Chesterville Loses Close Game With Inkerman 5-4

The Inkerman Rockets jumped into first place in the Central Ottawa Valley Junior League standing last Friday night, when, before an estimated crowd of 1100 hockey fans, they defeated Chesterville 5-4 in one of the closest contests played at the Winchester Arena this season. The crowd was a record for this year, with both Chesterville and Inkerman having large followings. About 300 fans were present from Chesterville and close to 500 from the Inkerman district.

Owing to the mild weather, the condition of the ice was not the best but both teams played well.

Inkerman took a two-goal lead in the first period but for the next two periods were pressed to hold it. In fact, Chesterville outscored the Rockets 2-1 in the second period and collected as many points as their opponents in the third. On the night's play the Inkerman team had a slight edge over the Chesterville boys, who appeared to lack aggressiveness at times, which was no doubt, due to a long lay-off between games. We still think they will make the playoffs and have as good a chance as any team of becoming league champions.

This was the first game that Chesterville appeared in their new sweaters of green and yellow stripes and they looked pretty snappy.

The game was well handled by Referees Alf. Jarvis and Lorne Marcellus, who imposed only four penalties for minor infractions.

The only accident of the game occurred in the first period, when Frank Salter, of the Inkerman team, was struck in the mouth, causing his teeth to put a deep gash in his tongue. As there were no doctors in Winchester at the time, he was taken to Chesterville and attended by Dr. H. Justus. It is understood that several stitches were required to close the wound in the tongue.

The line-ups were:

Chesterville—Goal, C. Smyth; def., Millar and Summers; centre, Shaver; wings, McIntosh and Swerdfeger; alternates, H. MacMillan, Fyke, Cross, C. McMillan, Marcellus, Casselman and Paul.

Inkerman—Goal, R. Baldwin; def., L. Pitt and G. Whitteker; centre, F. Whitteker; wings, F. Salter and J. Kirkwood; alternates. G. McIntosh, G. Crowder, B. Locke, C. Swyth, Bailey and O'Neil.

Blood Donors, Remember!

February 15th, is the day set for the next visit of the Blood Donors' Clinic to Chesterville. It seems hardly necessary to stress the very great importance of this service. The blood taken at these clinics saves thousands of lives and as is well known the Allies are on the eve of the greatest offensive of the war, when the need for blood plasma will increase from day to day as the casualties are bound to do. It's a service that costs but little of a doctor's time and it may mean the saving of Canadian lives. Almost any one under the age of sixty can donate blood. Your doctor will tell you if your blood will be suitable to give. Go and see him and then go to Leo Gallagher who will give you the hour at which you should be at the Clinic in Trinity United church Sunday School rooms on Tuesday, February 15th. If there are not at least eighty donors at the clinic, Chesterville and district will not have done its duty.

BORN.

BARKLEY: At Dunbar, on Tuesday, January 25th, to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barkley (nee Helen Clark), a son (Harold Eddie).

The Annual Meeting of Morewood United church was held Friday evening, January 28th, in the church hall. The Woman's Association served supper which was enjoyed by a good attendance of members and adherents. Rev. T.A. The different organizations enjoyed a most successful year total receipts from all sources amounting to $4725.74.

Rev. Woods was invited to remain as minister for the coming year and a vote of thanks was tendered Miss E. Smith, organist; Mr. Faulkner, Sec. Treas. and Mr. Bilow, caretaker, for their faithful services during the past year.

Radio Forum News

S.S. No. 10 met at the home of H.R. Johnson, Hugh Smith, convenor, attendance 23.

Whether or not the farmers now have more time for social and community functions than they had 20-30 years ago, was discussed long and vigorously. It was finally decided to wait until the findings of the other Ontario Forums were reported next Monday night by Ralph Staples, to settle the arguments.

Angus Smith reported on the progress made toward starting the free Dental Clinic in the school. According to his report the cost to the section would be negligible.

Our Forum members were, to say the least, pleased to hear S. S. No. 10, Chesterville, Dundas County, mentioned over the National CBC hook-up on Review night, Monday, January 24th. This is probably the first time that Chesterville has been heard all over Canada.

Forum next Monday night at the home of Eric Casselman with H.R. Johnston as convenor. Topic for discussion will be "The Church and the Rural Community."

The first Forum to be held in Williamsburg township was inaugurated Monday night by Edwin McIntosh at his home. Edwin reports that the members were well pleased with the evening and decided to carry on with the Forum. Mountain township also reports a few Forums that were started on the same night. Th ceounty Federation is planning a campaign to attempt to have an active Forum in each school section of the county by next Christmas.

ADVERTISE IN THE RECORD
. . IT PAYS!

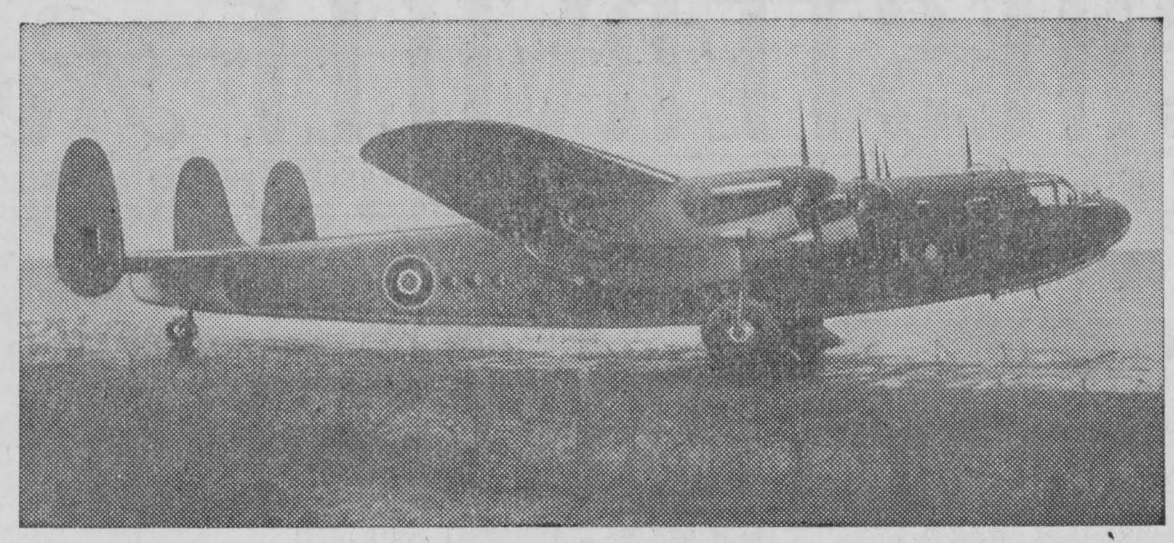

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 3RD, 1944

IT MAY BE LAW BUT NOT JUSTICE

In the interest of Bon Accord it is sincerely to be desired that some reciprocal arrangement will be arrived at to avoid double succession duties and inheritance taxes between Canada and the United States. There was much repining when the Hepburn Government went back of settlements arrived at by its predecessor and exacted thousands of dollars from the Estates, the beneficiaries of which thought they were in the clear. It cannot be claimed that there is anything inequitable in the exaction of Succession Duties. The Government reaches out for its share of monies willed to people who never earned it and in the very nature of things comes to them as a windfall. Many devices have been resorted to in order to, in some measure, evade the tax but lynx-eyed officials have in the most instances rendered these abortive. This double taxation business is a horse of another color, however, and is the cause of much heartburning and recrimination on both sides of the border. In this connection Barron's Weekly published a letter from the attorney of a resident of Connecticut, who died leaving $36,521 on deposit with the Royal Bank, Toronto. While the estate was a large one, the bank deposit was the only property in Canada. The succession duties in Canada on this asset amounted to: Dominion $3,057 and Province of Ontario $10,951 a total of $14,009. The will had to be probated in Ontario, and the cost of this was $1.050, so that $15,059 of the bank deposit stayed in Canada and $11,462 staggered back to Connecticut, rather dazed after a short visit with a friendly neighbor. The United States Federal and Connecticut taxes have still to be paid. We estimate these to be as follows: U.S. Federal, $12,995; State of Connecticut. $1,746. Total, $14,741. The combined operations of Canada and the United States will not only completely wipe out the original bank account of $26,000, but there will have to be paid out of the estate a further sum of $2,000. The General Manager of the National Trust Company, who is hopeful that legislation will be introduced to put an end to the iniquity points out that "In reverse conditions the United States taxing authorities, who of course must apply the law as it stands, would be equally harsh on Canadian heirs. I would also like to say that, while the illustration given is by no means altogether borne by the well-to-do. In fact, the well-to-do by legal procedure as, for example through the medium of a holding company, are often able to escape the additional tax altogether. The estates most generally affected are those of small or medium sizes."

RE-MODELLING TOWNS AND CITIES

Recently the Canadian Mayors Federation adopted a resolution urging that towns and cities be given more freedom of action in town planning. The Architectural Institute favors a planned municipal development as an integral part of post-war reconstruction. Freeing of architects now in the armed forces immediately on demobilization when hostilities end is urged, the institute solidly backing a resolution that steps be taken at once "to assure quick demobilization of technical personnel, particularly architects, to enable them to take their part in reconstruction." A number of Ontario Municipalities have been pressing for authority to build up a surplus out of current taxes, the money being set aside for necessary works in the post-war period.

THE AVRO YORK: BRITAIN'S NEW TRANSPORT PLANE

The Avro York is a civil transport version of the famous Avro Lancaster bomber. Externally, the main points of difference between the York and the Lancaster are the shape of the fuselage (which has been specially designed for passenger or freight carrying) and the introduction of a triple-fin tail unit in the former. The design of the individual fin and rudder is similar, and the wings and engine nacelles of the York were designed originally for the Lancaster. The York's wing span is 102 feet and its overall length 73 feet. It is powered by four Rolls-Royce liquid-cooled Merlin engines. When employed over comparatively short distances it is capable of carrying more than 50 passengers, but it may be used for either short or long journeys, and can be adapted readily to take either passengers or freight alone.

MEDICAL AND DENTAL INSPECTION URGED

Resolutions which were initiated at regional conferences throughout the Province have been submitted to the Department of Education by the Ontario Educational Association comprise a request for establishment of a minimum annual salary of $1,000 with schedule for annual increases for all elementary school teachers of Ontario, costs the amount to be apportioned "according to educational need" and the system of Provincial scholarships be continued and extended, "to increase the equality of educational opportunity." It is also urged that the department establish compulsory medical and dental inspection and treatment of minor defects of all school children and that the Province be divided into large enough areas to justify employment of a full-time medical officer of health.

MORE LICENCES MORE INSPECTORS

Among the recommendations of the Ontario Agricultural Commission of Inquiry is a suggestion that the Ontario Milk Control Act be amended to provide for the licensing of milk producers and the collection of license fees. The amount of the license fees would be determined by local producers associations for their respective markets, and the money collected paid over by the distributors and processors to the Provincial body representative of the milk producers, which would be responsible for remitting the proper share to the local producer associations. The commission's recommendation ruled that the associations use the moneys "for their legitimate expenses and for the maintenance of services of benefit to the producers."

ANCIENT SPONGES AID HYDRO.

Like many of the most valued things in life we are apt to take our Hydro Electric utility for granted. If we stop to think, we know, of course, that hydro power is due to the harnessing of energy from falls and rapids. But falls and rapids are caused in various ways. How, we ask, did Niagara Falls originate? Those of us who have watched the "Falls" at work have probably noticed that the water carried by the Niagara River from Lake Erie flows over thick beds of limestone, big blocks of which often break away and fall into the chasm below. Beneath this hard rock are softer shales. The "Falls" would not exist were it not for the heavy capping rock. It protects the underlying shales which otherwise would soon wear away.

How and when were these rocks formed that now serve us so well? Royal Ontario Museum authorities tell us that millions of years ago portions of a vast sea, teeming with sponges and lowly shellfish, covered Southern Ontario, including the area now occupied by Niagara Falls. As time went on the sea gradually retreated leaving behind the limy oozes and muds which formed the ancient sea floor. These sediments subsequently became compacted into the limestones and shales described above. In the limestones are entombed the hard, glass-like skeletons of sponges which now often appear as chert balls or nodules. These chert balls do not dissolve as readily as the limestone and hence serve to reinforce the limestone layers which make possible the "Falls". Thus the remains of the lowly organisms of an ancient sea are playing their part in the economy of our present day industrial civilization.

Booked up.

Caller—I'd like a few words with the lady of the house.

English Maid: Well, you'll 'ave to wait yer turn. I'm in the middle of 'aving a few with 'er myself.

GOLD
By Thomas Hood

GOLD! Gold! Gold! Gold!
Bright and yellow, hard and cold
Molten, graven, hammered and rolled
Heavy to get, and light to hold;
Hoarded, bartered, bought and sold.
Stolen, borrowed, squandered, doled;
Spurned by the young, but hugged by the old
To the verge of the churchyard mould;
Price of many a crime untold;
Gold! Gold! Gold! Gold!
How widely its agencies vary!
To save, to ruin, to curse, to bless,
Now stamped with the image of Good Queen Bess,
And now of a Bloody Mary!

PLEASE LADIES, WHAT NEXT!

What field will they invade next? asks the harried male, as he sees the womenfolk taking over job after job once exclusively performed by the stronger sex. The following tale will not add to his peace of mind but may help to solace him a little on the theory that misery loves company.

Since time immemorial it has been the unquestioned right of the buck deer to wear the antlers. Now all is changed. The Royal Ontario Museum recently acquired, through Mr. Frank MacDougall, Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests, an antlered white tailed doe, from Algonquin Park.

Antlered does are not unknown, but usually the antlers are underdeveloped, malformed and frequently consist merely of two spikes. It is not so in this case, for the antlers are symmetrical in form, have a spread of nineteen inches, carry nine points and would equal or excel many heads of bucks so proudly displayed by the successful deer hunter.

Move over Mr. Man and make room in the dog house for Mr. Buck to lower his once proud antelered head.

FEED DEALERS MUST SUPPLY CUSTOMERS

Some farmers have been complaining that they have not been getting their fair share of the supplies available of fertilizer mixtures with potash content, potash being in somewhat short supply these days.

Grant Peart, fertilizer administrator for the Prices Board, has taken action to clarify this situation by issuing a directive to all fertilizer dealers which requires them to see that their usual customers are properly supplied before new customers are taken on.

Dealers are not permitted to supply customers with mixtures containing potash to a greater extent than 7 percent of the potash they got in all fertilizers they bought in 1943.

If a fertilizer dealer is a farmer himself, he must not retain for his own farming operations any more than the 75 percent of what he used in 1943. In other words, he must see that his customers are properly supplied as well as himself, according to what is available.

Dealers may take on new customers only if additional supplies are available after the old customers are looked after.

VALUE SANITATION AND DISINFECTION

The best step to take in preventing parasites is the adoption of a system of strict sanitation and disinfection. The poultry house itself should have floors and foundations that are rat-and vermin-proof and impervious to moisture. It should admit plenty of sunlight, and an abundance of fresh air in all kinds of weather. Poultry quarters, roosts, nests, feed and water utensils should be cleaned and disinfected regularly. The quality of the disinfectant used should be one recommended by a veterinarian, to make sure it will do the proper job. If, in spite of these precautions the chickens do become infested with some parasite, a veterinarian should be consulted so the proper treatment may be given.

Sanitation must be practised, also, in the poultry yard, otherwise soil contamination will build up and continue the old cycle of diseases and parasites for years. Many poultrymen now raise their chicks without direct contact with the soil, for this reason; some use sun porches with wire mesh or slat bottoms, or small yards surfaced with concrete or asphalt. Good results, too, have been obtained by rotating the poultry range, so the birds will be on fresh ground each season.

Faith

The line-up ran for a full city block and ended near a street window bearing a sign in block letters of red: "Blood Donor Clinic."

The old gentleman on the tram turned to his wife. "There my dear, is an illustration of what I was saying at breakfast. It's a bitter morning, but the need is great and those people are quick to respond. There lies our national strength—in the spirit of our people."

At times even age and failing eyesight can be a blessing. The line up was for the Liquor Commission shop next door.

Highly Competent

A man of six feet, eight inches, applied for a job as a lifeguard.

"Can you swim?" asked the official.

"No, but I can wade to beat the devil."

Didn't Like Crowds

Stand up, shouted the colored evaigelist, if yiu want to go to Heaven.

Everyone got up but an old man.

Don't you want to go to Heaven, brother?, shouted the preacher.

Sho', said the old man, but Ah ain't goin' with no excursion! Ahs crowded enough down heah.

Geo. W. Hawn Died In New Liskeard, Ont.

After a long illness George Wilbert Hawn died last Saturday afternoon at the Lake Shore Road, New Liskeard at the home of his brother, Frank Hawn.

Mr. Hawn, who was in his 67th year, had been in failing health since last March. The funeral was held on Monday from the E.C. Perrin Chapel with services there and at the New Liskeard cemetery conducted by Lt. Lorne Jannison of the Salvation Army Corps.

Pallbearers were Art Shaw, C.E. Bond, W.J. Evans, Frank Herron, W.J. Barr and S.J. Antram.

The late Mr. Hawn was born at Newington, Stormont county, on December 8th, 1877, a son of Levi Hawn and his wife Mary Dave. His earlier life was spent in that part of the province and as a young man Mr. Hawn went to the United States. He lived in different parts of New York State and in Ontario, coming to New Liskeard over fourteen years ago and since that time lived there. He was a gardener by vocation but had spent some time on railroad work in the United States.

Surviving are two brothers Frank Hawn of New Liskeard, Emanuel Hawn of Farrans Point and two sisters, Mrs. George Campbell of Newington and Mrs. Warner Campbell, of Finch.

1942 SEED STILL GOOD FOR SOWING

Throughout some sections of Ontario many farmers have fairly substantial quantities of 1942 seed on hand. Due to the short crop of 1943 much grain produced the year previous will likely be used for seed this coming crop season. Much of this seed will be very suitable for sowing but there seems to be some doubt on the part of farmers in connection with germination ability.

In this connection valuable experiments have been made by experimental stations to determine the vitality of ceerals, clovers, timothy, and other seeds. These experiments provide ample proof that seed, when stored in a dry place for various periods of time satisfactorily retain their power of germination.

Wheat and barley retained their vitality almost unimpaired for five years after harvest. Oats showed little loss of vitality until after the ninth year. The germ of wheat was practically dead at the end of the twenth year, but after the same length of time oats gave fairly high germination. This was probably due to the protection of the oat hull. The vitality of timothy seed was well retained after the fourth year, while Red, Aliske and White Clover showed little reduction in germinating power during the first three years.

Therefore, if the seed is ripe and kept in a dry place the 1942 product will in some cases be likely superior to yields from the 1943 crop. In either case, farmers are advised to clean up all high quallity seed of recommended varieties adn offer any surplus for sale. Every bushel will be needed this year.

It doesn't cost to advertise in The Record—It Pays.

C.P.R. Relieves Coal Shortage

THIS huge overhead travelling bridge, equipped with 10-ton clamshell bucket, is one of two such units operating at the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's big coal dock in Fort William, Ont., where 1,224,000 tons of American bituminous coal were handled during the Great Lakes navigation season in order to relieve western Canada's threatened fuel shortage.

According to an announcement by H. H. Enman, general fuel agent for the C.P.R. in western Canada, the company acted to avert the coal shortage with permission of the government, importing the coal from the United States on the assumption that coal fields in Alberta and British Columbia would not be able to supply the increased demands of transportation, industry and the general public. Of the total imported 1,050,000 tons were for the C.P.R.'s own use and 175,000 tons for other users.

Based on the number of pounds of coal required to haul 1,000 tons of freight one mile the C.P.R.'s share of the coal represented a total of 14,985,714,000 gross ton miles of passenger and freight movement, or about one-third of the gross ton miles operated on western lines for 1943.

HOMELESS ITALIANS STALK NO MAN'S LAND

One of the most amazing sights in this beachhead battle is the long streams of Italian civilians, mostly farm families, coming across no man's land, walking erect with prizes and possessions piled on their backs and heads, over terrain where soldiers on both sides must crawl.

Some have homes on this side but fled with the Germans during the first phase of the invasion. Others have been burned out of their homes on the enemy side of the line or have been run out by the Germans. Still others merely are trying to get to the Allied side of the line, where they feel much safer.

But while all are in plain sight of both sides, nobody fires on them, although they run the risk of shellfire or crossfire if they come over during hot periods.

They are a constant aggravation to the troops for many reasons. They don't know a thing about mines in the area and as they wander through advanced positions they are liable to set off enemy booby traps and mines which spread destruction for many yards.

FIGHT FOR ITALIAN PIG CANADIANS BRING HOME BACO

Canadian and German frontline troops in Italy fought a batte for a pig and the 8th Army men brought home the bacon.

All day there had been desultory small-arms fire on the front where a Canadian Corps is fighting on the right flank of the British 8th Army and toward evening the pig, scared by the noise, broke out of its enclosure ii no-man's-land.

The battle for possession began with a short burst by a German sniper. The pig sqealed louder and tacked toward the Canadian position.

A well-placed shot stopped the porker in its tracks but the problem of bringing home the prize remained. This was solved by artillery fire which caused the enemy to withdraw.

A few hours later the Canadians were eating roast pork.

Newly-Weds Honoured With Address and Purse

Wednesday evening, February 2nd, about seventy-five friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morley McPherson to do honour to their son, LAC Wray McPherson, upon his recent marriage to Miss Jessie Morrison, RN, of Masonville, Que., daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W.A. Morrison, a former pastor of Elma United church.

About 11 o'clock the happy couple were called to the floor and an address read by Donald McMartin and a very substantial purse presented by Hugh MacMillan, after which the bride and groom expressed their appreciation to their friends in a very fitting manner.

After the singing of "They are Jolly Good Fellows" lunch was served by the ladies.

During the evening the gathering was entertained by music from the Orchestra composed of local talent and songs by William Beckstead.

With the singing of God Save the King the gathering dispersed all wishing the bride and groom a very happy and long married life.

Beckstead, Ontario,
February 2nd, 1944.

Aircraftsman and Mrs. McPherson:

Dear Jessie and Wray: It is with great happiness and pleasure that we, your friends and neighbours, have met together this evening to extend to you our heartiest congratulations and offer our best wishes on the occasion of your recent marriage.

To you, Jessie, we welcome you back into our community as a true and trusted friend. Your presence brings with you memories of your father and mother and their work while they were here with us. Your training as a nurse, and your many talents and good qualities will be felt wherever you may go.

To you, Wray, we congratulate you on your choice of a helpmate. We have felt your goodly influence among our young people, in our church and in our community. You very willingly shared with us your time and talents. As you continue your work for your King and Country, may God watch over you that you may return to us soon again.

We trust, Jessie and Wray, that your life together may be joyous and sunny, and that abundant blessings, long life and health may be your future.

As a token of remembrance from your friends, we ask you to accept this purse. May it remind you of the fellowship of former years and for many yet to come.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbours.

Egerton Barkley, Hugh MacMillan and Donald McMartin.

RED CROSS WILL MAKE NATIONAL APPEAL

The Canadian Red Cross will make a national appeal for $10,000,000 in voluntary contributions throughout Canada starting on February 28th.

In previous appeals the people of Canada have more than supported the cause and the generous response of the Canadian people in the last appeal showed their openheartedness and understanding of the Red Cross work.

The Red Cross is an international organization and under the Conventions of Geneva, is required to obtain its support by volutary subscriptions to preserve its rights, privileges and immunities guaranteed under International Law.

The national appeal in March was planned with the fullest co-operation of the Dominion Government to avoid disruption of plans of the National War Finance Committee. And too, the American Red Cross is making its national appeal during the same month, making it a continent-wide campaign.

The largest work facing the Red Cross during the current year is supplying food parcels for Canadian, British and Empire prisoners of war in Europe and the Far East. The Society now has five packing plants in Canada, with a weekly production of 100,000 parcels. Of this amount the Canadian Red Cross donates 30,000 weekly for prisoners in Europe, the remainder being paid for by the British and Australian Red Cross Societies. Provision also has to be made for food, drugs and other supplies for Canadian prisoners in the Far East. These two objectives alone will require $5,500,000 during 1944.

The work of the Canadian Red Cross has never been greater, and the need has never been greater. This year, it is hoped, will be victory year, but the work of the Red Cross does not end with the cessation of hostilities . . . it continues wherever there is human suffering.

Have you Thought About

BRAY LEGHORNS

LOOKING over the Canadian poultry situation, we sometimes wonder whether White Leghorns are "getting the break" they deserve. They're thrifty, they live well and they certainly shell out the eggs. Since they're smaller and naturally more active than most heavier breeds, you can put more Leghorns into a given space than the bigger birds. Some of our biggest markets give a preference to white eggs . . . some even pay premiums for them. And we know poultry authorities who claim that you can raise Leghorns cheaper and get more eggs for your feed.

YES—WE HAVE 'EM

From all this you may gather that we have White Leghorn chicks to sell. That's right—we have! Mind you, we're not knocking other breeds—we produce a lot of chicks of other breeds, too. But with eggs in such strong demand for home and overseas, and this new floor price firmly underneath the egg market, we feel this old reliable egg manufacturer, the White Leghorn, deserves more attention than it has been getting recently.

COCKERELS, TOO

Many people turn up their noses at White Leghorn cockerels. But White Leghorn cockerels are no slouches for broilers and fryers. Mrs. Anderson, Bobcaygeon, Ont., writes: "Had two fried for dinner today, dressed two pounds each" —at 10½ weeks. We'll bet they made real eating, too. So if you have room, take your Leghorns non-sexed, and treat yourself to some fried chicken.

Pathfinders Chosen From Cream of Crews

On a bleak expanse of English moor, which for a few kaleidoscopic minutes was a "Little Berlin" I got a tabloid view of the awesome sights which assail German eyes when the RAF hurls down its thousands of tons of high explosive death and destruction.

Even without bombs the spectacle, shown lay observers for the first time is a nightmare of bursting fireballs, weirdly floating flares, great sheets of light outlining miles of terrain and seething masses of signal fires set on the ground, so fierce in intensity and persistence you think, "this is what the fires of hell must be like."

This grim visual symphony is the "secret weapon" of the RAF's remarkable Pathfinder force—trail-blazing bombers with specifically trained crews which mark the target on which succeeding waves of bombers can drop their loads even when they can't see their objective.

Canadians in Group

It was the Pathfinders, it now is divulged, which made possible the shattering of the Ruhr in the face of a perpetual industrial haze, helped to speed up R.A.F. attacks to the rate of nearly 100 tons of bombs a minute, beat major weather obstacles and enb'ed the RAF and RCAF to make recent great attacks on Berlin and other cities through solid cloud.

Among the Pathfinders is the first RCAF bomber squadron formed in Britain. The Air Ministry last Nov. 5th disclosed that this squadron, formed in June, 1941, by Group Capt. John Fauquier, D.S.O., D.F.C., of Ottawa, was part of the force, called "target indicators". The squadron boasts the ceram of the RCAF crews and their log-books read like a tour of Germany.

Although the existence of the Pathfinders became known several months ago when top Pathfinder men appeared with additional small gold eagles on their blouses, below the regular RAF wings, it now is disclosed that preliminary methods were used as far back as the 1,000-bomber raid on Cologne May 30 1942. The Pathfinders were organized as a distinct unit, August 15, 1942.

The succeeding steps in the evolution of the Pathfinders highlight the logical development of the RAF's campaign aimed at the utter destruction of Germany's war-making ability.

Beat Industrial Haze.

The raid on Essen March 5, 1943, proved the Pathfinders could beat the industrial haze of the Ruhr, and then all Western Germany was at the mercy of Allied bombers. The destruction of Hamburg brought the attacks within 150 miles of Berlin, and the big fall attacks against Kassel and Hanover carried the campaign inland. Then began the Battle of Berlin.

Here as I saw it, is what Berlin is seeing:

One minute the sky was an empty, star-flecked, black bowl. Then bombers droned overhead. As they passed by a small globe of light burst below, dropping down ward at an almost imperceptible rate from a parachute sling.

Abruptly it discharged a shower of smaller but infinitely brighter, globes which slowly floated downward, turning the black windy night into semi-daylight, highlighting the landscape, and transforming a formless shadow many feet away into a recognizable person.

When the flares finally reached the ground they were dragged along by the chutes like mysterious fireballs, still casting their eerie light.

Then, suddenly, a stretch of black barren ground 500 yards away sprang to life with a miniature forest fire. A passing bomber had dropped what is prosaically called a "ground marker"—an indicator for fairly clear nights.

Flames Spread Wide

Flames rose only a few feet above the ground but they spread out steadily for several hundred feet, seething like a blast furnace and obviously fed by such potent chemicals that it would be impossible to approach or extinguish them with ordinary firefighting methods. In addition, the RAF plants bombs in the middle of the fires to discourage interference. Varying colors of flames are designed to foil German imitations planted to lure bombers to vacant areas.

When ground markers are obscured by thick clouds the RAF has an answer. Another plane droned by and dropped a pair of colored parachute flares—"sky markers"—over the target.

From the flares there suddenly dropped in perfect synchrony a pair of fireballs whose path downward drew a virtual dotted line toward the target. As they burned out another pair popped down. It happened again and again until as the original flares drifted away minutes later a seventh pair of balls dropped.

The remarkable fireworks squeezed into so little space and weight, does not prevent the Pathfinders from carrying bombs as well. Pathfinder men, on whose flying skill the work depends as much as on their scientific devices, are laconic about it. They say, "We just show the boys where to drop their bombs, that's all."

"Yes," was the answer, "it's Great Britain."

British Civilians Buried In Pit Alive By Japs

Some British and United Nations civilians as well as soldiers, were victims of Japanese army and military police atrocities in the Philippines.

When the triumphant Japanese marched into Manila January 2, 1942 they proclaimed that "enemy" civilians, were to be taken into "protective custody."

That puzzled us, but we finally decided they meant they were protecting us from our Philipino and Chinese friends in Manila.

We lived to learn the Jap definition of protective custody. They meant that we woud be subjected to the death penalty in some cases and to a living death—insanity—in others.

The military police were ruthless in handling Americans.

An American woman upon whom they used certain persuasions to disclose military information which she most likely did not possess, was driven crazy. She had spent a year and a half in a psycopathic hospital cell up to the time I left Manila for repatriation last September.

Some Britons and Americans were held in vermin ridden bedless cells at Fort Santiago until they were close to death from disease or starvation. Then they were released to hospitals or the internment camp. These victims did not talk of their experiences. Yet the wild look of fear in their eyes told us more than mere words.

The most vicious Jap army atrocity against civilians in the Manila area came about two months after we were interned. It involved the burial alive of three Britons—one Dominion citizen and two Englishmen. The Englishmen were young seamen named Fletcher and Weeks.

The trio chafing under restraint, went over the wall one night after roll call. Captured by the Japs they were brought back to the Santo Tomas camp and taken into the 'zero room' of our main building.

They were beaten by Japanese officers and non-coms with the buckle end of the belts—beaten so badly that when I saw them leave the camp an hour later they could hardly be recognized as human beings.

The Dominion citizen refused to take it. He butted one Japanese officer to the floor and amputated with his teeth the soft part of his torturer's right hand.

The Japanese then announced that the men had been trying to transmit military intelligence to the enemy and had been sentenced to death. Relatives and friends laughed at the charges. Our executive committee of internees protested the death sentences to the Japanese high command, but to no avail.

The next day the three were taken to cemetery Del Norte. The Dominion man, his face and body a mass of bruises from ill-treatment, made a bitter speech of protest to the Japanese who had gathered to witness the executions. The Japanese merely smiled. Fletcher and Weeks spoke briefly of their young wives in England and hoped they would be notified. Again the Japanese smiled.

The men were then led to a shallow trench where they were seated on the mound of earth behind the common grave. They were blindfolded.

The Dominion's man's request to discard the blindfold was denied. Four young Japanese officers, using pistols of small calibre, fired round after round but failed to topple the men into the hole.

Finally, one of the seamen, under the hail of bullets, slid sidewise, bumped the man beside him, and all three sprawled into the grave.

More shots were fired into the trench but the three victims still were kicking and making unearthly sounds when the Japanese officer in command of the firing squad said he was sorry they had no rifles with which to do the job properly.

"E" COUPONS WILL BE EMPLOYED FOR TEA, COFFEE

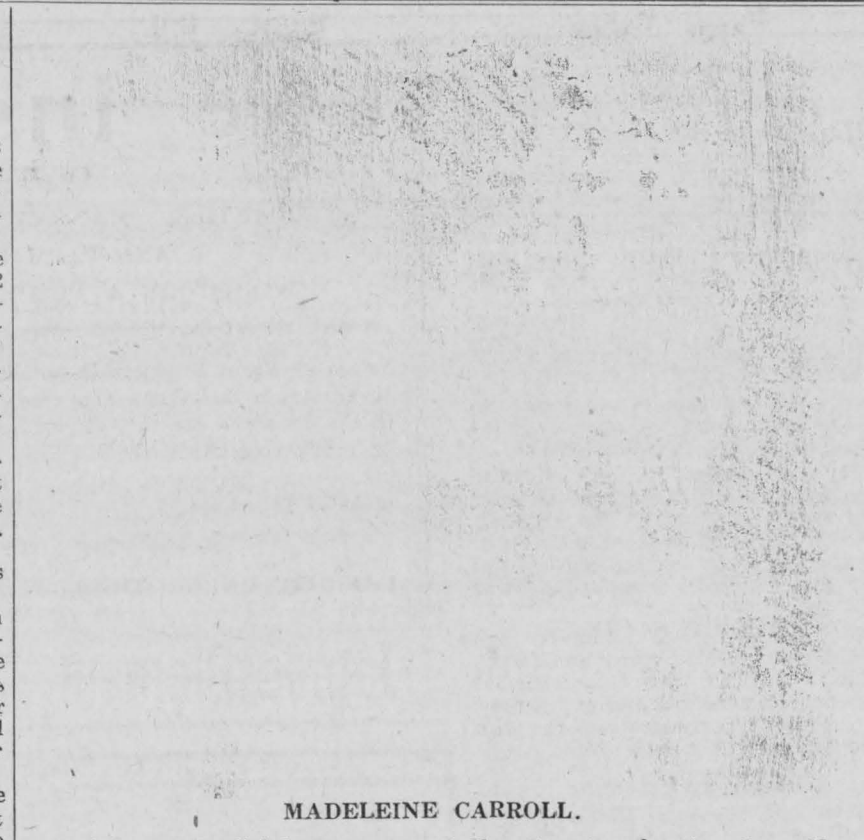

Commencing February 17, "E" coupons in the consumers' ration book are to be used for the purchase of tea or coffee. This step is being taken because the last of the regular (green) tea or coffee coupons in the No. 3 current ration book fell due January 27. This sheet of coupons was originally designed to cover the period of that ration book but when the ration was increased by making coupons fall due at more frequent intervals not enough coupons were available for that purpose. Coupons E1 and E2 will thus fall due for tea or coffee rations, on February 17. As is the case with the gren tea or coffee coupons, these coupons will remain valid until declared invalid.

Enterprise.

"Almost every man can find work if he uses his brains," asserted the man who had travelled a good deal. "That is if he has the ability to adapt himself like the piano tuner I once met in the Far West.

"We were in a wild, unsettled country and I said to him, "Surely piano tuning can't be very lucrative here. I should not imagine that pianos were very plentiful in this region' "

" 'No, they're not," said the piano tuner, "but I make a pretty fair income tightening up barbed wire fences.' "

War Aims.

A Young Cockney lad and a general were discussing the present situation.

Said the boy: "My father says one bloomin' politician is a bigger bloody fool than another."

"If that's how he felt," asked the General, "why did he volunteer before his time came to be conscripted?"

"Oh," was the reply, "e told me all about that before he went away. 'Son,' e said, 'we ain't fightin' this war for them swarmy 'ypocrites of politicians. We're fightin' it to keep the most important right an Englishman 'as—the right to be against the government.' "

S.S. NO. 8 RED CROSS HEARS FROM PTE A. R. SMITH

Dear Members: I received your parcel a few days ago so it has come in plenty of time to brighten Christmas day for me. Everything is very welcome for it is all very useful. The cake was real good and it was about the first cake to arrive in our hut. There were about 8 in that night so we all had a little. It sure is a cheer to us when we get parcels and letters from home. It is nice to know that we are not forgotten by our friends even when we are so far away from home. I am very fortunate for Jack and Hilda Collingridge are not so far away and I get to see them quite often. I have seen a number of lads from home and was able to give them some late news from the old town. We are having fine weather here and it is hard to believe it is near Christmas. We are still going to work in our shirt sleeves. Not much like what you have on the headline is it? We had a little snow a week or two ago but it has turned warm again. I will close for this time and many thanks for all the good things. I do hope some of you will find time to write once in a while for it is quite a cheer when we hear from friends.

Bye, Bye to all,
Pte. A. R. (Bert) Smith.

Halifax, N.S.,
January 23, 44

Dear Mrs. Campbell: I am writing to thank you and the residents of Joseph St. in Chesterville for the marvellous ditty bag which I received. I received the bag the day before Christmas and I must say the contents were particularly well chosen and plentiful. All my chums commented on what an excellent assortment it contained.

It sure makes a fellow feel good to receive his ditty bag at Christmas. It makes Christmas more home-like and it sure makes you feel good to realize that there are so many worthy organizations such as your own doing such a splendid work and not forgetting the boys away from home.

Your organization is sure to be congratulated on its wonderful work and I want to thank you most sincelely for my ditty bag. I have never been in Chesterville but have heard of the town frequently. I was at Uplands in Ottawa on a leave last September to visit my brother who was training there and apparently I was within 30 miles of Chesterville from what I can find out. My home is at Fergus, Ont. Incidentally I definitely prefer living in a small town. If I am ever in Ottawa again I will surely visit your town. I have been in the Navy 20 months. In that time however, I have served both under Pacific and Atlantic commands. At present I am standing by for a draft and expect to go overseas in a month or so, however you never can tell whether you will end up in the services. I am in the engine-room branch and classed as an ERA in the Navy. Sports is my main hobby and I will surely be glad when this war ends to get back into things again. I will again close.

Yours sincerely,

ORDER CERTIFIED SEED POTATOES NOW

Certified seed potatoes are being withheld from export to meet the requirements of Canadian growers, but, the Plant Protection Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture points out, demands for these potatoes from other countries are very strong. Supplies not needed for planting in Canada should be released for export in March before the season in the U.S.A. is too far advanced for planting. This means that orders for certified seed potatoes should be placed without delay while supplies are still available.

The planting of certified seed potatoes for table stock will give a heavier yield from each acre planted to such seed. Seed potato growers are reminded that fields entered for certification in 1944 must be planted with either "Foundation or Foundation A" seed.

The local district Inspector Seed Potato Certification, Plant Protection Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, has a list of growers having "Certified", "Foundation" or "Foundation A" seed potatoes for sale.

Vitamins Are Facts

Hello Homemakers! Within recent years the word "vitamin" has assumed a new and vital significance in the lives of people who had previously given it little, if any, thought. Today, the great majority of active and intelligent homemakers do realize that it is associated with both "a sound mind" and "a sound body."

While vitamins cannot be seen, tasted or measured by weight, they can be measured chemically. They are primarily food substances which, in small quantities, are essential to a regular and healthy way of life— a way of life we are now seeking to maintain.

Scientific research has unfolded a very enlightening story in the matter of vitamins. Today we know that people who take the foods which do not supply adequate amounts even of one vitamin, may find that they are not up to par when on the job, and that there is a lowering of resistance to disease. In the case of children vitamin deficiency will also cause their growth to be retarded.

Official food rules have been carefully planned in such a way as to assure a balanced diet. By observing these simple rules every day, people can enjoy a variety of food which will provide all the vitamins that build and maintain strong, healthy bodies. Ignoring these basic foods means ignoring the laws of nature.

To renew acquaintances with the various members of the vitamin family we point out the prominence given by the air force in their diet to prevent night blindness or "dim-out." This vitamin A is found in leafy, green and yellow vegetables, (carrots), liver, fish liver oils and butter.

Vitamin B-1, which assists in preventing such distresses as pink eye and indigestion and, at the same time, gives the appetite a lift is known as the "morale" vitamin. It is found in whole-grain cereals such as wheat germ, cracked wheat, rye, buckwheat, oatmeal and the flour which has been enriched by these grains. Dried peas and beans and lean meat are not so rich in vitamin B-1.

It is highly important to recognize the value of wheat germ which can be served in the morning cup of coffee on top of cereals or in quick bread mixtures.

In the next Mixing Bowl article, vitamin C and D will be discussed.

RECIPES

Chocolate Cereal Pudding.

2 cups cooked cereal, ¼ cup wheat germ, 3 tbsp. sugar, 2 tbsp. corn syrup, ½ cup milk, ¼ cup cherries(candied), 3 tbsp. cocoa.

Mix ingredients and cook in a greased baking pan set in a pan with a little hot water in it. Bake until mixture is set, in electric oven at 350 degrees.

Rice Muffins

¾ cup cooked rice, ¾ cup flour, ½ tsp. salt, 3 tsp. baking powder, 1 tbsp. sugar, 1 egg, 1 tbsp. fat, ¾ cup milk.

Mix and sift the dry ingredients; beat eggs and add cooked rice which has been well drained and mashed. Add melted shortening and milk. Fold in dry ingredients.

The batter is stiffer than ordinary muffins and may be dropped from a spoon on a greased sheet. Bake in electric oven 25-30 mins. Note: Any thick left-over cereal may be used.

Economical Johnny Cake

1½ cups flour, 1½ cups cornmeal, 4 tsp. baking powder, ¾ cup milk, 1½ tbsp. sugar, 3 tbsp. fat, melted, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup water.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine milk, water and fat. Combine the liquid with the dry ingredients. Pour into a shallow pan and bake in electric oven over 20 minutes. (425 degrees).

Applesauce Cake.

1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup fat, 1 cup applesauce, 2 cups flour, ½ cup raisins, 1 tsp. soda, ½ tsp. cinnamon, ½ tsp. cloves, ¼ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. nutmeg.

Sift together soda, spices, salt and flour. Cream the fat, add sugar, applesauce, dry ingredients and raisins. Bake in moderate electric oven. This may be cooked in muffin tins or cup cake tins.

TAKE A TIP

1. Make flour paste to use in fastening down a piece of oil-cloth instead of tacking it on. When this is done it cannot wrinkle or crack when being washed. Waxing the cloth will add to its wear, too . . but do not spread bread on it or you may have wax-flavored sandwiches.

2. Open your home canned products carefully, not to damage the jar tops or rubber rings. Wash the jars and rubbers thoroughly in soapy water and rinse twice in hot water. When thoroughly dry, put the rubber rings in the jars and put on the tops then place on the cool storage shelf again.

SUGGESTION BOX

Mrs. C.A. says: Make a bottle brush using a stiff wire about 10 inches long; bend it about half an inch from the end. Cut pieces of soft string 6 inches long and tie in bunches of 6 strands to the wire, about half an inch apart. You will find is convenient to clean vases, electric toasters and other things.

Mrs. J.D. says: Sew old rubber rings, which cannot be used again, on the under side of floor mats to keep them from slipping.

APPEAL FOR MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

An attempt is being made to organize an orchestra in Chesterville High School. This venture is hampered greatly because of the lack of instruments and consequently this appeal is made to anyone who might be willing to loan an instrument to the school. Any instrument used in either a band or an orchestra would be suitable, and if the instrument needs repairing, some arrangement might be made whereby this could be done. Anyone who would be willing to help in this way is assured that his instrument would be taken care of, and would be returned promptly whenever desired. If interested, please call Gordon Wragg, phone 553.

NAME OMITTED

In the account of the unveiling of the Honor Roll at Elma United Church, in the list of names on the Roll the name of Miss Hazel Barkley was inadvertently omitted. Miss Barkley is serving in the Women's Division of the RCAF.

Her name is among the seventeen on the Honor Roll, but in the list submitted to your paper, by a mistake, her name was omitted.
