Liberals lead Tories Villeneuve in trouble says Christmas poll

MORRISBURG—Conservative MPP Noble Villeneuve will face an uphill battle in the next provincial election campaign, expected later this year, according to a recent poll conducted for the SD&G Provincial Liberal Association.

The poll results, released in Morrisburg last week by Dr. Gerry Rosenquist, president of the Liberal riding asssociation, gave the Liberals 49.3 per cent of popular support, a full 11 points ahead of the Conservatives with 38.3 per cent. NDP support trailed far behind with 12.4 per cent.

The telephone survey was conducted just before Christmas by Professional Services and Surveys of Kingston and involved 465 respondents in the existing riding of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, as well as the East Grenville area expected to be added to the riding in time for the next election.

In a press release, the Liberals state 148 voters were contacted in East Grenville, 160 in Stormont-Dundas and 157 in Glengarry, with an almost identical number of males and females. The survey results are considered accurate within three per cent.

"Obviously, we are very gratified with the results," said Dr. Rosenquist. "It looks like we have a real chance of winning this riding for the first time since Peter Manley held the old Stormont riding in the 60's."

Morrisburg lawyer Charles McGinnis, secretary of the Liberal association, said the local riding results simply reflect a province-wide trend toward Premier David Peterson and his Liberals since the last provincial election in 1985.

"There has been quite a trend to the Liberals in Eastern Ontario, especially, in the last year and these results reflect that," he said. "Most people are very impressed with Mr. Peterson."

Alexandria lawyer Pierre Aubry, vice-president of the Liberal riding association, said Tuesday he was "not surprised at all" by the poll results.

"David Peterson is doing such an excellent job (as premier) that it was bound to rub off on some constituencies held by the Conservatives for many years," said Mr. Aubry. "The byelections that have been held saw longtime Conservative ridings fall into the Liberal camp.

"In spite of his personal popularity, I think Noble Villeneuve is in big, big trouble. The people around here are used to having members on the government side. Now, neither member (provincial or federal) is in the ruling party. I'm confident we'll correct both.

"Noble is in a precarious position. The next election will be the first time a provincial Liberal has won Glengarry."

Contacted at his Queen's Park office Tuesday, Mr. Villeneuve said he was not disturbed by his party's poor showing in the Liberal poll.

"I don't care if the poll has me ahead, behind or even, I just do my job," he said. "I don't react to polls. My job is to think positively of my job as an

Village residents may face fines for septic systems

LOCHIEL — Twenty-one Glen Robertson property owners could be taken to court later this year to force them to correct deficient septic tanks. Penalties could range from $53 "tickets" to fines of $2,000 a day.

Fearing continuing pollution from the properties could have a serious impact on other residents of the village, Lochiel Township Council decided Jan. 13 to call in the Eastern Ontario District Health Unit.

The health unit will inspect and test the properties in the spring, spokesman Don Ouellette said Monday.

The property owners failed to take advantage of a major water and sewage project conducted in the village recently. The Ontario Ministry of the Environment paid 75 per cent of the cost of a new central water system for the village, for new individual septic systems and, where appropriate, for individual wells.

The program is now over and the 75 per cent funding is no longer available. Many of the 21 unimproved lots may be forced to install new septic systems and pay 100 per cent of the cost themselves. A number of them did not do so earlier because they could not afford to pay 25 per cent.

Fern Decaire, the township's consulting engineer on the project, brought the problem to council's attention, noting the people affected had refused to take advantage of the program and its funding when they could have.

"We'll investigate in the spring and where there's a problem, we'll advise the homeowners and they'll have to rectify the problems," said Mr. Ouellette.

The property owners would be given a maximum of 60 days to correct pollution problems, he said.

"Some are more pressing than others," he added. "Some may have a problem on the property itself."

If the property owners fail to comply with health unit orders they "will be charged and brought to court." Fines can go as high as $2,000 day or owners could be given a "ticket", which carries an out of court penalty of $53.85.

"They have been told time and time again," he said.

Glengarry will lose four post offices — Boudria

OTTAWA — One third of the post offices in Glengarry will likely be closed and all of the remainder, except Alexandria, will be "privatized" if Canada Post proceeds with cost cutting plans, according to local MP Don Boudria.

The crown corporation has been given government approval to close 1,700 small rural post offices and turn more than 3,500 over to private business people within five years, he explained Monday.

"I don't want to name the post offices that will likely be closed," said the MP. "That would be like giving Canada Post a shopping list. I don't want them saying, 'See, even the MP expected them to close.'" He said Alexandria has less to fear because it serves a region.

In addition, those people living within two kilometres of a rural post office will no longer have their mail delivered to their laneways.

The MP has called upon all municipalities to pass resolutions opposing the closures and is also helping people begin a petition campaign.

Glengarry-Prescott-Russell, with its large number of small villages, will be hit harder by post office closings than most areas, added Mr. Boudria.

Lochiel Township Clerk Rheal Charbonneau has become involved in the campaign to save rural postal service and keep small post offices open. The clerk attended a meeting held by Rural Dignity Canada, Jan. 11, in Ottawa.

The organization is dedicated to fighting the closure of small post offices and is hoping to unite all small communities in the country into one strong voice.

Mass rally planned to protest rail closing

CN Rail officials said nothing during a special meeting in Alexandria last week to defuse fears that the railway intends to close its branch line through Glengarry County.

The company met with muni- cipal, provincial and federal politicians, along with a number of businesses dependent on the rail line, to discuss longterm plans for the line from Glen Robertson to Ottawa.

The railway has been embarrassed by a series of leaked internal documents which state the line is a candidate for closure in 1990 and instructing its sales staff to discourage all new business.

CN officials tried to convince others at the meeting that the documents were intended for study purposes only and are easily misread, according to Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria. When asked if they would give a guarantee that the line would stay open, however, they refused.

"It was a futile exercise," Mr. Boudria said Monday. "They plan to continue what they have started, unless we can find some means of stopping them."

The MP went on to accuse the railway of deliberately trying to discourage and reduce business for the line so it will have a better argument in favor of closure at a future Canadian Transport Commission (CTC) hearing. No rail line can be closed without the permission of the CTC.

Previously, CN employed two sales people and one clerk for the region. Now there is only one sales representative and no clerk.

Alexandria Moulding brought the issue to light two months ago and immediately stopped construction on the first phase of a multi-million dollar expansion and relocation project on land immediately adjacent to the line. Without dependable rail service, the project makes no sense for the growing company, according to Controller John MacDonald.

If the rail line does close, the company will be left with two choices: move out of Alexandria to a centre with dependable rail service, such as Green Valley, or cancel its expansion plans entirely.

Glengarry Feeds in Alexandria would also be hurt by the loss of the rail line.

Local industry fighting for survival

Lay-offs are continuing at the Alexandria Footwear plant, heightening speculation it may close soon.

But union and management officials say they are working hard to keep the plant open.

There are 55 workers left at the plant, down from 90 in May and the top capacity load of 170.

"The company has announced the position they are in (to the workers) and have told us what they hope to achieve," Cam Nelson, business agent with the Brewery, Malt and Soft Drink Workers Union, said Tuesday.

"Up until now, Alexandria Footwear has been a one customer company, but that has to change," he said. Alexandria Footwear Ltd. has the contract to produce Adidas shoes for Canadian consumers.

"It has obviously been very difficult for them to compete since the shoe import quotas were lifted," says Mr. Nelson.

The federal government eliminated import quotas on men's footwear more than a year ago. At the time, the government predicted a decline in shoe prices.

But according to Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria, prices have risen 12 per cent and 2,000 jobs have been lost and at least 200 of those were in Alexandria.

"The company is trying very hard to find other customers. It is a tough position, but not 100 per cent gloom and doom," he says.

"We will try to keep the company going for as long as possible. The decision is to keep it going," says Rosita Shoe Co. President Mel Lands. The company owns Alexandria Footwear.

"We have received several good offers from potential customers, but we haven't decided anything official yet."

Mr. Lands says he doesn't anticipate any new lay-offs within the immediate future.

Kenyon may revitalize historic township hall

KENYON — Kenyon Township Council has authorized an Ottawa firm, Totten, Sims & Hubicki, to submit a proposal as a first step towards possible revitalization of the existing township municipal building in Greenfield.

This historic building, more than 100 years old, has no fire exit, no suitable access for the handicapped and according to Reeve Wilfred Vallance, inadequate work space.

At the Jan. 13 meeting, Mr. Vallance told Bruce Miller, manager of the Ottawa firm and associate Walter Scott, council's intention was not to construct a "great big hall."

If possible, council would like to "cultivate" the existing facility, expand if necessary and avail itself of any government funding for the proposed project.

Deputy-reeve Finlay McDonell said it would be wise to look at every angle and investigate all the possibilities.

To make the expansion possible, council recently purchased property adjacent to the municipal building.

The dilapidated building on the lot, an eyesore, as well as a safety hazard, has been a source of concern for council and village ratepayers for some time. Plans have been made to tear it down.

In describing the municipal office building, Mr. Scott, an architect, said it didn't quite "meet the expectations of a good, modern workspace."

Originally called the Stone Hall, it was a meeting place of town council and the surrounding community. The actual business office was set up in the private home of the clerk-treasurer.

Council has already made some initial inquiries about the possibility of a heritage designation for the township building.

The base proposal, at no cost to the township, will include some cost estimates, outside funding sources and project alternatives.

Sue's the best in Ontario weeklies

by Joanne Stevenson

Williamstown's social chronicler, Sue Harrington, has been named top correspondent in the province by the Ontario Community Newspaper Association.

More than 240 newspapers belong to the association. Second and third prize in the same category were won by the Scarborough News and the Richmond Hill Liberal, newspapers significantly larger than The Glengarry News. Winners were announced last week.

Mrs. Harrington's award marks the first time a representative of The Glengarry News, with its long history of awards, has had a correspondent win such an award.

Contacted Tuesday at her Williamstown home, Mrs. Harrington expressed great surprise and delight at earning the prize.

"I was doubly surprised because I didn't know I was entered," she said.

Covering the Williamstown beat is the winner's first regular writing job.

Mrs. Harrington's writing ability was first used to its full extent at The Glengarry News. Her only other published work is a college term paper printed in an obscure art magazine.

Having graduated from Queen's University with a B.A. in English, Mrs. Harrington has enjoyed writing since the day when, as a Grade 13 student, "a young, handsome school teacher" introduced her to the joy of creating with the written word.

When the opportunity arose to contribute the Williamstown segment, Mrs. Harrington was eager to write for the newspaper and provide readers with succulent tid-bits of personal information about the hamlet's residents.

To fill her column each week with the arrivals and departures, weddings, and social "do's" of Williamstowners taks some energy and effort.

"Sometimes I scrounge. I learn a lot from my friends and children. Besides, I'm a natural gossip," she laughingly explains.

A Cornwall native, Sue Harrington and family moved to Williamstown in the mid-1970's With husband David and their five children, Joshua, Zachary, Johanna, Sarah and Simon, she is active in the local social and sports scenes.

Office pressure

Talk about post office pressure. Things have gotten so bad that communities will do anything to keep the local post office alive, even if it means almost killing the postmaster.

Local MP Don "super quote" Bou-dria says an unidentified postmaster in his riding is being unduly pressured to keep his job.

It seems that Canada Post has targetted post offices in the process of changing postmasters or those with part-time ones for closure or privitization.

The man in question, who is in failing health, was going to retire so he could look after his sick wife. But the community didn't want to risk losing its post office so they won't let him retire.

Another example of how insensitive government measures turn people against each other.

Ontario Health Minister Murray Elston sandwiched a 1 1/2 hour tour of Glengarry Memorial Hospital between visits to hospitals in Hawkesbury and Cornwall, Thursday. The whirlwind inspection marked the first time the cabinet minister has ever visited the Alexandria facility.

While hospital administrator Jerry Adams admits speaking to Mr. Elston about the need for more chronic care beds at the hospital, he was careful to describe Mr. Elston's drop-in as a "social visit."

Don't forget, today is Weedless Wednesday, so butt out at least for a day.

MPP. I listen to what the people are saying and then do what I think is right. I don't intend to change."

The Conservative MPP said he would be interested in learning the precise wording of the question put to the people contacted by pollsters.

"I could get whatever results I wanted from a poll if I worded the question the right way," he said.

He said he and the Conservative riding association have no plans to conduct a similar poll.

"I have never done polls," said Mr. Villeneuve. "I have no plans to conduct a poll now. I think money can be much better spent than by bothering people by telephone."

The MPP said he understood "at least half a dozen people" were interested in the Liberal nomination for the next election.

Mr. Villeneuve was first elected in a byelection following the sudden death of veteran MPP Osie Villeneuve (no relation). At the time many Liberals and Conservatives believed the riding could change hands and both parties fought hard.

Though results were never released, there were informed reports at the time that a Conservative party poll had indicated the Tories were losing ground in favor of the Liberals.

When votes were counted, however, Noble Villeneuve was given a still bigger majority than his popular predecessor.

In 1985, when the Conservatives lost many seats and even the most secure Conservative MPPs lost support, Mr. Villeneuve captured a still greater majority, indicating his personal popularity in the riding ran far ahead of his party's. He even won in the Town of Alexandria, the first Conservative in memory to do so.

In the Liberal press release, Dr. Rosenquist said his association executive had proposed changing the name of the expanded riding. It had voted to discard the "cumbersome Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry and East Grenville," he said.

The Liberals have asked that the name be changed to St. Lawrence, Rideau.

Mr. Villeneuve said he was "violently opposed to any change."

"How are the people in Glengarry going to react to that name?" he asked. The MPP went on to argue the existing name reflects the history and geography of the riding and should not be tampered with.

Lemieux out of hospital

Alexandria's deputy-reeve Roger Lemieux was released Monday morning from a Cornwall hospital after suffering a mild attack of angina Thursday.

Mr. Lemieux, 45, was rushed to Hotel Dieu Hospital after suffering the attack at the Alexandria Post Office, where he works. According to his brother, Robert, he had been experiencing pain in his left arm for a week and felt so ill Wednesday night, he almost went to the local hospital.

By morning, the pain had subsided and it was not until he tried to lift a heavy object that he realized he should see a doctor. He drove himself to the Glengarry Memorial Hospital and was transferred to Cornwall the same day.

Mr. Lemieux was checked into the hospital's intensive care for observation, said Robert.

Robert says there is a history of heart ailments within the Lemieux family. He underwent open-heart surgery himself eight years ago because of angina, a disease caused by cholesterol which forms fatty tissues in the veins.

Robert says he wasn't careful when the warning signs began ten years before his operation and he hopes his brother will take heed.

A part-time librarian at the Williamstown branch and a former teacher of English as a second language, Mrs. Harrington serves on the executive of the Char-Lan Minor Hockey Association, the Williamstown Fair Board and, for the fourth year, she will be coaching the Canada Quiz team for the Williamstown Public School.

"She is the best in Ontario. We entered her because we thought she'd have a good chance of winning and because she deserved the recognition," said publisher Phil Rutherford.

"We are very pleased for Sue," editor Dann Rogers added. "We can always count on her to produce interesting community tid-bits."

Mass rally . . .

One of the town's larger employers, Carnation, maintains a spur line from the branch line to its milk plant.

Mr. Boudria said a mass rally has been planned for Feb. 16 at the Glengarry Sports Palace, with invitations extended to the railway, all users of the rail line, municipalities, Via Rail users, Transport 2000 (a railway user lobby group), the CTC, the minister of transport, municipal representatives and federal and provincial politicians along the route.

Mr. Boudria also said he had spoken to the acting chairman of the CTC to complain about CN's plans and will be exchanging letters with the commission, including copies of the internal CN documents.

SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve has also become involved and will try to enlist the support of Ontario's minister of tranportation and communications.

"I can't understand what they are doing," Mr. Villeneuve said Tuesday. "This is the last ribbon of steel between the capital and Montreal. I'll do everything I can to fight it."

Lochiel Twp. seeks $1.5 million funding

LOCHIEL — Lochiel Township Reeve Ron MacDonell and Deputy-reeve Alex McDonald will meet with the Minister of Transportation and Communications Thursday to request $1.5 million to repair the McCormick Road.

They met with MTC Minister Dave Hobbs last year, but to no avail. The $1.5 million, if granted, will cover the full cost of resurfacing the road.

In addition to that funding, the representatives will also be asking for an increase in general road maintenance funding.

Lochiel Township Council passed a motion at its Jan. 13 meeting to ask the ministry for more funding.

"The ministry doesn't seem to give us enough money. There's always the same problem," township clerk Rheal Charbonneau said Thursday.

The township received $370,000 last year. Regular road maintenance cost accounted for $295,000 and the remaining $75,000 went towards the purchase of a truck and bridge repairs.

Roads Superintendant Gilles Chenier reported at the council meeting that $629,800 was spent on roads in 1986.

Reeve Ron MacDonell said 1987 would be a busy year for road maintenance. The Lochinvar and Hope roads are to be re-surfaced and part of the Eigg road is to be paved for the first time.

Project given second chance

LANCASTER—The Ontario Housing Corporation (OHC) has offered Lancaster village an opportunity to re-apply for a seniors' complex. Housing officials met Friday afternoon with SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve, members of village council and the Lancaster and District Municipal Housing Corporation at Smith's Fields Hall.

"We are going to apply again," stated Eric Urquhart, chairman of the municipal corporation. The OHC will soon be sending the corporation information and an updated application form. The group expects to meet immediately after receiving the new forms.

Steve Shapiro, OHC manager, explained the provincial office now has all the necessary documentation assembled for the Lancaster bid.

"Based on the results of the latest survey, there is the possibility for a complex with 27-28 units. I encourage you to submit your application. At this point, though, none of us can make any guarantee for a future commitment," he said.

Each year, the ministry allocates 6,700 units for housing projects. Eighty per cent of these units are geared toward low-income family housing.

Mr. Urquhart pointed out the corporation could re-apply with little further costs. The OHC will consider for a total period up to three years the results of the June 1986 survey. Ministry officials conceded a consultant need not be hired for the re-application which would consist mainly of transferring existing data onto updated forms.

Larry Cotton had previously served as consultant for the project. Should the project be approved later this year, a consultant must again be hired.

The non-profit housing corporation will now be required to locate suitable sites for the complex. The prime site chosen earlier has since been sold.

Mr. Villeneuve was optimistic about Lancaster's chances.

"We can build on what's already there. I hope an announcement about the project will be part of the centennial year," he said.

Reeve Milton MacDonald had twice spoken with the provincial representative since the province's rejection of the project last October.

"I had not been much aware about what was happening. I'm sure there's still light at the end of the tunnel. The government realizes small towns sometimes tend to get left out of new systems," the MPP said.

In a letter to Housing Minister Alvin Curling, Mr. Villeneuve wrote about the need to pay attention to the needs of small town and rural communities, adding, "I am greatly concerned at what seems to be discrimination against small town residents, particularly those of modest means and yet not considered to be in dire straits."

Mr. Villeneuve plans to use his influence in assisting Lancaster in its application. Approval of the project could therefore serve as an example of the government's willingness to recognize and answer the special needs of smaller communities, he said.

Government audit of Sports Palace to be released soon, says mayor

by Lesley Cadham

A government audit of the Glengarry Sports Palace was to be made public last night, Mayor J.P. Touchette said Jan. 13.

The report, completed by the accounting firm of Touche Ross for the Ministry of Municipal Affairs about three months ago, was received by the Sports Palace board of directors just before Christmas. The board met Saturday to discuss the report.

The audit was done in response to complaints from Reeve John Cormier and Councillors Fern Séguin, Larry Yaguchi and Jim Baker about arena management.

Town Councillor Jacques Joly, who is also on the board announced the board meeting at the Jan. 6 council meeting.

The announcement prompted Councillor Fern Séguin to ask why councillors had not yet received a copy of the report. He said he had called the ministry to ask if there was a reason it was being held back and they said no.

"The board decided not to give out copies until after the meeting, Saturday," replied the mayor, who is also chairman of the board.

Mr. Séguin requested, "In the spirit of good entente" councillors be provided with a copy of the auditor's report. "I am concerned the public will read it first."

The mayor assured Mr. Séguin the arena board members had a copy and councillors would receive one after Saturday's meeting.

"I'd hate to read about it first in The Glengarry News, said Mr. Séguin.

At a special meeting, Jan. 7, Mr. Séguin wrote a resolution stating, "That the contents of any correspondence or other documents received by the town clerk, elected officials, appointees or heads of departments relating to town affairs, not be released to anyone, including the press, until it has been presented or dealt with by council at a special or regular meeting." Responsibility for releasing information rested with the chairman of each committee, the resolution continued. Council agreed to comply.

Mr. Séguin, Tuesday, told The News he had not received his copy of the auditor's report, but Mayor Touchette says councillor's copies are waiting at the town office. They only have to pick them up.

Lancaster and Lochiel township councils received copies of the report, Monday, says Mayor Touchette. Those municipalities each hold a 25 per cent share in the Sports Palace and Alexandria retains a 50 per cent share.

General ledger 'marked improvement' for Kenyon

KENYON — An analysis of the 1986 fiscal statement won't be made until February, but Kenyon Township Council were told they could expect a "marked improvement" over 1985's deficit position of $57,000.

The reason, according to Mike Ayotte, manager of the Nova Scotia bank in Alexandria, is the township is under "better financial management than other years."

Council was told that lower tax arrears, a more responsive approach to banking procedures (i.e. making use of advance funds when available to decrease the amount of borrowing) and closer attention to drainage loans in 1986, helped to improve the overall picture.

This resulted in freeing close to $100,000 in borrowing power.

Mr. Ayotte told council since there was no general ledger (a daily record of revenues and expenses) prior to 1986, "we had to guess at what the previous council had done to put you in that position." At that time, the bank was "disturbed" by the way previous township officials had been operating, he added.

"I'm sure Mary, (McCuaig, clerk-treasurer) was pulling her hair out last year," he said.

"Some things had been left unattended for quite some time," he added.

Mrs. McCuaig said she was "shocked" to find there wasn't a general ledger when she started the job in the fall of 1985.

During 1986, she was kept busy finding answers for Mr. Ayotte and Ministry of Municipal Affairs officials who reportedly called the small Greenfield office.

Lancaster Township reeve released from hospital

LANCASTER—Lancaster Township Reeve Bernie McDonell is resuming his municipal duties and attending council meetings this week after having been released Friday from an Ottawa hospital.

"He will have to take it easy," his wife, Bessie, explained.

The reeve was a patient at Cornwall's Hotel Dieu hospital from Jan. 3 to Jan. 9 for heart tests. He was later admitted for further tests to the Ottawa Civic Hospital Wednesday and returned home last Friday.

Sends message

Judge Reginald Levesque sent out a clear message to all would-be sports goons recently: violence will be dealt with sternly in Alexandria Provincial Court.

One young man, convicted of assault after a lengthy trial, was fined $400, placed on two years' probation, banned from broomball for two years, ordered to perform 50 hours of community service and told to pay his victim more than $300 in compensation for dental bills and lost wages.

The man had been suspended from the Glengarry No-Contact Broomball League following an on-ice incident at the Maxville and District Sports Complex. Angered by the suspension, he stormed into the stands, threatened the league president and then punched him in the mouth. Nearby fans had to pull the two men apart.

There is no need for this kind of behavior in any sport. Men, and women for that matter, who lack the sportsmanship required to play a game without resorting to cheap shots and violence should retire from all sport. They destroy the game for others and do themselves a disservice at the same time.

All sports organizations should re-examine their policies concerning violence with the aim of toughening penalties and eliminating dangerous players entirely. Substantial suspensions should be imposed on the first offence, with repeat offenders barred from sport for two or three years, if not permanently.

The Ontario government has begun pressuring amateur sport organizations and municipalities operating recreation facilities. Future grants from the province will be tied to the level of effort to reduce violence. If an arena or hockey group, for example, is seen to be making little or no effort to clean up the problem, grants may be reduced or eliminated.

The courts are beginning to do their jobs to curtail violence in sports. Judge Levesque has certainly set a hard example for Glengarry. Now it's up to the organizations and players to carry the message through.

Must do more

An Ottawa doctor has again drawn the public's attention to the plight of thousands of elderly people in Ontario left in inappropriate acute hospital beds because of a chronic shortage of nursing home and chronic care beds.

In the Ottawa-Carleton Region alone, according to Dr. William Dalziel, at least 200 people are in acute care hospital beds, where they often receive good health care, but no mental or emotional stimulation, exposed to illnesses that could have been avoided in nursing homes.

Many of these patients are forced to wait up to two years for the kind of care they need. Many of them die first.

In addition to the human waste, there is a tremendous waste of the taxpayers' dollars. The doctor estimates there would be a saving of about $90,000 a day in Ottawa-Carleton alone if 200 patients could be transferred to nursing homes or chronic care hospitals. Expand these figures to take in the entire province for a year and the result will be staggering.

The acute care bed rate at the Ottawa Civic and Ottawa General hospitals is $500 a day, compared to $200 a day for chronic care and $50 a day for nursing home beds.

Ontario Health Minister Murray Elston has already announced 70 new extended care beds for Ottawa-Carleton. Another 30 are to be established somewhere in Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry, Prescott or Russell Counties. The announcement may be good news, but it's only the first step toward solving a serious human problem.

More must be done.

Healthy fear

Police are scaring the death out of drinking drivers, literally.

People, especially intoxicated people, do not respond well to reason. But even a drunk person responds to fear. Increased police vigilance and heavy fines have instilled a common fear into drivers.

More and more, drivers are unable to take the risk of driving while intoxicated. The 0.08 limit is low enough to leave most drinkers wondering just when they reach the level of legal intoxication.

Paying a substantial fine and losing the privilege to drive, especially in Northern Ontario, is too great a risk.

In this particular case, public fear of the authorities is quite healthy.

Life of snoozer on a private road is pretty darn tame

A FEW THOUGHTS
Joanne Stevenson

Once upon a time, within a mythical county in the eastern part of a fictitious province, there lived a small band of people who did not notice its miserable state because it slept right through its suffering.

The people's rulers hoped the Snoozers, as they were called, would not awake and discover the truth.

These rulers were continuing a very profitable tradition in their treatment of the Snoozers. As everybody but the Snoozers knew, the Snoozers were a very important part of the kingdom because they were the only ones willing to pay taxes without getting any property services in return.

The other citizens paid taxes and received road maintenance and snow removal. Not the Snoozers.

Snoozers lived on private roads and the rulers told them private roads were just like farmers' lanes.

"My! If we had to service your roads, we'd have to do the same for all the farmers' lanes," said the rulers.

After hearing this, the Snoozers would blink a few times and dream about a magic spot in the same kingdom with street lights, cheaper garbage collection and serviced roads no matter how narrow they were. They dreamed they lived in South Manchester.

If only just one Snoozer could stay awake and respond to the rulers, "Why are private roads like farmers' lanes? Do farmers' lanes have 30 taxpayers on them or even 75 like at Chesley's Point? A farmer can regulate the traffic on his lane.

He can place no trespassing signs along his lane. Snoozers cannot!"

However, there was no such hero to wake up the Snoozers. So as they slept, they talked in their sleep. They complained as they dozed.

Meanwhile, the kingdom wasn't really sure what to do with the Snoozers. None wanted to "take over" the roads, even if they were properly widened. These private roads were just too much trouble, said the westerners. The West therefore decided to restrict the growth of these roads. No more development on them, they said.

The eastern half of the kingdom had a different approach. They liked the Snoozers because they never bothered anybody, never united, never organized and so far had not figured out exactly what was going on.

The eastern rulers said, "Let's split up our territory. Let's leave all that wonderful farmland alone in the north and we can develop the south where all the Snoozers live. We will grab all that tax money and not have to spend a penny on them!"

Now, eastern Snoozers can sever land on their private roads and invite other unsuspecting families to join them.

The rulers in the East even zoned the Snoozers' land residential, limited services to see if the Snoozers would get the joke.

Maybe they did. Mumbled one Snoozer during a nap, "Limited services, alright. They limit the service to sending us the tax bill."

The rulers do not crack the whip on the Snoozers and the other citizens do not mistreat

Sympathy for Mulroney doesn't last for very long

SECOND LOOK
Phil Rutherford

At first glance, it's easy to feel sorry for Brian Mulroney. The boy from Baie Comeau has had a rough time since becoming prime minister with a massive majority about 2 1/2 years ago.

He's been able to do little more than dodge between crisis and scandal, stick handle cabinet resignations, endure conflict of interest investigations, explain broken promises and reverse government policy when the heat's been turned on.

The sympathy doesn't last long.

He sold Canadians a package of promises in 1984; promises to change and improve the direction of the government, to reduce unemployment, boost the economy, co-operate with the provinces and protect and assist the less fortunate in society.

He won votes by attacking Liberal patronage, but in office simply repainted the public trough a familiar shade of Tory blue.

The problem was summed up well by Adlai Stevenson in 1952 when the popular Democrat was accepting his party's nomination as its candidate for the presidency of the United States.

"More important than winning the election is governing the nation," said Mr. Stevenson. "That is the test of a political party—the acid, final test."

Mr. Mulroney and his Conservatives have failed that test miserably.

He has had to weather through six embarrassing resignations from a shaken cabinet. Robert Coates, then minister of defense, resigned quickly after it was revealed that he had visited a strip club in Germany. Suzanne Blais-Grenier, the environment minister harshly criticized for lavish spending during foreign trips, resigned before a cabinet shuffle that was expected to leave her in the back benches.

Marcel Masse, then minister of communications, resigned when the RCMP began an investigation of election spending in his riding. He was later exonerated and was the only resigned minister to return to cabinet.

Fisheries Minister John Fraser resigned during the "rancid" tuna affair, not because the fish was rancid (it wasn't), but because he and the prime minister gave conflicting reports about when the prime minister's office was advised of the difficulty. Only one could be telling the truth and Mr. Fraser was forced to resign. Few in opposition or the general public believed Mr. Fraser to be a liar, but doubts were growing about Mr. Mulroney's credibility.

Sinclair Stevens finally resigned after weeks of revelations concerning his wife's handling of personal business affairs and the appearance that at least one of his companys may have benefitted from his position of influence within the cabinet.

The first five resigned ministers would have a hard time matching the stupidity of one who didn't leave. Elmer McKay, while solicitor general, the political boss of the RCMP, held a private, hotel room meeting with New Brunswick Premier Richard Hatfield to discuss the police investigation into the premier's alleged possession of marijuana. This was before Mr. Hatfield was even charged.

Now, with at least one public opinion poll placing his Conservatives in third place behind the Liberals and NDP, Mr. Mulroney has yet another scandal and resignation to deal with.

One columnist, Don McGillivray, now compares the prime minister to Joe Btfsplk, the depressed little man with a perpetual black cloud over his head in Al Capp's cartoon strip, Li'l Abner. Wherever Joe went, disaster followed.

The latest disaster for Mr. Mulroney is the police investigation into the repeated purchase and sale of Montreal area farmland over a 10-day period that forced the price up from $800,000 to nearly $3 million, just in time for sale to a company soon awarded a $600 million government contract. It all took place in a riding held by Conservative MP and junior transport minister André Bissonnette. In the House of Commons, the Liberals are suggesting the president of the local Conservative association made a huge profit and at least two personal friends of the prime minister may have been involved.

Poor Brian, facing further battles with the Americans over lumber imports, free trade and acid rain, along with dismal poll results, can't afford any more scandals. Little wonder he's smiling less lately.

Over here

LOOK OUT
Dann Rogers

My poor sister made the mistake of asking me the other day what she should do with her life.

I sagely instructed her to marry rich. But she's at that difficult age for women, somewhere between 14 and 44, so she foolishly has her heart set on being independent.

Then get thee to a service sector job, says I. When she asked me what a service sector job was, I could only reply that it was something you could do if you had an Arts degree from some university.

She asked me if this meant a bureaucrat's job. I said no, it didn't mean you had to work for the government, but you could always apply for a government grant to develop your own service sector job.

Then, of course, she wanted to know what she should tell the government she wanted the grant for.

What she had to do was tell them this country needs a great study on the untapped potential for growth in tourism from overseas.

And instead of helping the whole country, perhaps she should start with just helping Ontario. I knew she would ask where to get the data so I dug up a government report on tourism and told her to re-package it and sell it back to them.

It does make for some interesting reading if you're into solving employment problems on a large scale.

In 1961, the year an aggressive "Visit U.S.A." marketing program aimed at overseas was begun, only 13 per cent of foreign tourist business in the U.S. was from overseas; the remainder was from Canada or Mexico.

By 1971, the proportion of overseas tourism had increased to 20 per cent. Now more than 33 per cent of foreign visitors to the U.S. come from overseas.

In Canada, only five per cent of foreign visitors were from countries other than the U.S.

More than two million of approximately nine million overseas tourists who visit the U.S. annually go to States within a short flying distance of Ontario.

Most Ontario tourism advertising is aimed at luring Americans and their real dollar bills here. This is done because it is cheaper and easier to co-ordinate advertising in media only a few hundred miles away instead of many thousands of miles away.

But what's the matter with Deutsche Marks or Yen? Even just attracting more of the overseas visitors already travelling to North American destinations near Ontario could significantly increase our tourism industry.

Being a TV-hip, wise-cracking, clone of the 80's, she asked what this was supposed to all mean? Seminars, says I, seminars.

After you give the government back its own report, ask for another grant so you can give seminars to young Canadians on how they can be tourist-friendly. Make a career from servicing the service sector industry.

Child criminal

THAT'S LIFE
Lesley Cadham

As I write this, a little Glengarry boy is at home recovering from a concussion imposed by one of his schoolmates. While playing in the schoolyard at recess, a boy is said to have tripped the child, who fell on the ice, hitting his head. An ambulance rushed him to the Glengarry Memorial Hospital, and the serious injury warranted a transfer to a Cornwall hospital.

Fortunately, all went well and the boy was released to his parent's care.

My blood boiled when I heard about the incident. I don't know either child, but I've been both witness and victim on similar occasions.

In fact, it seems like yesterday 11-year-old Steven pushed my schoolmate, Debbie, off the school bus. He was angry with something the nine-year-old had said, but his thoughtless act resulted in splitting Debbie's upper lip wide open. He ran when he saw the blood pouring from her mouth, as would any self-preserving child, but he did not escape the long arm of his parents.

Rumor had it, he was under house arrest for weeks and it was a fact that he was ostracized by friends. But he paid his debt and grew up to be quite a courteous human being.

Not all parents are like Steven's. Sometimes "accidents" such as that are marked up to "kids being kids." Punishment is waived and Junior starts to believe he holds a carte blanche to "be a kid" anytime. I've even heard parents chuckle over a child's bullying nature. Blackening the neighbor boy's eye brings on gales of laughter. Breaking a leg puts mom and dad into complete hysteria.

A friend's three-year-old arrived home one summer afternoon with a broken foot. He told his mom a five-year-old down the block had stomped on it because he wouldn't let him play with a new toy bulldozer. She chose to let the matter drop, reasoning she'd only cause hard feelings if she told the bully's mother what he'd done.

"That's not teaching the child anything," I told her, but she wouldn't listen. Little Matthew hobbled around with his tiny foot in a cast for four weeks and his attacker is probably selling protection to younger children on the block.

I've heard cases with less substance than those in Alexandria Provincial Court; adults inflicting minor wounds on each other and sueing as a result.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not suggesting they go to jail or even to court, but how about teaching children that the human body is actually quite fragile?

To the mother of the boy responsible for his schoolmate's concussion: show him he has to pay for hurting people before it's too late and he's old enough to go to jail.

Thanks boys

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate and thank the Alexandria Volunteer Fire Department.

On Jan. 8, we experienced an electrical fire at our place of business in Green Valley. At approximately 6:30 a.m., as one of our employees was opening up, a fire was discovered smoldering in the main electrical fuse box.

The Alexandria Fire Department was called and, within minutes, Fire Chief Charlebois was at the scene and took control. He was followed quickly by the fire truck and other firemen.

Their swift response confined what could have been a major blaze to minimal damage.

The residents of the Town of Alexandria should be grateful and take comfort in having such a competent fire brigade.

In closing, I would also like to thank electricians Gerald Sauvé and Claude Ouellette for their immediate repairs. Power restored, it was business as usual by 9:30 a.m.

Job well done, gentlemen. Our sincere thanks to all.

Roger Roy, Pres.,
Roy's Garage, (G.V.) Ltd.

Hard to swallow newscasts

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

Some people must be born with a castiron stomach; others it seems, must develop them. The local TV stations certainly are doing all they can to help the process along.

Each supper hour and at most noon broadcasts we are treated to a succession of grisly pictures of teams of medics clustered around a bloody pumping muscle of some sort, apparently attached to some luckless, sheeted figure on a dining table or equivalent.

Alternatively, some senseless automaton is prattling on about the intimate graphics of shoving some piece of modern wonderland up one or another of President Reagan's private passages.

There are some things in life we could surely forego. There should be a distinction between the public's right to know and the public's right to be spared knowing.

We grew up in a household where certain things were not discussed and other things were particularly never discussed at mealtime. My sister, in trying to tell of her visit to a newly arrived local family with numbers of kids and numbers of cats, could only get so far in her story to mother; each time, she would gag at the same spot.

Eventually we found out that at that point, one kid's lollipop had fallen into the kitty litter box, was retrieved, brushed off and calmly eaten.

Obviously a candidate for watching CJOH and other locally available mealtime news reports.

Roland W. Brown,

Should not collect UIC

The editor,
The Glengarry News,

Most of the fury directed at the Forget Commission's report on unemployment insurance has come from those who believe that ever-bigger government can solve our social problems.

Claude Forget had the courage to state the obvious: many Canadian workers have become entangled in the unemployment insurance "safety net." His report says that UI benefits sometimes cause and prolong unemployment.

The report's main flaw is that even though it said that "on strict insurance principles, voluntary quitters should not be eligible for benefits," it failed to recommend cutting them off.

The federal department of employment, in its literature describing the unemployment insurance program, likens it to fire insurance. If so, paying benefits after six weeks to a worker who has quit his job is like delaying a claims payment to someone who has deliberately burned down his house.

This gross abuse of the system, which costs working Canadians more than $1 billion per year, must be ended.

Colin Brown,
Chairman,
National Citizens' Coalition.

Dog's life doesn't have to be too hard

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

It is a sad and unacceptable fact that every year thousands of dogs suffer through long and harsh Canadian winters with inadequate shelter or no shelter at all. These dogs cannot obtain shelter and are forced to endure terrible weather conditions.

Tremendous cold spells, vicious blizzards and freezing rain can prove fatal for even the hardiest of dogs. Most of us would not even consider being out in these elements, even for a short period of time, so how can we expect dogs to live in these conditions? What kind of existence is this anyway?

While winter emphasizes the need for adequate shelter, "outdoor" dogs also need adequate housing the rest of the year to protect them from the intense heat of the sun as well as the rain. Under the Criminal Code of Canada all dogs are, by law, required to have "adequate" shelter. A doghouse should be large enough for the dog to stand up, sit down, turn around and stretch out comfortably to the fullest extent of its limbs.

It should be insulated, have an interior windbreak, exterior door flap and be elevated six inches off the ground, facing away from the prevailing winds. These are the minimum standards the Ontario Humane Society has set regarding a doghouse.

Realizing that not all dogs are "indoor" dogs, the Ontario Humane Society has published a pamphlet detailing how to construct an "ideal" doghouse. The pamphlet, "Ideal Doghouse for Ontario's Outdoor Dogs," provides the dog owner with all the necessary information to construct a "custom fit" doghouse that will, if constructed properly, provide an outdoor dog with good shelter. Copies of this pamphlet can be obtained by simply contacting the Ontario Humane Society at: 620 Yonge Street, Newmarket, Ontario, L3Y 4V8.

Host says thanks

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

During the past two years it has been my great pleasure to come to know Ontario in a way few individuals enjoy. As host-narrator of Sketches of Our Town, I have had the unique opportunity of delving into the history of some of Canada's most interesting towns and cities.

Your own community welcomed my interest wholeheartedly and spared no effort in making my pleasant task an easier one.

It would be an impossibility to single out for mention all those whose cooperation enriched the Sketches of our Town series.

I do wish to say "thanks, Alexandria."

May this new year, 1987, be a favorable one for your special community. Keep up the good work of preserving your values and traditions, so very vital to our distinctive heritage.

Life of a snoozer . . .

them. In fact, a citizen meeting a snoozer is usually surprised to find out property owners exist who pay an equal amount of taxes but receive no road maintenance and snow removal.

Similarly, a Snoozer might be surprised to discover the rulers could, should they so choose, recognize the situation of the Snoozers and levy less taxes since Snoozers receive less services.

Snoozers often complain among themselves, but they never address the rulers. Snoozers are sharp enough to organize on their separate roads, but have not yet united into a large enough group to force the rulers to listen.

From one Snoozer to another, I wonder, "Isn't it time we all woke up?"

I've got rhythm

WORD SKETCH
Sybil Carello

Some days, you bump into shadows, trip over spittle, and barely manage to rise above the intelligence of an amoeba. Then, seconds before your jobs, friends and lovers desert you, an undisputed, Mensa-like brilliance becomes your new personna.

Once again, you're in perfect sync with life . . . but not for long.

Yesterday, you negotiated a million dollar advertising deal, with charm and ruthlessness. Today, you've taken on the form of an inert, lumpish hypochondriac. Everything hurts. Especially your shrinking brain mass. Co-ordination? Definitely out of whack. The simple act of bending over to tie a shoelace could result in serious head injury.

Come in. You have now entered the stupid zone, a place where all manner of accidents, some serious, some seriously imbecilic, may occur, or to be apt, will occur.

Somehow, you pull through. You go on to win first prize in an international short-poem contest and place second in a locally sponsored five mile snowshoe race. You have incredible reserves of energy. Was that slug-a-bed really you last week?

You ask: Am I crazy? Moody? A manic depressive?

You may be right on all counts. But there might be another answer, one apart from the extenuating circumstances of your convoluted lives and your respective psychological states at the time.

It may just be your bodily biorhythms—the ebb and flow of energies which pattern themselves at the moment of each birth. Like thumbprints, each is different, unique.

The theory of biorhythms was first suggested almost 80 years ago by two European scientists: Dr. Wilhelm Fliess and Dr. Hermann Swaboda. They believed there were two fundamental rhythms which governed us—a 23-day physical and a 28-day emotional cycle.

In the early 1920's, another scientist, Professor Alfred Teltscher, discovered a third rhythm: a 33-day intellectual cycle.

Critical days, days when one or more of the rhythms cross the chart's median going up or down, were particularly noted. It was the repercussions of these days, which served as the basis for many of the studies and research.

While not offered as examples of conclusive scientific proof, results of studies conducted on students, workers, accident insurance claimants and public figures, leave the door wide open for speculation. Sure enough. Accidents usually happened on critical days. Successes were charted during peak periods.

Might there be something to the pattern of highs and lows? A forewarning of imminent disaster or, ultimate triumph?

My own computer biorhythm chart which I've been getting for the past two years has an accuracy rate well over the 70 per cent mark. I prefer working three months at a time so often a week will go by before I remember to look at it. It's always startling. It tells me why I threw chicken nuggets at my best friend recently, why I've suddenly forgotten how to spell, why I made 30 medium size jars of jam in one afternoon and then went out for a ten mile trot.

It's tongue in cheek with just enough seriousness to keep you on your toes. It's impossible fighting against every external force rallying against us. Anticipating and preparing for our physical, emotional and intellectual reactions to these forces is an intriguing possibility. All together now: I've got rhythms . . . I've got rhythms.

Three weeks ago, a photograph appeared in the Glengarry News that had been taken by Fred McMillan and loaned by Angus MacRae. It was taken two miles south of Maxville in March 1935. It was the first time the road had been plowed between Cornwall and Maxville.

It took a week to open the road using two trucks chained together with a rail between them. The trucks belonged to Kyer trucking, Cornwall and the owner appears in the picture wearing an overcoat and hat, standing at the windshield. The driver in the truck is Clare Ostler of Cornwall.

Thanks to Angus MacRae, the following are the names of many in the photograph.

Front right, unknown, Bill Doucett, Wilmer MacKercher, Vincent MacDonell, Walter Hamilton, Duncan MacLeod and unknown.

Your correspondent wishes to note that many in the photo are high school boys and that Peter "Black" John McEwen was the truant officer at the time. Therefore the photgraph must have been take on a Saturday.

Others assisting with the service were Vivian Valley, Helen McEwen, Grace McEwen, Evelyn Willis, Eileen Colbourne, Margaret Munroe, Lorna Winter, Agnes Campbell, Viola MacRae and Lorna Blair.

The choir under the leadership of Ken Johns, had special music for the occasion.

The late Fraser Campbell, a long time member of the SD&G County Board of Education and a life-time resident of Baltic's Corner was recently honored by the board.

Trustees of the board agreed to name the staff lounge at the board offices the "Fraser Campbell Room." This small visible token of Mr. Campbell's good works is appreciated but it is hoped that more remains with our young people who have benefitted from the SD&G educational system.

Bainsville WI to support Williamstown Fair Board

BAINSVILLE-Mrs Archie Robertson welcomed 30 members of the Bainsville W.I. for the January meeting and gave a short history of her home.

A bus trip to the Adelaide Hoodless and Erland Lee Homes is being planned for early June. For W.I. members who have not yet toured this area, now is the time to plan on doing so. Jams and jellies to be sold at the Erland Lee Home during W.I. week will be collected at the District Annual in May.

A workshop for 4-H leaders "Surviving With Style" will be held Thursday at the Church on the Hill in Alexandria.

The members were informed of a home for alcoholics and drug addicts to be opened in Cornwall this year. This will be another much needed project worthy of support.

President Susan Robertson reported that 66 girls and boys attended the 1st meeting for the baby-sitting workshop at Knox Church. Co-ordinator Patricia Humphries is being assisted buy several members of Bainsville and St. Lawrence W.I.'s.

Const Gilles Ruest was present to instruct the young people on safety and Joan Rozon for first aid. Next week, Richard Anderson will lecture on fire safety and Jane Grant will demonstrate some crafts to keep young children occupied. This is a much needed service giving young teenagers valuable information which will undoubtedly help them in dealing with situations which may arise when they are responsible for the care of young children.

Pat Ager, a director on the Williamstown Fair Board Ladies Division, reported on some re-organization proposed for the fair. In order to cut down on expenses and at the same time allow for much needed repairs and improvements, she suggested the W.I. might consider financial aid. The members voted to do so.

Ruth Fourney, Tweedsmuir History Curator reviewed the courses we have participated in over the years, and some of the ladies delighted us by modelling garments made during one course several years ago "Sewing With Knits."

Birds and bugs visit area correspondent

WILLIAMSTOWN
Sue Harrington
347-3483

More birdies again this week, readers. It really seems as though I was right when I suggested that many of you are more interested in bird news than in the comings and goings of your fellow man.

Certainly there are vast numbers of you luring birds to the area with one kind of fancy seed or another, and I can't help wondering whether the Sunday-supermarket-opening theory that the same number of customers will merely be spread out a little more will apply to Williamstown or not.

Will visitors come less often to your feeders or will the word spread in birdland about the hot pickings in Williamstown—to the extent that the skies will be teeming with orno's?

Doug Hargrave tells me that several years ago he had clouds of grosbeaks hovering over his property and they were so prolific that cars used to park along the branch in front of his place so that occupants might have a ringside view. This year Doug says he has lots of finches, red polls, tree sparrows and woodpeckers.

Over at Bill and Margaret Dean's, a solitary red-breasted nuthatch may be the answer to where Mrs. Fraser's previous visitors have gone this year, but it's more likely they flew over to see Martin Bowman who lives west of Martintown.

He reports that he has had a pair of nuthatches for most of the winter, though stangely enough, hasn't seen them this week. He also has tree sparrows, siskens, goldfinches and, of course, chickadees.

Nick MacDonald-Wolochatiuk reports that last week's article netted him information about the International Bird Feeder Survey that was to be conducted by Wildlife Associates on Saturday. Apparently survey participants were asked to provide a comprehensive profile of their bird feeding activities, guided by a 13 point questionnaire.

Nick says, "The report from 'Nut Hill' feeder was quite unspectacular: six species (evening grosbeak, chickadee, nuthatch, downy woodbecker, hairy woodpecker, and slate junco), 25 individual customers in total."

Nick also wonders if there are enough people locally to "establish a sort of regular forum to exchange ideas, expertise, experiences, problems and resources related to the fine art of bird feeding and watching." Nick suggests possible names like "The Bird Hotline", "Bird Watch", "Strictly for the Birds" or "Birding Network." He asks that anyone interested in such a thing call him at 347-3160.

And now, readers, I would like a little help in identifying a "mystery bird." Apparently on Saturday's broadcast from CJSS of "Scots on Parade," a female singer with the last name of Campbell was featured. She is apparently an ex-Char-Lan High School student and has an extremely beautiful voice. Who is she? If any of you readers can help with this identification, please give me a call. A gentleman I know is most anxious to obtain her recording.

Before leaving "birds and beasties," I was wondering whether anyone else has the entomological treasures which I do this year in my place. Believe it or not, on this very cold January morning, I have mosquitoes in my bathroom!

Last year I had to watch patiently as a spider built a cocoon on my toothbrush holder because my daughter was doing her science fair project on arachnids and wanted to see the complete life cycle. That was bad enough, but mosquitoes are something else. Short of charging admission to my "house of bugs" in order to pay for the calamine lotion, I guess I'll go at them with a vengeance. Tomorrow. No, maybe next week. . .

Mosquito talk reminds me of summer and summer reminds me of the Green Thumbs and Evelyn Maloney of the Green Thumbs reminds me to remind you that the Horticultural Society is holding its annual pot luck supper on Monday at 6 p.m. at St. Mary's Parish Hall. If you have been considering joining this group, now is a splendid time to do so, as 1987 memberships will be given out at the supper. New members will be warmly welcomed.

At the time of writing last week when I told you about the upcoming Fair Board annual meeting and dinner on Feb. 7 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Centre, I mentioned "live musical entertainment," though I had no further information on the group's identity. Now I have. Ruth Mowat tells me that the "Lochiel Strings" will be providing the music.

Get well wishes go out to three from our midst who are in hospital at the moment. Kit Gourlay entered the General on Saturday; Joan Abrams is in the Hotel Dieu, and Fred Street remains hospitalized in Kingston.

Mary Alguire has just called to tell me about the next 4-H club course beginning Feb. 4th at Char-Lan High School. Entitled "Surviving with Style," and open to boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 21, the course offers excellent advice for young people, whether out on their own for the first time, or staying at home alone.

Topics like "staying safe," "what to do when the power goes off," "laundry techniques," "buying wisely," "meal planning," and "simple car and bike repairs," should help to make self-sufficiency easier.

Many will be helped on the course by assistants Cyndy Vogel and Susie Edwards. Mmm . . . wish that cut-off age were a few years higher—just a few years!

If you should see members of the Atchison family walking a bit "funny this week, chances are the problem lies with sore leg muscles. This weekend, Penny, Gary, Shonna and Trevor all particiapted in the Cornwall Nordic Ski Club Loppet held at Guindon Park.

Both Trevor and Shonna received pins for completing the five km trail for those 14 years and under.

For the adults, the course was a little more gruelling-15 km in all—and some made it and some did not!

Gary Atchison completed the course and came 23rd over all out of 137 participants. Dave Thompson, another member of the Williamstown contingent, was 15th over all. Bruno Major showed the youngsters up, coming in 13th place over all and 5th in his class.

A Williamstown lady, Ann Thompson, who has apparently never cross-countried much before this season, went home with a silver medal in her class, and an overall finish of 28th. A multi-talented lady indeed!

Williamstown Public School will be producing physically fit youngsters capable of conquering any loppet they meet with in life, if recent activities are anything to go by. Beginning last week youngsters spent one hour every two weeks swimming at the CTTC pool in Cornwall and two half-hours per week skating at the arena. Both experiences were well received by the students.

Birthday bonanza month is with us again and I would like to extend greetings to Ron Kubelka, Sandra French, Pat and Tony Djurin, Nancy Woollven, Stanley Swerdfeger, Dave and Nancy Moore, Brian Greer and Elaine Pye.

Also to Alice Portant, Alpheda Major, Annette Chretien, Kay McDonald and Eleanor Gibson, all of whom were treated as "Queens for a day" at the recent Friendly Neighborhood's January birthday meeting. Viola Lauzon mede the birthday cake and birthday girl Annette Chretien got more than she bargained for, winning the lone hand, a door prize, and the 50-50.

Euchre winners for the ladies were Florida Legroulx and Edith Abrams and for the gents, Maurice Chretien and Edmour Séguin. Skunks went to Margaret MacLennan and Martin Van Sleeuwen. Maurice Chretien was the other lone hand winner.

Clint Murray, Florence St. Onge, and Marie Menard all went home with door prizes, while Clint, Alda Major, Edith Abrams and Edmour Seguin were 50-50 winners.

As for my recent accolades, described elsewhere in this paper my thanks go out to you, residents of Williamstown. Without your help, this column would be literally "for the birds!"

The Lancaster Fire Department has received some valuable equipment donated by Northern Telecom of Montreal. Two complete Scott Air Pack units, including tanks, and four additional tanks valued in excess of $4,000 were received last week.

George Parker, employed with Northern Telecom and a member of the Lancaster Fire Department was instrumental in obtaining the units, with the assistance of his supervisor, Emile Gratton of the Communication Cables Dept.

Scott air packs allow fire fighters to enter smoke-filled areas with an air supply for about one half hour in each tank. Chief Gene Picard and other members have expressed their gratitude to the donors of the gifts.

Women's group to make donation to fair board

MARTINTOWN — Pat Ager, president of the Ladies' Division of the St. Lawrence Agriculture Society's Fair Board, was a guest speaker at the January meeting of Martintown Women's Institute held at the home of Margaret Harris.

Mrs. Ager asked members to write members of Parliament and express their concerns regarding plans to close rural post offices, as these plans are still 'on hold.' She then outlined briefly the costs entailed in conducting the craft show and competitions at the Williamstown Fair, stating that financial aid is sorely needed. Members agreed that the branch make a donation to the fair board.

The sympathy of the members was extended to Eileen Johnston on the death of a beloved brother. Margaret Kennedy acted as president in Mrs. Johnston's absence.

Annette Huizinga and Ginny Blair have offered to act as leaders for the 4-H project "Surviving with style."

Jan Buckland, convenor for Consumer Affiars, presented an informative program, having brought along her Cuisinart Food processor; she proceeded to show us how easy it was to slice potatoes, onions and cabbage. Another appliance was the Decosonic vacuum bag sealer to easily bag your garden produce for the freezer. Then there was the apple juicer—all members certainly enjoyed a taste of juice. Jan's program was further proof that we should use the talent within our own group occasionally.

Lillian Munro conducted a contest won by Mary McDonell which brought the meeting to a close.

A social hour was then enjoyed with luncheon served by hostesses Margaret Harris, Regina Ross, Lillian Munro and Jo Van Loon, all of whom were thanked by Margaret Emond.

RENT REVIEW UPDATE FROM THE MINISTRY OF HOUSING

Important message to tenants and landlords of rental units first occupied after 1975.

The Residential Rent Regulation Act, 1986, extends the protection of rent review to cover all tenants in private rental units in Ontario. This includes buildings, mobile homes and mobile home sites first occupied as rental units after 1975.

In the past, tenants living in units which first came on the market after 1975 – post-'75 units – were not protected by rent review. Under the new legislation, tenants living in post-'75 units are now protected by rent review along with all other tenants in private rental units in Ontario.

As well, the provisions extending rent review to cover post-'75 units are retroactive to August 1, 1985.

This means that the four per cent Guideline which was in place from August 1, 1985, to December 31, 1986, applied to post-'75 units during this period.

Thus, landlords who charged tenants of post-'75 units more than the four per cent Guideline during this period must now justify those rent increases or refund to tenants the difference between four per cent and the higher amount charged.

Tenants in post-'75 units: do not make immediate deductions from your rent.

For the present, tenants living in post-'75 units should pay the amount requested in the notice by their landlord until the matter is resolved through rent review.

Under no circumstances should tenants make immediate deductions from their rent cheques because an illegal deduction could lead to eviction by the Courts.

Tenants in post-'75 units: obtaining a rent rebate.

- If the landlord of a post-'75 unit has not made an application to rent review by March 2, 1987, the tenant is entitled to a rebate of rents paid above the 4 per cent Guideline between August 1, 1985, and December 31, 1986.
- If the landlord does not voluntarily pay the tenant the rebate owing, the tenant is advised to file an application with the local Rent Review Office for an order requiring the landlord to pay the rebate.
- If the tenant is certain of the amount of the rebate, the tenant may deduct the amount from a rent cheque.

Requirements for landlords of post-'75 units.

Strangers in pin-striped suits stalking bird feeders

DUNVEGAN
Marion Loewen
527-2284

Now that we are into cold weather and after the snowstorm on Sunday I guess we can say winter has finally arrived. I only wish it had come a little sooner and maybe the flu-bug would have missed me. Yes, it hit me last week and I spent Sunday in bed.

Mrs. George McRae had the pleasure of a visit from her son-in-law Bryan Robinson for the weekend. Bryan was in Montreal and came to Dunvegan before returning home to Calgary.

Now is the time to think of your reading material for the cold nights beside the fire. Come out to the bookmobile on Thursday from 1 to 1:25 p.m. The bookmobile is an excellent source of reading material, be it fiction or information on just about any subject. Try it, you'll like it!

A pastime that gets more fascinating all the time is identifying the birds at the feeders. Lately I've noticed some little strangers in pin-striped morning suits out there and wondered who they could be. Well, thanks to the Williamstown reporter, Sue Harrington, I now know they are pine siskins. The cedar waxwings are coming in again. I guess the one I saw in late fall was sent out as a scout, because there are three or four some days. I'd never seen these birds before, so it gets to be more fun all the time.

CARNIVAL TIME IS COMING

The Dunvegan Recreation Association will be holding its annual carnival on Jan. 30 and 31. A new event is a family snow sculpture competition. Judging will be done at individual homes on Friday from 9 a.m. to noon. Participants should submit their names to Catherine McIlwain, 525-1093, or Mary Anne McRae, 527-5774, by Wednesday.

On Friday, there will cross-country skiing for the children from 1:30 to 3:30 on the farm of Rob and Joyce Cutts. On Saturday the pancake breakfast will again be served in the WI Hall from 8:30 to 11 a.m. In the afternoon the curling bonspiel in Maxville will take place and in the evening a hot meal will be served. Anyone wishing to make reservations for the meal must phone either Lynda Heinsma, 524-2299 or Catherine McIlwaine 525-1093, by Saturday. Come out and have a good time.

DUNVEGAN BRANCH WI

The January meeting of the Women's Institute will be held in the hall on Thursday at 8 p.m. For the roll call you are asked to write out the answer to this question—"What bugs you and what can you do about it?" The program is resolutions under the capable leadership of Peggi Calder and will be a discussion and action on roll call items. There will be a social hour. Everyone welcome.

George and Catherine McIlwain were in Ottawa on Sunday to visit son Greg. Boy, these McIlwains sure live right! If it hadn't been for their guardian angel, they would have been in the picture on the front of Monday's Citizen, because they were missed by 'just that much'!

Arthur Campbell is back in the Manor after a stay in hospital. Neil MacRae of Maxville and formerly of Stewart's Glen, is in hospital and expects to go to Ottawa. Bordie MacPhee is in the General in Cornwall with a heart attack. We remember them in our prayers and hope they will soon be back to health again.

Robbie Burns' Night will mark three anniversaries

by Angus H. McDonell

In last week's News issue we related the significance of the forthcoming triple anniversaries, Jan. 31, in Maxville, involving Robbie Burns birthdate, Rae MacCulloch's 32nd year as a dance teacher and the approaching 40th staging of the Glengarry Highland Games.

Believing that the history of Scotland's immortal poet, Robbie Burns, is widely known and Rae MacCulloch's international achievements with her dancing lassies are fresh in our memories; this writing will be allotted, briefly, to the origin of Highland Games, their 1840 founding in Glengarry and emphasizing the past 40 years.

Scottish historians recording the origin of Highland Games in Scotland have gone far back in the mists of time. It is generally believed that many of the Games began as a result of the reputation the Scots gained for their brute strength by cutting and lifting stones to build the walls of their primitive homes. Others developed brawn and skill in the logging industry.

Throwing the blacksmiths' hammers used in stone cutting and the tossing of timbers to prevent log jams it is believed, was the athletic origin of competitions in throwing the hammers, weights, tossing the caber and foot races. Hence the Highland Games.

The immigration of the Druids from Ireland and the Hebrides to the Highlands, apart from their religious teaching, fostered athletics and organizing skills. As a result of this grounding, Malcolm Canmore, 11th century King of Scotland, is regarded to have staged the first organized Highland Games in Scotland.

Time marched on through the centuries scarred by countless battles. Despite war interruptions, Highland Games continued to expand in popularity until the British Government's Disarmament Act, following the April 16, 1746 Battle of Culloden Moor, decreed an end to all Scottish traditions including Highland Games.

As a result of this harsh edict by the British, hundreds of Highlanders emigrated to the American colonies. Those areas became New York, New England States, Carolinas, our own Maritimes, Lower and Upper Canada. Once again the Scots could assemble at clan gatherings, play the pipes and toss the caber.

In the meantime, an ancient cliché declaring that time is a great healer proved authentic in 1819. The British relented the Highland restrictions by permitting the St. Finnan's Society to renew the staging of Highland Games.

Then, 100 years after the battle of Culloden Moor, Queen Victoria and her husband, Prince Albert, officially opened Scotland's famed Braemar Highland Games. As we say in sport jargon, from that prestigious Royalty attendance, the staging of Highland Games has never looked back.

What a coincidence in Highland Games history! At the time Queen Victoria became interested in Highland Games, here in Glengarry, plans were being formulated to hold Glengarry's first Highland Games.

During the Rebellion of 1837-38, Col. Carmichael commanded the military forces from Coteau du Lac to Lancaster. There is a legend that Col. Carmichael copied an army conditioning exercise that Bonnie Prince Charlie enforced on his soldiers in 1745 when he raised his standard on the banks of the Loch Sheil; foot races, throwing the hammer, weights and tossing the caber.

Following the rebellion's ceasefire and before Col. Carmichael would submit his army retirement to Governor General Sir John Colborne, he keenly desired to conduct for the first time in Glengarry, Highland Games, thus perpetuating the traditions of Scottish ancestors.

A Montreal Gazette sports writer recorded that Glengarry's first Highland Games were held in Lancaster, June 30, 1840. It is believed that the next series of Scottish Games were held at the first Williamstown Fairs. However, documented Highland Games were held in Williamstown in 1857-58 and 1861.

By this time enthusiasm of Highland Games gave way to the athletic exploits of R. R. McLennan. Throughout the Highland Games world McLennan was honored. Except in Scotland where Scottish sport writers shamefully ignored in print that their idolized Donald Dinnie had been defeated in the world championship hammer throw, the record still stands, by the pride of Glen Donald, Williamstown and Glengarry "Big Rory" McLennan.

Only a semblance of Caledonia or Highland Games prevailed at church picnics and statutory holidays from the 1870's to the 1920's in Glengarry. Athletic competition meets became known as Field Days. Williamstown and Alexandria were the popular locations due to the ample space provided by the respective fairgrounds. The first half of a program was the usual Highland Games contests of foot races, throwing the weights and caber tossing. There was no throwing of the hammer as a result of a fatal accident at a Cornwall Field Day when a little girl bolted from under the rope barrier for a better view and was struck by the hammer thrown in exhibition by "Big Rory" McLennan.

During the depression, the only reminder of Scottish heritage was the re-organizing of the Glengarry Pipe Band by Pipe Major Angus D. (Katie) McDonald.

The piping dedication of a band member, Peter MacInnes, was the direct motivation that led to the founding of the Glengarry Highland Games in 1947.

Peter had been attending the Caledonia Games in Lachine, Syracuse and the major Highland Games in the Toronto area, Embro in particular.

Inspiration was involved as well as dedication. Peter's daughter, Jean, (Mrs. Jim Campbell) was a Canadian medal winning dancer. His niece, Connie "Piper Donald" Kippen (Mrs. Walter Blaney), was rated among Canada's class lady pipers. Combine those points and you have Peter MacInnes' determination to found Highland Games in Glengarry.

At the Embro Games, Peter MacInnes shared his dream with professional Games organizer W. A. MacPherson. "Old Bill" agreed. Returning home Peter confided with Dr. Don Gamble, another pro organizer. They realized the magnitude of the proposal. However, courage and the Maxville and area history of co-operation overcame all thoughts of failure. They bit the bullet and now 40 years later a younger generation is formulating plans to fittingly celebrate that historic decision.

Success breeds success and as a result we will relate commentary by some of the Games' unbiased, knowledgeable observers. Apart from royalty attending the Braemar Games annually, no other Highland Games in the world have had consistently for 39 years national and international dignitaries officiate. How many presidents or state governors open U.S. Games?

More U.S. pipe bands, according to Ontario officials, attend the Maxville Games, Glengarry is seldom used any more, than any other in Ontario, which really means Canada. More cars cross the Cornwall International Bridge on Games Day than any other in the year.

Finally the most prestigious commentary of all was by the CBC/TV's Fifth Estate program on Jan. 6. Interviewing Pipe Major Livingstone of the Toronto 78th Fraser Highlanders pipe band, this Whitby lawyer remarked that the band's 1987 major ambition was to again compete at the Games in Maxville, Ontario, and win the North American championship. This is the qualifying must before competing in the World Championship competitions in Edinburgh next August.

Millions of Canadians listened to those laudatory remarks, saw brief grandstand and infield views of the record 55 bands in attendance. What more need be added?

Next week the program preview. Obtain tickets early as there is a limited quota to prevent over-crowding.

Peter McInnes

Regional Dairy Day in Maxville Tuesday

AG. COLUMN
Glen J. Smith, Ag. Rep.

The 1987 Regional Dairy Day, sponsored by the Glengarry and Stormont Milk Committees, will be held Tuesday at the Maxville and District Sports Complex.

Registration is from 9:45 to 10:15 a.m. (registration fee of $1). Industry exhibits will be on display. Lunch, provided by the Maxville United Church Ladies, can be purchased (cold cuts, beans, dessert and coffee) for $4.50 or bring your own.

Speakers and topics are as follows: "Hay Handling Systems for Dairy Operations," Pat Plue, Agricultural Engineer with OMAF; "Allocation of Milk to Plants," Bob Newell, president, Ontario Dairy Council and Director of Manufacturing, Nestle Enterprises Ltd.; "Milk Quality Program," Dr. Jim Ashman, Director, Quality and Standards Division, Dairy Inspection Branch, OMAF; "New Trends in Dairy Housing," Bob Milne, Agricultural Engineer, OMAF and "Pasture Management for the Dairy Herd," Susan Robinson, Pasture Management Specialist, OMAF.

A joint annual meeting of the Glengarry Cattlemen's Association and the Glengarry Beef Herd Improvement Club was held on Monday. Thirty-three beef producers attended.

Dr. Julien Proulx, Agriculture Canada, Kapuskasing, informed the membership of research being completed on haylage in piles. This system involves the piling of haylage using a bale elevator without packing and covering with plastic to prevent oxygen from entering the pile.

The material does not freeze and stockers and feeders fed this material have gained exceptionally well. A video and handout material explaining the ensiling and management requirements will be available upon request from the agricultural office.

Elections were also held for both organizations. 1987 directors for the Glengarry Cattlemen's Association are Henry VanderByl, Ernest Stabenow, Marcel Besner, Gilles Roy, Tom Vanstokkom, Rudie VanderByl, Vernon McDonald and Don Bond. The 1987 directors for the Glengarry Beef Herd Improvement Club are Marcel Besner, Don Bond, Arno Burger, Gilles Roy, Dick VanderByl and Henry VanderByl.

Man back in court for sentencing

A 21-year-old who stole two vehicles within two days last September will be sentenced Feb. 12 in Alexandria Provincial Court.

Roma Larose pleaded guilty to the charges Thursday and Judge Reginald Levesque ordered a pre-sentence report.

Mr. Larose was charged with theft, Sept. 26, in Kenyon Township and again two days later in Alexandria.

Court was told Mr. Larose was walking home near Fassifern when he stole a pickup truck owned by Claude Campeau.

The accused drove to the 1st of Kenyon, and drove into a ditch causing $2,500 damage. He managed to get the vehicle out of the ditch and drove to Alexandria, where he left it in the provincial court parking lot.

He found a Winchester rifle and two buck knives in the vehicle and took the items to a friend's house.

On Sept. 28 Mr. Larose learned police were looking for him and went to his mother's house in Alexandria and took her car.

He was driving on Hwy. 417, lost control and rolled the vehicle a couple of times, completely destroying it. The stolen articles have since been recovered by police.

Apple Hill man injured

LANCASTER — An Apple Hill man is in serious condition at Ottawa General Hospital following a collision between two snowmobiles, Thursday night.

Paul Christie, 21, was driving his snowmobile south on County Road 20 at County Road 25 near Apple Hill, when he collided with a disabled snowmobile owned by Wayne Lepage of Cornwall. Mr. Lepage was not on his vehicle at the time.

Damage to Mr. Christie's 1979 Yamaha is estimated at $1,500 while Mr. Lepage's 1980 Motoski sustained $2,000 damage.

Mr. Lepage has been charged with having liquor on his motor vehicle.

According to Lancaster OPP, alcohol and fast driving are still the main cause of snowmobile accidents. They will be cracking down on motorists by checking for impaired drivers, speed violations and improper licensing, registration and insuring of these winter vehicles.

Char-Lan celebrates Minor Hockey Week

by Sue Harrington

All across Canada this week, in arenas large and small, special activities are taking place to officially mark Jan. 17-24 as Minor Hockey Week.

At the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre in Williamstown, the Char-Lan Minor Hockey Association will be hosting its usual full slate of weekly games involving both travelling and house league teams. The bulletin board in the arena foyer will feature a collage of press clippings from last year's games so that players and spectators alike can reminisce.

Rumor also has it that the "new look" Char-Lan jackets will be making an appearance in the next few days.

Behind all the workings of the Char-Lan club is an industrious executive which performs, not just during Minor Hockey Week, but all season long. Witness last August, for example, as volunteers from the executive manned a Char-Lan Minor Hockey booth at the Williamstown Fair, selling hats, T-shirts, sweatshirts and other memorabilia in order to raise funds to ensure that Char-Lan's registration fees remain the lowest in the area.

Ron Eamer, in his second year as president of the association, took over top spot from now past-president Barry Millett.

Linda McDonell is Char-Lan's busy secretary, and with four sons playing in the association, her interest is obvious.

Treasurer Cam Proctor is also something of a computer buff and comes to each meeting with official looking print-outs, black, of course.

Don Thomson is Char-Lan's Travelling Team convenor and is responsible for a sort of protocol in relation to other associations.

Rick Riddell and Bob Gray share the unenviable task of House League Convenors, arranging schedules and shuffling players about until teams are potentially "even." This year, Char-Lan Peewee and Bantam House Leagues play interlocking schedules with neighboring clubs.

If a goalie breaks a toe strap just before a game, equipment manager Glen Jurchuk is at the ready. Many new sets of shirts were purchased this year through the generosity of many sponsors. Chief sponsor is Timex, which has agreed to sponsor four travelling teams for a two-year period, having provided the association with some $6,000 to cover expenses.

The man behind the sponsorship scoop is Ways and Means Chairman Ross Kudrinko. Ross, a self-described "string-puller" has been largely responsible for the healthy financial position Char-Lan finds itself in in 1987.

A relatively new position, that of General Committee Chairman, is filled by Carolyn McRae and Diane Bowles. Since the implementation of this office, communication among executive members, players, coaches and parents has increased tremendously, and with very good results.

Our referee-in-chief, Leo Major, is committed to good clean hockey without verbal abuse from coaches and spectators. To this end, our referees perhaps call more than in some other associations and coaches who do not set examples for their players are more liable than not to be penalized for their actions.

Commissioner Bill Fielding acts as a sort of judge over the whole goings-on of the association. Press reporter Sue Harrington prepares weekly write-ups of games which have been reported in the scorebook which is kept at the arena canteen.

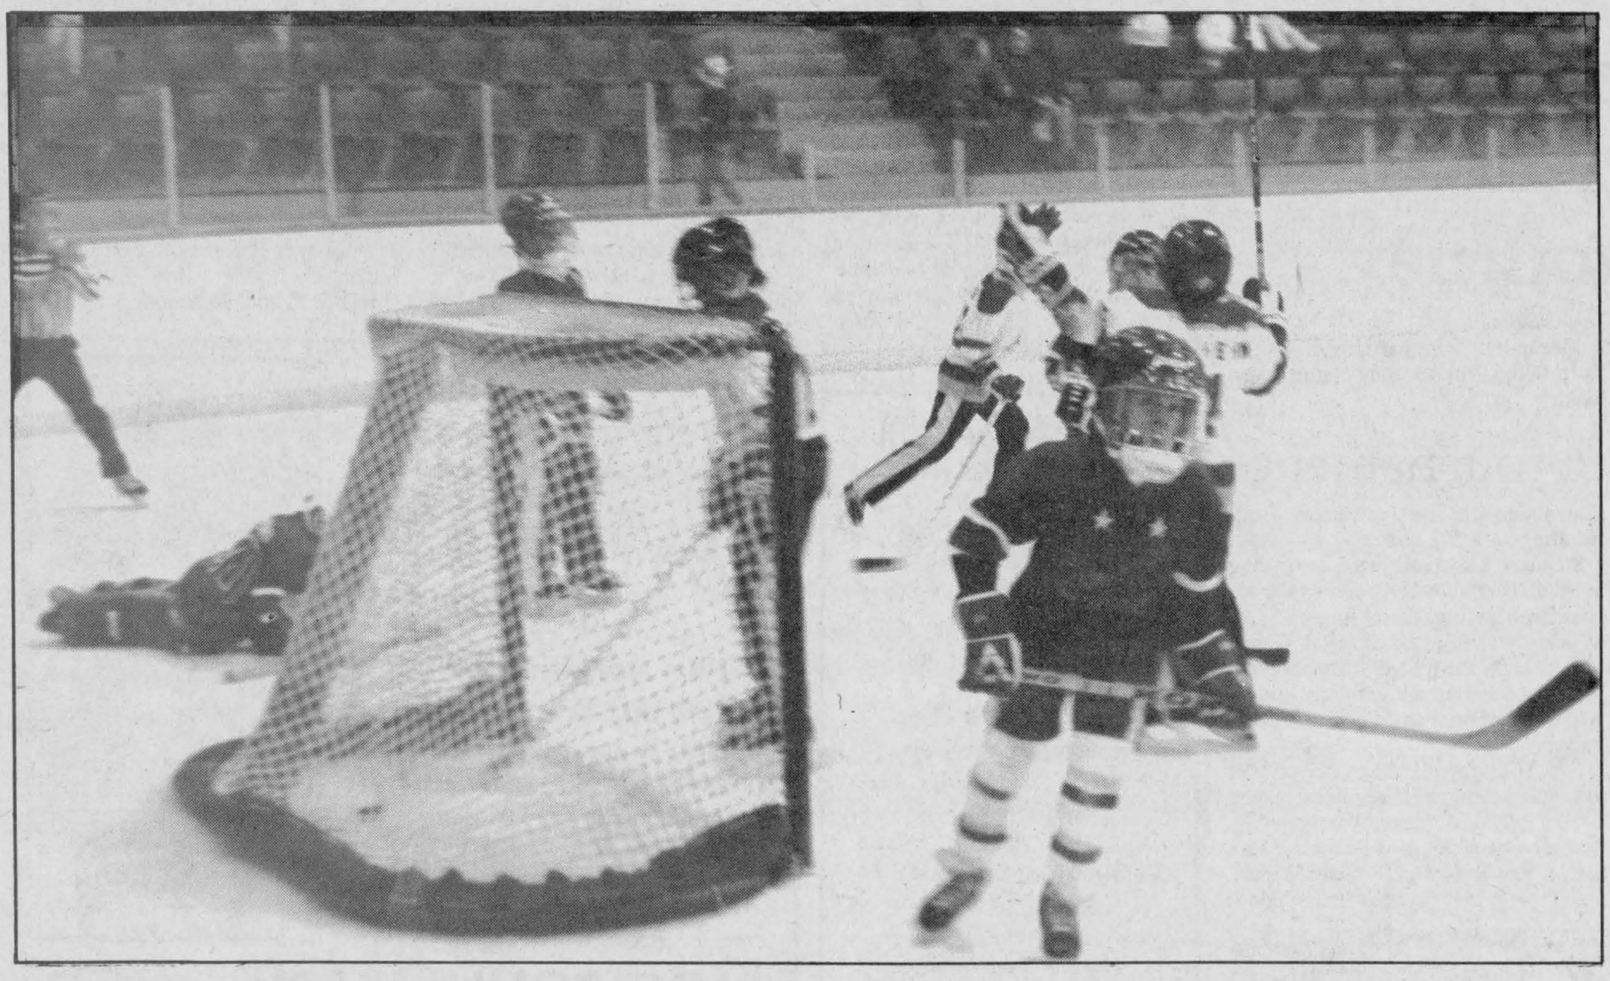
Char-Lan's travelling teams number five this year with the addition of a team of novice-aged players. Joe Dupuis is the coach of this team whose players include Eric Beaudet, Brennan Cameron, Tim Corput, Ryan Derry, Joey Dupuis, John Fisher, Ryan Flaro, Jim Gray, Darryl Knight, Darrell McDonell, Kent McDonell, Kevin O'Farrell, Jamie Pennell, Donald Proctor and Jeff Proctor.

Bruce McDonell is the coach of the Char-Lan Atom travelling team. Its members are Daniel Blacker, Eric Collette, Brian Deschamps, Sean Fielding, Jason Flaro, Matthew Gray, Wayne Kreische, Patrick Loyer, Jason MacCuaig, Ian MacDonell, Kirk McDonell, Terry O'Farrell, Steven Proctor, Brent Riddell and Vincent Rines.

Hugh McClements' Peewee team is made up of Marty Algire, Patrick Campeau, Serge Campeau, Robert Curran, Neil Kudrinko, Kurtis Latreille, Alistair MacDonald, Hamish MacDonell, Shawn McClements, David McDonald, Shane McDonell, Chris Petry and Bruce Tessier.

Char-Lan Timex Rebel Bantams under Hubert McDonell consist of team members: Marc Beaudet, Norm Bougie, Bob Bowles, Todd Cameron, Alain Fontaine, Graham Greer, Devon MacDonald, Craig McDonell, Allan McElligott, Peter McIntosh, Shawn McRae, Brian Poirier, Denis St. Jean, Ed Swerdfeger and Jason Welcher.

Midget travelling team coach is Randy Larocque who coaches Trevor Bowles, Lawrence Davis, Wesley Jurchuk, Todd Lapierre, Jamie Latreille, Ronnie Lefebvre, Angus MacDonald, Jason MacDonald, Wally MacDonald, Chris McBean, Blake McDonell, Bill Millett, D'Arcy O'Connell, Sonny Payne, Philip Poitras and Kevin Welcher.



NO CHANCE—The goaler of the Cornwall Novice squad was caught out of position in the third period of a Lower St. Lawrence Hockey League game Saturday night. Alexandria Knights of Columbus scored on the play and went on to win the contest. The Alexandria squad held on to first place with the victory.

Glens drop two games, meet Hawks twice

by Peter Conway

CLARENCE CREEK—A third-place finish for the Alexandria Glens in the Alex English Division is still within reach.

But this weekend's home-and-home clash with the third-place Winchester Hawks will go a long way to determine the final standings this season. The Glens can ill afford to lose both games to the Jets. If the Glens have any hopes of vacating the cellar, they'll need at least a split to keep pace with Winchester.

The Glens trail Winchester by four points. Both clubs have played the identical number of games. The Hawks sport a 9-15-3 mark, while the struggling Glens have an 8-18-1 record.

The Glens, while they've failed to beat division-leading Metcalfe this season, have enjoyed success against Winchester. The Glens haven't lost all season to the Hawks.

The same can't be said for the Clarence Creek Beavers. The Beavers rallied for a 6-5 squeaker over Roch Lajoie's club Sunday afternoon at Clarence Creek.

It was a game the Glens let slip away. They led 2-1 after the opening stanza and 4-2 after 40 minutes.

Glen Campbell led the Glens' attack with a two-goal effort during a four-point performance. Andrew McCormick scored once and added two assists, while James Robinson and Sheldon McDougall added singles. Andrew Meth drew a pair of assists, while Robinson picked up one helper.

Luc Belanger sparked the Clarence Creek attack with a pair of goals, while singles went to Eric Laviolette, Greg MacEachern, Pierre Rail and Yvan Bercier.

The Glens continue to be no match for the Metro Division's Ottawa West Golden Knights in interlocking play.

Friday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace, Ottawa West skated to an easy 12-5 win over the Glens. Roch Lajoie's club is winless in three outings against the Knights.

Glen Campbell also had a four-point outing Friday night with a pair of goals and two assists, while Roch Sabourin also chipped in with a pair. Stephen Stewart rounded out the scoring and had two assists. Andrew Meth set up two goals.

Glens' Notes: League officials will decide in the near future about staging a banquet. The awards night maybe staged in Williamstown and hosted by the Char-Lan Rebels.

Ottawa, Clarence slow down Rebels

by Peter Conway

WILLIAMSTOWN — Char-Lan's march to first place in the Alex English Division in the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League came to an abrupt halt over the weekend.

After three consecutive wins, the Rebels lost a 10-7 shootout to South Ottawa last Wednesday night at Ottawa. Saturday night on home ice, the Clarence Creek Beavers surprised the Rebels 8-4. It marked the first time this season the Rebels had lost to the Beavers.

The losses dropped Char-Lan's record to 15-12 and six points behind division-leading Metcalfe. The clubs meet in an important home-and-home series this weekend.

The Rebels led 3-1 after the opening period, but the Beavers stormed back in the middle stanza and outscored Char-lan 3-1 to head into the third period deadlocked 4-4.

Char-Lan goaler Kevin Buchan turned in a solid performance between the pipes as he faced 51 shots.

Mike Jodoin paced the Char-Lan attack with two goals and two assists, while Kevin Poapst and Chris Villeneuve added singles. Mike Lapensee had three assists, while Poapst, the division's top scorer, also had an assist.

Eric Laviolette and Greg MacEachern fired two each for Clarence Creek. Yvan Bercier, Stephane Bercier, Daniel Martin and Guy Simoneau chipped in with singles.

Bruce Bergeron had two goals during a four-point outing in last Wednesday's loss to South Ottawa. Herbie Seguin also had a pair, while Kevin Poapst, Mike Jodoin and Kevin Chafee completed the scoring. Poapst had three assists and Jodoin had a pair.

Rebels' Notes: In the South Ottawa game, Brent Laplante was tossed out for fighting, while Coach Dave Hanson was given a game misconduct as well.

Ron Lefebvre and Gilles Lafrance will miss Char-Lan's game Friday night at Metcalfe. Both were tossed out of Saturday's game for fighting.

Local curlers beat Ottawa club in Quebec Challenge Cup

The march continues for the Alexandria Curling club.

Two local rinks were successful in meeting the challenge of the Ottawa Curling Club Sunday in Quebec Challenge Cup play.

Alexandria now hosts Lennoxville, Que., Feb. 8 in the next round of play.

The foursome skipped by Doug Baxter lost 18-5 to the visitors. Other members of the rink were Art Craig, third, Larry Hay, second and Ken Brown as lead.

Kaye Hay's rink, however, kept Alexandria alive in Cup play with a 19-5 decision against the second Ottawa foursome. Playing alongside Hay were Hugh Allan McDonald, third, Claude Nadeau, second and Gordie Lafave as the lead.

The Alexandria rinks defeated rinks from the Ottawa Navy Club and Granby, Que., recently and will continue to meet the challenge of other clubs as long as they keep winning.

Skaters pass tests

Three skaters from the Alexandria Figure Skating Club enjoyed successful outings during test days over the weekend.

At the Glengarry Sports Palace Saturday, Claudine Nadeau passed her tests in the Rocker Fox Trot and Junior Silver Dance categories, while Chantal Ravary passed the Junior Silver Free-style test.

Blair Fraser skated at Cornwall Sunday and passed his Senior Silver Free-style test.

More must get involved with junior club

SPORTS

Peter Conway

Coaching junior hockey isn't all fun and games. It's far from it. Just ask Roch Lajoie.

Lajoie is in his second year behind the bench of the Alexandria Junior B Hockey Club. I'm sure there are times he's felt like packing it in.

The club is in the cellar in the Alex English Division with a disappointing 8-18-1 record. Things don't appear to be brighter the rest of the season either.

A lot of the critics will blame Lajoie and Manager Claude Roy for the club's poor record. After all, Roy is responsible for securing the talent and Lajoie's task is getting the players to perform up to their capabilities.

Getting the players to show up for games is another matter. There have been far too many times this season when some individuals were supposed to show up but didn't.

When the Glens' brass signed five American skaters attending Potsdam State College, they knew there'd be times when they wouldn't be able to attend.

There have been times, however, when local players have failed to call Lajoie or Roy to advise them they wouldn't be playing for a particular reason.

A reason such as skiing or any other one of this nature, isn't quite good enough in my books. I realize this is Junior B hockey and may not be as serious to some as Junior A or whatever level. But when a player signs a card, he should make that commitment for the season.

This reporter has been told by some in the past of not taking a critical viewpoint of the club. I could write most of the time that the Glens are just gosh-awful terrible. Their record on the ice shows that.

But, the coaching staff and players aren't the only ones to blame. It takes more than a manager and coach to run a team.

The Alexandria Junior B Hockey club is very fortunate. The club has secured a number of sponsors in the past to help pay the bills. It is a costly venture to run a junior hockey team. Without these sponsors, there would be no junior hockey in town.

But, how often do these sponsors attend home games at the Glengarry Sports Palace? Attendance has dwindled significantly this season at the local rink. The club's on-ice performance hasn't helped matters, but like everything else, the product has to be promoted.

How about a few promotional schemes for next season? A shootout between periods at home games or a meet-the-players dance early in the season are just a couple of ideas. Player programs are popular as well.

It is always the same people doing the work at home games. The club's executive must be more involved, showing the community they care and back the club in all functions. From the president to the rest of the executive members, it has to be a team effort.

Alexandria has an opportunity to apply to host the annual Boxing Day tournament next season. Metcalfe has also expressed interest in staging the affair.

There isn't a better rink than the Glengarry Sports Palace to hold the event. There is adequate seating and a beautiful hall. If done properly, it could be a money-making venture for the Glens.

But it would take a lot of planning and a lot of work from everyone involved. Two or three individuals can't do all the work either. It will take a dedicated group of individuals to make sure the event is a success.

I hate to think what would happen if Alexandria ever lost its junior B franchise. People like to sit back and take for granted that a junior hockey club is secure in this town.

Roch Lajoie and Claude Roy have done their share the past two seasons to keep junior hockey alive. It's nice for fans to sit back and criticize Lajoie and Roy for the club's dismal record on the ice. Perhaps, though, some of these people should get involved in some capacity next season to get a first-hand look at running a junior B squad. It isn't that easy.

For Lajoie and Roy, there is no financial reward for their position. When former manager Gaetan Giroux resigned last season because of working commitments, Roy, with no experience, stepped in and filled the position. Sure, he's made some mistakes along the way and he'd be the first to admit it. But, the effort has been there.

The same can be said about Lajoie. He's given it his best shot through the frustrating times.

It is too late this season, but if junior hockey is to survive in Alexandria, more people will have to get involved next year. I'm not sure whether Lajoie or Roy will be back next season, but I hope they do return.

Should they both pack it in, finding replacements might be a difficult task.

Strong effort in Peewee tourney

CORNWALL—Lalonde's General Store Peewees were kept out of the medal round, but it wasn't because of lack of effort during the weekend at the annual Cornwall Minor Hockey Peewee Tournament.

Alexandria competed in the A division and came away with two ties and a loss in three outings. In the opening game Friday night, Alexandria and South Stormont played to a 1-1 draw. Scoring for Alexandria was Michel Jeaurond, while assists went to Normand Jeaurond and Ricky Latreille. Jason Woodside beat Alexandria goaler Donald Glaude for South Stormont's only marker.

On Saturday morning, Alexandria dropped a heart-breaking 3-2 decision to Prescott. Prescott's winning goal came with only 11 seconds left in the contest. Scoring for the local squad were Patrick Sauvé and Victor Denobriga. Assists went to Luc Murray and Randy Gebbie. Daniel Dumont played between the pipes.

Prescott's goals came off the sticks of Geoff Hare, Darryl Kingston and Jeffrey Nolan.

The club then played to a 2-2 draw against Kingston Township which went on to win the A championship.

Michel Jeaurond and Stephane Pilon were the marksmen for Alexandria, while Normand Decoste and Pilon picked up assists. Ryan Ctago and Roy Anderson tallied for Kingston.

Alexandria lost 5-1 to Cornwall Jan. 12 in a league encounter at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Nick Bonneau set up Brad MacDonald for Alexandria's lone marker. John Gallinger fired a pair for Cornwall, while assists went to Travis Duhame, Serge Viau and Kevin Duchesne.

Alexandria will participate in the North-Glen-Stor tourney Saturday at Finch.

Midgets win fourth tournament

The Alexandria Royal Bank Midget Glens were again in fine form on Saturday in Long Sault as they captured their fourth consecutive A championship.

The local squad first played Smiths Falls, winning 4-1. Richard Daniels had two goals, while singles went to Mike Sauvé and Ken Robinson.

The second game resulted in a 5-1 victory over Carleton Place. Jamie Poulin was between the pipes for Alexandria. Scoring were Richard Willard with two, and singles to Chris Sauer, Mike Sauvé, and Marc Sauvé. The A championship game was against Chesterville and again the local squad skated and checked extremely well, resulting in a 5-2 win.

Stephane Landriault was outstanding in net and certainly had a few of the opposition shaking their fingers. Luc Decoeur was selected as MVP. Coach Lajoie feels the players are in good form for their up and coming Midget Tournament on Feb. 1 at the Sports Palace.

Last Thursday, the Glens played host to South Stormont. The Glens played a very physical game, winning 6-3. Rodney Craig, Richard Daniels, Mike Sauvé, Ken Robinson, Richard Willard and Trevor Marley each had singles.

Football's Fennell has Glen Nevis ties

by Angus H. McDonell

The success of writing is based on more than journalistic prose. For instance, out there among readers are friends interested in your efforts who will occasionally drop a line or a phone call drawing to your attention an incident, especially in the realm of sport, that you likely didn't know occurred.

Among our faithful colleagues bearing that stripe is Dorval-Glen Robertson's John Lacombe. For more than a score of years John has been an appreciated, informative correspondent.

In our recent mail there was a memo from John Lacombe with a Tim Burke (Montreal's Gazette) sport column tribute to athlete Ed Fennell who died just before Christmas. Burke relates that Ed Fennell was known as "Mr. Football" in Montreal's East End, Maisonneuve. His life's contribution to sport in the Maisonneuve area of Montreal will be commemorated for all time.

Resident Bob McNab, former British Empire Games wrestling champion, has formed a committee to re-name Parc Champétre to Ed Fennell in his honor.

This park was home for some of the better junior and intermediate football teams representing the East End in the past 50 years. During that time Ed Fennell was player, coach, manager, executive member, president of the Quebec Rugby Football Union and also the Canadian Rugby Football Union. He was succeeded in the presidency by Williamstown's Jim Hill then a Montreal resident.

We had Ed Fennell as an Alexandria Lions Club sportsman's dinner guest many years ago along with other distinguished football officials from Ottawa and Montreal.

Ed Fennell's exemplary citizenship and sportsman's career was enhanced by his Glengarry heritage connections. His mother was Bella Archie Neil (Glen Nevis) Macdonald. Her brothers were John Angus "Archie Neil" and the famed Neil "Foghorn" Macdonald. There is a legend that "Foghorn" once split a bottle of brandy in a London pub with the historic Winston Churchill.

John Lacombe suggests that the credentials of Ed Fennell and Glen Robertson's Andy McGillis should be considered adequate to be awarded a Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame nomination. There is no question about their worthiness. Andy McGillis, born in Glen Robertson, if not in Quigley's, had a legendary career as a successful coach in Montreal amateur football and hockey. Jim Hill, a protegé in football, has already nominated Andy McGillis.

In the case of Ed Fennell, once the backlog of pioneer Glengarry athletes has been reduced, it is the hope of this writer that distinguished sports personalities like Ed Fennell and, also from Glen Nevis heritage, Anne Jardin, Olympic Bronze swimming champion may be inducted by an amended bylaw that will include such nominees due to the Glengarry birth of either parent or both.

Two teams in hunt for first

Roy's Garage is still undefeated in the Alexandria Foot Hockey League, but there isn't much breathing room atop the standings.

Roy's Garage won its 11th straight game Sunday following a 7-4 win over Lalonde's General Store. Greenfield Wings are only two points back of first-place Roy's after an easy 12-0 win over Consoltex.

Donald Carriere and Robert Quesnel paced Roy's Garage with two goals each, while singles went to Jean Lauzon, Gerry Carriere and Roger Carriere.

Richard Quesnel led Lalonde's General Store with a pair of markers, while Gerald Cholette and Andre Cholette completed the scoring.

Willie Kippen scored four times and Larry Smith chipped in with a pair in Greenfield's win. Benny Phillips added a pair, while Bill McLean, Robert Wensink and Lyndon Lewis completed the scoring. Ken Barton earned the shutout.

Richard Leroux and Stephane Landriault's two goals sparked Menard Lumber to a 7-2 win over Nadon's.

Singles went to Gilles Massia, Mike Rochon and Luc Sauvé. Harvey Coleman and Bill Grant replied for Nadon's

MacLennan rink wins turkey bonspiel

Thirty-six teams participated in the Alexandria Curling Club Turkey Spiel which ran from Dec. 8 to 19.

Conveners for the spiel were Karen MacLeod and Peggy Lafave. The team of Donald Angus MacLennan, Joy Clinton, Angus McDonald and Ricky MacLeod captured the "A" Division, defeating Lorne Lawson's team of Ann Williamson, Vincent Barker and Sam Courtney.

Art Craig and his team of Karen MacLeod, Ian MacKay and Lawrence Simpson won the "B" Division, while the runners-up were Norm Campbell, Jean Campeau, Doug Jones and Jacalyn Bray.

The "C" Division was won by Dunc Macdonell, Janette Abbey, Tom Boyle, and Linda MacNaughton, while Keith McDonald's rink of Nancy MacLeod, Angus Gormley and Cliff Rae were the runners-up.

After the prsentation of prizes, the gift exchange was held in the prsence of Santa Claus, while the music for the evening was supplied by Pauline Gibbs.

In other curling news, Kaye Hay and his team of Phoebe Hay, Ian MacKay and Donnie MacLeod beat Al Malcotson, Joy Clinton, Angus McDonald and Linda MacNaughton to capture the I.G.A. Trophy in the regular mixed draw.

Joan Ryan captured the Alexandria Business People's Trophy in the Ladies draw. Her teammates were Edna Peterson, Joy Clinton and Mary Van Loon.

Bernice McDonald's team of Peggy Lafave, Flora Poulton and Cecile Simpson were winners of the Charlottenburgh Trophy.

Peewees lose in final

Char-Lan Timex Rebels made it to the A finals of the Peewee tournament held last weekend at Vankleek Hill, only to lose to a powerful Canterbury squad, 5-1. Robert Curran had the only goal of the game for Char-Lan.

Against the host club in the first round, Char-Lan came out on top as Curran scored in a shoot-out after regulation play saw the teams deadlocked at two goals apiece.

Shane McDonell and David McDonald had the other Char-Lan goals.

A nine-goal effort by the Williamstown team in the second game of the tourney was more than enough to topple Cyrville 9-4. Once again it was Curran and McDonell supplying the goal power as each had a hat trick. David McDonald netted a pair, while Kurtis Latreille had a single.

In a Lower St. Lawrence game prior to the tournament, North-Glen-Stor dropped Char-Lan 5-2. Shane McDonell had both of the Rebels' goals.

Players score two each in win

Serge McIntee and Marc Henri fired two goals each to spark Top Valu to a 5-2 win over Char-Lan in an interlocking Peewee House League game Saturday.

Wade McNaughton completed the scoring for the winners. Picking up assists were Daniel Goddard, Gilles Goddard, Serge McIntee, Marc Henri and Wade McNaughton.

Scoring for Char-Lan were Ryan Winters and Adam Lefebvre.

Eric Lobb scored five times and Sylvain Lavigne added a hat trick as Stewart Plumbing posted a 10-0 win over OPP. Alain Boris completed the scoring with a pair, while Patrick Menard earned the shutout.

Daniel Lauzon tallied five times and Luc Titley scored three as Deguire Plumbing beat Picher 8-2.

Scoring for Picher was Dean Seguin with a pair of goals.

Bantams win

Friday night at the Sports Palace, the Bantam Glens defeated South Stormont 9-4. Denis MacDonald scored twice, while Andrew Sauvé, Stephane Nadeau, Alain Rochon, Patrick Carriere, Roch Levac, Serge Bellefeuille and Luc Francoeur added singles.

Saturday night during a very friendly game, the Glens beat Vankleek Hill 7-1. Andrew Sauvé collected his first hat trick of the season. Jason Palmer scored twice, while Alain Rochon and Luc Francoeur completed the scoring.

Pierre Cuerrier, Serge Bellefeuille and Stephane Nadeau had two assists each.

Births

COUSINEAU—In loving memory of a dear grandfather, great grandfather and father, Alfred, who passed away January 27, 1985.
We watched you suffer,
We watched you die,
But all we could do
Was just stand by.
When the time came we suffered too,
For you never deserved what you went through.
God took your hand and we had to part,
He eased the pain but broke our hearts;
You fell asleep without goodbye,
But memories of you will never die.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by granddaughter Brenda, Mervin and Emily. 3-1p

PICHE—In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Mayo Piche, who died January 19, 1972.
The garment of his soul has passed away
The spirit and the lovelight stay;
The echo of his voice and smile
Still stay with us today.
—In loving memory, Ann and family, Richmond, Ont. 3-1p

COUSINEAU—In loving memory of a dear father, father-in-law and grandfather Alfred Cousineau, who passed away Jan. 26, 1986.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair,
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of one who once sat there.
—Always remembered by son Bill, Betty and family. 3-1p

McDONALD—In loving memory of my dear sons Buddy and Gerald McDonald who passed away during the month of January.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by mother. 3-1c

McDONALD—In loving memory of a dear brother, Gerald, who left us on January 25, 1984.
Every night, and every day
Memories of you come our way.
Though absent, you are always near
Still loved and missed and very dear.
—Sadly missed by sister Viola and family. 3-1p

Carnival season starts with Glen Robertson

by Joanne Stevenson

In Rio and New Orleans, it's Mardi Gras. In Quebec City, Bonhomme roams through a city that the carnival has transformed into one big party. Ottawa rejoices in its Winterlude.

All over the world, folks are preparing for festivals of fun. Glengarry is no exception. While Alexandria may be discontinuing its traditional carnival, other area communities are organizing a variety of winter events. Steaming hot meals provide welcome treats after on-ice activities. Sleigh rides, dances, community club-sponsored happenings, after school special times all add up to snowfilled enjoyment for young and old alike.

The Apple Hill carnival will be held Feb. 6—15. Special events will be concentrated on the two weekends while throughout the week, local backyards will become art galleries for ice sculptures to be judged Feb. 14. For further information on ice art, telephone Madeline MacMillan at 527-2744.

A sponge puck tournament on Feb. 6—7 will be followed by a tug of war contest. The activity centre will be the place to head for the dance and awards presentation Saturday night. Music will be provided by D. J. Pam and Paul. Lunch will be served. Admission is $3 per person and $5 per couple.

Feb. 15 has been designated Family Fun Day. A chili lunch to warm chilly bones will be available. At noon, a ladies' sponge puck game will pit the marrieds against the singles. At 4:30, the male version of the same contest will be played.

Sunday afternoon's events include kids' activities as well as log sawing, log throwing and nail driving contests. Contact Allan Jensen 527-2477 for more information.

Dalkeith's carnival schedule is not quite so definite. A date has not yet been determined, but sometime in mid-February seems likely. A meeting will be held this Wednesday to discuss the carnival. The festival is a joint project of the local Optimist Club and the Recreation Committee.

Dunvegan will be hosting carnival events Jan. 30 and 31. Friday's ski day will conclude with a blazing bonfire.

Saturday, a breakfast has been organized at the Women's Institute Hall. At noon, beginners can try their luck and lack of skill at curling in Maxville. Supper will follow at 8 p.m.

Glen Robertson's carnival will be held this weekend. In the past, the carnival lasted a week. This year, the community, with the welcome participation of Club 65 and the Optimists will concentrate on two days of family fun.

Friday, a teen dance will be held. Saturday, a spaghetti supper and dance is scheduled. Sunday, Club 65 will host a brunch.

Throughout the weekend, arm-wrestling, bean bag throwing and other contests will take place in the parish hall of St. Martin of Tours.

It is uncertain whether the village of Lancaster, celebrating its centennial year, will be organizing a carnival. At the moment, two vacancies exist on the Recreation Committee. It would therefore be difficult for the committees to undertake such a project until replacements can be found.

Maxville's carnival will take place Feb. 23 to March 1. Local schools will participate in winter events Tuesday, Feb. 24 to 27. That weekend, sleigh rides and skating parties will be held.

In St. Bernardin in our neighboring county, a competition will be held to select the queen of the carnival, held Jan. 29 to Feb. 1.

The carnival begins with a senior citizens' day, chock full of games and competitions, ending with a mass, supper and dance.

Saturday will feature hockey games, a snowmobile rally, a disco and a wine and cheese party.

Sunday, a family-oriented production "Le Theatre de Polichinelle," will be followed by a variety of activities, including a hay baling contest and a dinner. Awards are to be presented. Funds raised from these events will be spent to improve the local sports field near the community centre.

Iona Academy at St. Raphael's will be the site of a day-long carnival Feb. 20. Principal Rollande Laurendeau explains the day will be filled with indoor and outdoor games. Teachers are getting involved and some parents will be supervising.

In Williamstown, the local fire department will be holding its annual Fun Day. The fun starts at 1 p.m., Feb. 8. Free hot chocolate and hot dogs will be served at the fire hall to children who spend the day either sliding on the hill, skating or cross-country skiing.

Town to become agent for low-rise housing program

by Lesley Cadham

Owners of low-rise apartment buildings may soon be eligible for loans for repairs and renovations.

Councillors decided the town will participate in the Low-Rise Rehabilitation Program (LRRP) at a special council meeting, Jan. 7.

Loans to cover two-thirds of the cost of repairs or up to $5,000 per unit are available to eligible owners of apartment buildings less than five stories high and built before 1960. There must be at least two rental units in the building, inhabited by low or moderate-income tenants.

If the borrower retains the rental property for 15 years, and continues to rent out the units, the loan does not have to be repaid. He must also be willing to become involved in management and technical training development programs and program evaluation and promotional work, if requested by the ministry. If these conditions are not met, a portion of the loan must be repaid.

The program's goal is to extend the life of rental property. Bruno Lalonde, Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program (RRAP) agent for Alexandria, says it is important to maintain existing low-rental structures. If one burned down because of old and faulty electrical wiring, the owner might not bother to rebuild.

The property might be sold to a developer who might erect a modern building and rents would probably skyrocket, said Mr. Lalonde, at the Jan. 6 town council meeting.

The LRRP is to encourage landlords to improve the buildings so they are fire-safe and do not deteriorate to the point of early demolition.

The loan is secured by a first, second or third mortgage held by the Ontario Mortgage Corporation.

The town currently administers loans under the Ontario Home Renewal Program (OHRP) to homeowners who want to repair or renovate their homes. In addition, the town participates in the Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program (RRAP) under which the owner of a home or rental property can receive improvement loans. The RRAP also distributes loans to homeowners who live with handicapped people.

According to Mr. Lalonde, a landlord can apply for both LRRP and RRAP to decrease the financial burden further. Since September, the Ministry of Housing has provided $165,000 in RRAP to cover $199,000 of repairs to Alexandria homes.

To be eligible, the landlord must be willing to minimize inconvenience caused to tenant's during repairs. He also must submit a plan to the ministry outlining how this will be done and notify the tenants of the rehabilitation plans in writing.

Mr. Lalonde has suggested the town apply for a $100,000 grant. It is not yet known how much will be received, or when.

Snow caused 15 mishaps

MAXVILLE—Last Sunday's snowstorm proved to be disastrous for the owners and passengers of 15 vehicles involved in six related accidents.

Blowing snow and poor visibility caused the mishap along Hwy 417, 1.5 km west of Skye Road. Three minor injuries were reported and total damage is estimated at $20,600.

First, a milk truck slowed down because of the poor visibility. It was hit in the rear by the vehicle following it. The mirror of a Voyageur Colonial bus which had veered to the right to avoid the accident, instead struck the truck's mirror and the bus drove into the north ditch.

Subsequently, one four-car accident and four two-car accidents resulted from drivers' efforts to avoid the initial collision.

Constable Jim Brown of the Maxville OPP investigated the accidents.

PROPERTY ASSESSMENT

and your 1987 Municipal and School Taxes

Regional Assessment Offices located throughout Ontario are responsible for assessing all real property for the purposes of municipal and school taxation.

The resulting Assessment Rolls are delivered to municipalities which use them to set their mill rates and compute municipal property tax bills.

The amount of property tax you pay on your home or business depends on the assessed value and the mill rate set by your municipality. The assessed value multiplied by the mill rate will determine your 1987 property taxes.

Open House Sessions
Open Houses are your opportunity to fully understand your assessment and to evaluate its equity.

Open Houses are held in every municipality at convenient times and locations to provide you with the opportunity to discuss your assessment with staff of the Regional Office.

An assessor will be pleased to explain the basis of your property assessment and is authorized to amend any inaccurate information prior to the delivery of the Assessment Roll to your municipality.

If you have any questions but are unable to attend the Open House, please contact your Regional Assessment Office at the address or telephone number shown below.

Assessment Notice
Property owners and tenants will receive an Assessment Notice only if information relating to their property or assessment was changed during the past year, if the assessment was appealed last year, or if there has been a general reassessment in the municipality. If you receive an Assessment Notice, it may reflect changes you have requested in your school support designation, in the amount of your assessed value, or other recorded information on last year's Notice.

Appeal Procedure
If, after attending your local Open House, you are still dissatisfied with your assessment, you have the right to appeal it to the Assessment Review Board. The Assessment Review Board conducts informal hearings and is responsible for determining whether the assessment under appeal is fair and equitable with the assessments of similar properties in the vicinity or neighbourhood, and may alter your assessment accordingly.

Appeal Deadline
The final date for appealing your assessment is February 26, 1987.

Your appeal must be forwarded, either on a Notice of Appeal Form or as a letter, to the Regional Registrar of the Assessment Review Board on or before February 26, 1987, noting your property address, roll number and the reason for the appeal.

To assist you, Notice of Appeal forms and the address of the Regional Registrar of the Assessment Review Board are available at Open Houses, your Regional Assessment Office, or your municipal office.

Life of Martintown dump could be extended 3 years

by Sue Harrington

WILLIAMSTOWN — A $25,000 engineering report commissioned by Charlottenburgh Township Council recommended using the Martintown dump for three more years.

Council accepted in part, a report by Totten, Sims, Hubicki, on landfill sites in the township, at its regular meeting held Jan. 13.

Joe Rybak, representative of the Cobourg firm commissioned to undertake the study of the sites, told council the South Landfill site, located on the Summerstown Station Road, had never been officially closed by the Ministry of the Environment, only by the township.

Rybak outlined the procedure involved in officially closing the dump, saying the ministry has no objection to the Township sealing the site by filling in with existing garbage.

Although future land use on the site is restricted for 25 years without written consent from the ministry, passive use, such as using the location as parkland, would be acceptable as soon as closure work has been completed and the site seeded withs a suitable groundcover which "takes."

Deputy-reeve Bob Roth raised the question of the cost of proper closure, saying he would not like to approve the report without this information. Council then decided to accept the Totten, Sims, Hubicki report for the North Site only, until such time as cost estimates are available for the south site's official closure.

Concerning the North site, located on part of Lot 21, Con. 7, Mr. Rybak said it would be in the township's best interests to apply for a certificate from the ministry which would give the townshop "three years of grace" in which to either expand the present site or to come up with a suitable alternative.

The report noted leechate is breaking out along the site and although not moving very quickly, is draining into a swamp where it is diluted. Mr. Roth was concerned about this drainage and felt that, rather than expand the North site during the next three years, council should look for alternatives. "Pollution is not a solution," said Roth.

Mr. Rybak conceded that the South site was the better one, but that he understood that there had been "problems with the location of the airport."

Councillor Larry Gordon moved that the report for the North site be accepted and that application be made to the Ministry of the Environment for the emergency certicate. The motion carried.

The ministry came under fire from Mr. Gordon later in the meeting, as he complained it had not replied to calls he had made concerning the burning of materials in a scrap-yard located near the Glendale Subdivision.

Mr. Gordon said he received several complaints from townshp residents regarding the fires in the scrap-yard, and had witnessed, on one occasion flames 15 feet high coming from the yard.

Mr. Roth said the ministry had a "double standard," in the way it operates, slapping a fine on the township for smoke from the dumpsite, yet seemingly ignoring requests for action such as the ones Councillor Gordon had made.

Charlottenburgh Clerk-treasurer, Marcel Lapierre stated the ministry had responded adequately in several previous dealings with the township.

In a report council administrator, Jay Currier, suggested council might wish to make its views on the new Canada Post rural mail delivery strategy known to its Member of Parliament. Currier acknowledged that the municipality has received "nothing formal" on the proposed postal changes.

Reeve Morgan Major claimed it was time to "get vocal" about the closing of local post offices. After little discussion, council agreed to write a letter to MP Norman Warner expressing concern over the plans of Canada Post Corporation to change the method of operation of rural mail service.

No applicants for committee

by Sue Harrington

WILLIAMSTOWN — Township of Charlottenburgh committee members for 1987 were announced Tuesday night at the regular meeting of council. The committees are made up of council members and some lay appointees.

Councillor Paul Rozon will represent the township on the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum committee.

The Industrial Committee will consist of Bill Marlin, Bruce McCuaig, Ray Dugas, Keith Legault, George Kaneb and Councillor Carol-Ann Ross.

Fire Chiefs Van Rankin, Bruce McDonell, and Mike Leger will sit on the Fire Committee along with Councillors Gordon and Rozon.

Deputy-reeve Bob Roth has been appointed to the Raisin River Conservation Authority, while Paul Rozon is the representative to the Char-Lan Medical Centre.

The Recreation Committee remains unchanged from last year with Councillors Ross and Gordon teaming up with Carl Rines, Lloyd Rozon, and Gilles Bourgon.

Roger Bard, G. R. McGowan, Ray Howes, Barbara J. Gale, Larry Gordon and Carol-Ann Ross will form the Planning Advisory Committee for 1987.

The committee member to the Glengarry Memorial Hospital remains undecided.

Council members expressed surprise that there had been no applications from members of the community to sit on the St. Raphael's Ruins Committee, especially at a time when council is applying for a grant from the Ontario Heritage Foundation and for a Community Facilities Improvement Program grant.

These grants would bring the total funding potentially available to $220,000, an amount deemed adequate to complete approximately 50 per cent of remedial measures which have been proposed in the Suter Keller structural assessment of the Ruins.

Group reviews year

MARTINTOWN — A meeting of the Friends of the Martintown Mill was held in early January to report on the activities of 1986. The 1846 fieldstone grist mill was saved from demolition with the first stages of the stabilization project completed by Magus Restoration of Ottawa. As its share of the expenses for 1986, the Friends Committee has contributed more than $14,000 which they were able to raise from private donations and a variety of activities.

The Friends Committee consists of Bruce McCuaig, chairman; Sylvia Thomson, first vice-chairman; Marland Murray, second vice-chairman; Martin Bowman, secretary; Pearl Murray, treasurer and Gillian Horgan, Joan Johnston, Wilfred Johnston, Joan McDonald, Robert More, Douglas Murray and Mary Murray.

The year's activities began in April with fund-raising suppers held at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Marland Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Thomson.

In May, Mrs. Johnston gave a very successful reception for the Friends of the Martintown Mill and their guests at the Nor'wester and Loyalist Museum in Williamstown.

In July, the Friends Committee provided meals for the two-day Eastern Ontario Holstein Judging Conference which was held at Glensprings Farms, Glen Falloch. The committee greatly appreciated the assistance of all those people in the community who provided their time and food at this event as well as other similar events through the year.

Throughout the summer, tickets were sold on a quilt raffle on numerous occasions throughout the area. The quilt, made by Charlotte Bender in the traditional log-cabin design, featured an applique of the Martintown Mill in the centre and was the object of admiration wherever it was displayed.

At a fall dance in September featuring the Cornwall Police Band, the winning ticket on the quilt was drawn by Charlotte Bender. This beautiful quilt was won by Robert Lemay of Chambly, Quebec.

The highlight of the year was a gala fund-raising banquet in October at the Summer Heights Golf Links with Peter Etril Snyder, well known artist from Waterloo as guest speaker. Mr. Snyder's beautiful limited edition print of the Martintown Mill, entitled "Mill on the Raisin," was offered as a door prize.

The winner was Helen McMillan of Martintown. This limited edition print has since been completely sold out. In addition, plates featuring the Martintown Mill were offered as door prizes by Rob McIntosh China of Cornwall.

The plate "Martintown Mill on the Raisin," is a first issue in a series of "Glengarry Scenes," which Rob McIntosh is offering in a limited edition of 500. The winter scene of the mill on the plate was photographed by Marland Murray and is now proudly displayed in homes in the three United Counties and elsewhere.

In December, Mrs. Thomson, chairman of the Fund Raising Committee of the "Friends of the Mill," concluded the year by holding a tea at her home in aid of the mill fund.

The Friends of the Martintown Mill have had a successful first year of activities. The stabilization project has begun and the mill has been secured for the future.

A great deal of work remains to be done. In the next two years approximately $25,000 remains to be raised. Tax receipts will be issued for all donations. Cheques can be made payable to the Friends of the Martintown Mill, P.O. Box 137, Martintown, Ontario, K0C 1S0.

As striking evidence of the lawabiding people who inhabit the United Counties, it is pointed out that for three months prior to the incarceration of Mary Dupont, not a single inmate had occupied the counties jail at Cornwall.—Glen Robertson has, in the person of John McDonald (Turner), a 78-year-old resident of whom they may be proud.
