Local Man's Relatives Narrowly Escape Hun Bombs

Rev. G. M. Smith received a letter last week from a sister living in south-west London which brought the reality of the German Air attacks very close to home. The letter said in part "Our Aunt and Uncle's home was completely wrecked when a bomb fell on the house and exploded in the front room downstairs. The only thing which was left intact in the house was an old clock which had been in the family for over a hundred years. When Aunt and Uncle were taken from the wreckage the worst they had suffered was a bad shaking up. The sister went on to say, "We ourselves are constantly on the alert for the sound of approaching German Planes after the siren has sounded. When they come too close for comfort, we all dive for the big board under the stairs. At night we sleep on the floor on a mattress with a bed spring with another mattress on it, suspended over our heads on some of the living room furniture. The whole family has escaped injury so far, "let's hope our luck holds out."

Warner-Laurin

A very quiet wedding was solemnized on Thursday evening, October 31st, in the rectory of St. Mary's Church, Morrisburg, when Rev. Father R. J. Coyle, Parish Priest, united in marriage, Miss Mary Helen Irene Laurin, second daughter of Mrs. Leo Laurin, and the late Mr. Laurin, of Morrisburg, and Thomas Isaiah Warner, son of Mrs. Ella Warner, and the late Mr. Frank Warner, of Cornwall.

Witnesses were Miss Mildred Cameron, of Kingston, and Arthur Laurin, brother of the bride.

Williamsburg Couple Mark 52nd Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Beckstead well known and highly esteemed residents of Williamsburg village received numerous messages of congratulations and good wishes from their many friends on Wednesday, October 30, on the occasion of their 52nd wedding anniversary. Mrs. Beckstead was before her marriage, Miss Emma Catherine Strader, eldest daughter of the late John Strader and Mary Reddick, early settlers of Matilda Township.

On October 30, 1888, she was united in marriage to James Duncan Beckstead, son of the late Aaron Beckstead and his wife, Margaret McMillan, pioneers of Williamsburg Township. The marriage ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. W. B. Reynolds, the Methodist minister of Dundela Church. The bridesmaid was her sister, Elizabeth Strader, now Mrs. John Adams of Brinston, and the groom was attended by Harry Foster of Rowena.

Of this union, two daughters were born, Mrs. Jessie B. Seekings, at the home of her parents, and Mrs. E. C. Merkley (Ethel) at Toronto. The couple have seven grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Beckstead have been residents of Williamsburg for the past 50 years and are held in high esteem by a large circle of friends who join in wishing that they be spared for years yet, to enjoy many more years of health and happiness together.

Popular Magistrate Resigns

The Attorney-General's Department announces that it has accepted the resignation of Magistrate John McCormick, of Winchester, after he had served as Magistrate in Dundas and Grenville Counties for a period of 13 years.

During his term of office, Mr. McCormick dispensed jusice without fear or favor, for minor law infractions. He held his duties very highly and at the same time maintained an attitude so calm, so human, that even those on whom he was obliged to pass sentence, loved and respected him.

The Department will go a long way before they find another man to adequately fill the place left vacant by the resignation of Magistrate John McCormick.

The retiring Magistrate's many friends here will join those throughout all Eastern Ontario in wishing him health and happineess for years to come.

Believes Air Training Plan Will Be Shortened

Morrisburg and district Canadian Club membership turned out in the largest numbers of the season Wednesday night to hear an address by Wing Commander Metcalfe, of the R.A.F., who has lately been attached to the Royal Canadian Air Force. Speaking on the British Commonwealth Joint Air Training Plan, Commander Metcalfe said that it was to have been accomplished in a certain length of time. It was his opinion he said, that it would now be accomplished in half that time. He outlined the different steps in the training of pilots, air observers, air gunners, and wireless operators.

He could not state, he said, just how many men would be trained by the plan, but he thought it would be "enough." For the present, we must develop and keep on developing our air power. The British are taking the nightly bombing of their country camly and resolutely. He said that the German fighter pilots are "good stuff", and warned against underestimating the enemy against whom we are arrayed. The help which is being tendered by the second great democracy in the world, the United States, said Mr. Metcalfe, is a heartening thing to every Englishman, no matter in what part of the Empire he is. He closed with a tribute to U.S. Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, who recently returned to the United States from the United Kingdom.

The speaker was introduced by the club president, Charles Harkness, of Brinston, and the thanks of the club was tendered by Mr. Eardley S. Coones, J.P., of Morrisburg.

The Ladies of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church provided the banquet on this occasion.

Mrs. Wm. H. Allison

The death occurred on Friday night of Mrs. William H. Allison, one of Morrisburg's oldest and most respected residents, aged 89 years. Mrs. Allison, who had lived in Morrisburg for the past 60 years, was a faithful member of St. James Anglican church and always took a leading part in its activities. She was a life member of the Women's Guild and the W.A., was one of the most enthusiastic knitters for the Red Cross Society and at the time of her death, had a pair of soldier's socks almost completed. Mrs. Allison, whose maiden name was Frances Olds, was ill but a short time prior to her death.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Hugh A. Wilson, of Valleyfield; Mrs. George A. Godfrey, of Montreal; Miss Mary and Winifred Allison, of Morrisburg, and a grandson, Hugh Wilson, of the R. C. A., Kingston; one scister, Miss Charlotte E. Olds, of Morrisburg.

The funeral was be held to St. James Church Monday with the rector, Rev. G. Oliver Davies, officiating. Interment was made in the Anglican cemetery. An unusually large number of beautiful floral tributes were received.

New License Plates Go on Sale Nov. 12

Car and truck permits and license plates for 1941 will be placed on sale Tuesday, November 12th, more than one month and a half before the 1940 markers expire, according to an announcement by J. P. Bickell, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, Department of Highways.

Department officials recalled the warning of Premier Hepburn last February in his budget address that the government would refuse to grant extension of time for the securing of 1941 plates. At that time he said that henceforth licenses and permits were good for the calander year only.

Mr. Bickell, in his announcement, said "strong representations had been made to the Department by intending purchasers of new motor vehicles, particularly new motor trucks, many of which were required immediately, for use in the transportation of war materials and in connection with wartime projects.

TRAINEE SENTENCED

Charles Ernest Marcell, Chesterville, a trainee at camp No. 30, was Friday morning sentenced to one month in the counties pail for the theft of a carburetor. He appeared October 23 and pleaded not guilty. On hearing of the evidence he was remanded until Friday. The sentence dates from the day of his arrest. Marcell took the carburetor from a vehicle at the camp belonging to a contractor and transferred it to his own car.

LYNOTT-CASSELMAN WEDDING

In the rectory of St. Joheph's church, Ottawa, at 8.15 o'clock Tuesday evening the marriage of Miss Gertrude Muriel Casselman, daughter of Howard Casselman, of Morrisburg, and the late Mrs. Casselman, to Richard Joseph Lynott, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Lynott, of Ottawa, was solemnized by Rev. E. Connolly, O.M.I. A recertion was held at the home of the bridgroom's parents and later the couple left by train for Kirkland Lake, where they will take up residence.

Saving Ontario's Natural Resources

(No. 14)
By G. C. TONER
Ontario Federation of Anglers

TWO VITAL LESSONS

The conservation of Ontario's natural resources is a vital matter to the people of the Province but it is as well to remember that other regions of the country and the world have even more pressing problems caused by depletion. Professor P. B. Sears, an authority on land erosion, speaking at Philadelphia, mentioned some of these problems. Highly developed civilizations in all regions of the world have depleted their resources until in time the civilization itself disappeared. Floods in China, deserts in the lands around the Mediterranean, reversion to jungles of the central villages of Mexico are in part traceable to bad management just as our western Dustbowl was caused by the rancher, the sod of the short grass prairie.

GET TOGETHER ON IT

An important point brought out by Professor Sears is the way in which separate small groups, attacking sectors of the conservation problem, are now coming together in a unified effort to stop depletion and restore the countryside. The anglers were only concerned with restoring their fishing. Hunters wanted more game. Foresters were protecting the woods and planting the trees. But each group has found that the limits of their work passed over into other phases of conservation. The fishermen now realize that they cannot protect the fish unless they stop soil erosion and pollution; the forester and hunter are finding that wild life and forests are linked together.

These two lessons are important to all naturalists and conservationists. We must know the history of other regions and of other times so that we can avoid their mistakes. We must unite our efforts; the farmer and the city dweller, the naturalist, the hunter and the angler, attacking depletion as a whole and restoring the woods, the waters, the soil and the wildlife, if our civilization is not to vanish as did Rome and Greece.

Ships built of iron have been recorded as lasting for nearly 100 years. One built in 1848 and still in use has engines dating from 1869.

"MIXED FARMING" IN WEST?

"Why are you such improvident wheat miners," the Lethbridge Herald says that the East asks in effect of the Western prairie farmers, "and why don't you raise more stock and why generally don't you go in more for mixed farming?" The answer of the Lethbridge paper is that the Alberta farmer, at any rate, is not merely not an exclusive wheat man but that he actually, in proportion, raises far more hogs than Ontario does. The relevant comparison is that Alberta, with a population of 800,000, raised 1,371,000 hogs last year while Ontario, with a population of 3,000,000, raised 1,997,000. The Lethbridge Herald insists that it is hasty assumption that Alberta could relieve the present glut of Canadian wheat by feeding 100 million bushels of wheat to hogs and raising 6,000,000 hogs. The trouble is that it would be just as hard for Canada to market 6,000,000 hogs as it is for Canada to market 500 million bushels of wheat.

Canada's Prime Minister Congratulates The Navy

Visiting eastern defence stations, Prime Minister King took the opportunity to congratulate the officers and men of Canada's navy on their splendid work. He is shown here inspecting the officers of a destroyer at anchor in an eastern port.

THE WAR-WEEK—Commentary on Current Events

IS THE TIDE TURNING IN BATTLE OF BRITAIN?

The coming winter will not see the defeat of Great Britain, Sir Norman Angell, well-known English economist, declared in an interview at Boston last week. The destruction caused by air raids on Great Britain during the winter, he felt, would be offset by assistance from overseas — from Canada, the United States, Australia and India.

Britain Wins First Round

That the defending forces had won the first round in the Battle of Britain was becoming increasingly evident last week. The R. A. F., while maintaining mastery of the home skies was carrying the war with steadily mounting strength to enemy territory; the Royal Navy controlled the Channel and continued to enforce a strict blockade of Axis-held countries fronting on the North Sea, the Atlantic and the Mediterranean; the British people were resisting the savage attacks of the Luftwaffe with magnificent spirit; North America was feeding Great Britain an endless stream of planes, ammunition and other war material.

Even the Russians admitted that the British were more than holding their own. Red Star, official organ of the Soviet Army, declared that Germany's air offensive against Britain had failed. The paper said that not only were the British continuing to defend themselves but were able "effectively" to carry the battle to Germany.

No Invasion Till Spring?

Vincent Sheean, world-famed foreign correspondent who wrote "Personal History," though frank in an opinion that Great Britain would have to have more help in war materials, said that he believed actual invasion of England would not occur until spring and that the people could withstand the air barrage.

Reports of three separate invasion attempts by the Germans which had been beaten off by the R.A.F. appeared in all the newspapers last week. Featured most prominently was the story of a big attempt on Sept. 16th, the day after Goering flew over London.

Big Offensive Planned

Talk of a coming "great offensive" by the British was heard last week from Prime Minister Churchill and three Cabinet Ministers, (Lord Lloyd, the Colonial Secretary, A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, Aircraft Production Minister Lord Beaverbrook). This raised questions in everyone's mind: Would the offensive come on land, in the air, or by sea? Would it involve reconquering the entire continent of Europe by fighting Hitler and the Nazi war machine off the map? Would it wait until France, Belgium, Holland, Norway, countries full of grave unrest and widespread sabotage, turned against their masters and tried to throw off the Nazi yoke? Would it begin with large-scale military operations in the Axis rear — in the eastern Mediterranean?

Crisis Nears In Mediterranean

Events appeared to be shaping that way in the Near East last week. A British diplomatic offensive was suggested by the meeting in Istanbul of the British Ministers to Yugoslavia, Turkey and Bulgaria, considered as a prelude to forming a new Balkan bloc to stop an Axis drive southward; the London Times urged in an editorial that Britain seize Greek naval bases and strengthen her position at the enemy's expense; the visit of British War Secretary Anthony Eden to the Near East, seen as part of an attempt to promote Egypt's intervention in the conflict against Italy and create a Balkan-Arabic bloc against the Axis, obviously was worrying Germany and Italy.

Turkey's Attitude Vital

The crux of the Balkan-Mediterranean situation lay in the attitude of Turkey, and by reversion, to the attitude of the Soviet diplomats from whom Turkish leaders appeared to be taking their cue. The trend seemed unmistakably to be towards stiff resistance by Turkey to the demands of Germany and Italy. With Turkey in the war, Axis plans in the Mediterranean could very easily go sour.

Gibraltar and Dakar

But Hitler, as we have all learned by now, is a master of the feint. With everyone's attention concentrated on the eastern Mediterranean, he could hardly choose a better moment in which to make a thrust through Spain (a whole German division was reported to be poised there) to blitzkrieg Gibraltar and close the door of the western Mediterranean with the help of the Vichy government, once France was persuaded to re-enter the war. Thence on to Dakar . . Colonel Frank Knox, Secretary of the U. S. Navy, envisioned such a possibility when he declared last week that the fall of Gibraltar would be of "immeasurable" importance to the United States if it should result in a German move down the west coast of Africa to the vicinity of Dakar, which is only 1,600 miles from American shores.

Japan Backing Down?

The Far Eastern situation appeared to have quieted down somewhat. Several high diplomats in Tokio, informants said, told their home governments last week that Japan's reaction to growing British-American solidarity in the Far East indicated that the Japanese felt they had lost the initiative in the Pacific, at least for the time being, and would delay any plans they might have had for early action in the Netherlands East Indies and elsewhere in Southeast Asia. At the same time, German agents all over the East were reported to be working to foment an open cash between Japan and Britain and the United States . . . and the Burma Road, China's lifeline, just re-opened by Britain, was bombed repeatedly. . .

Gandhi's "Last Campaign"

In India, the 72-year-old wizened Gandhi, leader of millions, inaugurated an Indian Nationalist disobedience campaign which he hoped would effect a reconciliation "not only between Britain and India but also between the warring nations of the earth." (Reconciliation between Britain and India to come, in his eyes, only when the independence of India is granted). Describing it as the "last campaign" of his life, Gandha stated that he did not expect it to result in his arrest, since the imprisonment of such a popular idol would embarrass the authorities.

Election Race Hot

On this side of the globe, the U. S. elections retained top position in the news. The race was getting hotter, the margin between Roosevelt and Wilkie narrowing hourly, as the big day was only half-a-week away. For the first time, this column considered the election of Willkie as a possibility worthy of serious consideration. Was President Roosevelt scared when he took the stump for the last rounds of the 1940 political battle?

The contest to the south of us doubtless drew a great deal more attention than it was worth. The outcome could not matter very materially to Canada — nor to Great Britain, since both candidates were pledged to give her all aid, short of war. Nevertheless the presidential race was an exciting thing for anybody to watch.

Toward the end of the week the Dominion was becoming more and more concerned with the business of Parliament just about to convene, prorogue and reconvene. All parties made ready to jump into the debate on the address in reply to the Throne Speech . . . Defense Minister Ralston postponed a trip overseas, War Services Minister Gardiner hurried back from Britain for the opening.

Mr. Gardiner's filling of the post of Minister of Agriculture, as well as the war Services Ministry, was viewed as unsatisfactory in many quarters of the Dominion. Farm conferences meeting in the west called for his removal, citing his failure to do anything in the face of the drastic wheat situation . . . When asked if Premier Godbout of Quebec might be named to succeed Gardiner, Prime Minister King smiled last week, and did not commit himself.

How Do You Cough?

Nature intended the cough as a means of expelling congestion from the breathing system, and there is a right and a wrong way to cough, a medical authority tells us. The correct way is to fill the lungs with air, then suddenly expel it. The air should be drawn through the nose, filling the stomach and then the chest. If it is admitted through the mouht, it is not pre-warmed, and may therefore contract the passage and drag the obstruction deeper into the lungs. To cough correctly, take a full, deep breath through the nose and then cough with great force. That this method is effective was demonstrated by a medical man who, with one correct effort, expelled a pea which had lodged in his lung.

Some Clouds Are Nine Miles High

Cirrus, Tiny Fleecy Clouds, Float at Average Height of 30,000 Feet

Until the invention of the aeroplane few people troubled their heads about clouds except in so far as they affected the weather. Today they are studied with the utmost care, their size, density, and height. Cirrus, the tiny fleecy clouds seen only in fine weather and often known as mare's tails, float at an average height of 30,000 feet. The greatest height at which they have ever been measured is 43,800 feet.

THICKEST ONES ARE LOWEST

The middle clouds, called cirrocumulus, move at heights between 10,000 and 23,000 feet, while the lower and heavier clouds are usually between 3,000 and 7,000 feet.

The thickest clouds are the great cumulus or thunder clouds, which usually have a flattish base and towering, mountain-like summits. The lower part of such a cloud may be only 4,000 feet above earth's surface, but the top is 16,000 feet, giving a thickness of about two and a half miles. Rain cloud hangs low, its average height above the sea being only a couple of thousand feet. The height of clouds is easily obtained by means of photography, two cameras being used at once.

New Car Markers Ready December 1

Production of Ontario motor markers for 1941 is being slightly delayed due to a shortage of sheet metal, officials of the provincial secretary's department said last week. The markers, however, will be ready for issuance about December 1, or before.

Steel mills are giving priority to war orders, resulting in the work at the Ontario Reformatory being delayed, but officials said there will be sufficient material to complete the markers on time.

The longest period of world peace since the beginning of the eighteenth century was the thirty-nine years following the defeat of Napoleon in 1815.

Hallowe'en Party Entertainment

Here Are Some Ideas: Bobbing For Apples, Reading Your Fate In the Fire and Other Traditional Games

Of all the festivals of the year there is none more enjoyed by young people than All Hallow Eve, because it is an informal frolic where best clothes and company manners have been left at home.

The invitations should be a little out of the ordinary—telephone messages or jolly little notes, and the more wierd the better. Cards adorned with witches, black cats or owls, bearing the words "come and learn your fate on Hallowe'en at the home of—" are appropriate. The following verse may also be used: "At our house on Hallowe'en your presence is requested. There signs and omens will be seen, and fortunes will be tested."

Very often a big kitchen is the scene of the festivity as here all the apples and flour and water tricks can be played without much damage to the surroundings. The room may be decorated in the usual Harvest Home style with pumpkins, strings of corn, dried red peppers, autumn leaves or any spoils of garden or woodland. Candles stuck in bottles may have black cat shades. Black kid gloves stuffed with wet bran should be placed where guests will come in contact with them, while skulls and long bony hands may be cut from black paper and hung from walls and chandeliers. Paper cloth and napkins with appropriate designs may be bought in the shops, also inexpensive favors, as horseshoes, rabbit-fobs, four-leaf clover, black cats, witches, brooms and wishbones.

FORTUNE TELLING

Among all the Hallowe'en games the following will afford much merriment: Fortune Telling by Saucers — seven small saucers are placed in a row, their contents respectively a bit of scarlet cloth, a handful of moss, a scrap of blue cloth, a branch of thorn, a cord tied in a double knot, some clean water and a twig with forked ends. The person whose fortune is to be told is blindfolded and touches a saucer with the left hand. If he pulls out a handful of moss, a life of luxury! Thorn, unhappy life; red cloth, the army, military husband; blue cloth, the navy, a naval husband; forked stick, marry a widow or widower; clean water, single blessedness; double knot, marriage near.

Another game not so time honored as many others, is played with a tin dipper and a washtub filled with water. The hostess sprinkles a handful of soup paste letters on the surface of the water. The player closes his eyes and scoops up some water. If he or she gathers in any letters they are the initials of the future life mate.

FATE IN FIRE

An open fire adds much to the success of the Hallowe'en party, because the nut test can be tried. Two hickory nuts, one named for the maiden and the other for the lover, are laid in the fire side by side. If they burn quickly a happy courtship and marriage is assured, but if they fly apart there is trouble ahead. Another nut test determines the faithfulness of a lover. Three nuts are named and placed side by side in the ashes. The nut that cracks stands for an unfaithful lover, the one that blazes bespeaks a high regard for the maiden, but the one that burns steadily she will wed.

Andy HARDY MEETS DEBUTANTE

Adapted from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture

Beatrice Faber

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER THREE

Everybody was assembled in the living room that evening and Andy had the feeling that Dad was about to make some portentous announcement. When Dad got that funny crooked smile on his face something was in the wind.

Then suddenly, everybody noticed it was seven o'clock and Marian wasn't home.

"Why don't we call the police station?" Andy asked brightly. "Or the hospitals?" He had an even better idea. "Or the morgue?"

"Andrew!" his mother cried out in horror.

Just then the door opened and Marian burst in. She was obviously on the verge of hysteria. Incoherently, she told them what had happened. She'd run into Aldrich Brown, Junior, just released from his sentence of one month in jail which Dad had given him for a third offense of reckless driving. He had said he was turning over a new leaf and begged her to come for a drive.

Out of sympathy she had agreed. "But at the Inn where we had lunch," she said tearfully, "he insisted on taking a lot of drinks. When we got back in the car he drove all over the country, ninety miles an hour and then—near Belleville — he passed out cold and I had to drive back."

"WE'RE ALL GOING TO NEW YORK"

Grimly, the Judge took Andy outside where Aldrich was slouched stupidly over the wheel. The Judge's voice was deadly quiet as he said, "Andrew, when anyone laughingly tells you what an amusing time they had being drunk — he pointed sternly at Aldrich—"this is what they really mean. Does it strike you as being funny?"

Andy looked at the grotesque figure of the drunken man. "No sir," he said in a scared whisper.

"Take a good look at him," the Judge went on. "He can't see or hear or speak. This is man, that glorious creature, touched with divinity, capable of great music, great poetry, great leadership — man. With a bottle of whiskey inside him."

Completely subdued for once, Andy said, "It certainly is awful."

Now the Jduge resumed his normal manner. "Come on Andy, we'll straighten him out, best we can, then get him home to bed as secretly as possible."

Andy's eyes bulged a few minutes later as the Judge brought out a pitcher of ice water and flung it into Aldrich's face. "No siree Dad," he gasped. "I'm pretty sure I ain't ever gonna drink."

The job of depositing Aldrich in his bed had been accomplished without even his folks suspecting and now the Judge faced his little family once again in the living room. "Well," he said pleasantly, "to make a long story short we're all going to New York City for a visit."

"I CAN'T GO!"

Everyone cried out in delight. Why that was wonderful! Marvelous!

All but Andy. He was utterly aghast. "New York!" After the way he'd gone on about Daphne Fowler?

"Yes," his father said briskly. "Seems I've got to lick a big New York law firm. They're saying the Trust Fund that Cyrus Carvel left for the Orphanage is invalid and I'm out to prove it isn't. How's that sound, Andrew?"

Andy moistened his lips and looked at his Dad wild-eyed. "But — I — can't — go — to — New York."

The Judge and all the others stared at him. "Will miracles never cease? Why?"

Andy raged, "What do we have to go to New York for? Why, in New York vice and corruption flourish rampant. Any newspaper'll tell you that. New York's —a sink of — of — well, it's a sink anyway. And I'm not gonna go. I wouldn't be safe."

There was a confused silence. No one could understand it. The Judge said carefully, "You may never get another chance to see New York."

MEDLEY OF REQUESTS

I have had so many different types of letters and kinds of requests the last two weeks that I decided I could give this week's column none other than the name chosen.

One request was for a "nut and date loaf using whole wheat flour," so I am giving you my favorite, which I use and I am sure you will like it.

Date and Nut Loaf

- 1¼ cups sifted flour (pastry)
- 1 cup whole wheat flour
- ½ teasp. each of nutmeg, cinnamon and ginger
- 2-3 teasp. salt
- ½ cup butter (or other shortening)
- 1 cup brown sugar (lightly packed)
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 level teaspoon baking soda
- 1 cup chopped pitted dates
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- 1 egg

Sift pastry flour, spices and salt—sift just 1 cup of flour, having the other ¼ cup ready—whole wheat flour varies in texture so, that 1 cup may be sufficient, but if it seems thin add the ¼ cup. Fold into pastry flour (sifted) spices and salt, the whole wheat flour. Cream shortening, add sugar and egg and beat well. Add buttermilk and soda — then fold in flour. — Lastly add the dates and nuts. Butter 3 round (lb. size) baking powder tins or molds of equal size. Steam for 1½ hrs. — then dry in moderate oven or bake for 1 hr. in a moderate oven.

Sausage En Casserole

- 1 lb. sausages
- Unpeeled apple (red) sections
- Brown sugar
- Chopped green pepper and onion
- 2 cups sifted flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons butter (or shortening)
- ¾ cup milk

Prick sausages well and cook until nicely browned all over. Coat apple sections thoroughly with brown sugar.

In casserole, which has been well greased, sprinkle pepper and onion (a little chopped celery may be added). Arrange apples and sausage in alternate layers.

Measure flour and sift with baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening gradually, add milk to make a soft dough. Knead, shape for casserole and cover sausages and apples. Bake in hot oven, 35 minutes.

Salmon Salad (Lobster or Tuna may be used)

- ¼ cup macaroni
- 1 green pepper
- 1 medium sized onion (chopped)
- ½ lb. tin salmon
- Salad dressing
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2 tablespoons pimento

Boil macaroni in salted water until tender, then drain — after rinsing with hot water. Cool. Seed and chop pepper. Chop onion and add to macaroni. Remove skin from salmon, retaining the liquid. Crush the bones — then add liquid and fish (which has been flaked) to the macaroni mixture. Fold in thick salad dressing. Serve on lettuce; sliced tomatoes and cucumbers are delightful accompaniments.

Chocolate Pudding

- 1½ ounces unsweetened chocolate
- 2 cups cold milk
- ½ cup white corn syrup
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- 2½ tablespoons corn starch
- 1-8 teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup cold milk
- 1-3 teaspoon vanilla

Cut up chocolate and place in double boiler with the two cups milk. Heat until chocolate melts, beat with rotary heater. Add sugar and syrup and heat to boiling point. Blend corn starch with the ¼ cup milk, add the salt and stir in slowly with chocolate mixture.

Stir and cook until mixture has thickened, heating frequently to keep smooth. Cover and cook until raw flavor of starch disappears. Remove from heat, add vanilla and cool. Serve with whipped cream.

Witches' Song

Down a path of dim sky
On dark Hallowe'en.
See a flock of leaves fly
In a colored sheen.
Riding on a night breeze
Through the dancing throng
Witches mid the bare trees
Chant a magic song:
"Let the yellow leaves go
Floating through the town;
Puff! I burn a gray leaf,
Puff! I burn a brown,
Only keep a red leaf,
(Heed the song we sing)
Hold a red leaf high, dear,
It will beckon Spring!"

TOWNSHIP COUNCIL WILL SEEK LONG TERM; LOCAL FEELING TO BE TESTED IN VOTE

Morrisburg citizens will be asked to vote, at the annual municipal elections in December, on the question of a two-year term for members of the municipal council. It is therefore, fitting that we stop now, and think what this could mean to us or to any other municipality. It could, and it very possiby might, put us on the financial 'spot'. This is no scare story. Nor is it a condemnation of the work of this year's council. In fact, we understand that under the present administration, the municipal debt has been reduced. But we have no assurance that next year's council will be as good as this one has been. Voting for a longer term for council members is like giving out a blank cheque. No hard headed business man or farmer would do that. A vote against the measure is a vote for the retention of democracy in a world that is leaning daily more to the policy of centralization.

When you mark your ballot in December, cast your vote to retain the priveleges granted you in the British North America Act. That act gave responsible government to the men of Macdonald's and Tupper's day, and it guarantees a local responsible government to Canadians today. Don't sell your birthright, for which your ancestors and mine worked, for a few, a very few cents. It is darn poor business.

The Williamsburg Township Council has decided not to submit to the people of the Township the question of two year terms for councillors.

That means, briefly, that unless the council receives a petition signed by five per cent or more of the electors, the council elected in December will hold ofice for two years or for the duration of the war. That might or might not be a good thing for the Township. A good council, left in office for a longer period of time, would certainly be able to further the interests of the Township, particularly at the Counties Council board. But to offset that argument for the long term, is the very simple one that, if annual elections were held, and a good council were elected this year, they could easily be given an acclamation next year, and the cost of an election would still be saved. The next meeting of the Township Council is on the 15th of November. If the council are presented with the petition mentioned above at or before that time, they will have to submit the question to a vote of the electors. If not, the long term becomes automatically effective.

Here is a test for those who still love democratic institutions. It should be met with a firm resolution to preserve those institutions, and to hand them on to the next generation as they were handed to us. The autocratic ambitions of the present Queens Park administration should not be allowed to seep into our local municipal government.

THE WOP IN GREECE

Adolf Hitler's greasy pal, Signor Mussolini, feeling the taste of red blood in his mouth, has plunged recklessly into war with another little peace loving nation. The Greeks, whose land this demented child killer, plunderer and rapist has invaded have already been a thrifty and industrious lot, minding their own business, looking after their own interests, with no territorial ambitions outside their own country, now, because of the crime of maintaining civil relations with the British, they are, so the Italian Premier threatens, to feel he weight of the Italian boot.

Looking over Mussolini's chances of success, we allies are inclined to regard them as very slight. To date, the only victory credited to the Italian war machine is against a bunch of defenseless and unorganized negroes in the Ethiopian campaign. And even at the time of that infamous slaughter, Il Duce's men had their hands full of fighting. The Greeks, on the other hand, are highly organized. They have several thousands of crack troops, a small but modern navy, and an equally small but modern air force. They have air-raid alarms, and know what precautions to take against aerial warfare. Moreover, the Greeks have been assured of active help by Britain. The British fleet has already been in action against the Italians in the Aegean and Ionian Seas, and that our fleet will continue to hold supremacy there, no one doubts for one moment.

Mussolini may make some advances into Greece, but it will be no Ethopian campaign. He will not find the Greeks attempting to meet modern aerial warfare with spears and bows and arrows, as did the poor ignorant natives in Africa.

It is quite within the realm of possibility that Mussolini's plunge into the Balkans may be a favourable turning point for the British in the war.

HANSON SPEAKS OUT-OF-TURN

Conservative leader Hanson, is being chastised --- and rightly so --because of a speech he made recently in Charlottetown, P.E.I. Here are extracts from his address:

"I may be interned for stating it, but I know it is true. Canada is going ahead with the training of 10,000 British airmen over and above the Empire air training scheme. I have it from the Air Ministry, myself. Three hundred of these young British trainees are in Kingston (Ont.) now. You haven't seen anything of that in the newspapers, have you? I'll tell you why. When the arrangements were concluded the censorship department, which is government controlled, sent out what is called a press censorship directive warning to the papers of Canada to make no mention of the fact.

"The Prime Minister made one of the saddest mistakes any man has ever made when he refused to consider even the suggestion that England should send 10,000 airmen to be trained in this country at the expense of the British government. I say that this refusal, in the light of subsequent events, was the biggest crime against our war effort."

One can but conclude that Mr. Hanson's outburst was solely for political reasons. He apparently decided that the Charlottetown speech was an ideal opportunity to slam Prime Minister King, over the latter's inability or lack of farightedness to see in 1938 - 39, what has become a reality today as pertaining Canada's air training program. In our opinion Mr. Hanson has broken faith. Being leader of the opposition in federal parliament he is in a position to receive secret information that only this country's leaders and diplomats should know, and which should be closely censored and guarded against becoming the possession of enemies and traitors.

Mr. Hanson has defied censorship. Whether he has given much information to the enemy may be doubtful, but then it may be so. He has been unwise, and he has no right to divulge information which others, including newspapers, were prohibited from publishing. In the first place it was not the federal government that insisted upon censorship of the present air-training plan in Canada, but the censorship of its development was insisted upon by the British government. Perhaps the information would soon leak out, but that is not the question. Mr. Hanson has placed himself in the position of and brands himself as one who should not be trusted with censored information relating to Canada's and Britain's war effort. Frankly, we think the censor board in Ottawa is taking its responsibilities too seriously and carrying the banning of war news and information to extreme, nevertheless Mr. Hanson should be more than chastised for this outburst which is not befitting to a man who holds his position of responsibility in our government. --- Smith Falls Record News

Professor Arthur L. Phelps, of United College, University of Manitoba, Winnipeg, who last year broadcast a very successful series of talks over the CBC National network dealing with the nine provinces of Canada, will soon be heard again.

His series last year was called: "This Canad". The forthcoming ones will be under the title "These United States". There will be ten broadcasts in all, to be carried throughout the United States and Canada by the Mutual Broadcasting System and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation networks each Tuesday from 7.30 to 7.45 p.m. EDST, commencing on November 5th.

This summer, Mr. Phelps made another journey of discovery, one which took him zig-zagging over some 12 or 15,000 miles of the United States landscape. He talked to Tom, Dick, and Harry, editors, parsons, business and professional men, W.P.A. workers and directors, Kentucky mountaineers and negroes of the deep South.

Listeners who recall the series on "This Canada" will expect nothing formal or pretentious from Mr. Phelps, but rather an attempt to make observation, gossip and anecdote suggestive and sometimes strongly provocative. Political, artistic, economic, social and religious questions will not be ignored, but their significance and challenge will be implied, rather than handled directly. Under an appearance of discursive casualness, his impressions may aid in the developing of Canadian—American understanding.

Following last year's series, "This Canada" was published in book form At the completion of the new series, a similar book, called "These United States", will be made available to listeners by the CBC.

WANTS TO COME HOME

Who? Mitchell Hepburn to wit. By taking a man by the name of "Laurier" into his cabinet he wants to win back the Liberals who have turned against him for his treatment of Mackenzie King. When the Air Minister was recently in Western Ontario it was 'Hello Chubby.' The prodigal wants to come home for there's an election in the offing. Will he be welcomed? Will the fatted calf be on the banquet table? If so then the old King Liberals will have to swallow themselves much to their dislike and disgust.

Everywhere one goes throughout Ontario Hepburn appears to be a dead duck in Liberal circles. The old war horses shake their heads and say that they may vote for him but they will not work for him This means that the Hepburn candidate must paddle his own canoe.

This man Laurier is an absolute misfit as Minister of Mines, a position that has never had a qualified man in it since the days of the Hon. Charles McCrea. The two important cabinet positions in the Ontario government are those of Agriculture and Mines. The former is now well-filled, but to suppose this man Laurier from Ottawa can fill the latter is an absurdity. However, all he was wanted for was his name, but it will take more than this to bring the old Liberals back into the camp.--- Pembroke Bulletin.

LOSING THEIR SHIRTS

(Niagara Fall Review)

About all that Italians have to lose now are their shirts, for new decrees have been announced, imposing sleeveless shirts and legless pants (shorts) and hatless heads. Not much more remains to be given up for Mussolini and Hitler. If there had been no war, there would have been no British blockade and loss of covering as a result.

The greater the area under enemy control the more difficult becomes the Germans' police problem, and all signs point to them having plenty of trouble on their hands before winter is over.

A man in Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta, complains to a western paper about the prevalence of crime news and declares that during his whole lifetime he has "never" seen a fight between two men, or among more, never seen a man threaten another with a deadly or dangerous weapon, never been approached immorally, never known anyone who wasn't industrious, honest, friendly and neighborly." Reading between the lines, there seems to be an implication in it that the fellow doesn't get around to Calgary or any of those cow towns.

USE THE 'LEADER' WANT ADVTS THEY PAY FOR THEMSELVES.

Mother Nature in a destructive mood, can be particularly vicious, but in her vilest moments she is not much worse than a man-made organization whose Machiavellian actions of destruction, every working day, exercise a profound influence on the lives of Canadian citizens ..... and, paradoxically enough, all with the purpose of making everyday life safer for people in Canada and other countries.

"Destroy to save" is the motto of this organization, whose story of almost maniacal destruction goes back to the year 1892 when a young electrical engineer in the United States conceived the idea of advance testing of materials for fire hazard. He sold the idea to fire insurance underwriters who, with some hesitation, appropriated $350 to finance a small testing shop, an office and a helper or two.

The development of the idea sounds like a wild dream of Dante. Today, the result is an organization known as Underwriters Laboratories' Inc, which is actually asked by manufacturers to destroy and test their materials so that the public may be safeguarded. It does not make or manufacture anything; it sells nothing; it earns no profits; it pays no dividends, but its work has a direct bearing on the household of every Canadian between Sydney, Cape Breton and Victoria, B.C.

All it issues is a small tag bearing three words.....''Underwriters' Laboratories Inspected'' but before that tag can be attached to any article, be it curling iron, an electric machine, a steel safe, roofing material, garden hose, a baby incubator or an electric switch, that article must pass tests, to describe the severity of which there is hardly an adjective in the dictionary.

Working with the knowledge that carelessness is probably the greatest single cause of fires, it says to manufacturers, in effect, "Give your product such a margin of safety that, even if used dumbly or carlessly, it's still safe." As an instance, a Canadian housewife may leave an electric iron, fully heated, to answer the door bell and be detained so long that there is danger of fire. But the laboratories guard any excessive danger in that direction by refusing to pass such an iron until its safety factor has been increased to take care of such contingencies. And the list of equipment which the laboratories test, to make doubly sure that extra safety factor is there, comprises 391 pages of fine print in two columns with a supplement of 85 additional pages.

The laboratories test such a variety of articles that it would require a small book alone, to list them. But they include such things as fire protective appliances, sprinkler systems fire extinguishers, fire hose, safes, alarm systems.

They "fool" around with gasolene and motor engines so that automobiles can be and are made almost fool-proof. They set a miniature roof on fire, and even help it to burn fiercely by applying a wind machine in its direction.....all so that they may determine the degree of fire resistance in that material. They have the most ingenious machines for torturing, twisting and destroying all sorts of gadgets which are used in the office, the home or the factory. They will test a safe by filling it with papers, and then put in a gas fire furnace where the heat goes up to 2000 degrees, for one hour. When it comes out it is pulled up by block and tackle to a height of three stories and dropped onto a pile of bricks ..... simulating what might happen in a fire. But, that is not the end. If it passes that test it goes back into the furnace for another hour .....and all so that that particular type can have a small tag attached to it.

Incubators for chickens, permanent wave machines, tear-gas devices electrically-heated blankets, insecticides, refrigerators, just to mention only a few, are "put through the mill," and even when the samples have proved satisfactory the laboratories' work does not end there.

Articles approved, and entitled to use the tags, are listed. These lists are made available, in Canada, through "Board" companies and their associations such as the Canadian Underwriters' Association, through municipal inspectors, architects and professional engineers. In Canada, the "Board" companies' organizations keep close records of the number of tags sold to those entitled to use them..... and woe betide the individual or firm which misuses them because those tags are the guarantee of safety to the public.

Today, 47 years after the birth of the idea, the laboratories have world-wide ramifications. Their work extends into Canada; they have branches, plants and representatives scattered all over the North American continent They maintain travelling electrical laboratories .....automobiles equipped with all sorts of testing apparatus to visit manufacturers' plants and spread the gospel of increasing safety for the public. In Canada and the United States there are 175 places where representatives of the laboratories can be consulted while they also maintain close contact with the research departments of the Canadian, British and American governments.

Their only purpose is service for safety's sake. They test thousands of articles but recommend none even when the articles have passed all the tests. And, all in all, their work of "destroying to save," saves millions and millions of dollars a year to Canadians alone, to say nothing of the safeguarding of lives.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon, from his late residence to Morewood United Church, where a large number of friends and relatives paid their last respects. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. McCaskill, interment being made in Maple Ridge Cemetery.

Iroquois Writer Facing Charges

CORNWALL, Oct. 30—Ernest J. Rolland, of Iroquois, Ont., appeared in police court here today charged with sending a letter to Dr. G. E. Shortt, Ottawa, inspector of penitentiaries, in which it is alleged he threatened to blow up the locks in the Iroquois canal if $200,000 was not paid him by the Dominion government.

He also faced the charge of threatening to kill any R.C.M.P. officer who tried to detain him. This letter also was sent to Dr. Shortt. R.C.M.P. officers laid both charges. Rolland was remanded a week to give officials an opportunity of getting in touch with the Justice Department in Ottawa.

John G. Harkness, K. C., county Crown attorney, stated Rolland had been examined on several occasions by alienists, but he was not believed in such condition as to warrant being sent to an institution.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON V
JESUS DECLARES HIS MISSION
Luke 4, 5

PRINTED TEXT, Luke 4: 16-30.

GOLDEN TEXT.—For the Son of man came to seek and to save that which was lost.—Luke 19: 10.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time.—The temptation of our Lord occurred probably in February A.D. 27. All the subsequent events recorded in chapters 5 and 6 occurred in the summer or fall of A.D. 28. The temptation occurred in the wilderness, not far from the barren hills rising from the Jordan River; practically all the other events of these two chapters occurred either generally in Galilee, or in the two cities of Nazareth and Capernaum, both located in Galilee, Capernaum being at the north end of the Sea of Galilee.

The temptation of our Lord is also recorded in Matt. 4: 1-11 and Mark 1: 12, 13. Though other temptations must previously have been experienced by Christ, at this time Satan made one supreme attempt to bring Christ under his control, on the very threshold of his great public ministry. The temptation followed a great spiritual experience, a time of precious fellowship with God: it is after such exalted experiences as these that temptation often comes in its greatest power. Temptation in itself is not sinful; yielding is sinful. The temptations are three, and we can see that they are typical of every human temptation: to yield to the flesh, to compromise with evil, and to avoid the hard work assigned to us to achieve God's purposes through us. Over each of these temptations Christ triumphed.

Jesus' Early Ministry

Luke 4: 16. And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up: and he entered, as his custom was, into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and stood up to read.

17. And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Isaiah. And he opened the book, and found the place where it was written,

18. The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, Because he anointed me to preach good tidings to the poor: He hath sent me to proclaim release to the captives, And recovering of sight to the blind, To set at liberty them that are bruised,

19. To proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord.

The entire passage here is to be understood Messianically, that is, as a prophecy that referred directly and explicitly to the Redeemer of Israel who was to come. It declares five great tasks which the Messiah was to accomplish when he came, none of which could fully take place until he came, and all of them revealing his wonderful love for me, who needed him, and still need him, so profoundly.

20. And he closed the book, and gave it back to the attendant, and sat down: and the eyes of all in the synagogue were fastened on him. 21. And he began to say unto them, To-day hath this scripture been fulfilled in your ears.

The momentous scene was far above what any in Nazareth realized. The Word himself had read the word to them. The Messiah, with the Spirit upon him, was present in their midst and doing all that Isaiah in "this scripture" foretold of him.

In The Synoguge

A word here might be said about the book Jesus read from. The law was written on a parchment between two rollers, and was always left unrolled at the column for the day's lesson; but the books of the prophets were on single rollers, and the right place had to be found by the reader. Our Lord, turning to Isa. 61: 1, 2, must have read the passage in Hebrew; and then either by himself or by an interpreter it must have been translated to the congregation in Aramaic or Greek, since Hebrew at that time was a dead and learned language.

Prophet In His Own Country

22. And all bare him witness, and wondered at the words of grace which proceeded out of his mouth: and they said, Is not this Joseph's son?

23. And he said unto them, Doubtless ye will say unto me this parable, Physician, heal thyself: whatsoever we have heard done at Capernaum, do also here in thine own country.

24. And he said, Verily I say unto you, No prophet is acceptable in his own country.

25. But of a truth I say unto you, There were many widows in Israel in the days of Elijah, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months, when there came a great faminine over all the land;

26. And unto none of them was Elijah sent, but only to Zarephath, in the land of Sidon, unto a woman that was a widow. 27. And there were many lepers in Israel in the time of Elisha the prophet: and none of them was cleansed, but only Naaman the Syrian. 28. And they were all filled with wrath in the synagogue, as they heard these things; 29. And they rose up, and cast him forth out of the city, and led him unto the brow of the hill whereon their city was built, that they might throw him down headlong. 30. But he passing through the midst of them went his way. By these illustrations from the Old Testament Jesus declared to the congregation that the benefits and blessings of the divine kingdom were come in answer to faith, and not in answer to racial relationship. Then they were filled with wrath, and excluded him from the city. They took him to the brow of the hill to cast him headlong. Hostility thus broke out there at the beginning; but hostility has absolutely no power, and he, passing through the midst of them, went his way.

Luke is fond of recording the eagerness of the people to come to Christ (5: 1, 19; 6: 19; 8: 19, 40; 12: 1; 21: 38). And there is no evidence that our Lord ever regarded his works of mercy and healing as interruptions of his preaching mission, but rather an essential part of it.

Far North Produces Gasoline for Flying

Ronald W. MacKinnon of the Northwest Company, Limited, said in a recent interview at Edmonton, that production of 87 octane gasoline at Fort Norman, N.W.T., oil wells, 1,270 miles north of Edmonton, is a complete success.

The company, a subsidiary of Imperial Oil, Limited, installed a refinery plant last fall and went into production this summer, MacKinnon said. The gasoline sells at Fort Norman cheaper than aviation fuel shipped from Vancouver. Previously heavy diesel and motor gasoline were the only products of the sub-Arctic refinery.

Farm Notes . . .

Need for Lime On Many Soils

(By G. R. Snyder, Soil Chemist)

Profitable production of milk, the derivatives of which form Canada's most favored war time agricultural exports, depends very largely on an abundance of high quality home-grown protein feed, such as is produced by good crops of clover and alfalfa.

Apply Fine Limestone

Tests indicate that the soil of fields where these crops thrive best is high in lime; likewise, that many failures of these crops are due to strongly acid soil conditions, resulting from a deficiency of this mineral substance. Crops take considerable lime from the soil, but very heavy losses are due also to run-off and leaching during seasons of heavy rainfall.

After-Harvest Fertilizing

Finely ground limestone is the most economical liming material for general application on the farm.

Now, after the crops have been harvested, and before or during after-harvest cultivation is the most suitable time to apply limestone. Thoroughly mixed with the soil, it acts more rapidly than it does if left on the surface. Generally, sufficient limestone should be added to bring the soil reaction up to pH 6.5. Potatoes, however, may scab badly when the soil is so close to neutral. A pH of 5.8 or lower is better for this crop, and the limestone, if used, should be very finely ground. On permanent pasture lands, it seldom pays to lime soils which have a reaction of over pH 6.0. The approximate amount required per acre can be determined quickly by a soil test.

Light-Honey Crop

A preliminary estimate places the probable production of light-honey in Canada for 1940 at 20 per cent lower than the crop of 1939. Decreases in production are evident in four of the main producing provinces, Quebec, Ontario, and Alberta. In Saskatchewan, the average production per hive was lower than in 1939 but this was offset by an increase in the number of producing colonies, with the result that the total crop is likely to be slightly higher than in the previous year. The British Columbia crop is expected to be about 18 per cent larger than in 1939. Similarly, in the Maritime Provinces, production is reported to be higher than in 1939, particularly in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island where the crop is practically double that of 1939.

It's salad for lunch for Judy Garland when she finds time to relax at home after competing her role in "Strike Up the Band," in which she co-stars with Mickey Rooney. The young star lunches in the garden of her home between games of badminton and dips in the pool.

Rescuer Is Bored Saving Same Man

Patrolman George Parker of Baltimore does not object to playing a role in a rescue act, but he would like a change in the cast once in a while. In little more than a month, Parke, who covers a waterfront beat, has fished the same man out of the Patapsco river three times. The last time Parke charged the habitual faller-in with vagrancy.

How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I make a good mending cement?

A. Mix 1 quart of wood ashes, ½ cup table salt, and enough water to give proper consistency. The dark appearance at first will afterwards turn almost white.

Q. How can I whiten the face and hands, and keep the skin soft and smooth?

A. One method is to wash the face and hands once a day with pure white soap and warm water, then wash again in warm (not hot) buttermilk, or sour milk. Wipe lightly with a soft cloth.

Q. How can I clean grease from stone steps?

A. Pour on a strong solution of washing soda in boiling water. Then cover the stain thickly with a paste of fuller's earth and hot hot water, and allow to remain overnight. Repeat if necessary.

Q. How can I remedy rancid butter?

A. Soak the rancid butter for two hours in cold water, to which a large pinch of carbonate of soda has been added. Work the butter thoroughly, and then form into the desired roll.

Q. How can I prevent silk thread from slipping in the needle while sewing?

A. This slipping can be prevented, if after threading the needle as usual, one end of the thread is brought through the eye of the needle a second time.

HAVE YOU HEARD?

An Eastern potentate, who wanted to know how many men were afraid of their wives, sent for all his married male subjects and commanded those who always obeyed their wives to stand on one side.

Seeing to his surprise, that a very small man was the only one who did not do so, he asked him why such a puny individual as himself had a mind of his own.

"When I left home, your Majesty," explained the man, "I promised my wife I would not go in any crowd."

A woman's voice was heard from the steps of a crowded car: "Oh get in, dear; someone will give you a seat." The next moment two young women entered.

The men in the car read papers sternly. Those who had none pretended to be asleep. The too-certain woman glared in vain. The car went on for half a mile, then a man got off.

"There's a seat for one," said the conductor.

"Don't take it, dear," said one young woman, "some man will want it."

In the moment of defeat she triumphed.

* * *

A small boy, sitting next to a very haughty lady in a street car, kept sniffing.

"Boy, haven't you a handkerchief?" she asked severely.

The boy regarded her silently for a moment and replied: "Yes, I have, but I don't lend it to strangers."

Modern Etiquette

BY ROBERTA LEE

1. Can a friendly letter be too long?
2. What is the proper thing to say when entering a strange office and you wish to see Mr. Carter, an executive?
3. When giving an informal dinner, how should the invitations be issued?
4. When an introduction is forced upon you, and you know, from things you have heard, that you will not like this person, can one show here feelings by the manner of acknowledgment?
5. When a husband makes frequent business trips, should his wife, in her letters to him, be cheerful instead of relating every little thing that has gone wrong?
6. When a woman is dinner-dancing at a hotel, should she check her wrap?

Answers

1. That all depends upon the contents of the letter. Between intimate friends, a long, newsy interesting letter is always welcome. A letter relating troubles, aches, ills, and accidents is always too long, whether three pages or ten. 2. "I should like to see Mr. Carter. I am Mr. Marshall, of the Walker Manufacturing Company, Chicago." 3. One may write brief notes, or extend invitations by phone. 4. Never. An introduction will not obligate you to further recognition. 5. Yes. The helpful wife will make her letters bright and cheerful. 6. She may leave it on the back of her chair if she wishes.

HEALTH TOPICS

Vegetables Are Very Important

Do you eat enough vegetables? Valuable as they are in minerals and vitamins, vegetables must be included in the things we eat. So states an article in the current issue of the magazine "Health," prepared by the nutrition committee of the Health League of Canada.

Not all vegetables are equally valuable from a nutritive point of view, the article points out. Some vegetables supply iron, others do not. We get Vitamin A from one kind of vegetable and vitamin C from another.

Cabbage, spinach and carrots are good sources of vitamin A, which is necessary to maintain normal vision and to prevent disease. Green cabbage is much richer in vitamin A than white cabbage. The outer leaves of cabbage are more valuable than the inner heart.

Serve Two Per Day

Without vegetables and fruit, people would be deprived of the important vitamin C, which safeguards us against scurvy. Tomatoes, cabbage, turnips and potatoes are chief sources of this vitamin. Orange juice and tomato juice also are good.

Cabbage and green leaved vegetables are valuable in their iron content, needed to prevent anaemia. Dried beans are also good iron producers. At least two vegetables should be served every day.

Among the necessary body materials are: proteins, certain minerals and vitamins. Proteins may be obtained from many sources, but not all are of equal value as body building material. Those obtained from meat and vegetables are superior to those we get from grain, vegetables and nuts, for example. Meat and fish, therefore, are advisable in our regular diet.

The average man needs about 70 grams of proteins a day. Experts agree that a large portion of these should be drawn from milk, cheese, eggs and meat or fish. The following table shows the quantity derivable from each:

3 glasses of milk	18 grams
1 one-inch cube of cheese	6 grams
1 egg	6 grams
1 normal slice beef	8 grams
Total	38 grams

The other 32 grams will be obtained from others of our daily foods.

He Confounded the Experts

The veteran fishermen were all present, equipped with expensive tackle and the latest word in rods. In fact, the annual "big fish" competition of the Port Alberni, B.C., Tyee Club was in full swing. Then along came 16-year old Tommy Turner with a cheap, borrowed bamboo rod and annexed the silverware with a 41½ pound salmon. He also won himself a very nice fishing boat, and the congratulations of the veterans, who being good fishermen are sportsmen to the core. Fish like the one landed by Tommy Turner are all in the day's sport, summer, fall or winter, on Canada's west coast. The Empress Hotel, Victoria, social centre of Canada's Evergreen Playground, is the headquarters for fishermen, golfers and outdoor enthusiasts generally.

Canada Grows More Potatoes

Slight Increase In Crop This Year—Sugar Beet Production Up 33 Per Cent

In its first estimate of production of late crops the Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimated 1940 potato production at 40,859,000 hundredweight, an increase of 12 per cent or 4,469,000 hundredweight over the 1939 yield.

Commercial sugar beet production is estimated at 807,000 tons, an increase of 33 per cent. over last year's 605,000 tons. The increase, according to the Bureau of Statistics, is due largely to introduction of commercial sugar beet production in the Fort Garry area of Manitoba.

Production of turnips, mangolds is estimated at 37,346,000 hundredweight, compared with 37,636,000 hundredweight in 1939 while fodder corn is estimated at 3,836,000 tons against 4,514,000 tons in 1939.

What Science Is Doing

HOLDS KEY TO GROWTH

Evidence that there is a specific substance which controls the growth of human and animal bodies is reported from the University of California's Institute of Experimental Biology.

It was found in the pituitary gland, a potent little organ at the base of the brain, which secretes hormones that affect other glands.

MILE-A-MINUTE GERMS

The germs and viruses of the common cold, influenza, infantile paralysis and other disease travel at mile-a-minute speed from one person to another.

In a report before the American Public Health Association, three scientists of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology demonstrated in pictures that the droplets of a sneeze or a cough speed through the air at the rate of more than a mile per minute and have a range of 30 feet or more.

NEW TREATMENT FOR WOUNDS

A new use for sulfanilamide, as an antiseptic for wounds and infections, is reported in the proceedings of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

To make an antiseptic, the sulfanilamide is mixed with ordinary salt in solution, and applied either in packs directly on a wound, or by irrigation.

Wayne Long, 13, of Herrin, Ill., crossed the street to borrow an egg from a neighbor. Then he started home, but ran into the side of a moving automobile and was knocked down. The car ran over one leg, breaking his ankle. The egg in his pocket wasn't even cracked.

Challies-Beaumont

St. Mary's church, Staten Island, New York, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Saturday afternoon when the marriage took place of Ethel Beaumont, daughter of Mrs. Beaumon and the late G. Beaumont of Staten Island, to George Swan Challies of Montreal, son of J. B. Challies formerly of Ottawa, and the late Mrs. Challies. The Rev. E. Rowland Taft officiated.

The sister of the bride, Mrs. G. H. Richards of Montclair, N.Y., was the matron-of-honor, while E. Truman H. Seeley of Montreal was the best man. Ushers included R. H. Webster of Montreal, G. V. V. Nichols of Toronto and Malcolm Macarthur of Hamilton.

The bride was attractively dressed in a street-length model of delphinium blue crepe. He hat and veil were of the same tone and her accessories were in matching shades. She wore a corsage of orchids. Her sister chose a night flight blue crepe dress, with matching hat, and she wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

A small reception was held after the wedding at the bride's home on Staten Island. Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Ethel Challies, sister of the groom, and his father, from Montreal; his aunt, Mrs. James Malcolm, of Kincardine, Ont.

Cornwall Collegiate Wins From Locals By 23-12

Cornwall Collegiate Football team broke Morrisburg Collegiates Institute's two game winning streak on Thursday afternoon by beating them 23-12. The Cornwall team had the edge most of the game but Morrisburg was in there fighting all the time.

Cornwall started fast and they crashed over for a touchdown before three minutes had passed in the first quarter. Cornwall scored two more touchdowns in the second quarter. Both of these were converted. This made the score 17-0. As the half ended Morrisburg had the ball on Cornwall's three yard line.

In the second half Eamon and Graham scored touchdowns for Morrisburg. Both of these were converted. This made the score 17-12, and Morrisburg still had a chance. But by means of a fumble, Cornwall scored a touchdown to put the game in the bag. It was a cleanly fought game and the best team won.

Ontario to Float New Bond Issue

Premier Hepburn has announced the floating of a new issue of $16,000,000 Province of Ontario bonds for refunding purposes.

The issue is made up of $6,000,000 two per cent. bonds maturing serially in one to five years, and $10,000,000 10-year 3 1-4 per cent. bonds, callable in eight years.

They will be used to refund maturing issues of $8,000,000 two percent. bonds maturing Jan. 15th, 1941, and $8,349,500 six percent. bonds maturing Feb. 1, 1941.

Announcing the issue, Mr. Hepburn said: "For the first six months of the present fiscal year, the total ordinary revenues of the Province of Ontario have exceeded the total expenditures of the Province of Ontario for both combined current and capital accounts; this year's revenues are in excess of budget estimates."

SCHOOL HOLIDAYS

The Christmas holidays in the schools will be somewhat more lengthy than usual according to a communication from the Department of Education. In the letter received the following paragraph appears: "The following are the holidays in the schools during the school year 1940-41. Thanksgiving Day, Oct. 14th; Armistice Day Nov. 11th; December 23 to December 31 inclusive, and first five days of January, Christmas vacation; Easter holidays, April 10 to 20 inclusive; the King's birthday, on whatever day it is proclaimed; summer vacation, June 27 to September 1, inclusive." Further on, in the communication, there is the definite specification that schools are to close on December 20 and are to re-open on January 6th.

Start Work on Power Project Monday

Engineering investigations looking to early development of power resources in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence river will begin on Monday, November 4, it was disclosed in Ottawa last Thursday night.

Joint Statement

The Prime Minister's office released copies of a joint statement issued after the first joint meeting of the Canadian temporary Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Basin committee and the United States St. Lawrence advisory committee, held yesterday at Massena N.Y.

At the meeting Thursday morning general agreement was reached as to the scope and conduct of the engineering and other investigations which are necessary preliminaries to the development of the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence river.

To Eliminate Delay.

The preliminary work is being undertaken by the two governments in order to eliminate delay in undertaking construction when the project is finally authorized so that St. Lawrence power may be available at the earliest possible date to meet the defence needs of the two peoples.

Single Stage Project

The statement said the general plan to be developed in greater detail is shown as the "controlled single stage" project.

It includes a main dam to be located at the head of Barnhart Island. Power houses will be located near the foot of Barnhart Island and a small dam near the head of the rapids to control the river's flow at that point.

The work now being undertaken by the committees will stare November 4th, and new St. Lawrence River district offices of the United States corps of engineers, which will carry out the work under the direction of the advisory committee, will be opened at Massena.

Lt.-Col. A. B. Jones will be district engineer and Maj. Boswell Gullatt will be his principal assistant, the statement said.

Survey crews will arrive Nov. 4th and begin work immediately. It is expected drilling crews will arrive two days later.

The potential development of power from the international rapids section is estimated at about 2,000,000 horsepower. One-half of this would come to Canada, and the other half would go to the United States.

Golf Notes

On Monday, October 28th, the Morrisburg Golf Club held a Hallowe'en Masquerade Party at the Morrisburg Curling Club. Old time games were played, following which prizes for costumes were awarded by the pudges, Miss I. K. Farlinger, Mrs. L Montgomery, Mrs. D.K.M Stewart and Mr J. H. Meikle, to Miss Margaret McGannon, as Mae West and Mr. R. H. Armstrong as a skeleton. A dainty lunch was served by the ladies of the committee, following which an enjoyable dance was held.

REDUCE CANAL DRAFT

The draft for vessels sailing the St. Lawrence canals has been again reduced three inches by the Department of Transport. This is the second three inch cut this season. The first was made in August, cutting the draft from 14 feet to 13 feet nine inches. The draft for vessels in the canals now, until further notice, is 13 feet 6 inches. A three inch cut makes a great difference to ship owners, as vessels cannot carry anywhere near a full cargo. A three inch drop in draft for tankers, for instance, means the cargo is cut by 500 barrels.
