Area man killed in single-car accident

A Dalkeith area resident was killed in a single-car accident yesterday.

The investigating Maxville OPP officer had no explanation for the accident as of press time yesterday. Instead, all Const. Jim Brown could offer was that Lucien Binette "failed to negotiate a curve and came to rest upside down on the north of the ditch."

There were no witnesses.

The 26 year-old was driving westbound on County Road 24 by himself about noon. Near his home and about two kilometres east of Dalkeith, his 1987 Ford Escort left the roadway.

He was dead when police arrived at the scene.

The jaws of life unit was called for but was not used.

Committee proposes French language board for SD&G

By Michael O'Dwyer
News* editor

An SD&G committee has been working to create a new French language school board in the counties, and they are ready to take it to the people.

The recently distributed manifesto outlines the formation of a new school board to govern French language instruction in the three counties. It would oversee all francophone education, both public and Catholic, from kindergarten to completion with OAC.

Micheline Ouellette, French language section trustee of the County board said Tuesday the new board will give francophone educators more control.

"We consider ourselves old enough to look after our own responsibility. We've grown enough. It (the new board) would give the francophone complete control of his education... We (French language trustees) meet with 15 anglophones, and if they don't think the way we do our decisions get overridden," she said.

Gerry Samson, superintendant of the SD&G County Board of Education refused to express an opinion on the proposed changes "to stay out of the politics" but said things will be different for those seeking francophone education.

He explained that if a French language board were allowed by the Ministry of Education, the effect would be that all teaching in French as a first language would be given by that board.

"The remaining boards would continue to be in a position to offer French as a second language. Those students wishing to have French as first language instruction would have to have that by this new board, not by the existing boards."

Ouellette said so far francophones have been fortunate with education, and she credited that to Samson. But, she said, situations can change.

"We just want to look after the francophones who really want to be educated in their own language. The service hasn't been lacking, but we're lucky to have Mr. Samson on the public school," she said.

She added that while SD&G francophones are very well represented by Superintendant Samson, it is not the same case across the province, and the situation here can change very fast.

The initiative is still in its formative stages. Prior to any further planning, the committee will be taking the issue to the people, and after that, to the Ministry of Education in Toronto for approval.

The public meetings in Glengarry are scheduled for June 14, from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. at ESRG. Following that, Ouellette doesn't see ministry approval to be a large barrier.

She said the ministry is aware of the plan, and is presently "quite open" to French boards, and she said the new school board should be in effect by 1991.

The key players of the working group are President Andre Lalonde who is chairman of the Public French Language School Board of Metro Toronto, Charlemagne Lamarche of the French language section of the SD&G County Board of Education, and Alphonse Lafrance, chairman of Deveau officially takes reins of Alexandria Police Dept.

Paul Deveau

It won't be hard for the newly appointed Alexandria police chief to get the hang of the job — he's already been doing it for two years.

Last Monday, the word 'acting' was removed from acting Police Chief Paul Deveau's title. Alexandria's four-member police commission decided it was time to end the hiatus in the position now that the provincial policing issue has been resolved.

For 10 years, the town council had been seeking free OPP policing for Alexandria, starting when former Police Chief Sylvio Cleroux resigned in 1980. The OPP had provided an interim chief free of charge, continuing this gift until 1988.

In July of that year, the OPP ordered the town to provide it's own chief. Paul Deveau was chosen, although unofficially since council continued to negotiate for OPP policing.

Then on April 3 this year, town council finally settled the issue with the rejection of an OPP cost proposal, forcing the commission to appoint a permanent chief.

"He's been acting chief for years, he's been doing a good job and he's got the support of the men behind him," said police commissioner and Mayor Jean-Paul Touchette April 30. "When you've got a good man in place, why go outside to hire?"

The appointment doesn't really change things for Deveau except how far he has to drive to work.

"The only thing," Deveau mused, "is just that we've been wanting to move into town for some time.... So now, I anticipate moving into town at the end of May, beginning of June," he said April 26.

The Deveau's will trade their Apple Hill home for one they have yet to build on Hope Street.

School supporters face tax hike

Glengarry County Catholic school supporters will be hit with a hike of $55 to $100 in property taxes this year — thanks to the $65 million 1990 budget passed by SD&G Separate School board April 24.

Board spending is up $9 million over last year's budget of $56 million.

Board business administrator Gordon Greffe said in an interview the jump was mainly due to a 32 per cent rise in secondary school expenses caused when 1,500 French language students at Ecole Secondaire Regionale Glengarry in Alexandria were transferred from the County to the Separate school board.

Greffe noted the board was also hit by a $325,000 extra in OPHIP taxes for the first time this year, and $300,00 was set aside for future pay equity funding.

Salaries and benefits for elementary teachers rose by 9.5 per cent — shoved up by hiring extra hands for the longer teacher preparation time awarded in this year's contract.

The average increase in property taxes for Catholic school supporters in the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry area was 8.8 per cent — tacking $71 onto tax bills for property with an assessed value of $5,000.

In Glengarry, Lancaster Township Catholic ratepayers are facing the most financial pain, with a $102 increase in education taxes — up 11.6

Budget '90: How do farmers fare?

By Bruce Myers
News* correspondent

Will Glengarry's farmers be the big winners or losers of Ontario's latest budget? Area MPPs are at odds over the answer.

"Agricultural people will benefit from new programs to help deal with high interest rates and help with soil conservation," offered Cornwall member John Cleary.

The Liberal, who is parliamentary assistant to the Minister of Agriculture and Food, said in a Monday interview that considerable amounts of money had been allocated to the agricultural sector in Ontario, and that farmers will be big beneficiaries.

A $48 million interest rate assistance program was initiated and another $48 million was provided to the already-existing land stewardship program. Under this initiative, farmers are subsidized if they undertake soil conservation measures or purchase machinery that decreases the amount of soil tilled.

The budget was presented in the Ontario legislature by Treasurer Robert Nixon April 24.

And Cleary said that he stands by his government's fiscal plan. "I'm certainly pleased to be a part of it," he stated.

But the area's Conservative representative said he thinks this year's budget leaves something to be desired by farmers.

"If this budget is supposed to demonstrate Liberal commitment to agriculture," said Stormont, Dundas

Francophones celebrate heritage

By Anne Kukhta
News* reporter

Spring in Glengarry is looking brighter with a week-long celebration of the county's francophone heritage.

Le Centre culturel Les trois p'tits points is banding together with local schools, businesses and service groups to present Glengarry en fete from May 4 to May 11. The festival was introduced last year but spanned only a couple of days.

The celebration starts on a high note this year with a concert by Cafe chantant, the Ecole Secondaire Regionale Glengarry musical group composed of students and teachers. The performance starts at 8 p.m. on May 4 at ESRG and features Alexandria's golden-throated mayor, J.P. Touchette.

On the next two days, L'Ecole Perpetuel-Secours in Alexandria will host an art exhibition featuring local talent. As well as entertaining the masses, the items will be up for sale.

From May 7 to 11, Alexandria shops will feature some eye-catching window dressing. Drawings from secondary school students, teachers, and local artists will be displayed with help from a courtesy map locating and describing each artistic endeavor.

Also starting May 7 but continuing until May 12, la Caisse populaire will exhibit the cartoons of Bado, The Montreal Gazette's cartoonist. The display will be open from 7 to 9 p.m.

Then on May 9, a Reach for the Top quiz show facsimile will start at 1 p.m. at ESRG. Seven local groups — including a team formed of Club Richelieu members and another from le Centre Culturel — will pit their wits against the celebrated Genies en herbe of ESRG.

The following day, each of Glengarry's 10 French primary schools will hold a dictation contest. Students between grades three and eight will participate.

Finally, the week rounds off with two shows on May 11. The first starts at 10 a.m. at ESRG and features Mario Chenart. The second begins at 8 p.m. at the Priest's Mill with entertainer Francios Leveille. Leveille tickets are $14, reduced to $12 for cultural centre members, students and seniors.

Throughout the week, Glengarrians will notice a friendly clown smiling at them. Holding balloons and accompanied by a dog, the clown was sketched by Christine Leduc of Maxville's St. Bernard school as part of a poster contest held by le Centre culturel. The Grade 7 student wins a $50 Sky-Hi Video gift certificate.

A second prize of a one-year subscription to the lighthearted French magazine Croc was awarded to Richard Seguin of Ste. Marie's School in Green Valley.

Glengarry en fete organizer seeking help from business

Organizers of Glengarry en fete are asking local businesses to lend them their windows.

During the week of May 4 to 11, le Centre Culturel Les trois p'tits points and the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce are organizing an art exposition. The subjects will be drawings, paintings and sculptures made by students and teachers of Glengarry's French language primary and secondary schools.

To display them, the co-organizers need store windows in which two or three objects can be placed. Small cards identifying the objects and the artists will be provided. As well, should businesses prefer not to set up their own displays, a person will be appointed.

Interested businessmen can contact either Yanik Villeneuve or Michel Gerin at le Centre Culturel at 525-3393.

Rubber Duck Race flows on Sunday

Picture more than 3,000 yellow plastic ducks flowing along the Garry River through Alexandria.

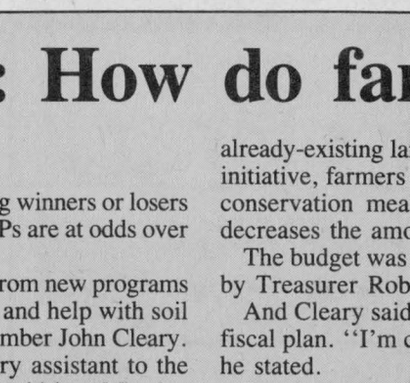
Can't do it? Then maybe you should see it for yourself on Sunday afternoon when the Great Glengarry Rubber Duck Race comes to town.

For several weeks, volunteers have been getting area residents to sponsor ducks at five dollars a "quack" to raise money for the Ontario Heart and Stroke Foundation.

The whole event kicks-off with an antique car parade leaving Alexandria IGA at 1 p.m. en route to the starting post at Mill Square.

An antique truck will dump the hundreds and hundreds and hundreds of ducks behind the Priest's Mill restaurant at 2 p.m. Refreshments and a ring-side seat can be found on the terrace of the restaurant; all proceeds go to the Heart and Stroke Foundation.

From there, the flock of birds will head east down the river for about 20 minutes. The first fifteen to cross the finish line at the junction of Sandfield and Kenyon Streets will share in the $5,000 in prize money.



Lend a helping duck to the Heart and Stroke Foundation.

Close to $15,000 has already been raised. That figure is expected to rise by the time the final tickets are sold.

Organizers said Tuesday that the sale of ducks has been impressive in the area so far, and they expect a last-minute rush just before the starting pistol is fired on Sunday.

Tickets will be on sale at the starting point from 10 a.m. until race time.

Theoret subdivision in limbo

Engineers and construction workers will have to wait a few more weeks before work can begin on the new Theoret Subdivision planned for Anik St. and West Boundary Road in Alexandria.

Town officials said Tuesday that some formal documents have yet to be signed by developers, a process that could take a couple of weeks. Some frost still remaining in the ground is preventing work from beginning, as well.

When work does begin, the first step will be the installation of sewer and water services to the subdivision. All of these expenses will be incurred by the developers. The only tab the town will be picking up will be for engineers it hires to supervise the work. "And that will be minimal," added town building official Terry Hart.

Atomic Construction has been commissioned by the developer to handle the job.

Teachers share information on drug abuse

The SD&G County School Board received a grant last year of $23,000 for the English section, and $3,000 for the French-as-a-first language students, for teacher training on substance abuse.

By March teachers selected from secondary schools, and Grades 7 and 8 schools, were run through the drug abuse programs delivered by a counsellor from CONCERNS Canada, Trustees learned at a meeting April 24.

These teachers return to their schools and share information with other members of the staff. Another drug education session will be held in September for teachers from Kindergarten to Grade 6.

A team at the school board has been designing a program for Grade 4 students outlining drug abuse with an emphasis on smoking prevention.

Currently in schools is a drug abuse program given through the Police Chiefs of Canada called CODE, directed at Grades 2 and 3 students.

Nicole Bourgeois is the representative for the SD&G citizens group, and Fr. Bernand Guindon is chaplain of the separate school board.

This move toward francophone autonomy in education began in 1987 with the first manifesto which precipitated the transfer from the public school board to the separate school board. This transfer took effect at La Citadelle, ESRG, and Jeanne Sauve schools, all in the Catholic system.

There are only two French language school boards in the province, Toronto and Ottawa-Carleton which were introduced three years ago.

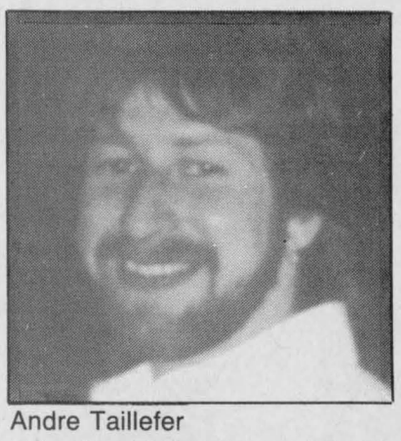
Alexandria man clings to life following accident near Glen

Andre Taillefer of Alexandria is still comatose and in serious condition following a tragic automobile accident on the Glen Robertson Road April 21.

Police say Taillefer's Camero was southbound when it left the roadway and struck a culvert early Saturday evening. Hubert Taillefer, the patient's father said the vehicle flipped 45 feet in the air and Andre was thrown through the sunroof. Taillefer is 24 years-old.



Andre Taillefer

Taillefer suffered severe head injuries and was taken to the Ottawa Civic Hospital where he has remained comatose. He has a cracked skull and a cerebral concussion.

While Civic Hospital officials say only that Taillefer's condition is serious, his father, Hubert, said Andre's life support systems will be slowly removed to determine if he will live on his own.

"They didn't guarantee us anything," said Hubert Taillefer on Tuesday. "He's on five machines, even artificial lungs. It's very bad. We hope he pulls through it, but with the damage he has, he won't pull through it perfectly," he said.

He said his son is experiencing no pain since he is on anaesthetic 24 hours per day.

"We don't know how it's going to turn out. They're going to try to take the (life support) machines off, a little bit every day to see if he'll breath on his own," Taillefer said.

Andre was living at home with his mother Claudette and brother Peter, and employed with Tradition Windows until the plant closed.

Lancaster OPP Sgt. Andy Vanderwoude is investigating the accident.

Loch Garry gets boost of green

Mother Nature's smiling on 414 local Scouts, Cubs, Beavers and Venturers. The group planted 8,000 more trees around Loch Garry.

On Saturday, the group trouped out with 91 leaders and 40 parents to the Garry River Management Area adjacent to the loch. About five hours later, Eastern White Pine saplings dotted about 20 acres of land.

"We got a great day's work out of everybody," Ralph Austin, chairman of the Scouts in Alexandria and chairman of the planting event, said April 30.

These Stormont and Glengarry youths joined their brothers across the country, planting a total of more than three million trees across the nation as part of the Trees for Canada project. The project is a joint commission of Scouts Canada, the Raisin Region Conservation Authority and the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Participating scouts sought pledges from community members, with each local house contacted only once.

"This year, everybody is more concerned with the environment," Austin commented. "We've been planting trees for years but everyone seems to be just jumping on the bandwagon now."

Tree planting has been done by the Scouts in Canada for as far back as 1930. In 1972, the campaign was formalized and given the Trees for Canada name.

Three suffer major injuries

Three people suffered major injuries in a two-vehicle accident on Sunday at about 10:15 p.m.

Investigation by Lancaster OPP found that Richard Longchamp, 37, of Apple Hill had crossed over the centre line of County Road 20 and struck the side of an oncoming vehicle. Longchamp was driving a 1984 Chevrolet pickup owned by his passenger, Richard St. John of Lunenburg.

The oncoming 1988 Oldsmobile was driven by 76-year-old Cornelius Sloan of Apple Hill. His wife, 75-year-old Alice, was a passenger.

Both of the Sloans and Longchamp sustained major injuries while St. John escaped with minor injuries.

The pickup was demolished and damage to the Oldsmobile severe.

Police say charges are pending.

Two-car collision

Two vehicles sustained moderate damages after a collision at the Kincardine and Dominion streets intersection at 12:20 p.m. on April 24.

Police briefs

Apple Hill's Gilles Derepentigny, 22, was driving his 1982 Pontiac northbound on Kincardine in Alexandria when his vehicle collided with westbound Paul Lalonde, 17, who was driving a 1990 Honda.

Neither were injured but Derepentigny has been charged with failing to yield at a stop sign.

Bikes stolen

Just when his family would be starting to use them, Alexandria's Raymond Poirier has had two bikes stolen.

During the night breaching April 27 and 28, a girl's 10-speed Protour Jr. and a boy's CFX Freestyle BMX were stolen from Poirier's yard.

The theft is under investigation by the Alexandria Police.

Lights out on CN

On April 27, damage to CN property was discovered.

Two lenses on a signal light on a west-bound train track behind Carnation in Alexandria were broken.

The value of the damage is unknown.

Theft at Ryax

A 25-year-old Alexandria man has been charged in connection of a break, entery and theft of an electric motors remanufacturing company.

At about 3:30 a.m. on April 28, someone broke into Ryax Ltd. at the south end of Alexandria. A small amount of cash was stolen.

Lending a hand

Some Maxville OPP officers had a change of scenery this week as Long Sault recruited them as well as officers from other local detachments to help deal with tensions at the Akwesasne Indian reserve. The conflict on the reserve which spans the Canadian-American border has erupted over the gambling issue.

Big volumes recycled

Kenyon project recovers high amounts of waste

The proof is in the pudding — or in this case, garbage.

By measuring piles of wet and dry garbage collected by five Kenyon families as part of a waste reduction project, members of the Public Liaison Committee have found their methods really work.

Recently compiled results show that following PLC reduction methods reduced these families' production of wet waste by 66 per cent and dry waste 57 per cent by weight and 50 per cent by volume.

"So many people say, 'It won't matter if I throw this out. It won't matter if I buy this. I'm only one person.' But it does matter. It all adds up," says Pat Ager, project chair and member of the PLC of the Stormont-Glengarry waste-management steering committee.

And seminar participants have realized this, Ager says, after seeing the amount of garbage they each amassed weekly. As a result, she says she hopes they will continue the methods that proved themselves in the reduction project.

The PLC will also be forwarding the project results to the Ministry of the Environment, which could promote the project across the country. And about October, they will phone participants to determine if any of the reduction techniques are still being practiced.

"It certainly is significant enough. It should be tried in a lot of other places before blue box and whatever," Ager says.

The PLC project started on March 17 when each of these families were given a seven-day chart to monitor 86 commonly discarded items. They also separated garbage into wet and dry components.

Then on March 31, four PLC members hosted a seminar on reduction techniques, encouraging other people to attend and pass on the training to their own municipalities.

A representative of the MOE attended the meeting as an observer.

Then, the next week, the project was repeated, this time using the reduction initiatives taught at the workshop. It was from this data that the reduction figures mentioned earlier were derived.

Organ donors still needed

While countries around the world celebrated National Organ Donors' Week, Alexandria's first liver transplant recipient had his own reason to celebrate — he's doing fine almost 16 months after his transplant.

The only real problem Archie Lavigne said he had to surmount was three broken vertebrae as a result of bones weakened by prednisone medication.

"(But) it's a small price to pay for what I received and I'm quite satisfied," Lavigne said April 30.

Lavigne was one of the lucky ones. Currently, 575 Ontario residents await organ donations.

In Ontario, 69,000 people die each year, a regional communications coordinator of the Multiple Organ Retrieval and Exchange Program of Ontario said April 27. Nancy Laffin was one of five MORE co-ordinators who organized the national donor week, which ended on April 27.

Local liver recipient doing fine after 16 months but MORE donors still needed

Of these deaths, only between one and three per cent, or between 700 and 2,100 people, are eligible donors, Laffin continued. But if only one per cent of all deceased would donate, this waiting list would be eliminated.

However, only between 10 and 12 per cent of eligible people actually donate, including the 26 per cent of all drivers who sign the donor permission form on the back of their licences.

Laffin lays the blame for the organ shortage on the doorstep of both potential donors and the medical profession.

She explained people hesitate to donate because of reasons that include superstition and fear of mutilation. In the case on mutilation, she stresses that only one sutured incision is made in the midsection of the body, allowing for an open casket.

With regards to doctors, Laffin says, "Physicians hate to ask. Their role is to save lives and when someone has been declared brain dead, they hate like hell to go to the relatives and say: 'Now that I've failed, would you donate organs?'"

MORE is hoping to overcome these problems with concentrated education of both medical people and the general public, which it has been conducting since the early '80s. It was then that the Ministry of Health stepped in to refine efforts of the participating cities: Toronto, London, Hamilton, Kingston and Ottawa.

These five areas joined together with MORE in 1978, after Toronto started the program in 1976.

Former resident dies in Mexico

Dianne Levert, daughter of Kay Levert of St. George St., Alexandria, died suddenly while working as a lay missionary in Mexico.

Dianne was swimming in Puerto Escandido on Friday, April 20 when she was caught in an undertow. All efforts to revive her failed.

Dianne was born September 26, 1949 at Ste. Adele, Quebec, a daughter of the late Paul Emile Levert and of the former Kathleen (Kay) McDonald. The family moved to Alexandria where Dianne received her education at the Alexander School and the high school. She was a brilliant dance pupil of Rae MacCulloch Dancing School, and graduated from the Ottawa Civic Hospital in nursing in 1967. Following her graduation she took an art course at Sheridan College of Arts at Brampton, whee she won high honors. She returned to her nursing profession spending two years at Glengarry Memorial Hospital, Alexandria, later at Ottawa Civic and St. Vincent's.

In 1975 she went as a lay missionary to Mexico where she was affectionately called Sister Breeza. She was a breath of fresh air to the poor, aged and lonely natives and her work among the children was extraordinary.

Dianne Levert

Her first mission was in Guatemala then Lima, Peru and later in Calcutta where she worked in the missions. She was a devoted Catholic and she endeared herself to all who came in contact with her. She will be sadly missed by her sister workers and the natives in the mission fields to whom she brought peace of mind and happiness in her many visits and little gifts. She dedicated her life to helping the poor, the aged and the children.

Dianne finally made her home in Oaxaca where she was the organist in the beautiful Cathedral La Soledad which is the sanctuary of the Patroness of Oaxaca.

Dianne was an artist of renown. She has done many beautiful paintings which are a tribute to her memory and will be cherished by her family.

She last visited her home in 1978 and she had great plans of coming home in April on leave for one year.

Left to mourn her tragic passing are her grief stricken mother Kay Levert of Alexandria and two brothers Ronald of Ottawa, and Constable Roger Levert of Alexandria, and one sister Kathy of Winnipeg. Four nephews, three nieces, several uncles and aunts and many cousins also mourn her loss.

As it was her written wish, she will be buried from her Mission Church La Soledad in the parish cemetery in Oaxaca Mexico.

A memorial mass will be sung at St. Finnan's Cathedral, Alexandria, by Rev. Bernard Cameron, rector of the cathedral on Thursday, May 3, 1990 at 7:30 p.m. St. Finnan's senior choir under the direction of Sr. Kathryn Cameron CSC with organist Christena MacDonald will sing the mass. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

per cent over last year.

Ratepayers in Maxville Village will pay the lowest increase in the education levy on their property taxes, with a $55 increase, up seven per cent.

In Alexandria, the education levy will add $90 to property tax bills, up 10 per cent. Lancaster Village Catholic ratepayers will pay an additional $85 levy on their properties — up 11.3 per cent.

Charlottenburgh Catholics are facing an increase of $65 on their education tax levy — up seven per cent. Kenyon Township Catholic supporters will pay an additional property tax levy of $70 this year — up 9.2 per cent from last year.

These levies were all computed on properties assessed at $5,000.

Lochiel Township, the only municipality in Glengarry which has changed its assessment to market value, will see Catholic ratepayers owning a property assessed at $70,000 paying $57 extra in school taxes — up 8.1 per cent.

One of the biggest items in the budget was a total of $23.7 million to run French-language schools this year — and $17 million to finance English language schools.

Board administration cost nearly $2 million, plant operations $5 million, and transportation of students cost $7 million.

Budget '90: How do farmers fare

and Glengarry MPP Noble Villeneuve, "I urge farmers not to blink for fear of missing it."

"This (budget) is just to get them over an election — then forget it," accused Villeneuve Tuesday.

He said that the $48 million provided to farmers to combat high interest rates is only a flash in the pan compared to a similar program started by the PC government which preceded the present Liberal administration.

Under the Ontario Farm Family Interest Rebate (OFFIR) program, a budget of over $100 million was provided. The program — eliminated by the Liberals — was also ongoing and continuous, in contrast to the recent Liberal announcement which Villeneuve claims will run out after the next election.

The land stewardship grant announced by Nixon will only be marginally helpful, said the PC critic for agriculture and food.

The amount allocated to that program in last year's budget quickly ran out and several applicants were being turned away by the program's end. He also said that $10 million of that $48 million has already been spent to assist farmers from last year.

Villeneuve added that while in this budget, $96 million has been granted to the agriculture ministry, in reality, cutbacks of over $50 million have taken place throughout the five years of Liberal government in Ontario.

"It's the only ministry in Ontario that's had cutbacks like that," he said.

Other benefits Cleary sees for the area are increased transfer payments to municipalities, especially to assist with roads. He also cited increases in allocations to health and social services.

But the recent injection of money into agriculture as well as other government departments should be taken as an indication of an impending autumn election, offered Villeneuve.

"The date of the election: that's the only thing missing," he said.

Cleary was somewhat more cautious in venturing a guess as to when the next writ will be handed-down.

"There's only one man who knows that, and that's the premier."

Glengarrian elected to national agency

A Lochiel Township woman has moved another step up in the hierarchy of Canada's pork industry.

Marion Myers was elected to the executive of Canada Pork, the pork industry's national promotion agency, at a meeting of the body April 17 in Toronto.

Myers' election to the agency marks another notch in her long history with the pork industry in Ontario.

She has served as Glengarry's representative to the Ontario Pork Producers' Marketing Board (OPPMB) and as provincial director on the board for 15 years. She served as a member and chairman of a number of committees, as well as the past three years on the OPPMB executive.

Recently elected to another three-year term as one of two eastern region directors, Myers has been the province's representative to Canada Pork since March.

And she says that after looking at things provincially for the past 15 years, she's going to be interested to see things from a more national perspective.

"I feel it's a challenge," she said in a Saturday interview. "I support national promotion and I look forward to being a part of it."

Myers is one of seven directors representing as many provinces on the four-year-old agency. Canada Pork's main objective is to assist provincial promotion programs, while at the same time encouraging a national theme to pork promotion.

"What I think Canada Pork will do is enhance provincial efforts and also, through a national effort, they'll endeavor to have a national theme across Canada," she added.

This is important, said Myers, because when products such as pork are being exported, the importing countries don't look at regional or provincial efforts, but rather at the national picture. "They look at it as a Canadian product."

But she also hopes to help increase pork's visibility at home, in Canada.

"I think that people are unaware of the versatility of the product and the nutritional value of the product," she said.

Arena deficits: They're not unusual

Whenever discussion arises over the increasing debt of the Glengarry Sports Palace, Mayor J.P. Touchette marches out the inevitable comparison to the way things once were, and by suggestion, the way they could have continued to be.

While it may be true the facility was the "House that bingo built", his references to the actions of the past is neither constructive nor completely accurate.

The mayor took time to point out last week that when he left the chair of the Sports Palace board, there was "$210,000 in the bank and we were making money," pointing to the contributions the lucrative high stakes bingo were providing to the Palace's coffers.

His statement, naturally, stands in stark contrast to today's reality -- a $110,000 deficit.

At first blush, the ratepayers may follow the mayor's hint and once again blame the "gang of four" -- those councillors who, four years ago, prompted an audit of the Palace's accounting procedures and the end of the bingos which were so profitable.

Yes, those fateful times spelled the end of an era of prosperity for the sports facility. But it's also true that, under provincial law, municipalities cannot "make money" -- not one dime. Municipal profits derived from gaming activities is simply illegal and has been for some time. In fact, the word profits, in the municipal accounting world, is a misnomer.

However unwittingly, the Sports Palace got caught making profits from bingo. It's that simple. It may well be that taxpayers will be paying for that law for years to come, as the Palace runs up greater deficits. But that's the fault of provincial law, not history.

Besides, as Charlottenburgh Reeve Carol Ann Ross recently pointed out, there's nothing new about deficits. Manageable deficits are often necessary for municipalities to provide services. That's what the Sports Palace is doing, and in an efficient way.

In fact, Sports Palace Manager Mike Depratto pointed out that the 1989 "loss is standard for a facility like this." That doesn't mean the municipalities which pay for the facility have to ignore such deficits -- their budgets should be balanced responsibly. But Mr. Depratto knows it's practically impossible these days to operate a facility the size of the Sports Palace without absorbing losses.

That's reality, not history. It's time to stop panicking about deficits, blaming the past and move on with solid fiscal solutions and effective management to guarantee the Sports Palace a sound future.

A private citizen comes through

Alexandrians have to wonder where they would be without Bruno Lalonde and his Nevada tickets.

Not only has the town councillor, store proprietor, Citizen of the Year recipient and war veteran raised $150,000 over three years for youth group fundraisers, he's now planning a new drive to help fund $10,000 in improvements to the Glengarry War Memorial.

Both he and the cenotaph committee, which has tried valiantly to raise money to upgrade the memorial over the past year or so, hope the citizenry of the town and surrounding municipalities will kick in too.

After months of cenotaph frustration, now we're getting somewhere — thanks to Bruno.

Who's Bob trying to kid?

No new tax increases in 1990? Who on earth is Ontario Treasurer Robert Nixon trying to kid?

Any small business owner in Glengarry County has likely already made their first payment of the Ontario Health Tax (EHT), an employer tax designed to replace OHIP premiums in the province. Under the plan, business and the province share the health costs. Regulations took effect Jan. 1, 1990.

Bob Nixon is in error if he believes the EHT is actually a 1989 budget initiative. All companies, including small businesses, will be building the costs of the EHT into their 1990 budgets. So while the treasurer smugly prides himself on his second balanced budget in as many years, Ontario businesses will be swallowing a NEW 1990 tax, whether he thinks so or not.

Locals speak out on court reporting

After Thoughts

Joe Banks

Some weeks ago, I invited readers to comment on the ups and downs of our current policy of printing "Court report" in our newspaper. As you can see, we have continued to print news of the provincial court in Alexandria after thoughtful consideration.

But I did receive input that indicated several of you want us to continue to do so, some citing many of the same factors we had pondered when we eventually reached our final decision.

I received only four written responses, and six phone calls. While hardly representative of any kind of viewpoint, those who cared to comment offered insight we sometimes don't expect from our readers — but clearly should.

Of the 10 responses I received, only two suggested that court reporting should be either curtailed or left out altogether.

Patricia Humphries of Williamstown, who I thank for a highly complimentary letter, suggested that reporting court "may be a deterrent to some, but I really feel for some of the families that must also suffer through the embarrassment of having a loved one punished for wrong doing! It may serve as part punishment for the person involved but by publicizing it we really do involve the whole family?"

Another objection came from a young fellow who had been sentenced for impaired driving. He felt we should obey the wishes of any reader who wishes their name to be left out of the paper on the basis of personal privacy.

"The humiliation of getting sentenced in court is enough," he said. "Why do I have to have everybody else know about it?"

The remainder of the responses supported our policy of running court news. Ed St. John of Arnprior put himself in our place and said in his letter that he could "understand the dilemma I would be in in your position . . ." but felt the proceedings should continue to be published.

"Hopefully people still have enough pride in themselves to keep out of the news as it pertains to provincial court proceedings."

Audrey Pasco of RR 2 Williamstown humorously put into perspective the kind of double-standard we sometimes run into from readers who want to see court report printed — until they are personally involved in a charge.

"Should you name names or not?" she asks in her letter. "Sure you should — until it comes to my family! And I don't expect it will. But I object to you giving ages in the accident briefs. Thus far I have been fortunate and have been spared this embarrassment. But if someone runs into me, why should my age appear in the News?"

Just to take a moment to answer that question — ages are printed to help in the identification of the individual appearing in court. We have had the experience of running into more than one person of the same name (which can happen frequently in Glengarry), and of the same concession. Ages help to discern the innocent from the guilty.

Finally, Bernadette Campeau of North Lancaster was quite supportive of the continuing coverage, indicating "there is great value for the public to be informed of the law breakers in our community."

She agreed it was humiliating for the offender, but felt the "public has a right to know the kind of people they deal or associate with. It could make a big difference in choosing friends or hiring employees and that type of thing."

The few phone calls I received offered similar views, and there was a large measure of empathy with the kind of decisions we must make. One caller said that it must be particularly difficult for us to print names of people we know in the community — people who we see each day in both our personal and professional lives.

It's true, but as long as we continue to receive the kind of thoughtful and supportive responses from you, our readers, that is a difficulty we will overcome. Thank you for your input, and keep those letters coming in!

A weekend with Murphy is an adventure

Pen Thoughts

Michael O'Dwyer

Murphy's Law says whatever can go wrong, will. Like many of our laws, this one makes no sense and seems to screw up people's lives with alarming regularity.

Murphy, who ever he is, would have been proud of my weekend. He even got an early start to do a particularly good job.

It started innocently enough on Thursday. Thursday was the day I escaped to Belleville for a photography workshop. But not needing to be there until the early evening, there was time to do a little work and stop by the blood donor clinic for a pint. Enter Murphy.

An outdated card and no photo identification didn't speed up the process. It took three women what seemed like hours to discover my name wasn't on the list. Too bad I kept insisting it was, I would have had more time to search for the photo identification I didn't have. So I was a little behind schedule. Three hours of Hwy. 401 between Lancaster and Belleville would give plenty of opportunity to make up some time.

Murph had a snooze in the car while the guy in front of me collected the $250 ticket, but woke up just in time to blow the clutch in Belleville. So much for making up time. With my destination in sight I abandoned the wreck and hoofed it, determined to salvage something of the day.

Clutching half the equipment that I should have had (I guess I had saved a few minutes packing too,) I barged into the seminar to find my friend had preceeded me.

A handful of people (most of whom would soon be victims) sat waiting for the rest of us. These included one guy with a blown transmission on the 401, two who were stuck in a nightmare of trains and buses, one with a case of auto hiccups, and another with a set of keys that had gone AWOL.

Despite this crazy turn of events (and I hear Alexandria didn't altogether escape Murphy either this weekend,) everybody was still pretty encouraged. We were having fun, except the girl who offered to taxi me back to my hotel. She immediately lost her wallet containing all her cash for four days of hotel and food, and all her credit cards. The list of victims was growing.

With a quick phone call, I managed to get my wreck towed to a transmission shop and resigned myself to hitching home. Maybe Murphy would follow home the rest of the cripples.

Miracle of miracles. The car was fixed on Friday and I would pick it up on Saturday. Or would have if the shop had been open on Saturday. It took two days and finally the police to get the car out of the joint, only to find that I didn't have enough money for both the car and the hotel. Surprise, surprise. I chose the car. And I eventually scraped together enough cash for the lodging, much to the owner's delight.

By the time I saw the lights of Alexandria in the distance, I was ready to give Murphy a swift kick in the butt. But I realized when he wrote his famous universal law he had forgotten about something equally universal. When things go bad, someone is always there to lend a hand, and the biggest problems become the funniest situations.

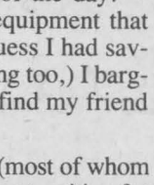
Murphy's pessimism is contagious. Silverman said that if Murphy's Law can go wrong, it will, and O'Toole said that Murphy was an optimist.

But they forget about O'Dwyer's Law: disaster is something that can only get better.

My greatest wish is hearing you laugh

That's Life

Lesley Cadham



To hear you laugh,
to see you smile,
to sit and talk with you awhile;
to be together in the same old way,
would be my greatest wish today.
author unknown

Every now and then, I go through a sad sort of time when I reminisce, wishing I could sit and talk with people who were a special part of my life yesterday, but are no longer here today.

Who doesn't? It's hard to forget people who gave us life, mended our wounds, or just made us laugh.

And sometimes, as simplistic as this may sound, I wish time machines existed in more than jus fantastic television shows; that I could climb into one and find myself back in 1965, when the pace was slower and life was simpler.

Impossible?

Not entirely.

I found a "time machine" a few weeks ago, while browsing through a second-hand store. The familiar cover on a children's book caught my eye and soon I was rummaging through the shelves, searching to find more of that series of girls' detective novels.

Then, one rainy weekend, I sat down with the two books I'd purchased and in no time at all I was 12 years-old again, lying on my bed at home, a worn running shoe dangling from the toes of one bare foot; and the other shoe somewhere under a pile of clothes on the floor. My kitten lay at my side and I only looked up from my reading once, to turn on the light as the late evening sun began to set behind the tall green trees in my back yard.

I could almost hear my mother down in the kitchen and my father out in the yard where he was putting the lawnmower back in the garage. And for a moment I even heard children, my friends, laughing as they played hide-and-seek down the street. But when I looked outside, I found it had been the children next door, in the here and now.

The power of memory is so strong in most of us that we can even recall odors and sounds we experienced 20 years earlier. We can feel the uplifting joy of great moments, or experience the tugging sadness of a

Glens club serves us proud

In the Glens

Angus McDonell

Among the pleasantries of scaling the four score and counting cliffs is to muse occasionally on the chapters of sport heritage.

Assisting the News sports while Todd Hambleton is on a deserving holiday; such thoughts were motivated while writing the story of the final Junior B championship game played in Renfrew last Wednesday between their Timberwolves and our Glens.

It is fitting that Renfrew is the winner of Eastern Ontario Junior B championship. It maintains the hockey legacy that began in the Upper Ottawa Valley.

The first Stanley Cup competition began in 1893 among amateur clubs. Canada's Governor General Lord Stanley donated the trophy. After the turn of the century professionalism was a major factor in Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto, hence the Stanley Cup became the prize of pro hockey.

Renfrew's M. J. O'Brien, a mining magnate, lured such players as Art Ross, later the founder of Boston Bruins, to anchor the Renfrew Millionaires. In that era teams challenged the club that held the Stanley Cup. Renfrew's stay in pro hockey was of a short duration, however, they recorded that historic chapter in the annals of the Stanley Cup.

The Alexandria Glens, Junior B Eastern Ontario finalists, like their counterparts the Renfrew Timberwolves, have also a notable home town hockey tradition to maintain. Away back in 1913 Alexandria won the Lower Ottawa Valley championship and the right to meet Hull in the first round of Allen Cup play of the amateur hockey championship of Canada. Hull won by a narrow margin in the Ottawa second game.

The founding Glens in the late 60s won the International Invitational Peewee tournament in Lake Placid, N.Y., defeating the Ottawa entry. They were successful the next year in defending the championship against Montreal West Island and Montreal North. That Glens spirit of 25 years ago still prevails.

There is another very important factor creating success on the ice and that is the sportsmen associated with the team off the ice.

Peter DeRooy coach for the past three years has piloted Glens to the Eastern Ontario Junior B finals in 1988 and 1990. What more need be added unless the reminder that the L.A. Kings were defeated four straight, too, by the Edmonton Oilers. Ron Ferguson ably assisted coach DeRooy during their three year tenure.

Gratitude from the fans is extended to president Archie Stewart and manager Don Campbell who have spent many hours of their leisure time in the interests of the Glens since last fall. Claude Roy who gave up managing due to lack of time still assisted in that role when needed. The important link of a trainer with know-how and personality was fulfilled by Guy Bellefeuille. Leo Poirier was the mastermind in conducting the popular 50-50 game draws. Gerald Simpson kept team statistics and Jack Libbos was the dependable ticket taker at the gate.

Step up to the footlights, gentlemen, and take a deep bow for a job well done.

Gallery holds fine collection

To the editor:

Some thoughts on the subject of the collection at our National Gallery which is presently being beset by every backwoods politician and his sycophants in the country; everybody who fancies himself an instant authority on art, as if it was an interest that required no previous study or background information. gorillas get into public office anyhow.

The Voice of Fire was chosen by a thoroughly qualified professional as part of his task in building a national collection, and it looks spectacular in its particular setting. The collection in the Gallery is worth hundreds of millions of dollars — this is one of the cheaper items. A Mondrian hangs at the door of this gallery and a Jackson Pollock just inside. Each is more than twice the price and nobody getting too excited.

This year's European-American funds allotment was spent on a very small 14th century Flemish Virgin and Child — about a million dollars. By the square inch, like carpet or wallpaper, it is perhaps too small. Near this also hangs "the other Irises" bought by a foresighted curator many years ago, even though Van Gogh wasn't even a Canadian painter. Acutally he still isn't.

Attendance at the European-American galleries is not compulsory; go on past these to the Canadian wing, and better yet go down to see the special show of Canadian paintings that are usually in storage — this is a wonderfully interesting exhibit.

Go to the National Gallery and have a look for yourself — it's your money remember. Of all the Ottawa collections this is the easiest to get to from the east. Go off Highway 417 on the airport parkway — keep right on past the aeronautical museum (and have you seen this world class collection . . . it's still your money) on through Rockcliffe onto Sussex and the Gallery comes up on your right. Drive underneath to ample parking.

Speeding driver destroys our peace of mind

To the editor:

The knacker man came last week to pick up my daughter's horse, who has lain dead by the road side for two days. I wish we could have buried him on our property, but he was too badly injured too far from home.

The boy who killed him is probably upset about the accident, and more upset about damaging his father's new car. When his friends learn about the accident, they will probably laugh and joke over the car colliding with a horse. In a week or two, when his father simmers down and the car is repaired, will the incident fade from the boy's mind so that he too will laugh at the absurdity of running over a horse?

This boy is not a bad boy. He had not been drinking, or using drugs. He looked to be clean cut, is probably a good student. So what possessed him to drive along a narrow, hilly country road on a Sunday afternoon at a speed of 110 km per hour?

My 11-year-old daughter, with her father, sister and friend, had decided to go for a ride on that same afternoon. The horses, all quiet, sensible, well-mannered animals, were moving at a walk along the road with my daughter on her horse in the rear. They heard the car before they saw it, moving at such a speed that it was upon them in only a few seconds. From 80 paces it began to brake, but could not avoid slamming into the horse, turning him upside down onto the hood and throwing my daughter backwards onto the roof. She fell to the road in front of the vehicle just as it skidded to a halt, pushing the downed animal along before it.

My daughter, by some miracle, was unharmed — physically, that is. Will she recover from the horror of seeing the horse struggle to his feet and run in panic down the road, trailing a bloodied and broken leg behind him? Will the rest of us ever forget the look of pain and bewilderment on his face as he stood quivering in a farmer's field with his rump completely skinned?

The boy destroyed more than just a horse on Easter Sunday. He has destroyed peace of mind, the trust of those who thought themselves safe riding on a country road on a sunny afternoon in spring.

Yours truly,
Jacqueline Sinclair-Smith,
St. Polycarpe, Que.

New environmental ideas bring growing pains

To the editor:

The Public Liaison Committee (PLC) of the Stormont-Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan appreciates the hard work and individual efforts displayed by area residents who are actively pursuing recycling initiatives in several area municipalities.

We encourage residents interested in these initiatives to ask their municipal representatives to attend a meeting in Lochiel Twp. will be hosting featuring the MOE Recycling Program Advisor for our region. It is important for all concerned residents and municipalities to receive complete and accurate information on this subject.

Any new idea brings with it some growing pains. Co-operation between all concerned parties is the key to success. Concern for the environment is evident in our area, so we should perhaps think of the growing pains as greening pains.

If area residents have questions or concerns, we encourage them to contact their local steering committee and/or PLC representatives and their local municipalities.

Once again, we encourage residents to think of the PLC's 4R's of waste management — responsibility, reduction, reuse and recycling.

Michel Trottier displays the most advanced Ramtron security unit.

Security system keeps ears open

A new local business marketing home security devices has set up shop in Alexandria.

The security systems, which have been available to Glengarrians since Michel Trottier of Alexandria opened a Ramtron franchise about four months ago, are sound activated.

"Normal day to day sounds will not activate the system," Trottier says. "It knows what are bad and what are good sounds."

By focusing on frequency, pitch, harmonic overtone, volume and distance, the systems discriminate between everyday sounds and those made by a thief trying to enter a home or small business. Sensors mounted sporadically on walls detect these sounds and signal a main computer.

Depending upon which system has been purchased — they range from $500 to $3,000 — the main unit has three methods of deterring intruders.

First of all, it can activate sirens, each of which equals the loudness of a police siren. Or, silmultaneously if chosen, trip lights. Finally, the alarm can hook into the phone lines and alert a dispatcher who in turn contacts the police.

Trottier opened his franchise to capitalize on a forcasted boom of security system sales in Canada. Currently, Trottier says, less than 10 per cent of Canadian homes have security systems, compared to about 50 per cent in the United States and Europe.

However, he said Canadians are expected to catch up within the next five years.

And because of a number of advantages with the two-year-old Ramtron systems, Trottier thinks his product has a selling edge.

It's main advantage is it detects thieves as they are attempting to enter, before they actually get in the building.

Also, Ramtron systems are portable and can be reinstalled in a new location in about a half hour. Similarly, if this new building is larger than the old, the security system is easily expanded.

Each system carries an extensive warrently that includes 10 years on labor and the first five years on parts, free of charge. And company officials claim Ramtron has a minimum incidence of false alarms, unlike most other systems that have a 90 per cent false alarm rate.

"It's not perfect. I won't guarantee there are no false alarms. But because of the fact it works on sound," Trottier says, "we say our system has a minimum false alarm rate.

Pipers raising cash for transatlantic trip

Members of the Glengarry Pipe Band have thoughts of Scotland on their mind lately.

The Grade 3 Canadian champions are currently in the throes of fundraising for a trip to Scotland this summer.

And the group has devised some diverse and entertaining ways to rake-up some cash.

The curtain fell on the first of two band-organized concerts featuring talents from Scotland April 20. The international singing duo, the Alexander Brothers, and the Ellen Cameron Dancers roused spectators from all over the area at General Vanier Secondary School in Cornwall.

The touring variety show, "A Breath of Scotland," is planning a stop in Cornwall May 6 to assist the Glengarry band in its fundraising efforts.

Featuring dance, music, song and comedy, the event showcases some of Scotland's most well-known entertainers. A draw for a trip for two to Florida will also be held at the show.

Band members themselves have been getting involved in the fundraising scene, too.

Pipers and drummers are peddling orange juice in the area, as well as advertising space in a brochure about the band. The color pamphlet is expected to be released sometime in the near future.

The culmination of their efforts will come Aug. 7 when the Glengarry Pipe Band (GPB) departs from Montreal for the Bonnie Isle for a two-week trip that will take them from Scotland's capital, Edinburgh, to the world pipe band championships in Glasgow.

At this point, the band has confirmed five performances during their stay in Scotland, including the international street parade in Glasgow (at which the GPB will be the only North American band participating), the Royal Scottish Pipe Band Diamond Jubilee Championship, two Highland games and the world championships. More performances are expected to be scheduled soon.

The band will be competing at the Grade 2 level.

Organizers say that more than 65,000 people are expected to see the Glengarry band over their 13-day jaunt.

About 50 performers and support staff are taking part in the voyage; a number of friends and family members will also join the band to lend moral support.

Fish tales abound in Alexandria

Fern Seguin, Big John Cormier, Roger Taillefer and Donat Deschamps put up their "gone fishing" signs last week and headed off to Brighton, along Lake Ontario. There they caught their legal limit of three lake trout each.

Fern made a 16 lb. 2 oz. catch (twice the size of the one John Cormier caught — ha, ha!).

They left last Saturday and fished all day Sunday.

Intrepid angler Fern reported that the biting was slow from 7 a.m. to about 10 a.m.

"Then they all hit me at once!"

Volunteer work: a labor of love

Volunteering is the mainstay of charitable organizations across the world. And Glengarry is no exception with numerous residents gracing the volunteering networks with selfless generosity.

"Perhaps I just love old people. I was fortunate enough to be raised in a three-generation family," Shelagh MacDougall, a five-year Maxville Manor volunteer, ponders her dedication.

"On top of that, I feel the older I get, the more I need to understand what it's going to be like when I am old and what better way to find out than to love those who are old?"

MacDougall was one of three volunteers honored by the Manor in its annual recognition of Volunteering Week, a nation-wide tribute to volunteers. Pat Freeland, also a five-year volunteer, was also commemorated, as was twenty-year volunteer Olive Shields.

Volunteer week ended yesterday, having started on April 23. During that time, a number of volunteer-related events were staged throughout the county.

These included the Manor's annual volunteer workshop. This year, a speaker from the Council of Aging in Ottawa addressed a crowd of about 40 volunteers at the Maxville Sports Complex on April 24. These volunteers work at the Manor entertaining residents and co-ordinating outreach programs such as the Meals on Wheels service.

Similary, the Glengarry Memorial Hospital's 230-strong volunteer auxiliary shares itself with the needy. In the hospital they help patients in various departments as well as provide a telephone answering service, with which they communicate with shut-ins.

Furthermore, the volunteers also the Canadian Red Cross society organize blood donor clinics in the county.

In recognition of its volunteers, the auxiliary held a volunteer night in the fashion of Maxville Manor. On April 18, a social hour stocked with wine, cheese and a thank-you cake was held while a professional color consultant provided a color demonstration.

Furthermore, volunteer Lise Beaupris-Campeau won a private color consultation, courtesy of the auxiliary.

The hospital and the Manor are not the only recipients of volunteer work. A number of local nursing homes and private residences also benefit from volunteering that ranges from the homecare services provided by the Canadian Red Cross society to assistance from senior's groups including the 39ers and L'age d'or.

Also, sick people are paid visits from relgious organizations, including Alexandria's Sacred Heart auxiliary and that from St. Mary's in Green Valley.

While a multitude of people benefit from volunteering, volunteers insist the benefit is mutual.

"I've enjoyed it," Maxville Manor's Meals on Wheels, tuck shop and outreach volunteer Claire Besner says. "They're so appreciative of your services, it's a joy to do it.

"Perhaps we'll need their services when we get to their age and we'll be glad to have them," Besner adds.

Career Day was an eye opener

By Bruce Myers
News* correspondent

"What do you want to be when you grow up?"

Students at Glengarry District High School (GDHS) got a little help in answering that question Friday when dozens of exhibits transformed the school's newest gymnasium into a showcase of different occupations.

Sixty-four exhibits demonstrating over 80 careers from bartending to nursing provided students with ideas about what different careers are like, the qualifications for getting into them and the demands that accompany them.

"The whole idea is basically to get them (students) thinking careers," said GDHS guidance counsellor and an organizer of the "career fairs," Terrence Wheeler.

He said that featuring so many different jobs and careers in one place gives young people a chance to see an excellent cross-section of the work force. They may find interest in occupations they had never thought of before; it prevents them from restricting themselves in a career choice.

But whether or not students had a career in mind when they entered the doors of the gym, they did get something out of it.

"I was thinking of becoming a phys-ed teacher before," said Grade 11 student Carolyn Cameron, "and now after going to the booth, I know I want to be a phys-ed teacher."

"I want to get into physiotherapy," said classmate Alyson Graham, "there was a booth and I got a lot of information . . . I have learned a lot today."

Exhibitors, as well, were impressed with the interest of the students.

"It's really interesting . . . there's a lot of kids and a lot of interest," said Glengarry Association for Community Living representative Loraine Austin. Her display received numerous visits throughout the day, she said, and helped create greater community awareness toward what the group is and what it does.

Feedback organizer Tina Cairncross received from exhibitors also left her with the impression that they were a little surprised by the amount of interest expressed by the students.

"They were quite surprised with just how interested the juniors were," said Cairncross, "I think, generally, they were impressed."

The career fair idea was the brainchild of GDHS's school committee of parents, students and teachers, and is a bi-annual event.

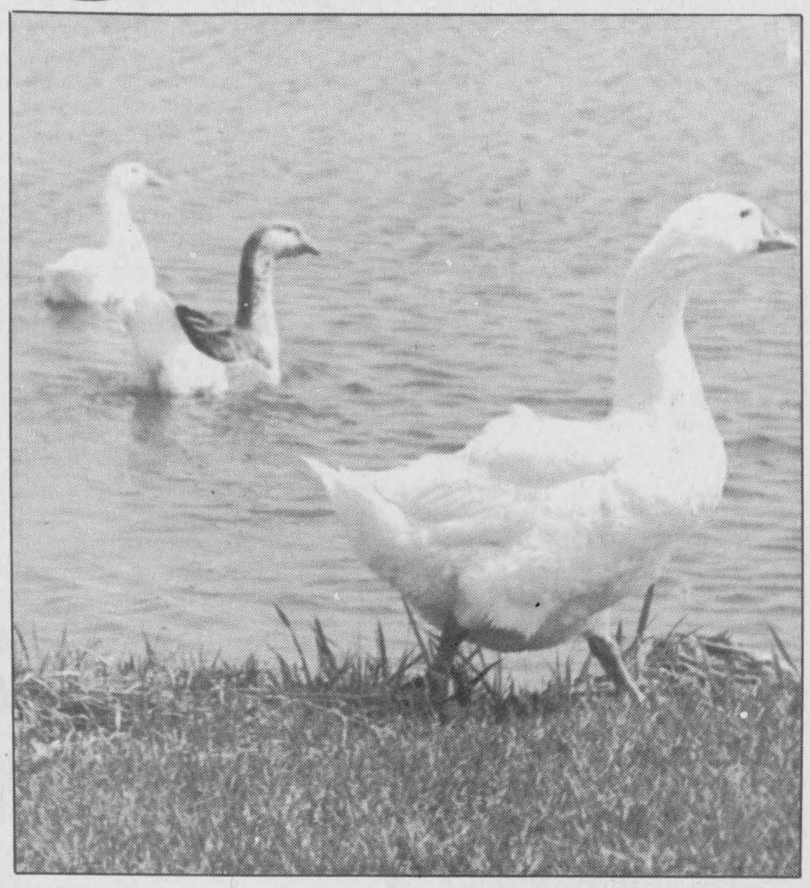
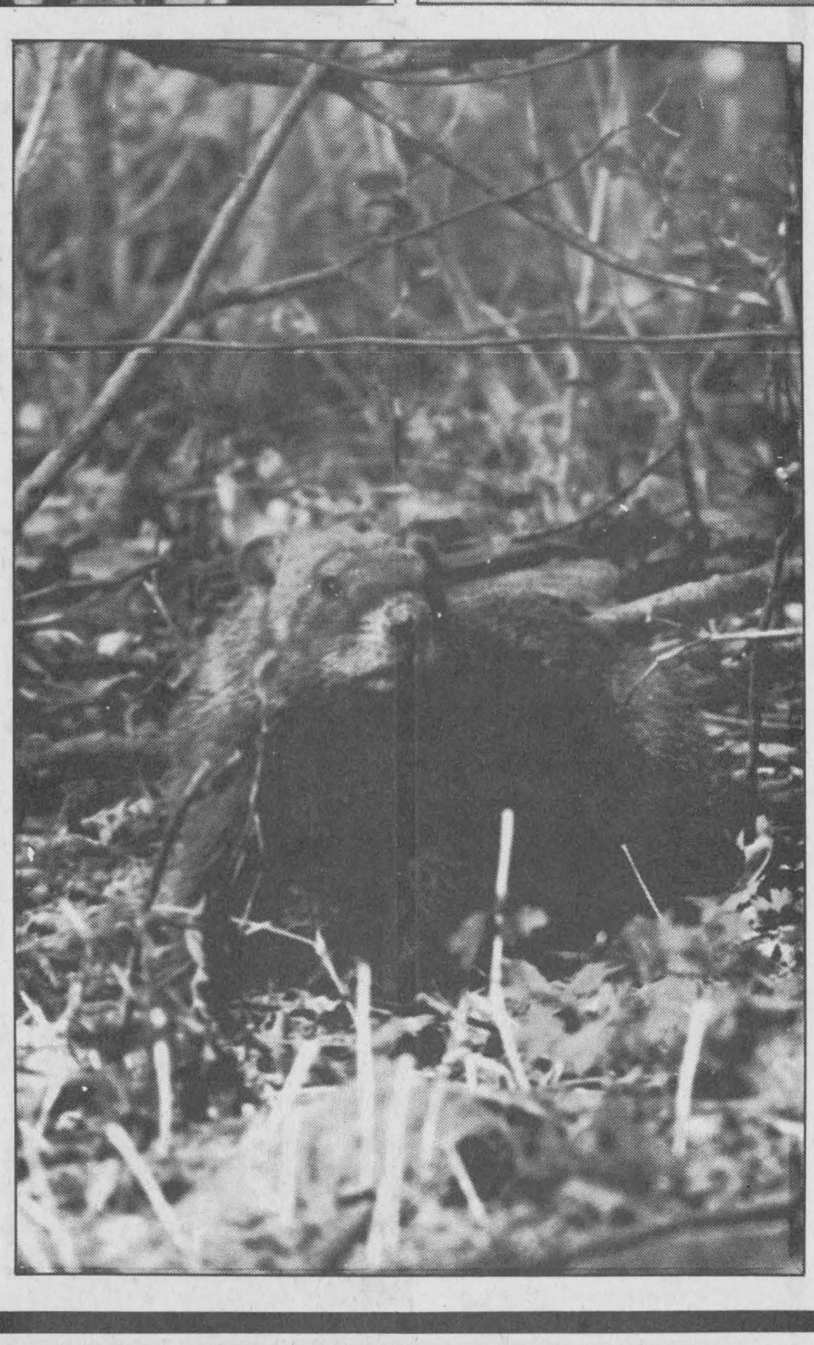
SPRING



Winter is finally a thing of the past — and Glengarrians know it, as seen by these random photographs of county scenes. Each reflects our welcome of spring; our smiles are wider, our steps are lighter. Our winter depression has been shucked with the cold weather clothing. Man is in harmony with nature.



Clockwise, starting at left: Spring must be here to stay — groundhogs are out and about; Green Valley boys Shaun Bryan and Martin Vaillancourt set their hopes and rods on pike; daffodils add a burst of sunshine to gardens; nature at its best in the Lake St. Francis heronry; a goose plays chicken and refuses to join his friends in a mid-afternoon swim; and German Shepherd pup Uric cools off with his owner Lauri Taylor and friend Monique Lajoie.

The area Stone Croft Bible study group met at the home of Molly Brodie on Tuesday last for the closing study of this course. They will resume next fall to begin the study on Living My New Life. The group all expressed the desire to recommence in September for this new course. Wanda Hay will be the capable and understanding leaders as she has been over the years for this group. A card, signed by everyone and a small token of affection and appreciation was presented to her by Nan Campbell on the group's behalf.

Recent visitors with Arnold and Margo MacRae were Kathleen Jorgenson of Morris, Manitoba, Carole Koops of Watashawin, Alberta, Bruce MacKenzie of Thunder Bay, and his brother Alastair MacKenzie from Ponoka, Alberta.

Several of the area people are attending the special study on the document put out by the United Church of Canada called The Authority and Interpretation of Scripture. If this sounds dull and overwhelming, don't let it fool you. It is an in-depth study, but far from boring.

Led by Rev. Colin MacDonald, the participants were asked to give their interpretation of words and certain parts of the articles of union, and various Bible passages. This turned out to be a real learning experience. The study has a time limit, but when Rev. MacDonald asked how long they thought it would take to go through the study, one suggested about three years.

It is good to hear another angle, to probe your own thinking on the same subjects; it's a mind stretching exercise and can be most invigorating. One person stated going home that they had even more questions to discuss at the next meeting. Good! That is just what Rev. MacDonald is looking for; that people cease to sit back and take everything for granted, begin to question and look for answers. To dissect feelings and uncertainties, to seek answers and try to help give answers for others' questions. It is really something that will surely benefit those attending these gatherings. The fellowship is warm, the material interesting and the conversation is stimulating and thought provoking. Quite an agenda for a good evening's program! Do consider attending next Wednesday evening at the Church on the Hill, Alexandria, at 8 p.m.

This is the last week that new people will be able to enter, as the group will be too advanced in the study later on.

Local churches work to avert famine

St. Elmo
W. MacKinnon
527-2348

The Kirk-Session of Gordon Church, St. Elmo, met at the Presbyterian Manse, Maxville, on Tuesday, April 24 at 8 p.m. Rev. Garry Van Bruchem led the devotions and opened the meeting with prayer. Douglas McLennan was Clerk of Session.

In the business of the meeting arrangements were made for the annual communion service in Gordon Church which will be held on Sunday, June 3 at 11 a.m. The congregation of St. Andrew's Church, Maxville, will worship in Gordon Church on that Sunday.

A committee was appointed to make the arrangements for the celebration of the Gordon Church anniversary on Sunday, Sept. 9. The committee members are Margaret Billinghurst, Douglas McLennan, Cameron MacGregor and Wallace MacKinnon.

During the month of May a special offering will be received from congregations of the Presbyterian Church in Canada to relieve the desperate famine situation in Northern Ethiopia (Eritrea and Tigray Province) and Southern Sudan where the lives of four or five million people are endangered by famine brought on by war and drought. Even worse levels of starvation are likely to occur than those witnessed in 1984-85 when close to one million people perished in Northern Ethiopia.

In 1984-85 Presbyterians contributed approximately a million dollars over a three year period through the Presbyterian World Service and Development Fund to help in the famine-stricken areas of Northern Ethiopia. PWS and D works in a partnership with other churches and with secular agencies to alleviate the needs of people experiencing famine and other disasters throughout the world.

Agricultural classes a hit at schools

Trustees learned at SD&G County School Board last week that agriculture education has turned out to be surprisingly popular — even in city schools.

Programs at the secondary level have been run at Tagwi and North Dundas secondary schools for students making agriculture a career or an employment alternative.

Courses in agriculture at Glengarry District High School include agricultural awareness and cooperative education work placement on farms during the second semester.

Next year agricultural business and agriculture technical courses will be offered. These courses were drafted following meetings with Glengarry area farmers who wanted higher profile for agriculture as a career among students.

Earth Day

To underline the Earth Day celebrations, the Iona Kindergarten students were made aware of the many benefits of recycling. Many of their activities involved recycled material! Bonhomme Recycle was constructed with remnants of old wallpaper and orange juice cartons. The caterpillar was made out of used egg cartons. Recycling now is a more meaningful word for Ginette Girard's class. Teacher Monique Menard and the Grade 6, 7 and 8 students cleaned the school yard as their Earth Day project. The Grade 6 and 7 students also made posters to stress the importance of air, water, land and forests.

As you may know, there have been numerous break-ins in and around our area. A group of concerned citizens have organized a neighborhood watch. This means they keep a watch on their neighbors' houses for any unusual activities, which may occur when the house is unoccupied. They would like to see more people join their group. The next meeting will be held in co-operation with the OPP, on May 8 at 8 p.m. at the North Lancaster Public School, concession 4. Everyone is most welcome.

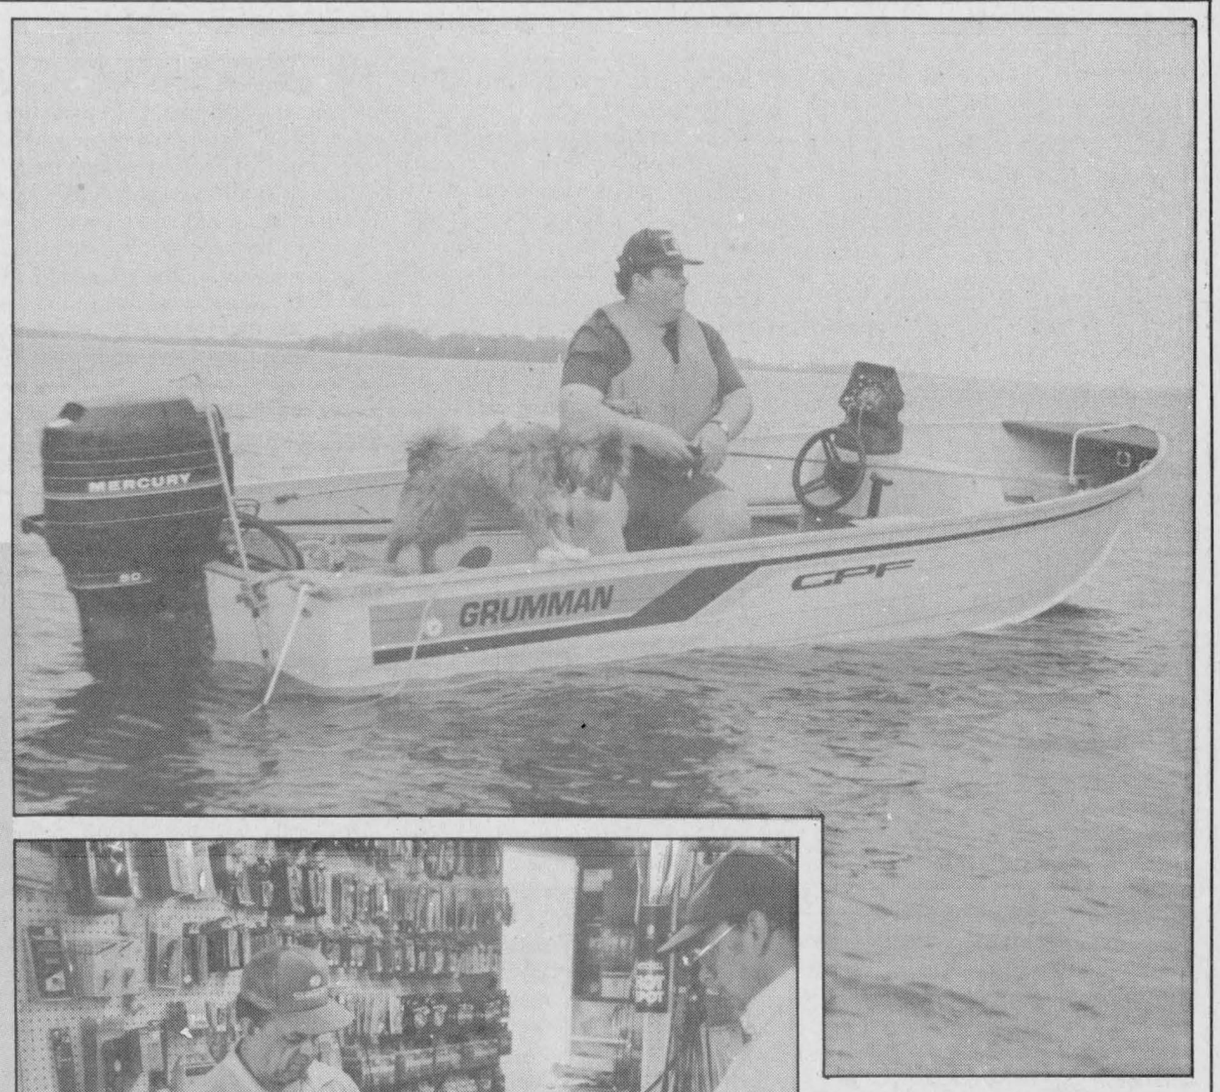
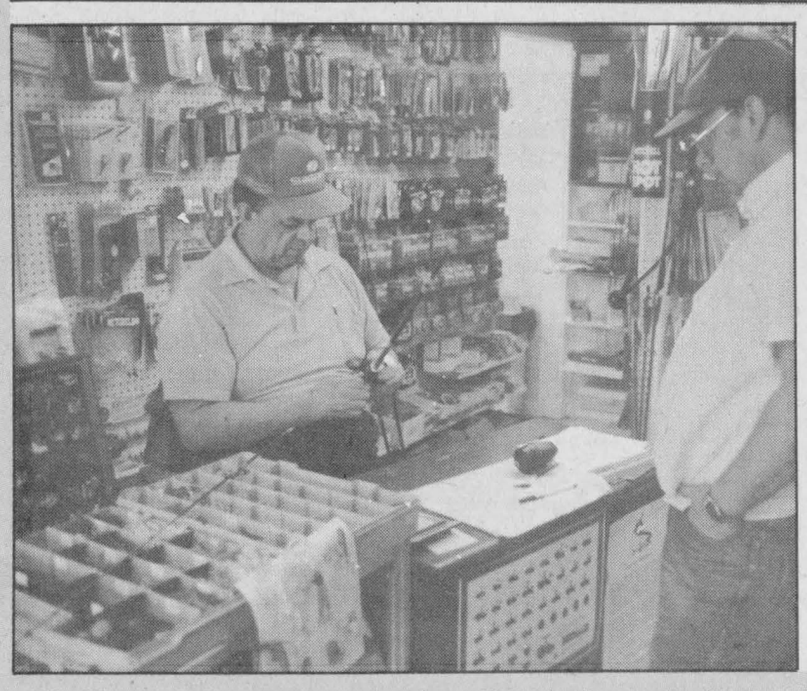
GONE FISHIN'

Spring brings anglers out of their homes and onto the water





Above, Mike Lemire and companion 'Trouble' check out the perch on Lake St. Francis — the favored fishing in the district. Left, Fern Seguin, tacke shop owner, is finding it increasingly busy these days selling angling licences and helping customers gear up.

Photos by Joe Banks

By Joe Banks, News publisher

There are two species of them -- those active in winter and summer and those who emerge only in the spring, after the long, cold months of dormancy.

The second species -- the warm weather types -- are just now going through the pre-season ritual they and their ancestors have practised a thousand times before. This, it is said, is their favorite, and often most active, time of the year.

They are far from a dying breed. In fact, biologists estimate that their numbers will increase substantially as time goes on.

They are the species their peers often don't understand when the summer's heat drives them to the water. Some of their mates can't relate to them either. Some insist on joining in their every move -- and love it.

They are Glengarry County's fishermen. And now is their time.

With just over a week to go before Opening Day of pickerel (walleye) and pike on Saturday, May 12, the shotgun start signalling the emergence of local warm-water fishing, thousands of the county's men, women and children -- it's estimated a third in all -- will be taking to boats, shorelines and riverbanks with rod and reel to fish. And if they don't go out Opening Day, chances are they'll be found on a fishing hole somewhere in the county this summer, most angling for the pleasure and some for the food.

But unquestionably, what makes Glengarry anglers unique among all others is their love of the county's most prized fish -- the famous Lancaster Perch. Those creatures, caught in Lake St. Francis and its feeder streams, are just finishing their spawning run now, and there is no closed season on them, allowing yellow perch anglers to get a jump on their fellows who prefer the larger pike, pickerel or bass.

Without question, Glengarrians love their perch. In fact, anglers from other parts of Ontario who fight to keep the panfish off their lines are astounded at the popularity of perch fishing here. Anglers sell much of their catch to area restaurants, which feature the fish as a local delicacy.

Perch fishing on Lake St. Francis is most popular

That's the established fact, but what, as if the question hasn't been asked before, makes anybody go fishing?

''People don't think about it a lot,'' says Mike Eckersley, a biologist with the Cornwall District of the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR). ''It's just something they've always done. It's a way for a lot of them to get back to nature.''

That, along with its 'therapeutic' value, is the bottom line for most people who fish, The News found in speaking with anglers who ply the county's waters.

Sitting at his seat behind his sales desk at Fern's Bait and Tackle, Glengarry's newest haven for anglers, Alexandria town councillor and avid fisherman Fern Seguin says fishing removes the angler's sense of time and is the perfect relaxant.

''The time just flies by when you're out in that boat,'' he grins, pleased to just talk about his favorite pastime. ''It's a good, peaceful sport, and it's a challenge too between the fish and the fisherman,'' he says.

Fern's love of fishing began in Glen Robertson where, as a young boy, his father would take him to the area rivers and fish ''almost every Sunday.'' His father's affection for the sport rubbed off, though Fern believes with some fondness that it may be ''in your blood.''

Fern believes fishing is popular among Glengarrians because of their close ties over the years to Lake St. Francis. Many Glengarry families established cottages around Westley's Point and with the lake's productive habitat, catching fish was easy.

Today, fishing on the lake is the most popular angling activity in Cornwall Ministry of Natural Resources District.

MNR figures show that Lake St. Francis is the most heavily fished of the three large reservoirs within the district -- and the most productive. In fact, 50 per cent of all fishing done on those reservoirs which includes Lake St. Lawrence and the Ottawa River is done on Lake St. Francis. The bulk of the fish caught are perch (61 per cent), with walleye and pike a distant second at 14 per cent each. Smallmouth bass make up nine per cent of the catch.

That kind of popularity is in evidence everywhere in Glengarry.

'It's a great pastime and the perch tastes good,'' says a wizened Armand Mondoux of St. Andrew's after landing his boat at the Lancaster Inn Marina during Friday's spectacularly beautiful weather. He's been fishing for most of his 69 years and is ample proof that the sport knows no age limitations.

Armand gets out ''as much as I can' and shuns the plastic and balsa-wood lures marketed to catch today's anglers. His technique? A simple worm and a hook, though even that didn't produce much this day. All he and son-in-law Roy Fields had to show for their efforts was a pound or two of perch.

But Roy, rubbing his eyes, makes no apologies.

''I've been up since 2 yesterday afternoon,' he says. ''I worked the 7 to 7 shift but when I was asked to go fishing, I had lots of energy.'' Besides, Roy says, he just enjoys fishing: ''It's very relaxing and I love to eat perch.''

Does his wife like to fish?

''Yeah, but she doesn't like to put the worms on,'' he says with a chuckle.

Like a growing number of anglers Roy would like to see perch fishing closed during the spawning season to prevent undue damage to the fishery. And he doesn't mind talking to a reporter to tell him so.

''There should be no fishing this time of the year,'' he says. ''Everybody fishes for perch but this time of year, nobody should be going out.''

While not in immediate trouble, the perch fishery could use a break. The best information on the harvest of perch indicates that the 112,100 kgs. taken annually in Lake St. Francis exceeds the potential take by about 8,000 kgs. a year. Growth rates and age-at-maturity of the perch indicate the population of the perch is producing at capacity.

''When all of this information is considered together, the conclusion is that the perch population cannot be exploited significantly more than it already is,'' a fisheries management plan released by the MNR recently indicates.

Still, stopping the perch fishing during the spawn could prove to be downright maddening for some fishermen. For Don Parker, spotted dock fishing just across from Armand's and Roy's berth, it's a prime time for catching the delicious fish.

''I missed the boat this year,'' he says, referring to his late arrival at his first perch fish of the year. ''I like to get out during the spawn.''

Don finds himself mainly angling for perch most of the year but makes a run once a year to fish rainbow trout near Port Hope. He enjoys fishing because of the ''excitement of getting one on...and the outdoors are beautiful.''

Upriver from Don, Mike Lemire is putting happily around in his boat, just off Stanley Island, the only angler around the area this day. His dog, Trouble, sniffs the air at the front of the boat, which is rocking gently in the current. And all is right with the world.

''I can't get out often enough,'' he says, squinting at the reporter and guide in the next boat. ''In the summer I go out just about every day, mostly after walleye.'' Today, it's perch.

Mike confesses that he's so addicted to fishing Lake St. Francis, ''I'm about the only guy you'll see out here wearing a tie.'' He explains he leaves for the lake immediately after work.

He calls fishing on the lake ''fantastic'' and wonders why other guys spend hundreds of dollars to fly north when there's great fishing here.

Part of that answer may lie in the pollution the river is absorbing. Chemicals and toxins from upriver including Cornwall have become part of the foodchain, now to the point where Ontario Ministry of Environment (MOE) guidelines are advising anglers to refrain from eating pickerel caught from the lake if it measures over 75 cms., or 30 inches. The same fish in the 45-55 cm (18 to 20 inches) range should only be eaten once a week.

Fortunately, perch do not live as long as the top predators such as pike and pickerel and as such do not absorb the chemicals. Nor are they bottom feeders, which is where the heavy metals from upstream end up. Therefore, there's been no evidence of perch contamination -- and so no restrictions on consumption.

That's probably of some relief to Alexandria's public works superintendant, Jean Guy Levert, who has been catching, and eating, Lancaster Perch for 25 years, as long as he's been fishing.

''It really relaxes me and I love to eat it,'' the burly public servant says of his favorite activity.

Unlike his summertime friends, Jean Guy spends most of his time fishing during the winter, through the ice, near Bainsville. He'll spend an average 20 to 25 hours a week there, and cut back to five or 10 a week in the summer.

Fishing holes may be right in your own back yard

For the untried, especially children, going out fishing for the first time can be somewhat daunting. Getting the worm on the hook is one thing, but without finding the right place to fish, a first outing can turn into a disappointment.

To ease the burden, we present here a beginner's guide to fishing the key ''fishing holes'' in Glengarry County.

Lake St. Francis

Without doubt the most popular fishing area in the county, Lake St. Francis draws thousands of anglers to its waters all year-round in search of the delicious Lancaster Perch.

The fish is generally easy to catch for anyone with a worm, small minnow and a small hook or a panfish ''jig'', and it can be caught from shore for those people without boats.

Currently, anglers can catch as much perch as they wish at any time of the year. There are no consumption limitations on them, and it's estimated that well over 100 anglers from Glengarry catch and sell perch to restaurants and individuals. Proposed changes to the Ontario Game and Fish Act to limit the pressure on perch would make the sale of angler-caught fish illegal without a licence, however these regulations have not yet been introduced.

Northern pike are also abundant in Lake St. Francis, although MNR reports older fish are rare. The walleye population appears to be stable based on information gathered over the last few years during the Raisin River spawning run.

The smallmouth bass population is believed to be small, however the muskellunge numbers appear to be increasing slightly based on angler reports. Rock bass, sunfish and bullheads are panfish which can be caught as well.

All of the above fish can be caught using worms or minnows baited on hooks. As you become more knowledgeable about each species, you may wish to try artificial lures either trolled (towed) from a boat or cast to the edge of weedy, deeper areas. The larger gamefish will be found offshore, and your chances increase if you can fish from a boat. Note that consumption of very large gamefish, especially walleye, is not recommended because of the contaminants they hold.

There are several marinas and public areas along Hwy. 2 from which a boat can be launched.

Loch Garry

Loch Garry has developed into a fine largemouth bass lake over the years. In fact, Angler and Hunter magazine recently listed it as having produced an angler-caught fish of over seven pounds, putting it in the class of lakes having produced a ''top 10''-sized bass in the province.

The lake more commonly produces bass in the one to three-pound class, however, and there are no other species on the lake to speak of, with the exception of some small perch and sunfish. As well, because of its shallowness, periodic winter kills limit the bass population.

Anglers will have to wait until the last Saturday in June (June 30) before they can pursue this powerful and exciting fish. That's Opening Day for bass, in fact, for the entire district. The MNR stresses that fishing for bass before this time is damaging to the fish during the spawning and rearing periods in the spring. When adult bass are removed from their nests by angling, the eggs and young bass are left unprotected and are subject to predation.

Largemouth bass can be caught with a worm, minnow or frog on a hook, but increasing development of artificial lures have produced items like plastic worms, plugs, floating and solid jigs, spinner baits and floating lures. All of these and others, if fished properly close to shore in hot weather near obstructions like blown-down trees, docks, lillypads can get you a bass from Loch Garry.

Access to the lake is restricted, but you can launch a boat at the dam just off Loch Garry Road.

Raisin River

A major pickerel spawning feeder river for the St. Lawrence, the Raisin has been known to produce game fish of rod-busting proportions. It has been a haven for pickerel, northern pike and smallmouth bass, as well as yellow perch, rock bass, sunfish, brown bullhead and white suckers.

It is a popular place to fish for perch at this time of year, as many of

Renfrew Timberwolves take Eastern Ontario Junior B finals in four straight games

By Angus H. McDonell
News* correspondent

Alexandria Glens bowed out of the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League championship final in Renfrew last Wednesday night when they were defeated by the Timberwolves 10-7.

It marked the fourth straight playoff loss but the Glens in each game played with honor and credibility, remaining true to Glengarry's sport heritage.

The Glens encountered strong opposition while eliminating Kemptville and Gananoque to win the St. Lawrence-Rideau division championship and enter the Eastern Ontario Junior B finals against Renfrew. This was the second time in three years the team was unable to match strides with the Timberwolves, a generally recognized club as being close to the Central Ottawa Valley Junior A class.

Glens coach Pete DeRooy, realizing a loss meant elimination, held high hopes of avoiding a series sweep by winning and forcing at least a fifth game back home here.

His ambitions were justified early in the Wednesday game when Glens scored first by Mike Sauve pulling the trigger aided by Craig Johnson and Andrew Sauve. At the five minute mark Martin Hughes helped by Geoff Seguin and Shawn Beckstead gave Glens a 2-0 lead that was increased to three from the faceoff when Glen Campbell hit the hemp after being set up by Pascal Joanette and Marc Sauve.

Stunned by the unexpected Glens surge the Timberwolves were held scoreless by solid backchecking and flawless rebound clearing until 16:23 of the first period when Renfrew was on the scoreboard by two rapid-fire goals. The first was by Brad Steege assisted by Jason McKechnie and Tom Summers while Sam Zattolo tallied to add their second goal assisted by Ryan Adams and Mike Blackburn. The first period ended Glens 3, Renfrew, 2.

Glens again had a two goal lead at 4:23 of the second period when Pascal Joanette scored assisted by the two Lucs, Decoeur and Duval. Glens added another before the halfway mark when Glen Campbell scored his second goal aided on the play by Pascal Joanette and for the second time by Marc Sauve.

As the game progressed Renfrew began to show a slight margin of stamina and "skating legs." The result of this advantage showed on the scoreboard as the Timberwolves tied the score 5-5 before the end of the second period on goals by Brad Steege, Mike Lawrence and Peter Elliot while assists were credited to Clint Twolan, Jason McKechnie, Mike Lawrence, Ryan Adams and Peter Raabe.

At 1:31 of the final period Timberwolves for the first time in the game were in the lead 6-5 on a goal by Mike Lawrence his second counter assisted by Brad Steege but Glens came right back to again tie the score on Todd Henry's complete effort aided by Glen Campbell.

At this stage of the game the lead was changing rapidly and Renfrew was again ahead 7-6 when Ryan Adams tallied on relays from Sam Zattolo and Mike Blackburn. A few plays later and Glens tied the game at 7-7 on Craig Johnson goal.

Then the Timberwolves pulled away with three unanswered goals by Brad Steege, Peter Raabe and Thane Childerhose. Final score: Renfrew 10, Glens 7.

The game was cleanly played with five minor penalties handed out to each team.

Fillion takes double awards at banquet

It was a fitting ending of the broomball season for Rick Fillion. Not only was he the top scorer of the season, but also top scorer at the SD&G Broomball League's awards evening.

Fillion walked away with not only the top scorer award, but also a most valuable player trophy and recognition as a member of the Guindon Tire team, which were the A Division champs.

Other awards given that night at the Maxville Sports Complex are listed below.

Team awards were given to the Van Riel Construction team as the most sportsmanlike team in the league, and to Guindon Tire as the top defensive team. Alexandria Legion was honored as the A Division runners up, Monkland Kings as the B Division champs, Maxville Farm Machinery as the B Division runners up, and Heritage Homes as the C Division champs.

Individual awards went to Doug Delage of Guindon Tire as the top goalie, Mel Massia as coach of the year, Steve Harps as B Division's most valuable player and Barry Benton as A Division's MVP.

As well, most valuable player awards went to Mario Quenneville, Stephan Lavigne, Robert Waldorf, Keith Presley, Alain Gauthier, Roger Lecompte, Roy Steele, Dave Bissonnette and Gord Nelson.

Top defensive player kudos go to Martinus Van Den Oetelaar, Stephane Ranger, Marc Duval, Jack Minor, Rene Leduc, Theo Oetelaar, Don Massia, Al Besner, Rene Dupuis and John Hopmans.

Finally, the most sportsmanlike player awards made the rounds, going to Larry Derouchie, J.P. Ranger, Dale Jarvo, Richard Quesnel, Raymond Piette, Mario Elie, Kennie McLeod, Duncan McPherson, Stephan Flipsen, Gilles Seguin and Lyle Dingwall.

Note to all broomballers

Because of space limitations the remainder of awards pictures taken at the banquet will be published next week.

High school soccer teams don't let up

The way Glengarry County's two junior and senior girls' high school soccer teams are playing these days, the competition may already be finding the season a little long.

The county's traditional domination of the sport at the high school level shows no signs of letting up, as the Glengarry Gaels senior girls team notched two more wins last week in SD&G Athletic Association mini-tournament play.

The team rolled over General Vanier from Cornwall by a score of 3-0 on Wednesday, April 25 at GDHS, then trounced Tagwi 5-0. The wins gave the Gaels a perfect 4-0 record, and it appears as long as Kelly Lavigueur's scoring rampage continues, and the team stays healthy, trouble lies ahead for the competition.

Lavigueur scored five goals between the two games, upping her season total to seven. She netted one against G.V. and an amazing four against Tagwi. Not bad for a Grade 11 student in her rookie year as a senior.

Thérèse Marion scored one in the Tagwi game and Kathy Van Loon and Katie MacLeod scored the other two goals in the G.V. game.

The junior Gaels defeated Tagwi 4-2, and General Vanier 3-1. scoring details were not available at press time.

The Glengarry Gaels play St. Lawrence and La Citadelle high schools at Char-Lan, which hosts next week's tournament, on Thursday, May 2. The teams played North Dundas (Chesterville) and Seaway (Iroquois) yesterday (Tuesday).

Char-Lan

Char-Lan junior and senior girls kept pace in the undefeated department.

The juniors defeated General Vanier 2-0, with goals from Laurie Legault and Cindy Rose. The juniors also played to a scoreless tie against Tagwi in the Alexandria tournament. The team's record is now 1-0-1.

The senior girls blanked Vanier 3-0 on goals by Margot MacDonnell, Nancy MacLachlin and Ann Racine.

MacLachlin also scored in the second game of the day, and Cynthia Lafromboise and Julie MacDonald also netted one each, lifting Char-Lan to a 3-1 victory over Tagwi.

The senior record matches GDHS with four wins and no losses.

Char-Lan also will meet both St. Lawrence and La Citadelle this Thursday on home turf.

Locals play hockey for Ottawa 67s

It isn't often Glengarry peewee hockey players get to play in a major American city. But three of them had that chance -- and a time this past weekend they'll never forget.

Martin Boisvenue and Ryan MacDonald of Alexandria and Joel Trottier of Green Valley helped lift the Ottawa 67s minor peewee squad to victory in the Motor City to win the Little Ceasers Pizza Tournament, played from Friday to Sunday.

Tired but happy, the boys made it back home at 4:30 a.m. Monday morning.

The seven-team tournament proved to be competitive, but the takers just couldn't match the superior skills of the Ottawa squad.

The 67s beat out Detroit Pepsi-Cola in the final by a score of 8-3, a team which had won its own tournament for the last six years.

In a prelude to the final, Ottawa defeated Pepsi 6-1 in the first game, despite a long drive. The roll continued, with the team downing Kitchener 3-0. It tied Detroit Fruehuf 1-1, then rebounded to defeat fellow Canadian team Sarnia by a score of 7-1.

In the semi-final the 67s defeated Fruehuf 4-0 and went on to best Detroit in the final.

Joel's father, Jacques, said the boys did "extremely well" at the tournament, and they took particular pride in helping to defeat a team which hadn't lost its own tournament in six years.

The boys were all invited to play for the Ottawa team. They were teammates over the winter, playing for the Seaway Valley Minor Hockey Association AA minor Peewee Royals, based in Cornwall.

Gaels' Glaude struck gold on weekend

Suzanne Glaude struck gold at the provincial high school gymnastics championships last weekend in Ottawa.

Competing for the Glengarry Gaels in the vault event, Glaude scored an impressive 9.4 (out of a perfect 10) in the level 4 competitions, good enough to give her top ranking. There were 42 competitors ranked in her class.

It is the latest in a growing list of achievements for the North Lancaster girl, who recently won three events at a recreational-competitive meet in Belleville.

Glaude also picked up a fifth place ribbon for achieving a 9.2 score in the floor routine. She didn't fare as well on the uneven bars (8.65) or on the beam (8.5). She ranked 21st and 16th respectively in those competitions.

In Level 1 competition, first-year competitor Jennifer Wilson put in a fine performance with an 8.55 on the beam, finishing 17th.

Jennifer VanderWoude was vaulted into Level 2 competitions, after her coach Hughette Bourleau found herself short of an athlete in the class. Another rookie, Vanderwoude achieved an 8.25 on the uneven bars, ranking her 32nd.

In Level 3, Jose Landriault, who was competing ill, achieved a 7.25 on the bars and an 8.1 on the beam, ranking her 47th and 24th respectively.

Stephanie Fraser also competed in the class with a score of 8.1 on the beam tied for 24th and 7.45 on the floor routine, good enough for a 24th ranking.

The meet officially ends the gymnastics season for the Glengarry Gaels, and it helped vault the EOSSA contingent from Eastern Ontario, representing 13 schools, to fourth place overall.

"I'm very pleased with the results and I'm proud of all of them," Gaels coach Hughette Bourleau said. "It's great for them and it's great for the school.

Spring brings anglers

He eats perch two times a week, and while he admits he is worried about the pollution being dumped into the river and its effect on the fishery, he sticks to perch only, and lets the larger gamefish go.

That's something his town colleague in the Alexandria Public Utilities Commission, superintendant Laurent Poirier and his wife Yollande, find difficult to do.

''The bigger the fish, the bigger the thrill,'' says Yollande with relish. One of the few Glengarry women who actually credits herself with teaching her spouse to fish, she speaks with fondness of her childhood memories of fishing with her brothers on the fifth line of Kenyon Township.

''My brothers and I would walk to the river. My brother would make hooks with safety pins and we would catch the barbot (catfish).''

Like many ''fishing widows'', Yollande says Laurent could never understand how she could ''just go and sit on a bench'' and fish hour after hour. But it wasn't long before she gave him the fishing bug. Now, the two of them share many hours, and a boat, fishing, each year taking a week's holidays after the opening day of pickerel.

Five years ago, she landed a 12 lb. pickerel, proving angling prowess is not limited to men. Her technique?

She laughs when asked that question, hinting, like many anglers, it's a secret that will never be given away. But she says she likes to use a floating blue Rapalla imitation minnow. When trolled the lure dives to the levels of where the pickerel are. For perch, she chooses small worms and hooks early in the season, and then switches to minnows.

While Laurent enjoys catching the big ones, he admits he loves fishing ''for the sport...It's not the amount of fish we catch it's the time on the river...Just to get out and enjoy the water.''

And letting the big ones get away is something that's not easy for Alexandria resident Larry Larocque and his wife, Huguette. Not long ago she landed the family record of a 32.5 lb. salmon while fishing on Lake Ontario near Henderson Harbour. Larry himself caught a 31.6-pounder.

''But she reminds me of her's everytime we go out fishing,'' Larry laughs. ''She calls herself the Queen.''

In a more sombre tone, Larry says that fishing, which he learned to enjoy when his son was four years-old 15 years ago, has proven to be very therapeutic in helping him cope with leukemia. Ironically, the illness has allowed him to spend more time fishing.

''Every chance we get we're out fishing, whenever I'm not in the city for appointments at the clinic.'' Right now he, his doctor and the Red Cross are searching for a bone marrow donor to facilitate a transplant.

But Larry doesn't dwell much on his illness, preferring instead to talk about the support his family, friends -- and fishing -- provides him.

''I've always loved the outdoors and I love the water.''

And when you think about it, that's really why the species called anglers are still thriving today.

"Fishing holes" in Glengarry

the panfish enter it to spawn from Lake St. Francis.

Pools below rapids and riffles, especially those which are deep in the summer, are where the gamefish are more likely to be found. The panfish can be fished offshore almost anywhere along the river. Similar baits as listed above can be used, though extra care should be taken because of the shallow water to prevent snags.

Access can be gained from Lake St. Francis, marinas and launching areas in Williamstown and Martintown.

Garry River system

From below the dam at Loch Garry to Alexandria, the Garry River system, an aquaduct supplying water to Alexandria, has surprised more than one casual fisherman with catches of northern pike and largemouth bass.

The middle lake between Mill Pond in Alexandria and Loch Garry is home to a limited population of bass. Mill Pond in Alexandria holds pike, and has produced more than one in the over 10-pound class. There are also a small population of largemouth bass and perch. Again, fish can be caught using the above methods.

Access to middle lake can be gained at the Kenyon Dam, while Mill Pond in Alexandria has a public launching area.

Delisle River

Reports of monstrous muskellunge have filtered back here to The News office. Our own advertising representative Myles Gallant caught a 23-pounder two years ago in one of the deep pools along its watercourse.

It's believed the wily fish make their way up the river from the St. Lawrence to spawn in the spring, and then become landlocked in the pools for the summer.

''Muskie'' as they are commonly called cannot be caught before they complete that spawning run. It is illegal to catch one in the district before Opening Day for this particular fish, Saturday, June 16.

Muskie can be caught using large hooks and big minnows, but large dressed spinning lures in the number 5 class and floating artifical minnows are known to have been most effective.

Although exciting to catch, Muskie, unlike other sportsfish, is generally not known for its flavor.

Access to the Delisle is limited, but seeking permission of private property owners, or fishing from the concession road bridges which cross it, is recommended.

Maxville Manor praises its volunteers for hard work

Maxville
Gordon Winter
527-2888

Last Thursday evening at the annual Volunteer Recognition banquet held at the Sports Complex, volunteer co-ordinator Phyllis Burtenshaw, very proudly announced that there were 190 volunteers assisting with the programs at the Manor.

After the delicious meal, Mrs. Burtenshaw invited Don Munroe, Manor administrator to outline the plans for the extensive renovations for the Manor and the funding for this project. With these changes, there will be many more private rooms for residents as well as expanded services.

Next, Gerald Jans, chairman of the Glen Gardens Apartment project announced plans for a new financial arrangement for the purchase of apartment leases. Subject to the approval of the Board of Directors, the new plan should be publicized soon and should be greeted with greater approval from prospective lease purchasers.

Ellen Hay, a Manor resident, read a very fitting poem thanking the volunteers for their services to the residents. Evelyn Roy and Angus MacQueen were other resident representatives present.

Donald Cumming, chairman of the Board of Directors presented the volunteer awards for the 1989-90 year. Receiving five-year pins were Sheila MacDougall from Finch and Pat Freeland who happens to be the Auxiliary president.

The 20-year award for volunteer work went to Olive Shields who is to be complimented for these many years of service at the Manor.

Mr. Cumming, on behalf of the Board, thanked the 80 volunteers present for their assistance in the effective operation of the Manor.

Congratulations are extended to the son of a former Maxville couple and his bride-to-be on May 19. The groom is John William Metcalfe, the son of Alma and Ian of Toronto and the bride is Jean Marie LoConte, daughter of Veronica and the late Anthony A. LoConte of Medford, Mass.

John is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. William G. MacLeod of Dominionville West and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Metcalfe of Maxville.

Mrs. Clarke has been working for the Shields for over two years but has been employed in the store for seven years.

We extend birthday best wishes and a pleasant visit home to Mrs. Clarke.

Through correspondence for material for the Centennial Book, this correspondent has received news about Mrs. F. G. Radford whose husband was the Baptist minister here from 1938-44. Mrs. Radford is well, very active and lives in Scarborough. Her husband was the last full-time minister in the church which became the Anglican church in 1960.

The trend in Maxville has started. Shoppers can be seen on the streets carrying their purchases in their own shopping bags or just loose in their arms. At the same time, store employees report that fewer customers are using the plastic bags offered them and are condemning the excess packaging which has been in vogue.

If the customers demand a change, the suppliers eventually will have to give them what they want.

This correspondent has a confession to make. He is still feeding some birds outside. With some of the little black (oil) sunflower seeds still on hand, and with the birds still coming to a feeder, he finds it hard to discontinue feeding them. The goldfinches are very numerous, there are three or four pairs of purple finches, several pine siskins, a few chickadees, a pair of nuthatches and a pair of grosbeaks. It is hoped that some of these will be nesting nearby for the first time.

The tree swallows and the barn swallows are back for the summer. The warm weather last week ensured a good supply of winged insects for them. The tree swallows are also staking out their nesting boxes.

The biggest bird news is the fact that a female cardinal visited our neighborhood last Thursday. Her call was loud and clear and we are all hoping that she has a mate and that the pair remains in the village for the nesting season.

At the annual meeting of the Maxville Cemetery Board, last week, preliminary plans were made to designate and protect an old cemetery that has passed through over 100 years of disuse. A short distance south west of the village it lies on the line fence between the farms of Jakob Schmid and Melvin Scott.

Down through the years, the land has never been cultivated and has been shown this respect by the generations of the Scott family and the former owners of the Schmid farm — Hugh Benton, George Wensink and Robert McEwen, to name the later ones.

The first known burial was in 1819 and the last one in 1868.

For work to be done on this cemetery, shallow excavation will be required to show that the graves exist as indicated by different soil colors and textures and before this can be done, some trees must be cut down.

Anyone interested in assisting with this project is invited to contact Gregor McEwen, chairman or Dale Munro, secretary-treasurer, of the current cemetery board.

Carole Munroe has been hard at work getting potential quilt makers for the Centennial quilt. She has 18 signed up for the project and more can be used.

The next quilting workshop will be held tomorrow (Thursday) evening at 7:30 in the public school.

As their second benefit project of the year, the participants of the exercise group known as Workouts that Work from Lemieux and Maxville have purchased a number of ducks as a group. They do not expect to win any prize money but they are pleased to assist this worthy cause.

Air bands and music rock high school

GDHS News
Sean Burgess

GDHS held its annual Air Band Concert on Friday, April 20. There were 450 tickets sold with eight groups participating in the event. The top three groups were, in order, ''Harry and the Bunch,'' ''Robert Palmer,'' and ''Bon Jovi.''

While still on the music scene, ''Jack and the Trippers,'' a rock band consisting of GDHS students, played at lunch hour on April 20. A few changes have been made to the group. They now have a name to go by, although no one I spoke with seemed to know what ''Jack and the Trippers'' meant. The group now has someone on lead vocals, Scott Anderson. There is also a new face on the drums. Chris MacPherson has replaced Aaron Villeneuve on the skins. Hopefully, we will hear them play again in the near future.

There will be a blood donor clinic tomorrow. If you attended GDHS and are over 17 years of age, bring along some photo I.D. and register at the office. The clinic is at Tagwi, transportation will be provided. Why not support this worthy cause?

Congratulations are due to several students at GDHS. At the annual SD&G French-as-a-Second-Language Competition held at Tagwi on April 19, Christina Rogers and Tracy MacMillan placed fourth and fifth, respectively. Felicitations!

On April 20, Bruce Myers, co-president of the student council placed second in the Lions' Club Public Speaking Contest for Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec. The contest was held in Kanata. Congratulations Bruce!

Both the junior and senior girls' soccer teams have been victorious in their last several games. On April 18, the senior girls defeated Tagwi by a score of 5-0 and General Vanier by a score of 3-0. Kelly Lavigueur was top goal scorer with five goals and Sophie Seguin is responsible for the shutouts.

The junior girls defeated Tagwi 4-2 and General Vanier 3-1 at the same tournament. Goal scorers for the two games were Isabel Seguin, Louise Villeneuve, Vivian Taillefer, Jenny Lowe, and Alison Graham with one goal each. Josee MacLennan scored two goals.

Both GDHS teams played on April 19 as well. The seniors beat Rothwell Osnabruck 4-0. Carolyn Cameron scored two, Therese Marion and Carmen Lajoie scored one goal each. They defeated CCVS by a score of 3-1. Kelly Lavigueur put two balls in the net and Brigitte Cameron put in one.

Tryouts for the tennis team have begun. There are boys' and girls' teams at both the junior and senior level.

Practices are to be held after school on late bus nights. See the Phys. Ed. coaches if you would like to join the team.

The track and field team competed at a relay meet at Seaway. A relay meet is a meet in which the only events are various types of relays. The GDHS team came in third overall.

GDHS hosted the improvisational Games last Friday. The drama clubs and teams from all the other high schools in the SD&G school board competed in this event, with NDDHS placing first.

Glengarry District High School's junior Canada Quiz team took the SD&G championship Friday in Cornwall. Defeating Cornwall Collegiate Vocational School, the team brought back the trophy to GDHS for the second time in three years. In last week's account of the Horticultural Society's meeting, one significant item was omitted. A minute's silence had been observed in memory of a past president, Morley Kiteley. Mr. Kiteley had given many years of service to the society and his presence will be sadly missed.

On May 5, on the invitation of the Alfred Horticultural Society, there will be a tour of greenhouses in the area as well as a visit to the Alfred College of Agricultural Technology for society members. Those wishing to take this tour are asked to assemble at the LCBO parking lot at 9:15 a.m. so that by 9:30 car pools can be organized. All participants are asked to bring their own lunches and tea and coffee will be supplied by the College.

All members who wish to attend the Ontario Horticultural Association's convention on June 19-21 are asked to let President Tom Boyle know as soon as possible. A share of the convention expenses will be paid by the local society for all delegates.

Since Gordon Winter is the OHA president this year, it is hoped that there will be a large representation at the convention from the local society.

This week is Education Week and the theme is Education: It's Everybody's Business. Every day this week, special events are planned at the public school. On Monday there was a school rally in the gym, Tuesday saw Tagwi's travelling assembly entertaining the students in the gym, today, the play Jack and the Beanstalk will be presented as will a gymnastic demonstration, tomorrow is ethnic day with a special lunch and costumes and on Friday the book fair will be opening as well as the career day for Grades 7 and 8.

Young at Hearts Euchre

The competition for high points at our village's euchre party has been so strong that no one has been awarded the title of King or Queen yet. The first one to receive three prizes will be named as such.

Last week, Florence Harkin of Apple Hill had top ladies' score with Jean Chisholm and Rita Seguin receiving second and third prizes. Mrs. Seguin also won in the 50-50 draw and two local ladies and neighbors, Catherine (Dan) MacRae and Ethel MacKinnon were double winners in the draw. Other lucky ladies in this draw were Gladys Barton, Vankleek Hill, and Grace Doth, and Elizabeth Briere, Moose Creek, won the door prize.

Chester Valley who comes from Tayside led the men with points, followed by George Jackson, Monkland and Mac O'Byrne. Men lucky in the draw were John Stewart, Baltic's Corners, Mac's brother Herbie, and Martin O'Brien, Monkland.

The next euchre will be held on May 7, in the club's room at 8 p.m.

Eighty-five years ago, Dr. J. Howard Munro, opened his medical practice in Greenfield leaving his father to practice alone in this village. Dr. Munro Jr. did not stay in Greenfield long as in 1910 he bought his home here in the village which is now the home of the J. T. McKenzie family.

Sixty years ago, Florence Cluff RN left for a European tour. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cluff whose home is now the one of the John Williams family.

Florence lived in Montreal, was married and died years ago. Mr. Cluff was prominent in the village in the early part of the century as a lumberman and contractor. having built the first grandstand at the fairgrounds.

Kids strut their stuff

Williamstown
Sue Harrington
347-2279

Williamstown this week reminded me of one of those children's magic activity books: put a little water on a paint brush and presto chango, a colorful picture emerges. One day the village was as drab as a day in autumn; a little rain was applied overnight and suddenly there we were, just as green and colorful as could be! What a lovely weekend!

Spring was in the air and also in their steps as models at Williamstown Public's RAPture '90 fashion show, pranced down the runway to show off the latest in clothing for the young set.

Organized by members of the school committee and tied together by ''the pulse of the school,'' Andree Hunter, with a whole lot of help from parents Rhea Noseworthy and Martha Ross, the show attracted a healthy audience Wednesday night at Char-Lan.

The models ranged in size from little Tracy Chalette right up to the cool Grade 8 students: Katharine MacLachlan, Shelley McGillivray, Paul Leclerk, Jason Birch and Joanne Dyck, and the fashions ranged from conservative earth tones all the way to strictly outer space colors!

The clothing was provided by Zellers, Reitmans, and Foot Locker, and the hair styling, which, by the way looked great, was done behind the scenes by Marilyn MacDonell of He & She in the Brookdale Mall.

Among the models were several who stood out for one reason or another. Richard Malo displayed a style all his own as he danced his way out into the audience, with a vim and vigor which ensured a lively round of applause. Sarah Gordon gave a flawless performance — elegant and smooth — while Sarah McDonald displayed the demure look, too seldom seen in today's children! Joanne Dyck looked very professional and at ease on the stage, as did Julie Warden.

Also wowing the crowd in their selected fashions were Raymond Martin, Jessica Hedley, Martin Dorie, Jena Noseworthy, Andy Knox, Stephen Alguire, Kate MacIntyre, Jesse Lafave, Ryan Fielding, Janet Varrin, Allan Alguire, Kelly Giroux, Jason Struthers, Lise MacGregor and Kim Lauzon.

Colors this year, according to commentator Barbara Kinnear are heavy on the lime green, grape, and orange, with the neon look flashing brightly. Tye die, paint splatter, and bicycle caps are all ''in'' for 1990.

Teachers Cathy Kinloch and Sharon McCullough, assisted by Sarah McCullough, gave away a number of gifts on draws held during the intermission. Winners of the school committee's raffle were: First price (C.D. player)), Lucy St. Denis; second (black and white TV), Erica Cumming; third (ghetto blaster), Janet Paradis.

While the fashion show was being presented in the cafetorium, other students and their parents were watching Choices in the Char-Lan gymnasium.

Sponsored by the Lancaster Optimists, the show was a motivational media video designed to make young people aware that they do have a choice when confronted with the offer to take drugs or alcohol. The message put forth using 10 synchronized slide and movie projectors and three large screens, is that it is all right to say ''no''.

The show is produced by Motivational Media Assemblies and is a Christian non-profit organization operating out of Calgary. Jeff Beamish, one of the technicians who brought the show to Char-Lan, said that the $250,000 production has been really well received across Canada. ''The kids seem to really love it,'' said Jeff.

Students at Char-Lan who viewed the video in the morning seemed impressed. Attention was riveted to the screen and its array of stars who advocated that students make the right choice — one that they are prepared to live with. The effects of accidents involving drunk drivers, the effects of taking steroids, and the consequences of alcohol and drug abuse were made clear in the movie.

Rober Menard of the Lancaster Optimists told how his service club was involved in trying to help teens live a drug-free life. Mr. Menard said that he was not too worried about students at Char-Lan ''being heavy on drugs,'' but he wanted to make sure that others do not fall into the trap.

In the afternoon, elementary students from Char-Lan's feeder schools, viewed Choices.

We applaud the Lancaster Optimists, and Char-Lan High School for bringing Choices to the attention of our youth, and sincerely hope that each and every one of them makes the right ''choice'' in his life.

Registration begins this week for minor sports programs this summer. Tennis, swimming, soccer, etc. can all be yours to play for a very nominal fee if you sign up at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre on Fri., May 4 from 6:30-9 p.m. and on Sat., May 5 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

For more info call the arena at 347-2411. But please don't be late! Late registrations really foul up our soccer teams and often make a rocky start to the season.

If you are a mother with pre-school children, the following item might be of interest. A plan is afoot to start a ''Mums and tots'' group which would meet one morning per week in Williamstown.

This is not an alternative to Nursery School, rather it would give mothers the chance to have some conversation, while their children play.

If interested, please phone Andrea Johnson at 347-2740.

W.I. News

A pot luck luncheon preceded the annual meeting of Martintown Women's Institute, held in the Presbyterian Church Hall. Margaret Kennedy extended a warm welcome to all present, especially to Eileen MacIntosh, who has been ill for such a long time, and expressing best wishes to Sylvia Thomson who is now at home trying to adjust to everyday living whilst hobbling around with a cast on a broken leg. Our thoughts are with you Sylvia.

The branch was well represented at the banquet in honor of the district's 75th anniversary. It was a most enjoyable evening and the table prepared by Grace Kinloch and Ruth Fourney of memorabilia and pictures ''down through the years'' proved quite an attraction.

The district's annual meeting is to be held on Wednesday, May 30, at the United Church in Williamstown, hosted by Picnic Grove WI. Delegates attending are Margaret Kennedy, Grace Kinloch, Eileen Johnston and Mina Carter.

The president thanked 4-H leaders Shirley Beaudin and Sandra Wood for their excellent work with the young people. Achievement night was held Wednesday evening, April 18 ''put your best foot forward'' and as usual, most entertaining. The next project will be breadmaking and farm kitchens will definitely have a great aroma when that project begins!

Branch co-ordinator Helen MacMillan presented a full report on our activities this past year, thanking convenors for their excellent write-ups. Margaret Kennedy thanked both secretary Joan MacKenzie and treasurer Elizabeth Peters for their continued support.

This year our own branch will celebrate its 80th anniversary, having been organized in July 1910. An executive meeting was held on April 24 to draw up a program for the year. No doubt plans to celebrate this event will be included.

Stennetta Lagroix conducted the installation of the following officers for the year 1990-1991: honorary president, Mrs. Salem Thomson; past president, Mrs. William Johnston; president, Mrs. Ian Kennedy; first vice-president, Mrs. Cornelius Van Loon; second vice-president, Mrs. Don MacKenzie; secretary, Mrs. Don MacKenzie; assistant secretary, Mrs. William Johnston; treasurer, Mrs. John Peters; district director, Mrs. George Kinloch; alternate district director, Mrs. Cornelius Van Loon; public relations, Mrs. Leslie West; branch co-ordinator, Mrs. Harvey MacMillan; and directors,

In Memoriam

MORRISON, Lewis A. — In memory of a loved one.
Memories are treasures no one can steal,
Death is a heartache no one can heal.
Some may forget you now that you're gone,
But we as a family, will always remember
No matter how long.
—Always thought of and sadly missed by all — your loving family. 18-1p

MORRISON, Lewis A. — In loving memory of a dear father who passed away one year ago May 2, 1989.
The things I feel so deeply
Are the hardest things to say.
I, your daughter love you in a very special way.
They say memories are golden,
Well maybe this is true,
I never wanted memories,
I only wanted you.
If only tears could build a stairway
And heartaches make a lane,
I'd walk the path to heaven
And bring you back again.
Our family chain is broken
And nothing seems the same
But as God calls us one by one
The chain will link again.
Dad, you'll always be remembered and very sadly missed.
—Your loving daughter, Kathleen and grandchildren. 18-1p

LAUZON, Joseph Alexander (Ackie) — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, a native of Alexandria, who passed away in North Vancouver on May 3, 1989.
—Fondly remembered by his wife Ursula Nadig, daughter Barbara and husband William Stamper, son Lionel and wife Josie Hallihan, and grandchildren Eric and Kevin Stamper, Billy Joe, Jason and Paula Lauzon. 18-1c

LAVIGUEUR — In loving memory of my dear mother, Claire Lavigueur, who passed away May 3, 1989.
Although my tears still often flow
I know Mom you have found happiness and rest,
And there is comfort in the thought,
That a loving God knows best.
—Always missed and forever loved by your daughter, Suzy. 18-1p

PICHIE — In loving memory of Victoria, who died May 4, 1988 and Alex Pichie, March 6, 1966.
Such beautiful memories, that you have left us,
dear Mom and Dad.
We waited for a cure, but all in vain,
Till God above thought it was best,
And took them with him.
Two years have passed, but seems to me a day,
But your memory is still in the hearts of your beloved family.
—Always remembered by daughter Alma, Roland, Marcel, Florence, Marc, Eric and Julie Hurtubise. 18-1p

LAVIGUEUR, Claire — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother who passed away May 3, 1989.
God came and took you, it was a year ago today,
We wish we could have told you, what we really wanted to say,
We often think of days that we all spent together,
But now it's only memories left in our hearts forever;
If we could have a lifetime wish,
A dream that would come true,
We would wish with all our hearts
For yesterday and you.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by Rene and family. 18-1c

National consumer price index rises

Canadians had to dish out more money for the same amount of food last month than they did in February.

Agriculture Canada recently stated that food prices in March, as measured by the consumer price index, rose 0.2% from those in February.

That increase brought the cost of a "nutritious food basket" sufficient to meet the needs of an average Canadian family of four to $127.76 per week in March, up 91 cents from February.

The same basket in March 1989 cost $120.97 — $6.79 cheaper than this year.

The nutritious food basket is based on the spending patterns of an average-income family in Canada.

Brownies promote guiding in show

Green Valley
Helene Quesnel
525-3303

Finally we made it to the month of May. It's the best month of the year cause everything is coming to life. It's nice to see everyone outside again, riding bikes or taking walks. Needless to say it's been a long winter and I'm sure everyone's happy it's over.

Brownies

Our Green Valley Brownie pack took part in the Highland District Hobby Show held on Sunday (April 29) at Elda Rouleau School in Alexandria.

Local packs such as Brownies, Pathfinders and Guides contributed to the annual exhibition which promotes guiding. Next week I'll have the hobby show results.

A Fun Day was also held the same day for Guides and Brownies of the whole district — over 100 children were in attendance.

Ste. Marie news

Grade 3 students made bread a couple of weeks ago with help from their teacher, Monique Quenneville and the janitor Yves Joanette.

A winner for the "Glengarry en Fête" poster contest was Grade 7's Richard Seguin. Richard won second prize for best poster.

April 29 to May 5 is Education Week. This year's theme is "Education: Everyone's business."

Here is a list of activities taking place at Ste. Marie's this week.

Pre-kindergarten teacher, Carole Simard invites children who have registered for Sept. '90, to visit her class on Thursday (May 3).

Yesterday, Cecyle O'Connell, pre-kindergarten/kindergarten teacher and students welcomed Julie Rouette who held a physical education workshop.

Grade 1 teacher Gisele Campeau and students invite parents to visit their classroom between 9:30 and 11 a.m. on Thursday.

Grade 2 teacher Pierrette Campeau and students welcome Linda Menard and her newborn daughter, Josée, to talk to students about Josée's birth as part of the "family life and sex education" program being introduced to the children.

A photography contest is being held in Grade 3 by teacher Monique Quenneville.

Suzanne Menard and her Grade 4 students invite parents to a science experiment exposition on Thursday, 12:30-1:45 p.m.

Grade 5 teacher Darlene Sampson and students held a crafts workshop put on by Laurette Martin on Monday (Apr. 30).

Francine Richer and her Grade 6 students invite parents to visit their class today (May 2) from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The students will have their collections and projects on display.

On May 3, Gracia Seguin and her Grade 7 students will treat parents to a science exposition which starts at 1 p.m. and ends at 3 p.m.

Grade 8 students and teacher Marcel Seguin visited ESRG yesterday and today, Therese Lortie will hold a cooking workshop for the students.

Congratulations to Andre and Jacqueline Lefebvre who had their 40th anniversary on April 11. An anniversary party was held for the couple on April 21 at the Knights of Columbus hall with all seven of their children, sons and daughters-in-law, and grandchildren in attendance.

The UCFO monthly meeting is tonight (May 2) at 7:30 p.m. in the church hall.

A meeting to set up a neighborhood watch for 8th Conc. of Lancaster residents will be held on Tuesday, May 15 at 8 p.m. Const. Gilles Ruest will be there to speak to residents about the program. It's important that at least 20 of the approximately 40 families who could benefit from this be in attendance to realize the project. Mark your calendar!

During the month of May the rosary will be said 15 minutes before mass at Ste. Marie's church.

Some Grade 2 students received holy communion for the first time during the past weekend masses and the rest of the students will have their first communion next weekend. A class celebration will then be held.

* * *

Birthday wishes go out to Lindsay Masterson, 1, Stephane Aubin, 8, and Chantal Titley, all on May 3 and to Anik Vaillancourt, 8, on May 4. Happy 16th wedding anniversary to Henri and Gisele Jeaurond on May 3.

I would like to express my deepest sympathy to the Van Riel family in the loss of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Tonie Van Riel.

Mr. Van Riel passed away on Sunday, April 22, at the young age of 67. I did not know him, but I do know two of his sons and their families. Bill, his wife Ann and their children, Crystal, Stephanie, Matthew and Katrina, and Adrien, his wife Sue and their children, Angie and Jennifer all reside in Martintown. He was the beloved husband of the former Antoinette (Anna) van Berk.

By the way, if you read last week's column, the one concerning the pie joke played on June Lalonde, the culprits behind it were June's daughter Yvette and Norm Laflamme.

Just For Seniors

Villa Fatima/Palace
M.L. Monique Keeler

Allo everyone! The residents and friends are bubbling with this beautiful sunshine! Spring is finally here with all its glory. I went for a walk down a dirt road this evening and could hear the birds singing, the trees are budding, the air is fresh and it just feels good to be alive.

The exercises are still popular at our houses and we find that we're more flexible because we can do our half hour workout and then go out walking to enjoy this weather. Healthy body means a healthy mind . . .

In our bowling scene, they are still very keen and judging by their weekly results, they are improving every week. At the Villa our high single scorers are Trudeau (Donat Saucier) and Mulroney (Leopold Ranger). Congratulations, men! The champions at the Palace are Chief (Arnold Condie) and Mom (Agnes Barbara). Mrs. Barbara has moved right up to the top in the last two weeks and we're extremely proud of her. Go for it, Mom!

Wednesday is sandbag and euchre day! The Villa which is host to all events was just humming with noise. The champion team is Arnold Condie/Agnes Barbara with a whopping score of 9,700 points. The second best team is Raymond Lacombe and Donalda Borris. Congrats to all of you!

The euchre table consisted of Donat Saucier, Alida Ouimet, Ida Carriere, and her sister Alma Trottier. According to Donat, he and Mrs. Ouimet were winners . . .

We celebrated Easter mass in our chapel on Saturday, April 14, 1990 with Father Gerald Poirier.

The choir and our music director, Mr. Pierre Vaillancourt, made our mass so very special. Frank Hamilton of Alexandria sang "Ave Maria" for the mass.

The beautiful potted plants which were donated, made the sanctuary very lovely and warm for the celebration of our Lord's Resurrection . . .

We are preparing for one of our biggest events of the year — Mother's Day! (also my fondest). We're hosting a tea party for all our moms and invitations have been compiled and are sent out. I believe Mother's Day and Father's Day will be the gala of the year. It is our way to show our love and appreciation!

May is a busy month for us for we are planning a day trip to Franklyn Centre, P.Q., to tour the apple orchards at apple blossom time. Can you imagine the song we'll all have in our hearts! "Cherry pink and apple blossom time!" Friends of Franklyn will also treat us to dinner and dancing in the little church on the hill. My song will be "Home, I'm coming Home."

Surprisingly enough, there are no birthdays in the month of April at the Villa or Palace. The nursing home has five wonderful ladies in the month of April — happy birthday wishes go out to Marie Poirier, 97 years young, Marie Anne Charlebois, 94 years young, Florida Thauvette, 97 years young, Cecilia Lalonde, 98 years young, and Marie Lacroix, 84 years young.

St. Finnan's CWL hosted the April birthday party on April 17. The entertainers were the Lochiel Strings and Frank Hamilton. The ladies were given corsages and a gift and delicious cake and punch was then served. Our thanks to you ladies and to the entertainers.

The Easter bingo was held also and Catherine MacDonald won the special prize of a stuffed bunny and egg.

This month also at the nursing home will be a display of a bird collection. Happy Hour will be held next Wednesday, May 2.

We're sending our best wishes for a speedy recovery to Edgar Lajoie who has been ill and is undergoing tests in Ottawa. Edgar is our resident Jean-Baptiste Lajoie's brother. Our prayers are with you, Edgar!

This week has been named "National Volunteer Week." The nursing home and Villa Fatima/Palace want to thank all those who have volunteered their time, effort and talent for the benefit of our residents. What would we do without you!

Our sincere congratulations to Duncan McDonell for receiving the Citizen of the Year Award. Mr. McDonell is president of our local Golden Glens group. It's wonderful to hear of fine people being recognized for their outstanding devotion to the community.

All seniors are welcome every Thursday afternoon to join the Golden Glens for cards, refreshments and a good time.

The Golden Glens meet from 1:30-3:30 p.m. at the Legion Hall.

Comedy coming to Cornwall

The Vagabond Theatre of Cornwall will be presenting "Boeing-Boeing," a comedy by Marc Camoletti and Beverley Cross, at St. Lawrence High School auditorium, May 3, 4, 5, 10, 11, and 12 at 8 p.m.

The play, directed by David Barnes, is a comedy involving a sophisticated architect, who has three fiances living with him in his apartment, each being an airline hostess, working for different airlines, on different routes. He keeps them apart by skilful use of a timetable and is ably assisted by his housekeeper, Bertha.

The plot is complicated at this point by the arrival of an old school friend and the sudden change in the weather which alters the airline schedules.
