Glen Robertson residence engulfed by morning blaze

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

A Glen Robertson resident may have lost his home to a fire Monday morning but he could have lost his life if it wasn't for one neighbor's misery.

John Perralte left his Main Street residence around 4 a.m. to drive down the street to help out a neighbor who needed assistance with frozen pipes.

While at the neighbors, Perralte's two-storey home caught fire.

"I needed to go home to get some tools. I left just after the fire trucks drove by and when I arrived home I saw them parked there and my house burning. It's gone, it's gone," shrugged Perralte.

Firefighters left the scene around 10 a.m. but returned around 4 a.m. on Tuesday to put out any possible hot spots. The fire marshall's office has been called in to investigate the blaze.

Perralte, who had just moved to Glen Robertson about four months ago from Niagara Falls, isn't sure if he'll return to Canada's honeymoon capital. The middle-aged man was raised in Cornwall and his parents own a farm in Dunvegan. He works part-time at a pizzeria in Montreal.

Lorraine Latulippe, Perralte's neighbor across the street, said that she woke up to feed her baby around 4 a.m. Before she went back to sleep she looked out her front window and saw plumes of smoke coming from the house.

"I wasn't sure at first if it was a fire or not. But when I saw the flames shooting out of the windows I woke my husband (Yvan) and we called the fire department."

Firefighters used an axe to chop away the exterior of the house to put out any hot spots that might develop.

At first, neighbors thought that Perralte was trapped in the smoke filled house. Latulippe said that she saw several neighbors knock on the front door but there was no answer.

A rescue truck, pumper and mutual aid water basin were at the scene in about seven minutes.

Alexandria Deputy Fire Chief Maurice Brunet said when the 12 firefighters arrived at the scene, the home was too far gone to save. Their main concern was to prevent the fire from spreading to either neighboring house.

The winds were light and the firefighters trained their hoses on the fiery inferno which produced a lot of smoke as well as violent flames squirting through the roof, out the windows and inside the home.

Williamstown on threshold of realizing ethanol dream

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

An energy cooperative in Williamstown will receive $30,000 to study the potential for an ethanol producing plant in the region.

The funding, which will be used by the fledgling Seaway Valley Farmers Energy Co-operative, was announced by Ontario Agriculture Minister Elmer Buchanan in Cornwall Friday.

The funding will allow the co-operative to merge together results of various research done by different agencies on ethanol production and help it determine which site will best suit an ethanol production plant.

Such a plant, if set up, would use surplus corn grown by farmers to make ethanol, an octane-enhancing fuel additive which replaces more harmful enhancers presently used in fuel.

An ethanol operation would be an economic boon for the area. It would help farmers, especially during poor corn seasons, could create 120 plant jobs and many more through spinoffs, such as in trucking and in agriculture-related business.

Local MPP Noble Villeneuve, who has been pushing for almost 10 years to have ethanol producing plants, was pleased with the announcement.

"It's a very good feeling," he said in a phone interview Monday.

It took a long time to convince the government that ethanol production is viable -- it has been used since 1978 in the United States as an environment friendly octane enhancer -- but it seems now that there is no turning back.

"It's a go. I don't think there's any doubt about that," Villeneuve said.

The 12-farm Williamstown co-operative, formed last year, has been pressuring the government for months to provide funding to look into establishing ethanol production plants.

Robert Smith, president of the co-operative, said the research report may be completed in as early as 60 days. If given the go-ahead, the plant could be up and operating by the end of next year.

He said in a release detailing the grant that co-operative members were excited about the project.

"We have already been able to demonstrate that ethanol production is good for agriculture and the environment. New funding will allow us to build community support for it," he said.

The goal of the co-operative is to produce cheaply enough that it will not raise the price of gas at the pump and possibly even decrease the pump price.

If that can be accomplished, that, along with environmental friendliness of ethanol will make the product difficult to resist.

Different areas which may provide a good site have been thrown around, including the vacant Courtaulds plant in Cornwall, at Kraft's cogeneration plant in Ingleside or Casco in Cardinal.

The co-op was initially looking at locating a plant in Summerstown. But while Glengarry is Smith's sentimental favorite, there is no guarantee that is where the plant will end up.

Location will depend on what is recommended in the study as best for farmers, consumers and everyone involved.

The feasibility study is one of two being funded as part of the ministry's support for community economic development under the Co-operative Community Fuel Ethanol Development Project.

The project, co-funded with the communities, is aimed at assisting rural-based organizations to determine the implications of a fuel ethanol plant.

"I believe ethanol will play an important role in rural economic development," Buchanan said last week.

Building to fly:

Alexandria father-son tandem assembling homemade plane

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Maurice Leger must have a screw loose.

But the self-admitted airplane fanatic is the first to reveal that fact.

"After the last one I said never again. Look at me now, I'm doing it all over again. This is very addicting," Maurice says while staring in reverence at an intriguing metal skeleton.

The long and narrow skeleton, which is perched atop a wooden jig, will be the backbone of the fuselage for a home-built airplane. Maurice, along with his son Mike, are assembling the plane in Maurice's garage.

The duo have been working on this monstrous project for nearly two years and estimate that it's only half complete. So it's understandable that either or both of the Alexandria residents would feel as if they have a screw, or in this instance a rivet, loose.

After all that's one of their biggest chores.

Approximately 15,000 rivets will be used in the construction of this RV-4 high performance airplane. Maurice and Mike must endure five separate steps such as measuring and drilling the hole just to place a single rivet.

They have to repeat the process over and over again. It's almost become second nature to them.

"Sometimes I look at this and ask myself 'What the hell am I doing?' This is a very slow process. You have to do a lot before you see any concrete results," Maurice says.

Some assembly required

The twosome are equal partners in the project. They purchased a kit from Oregon with most of the parts already included but some assembly is required. Actually 1,500 to 2,000 manhours is required to assemble the airplane.

"What you see here (the fuselege) took us over four months to do. It's deceptive because it doesn't look like very much. There are frustrating moments in any project but..."

"The only way to reward yourself when working on a project of this scale is to take it one piece at a time. Once you finish something and put it away, it's completed," Mike interjects.

The wings and the tail feathers are completed and the fuselage is partially finished. The engine, the instruments and the instrumentation panel are some of the other areas which are waiting in the wings for the pair of intrepid aerial enthusiasts.

Maurice and Mike have been slowly plodding through this project. On any given weeknight or weekend during wintertime, the pair can likely be found in the old garage measuring, aligning or drilling something while old 60s Motown tunes blare from a radio.

Sewage upgrade step in right direction :MOE

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

The Ontario Ministry of Environment has given its preliminary thumbs up to a long-term sewage upgrade plan drawn up by Alexandria.

The plan was presented to ministry officials in Cornwall on Tuesday, who will review the $5.6 million, 15-year upgrade and then send it to ministry officials in Kingston for further consideration.

Mike Holy, district manager for the MOE, said his initial reaction to the plan is good.

"It looks like a pretty positive plan they had taken," he said Monday.

What is impressive about the plan is that it does not rely on government funding to complete the work. The money will be completely raised by the town through sewage user fees.

Sewage fees, which will be instituted in the next Public Utilities Commission billing, will raise about $280,000 a year for the town for sewage upgrade work.

The upgrade plan addresses a number of areas in an attempt to reduce the amount of flow going through the town's sanitary sewage system and into its overtaxed sewage treatment plant.

Work is detailed in a bar chart submitted with the plan, showing the different projects the town will tackle each year and the amount that will be spent upgrading the system annually.

What remains to be seen is how all the measures will affect the over-capacity problem at the sewage treatment plant and whether they will be enough to allow more development in town.

Holy said measuring devices will be placed in the sewage system to determine how much the upgrades will reduce unnecessary flow to the sewage plant caused by groundwater and rain infiltrating the system.

"We may be able to determine fairly quickly, even the work that has been done and will be done this year on the rainwater leaders, I think there is a fair bit of optimism that that should reduce flows substantially," he said.

"And with the flow measuring, particularly on the overflow of the trunk sewer, that's what we're really looking at this stage."

"So if they can show some improvements there, then that's the very first thing we'll be looking for and it would be very encouraging to see that."

There won't be any immediate easing of the MOE's development freeze, Holy said, until the ministry monitors the plant through the spring, winter and fall to see what the results of the work are.

George Hambleton's weather report for the month of January

The suspicions of many Glengarry residents, especially those with snow shovels, has been proven. January was an unusually snowy month.

Nearly twice the amount of white stuff fell this year, 83 cm or 33 inches, compared to 48 cm or 19 inches which was recorded last January. The amount of rain recorded was about the same, 64 mm or 2½ inches this year compared with 75 mm or 3 inches recorded last year.

The average temperature this January was a little colder than normal, 1° or 2° fahrenheit below the norm. The high was 8.5°C or 47° fahrenheit. The low was a frigid -25°C or -13° fahrenheit. The high is well above last year's high of 3°C or 37° fahrenheit. The low for last year was a bit colder, -29°C and -20° fahrenheit.

assessment of the project.

"This gives me a place to get away from it all. We're not on a tight schedule so we can set our own pace and that keeps us happy. This is a hobby."

As a youngster, Maurice had daydreams of climbing into the cockpit of an airplane and flying at breakneck speeds through the wild blue wonder.

"Since I was 15, I've been reading about airplanes in Popular Mechanics. It's something I've always dreamt about," reminisces Maurice.

In 1971 he built an airplane from scratch. He finished it three years later and sold it in 1977. Before and after that project he flew other airplanes but a home-built, he says, has many advantages.

They're cheaper to purchase, cheaper to repair and cheaper to maintain, says Maurice.

Mike's passion for airplanes comes from his childhood.

"I remember flying with Dad in an airplane when I was youngster. I just got sucked into it," he says.

The pair plan on flying to air shows held within 500 miles to swap tips and talk shop with other aerial enthusiasts who own home-built airplanes.

In the meantime, however, they'll be satisfied with making measurements and drilling holes in the hopes of flying together by late 1994.

Good things really come to those who wait.

Correction

A story on the front page of last week's News incorrectly stated how much the sewer user charge metered customers, such as large industries will be. It will cost metered customers based on water consumption 50 cents per 1,000 gallons used. The News apologizes for the error.

Lancaster chamber recognizes best of the best

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Approximately 100 people attended the second annual Lancaster District Chamber of Commerce Awards Banquet held at the Heritage Golf Club in South Lancaster Saturday night.

And when Chamber President Roger Menard announced the winner of the 1992 Citizen of the Year award, the only person surprised was the recipient, Ileen Latreille.

The always-smiling Lancaster resident returned home four years ago and her impact was immediately felt.

The 68-year-old woman, who was raised in Lancaster but has lived in Summerstown and Williamstown, has a soft spot for seniors. And that's the area where most of her time is spent working as a volunteer.

She's not only the president of the Jolly 50s Club but is also a tireless volunteer at Chateau Gardens Nursing Home in Lancaster.

Chateau Gardens Administrator Diane Morin says that Latreille was the perfect choice for the award.

"She's very important to us. We need people like that. She's a very sweet lady. She's not very talkative but she's really nice.

She's always smiling. She's always happy. I could think of no person better to recognize with that award."

Latreille's bright and positive attitude has brought some extra cheer to many seniors. She spends countless hours at the nursing home feeding the residents, playing cards or just chatting.

Latreille said receiving the award is just icing on the cake. The real reward is the personal satisfaction she derives from her work every day.

"When I get older, I would like somebody to come in and do for me what I'm doing for them."

And Latreille doesn't plan on slowing down anytime soon. "As long as I can keep going I will. I would feel bad if I missed any of this. This work gives me a lot of satisfaction."

She also received an award of recognition presented by Glengarry-Prescott- Russell MP Don Boudria.

The Auld Kirktown Craft and Gift Shoppe, owned by Ranald and Madeleine MacDonald, won the inaugural 1992 Business of the Year award.

The eight-year-old business, which was recognized as the operation which best symbolizes Lancaster's business community, was unanimously selected by the judges over four or five other local businesses.

"I'm just thrilled and very honored," Madeleine said just after the couple accepted the award.

"We happened to build the right business at the right time."

Madeleine and Ranald MacDonald were presented with the first ever Business of the Year Award presented by the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce at their annual awards banquet held Saturday evening at the Heritage Golf Club in South Lancaster.

When it first opened in 1984, Kirktown sold mostly cheese from local producers and imported a small amount. The business expanded three times since then and they now sell crafts of all types including wreaths, dried flower arrangements and hand made pine furniture.

Madeleine said that the store has faired well in tough economic times because of the loyal local customer base and also attracts people from Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa.

Kirktown was one of the first craft stores opened in South Lancaster, which is home to many craftspeople who sell their wares at the store. Now there are about eight other stores who compete with Kirktown but they remain one of the village's most successful businesses.

Other award winners included Town and Country Flowers and Gifts, owned by Sheila Olson, which won best Christmas decorated business. The winners of the best decorated home were Raymond and Pierrette Rose, who were featured in the late January edition of The Glengarry News.

Betsy Robinson, Romeo Jobouin, Paul Charbonneau, Barry Millett, Marg Millett and Richard Menard were recognized for their efforts during the Canada 125 celebrations last year.

Milton McDonald — who is involved with organization such as the Public Utilities Commission, Gaelic choir, the Royal Canadian Legion and former Lancaster Village reeve — was honored with the Many Hats award.

Crown attorney makes arresting speech

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

As a Lancaster youth, Murray MacDonald sometimes used tigertail shrimp instead of nightcrawlers for bait.

He drove a beat up old green pickup truck that looked like something from the television series The Waltons. A broom handle was the gas gauge and MacDonald was especially proud of his truck painting prowess, although it was done with a brush.

The wanna-be hockey player was known as 'The Judge' because he made a career of sitting on the bench.

MacDonald, who calls himself a "local boy" from Lancaster, now serves as crown attorney for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

The whimsical man was the keynote speaker at the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce Awards Banquet held Saturday night at the Heritage Golf Club in South Lancaster.

Murray MacDonald

Lancaster is out of step with the times, he said of the small town where values and doing the right thing is commonplace.

"In my job, I read pre-sentence reports about kids who spend their time playing Nintendo or watching movies played by a VCR.

"Their goal in life is to party and their objective is to drop out of high school as soon as they can and expect that life will hand them a Ferrari and a big, beautiful house on the shores of the St. Lawrence River," MacDonald said.

Life has never, isn't and will never be that carefree.

Lancaster is a place where parents, educators and the entire community expects its youth to be constructive and to make a positive contribution to society.

The civic pride of Lancaster residents is what sets them apart from many other area communities, said MacDonald. That's one of the primary reasons that the youth are expected to do more and act their age.

"I'm confident that this community will bring back to society what is lacking in the youth who have to be brought back down to earth. The principles of working hard for the sake of working hard, earning a living and looking out for your own family," MacDonald said.

An endless flow of young offenders pass through the court system and in front of MacDonald's eyes.

But the one-time Lancaster resident said that he rarely has any contact with residents, especially the youth, in the court system and that's all the evidence he needs to decide that the tiny town is something special.

Counties warn of blowing or pushing snow

The United Counties road department is again warning people not to push or blow snow across roads this winter.

The "potentially dangerous" and illegal practice placing snow from private driveways onto public roadways negates the work of road crews and can create a driving hazard, according to the counties road superintendent.

"Snow that is blown, pushed or tracked onto the road becomes a hazard," said Donald McDonald in a recent press release.

"This snow, especially when deposited on the road after the road has started to bare usually refreezes, causing unexpected slippery spots on otherwise clear roads,"

"This element of surprise has caused accidents."

Farms could see tax drop with new assessment system

By Lesley Cadham
News* correspondent

Kenyon Township farms could be sitting pretty if Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry United Counties Council opts to go with an updated market value assessment.

The impact of taxing properties based on 1988 market values as opposed to 1984 market values which are currently used, was raised by Clerk-Treasurer Mary McCuaig at last Tuesday's Kenyon council meeting.

She told council that if the updated assessments are used, about 89 per cent of farms in Kenyon would see a decrease in taxes--as much as $1,000 per year.

Council members said they wanted to know more about market value assessment, and deferred voting on whether to endorse the United Counties' plan. The matter will again be raised at the Feb. 16 council meeting.

Reassessment of all SDG properties according to 1988 market values has already been done, but the United Counties is waiting to hear from its 20 municipalities to find out how much support there is for taxation based on updated figures.

If the reassessments are utilized for taxation purposes, it means that comparable properties in any SDG municipality will be assessed at a value equal to each other.

Two properties of the same value located in different municipalities would be billed equally for counties and school taxes. The municipal taxes would probably not be the same, since the needs of the municipalities would likely be different.

For some United Counties municipalities, the updated assessment will mean an overall decrease in assessment, while for others, like Kenyon Township, it could mean a minute overall increase.

About 60 percent of properties in Kenyon would see a rise in property assessment. The remainder would see a decline. What this translates to in tax dollars, or even in percentages for individuals ratepayers, is yet unknown, said McCuaig.

The assessment on all township industries would increase, with Railtech in Apple Hill bearing the largest rise.

The City of Cornwall, though it is not a United Counties member, can opt into the system if it chooses, and would see a substantial decrease in assessments.

Properties are taxed according to the assessed value: If the value rises, chances are that taxes would follow suit.

Anna Margaret MacDonald and Ted Sonne entertained approximately 45 seniors at the Brown House Circle's sixth anniversary celebration held at St. Raphael's parish hall last Wednesday. Members of the seniors' social club attended the afternoon event which featured a pair of guest speakers. In addition, the group's executive was appointed during the meeting.

Death and taxes come full (Brown House) Circle

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

There are only two things certain in life — death and taxes.

And those two subjects were the focus at the Brown House Circle's sixth anniversary meeting held at the Parish Centre in St. Raphaels last Wednesday.

The seniors social club meeting, which was attended by approximately 45 people, featured a pair of guest speakers who covered those topics.

The messengers and the information they delivered was well received by the audience, said club president Ambrose McDonell.

"Death is sort of a taboo subject. People are afraid of it and afraid to talk about it," said Ronald Munro, the funeral director at Munro and Morris Funeral Home Inc., one of the two guest speakers invited to the meeting.

"It's important to discuss your feelings and to plan ahead."

Munro said that although preplanned funerals is a relatively new trend, it's rapidly growing.

Dying is inevitable but people can control their funeral by making most of the arrangements in advance. It takes little time and even less work, said Munro.

"There are so many choices to make. It's important to talk to a funeral director so that you can ask questions and get the answers on paper."

And by arranging and paying for the service in advance, you'll save some money. Any funds which are paid to the funeral home in advance are held in trust at a bank. The money for the service, just like a regular bank account, is insured up to $60,000.

That money, plus all of the accumulated interest, can be withdrawn at any time through the funeral home. The funeral home can charge a $100 adminstrative fee.

Extra money, such as the interest, that exceeds the amount of the funeral service must be paid to the funeral home's customer and not the business itself after the service as was once done a few short years ago.

Another major concern for seniors is their financial security.

Barry MacDonald, a financial planner who works for AIC Investment Planning Limited and the other guest speaker, said that the tax man cometh. But there are several options which seniors can explore to limit the amount of damage he does to their pocketbook.

One option is a Registered Retirement Income Fund (RRIF).

Many investors use a Registered Savings Plan as both a tax shelter and a nest egg for the future. However, at age 71 seniors must collapse their RSP and nearly 40 per cent of their lifelong savings could go into government coffers.

However, that money can be rolled over into a RRIF which is similar to a RSP, explained MacDonald.

RRIF payments are taxable but the money which stays in the account is exempt. The senior will also receive regular payments which will increase so that the amount may match the rate of inflation.

"It's important to maximize that money. One of the nice things is that it's automatically indexed each year. Inflation is the big enemy but you may be able to outperform it," said MacDonald.

Court Report

The following cases were dealt with by Judge J. M. Bordeleau in Alexandria Provincial Court on Thursday, Feb. 4.

Thirty days in jail

A 30-day jail sentence has been imposed on a Glen Robertson man who pleaded guilty to an alcohol-related charge and to a charge of driving while impaired.

Norman Lacombe, 32, was sentenced to 15 days in jail for driving a motor vehicle while having more than 80 mgs. of alcohol in 100 mls. of blood, and to another 15 days for driving a motor vehicle while disqualified. Lacombe's licence was suspended for a year in March 1992 when he was convicted of driving a motor vehicle while having a blood-alcohol level exceeding the legal limit.

He is also prohibited from driving for another two years.

Lacombe was arrested Aug. 8 when OPP noticed his vehicle travelling 30 km/hr. slower than the speed limit and crossing into the opposing lane.

Breath tests showed 111 and 103 mgs. of alcohol in 100 mls. of blood.

Judge J. M. Bordeleau conceded that the breath test readings were not "the highest" and took into account that Lacombe had pleaded guilty at the earliest opportunity.

Lacombe is permitted to commence his intermittent sentence next week, to meet commitments.

Jailed for 15 days

A Cornwall man with a previous record was sentenced to 15 days in jail for stealing a car and failing to appear in court.

The defence lawyer for 24-year-old John Lauzon told the court that his client had previously borrowed the car and thought the owner wouldn't mind if he took it again. Lauzon had failed to appear in court because "he just forgot," said lawyer Marc D'Amour.

Lauzon was arrested on Nov. 13, after the car he and two other people had stolen was involved in an accident on Cty. Road 27 in Charlottenburgh Township. The thieves had broken a window to gain entry into the car.

Lauzon, in custody prior to his court appearance Thursday, was ordered to serve 10 days for the theft, and five days for failing to comply with an order to appear in court on Dec. 17.

Charge reduced

A $250 fine and a 30-day prohibition from driving was imposed on a Quebec man who last year was involved in a rear-end collision which resulted in one death.

Astley Smith, 27 of Chateauguay, was found guilty of careless operation of a motor vehicle, a Highway Traffic Act violation.

Last month, Smith faced the criminal charge of dangerous driving; a charge that was reduced when during the preliminary inquiry trial it was determined that his statement to police had been given before he was properly cautioned according to the law. It was determined that as a result, there was insufficient evidence to support a criminal charge.

Crown Attorney Guy Simard Thursday told the court that last May 31, Smith was eastbound on Hwy. 401 west of Fraser Road when he turned on his jeep's interior light to look at a cassette tape; his jeep rear-ended a Ford Taurus travelling ahead of his vehicle. The collision resulted in the death of a 63-year-old female riding in the Taurus.

Smith was permitted to retain his driver's licence until Feb. 5, to allow him to drive back to Quebec Thursday.

Violent refusal nets fine

A Cornwall man who became violent when hospital personnel tried to obtain a blood sample to determine blood-alcohol concentration was fined $760 for driving while under the influence of alcohol and refusing to provide a blood sample.

Craig Tremblay, 19, was ordered to pay a $400 fine for driving under the influence of alcohol and $300 for refusing to provide a breath sample, and is prohibited from driving a motor vehicle for 15 months. He must also pay $60 in victim fine surcharges.

Crown Attorney Guy Simard told the court that Tremblay's vehicle had slid off Hwy. 34 and hit a tree in Alexandria during snowy weather. An OPP officer responding to the accident saw an open bottle of liquor in the car and noted Tremblay displayed the usual signs of alcohol impairment.

Tremblay became violent to hospital personnel and police while they were trying to obtain a sample of his blood.

Defence lawyer Guy Willis told the court that Tremblay "freaked out" because of a fear of needles.

Judge J. M. Bordeleau told Tremblay that being afraid of needles was not a complete defence on the charge of failing to provide a breath sample.

Impaired driving nets $600 fine

A 31-year-old St. Isidore man was fined $600 and is prohibited from driving a motor vehicle for one year after being found guilty of an alcohol related charge.

Francis Guindon was arrested on Aug. 1 after OPP found his car in the ditch on County Rd. 20 in Kenyon Township. Guindon was sitting in the driver's seat.

Breathalyser tests revealed 221 and 220 mgs. of alcohol in 100 mls. of blood.

Crown Attorney Guy Simard asked for a high fine because Guindon's breath test readings were high.

Guindon must also pay a $100 victim fine surcharge.

Theft nets suspended sentence

A suspended sentence and 15 months probation was granted to a 28-year-old Kenyon Township man with a previous record, Thursday found guilty of theft and failing to comply with a court order.

Richard Robinson pleaded guilty to theft under $1,000. He was also ordered to comply with a 1991 court order to pay $334 in restitution, which was supposed to be paid by June 1992.

Defence lawyer Pat Rudden told the court that Robinson "doesn't belong in jail" but that it's got to "sink in" that he can't take other people's property.

Robinson was arrested for the April 25 theft of two motorcycle side covers.

Judge J. M. Bordeleau told Robinson not to appear in court again.

The light at the end of the tunnel

There are 89 residents of Glengarry who are now receiving services from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind (CNIB). As the county's population continues to age, this number will undoubtedly grow, and it is important that we all have a better awareness and a healthy attitude about visual impairment.

The CNIB does its part by annually designating this week (Feb. 7-13) White Cane Week. It's an appropriate time; midwinter is a dark time of the year, but it's also one in which the days become noticeably longer — the darkness slowly shifts to light.

Visually impaired people have worked since 1946 to move the stigmas, myths and popular misconceptions, from the darkness of ignorance toward enlightened opinions regarding visual impairment. Yet, there has to be a comfortable recognition that there is nothing ''wrong'' with this human condition. It is, in fact, okay to have poor or failing vision in this society, to paraphrase CNIB's president, Euclid Herie.

''People are our most precious natural resource,'' says Geraldine Braak, president of the Canadian Council of the Blind, ''All people have the ability to contribute, and when recognizing this, you learn to overlook the disability. People who are blind or visually impaired should be accepted as people first and accepted for their abilities, regardless of their disabilities.''

Part of that acceptance has to come from a realization of certain facts in 1993. Among them:

•visually impaired people face unemployment rates several times higher than the national rate.

•not all people with serious visual impairments use white canes, underlining the fact that all visually impaired people would be recognized as people first and not someone disabled;

•half a million Canadians have a vision-related disability;

For the visually impaired, life can be frightening, but only when they feel an invisible barrier exists between them and the rest of society. Realization of that alone will go far in helping each of us to experience life through the eyes of a visually impaired person.

Ratepayers need to be forthright too

Sometimes it's too easy to blame your neighborhood township council for its lack of accountability. But when ratepayers themselves refuse to step forward and be counted over an issue they expect needs addressing, there is no question about where the blame should lie.

A couple of petitions surfaced in Kenyon Township recently, disagreeing with the new waste reduction and recycling system, and favoring keeping the township's crowded waste disposal sites open. Some 435 names were gathered between the two petitions, but no single person or body was willing to accept responsibility for their circulation.

The lack of specifics associated with both petitions suggests they were hastily arranged and signatures like ''M. C. Hammer'' and ''You'' tended to make one of them about as credible as a $3 bill.

This is not to say that the issue which spawned the petitions do not warrant the attention of the public. Quite the contrary, it is heartening to see people involved in such a critical issue. But it is incumbent on any detractor of public policy, just as it is for any politician to clearly state their views, to come forward. It's the symbiotic relationship that keeps the wheels of democracy greased.

To do otherwise through petitions of dubious credibility is cowardly and petty. And it cheapens the importance of the issues at hand.

Kenyon council was quite right to file the petitions until someone came forward to take responsibility. It eventually passed a new agreement and implemented a system which addresses the chief concerns of the complainants, before they had received the petitions. The main complaints were answered, and it seems apparent that allegations of ''handshake'' agreements between Maxville and Kenyon were wrong and in fact border on slander.

This instance is a stark reminder of the potential damage rumor, innuendo and directionless and anonymous protest can induce. How can Kenyon's councillors strive to be forthright and up-front when their constituents won't extend them the same courtesy, or sense of fair play?

Constructive protest has always been the public's biggest weapon against government irresponsibility at every level. That kind of involvement needs to be nurtured in these days of cynicism and apathy.

But any time it's done irresponsibly, as it was in this case, the public's role in shaping municipal policy becomes little more than a joke.

TOWN OKAYS $5.6 MILLION PLAN TO UPGRADE SEWERS

The musician takes to the pulpit

The face is the same but the title has changed. Fear not — there will be more ''After Thoughts'' in the future. But once a month in this space, we will highlight a different ''face or place'' from this fine old county, anything from lost villages and towns to characters to odd hobbies and careers, a sort of ''On the Road Again'' in print though Diane wouldn't mind if I looked a little more like Wayne Rostad. The idea is to give you a breath of fresh air on this page, a removal from some of the more — or less — serious issues of the day.

I hasten to add that if you have any ideas, know any people, places or things that might make an interesting subject, please call us at 525-2020. Let's make it a fun read!

Faces 'N Places

by Joe Banks

You might say this is one clergyman who tries to be in tune with his congregation.

Rev. Paul Rumbolt has been the full-time ordained supply minister for the Glengarry East Pastoral Charge which includes Alexandria United Church, while the charge finds a full-time minister. In that brief time, he's impressed his Sunday listeners with his entertaining musical talents, which were honed as a professional musician playing bistros and cafes at his former charge of Sutton, Quebec. He specialized in light rock and folk music.

After he became the minister of that charge he continued to play ''sporadically around the townships — it did a lot to make me known and it opened people's eyes to the kinds of things ministers do and that we're not just a cloistered up group.''

A native Newfoundlander from Corner Brook, Rev. Paul also does not look the part. Outside of the ministerial collar, in fact, his beard and hair would be at home in any coffee house, hall or bar. But his love of people and a desire to reach and work with youth has been the drive behind his call to the ministry.

It's easy for him to relate. At 33, he's young enough to be relevant for the young, yet wise and experienced enough to serve the traditional needs of the congregation's senior members and the charge in general. He left Newfoundland in 1976 and studied at Memorial University in Newfoundland and completed his Masters of Theology at the Atlantic School of Theology in Halifax. He was ordained in 1987, spent two years back in Newfoundland and then ''took the call'' to Sutton, Quebec in 1989. There in the Eastern Townships he served a two-point charge at Durham and Sutton United Church.

While on a six-month study leave, from July to December, Rev. Paul played bistros and cafes and he began to see how he could merge his talents as a musician with his gift as a spiritual leader.

''I played in communities where 99 per cent of the people spoke only French and I was playing 100 per cent English music, and yet, these people were singing right along with me. Folk music seemed to have crossed all of those lines.''

Just before the end of last year, he decided he wanted to do more parish work, and when he found out there was an opening at the Glengarry charge, withing commuting distance of his present home of Pointe Claire, Quebec, he applied. The position is for six months, but ''over the next two or three months'' the charge leaders and he will ''decide where we'll go next.''

So far, though, he's enjoying the people here and finds it has all been ''kind of a neat experience.''

Initially, he has been circulating through the ''network of places that provide services through pastoral care; ''First and foremost I'll be working with the people who are sick or shut-in.''

As a ''firm believer in being known to the community,'' Rev. Paul would like to do as much youth work as possible, and to share his music. He writes his own songs, and has performed some for his Sunday audiences. He lives at the United Church manse on Saturdays and Sundays and commutes through the week to his home where he lives with spouse Michele, 29, a teacher by profession, daughter Amanda, 10 and son Ryan, 5.

How will he cope serving a four-point charge that is normally ministered by two clergy?

''With great difficulty,'' he says with a smile. ''People said when Pat and Colin (MacDonald, the former ministers) left they were exhausted.'' But for now, Rev. Paul wants to ''take care of all the basic necessities.'' That should be made easier by the ''good strong lay leadership'' there is in the charge.

Right now, though, there will be soft guitar music floating through the sanctuaries of Glengarry's United Churches that should go a long way in taking the harsh edge off winter's bite.

Gun law echoes George Orwell's 1984

That's Life

by Lesley Cadham

As we approach Valentine's Day, a day traditionally reserved for bringing home flowers, heart-shaped boxes of chocolates and fancy lingerie, some people in the State of Oregon are considering bringing home a gun law.

Before you say ''So? Oregon is more than 3,000 miles away in another country and a gun law is a good thing,'' read on.

This law would make it unlawful NOT to keep a gun in the house.

Why? Gosh yeah, why?

Studies show crime will continue its mad progression and soon, children will be killing their peers and children will be killing younger children and children will be killing adults. A real fancy prospect. So someone's saying let's keep guns in our homes to solve the problem. Let's shoot kids so we can nip the problem in the bud. Let's do that. Sounds fine, doesn't it?

Yeah, just fine.

What on earth are we coming to?

It's a little more than frightening to think that the world is getting so crazy that such a drastic measure — one that would effectively put the law into the hands of citizens — is being considered. And it should scare everybody, even Canadians living way up here where things seem to be a little calmer, slower, more relaxed. Less crazy.

If it can happen in Oregon, it can happen anywhere.

A world in which a gun is mandatory for every household comes a little too close to the world disturbingly depicted in George Orwell's 1984.

We do have problems; crime is on the rise, and young people do seem to be more involved in it. Canadian youngsters are not excluded.

Of 30 people to appear before the Alexandria Provincial Court judge last week, three hadn't yet celebrated their 18th birthdays and had been charged with break, enter and theft, mischief and breaching probation. A 17-year-old faced 10 charges. Nine young adults under age 22 had been charged with offences such as break, enter and theft, possession of contraband tobacco, impaired driving and conspiracy.

Should we protect ourselves from these kids by keeping guns in our nightstands, just in case we wake up some very dark night to find one of them carrying away our stereos and microwave ovens? Or in case one of them is there to do a more unspeakable act? It's a tough call.

My home was once burglarized, so I know the fear and anger people can feel afterward. I was lucky because I didn't have to use any force; the perpetrators were gone when I got home.

You don't lop your hand off just because a cut got infected. You attack the root of the problem, the source of the infection.

People turn to crime for a reason. Often, defence lawyers cite joblessness, broken relationships, loss of loved ones, unhappy home lives and even poor health as contributing factors. Very often, kids who appear in court have dropped out of school and aren't working; adults have been laid off from their jobs. Which factor came first varies, but what remains the same is that people turn to crime for a reason.

Find the reason and you're halfway to a cure.

Try to cure the ill by killing the carrier and you're halfway to the third world war.

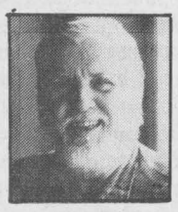
The Lion's Tongue

(Part 3)

Highland Paths

by Ken McKenna



Why did Gaelic almost die out in Glengarry? We mentioned a few reasons in previous columns: English is the language of North America — true, (and evidently of the modern world, to judge by the increasing use of it everywhere). To learn more than one language is bad, or too difficult, or impossible — wrong. Gaelic is a dead language — wrong. It may be losing ground, but about 100,000 people still speak it. Gaelic is out-of-date — it has no words for many modern terms — wrong again. Gaelic is like any other language — it borrows words that it has not got for words that it needs, the same ways that English uses Greek or Latin words — radio, television, electric and so on. All modern languages borrow from one another and from ancient languages if there is reason. Where would the distillers be without the Gaelic word ''uisge-beatha'' — whisky?

Many years ago, a friend who was a member of the County Council of Inverness, Scotland, told us of a meeting that he had attended in which the use of Gaelic was criticized as lacking in modern terminology. The suggestion was made that road signs in Gaelic-speaking areas should include the original Gaelic name as well as the English version. This was strongly opposed by some of the members who had retired and taken up residence far from their native southern homes and who considered the Scottish Highlands as just an extension of Manchester or Liverpool.

''Gaelic is a dead language,'' blustered an ex-army colonel, ''it has no modern words.'' ''Give us an example, Colonel,'' said our friend, ''of a word that cannot be expressed in Gaelic.'' The Colonel thought deeply. ''Ah ha!'' he finally said, ''I've got you! How do you say spaghetti in Gaelic?'' ''How do you say it in English?'' said our friend.

But there are other reasons for the disappearance of Gaelic. In the early days in Glengarry many were humiliated when they sought jobs in the city and found that their English was not good enough, or that their Gaelic accents were made fun of by their fellow workers. Such experiences were often enough to turn them against their mother tongue and to discourage them from ever speaking it again.

Dr. C. M. C. Smelt of Cornwall learned Gaelic when he studied in Scotland. There he heard the sad story of how one family, at least, lost their Gaelic. It was told to him by one of the children involved. One evening, at the table, their father interrupted their conversation in Gaelic by bringing his hand down with a thud on the table and shouting at his children ''you will never again speak that language in this house. It will never do you any good in this world. It is a useless language and worth nothing to you.'' And so shame and guilt were heaped on the children, and all for speaking their native language. Variations of this behavior, most times in a more subtle way, were a major cause of the loss of ''The Lion's Tongue.''

Of course, many believed the calumny of the enemies of the Gael, that Gaelic was inferior, a gibberish, a rough and savage tongue. They were ignorant of the heritage of the Gaelic poets and the songs of the Gael which became the wonder of the musical world when they were rescued from oblivion. Some years ago, at Mòd-Ontario in Toronto, Simon Mackenzie, a guest artist from Scotland, sang a bardic song that had been traced back for at least 900 years, representing the oldest living folk tradition of Western Europe.

(Mòd-Ontario-Glengarry, a festival of Gaelic in words and music, comes to Glengarry on June 4th and 5th. For information about competing or attending, call Anne or Kenneth McKenna at (613) 874-2861.)

Letters

Bishop holding trustees accountable

To the editor:

In one way it is easy to reply to the letters which have appeared recently in the Glengarry News, denouncing Bishop LaRocque's condemnation of the vote of three school trustees. It seems that the writers overlooked the main point. Those trustees have publicly and officially supported an action that goes against the teaching of their church in an important matter. They were held to account for that by the person qualified and appointed to do so, namely their bishop. So, what is the problem? People who do not hold with the teachings of the Catholic church can shrug their shoulders and keep on thinking and doing what they want. But loyal Catholics should pay attention.

However, it is distressing to see the Glengarry News publishing material that made two of these letters virtually "hate" letters. Parts of them were based on distorted truth, misunderstanding due to ignorance, and bigotry. The writers seemed to take a malicious delight in digging up and exaggerating shortcomings of Catholics in the past just to create animosity towards the church or the Bishop. Their material had nothing to do with Bishop LaRocque reprimanding members of his flock.

Surely one of the functions of a newspaper is to allow people to engage in civilized discourse, not to indulge in personal name-calling.

Last week's letter from Mr. Beaudette was more thoughtful and better argued. He writes warmly of our "wonderful and precious" Catholic tradition, and the "love, truth and goodness which Christ taught us." He seems to acknowledge that Christ founded a church to preserve and continue his teaching, and provide access to his goodness for all time. He refers to official church teaching of Vatican II and the Canadian bishop's statement of Humanae Vitae. He suggests that Bishop LaRocque should read them again. But there is nothing in them that would condemn the Bishop's action! We suggest that Mr. Beaudette should read them again, and in addition the supplement of the Canadian bishop's statement where the bishops explain that their statement cannot be construed as a licence to ignore church teachings.

Bishop LaRocque has been true to the teaching of Christ and has done his job courageously, but not necessarily diplomatically. Mr. Beaudette has overlooked the fact that the bishop did contribute a letter to the consultation of the three trustees when he mistakenly accuses the bishop of not offering guidance.

Unfortunately, it is obvious from the denouncements in the Glengarry News that the bishop's words are misunderstood and give offence, where offence certainly was not intended. This is perhaps the fault of the confusion that reigns in our society, which, like Pontius Pilate, does not have much use for truth. It is also due to the confusion that exists among Catholics when the meaning of words, and style of explanation used in the church's teaching, do not convey to them the meaning they have. There is a communication problem.

Dr. Edgar's letter casts an excellent, clear light from the medical community on the question of condoms, and should be required reading for anyone who advocates their use.

Of course, Bishop LaRocque has no choice but to guide the people of his diocese according to the teachings of Christ. If Christ's teachings seem "archaic and detached from life" to some Catholics, to others they are the Truth and Light. This is a source of pain and disunity in our community. Hopefully, all of us who are trying to be true to the authentic teaching of Christ could find means to give expression to them in a way that all can accept. Meanwhile, the Glengarry News is providing a forum for which we are grateful.

Sincerely,
John and Moira van Nooten,
R.R. #1, Glen Robertson.

Tales sought for scrapbook

To the editor:

The loss of Sangster's & Sons Store in Bainsville due to fire on the night of January 4, 1993 is one that is shared by all Glengarrians.

And while the Sangster family and friends are busy rebuilding, we would ask all interested Glengarrians to help rebuild the history of Sangster's Store by sharing with us their memories of this Bainsville landmark.

Glengarry gatherings this past month have proven to be a rich source of stories about Sangster's and we ask your newspaper's help in extending an invitation to all those who wish to contribute their stories to a memory scrapbook for Sangster's.

Interested readers are asked to submit brief, written stories, anecdotes, memories, jokes on a sheet of 8½x11 paper, handwritten or typewritten and signed , with the writer's name and address included.

Tales can be short, tall, funny, touching, historical, personal, practical and more. Some story ideas: first visit to Sangster's; picking up the mail at Sangster's; an unusual item bought at Sangster's; conversations at Sangster's. Persons from every age group are welcome to participate — we've got about 100 years to work with!

Please have your stories in by February 28, 1993 to one of the following addresses: Pat Ager, P.O. Box 880, Bainsville, Ont. K0C 1E0 or Anne McRae, c/o Box 6, R.R. 1, North Lancaster, Ont. K0C 1Z0.

Musings on condom mania

To the editor:

On the subject of condoms, the very word seems to elicit in people spontaneous humor or downright serious thought. There doesn't seem to be a middle ground for condoms.

Opinions, unlike condoms, do not seem to stretch very far in either direction. You're either for them or against them. Personally, I'm not very serious about condoms. From what I understand they don't work all the time, they are awkward to carry around, they are environmentally unfriendly, and they often only come in one size.

Companies like Trojan and Ramses love condoms, and produce them by the millions. They come in different shapes, colors, and textures. Exotic name brands and seductive advertisements vie for customer attention on the shelves of the nations' pharmacies. Companies like Trojan and Ramses love to see their products in dispensing machines and would jump at the opportunity to install these money-makers in schools like GDHS. They would install them in washrooms — perhaps even classrooms, cafeteria and corridors. I'm sure companies like Trojan and Ramses would even provide free samples to staff, administration, office and maintenance personnel.

Sounds interesting? I think not. Being from the "old school" I never thought I'd see the day that condoms would be sold in schools. Such progress! Such commercialism! Such nonsense!

But — wait a minute. How about the new destreaming format for Grade 9's where schools like to offer experimental courses. A credit could be offered in, let's say — prophylactics.

One of my colleagues at a recent staff meeting was of the opinion that the successful use of a condom required a Grade 12 education. I can think of spin-offs for my environmental course where the 3-R's could be practiced — Reduce, Reuse, Recycle.

Since condoms are not foolproof, surely we could reduce their use by devising alternate methods of protection, both for pregnancy and aids.

The reuse factor might be more of a challenge given the fact that friction, through use, tends to wear the product thin. Bicycle patches might be a solution; wearing multiple condoms might be another. Drying the condoms after use would require specialized hangers so as not to puncture the latex. Multi-colored and textured condoms drying outside in the same manner as clothes would provide for an interesting scenic view.

Mundane uses for recycled condoms are as party balloons and water bombs on college and university campuses. Eclectic applications for recycled condoms might incorporate their use as parachutes for small rodents living in mountain regions when they inadvertently fall from cliffs. The produce department in supermarkets could probably recycle condoms as protective coverings on such perishables as cucumbers and/or bananas.

I can also foresee the demise of bungee jumping to be replaced one day by used condom jumping. These are but a few ideas that could be researched in the new prophylactic course.

Perhaps public school board money could be allocated for research and development into prophylactics given the fact that so much news coverage has been generated on this topic over the past several weeks.

Read Paul's letter

To the editor:

Referring to the public admonition of school trustees by Bishop Eugene P. LaRocque in the January 13th issue of The Glengarry News.

Perhaps Bishop LaRocque should have referred Paul's letter to the Galatians to his leader in Rome who has yet to publically admonish priests, nuns, brothers or bishops for their fornication, gross indecency and sexual irresponsibilities towards young boys and girls. Bishop LaRocque seems to forget or wishes to forget the old adage: "People who live in glass houses should not throw stones."

Letter possibly misleading

To the editor:

Brent Beaudette's letter to the editor in The Glengarry News, February 3, 1993, while it may be well intentioned, but necessarily gracious, could be misleading to those of your many readers who are not familiar with the documents of the Second Vatican Council. He quotes Dignitatis Humanae, Dec. 7, 1965 as being the teaching on the individual's religious conscience, and implies that this means that the individual may follow his conscience on matters of the Catholic Church's doctrines and directives. The document in question is from The Conciliar and Post Conciliar Documents of the Second Vatican Council, under Chapter 60; Declaration on Religious Liberty, which goes under the subheading of On the Right of the Person and Communities to Social and Civil Liberty in Religious Matters.

This is a document that spells out the freedom to profess one's faith, no matter what they believe, and not to suggest that it means to do what ever you feel is the right thing to do in a specific church or religious body.

If he really believes what he implies in his letter, using the same logic; anyone could join any social body, for example an exclusive club, and argue that they will become members but reserve the right to pick and choose what particular bylaws or regulations they feel their conscience will allow. It is very doubtful that they would be allowed to remain in the club. (Is it possible they would allow dissenting members?)

You cannot have your cake and eat it. He should be aware of this liberalism, it is the insidious slow poison of those who believe that they are spiritually self-sufficient. Liberalism runs hand-in-glove with individualism, not much room for charity here. Both liberalism and individualism are masks for selfishness. The danger of this sort of thinking is that it shuts out of our lives any need for sacrifice, particularly self-sacrifice. Anything that gets in the road of our comfort must be eradicated, it becomes our priority. Consequently obedience is reduced to a choice between complying or whether it is convenient to comply. Often the decision is rationalized as "following one's conscience."

If there is an illness in our society, it is that of disobedience — the original sin — but no longer considered a sin. Sin has become a matter of our conscience, no matter how badly our conscience is formed.

It is doubted that these are the last words on this particular subject, if for no other reason than there are none so blind as those that won't see, or none so deaf as those that won't hear.

To finish with one more quote, as it seems to be in vogue in these columns, even though I cannot think of the author: "Stubborn people are stupid, and very stubborn people are very stupid."

Sincerely,
A. E. Wilding,
Alexandria.

GLENGARRY ASSOCIATION FOR COMMUNITY LIVING

In June of this year the Minister of Community and Social Services, The Honourable Marion Boyd, announced a cut to funding for sheltered workshops of 5 million dollars with 2 million dollars to be flowed to supported employment services in Ontario.

For the Glengarry County this will mean the Glengarry Association for Community Living will be faced with a minimum cut of 10,000 dollars for this fiscal year and 19,000 dollars for the 93/94 fiscal year.

While the cuts are aimed at the sheltered workshop system, the reduction in resources makes it difficult to continue to develop supports aimed at assisting peopie to find and retain regular work in our community.

The Ministry did not consult with the Glengarry Association for Community Living prior to making these cuts and has grossly underestimated the detrimental affect it will have on the support we are able to provide to people.

During the month of February, Volunteers and Supporters of Arc Industries are asking for your support by signing our petition to the Minister of Social Sevices asking her to reconsider the decision to cut funding to sheltered workshops.

Too close for comfort

Police Briefs

An Alexandria man got too close for comfort and rear ended another car he was tailgating.

On Saturday, Feb. 6, Roland Leroux was northbound on Main Street. The car ahead of him, a 1987 Volkswagon driven by Nancy MacDonald of North Lancaster, slowed to turn left on to Kincardine Street.

Leroux's car struck the rear bumper of MacDonald's car around 9:50 a.m. Both vehicles sustained moderate damage.

VCR, turntable taken

Lancaster OPP are investigating the break, enter and theft at a residence located on the third concession road in Charlottenburgh Township which occurred sometime between Friday, Feb. 5 and Saturday, Feb. 6.

A JVC video recorder and a JVC turntable were stolen. No value was given

Snowmobile stolen

A Bainsville resident noticed something missing from his shed, his 1992 Polaris snowmobile. The snowmobile was stolen sometime between Thursday, Feb. 4 and Friday, Feb. 5.

Lochiel Township orders signs

Building Administrator Dorothy Irvine got an okay Jan. 12 from Lochiel council to place an order with Dave's Reliable Signs for 1,200 rural number signs, costing $36,000.

The signs cost $26.14 each, and are constructed with a white vinyl-clad post and a crossbar, holding the numbers written in blue.

A letter will be mailed to every Lochiel property owner indicating placement of signs, cost, and the promise that the township will send out a crew to install the signs if they are not put up by homeowners by a specified date.

Dave's Reliable Signs of Cornwall was the winning bid out of five bids submitted to Lochiel Council for the sign contract.

SD&G United Counties Council recommended Dave's Reliable Signs design to its 20 member municipalities, for the new rural numbering system, which is being installed to speed up the response of ambulances, firefighters and police.

Dave's Reliable Signs is owned by Dave MacDonald, Reeve of Charlottenburgh Township. He is also a member of United Counties council.

What a surprise... not!

Statistics prove 1992 was a good year for crime

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Desperate times call for desperate measures.

And the 1992 crime statistics recently released by Long Sault OPP, district headquarters, reflect that trend.

"When the economy is recovering slowly (from the recession) and the number of people out on unemployment insurance stays high that usually relates to the crime statistics," says Long Sault OPP Sgt. Al Crocker, community services co-ordinator.

The statistics prove the obvious, the crime rate in the patrol areas of the OPP in Lancaster and Maxville both increased in 1992.

In particular, the number of break and enter offences committed ballooned to alarming proportions.

In Maxville, the number of homes broken into in 1992 doubled to 62 from 1991's total of 31. The number of commercial buildings and businesses broken into nearly tripled in 1992. Those numbers swelled from 10 cases to 28.

Lancaster was also hard hit.

The number of homes broken into there grew from 35, in 1991, to 87. That's an increase of nearly 250 per cent. The commercial sector didn't suffer as much. That area increased by 23 per cent, from 31 to 38 cases.

Other crime statistics such as robberies of a violent nature, stolen cars and stolen items in Maxville all increased.

Other than the break and enter cases and stolen items, the number of robberies and car thefts in Lancaster dropped by five and 25 per cent respectively.

Unless the economy picks up in 1993, Crocker says, the situation will likely not improve.

He expects the number of break and enter cases to increase along with the theft of cigarettes. In 1992, approximately $58,000 worth of cigarettes were stolen from Maxville and Lancaster stores.

Traffic accidents in Lancaster increased by 11 per cent. There were 38 alcohol-related mishaps and four people were killed in three fatal accidents.

The news was a bit more encouraging in Maxville where the number of accidents dropped by 10 per cent. Four people were killed in four accidents and six accidents were alcohol related.

Statistics for Alexandria were not available at press time but the local police are expected to hand them in today at the Alexandria Police Commission meeting.

Chamber elects 1993 board

Alexandria and Lancaster florist and gift shop owner Sheila Olson was elected president of the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce at the organization's annual meeting last week.

Olson was president of the chamber in 1990 and has served as director and in various positions on the organization.

Dean Piche, the 1992 treasurer for the chamber, was elected vice president. Joanne Trottier, executive director of InterAgency, was elected secretary and accountant Pierre Vaillancourt was elected treasurer.

The eight directors include former president Pierre Aubry, Joe Banks, Pierre Burelle, Chantal Baribeau, Matt Jans, Randy MacDonald, John MacDonald and the non-elected appointee representative from the town, Councillor Francine Richer.

The board will be meeting every second Thursday of each month for luncheon meetings.

School reducing superintendents

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

A superintendent who has worked for the Cornwall and Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Boards of Education for over 20 years will be calling it quits on June 30.

Gerald Samson, who is best known for his work with franchophone schools, presented his letter of resignation at a SDG Board meeting recently held.

He adds that with Samson's resignation, which Dilamarter figures was submitted so that Samson could spend more time with his family, the school board has the opportunity to save money.

Samson's position will not be filled. The SDG School Board will reduce the number of superintendents from four to three, a saving of $60,000 per year.

James Dilamarter, the director of education and secretary of the SDG Board of Education, says that the board must lead by example in these tough economic times. However, Samson's workload will be split up between the other superintendents and other staff will help pick up the slack.

Samson's career first began in Quebec and Saskatchewan over 35 years ago. He came to the area in the early 70s when he began working at General Vanier Secondary School in Cornwall.

In September, 1974, Samson moved on to Tagwi Secondary School where he was the dean of social sciences when the school first opened. He has remained in SDG ever since.

Dilamarter, says Samson will be missed.

''He possesses a wealth of knowledge which he's collected over the years that few can match. He's well-liked and well-respected. He's extremely loyal and I consider him a very good friend and colleague,'' says Dilamarter.

Samson moved on to Ecole Secondaire La Citadelle where he was appointed vice-principal and a few years later principal. His focus expanded as did his responsibilities when he was named co-ordinator of French As A First Language and then was appointed as a superintendent of education for the Public School Board.

Dilamarter describes Samson as the guiding force who helped introduce French into elementary school classrooms. His work helped make possible the opening of Ecole Horizon-Jeunesse along with the future opening of a French language elementary school in Alexandira and another in Cornwall.

Known for working tirelessly and 14 or 16 hours at a time, Samson will remain employed, albeit part-time, by the school board for the next three years. He will continue to guide the French As A First Language programs.

Dilamarter says that by retaining Samson, the transition will be much smoother for francophone schools.

Winner of the Optimist $1,000 monthly draw for the month of February, held last Sunday, was Marcel R. Dupuis of Cornwall. Vendor was Marguerite Lefebvre.

During the meeting, Roxanne Lacroix received a participation certificate and a set of pen and pencil from the Optimist Club for representing Glen Robertson at the Optimist ''Essai Littéraire'' contest. Needless to say that the family, who was present, were quite proud of Roxanne. Congratulations Roxanne and keep up the good work!

We extend sympathy to Rollande and Ernest Lefebvre upon the recent death of their brother-in-law, Réal Duperron of Toronto.

Sincere sympathy also to Jean-Marie Larocque whose brother, Emile Larocque died recently. He was also the brother-in-law of Germaine Larocque and Jean Ann Larocque.

Our deepest sympathy to all the family and friends of Elzear André who died last Friday at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital. Mr. André was 91 years old.

I visited with him many times while he was a patient at the Community Nursing Home in Alexandria. Despite his ill health, he was always in a cheerful mood and would not let you leave without telling you a joke or two.

After suffering for many, many years and being a man of great faith, he has finally reached his goal, eternal life with his Father in heaven. Funeral was held last Monday in St. Raphael's.

Raisin River Country

Courses being offered at Char-Lan district

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

It's a cold winter's night. The roads are a challenge, to say the least. But you've signed up for a computer course in the big city, and now you are being torn. Thoughts of, ''Should I go or should I stay?'' plague you all through supper.

Good news, readers! This scenario need never happen again. Now you can walk, cross country ski, or snowmobile to your computer class. That's right! Computer classes are going to be held right here in Williamstown at Char-Lan High School.

In a recent letter to the community, Principal Brian Gilmour writes: ''During the second semester we would like to provide opportunities for our adult community members to access school facilities. Courses would be given using our modern IBM computer lab or our state-of-the-art technology centre. In addition, we can offer leisure courses for those persons interested in music, art or woodwork.''

Proposed offerings, dependent upon at least ten people registering, include the following: Introduction to computers; WordPerfect 5.1; Intermediate WordPerfect 5.1; Spreadsheets, Lotus 1-2-3; Intermediate Spreadsheets; Windows 3.1; Corel Draw 3.1; or Woodworking.

Courses, which range in length as well as in cost, may be run in the evening or in a combination of evening/weekend, depending on client preference. Registration deadline is Feb. 15. For more information, telephone the school at 347-2441.

Several weeks back, mention was made here of all the locals who were offering businesses from their own homes — more proof that you don't have to leave Williamstown for many reasons at all.

It had been my hope, initially, to zero in on one business per week. Upon reflection I decided to categorize things into groups, but that turned out to be just too much work, especially when I haven't heard from all that many of you. Therefore I shall use the hodge-podge method of disorganized reporting: If the spirit strikes you, give me a call. If the spirit strikes me, I'll give you some space. See? Simple really.

Paul Vogel has two enterprises on the go. His Raisin View Game Preserve is stocked with pheasant, chukar, and quail, and Paul offers hunters the opportunity of up to four hours of hunting at a time. He also raises registered Labrador Retrievers, black or golden.

Meanwhile, Paul's wife, Linda, is busy in her own right. She operates Pal's, a business selling crafts, quilts, quilted pillows, and gift baskets, and is planning to expand into wedding invitations, balloon-o-grams, etc., shortly. Linda's work can be seen displayed at Mother's Cupboard in Lancaster.

Dinner out in Williamstown this weekend will be at St. Mary's Centre, where the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League — St. Lawrence Division All-Star Banquet will be held on Saturday evening, Feb. 13. Lynd McDonald of the Rebels says that it would be nice if members of the community would come out and support this event. This year a few of our local boys should be winning some of the awards!

Dinner is at 7:30 p.m., with a social hour preceding, beginning at 6 p.m. Tickets are $12 per person.

The Green Thumbs Horticultural Society held its membership dinner meeting recently, with 50 souls venturing out on one of those not-so-good nights, mentioned above. The food at the pot luck was ''amazingly great,'' I'm told, and the Henry Hore presentation of videos of members' gardens, equally so.

Anyone who was unable to attend that evening, but would like a membership and a book, is invited to call Liette Butrym at 347-3019.

The Green Thumbs' February meeting will actually be held on March 1, at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre. More details will follow.

And now, a little pot-stirring, brought about by the mention of the word ''pot luck'' above. A claim in the February newsletter of the Glengarry Historical Society says that ''the word pot luck entered the English language through the North West fur trade. It is a rather intriguing corruption of the Kwakiutil word potlach.''

Not according to the Oxford English Dictionary, my friends. The 16th century satirist and man of letters, Thomas Nashe, was using the term pot luck long before the days of the fur traders. In fact the first record of it in the English language came in 1592, when Nashe wrote, ''That pure sanguine complexion of yours may never be famisht with pot-lucke.'' (Must not have been quite the quality of Glengarry pots-luck!)

So unless there was some gift-exchanging between white men and the Nootkas before the days of Cooke, or raft races across the Pacific which have as yet been undiscovered, pot luck is nothing more than what the name says!

Ontario Heritage Week, Feb. 15-21, will be marked in Williamstown with an exhibit at the Bethune-Thompson House entitled, ''Indian Wives in Early Glengarry.'' To see the display, just drop by the house any afternoon that week, between the hours of 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Bruce and Susan Watt, Chris and Doug, formerly of the Glendale, on the death of Natalie which occurred last Thursday. We also extend sympathy to Caroline and Ron Turner, newly moved to the village, on the passing of Ron's mother in Burlington.

After last week's news, about the casting of Scenes from Glengarry School Days, many requests for ticket information have been received. Please be advised that while tickets for the Friday evening performance (Apr. 23) may be purchased at the door, the Saturday evening and Sunday matinee performances take the form of a dinner theatre, and as such must be purchased in advance.

The tables at the dinner theatre seat six, and it would help organizers if you could get a table of six together, before reserving your seats. If you are going as a single, or a couple, etc., you will be seated with same.

To obtain your tickets, please phone Nancy Woollven at 347-3598.

A note to parents: This play will be of interest to children in the over eight age group, and attendance at the Friday performance is recommended.

Martintown
by Lillian Rouleau

Free workshop for seniors

Health and Welfare Canada, through the New Horizons Program, is sponsoring a free three-hour workshop for seniors 60 and over. This workshop will be held in the community centre, Tuesday, March 9, from 9 a.m. to noon, and it is open to any senior in the community.

The workshop will be made up of three one-hour sessions. The first hour will cover the body and aging. During the second hour, participants will receive an assessment of physical performance, energy capacity and flexibility. And the third hour will feature a discussion on an Active Living Program, and how it relates to your personal physical energy levels, with demonstrations on exercising safely.

Dr. William Orban, author of the Royal Canadian Air Force 5BX Plan for Physical Fitness, is the co-ordinator of this workshop. Dr. Orban is the retired dean of the School of Human Kinetics and Leisure Studies, and Professor of Kinanthropology at the University of Ottawa. He is also co-author of Healthy, Happy Aging, a positive approach to active living.

Accompanying Dr. Orban on this workshop are Christine Johnston, who has over 20 years of experience in the fitness field, and Louise Timmins, who has worked with seniors since 1985, planning and co-ordinating community projects.

If interested in participating in this free workshop, please pre-register before Feb. 15, by calling Beverly Hinks at 347-2729 or Elizabeth Peters at 528-4554. Reserve early, as the space is limited. It is not necessary to be a member of the morning exercise program to participate in this workshop.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church

St. Andrew's held its annual church meeting, Tuesday evening, Feb. 2, following a pot luck supper in the church hall. The congregation celebrated its 66th anniversary on Oct. 18, 1992, and mention was made that, in 1926, there were eight young people in this congregation who are still worshipping there today. To quote the annual report: ''These people have spent a lifetime in the work and worship of this church.'' They are Dan Ferguson, Robert Goudie, Helen (McDermid) McMillan, Gordon McDermid, Melba (Fraser) McDermid, Hugh Munro, Mae Munro and Sadie Munro.

The Adult Bible Study group met at the home of John and Eileen Fourney in Lancaster, Sunday evening, Feb. 7, to study the third lesson in the Book of James.

The youth will be doing the service Sunday, Feb. 21. Congratulations are extended to Gordon and Melba McDermid, who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, Sat., Feb. 6, with a small family gathering. Visiting with them were daughter and son-in-law, Marion and Gene Hunter, Guelph.

Retail postal outlet

The new retail postal outlet at K-Cee's, on Main Street, in the village, will be fully operational, Tuesday, Feb. 16. Postal products and services will be available during the following business hours: Monday to Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Sunday from noon to 10 p.m.. Mail delivery will remain at the present post office building, and customers served by rural routes will continue to have the same service, although time of delivery may alter slightly, as delivery will originate from the Cornwall Post Office.

Char-Lan open house

Parents of Grade 8 students graduating from Martintown Public School in June are invited to attend an open house at the high school, Wednesday, Feb. 10 at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Part of the evening program will include information on registration and a tour of the school facilities.

Council Briefs

The following are among the items discussed at an Alexandria council meeting held on Tuesday, Jan. 26, 1993.

Grilled

Deputy Reeve Jacques Joly was questioned by John Hope about receiving an expense allowance for being chairman of the environment committee.

Joly confirmed he is receiving a $200 a month expense allowance as compensation for the amount of driving he does as environment committee chairman.

The allowance, in lieu of a kilometre charge, was approved by the environment committee in November.

Recommendations

The environment committee has recommended Alexandria's landfill site remain open on Saturday mornings and that there be no increase for tipping fees at the site this year.

The recommendations, approved by council Jan.26, were made at a Jan. 26 environment committee meeting.

Street work

The public works committee has recommended $106,000 in street work for the town this year.

The work will be eligible for 50 per cent funding from the Ontario Ministry of Transportation.

A connecting links project, the repaving of Main Street between Derby and Kenyon will also be done. The total cost of the project, to be funded 90 per cent by the Ministry of Transporation, is $58,000.

The committee has also recommended the paving West Boundary Road between Massie Crescent and Tonia on a 50/50 basis with Kenyon Township, and East Boundary Road from Victoria Street East southerly 1,500 ft. on a 50/50 basis with Lochiel.

More pay

Council pay Public Utilities Commission board members $78 per meeting for contract negotiations.

The commissioners currently get $78 for regular meetings and special meetings, but do not get paid for negotiations.

Mayor Jean Paul Touchette said commissioners get $1,500 a year. He said they sometimes have to take a whole day off for negotiations.

Crime money

Council has agreed to allow Nevada tickets to be sold to raise money for The Seaway Valley Crime Stoppers program.

Mayor Jean Paul Touchette said the money is needed to tide the program over until it gets funding organized with area service clubs, and will only be a temporary measure.

Council had earlier in the meeting turned down a similar request by a non- profit group, a point stressed by Councillor Roger Lemieux and also noted by Councillor Archie McDougall.

Touchette's endorsement of the request prompted McDougall to say the issue is ''wide open'' now and he will vote yes to all future Nevada sales requests.

He said that council members can't be ''hypocrites'', allowing some groups to sell Nevadas in town and not allowing others.

Retrofit

Council has approved a retrofit plan for the Glengarry Sports Palace, aimed at reducing the operating cost of the facility.

Alexandria's portion of the retrofit will be $40,000, according Clerk Leo Poirier. Total cost of the retrofit will be $129,000.

Warden gets pay raise from counties

County Warden Jim Cook's honorarium was upped $500 to $11,500, to pay mileage and defray his expenses representing the Counties at official functions.

Counties council also okayed $3,500 to host civic receptions and luncheons at its Jan. 18 and 19 session.

Lancaster Reeve Charles Sangster was appointed to represent Warden Jim Cook when he is ill or absent. Sangster chairs the counties finance committee.

Council made grants of $9,000 to CNIB, $1,500 to the Salvation Army, $200 each to Canadian Mental Health Association, Muscular Dystrophy Association and SD&G Seed Fair, $300 to St. John Ambulance, $100 to United Counties science fair, $550 for Junior Extension work in each county, $500 to each county for Crop Improvement Association, and $500 to each county to the Local Plowmen's Association.

The Royal Canadian Legion was granted $150 for poppy campaigns and each county got $500 for Statutory Agricultural Representative grants.

Grants of up to $1,800 were made to various agricultural societies in the counties, matching grants from the Ministry of Agriculture.

Survey highlights need for computer, keyboarding skills

included increased student skills for keyboarding and accessing computers; greater interpersonal skills (listening, negotiating, tolerating); better communication skills (written and oral) and co-operative skills (with peers, with authority and with small and large groups); also needed is a development of global awareness.

Programs to be developed would be: daily (30 minutes) physical activity (not sports); health awareness (nutrition, breakfast/lunch supplement); library upgrading; audio-visual updating; computers in each classroom with skills developed; and values education to include creative morning exercises, singing of the national anthem, readings from various values resources, daily thanks for gifts of food, shelter, health; positive self-esteem programs; support groups and activities; quality day-care in co-operation with early childhood education program with colleges.

There were also other suggestions (19 in all), such as longer school day, school year, more use of the school facilities, provincial standards of testing, reducing money spent on bussing, evaluating the immersion program, one system for immersion, setting up a tutor system. All parents who provided input shared one common suggestion: a simple school uniform or dress code.

Luane Doyle, Martintown P.S. school committee representative on the Vision 2000 committee has forwarded the compiled results to Jim Dilamarter.

Martintown Public School

In his first newsletter as principal of Martintown P.S., Dave Irwin expressed his enthusiasm and eagerness to share his energies and dedication to the ''enhancing of what has been a school thoroughly immersed in the processes of providing the best public education possible for Martintown and area students.'' Mr. Irwin is well-known for his active involvement in the community through the arts and music, and his dedication to youth and the school community will be a great asset to Martintown Public School.

The school hosted the girls' floor hockey tournament Wednesday, Feb. 3, while the boys' teams met at Iona Academy.

The grade 3/4 class will be going swimming Friday morning, Feb. 12.

Grades 6, 7 and 8 students left early Monday morning to travel by bus to Camp Fortune in Old Chelsea, Quebec for a day of cross-country and downhill skiing.

The BABES program is coming to the school for Grades 1/2 and 3/4, in the afternoons of Feb. 9, 11, 23 and 25, and March 2 and 4. This is a puppet program offered through the health unit and school nurse Lynn MacGillivray.

The school committee will once again be selling wild blueberries (Nova Scotia), with delivery for some time in March.

Mini conference for teens

A mini-conference will be held for seniors at Martintown Public, Friday, Feb. 12. This will be an all-day event, with skits, group discussions, presentations by youth leaders dealing with peer pressure, dating and relating, positive lifestyle and self-esteem. This conference has been brought to the school through the PTA committee, with expenses sponsored by the Optimist Club, for the benefit of the students who were unable to attend the conference held in Cornwall in the fall.

Optimist Club

The Optimist Club members held their regular meeting at the community centre, Thursday evening Feb. 4. The members were brought up to date on the various projects presently under way: participation in canoe race day, 50/50 barrel-through-the ice draw, student sponsorship for a leadership conference, and projects for the environment.

Reminders

Morning exercise classes at the community centre, every Tuesday and Friday, from 9 to 10 a.m.

Euchre party, Thursday, Feb. 11, 1:30 p.m., at the community centre. Special prizes for Valentine's Day, and a lunch.

Condolences

Condolences are extended to the family of the late John Cooper Cain who passed away recently and whose funeral service was held Monday, Feb. 8 at 2 p.m., Rev. Ian MacMillan officiating.

Retirement seminar

Retirement planning is not only for people who are presently leaving a business or the workforce, but should include everyone who wishes financial security down the road.

A three day seminar will be held at the Maxville Sports Complex February 3, 10 and 17, 1993. The program will begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 3:30 p.m.

The three day seminars welcomes young farm families as well as those approaching retirement.

The cost of the seminar will be $10 per day. Individuals may attend one day or the three days.

Glengarry Memorial Hospital

Board briefs

The following are among the items discussed at a Glengarry Memorial Hospital Board meeting held on Thursday, Jan. 21.

Shortage laid to rest

Glengarry Memorial Hospital's seasonal bed shortage problems appear to be solved.

The hospital's medical committee implemented new measures aimed at addressing the problem, and according to Claude Nadeau, chief of medical staff, the measures are working.

"Over the past month there have been few problems with admissions and discharges," wrote Nadeau in a report presented to the board.

"For several days early in January there were too few beds for the number of patients being admitted," Nadeau wrote.

"But the procedure mentioned at the last board meeting was put into effect and with the cooperation of doctors, the problem was quickly solved," Nadeau wrote.

Operating surplus

The hospital for the year to date has a $256,000 operating surplus, $32,000 of which was accumulated in December, Finance Chairman Kent MacSweyn told board members.

The hospital has $223,000 in its endowment fund and $1.7 million invested at a local bank for a 76-day period at 6.95 per cent interest, MacSweyn said.

Questionable authority

The hospital board has passed a resolution giving the hospital's financial director the authority to transfer investments funds immediately if a better rate comes up.

The motion was proposed by board member Wally Hope, who argued it is not clear that the financial director has the authority to do it without a motion from the board.

Chairman Sam Sultan said the financial director must be able to make transfers immediately, without waiting for board approval, when a better rate is found.

Investment rates fluctuate a lot and if the director was forced to wait a couple of days for board approval, the same rate may not be available, he said.

Fully responsible

Hospitals will have to foot workers compensation costs for students, such as student nurses, by July 1 this year, Administrator Jerry Adams told board members.

"This policy nullifies current insurance arrangements with placement agencies, and as of July 1, 1993 will make hospitals 'responsible for paying assessments for training program participants,'" Adams said in his report.

The changes were made without any consultation with affected employers and without approval by theboard of directors of the Workers' Compensation Board, Adams said.

Not so

Jerry Adams is disputing a claim by the Workers' Compensation Board that costs to hospitals will actually be lower under its new rate schedule.

Adams said while the rates for hospitals will be lower, it will apply to more workers, therefore increasing the cost for hospitals.

Adams had said at a previous meeting that the rates will mean higher costs for the hospital. But a WCB spokesperson told The News recently that the costs actually would drop.

One more time

The hospital has filed yet another proposed budget with the Ministry of Health.

This was done, despite a recent claim by Administrator Jerry Adams that no more budgets will be filed with the ministry until it announces how much funding hospitals will receive.

Adams made the admission after being quizzed on the issue by one board member, who reminded him of his earlier statements.

The budget was revised and resubmitted based on a 1.5 per cent funding increase, half a per cent less than what was expected from the province, Adams said.

"The necessary adjustments were made in the area of supplies and did not affect staffing," he said in his report.

The hospital still has not received a notice from the ministry detailing what its funding will be for next year, Adams said.

Toastmasters' open house a 'tremendous success'

The Glengarry Toastmasters recent open house "was a tremendous success with approximately 50 people in attendance," according to the club's President Margaret Parkinson.

Guests included Toastmasters from other clubs in Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston and Cornwall, as well as many guests from Glengarry County who were interested in finding out more about Toastmasters.

The guests had a chance to observe an abbreviated meeting, which is the basis of a Toastmasters club. They heard about the other learning opportunities available through that organization and had an opportunity to pose questions at the end of the session.

The first guest speaker, Harry Kingston, explained how this organization helped guide him from a street kid to a very successful career with government and private industry.

He stressed that Toastmasters, unlike other organizations, is affordable for everyone.

He said: "Everyone proceeds at their own rate. Members are not forced to do things before they are ready. The skills you learn at Toastmasters will help you with every facet of your life, from your church group, service organization, to your family life."

He concluded by saying that the self-confidence you gain through Toastmasters will make you a happier person and this will enable you to approach life differently.

Muriel How, the second guest speaker, said that although it is inexpensive, "Toastmasters is the undisputed world leader in public speaking training."

She went on to explain how "Toastmasters was started in 1924 when a group of men assembled by Dr. Ralph Smedley met in the basement of the Santa Ana, California YMCA to form a club "to afford practice and training in the art of public speaking and in presiding over meetings, and to promote sociability and good fellowship among its members."

She told how this organization is now in more than 50 countries with 175 thousand members in almost eight thousand clubs.

She explained how she went from a person who sat in the corner of the room for the first five meetings and didn't say a word to becoming an International Director for Toastmasters.

Several guests took the opportunity to join the club during the open house while others plan to join at the next meeting.

"All is not lost for the people who couldn't make it to the open house," said club President Margaret Parkinson. "Glengarry Toastmasters club will be meeting every Thursday night at the Priest's Mill restaurant in Alexandria."

Guests are always welcome to come and observe a Toastmasters meeting without any obligations or pressure to join.

"We are here to help people improve their self confidence and communications skills, not to force them into doing something they don't want to do," she said.

Anyone interested in more information can contact Derek Parkinson at 525-3717 or Dave Bradley at 932-6193.

Lancaster Township

Council Briefs

The following items were discussed by Lancaster Township council members during a public meeting Feb. 3 at the municipality's hall.

Thumbs down for reassessment

Lancaster Township council unanimously passed a resolution stating that members are opposed to the proposed property tax reassessment put forward by United Counties Council.

Clerk-treasurer Mike Samson told council that if the reassessment goes through as outlined, home owners, commercial and industrial businesses will be hard hit.

Taxes for some homeowners will drop between $9 to $678 while others will increase $12 to $677.

A majority of commercial and industrial businesses are looking at increases while 641 farms will be lowered and only 33 will increase. But the shift from the farmland to homeowners and businesses is "deceiving as hell," said Reeve Charlie Sangster.

Samson said that an extra $58,000 will be collected and used for schools. But the savings farmers will receive is deceptive because part of their tax bill was paid for by the Ontario government. The only entity that will save a substantial amount of money, other than a few homeowners, is the provincial government.

Sangster said he favors a municipally-based property tax reassessment that will be controlled by each township.

But Samson added after the meeting that the municipally-based scheme would be similar to rates set by neighboring townships such as Charlottenburgh.

"This takes money from the rural municipalities and will save money for Cornwall. We were told that the city would rise and the rural area would decrease. Now they come out with this. If we support something like this, they'll (ratepayers) think we're out of our heads," Sangster said.

The resolution will be forwarded on to the United Counties SDG and the Regional Assessment Office. Lancaster has not been reassessed since 1988 and their taxes are based on 1984 figures.

Severance turned down

Lancaster Township council turned down a severance application because the land would be too small and wouldn't meet provincial guidelines.

The severance application, made by the estate of Cecil Ouimet, asked for the severance of a parcel of land located about three quarters of a mile west of Glen Nevis.

The parcel, which was pegged by the lawyers at or around 114 acres, is propbably closer to 107 acres, said clerk-treasurer Mike Samson. The land is separated by a railroad line which runs east to west. The estate requested that the two parcels, one measured around 85 acres and the other about 22, be divided in half.

However, guidelines require that agriculturally zoned land that is to be severed must be at least 45 acres large. Both parcels fall short of that figure, and as a result council was obligated to turn down the request.

Small raise for employees

Council approved a 1.9 per cent raise for Lancaster Township employees. The raise virtually matches the cost of living. The raise will cover about 10 employees.

Pop goes council

Lancaster councillors hope to make other townships "green" with envy.

In a show of environmental solidarity, councillors unanimously passed a resolution supporting Gordon Township's resolution calling for the creation of monetary deposits on pop cans.

Pop cans take up valuable landfill space and are a mainstay in area ditches and at the side of roads.

"It should have been done a long time ago," commented councillor Stephen Preston.

Gordon Township also recommended that Lancaster forward their resolution on to the Ruth Greer, the minister of the environment, as well as Ontario Premier Bob Rae, opposition leader Lyn McLeod, Progressive Conservative provincial leader Mike Harris and MP Don Boudria.

Severance applications accepted

A pair of severance applications made by Glen Norman resident Pierre Boucher were accepted by Lancaster Township council.

The pair of farms, which are adjacent to one another and are about 95 acres large, are located on Lot 17, Concession 9 — half a mile northeast of Glen Norman.

Boucher wants to create a one acre lot for each farm. They will likely be used for residential purposes.

Lancaster goes high-tech

Lancaster's municipal office is catching up with changing technology.

Council gave its stamp of approval to a resolution put forward to purchase a new computer system. The current system is over nine years old and the township pays about $8,000 per year to maintain the hardware and software.

The computer, to be purchased from Bull HN Information Systems, along with the software, training and other expenses will cost $25,176. But recognizing that municipalities have to find ways to trim costs, Clerk-Treasurer Mike Samson came up with several ideas to reduce the price by nearly $3,000.

He won't undergo as much training, instead reading the manual and taking only a few courses and will install the system but let the technicians put the necessary wiring in place.

The new system, which is expected to be operational in another two months, will keep track of council's work. The memory is expanded and will look after such items as GST rebate, financial reports and municipal tax bills.

The cost for servicing the equipment will be roughly $4,000 per year, about half the price of the current system.

Fifteen thousand dollars of the money will come from a reserve fund which was set up last year.

Award recipients smiling

Diane Deguire (left) and Gisele Bourgon of Alexandria were honored with awards at the Nov. 27 graduation ceremony of Ecole Communautaire. Deguire received a plaque from the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Separate School board for initiative and team spirit she showed during placement. She also won the Caisse Populaire d'Alexandria bursary for that distinction. Bourgon received the Governor General Medal for having the highest overall average on both campuses. She also received Les Filles d'Isabelle d'Alexandria bursary for that distinction.

Highlights of trip to Puerto Rico shown at Glen Sandfield UCW meeting

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

Reports have it that Rose Seguin is recovering quite well from her recent eye surgery. Everyone certainly wishes her a speedy recovery.

* * *

Isobel Fraser has been down with a bad back after a fall downstairs before Christmas. But she seems to be a bit better now. Get well wishes are extended to her.

Clifford MacDonald also is showing a bit of improvement in hospital. Greta MacMillan is ill with pneumonia, as is John D. MacMillan. We certainly wish all of our friends a complete recovery.

The February meeting of the Glen Sandfield UCW convened at the home of Margo MacRae on Wednesday Feb. 3, with 16 members and guests present.

Margo MacRae took devotions from the Alive Now booklet. They all dealt with meeting the needs of others, with love and caring. Not only AIDS victims but handicapped persons, bereaved people, those with speech impediments, all those who are in some way either shut-in or shut-out.

We should all take the time to realize that even if a person is well, but unable to get out in the winter, they need nurturing. Blind and deaf persons have enough to deal with in everyday life, without having to cope with loneliness as well.

A little thoughtfulness means so much! We should all try to be aware where we are most needed in our community. Even a phone call is a touch from outside, and shows someone cares enough to check in now and then to see if they are well or in need. It is a small thing to the caller, but so much to the recipient.

The business portion began with the Member's Purpose and the minutes, read by secretary Nancy Campbell. The group was delighted to welcome Trish Hamilton as the guest speaker. Her topic was a wonderful trip to Puerto Rico.

Before arriving, there was a six-hour plane trip. They disembarked into hot humid 28 degree Celsius weather, and boarded a bus for a two-hour ride to their hotel.

Only the main roads are paved; the others are gravel or dirt and crammed with deep potholes, so it was a very bumpy trip at times. In the capital there are no high rise buildings, but all are two or three storeys high.

Punta Leone, their destination, overlooked the Pacific Ocean. There were myriads of monkeys to be heard, but they never saw one in all their time there. The very tall trees hid the monkeys up in the canopy. Gorgeous colored parrots (huge ones) and budgies of rainbow hues abounded, as this is tropical country.

The people were very friendly and honest. Their hotel was clean, the food was good and not too spicy. There were large herds of Brahma cattle to be seen and many horses. Farm work is carried on mostly with the horse, and there were excursions by horseback up into the rugged mountains.

It is a very mountainous country, quite beautiful but high. The newcomers had a hard time breathing because of the thin air, and tired easily.

The jungles and forests offered much to interest those taking advantage of the many walking trails available. The sounds were incredible, not like Canadian woods sounds at all.

Unfortunately, the lovely beaches are mostly all badly polluted, so they swam in the hotel pool. Conservation has become most important to this country now, as it hopes to establish a thriving tourist industry over the next few years.

There is no more place for the cattle ranches to expand, so those who wish to begin making larger profits must look to the tourist industry in future. There are no taxes, only on restaurant food.

One may experience many lovely parks, nature trails and trips to the volcanoes. Our guest speaker took one of these trips and was awed by the sight of the boiling lava below her.

Many women attend colleges there, in fact there are more women than men enrolled in them. This isn't a Third World country, the people do not live in slums, and aren't desperately poor or impoverished.

Homes are small, even those of the wealthy landowners, clean and well kept. They aren't a flamboyant people, clothes tend to be of conservative colors, made of polyester and cotton. If all this sounds like paradise, there is a flaw.

Drugs are sold openly, as there is no army and a few law enforcement officers. There are frequent deaths, not from murders, but from drug usage, such as drownings. At Jaco Beach, the waves and undercurrents are very dangerous; enough so that there are signs posted along the sand. Several people die there every week, careless through drug use.

Car accidents on the serpentine roads are common. There is a jungle paradise in this lovely country, but also a fatal flaw, the rampant drug traffic.

There is another flaw in this Eden of the south as well. There are huge spiders that weave enormous webs every night, in the gardens and woods. I suppose they are easy enough to avoid, as are the crocodiles, which are numerous in the rather shallow rivers.

They went boating and watched the animals swimming far too close for comfort. It was a wonderful trip, not soon to be forgotten. She remarked that food was very cheap, dinner was about $2, but once they went up upon a mountain top to a special hotel of eight rooms, where the movie Christopher Columbus had been filmed, and there, dinner was $50 for two. However the view was worth every penny!

The hostess, Margo MacRae, thanked Mrs. Hamilton and then invited everyone to attend the mini-bake sale. The group enjoyed refreshments at the close of the program.

There will be a meeting on Feb. 16 of the planning committee for the World Day of Prayer. For information, please call Shirley MacDonald.

Kenyon adopts new post for officer

Kenyon Township's bylaw enforcement officer and chief buiding official will be no more.

The township has decided to create a new job title for Ken Robbers, the employee who has held both positions for about a year, is rewriting Robbers' job description and has increased his status to full-time.

Robbers new title will be "planning and development officer" and he will have a more positive role in the township's growth, said Councillor Blair Williams at a Jan 12 council meeting.

Williams said Robbers will look at positive strategies to encourage "the kind of development we want."

Robbers will be a resource person for potential residents; available to advise people about matters such as zoning, land severances and appropriate locations for new structures.

"Pretty soon the word will get around that when you come to Kenyon Township, you won't get hassled, you'll get help," said Williams.

Williams also said there may eventually be a public advisory committee to help Kenyon Township become a more viable place with a broader tax base, which may be a drawing card to potential residents.

The saga of Glenelg, part 2

This is the second part of a two-part series on the settlers of Glenelg, now known as the Kirk Hill area. It was written by Maxville resident Grant MacGillivray.

This paper recently published the story of the original Glenelg settlement in 1794, when 40 families left Glenelg, Scotland, and nearly a year later, arrived at Glenelg, Canada, now Kirk Hill.

What is not so generally known is that two years later, in 1796, another group of 17 families arrived (it is reported on the same ship) and joined the original group. They bore, generally, the same names and it is possible that the original settlers encouraged them to make the trip.

All the settlers, both 1794 and 1796, as well as the Loyalists who started arriving in the Williamstown area about 1784, and the MacDonells who got to the St. Raphael's area a couple of years later, had the same problems. They were given grants of mostly wooded land, and had to start off by felling trees to build log cabins, then more trees for firewood, and for many years more trees to clear the land for crops. It is hard for us to visualize all the hard labor that went in to getting established.

The government did help them, by providing food for the first period, and by giving each family an axe, a spade and a hoe. Every two families were given a cow and a plow, and every four families a set of saws. Without this help it is difficult to see how they could have survived, but by much hard labor, and with neighbors working together to help each other, they got along very well.

As far as is known, the Glenelg settlers were all Presbyterians, members of the Church of Scotland. After a few years, they started planning a church and started to build a wooden one where St. Columba now stands. In 1819 the Rev. John McLaurin arrived from Edinburgh, where he had just been ordained, and organized a congregation. The first Communion Service was held on Oct. 6, 1822, conducted by Mr. McLaurin, assisted by Rev. John McKenzie of Williamstown and Rev. John Barclay of Kingston. The church was not finished so the service was held outside and was attended by 263 communicants, some of whom walked as far as 40 miles. (Imagine today's people doing that.)

The next Communion Service was held on July 30, 1833 with the same clergymen officiating, and was attended by 374 communicants. By this time, of course, the church was in use and Mr. McLaurin was the official pastor. The church was known as Lochiel church before it was given the name of St. Columba.

The first birth in Lochiel was that of John A. Cameron, son of John and Susanah Cameron, of Lochiel. An interesting point concerning the early clergymen of Glengarry is that Protestant and Roman Catholic clergy often baptized or buried people of the other faith. This was due to the difficulty of travelling through the woods, and possibly Father Alexander MacDonell, of St. Raphael's was outstanding in that respect as he studied Protestant services and tried to baptize an infant or conduct a funeral as closely as he could to the service the people were used to. Also, Rev. John Bethune, of Williamstown, did the same for Catholic families, and he and Father MacDonell probably compared notes when they met.

Most heavy work was done by holding "bees"; that is all the men within walking distance would gather at the scene of the activity, to erect a barn, or whatever, and they could do a tremendous amont of work in a day. In most cases, their wives came with them to help the host wife prepare food, and as can be imagined, both the men and women enjoyed the social part of the day as well as working together. In the evening, especially if someone had a set of pipes or a fiddle, a "ceilidh" was held, so the people of the area got a lot of work done and enjoyed each other's company. And so the community grew.

The information given above was gathered from several sources, and if any of it is inaccurate, your pardon is begged.

Schoolhouse visited by ex-pupils

The old brick school house at Dunvegan was inundated with former pupils recently during a real estate open house.

Diana Macaulay, who is selling the home for her son Malcolm, laughingly said she was regaled with stories from the good old days by several former pupils, who decided to use the open house to renew acquaintances with the school house, built in 1886.

"They were talking at me from all sides," laughed Diana, a Lancaster-based real estate agent. "The most fascinating stories were told by Campbells and MacRaes," just to name a few. One of the guests related a story about the day some mischievous pupils put a bullet in a log before it was placed in the old wood stove. Half the class sat in eager anticipation, until the bullet exploded, sending clouds of soot and creating general pandemonium.

Despite the memories, the visitors found little in common with the interior they remembered from their youth; only the floors and glass windows are original. The rest of the building has been renovated into a two-storey residence.

Macaulay said the guest book showed some 33 people dropped in on the home that day.

The Dunvegan Recreation Association members will hold their annual winter carnival on Saturday, Feb. 13 and Sunday, Feb. 14. The pancake breakfast will start things off on Saturday morning at the hall.

There will be sleigh rides and cross country skiing and a sliding hill at the home of James Joyce and Terry Sweitzer. Don't forget to see Evelyn Viau at the post office to sign up.

On Sunday at the DRA Hall there will be a pot luck lunch at 12 noon, and a skating party at the park in the afternoon. It will be a fun time!

Dunvegan Women's Institute recently held the January meeting in the D.R.A. Hall. President Marion Loewen opened the meeting with a poem entitled "The Power of a Smile."

The roll call was to name a favorite game you played as a child, and the answers brought back many memories of long ago.

There was a lot of correspondence as there hadn't been a meeting since Dec. 10. Several "thank you" letters were received for gifts that were sent in December. An interesting letter was received from FWIO President Margaret Eberle passing along information about recent WI happenings.

The yellow annual report forms were passed out to the officers concerned by Secretary Joyce MacKinnon.

A letter was received from the district secretary regarding the executive meeting to be held in Alexandria on Feb. 20. District Director Eunice Nixon will be attending.

Tentative plans were made regarding the district annual meeting, which is to be held in Dunvegan on May 1.

Information was received from District PRO, Sheila Urquhart regarding the Newsletter which is to be sent out by the OMAF office. The requested information was to be forwarded to Mr. Slater by Branch PRO Isabel MacLeod.

Peggi Calder read an interesting letter that had been sent to Dunvegan WI by Peggy Sparow, a member of the WI in England with whom we have been corresponding. The letter had been sent to Joyce MacKinnon, as she had been the last one of our members to write.

During the business part of the meeting members decided to send money donations to the Adelaide Hoodless Homestead and the Erland Lee Home. Peggi Calder had charge of the program, which was a "fun" night. Three contests were held which the ladies all enjoyed. A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses, Ruth Alderson and Peggi Calder.

Knocking on the door

Char-Lan forward Nicholas Dube waits on Alexandria goaltender Robin Gauthier's doorstep while looking for a loose puck, which squirts out the other side. Dube didn't score here but he did put the puck in the net later in the game as the Rebels won 4-1 in the opening contest of the Alexandria atom tournament at the Billy Gebbie Arena on Saturday. See page 16 for full story.

Rebs display all-star defence

It's kind of ironic that the Char-Lan Rebels turned in hellish defensive performances on the same weekend that the National Hockey League held its annual All-Star Game.

Like the Campbell Conference squad, Char-Lan's line-up is filled with talented offensive players but this weekend's results proved that hard work in your own zone is needed to win hockey games (the Wales team pounded their Campbell counterparts 16-6, while Char-Lan gave up 11 goals in back-to-back losses — 11-9 to Morrisburg on Saturday and 11-8 in Kemptville on Sunday).

While the Campbells could be excused for treating Saturday's contest as a glorified skate in the park, the Rebels' defensive inattentiveness is worrisome in light of the fact that the playoffs are just around the corner.

Rebels coach Philip Brown, who has said from the beginning that team defence was his primary concern, is worried to a point.

''It's definitely a concern'' said Brown. ''You stress defence all year and then you have a weekend like this where the whole defensive game takes a couple of steps backwards.

''We scored a lot of goals but no one was worrying about defence. Defence will be our priority in our next practice and our next game.''

Is it also possible that with second place all but locked up, too many players have started concentrating on personal milestones?

''I think that's got something to do with it,'' agreed Brown. ''We've got a guy (Cory Maxam) who's challenging for the scoring title and a few other guys who have (offensive) goals to shoot for.''

Speaking of milestones, Denis St.Jean and Marc Bellemare both reached the 100-point plateaus last week - the second and third Rebels to break the century mark after Maxam accomplished the feat a few weeks ago.

Morrisburg defenceman Dereck Holmes uses a WWF-style tactic to slow down Char-Lan's Terry O'Farrell last Saturday. Lions won a shootout 11-9.

Char-Lan started the week off on the right skate, beating the Winchester Hawks 8-3 on Wednesday in Williamstown.

John Edgerton and Denis St.Jean scored for the Rebels, who have now beaten the Hawks six times in a row this season, while Terry O'Farrell, Dan Desjardins, Marc Bellmare and Greg Wylie had single goals.

John Hamel, Norm Decoste and Ken Corp scored for the Hawks, who scored twice on the power play but who also gave up shorthanded goals to Edgerton and O'Farrell.

The Morrisburg Lions rolled into town on Saturday without suspended centreman Yvon Besner and defencemen Tim Casselman and Mark Donnelly — giving Char-Lan hope of winning their first of the season against Doug Casselman's team.

A disastrous second period sunk those hopes however, as the Lions won 11-9.

Trailing 4-2 after 20 minutes, the Lions outscored Char-Lan 5-1 in the middle stanza to take control of the game.

The teams traded four goals in the final period to complete the offensive free-for-all.

Geoff Hare had three goals for Morrisburg while eight players - Andrew Barrie, Travis Froats, Craig Villeneuve, Rob Casselman, Martin Pancirov, Josh Gowsell, Shawn Hummell and Rob Domanko — contributed a goal each.

Cory Maxam led Char-Lan with two goals and four assists while John Edgerton also scored twice.

Adam Morris, Marc Bellemare, Terry O'Farrell, Denis St.Jean and Dan Desjardins had the other Rebel markers.

On Sunday in Kemptville, Dan Vajcovec scored three times and Pat Poirier, Stephan Boucher and Trevor Mikus had two goals each as the 73's downed the Rebs 11-8.

Shawn Forbes and Marty Alguire had singles for Kemptville.

Maxam had three goals and three assists for Char-Lan and Marc Bellemare had two and five.

John Edgerton scored two more for the Rebels while Denis St.Jean had the other goal.

Rebel Yells: Char-Lan right-winger Cory Maxam has the edge in the race for the St. Lawrence Division scoring championship. Maxam has 126 points with four games left while Morrisburg's Yvon Besner has 122 with only three games remaining... St. Hubert players of the game were Greg Wylie (offence) and Daniel Methot (defence) on Wednesday and Cory Maxam and Shane McDonell on Saturday... The Rebels will host the St. Lawrence Division awards banquet again this year with the festivities beginning this Saturday at 6 p.m. at St. Mary's Hall in Williamstown. Tickets are $12 and are available from the team... Char-Lan hosts Alexandria tonight and Kemptville on Saturday (3:15 start) and plays in Morrisburg on Sunday.

End finally in sight for Alexandria

The marathon that has been the 1992-93 junior B season for the Alexandria Glens.

Alexandria is in Williamstown tonight to play the Rebels and will finish the year at home on Friday against Kemptville.

The Glennies reached a couple of dubious milestones in their next to last week of play — Alexandria gave up its 300th goal of the season in a 13-7 loss to Morrisburg on Wednesday while Sunday's 6-4 setback to the Winchester Hawks was the team's 30th defeat of the year.

The one bright note for Alexandria has been the play of 15-year-old rookie Martin Boisvenue.

Boisvenue scored Alexandria's first four goals in Morrisburg on Wednesday and after scoring his 25th of the season against the Hawks, now has 10 goals in his last five games.

The centreman will join the Tier II Hawkesbury Hawks after the Glens close out their season.

Other scorers for Alexandria on Wednesday were Randy Gebbie, Pascal Joanette and Stephan Nadeau.

Martin Pancirov had a hat trick for the Lions while Mike McAllister, Rob Domanko and Yvon Besner had two goals apiece.

Craig Villeneuve, Steven Serviss, Mark Donnelly and Geoff Hare had the other Morrisburg goals.

On Sunday, the Hawks' Jesse Pulfer scored twice as Winchester defeated Alexandria 6-4 in the final meeting of the season between the two teams.

Norm Decoste, Ken Corp, John Hamel and Kirk Tallman scored once each for the Hawks, who won the season series 7-1 from the Glens.

Martin Boisvenue, Patrick Sauve, Serge Bellefeuille and Randy Gebbie replied for Alexandria. All but Gebbie scored while the Glens had the man advantage.

Glenformation: Former New York Islanders' star Billy Smith attended Sunday's game at the Billy Gebbie Arena. Smith's son Chad was the backup for Hawks' goalie Dale Wilson, who did a pretty good imitation of Battlin' Billy by picking up eight minutes in penalties in the third period... Alexandria defenceman Ricky Latreille could be a big factor in the St.Lawrence Division scoring race. Latreille, who has only eight points, won't win it himself but he may have helped Char-Lan's Cory Maxam take the title. Latreille fought with Morrisburg's Yvon Besner, Maxam's main competition for the points championship, at the end of last Wednesday's game. Besner missed the last six minutes of that game and was automatically suspended for Morrisburg's meeting with the Rebels in Williamstown on Saturday.

Hearts increase lead with win over Kirk Hill

The Minimax Hearts, who took over first place in the Cornwall Indoor Soccer League ladies' division last week, increased their lead to three points with a 2-1 win over second-place Kirk Hill on Sunday.

Sharon MacMillan and Bonnie MacLeod scored for the Hearts while Lisa Poirier replied for Kirk Hill, who have now dropped their last three in a row.

The game was a head-to-head battle of the two best teams in the division and also featured a battle between the league's top two scorers.

Poirier leads all ladies' division snipers with 15 goals while MacLeod is second with 13 tallies.

The other games on Sunday saw the Bergeron Chargers whip the Raiderettes 6- 1 and Jovana's edge the Chumps Spitfires 1-0.

Three-way tie in men's division

A tie by Filion Trophies and wins by Rudi Payer Sport and the Dalhousie Bombers have created a three-way tie for first place in the men's division.

Rudi's defeated Frenchie's 4-1 and the Bombers dropped a 12-0 loss on Mr. Subs while Filion was held to a 2-2 tie by Moviola Cafe and goalie Tyler Carter.

In Rudi's win, Bruce Tessier scored twice and Gareth Pye and Phil Poitras each added singles.

For the Bombers, meanwhile, Marc Seguin scored five times and Brian Cameron connected for a hat trick.

Pasquale Mongillo had a pair of goals while Robbie Starkauskas and Shawn McClements had one apiece.

The Roadrunners doubled the Apple Hill Flyers 6-3 in the other game involving a Glengarry team on Sunday.

Brian McCormick scored twice for Apple Hill while Jamie Myers had the other goal.

Filion Jewellers ripped the Town Hall Rovers 8-1 and La Maison edged Courtaulds 3-2 in other Week 12 action.

Cousineau drops bombs on Dalkeith

Randy Cousineau's three goals paced the Brodie Bombers to a 5-1 win over Dalkeith Restaurant in Dalkeith Outdoor Broomball League action.

Dan Fourney had the other two goals for the Bombers while Duncan MacPherson had three assists. Dean MacDonald scored for Dalkeith.

The Kenyon Regulators are still undefeated after playing to a 3-3 tie with Maxville Farm Machinery.

The Repentigny family took care of the Maxville offence as Marc had two goals and brother Norm had the other.

Mario Dumont fired in a pair for the Regs while Stanton MacDonald completed the scoring.

Gaetan ''Sam'' Sabourin was flawless in goal and Jean Desormeaux scored the game's only goal as the Vonpreussen Chiefs won their second game of the year by beating Dalkeith 1-0.

Dalkeith has yet to earn a point in the standings after six games this season.

Finally, Duncan MacPherson notched a pair of goals as the Bombers beat the Chiefs 4-1.

Scott McPherson and Randy Cousineau had the other Brodie goals while Jimmy Szelid replied for the Chiefs.

Red-light Rebels biggest surprise of junior B season

Sports scripts

By J.L. Lefebvre

It's February 10 and that means that the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League season is almost over.

The playoffs are just around the corner as the year seems to have come and gone quicker than Rola Parker.

With little left to decide in the St.Lawrence Division (Morrisburg will probably play Winchester in one playoff series, Char-Lan will face Kemptville in the other while Alexandria will second-guess itself for not having taken a sabbatical), let's take this moment to look back on the year that was.

Biggest surprise: The offensive explosion of the Char-Lan Rebels. Sure, everyone knew that Char-Lan would be a better team this season but did anyone expect them to be burning rubber past enemy goalies at this rate?

The Runnin' Rebels have lit the lamp an average of over 7.5 times a game and trail only the Morrisburg Lions in all of junior B (including the Rideau, Metro and Valley Divisions) in goals scored.

Cory Maxam was just supposed to be a nice little addition to boost the attack but instead he's put together the best offensive season in franchise history.

Marc Bellemare, another rookie, joined the team one-third of the way into the season, but has still managed to climb to fourth place among St.Lawrence scorers. His points-per-game ratio is tops in the league.

Throw in career years by veterans Denis St.Jean, Greg Wylie and John Edgerton and you can understand why goalies around the league are a little jumpy when Char-Lan rolls into town.

Biggest disappointment: The Winchester Hawks. They'll still make the playoffs but that's only because of their strong start and the fact that the Alexandria Glens were so goshawful.

Winchester's season is more disappointing than Alexandria's because unlike the rebuilding Glens, who have at least shown some signs of a pulse lately, the Hawks were expected to be contenders from the beginning.

In November, the Hawks were just that as Winchester was four games over .500 and in first place. Since then though, the Hawks have been five games below the break-even mark and have slid down to fourth.

Coach Peter DeRooy resigned as the executive was preparing his execution, injuries have taken their toll and the frustration level has risen exponentially.

This was not what was expected in Winchester after the Hawks came within a skate blade of winning the St.Lawrence Division championship last year.

Award-winning performances: Nobody asked me, but here's one writer's opinion as to who should be taking home trophies from the St.Lawrence awards banquet next Saturday in Williamstown.

Rookie of the year — Cory Maxam, Char-Lan: This one would be a no-brainer were it not for the presence of teammate Marc Bellemare who made a late, great entry into the race.

But you can't give the trophy based on maybes, so Maxam gets the nod for his record-breaking season and his battle for the scoring championship with veteran Lion Yvon Besner.

Sportsmanship and playing ability — Denis St.Jean, Char-Lan: This is an award that could easily be renamed ''Nicest guy with good stats who doesn't qualify for any other awards.''

St.Jean had a good season with a bad Char-Lan team in 1991-92 and has followed that up with a great season for a much improved Rebels club this year.

He goes about his job quietly, keeps his nose clean and his offensive numbers are surpassed only by Maxam and Besner.

Best defenceman — Sean Audet, Kemptville: Sure he's bit flaky, but there has been no better all-round defenceman since the beginning of the season.

Audet gets the nod over his All-Star game partner Stephan Nadeau, who has been the best in the league since Christmas but who got off to a slow start.

The choice for the top blue-liner prize is a tough one as most of the pre- season favorites (Audet, Nadeau, Scott Barkley, Bobby Bowles and Mark Donnelly) have missed some playing time this season and several lesser-known defencemen (Chris Petry, Shawn Hummell, Pat Collins) have come into their own.

Most valuable player — Yvon Besner, Morrisburg: The debate about the MVP award has been heard before: Should it go to the player who is most valuable to his team or simply to the best player?

If the classic definition of value to his team is followed, ''Bez'' gets the nod over Cory Maxam.

Maxam plays on a line of equal partners who all feed off one another while Besner is CEO of his unit — linemates Geoff Hare and Rob Casselman are more reliant on Besner for their success than vice versa.

As team captain, Besner is required to be a dressing-room leader with the Lions while Maxam is spared that burden by the presence of veterans Greg Wylie, John Edgerton and Bobby Bowles.

Because it's a well-known fact that sportswriters are as thick as brick walls compared to the team officials who do the voting (ask any general manager if you don't believe me), the actual winners will likely be quite different from this list.

Rebels, Glens suffer early knockouts at Hub tournament

Neither the Char-Lan Rebels nor the Alexandria Glens were able to make the finals of the Alexandria atom tournament at the Billy Gebbie Arena on Saturday.

The Rebels beat the Glens 4-1 in the opening game of the competition as Jonah Leroux, Derek Wagar, Nicholas Dube and Sylvain Matte each scored a goal for Char-Lan.

Andrew McIntyre had the only Alexandria marker.

The Rebs advanced to the "A" division semi-finals with the win where they were knocked off by Russell 3-2.

Stephen Lefebvre and Sylvain Matte accounted for Char-Lan's scoring.

The Glens, meanwhile, were relegated to the consolation division where they were eliminated by a 2-0 loss to Canterbury in the second round.

The teams that were responsible for ending the locals' tournament hopes went on to win their respective divisions.

Russell won the "A" crown by blanking South Stormont 3-0 on three early first-period goals.

South Stormont may have left their game in the semis where they defeated Nepean 3-2 in a shootout.

Canterbury won the consolation title by doubling North Dundas 4-2.

Glens take "B" title at own tourney

Stephane Boisvenue scored three goals to lift the Pronto Store Glens to the consolation championship of the Alexandria Peewee Tournament at the Billy Gebbie Arena on Sunday.

The Glens had taken a 2-0 lead on goals by Boisvenue and Gregory Lalonde before Vanier, their opponent in the final, tied the game with a goal in the second and another early in the third.

Boisvenue scored his second of the game midway through the third to break the tie and then iced the contest with his hat trick goal 12 seconds from the end.

Boisvenue scored twice in Alexandria 3-1 win over Osgoode in the semi- final. Jason Poirier had the other Glens goal.

Alexandria was forced into the "B" bracket after losing 5-4 to Hawkesbury in their opening game.

Jason Poirier had two of Alexandria's goals while Sylvain Campeau and Ghislain Valade had the others.

In regular season action last week, Alexandria shut out Kemptville 4-0 and lost 4-2 to South Stormont.

Timothy Van Overbeek, Michel Quesnel, Stephane Boisvenue and Jason Poirier each found the back of the net once in the shutout win over Kemptville as Robin Gauthier resisted all Royal shots.

Ghislain Valade and Gregory Lalonde scored in the loss to South Stormont.

Alexandria finishes the Upper Canada Minor Hockey League regular season in fourth place.

Gebbie scores two, midgets win

Jeff Gebbie scored twice as the Hope's Auto Parts Midget Glens defeated the Cornwall Royals 5-3 on Sunday at the Water St. Arena.

Marc Boisvenue, Sylvain Lavigne and Tommy Terry each chipped in with a single for Chris McDonell's Alexandria club.

On Monday night in Smiths Falls, the Glens lost 5-1 to the Bears as Liam Kemp had the only Alexandria goal.

Bantams win two more

The Obonsoins Bantam Glens continued their recent hot streak with two more wins last week, including a dramatic comeback victory over Cornwall.

Trailing 3-1 after two periods and 4-3 with less than a minute left, the Glens managed to pull out a 5-4 win as Alain Decoste led the attack with three goals.

Eric McCarthy and Dominic Laferriere also scored for the Glens.

Alexandria also took home an impressive 5-1 victory from Smiths Falls last week.

Eric Hagen bagged a pair for the winnners with solo tallies being added by Alain Decoste, Dominic Laferriere and Pascal Decoeur.

The regular season comes to a close this week with games against the Char- Lan Rebels and the South Stormont Flyers.

Sliders win sponge puck tournament

The Farley Sliders took home the "A" division championship at the first annual Dalkeith Sponge Puck Tournament on the weekend.

The Sliders outscored their three opponents 28-15 on the way to claiming the title.

The wins were over the Hawkesbury Sharks (7-5), the Hawkesbury Hawks (11-4) and the Maxville Wensinks (10-6).

Team members were Richard "Dickster" Deschamps, Randy Cousineau, Alain Besner, Stephane Bellefeuille, Mario Dumont, Leonard Seguin, Norm Seguin and Leo Seguin.

The Kenyon Beavers won the "B" crown.

No-Stars in town Saturday

In a hockey match that promises to rival the NHL All-Star Game for pure hockey skill and excitement, the Alexandria Firefighters will be taking on the CJOH NO-Stars at the Glengarry Sports Palace this Saturday at 7 p.m.

The proceeds from the game will be used to purchase rescue equipment for the fire department.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $2 for kids 12 and under and are available from any fire department member.

Electric jolted by leaders

Cathy Depratto netted a pair of goals as Tapis Richard Ranger defeated L.C. Electric 7-1 in Ladies Sponge Puck League play at the Glengarry Sports Palace last Wednesday.

Ann McMillan, Sue Stewart, Mary Nixon, Helen MacDonald and Rachel Denner also scored for the first-place Carpets.

Brenda Jensen had the only goal for the low-scoring Electric team.

As one-sided as that game was, it couldn't even approach the tilted-rink score of the year as Art Benton walloped M and D Sports 17-0.

Marie Bellemare led the Benton parade of scorers with four goals as Gino Lalonde and Clara Juliao added hat tricks.

Karen MacDonald and Sue Delage had two goals each while Debbie Nadon, Joan Filion and Barb Benton had singles.

Meanwhile, SunLife downed MacMillan Insurance by the more conservative score of 2-0. Wendi Lawson had both goals for the winners.

Recap of Jan. 27 games

Art Benton 1 (Debbie Nadon) vs. SunLife 1 (Wendi Lawson).

MacMillan Insurance 4 (Wendy Hay, Geraldine St.Denis, Lisa Poirier, Lyn Lalonde) L.C. Electric 1 (Nancy Bedard).

Tapis Richard 4 (Ann McMillan, Louise St.Pierre, Cathy Depratto, Sue Stewart) M and D Sports 0.

Making a case for the defence

Petry is having a banner season but is anyone noticing?

It's hard to believe that St.Lawrence Division officials think that there are eight defencemen in the league that are having better seasons than Char- Lan's Chris Petry.

After all, the South Branch Rd. resident has been arguably the most consistent defenceman on the league's second-place team.

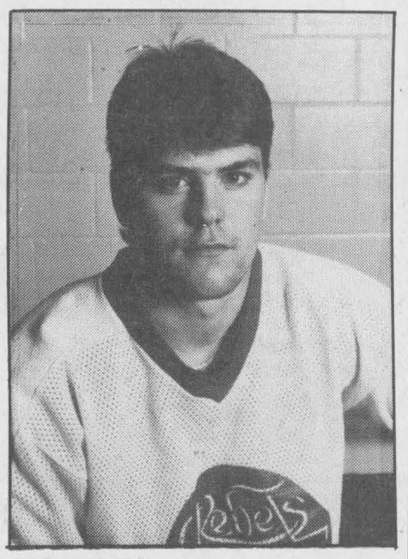
But sure enough, when all the votes were tabulated, Petry not only failed to make the team, he wasn't even selected as one of the two alternates.

Instead of participating in the game, Petry had to be content watching the game in the stands of the Morrisburg Arena with Char-Lan teammate Dan Desjardins.

"It was disappointing (to not make the All-Star game) but not just for me — I think there's a lot of other guys on this team that should have made it," said the 19-year-old Char-Lan District High School graduate.

"I think our team was definitely under-represented."

The all-star game voting is usually a good indicator of who will win the year-end awards and be named to the all-league teams — which means



Chris Petry

He is fifth in scoring among defencemen in the St.Lawrence Division even though the Rebels' use of five forwards on the man-advantage unit limits Petry's chances to get some easy power-play points.

Chafee also makes an interesting point about the mental aspect of Petry's game.

"Chris had all the tools last year except that his concentration was lacking at times. It was like he was a body without a mind out on the ice," he said.

"This year, that part of his game has really improved. Chris is in his third year with us and we need leadership from the veterans and he's delivered."

Petry doesn't deny that his play was spotty at times this year, and has a simple explanation for that inconsistency.

> "It was like he was a body without a mind..."
> — John Chafee

"If I've been playing better it's because the team has been doing a lot better," he said.

The Rebels are 23-15 this year after picking up only nine wins all of last season.

"Sometimes it's hard to push yourself when the team isn't doing too well. With the team winning this year, it's a lot easier to keep your mind in the game."

From a team standpoint, Petry says the team will be a lot better off once Bobby Bowles returns from his shoulder injury.

"I think as soon as Bobby gets back we'll be all right on defence."

Bowles' return would not only give the Rebels a veteran presence in their own zone but it would also give Char-Lan six defencemen — meaning the coaches have three sets defensive pairings available.

"It's a lot better when you can play with the same guy all the time," said Petry. "I think you can play a lot better when you get used to your partner."

Getting their defensive play in high gear could be the difference for the Rebels as the junior B playoffs begin next week.

Third-year defenceman Chris Petry may be overlooked by league officials but his own team is quick to recognize his value to the Rebels. Petry is fifth among St. Lawrence Division in scoring with 3 goals and 22 assists.

Petry will probably get shut out again on Saturday at the St.Lawrence Division banquet.

"It's too bad that Chris didn't make the all-star team because we really felt he deserved it," said Rebels president John Chafee.

"Bobby (Bowles, who was selected to the team) has been coming on lately but I don't think we've had a better defenceman than Chris since the beginning of the season.

"It would have been nice to see them both make it."

The 6'2', 210-pounder has always brought an intense, physical presence to the Char-Lan defence but this season other elements of his game have come around too.

Late goal salvages one point

Rudi Payer Sport needed a second-half goal by Benjamin Pye to salvage a 1-1 tie with the SDG Nomads in Char-Lan Indoor Soccer League action in Williamstown on Monday night.

Rudi's, who hold down first place in the CLISL, played a scoreless first half with the Nomads before falling behind 1-0 on Robin Basara's fifth of the season.

It was the only time the Nomads were able to beat substitute goalie Taffy Pye, who was forced to guard the pipes when regular netminders Mike Laframboise (suspended) and Junior Blanchette were unavailable for duty.

In the other crease, goalie Andrew Terhorst and the SDG defensive corps played exceptionally well for the second week in a row, holding the league's best offence to a single goal.

Stars 2 F.I.S.T. 1

The Glengarry Stars moved into second place by edging Cornwall F.I.S.T. 2-1 as rookie Alain Decoste netted both goals for the winners.

Decoste connected late in the first half and again with five minutes left in the game to give the Stars a 2-0 advantage.

Cornwall's Jamey Myers scored in the last minute of play to ruin Steven Cameron's shutout attempt.

Cameron was playing in goal for Jeff Lowe, who was suspended for the rest of the season and playoffs last week as a result of an incident the previous Monday.

U2's 3 Warriors 1

Scott Arnott scored twice as the Char-Lan U2's moved over the .500 mark with a 3-1 victory over the Avonmore Warriors.

Roy MacDonell also pumped in a goal for the U2's while the Warriors' scoring was provided by the toe of Chris Uhr.

Leclair shooting lights out

It was at about this time last season that Charles Leclair started wreaking havoc in the Char-Lan Minor Hockey house league's atom division, and he's starting to let loose offensively again this year as a member of Malyon's Excavation in the peewee division.

Leclair had a pair of four-goal games to lead Malyon's to a pair of victories last week.

Tyson Currier added a single to Leclair's four in a 5-1 win over Longevity Acrylics while Darryl Major rounded out the scoring in a 5-3 triumph against Kalrim Sports.

Robert Martin scored the only Longevity goal in a losing cause while Kalrim's goals were provided by Steve Alguire (two) and Alex Hadzocos.

Munro Agromart had two wins and a tie in a busy week of action.

Jason Bacon had a hat trick and Patrick Alguire had two goals as Munro dumped Longevity 6-4.

Chad MacDonell had the other Munro goal; Robert Martin had three for Longevity with the other score going to Eric Dube.

Martin scored all four of his team's goals as the two clubs tied 4-4 in a second meeting.

Patrick Alguire had two of the Longevity goals while Kirk MacMillan and Jason Bacon had the others. Paul Dawson had four assists.

Kirk MacMillan and Jason Bacon scored for Munro in a 2-0 blanking of Kalrim Sports.

Bantam-midget

Paul St.Denis of Gauthier's Greenhouse and Chris MacDonald of Mac's Marina each scored a pair of goals as the two bantam-midget clubs played to a 2-2 draw last week.

Gauthier's defeated Dan's Place 5-4 in their other game as Geoffrey McLean, Albert St.Denis, Chris Wereley, Brian Goudie and Kevin Owens each scored once.

Shawn Primeau, Robbie Lamarche, Michael Cox and Daniel Gillespie replied for Dan's.

Lamarche had two goals as Dan's doubled Poirier Bus Lines 4-2.

Michael Cox and Shawn Primeau also scored for the winners while Derek Abrams and Albert Leger took care of the Poirier scoring.

Poirier got by Mac's Marina 3-1 as Derek Abrams, Tom Heatley and Trevor Atchison scored a goal each. James Nichol's goal represented the only Mac's offence.

Atom

Phil Hadzocos took care of all of his team's scoring as Cornwall Aviation snuck past the Glengarry Kinsmen 4-3 in an atom division contest.

Mike Touchette, Shawn O'Bery and Drew Thomson pumped in goals for the Kinsmen.

Aviation dropped their other game 5-3 to McCuaig Plumbing as five different players — Marc-Andre Main, Andrew Jarvo, Willie Larkin, Marc Pilon and Johnson Cumming — fired in goals for the winning side.

Ed McCorkell, Chris Knight and Phil Hadzocos connected for Aviation.

Novice

Phillippe Glaude scored a hat trick and Robb Schaefer added a single as Fontaine Renovations beat Rozon Insurance 3-1 in novice division action last week.

Curtis Thomson had the Rozon goal.

Meanwhile, Kyle Fraser scored twice to lead Curry Hill Lumber to a 3-1 victory against Williamstown Fire Department.

Joel Lemay completed the scoring for Curry Hill while Steven Jarvo scored the Fire Department.

Hawkesbury Hawks' goalie foils Char-Lan peewees on weekend

Despite outshooting their opponents 40-7, the Char-Lan peewee travelling team lost 1-0 to Hawkesbury in the final of a minor hockey tournament in Alexandria on Sunday.

The Rebels reached the final by beating Gloucester 5-3 in the semis as Jamie Lemire, Stephane Loyer, Lindsay Campbell, Derek Wereley and Kent McDonell scored once each.

Jason Pilon had the shutout and Derek Wereley and Kent McDonell scored the goals as Char-Lan beat East Ottawa 2-0 in their opening-round game.

Char-Lan whipped Cornwall 9-0 in an Upper Canada Minor Hockey League regular season contest.

Jason Wade scored twice as the bantam Rebels and the South Stormont Flyers played to a 4-4 tie.

Ben Pregent and Chris Lumley also scored for Char-Lan.

The Char-Lan midgets started off a tournament in St.Isidore with a 6-3 win over Embrun but the Rebels were eliminated by Vankleek Hill 2-1 in the second round.

Dan Blacker scored twice in the Embrun game while Kirk McDonell, Scott Giroux, Ian MacDonell and Jason Flaro chipped in with singles.

Kirk McDonell had the only Rebel goal in the second-round loss.

Locals defend cup again

The Alexandria Curling Club has successfully defended the Quebec Challenge Trophy once again.

Teams from Alexandria defeated a pair of rinks from the visiting Montreal West Curling Club 17-14 on Sunday.

Alexandria team members on Sunday were: Jack Paavila (skip), Fraser MacLeod, Duncan MacMillan and Peter Gibbs on one squad while the other rink was comprised of Larry Hay (skip), Jim Graham, Lorne Stackhouse and Les Kimbel.

The locals' next challenge is slated for Feb. 21 against the Asbestos club.

Gaels takes two games from Devils

The Glengarry Gaels boys basketball teams travelled to Maple Ridge last Thursday and came home with two wins out of their three encounters with North Dundas.

The Devils won the senior matchup 54-31 as Sean Salter led North Dundas with 15 points. Robert Meth was the top Gaels shooter with nine points.

Glengarry trailed all the way in this one with deficits of 18-8, 30-14 and 44-23 after one, two and three quarters.

Rick McCorkell was the offensive story for Glengarry in the junior game as the Gaels' No. 1 poured in 18 points in a 52-26 win.

McCorkell was especially effective in the second and third quarters when he scored 14 of his 18 points.

John McDonald was next in scoring line for the Gaels with seven points while Benjamin Williams had six.

In the midget game, Glengarry prevailed 28-25 despite being held scoreless in the third quarter as an 18-9 halftime lead was enough.

The Gaels' Karl Hehn had 11 points to lead all scorers. Tommy Tuppert added five points for Glengarry while Chancey Lajoie and Craig Calvankl had four apiece.

In Williamstown on Friday, Chris Lumley scored 16 points as the Char-Lan juniors downed Rothwell-Osnabruck 60-48.

The rest of the Crusader scoring was spread out with Travis Guest (eight points), Adam Blackadder (seven), Jeff Proctor (six) and Marty McDonell (six) all contributing.

The Char-Lan midgets were routed 44-19 by the Lancers as six points by Derek Abrams and four each by Joey Dupuis and Richard Malo led the Crusaders' meagre scoring list.

Char-Lan was an easy winner in the senior game.

The annual congregational meeting of the Community Protestant Church was held on Jan. 31 following a soup and sandwich lunch following morning worship.

The year in review for the church proved that, in fact, 1992 had been a great one... outreach ministries going well and increasing; spiritual growth within the congregation; finances sufficient to provide assistance in church plantings, youth work, community projects and an overhead projector.

There was a 100 per cent turnout of members and adherents to vote in the following slate of officers: Steering Committee-Tom Dempster, Margaret Dempster, Joyce Lalonde, Sylvia Pilkington, Mary Taylor and Walter Pilkington as proxy member.

Church Treasurer-Margaret Dempster, Corresponding Secretary-Sheila Urquhart, Archivist-George Brewer and Card Convenor-Marguerite MacLeod.

The auditors for the coming year will be Douglas Redman and Joan Spicer and a new position, Ministry of Music, is being filled by Sheila Urquhart.

The Urquharts have returned from a two-day retreat for pastors and spouses, held at Fair Havens Retreat Center at Beaverton, Ont. where they and 25 other couples enjoyed "A Season for Renewal" with Rev. Grover Crosby of Newmarket as the theme speaker.

Sixty-eight-year-old Ileen Latreille was named the 1992 Citizen of the Year at the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce Awards Banquet held at the Heritage Golf Club in South Lancaster Saturday night.

Optimist essay contest

The Alexandria Optimist club recently honored participants in its annual essay contest — Our Responsibility to Preserve Liberty. Pictured above, Club President Ronald Viau congratulates first place winner Denise Lajoie. Placing second was Joelle O'Byrne and third, Natalie Lajoie. The three all received medallions. All participants received a certificate, a pin and a monetary prize.

Optimists challenge other clubs for help

The Optimist Club of Alexandria is challenging other service clubs in the area to help Pere Marcel Larouche in his effort to build a chapel.

The Optimists have donated $500 to the approximately $4,000 project, and say that funds are greatly needed.

Larouche, who does pastoral work at the high school in Alexandria, initiated the project to better promote spiritual values.

He said the chapel will be "very small", accessible through sliding doors, and will be located in an existing school room.

The chapel will be used for pastoral care and for occasional celebrations, he said.

"We challenge other clubs of Alexandria and the surrounding communities to show their support for a job well done," said the Optimist club in a press release.

School holding winter carnival

North Lancaster

By Bernadette Campeau 347-2572

Here at our school, Monday was carnival activity day, indoor and out. A volleyball game was played, parents versus teachers with students helping out either side.

A delicious spaghetti lunch was served free of charge on the same day. Today the kids from Kindergarten to Grade 4 are having a trip to St. Lazare where they will enjoy tobogganing and other sports.

On Thursday, grades 5, 6, 7 and 8 will be travelling to Rigaud to enjoy some skiing.

* * *

We wish Stéphane Claude a speedy recovery since he had the misfortune of breaking a leg while playing sports at school.

In Memoriam

MacDERMID — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, George, who passed away on Feb. 13, 1992.
The days are very lonely,
Since you said goodbye,
I often sit and wonder
And ask myself why
How one so young and caring
Could be taken from our side,
Because you were so special
He chose you from the fold
To light the star of heaven
For others to behold.
—Sadly missed by mother and all the family. 6-1p

Need for parish hall in village

Green Valley
Margo Pepin
525-3581

The Green Valley Recreation Committee is pleased with all those who came out to the reunion held Sunday evening.

About 35 people showed up including the committee members. Marcel Leroux and Ronald Lajoie explained what has been done so far.

Petitions were passed and signed by those present, also pledge sheets were given out, donation from $25 to $1,000 and more may be donated by parishioners and anyone who is interested over a period of three years.

So don't be surprised if someone asks you to sign a petition and asks for a pledge. The need for a parish hall in Green Valley is very evident.

Boxes will be put at the church, Viau Ladies Wear, Green Valley Glass, the Restaurant, Lucky Dollar to deposit your petition and pledge. The next general reunion will be in March, the date will be decided later.

CANCER CAN BE BEATEN

Most of us have heard about Outward Bound, that it's a not-for-profit organization which challenges people of all ages in outdoor situations ranging from hiking, mountaineering and, perhaps, rock climbing, canoeing. Today Outward Bound operates 35 schools in 20 countries, two in Canada, but it was founded during the War to teach survivorship to torpedoed seamen. One Canadian school is in N. Ontario and the other is in B.C.'s Coastal mountains not far from Whistler.

On the theme of
"A mind that is stretched by a new experience can never go back to its dimensions"
Oliver Wendell Holmes

Several courses will be given this summer to help persons diagnosed with cancer, to not only cope with a necessarily changed career and personal relationships, but to go on to a positive and enriched life. The 7-day courses will be available in both B.C. and N. Ontario and no prior outdoor experience is required, most participants will be novices in wilderness experience. Risk taking, triumph over fear, new skills and laughter, team reliance and responsibilities will lead to new perceptions of your potential. The Ontario course will be based in Algonquin Park and will feature canoeing and portaging as well as some rock climbing and a well supervised solo component.

Outward Bound tailors these courses for a small team, about ten with two instructors, based on the need for trust, communication and immediate action knowing, from past experience with social delinquints, that these are powerful metaphors for living and change. Or as Camus put it
"In the midst of winter, I finally learned there was in me an invincible summer."

So the Outward Bound philosophy and experience can be the spur for the cancer individual to explore the link between wellness and personal will. It is also based on the fact that we all have deep resources for coping with adversity, for ourselves and for strengthening others. It's an opportunity to begin once more with the courage to risk, to try again and find that the impossible is not so when you have empowered youself, mastered confidence and so gained a new perspective to see the world anew.

Outward Bound is being used also, by top management, as a very effective way to retrain executives for today's unique challenges. In fact, since 1941 Outward Bound has helped almost a million people to develop greater initiative, self confidence, trust and self-esteem.

The fee for the 7-day "Challenging Cancer" is $795 + GST but, since it is a tuition fee, this full amount is tax deductible. The fee covers all food, equipment, instruction and Outward Bound supplies all sleeping bags, packs, stoves and so on. They even have a Bursary Fund for those in need of financial assistance. Course for Ontario will run May 24-30 or Sept. 20-26.

For B.C. the "Cancer Challenge" will be June 12-18.

To get more information or register ($200 deposit) contact Canadian Outward Bound Wilderness School, 302-150 Laird Drive, Toronto, Ont. M4G 3V7. Tel. 416-421-8111; Fax 416-421-9062
