. God knows best. In Him all lives are perfected: all work is completed. Our sister's work here was done: she needed rest. God took her home.

Folded hands upon a breast
Where no feverish pulses flutter,
Speak of an unbroken rest
That no earthly tongue may utter.

Peace and rest at length have come,
Peace and rest so deep and vast;
Weary wanderer, safe at home,
Home at last.

The funeral was held on Friday, March 30th, in St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. R. J. Wilson, M. A., assisted by Rev. J. O. Barren, conducting the services. The large gathering testified to the respect in which she was held. Six young men from the town acted as pall-bearers, Messrs. W. Henry, Munro McMillan, W. Nephew, H. Rombough, F. McQuaig, H. McMonegal, and eight of her girl friends carried the floral offerings which were received from the following—The family, Mr and Mrs. J. C. Cameron, Her Nieces, The Camp Girls, Aunts Mary, Jane, Margaret, Jennie Henry, Lois Margaret Wilson, St. Luke's S. S., St. Lukes Ladies Aid, Anna Gillis, Cornwall; Sadie Simpson, Cornwall; A. W. Bayman, Ottawa; P. S. Johnstone, Ottawa; Mrs. Wm. McLean, Ottawa; Junior Girl's Institute, Finch. Besides her sorrowing parents she leaves to mourn her loss one sister, Mrs. J. C. Cameron, Cornwall, and three brothers—Johnstone, of Ottawa and Croil and Gladstone at home.

Berwick Literary Society

A Literary Society has been organized in Berwick and owing to the untiring energy of the president Mrs. D. B. Cameron, and her assistants it is making splendid progress.

Three programmes have been given already and each has consisted of community singing, the spirit of which is entered into by all, piano solos, guessing contests and last but not least a debate.

At the last meeting the subject for debate resolved—"That a Community Hall is a necessity in our Township" was ably upheld by both sides, Mrs. Foster acting as captain for the affirmative and Mr. Edgar Miller for the negative.

The judges' decision was four points in favour of the affirmative.

The contestants for the guessing contests were required to fill in a blank with the name of some company whose advertisement was given—example—More bread and Better Bread—Purity Flour. The meeting closed with the singing of the national anthem.

As the Literary Society has been organized for social and educational purposes, everybody is invited to attend.

Saw Herd of Deer

Mr. Edward Wood of Smiths Falls and Mr. Carmon Knapp of Merrickville now stir the pulses of hunters and others as they tell of having seen a herd of eight red deer in Marlborough township, near Burritts Rapids, on Tuesday of last week. As they were driving along the King's highway talking of De Laval cream separators and other things, they came upon the deer, seven of which at once moved off, leaving one to see and be seen from close quarters. The others had simply moved off to a hill a short distance away. The only alarm manifested was by the horse which was drawing Messrs. Wood and Knapp in a cutter; to it deer were new objects and it was afraid of them; otherwise the De Laval agents would have lingered long to gaze upon a sight which they can never forget. Their only regret was that they had no camera along. In that district every fall deer are shot. Two or three or four have been seen together at times, but probably not since pioneer days have eight been seen in a body. This was about six miles from Merrickville and not more than twenty from Smiths Falls.

Should Be Boycotted

Two very pretty girls met on the street and kissed each other rapturously. Two young men watched the meeting. "There's another of those things that are so unfair," said one.

"What is that?" said his friend.

He pointed to the scene: "Women doing men's work."

Remarkable Masonic Incident

The first Masonic funeral that ever occurred in California took place in 1849 and was performed over a brother found drowned in the bay of San Francisco. An account of the ceremony states that on the body of the deceased was found a silver mark a Mason upon which were engraved the initials of his name. A little further investigation revealed to the beholder the most singular exhibition of emblems that was ever drawn by the ingenuity of man upon the human skin. There is nothing in the history or traditions of Masonary equal to it. Beautifully dotted on his left arm in red and blue ink, which time could not efface appeared all the emblems of the entire apprenticeship. There was the Holy Bible, square and compasses, the 24 inch gauge and common gavel. There was also the Masonic pavement, representing the ground floor of King Solomon's temple, the identical tessel which surrounds it, and the blazing star in the centre. On his right arm, and artistically executed in the same indelible liquid, were the emblems pertaining to the fellowcraft's degree, viz. the square, the level and the plumb. There were also the five columns representing the five orders of architecture—the Tuscan, Doric, Ionic, Corinthian and Composite.

To Guard Against Fire

Many will be appalled to learn that the fire losses in Canada estimated in detail for one week, ending February 28th, 1923, amounted to approximately $2,251,200, which was $1,891,200 more than for the same week in 1922. What is becoming, asks the Ontario Safety League, of our precautions relative to fire prevention? Should not figures of this kind be a constant reminder to us to take absolutely no chances with the fire hazard?

To prevent fires we should avoid the hazard before the fire starts. We should never allow trash or rubbish to accumulate inside or outside of our houses. We should all endeavor to prevent loss of life and property by removing all causes of fire.

The fire marshal of Ontario says:

"If you do not want fire to visit your home use common sense in handling dangerous materials and supplies, cleanliness by removing all rubbish and litter, carefullness with fire and lights. Use only strike on the box matches. These are the three C's of fire prevention.

Record Snow Fall Arrives in Sudbury

Sudbury on Monday experienced what old timers regard as the heaviest snowfall in the history of the town when over 18 inches of snow fell between 8 o'clock in the morning and 8 o'clock at night. The snowfall was not accompanied by wind or a drop in temperature, the mercury hovering just about zero throughout the day.

Sad Drowning Accident at Cornwall

A very sad drowning accident happened about 11 o'clock last Thursday in the sluiceway near the Dundas Cotton Mill at Cornwall. Two boys sons of Mr. Albert Page, Lionel, aged 13, and Archie aged 7, were playing on the road, alongside the sluiceway, when the younger one fell into the water. The elder boy made an attempt to save his brother, but the bank is very steep and once they were in the water it would be impossible for them to get out unaided. Their cries were heard but they had been carried down by the swift running water before help could reach them. They were probably carried out into the river by the rapid current.

Bear Movement in Muskrat

Cobourg Sentinel: The opening of the muskrat season on March 1st meant nothing to the trappers and the farmers whose lands about the river in its lower reaches. Everything is frozen tight, although these last few days have developed an inclination to thaw that may extend all the way along the waterfront. Several pelt buyers at Peterboro say prices are likely to open up considerably lower than last year's with the probablity that they would be around $1.50 to $1.75. One buyer expressed the opinion that the wholesalers would not pay any more than $1.50. The winter is said to have been rather favorable to the rat colonies, and a fairly large catch is expected if the spring is not too long delayed.

Preventing Disease

The modern aim of medicine to prevent disease rather than wait for it to declare itself is encouraging. In former days people used to remark with some amusement that among other "queer" customs of the Chinese—queer because contrary to our idea or practice—was that of paying the doctor only so long as you were well; but nowadays we are beginning to think that the custom is perhaps not so funny after all. We have always been fond of saying, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," but, curiously enough, we applied the maxim to almost everything except health. Now however, we are coming to see that it applies to bodily ills with special force.

The modern effort to prevent disease began with the doctors, who in spite of the good-natured, and sometimes ill-natured, fun that is poked at them are true lovers of their kind. Since with some few exceptions, we have not adopted the Chinese plan, the doctor earns his living solely by caring for the sick, and the fewer the sick the harder it is for him to earn his living. Nevertheless, he is working constantly to teach people how to keep well.

Societies have been formed for instructing the public how to avoid tuberculosis, cancer, heart disease and other scourges of mankind. Moreover, associations of medical men have been established for considering the best means to promote public health and to prevent epidemics. One of the national medical societies is planning to establish a journal devoted to disseminating instruction in the laws of hygiene. Other associations have been establisbed for periodically examining all persons who present themselves for the purpose; in that way the first signs of disease of the heart, of the kidneys and of other organs can be detected.

All those undertakings owe their start to private initiative. In addition to them there are municipal, state and national boards of health. But at bottom responsibility for health rests with the individual, who should form the habit of going to his physician for a clean bill of health, just as he goes to his dentist to ascertain the condition of his mouth.

In Cornwall Police Court

During the 1921-22 holidays a man from the vicinity of Morrisburg was charged by the Provincial officers with bringing liquor up by train and was fined $2 000 and costs or six months in jail. During the last holiday season he was charged with a similar offence and the case was adjourned from time to time an account of the illness of accused. A couple of weeks ago the man appeared and pleaded guilty and Mr. Cline imposed a fine of $500 and two months imprisonment. Mr. Irwin Hilliard, K.C., of Morrisburg, appeared on behalf of the Attorney-General's Department and requested a stay of a week in the execution of the warrant, as the Department wished to look more fully into the merits of the case, Mr. J. G. Harkness, County Crown Attorney, as well as the Magistrate, concurred in the request. Towards the end of the week Mr. Harkness received a telegram from the Department, stating that the reports were too unfavorable for further consideration and the sentence imposed by the Magistrate would have to be carried out.

Apple-Growing Competition For Farm Boys

A competiton has been instituted among the boys on the farms of Carleton and Russell Counties, Ontario, for the purpose of promoting the establishment of small apple orchards. A few years ago the late R. B. Whyte, of Ottawa, instituted potato growing competitions in these counties and provided a fund for the continuation of this kind of work. The fun is administered by Mr. W. T. Macoun Dominion Horticulturist, Mr. Geo. H. Clark, Seed Commissioner, and Mr. L. H. Newman, Dominion Cerealist, as Secretary.

The competition is open to boys under eighteen years of age living on farms in the two counties named. Each boy entering the contest will receive six apple trees of early summer or late winter varieties. The contest will extend over three years. Prizes will be awarded annually as well as at conclusion. The prizes will be based on inspection reports as to the condition in which the trees have been kept and the use made of the land between the rows. Mr. Macoun feels confident that the competition will result in a better understanding of the suitability of varieties for the district and the more general planting of apple trees on the farms. In the opinion of the committee the contest is considered worthy of emulation in other parts of Canada.

Dog Steals Milk

For some weeks recently the housewives of the East End have been mystified, as well as annoyed, by the disappearance of milk from the verandahs and doorsteps, where it was usually left by the milkmen. At first the good ladies were inclined to blame the men and boys who deliver the milk, believing that the lack of the usual day's supply of lacteal fluid was due to absent mindedness or carelessness on their part. Emphatic denial by the milkmen that they were to blame, the discovery of the fact that in places, where more than one bottle was the daily order, only one bottle would be missing, the finding of some of the empty bottles in the centre of the roadway and the fact that the same place was not visited twice in succession, added to the mystery. For many days close watch was kept by the losers of milk in a hope that the thief would be captured, without success, however, and it had been decided that nothing remained but to place the matter in the hands of the police to unravel. But, the early rising of one of the citizens who had had to go short of cream for his morning porridge and coffee, uncovered the culprit, solved the mystery and absolved all suspected bipeds of guilt. Going casually to the window to see what sort of weather prevailed, the citizen was startled to see a handsome collie dog retiring from his verandah with a bottle of milk carried carefully in its mouth. Restraining his natural impulse to go after the canine raider, the citizen watched with intense interest the proceedings of the four-footed lover of fresh milk. Carrying the bottle some little distance from the house the collie set it down carefully and with his paw forced off the cardboard disk, upset the bottle, lapped up the contents as they ran out on to the ground and then trotted off with an air of conscious rectitude unmarred by any thoughts of possible retribution. The clever forager had, however, been identified and as a result is now carefully restrained by his owner from any more freebooting expeditions at the expense of the neighbors.—Pembroke Standard.

To Hit Rut in Road is Not Collision

A judgment by the Supreme Court of Canada, Tuesday decides an important point in automobile accident insurance. The appeal—an Ontario case—was that of the London Guarantee and Accident Company vs. Sowards, the action being based on a clause in a policy insuring an automobile and making the company liable for damage caused "by being in accidental collision during the period insured with any other automobile, vehicle or object."

The accident was a curious one. Sowards' son was driving the car when it struck a rut in the road. The steering wheel was wrenched out of the driver's hand. The car swerved; ran into a ditch; turned on its right side, ran along the ditch till it hit a large stone and turned over on the other side.

The trial judge held that the accident was not caused by collision under the above clause in the policy and also that the car was travelling at a speed exceeding the maximum allowed by law.

The Appellate Division reversed this judgment, found the company liable holding that the word "object" in the policy clause did not mean an object resembling an automobile as held by the trial judge. Further that the excessive speed was not a defense as the car was not driven by the insured.

Yesterday's judgment by the Supreme Court restores the judgment of the trial judge. The costs were allowed both in the Supreme Court and in the Appellate Division.

Here and There

Canada's export trade grew $174,000,000 in the first eleven months of the fiscal year ending March 31st.

A recent and popular Canadian Pacific appointment is that of Mr. Walter Maughan to Steamship Passenger Manager. The appointment includes management of the company's passenger business on both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Fire insurance companies found 1922 the most disastrous year for more than 20. The ratio of losses to premiums was 68.64 per cent. British companies suffered most severely, their losses to premiums being 71.48 per cent, mainly due to the Northern Ontario fire.

A gold rush is in full swing and it is expected to bring about the development of more mining camps in the counties of Temiskaming and Abitibi. Gold was discovered in these two counties early in 1922 and a rush of prospectors began in March of that year. In October, 250 claims were staked, comprising 50,000 acres of land, and to date about 90,000 acres have been staked.

In the last fiscal year, Canada imported 1,363,000 pounds of butter from the United States. 297,000 pounds from Australia and 2,254,000 pounds from New Zealand. The total exports of Canadian butter were 8,430,000 pounds.

It is announced that the running schedule of the Trans-Canada Limited, which will operate between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, commencing May 20th, has been cut down one hour. Considering the all steel equipment and luxurious appointments and its regular daily on time performance, this is the finest long distance train in the world.

Bungalow camps, such as are operated in the Canadian Rockies, are to be built in the French River, Nipigon Bay and Lake of the Woods districts of Ontario by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Low cost of construction and maintenance will enable the company to offer lower rates than standard hotels. The first three will be ready for occupation by July 1st.

According to a recent rearrangement of ports of call in the Orient, the Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited, by omitting Manila as a port of call between Shanghai and Hong Kong, will bring the latter port four days nearer to Canada, the United States and Europe. This makes possible a through service from London, England, via Canadian Pacific Atlantic Empresses to Quebec and rail to Vancouver and via Canadian Pacific Empresses to Hong Kong under 28 days.

During the year 1922 the Canadian Pacific Railway handled a total of 8,435,825 pieces of baggage as compared with 8,732,674 for the previous year. Of this amount 5,175,203 pieces were passengers' baggage which compared with 5,486,455 for the previous twelve months. 9,697 bicycles were handled, 19,336 dogs travelled as baggage and 23,988 baby carriages were moved. There was also a considerable increase in the movement of milk. In 1922, the Company moved 1,623,707 cans as against 1,614,791 in 1921; and it is remarkable that most of this increase was in the three provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, which is an apparent indication of the further development of mixed farming in those provinces.

One of the best examples of a town "growing up over night" is that of Climax, the end of steel on the Consul-Assiniboia branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway. All that there was on the quarter section on February 19th, the day on which the site of the new town was finally settled, was a homesteader's shack and a small barn. When the steel was laid in Climax on March 15th there was a restaurant, one roominy house, over a score of dwellings, two blacksmith's shops, a drug store, gents' furnishing store, a big general store, pool room and barber shop. The new town is situated in four large flat warehouses in which nearly 100,000 bushels of grain were stored, and a butcher shop. The new town is situated in Lone Tree R.M. number 18, about 30 miles south of Shaunavon.

He had declared his passion to the young lady, and she had passed him along to her father. Father listened to his tale patiently.

"It's all right so far as I am concerned," the old gentleman said, "but I am afraid that Jane will not marry you."

"Oh, don't say that!" the young man pleaded. "Has she said so?"

"No," said the old gentleman, "but from what I know of Jane, if she wanted you she would have taken you without referring you to me."

Better Live Stock Train

Farmers and stock breeders throughout the country are showing great interest in the Ontario "Better Livestock Train", which started through Western Ontario on March First is now on its journey east. The train consists of twenty cars, including sleeper and diner for the staff of lecturers and demonstrators provided by the live stock branches, the Ontario Agricultural college and the Industrial Development council of Canadian Meat Packers, a demonstration car and a lecture car. The train's Canadian Pacific itinerary commenced on April 4th at Norwood and include all chief farming centres from that place east to Ottawa and north to Pembroke, arriving at Chesterville on April 16th.

The livestock equipment consists of 20 bulls, representing the three principal beef breeds, and the four principal dairy breeds, a number of cows and steers, twenty hogs and eight sheep. A share of the breeding stock will be on sale to the farmers at each point of call and all or any of the stock may be used for demonstrating purposes. Demonstrated poultry lectures are delivered and wool grading is demonstrated by experts. Hog grading is demonstrated and experts have been provided who will lecture on and demonstrate the desirable type of hog carcase for the export bacon trade.

The complete itinerary for April is as follows:—Perth, 9th; Pembroke, 10th; Cobden, 11th; Renfrew, 12th; Pakenham, 13th; Carleton Place and Stittsville, 24th; Chesterville 16th; Monklands, 17th; Green Valley, 18th; Vankleek Hill, 19th; Plantagenet, 10th; Bourget, 21st; Manotic, 23rd; Kemptville and Spencerville, 24th; Brockville, 25; Mallorytown, 26th; Napanee, 27th.

Farewell at Bethune Bush

On Tuesday evening last despite most inclement weather, about forty-five friends and neighbors took possession of the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. G.L. Shay, ere their departure for Chesterville, where Mr. Shay has entered business. A very enjovable evening was spent and after lunch the host and hostess with their daughter, Miss Edna, were called to the floor and each was presented with a very appropriate gift. Music and games were indulged in till almost morning and even then everyone seemed loath to depart.

Following is the address;—Mr. and Mrs. G.L. Shay and Miss Edna Shay. Dear friends:—We have gathered to-night in your home with two ideas —Firstly, we knew your door was ever open and a hearty welcome at hand, and secondly, we felt we could not permit you to pass from our midst without trying to express to you a little of the appreciation and respect we have for your sterling qualities as neighbors. Although your sojourn here has been of short duration, yet, by your agreeably pleasant and sunny dispositions, you have won for yourselves a warm place in our hearts, which will not easily be filled. We have found in you, neighbors who were ever ready and willing to assist whenever called upon, always kindly disposed and sympathetic in our joys and sorrows.

Unable to fully express our own thoughts and feelings we borrow the following lines trusting they will enable you to better understand our meaning.

"If with pleasure you are viewing, any work a person's doing,
If you like him or you love him, tell him now,
Don't withold your approbation till the parson makes oration
As he lies with snowy lilies on his brow.

Thus you see we do not believe in extreme waiting so we take advantage of the present to express our commendation of you as neighbors.

In further evidence of our good fellowship we ask you to accept these gifts trusting as you often use them your thoughts may be filled with pleasant memories of friends in this locality whose wishes are for your continued welfare and prosperity.

Oldest Leeds Resident Dead, One Day Short of 111 Years

At the House of Industry, Athens, the death occurred Saturday night of the oldest resident of Leeds County, in Rufus Avery, who, had he lived untilthe next day, would have attained his 111th birthday. He was born in the township of Augusta, the son of Ebenezer Avery, said to have been a United Empire Loyalist from Vermont. Most of the centenarian's life was spent in the vicinity of North Augusta, where he followed farming. He and his second wife, formerly Miss Martha Briggs a native of England, were admitted to the House of Industry five years ago. She is 30 years his junior.

Until the end his eyesight and hearing were exceptionally good, and on the day before his death he enjoyed his last smoke, being a pipe-smoker to the last.

Farmers Favor High Price Level

Forbes' Magazine—Ever since the great slump in agricultural prices which occurred late in 1920, bankers, economists, merchants and manufacturers have been telling each other solemnly that it is their duty as producers of things which the farmer buys to get those goods down to a price basis somewhere near the same ratio to present farm prices as that which existed in 1913. In fact of all this effort to be of help to them, the farmers have almost unanimously stated that th y are far more interested in increased prices for their farm products than they are in decreased prices for the things they buy. In fact, far-sighted farmers have stated flatly that, since high prices for farm products must mean high wages for labor and a high general level of incomes in the city in order to meet the increased cost of living, they are in favor of a general increase in the price level.

One farmer recently said to me, "I notice that the years when I have to pay the most for plows, shoes, and clothing, are the years when I have the most money left in the bank at the end of the year."

It is not necessary to suppose that most farmers have ever thought out just the line of reasoning used here. Many of them have, but a great many more, without following the full line of thought through, have come to the conclusion voiced by the man I have just quoted. Their immediate interests are inflation and not with deflation, and whatever the ultimate result may be, they are going to throw and keep on throwing their immense political power toward the side of easy money and higher prices, even if the ease of money must be artificially established.

If the mortgaged farmer is to be rescued, his rescue must be accomplished through an increase in prices of what he sells, rather than through a decrease in prices of what he buys.

Daily Activities Depend on Paper

What would the world do without paper? No marriage licenses or divorces. Nothing to make war over and nothing to write peace treaties on. Germany would have no money. There would be nothing to do at breakfast but eat.

At a recent dinner in a western city where an address was delivered on the subject of paper, one of the guests wore a dark suit made of paper and cotton. His necktie was of paper, also his shoes.

Paper is used in making carwheels, water pails, electrical insulators, suitcases and trunks. Spoons, dishes and table coverings are made from this material. A large part of the celluloid business is said to be based on the manufacture of that product from paper.

We begin life in a chariot of paper, for perambulators are now being constructed from Japanese fibre. And we are carried away at the end of the great adventure in a paper lined casket.—From Thrift Magazine.

Low Feed Costs for Large Litters

Prof. F. G. King, Indiana, is quoted by the Drover's Journal as saying:

"The size of the litter raised and marketed is the key to more profitable pork production. Records kept by 52 members of the country farm bureaus during two years show how important it is to raise large litters. On these farms it took only 138 pounds of feed to produce a weaning pig when a litter of seven or more pigs was raised on the average per sow. When litters that averaged less than five pigs were raised it took 277 pounds of feed. In other words, it took twice as much feed to produce a weaning pig in a litter of four as it did in a litter of seven or eight. The explanation is easy. It took 1,000 or 1 200 pounds of feed to carry a brood sow from the time she was breed in the fall until she weaned her litter in the following spring. If only four pigs are raised; that means 250 and 300 pounds of feed for each two months-old pig. If eight pigs are raised to the litter, it means only 125 to 150 pounds of feed for each pig."

DEBT

Debt is hell.

Don't you let 'em fool you, son, talking about credit being necessary in big business, and gr at men being great borrowers, and all that. At least wait until you are a big man and have a big business before you begin.

If you want anything, buy it after you get the money, not before.

It may mean hard work to get the money to buy what you want, but it isn't nearly so hard as working for money to pay for what you've had, used up, and don't want anymore.

It's like paying far a dead horse.

Debt usually means improvidence, which means weakness.

The whole business world is organized to make you go in debt. The clerk and shopkeeper wheedle you into purchasing what you don't need. The real estate agent, the book agent, the sewing-machine agent, the horse dealer, the lightning rod agent, furniture dealer and pup dealer, the magazine and newspaper advertisements, the bill boards and circulars, all are in a conspiracy against your pay check.

I don't urge you to be a miser, nor to pinch every nickel, nor any of that sort of thing Be a good fellow, pay your share, but—

Don't go in debt!

Debt is a millstone around a young man's neck.

If I could get into one spot upon the earth all the heart-burning and anguish debt has caused, it would surely burn a hole straight through to China.

If all the tears shed on account of debt should flow together, there would be a cataract more roaring than Niagara.

And if all the windy sighs, and groans, and oaths caused by debt were to unite in one gust, there would be a huricane more devastating than anything ever in Cuba, and a cyclone more terrible than Kansas or Oklahoma could furnish.

Don't go in debt!

Be weak, if you choose, and self indulgent, if you will, but don't mortgage your future to this moment's folly.

Resolve never to buy what you can't pay for. Starve first and go bare. Not because debt is wicked, but because it's uncomfortable, tormenting and abominable.

The world of young folks may be divided into two classes: those in debt and those with savings bank accounts; the first are fools and the second wise.

Of course, there's a great deal to be said on the other side, upon the advisability of going in debt in certain circumstances. Good! Let 'em say it! Listen respectifully!

And don't you do it!

And for fear I have not made my meaning plain, I will repeat that the idea I have in mind is: Don't go in debt!

Here and There

Galt, Ontario. — It is announced by the Canadian Pacific Railway that among the improvements planned for 1923 to company property is the building of a steel water tank to hold from 60,000 to 100,000 gallons at Guelph Jct.

Ottawa. — A constantly growing appreciation on the part of Canadians of their national parks, evidenced by the continued increase in the number of visitors in the last year, is emphasized in the report of National Parks Commissioner J B. Harkin. Visitors to all Canadian national parks during the year in question were estimated at 166,000, of whom more than 71,000 went to Banff. Foreign travelers to the larger parks were about 65,000. From an economic point of view, on a basis of $300 spent by each foreign visitor while in Canada, the national parks accounted for an indirect revenue of some $19,500,000, which amounts to about $2.22 per capita of Canada's present population. Other revenues from the parks, in the way of timber sales and concessions, accounted for $72,000. Total appropriations for the parks last year were $966,000.

Owen Sound. — Superintendent William Bethune, of the C. P. R. lake steamships has announced the officers for the steamers for the coming season. All last year's officers will be in their place without any change. The officers are as follows: S. S. Assiniboine—James McCannel, master; A. A. Cameron, chief engineer; George Bethune, purser; D. A. Sutherland, chief steward. S. S. Keewatin—M. M. McPhee, master; C. Butterworth, chief engineer; C. S. Miers, purser; E R. McCallum, chief steward. S. S. Manitoba—F. J. Davis, master; George D. Adams, chief engineer; George H. Fisk, chief steward; John E. Laine, purser. S. S. Athabaska—Murdock McKay, master; George S. Rae, chief engineer. S. S. Alberta—John McIntyre, master; William S. Struthers, chief engineer.

Winnipeg. — In connection with movement of grain to Vancouver from September 1, 1922, up to and including February 21st, the Canadian Pacific Railway has delivered at Vancouver a total of 6 768 cars of grain representing 9.894,816 bushels.

During the same period there has been exported from Vancouver to the Orient 1.234.550 bushels and to the United Kingdom 10,003,620 bushels, or a total of 11.378,170 bushels.

During the same period last year, the Canadian Pacific Railway delivered at Vancouver a total of 3,461,-512 bushels of grain, and there was exported from Vancouver during the same period last year 3.200 000 bushels, 1.220 000 of which were exported to the Orient and 2.080,000 to the United Kingdom.

In addition to this grain, which has already been exported from Vancouver so far this season, there is in store in elevator at that point 942,-823 bushels, according to a statement of E. D. Cotterell, Supt. Transportation, Western Lines.

Vancouver. — In the C. P. R. Hotel Vancouver, at Vancouver, there are approximately 600 rooms. The all-the-year-round staff numbers about 400 employees. The comparatively small matter of keeping paintwork, etc., in spotless condition calls for the continuous service of five painters and ten helpers; and five engineers with four stokers, four ash-men, two oilers and two truckmen are required in the engine-room. Then there are basement cleaners, store-room men, four kitchen cleaners, two painters (for menus), a yardman, an iceman, five food checkers, and three men on food control. The duty of those last is to see that every ounce of food leaving the storerooms is tabulated, so that at the end of each day the results of dining-room operations can be checked instantly. The kitchen is the largest unit of the hotel. There is a chef with 48 assistant cooks, to serve the dining room and grill. There are three separate cooks for the lunch counter. Two of the cooks attend to the broiling, three do nothing but frying three cook vegetables exclusively, and there are six pastry cooks. In addition, there are cooks who boil eggs, others who make tea, and others who make coffee. On man spends his working hours making toast; and there is another whose sol duty is to clean and open oysters. To feed the guests in one day 90 dozen eggs are required. Between 3,000 to 5 000 lunch and dinner rolls are baked daily and so butter these and for cooking 100 lb. of creamery butter are used each day. Carrots are consumed at the rate of 100 lb. a day, and between 800 and 1,000 lb. of potatoes are used every twenty-four hours. Other vegetables are used in quantities of from 50 to 500 lb, according to the number of guests in the hotel. It takes from 18 to 20 gallons of cream, 50 gallons of milk, and 175 to 200 lb. of poultry daily to satisfy the demands of the guests. Winter and summer the hotel ice plant turns out ten tons of ice daily. Even buying at the lowest wholesale prices, food alone costs the hotel from $1,500 to $2,000 daily.

BONDS
Are Mortgages on Fixed Assets

When a township issues debentures (or bonds) it gives a mortgage on the whole township for security to the buyers of the bonds for the loan of their money for a definite number of years at a satisfactory rate of interest.

If the amount required is large it is divided into small mortgages, (that is, bonds or debentures) of $500 or $1,000 each, with the same security behind each, so that investors with small sums may take advantage it.

Bonds or debentures are rated the safest kind of an investment.

The most joyful noise heard by many householders for some time has been the clatter of coal into the coal bin. Coal has been arriving in abundance during the past ten days when about two hundred tons have been unloaded. Many citizens evidently are not going to be interested in Alberta coal before the passing of another winter.

Finch Factory Had Successful Year

A fine tribute was paid to the dairying industry by Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, in a recent address, when he stated that of all different branches of farming dairying provides the surest return. While the profits are not large, they are reasonably sure to those who conduct their business well. It was seldom, the Deputy Minister said, that a competent dairy farmer failed. He then referred to the success of the dairy station operated by the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at the village of Finch. This station operated as a demonstration plant, makes butter or cheese and sells milk or cream according to the best market offering. Although strictly self supporting insofar as financial assistance is concerned, the station last year paid its patrons fully $20,000 more for milk than they would have received at neighbouring factories where a straight cheese business is done. It was also able by good management to turn in to the Dominion treasury a profit of several thousand dollars.

Dr. Grisdale stated that the Finch Station received 2,000,000 lbs. of milk in the first year of operation, whereas, last year, almost 9,000,000 lbs. were handled. Last year the station manufactured 45,324 lbs. of cheese and 50,389 lbs. of butter, and sold, besides, 26,125 lbs. of milk and 245,789 lbs of cream. The net price paid the patrons was $1.43 per cwt. of milk. The system of operating enabled the milk to be turned into the most profitable channel for the time being, thus resulting in prosperity to its patrons and a profit on operation. Some such system is commended to dairy men in place of the small, indifferently equipped factory, doing too little business to justify the employment of highly efficient help.

STOCK FOODS

Spring is here!

Spring is when the farmer hails the oncoming of the new pig crop—the lambs, calves and colts.

His wife—with her, it's the chicks—her heart set on early broilers for market—pullets that will develop into fall and winter layers.

The dams to mother these youngsters need to be kept fit, healthy and hungry—consuming sufficient not only to sustain self, but also to nourish the offspring.

Work horses and mules that have been roughed through the winter months now need a system of toning, bowel cleansing, and a worm riddance.

—Made fit to stand the hard summer's work.

—And, when those soft un-used shoulders lean into the collar—look out for galls.

Lice are most prevalent dnring the Spring.

Sheep dipping soon and disinfecting always.

Have all your customers raise their chicks the Pan-a-ce-a way this Spring; and just forget about the bowel troubles, leg weakness and gapes—Pan-a-ce-a takes care of all that.

Mr. Peaslee Recalls a Runaway

"I never witnessed a hoss run wuss or more determined," said Caleb Peaslee, who was telling Deacon Hyne of Jed Piper's mishap in a runaway that morning. "Unless," Caleb added slowly, "it was one I saw some years ago; but that hoss wasn't to be blamed as I know of, considerin' what the wagon was loaded with and how it urged him on."

"Any damage done?" demanded the deacon, and on being assured that except for a broken whiffletree Jed's horse and wagon were both undamaged he asked. "What was this other time you see a runaway, and what was in the wagon that kept the hoss goin?"

Caleb settled himself into his chair and crossed his legs with proper deliberation; he liked to be comfortable. "The time was 'fore the Widder Bruce died," he began, "and the hoss was a highfeelin' six-year-old that Watts Benslow owned and drove, and the cause was a swarm of bees, two swarms as a matter of fact, though I s'pose one would have been plenty.

"You've heard of folks that loved a dollar; well, Benslow was a good deal wuss'n that He'd almost go on all fours to a half a dollar, I guess. And if he could only get possession of it, it didn't matter much to him whether it was rightfully his or some other pusson's; a legal right or near it was all he asked, and he'd let the moral part of it look out for itself.

"He'd done some hoss tradin' and sold some hay and grain and had a slaughterhouse where he did some butcherin' and kept mebbe two hundred hens and sold eggs from 'em. Anything he could turn into a dollar he was ready and willin' to do, and 'mongst other things he had, I should cal'late, twenty hives of bees that he kept down in the far end of his orchard, figgerin' that whilst so many farmers round here raised buckwheat they'd be feedin' his bees and he'd be gettin' the money for the honey. A thing like that was jest what Benslow liked best.

"Course with all the trades he was dippin' into he didn't have time to give any one of 'em the 'tention it ought to have had, so the pressin' things got done, and the easy things was let go. Now up to a certain p'nt bees are easy,—they look after themselves and get their own grub,—but there's one time when they've got to be looked after personal, and that's when they're swarmin'. There's an old saying that's got almost the force of law in the country, and that is that bees can't be proved a man's property less'n he follows the swarm and sees 'em light; and it stands to reason, for they might be wild bees out of the woods, come to that.

"One spring Benslow's bees got to swarmin' early in May, and you know the time about a swarm's then bein' wuth a load of hay. One swarm got away and swept off down the road, and he lost sight of it; but that evening he heard that a swarm had settled on an apple tree in the Widder Bruce's orchard and that she'd hived it and put it out back of her barn, and he never lost a minute before he sot up a claim to 'em and went after 'em. But the widder wouldn't give 'em up so easy, so he had to go away without 'em.

"Mebbe he'd have let the matter go, bad as it galled him to lose anything, if the next day another hive hadn't split off a swarm that follered the same track down the road. And in a day or so he saw another hive out back of the widder's barn. That drove him 'bout wild, and seein' he knew he wouldn't get no satisfaction by askin' for 'em, he made up his mind to bide his time and get 'em when she was away from home.

"It happened he didn't have long to wait, for the next day he was drivin' down that way with this young hoss and met the widder a half a mile down the road with a basket on her arm goin' to the village of an errand; so he whipped up and drove along to her place and loaded the bees in, hives and all, not figgerin' or carin' that whoever the bees b'longed to the hives was hern anyway. Bein' in a good deal of a hurry to get 'em loaded 'fore anybody came along to see him, I s'pose he sot 'em in careless; at any rate he had some stuff in the bottom of the wagon, so he sot one hive in kimboed up cornerways and then shoved the other one in anyway he could and scrambled into his wagon and drove off.

"You want a good road to drive over when you're stealin' bees," Caleb continued sapiently, "and you want to drive careful; but that road was rough and full of ruts, and he hurried the hoss all he could to get home and get the bees unloaded 'fore dark. So it ain't to be wondered at when he got about halfway home and the off wheel dropped into a rut most to the hub that the kimboed hive tilted, and the top came off and left a swarm as big and as black as an overcoat hanging in the air not a foot over his head and every bee in the swarm as mad as a badger!

"He didn't have two seconds to sense his trouble in 'fore the bees made up their minds as one bee that he and the hoss was to blame for the disturbance. Anyway they acted on that idea, and all that saved Benslow was a bunch of chokecherry bushes as thick as a snarl; he dove out of the wagon and into the bushes, but even then he was stung so bad that he had to have a doctor. But the hoss couldn't do that, hitched to the wagon; he had to make for water, and the nearest was the river a quarter of a mile away; and I guess no hoss ever traveled quicker to wagon than that one did, and in he went, wagon, hives and all!

"Of course when he went into the water all over the bees left him—and now comes the funny part. They riz in the air and made two swarms, and after they'd circled once or twice back they homed to the Widder Bruce's and she hived them again in a couple of old hives she had in the wagon house. And the next day Benslow had a bill to settle for a couple of hives; they were hers, and she made him pay for 'em, and so was the second swarm of bees, for she'd bought 'em a day or so before of Nate Ellis and paid for 'em; and where Benslow's second swarm went he never knew.

"Two hives to pay for, a doctor's bill to pay and a hoss so stung and scared he was nigh wuthless—that was what Benslow got for helpin' himself to the law!"

"Who knew all this?" demanded the deacon.

"I told you in the beginnin', said Caleb easily, "that I never saw but one hoss run faster."

Blood Pressure

So much has been written in popular articles about blood pressure—by which is usually meant high blood pressure—that the term has become a regular bugaboo. If a person is told he has high blood pressure, he immediately conjures up visions of heart disease or apoplexy, and his life is embittered with the fear that it is soon to end. If a little more were known of the causes and consequences of high blood pressure, perhaps the condition would excite less apprehension.

Increased blood pressure may come from a variety of causes, which are associated with one of the following conditions: obstruction to the flow of blood in the minute blood vessels; spasm of the larger blood vessels; increased volume of the blood; increased action of the heart. Any or all of these conditions may be owing to disease; more often they are just temporary. Thus the diameter of the blood vessels, influencing the pressure within them, is changing constantly under varying mechanical or emotional conditions. Often the mere fact that the blood pressure is being measured will in a nervous person cause it to rise; and it is only after such a person has been examined many times that the doctor can determine the true degree of pressure. Exercise such as walking to the doctor's office, especially on a cold or windy day or soon after a meal, will have the same effect. Fear, elation, mental depression—in fact any strong emotion,—will cause a temporary rise or fall in blood pressure; and as a result of overeating or of an excessive meat diet or even of habitually drinking too much water there will be an increase in pressure that will persist as long as such unhygienic habits are continued.

All these causes are either temporary or easily remediable, and cases of that kind constitute the majority of those found on first examination. On the other hand there are of course diseases such as Bright's disease, arteriosclerosis and diabetes in which high blood pressure is a sympton of serious import, but even then it is not the blood pressure that is serious, but the underlying disease. If the disease can be cured or moderated, the blood pressure will take care of itself. If the disease can be cured, the high blood pressure must be regarded as conservative, enabling the circulation to go on in spite of the obstacles that the disorder has put in its way.

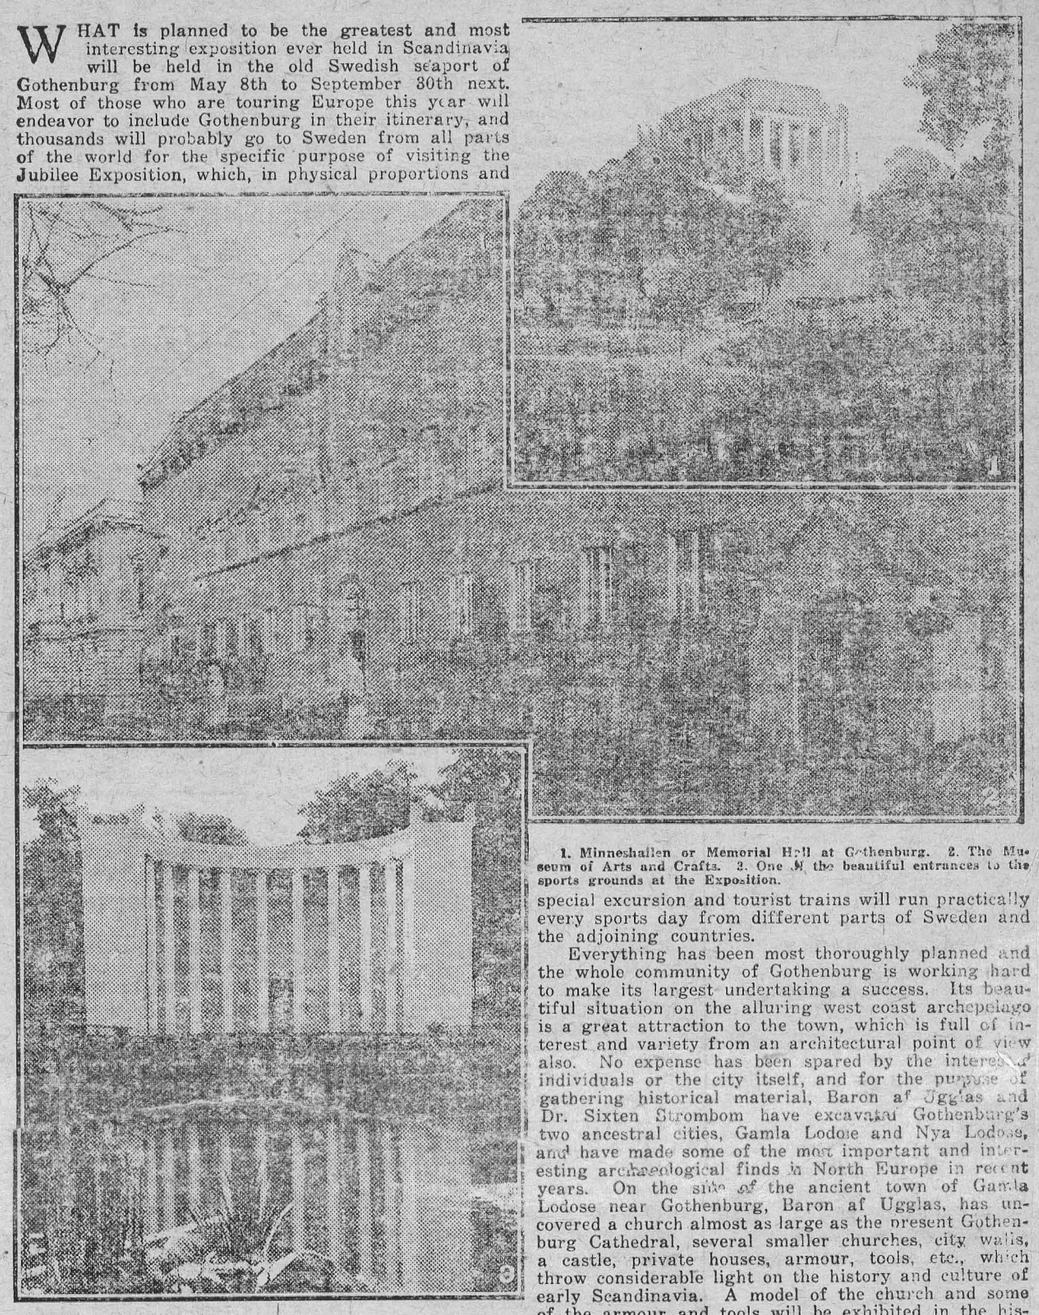
Canadians Will Visit Gothenburg Exposition

WHAT is planned to be the greatest and most interesting exposition ever held in Scandinavia will be held in the old Swedish seaport of Gothenburg from May 8th to September 30th next. Most of those who are touring Europe this year will endeavor to include Gothenburg in their itinerary, and thousands will probably go to Sweden from all parts of the world for the specific purpose of visiting the Jubilee Exposition, which, in physical proportions and variety of exhibits will be the greatest ever held north of the Baltic. The grounds cover over 75 acres, and in addition to historical, cultural and other exhibitions ranging from fine-arts to exports, numerous international meets will be held; automobile and aviation meets, printing and journalistic congresses and athletic and gymnastic competitions, etc. Foreign athletes are being provided with transportation by the authorities, and such an interest is being taken in the games that special excursion and tourist trains will run practically every sports day from different parts of Sweden and the adjoining countries.



1. Minneshallen or Memorial Hall at Gothenburg. 2. The Museum of Arts and Crafts. 3. One of the beautiful entrances to the sports grounds at the Exposition.

Everything has been most thoroughly planned and the whole community of Gothenburg is working hard to make its largest undertaking a success. Its beautiful situation on the alluring west coast archepelago is a great attraction to the town, which is full of interest and variety from an architectural point of view also. No expense has been spared by the interested individuals or the city itself, and for the purpose of gathering historical material, Baron af Ugglas and Dr. Sixten Strombom have excavated Gothenburg's two ancestral cities, Gamla Lodose and Nya Lodose, and have made some of the most important and interesting archaeological finds in North Europe in recent years. On the site of the ancient town of Gamla Lodose near Gothenburg, Baron af Ugglas, has uncovered a church almost as large as the present Gothenburg Cathedral, several smaller churches, city walls, a castle, private houses, armour, tools, etc., which throw considerable light on the history and culture of early Scandinavia. A model of the church and some of the armour and tools will be exhibited in the historical section of the Exposition. Dr. Strombom's excavations still continue within the limits of the city of Gothenburg, and visitors will have the opportunity of inspecting for themselves the ancient works and fortifications.

Already a large number of Canadians have booked passage on the Canadian Pacific Empress liners for Europe, and the exposition is the first thought of many of them.

Something New

The Jubilee Policy of the Sun Life of Canada is the last word in Life Insurance.

A policy holder has the privilege at the end of five years to change his policy to any out of four different plans, which changed circumstances might demand.
Also with double indemnity and total disability privileges.

If considering Life Insurance it will be worth while to investigate.

Farmers Burn Peat

This winter two East Luther farmers are beating the coal barons and the striking miners in the States by using nature's own fuel, which has been planted in this section, though in somewhat crude manner. Thomas Townsend has a few acres of swampy land on his farm, and when coal prices soared sky high he decided to try and burn some of the contemptible muck that heretofore has only been a nuisance and aggravation. Last summer he went and dug up a lot of the muck, cutting in squares of 10 inches, and 6 inches deep, and letting nature dry it with sunshine and wind. This took about two months, when he loaded the bricks into the wagon and dumped them in the woodshed. The stuff burned satisfactorily in the stove and furnace and barring a little dirt dropping from the bricks he found them a highly desirable substitute. Mr. Wilmot also of Luther has been using the peat from a marshy part of his farm with equal satisfaction, following the same system adopted by Mr. Townsend. Of course the methods employed are necessarily slow, and not commercially suitable, but these men got a winter's supply of fuel at only the cost of labor. It is understood other farmers are going to follow the example set, and this summer get out peat to carry them over a possible fuel shortage next winter. Those particularly interested in the matter are agitating getting a machine to make briquets, the process having been greatly perfected by government assistance — Grand Valley Star.

Don't Knock Chesterville

Sometimes we hear some thoughtless person make a disparaging remark about this town—and it hurts. This may not be the best town in Canada, but it is a certainty that there are hundreds not as good in proportion to population and natural advantages. When you hear a person kicking his home town, ask him a few pertinent questions. Ask him why it is not to his liking. Ask him what he has done to correct the defects of which he complains. Ask him if he has ever done anything to make this a better town. Ask him why he continues to live and earn his money here. Ask him to think it over and see if he is not mistaken in his judgment. You may convert a pessimist into an optimist.

FIVE YEARS' AGONY ENDED

When He Took "Fruit-a-tives" For Rheumatism

The Medicine Made From Fruit

There can be no doubt that "Fruit-a-tives" is the long sought remedy for Rheumatism and Lumbago. From all over Canada come letters testifying to this fact.

Mr. John E. Guilderson of Parrsboro, N.S, writes: "I suffered badly with Rheumatism for five years—tried different medicines—was treated by doctors in Amherst—and here at home—but the Rheumatism came back.

In 1916, I saw an advertisement for "Fruit-a-tives" and took a box and got relief, so I took them for about six months and the Rheumatism was all gone and I have never felt it since".

Here and There

Vancouver as a grain port has gone over the top and is assured of achieving the 15,000,000 bushel objective set for the 1922-1923 crop year, according to statistics issued at the Vancouver Merchants Exchange.

A Canadian Pacific Railway train, over half a mile long, left Oshawa for New York recently. The train was composed of 52 flat cars, each carrying from four to six automobiles, and was the first solid train to leave Oshawa for New York.

Making the heaviest loading since the big crop year of 1915, grain loaded on the western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway from September 1st, 1922, to March 7th, 1923, inclusive, totalled 118,565 cars. This is 16,000 more cars than were loaded during the corresponding season of last year.

While in mid Pacific, the wireless operator of the Canadian Pacific Steamship "Empress of Russia" was in touch with the Leafield wireless station in England, and received a number of news items. "The ether waves were evidently carried across the North Pole, as we were on the other side of the world," said Captain A. J. Hosken, commander of the liner.

An Owen Sound deputation which recently interviewed Canadian Pacific Railway officials in Toronto, urged the building of a line from Owen Sound, through Meaford and on to Collingwood and then on to a point on the Sudbury line near Coldwater. The officials are reported to have been interested by the suggestions made by the delegation.

Captain A. J. Hosken, R.N.R., of the Canadian Pacific Steamer "Empress of Russia," has been awarded the Medaille d'Honneur de Sauvelage de première classe by the French Government, for the part taken by him as commander of the liner "Monteagle" in saving the crew of the French steamer "Hsin Tien", off the China coast.

There is a gold rush on to Rouyn township, in northern Quebec, to Labrador and now to the Soo district. In fact, the whole northern district has immense areas of rock bearing more or less gold, and the question is whether the quantity is large enough to make a real mine. Gold mining will be one of Canada's greatest industries twenty-five years from now.—"Mail & Empire."

Still another case of children travelling alone. Elmer Lann, five years old, and Roland Callwell, seven years old, both living on St. Denis street, Montreal, were missed by their parents who did not hear of them after their disappearance until notified by Canadian Pacific Railway officials that the children were in Quebec city, to which place they had begged a ride.

The initial shipment of cattle since the Embargo removal was recently inspected by the Hon. W. P. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, in the C. P. R. stock yards, Montreal. They were stall-fed Ontario cattle from along the Canadian Pacific west of Toronto, with the exception of one car load of Western cattle, the latter being in the best condition despite the fact that they had had a 28 hours run from North Bay. The minister expressed the opinion that the cattle being shipped were of the first quality.

It has remained for the Canadian Pacific experimental farm at Strathmore to demonstrate beyond the possible shadow of doubt that the inexpensive trench silo system of providing winter fodder for cattle is, under favorable conditions, quite equal to the costly structures which have in the past been utilized and that the silage is in every sense excellent. This was proved to the satisfaction of a large party of agricultural and business men, who recently visited Strathmore as the guests of the Canadian Pacific Department of Natural Resources in

How And When To Destroy Weeds

The best time to destroy weeds is within two or three days after the first pair of leaves has formed on the seedling plant, says the Dominion Seed Commissioner in his bulletin on "Weeds and Weed Seeds". In friable soils the "weeder" is a useful implement for that purpose. The "harrow" harrow is also satisfactory for comparatively loose soils and is preferred as a weed destroyer on firm or clayey land. Weeds are irregular in time of germination; consequently it is necessary to apply the weeder or harrow frequently through the growing season. Potatoes, or fields of corn and cereal grains when sown with a drill, may advantageously be cultivated with such implements once or twice before the crop distinctly shows above the ground, and again, with corn and ordinary grain crops, when the plants are three to six inches high. Even relatively heavy harrows ordinarily in use will do little damage to the potatoes, corn or grain plants if the land is not wet while the loosing of the surface soil benefits the crop in addition to the destruction of the weeds.

For perennial weeds, or seedlings that have become well rooted, a cultivator having diamond-shaped or other relatively broad shares is needed for hoed crops. The disc is a favoured implement for destroying weeds in a summer fallow or in preparing seed bed. When, however, it is desired to unearth and remove the rootstocks of perennial weeds, such as couch grass, a narrow-toothed cultivator that will loosen the soil and bring the underground vegetation to the surface, is preferred to an implement that will cut the rootstocks, the small cuttings of which may be exceedingly persistent in growth.

A Ruthenian's Tribute

The Manitoba Free Press publishes a letter from a Ruthenian farmer that is a pleasure to read. This farmer who came from Galicia 26 years ago, unable to speak English, without money, now farms two sections of land, 1,280 acres, and his sons have three sections. He sells about $40,000 worth of grain every year, and says he is well off, and quite sure that anyone farming properly can make things go even at present. He writes:

"The opportunities to-day are just as good as they were 26 years ago. It costs more to start but the products bring more, and I can't see how an immigrant's family, who can subsist on little and work all the year round, cannot pay for the land, the implements and other necessary things from returns from the land in ten years and then buy more land. It has been done in the past it is being done now, during these hard times, and it will be done in the future. All this talk that farming does not pay is bosh. I am selling grain for about $40,000 a year, which is more than twice what I have paid for the land. Why say that farming does not pay? The war has spoiled us to a certain extent, and in our human weakness we try to put the blame on to anything or anybody but ourselves for our present difficult conditions. A A little saving during the war would have helped us during the present hard times. Farming will pay any man who will work hard all the year round and live inside his income, unless there is some special hard luck. Give the Russian, Ruthenian, Polish or any other immigrant of Slavish nationality the land, give him a litile to start with, and he will pay for land and everything else in record time, and buy more land a ter a while, because land is his life."

This Ruthenian wants to know if the big farmer, who spends his winter months in California and most of his money to the south of the line is a better asset to Canada than the small farmer who works onequarter section and spends every cent of his income right here? He advocates Dominion Government action to get more Galician and Ruthenian settlers, who will stick to the land, work it intelligently, and be happy in so doing. He admits their standards are not quite as high, but they can be obtained in hundreds of thousands, they will work hard, stick it out on the land when no one else will, and will create a production and a consumption of far more value to the country than spasms of settlement by Anglo-Saxons or others who come and go in two or three years. The immense areas of vacant land in Western Canada were better filled by an industrious farming population of this type than remaining idle, to throw added burdens on the whole country, and cause us to lose valuable urban population, as well as rural.

The Advantage of an Education

James Mulligan was the only man in the village who could be hired to saw and split wood or to use a lawn mower, says Harper's Magazine, and he never lost a chance to impress the fact upon a casual listener.

"I've got to get this job through for your ma quick as ever I can," he announced to the small son of one of his employers. "I'm losing sixty cents an hour right along every minute I'm here. There's three people waiting for me now and I don't know how they are going to get along till tomorrow without me, any one of them."

"Why, Mr. Mulligan," said the boy respectfully, "I don't see how you are losing sixty cents an hour when mother pays you twenty, and you couldn't be in more than one place at the same time—"

"Have you got as far as geomthry in your studies?" inquired Mr. Mulligan coldly, resting his arms on the handle of the lawn mower.

"No," admitted the boy.

"Whin you do you'll understand a good many things that's hid from you now," said Mr. Mulligan, resuming his progress over the lawn.

The Income Tax

Your face is wearing one of those blank expressions so often mentioned in the classics. This is due to the fact that you have received the income tax blank in the morning mail or from the Post Office. The government has sent you a long ballot this year, presupposing that you cleaned up more than $10,000 during 1922. The government compliments you You thank the government, but would like to say that it is no time for joking. You get your personal cash book and you do some quick figuring. You find that you have made more than you thought during the past year—more than you had any right to make. You had no idea you were taking in so much. There must be some mistake. You add it up again and get $2,462,67 more than you got the first time. No man should make as much money as you did. It's outrageous. You hastily count up the number of little exemptions you have running around at home. There are only five at $500 apiece. Every man should have a large family—at least ten exemptions. You can take out $1,000 for your wife and $1,000 for yourself. You rapidly calculate that your wife cost you in the neighborhood of $9,674.85 and the government know about married life? You refer constantly to the instruction ballot. You stick your fountain pen in your mouth and light it by mistake for a cigar. It doesn't draw well but don't notice it until somebody calls up the board of health.

Ah, here you go, at last. One blonde wife, five children, mother-in-law, sedan car. If the wife has been a blonde all the year you can deduct $1,000 Three of the children are going to school. Very good. In that case figuring this combination as it stands, you take your grandfather's age at his death, multiply by 6⅞, subtract your automobile license number, divide by the number of lodges you belong to, add your club dues, subtract your telephone number, multiply by the number of electric lights in your house, subtract your best golf scores, add your life insurance premium and divide your chest measurement, add your surtax and subtract your luxury tax. That gives you the result.

You show the result proudly to the bookkeeper in your office and she advises you to consult an alienist. You hunt an expert accountant. He says you have it all wrong; you hand him $26 and tell him to mix the dope. He labors over it for two weeks and you send a cheque for $347 82 to the government.

Six months after a man from the federal office calls on you and tells you you have it all wrong. He figures it up for you and you find you still owe the government $53.67.

A year later another man calls and tells you are still all wrong, and that you still owe, according to the intensive audit of Ottawa, $32.59.

The Prescription

Baggs—"I'm worried. My girl is running around with that new doctor in town."

Jaggs—"Feed her an apple a day!"

Why blister your chest until it is raw, when Williams' Camphorated Mustard Cream takes out the soreness, loosens the stiffness and leaves the skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. 25c a jar—at drug gists.

Well Sold!

A little car chugged painfully up to the gate of the race track. The gatekeeper, demanding the usual fee for automobiles called: "A dollar for the car."

The owner looked up with a pathetic smile of relief and said: "Sold!"

Father Speaks

"Father, what do you mean by a gentleman farmer?"

"A gentleman farmer, my son, is one who seldom raises anything but his hat."

BONDS
Are Mortgages on Fixed Assets

When a township issues debentures (or bonds) it gives a mortgage on the whole township for security to the buyers of the bonds for the loan of their money for a definite uumber of years at a satisfactory rate of interest.

If the amount required is large it is divided into small mortgages, (that is, bonds or debentures) of $500 or $1,000 each, with the same security behind each, so that investors with small sums may take advantage it.

Bonds or debentures are rated the safest kind of an investment.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Mr. James Killoran, who departed this life April 10th, 1922.

More and more each day we miss him.
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.

He has gone to higher regions,
Safe from every grief and care.
We shall meet again in heaven
And never more be parted there.

Inserted by Wife and family.

How to fix that dingy floor

Old floors that are stained and marred can be made bright and attractive again by using Carmote Floor Varnish.

Just apply with a brush—it stains and varnishes at the same time. Or if your floor is only dull and scratched you can get Carmote Floor Varnish clear—without coloring.

"Save the surface and you save all"

Carmote Floor Varnish is also recommended for furniture and interior finish—it hardens quickly and never becomes soft or sticky.
