Ionians celebrating Iona Academy's reunion packed the St. Raphaels Ruins Sunday, as the gates were opened for the first mass inside the historic site since it was closed off due to safety concerns more than a year ago.

Memories: Ionians from near and far flock home for reunion of their beloved Iona Academy

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

It was a time for memories in St. Raphael's this weekend.

People from across the continent gathered to celebrate historic Iona Academy's first ever reunion.

They toured all three of the school's buildings, including the historic building which until recently was home of Mount Carmel House.

They renewed acquaintances during evening celebrations Friday and Saturday.

And they were on hand to see the gates at St. Raphaels Ruins opened for a mass on Sunday, the first time since the site was closed up more than a year ago due to structural concerns.

As groups toured the old school, which was run as a private high school by the Sisters of the Holy Cross from 1913-1972, they marvelled at the changes and delved into the past for reminiscences.

One woman recalled how she sat at a window in one upper-floor dorm room, overlooking the countryside from high above.

On moonlit nights, it was as if the whole expanse was lit up "like silver", she reminisced.

Another woman marvelled at sinks in a bath area near the dormitory.

There was no such luxury when she attended the school. She had to descend three flights of stairs to retrieve hot water for morning bathing.

In the building which is now the parish centre, people gathered under a tent outside to swap stories and catch up on happenings, while inside former students leafed through memorabilia on the walls and tables.

Lorette Poirier Scharf is escorted down the steps at the alter of the Ruins after welcoming Ionians to Mass at the historic site Sunday.

"It's nice. It's a lot of fun," said Freida Deschamps, whose husband Fred graduated in 1963.

Deschamps just celebrated her own reunion in Williamstown two years ago. It was her husband's turn this time.

"It's good to get together. People enjoy it too," said the Cornwall resident.

"It's something you don't want to lose. You come back to it all the time."

Sister Dorothea, who taught at the school until the 1960s, could barely find the words to describe the occasion.

"It's wonderful, just wonderful."

"(There are) great memories. Everybody is happy."

"It was great – not an easy life, but a great life," she said.

She credited former student Cecilia Adams-St. Croix for initiating the occasion.

"We owe it all to the impetus of a former pupil," she said.

"The committee did the work, but she was the initial force."

Sharon Abbey of Toronto, a former Lancaster resident, marvelled at the distances from which former students came.

Students poured in from all over: Vancouver, Calgary, Alberta and the United States, said Abbey, a grad from the class of 1967.

"Some of them made a big effort."

The reunion was an opportunity to see many of the sisters who ran the school, possibly for the last time, she said.

And there is something about seeing each other in the same classroom 30 years later – "just to see everybody where we used to be."

Frank Abbey of Newmarket, comes back to Glengarry two to three times a year.

But there is never any guarantee he will see old classmates when he visits.

"If you are ever going to run into them," this is the chance to meet them, said the class of 1966 grad.

Mike Barbara, a member of the organizing committee, said the event was a huge success.

"Everybody seemed happy and they were pleased with the way things went."

"There were no hitches at all."

There were 400 people registered for Sunday's brunch, he said.

There could have been more but organizers cut off registration for fear of running out of food.

And he estimated about the same number attended Sunday's mass in the Ruins.

Saturday night's reunion dinner was so large that it was moved to the ice surface of the Charlottenburgh Recreation centre.

"It was a great reunion. It was emotional for a lot of people too."

And it was a great chance for him to renew acquaintances as well.

"I saw some of my classmates that

Centre Culturel fighting debt

Loss of employees, board members leaves centre without direction

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

The Centre Culturel Les Trois P'tit Points in Alexandria is battling financial problems to keep its doors open.

"It's a real mess," said board member Jeannine Legault.

The board is facing a huge debt of about $75,000, the loss of its only two employees and the resignation of board members.

The board doesn't have a president and the three members working on finances left.

"We tried to survive all summer,' said Legault.

"We tried to serve the people the best."

During the summer, the board hired a student with a federal grant program, but it's not known if there is enough money to replace the employees that left in June.

One employee, Marise Lachance quit her position, the other, Aline Garreau-Hébert was laid off after four years with the Centre Culturel.

"They (the board) called me at 9:30 at night to tell me I didn't have a job the next day," said Garreau-Hébert.

The cultural center still owes her her last week of pay and holiday pay amounting to over $2,000.

Though there is no money left and the employees are gone, Legault said the board wants to keep the centre open.

"We're still going to be open with lots of volunteer help," said Legault.

"We do not want to close."

The board still hasn't figured out how the center fell so far into debt.

Legault said she thought expensive big-name out of town artists and losses at bingo fund raisers contributed to the loss.

"To try to get an artist down here is very expensive, but if you get an artist that is not known, people don't come," said Legault.

Legault said the group started getting well known groups into town after a survey indicated those were the acts people wanted to see.

But once the names were booked, there were only small turnouts at the shows.

Only the fall play series attracted large crowds.

"It's very hard to satisfy people," she said.

The Centre Culturel also lost money on its fund raising bingos at the sports palace.

With paying rent, paying people to work and a bad turnout, Legault said the centre was actually losing money holding its bingos.

But Garreau-Hébert said the shows are not to blame for the deficit.

Almost all the shows were at least breaking even and some were bringing in a small profit, she said.

Most of the shows cost about $1,200 to put on but were sponsored by $1,000 government grants.

Other, high profile shows cost up to $8,000, but were entirely paid for by corporate sponsors.

The workshops put on by the centre had high participation and were making money.

"They were all bringing in money," said Garreau-Hébert.

Administration mistakes were the real culprits behind the deficit, said Garreau-Hébert.

"They (board members) weren't watching it closely enough," she said.

The former administration director, Marise Lachance who was in charge of finances could not be reached for comment.

Garreau-Hébert said she didn't realize the bank accounts were dry until she was told there was no money to pay her salary that week.

"I always thought there was enough," she said.

The centre had lost some grant

Pipe band places fourth in Scotland

By Lynn McCuaig
News reporter

The Glengarry Pipe Band can now boast being one of the best Grade 2 bands in the world.

The band took fourth place in a tight competition at the world championships in Glasgow, Scotland on Saturday.

"It was very close," said piper Bruce McCuaig.

After winning the North American Championships in Maxville and the U.S. Open in Michigan, band members had their minds set on a good showing in Scotland.

The group spent a week practicing five hours a day after they landed there.

"We practiced every day from 11 in the morning to four in the afternoon," said McCuaig.

"We were prepared– and tired."

But all the practice was worth it once the judges handed down their result.

The Glengarry group placed ahead of 38 other bands with its competition medley.

Only three bands, Hydro Electric Buchan from Scotland, the City of Washington and L.A. Scots from California placed ahead of Glengarry.

"We had three North American

Candlelight procession marks anniversary

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

About 474 people helped Ste. Marie de l'Assomption church in Green Valley celebrate the parish's 40th anniversary Thursday night.

People from within the parish as well as people from the Cornwall and Ottawa area took part in a special procession and solemn mass to mark the occasion.

It also marked the Feast of the Assumption for the church.

Celebrants braved lightning and rain shortly after 8 p.m. to take part in the impressive display.

The candlelight procession wound its way down Highway 34 and down a sidestreet before being cut short by rain.

After the procession, celebrants took sanctuary in the church, where they celebrated a solemn mass officiated by nine area priests.

> "I'm very happy. It was a great success."
> parish priest - Father Marcel Larouche

"I'm very happy. It was a great success," said Father Marcel Larouche, parish priest.

"Many young people were there."

Mary Anne Gauthier, organizer of a special evangelization project the church has undertaken, said the storm added to the atmosphere of the event.

"It turned out better that way. We were closer."

"Everything we had organized was disorganized, but in a way, it turned out better."

She said it is rare that 475 people are packed into the church at one time.

"It was just like Christmas time," she said.

She compared it to the atmosphere of churches to which people go on pilgrimages.

Gauthier is organizer of a evangelization project which saw the church send out 20 Lady Fatima statues to area families.

The idea was thought up by Father Larouche as a way to evangelize the church.

All churches in the diocese have been asked to come up with an evangelization project this year, Gauthier said.

The procession that led up to the mass was full of color and pageantry with the cross and various flags, including the flag of the pope and the Knights of Columbus.

Three red candles were carried in front of a special banner made to commemorate the anniversary.

Four ribbons were carried by young women later in the procession, followed by a display of the Lourdes Virgin carried by girls in white robes.

Gauthier said the procession was a good way to celebrate the anniversary.

"I think we have gotten away from these processions.

"Maybe this is a come back to exteriorating our faith."

The church also held a procession last year, but this time held it after dusk with candles.

"We didn't want too big of a celebration. A fiftieth (anniversary) would be bigger," she said.

Seadoo crashes into RCMP police boat

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

A man was arrested Aug. 3 after he ran into police– literally.

The man was driving a Seadoo personal watercraft when lost he control of the machine and slammed into an RCMP boat docked at the Edgewater Restaurant in Summerstown.

The craft hit the boat's engines causing $2,300 damage to one of the new $10,000 150 twin outboard motors.

"The engines were brand new, they didn't have 10 hours on them," said Sgt. Jack Bellerose of the Cornwall RCMP.

The Seadoo that hit the boat was one of two personal watercrafts that police said were being driven dangerously.

"They were trying to spray people on the dock. One got a little too close and ran into the engine of the of the boat," said Bellerose.

Several customers at the restaurant saw the incident happen.

Charged with operating a motor vessel while impaired and having blood alcohol over the legal limit was Michael Glenn Champagne, 29, of Cornwall.

Charged with dangerous operation of a motor vessel under the criminal code is Joseph John Reddick, 24, of Cornwall.

Reddick is also charged with failure to comply with the signal of a peace officer under the Canada shipping act which carries a maximum fine of $500 and/or six months jail.

Performance Marine, which rented the seadoo, was charged with failure to provide a required sound signalling device as required under the collision regulation of the Canada shipping act.

money this year, but only because it wasn't using the funds in the way the government had ordered, she said.

If the money wasn't used for a specific purposed it was taken away.

Other grants were not applied for properly.

A GST audit that cost the cultural center $20,000 also added to the pile of expenses.

The board had a public meeting earlier in the summer to ask for input but didn't get the turnout they expected.

Legault expects summer holidays may have kept some people away from the meeting.

The board is planning another meeting later next week, although a date hasn't been set yet.

"We're all trying to get back on track," Legault said.

The board is planning fewer big-name acts or moving the shows into a bigger venue.

Right now, committees are looking at moving their bingos to the cultural center, renting the hall more often, and keeping the popular children's workshops.

"It's all volunteer people working on it," said Legault.

Former Iona student Sharon Abbey of Toronto, looks over some old photographs with Anne Marie Abbey, whose husband Frank is a former student, at the Iona reunion Saturday.

I haven't seen since graduation 44 years ago."

The reunion was organized by a committee of 18 to 20 volunteers who worked long and hard to make it a success.

"Everybody worked pretty well and very hard at it," said Duncan MacDonell, a member of the committee.

When Adams-St. Croix originally envisioned the reunion, she had intended it to be for her class only.

But she opened it up to all classes after a flood of requests from people responding to a letter by her published in the News.

After she could do no more, the project was taken over by the committee of volunteers, said MacDonell.

Two of the oldest living alumni members were honored at the reunion – Donald MacDonald and Sister Eleanor MacDonald.

Donald attended Iona in 1917, 1919 and 1921.

He was only able to attend every second year because he was needed to help on the farm, said Helen MacDonald, reunion committee secretary.

Sister Eleanor MacDonald attended the school in the early 1920s.

Glengarry pipe band fourth in the world

Bands in the top four," said McCuaig.

"Usually it's dominated by Scottish and Irish bands, this year it was dominated by North American bands."

It was the second time at the contest for the Glengarry band which placed 11th two years ago.

Now with the extra practice and experience, the group managed to upgrade the performance.

"It's been quite an improvement," McCuaig said.

After last week's victory, McCuaig said the group is planning to upgrade again.

"The band has made the decision to go to Grade 1."

Grade 1 is the highest class a band can compete in.

In their new category, Glengarry will compete against bands like the Metro Toronto Police and the 78th Highlanders who often top the class.

McCuaig said the jump has been a long-time goal of the band.

"If you're striving for musical excellence that's the next logical step."

"If you're playing against bands that are better than you, you tend to be better."

But before the band steps into the Grade 1 ring, it has one more competition coming up in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania later this month.

The pipe band has its sights set on first place in Pennsylvania and its purse of $5,000 for the winner.

Youths paddle back in time to learn life of Nor'Westers

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Some young Williamstown area residents paddled back in time to experience life as a Voyageur Friday.

The youths, part of a one-week course offered by the Nor'Wester Museum in Williamstown, were on the Raisin River for a first-hand look at Voyageur travel.

They were given a ride in a Voyageur canoe by Bruno Major, a veteran of the annual Raisin River canoe race, and Charlottenburgh Councillor John Lounsberry.

The canoe trip was the finale for the 20 children to a week of learning about the Nor'Westers and how they lived.

The idea was "to give them an actual feel for it," said Roberta Prevost, one of the course instructors.

The youths, aged six to 10 years old, spent two hours each morning during the four-day camp to learn about the different aspects of the lives of the fur traders.

They learned about the trading post, camp life, furs: "Everything about Nor'Wester life," said Prevost, a student curator at the museum.

They learned "why they were here and what they were doing," she said.

And they enjoyed themselves doing it.

> "We try to make it fun and different so they remember it."
> Instructor - Sherry Laframboise

"They seem to be having a really good time," Prevost said.

The fact that they are learning history at the same time is a "perk", she said.

"It's kind of a combination of having a bit of history and having a fun and educational program."

And because it is fun, the information stays with the youths.

"I think they retain a fair bit of it," she said.

Stephanie Bougie, 9, of Williamstown, said the course was "pretty cool".

"We learned a lot of cool stuff. We went on a treasure hunt," said Bougie, who first attended the course last year.

Michael Robertson, another course participant, said the Voyageur experience was "excellent".

"It was worth it to get wet."

Sherry Laframboise, another of the instructors, said the course is worthwhile, "even if they know one more thing about their local history or Nor'Westers."

She hopes some of the youths' enthusiasm will rub off and draw their friends and relatives into the museum.

And she is surprised with how much knowledge the youths retain.

"We try to make everything fun and different so they remember it."

One example, is a lesson they did on how the fur trade worked and the value of fur.

The young explorers went into the woods to find furs planted in the forest, then took them back to trade.

The history was made so interesting and entertaining, in fact, it prompted one student to ask: "Is this real," Laframboise said.

Another one quipped: "This program should go on all summer," she said.

Local fiddler records CD

Kelli Trottier works her way into fiddling fame with third CD

By Mandy Boisvenue
News* Correspondent

She may not be world renowned like Natalie MacMaster, or have as many public appearances or performances under her belt. But give her time.

Kelli Trottier, a former Dunvegan resident who now lives in Kingston, can do everything MacMaster can do.

She can fiddle and step dance at the same time, she has released CDs, and she has toured. So what's the difference?

One major factor is time.

As Kelli has been playing with the Bobby Lalonde band for the past four years, her schedule quickly fills up in the months of May to October, when they are usually booked to play during weekends.

As well as playing with the band, Kelli also tours with them, and still manages to teach fiddling and step dancing three days a week to students in Kingston.

In addition to all this, Kelli is a supply teacher throughout the regular school year.

Her immediate plans include her third European tour with the Bobby Lalonde band.

They'll be leaving in the middle of August, and will return on Sept. 3.

Kelli is very excited about the upcoming trip.

"The response down there is great. They don't have a lot of Celtic music over there, so it is just overwhelming when we see their reaction.

"Sometimes it is actually disappointing to come home because people here just don't have that reaction."

Her next goal is to begin teaching fiddling and step dancing here in Glengarry.

Although she is not sure in what location she will actually teach, she maintains that it can only be done on the condition that enough students sign up.

"I will either teach in groups, or privately, but since there's travelling involved, there'll have to be enough students sign up."

Kelli teaches Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays in Kingston so she would be available on the weekends to come to Glengarry.

"I don't mind. My boyfriend is also in a band (Ambush), so he's usually gone on the weekends. Teaching in Glengarry will fill up my weekends."

Kelli Trottier

When asked why she doesn't perform at the Glengarry Highland Games, Kelli is quick to reply.

"Many people ask me that. It would be very nice to, but I'm really shy when it comes to performing by myself.

"When I'm with the band, it's not too bad, but by myself, I don't know. I would like to do more, though."

Kelli has thought of proposing a package to the Highland Games committee, but has no immediate plans.

"Maybe in a few years," she adds.

One thing that Kelli is sure of is that Celtic and fiddle music is definitely becoming more and more popular with the young crowd.

"People like Ashley MacIsaac and Natalie MacMaster have taken this music to another level." adds Kelli, who says that she didn't need anyone like that when she was young.

Her father and grandfather were into fiddling, and the music was always around her.

If anyone is interested in taking lessons from Kelli, they can call her parents, Rene or Sherrill, at 525-4323.

Those wishing to buy her latest CD entitled Kelli Trottier, can buy it at Auld Kirktown, Danskin's, Paddy's, the Fassifern General Store and Ross's in Martintown.

This is Kelli's third CD, her first in eight years.

Her other two releases were entitled Glengarry Fiddle and More From Glengarry.

Maybe Kelli will be the next Natalie MacMaster. Or if anything, maybe she'll teach the next Ashley MacIsaac.

Only time will tell.

1,700 swoop in to fly-in breakfast

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

They could have used a control tower just to manage people lining up for breakfast.

As the skies cleared people streamed in to the annual fly-in breakfast at the Alexandria airport Sunday.

They streamed in so quickly that that the line-up of hungry patrons stretched part-way down the driveway before noon.

"At the last, there was a line-up," said Doug Baxter, president of Alexandria Aviation Ltd.

But a line-up is something organizers can tolerate when they are graced with the turnout they had Sunday.

"We served over 1,700 people," Baxter said.

That is not a record, but it is pretty close.

"Nineteen hundred (people) is our best," Baxter said.

Not only were there line-ups keeping volunteer cooks hopping at the airport hangar, they were line-ups on the field – of planes filling the airfield from near and far.

The annual morning event gave people a chance to have a good meal, peruse aircraft like the six-passenger Beaver and some WWI Tiger Moths and some simply stunning cars at the antique auto display.

"We were very happy with the day," Baxter said.

It is the volunteer help and community support that made the day a success, he stressed.

Volunteers played a part in every part of the breakfast, from the day-before preparations, to the cooking of the meals.

The cadets were on hand again to direct traffic and youths from the model aircraft club also were on hand.

"It went very well. But it takes the community to make it go," Baxter said.

Keep testing our water RRCA told

No price too high to manage water: citizen

By Lynn McCuaig
News* reporter

Continue testing the water supply, the Raisin Region Conservation Authority was told at its public meeting on Aug. 8.

A small group of concerned citizens told the RRCA that water testing it too important to let it fall victim to funding cuts.

"I think someone has to accept the responsibility to manage your water. I'm not sure any price is too high to manage water," said local resident Art Marvin.

"It has to be done, it's not negotiable."

> If we want to maintain it, you the tax payers have got to pick it up."
> -Board member Jim Bancroft

The conservation authority has been testing the area's water supply since 1976.

Once a month, staff take samples from nine stations across the watershed and sends them to the ministry for testing.

The cost just to administer the program is about $3,000.

While the cost of water testing is small, the real cost lies in the $600,000 it takes to run and staff the authority.

"It's not the $3,000," said board member Jim Bancroft from Osnabruck township.

Bancroft pointed out that the RRCA is losing almost all of its provincial funding which means the municipalities would have to pick up more of the cost.

But municipalities are also having their funds cut and are being told to take on more programs.

The province is saying "you are going to have more powers, but you're going to do it with a lot less money," he said.

"If we want to maintain it, you the tax payers have got to pick it up."

The province is still funding flood control structures and flood warnings and is mandating that municipalities keep those programs going.

Since some staff will still have to monitor flood control, water testing could be included in their regular duties, suggested Charlottenburgh Reeve Leslie O'Shaughnessy.

The reeve also suggested that if municipalities want to keep testing water without the authority, it can pass the job onto the same agency that looks after water stations.

"That service is available to us (Charlottenburgh) should we require it," he said.

But others believe that maintaining the RRCA's service is the best way to test water quality.

Kenyon representative David Filion pointed out that streams don't stop at municipal borders, so it is more efficient to do testing as a group.

"You have to look beyond your own borders," he said.

Former board member Bill Cooper said stopping water testing now could mean that work already done to improve water would be wasted.

"It's (the St. Lawrence) only starting the come back now," he said.

Local environmentalist Jim Hendry said he was concerned that 20 years of water quality testing records would be lost if every municipality was to take over the program.

The RRCA will decide how to handle water testing when the board reviews its public meetings next month.

The next public meeting, dealing with flood and erosion control programs, water control structures and environmental planning will be held on Aug. 22 at 7:30 p.m.

Still a long way to go on amalgamation

The municipal amalgamation picture has become sharper with Alexandria's decision to support a united municipality of Glengarry. That has put the town into agreement – at least tentatively – with Kenyon, Lochiel and Maxville.

But this is far from the end of it.

The Alexandria motion is academic if the rest of the county isn't persuaded to come along. Even though they've been invited to the Glengarry party, the south municipalities of Charlottenburgh, Lancaster township and Lancaster village have got other plans.

The south-end councils obviously want to form a municipality of their own, not surprising given the relative wealth of the waterfront properties and assessment, and all of the financial interests that entails. As Alexandria Deputy Reeve John Hope intoned at a recent council meeting: "They're not crazy down there."

Maybe not, but without clearer guidelines from the province about what it expects merged municipalities to look like, and in the absence of compelling evidence, it is still much too early for anyone to declare it's over.

For starters, the province has never once indicated it is sending the municipalities off on a merger scramble because assessment is uppermost on its mind. Simply, it wants to deal with fewer municipalities, and this is where it expects to save.

At the same time, it has in effect told Glengarry's municipalities to go out and build a better mousetrap without giving them an idea of how big they want the trap to be, how many mice it's expected to catch or even why the old one needs replacing.

With this kind of uncertainty, it behooves every county taxpayer that discussions between north and south Glengarry continue.

So why, when the south end seems so firm in its resolve, should it sit down with the north?

Outside of the uncertainty, the public really hasn't been invited to have its say.

The meetings so far which have been open to the public were held during peak holiday times, but they've also been devoid of the economic case in support of or opposition to a united Glengarry.

Alexandria councillors, for instance, when deciding to side with a united Glengarry, still didn't have numbers in front of them clearly showing what town taxpayers would save under a merged environment.

Without these, the local benefits of merger are guesswork, more reliant on "feelings" than fact.

Casino's advantages deserve a good look

Maybe it's too soon and far too intangible to begin firmly opposing or supporting the idea of a casino in Alexandria. But in the absence of any evidence which proves casinos have been an altogether bad thing for towns and cities, it deserves the town's tentative support.

Casinos have been making headlines since the big Windsor operation opened up a few years back. It has been heralded in Montreal and, though Hull is having its share of problems, municipal officials there haven't yet declared its presence a disaster.

The Windsor facility instantly became a cash cow for the province, and a supplier of jobs and revenue for the other municipalities in which they operate. This instant success makes a casino attractive.

On the minus side of the ledger, casinos, it is feared, spur people who can least afford to gamble to squander their social benefit income on gambling. Casinos, critics argue, contribute to gambling addictions and other social maladies.

As well, the establishment of a casino in a small town such as Alexandria is largely untried. This is not Windsor or Montreal or Hull, and it's guesswork at this point to say how the town could absorb the array of hurdles even a modest casino might bring.

On the other hand, the monster bingos run by service clubs and churches here have been going on for years. So have Nevadas, the myriad of lottery options, and even off-track betting has been tried in one local establishment.

We know many of these games have helped fill the coffers of service clubs and charities. We don't know how much they've removed from the town's well-being, if at all.

But one fact is certain. The town's economy needs a serious shot in the arm. The empty stores on Main Street, a lingering slump in the small retail and unemployment situation, and a lack of resources to improve are signs that Alexandria continues to need investment.

In the absence of any external capital, which in light of what's happening to government grants and the like will be long in coming, the town has no alternative other than to explore any avenue which will add dollars to the local economic mix. In this case, it's assisting a couple of local businessmen to find answers in their quest to bring a casino to Alexandria.

At the moment at least, there is no harm in looking.

Open the schools. Right now.

After Thoughts

by Joe Banks

That's it. I am now wholeheartedly convinced that summer vacation should last no more than five weeks, maybe six.

Tops.

With 13 days, 12 hours, 37 minutes and 17.5 seconds remaining before the kids head back to school, I believe I can safely say that a threshold has been reached. You may remember that threshold, that moment in August when if your parents could only hold on to you, they'd thresh you.

Actually, the threshold I refer to has more to do with a time when the kids say they WANT to go back to school.

That's right. Unless we're raising some kind of mutant children which is moderately to highly unlikely, these are children who are anxious to see the inside of a classroom.

Did I miss something here? I did not get the memo. Excuse me, wasn't there a clause in your kids contract that said you were required by the Hardy Boys code to hate school? Or was that just for boys?

For whatever reason, here in 1996 Glengarry County, Canada, we do not hear the endless whinings of a previous generation. (Remember the good old days of feeling nauseous upon seeing back-to-school advertisements?)

This is a whole new ball game. And I didn't think the old one was over yet.

Here, my tomatoes still haven't shown any signs of ripening – I'm thinking of renting the movie Fried Green Tomatoes to see if I can read the recipe in Geraldine Page's hand – and the girls are already debating which seat on the bus they'll be riding on.

They, with their mother's assistance, bought their school supplies two weeks ago. Unfortunately, half of the paper refills and the rainbow pencil crayons have been used for drawings, in the interests of emergency boredom relief.

"There's nuthin' to do," is a chorus heard increasingly regularly, to which the inevitable answer is, "oh, I've got something for you to do." Which always ends the conversation right there.

The fact is, to paraphrase that guy in Apollo 13, boredom is not an option in our house. Boredom comes from that volatile mixture of having too much time with too little to do.

Gad, I believe I just heard my grandmother.

I also believe I finally know why summers as a kid seemed to last forever. We ran out of crayfish for my mom to flush down the toilet, and then had to get by for the rest of the summer by inventing cloud pictures, making grass leaf duck calls or catching grasshoppers and throwing them into spider webs. (Not to worry, the grasshopper always sprang free and the spider frequently was terrorized by the enormity of the insect.)

And if there were no grasshoppers around, there was always a June bug to scare up.

Such activities took up vast investments of time; there seemed to be little time to spare even for a good game of kick the can before the sun went down.

But now that's all changed. Grasshopper-catching seems to be environmentally taboo and inflicting such terror on a spider is considered arachno-abuse.

I spotted these kids out on the back deck the other day – reading! If Time magazine ever needs a critic to review the latest "Baby Sitters Club" release, our kids could handle the job, hands down.

"You know Carmen? She brought a Kid Kit to Betty-Anne's and found Jason in the middle of the floor eating chocolate sauce!" Such would be a typical comment made in the course of a BabySitters Club group read. Message to adults: understand the plot only at your own risk.

But when the books are idle and the TV's quiet and there's nary a thing to do, check your ticket for a one-way trip to Boredom City.

Brains riding on empty, the time has arrived to pull over to a filling station.

So why prolong the agony? Let 'em go. Open the schools up two weeks early. Give the farm kids special permission to take off when they're needed on the hay wagon.

They want to go back. We want them to go back. Only the family cat, the porcelain doll on the top corner shelf and perhaps, just perhaps their teachers don't.

Hey, we could pay them from our savings, you know the extra money you didn't have to use to buy Tylenol.

What happened to Canada Cup?

News to me

by Greg Kielec

I would rather be watching the Canada Cup.

Who was the goofball who decided to change the name of the world's premiere hockey event to the World Cup.

I don't know about you, but when I think World Cup, I think soccer. And when I think World Cup Soccer, I think of the best soccer available to see.

Certainly there are reasons for changing the name of the high-calibre tournament, but hopefully they are more than just simple Canadian modesty.

It is enough that we have the best hockey players in the world. But to host a tournament named after our country (which, you know, is the best hockey country in the world), and to name the trophy given to the winner "Canada Cup" may be too much for our low-key compatriots to handle.

Give me a break.

Our record in international hockey is a source of enormous pride for Canadians. When the Americans want to kick butt, they go to war. As for us Canadians, we take to the ice.

So it is a bit of a slap in the face for organizers to unceremoniously dump the tournament name and its symbolic half maple leaf trophy in favor of the generic World Cup moniker.

Sure, there is the whole mess with Alan Eagleson, former head of the National Hockey League players association, accused of swindling players out of pension money.

Eagleson was the champion of international hockey at the professional level in the 1970s and 1980s until his fall from grace.

Everyone since, including World Cup organizers, it seems, is running to avoid the fallout.

What is next? Renaming the Stanley Cup to appease anti-monarchists in the United States? The league has already erased part of the historic origins of the league by renaming the divisions to generic titles.

Why, if it was deemed essential to rename the Canada Cup tournament, was the title World Cup chosen? Surely there are better names than that.

If there is a world sport, soccer is truly it, due largely to its simplicity. You don't need $1,000 of equipment and a million dollar rink to play soccer. All you need is shoes, a ball and a field.

So when it is largely a North American and European sport, it is a bit of a farce to call it the World Cup of hockey.

And if what a Toronto Sun writer claims is correct, and the Canada Cup is strictly a commercial exercise designed to line players' pockets, then why not help line them more and call it the Molson Cup? There is nothing more Canadian than the good ol' Molson family.

Keeping in the same vein, and in tribute to our off-ice Canadian heroes Bob and Doug MacKenzie, we could offer a year's supply of backbacon to the winners. The prize would be a hit with our Canadian boys, who we all know are going to win anyway.

I do not think however our boys are in it for the beer, the backbacon or whatever other perks, real or imagined, are offered to contestants.

They are playing for the love of the game and the love of our country (am I sounding a tad Americanistic?).

They want to show that Canada – not unlike a cold brew – still is the best on ice.

Gretzky, Lindros, Messier and company just want to kick some butt.

They are mega stars already. They don't need more limelight, they don't need the threat of a career-ending injury and they don't need cynics like that poor, misguided writer from the Sun.

They are simply the best. Better than all the rest, to quote a song from Tina Turner.

And they are going to prove it again in just a little more than a week's time, this year, in 1996.

Megantic 2

Highland Paths

by Ken McKenna

The story continues about the five members of the Glengarry Gaelic Choir who went to sing on the weekend of August 10th in the Lake Megantic area of Quebec. This is what Isabell MacArthur Beattie told Anne on the phone from her home there: "When I woke up the next day, I thought that it had been just a dream. Those beautiful Gaelic songs were still echoing in my head. It was wonderful. When they sang at Donald Morrison's grave and the violinist played, there were tears in everyone's eyes, including the many French-speaking people who attended. I thought of my mother and the other good folk buried there who would have loved it if they could have heard. I said that to one of the women singers from Glengarry. 'I'm sure they did hear' she said. The piper (Marc Lebel from California) said that he was deeply moved by the Gaelic music. The Glengarry people were the hit of the day. And when they sang that night at the concert their joyousness was infectious. They received a standing ovation. Several people said how sad it was that they themselves had lost the Gaelic."

At the ceilidh that evening the Glengarry group stole the show. Judy MacLeod came on stage bent over from picking stones and sang the opening bars of "Tha Mi Sgith" — "I Am Tired" — but recovered quickly and sang the rest of the song in quick time. The group gave a marathon rendition, non-stop, of four complete sets of mouth-music to the clapping and cheering of the audience. They did a fulling bee in old-fashioned costumes. Julia Danskin and Judy sang the strathspey "Christina Campbell" and Sine and Julia danced a Highland Schottische to the singing of Fiona Fraser and Judy. Fiona sang "Mo Ribhinn Donn" "My Brown-Haired Beauty". The Glengarry group exited to the cheering, clapping, and waving of the audience. "We've never had such an enthusiastic reception" Sine said. "One woman, who spoke only French, came up to us after and asked for copies of our Gaelic songs. She wanted to learn them. And she wasn't the only one. Most of the hundreds of people who attended the festival were descended from the Lewis and Harris folk who settled there as early as 1828 and many have French names now. A French-speaking man with a Highland name said that it was the first time that he had heard Gaelic since his grandmother died. He wants to learn the language. I don't remember how many times we were asked to come back again. When you visit an isolated area like Megantic, where the old heritage has just about died out, you realize how lucky we are in Glengarry, with our prize-winning pipe band and Gaelic Choir, our violinists, Highland dancers, groups like "The Brigadoons" and "MacLeod and McCormick, and the revival of interest in the Gaelic language."

I spoke to Angus MacRae of Maxville on the phone the other day. His mother, Jennie MacIver, came from the Megantic settlement. "She was born at Gisla" he said, "near the cemetery where Donald Morrison is buried". Angus says that it is sad to visit the places there that were once part of a thriving Gaelic community. "So many of the old cemeteries are now overgrown and almost forgotten. Most of the people have moved away." At the end of our conversation, Angus said "beannachd leat", the Gaelic for "goodbye". There was still a trace of his mother's Lewis accent in it.

The Gaelic Choir had a great day last Saturday, August 17th. First we sang at the wedding of the Revs. Jim McVeigh and Mitch Leblanc in Dunvegan Presbyterian Church. They are both members of the Choir. Jim wore Highland dress and gave his vows in Gaelic and English. We then went on to a farewell party for Liz and Hugh Huntting at Jean and Blair Williams' home. Our concert last Thursday in Cornwall was rained out and will be held tonight, Aug. 21, at 7 p.m. at the Lion's Club Bandshell in Lamoureux Park as part of Arts in the Park '96.

Credit deserved for our local talent too

To the editor:

Along with several thousand other people I attended the Pre-Games Tattoo a couple of Fridays ago. It was tremendous, and my sincere congratulations to the organizers, the workers and the performers.

Looking over our local paper though, I noticed that the visiting talent was nicely mentioned, which they deserved, but except for the Gaelic Choir, there was a news blackout on our local talent, who were top stuff. Yes, they were.

First, there was Heather MacLeod's beautiful solo dance at the beginning, and as you said on another page, she is the North American Champion Highland Dancer, and Reg was kind to her. (Note to Maxville Council – How about an Honorary Citizenship?)

Then there was the terrific, stupendous, exhilarating performance by the MacCulloch Dancers, just about out of this world. I think it is safe to say that only Rae MacCulloch could produce 170 dancers, and do such a show. When I say "Rae MacCulloch" I must also mention her two talented daughters, Heather and Deborah, who assist her.

There were highland dancers, several groups in different costumes, step dancers, in their own costumes, and a flock of sailors. They moved around like well-trained soldiers, no falling over each others' feet, and of course, their dancing was a delight to watch – situation normal.

Now, before you point a finger at me and tell me that the performers you were so kind to, up there, are international stars, just give a quick listen. I guess there's no doubt about Heather being an international star, and the MacCullochs have performed in Washington, Pasadena and Florida, in the U.S., and toured Nova Scotia and Scotland, and later danced in China. That's international enough for me.

Rae has done a marvelous job, training dancers for about 40 years, and getting better all the time, and she has my nomination for the title of "Glengarry's Highland Queen." Who has done more for Highland culture in these here parts?

Now, these are our own young people, Glengarry and Ottawa. They are doing a splendid job of keeping our Highland culture alive, and we can proud of them. I know I am.

Hoping you are the same,
Grant MacGillivray,
Maxville

Many thanks for generous response to Joyce

To the editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my deep appreciation to all the people who were involved in the success of the Joyce Martineau fund raiser. Thanks to the generosity of many people, it was a success.

First of all, I would like to thank Mandy Boisvenue, and The Glengarry News, who triggered this super event, by the publication of my letter. Without you, it would have been only a dream. Thank you ever so much!

I would also like to send special thanks to John and Anne Goyette, Richard and Bruce Barkley, Tracy Graham, Gordie Kerr, and Ron Poissant. All of these people put in hours of their precious time, and made this fund raiser the amazing success it was. Thank you all – your compassion is overwhelming!

Other people who were very efficient in the fund raiser were Chantal, Lyne, Rachel, as well as Joyce. The support of Pintail Drake and the International Students was also very touching.

The generosity of all these people is greatly appreciated!

The support of Alexandria businesses is also very impressive! Warm thanks go out to all of you who generously donated gifts for the raffle draws, and those of you who placed jars to collect donations. The implication of these businesses shows us how supportive this town is to its residents. Thank you for your support and generosity!

Last, but not least, I would like to thank all the people who bought tickets to encourage our goal. Without your support, we would never have made it. Thanks for your encouragement!

If I have forgotten anyone, I am terribly sorry; so many good people were involved in the eventful part of our lives. One important lesson we learned from this event is that there are many good people in this area.

God bless you all with good health and prosperous lives!

Thank you all from the bottom of my heart! I will always remember the generosity of Glengarrians!

Gratefully yours,
Bertha Collette,
Alexandria

What example do we set for sports?

To the editor:

I spent a couple of hours recently at my son's end of season softball tournament. I got to watch kids having a lot of fun hitting and running, exercising themselves in friendly competition on a Sunday afternoon. Many of the parents and coaches were as involved as the children, cheering them on as the game played out.

It was a wonderful scene for all involved, unless you looked too closely, and then the idyllic scene was marred.

House-league softball for seven to 10-year-olds where, instead of fairness, sportsmanship and the pleasure of the game, the only goal for some adults is winning. Fun be damned, the rules, as petty as possible must be foremost in the field, but only if they're to your advantage in the drive to defeat your opponent, cheat if you can, when the ump's not looking.

The message we're sending to our kids is that it's not how you play the game, only that you win.

Too much of professional sports culture, it's artificial mores, has infiltrated our lives. The immaturity of pro sports is the wrong thing to emulate in front of our kids. It has no place at our amateur playing fields. Professional sports is not reality, just an escape form it. The Romans used Christians, lions and gladiators for the same thing. (Although I'm sure the Christians thought it pretty real.)

The lessons properly taught by amateur athletics are of graciousness in victory and in defeat, the honor due an opponent, the rewards of personal and cooperative efforts – lessons to carry through a lifetime.

The lesson from pro sports seems to be how to throw tantrums and get paid really really big bucks for doing so.

The message that has to get through to the kids at all levels is that it's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game. Children do learn by example. What example are we setting?

Writer clarifies exchange issue

To the editor:

In reference to my letter regarding the exchange rate from U.S. dollars to Canadian dollars, I apologize for the information I gave to the editor of The Glengarry News.

We were misinformed by the bank in Massena. But the exchange rate is still slightly better in the U.S.A. than in Canada.

Soon after submitting my letter I had asked The News not to print the letter, and that was weeks ago. But it was still printed the week of Aug. 12, 1996.

Contributions needed for scholarship fund

To the editor:

The purpose of this letter is to focus on the educational contribution for the late John C. Schultz to the Osnabruck township/Ingleside area. He was the first principal and "founding father" of Osnabruck District High School. Many of your readers benefited immeasurably when attending our school, now known as Rothwell-Osnabruck School.

As a lasting tribute to the integrity, dedication, and high standards that Mr. Schultz instilled in his students and school, a trust fund will be set up in his memory. The administrators for the establishment of a yearly cash bursary to deserving graduates will be members of the ODHS 25th Reunion Committee (1982).

We wish to begin the scholarship this coming year. Donations of any size are gratefully accepted. Mr. Jim Bancroft will be auditing and investing monies received.

Graduates and friends, please send your contributions to either: Bernard (Bunny) Warner, RR3 Ingleside, Ont. K0C 1M0, 534-2748 or Larry Wells, Box 204, Ingleside, Ont. K0C 1M0, 537-2583 co-chairpersons of "The John C. Schultz Memorial Scholarship Fund".

The little things that matter will keep her shopping here

To the editor:

It's the little gestures that make the difference and help keep business in Alexandria. Let me give you an example.

Recently I had just returned from doing a number of errands in Alexandria, including a grocery shop at Loeb's. By the time I had driven the eight miles home, I was hot, tired and hungry; and I was looking forward to sitting down and enjoying a few goodies from among the groceries and reading the weekend papers. You can imagine the level of my annoyance when I opened the trunk of my car to find that I had been given someone else's order!

I turned around, and drove back to Alexandria to the Loeb. There, Rejean Dupuis completely defused my high level of irritation. He apologized profusely for the inconvenience; showed me that my order had been put aside and perishables put in cold storage, insisted I take 12 cans of frozen lemonade as a small compensation for the mistake, and thanked me for taking the trouble and time to return the order to the store.

As a result of his prompt and courteous service, I shall continue to shop at Loeb. More to the point, Mr. Dupuis' behavior is an excellent example of the sort of attitude that will keep customers coming back to do business in Alexandria.

Yours truly,
Flip Flockton,

Nursing home residents mark three-digit birthdays

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Two residents of Community Nursing home celebrated triple-digit birthdays Thursday.

Ida Legault and Annie Ferguson were both feted for their assault on the century mark in a special ceremony.

Legault, one century and almost three-quarters of a decade old, celebrated her 107-year mark.

Ferguson celebrated her 100-year mark.

Legault, an Alexandria native, is one of a family of 10 – five girls and five boys.

She was married in 1910 and raised five boys herself and two girls while helping manage her husband's farm.

Knitting is one of her favorite hobbies, according to Susan Henderson, assistant activity director.

She still enjoys the craft, making mittens for staff and relatives, Henderson said.

She also enjoys watching hockey games, especially the National Hockey League's Montreal Canadiens.

Ferguson is known at the nursing home for her sense of humor, said Henderson.

"She won the hearts of the staff and most of the residents with her good sense of humor," Henderson said.

Other hobbies of hers include gardening, reading, playing cards and music.

Ferguson, who was married with three sons and three grandchildren, has a simple philosophy for life:

"Don't be so damn lazy."

Police board to announce position on sergeant's job

The Alexandria police board came to a decision on the town sergeant's job in a special closed-door meeting on Thursday.

Board members would not say what the consensus was, only that Chief Paul Deveau would be informed at a meeting last night.

"We haven't reacted on the basis of the meeting," said board chair Gord Wright.

The outcome of last night's meeting was not available at press time.

The controversy over the acting sergeant's position began after Deveau appointed a temporary sergeant to supervise officers.

Council strongly opposed the appointment even though the acting sergeant was not given a pay raise for his duties.

Even if the police board has decided on its stand, a new sergeant's position could come up again in the police inspection being conducted by the province in September.

Supervision is one of the areas that will be dealt with in the inspection.

Landfill over filled, Lochiel township told

Lochiel township's waste disposal site is in "an over fill situation" beyond the Ministry of Environment and Energy approved limit, Peter Taylor of the MOEE told members of Lochiel council Aug. 13.

The decision is based upon the MOEE's legal services branch's review of the approved landfill area of township's Glen Robertson site, he said.

"The site is full and if the township wishes to continue to use the site, they must apply for an emergency certificate of approval," Taylor said.

Don Munro, environmental consultant for the township, told council members the MOEE has not yet notified the township officially that the landfill is over full.

"The legal services branch made a legal decision that according to the 1984 certificate of approval setting up the landfill only 2.5 acres within the 15-acre site area is approved for the dump and this is full," he said.

Options before the township according to Munro, include closing the existing site and shipping waste to a provincially-approved site, obtaining an emergency certificate of approval for temporary operation of the current site and seeking expansion of the approved area of the current site.

"If waste is carted to a provincially-approved site such as Carp, it would cost $120 a tonne, a $30 surcharge and a transportation charge," he said.

"The environmental expansion to the site's full limit will take two years or more."

Reeve Ron Macdonell said the news of the landfill's overfull status came "as a complete surprise."

Council took no decision, but will wait for the ministry's notice.

Viaus ask for financial backing

Carmen Viau and Claudette Mackie asked Lochiel township council for financial help with their court case relating to Alexandria's landfill site.

Council said they would study the issue.

No ordinary trip to the dentist for this Lancaster resident

Lancaster

by Marg Millett
347-2207
Fax 347-1297

One measure of a person is evident in their approach to adversity. When disaster occurs some take the high road and some the low, some buckle and some rise up to the challenge. There are a few who handle life's crises with good humor and it's the humor that makes all things more bearable. Just ask Susan Walker of Lancaster.

Susan already had two front teeth ready for fixing as she finished her work for Census Canada on Wednesday. Imagine her shock, as she bit into a carrot, and another post broke, leaving her with three broken teeth!

On her way to the dentist in Cornwall, Susan had her daughters and their friend in the back seat. While sitting at a stop sign, some idiot in a hurry rear-ended her car. This little diversion caused a hasty trip to the hospital by ambulance. No dentist today!

Now in a neck brace, and in some pain, friends take Susan the next day to Cornwall to get her much needed attention from the dentist.

Waving good-bye and walking in a manner that suggests pain and restriction, Susan noticed that the dentist's office had new cement steps – still wet. Raising her head slowly, she noticed more water coming out of the doorway. Raising her head even more slowly she saw the dentist with a mop in his hands. (Now that is not your average dentist tool!)

As far as her brace would allow Susan raised her eyes to note that there was no ceiling. In the darkness of the night the office had been flooded, everything awash with water! By this time her friends had happily driven away to return in two hours.

There are all sorts of jovial thoughts about braces and other braces and Halloween and maybe a limp and an eye patch that entered her mind in the following days. But she sees the humor in all of this and hopefully the bad luck is over. I hesitate to say "chin up", Susan.

Don't forget the memories contest. You have until Sept. 15 for your favorite memory or anecdote of your local library branch or bookmobile.

Also, please note that Sept. 8 is the date for the white elephant sale at the Lancaster library. If you have anything to donate for the sale, white elephants included, please drop them off at the library.

You may remember that I reported new library hours last week for our local branch of the library. Donna tells me that these hours are effective as of the first of September.

There is going to be some fun in Bainsville on Saturday, Aug. 24. Come to the Bainsville Bonanza, sponsored by St. Andrew's United Church. Where? At Sangster's Store of course!

This will be the first giant yard sale for the church and there should be lots of good buys. Come from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and browse, buy, visit friends, play the silent auction, and buy yourself a delicious lunch, barbeque style. There will be muffins, cookies, pie and ice cream on sale as well as a fish pond, and balloons for the youngsters.

"A rose by any other name." Actually, I am referring to Rose Good and her quest to find a new name to suit her clown persona.

Someone mentioned to me that they saw Rose being interviewed in the nightly news this week. No I avoid watching what I refer to the "Happy Hour" in interest of having a good night's sleep, free from thoughts of terrorists, wars, the latest doom and gloom of economics and such inspiring topics. So I decided to call Rose and get the goods. ("Goods" get it?)

Rose and her daughter Sarah recently attended a clown convention in Renfrew, sponsored by Clowns of Canada. Incredible is the word Rose uses to describe her experiences while attending four days of workshops centered on the art of being a clown.

Eighty-two clowns from all over Canada, and some from as far away as Florida took part in the intensive instructional schooling included in the convention.

The motives of the clowns attending are many and varied. A good example is the Shriners.

All clowns took part in intensive workshops throughout the day and then performed at night to practice their new skills.

As Rose mentioned in her interview, she is still getting into the soul and spirit of her clown character and has not yet decided on a name. Sarah is "Squeaker" and Rose is temporarily "Rosie Clown".

The most inspiring event of the four days, says Rose, occurred on the final night. Three downtown blocks of Renfrew were cordoned off to traffic. All clowns were transported in two buses to the downtown area, and with music and frivolity the clowns travelled up and down the streets, making performances and having a wonderful time. Television crews were there to record this event and I am sure that there were more than a few tired but inspired clowns that night.

Rose gave me this information having just arrived home. Three of her sisters made a trip with Rose to see their sister in Timmins last week. Marie, Suzanne, Lucy and Rose had a wonderful time visiting and catching up for a few days with sister Alise. The trip home, through much construction, on Monday, took 12 hours, so I hope that I spelled your names correctly, Rose. It is too late to call.

I've always had a lot of fun looking for the signs of spring and summer. There are other signs to notice these days and I am a little more reluctant to mention them. They are there!

Perhaps you may have seen the robins congregating on the lawns, many of them juveniles with a few spots still showing. Any day now they are off. And the beautiful monarch butterflies will be seen around the milkweed any day now. The Goldenrod is the most vibrant yellow, at its peak of color.

I think that the daily swallow flying lessons, held on the wires above, are finished for the year. It's time for flocking lessons.

Enjoy the next week of summer.

Road queries should go to head of works: MacDonell

Councillors were encouraged to address road work questions to Gilles Chenier rather than directly to road workers during a review of road work at the Aug. 13 Lochiel township council meeting.

Reeve Ron Macdonell said township road work would be in "a real mess" if "everyone told the men what to do" other than going through the roads superintendent.

"That's why we have a road superintendent," he said.

New hours set up for library in Williamstown

Williamstown

by Sue Harrington
347-2279

Hunt down the scissors; sharpen your knives, claws or incisors and CUT THIS OUT. I am about to give you the new hours of operation for the Williamstown library, effective Sept. 3.

Beginning on that day (more commonly known as the first day of school) the library will be open: Tuesday 3 p.m. to 7 p.m.; Wednesday 10 a.m. to 12 noon and 6.30 p.m. to 8.30 p.m.; Thursday 6.30 p.m. to 8.30 p.m. and Saturday 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Please note the library will be closed on Mondays and Fridays and will no longer be open on Thursday afternoons.

The new hours were established by the SD and G County library board for several reasons. The reduction in the number of hours is necessary because of the reduction in provincial grants. The decision to open more evenings per week comes as a result of a survey conducted across the library system several years ago. Finally, the libraries are now, in the most part, synchronized so that patrons may travel to different branches to obtain the materials they desire.

In addition, some libraries throughout the counties have been given specialized collections of books. We in Williamstown will be specializing in Canadian history and geneaology and have already received many new (to us) books in this field including the Dictionary of Canadian Biography whose many volumes can identify any famous Canadian up until 1910.

The addition of these books in no way means that the library's other services will be affected. Williamstown library continues to offer children's books, adult fiction and non-fiction books, large print books, young adult books, and magazines.

The library is wheel-chair accessible and is located in the Sir John Johnson Manor House, the large white house just up the lane from the township hall. Membership at the library is available free of charge to all residents of SD&G. Non-residents, including those who live in the City of Cornwall, must pay a non-resident fee.

Tired of grungy garden clothes? All dressed up with no place to go? Want to waft the air with the new perfume your Uncle Malcolm sent you from Tiffany's? Or do you just want to nibble cheese and sip wine?

Affirmative answers to the above demand action. Come out tonight (Wednesday) to the annual wine and cheese party being held at the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum, from 7 to 9 p.m. Everyone is welcome and tickets are available at the door.

Museum staff will have had a busy time of it lately. The waters have scarcely calmed after those wild voyageurs whipped up the waves of the Raisin during their trips last Friday with "Ti-Jean" and "Bruno le Brave."

Yes, decked out in costume, John Lounsberry and Bruno Major, showed the children in the museum summer program what a run in a Nor'wester canoe was really like. "Hands on experience" for the 20 or so children involved was the highlight and culmination of a most enjoyable week of learning to think, act, and eat like the famous fur-traders.

Congratulations to student curators, Sherry Laframboise and Roberta Prevost, and to Joan MacDonald and the volunteers who made this summer's program so highly enjoyable.

Bridge scores this week are like children's parade results from last week. Then there was a "Geneviebe" and now there is a "Francine".

Yes, Francine was a first place winner along with Hanz Schulz, edging out Norah Ruth and Grace Leroux, who in turn were ahead of third place finishers, Isobel Quail and Marion McCuaig.

The Glengarry Community Club held an open euchre on Aug. 14. Ladies winners were: High – Jackie Taillon, Second – Carol Dubeau, Third – Florida Legroulx. For the gentlemen, the winners were: High – Tony Wetering, Second – John Lapierre, Third – Donald MacGregor.

The door prize was won by Dorothy Seguin, while 50/50 prizes went twice to Alice Portant and Anna Verkuylen and once each to Delard Dubeau, Catherine Welcher, Albert Daoust, Clarice MacPherson, and Edna Edmonds.

The club's next open euchre will be held Sept. 11 at 1:30 p.m., with weekly afternoon euchre starting up again for the season on Sept. 4 at 1:30 p.m. The Glengarry Community Club meets at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre and you are all welcome to join in its social activities.

If you've spent the past relatively rainless days painting your place or working with other hazardous wastes, you may be relieved to note that you don't have too much longer to hang on to your old cans. The township's household hazardous waste day will be held on Saturday, Sept. 14 from 8 a.m. to 12 noon at the Glen Walter fire Station on Hwy No. 2. And just in case you're not sure what constitutes HHW, here is the list: paint, oil, batteries, cleaners, gasoline, poisons, bleach, medications and pesticides. Unfortunately, lazy husbands will not be accepted.

If I couldov, I wouldov (as the expression seems to go). I would have gone to the Picnic Grove Women's Institute meeting on Aug. 13 to hear Isobel Larocque speak on old Williamstown.

Unfortunately, I had other commitments and so missed out on hearing what life was like in the old days in this wonderful little place. Of course it wasn't so little then. I remember hearing from Isobel on another occasion how the young ladies of the village used to go to the bank and check out the new tellers (male) when they would arrive in Williamstown. Those were the days when commerce thrived; when almost every thing one needed was available right here.

Isobel took her husband's album to the WI meeting, to show members and guests what things used to be where in Williamstown. She also told of a few things the children used to get up to, including taking the men's horses for rides while their owners were safely installed in the barber's chair, all lathered up!

While her talk brought back memories for some of the older WI members, newer ladies expressed surprise when Isobel said they were never bored as children, despite being in a small community.

What a contrast to youngsters today!

Women's group visits with Hemmingford WI

Martintown

by Martha Merchuk

The ladies of the Martintown Women's Institute spent a lovely summer's day visiting with member of the Hemmingford, Que. Women's Institute.

A thank you to Pat Yellenik for making arrangements.

The get-together took place at the lovely Hemmingford Golf and Country Club, where the ladies greeted each other prior to sitting down to almost delicious midday meal.

Following the meal, Hemmingford Women's Institute President Margaret Keddy welcomed the 14 ladies and one guest (Florence Ried of Huntingdon, Que., Alison Murray's mother.

The meeting opened with the "Ode". Role call followed with the theme being your favorite comic strip character. "For Better or Worse" won, hands down.

Also featured was a table display showcasing beautiful knitted items along with arts and crafts.

One thing that caught this girl's eye, were tiny knitted finger puppets which are used to entertain children in hospitals.

Ina Clelland stated that all knitted items would be sent to both the needy in the Far East, and St. Anne's Veterans Hospital, Que.

It was also very interesting to hear Jolene Robinson tell of her visit to her son in Quaqtaq, James Bay, where he teaches Inuit school children.

A mention here for ladies who provided the transportation – many thanks girls.

All in all it was certainly a most wonderful day.

Congratulations, ladies of the Martintown Women's Institute for winning first prize with their display at the Williamstown Fair. See you all in September.

SPACIOUS LAYOUT FOR NARROW LOT HOME

At only 37'4" wide, this home suits many of today's narrower lots, as well, it offers large comfortable room sizes and a fashionable layout.

A multi-level roof with gables, and arched feature windows create a pleasing street appearance which is further enhanced by vertical siding - the latest popular design feature.

The main floor features nine foot ceilings throughout. Decorative columns and different ceiling treatments provide a stylish yet subtle division between the living and dining room. A gourmet style kitchen features a walk-in pantry and a work island with a handy breakfast bar. A large nook receives plenty of natural light from surrounding windows. The family room, separated only by a half-wall completes this spacious area for informal gatherings.

Upstairs, all three bedrooms are a good size. The games room, complete with a closet, could be a fourth bedroom if necessary and features a vaulted ceiling and a boxed out window seat. The master boasts a stylish coffered ceiling, a sitting area and a four piece ensuite.

An unfinished basement awaits your own creative touch.

Plans for BT-102 may be obtained for $495.00 for a package of five complete sets of working prints and $45.00 for each additional set of the same plan. Allow $15 extra to cover the cost of postage and handling. All Canadian residents add 7% GST to plan total plus postage and handling.

Church dinner gets 21 barbecue salute

Dunvegan

by Peggi Calder
527-5293

Twenty-one barbecues were fired up last Thursday as the Kenyon Presbyterian Church men (with just a little help from the ladies) put on their annual dinner.

The menu of a large chicken breast, baked potato, coleslaw, fresh corn and a huge piece of pie was enjoyed by just over 340 people.

Besides the volunteer labor that makes a success of such a venture, there were many donations of food items from throughout the congregation. As well, the chicken breasts for the children's dinners were donated by a St Isidore business.

On Sept. 4, the 1930 Dunvegan Soccer team is to be inducted into the Sports Hall of Fame at their 18th Annual Induction Dinner which will be held at the Maxville and District Sports Complex in Maxville.

The dog that was making himself at home at the neighbor's last week and won a free ride to the hoosegow, was safely home by press time - to save yourself a call from the animal control officer (dogcatcher in plain parlance), keep a licence tag or your name and phone number on your dog's collar.

Bill and I went up to the Ottawa Ex on Sunday – it was quite an interesting afternoon – we managed to restrain ourselves and stay off the rides.

I caught the end of the fashion show just as the emcee was introducing the models.

Town fails safety survey

The town has received a failing grade from the Workers' Compensation Board for the poor state of its occupational health and safety standards, and may have to pay an extra levy of over $3,600 because of it.

The town received a rating of only 14 per cent out of 100 after an inspector from the WCB toured various town departments, working conditions and structures recently. A score of 65 is considered a pass.

The inspection examined items from forklifts to the fire department, and other areas.

Building inspector Terry Hart said he hadn't seen the report from WCB and couldn't comment.

But roads superintendent Jean Guy Levert and council was not impressed with the assessment.

"For 25 years with the Department of Labor, we had one warning," Levert, a long-serving municipal employee, said.

He said the WCB's problems go back to four reported incidents which happened two years ago.

"And now they're going to nail us with a $3,600 surcharge."

And since the town employed fewer than 21 workers, he thought the health and safety ratings WCB uses are different than for larger agencies.

Mayor Grant Crack called the assessment "ridiculous."

Council agreed to discuss the matter further after Hart has had a chance to examine the report.

The procession on Thursday evening, Aug. 15, was shortened quite a bit. Mother Nature decided to attend and did so in style, thunder, lightening, wind and heavy rain.

But she did not deter attendance, our small church was packed to capacity.

Several priests assisted Father Marcel, among them were Father Gerald Poirier, Father Stephane Bouchet and Father Claude Thibault.

Several statues of the Blessed Virgin Mary were distributed among parish families and Father Stephane was presented a beautiful framed picture of himself dressed in mass attire.

The parish would like to thank everyone who came.

Congratulations to Sister Madeleine Lalonde of Sacred Heart Parish, Alexandria, who was the winner of the 400 pounds of beef.

Vacation time for students, teachers and bus drivers is almost over, school begins on Sept. 3.

Indicators show surge in visitors

Business Beat

by Joe Banks, 525-2020

After a summer break, we're back and ready to report the goings-on in the Glengarry business community. If you have any news to report about your business (new management, change of hands, expansions, renovations or events), give us a call at the above number or contact your Glengarry News advertising representative.

While it has generally been a quiet summer, we've been getting some reports from Alexandria-area merchants that there was a surge in out-of-town visitors in June and July.

There seems to be a feeling that some of the summer events – the country festival, bingos, the Highland Games, the Lancaster rodeo, Island Park's Theatre-in-the-Park and Festival Alexandria – is paying off in increased traffic in stores.

Gail Abrames at Paddy's Men's and Ladies Wear on Main Street reported she had a "record June" in sales and noticed significantly more out-of-town visitors in her popular clothing and collectables shop in July as well.

At the other end of Main Street, Ron Poissant at Giant Tiger reported in late July that his customer count was up, though each seemed to be "buying less."

Alexandria chamber secretary Doane Theoret reported at the organization's July meeting that "many calls" came into the chamber's new phone number requesting information on bingos, events and hotels in the area.

The chamber has had a phone in place since the spring. It's number is 525-5422 and the fax number is 525-5397.

Levacs celebrate 50 years

A Vankleek Hill furniture retailer this week marks 50 years in business.

The Levac family has been operating Levac Furniture since 1946, when Henri J. Levac, grandfather of the current brother and sister team of Daniel and Nicole Levac, started the business at its original address. The business was taken over by their father Roch after a few years and in 1983, Daniel and Nicole took over the operation.

Today the business is "more than 10 times the original square footage," Daniel told us, after, the business moved into its current building of 24,000 square feet at the corner of Main Street and Highway 34 10 years ago.

Some "hot deals" are in store for customers who wish to help the business celebrate, said Daniel. The store has been redesigned for a "more professional" appearance, he said, and "suites" have been set up for customers to see how ensembles would look in a total environment, including accessories.

These changes are necessary to provide the discerning customer with "one-stop shopping" he said.

What does the next 50 years hold in store for the retailer?

Daniel said Levac"s "will be more specialized" in what they will offer customers.

"We have to be able to show customers not just the item, but how it is made, inside out."

The co-owner still feels there's a market for independent retailers like his.

"The advantage of a small store is that we'll have it color-coordinated whereas in a big store, that's what you get. If you don't like it, goodbye."

Daniel and Nicole welcome new and old customers into the store anytime to look over the changes they're made.

Horticulture winners named

Maxville

by Gordon Winter
527-2888

Last Wednesday, the Maxville and District Horticultural Society held its annual flower and vegetable show at the sports complex. Organized in 1923, the society has sponsored this event since then with the exception of a few years during and after World War II. Besides the specimen classes, there are floral design classes, a photographic competition, classes for house plants and several categories for competition at the homes. There is also a special section for juniors at the show and more children should be encouraged to enter.

A new exhibitor, Joyce Ferguson, was awarded the special prize for the best floral entry in the show-three red asters. Shirley and Bob Humble earned the special prize for the highest number of points in the vegetable section with Hilda MacLean taking the second prize.

Eileen Tait's rural mail box was judged best of those entered and Norman and Ann Prebble, Moose Creek, earned first prize for their roadside farm sign and Dora and Werner Bill's sign was judged second best. Lise and Yvon Leblanc, Greenfield, had the best rock garden, Bruce Pilon, the best town lawn, Claire and Bruno Besner, the best overall town setting, Margaret and Angus MacRae, the best window box and Donald Gormley the best hanging basket.

Sarah McIntosh earned the most points in the 11 to 16-year-old section and Jessica and Hardy St. Denis were tops for the under 11-year olds.

While Hilda MacLean, Mabel Guindon and Ann Kerr earned more points, they were not eligible for the prize which was awarded to Dorothea Conners for the highest number of points in the show. Marjorie Merth, Apple Hill, was the new exhibitor with the highest number of points.

Four memorial trophies are awarded annually. The Winter one for the best appearing property judged from the street went to Laurie and Andrew Arkinstall, Fair Street. The McEwen trophy was awarded to Ann and Tony Vander Wielen for the best farm setting and the McPhail trophy to Christena and Gerald Jans for the best country home setting. Dorothea and Ross Conners were awarded the Hope MacKinnon trophy for the highest number of points in the show.

The next meeting of the society will be on Sept. 18 when the fall plant auction will be conducted.

The community was shocked to learn of the death of Bernard (Bernie) Villeneuve, a prominent Dyer businessman, on Monday. He had been critically ill for a week. Sympathy is expressed to his wife, the former Jean Michaud, of Maxville, his daughter, Nicole Theoret, of the village, his three sons who

Rob McIntosh china shops thrive

Barb and Rob McIntosh were only searching for warehouse space for their growing china and crystal business.

Who knew that their search would result in a thriving business which includes china and crystal shops, an Apple Gallery, a gourmet kitchen shop, a Bohemian crystal outlet, and a bridal registry?

The idea for the china business is actually third generation, as Rob followed in the footsteps of his father and grandfather who were both well known for their association with the acclaimed firm of McIntosh & Watts in Ottawa.

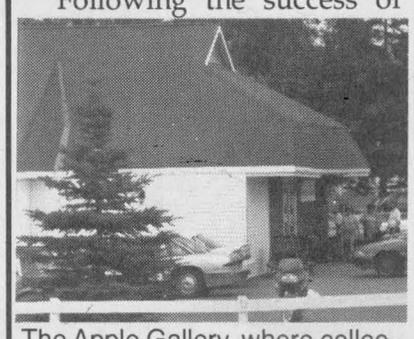
Rob maintains that it was his father's training in the china business which sparked his interest in learning the trade.

Following through with his desire to open his own shops, Rob and his wife Barb opened the first Rob McIntosh store in Cornwall in 1979.

The business began to thrive, and the McIntoshes began opening stores throughout Ontario, including Ganonoque, where Rob found an old, 10,000 sq. ft. government museum on Hill Island, which lies on the Canadian - U.S. partition.

Rob McIntosh shops then began to branch out to places such as Burlington, Belleville, Niagara Falls, Newmarket and Kingston.

Following the success of



The Apple Gallery, where collector's plates and figurines can be found.

these outlets, the McIntoshes felt it would be necessary to find warehouse space that would be easily accessible from other locations.

And then, in 1987, the largest Rob McIntosh location slowly came to be when Rob and Barb found five acres of land in South Lancaster just off the 401 exit. The land included a 40-year old school house with enough room for both warehouse and office space.

When the warehouse began to receive more and more customers, it became evident that an outlet would be necessary.

To temporarily accommodate the increasing number of customers, a large yellow and white tent was erected.

Seeing as how people were reacting positively to the idea, the McIntoshes felt it was necessary to permanently erect a building to be used as a store.

They chose to maintain the old fashioned theme and built a little town, and decided they would move old buildings to the Lancaster property.

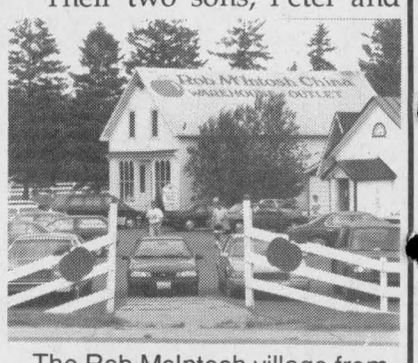
They bought a second school house, from Breadalbane near Dalkeith and moved it followed by the old post office/bank from Williamstown.

The McIntoshes, along with their carpenter Michael Fedchyk, had the old buildings renovated, and constructed interconnecting walkways.

Now, most of the buildings are connected while some sport attractive outside decks available to customers for either picnicking or sitting to enjoy the old style village.

The McIntoshes are still very much keeping the business a family tradition.

Their two sons, Peter and



The Rob McIntosh village from across Hwy. 34.

Jamie, are actively involved with different aspects of the business.

The Rob McIntosh family also extends to their employees, which has grown from three to more than 100.

Along with the exquisite merchandise, beautiful setting and friendly atmosphere which can all be found at Rob McIntosh China & Crystal, shopping there also comes with some built-in perks.

For example, Rob McIntosh will ship goods to anywhere in Canada daily.

Also, the fact that the Lancaster location is only 45 minutes from Montreal makes it an ideal place for customers all around.

Finally, because Rob McIntosh China & Crystal shops are open seven days a week, its flexibility makes it possible for the customer to visit the stores when it is convenient for them.

Rob McIntosh China & Crystal Shops are open from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Saturday, and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

The Glengarry school of golf

Revamped junior program stresses basic fundamentals of sport

Walter Chopp likes to think of the lengarry Golf and Country Club's nior program as a "school of golf." Well, regular classes are over and e exams are under way.

After a field trip to the junior Val-ey League tournament in Iroquois oday, the young Glengarry golfers ill go about the business of deter-ining its junior male and female lub champions.

In other words, we'll soon find out hich members of the Glengarry olf school's Class of 1996 will raduate with honors.

The Valley League tourney, the lub championships, a few other ompetitions and the awards lun-heon on Aug. 30 will bring the cur-ain down on what has been an ventful season for Glengarry's golf-ng youth.

Emphasis on learning

An increase in on-course and off-ourse instruction for junior golfers youngsters aged from 10 to 18) was ne of this summer's primary goals ays Chopp, the junior program's hief co-ordinator.

"Our revamped format for the uniors included 10 clinics with three nstructors and weekly play super-ised by monitors, who are volunteer dult club members," said Chopp.

"We wanted (the junior program) develop into a golf school," he ontinues. "We wanted to place the mphasis on learning instead of just aving the kids play in a league.

"Now, in addition to playing golf, e youngsters spent time on the dri-ing range, they watched video clin-cs, they learned the rules and eti-uette of golf, they had the handicap ystem explained to them and they ere shown the proper mechanics of e golf swing."

Chopp says the results have been ramatic.

"We had some kids at the start of e summer who couldn't even hold club properly and now they're hit-ng the ball 200 yards."

Some of the juniors can even hold eir own with the more experienced dult members of the Glengarry lub.

Marie-Andrée Ouimet, who just rned 18, won the women's club hampionship earlier this month e Joel Michaud, 17, was a strong ontender for the men's title.

Ouimet had a two-day total of 151 while Michaud finished third after being only one shot off the lead after the first day of play.

Even the program's youngest members are capable of shooting in the 80's for an 18-hole round.

Chopp says improved interaction between the junior and senior Glengarry members – another of the program's major goals this summer – means the kids' abilities aren't such a well-kept secret anymore.

"We've had a lot of positive feedback from the adults who have played with the juniors.

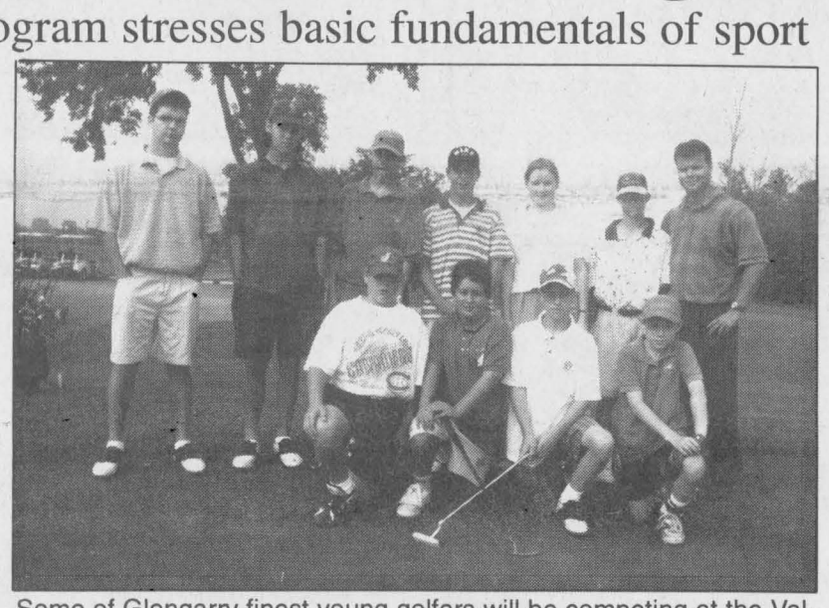
"They're very impressed with the way the kids carry themselves. This has raised the awareness of just how much tremendous young golfing talent we have here."

Michaud, a three-year member of the Glengarry junior program, has also a noticed a change in the relations between the different generations of linksters.

"I know in past years the adults didn't like it when the juniors were on the course because they thought (the juniors) slowed down the play.

"But this year the juniors and seniors are playing together more and it's worked out really well.

"We even have some juniors in the senior valley league and in the senior twilight."



Some of Glengarry finest young golfers will be competing at the Valley League tournament today in Iroquois. The team members are (front row, left to right) left to right are Maurice Bellefeuille, Matthew Cooney, Evan Koronewski, Addison MacDonald, (back row) Joel Michaud, Guillaume Ouimet (alternate), Jason Vickers (alternate), Nicholas Prieur, Lynn Wallace (alternate), Steven Stewart (alternate) and chief instructor Rick Latreille. Absent from photo is Marie-Andrée Ouimet.

More changes lie ahead

While Chopp is pleased with the direction the junior program is taking, he adds there is plenty of room for improvement.

"If I have one disappointment, it's that there aren't more girls in the junior program," said Chopp. "We had some girls come out at the beginning, but then they just stopped showing up. That's one of the things we'd really like to work on for next year."

Chopp would also like to further the golf school theme next year by offering scholarships.

Another possible change is the lowering of the age youngsters can join the program.

"We're proposing to drop the beginning age to eight," said Glengarry club general manager Jim MacDonald, whose son 10-year-old Addison is in the junior program. "That may sound young, but in Western Canada – where most of our touring pros come from – they start them at four years old."

MacDonald draws a parallel with another sport.

"In hockey they start at age four of five. I don't see why golf should be any different."

Bissonnette, Marcoux claim Speedway wins

A pair of Glengarry drivers were among the winners during Sunday's racing program at Cornwall Motor Speedway.

Dave Bissonnette of Kenyon Township claimed his fifth win of the Cornwall season in the street stock expert feature.

Bissonnette, who started fifth in the 21-car field, took the lead for good during the 20th of the race's 25 laps.

Eric Gauvreau of Chelsea, Que. was second while Guy Brisson of St. Albert finished third.

Marc Therrien of Kenyon was seventh across the finish line.

Meanwhile, Alexandria's Simon Marcoux took the checkered flag in the street stock novice race.

Like Bissonnette, Marcoux becomes a five-time winner on the 19916 Cornwall circuit with Sunday's victory.

Marcoux took over the lead when he passed Tyler Summers of Newington – who settled for second place – on the next-to-last lap.

Denis Larocque of Masham, Que. won the sportsman class race while Tim Pelletier of Massena led the pack in the street stock novice race.

The modified division racers had the week off.

Glengarry women victorious in 25th Valley League tourney

For the first time in the tournament's 25-year history, the Glengarry Golf and Country Club is champion of the women's Valley League golf competition.

Glengarry hosted the silver anniversary edition of the event on Saturday and ended up capturing the top prize for the first time since joining the Valley League a decade ago.

The Glengarry finished second the last time the seven-club event was held here in the 1989.

The host club had a total score of 1,299 to finish well ahead of runner-up Smiths Falls (1,337).

Summerheights was third at 1,341 followed by Cedar Glen (1,343), Morrisburg (1,361) and Iroquois (1,366).

Prescott would have had the second best overall total but the club disqualified itself when one of its team members abandoned play.

Jaansalu, Lanthier lead the way

Two of Glengarry's representatives were the top low gross players in their respective divisions.

Carol Jaansalu was the top "B" division golfer with a score of 88.

Lorraine Lanthier was tops in the "C" class with a round of 97.

Here is the complete list of the Glengarry team:

"A" class – Marie-Andrée Ouimet, Nicole Vincent, Nicole Tourangeau.

"B" class – Marie-Paule Durocher, Stephanie Chopp, Carol Jaansalu.

"C" class – Lorraine Lanthier, Joan O'Hara, Barbara Boulanger.

"D" class – Bernice McDonald, Cathy MacDonald, Margaret McCuaig.

Senior – Irene Corbiere.

Spare – Jean Campbell.

Team "ecstatic" with result

Team member Stephanie Chopp – also co-organizer of the event along with Nicole Tourangeau – says the host club had aspirations of making a little history going into Saturday's competition.

"We had our hopes about winning, especially since we had a beautiful young golfer like Marie-Andrée Ouimet who shoots in the 70's on the team," said Chopp.

As it turned out, Ouimet had an off day and shot "only" 82, but the Glengarry team as a whole was solid.

"The rest of us did very well," said Chopp. "It really was an exciting day."

The reaction of the team when informed of its victory was predictable.

"We were all absolutely ecstatic," said Chopp.

Individual winners

Other individual score winners on Saturday were Kitty Workman of Prescott (low gross for seniors), J. Laurin, Morrisburg (low gross for spares), Nancy Dye, Prescott (low net for seniors), D. Mabo, Morrisburg (low net "B"), J. Salmon, Prescott (low net "C") and N. Beckstead, Cedar Glen (low net "D").

The closest to the pin contest winners were Irene Corbiere of Glengarry on No. 6 (she received a golf bag from Selection Sales in Martintown), Margaret McCuaig of Glengarry on No. 9 ($50 from Titley Chev-Olds), as well as Barbara Blackburn of Morrisburg on No. 12 and Barbara Barkley of Iroquois on No. 17 (both received $50 prizes from Alexandria Ford).

The organizers say Glengarry's victory on Saturday was the icing on the cake for a successful event.

"We really appreciate all the help and support we received from all the sponsors," said Chopp. "Especially the car dealers and banks."

Here we go again

Laggan and Bees meet in final again

What is there left to say about Laggan and the Alexandria Bees when it comes to the Glengarry Soccer League senior women's division final.

These two foes have jousted for the championship trophy five times this decade, so pre-game introductions won't be necessary.

Alexandria fans and players hardly need to be reminded, but history is heavily lopsided in Laggan's favor.

The Lassies have won all four previous championship series encounters with the Bees, including a three games to one triumph in last year's final.

Laggan continued to dominate Alexandria during the 1996 season.

Laggan beat the Bees in the Gerald McDonald Memorial tourney, twice in the regular-season, in the MacLachlan Cup final and in a tie-breaker to determine first place at season's end.

If Laggan has history on its side, then maybe the Bees can count on the law of averages.

The best-of-five series was scheduled to begin last night in Lochiel. Game Two in tomorrow at Island Park in Alexandria while the teams return to Father Gauthier field for Game Three on Saturday.

In necessary, Game Four is in Alexandria on Monday while Game Five would be played in Lochiel next Wednesday.

Bees barely escape semis

The finals are a familiar place for the Bees, but Jamie MacDonald's club almost didn't make it through the semifinal round.

Making the final appeared to be a pipe dream late on Sunday at Island Park as the Bees were down 1-0 to an undermanned but plucky Dunvegan squad in the third and deciding game of a first-round series.

The Bees had numerous chances to get on the board – including a second-half penalty shot by Lisa Poirier – but it wasn't until the second minute of injury time when Julie Aube finally broke through the Dunvegan defence to put a ball past Vivian Franklin.

The Bees won the game in the 15th minute of overtime when forward Lynn Struthers broke loose and hit the top of the net with a screaming shot.

Dunvegan forced Game Three by winning 3-0 in Dunvegan on Saturday.

Colleen Murray, Andrea Villeneuve and Lori MacMaster each scored once. Vivian Franklin recorded the shutout.

Brenda MacMaster had a shutout as Alexandria won the series-opener 5-0 last Tuesday.

Julie Aube and Katharine MacLachlan each scored twice while Cheryl Proctor added a single marker.

Laggan completed a first-round sweep of Glen Sandfield by recording a 6-1 win in Game Two on Wednesday.

Wendi Lawson scored three times with single goals going to Carol MacLeod, Bonnie MacLeod and Tammy MacSweyn.

Lauren MacPherson converted a penalty shot for Glen Sandfield's only goal.

Stars take series lead

The Glengarry Stars are one win away from winning their first Glengarry Soccer League playoff series since 1992.

The Stars took a 1-0 lead in their best-of-three senior men's division semifinal series with the McCrimmon Combines by recording a 3-1 win at Father Gauthier Field in Lochiel on Monday.

The difference in the game was a two-goal outburst by the Stars in a three-minute span in the middle of the first half.

First, Gareth Pye scored on an innocent-looking. Scott Nielsen doubled the Stars' advantage with a shot from close range.

Alain Decoste made it 3-0 Glengarry when he converted a penalty shot with 15 minutes left in the game.

Alan Kennedy put the Combines on the scoreboard a few minutes later, but that's as close as McCrimmon would get in its playoff game since joining the GSL six years ago.

Game Two of the series is scheduled for tonight in Lochiel while Game Three, if necessary, would be played on Friday, again in Lochiel.

The Glen Sandfield-Greenfield semifinal was slated to begin last night in Greenfield, Game Two will be played tomorrow in Lochiel and Game Three, if needed, will go Saturday in Greenfield.

Regular season wrap-up

The Stars clinched the regular-season championship by whipping Pine Grove 8-1 last Tuesday night.

Chancey Lajoie and Alain Decoste each netted a pair of goals with singles going to Jeff Proctor, Steven St. Denis, James Addison and Darrell Hay.

Ian Robertson scored the lone Pine Grove goal.

Pride and the scoring championship were the only things on the line when Greenfield met the Stars in the season finale on Friday.

Jeff MacLean of the Combines made the scoring race close by netting three goals, but Alain Decoste's single goal gave the Stars' forward a 23-22 edge for the season.

Greenfield won the game 4-3 as Lyndon Lewis added a single goal to MacLean's hat trick.

James Addison and Robbie Starkauskas were the other scorers for the Stars.

Greenfield was a 9-0 winner over Glen Nevis in its other game last week.

Jeff MacLean and Rodney MacKillican scored three times apiece for the defending champions while Willie Kippen, James McIntosh and Collin Saunders chipped in with single goals.

Glen Sandfield clinched third place and eliminated Glen Nevis from playoff contention with a 5-3 victory over the team from North Lancaster last Monday.

Norm Derepentigny fired in two goals for the Green Machine while Jonathan Hamelin, Robert Wensink and Eric Dagg scored once.

Glen Nevis countered with a pair of goals by Sean Burgess and one by Ian Bratberg.

It's the first time the Glen Nevis squad has failed to qualify for post-season play since 1984.

The Alexandria Drillers, who will also watch the playoffs from the sidelines, ended the season on a winning note by defeating Pine Grove 4-1 on Wednesday.

Andrew McCormick, Ed Osmar, Ed deWit and Toni Boos connected for the Drillers. Jason Jackson scored for Pine Grove.

Lions' Joly nets three

Beckers and Lions Club are still locked in a tie for first place in Alexandria micro soccer's sprite boys' division.

Both teams won their games last week with Beckers blanking Richelieu Club 5-0 and the Lions downing M and D Sports 3-1.

Matthew Lalonde of Beckers added two goals to his league-leading total in the win over Richelieu.

Simon Sabourin also scored twice while Cameron Nixon chipped in with a single goal.

Chris Joly was the whole scoring story for the Lions as he accounted for all three goals.

Francis Latulippe replied for M and D.

The Royal Bank squad continues to hold a one-point lead over M and D Sports in the junior girls' division standings.

Royal Bank got by Marleau Garage by a 3-1 score last week while M and D kept pace by defeating AMG Marketing 7-1.

Laura Taylor scored all three Royal goals while Theresa Smith picked up her sixth marker of the season for Marleau.

M and D's Ashley Munro now has 22 goals on the year after scoring three times against AMG.

Renée Menard, Anna Kitchen, Joanne Bedard and Jenna Boulanger each added a single goal to the M and D offence.

Alexa Winkiewicz connected for AMG.

Bulls bounce Dalhousie

Dalhousie's quest to win the Cornwall men's ball hockey crown is over.

After winning the first game of the best-of-three semifinal series against the BMR Bulls, Dalhousie was knocked out of playoff contention by consecutive losses.

After losing 5-3 in Game Two on Thursday, Dalhousie dropped a 2-0 decision in the decisive third game on Monday.

Denis St. Jean and Cory Maxam were the goalscorers for the Bulls while Tommy Payment registered the shutout.

Jr. B Glens need trainer

With the junior B hockey season just around the corner, the Alexandria Glens are looking to round out their staff.

The team is currently seeking a trainer and an equipment manager for the upcoming season.

Anyone interested in filling either position is asked to call president Robert Lajoie at 525-1913 or general manager Marc Sauvé at 525-3306 after 4 p.m.

Glen Nevis wins squeakers

Glen Nevis has won back-to-back 1-0 games in Glengarry Soccer League men's second division play recently.

Danny Koggel was the scorer in a 1-0 decision over Lochiel on Aug. 8 while Robin Basara accounted for the game's only goal as Glen Nevis shaded Maxville 1-0 last Monday.

Lochiel won by default over Kirk Hill last Monday.

Thursday's scheduled game between Kirk Hill and the Hearts was rained out.

Laggan snags final spot in peewee playoffs

A 4-0 win over Alexandria Legion and a three-game losing streak by Alexandria M and D Sports has given Laggan the fourth and final playoff berth in the Glengarry Soccer League peewee boys' division.

Laggan moved a point ahead of M and D last Monday as Nelson Shearer and Chris Watts each scored twice in the win over Legion.

M and D had three chances to overtake Laggan, but the Alexandria club lost consecutive games to playoff-bound Lancaster Township, Glen Sandfield Green and Glen Sandfield Gold.

Ryan Major scored twice and Matthew Claude, Philippe Legroulx and Jordan Reasbeck had singles in a 5-0 win over M and D.

Pat Johnson and Eric Leblanc scored as Glen Sandfield Green claimed a 2-0 win.

Kevin Libbos had all four goals as Gold downed M and D 4-1.

Michael Lauzon scored in a losing cause.

Jordan Reasbeck and Ryan Major contributed hat tricks as Lancaster routed Greenfield 8-2 in last week's other game.

Roch Lebrun and Chris Van Overbeek had singles for Lancaster. Pierre Lacombe scored twice for Greenfield.

The playoffs include semifinal series between Glen Sandfield Green and Laggan as well as a battle between Glen Sandfield Gold and Lancaster.

Bantam division

The bantam division playoffs promise to be exciting as the top four teams finished only four points apart.

Laggan clinched first place with a 2-0 win over Char-Lan Rudi Payer Sport last Monday.

Kurt MacSweyn and Andrew MacDonald each scored once.

The same teams meet in the first round of the playoffs.

Alexandria Co-op won third place and will play Glen Sandfield in the semifinals after beating Rudi's 5-1 in a tie-breaker on Saturday.

Jean-Francois Lafrance scored twice with single goals being added by Tim Van Overbeek, Jeremy McCulloch and Kirk MacMillan.

Tim McCuaig replied for Char-Lan.

Jean-Francois Lafrance scored twice last Monday as Alexandria edged Lancaster Township 2-1.

Ghislain Valade scored for Lancaster.

Char-Lan slipped by Glen Sandfield 3-2 on Wednesday.

Tim McCuaig scored twice for the winners and Lee Klazinga added a single.

Jason Larocque and Eric Quesnel scored for Glen Sandfield.

Sprite division

Adam St. Denis scored twice to lead the Greenfield sprites to a 4-2 win over Maxville on Friday.

Blair Martell and Patrick Morris also scored for the winners while Andre Laflamme and Danny MacGregor replied for Maxville.

Brendan MacGillivray and Paul Nixon also scored as Laggan won by a final score of 9-1.

Leo Lebrun scored in a losing cause.

Jason MacDonald's two goals were the difference as Glen Sandfield A doubled Maxville 4-2 last Monday.

Jeff MacMillan and Eric Duchesne also found the range for Glen Sandfield. Danny Blair and Tyler MacLeod connected for Maxville.

Home Hardware sweeps into women's softball final

Gino Lalonde had a big night at the plate and Elaine Oetelaar picked her third pitching win of the post-season as Home Hardware advanced to the Alexandria Women's Softball League final with a 21-11 win over Roy's Pontiac-Buick-Cadillac on Wednesday.

Lalonde went four-for-five with five RBIs as Home Hardware wins the best-of-five semifinal series three games to none.

Home Hardware will play the winner of the M and D Sports-Hawkesbury Chimney Sweeps semifinal series in the final.

M and D took a 2-1 series lead by beating HCS 9-8 last Tuesday.

M and D scored twice in a the top of the fifth inning to win the contest.

Denise Lacombe drove in three runs for the winners.

Game Four of the series was scheduled to be played last night.

Also scheduled for last night was Game Three of the "C" class consolation final between the Caisse Populaire and the Atlantic Hotel.

Caisse Pop had a two games to none lead after posting a pair of victories last week.

Minor softball champ to be crowned Sunday

All four teams will be in action this Sunday at Island Park as the Alexandria and District Minor Softball League holds its playoff tournament.

The regular season schedule will be completed tonight, but Sunday's first-round playoff matchups are already set.

Regular-season champion Marc's Canteen will take on Boucane CD Sounds in one semifinal game while Maggie Bar-B-Q is pitted against Alexandria Auto Glass in the other.

The winners will play for the 1996 championship.

Alexandria Auto Glass and Boucane CD Sounds were the winners in the next-to-last week of action.

Auto Glass scored five runs in the seventh inning to register a 17-16 comeback victory over Marc's Canteen last Wednesday at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Kevin Quesnel, Matthew Roy and Eric Chenier each scored three times for the winners while Roch Gauthier, Philippe Menard and Jason Menard plated two runs apiece. Christian Brunet and Benoit Mallette also scored.

The Canteen offence included three runs by Richard Leblanc and Dominic Decoeur, two each by Paul Campeau, Simon Menard, Greg Lalonde and one apiece by Sylvain Martin, Luc Ranger, Alain Campeau and Pascal Quesnel.

Boucane beat Maggie's Bar-B-Q 8-5 in Wednesday's other game.

Steven Van Den Oetelaar led the winners with three runs while Francois Boisvenue scored twice.

Jonathan Wylie, Roch Bourgon and Stephane St. Denis chipped in with single runs.

Maggie's replied with two runs by Jean-Francois Menard and one run by Nicholas Michaud, Nicholas Prieur and Mickie Oetelaar.

Glen Sandfield wins second-place tie-breaker

Glen Sandfield earned home-field advantage for the first round of the Glengarry Soccer League intermediate girls' division playoffs by beating Alexandria Legion 3-2 in a second-place tie-breaker on Saturday.

Megan Leroux and Megan Rainey scored in regulation time for Glen Sandfield while Josette Laferriere accounted for both Legion goals.

Glen Sandfield and the Legion will meet in one semifinal series while first-place Greenfield will face Alexandria Little Rikki's in the other.

The regular season wound down with four games last week.

Josette Laferriere scored four times as Legion clubbed Lancaster Township 7-1.

Sophie Charbonneau, Stacey-Lynn Ouimet and Jennifer Quesnel also scored for the winners while Melissa Campeau scored for Lancaster.

Megan Leroux had three goals and Isabelle Brazeau added a deuce as Glen Sandfield beat Dunvegan 8-0 on Wednesday.

Genevieve Duval, Jaime Horvath and Laura Dragone also scored.

Safiya Williams scored both goals in Laggan's 2-0 win over Alexandria M and D Sports on Tuesday.

Sara McIntosh was the lone scorer as Greenfield edged Little Rikki's 1-0 last Monday.

Bantam, junior divisions

Alexandria Shepherd's recorded its second bantam division win of the season with a 3-2 decision over Lancaster Township last Tuesday.

Erin MacDonell, Christina Massia and Heidi Poulin scored for the winners while Cheri-Lynn Lalonde and Chris Derepentigny replied for Lancaster.

Leanne Duval scored all five goals as the Dunvegan B juniors defeated Dunvegan A 5-2 last Monday.

Liane Jeaurond and Deana MacCuaig scored in a losing cause for the A's.

In Memoriam

LEROUX: In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Lionel, who passed away Aug. 23, 1990.
Our thoughts are always with you,
Your place no one can fill,
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we love you still.
We know you walk beside us,
And when our life is through,
We pray that god will take our hands
And take us straight to you.
– Dearly missed by your wife Winnie, children Jeff and Karen, Tracey, Lee and Diana and grandchildren Amanda, Shawn, Tiffany, Kristyn and Brandyn. 34-1p

LEROUX, Wilfred: In loving memory of a dear father, grandfather, and great grandfather, who passed away Aug. 19, 1991.
God knows how much we miss him
Never shall his memory fade
Loving thoughts shall ever wonder,
To the grave not far away.
We have so many memories
Of all the things you've done
The happy moments that we've shared
The laughter and the fun.
The many little things
That only you could do
We cherish all these memories
And send our love to you.
– Sadly missed and always remembered by Lillian and family. 34-1p

LEROUX: In loving memory of a dear father and husband, grandfather, great grandfather, Wilfred, who passed away, Aug. 19, 1991.
Beautiful memories woven in gold
This is the picture we tenderly hold
Deep in our hearts your memory is kept
To love to cherish and never forget.
– Sadly missed and always remembered by wife Angeline and the family. 34-1p

Another local exhibitor did well at the Williamstown Fair – Lynne Snikeris of L.A. Stables (on the former John Christie farm) won High Point Senior Western Rider on her horse, Dare Devil Gab, a five-year-old registered quarter horse gelding who was also grand champion gelding. In six classes, Lynne accumulated the points to make her the high point winner.

The second annual cornfest sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce was a success under sunny skies and with an abundance of corn in the pots. Organizers always hope for a larger crowd but appreciate the support they do receive. The entertainment provided by locals was well received and was more extensive than last year.

C of C president, Julia Danskin, wishes to thank all who gave their time and talent to make the event such a success and at the same time thanks all those who came out to enjoy both the corn and the entertainment during the afternoon.

The popular bowling club sponsored by the Senior Outreach Services program at the Manor is about to get active again on Sept. 10 and 12 at the St. Isidore bowling lanes. All those who are interested in this activity are asked to give their names to Julie Larin at the Manor or by phoning her at 527-2170, local 228. Most likely, there will probably be more vacancies for new members on Thursday morning.

The annual memorial service for the Maxville cemetery will be held this year in St. Andrews Presbyterian Church on Sept. 1 at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. James McVeigh will be in charge. As is the custom, many plot holders or their representatives will be placing flowers on graves prior to the service. Since the tomb stones face east in the cemetery, some place flowers on this side and others place them on the road side of the stones. If all the flowers were placed on this latter side, the cemetery would present a much more attractive appearance from the road. The decision, however is left to each individual.

The fact that we were away for the weekend is not newsworthy but the fact that we spent a most unexpected enjoyable evening in Westport is.

When I was registering at the motel, I asked the lady if she knew Gloria and Neil Scott. She did and added that Gloria's parents, Gwen and George Greer were registered at the motel as well. Although the Greers moved from here over 30 years to live in Barrie, they are remembered with affection by friends. They were in Westport for special birthday celebrations for both and a family reunion on Saturday.

As it turned out, we had dinner with the group, Neil's mother, Hilda Davies, showed us around Westport and we spent a pleasant social hour at the Scotts' beautiful lakeside home. On behalf of all their friends we extend very best wishes to Gwen and George for many more years of activity with good health and happy times. While here, George operated the garage now know as Highland Toyota and the family, including Gloria and Mary Ellen lived in the the Leduc house across the street.

I recently saw a small pulley used with two bird feeders. One, a silo type, hanging from a wooden hopper type. The top one was attached to a small rope which went through the pulley on a high branch of a tree. The other end of the rope was on a hook at the base of the tree.

This would be an ideal set-up for someone who wished to observe the birds from a second floor, providing a tree was available. It would also avoid problems with cats but squirrels could cut the rope and perhaps a flexible, metal one could be used.

I am going to try canary seed this year in one feeder. It can be purchased in bulk and may be favored by some of the smaller birds.

We are using a plant pole now for the humming bird feeder and are finding fewer ants and earwigs are getting to it. The birds don't seem to mind the lack of protection that our lilac tree provided previously. The plant pole can also be used throughout the winter for small feeders. It just has to be stuck in a foot deep hole in the ground and will take three or four feeders if you have three or four hooks that go with the pole.

Eighty years ago W. S. McLean was wounded during World War I according to news received by his father, Hugh. Mr. McLean recovered, became the village's post master for many years, married Effie Robertson and they became the parents of Jack, now of Toronto. The McLeans were very active in the community, including the Presbyterian Church. during World War II, both Mr. McLean and Jack saw service. Mr. McLean retired n 1954. Dorothy Bradford now lives in the McLean home on Spring Street.

Sixty years ago, Colin B. and Grau McDermid were honored at a reception in Ferguson's Hall after their recent marriage. Mr. McDermid was our village druggist for many years and Mrs. McDermid was the public school's principal for a few years.

She is a Manor resident now and enjoys good health for one in her mid-nineties.

Building values down in Lochiel

July saw $135,600 in building permits issued in Lochiel township, building superintendent Dorothy Irvine told members of Lochiel council Aug. 13.

This compares to July 1995's figure of $169,000, Irvine said.

Most of the construction in July were agricultural renovations and single family dwellings, she said.

Building permits for the year to date are $818,100.

Lochiel's road budget is on target

All road construction is on target and on budget for the year, Gilles Chenier, Lochiel township's roads superintendent, told members of council, Aug. 13.

"The money is good and there are 13 days saved thus far," Bill Hooper, deputy-reeve, told council.

CENTRE FAMILIAL DES NAISSANCES

Dr. Jean Therrien, Dr. Jacinthe Roy, Dr. Luc Chagnon and Dr. Thomas Maxwell

annoncent leur participation au Centre familial des naissances de l'Hôpital Général de Hawkesbury.

Cette équipe médicale offre ses services à toutes futures mamans durant leur grossesse et pour l'accouchement.

Après leur séjour à l'hôpital, les mamans seront dirigées vers leur médecin de famille et, au besoin, vers d'autres services communautaires.

Les médecins invitent donc les futures mamans à venir visiter le nouveau Centre familial des naissances ouvert récemment au 2e étage de l'Hôpital Général de Hawkesbury. L'infirmière sur place répondra aux questions.

•Bicyclists are frequently seen silently coursing along the public roads and there are many selfish individuals who are questioning their right to the use of the public roads which are made for horses and vehicles.

•Public meetings are to be held at different points throughout the county at an early date for the purpose of giving Glengarry better roads. A. W. Campbell, provincial road instructor, will address each meeting after first having inspected the roads, gravel pits, etc., in each district so that his advice will be more direct.

•Among the successful candidates who wrote at the PS Leaving Examinations this summer, we might mention Miss Ethel Grant of the Martintown Public School and Master Frank Henry McDougall of the Maxville School. Miss Grant obtained an aggregate of 888 marks the highest in the county, while the latter was second with 847.

NINETY YEARS AGO

•On Monday of this week a violent rain storm accompanied by thunder and lightning, visited the northern part of the county, rain falling uninterruptedly from 12 o'clock until 2 p.m. In quantity for the same space of time, it surpassed anything ever seen here, traffic being suspended as streets were turned into veritable rivers. Standing grain was hard hit and several farmers also report the loss of livestock from lightning.

•After a day of fierce heat, a cyclone struck Ottawa Sunday about six o'clock, doing damage to the extent of thousands of dollars.

•The province will receive about $1,200 in license fees from the Barnum and Bailey circus during its tour of Ontario.

•One of the best known citizens of the Country of Glengarry, in the person of J. T. Schell, ex-MP passed away on Saturday morning, July 29th, at the age of 65. Mr. Schell came to this county from Woodstock in 1882 and went into partnership with the late D. M. Macpherson of Lancaster in the manufacture of cheese boxes. The business grew until this firm was producing building materials, contractors' supplies and interior fittings from the public buildings and it may be said that with the growth of Mr. Schell's business began the growth of this town. A Liberal in politics, Mr. Schell represented this County at Ottawa from 1900 to 1908.

•The following pupils of the county made at least three-fourths of the full marks at the Entrance Examinations: Donald J. MacDonald, Bridge End; Duncan MacCuaig, Bainsville; Eva Bouchard and Marie Jeaurond, Alexandria; Barton MacCuaig, Bainsville, and Lillian Bathurst, Dalhousie.

Kenyon denies fund request

Kenyon township council at a recent meeting declined to donate financial assistance to two Ontario municipalities recently beset by natural disasters.

Both the city of Timmins, which suffered heavy flooding this spring, and the township of South Dumfries, hit by a devastating windstorm in May, had requested help from other municipalities.

Under present plans, all monies raised would be matched by provincial funds.

Council declined the requests on the basis of "tough economic times."

More work on the old township hall is being done by Yvon and Pierre to give a cleaner look to the new fire hall.

The firemen who had a dunking tank at the Glen Nevis social would like to thank the parish for allowing them to raise funds for this young organization.

They had a lot of fun while participating in a worthwhile cause.

We offer our sympathy to the family of Gaetan Dubeau who died suddenly last week at the young age of 48.

A funeral was held in Lancaster where St. Joseph church was filled with friends and family to express their feelings of sympathy and to help share the grief.

After the service, Gaetan and Yvette's son Marc stepped forward to pay tribute in a very touching speech followed by a poem to his dad.

I assure you that not only the ladies were wiping a tear when he finished.

What great courage you have shown Marc. May God bless your family.

WI family evening highlights talent of fiddlers and dancers

Glen Sandfield

by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

The Glengarry Gaelic Choir had been invited to sing in Cornwall at the Bandstand last Thursday evening, but even though there was a most encouraging crowd in attendance the on-coming storm proved to be too much of a threat to the expensive electronic audio equipment and the concert was postponed until this Wednesday evening, Aug. 21 at 7 p.m.

Some of the choir members had the opportunity of talking to the disappointed people in the audience, many of whom said that they will be on hand on Wednesday night.

One couple were travelling, however, and will have returned home to the USA by this week but they said that they had really been looking forward to hearing the Gaelic Choir.

Sunday morning worship services For Aug. 25 will be held at 10 a.m. in Glen Sandfield United Church and at 11:15 a.m. in East Hawkesbury United Church, with Rev. Peter Praamsma.

The McCrimmon WI Branch held its annual Family Evening at Laggan School on Thursday evening, Aug. 15, and the people arrived amid much thunder and lightening. Those who braved the grim looking cloud scape that night seemed well pleased to have come. The program included some excellent performances, and there was a splendid variety of presentations. Greta MacDonald, McCrimmon WI president, acted as MC.

The crowd enjoyed fiddle tunes played by The Glengarry Fiddlers who were accompanied by Lloyd MacCuaig, Kenton McBean who was accompanied by Clara MacLeod, Ashley MacLeod was accompanied by her father Ian MacLeod and he played the fiddle as well.

Ashley step-danced, also, with her mother Karen MacLeod at the piano while her father, Ian MacLeod played the fiddle.

Highland dancing was performed by Lindsay Howes who danced the sword dance and the fling. The Laggan Square Dancers danced with Ross MacGillivray calling the sets.

The Cummings Sisters Vera and Margaret and Jessie MacDonald sang several songs, with a bit of interesting choreography. Lorna Chapman sang several songs as well.

Congratulations to Nancy Campbell, who won the quilt draw. A light luncheon was provided after the concert.

The members of the Glengarry Gaelic Choir were honored to have have been asked to participate in the touching wedding ceremony of Mitch Leblanc and Rev. Jim McVeigh in the Presbyterian Church in Dunvegan on Saturday evening, Aug. 17.

Friends and members of the St. Columba Presbyterian Church, Kirk Hill, joined the Dunvegan members for the service.

Anne McKenna accompanied the choir and Clara MacLeod accompanied Kenton McBean's fiddle selection.

After communion had been celebrated, everyone adjourned to the lawn at the manse for refreshments and cake.

The couple left by car that evening for New Brunswick and points east, with Newfoundland as their ultimate destination, for their honeymoon.

The prayers and good wishes of the choir, the two congregations and the whole community went with them on their trip.

Colorful balloon sets down in St. Raphael's area hay field

St. Raphael's

by Serge Dreimanis

Balloon festivals: When you look up at large, pear-shaped, gas inflated balloons coasting slowly and quietly overhead, don't you wish you were up there with the pilots?

Last week was an exciting one for all of us in and around St. Raphael's. One of these balloons, called "One More Color", piloted by Mary Ann Stevens of Ottawa, landed safely in a hay field across from the home of Thomas and Mildred O'Connor.

The pilot, the deflated balloon and all ancillary equipment were picked up, shortly after landing, by a van and trailer. All that was left behind, after this exciting event, was a bottle of wine and two glasses by the operators in grateful appreciation for the use of the O'Connors' property.

Two other balloons, participating in this year's Cornwall Festival, landed on the property of Lilian and Orey St. Onge near Glen Roy. One of these was operated by Gerry Lockyer and the other by Carol Connolly, both of Ottawa.

Orey and Lilian St. Onge can now after all the agitation, settle down and enjoy two bottles of wine also left behind by the balloonists.

On Saturday, Aug. 17, members of the Brown House Circle discovered to their dismay, that their gas barbecue and two propane gas tanks had been stolen from a locked storage shed near the parish hall.

Constable Phillips of the OPP Detachment of Lancaster was notified immediately and given all available information, which could be helpful in recovering the stolen items.

Only 36 hours later the OPP informed us that the stolen barbecue and two gas tanks had been found by the children of Paul and Dianne Mongeon.

Now, after having been properly identified by Rene Roy, a member of the Brown House Circle, the stolen items are tucked away at a safe but secret location.

The Brown House Circle wishes to thank the Ontario Provincial Police of Lancaster, the Mongeon family and Rene Roy for their swift, efficient cooperation.

Betty (O'Shea) and Cameron McDonald of the 7th Concession of Lancaster are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary on Aug. 24.

Betty is well known in the area for her active involvement in the community. Now a retired teacher, she is with the Women's Institute, the CWL, the Brown House Circle and does volunteer work.

Cameron is equally well known for his involvement in sports (lacrosse, hockey, baseball, hunting) and as a successful farmer.

Together they have brought up a remarkable family, who invites friends, neighbors and relatives to a celebration on Sunday, Aug. 25, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the parish hall in St. Raphael's.

All of us in this community are congratulating Betty and Cameron on this occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary and wishing them health and happiness in the future.

I am not expected to report in this column about the 185th Williamstown Fair. This has already been competently done by my colleague, Sue Harrington.

May I mention briefly, however, the success achieved by the three Horticultural Societies of Cornwall, Martintown and Williamstown at their booth in the "Agricultural Awareness" building?

This unqualified success is due entirely to the hard work of many volunteer gardeners from all three societies.

To all of them I extend my sincere thanks for a job well done. Thank you also to the administration of the fair for their cooperation; and in particular to Joan MacDonald.

The weekend of Aug. 17 was a very special in St. Raphael's. The Iona Reunion took place on that weekend, bringing together graduates from near and far.

We will report to you about the reunion in greater detail next week.

Another important historic event on that Sunday was the opening of the gates to the Ruins of the church of St. Raphael's.

Approximately 400 parishioners and Ionians took part in a solemn mass on a beautiful sunny day within the historic ruins of this beloved church.
