Rec director invites arena investigation

by Serge Tittley

Michel Depratto, recreation director for the Town of Alexandria and general manager of the Glengarry Sports Palace (GSP), has issued a blanket repudiation of allegations that he violated the public trust.

Mr. Depratto told The Glengarry News Tuesday that he does not fear the possibility of an investigation into the allegations, made last week at a town council meeting by Councillor Fern Seguin.

"It doesn't bother me, in fact I invite one," Mr. Depratto said.

"I've done my job for the past 10 years to the best of my abilities," he added.

Mr. Depratto said he has been happy being part of the town's recreation department and as chief administrator at the arena. He was appointed recreation director in 1973 and took charge of the Sports Palace as its general manager three years later when the facility, jointly supported by Alexandria, Lancaster and Lochiel townships, opened.

Last week Mr. Seguin presented a list of four allegations directed to Mr. Depratto.

He said there is evidence "in the form of remarks or complaints" that there are a number of problems in the administration.

The four allegations are:

•that the general manager frequently absented himself from his job, sometimes for weeks at a stretch, with the result that subordinate staff had to take on more administrative responsibilities. Mr. Seguin said one employee complained of having to often put in 65 to 90 hours a week in order to meet the extra demands;

•that an employee had been called upon, while on GSP time, to do the books of a farm property owned by Mr. Depratto;

•that Mr. Depratto ordered full-time, part-time, summer employees, and volunteers with the Katimavik youth program to undertake work on his farm and had threatened them with dismissal if they refused;

•that a tractor, owned jointly by Alexandria and the GSP went missing for eight consecutive days because it was being used on Mr. Depratto's farm.

Mr. Seguin told The News these allegations should be investigated, "although they may not be substantiated."

Mr. Depratto maintains that the information on which Mr. Seguin has leveled his charges is inaccurate.

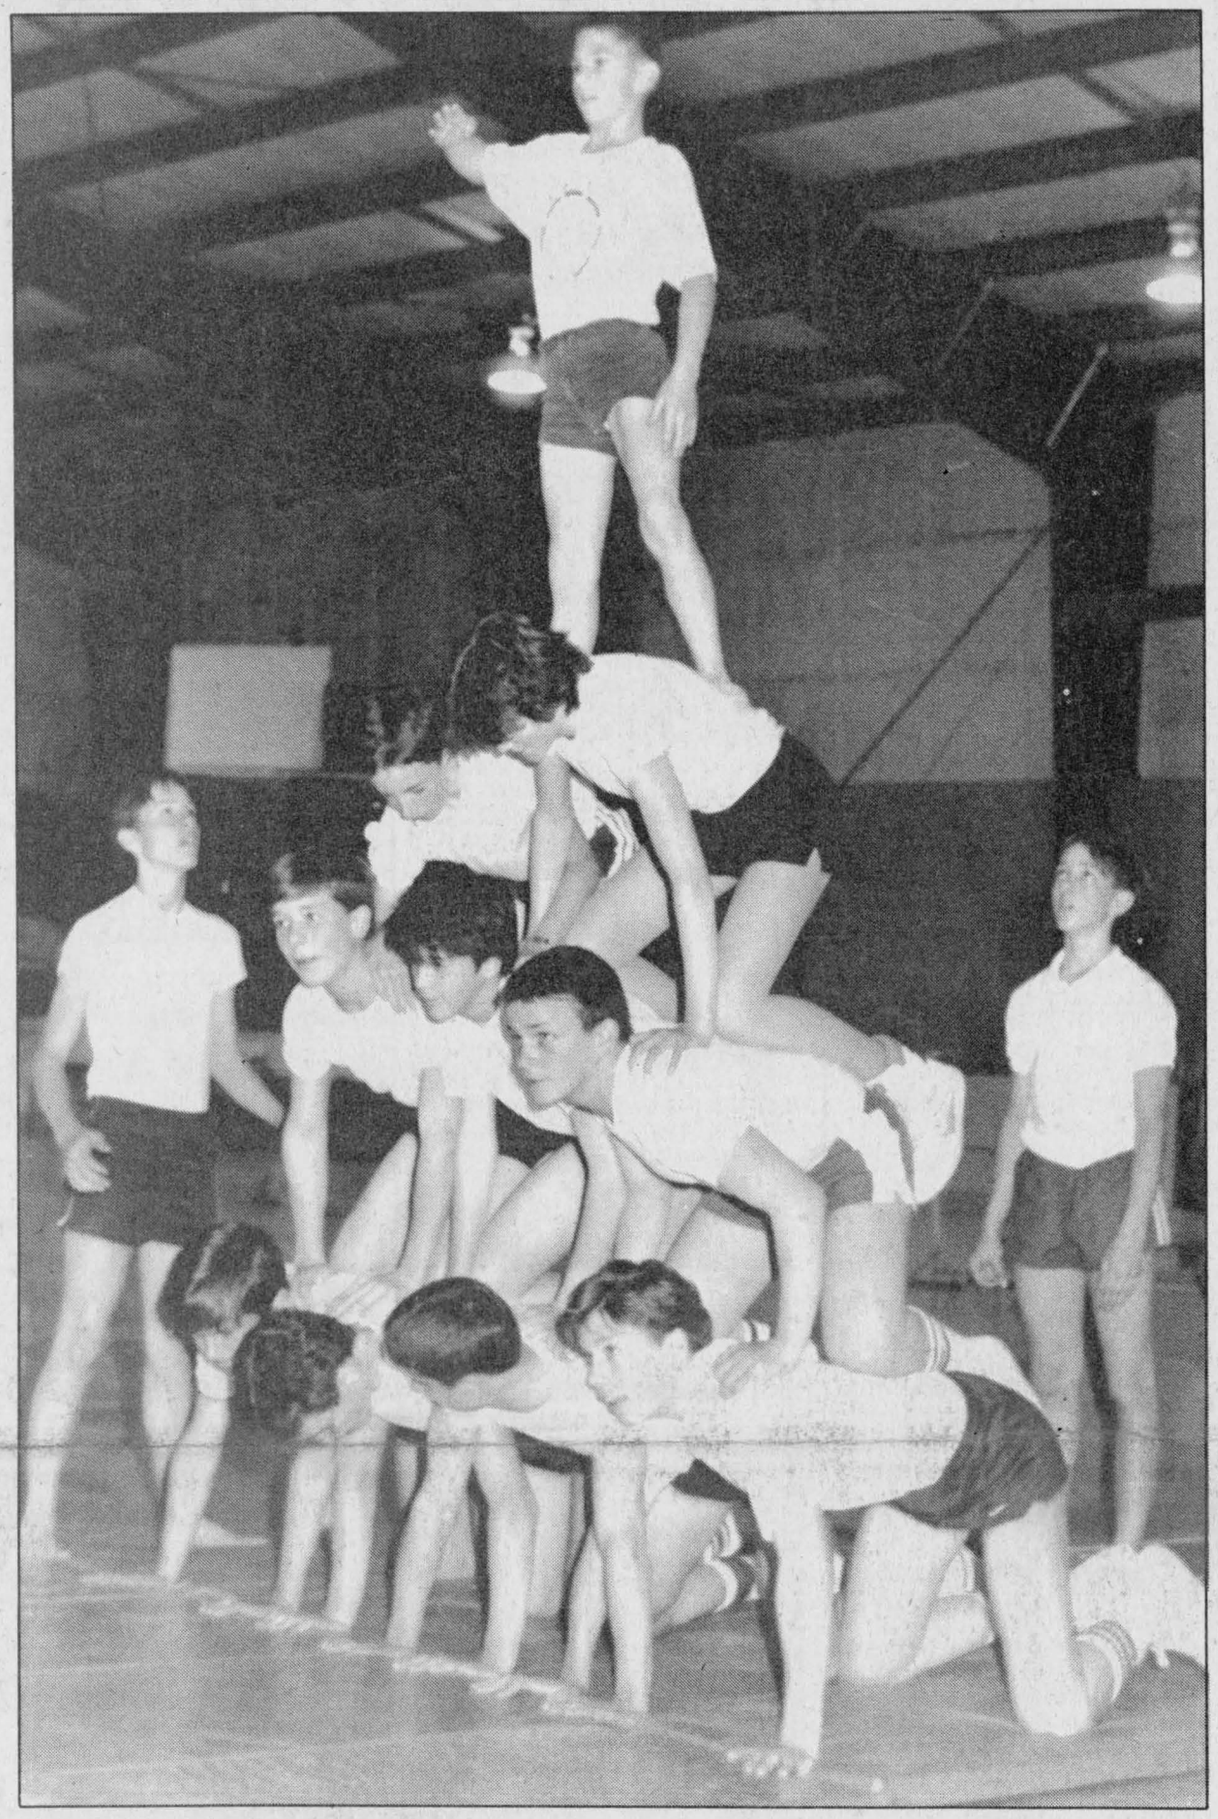
"I deny the allegations made by Mr. Seguin. The information was probably given to him by biased, inaccurate and uninformed sources," Mr. Depratto said.

He added, "It's up to them (the GSP board) to decide what they want to do."

Mr. Seguin told The News his call for a board investigation into the allegations is supported by three council members, Reeve John Cormier, Jim Baker and Larry Yaguchi.

Most of the former employees involved said they would not speak to the board on this matter, Mr. Seguin said. "They don't seem to have too much faith in the board," he commented.

The 10-member GSP board has representatives from all three municipalities supporting the complex.



SALUTING THE COLONEL—Seventy-five air cadets showed their stuff Sunday afternoon during Glengarry Air Cadet Squadron's annual Ceremonial Inspection at the Glengarry Sports Palace. The young men and women put on a display of marching, drill and gymnastics to impress a crowd of nearly 250 people and a number of dignitaries. One of the highlights of the inspection came when Glen Robertson's Jeff Burningham climbed to the top of a human pyramid to offer his squadron's salute to Lt. Col. Douglas Stewart of CFB Trenton, who was on hand to conduct the inspection.

Currier given top job in Charlottenburgh Twp.

Jay Currier, 34, will become Chief Administrative Officer (CAO) for Charlottenburgh Township June 9, it was announced last Friday.

Mr. Currier is general manager of the Raisin Region Conservation Authority (RRCA) and was a candidate for township reeve during last November's municipal elections.

The CAO will be directly responsible to council and will coordinate and supervise the activities of department officers and employees.

"My personal ambition is to design and implement a coherent information flow process. I want to be able to provide councillors with the necessary information so they can consider the big questions of policy. Likewise, directives from council have to reach the appropriate employee so that person can attend to the details," said Mr. Currier.

He said he will participate in the redrafting of the municipal budget to be presented to council May 21.

"This new position, (CAO) is necessary because the township is growing and so is the workload," said Councillor Carol Ann Ross.

"We are extremely fortunate to get someone with Jay's experience and proven track record in municipal administration," said Charlottenburgh Township Reeve Morgan Major.

Prior to spending seven years with the RRCA, Mr Currier worked for the Ontario government which involved him in a large number of engineering projects and municipal planning activities.

Lancaster mill rate unchanged

LANCASTER — For the third year in a row Lancaster Village's mill rate will remain unchanged, according to the 1986 budget presented to council last week.

While the assessment on new homes has gone up four per cent, most expenditures have been kept in line.

About $51,700 will be spent on managing the affairs of the village, $26,500 of that figure going to salaries, an increase of almost five per cent over last year.

The Lancaster Fire Department has been alloted $23,500 for the year, including $18,000 in salaries and $10,000 for equipment.

One of the largest items in the budget deals with transportation needs. Almost $108,000 will go toward road and sidewalk improvement and maintenance, including $24,000 for winter control, mostly snow clearing.

Nearly $7,900 is allocated to garbage collection and disposal a source which came in for some criticism at the council meeting.

Ron Davis, a Lancaster resident, told council he found the garbage pick-up service inadequate. Mr. Davis complained that at least one trash receptacle was left too long overflowing with garbage, and there there appeared to be a letter problem in the village.

Reeve Milton MacDonald said later Mr. Davis' concerns should have been laid to rest since last week's pick-up and cleanup work by the road superintendent's crew.

Elsewhere in the village budget, some $7,836 has been alloted for health services and $100,000 for water and sewage usage. Another $37,000 is earmarked for frontage connections on water and sewage demands.

Taxes up 10% in Roxborough

Taxes in Roxborough Township have increased almost 10 per cent following council approval of the 1986 budget at a special meeting last week.

Along with a rise in the municipal mill rate, increases were also reflected in county and school board taxes.

This year's budget of $714,350 represents a decrease of $400,000 from last year, with the highest allocation $609,876 going to roadwork.

On an average $3,000 residential assessment, public school supporters will have to pay an additional $33.32 on their tax bill, while separate supporters will face a $26.87 increase. The four mill increase in the municipal rate alone will mean an extra $12 on the average bill.

Local Air Cadet Squadron scores 84% at ceremonial inspection

Nearly 250 people were on hand Sunday afternoon for the Second Annual Ceremonial Inspection of the local Air Cadet Squadron at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Seventy-five cadets, all members of Glengarry No. 379 Squadron, demonstrated marching and athletic skills, under the direction of their own senior members.

Rated by the Department of National Defense, the local squadron concluded the day with a score of about 84 per cent, a substantial improvement over the group's first inspection one year ago. The average rating for Canadian Air Cadet Squadrons is between 75 and 80 per cent, according to Bruce Marr, Glengarry Squadron's commanding officer.

"We're now in the top one-third," Mr. Marr said the next day. "We're on the map now."

Later in the afternoon program a number of the cadets received special awards. LAC (Leading Aircraftsman) Karen Schoennank, 14, of Vankleek Hill, was named the top first year female cadet. The best first year male cadet was LAC Paul Lacelle, 14, of R.R.5 Alexandria.

The Bonnie Briar Farm Trophy for the cadet with the highest average in squadron training, was presented by Elaine Cook to Warrant Officer (W.O.) 2 Roy MacGillivary, 18, of Glen Norman.

The Air Canada Trophy for the top cadet in the air element of the air cadet movement was presented to Kris Marr, 18, of Glen Robertson. The trophy was presented by Capt. Bob Tucker, a supervisory captain with the airline.

The local squadron's highest honor of all, the Glengarry Trophy for the best overall cadet in the squadron, was presented to W.O. 1 John Ruttenberg, 18, of Glen Norman. The trophy was presented by the reviewing officer, Lt. Col. Douglas Stewart, commanding officer of the Search and Rescue Squad at CFB Trenton.

Lt. Col. Stewart and other military officials arrived earlier in the day at the Alexandria Airport aboard a Canadian Armed Forces aircraft.

Dick Donaldson of Smiths Falls, a director with the Air Cadet League of Canada, was on hand to present the Glengarry Squadron with its official crest, which was accepted by W.O. 1 John Ruttenberg, the parade commander.

The primary purpose of the ceremonial inspection, other than to determine the cadets' progress, says Mr. Marr, is to demonstrate to the parents and other members of the community the scope of the squadron's training and activities over the previous year. The air cadet movement is still

Alexandria P.D., OPP mark Police Week

Alexandria Police and the Lancaster OPP detachment are teaming up for promotional work during Police Week, May 11 to 17.

Officers from both forces will be on hand Friday, for a drug and alcohol display at the Alexandria IGA on Main Street South.

Police will also be demonstrating their use of the Approved Screening Device, nicknamed ALERT, in their traffic patrols. Members of the public are invited to take breath tests and become familiar with the techniques police use to crack down on impaired driving.

Earlier, at the official opening of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit offices in Alexandria, Lancaster OPP had drug paraphernalia on display.

The display, which featured seized drugs such as cocaine, marijuana, hashish, amphetamines and barbituates, along with an ALERT machine, "was well received," said Constable Gilles Ruest, community relations officer for the area.

The slogan for this year's Police Week is "Serving Your Community," and will feature police departments throughout the province holding open houses and manning displays.

The OPP is particularly interested in promoting the week and its Toronto headquarters quotes OPP Commissioner Archie Ferguson as emphasizing the importance of having police well connected to the communities they serve.

"We are part of every community in Ontario, and we look forward to Police Week as the best way to meet our friends and neighbors.

"Public safety and crime prevention are goals which can only be achieved through police and community involvement. Police Week is a great way of strengthening that relationship," the Commissioner said.

Fire destroys home, barn

LANCASTER — Firefighters here could only look on helplessly Monday as fire swept through a farm property eight kilometres northeast of town.

Fire Chief Roger Menard said the fire, which destroyed a house and an unused barn on the second concession, probably started in the barn.

The alarm was turned in at 5:30 a.m.

"By the time we arrived the barn had already been levelled," Mr. Menard said, adding that the farmhouse was already ablaze and the fire impossible to control.

Firefighting efforts were hampered by a strong wind which fanned the flames and probably allowed the fire to jump from the barn to the house. He also said lack of an adequate water supply made the task difficult.

"I'm sure that if it had been a calm night only the barn would have burned," Mr. Menard said.

The property is owned by Alexandra Mordatschow, now of Montreal. The 76-year-old widow and her daughter's family had been using the house as a summer and weekend home.

Mr. Menard said there was no insurance on the buildings.

Firefighters plan reunion

LANCASTER — Old times around the fire house will be recalled later this month when veterans of the Lancaster Fire Department gather for its 35th anniversary reunion.

The meeting, which will be held in the W.J. Cumming Hall on Main Street, May 25 should attract former firefighters from as far away as Vancouver, B.C., says Lancaster Reeve Milton MacDonald.

"We don't know where some of them (former members) are, but we are trying to contact former Hydro Ontario employees and OPP personnel who used to be posted here long ago," Mr. MacDonald, who is a lieutenant in the department, said.

Estimates are that up to 125 ex-firefighters and guests will be on hand to mark the anniversary.

A plaque with the names of more than 125 past and present department members will be unveiled. It will hang in Cumming Hall, named after a late department chief who also served as warden of the United Counties.

Roger Menard, the present fire chief, currently manages a staff of 24 firefighters who serve Lancaster Village and Lancaster Township.

60% say no to free trade

At least 60 per cent of residents in Glengarry-Prescott-Russell riding are opposed to a comprehensive free trade agreement between Canada and the U.S., according to a survey conducted by Liberal MP Don Boudria.

More than 700 residents responded to the five-question survey which was mailed to residents in April.

The only other issue which attracted a high number of "against" responses is affirmative action.

Fifty-three per cent of respondents opposed such programs, which would help certain groups in society overcome the results of past discrimination through preferential treatment by government.

Elsewhere, 75 per cent of respondents favor seeing more federal money spent "to ensure Canadian sovereignty in the high Arctic and Canadian coastal waters."

Dogs stolen

Maxville OPP has reported the theft of valuable purebred dogs from a Kenyon Township breeder.

Police said that on May 7 a number of persons entered a dog kennel owned by Yvonne Deguire on Concession 4.

A dog cage containing a female Pomeranian and three pups, all valued at $1,200, was stolen.

Drug abuse

Glengarry Junior Farmers have donated $100 in a provincial drive to raise funds to fight drug abuse.

The fund-raising is aimed at supporting alcohol and drug recovery. The money was collected thanks to a ski trip to Morin Heights which the Junior Farmers organized in February.

The local effort is part of a province wide campaign which has seen $12,000 pledged by the Junior Farmers Association.

The association says drug abuse is receiving increasing public attention, and that youth are particularly vulnerable. The organization adds that its financial contribution is a particularly relevant way of promoting the association's motto, "Self Help and Community Betterment."

The school hosted the annual competition for the Ottawa District of the Pipers and Pipe Bands Society of Ontario.

GDHS hosts piping and drumming competition

The halls were alive with the sound of music at Glengarry District High School in Alexandria, Saturday.

Four pipe bands and more than 100 solo pipers and drummers were on hand, practising in the corridors and performing in the cafeteria in the annual competition sponsored by the Ottawa District of the Pipers and Pipe Bands Society of Ontario.

Many of the same faces are seen at other district competitions, honoring their competitive skills and gathering awards in preparation for the biggest show of them all, the Glengarry Highland Games, Aug. 2, in Maxville.

About 150 people, most of them family members of the competitors, were on hand Saturday to take in the show, the fourth in a row to be held at GDHS. The competition ran all day, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Tim Emberg took first place honors in the novice solo drumming competition, followed by Maxville's Melanie Pollock in second and Tanya Cuerrier in third.

In Grade 4 solo drumming Cathy Arkinstall of Dunvegan came in first and Jay Emberg in second. Cathy Arkinstall took third prize in the Grade 3 competition.

First place honors went to the McEoin and Ramsay Pipe Band from Almonte.

Contract awarded

Lancaster Village Council awarded a contract to maintain the baseball diamond to a bidder who is going to charge almost double the fee of the lowest contractor.

The recreation committee chose Yvon Bercier who tendered a bid of $150 a cut over Daniel Leger's bid of $78 a cut. The contract was based on an estimated 20 cuts a season.

"I guess the council felt I couldn't do the job at that price. But it seems to me like the committee wanted to give the contract to Bercier because he did it last year," said Leger.

"I couldn't do the job for $1,440 less than Bercier. By saving that much money, they could eliminate the $200 charge that each baseball team has to pay this year."

Study to be funded

NORTH LANCASTER — The Ontario Ministry of the Environment (MOE) has boosted Lancaster and Charlottenburgh Townships' hopes for a major sewage collection project.

MOE recently announced it was commiting $144,000 of its 1986-87 budget to help defray costs of an engineering study of the project, which is expected to total nearly $1.9 million.

Mike Samson, clerk-treasurer of Lancaster Township, said both municipalities would be meeting soon to discuss the project further.

He added the local governments are still some way from announcing a construction date on the project. This despite the fact that the MOE has issued a press release announcing that the ministry has already approved almost $1.59 million.

Mr. Samson explained that, in fact, the specific nature of the work to be undertaken has yet to be decided.

He did say the target area will probably take in most of Green Valley south of the railway tracks, as the area north has been dropped from consideration.

"We haven't decided yet where the pipes and the lagoon will go," he said.

Mr. Samson emphasized that MOE's current allocation will help fund much-needed engineering studies only.

Humane Society members protest funding cut

CORNWALL — SD&G Ontario Humane Society Branch members are being urged to lobby provincial politicians for more funding.

In a message sent to members, branch president John W. Wilson of Cornwall calls on members to contact local MPPs "to ask that sufficient government funding be provided for animal protection."

A deficit budget for the society has forced the lay-off of inspectors and agents across the province, but, says Mr. Wilson, "humane inspectors are needed to protect animals that are exploited or abused in industry, research, hunting, in homes, on farms, and in pet stores."

The Ontario Humane Society has 30 branches across the province and operates 23 animal shelters.

The society has been vested with the authority to enforce Criminal Code provisions dealing with the neglect of animals, but "it has not been given the financial resources to do so," says Mr. Wilson.

The provincial government increased the society's grant to $125,000 in 1984, a generous boost from the previous year's $85,000. But it was cut back to the lower figure in 1985. Its current deficit is fixed at $300,000, Mr. Wilson says.

"To expect the Ontario Provincial Police and municipal police to handle animal abuse complaints is just not reasonable.

"While the police do an excellent job enforcing the laws that protect people, humane society inspectors know animals and how to deal with them in every situation. They've taken courses in animal husbandry and they know the laws protecting animals," Mr. Wilson adds.

He notes that the SD&G branch has served licensed agents who have been able to call inspectors from other areas to help with more serious cases.

"Surely the animals deserve this much continued protection," the Humane Society president says.

Planning committee set up

GLEN ROBERTSON — The second stage in the effort to renovate Glen Robertson's Recreation Centre got under way last week with the drafting of a planning committee.

The committee will request that Lochiel Township apply for government grants to meet the cost of renovating the community centre.

On May 6, a study committee opted to renovate the building at a cost of $195,000 instead of constructing a new centre at an estimated expense of $400,000.

The committee anticipates $100,000 in government grants and expects to raise the rest through fundraising events and with donations of material and labor.

Gilles Aubin, a spokesman for the committee, says that $30,000 has to be raised in cash and the remaining money be in the form of donated supplies and labor.

"I expect we can attain this goal by September," said Mr. Aubin.

A representative of the Ontario Ministry of Recreation and Tourism recently spoke favorably of the committee's efforts and said that grants will be forthcoming if the government sees sincere fundraising efforts by the citizens.

The funding figures and expenses referred to stem from a feasibility study undertaken for the Council of the Township of Lochiel by Kostuch Engineering Ltd.

The consultants analyzed the structure of the building, interviewed community groups to find out their needs and prepared cost estimates and potential sources of revenue.

One of the main structural changes will be to the roof, a built-up tar and gravel system which leaks and has caused water damage to the tile ceiling. The recommended new roof would consist of wood trusses supported on the longitudinal outside walls.

The community input determined that groups require one large assembly hall, two smaller meeting rooms, a kitchen, washrooms and separate storage rooms.

The annual operational cost is estimated at $16,000 and will be funded in three ways. The Township of Lochiel, which owns the community centre building, will forgive taxes and liability insurance costs. Fundraising activities such as dances or lotteries may be held and cash donations would be expected. User fees in the form of rent payments from the community will also help generate operating revenues.

The feasibility study recommended that construction begin in 1987.

Health unit hosts open house

by Dann Rogers

Does open discussion of sexuality with teenagers make them more promiscuous, or are they more cautious because of it? The family planning staff at the Alexandria Health Unit firmly believes that an ounce of frank conversation beats a pound of scolding.

This was one of the issues raised at the official opening of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit at 110 Main St. N. in Alexandria, Thursday.

But, family planning is only one of the services offered by the centre which has an overall mandate to promote good health. The key is information and education, according to Health Unit staff.

This will be provided by the four full-time nurses and the counsellors who will service the Alexandria office on a rotating basis. There are five district offices in the Eastern Ontario Health Unit and Alexandria's addresses the needs of residents of Glengarry and southern Prescott.

In addition to distributing pamphlets and showing films, these health care professionals aren't afraid to take their act on the road.

Homecare services will provide general nursing and physiotherapy to patients in their own residence. Home teachers will also make house calls to visit parents of mentally handicapped children and instruct them how to intellectually stimulate their sons and daughters.

Counsellors will visit schools and teach good eating habits and dental care.

There are also environmental hygiene inspectors working with the health unit who visit restaurants, beauty parlors and public swimming areas to ensure enforcement of provincial regulations.

"Our main objective is to educate, not just policing," said environmental hygiene inspector Raymond Leblanc.

His department is also responsible for monitoring communicable diseases, such as rabies or food poisoning, and inspecting private water supplies used by people with shallow wells.

They also check bacteria levels in private and public pools and at Alexandria beach. The Alexandria district inspector is Howieson.

Computers were included in the many displays at the open house and they were running a fitness evaluation program called Fantastic. Each letter of the acronym stands for a different aspect of personal health, such as Family, Activity, Nutrition and so on.

A person answers a series of questions on the computer. They are analyzed and then a prescription for health and fitness is printed.

Recommendations may include staying off salt, sugar, fats, cigarettes, caffeine, street drugs, and alcohol.

Health is a matter of choice and choice is a luxury of education. The health unit wants to make sure that Glengarry residents can make the right choice.

Mill rate unchanged

LANCASTER — For the third year in a row Lancaster Village's mill rate will remain unchanged, according to the 1986 budget presented to council last week.

While the assessment on new homes has gone up four per cent, most expenditures have been kept in line.

About $51,700 will be spent on managing the affairs of the village, $26,500 of that figure going to salaries, an increase of almost five per cent over last year.

User fee set

LANCASTER — Village Council has slapped a $200-a-season per team user fee for use of its baseball field.

The move was carried out on a recommendation from Council's Recreation Committee.

The fee will be the same for local or outside groups and will apply whatever the frequency of play.

Council's decision is in part a reaction to Alexandria Town Council's decision of last week to impose a $5-a-game fee for use of baseball diamonds in town. Some council members said they feared an influx of Alexandria area players if the village did not impose some measure of control on access to its own facilities.

EDITORIALS/OPINION

What deterrence?

It's an old refrain. Criminals are charged, often after the most exhaustive police investigations, taken to court, convicted after lengthy delays, and finally given sentences many people consider inadequate.

Forget about retribution, if you can for a moment. Instead, consider the deterrence value. If our criminal justice system does nothing else, it should at least convince people to think twice before committing a crime. The penalty should be harsh enough to convince us to keep our noses clean. Those who have already passed through the system should be the last to want to come back to court.

Beyond deterrence, society at least deserves the security of knowing criminals, particularly the most violent among them, will be locked away and pose no danger to innocent people outside the prisons.

Too often, all this is forgotten. Too much attention is paid to the needs of the criminal, too little to the victims and virtually none at all to potential victims in the rest of society.

Two cases last week brought the point home in shocking fashion.

A 33-year-old man was viciously beaten about the head with an iron bar because he refused to hand over cash or a bus ticket to his assailant. He needed 150 stitches to close the wounds and has developed epilepsy as a result. It's a wonder he survived the brutal attack. At best, he will continue to suffer from the consequences of the beating for the rest of his life.

And what penalty did our court system dish out to the man who took the iron bar to his head? Nine months in jail. In reality, that sentence may be much less. He will likely be on the streets again before the first snowfall.

A 43-year-old mother of two died last year after her boyfriend's stepson beat her about the head with a brick. The Crown Attorney used the words ''stark horror'' and ''extreme brutality'' to describe how the woman's skull was smashed.

After the murder, her 21-year-old assailant further defiled the body in an attempt to leave the impression she had been raped.

The court was told the young man was ''out of control'' as the result of consuming alcohol and illegal drugs.

The original charge of second degree murder was reduced to manslaughter and the killer was sentenced to five years in prison. He may be out in far less time.

People who can viciously and cruelly attack and kill others on a second's notice are obviously a menace to all of us. How secure are we when the courts do so little to protect us from them?

The death penalty may not be the answer, but a few years in jail for killing someone, or a few months for trying to, do little to help us sleep at night. There should be minimum sentences and they should be a lot tougher than what we have witnessed recently.

Should resign

Sinclair Stevens had to resign and he should have done it sooner.

The embattled industry minister has been fighting off opposition and media attacks over a conflict of interest between his ministerial responsibilities and his private business interests, managed by his wife.

A year ago Mr. Stevens' cash-starved company secured a $2.6 million loan, with one year interest free, from a man closely linked with another company which later received millions of dollars in federal grants through Mr. Stevens' own department.

Mr. Stevens insisted he had fully complied with guidelines governing conflict of interest for cabinet ministers. All his financial holdings were placed in a blind trust, he said, beyond his knowledge and influence. But how blind can such a trust be when it is managed by his own wife, who serves as vice-president of the firm?

At best, the appearance of conflict was overwhelming and intolerable. The public's confidence in the minister was been shattered. Other industries had to wonder whether political and personal interests were influencing their requests for assistance. They were not alone.

Mr. Stevens should have resigned two weeks ago, at the latest. The longer he remained, refusing detailed answers to opposition questions, the longer Deputy Prime Minister Eric Nielsen stonewalled the issue, the more the whole mess looked like a cover-up.

In the interests of credibility, his government's and his own, Mr. Stevens had to go. If he had not finally known enough to leave on his own, the prime minister would have had to give a healthy push.

Eating sour grapes helps to swallow spices of life

A FEW THOUGHTS
Joanne Stevenson

I hope you are in a bad mood when you read this.

Variety may be the spice of life, but sometimes a little too much spice can make you sick to your stomach.

Just one small annoyance can set you fuming the whole day or the same mishap can be treated like a trip over a rug, a momentary upset, but at least you didn't fall flat on your face.

There's the ''spill of a lifetime,'' a faux pas you can quickly recover from, knowing the chances of it ever happening again are infinitesimal.

Last Sunday, for example, freshly scrubbed and properly attired, I set off for the 9:30 church service and was astonished to discover mine was the only car in the parking lot.

True, it was a beautiful spring day and the temptation to skip might be irresistable to many, but not everybody.

Feeling appropriately holier-than thou, I got out of the car and approached the organist who was just leaving.

''Isn't there church today?'' I asked.

He replied, ''Sure, you missed it. It was an hour ago.''

Daylight Saving Time had struck again!

Such an occurrence can be thought of as an unforeseen inconvenience.

When a person has been married five years and counting, disaster is lurking behind every corner, and shame on you if you don't expect it.

It is only with the greatest trepidation that I ever send husband Dave to the grocery store. On the weekend, he returned home with a dozen eggs, as ordered, the right size, from the right store at the right price. I felt such relief, pride and some regret at having misjudged his shopping ability.

Yesterday morning, I opened the carton to crack the eggs for breakfast. Not to bother, they were all, every last one, already cracked.

Sucker-punched again!

Summer is coming and so are the ''summer people'' in our family of cottages near the water. It is therefore time to lock the car.

The rest of the year, our unlocked car is safe in this remote corner of Glengarry. Summer arrives and the ''summer kids'' land on the beaches of Lake St. Francis.

Now, at any time of the day and night, the car headlights may mysteriously go on, or the radio explode into staccato sound, if we're foolish enough to leave its doors unlocked.

Precautions must be taken to neutralize the ''summer kids.'' Failure to do so is like asking Dave to buy eggs again.

On a more universal level, traditional annoyances bother everybody: bureaucracy, taxes, gas prices, Ma Bell, computers that can't make mistakes but do, waiting in line and trying to figure out interest charges on credit card bills.

In a month of headlines about Libya and nuclear accidents, I suppose we should be grateful to be able to enjoy life despite its small trials. I suppose.

Are you still in a bad mood? Me too.

Civic pride being poisoned by whisper campaigns

SECOND LOOK
Phil Rutherford

Not long ago Alexandria Town Council had an enviable reputation for working co-operatively in the best interests of Alexandria and its residents. There were healthy disagreements, many of them heated, but most of them constructive. Most important of all, there was a lot of real progress, benefitting the town and surrounding area.

There was substantial and positive growth in local services, industrial employment and commerce. A positive, upbeat attitude permeated everything to do with the town and it reaped positive results.

That's the key word, positive. There's little positive that can be said about the current council, however. The mayor, the Glengarry Sports Palace, the public utilities commission, annexation and neighboring townships, the police department, and now the recreation director have all come under attack. It started with the election campaign last fall and it has only gone lower since. Much of the abuse has been personally damaging and vicious, involving innuendo in public meetings and worse in the overused gossip mill. The worst accusations have not made it into the pages of this newspaper because they were libelous and, most often, those responsible for the attacks preferred whisper campaigns.

All this leaves others—councillors, department heads and lower ranked town employees—wondering when they may become the targets. There's little pleasure left to serving on town council and little more in working for the town. It's hard to do a good job and be happy in your work when you have to keep looking over your shoulder.

If you are seen to be friendly with Mayor J. P. Touchette you're moved high on the list of future targets for abuse. If you want to stay off the list, your best move might be to engage in a public fist fight with the mayor at high noon in the middle of the Mill Square.

Recreation Director Michel Depratto is only the current target. Others will inevitably follow if nothing can be done to stop the muckraking.

Mr. Depratto deserves better treatment than he has received at the hands of Coun. Fern Séguin and his supporters. Mr. Séguin launched a poisonous attack on Mr. Depratto last week in a public meeting of town council. In virtually all other municipalities concerns over individual department heads are aired privately, at least until facts can be determined beyond a reasonable doubt. The employee is given a fair opportunity to offer explanations, if any are deemed necessary.

Commission must recommend action

ALL THINGS CONSIDERED
by Serge Tittley

This column is about memory, those who need to remember and those who prefer to forget.

My memory in this case is a cover of Time magazine in 1961. It was a portrait of a man with a pinched face with sharp features, a receding hairline and a certain indifference in the eyes. Across the page ran several strips of barbed wire.

The face belonged to Adolf Eichmann, the Nazi officer who organized the deportation of Jews from central Europe to the death camps of Poland.

Last month marked the 25th anniversary of Eichmann's trial in Jerusalem on charges of having committed crimes against the Jewish people and humanity, his conviction and subsequent execution by hanging.

The world was shocked throughout the trial as hundreds of witnesses came forward to describe what has been called the ''kingdom of death'' which the Nazis created in Europe. It was a kingdom whose subjects were slaves and not expected to live.

Until his capture by a team of Israeli intelligence operatives in Argentina, Eichmann had been living a relatively modest and peaceful life.

Although it was unconscionably delayed, the act of justice which occurred in Jerusalem 25 years ago did at least serve to remind people, including Canadians, of the horrors our country fought to destroy during the Second World War.

But what does any of this have to do with us today?

The answer lies in the work which a federally-appointed commission concluded, in part, last week.

The Deschenes Commission investigating Nazi war criminals in Canada wound up its public hearings after considering a matter which too many Canadians consider only moderately important.

It would appear many believe a continued and sustained effort by the federal government to find and arraign before the bar of justice Nazi war criminals who may have made a home for themselves in this country to be a waste of time.

After all, some say, it was well over 40 years ago that this happened. Can't we try to forget about it and go on to more important things? I don't think there are any more important things.

Of course there is no statute of limitation on murder and crimes of this order do not lose their significance as their occurrence recedes in time.

Not only do the murdered millions deserve justice, but so surely do the survivors, many thousands of whom have come to our country in the hope of rebuilding shattered lives.

Yet the peace of the victimized, Jew and non-Jew alike, has been disturbed by a now well-documented indifference which Canadian authorities displayed toward Jews who sought to leave Nazi Germany in the late thirties, just before the outbreak of war trapped them.

Although it is too late to rectify that grotesque error and the blatant bigotry demonstrated by our officials then, it is not too late to make sure that justice is done now.

The Deschenes Commission, headed by Quebec Judge Jules Deschenes, must consider the most appropriate course of action for federal authorities.

Several organizations, including the Canadian Jewish Congress, have recommended that prosecution of Nazi war criminals be viewed as an ongoing responsibility and not as a special class of activity. I agree.

CJC spokesmen have said they want to see the government go wherever necessary to find the evidence in cases. That means that if the trail takes them to the Soviet Union, Poland, East Germany or elsewhere in the eastern bloc, then so be it.

There is a genuine and well-founded concern about the objectivity of some of the evidence which could be gathered there. Such fears were expressed before the Deschenes Commission by a number of ethnic communities, particularly the Ukrainians, who believe the USSR could manufacture evidence to discredit anti-Soviet groups in the west.

But I think that's a chance we have to take. We must be able to depend upon the judgment of our judicial officials when they examine such evidence and to trust the rules of evidence which prevail in our own courts.

As for those who would urge us to forget the past, to bury it, such advice is both ill-conceived and insensitive. It fails to understand that the making of justice is not a matter of statutory limitations, and that Nazi barbarity cannot be closeted on the dusty shelves of history.

We welcome

Dumps becoming museums

Greenfield, Ontario

The Editor,
The Glengarry News:

I wonder how many people can recall the days of the old cheese factory. Farmers would haul their milk by horse and milk rig, or trucks, or even in the trunk of an old car. After it was dumped and weighed, they'd all gather around discussing their crops etc. Then look what happened when the government stepped into our community. First went the factory, whey and all, then went the small farmers as they couldn't afford to live up to the high standards of milk production that the government regulations called for, what with their milk quotas and all. That's the definition of progress?

Now, is this what we want to see happen to our community dump sites. For many years we have seen our dump sites survive with minimum problems. Some people, believe it or not, look forward to the little Saturday morning drive down to the dump. Farmers look upon this as a break-away from their daily strife and gives them a few minutes to chat with neighbors who live up the road.

Are we going to let the government take over our township? They already have one foot in the door now, involing Toronto and other cities.

Don't we ratepayers have any say in the matter? Who is going to haul garbage miles out of the territory or, worse yet, pay big prices to government packers to haul refuse away. Those who can't afford to pay will have to dump it on their own property. I think there will be a lot of garbage found hidden along the roadsides. Let the white collar workers come and haul their garbage away, then.

Those neighboring people who complain about garbage odors or papers flying around should realize that the dump was there before they were. As far as I'm concerned, anybody who buys property that close to a dump site is asking for this. After all, this contract of land was chosen and approved suitable by the Ministry of the Environment as a designated place for a dump and was bought by the township for the convenience of ratepayers.

If this is considered another government definition of progress, before long we'll have to look upon the present dump sites as museums to show the next generation how we used to dispose of garbage. After all, wasn't this why Upper Canada Village was founded, to uphold some of yesterday's traditions or heritage.

Health unit separate

Cornwall, Ont.

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

In the April 23 issue of The Glengarry News you referred to Community Adult Outreach Program (COAP) as being part of the Eastern Ontario Public Health Unit.

COAP is an adult mental health program funded by the Community Mental Health Branch of the Ministry of Health and is part of the Mental Health Division of the Cornwall General Hospital. There are two satellite clinics; one is in Alexandria and the other in Winchester.

In Alexandria, COAP has temporarily borrowed office space from the Public Health Unit. While there is a close working relationship with the Public Health Unit and there are referrals back and forth, COAP is not part of the Eastern Ontario Public Health Unit's services.

Sincerely,
Janet Simms-Baldwin, RN, BN,

Drinking and boating don't mix

LANCASTER — Now that drunk driving is tougher to get away with, the Ontario Provincial Police are setting their sights on people who drink and boat.

The OPP is launching a Marine Awareness Program aimed at changing public perceptions about drinking and boat operation.

The police say that problems created by impaired and disorderly boaters have become a major concern for cottagers and boaters.

Cst. Gilles Ruest, community relations officer with Lancaster OPP, adds that, although the program's first objective is to educate the public about the seriousness of the problem, there will be an emphasis on enforcement.

Cst. Ruest points out fines for a summary conviction on a charge of operating a boat while intoxicated start at $500.

"The penalties for running a boat while drunk are the same as for driving a car while impaired." he says.

The OPP marine patrols on the area's waterways will be equipped with the "Approved Screening Device," or ALERT, which has proven so helpful in the crackdown on drunken driving.

With education as the focal point of the Marine Awareness Program, police are to keep a close watch on boater behavior and compliance with safety regulations. In addition, a 45-foot display trailer equipped with teaching aids will be touring the province throughout the summer.

Cst. Ruest said the trailer should be in our area over the Labor Day weekend in September at the Lancaster Inn Marina.

Lancaster OPP have six police officers who undertake marine patrols on a rotating basis. This year they will be joined by a law student who will work as a civilian aid to the police

Civic pride being poisoned . . .

It's an approach deemed fair to all concerned, including the taxpayers. The employee is not pilloried in public before he has a fair opportunity to defend himself.

If his sole concern was to address a legitimate concern fairly and effectively, Mr. Séguin could have followed the same route. It appears he was much more interested in the attack than in correcting any problem. He made the deliberate decision to smear Mr. Depratto's name as harshly and as publicly as he could, without the accused having the chance to answer the accusations.

Unfortunately, it appears fair play is no longer a priority with Alexandria council.

Now Mr. Depratto may have no choice but to launch legal action against Mr. Séguin, at least, and possibly against the town. His reputation and his career are on the line. He didn't initiate the battle or choose the battleground. Mr. Séguin did that for him.

None of this is good for the town, in any event. If Mr. Séguin thinks he is serving some noble purpose, there are a great many upset people who can correct him.

Meanwhile the damage is done. Fewer people will be willing to stand for public office in this town if the Séguin brand of politics is going to be standard fare. It will be increasingly difficult to attract the best men and women to essential municipal jobs if the threat of a smear campaign is left hanging over their heads. To many, the thought of it all is repulsive.

It's a depressing development for everyone who genuinely cares about Alexandria. What's more depressing is the likelihood of at least another 30 months of the same.

Nor'Westers Museum opens for the season

WILLIAMSTOWN
Sue Harrington
347-2279

I give up. Here I was thinking how nice it would be to be able to report to you the latest date that snow had fallen in Williamstown. But each time I thought that I had actually pin-pointed the exact day, some other person with a stretchier memory would come along and beat the date I thought was ''it''.

May, June and even July have apparently all seen flurries in Williamstown, but when John T. told me he remembered seeing snow in August, I gave up my quest. You see, I realized then and there that August was probably not the latest date, but the earliest . . .

SOCCER

So now that you've saved all that time, that you would have spent stashing away snow pants and mittens, you will have a few extra hours that you can, at last, afford to donate to community happenings. Might I suggest soccer?

A meeting of the Char-Lan Minor Soccer Association will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre. President Oliver Blacker says volunteers are still needed to coach teams.

If you are new to the area and are wondering how to ''meet people'' and become involved, let me assure you that volunteering for minor soccer is one of the easiest and most rewarding ways of doing so. A clinic will be held to instruct new coaches in the ''how-to's. Just think what a claim like ''coached minor soccer'' can do to up-grade a job resumé, a political campaign, or even a defence summation! Call 347-2411 to volunteer.

BRIDGE

If you're new and interested in bridge instead of soccer, the Williamstown Bridge Club meets every Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Centre.

Last week Gertie McRae was on hand to see Bruno and Theresa Carriere take first place once again. Ed O'Brien and Audrey Blair were second, while Leonard MacLachlan and Maurice Lagroix were third.

MUSEUM OPENING

This weekend sees the opening of the Nor'Westers Museum for what is hoped will be another record-breaking season.

Doors will open this Saturday at 10:30 a.m. and will remain open until 5 p.m.

Admission for opening day will be free; thereafter fees will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. While children under 12 will be able to get a free lesson in history.

Janis Pasco, who will be entering fourth year commerce at Queen's University in September, will be curator for the second consecutive summer. Another local student, Andrea Emard, who attends Carleton University, will be using the museum as a base for research she is doing on the Nor'Westers.

The Loyalist and Nor'Wester rooms will continue to house the museum's permanent collections, while the East Room will contain new acquisitions of the past year.

Museum hours this season are as follows: open daily from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m.; Saturday and holidays from 10:30 to 5:30. After Labour Day, until its closing at Thanksgiving, the museum will be open on weekends only.

CARON NOT CARSON

I'm sure you are all wondering who the Mike Carson was who appeared in my column last week. Well I've never heard of him either! I have heard of Mike Caron, though, husband of Mary, the couple who bought Katie McLellan's place. Although the name was wrong, the wishes were right—best of them on your retirement, Mike!

SENIORS

Sometimes I can hardly keep up with all of the events of our seniors. The Friendly Neighbors held their May birthday party last week in order to honor six of their members.

Ileen Latreille baked the birthday cake for Dorothy Seguin, John King, Gilberte Marsh, Mary MacDonell, Martin Van Sleeuven and Imelda Chretien.

Special Mother's Day prizes were won by Isobel Larocque and Marie Rose Pilon, while Dorothy Raymond and Gilberte Marsh claimed the door prizes. The 50-50 was shared by Angus MacDonell, Edith Abrams, Viola Pilon and Isobel Larocque.

In euchre, ladies' high was Marie Menard and low went to Mary MacDonell. For the gentlemen, Martin Van Sleeuven was high and Angus MacDonell, low. Eleanor Gibson won the the skunk for the ladies, with John King capturing this coveted award for the men.

The Friendly Neighbors will be hosting several other events in May. This Saturday, from 2 to 4 p.m. a tea and bake sale will be held in their clubrooms at St. Mary's Centre.

And then, on May 30, during National Physical Activity Week, our sprightly seniors will hold a square dance from 9 p.m. to midnight at the centre. Caller will be Ray Bazinet of Cornwall.

READING UNION

Members of the Canadian Home Reading Union held their final meeting on ''Protesters'' last week as Eileen McDonell presented a paper on René Levesque and his colorful career as reporter and politician.

The meeting was held at the home of Marjorie Martin.

The theme of the Manor House Branch for next year has already been chosen and will be ''All the World's a Stage''.

BENEFIT

Some 355 students, a goodly number of them from Williamstown, flocked to General Vanier Secondary School in Cornwall Friday night to take part in Anne Martindale's ''Benefit''.

For the second consecutive year, children have displayed the results of their instruction in Mrs. Martindale's Creative Movement classes. Some $1,200 was raised by Friday nights's performance and will be donated to the Eastern Ontario Children's Hospital.

I must not forget to mention the act which drew an especially rousing accolade — The Golden Girls — svelte members of our Friendly Neighbors exercise class.

FIRST COMMUNION

Last Sunday, several local children made their First Communion at St. Mary's Church.

Reaching this landmark in their lives were: Jamie Bridson, Tricia Daigle, Damien Lafave, Matthew Trudel, Tanya Lapierre, Sherry Merpaw, Rebecca Owen, and Chad Latreille.

If you are doing nothing special this Sunday at 12:30 p.m., flick on your telly and take in ''The Valley Farmer'' to see some of our local children who were first prize winners in the recent farm safety poster contest.

Bucky Ross, Mariea Sefcsik and Neil Martindale were those invited to make their TV debuts, but I know that Neil, busy man that he is, opted to attend a conflicting engagement and help out Williamstown Public School's Junior Choir entry at the Kinsmen Music Festival.

FIRST PRIZE

The Junior Choir was not the only local group involved in the recent festival. The school's Triple Trio, comprised of Carrie Lin McDonell, Jocelyn Lauzon, Sherry Sloan, Shelly Bougie, Shona Fraser, Sara McDonald and Colleen Smith, came up with that perfect blend and took a first place certificate home to the school.

Lisa Chafee, Judy Moore, Lisa Sloan and Johanna Harrington, the school's Double Duet entry, placed third in their class. Thanks to Alice Grant for her work with the girls' groups and to Don Hallberg for his with the Junior Choir.

CHARITABLE DOG

A Cornwall newspaper report claiming that 1,100 persons took part in the recent Children's Aid Society Bike-a-thon should have read 1,100 persons plus one canine.

Apparently John Warden's dog, aptly named ''Inspector'', decided to investigate all the bicycles passing his Glen Road home. Upon learning the charitable intentions of the riders, Inspector joined them and stolidly marched all the way into Cornwall.

He was found in the vicinity of the Hotel Dieu hospital and is now home, nursing sore paws, but feeling very proud of himself.

I am wondering though, did the money Inspector raised really go to the CAS or did he donate it instead to his friends at the Humane Society?

MINOR HOCKEY

Char-Lan Minor Hockey Awards Day ran smoothly on Saturday at the Char-Lan Recreation Centre. Unlike neighboring associations, Char-Lan has had plenty of willing man and woman-power to head its executive.

In fact, general committee convenor, Carolyn McRae, mentioned the association, consisting of 12 executive members, had no less than 46 ''contact persons'' this year, all of whom performed willingly and efficiently when called upon.

With such organization as this, it's no wonder we come up with so many winning teams!

ST. ANDREW'S UCW

The program ''This is Our Church'' was conducted by Joyce Irvine and Beverly Craig following the May meeting of St. Andrew's UCW, at the home of Margaret Leonard.

The meeting was opened with a reading entitled ''Mother's Glasses'' by Katherine Cumming. The worship was conducted by Ruby Warden.

A second church clean-up day was set for Thursday at 9:30. Thank you notes were read by Ina Byatte and correspondence by Katherine Cumming.

Nancy Woollveen for the Stewards Committee reported repairs and renovations wer escheduled for the near future.

Katherine Cumming gave a brief report on the Presbyterial annual meeting. It was decided to sponsor two youths to the Summer Event to be held in Lennoxville in July. Members agreed to send a donation to Camp Kagama and also donate a prize to a pupil at the awards night for Williamstown Public School. A committee was formed to price and purchase a new refrigerator for the hall.

Knox UCW met in the church hall with Syliva Pilkington presiding. She opened the proceedings with a reading from the Friendship book.

Plans were made to hold a bake sale Saturday, May 17 at the Knox Bargain Store on Main Street at 10 a.m.

With the help of the Ladies of St. Andrews, Bainsville and Salem, Summerstown it was announced the Bargain Store will be opened from Tuesday, to Friday, 10 a.m., to 5 p.m. and Saturday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekly starting the first week of June.

Plans were also made to cater to a luncheon for the Gaelic Society at a date to be announced later.

Tablecloths have been purchased and Sheila Urquhart, Mary Matheson, Janet Johnson and Florence Bennet were elected as a committee to investigate the possible purchase of a steam table.

Bells and round tiles featuring a picture of the church will be purchased.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, June 2 with Sheila Urquhart in charge of devotions.

Members of the St. Lawrence WI met at the home of Beatrice Labelle with Dorothy Seguin presiding and she opened the proceedings with a tribute to mothers.

Following the opening exercises, 11 members answered the roll call by telling of something new in agriculture. Some of the answers dealt with computers, round bales of hay which are proving better than square ones, and a weeder and feeder from a hose.

Sylvia Pilkington commented on the motto "What we sow, so shall we reap".

A discussion was held regarding the district annual meeting to be held in Martintown the following day.

Donations were made to the Pennies for Friendship fund and an auction sale realized needed funds for the Branch.

Beatrice Labelle read a poem "What is a Mother".

The next meeting will be held June 2 in the form of a barbecue at the home of Dorothy Sharpe.

Kim McCuaig, a band-exchange student, left last Wednesday for Kingsville, Ont. and returned Sunday morning. She also visited Niagara Falls along the way. Joan is the daugher of Brian and Helena McCuaig.

I received a lovely big leafy plant with pink flowers from my godchild, Brian Bergeron, for Mother's Day. I set it centre of the table and every time I looked at it I wondered how long it would survive. I'm very unlucky with flowering plants. Later in the day I went to check the ground. It was so dry I couldn't imagine how it was so healthy looking.

I poured a cup of water on it, figuring I had just saved it from dehydration, when my son happened to walk in, and asked where I had got the flower. Isn't it nice, lucky I happened to check it, or it would have been dead by tomorrow I said. As I picked up the plant to show him I touched a leaf and realized that this very plant that had just swalled a whole cup of water was artificial.

Well one thing for certain this is one flower that's not going to die on me. I did get a beautiful hanging basket of flowers for Mothers Day—real ones.

I know they're real because the ground was wet and gritty and got under my fingernails. I'm not taking any chances though, it's going outside where Mother Nature can look after it.

I hope all mothers enjoyed breakfast in bed on that special day and were pillowed and pampered. Helena McCuaig wasn't so lucky. With most members of the family down with the flu, she was kept busy seeing to their needs.

As for me I got out of bed before anyone else. First of all I am not a breakfast eater but I knew that if my husband had the chance I would have been presented with a bowl of bran, what he seems to think , the cure to all ills.

I did get served a lovely dinner which I had no part in preparing.

Last Saturday we attended Awards Day in Williamstown. As we entered the arena, we noticed many people signing up for the soccer season. Others were busy chatting while enjoying coffee and doughnuts before the ceremony.

From our area two boys received awards: Patrick Lover, most improved player for Peewee House League goaler and Patrick Campeau, most improved player in the Atom Travelling Team.

From the arena the Atoms went to the Kudrinkos' home for an outdoor barbecue, with Ross and Sue as hosts.

The shades of spring, ignoring winter's last gasps, are with us once again. The many shades of green from the first shy leaves to the dark evergreens. The bright touches of yellow daffodils, mauve/purple/blue hyacinths, tulips in a wide range of reds, yellows and other colors. When nature tires of winter white she does it in a most colorful way and includes a few high voltage summer-like temperatures for cutting lawns down to size.

WI held 71st annual meeting recently

Glengarry District Women's Institute held its 71st annual meeting in Martintown Presbyterian Church May 6.

The host branch conducted the flag ceremony. Their president Mrs. William Johnston extended a welcome to all. District President Mrs. Henry Breuer's address was on the family, as this is the Year of the Family. Mrs. Breuer spoke on how a child learns friendliness.

Mrs. Lynus MacPherson held an impressive memorial service for two of our members who died recently. She also conducted the ACWW Pennies for Friendship ceremony.

Reports of standing committees were given by the conveners. Glengarry WI had a number of programs. Attention was directed to Baldwin House, Save the Children, Cancer Society, the Legion and many others.

Cathy Simmons introduced Sandra MacLeod to us.

Newly appointed Board Director Helen Burns, from Russell County, gave her report on work being done by FWIO.

In 1987 the Women's Institute organization will be 90 years old. A conference will be held in North Bay July 6-9 in celebration. Each member will pay 50 cents and each branch make a craft item to help defray the cost of this convention.

"A Day of Discovery" is a visit to three historical sites—Adelaide Hoodless Homestead and Erland Lee Home. These homes of the founders are now museums and Ontario Agricultural Museum in Milton where a schoolhouse is used as a Women's Institute Hall. A worthwhile trip for anyone visiting Southern Ontario.

Mrs. Burns also conducted the election and installation of the following officers: Past President—Mrs. Henry Breuers; President—Mrs. Lynus MacPherson; 1st Vice-President—Mrs. John Petrie; 2nd Vice-President—Mrs. P. Calder; Sec.-Treas.—Mrs. Alex Lalonde; Federal Representative—Mrs. Henry Breuers, Alternate, Mrs. L. Nixon. P.R.O.—Mrs. John Lowden; Curator—Mrs. Harold Fourney.

Conveners of standing committees: Agriculture and Canadian Industries—Mrs. Campbell MacDonald; Citizenship and World Affairs—Mrs. E. Garneau; Education and Cultural Activities—Mrs. Gordon Ross; Family and Consumer Affairs—Mrs. C. T. Upton; Resolutions—Mrs. Wm. Johnston; District Delegate—Mrs. Alex Lalonde; Alternate—Mrs. Wm. Johnston; auditors—Mrs. Robert MacRae and Mrs. T. Sharpe.

New members welcomed

GREEN VALLEY — The May 7 meeting of the Union culturelle franco-ontarienne (UCFO) opened with a prayer and brief address by Cécile Ménard.

Several new members were welcomed to the UCFO and plans were laid for a spring visit to Montreal and a tour of radio station CJMS there. Other highlights should include the Botanical Gardens, an evening at St. Denis Theatre where members will take in a show by Quebec superstar André Philippe Gagnon, and a fine dinner at Da Geovani Restaurant.

The next meeting of the Green Valley UCFO is scheduled for May 28, earlier than usual because of a planned trip to the St. Isidore group early in June.

The meeting was closed with coffee and a delightful dessert prepared and served by Rita Miller.

Official opening on June 21

LANCASTER — The village's newly-completed recreation hall is going to have a name before it is officially opened June 21.

Village Council last week decided to hold a "name-the-hall" contest and chipped in $100 for first prize.

Opening ceremonies are slated for 2 p.m. with a wine and cheese reception to follow. There will be a dance later that evening also.

The building, on Main Street just west of the playground, was erected in short order last month.

Entries for the naming contest are available at local businesses.

Born May 18, 1908 he was the son of Alexander Cameron and Annie Kennedy.

Mr. Cameron spent most of his adult life in the United States, but had recently spent the summer on the family farm west of St. Elmo.

The funeral was held in the Munro Funeral Home May 2 with the Rev. Gerry Van Bruchem, minister of the Gordon Presbyterian Church, St. Elmo officiating. Burial was in the St. Elmo cemetery.

Mr. Cameron leaves a sister, Etta Urquhart of Maxville, a niece, Ina Colbran of Stittsville and a nephew Ross Urquhart of Manotick. He was predeceased by two brothers, Hugh and Arthur, a number of years ago.

The meeting is open to the public.

Charlottenburgh council rejects proposed budget

by Dann Rogers

WILLIAMSTOWN — The Charlottenburgh Township Council rejected the budget proposed by the administration at their May 6 meeting, saying it was ill-formatted and incomprehensible.

Their next budget session will be on May 21.

"The councillors expressed their wish for a redesigned format and aspirations of further cuts," Clerk-treasurer Marcel Lapierre, said Thursday.

The proposed budget of $5 million called for tax increases between five and six per cent but the council wants that cut back another one or two per cent.

Lapierre says all areas of the budget are vulnerable to cuts and no specific parts have been singled out.

"The council feels it would be easier to decide where to cut if gross expenditures and revenues for each department were put on one page. I've been using the same format for the past 10 years, in which expenditures are laid out first and then followed by revenue," he says.

Deputy-Reeve Bob Roth led the opposition to the proposed budget. "I find it very confusing. The format of the budget may have been the same for the last couple of years, but it is obvious we don't think things are running smoothly. The method of financial control is in question," said Mr. Roth.

Lancaster Village, Lochiel Township, Maxville and Lancaster Township all use the format adopted by Mr. Lapierre.

Jim Farrington, a field service officer with the Ministry of Municipal Affairs, Ottawa office, says budget formats are a matter of choice.

"Usually, municipalities use the same format that is required for financial statements. This means listing expenditures first and then revenues secondly. But there is nothing wrong with listing expenditures and revenues together," he said.

Major expenditures in the proposed budget include a levy from the Raisin Region Conservation Authority (RRCA) for $13,000 that will be spent renovating the Martintown Mill. Another $20,000 will be spent by the RRCA to cover costs from last year's repairs to the Martintown dam.

Grant applications for major renovations to the St. Raphael's Ruins have been made to the provincial and federal governments. If accepted, the repairs will be carried out over three years.

Our new lawn tractors come with a small attachment you'll love. The price tag.

It's the icing on the cake. After being attracted by the smart styling, intrigued by the brand new features and impressed by all the dramatic improvements...you'll be delighted by the price.

This year, John Deere has introduced an entirely new line of 100 Series lawn tractors. All are priced substantially less than the 1985 models they replace. Not just a few dollars less, but hundreds! It's the most significant price reduction in John Deere history.

New overhead valve engines on most models provide increased horsepower and torque. Better efficiency and fuel economy too. And they're enclosed for quieter operation. You'll find more legroom. Easier refueling. And on our 130, a higher performance 30-inch mower deck.

See for yourself. John Deere's combination of high quality and performance, along with low price, gives you more tractor for a lot less money than ever before. Compare what others have to offer. You'll find there's never been a better time to own a John Deere.

RECEIVE AWARDS—Francine Richer, principal of Ecole Laurier Carrière in Glen Robertson, and Lancaster OPP Constable Gilles Ruest, receive appreciation plaques from Robert Poirier, vice-president of Glen Robertson's Club Optimiste. The gesture honors both for their exceptional service in support of the club's aims toward encouraging greater respect for the law among young people.

Annual business meeting held

On April 9, the annual business meeting was held in the Sunshine Club room. The following new officers were elected for 1986-1987: President, Jackie Emburg; First Vice-President, Joan Lawson; Secretary, Elaine Villeneuve and Treasurer, Leona Lafrance.

On April 27, we served the altar boys, readers and choir a special chicken dinner. We also had five draws and the lucky winners were: Louise Quenneville, Denis Racine, Joanne Quesnel, Patrick Lafrance and Paul Quesnel.

Our league mass was celebrated on Sunday, May 4, and was well attended. Readers are reminded that we are holding a rummage and bake sale May 24 at the Sunshine Club Room, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Four of our memberrs will attend the diocesan convention in Alexandria on Sunday, May 25.

President Jackie reminded us of the roses which we sell on Mother's Day and asked for volunteers. We certainly had no trouble getting any. Our president also thanked the members for the wonderful work they have done in making the flower baskets for the altar.

Our May meeting was also held in the Sunshine Club Room with 14 members present.

Education convenor Joan Lawson gave us a report on education week activities at La Souce in Moose Creek. She also said we will be donating a trophy to the Grade eight class at their graduation. We will also be donating a $50 bursary to the Tagwi Secondary School.

Father Lussier spoke to us on "Why are we afraid to talk about vocations?"

Our next meeting will be held June 4, in the Sunshine Club Room.

The meeting was then adjourned and a beautiful lunch was served.

Anita Prevost, and Rose Lapierre were the lucky recipients of the door prizes.

Milk quality to improve

The Ontario Marketing Board is fielding technicians this month as part of its province-wide udder health management program.

Technician Peter Hobkirk, of the board's Prescott office, will be available for farm visits in Glengarry County from May 21 to June 30.

The program involves a technician visiting dairy herds on a fee-for-service basis and making an evaluation of the producer's mastitis control program.

Law encouraged

GLEN ROBERTSON — Teaching children respect for and an understanding of the law is of vital concern to the Club Optimiste in Glen Robertson.

Club members recently sponsored an awareness campaign at Ecole Laurier Carriére aimed at having school age youngsters develop an attitude to trust and respect the law and the people who enforce it.

OPP Constable Gilles Ruest, a community relations specialist with the Lancaster detachment, was on hand to screen a film on bicycle safety and answer questions from a number of young people.

He emphasized that respect for law generally can begin with an appreciation of the rules of the road.

School principal Francine Richer and Cst. Ruest each received a plaque from the town's Optimists in appreciation of their work.

Robert Poirier, a vice-president of the club, said the Optimists were also planning to host another bicycle rodeo in Glen Robertson, June 15.

Last year's rodeo attracted over 75 participants up to 16 years of age.

Air Cadet inspection

new to Glengarry and most people do not understand what is involved.

In addition to the parade led by W.O. 1 Ruttenberg, the cadets staged an impressive drill demonstration under the command of Flight Sergeant Kenny Robinson and a gymnastics display supervised by Officer Cadet Deanna Page, the cadet in charge of the squadron's sports program.

Though the Air Cadet Squadron is a paramilitary organization supported by the Canadian Armed Forces, the primary emphasis with the local group is placed on leadership skills rather than the military aspect, says Mr. Marr.

There are 12 adult volunteers dedicated to assisting the young cadets, meeting every Thursday and on many weekends, but the cadets virtually run the squadron themselves. The adults are on hand to assit with training, to advise and to supervise, he said.

"It's an opportunity for young people to develop their organizational skills," added Mr. Marr. "It motivates them to be leaders; to prove themselves. They may have no chance to prove it elsewhere."

Academic training includes such subjects as navigation, air frame construction and the theory of flight. Citizenship training attempts to instill in the cadets a sense of duty to their country, the benefits of helping community efforts and a working knowledge of how government works in Canada.

Off the ground, the cadets are given flights in different types of light aircraft two or three times a year, as well as a similar number of flights in gliders to help them develop an understanding of the principles of flight. There are also flights in military aircraft.

New members can expect to "work hard for the rewards," said Mr. Marr. "They have to apply themselves to learning drill and to the academic subjects. They will be expected to become leaders and teachers within the squadron."

Tea held at community nursing home

Mother's Day was marked on May 8 by honoring the lady residents at the Community Nursing Home, Alexandria at a Mother's Day tea.

The dining room was decorated in keeping with the occasion. As each lady entered to the sound of piano music, she was warmly greeted and presented with a lovely lace wrapped bar of soap and sachet.

Sweets were served and tea was poured by volunteers to the thirty-two women guests.

Josephine Maheu was chosen Mother of the Year. She has had fifteen children and enjoys all of her fifty-three grandchildren.

Mrs. Maheu was presented with a corsage of pink silk miniature roses and a lovely nightgown from the residents and staff.

All were sad to see such a wonderful afternoon come to an end. Everyone is now looking forward to Nursing Home Week in June.

TREE PLANTING—Bruce Byford, from Arbex Forestry Contractor Consultants, plants a spruce seedling on Donat Deschamps' land in Lochiel Township. A total of 8,200 trees were planted on 15 acres of land. Mr. Deschamps, in agreement with the Ministry of Natural Resources, must protect the trees and property during a 15-year period and he then owns the trees.

Worms are bizarre, but important

by Mike Singleton,
Federation of Ontario Naturalists

Hardly a thing of beauty, an earthworm is basically a machine, designed to tunnel through the ground, eating almost everything in its path. If you can overcome that squeamish sentiment, conditioned by years of training you'll find a fascinating creature, vital to forests, wildlife and people.

The earthworm's build—a series of muscular segments that press forward as they thin—act like a hydraulic ramp. Then, as the worm "bunches up," it not only pulls its body forward, but also presses open the burrow to the worm's thickest diameter. Tiny, hair-like bristles can be extended to act like anchors, then retracted to allow the body to slide along the mucous-lubricated path. And, to combine efficiency with practicality, the same mucous path then dries, like a cement holding the tunnel from collapsing.

A worm has no appendages to get hung up anywhere; not even eyes. Instead, each has a set of light-sensitive cells embedded in the skin at its front end, and a mouth located right at the tip.

If you look closely at a worm, you'll see the digestive tract, running its entire length, filled with earth, food and debris on their way through. The highly efficient digestive tract readily passes earth and even sand without damage, while digesting every bit of organic material within.

This material, the worm converts into two products—marvellous fertilizer and delicious worm tissue.

By reproducing quickly, worms provide a staple supply of food to other animals. Worms are hermaphroditic; that is, each worm bears both male and female organs. When two come together, the male part of one fertilizes the female part of the other.

The clitellum—the female part—is that strange, ring-like band which encircles each worm. It produces tough, drought-resistant cases, each containing 8-12 eggs, which will sit dormant until soils are moist and warm enough to permit hatching.

The importance of worms derives from their fantastic numbers. Up to 500,000 worms per acre constitute a unexcelled workforce, capable of ramming perhaps 20,000 km per acre, every year, of aerating tunnels in the soil. This aeration converts sterile hardpan into light, moisture-holding life-sustaining soil.

All of our woodlands, meadows and agricultural fields depend upon worms, both to recycle nutrients and to keep the soil rich and healthy.

Two months in jail

An Alexandria man was sentenced to two months in jail Thursday in Alexandria Provincial Court after pleading guilty to causing a disturbance.

Denis Delorme, 29, of 33 Main St. South, was charged February 26 in Alexandria.

Court was told Mr. Delorme had caused a disturbance at the Ottawa House Hotel while he was drunk. The accused had been yelling and cursing during the evening and was asked by the proprietor to leave.

The owner called the Alexandria police and the accused was taken away shortly after the hotel was closed.

Mr. Delorme has previous convictions on related offences.

Sailing course offered

People interested in learning how to sail will get an opportunity to learn this summer when a sailing course is offered at Mill Lake.

The course, to be held Aug. 4 to 8, is open to anyone over the age of 10. The regular sailing course will offer sessions at the beginner and intermediate levels and qualified instructors from the Ontario Sailing Association will teach the course.

The course, which was offered last summer, will again have three classes a day—with morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

Alison Wilson, who is organizing the course again, says pre-registration will be held at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

She says the fees will depend on the number of people who register. A pre-registration deposit of $15 is required and futher information can be obtained by phoning Mrs. Wilson at 527-5619 or the Glengarry Sports Palace at 525-3600.

Should enough interest be shown, wind surfing courses will also be offered that same week.

The fees here will also depend on the number of registrants.

Completed marathon

OTTAWA — Despite having to cope with back pains in the latter stretches of the race, Alexandria's Margie Laferriere still managed to complete the 12th annual National Capital Marathon Sunday.

The local runner finished with an unofficial time of 4:29 (four hours, 29 seconds). Even with the pain, she managed to sprint across the finish line.

"It was the most exciting race I've ever competed in," said Laferriere Monday. "The other runners, spectators and race helpers were all encouraging and the atmosphere was exciting."

The field of runners consisted of 1,500 and the weather was perfect for the marathon.

"I'm very happy that I finished the race," said Laferriere. "It's a great course and there's no question I'll return next year to compete."

Golf club expansion on target

by Peter Conway

You can't blame Grant Crack for being optimistic these days at the Glengarry Golf and Country Club.

Crack, hired over the winter as the club's superintendent and responsible for course design for expansion of an 18-hole course, says construction of the expansion is on schedule.

"We're right on schedule with our task force target in expansion construction," says Crack. "We're preparing an area right now of about 20 acres for the new one, two and three holes so that they'll be ready for mid summer in 1987."

While construction expansion began only recently, Crack says there have been no major problems to date.

"Within a couple of weeks, the future No. One fairway will be cleared of trees, stumps and stones. We're getting the area ready for a stone picker and cultivator which will be used by the end of May. But there have been no major problems in construction expansion so far—everything is on schedule."

Crack and his maintenance crew have been busy cleaning areas which will be fairways and staking centre lines of the fairways.

Working on construction expansion isn't the only area keeping Crack busy these days at the local club. There's also the existing nine holes to look after.

"We're continually upgrading the quality of the existing nine holes," he says.

While construction expansion has been smooth to date, Crack has been kept busy shaping the greens on the existing nine holes.

"The greens over the last couple of years have come through the winter months in poor condition. They have been damaged mainly because of pink snow mold. If a maintenance program isn't followed over the season, the chances that the disease will be more severe increases," says Crack.

Crack says irrigation, pesticidal, fertilization and general maintenance programs will decrease the severity of the damage the following spring.

Crack is confident construction on the new No. One, Two and Three holes will be completed without any major problems.

"We're also hoping that the expanded parking lot and construction of the driving range will be completed by midsummer in 1987. The goal the task force wishes to achieve is right on target. That goal is to have an 18-hole golf course and it's well within reach," says Crack.

Must show his stuff at Memorial Cup

SPORTS

Peter Conway

It's a long way from Portland, Oregon to Alexandria.

But for Alexandria's Luc Sabourin, you get the feeling he would have travelled even further for an opportunity to play in the Memorial Cup tournament.

You see, while some of us have hung up our skates for the summer, the 20-year-old Sabourin and other junior hockey skaters are trying to impress the throng of National Hockey League scouts attending major junior hockey's championship.

For Sabourin, who has had an injury-plagued junior hockey career with the Guelph Platers, playing in the Memorial Cup is a dream come true. He's had an uphill struggle since making the transition three years ago from Junior B hockey with the Glens to major junior A.

Just think of what he's accomplished. Here's a guy who was picked next to last in the Ontario Hockey League draft three years ago as a midget. In his draft year, he skated for the Junior B Glens, rather than play his final year in midget hockey.

For Luc, there have been happy times in a Platers' uniform and there have been occasions when things weren't all that fun.

It seems he's had injury after injury throughout his three-year stint with the Platers. But to his credit, he's hung in and has been rewarded with a chance to show his stuff in Portland.

Although he's been through a tough grind with the number of nagging injuries, a strong showing at the Cup could determine if there's a pro hockey future for him.

The chances of being drafted by a National Hockey League team are slim at best. There aren't many clubs who'll risk a selection in the draft by choosing a 20-year-old.

But, Luc has played an important role in Guelph's march towards the club's first-ever OHL championship recently. The Platers, because of injuries, were forced to play with only four defencemen in the OHL championship. Luc logged a lot of ice time and played the point on the powerplay.

Luc realizes his chances are slim at catching on with an NHL club. But, maybe he'll raise a few eyebrows at Portland and who knows what might happen down the road . . .

No matter what happens in his hockey career, he has fulfilled a dream of playing in the Memorial Cup tournament.

How many junior hockey players ever get the opportunity to play in a national championship like the Memorial Cup?

Win or lose, Sabourin and the Platers have had a remarkable season. They weren't expected to get out of the Ontario Hockey League and make the trek to Portland.

Most hockey people had picked the Peterborough Petes to wear the Ontario Hockey League crown at Portland.

True, the Platers didn't have to face the Petes in the final. Belleville knocked out the favored Petes in the playoffs. Nevertheless, Guelph in turn had to stop through Belleville on its way to Portland and the Bulls weren't a pushover.

So, for Luc, his career with Guelph, clouded by injuries, may still have a storybook ending.

Hopefully, the Platers will be successful and Luc's performance will be noticed by a National Hockey League scout standing in the corner of the Portland Memorial Coliseum.

Whether there's a pot of gold waiting at the end of the rainbow in Luc's hockey career after the Memorial Cup remains to be seen.

A SURPRISE?

There have to be a lot of baseball fans either surprised, or shocked at the early-season play of the Montreal Expos in the National Hockey League East Division.

The Expos have a respectable 17-11 mark at the time of this writing and occupy second place. Not surprisingly, the New York Mets are off to a blazing start with a 21-5 record.

An even bigger surprise, however, has been the offensive punch at the plate by Buck Rodgers' club. No one expected the Expos to be leading in the team homerun derby at this stage of the season.

But while the Expos are battling for top spot with Gary Carter's New York Mets, the fans have stayed away from Olympic Stadium.

Certainly the fact that the Montreal Canadiens earned a berth in the Stanley Cup final recently may have something to do with sparse attendance. Everyone is caught up in Canadiens-mania.

In the past, the Expos were picked by many to win the pennant, but flopped on field. While no one has given them early-season credit, perhaps this year Buck Rodgers' club just might surprise a few people.

Cabers set to meet at Masterson Beach

by Angus H. McDonell

Next Sunday's spring meet, May 18, of the Glengarry Cabers club at Loch Garry may be summarized by two ancient cliches. Quote, History repeating itself and A Gathering of the Clans.

We will begin this story about one of our pet themes by relating briefly the history of Loch Garry plus some recollections of three of Glengarry and Canada's all-time great athletes who hailed from the west end of Loch Garry Lake.

A younger generation familiar with nature's colorful west end shoreline of the lake may have a problem believing that this same area more than one hundred years ago was the locale of a thriving pioneer hamlet.

Historian Robert J. Fraser has recorded for Glengarry literary heritage how this settlement was founded by an older next-of-kin, James Fraser, known as the "Patriarch of Loch Garry."

The original Fraser families emigrated from the shores of Loch Ness, Inverness-shire, Scotland in the late 1700's. They were shepherds, crofters and skilled steel workers in the blacksmith line. They first settled in Lancaster but later crossed Lake St. Francis to Dundee.

James Fraser it appears was endowed like many of his kinsmen with a spirit of adventure and exploring. However, he confined his interests locally in contrast to the Nor'Westers who created national history in fur trading and surveys. This young Fraser moved out of Dundee and began his mercantile career by working in a general store at Martintown.

In due course James Fraser treked north seeking to find a better way of employment than being a clerk in this Martintown store. Young Fraser discovered that there was no outlet to serve the general need of the pioneers about half way between Munroe's Mills and Greenfield. He staked his claim to operate his own mercantile business on the shore of the western tip of Loch Garry Lake. Thus was founded the hamlet and James Fraser became the "Patriarch of Loch Garry."

This fledgling hamlet, similar to others in the virgin forests of Glengarry, grew to the status of a village in a few short years. In mercantile enterprise there was in addition to the Fraser store a hotel, tannery, ashery, school, cheese factory, cobbler shop, R.C. chapel and a blacksmith shop. The post office was an important mail link with Munroe's Mills, Alexandria, Greenfield and Dominionville.

A further anticipated expansion could be triggered by the proposed Ontario-Quebec railway in the 1870s. This railway, later the CPR, became a reality but due to the bog terrain south of Loch Garry the proposed station site was not feasible, hence the birth of Apple Hill and the demise of Loch Garry.

The railway sparked the growth of Apple Hill while Loch Garry faded away. However, its historic name remained in prominence for many years due to the renowned athletic achievements of three native sons.

Sandy Archie MacDonald, one of the "Baldy" clan, was among the first to follow in the wake of world champion hammer thrower R. R. "Big Rory" McLennan. "Big Sandy Archie" as he was known, specialized in tossing the "56" and the caber. Following the records he set in Glengarry, he continued to win medals at Highland Games in Vancouver, Seattle and West Coast gatherings.

Next to carry on this Scottish heritage in Glengarry was Alexander MacIsaac MacDonald, born within sight of Loch Garry. When only 18 he was so mature in growth and brawn that he was called "Big Alex MacIsaac." He became a protegé of "Big Rory" McLennan and the resulting climax of his brilliant career was achieved in 1919 at the Games in Star Cross, Devon, England, when he won the caber toss world championship. Her Majesty the Queen presented "Big Alex" with a gold watch. British sport writers were astounded that the champ hailed from Loch Garry, Canada, not Scotland.

"Big Alex's" next-of-kin was another Alex, son of James Edward MacIsaac (MacDonald) a Loch Garry school teacher. To differentiate the two Alex boys, the younger was tagged "Little Alex Jimmy." That was all right until "Little Alex" became as big and strong as "Big Alex." (They were both MacIsaacs.) "Little Alex" solved the problem. He took the "A" from Alex and added "K" to rhyme. For the rest of his life he was popularily known as "A. K. MacIsaac" (MacDonald).

During the course of some 25 years of that era "A.K." established the rating by his athletic peers as being among Canada's most versatile competitors in track, field and Highland Games' sport programs. His son Lloyd has a cabinet of medals confirming the achievements of a Loch Garry native son. It was ironic that this great sportsman met his death, as did his wife, at the very railway crossing where the proposed Loch Garry station was to have been built.

Now let us briefly review the other part of Loch Garry history repeating itself and The Gathering of the Clans this Sunday.

In 1946, the second "Patriarch of Loch Garry," Bernard Masterson, staked out his holdings on lot 22 and by coincidence the same lot was bought by the first "Patriarch of Loch Garry," James Fraser in 1858-59. Bernard Masterson was also a merchant, dealing in wood.

Bernard Masterson, out of the Chesterville area, similar to his counterpart, James Fraser, looked to the future by visualizing the conversion of this historic woodlot into a community of cottages for his family and grandchildren. Hence Masterson's Beach became the revival of Loch Garry.

The athletic heritage was not overlooked. A playing field was levelled with a community hall. It is here on Sunday when once again, 100 years later, the thud of the hammer and the boom of the caber will echo through the picturesque wooded setting and out over the lake waters.

Members of the Glengarry Caber Club will be in full attendance. They will be wearing their new sweaters donated by sportsman Alex (Williamstown) MacDonald and bearing the attractive crest by artist Doug Fales. The members are: Ron MacDonell, Ian Sandilands, Robin Thomson, Rod (Glen Nevis) McLeod, John (Syracuse) MacDonald, William and Paul Lang.

Invited guest athletes are: Pat Lynn, Syracuse, Ted Dandreault, Altamonte, N.Y., Doug McConnell and Doug Anderson, Almonte, George Chappa and Tom O' Shaughnessy, Ottawa, and Dave Harrington, Old Chelsea, Quebec, now retired.

Field officials: Don Bond, D.J. McDonald, Doug Fales (Montreal), Finlay McDonell, Dale Munro, Lloyd Kennedy and Dr. Senecal. The program is slated to start at 10 a.m. and close with the popular caber toss about three p.m. Mrs. John (Val) MacDonald, Syracuse, will be official scorer. Mrs. MacDonald is an official of the New York Games circuit.

At the conclusion of the program the original of the artistic work by artist Doug Fales, depicting the world hammer throw championship heritage over Scotland's famed Donald Dinnie, from R.R. "Big Rory" McLennan to Rory Alexander Sandilands will be presented by artist Doug Fales to Rory Alexander and his mother Barbara Sandilands.

CHAMPIONSHIP SPORTS—Glengarry District High School/Ecole secondaire régionale de Glengarry recently presented trophies to outstanding track-and-field athletes. Recipients among male students included, from the left: Michel Duval, Yves Decoste and Tran Cappuccino.

Meet records set

Michel Duval and Tran Cappuccino went on a record-smashing spree last Tuesday at the annual Glengarry District High SChool—Ecole secondaire regionale de Glengarry track and field meet.

Both athletes shattered four records. Duval finished the meet with 25 points and was the top midget boy while Cappuccino was the top senior boy with 25 points.

Duval set a new mark in the 100 metre with a time of 12.15, breaking the 1983 mark of Cappuccino of 12.4.

Duval's next set a new mark in the 100-metre hurdles with a time of 17.51. The old record was by Cappuccino in 1983 with a time of 17.58.

The next two records, however, were his most impressive during the day-long meet. With a length of 5.43 metres, he broke the 1963 mark of Gerard Borris. The old mark was 5.08 metres.

Duval then broke the 1962 mark of Ken Mosher in the triple jump with a distance of 11.17 metres. The old record was 10.29 metres.

Cappuccino set new marks in the 100 and 200 metre races and 400 metre hurdles.

His new mark in the 100-metres was 11.3 seconds, eclipsing Pierre Jeaurond's 1983 mark of 11.5. Cappuccino's time of 23.84 seconds in the 200 metre broke Frank Morris' 1982 record of 24.16

In the hurdles, he broke Roy MacMaster's 1978 record of 18.7 with a time of 17.7 seconds. His next record came in the 400 metre hurdles with a time of 1.04.4, breaking the 1981 mark of 1.06.6 set by David Schroeder.

Cappuccino and Duval teamed up with Mario Paquette and Richard Theoret to set a new mark in the midget boys 4x100 relay with a time of 50.9 seconds.

The previous mark of 51.8 was set in 1984 by the team of Mario Imbeault, Glen Campbell, Chris Willard and Tim Masson.

Lynn Jeaurond set new junior girls records in the 200 metres and hurdles. Her mark in the 200 metres was 27.3, eclipsing the old mark of 27.5 in 1975 by Deanie Bourgeois. The new mark in the hurdles is 13.9, breaking the old mark of 14.4 in 1978 by Dominique Whelan.

The team of Yvette Jeaurond, Hilary Wilson, Chantal Ravary and Lynn Jeaurond set a new mark in the junior girls relay with a time of 54.9.

The old mark of 55.9 was set in 1974 by Mary Morris, Susan Sangster, Tammy McIntosh and Florence McCrimmon.

The top midget girl was Denise Fuller with 23 points while the best junior girl was Hilary Wilson with 22 points.

Yves Decoste, with 22 points, was the top junior boy while Janet Nielsen and Dawn Kirton shared for top honors in the senior girls category.

ON PARADE—Seventy-five air cadets paraded before the reviewing stand at the Glengarry Sports Palace, Sunday afternoon as part of the local Air Cadet Squadron's Ceremonial Inspection. The parade was commanded by W.O.2 John Rutenberg. The squadron scored an impressive 84 per cent, ranking the Glengarry group among the top one-third of Air Cadet Squadrons in only its second year.

Peewee roster selected

Alexandria Giroux Sport A Peewee softball team coach Daniel Brunet is banking on defence to carry his club this season in the Osnabruck Township Minor Softball League.

Brunet and his assistant coaches selected the roster for this season's club Sunday. League play begins next week and Brunet says there were some tough decisions on the selection of players at the competitive camp last week.

"I think we'll be pretty strong defensively," says Brunet. "We may have some problems scoring runs though. We don't have a lot of good hitters. I'm hoping for a second place finish behind Cornwall Township. They'll be the team to beat in the league."

The final roster of players to start the season consists of 11 players. There were a number of difficult decisions.

Although Brian O'Neill and Luc Leroux didn't make the club, Brunet was impressed with the play of the two youngsters.

"Both of them had very good training camps. There were a lot of difficult decisions to be made and both of them were very close to making the club. Unfortunately we can only go with a certain amount of players. They both had good camps and I was impressed with them," he said.

The players who will start the season with the local club are: Jeffery Benton, Normand Decoste, Victor Denobriga, Randy Gebbie, Travis Giroux, Michel Lajoie, Denis MacDonald, Stephane Roman, Marc Seguin, Stephane Seguin and Luc Sabourin.

Ladies tournament

The ladies'division of the Glengarry Golf and Country Club kicks off the golfing season on the links with a nine-hole tourney tomorrow (Thursday).

The club will hold its kicker's tournament Saturday. The tourney will be followed with a dance that evening at the club.

MASTERING SKILLS—Tom Tennant, left, a Fire Services Advisor with the Ontario Fire Marshall's Office leads a group of firefighters from several SD&G communities through their paces during a session on fire prevention inspections. Fire school being held

The Alexandria Fire Department is hosting the SD&G Regional Fire Training School and about 100 firefighters are taking part in the week-long school.

Firemen from the three united counties, Prescott-Russell and one from as far away as Tennessee, registered Monday morning at Alexandria Fire Hall.

Ed Hiscoe, an Eastern Ontario Fire Services Advisor for the Ministry of the Solicitor General, Fire Marshall's Office says the firefighters will be busy throughout the week with various courses.

"We offer some of the most advanced sills in autoextrication, rescuing people from motor vehicles involved in accidents. This is just one aspect of the school," he says.

There are seven instructors from the Fire Marshall's Office drawn from across the province.

Officer training, basic firefighting, pump operating and fire prevention are among the other courses being offered during the week.

Mr. Hiscoe says it's important that fire departmens in various communities work togeter to better serve the people.

"The policy is to try to teach consistent training throughout the province," says Mr. Hiscoe. "It's important that the fire departments work together and they have an understanding of a consistent program. The United Counties have set up an autoextrication program and we want these fire departments working together and this benefits the people living in the county," he added.

Mr. Hiscoe also praised the work and effort of Alexandria Fire Chief Gerry Charlebois for hosting the week-long training school.

"It takes a lot of work and effort to put on something like this. Gerry and his department have done a lot of work in organizing this event," said Mr. Hiscoe.

Courses will be given throughout the week at the town hall, Glengarry Sports Palace, and the fire hall.

Health council involves public

GREEN VALLEY — The Eastern Ontario District Health Council is getting the public involved in designing a health care policy for elderly residents.

A public meeting here Tuesday night was aiming to collect input on the findings and proposed recommendations of a health council study on the long term care service needs of seniors in Glengarry.

The council was hosting the meeting, held at the Green Valley Pavilion, a follow-up effort to its recent, eight-month study of health care needs for the elderly.

The study, a preliminary draft of which was released late last week in Cornwall, found a shortage of beds for chronic care patients in the five counties it serves east of Ottawa.

Donald St. Pierre, the council's executive-director, expected to listen to comments from people with all kinds of concerns at last night's meeting.

According to the study released earlier, there are 182 chronic-care beds to serve a population of 160,000 people. Glengarry is allocated 15 such beds, the lowest of the counties involved, Stormont, Dundas and Prescott—save for Russell, which was allocated no such beds.

Mr. St. Pierre said in its final report the council may recommend a greater number of chronic care beds be assigned to Glengarry. This, he said, could possibly take the form of increasing the number of such beds given to those hospitals in Cornwall which frequently treat Glengarry residents, particularly those from the southern part of the county.

Corrections . . .

The Glengarry News recently reported erroneously on plans for improvement work along Boundary Road between Kenyon and Charlottenburgh Townships.

The proposed reconstruction of a section of the Boundary Road between the townships, the 1st of Kenyon Road, will in fact be from the Chapel Road in Charlottenburgh east for a distance of 15 kilometres.

Work will consist of ditching and widening in its first phase. The township councils have agreed to supply jointly for $1 million in government funding to cover 75 per cent of the improvement costs on this road.

In the May 7 issue of The Glengarry News volunteers with the Cornwall and Area Bell Pioneers were described as operating a tuck shop at the Chateau Gardens residence in Lancaster. In fact, they do not operate any such facility. The story also erroneously reported that members meet every third Thursday of the month; in fact they meet every third Wednesday. The Glengarry News regrets the error.

A story carried in the May 7 issue of The Glengarry News on public speaking contest winners erred in identifying the winners as students of Glengarry District High School. In fact, they are students of Ecole secondaire regionale de Glengarry. Also, high school teacher Robert Lessard, an official of the Richelieu Club in Alexandria, is not head of the French Department at the high school. The Glengarry News regrets the errors.

Man back in court for sentencing

A North Lancaster man will be back in court for sentencing May 22 after pleading guilty to fraud.

Donald Bergeron, 46, pleaded guilty Thursday in Alexandria Provincial Court to 20 counts of fraud. He was charged between July 28 in 1984 and April 12 in 1985 in Glengarry County.

Judge Reginald Levesque has ordered a pre-sentence report before handing down his sentence.

Mr. Bergeron applied for benefits from the Unemployment Insurance Commission on July 5 in 1984 and received $141 a week until April 12 in $985.

The accused indicated on 20 bi-weekly report cards he had no income, but it was later found out he had earnings of $4,821.

Mr. Bergeron was overpaid an amount of $3,599.

Mr. Bergeron was also employed as a bus driver while collecting UIC benefits.

Hubcap theft in parking lot

Other than an unusually high number of domestic disputes, Alexandria police found things relatively quiet for the past week.

Only one theft was investigated. Charles Giroux reported someone had stolen four hubcaps and trim rings from his 1986 Chevette.

The theft occurred between 9 p.m. and 1 a.m., Friday, in the parking lot of the Glengarry Sports Palace, while Mr. Giroux was attending a party inside.

Cst. Bob Latreille of the Alexandria Police Department investigated.

Program receives negative response

QUEEN'S PARK

I was honored recently to introduce to the Legislature two famous young people, runnersup in the 1985 Canadian Figure Skating Junior Dance Pairs Championships. They are Kim Hanford from London, Ontario and Julien Lalonde from St. Isidore de Prescott, Ontario.

This young couple recently performed at figure skating competitions in Europe and in Russia. They are up and coming figure skating champions and I along with the people of Stormont-Dundas and Glengarry wish them well in their chosen careers.

I was also pleased to attend the official opening of the Health Fair Week held recently at Seaway District High School in Iroquois. I wish to congratulate the staff and students of Seaway District on emphasizing a healthy lifestyle and that indeed prevention of health problems is so much better than attempting to cure them.

For some time now we have heard increasingly about the financial pressures and problems in our farming communities. Second, third and even fourth generation farm families are having to face the cold, hard financial reality that they just can't make it living off the land.

In response, the provincial government provided $50 million on a one-shot basis to help them reduce their debt on long-term loans by reducing interest rates on those loans to 8 per cent. The intent of the program was honorable; but the rules and paperwork governing it were cumbersome and tedious. For these reasons the program failed to do as much for financially troubled farm families as it might have. The program ended in March.

Farmers in Transition (FIT) is the second program brought in by the provincial government in response to the crisis in the farming communities across Ontario. But reaction to FIT by the farmers has been negative. They not only feel it is "too little too late" but that its mandate of assisting farm families to get out of farming is wrong. If the government really wants to help farmers in trouble, it should be looking at programs which are easy to apply for, simple to administer and provide creative solutions to cash-flow problems.

The crisis in our farming communities is having an effect on farm families which, until recently, had gone unnoticed and therefore untreated. I am referring to the fact that children in financially troubled farm families are taking their families' problems to heart, and even blaming themselves for some of the problems. The end result is that a number of these young people are attempting suicide to remove what they see as an added "expense" to the family.

The provincial government has not responded to this growing problem in any direct manner. The only assistance offered to families experiencing this kind of personal problem has been through initiatives like Operation Hope, a program recently initiated by the Christian Farmers Federation of Ontario. Through this worthwhile undertaking, farmers and their families can talk about their needs, one of which is the need for compassionate help.

More assistance must be offered—and soon—if farming is to continue to be a viable and healthy way of life in this province.

Computers in class: getting to know you

by Dann Rogers

Computers can't replace school teachers, but they sure have a lot more patience.

And because of that, children are spending more time on computers using educational software, which they think is fun. No one's going to spoil a good thing by telling them they are actually developing their logic and language skills.

The computer heads of the SD&G public and separate school boards agree a student's motivation and self-esteem is heightened by using a computer because the child is in control. He gets a feeling of accomplishment, say the experts.

But what about parents who know nothing of computers? They might have vague feelings that they're robbing their children of a future if they don't run out and buy a 64K, dual-drive thing-a-majig. But don't be mislead by any of that Madison Avenue high-tech hype.

"Don't buy a computer unless you know what you're going to do with it," cautions Marc Schaefer of the SD&G County Board of Education.

Parents interested in staying on-line with their children's educational growth in this computer era can enroll in adult re-entry classes or contact Les Trois p'tit points cultural centre, which offers labs for the uninitiated.

In high schools, the emphasis is on computer labs, with the course dedicated to teaching the technology. At the elementary level, computers are integrated into the entire curriculum.

The students are taught subjects like math, science, languages and history by the teacher and then the pupils use computers to make sure the teaching sticks.

A couple of phrases to know are "hardware" which includes all of the machinery and "software" which is sets of instructions contained on disks.

The hardware most commonly used in elementary schools is built by Apple. At the secondary level, government-approved Icon computers are the most popular and Burroughs own controlling interest of the manufacturer.

Software development for the Apples can be done by any firm, whereas Icon software is produced with the aid of Ontario development funds.

The provincial government wants to standardize all computers and eventually only have Icons in the schools, but our local school boards are not impressed with this goal.

"We will maintain our commitment to Apple as long as the Ministry of Education doesn't develop software that equals or betters what we have," said Bert Bougie of the SD&G Roman Catholic Separate School Board. "It took us two years to sensitize teachers to the Apple, if we suddenly drop that and go to the Icon, there will be chaos."

Educational software at the elementary level is used as a tutorial instrument to reinforce the skills already taught by the teacher in a conventional manner.

There are four types of software in use; the first is called courseware. Courseware is a unit of study that has a logical progression and is used to teach subjects like language.

The program will teach the construction of a sentence by breaking it down into its individual parts. It will teach what nouns, verbs, subjects and adjectives are and how they fit into a sentence.

The second type of software is called lessonware and it is "subject-specific," meaning it teaches an isolated piece of information.

Usually this takes the form of an educational video game which draws on the student's desire to better the computer. For example, the program Golf Classic teachees abstract math, which involves estimating direction and distance. The student tries to hit the pin by choosing a direction from the number of degrees in a circle and by estimating the distance the ball should travel.

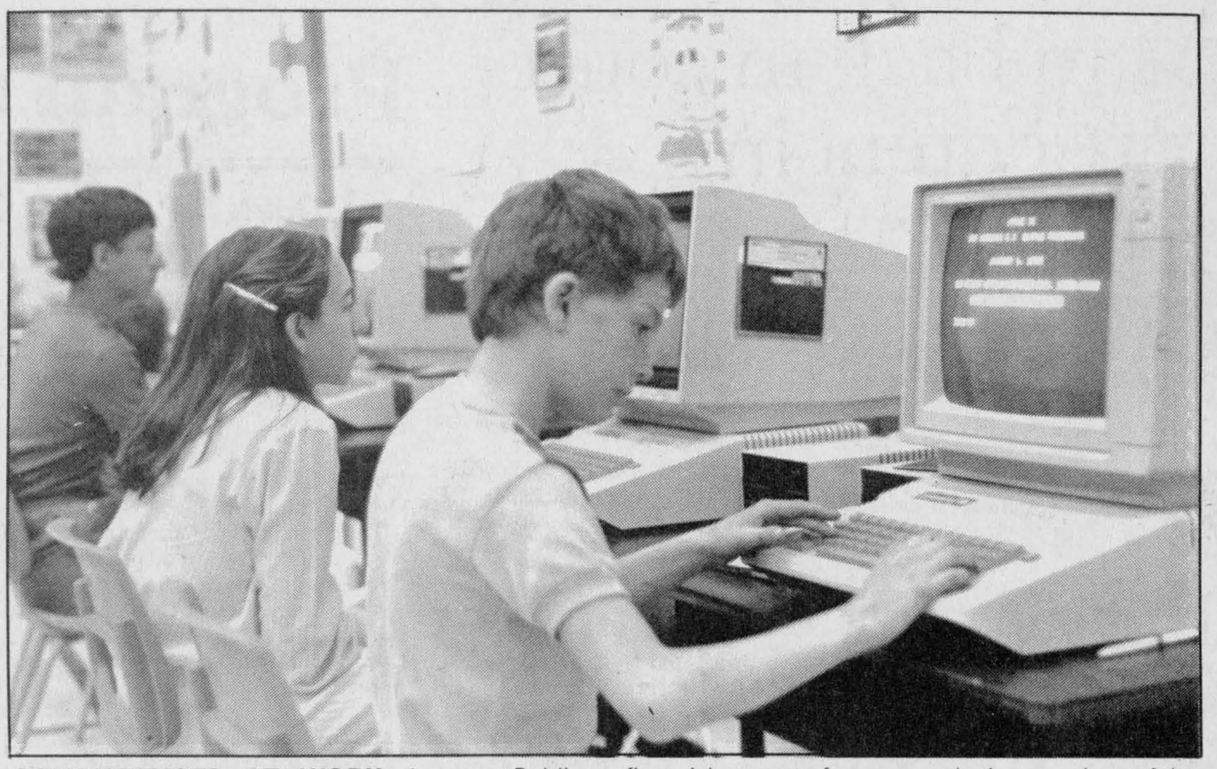
The third type of software is called tutorials and it presents information and then tests the student on it. This is used to teach things like how a computer works. Because of the small size of the screen, the teacher can't present this information to the entire class at the same time.

The fourth type of software is called drill and practice and provides guidance for students who are having problems with a particular lesson. This program provides a series of questions to the student and responds immediately to each answer, telling the child if he has answered correctly.

A good drill and practice program should give the teacher a read-out and analysis of each student who uses the project.

From this analysis, the teacher can determine which students are doing adequately and which ones require more review.

Parents wanting to get involved with their children in computers, might consider buying the least expensive computer available. After a few months on one of those, they should be able to decide between upgrading to a better system, or letting the child make his own mistakes.



COMPUTERISTS AT WORK—Laggan Public School has been committed to the use of computers in the classroom for years now. The school has a number of Apple computers, largely thanks to the financial support of parents and other members of the community. Here students demonstrate use of various educational packages during a recent open house at the school.
