OBITUARY

THE LATE BENJAMIN CINNAMON

The entire community was shocked to learn on Friday last of the sudden death of Mr. Benjamin Cinnamon, prominent and highly esteemed citizen of Winchester Township, in his 67th year.

The late Mr. Cinnamon had been in ill health for the past two weeks. He had assisted with the evening chores and partaken of the evening meal in the usual manner. About 8.30 he was stricken with a severe heart attack and passed away in a short time.

Deceased was born at Harmony, a son of the late Henry Cinnamon and his wife, Sarah Smith. In 1893 he was married to Mrs. Mary Ann Merkley and since that time had spent his entire life in this district, where he was a very highly respected citizen.

He was a member of the Loyal Orange Order and had taken an active part in the Lodge at Harmony when it was in existence. On several occasions he had served as trustee in his school section and had always taken a keen interest in municipal politics. He was a member of the United Church at Winchester.

The funeral was held at two o'clock on Sunday afternoon from the family residence. Service was conducted by Rev. W. S. Atchison, of the United Church, assisted by Rev. G. I. Burns, of the Ormond Baptist Church, and Rev. D. W. Summers of the local Wesleyan Methodist Church. During the service Mrs. P. Durant sang as a solo, "He's The One," accompanied by Mrs. Atchison, pianist. The minister chose as his text the 13th chapter of John, verse fifteen. Following the service, the funeral cortege, which was one of the largest ever seen in this district, proceeded to Maple Ridge, where interment was made.

The pall bearers were: Messrs. Haldane Cummings, Charles Dillabough, Benjamin George, James Hughes, Roy Docksteader and Ira Docksteader.

Besides his wife, he leaves three daughters, Mrs. Fred Lannin, Winchester; Mrs. James Fawcett, Inkerman, and Miss Stella Cinnamon, at home; four sons, Kenneth, of Harmony, and George, Wallace and Allan, at home; two brothers, James and Thomas, of Harmony, and two sisters, Mrs. Alex McGregor, Grand View, Man., and Mrs. James Rae Vancouver B. C.

INSPECTOR DIES AT CORNWALL

The death occurred at his home, Cornwall, Ontario, on Tuesday last, of Dr. Alonzo Moulton Vining, Dominion Department of Agriculture inspector for the United Counties. On that day, Dr. Vining had been at his work as usual but had complained of feeling ill. Later he was forced to retire to his room where he succumbed to a heart attack during the evening.

A WEATHER PREDICTION

Although the weather in Sudbury district is quite fall-like, Rev. A. J. Bruce who has gained himself a reputation as a weatherman, and who nearly always predicts correctly, stated that Ontario would have plenty of warm weather this fall, and that it would be one of the most pleasant autumns Canada has experienced in some years.

Municipal Council Will Build Sewer

FAIR GROUNDS BY-LAW TO BE VOTED ON AT NEXT COUNCIL MEETING

Several matters of local importance came up for discussion at the regular meeting of the municipal council, held in the Council Chamber and presided over by Reeve T. O. Keyes, with the following members present: Councillors Thos. Bailey, Dr. A. W. Sherwood, and Hyman Bessin, and the clerk-treasurer, Edward M. Shaver.

It was decided to proceed at once with the construction of a new sewer on St. Lawrence Street, south of the C.P.R. tracks. The work is to be done by day labor and Councillor Thomas Bailey was appointed as a commissioner to make all necessary arrangements. The engineer's report and blue prints, presented by the corporation engineer, F. M. Eagleson, met with the approval of council. Forms for the calling of tenders to build the sewer was also presented by the engineer, but council decided that day labor would be more satisfactory under present day conditions. A permit for the undertaking will be forthcoming from the Department of Highways, the Clerk informed the board.

After considerable discussion, it was decided to give the bylaw, concerning the purchase of the Fair Grounds as a municipal park and recreation grounds its final reading, when the members of the Council were all present.

The treasurer reported that up to August 31st, the tax collections had exceeded those for the same period last year. He also stated that, to date, the council had spent $3,600 less than last year, and that less money had been borrowed from the bank for carrying on the town's finances.

It was decided to purchase a quantity of stone for future road repairs, if it could be procured for as low a price as had been previously bargained for. This action was taken as an economy measure.

Reeve Keyes informed the council that he would attend the meeting at Cornwall next week, when the matter of Cornwall towship appealing its assessment would be brought up before a judge. He asked the members what stand they felt Winchester should take in the question.

It was the unanimous opinion of the local councillors that Cornwall township has no more right to appeal against the assessment than Winchester had. As was pointed out during the discussion, the assessment on local property had not been reduced during the past three years, although property was sold recently for less than it was assessed for.

Council adjourned to meet at the call of the reeve.

Fire Destroys Barns of Wm. Hay & Son

SEASON'S CROP OF HAY AND GRAIN ALSO CONSUMED IN BLAZE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the large frame barn on the farm of William Hay, Main Street, East, (formerly the James Scott property) yesterday afternoon. Consumed with the main barn were the season's crop of hay, several hundred bushels of grain and a milk house, which was erected a few years ago.

The fire was discovered by Colin Hay and his hired man about 5.30, when they entered the barn to do the evening chores. They had been away from home all day, assisting a neighbor, and had just finished their evening meal and proceeded to the barn to do the milking. Mr. Hay, Sr., had gone to the pasture to bring up the cattle, but had not reached the barn when the fire was discovered. The cows were turned back into the pasture. Had they been in the barn, no doubt a number of them would have been destroyed.

Mr. Hay states that when he first discovered the fire, it appeared to have started near the barn floor and was rapidly creeping up the side of the hay mow. He at once released the horses and other live stock and gave the alarm.

Fire Chief John Fader responded with all available equipment of the local fire brigade and proceeded at once to have streams of water played on the hog pen and hen house, which they succeeded in saving, after a hard battle.

House Takes Fire on Adjoining Farm

A light breeze was blowing in from the west and carried sparks and embers eastward, setting some of the log fences on fire. These were torn down. Later a blaze was seen coming from the roof of the wood shed annexed to John McCauley's house, about half a mile east. A number of men, together with ladders and hand fire extinguishers, were rushed to the scene of that blaze and quicky had it under control, but not until it had burned a hole about six feet square in the roof. Had this not been noticed when it was, no doubt the McCauley house would have been completely destroyed also.

The main barn on the Hay farm was about 50x100 feet in size and was one of the finest in the district. It contained an enormous quantity of feed which is a severe loss, especially at this time of year. Partly covered by insurance, the total loss will be approximately $5,000.

Local 100 Club Resumes Meetings

OPENING LUNCHEON HELD AT THE HOTEL WINCHESTER LAST FRIDAY NIGHT

The 100 Club held its first luncheon meeting of the fall season at Hotel Winchester, with the president, Centurian W. A. Rowat, in the chair, and Centurian Eldon Fennell in the secretary's chair.

There was a good attendance of members present, as well as a number of men who had served on committees during the staging of the 100 Club Sports Day last month. These were guests of the club on this occasion.

The meeting opened with a sing-song, led by Centurian Chester Timmins and with Miss Helen Timmins presiding at the piano.

As there was no guest speaker on the program, the members were entertained by Whistling Larry Hughes, of Ottawa, who gave some clever impersonations in addition to several well-executed whistling selections, which received hearty applause.

During the evening a prize boost was conducted by Centurian W. J. Stewart. The prizes were won by Centurians Jack Ault and W. A. Rowat.

Centurian Harry Flora reported for the Boys' Welfare Committee, stating that the club had made it possible for eight underprivileged boys to attend a summer camp.

In presenting the report on the recent sports day, sponsored by the 100 Club, the president announced that a net profit of $118 was realized, which was considered an excellent return on the day's program. He thanked all those who had, in any way, assisted in staging the event.

Representatives of St. Gerard's Athletic Club of Ottawa were among the visitors at the meeting and discussed the question of holding another boxing and wrestling program in the arena here, under the auspices of the 100 Club. It was decided to stage these contests early in October, and arrangements were left in the hands of the directors.

Before the meeting closed, a vote of thanks was extended to the members of 100 Club for their kind hospitality by Melvin Scott, on behalf of the guests.

It was announced that the next meeting would be held on September 20th, when the ladies will be invited to attend as guests of the club.

The meeting was closed with the National Anthem.

WEDDING

BUSH—DICKINSON

A quiet Autumn wedding of much charm and interest was solemnized at four o'clock Saturday afternoon in St. Luke's Anglican Church when Ada Maude, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dickinson, of Kemptville, became the bride of Mr. William Edward (Ted) Bush, of Ottawa, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bush, of Hallville. The rector, Rev. Serson Clarke, performed the ceremony in the presence of only intimate friends and relatives.

The bride was a charming figure in her travelling suit of navy blue tweed, with a long swagger coat with a silver fox collar worn over a short fitted jacket and an egg-shell satin blouse. Her accessories were in matching tones, and she wore a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses, lilies-of-the-valley and maiden-hair fern.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Mildred Carson, of Ottawa, who was becomingly gowned in a navy blue woolen dress with a smart blue felt hat, and gloves and shoes in the same shade. The bridesmaid's flowers were a shoulder knot of roses and sweet peas.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Earl Rose, of Ottawa.

Following the ceremony a small reception was held at the Standish hotel, and later Mr. and Mrs. Bush left for a short motor trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Georgian Bay. On their return they will reside at 436 Gilmour street.—Ottawa Citizen.

"The Farmer's Friend"

The Family DOCTOR

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

"BLADDER TROUBLES"

A friend in Oklahoma requested this letter.

These ailments are so named by ignorant laymen and unprincipled quacks—as if all "bladder troubles" were exactly alike!

They may vary from the most trifling irritation to the most ponderous, incurable and malignant growth. Formerly, most bladder irritations were supposed to be caused by "uric acid." Great numbers of urates were found in many such conditions.

With improved methods of diagnosis now, however, few mistakes need be made. It would take much space, however, to cover even brief mention of them. A heavy, foul sediment noticed in the urine on voiding should send the patient post-haste to the doctor because that is no time for guess-work.

Heavy sediment in the urine, coupled with an evil-smelling odor, especially if the patient be over 40 years of age, should send the sufferer to a capable physician. Fresh urine that is "smoky" in color or even red, leads to the conclusion that blood is present. Bloody urine is always a symptom of danger.

The first symptom of "bladder trouble" is frequency and burning on voiding urine. This symptom calls for immediate relief and in the elderly patient should occasion a search for stone in the bladder or urinary calculi which is distinctly a trouble of surgical importance.

The x-ray is one of the most essential pieces of apparatus in the diagnosis of bladder disease. Reliance should not be placed on quack nostrums no matter from where they come. Care should be taken in the drinking of water. Then see your physician

WHY NOT A DAY OF PRAYER BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE?

One of Midland's best known business men has made the suggestion that it is high time the churches woke to the seriousness of the International situation and sought the aid of Almighty God in preventing war again coming on the world. "A day of prayer was held throughout the Empire following the outbreak of the last war and the early German successes. "If there is anything in divine aid, and I believe tnere is," said he, "then we should seek it in advance and not after war starts."

NOTIFICATION OF ANIMAL DISEASE

Horses, mules and asses of all ages and classes are liable to contract any of the serious contagious diseases of the skin known as mange, scabies or itch. Mange is scheduled under the Animals Contagious Disease Act, which requires that every owner, breeder, dealer and veterinary surgeon suspecting the existence of this disease shall immediately notify the nearest veterinary inspector. Treatment is carried out under quarantine, the following mixture being used officially for hand treatment under the supervision of an inspector: Sulphur, 2 pounds; oil of tar, 8 ounces; raw linseed oil, 1 gallon.

THE BRIDGE DISASTER AT CORNWALL

(By Fred William in "Mail & Empire")

Thirty-seven years ago on September 6th, 1898, Canada was stirred by the news of a dreadful disaster near Cornwall. The south span of the bridge being built for the Ottawa and New York Railway dropped into the waters of the St. Lawrence, when a huge cement pier, just completed, crumbled. The bridge had been practically completed; riveters were still at work and some of the bridge men were taking down the big traveller and preparing to remove the false work when, without any warning, pier No. 2, on which rested the two ends of the big spans, gave way, and both spans sank into the river. Thirty-five workers were plunged into the water; of these 14 bodies were never recovered, three corpses were picked up, and 18 others were rescued and taken to Cornwall on a tug and cared for at the Hotel Dieu. A majority of them were maimed for life. The responsibility for the cracking of the cement pier was never, so far as I have been able to learn, placed, and the disaster was counted among those inscrutable visitations to which all human undertakings are subject.

While on the subject of Cornwall can any reader give me the date, year and month of the theft of Pat Purcell's body from the little Roman Catholic cemetery a few miles from Cornwall? If my recollection is right the body was found years afterwards floating in the St. Lawrence. Was it stolen for ransome? Where was it hidden all the intervening months?

THE FIRST WRITING MATERIALS

Before paper was made stones, clay, waxed boards, leaves, barks and skins were used to write on. Stone came first, the characters being scratched on it by means of harder stones or metal tools. It is said that the reason why most of the capital letters of our alphabet are composed of entirely straight lines is because they were easier to carve than curved ones.

The Romans employed small, flat trays containing wax. This was scratched by means of a metal "stylus." The writing could be erased by means of the flat end of the stylus.

It was not until the Ninth Century that the Arabs, returning from war against the Chinese, brought with them prisoners who taught them paper making.

PRESBYTERY NAMES REV. THOS. KNOWLES TO BE MODERATOR

Appreciation of the high ethical tone expressed in the manifestos now being presented to the Canadian public by all parties was expressed at the first meeting of the Dundas-Grenville Presbytery convened at Williamsburg United church on Thursday last. The presbytery commended statesmen of all parties for their evident concern for human welfare and urged that the people cast their ballots in the light of them. The presbytery also recommended that ministers preach temperance sermons and called for an intensified campaign against social drinking, urging greater evangelistic efforts.

Officers and Committees

Officers and standing committees for the Dundas-Grenville Presbytery were appointed. Rev. Thomas Knowles, of Iroquois, was chosen chairman of the presbytery, while Rev. G. H. Smith, of Morewood, was re-elected as secretary-treasurer. The opening devotional services were conducted by Rev. H. L. Morrison, of Kemptville, retiring chairman, who congratulated Mr. Knowles and also thanked the members for their assistance during the year. Rev. Dr. P. W. Anderson, of Oxford Mills, and Rev. R. Douglas Smith, of Morrisburg, new members of the presbytery, were introduced. The following lay delegates were welcomed: James Hawkins, Easton's Corners; P. W. Froats, Spencerville; and W. J. Forward and J. C. Gilder, both of Iroquois. A. P. Newman, of Spencerville, and Rev. Thomas McNaught, of Russell United Church were made corresponding members.

The treasurer's report showed that there was a balance on hand of $399.62. Election of officers was conducted by Rev. R. C. Tait, of Chesterville, and J. C Gilder, of Iroquois.

Rev. R. C. Tait, Chesterville; Rev. R. W. Armstrong, Merrickville, and Rev. A. W. Seaton and Elisha Adams were appointed a nominating committee to select the various standing committees.

The afternoon session was taken up by discussion of a report by A. W. Seaton, convener of the evangelism and social service committee, and an address by Rev. Dr. James Faulds, of Cornwall, president of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference. Dr. William Munroe, conference secretary, spoke on the missionary and maintenance problems of the church.

RECONSTRUCTION PARTY MEETING AT KEMPTVILLE

There was a fairly good attendance at the first meeting held by the Reconstruction party in the I.O.O.F. hall, Kemptville, on Thursday evening last, with a goodly number of ladies present. On the platform were Dr. C. A. Patterson, the candidate for Grenville-Dundas; Herman James, candidate for Carleton county; Dr. A. B. Clayton, president; W. L. Beaton, vice-president; J. A. Anderson, treasurer; Rev. A. W. R. Mackenzie, organizer, and Don Toppin, secretary.

Mr. Beaton introduced Don Toppin who spoke briefly voicing the opinion that the farmer was being exploited by the big financiers. Mr. James addressed the meeting stating that he felt the Reconstruction party was in keeping with the times and that past actions were not good for present-day policies.

Dr. Patterson was introduced by Mr. Beaton and spoke of the promises Mr. Bennett had made to the people and had not carried out. The speaker stated that he felt strongly for the youth of the country and the Stevens party was pledged to put 80 per cent of the youth unemployed into jobs within a year if put in power. Mines and coal fields should be placed under government control and a change was needed in the monetary system of the country. A loosening of credit was needed before prosperity would come again. He was against the amalgamation of the two railways as he did not want to see the people of the country left holding the enormous debt and a private concern the assets.

Dr. Clayton, of Chesterville; W. L. Beaton, of North Augusta, and Rev. A. W. R. Mackenzie, of Spencerville, addressed the meeting briefly. Owing to the lateness of the hour it was decided to withhold the forming of a Stevens Club in Kemptville until a later date.

TWO DROWNED AT FARRAN'S POINT

A tragic accident, in which two persons were drowned, occurred on the St. Lawrence River at Farran's Point on Thursday night last. The victims were Miss Lucille Mitchell and her brother, William, of Croil's Island.

With four others, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lague, Clifton Woods and Theodore Munroe, later saved, the Mitchells set out in a leaky rowboat from Croil's Island for a dance at Farran's Point, on the mainland. Suddenly the boat filled with water and turned over.

Mitchell lost his hold and sank immediately. His sister, after losing her hold several times and being returned to the boat, went under also. Obrey Cryderman and his son, Walter, rowed out to the others after they had been in the water for half an hour.

Provincial police learned that the party started out to cross the wide channel from the island to the mainland shortly after nine o'clock and were about 500 to 600 feet from shore when the heavily-loaded rowboat filled with water and began to sink. Before they could bail out, the craft overturned, hurling them into the swift current. Only two of the six persons, Roy Lague and Clifton Woods, were able to swim and they managed to assist the non-swimmers to reach the capsized boat.

However, the boat turned over and over in the swift current and it was with difficulty that members of the party managed to keep afloat.

Finally, William Mitchell lost his hold and slipped below the surface. A moment later, his sister let go and went under, but Lague was able to grasp her and aid her back to the boat. She slipped a second time and Lague dived again to restore her to comparative safety but had no sooner done so than he himself lost his grip, and went down.

Drifts Away From Boat

Lague was able to return to the boat but was so exhausted that he almost lost consciousness. In the meantime, the girl had drifted away from the boat, and was lost in the swift current. Cries for assistance had been heard by Obrey Cryderman, whose farm home is but a short distance from the scene of the tragedy.

With his son, Walter, Cryderman rowed out and rescued the four survivors. Dr. A. L. Brown, Aultsville, was called and applied artificial respiration to Roy Lague for some minutes before restoring consciousness. Victims of the drowning were the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell, Croll's Island. They moved to the Island two years ago from Massena, N. Y.

TO ARRIVE LATE IN OCTOBER

Lord Tweedsmuir, Canada's next Governor General, will arrive toward the end of October instead of on October 10, it was learned from Lieutenant Colonel E. D. Mackenzie, comptroller to the household of the Governor General.

MAY VOTE AWAY FROM HOME IN DOMINION ELECTION ON OCT. 14

Voters in the Dominion general election next month will cast their ballots under a law which has been materially changed in several particulars. Fundamentally there is the provision for "closed" lists. The voters were enumerated a year ago and the lists were revised this spring and summer with the revision completed, that is the end of it. Heretofore, in rural polls, a person who was known to be eligible as a voter but whose name was not on the list, could vote by making an affidavit. This, no longer is possible. If he is not on the lists today he cannot vote on October 14th.

Another innovation consists in provision for absentee voters. Fishermen, lumbermen, sailors and miners who are on the list for a certain constituency but away from it on election day can go to a polling booth where they are, fill out a ballot and have it sent to their own home to be counted. This is possible, only within a province. An Ontario man, absent in Quebec, could not have his ballot sent home. In the case of close contests these absentee voters may cut a figure. As they are to be polled on election day, at the place where the absentee voter is and forwarded they will not be counted in the home constituency until afterwards.

Another new provision is that every voter—urban or rural—is to be notified by the Returning Officers as to the precise location of the poll at which he is to vote. Heretofore the parties have done it.

THE DIFFERENCE

An old Negro had just paid the last instalment on a small farm when the realtor who sold it said: "Well, Uncle Joe, I will make you a deed to the farm now since it has been paid for."

"Boss," the old darky replied, "if it am all de same to you I had much rather you would give me a mortgage to de place."

The realtor, somewhat surprised, said, "Uncle Joe, you don't seem to know the difference between a mortgage and a deed."

"Well, maybe not," said Uncle Joe reminiscently, "but I owned a small farm once to which I had a deed and de Fust National Bank had a mortgage and de bank got de farm."

ONTARIO AID FOR CHILDREN

Ontario relief authorities are ready to aid "relief" school children who cannot pay for the textbooks they need at school.

The plight of children from "relief" homes was recognized by the Provincial authorities. They announced their willingness to pay a Provincial share of the money needed for school texts.

Provision of the books is now up to the municipalities. To put the texts in the hands of the "relief" children city and town councils—now running relief—must pass the necessary vote.

"We made provision for school books last year, and we're ready to make provision this year," Hon. David Croll said when queried about the text books. Welfare Department school books last year were the first Province-wide supply of books for the children of unemployed families.

NOT RESPONSIBLE

(Stratford- Beacon-Herald)

Liberals are trying to prove to the electors that the depression in Canada started immediately after Mr. Bennett office in 1930, and the Tories are endeavoring to show that it started before Mackenzie King quit office. All of which is unadulterated tommyrot.

The public knows well enought that the depression was a world-wide affair. Canada became enmeshed in it the same as every other country, and Canada will not get out of it until other countries get out of it. It is utterly silly and ridiculous to try to make people digest statements that either Mr. King or Mr. Bennett brought the depression into existence personally.

Neither of them did. And neither of them will end it personally. Nor will Mr. Stevens or Mr. Woodsworth, or any other individual party leader.

LEADING PAINT MANUFACTURERS ANNOUNCE

PRICE REDUCTION

First Quality House Paint

Now $3.75 per gallon

$1 per quart

The Quality Remains Exactly The Same. Only The Price Is Changed.

Dating from to-day, the price of first quality house paints manufactured and sold by the undersigned companies is reduced from $4.65 to $3.75 per gallon.

There has been no change in market conditions or manufacturing costs to justify this step. We feel, however, there is urgent need for action that will make it possible for householders to obtain the highest quality paints at the lowest price consistent with strict maintenance of quality.

Thousands of people all over the country have been forced to put off much needed painting. Thousands more have been misled by "bargain" prices into using inferior paint of little or no value. We want to make it easier for you to enjoy the advantages of painting with first quality paint only, and are confident that the generous reduction in price now announced is the best way to accomplish this.

WHAT MOTORISTS PAY

Since registration fees on automobile and gasoline taxation have been introduced in Canada, the motorists of the Dominion have paid out a sum equal to 35.1 per cent. of the net national debt and 15.55 per cent. of the national debt including the railway debt. Present official figures show that the gross national debt is $2,764,964,297. Of this the railway debt for the National System amounts to $1,536,073,758. Since automobiles were introduced into Canada and the provincial governments started collecting registration fees, and and later gasoline taxes, motorists have paid, altogether, $430,224,510 which, on the basis of present registration figures, amounts to slightly less than $430 per motor vehicle.

The WOMAN'S ANGLE

A woman with a remarkable memory attributes it to a game her father used to play with her children. They'd go walking each evening and the child that could name the most things seen on the trip was always given a prize. The training in observation and memory has stuck with her all her life!

The recent argument in St. Louis about whether women should be permitted in bars or not, gives rise to the observation that wherever mixed drinking is practiced, the tone of the group is decidedly improved. ONE OF THE FEW

A farmer with $1,700 cash in his pockets and a stack of receipts, whose name was not disclosed coused a mild sensation when he appeared before the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act Board at Peace River, Alta.

In contrast to others who came before the board with empty pockets and stories of exorbitant land prices and interest rates, this farmer said he was satisfied with the high price he agreed to pay when he bought and that he would pay honestly for his shortsightedness. He did not want the interest rate cut or reduction of the purchase price.

He produced receipts for doctor's bills, taxes, store accounts, gas and oil bills. "They are all paid," he declared, producing $1,700 in bills. "I want you to make a distribution of this money to my land creditors. I will look after my bank loan in the fall."

The board members complimented the man on his integrity. "It is evident you are the paying sort and we are gratified to see you blaming yourself and not the rest of the world for your mistake in buying expensive land.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Substitute For Starch

Water drained from either rice or spaghetti can be used as a starch substitute.

Pastry Dough

Add a few drops of lemon juice to the pastry dough and it will make it more digestible.

Keeping Tea

Tea will keep much better in a glass jar with a close-fitting top than in a tin receptacle.

An Emergency Augur

A rod of iron brought to a white heat will take the place of an augur when a hole is to be bored in wood.

Chamois Gloves

Add a teaspoonful of olive oil to the water when washing chamois gloves. It will keep them nice and soft.

The Bird's Bath

Place a few drops of cologne water in the bird's bath and it will keep him from picking his feathers after his bath.

Apple Butter

When making apple butter, boil the apples down in cider instead of water and see what a wonderful flavor it imparts.

Dresser Drawers

To prevent the sticking and warping of a dresser or cabinet drawer, varnish the inside. This will also act as a moth preventive.

Cake Baking

Do not let the cake batter stand after it has been mixed. If this is done air bubbles will form and make the cake coarse grained.

Storing Packages

When storing things for the summer or winter, mark each package as to its contents and there will be no trouble to find certain articles when they are needed.

Perspiration Stains

To remove perspiration stains, soak the garment in strong salt water before laundering. The stains on colored silk can be sponged with lukewarm water.

Scorched Dishes

If dishes have been scorched or burnt, let them stand for a day in a solution of borax water, then wash with soap and water, and the brown stains will disappear.

Napkins

Luncheon napkins should be from fifteen to twenty inches in size. Tea napkins are correct if they are ten to twelve inches square.

Cleaning Drain Pipe

Some authorities claim that nothing is better to clean a clogged drain pipe, or one that is slow in running than common household lye.

Ink Stains

A cloth dampened with household ammonia will usually remove ink stains from the fingers. Then wash the hands with soap and water.

Old Gloves

A pair of discarded kid gloves worn when paring potatoes, or working with other vegetables, will prevent stains on the fingers and hands.

Staining Floors

Before staining the floors, remove all the oil or polishing cream from it with soda and water. If this is not done the stain will not dry properly.

Room Fragrance

Try burning an orange peel on a shovel or tin pan, and see how it sweetens the atmosphere of the room and the pleasant fragrance it produces.

Buying Shoes

It is better to buy shoes in the afternoon, as by that time the feet will have spread from being on them, and the shoes will always be comfortable.

Iron Rust

To remove iron rust from linen, use lemon juice and salt. Cover with salt and moisten with lemon juice, then place in the sun. Repeat until the stain has gone.

Cleaning White Wood

Wood that has become discolored and darkened by long usage can be made white by using a solution of one teaspoonful of oxalic acid to one cup of hot water. Apply with a scrubbing brush.

5,948,503 VOTERS ON LISTS

A total of 5,948,503 Canadians are eligible to vote October 14, according to the compilation made by Col. J. T. Thompson, Dominion franchise commissioner. That figure represents the general registration of voters on the basic list.

Most of the constituency lists have been sent out to the different parties. Each candidate nominated is entitled to 21 copies and to meet the apparent demand 100 copies have been made of each of the lists.

UPSETTIN', SURELY

A story is told of a negro preacher who prayed earnestly that his colored brethren might be preserved from what he called their "upsettin' sins."

"Brudder," said one of his friends at the close of the meeting, "you ain't got de hang of dat ar word. It's 'besettin' not 'upsetting,"

"Brudder," replied the preacher, "If dat's so, it's so. But I was a prayin' de Lord to save us from de sin of intoxication and if dat ar ain't a upsettin' sin, I dunno what am."

THE KING'S 10,265 TELEGRAMS

Statistics just availalbe give some indication of the work performed by His Majesty's secretaries during Jubilee week. During the period May 3 to 9, the King received 10,265 telegrams from every conceivable part of the world. Every sender of a telegram within the British Isles, no matter what his rank or station in life, had a reply sent him by His Majesty or by one of the private secretaries. Overseas messages were similarly answered, the more important by cable, but many by a personal letter from the King's secretaries or His Majesty's representative in the Dominions or Colonies.

Cleaning House

Try using a large new paint brush for dusting around baseboards, corners, window sills and such places, and see if it isn't a big improvement over the ordinary dust cloth.

Cleaning Kitchen Linoleum

When the kitchen linoleum is unusually soiled, particularly during rainy weather, add a few drops of kerosene to the pail of water when washing it. This will loosen the dirt and make the task much easier.

Melba Toast

Remove the crust from thin slices of wheat bread, spread the bread on a shallow pan and bake in a moderate oven until the toast is delicate brown and very crisp. Melba toast is delicious when served with soups, salads, or even with the main course of a meal,

THE TOWN NEWSPAPER

There is, after all, no newspaper in the world that means so much to one as his own town paper. The daily, with its flaring headlines and its sensational news, coming red-hot off the wires, that tells us what is happening in the great outside world, is a very necessary visitor. But there is another world—the world of our own home town—where all the actors on the stage of life are known to us, where the way each acts his part in the drama of life is a matter of personal interest to all, where sickness and death, losses and accidents, arouse something deeper than the passing, curious interest with which we read such happenings to unknown persons in the daily newspapers, and where the outstanding success or the winning of distinction by members of this little world becomes a matter for pride and gratification to the whole community. And the record and the character of these happenings is the town newspaper. It is the Community builder in which everyone should have a personal interest, and in which every man, woman and child is invited to co-operate in an effort to have it present each week a correct history of the town and district that each week voices correctly the public opinion of the community, and to take the right stand on all public questions that arise. Therefore the Home Town Newspaper deserves the support of all public officials, public institutions as well as the business interests and people generally.—Exchange.

THE BOOK

. . . . . the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures . . . . . .

by BRUCE (PAS) BARTON

HUXLEY—HE DID NOT KNOW!

ALTOGETHER the languages and dialects in which the Bible, either in whole or in substantial part, is in the hands of the people number about five hundred, with a billion possible readers.

Bruce Barton

How difficult this rendering of the Scriptures into strange tongues has been may be illustrated by some of the odd printings in our language. We have the "breeches" Bible, in which the aprons of Adam and Eve are thus translated; the "treacle" Bible in which "Is there no balm in Gilead?" is translated "is there no treacle, (or molasses) in Gilead?"; the "bug" Bible, with an infelicitous rendering of "creeping things," and the "wicked" Bible, with the important word "not" omitted from the seventh commandment. If, with the finest scholarship and the utmost care, such infelicities have occurred in our own tongue, imagine the obstacles to a clear understanding of the gospel message in heathen tribes.

The man who invented the term "agnostic" was Thomas H. Huxley, the scientist. He did not deny, he merely did not profess to know. As in the early Christian centuries there were certain sects that professed knowledge and called themselves "Gnostics," he, admitting ignorance, called himself an "Agnostic." He was a member of the London school board, and the question was raised concerning the use of the Bible in the schools. It was generally supposed that he would oppose it. In The Contemporary Review for December, 1871, he said:

> I have always been strongly in favor of secular education, in the sense of education without theology, but I must confess I have been no less seriously perplexed to know by what practical measures the religious feeling, which is the essential basis of conduct, was to be kept up in the present utterly chaotic state of opinion on these matters without the use of the Bible.
> Take the Bible as a whole, make the severest deductions which fair criticism can dictate for shortcomings and positive errors, as a sensible lay teacher would do if left to himself, all that is not desirable for children to occupy themselves with, and there still remains in this old literature a vast residuum of moral beauty and grandeur. And then consider the great historical fact, that for three centuries this book has been woven into the life of all that is best and noblest in English history; that it has become the national epic of Britain, and is familiar to noble and simple from John o' Groat's House to Land's End, as Dante and Tasso were once to the Italians; that it is written in the noblest and purest English, and abounds in exquisite beauties of a merely literary form.
> By the study of what other book could children be so much humanized, and made to feel that each figure in that vast historical procession fills, like themselves, but a momentary space in the interval between two eternities, and earns the blessings or the curses of all times, according to its efforts to do good and hate evil, even as they also are earning their payment for their work?

WHY TAKE THE CHANCE ?

It is surprising the number of motorists who are willing to take chances and pick up strange men and incidentally, women, along the public highways. During the present motoring season, the main-travelled roads have been infested with individuals who are "thumbing" their way, anywhere from the next town to across the continent.

In spite of innumerable warnings issued by police authorities against the practice, motorists still travel, who are willing to stop and give them a lift. Often the driver's blood would be turned to water if he were told the character and record of the man sitting beside him on the seat of his car and who "thumbed" him for a ride.

For example, the police of Wichita, Kansas, got curious recently and took all hitch-hikers they could find into cutody to be finger-printed. The report indicated two out of every five picked up, had criminal records. Some of them as long as your arm were encountered in the check-up of police records. Yet motorists stop and give them a lift—sight unseen. Take no such risks and enjoy the balance of the motoring season in security.

THE AVERAGE CANADIAN—AND WAR

During the past few days, the political leaders, now on an advertising campaign for their respective parties, have been giving much attention to the question of Canada's attitude towards engaging in another war in Europe.

It should be apparent, without discussion on the part of anyone, that the average Canadian today is solidly against making war except for purposes of defence. From 1914 to 1918, thousands of young Canadians fought and died in a senseless conflict purported to be for freedom and democracy and world peace.

Twenty years have passed and we find the same nations once more brandishing weapons and talking about further aggression. Meanwhile, the munition manufacturers laught to themselves and pocket millions of dollars.

In commenting upon the unanimity of opinion against war among Canadian statesmen, the Brockville Recorder & Times strikes the popular note when it says:

"If a poll could be taken on the question of whether or not Canada should take part in, for instance, armed conflict between Great Britain and Italy, we believe that it would be overwhelmingly antagonistic to such a proposal. Because of the losses which were suffered during the Great War, the vast majority of the people of Canada are more opposed to even the thought of war than ever before. Nor do they consider that in assuming such an attitude they are necessarily the weaklings that militarists are accustomed to picture those who are peace-minded. Having tasted all that war on the modern scale means, they are simply against it and want no repetition of what they went through a few years ago, especially when they consider the present issues.

It is, after all, a heartening thing to find that the leaders of the political parties in Canada are a unit in condemning any hasty, precipitate action on the part of this country in the event of an outbreak of war. It means that public sentiment has undergone a pronounced change during the past few years. The "ready, aye ready" school of thought has been submerged and the voice of the jingo is rarely heard in the land. If it had been less in evidence at other periods, a great deal of loss and suffering might have been averted.

A TREMENDOUS TASK

Considerable speculation is taking place in political circles as to the probable outcome of the provincial election in Alberta. Premier Aberhart painted a very rosy picture of things in his pre-election addresses and statements. It remains to be seen if he puts his Social Credit theories into practice.

The Financial Post summarizes the Aberhart Brand of Social Credit as follows:

"No one will be permitted to draw any wages or other income in any form except credits in a government pass book. The worker will receive no real money at all.

"It will be illegal to buy or sell so much as a toothpick or a newspaper except at a price fixed by the politicians.

"It will be a crime to save any money, except to invest in Alberta bonds. The individual who takes a flyer in a penny mining stock or a Dominion Government bond will go to jail.

"Every individual's business or work will be controlled by the government. The grocer can be ordered to mend clocks; the dentist to mine coal; the doctor to slaughter pigs.

"There will be a sales tax on every transaction—probably 10 per cent. The same goods can be taxed over and over again. Wheat will be taxed as wheat, as flour, as bread, and possibly several times as each.

"These sales taxes will take $120,000,000 yearly, or $25 per month apiece from each of the 400,000 taxable citizens.

"Any citizen who buys a cigarette, a novel, a movie ticket or any other article designated as a 'luxury' while he is hungry or improperly clothed, will be put on the Indian list and receive no Social Credit dividends.

"No article can be imported into Alberta if it sells for less than the producer in Alberta is charging.

"For that matter, all importations into Alberta will be prohibited except by permit. Anyone smuggling in goods will be punished.

"There will be provincial police officers on every train and on every highway. They will search all baggage and all cars.

"The man who has lived in Alberta less than one year will be forbidden to import anything, will be forbidden to work and must beg or starve until his year is up.

"If an Albertan wishes to move to another province he must declare his wealth and he will be allowed to take out of the province only what the provincial inspectors think is necessary to the very existence of himself and 'loved ones.'

"There will be a fixed maximum income. It will be a crime to earn more than that.

"Any resident who receives a pay cheque or dividend cheque from outside will have to turn it in to the province in exchange for a non-negotiable credit.

"The people will get $120,000,000 in basic dividends. They will be charged $120,000,000 a year in sales taxes. All they get is the ride—plus the bills for inspectors and officials."

The Premier of Alberta is faced with a tremendous task if he is to enforce such unique regulations in a province where the inhabitants have been accustomed to personal initiative, private ownership and the right to engage in any or several occupations if so inclined without interference from anyone. It may be possible to make such a Social Credit system work—but we are from Missouri—you have to show us.

EDITORIAL NOTE

A hobo was recently sentenced to two years in Portsmouth penitentiary for stealing 53 bottles of wine from the cellar of an Ottawa judge. It is said that the judge was "low in spirits" following the theft of the wine, which was valued at approximately $200.00

ALL MIXED UP

Speaking of grammatical errors, or, to satisfy the purists, errors in grammar, Lord Morley once said: "Neither you nor I am entirely ourselves." His solecism was picked up by "Punch" which inquired: 'Then who else am we?'

Parson—My fren's, I'se got a call to another church.

Deacon—How much more does you-all git?

Parson—Three hundred dollahs.

Deacon—You should be more conspicuous in your language, Parson. You-all hasn't had a call, you has had a raise.

LEAVE SHADOWS BEHIND

Never mind what has been. Remember that every morning begins a new day—a day for fresh endeavour, a day that may and should be filled with hope and gladness. Don't add to your blunders by condemning yourself too harshly for your errors and shortcomings. Better folks than you have made worse mistakes and bigger failures. Forgive yourself as fully and as freely as you would forgive another, and go cheerily on, leaving the shadows of regret behind.—Maryland Trooper.

CASH RELIEF TO COME

Premier Hepburn has promised cash relief for the whole of Ontario by next January. It is expected administrative costs will be cut fifty per cent. The prime minister refuted the allegation that cash payments or "benefits" as he preferred to call them, were degenerating and disastrous. It was not founded on logic or fact. The dole was being concealed behind the voucher system at present; in theory vouchers were food orders, but in actuality they were a form of social credit scrip. Everything and anything could be purchased with them.

Through its cash payments for relief work Ontario had gained experience. Such cash payments had not been abused. Therefore, he asked, if a man who was doing relief work could be trusted to spend cash, why could not a man who was unable to find employment? At all times, he added, recipients would be expected to work if and when work was provided or found for them. Otherwise relief would cease.

THE UNITED CHURCH

"The Inescapable Christ" was the subject of Rev. W. S. Atchison's message on Sunday morning, the text being Psalm 139:7. Man is in search for God and God is in search for man. The history of Jacob, Elizah and Jonah was briefly sketched, showing how each tried to escape from God in their flight from duty. Notice how kindly and tenderly they were wooed back. God came to seek and to help the lost. The pastor quoted part of Francis Thompson's poem "The Hound of Heaven." This man tried to escape God but was sought and found by Him and became a new creature in Christ Jesus. We cannot evade God.

Matt. 9:21 was the evening text. The faith of the woman was stressed, and it was shown that to have authority we must come under authority. Christ's willingness was evident. The woman had no earthly hope. As the woman came in contact with Christ so do we need to and then we should make contact with others to win them for Christ's Kingdom.

A good choir with Mrs. Carr at the organ rendered an acceptable anthem at each service.

Next Sunday morning the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

HULBERT GIRL REMEMBERED BY FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS

An interesting event took place on Friday evening when about sixty-five friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Miss Eva Thorpe to bid her farewell before leaving this community.

An address was read by Miss Margaret Ellis and the presentation was made by Dulcie Montgomery and Stanley McQuaig.

Dear Eva:—

As we have heard that you are about to sail on the good ship "Matrimony," we, your friends, have assembled here to-night to wish you "Bon Voyage" and to offer our best wishes for your future happiness.

It is the inevitable law of Nature that time brings changes and we would not wish it otherwise, yet you know Eva that this change will leave a void in your home, in our community and in our church and Sunday School, where your cheerful disposition and willingness to help in all phases of our work will long be remembered. You are leaving a vacancy that will be difficult to fill, and your work with the Mission Band will not be forgotten.

We are lamenting your departure and contemplating with anxiety the gap that will result, however we sincerely hope that you and yours might be able to meet us in our church activities and in our homes.

We ask you to accept this small gift, not as a measure of, but as a tangible token of our esteem and regret, but we fell sure that you will continue to exert a beneficial influence in your new environment.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors.

HALLVILLE SOFTBALLERS ARE TENDERED BANQUET

On Thursday evening last the Hallville softball team, champions in the Dundas Softball League, were tendered a delightful banquet by the Ladies' Association of St. Andrew's United Church, Hallville. The banquet was held in the dining hall of the church, where long tables were beautifully decorated and a sumptuous banquet was served by the hostesses.

The guests were received at the church door by Rev. and Mrs. Morrison, who ushered the party to the banquet hall, where a very enjoyable time was had by the players and their lady friends. Broder Scarlett, manager of the team, and Delbert Wylie, captain, were the guests of honor.

Grace was said by Rev. Morrison, and the banquet opened with everyone singing "God Save the King." A toast was then proposed to the Church by Lester Brown; responded to by Rev. Morrison.

MUST PAY COSTS OF 21 WITNESSES IN DOG CASE

Appearing before Magistrate John McCormick in magistrate's court at Morrisburg on Friday afternoon last, John Coir, of Morrisburg was found guilty of harboring a nuisance which endangered public safety by allowing a vicious police dog to run at large. FIRE DESTROYS BARN AND CONTENTS NEAR MOUNTAIN

The barn and contents of Mr. Gordon Robinson's farm, which is three miles from Mountain, and which is operated by Albert Baker, was a total loss as a result of a fire, thought to have been started by heated hay causing spontaneous combustion, on Thursday last.

The fire was first discovered when Mr. Baker went to do the morning work. Smelling smoke, he investigated and found that the entire contents were on fire. All the season's crop of hay was burned, and other contents.

Mr. Baker received several severe burns on his hands and arms in trying to save the harness.

The entire loss is estimated at about $5,000.

Miller occupied the chair during the election of officers.

W. C. T. U.

The September meeting was held last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Karl Helmer with the president, Mrs. N. W. Beach in charge. Mrs. J. I. Johnston opened with earnest prayer and after a hymn was sung a season of prayer was held, followed by the exposition of Prov. 8 by Mrs. Johnston.

The president announced that Mrs. Faulds had met with some members of the Winchester Union on Wednesday to make plans for County work and for the itinerary of Mrs. T. T. George, who plans to visit the schools in this district on Sept. 23rd.

The clip sheet which was on the National Study Course for Sunday Schools was conducted by Mrs. Earle. The lessons of this course will appear in the Sunday School papers given out on October 6th, 13th, 20th, 27th and Nov. 3rd They will also be available from our national denominational headquarters, in pamphlet form at 5 cents a copy, 30 cents per dozen, or $2.00 per hundred.

All boys and girls up to the age of 17 years may have a share in these Temperance Courses, and have the chance to win a local, a county, a provincial and a Dominion prize.

Co-operation should be shown by parents and teachers in arousing interest in this course that will extend temperance knowledge.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Beach.

MAN IN EDMONTON TURNING TO STONE

A man in Edmonton is turning to stone—a mysterious ailment is creeping through his body, making every muscle as hard as granite.

Thomas McDonnell is 56 years of age. He was stricken down when he was seven and now for nearly a half century he has helplessly witnessed his body becoming ossified.

It began with a slight pain in his back, spread slowly to his knees and ankles, took possession of his arms and neck, until now he is forced to remain rigidly in one position.

He arrived in Edmonton Tuesday from Hamilton, Ont., handled by porters and ambulance drivers as if he was a piece of rare porcelain. He is living with relatives there.

METCALFE UNITED W. A. HONORS ACTIVE MEMBER

The September meeting of the Women's Association of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. J. E. Woods with a record attendance of members; also several visitors.

The president, Mrs. D. Dow, was in the chair, and was assisted in the opening exercises by Mrs. J. Eldon Craig.

The main item of business was a discussion as to having a refreshment booth at the fair. It was finally suggested that instead of the booth, each member place a voluntary offering in the treasury. This met with the unanimous approval of the meeting. An excellent paper was given by Mrs. D. J. Kidney, after which a presentation of a piece of silverware was made to Mrs. H. Wallace who has been an active member of the association and is leaving Metcalfe to take up residence in the vicinity of Ottawa. The presentation was made by Mrs. B. Reaney and Mrs. A. R. Boland. Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. E. Woods, Mrs W Carson, Mrs. H. McKendry, Mrs. M. Whiteside. The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. McKendry.

Presentation to Mrs. Herb Doran

The Jolly Set met at the home of Mrs. Herb Doran on Wednesday evening last, September 4th, to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Doran upon their recent marriage.

During the evening Mrs. Doran was called to the floor, while Mrs. F. R. Barriger read the following address and Ms. W. J. Irving presented the bride with a beautiful silver relish dish.

Following is the address:

Dear Annie:—

Better known to the Set as Sophie for it is in these terms of friendship that we think of you.

Now that you have launched your vessel upon the high sea of matrimony, your friends of the Jolly Set have gathered to-night to wish you "Bon Voyage" For some time indications were not lacking to the experienced members of the Set, that sooner or later a life partnership would be entered into between you and Herb. But the quietness of your wedding day came as a surprise. The manner in which you eluded us on your wedding day reflects much credit of the secret training you received from the Jolly Set.

While we have learned with much regret of your intended departure from among us, words fail to express just how much you will be missed from this little band, as you were always ready to do your part when called upon, in helping to prepare the dainty lunches; to entertain while the maids were busy in the kitchen, even to wash dishes after our cup of tea.

While we still regret your leaving, we hope the short distance will not be too great that you will not be able to join us many times.

With our heartiest wishes for your future and as a slight token of our regard for you, we ask you to accept this little gift, not for its intrinsic value, but as a love gift from your friends of the Jolly Set, and when you are enjoying the jello it will hold, may it serve as a reminder of the many good times we have had together and that we still claim you as one of the fold.

Our best wishes will accompany you to your new home.

Signed on behalf of the Jolly Set.

The members of the Set served a dainty lunch and a social hour was spent together.

McGillis read the following address and Mr. Fred Beckstead made the presentation of a beautiful china dinner set of dishes, and Miss Helen Clarke presented the bride with a bridal bouquet and book.

Dear Annie and Herb:—

We, your village friends and neighbors, have assembled here this evening to congratulate you, and to wish you both every happiness and success during the coming years.

Annie, it is hard to express our regret at your departure from among us. We have always found you a good neighbor, and a true friend, ever ready and willing to help us, no matter when you were called on.

During your sojourn among us, you have made many friends, who join on this happy occasion in wishing you happiness in your new home. We will surely miss you from our village, and while you will make many new friends in the future, we trust you will not forget your old friends at Mountain.

We earnestly hope that your future may be filled with sunshine and your path strewn with roses.

With our heartiest wishes for your future and as a token of our regard for you, we ask you to accept this gift, not for its intrinsic value, but just because we could not let you go from among us, without some token of remembrance.

May the Heavenly Father bless and keep you in your new home.

Signed on behalf of your many town friends, Mrs. A. Bouck, Mrs. A. Hoy, Mrs. E. Durant, Mrs. F. Becktead.

Mr. and Mrs. Doran both replied in a few well chose words, thanking their many friends for the beautiful set of dishes, and inviting all to come and visit them in their new home.

The gathering then sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," and the remainder of the evening was spent in community singing and a social hour together.

WESLEYAN METHODIST SERVICES

Rev. D. W. Summers spoke from 2nd Timothy, 2 and 8: "Remember that Jesus Christ of the seed of David was raised from the dead according to My Gospel." Why was He crucified? Because of your sin and mine. Why was he raised from the dead, To save us from sin. Without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins. God purchased our salvation by the greatest gift that was ever given. In return he requires our all, a separation from everything worldly, a dedication of our lives to God and a continual walking in the light that he sheds on our pathway and then we can only say we are unprofitable servants. God must have our best.

The evening service was from Matt. 25:46, "And these shall go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous unto life eternal." Those who neglect to obey the Lord and put off the salvation of their souls and fail to adjust their lives to the teaching of God's word shall surely be lost. We must not think because we have been reared in a Christian home and surrounded by influences and have our name on a church roll and always attended church, that we are ready for Heaven. God says if we confess and forsake our sins we shall find mercy. If at some time in our lives we have not come in personal contact with the One who paid the price to set us free and we know by a real experimental knowledge that we were adopted into the family of God and knew him as our Saviour, and Jesus Christ as our Redeemer, and the Holy Spirit as our Comforter and Guide, we are living below our privilege and we will never hear that "well done." It will pay us when we fear the chilly waters of death to be ready, even if it has cost us all we have had in this life. What will it profit a man if he should gain the whole world and lose his soul? Or what should he give in exchange for his soul? When Queen Elizabeth was dying she said: "a million of gold for a moment of time." May God help us when alone in the quiet hours to consider this great question. What have I done to make me right with God. Have I repented of my sins? Have I made restitution to those I have robbed? Have I confessed to those I have wronged, and is my conscience now "void of offence toward God and man." If death should overtake me now in my present condition, would I be ready for Eternity? It will pay us to obey and get right with God.

RAMBLING 'ROUND NEW YORK with HUGH KENNY

Back from two weeks in the country, a tenement child—one of the group given a vacation by a "fresh air fund" — almost danced with joy. Out of the grimy, crowded city for two weeks, she was full of health, and tickled to death to get back to town, because the country was so dull, the eggs had been so fresh they had "no taste," and she didn't like the milk, 'cause it didn't come out of shiny bottles. But she was full of health.

* * *

There are more telephone conversations in New York between ten and eleven o'clock in the morning than at any other time of the day. December is the talkingest month, and August the dumbest. And the dullest time of day—between 6 and 7 a.m.

* * *

Renting departments of the big real estate firms are rushed to death from the last two weeks of August to the first of October. That's the day that gypsy-like Manhattan cliff-dwellers move from one apartment to another — actually by the thousands. It's typical of the restless spirit of the city.

* * *

Penthouses in New York are always a subject of interest, because a separate house in the city usually carries a rental cut to the measure of a millionaire's pocket, and the pent house on the roof has the advantage of light, air and a view which is definitely "the top." One such pent house is said to be so elaborate that it requires six gardeners to maintain the roof-top lawns and gardens.

Establishing a bar-room's reputation for integrity might seem a difficult task to some, but not to the suave bar-keep we know who says nothing on serving the last drink out of a bottle, picks up a hammer from behind the bar, leans down and shatters it with one devastating, crashing blow. Do you get the liquor the label says you get? . . Action speaks louder than words.

* * *

About a fifth of the alarms sent in to the New York Fire Department are false alarms—somebody getting excited over nothing, or maliciously turning the alarm handle.

ROWENA RIDES THE RUMBLE

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY THE AUTHOR

by ETHEL HUESTON

FOURTH INSTALMENT

Rackruff Motors hire Rowena to accompany Peter on a nation-wide tour in their roadster as an advertising stunt. At the last minute Little Bobby is engaged to act as chaperon.

A few miles out Bobby becomes tearful at being parted from her sweetheart and Rowena insists on taking her place in the rumble so that she can ride with Peter and have him to talk to about Carter. Rowena gets Peter to consent to divide the expense money each week as soon as it arrives, and astonishes Peter by eating too economically.

The three tourists reach St. Louis, after passing through Buffalo and Chicago. Peter and Rowena have many tiffs, while Bobby is enraptured at the way Carter is fuming over her flight from New York.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

There were bound to be ever so many pleasant, cool, shadowy short-cuts between St. Louis and Kansas City.

On the way between St. Louis and Kansas City, Peter asked about short-cuts at no end of filling stations and garages as they went west, but no one seemed very well informed about by-roads, and for the most part every one advised against attempting any such thing.

It was well on toward noon when Peter found a man in a garage who thought there really was a short-cut just as Peter wanted. He wasn't altogether sure it was a direct route to Kansas City, but at least it did not lead back toward St. Louis.

They had driven about twenty miles along this rambling lane, which at times seemed to turn uncertainly toward Kansas City and then made a dead run for the Nebraska line, when they saw a stalled car in the road before them. The driver lay stretched out on the bank with his hat over his face.

Peter slowed up.

Rowena leaned forward and rapped sharply on the glass. "Never ask advice of a broken-down driver," she warned him darkly. "If he knew what he was doing, he wouldn't be broken down."

But Peter for once had struck the right party. The man knew every road in the state.

Peter thanked him for his careful directions and returned to the car. He was too much of a gentleman to leer triumphantly back at Rowena under the awning umbrella in the rumble seat. He just got in behind the wheel and started the motor.

He had driven fully twenty miles over the worst possible sort of country road when he found that a bridge was out, that there was no detour, and the only possible way to go on in the direction of Kansas City was to go back to the main road and start over. Very meekly he turned around to pay homage to her better judgment, but stopped short, staring open-mouthed. Bobby, who always looked where others did, turned too and her amazement surpassed his own.

The rumble seat was empty. Rowena was not there.

Peter slowly returned over the roads to where the self-styled expert had given him his directions.

Twenty miles!

Bobby closed her eyes. Peter hoped she was praying. He would have prayed himself except that the hard driving over the bad road required his complete attention. But he did keep breathing over and over in his heart the one word, "God! God! God!" and trusted the Infinite would understand it for appeal.

Instinctively his foot lifted from the accelerator and at a noiseless crawl the car rolled up to the shadowy bank under the willow tree where the stranger with the stalled motor had mapped out the futile short-cut.

"Oh!" whispered Bobby weakly. "Look—look! Rowena!"

Rowena indeed, lying motionless beside the road where the afternoon sun slanted behind the trees to throw protecting shadows over her slender figure. Peter was out of the car long before it had come to a stop and was up the bank and kneeling beside her. He lifted one limp slim hand. It was stained red.

"Rowena!" he whispered.

Rowena opened her eyes. "Oh, hello," she said cheerfully. "Gosh, you were a long time coming back."

"Are—are you—hurt?" stammered Peter.

"Hurt? Why, no! What do you mean, hurt?" She licked a bit of red raspberry juice from her finger as she spoke.

"D-did you fall out, darling?" asked Bobby in fatuously affectionate tones.

"Fall out?" repeated Rowena. "Certainly not." She stood up, lifted her arms, stretching her slender figure comfortably to its utmost height. "Had a grand nap," she said. "And wrote out just what I think of Missouri. Poor dears, you must be dreadfully hot and tired. Come and sit down—a nature's feast to feed you. Berries and cold spring water. I knew you would be famished so I picked heaps."

"You darling," said Bobby, and greedily fell to. "But will you please tell us," she mumbled, with a full mouth, for she was very hungry, "how you fell—how you got—out of the rumble seat?"

"I climbed out," said Rowena cheerfully. "It's the only way you can get out of a rumble seat."

"But when——"

"But how——"

"We didn't see you!"

"When Peter and the broken-down gent were dusting off Missouri in the middle of the road I noticed the wild berries up on the bank among the rocks. I must have got myself out of sight of the car without knowing it, for the first thing I knew, I heard the usual racing of the engine with which dear Peter gets under way, so I ran down and there you were—tearing off among the ruts in a cloud of metaphorical glory. So I picked some more berries, and the broken-down gent and I shot craps until the man from the garage came and towed him in. He invited me to go with them, but I knew you would be back for me when you got around to it."

"Are—are you hurt?" stammered Peter.

"There was a bridge out on the short-cut," explained Peter quickly.

"I know. The broken-down gent remembered it about ten minutes after you had gone. But of course it was too late then."

"You're very game about it, Rowena. Very sporting. I wouldn't blame you if you didn't speak to me again from here to the coast."

"Oh, nonsense!" said Rowena pleasantly. "This was just an accident. Accidents never make me mad. It's just," she added meaningly, "just—certain—people."

In Kansas City, Bobby found thirty-one telegrams from Carter, each increasingly immoderate in its commands for her to give over this outrageous conduct and return home at once.

Rowena had the usual fat one addressed in the boyish scrawl, and surely she had read no further than the first paragraph when she began counting out her money. Peter had a comforting telegram from Mr. Rack, with a friendly postscript by Mr. Ruff, advising that the red-haired siege was lifted and that they had been honored with a sort of an apology, but warning them to be careful of their future conduct.

Mr. Rack also said they were extremely pleased with the character of the work that had been turned out, and enclosed check for next week's expenses. Peter was extremely grateful for that check, for Bobby had spent the last cent of her week's allowance by Wednesday, after which time he and Rowena had been obliged to carry her between them.

"Chaperons come high, don't they?" grumbled Rowena, as she counted out nickels and dimes to make up her portion of Bobby's last manicure.

It was a genuine hardship to them to be obliged to contribute so extensively to the maintenance of luxury-loving Bobby. On the other hand, her presence was so essential to the all-important tour that they were in no position to quarrel very seriously even with her extravagances.

"For my part, I'd rather pay her bills than read Carter's telegrams," said Peter moodily.

"I wouldn't," disagreed Rowena promptly. "I've learned to read with one eye and listen with one ear, and that way I get through with only half the mental strain."

"Yes," but you've got a rumble to retire to."

"So I have. But I have to sleep with her."

One thing was certain. Her presence was essential, and Carter and his telegrams, she and her extravagances, were alike to be endured.

At Topeka she was startled to find but one telegram awaiting her—a ten-word, straight day message.

"Are you taking first train home or are you not?"

It was not even signed.

Bobby's fright was so genuine, her disappointment so real, that Rowena and Peter tried to console her.

Peter took them out to a movie, and Rowena—with her own money—bought her a cunning little Kansas souvenir, a flask carved out of a corn-cob—and she seemed slightly more resigned.

She was very quiet as they crossed Kansas, and when they complained of the notoriously hot winds, she smiled patiently and said she didn't mind. She ate very little, and had fifteen cents of her allowance left at the end of the week.

When they reached Denver they hurried at once, as they always did, to get their mail, and there was nothing at all for Bobby, not a letter, not a telegram, not so much as a souvenir postcard. She said nothing but turned pale and a little sad smile froze the dimples in the soft face.

When Rowena went down to dinner she made excuses not to go—said she was very tired, said she wanted a hot bath and a good sleep, said she would just read a magazine she had picked out at the news-stand.

They went up to the room immediately after dinner with all good intentions, and Rowena knocked. When there was no answer she opened the door and they went in. The room had a deserted appearance. Bobby's handsome articles of toilet were gone from the dressing-table. Her beautiful dressing-gown was gone from the foot of the bed, her satin mules from beneath it. Her imported traveling bag no longer stood beside Rowena's shabby suitcase on the baggage rack.

Peter and Rowena looked at each other in wide-eyed consternation.

There was a note, written on hotel paper in Bobby's round childish hand. It was pinned to Rowena's pillow.

"Darlings, I'm going home. I've got to. If I don't, I'll never get him back. I'll send Peter the money I borrowed as soon as I get my allowance. I'm going on the seven o'clock train and I have already wired him to meet me. You're both just sweet and I love you. But I do wish you didn't quarrel so. I'm glad Carter and I get along better."

"And that," said Rowena flatly, "is that."

"It's all of that," added Peter gloomily.

"Nothing," declared Rowena drearily, "could be more irretrievably fatal than this."

"It was great sport while it lasted," said Peter. "You have been pretty game all the way through, Rowena."

"It was corking good business, too," said Rowena. "And taking it all in all, you are not half bad to breeze around with, Peter."

"Well, it's all over now," said Peter.

"You don't suppose we could pick one up here, do you?—By advertising. The way we got Bobby in the first place."

But they both knew it was pretty hopeless.

They said good night with something vaguely suggestive of affectionate regard, for this killing, kindred disappointment gave them a cordial meeting-ground for almost the first time.

Rowena sat alone at her window, little and high up, for she had frugally changed from a double to a single room immediately after the desertion of Bobby.

She was not one to give up without a struggle—nor to give up at all, for that matter.

It was nearly midnight when she shook off her final hesitation, with a mind made up. An idea had come to her, terrifying and tremendous, hours before. She had toyed with it, weighed it in the balance and, finding it wanting, pushed it resolutely away; but had permitted it to work its way back, insidiously sure. At twelve o'clock she called Peter on the telephone and that was an end of her hesitation.

"Listen, Peter. You meet me downstairs in the lobby, right away, will you? I have an idea."

"But I'm in bed!"

MYSTERIOUS NUMBER 9 IS ONE THAT SEEMS TO STICK

The most mysterious of all numerals is the number nine, declares a writer in the Washington Post.

Try to get rid of it and you cant. Somehow or other, it always bobs back. Take two times nine, for example. The total is 18, and one plus eight—the two digits in 18—make nine.

Take six times nine. You get 54. All right; add the five and four and what do you have. Nine again.

Suppose you try a whopper—330 times 9. The total is 3,051. Add up these individual numbers—three, zero, five and one—and there's old number nine staring you in the face.

Here's another one of nine's frills. Take any number, reverse it, then subtract it, and once more you'll have number nine. Here's how: Take 6,383, as the basic number. Reverse it and you have 3,836. Subtract 3,836 from 6,383 and you have 2,547. Add up two, five, four and seven, and you have—18 Add one and eight and you have—well, if it isn't our old friend back again

o

The next time you are sent out by the chief to collect tough accounts, walk into the customer and start your conversation by saying:

"Do you believe in the hereafter?"

More than likely your question will bring forward the answer: "Yes," and then you can say:

"Well, I'm 'hereafter' that money you owe us!"

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

Timothy.

Lesson for September 15th. 2 Tim. 1:1-14.

Golden Text: 2 Tim. 2:15.

Of all Paul's friends Timothy makes the strongest appeal both because he was associated with the apostle for a longer period than any other, and was bound to him by the ties of a very ardent affection. "My own son in the faith" Paul lovingly calls him. (1 Tim. 1:2).

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

Timothy was nurtured at Lystra by a Jewish mother and a Greek father. He was carefully instructed in the Holy Scriptures by both his mother and grandmother (2 Tim. 1:5, and 3:15). It is probable that he witnessed the stoning of Paul by the citizens of Lystra, and saw him dragged from the city as though dead. Perhaps he helped to carry the wounded apostle back to safety and friendship, and assisted in the bathing of his wounds. It may even be that Paul was entertained at Lystra in Timothy's home. At any rate, Timothy was converted by this visit of Paul's, and became his travelling-companion after the rites of circumcision and ordination had been performed.

And what devoted service he gave! While others were fickle and wavering, Timothy, as "a good minister of Jesus Christ," gave the very best he had. No wonder Paul, in notifying the Philippians that he hoped to send Timothy to them, wrote, "I have no one likeminded with him, who will cherish a genuine care for you. Everybody concerns himself about his own interests, not about those of Jesus Christ. But you know Timothy's approved worth." (Phil. 2:20-22). Here is fidelity indeed.

This faithfulness persisted to the end. For Timothy was with the worn-out Paul as he rotted away in his filthy Roman prison, giving him, we may be sure, real cheer and comfort. Perhaps he accompanied the intrepid apostle to the place of his execution. We do not know. But we can be certain that Timothy, to the last, remained true to Paul's gospel.

PARTRIDGE SEASON UNLIKELY

Scarcity of partridge has raised doubt there will be a hunting season for that bird in Ontario, it was stated last week by officials at the Fish and Game Department at Toronto.

Fish and Game Protective Association and field men for the department are engaged in a survey of the fall hunting prospects generally and have turned in reports which would indicate the department would be ill-advised to permit a season for partridges.

The department, it is understood, is considering a plan of extending the pheasant season over that of normal years.

SANDWICHES FOR ALL OCCASIONS

Sandwiches are what we make them. They may be make-shift bites, with little to be said in their favor, or dainty morsels that brings bursts of praise to the hostess whenever they are placed before guests.

It is far too easy to put a piece of ham or cheese between two slices of bread and call it a sandwich. We are likely to get into this food rut if we do not watch ourselves.

But the woman who prepares her sandwiches as carefully as she bakes a cake will be repaid amply in respect and compliments. Sandwiches should be dainty—whether for the school or factory lunch box; a picnic; a bridge luncheon or a buffet lunch.

Combination sandwich fillings should be cultivated. Instead of using plain cheese use a combination of cheese and mustard pickles. As a matter of fact, the pickle shelf can be used the whole year round to build up attractive sandwiches for the lunch box. When you do not desire to include pickles of some kind in the actual filling, two or three pickles wrapped in waxed paper may be thrust into a corner of the lunch box and you may rest assured that they will seldom if ever come back to you at night—or for a buffet lunch, various kinds of pickles may be placed near the sandwich tray.

Here are several recipes showing how pickles of various kinds may be used in sandwiches.

Spicy Celery Sandwich

2 large sweet pickles (1-4 cup), finely cut; 1 tablespoon mayonnaise, 2 teaspoons catsup. Combine chopped sweet pickles and celery. Blend with remaining ingredients. Spread this filling on slices of buttered bread.

Hot Ham Sandwich

Have ready hot buttered toast, two slices for each sandwich, and lightly broiled sliced ham cut very thin. Arrange a slice of the ham on a slice of the toast. Add a bit of prepared mustard and cover with minced sweet pickles. Put the top slice of toast in place. Serve at once.

Bacon and Pickle Sandwich

6 slices crisply broiled bacon, chopped
3 medium-sized dill pickles, chopped
1-4 cup mayonnaise.

Combine bacon, pickles, and mayonnaise. Spread on buttered bread. Makes six sandwiches, 4x4 inches.

Savory Minced Cheese Sandwich

1-4 pound Canadian cheese, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon mustard sauce from mustard pickles, 1-4 cup mustard pickles, finely chopped, salt, paprika.

Allow cheese to stand in a warm blend with butter. Add remaining place to soften. Mash the cheese and ingredients. Spread on thinly sliced whole wheat or rye bread, buttered.

REVISED SLUMBER SONG

Hush-a-by, baby, hush all your grief,
Soon we'll be happy, Daddy's on relief.
Smile, little angel, no more shall you sob,
Daddy will be working on a leaf-raking job.
Sleep then, my pretty, to heavenly notes,
We're sitting pretty if Daddy gets some votes.

THE ROAD TO YESTERDAY

They seek the road to yesterday,
Who've wandered far away,
Hoping to find the enchanted paths
They trod in childhood's day.
Seeking the old-time faithful friends
With whom they used to roam,
The country church, the little school,
The harbor lights of home.

How oft in fancy they have lived
Those youthful days again,
Revisited with old home folk
Recalled the summers, when
The school-house closed, tasks laid aside
Each day on pleasure bent,
Exploring wood and field and stream
With simple joys content.

And now they've come to meet again,
The friends of early days,
Again to capture old delights
'Mid memory's misty haze—
Though ardently they seek the way
And plain the pathway seems,
The distant road to yesterday
They find alone in dreams.

THE OLD FASHIONED NIGHT SHIRT

(By Edgar A. Guest)

I remember as a youngster that my father used to say,
That his father wore a nightshirt till the day he passed away.
My father and my mother used to argue now and then.
Whether nightshirts or pajamas were the proper thing for men.
But my father clung to nightshirts, for a stubborn man was he,
So my fondness for that garment's due to my heredity.

Nellie's tried to make me over, as all lovely women do,
Every Christmas time she buys silk pajamas, pink and blue.
And I know that they are stylish and most men wear 'em now,
But the string with which they're girdled seems to bother me somehow.
Though I take them when I travel, both for comfort and for rest,
As my father and his father, I like old style nightshirts best.

All my friends have now surrendered to their women folk, I know,
And alone I fight the battle for a cause of long ago,
But my ancestry was stubborn, and a stubborn man am I,
All the pink and blue pajamas in the wide world I defy!
Let the dudes and dandies wear 'em, Till the day I join the dead,
In a good old fashioned nightshirt I shall choose to go to bed.

IT DOESN'T COST MONEY

It doesn't cost money, as many suppose,
To have a good time on the earth;
The best of its pleasures are free unto those
Who know how to value their worth.

The sweetest of music the birds to us sing,
The loveliest flowers grow wild,
The finest of drinks gush out of the spring—
All free to man, woman and child.

No money can purchase, no artist can paint,
Such pictures as nature supplies,
Forever, all over, to sinner and saint,
Who use to advantage their eyes.

Kind words and glad looks and smiles cheery and brave,
Cost nothing, no nothing at all,
And yet all the wealth Monte Cristo could save
Can make no such pleasure befall.

Communion with friends that are tried, true and strong,
To love and be loved for love's sake,
In fact, all that makes a life happy and long,
Are free to who ever will take.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Speaking at Niagara Falls, N. Y., recently, Dr. Amos O. Squire, surgeon at Sing Sing prison, suggested four ways in which crime might be reduced. "Deport the alien criminals; give the boy who has made his first mistake another chance; back the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides; and more attention by parents to their own children."

Lord Byron's Newfoundland dog, which contracted rabies, is buried in the ruins of the old church at Newstead abbey, the pedestal marking the grave bearing the following inscription: "Near this spot are deposited the remains of one who possessed beauty without vanity, strength without insolence, courage without ferocity, and all the virtues of man without his vices."

The Searle Grain Company of Winnipeg estimates the prairie wheat crop this year as 295,000,000 bushels as compared with 263,000,000 bushels last year. The same company places the oats crop at 300,000,000 bushels and the barley crop at 70,000,000 bushels. Had it not been for the black rust which played havoc in Southern Saskatchewan the wheat crop would have exceeded 350,000,000 bushels.

In this busy world of ours it is easy to forget to do the thoughtful things which make living so much richer, and to say the simple words of appreciation which may make someone feel that his effort has not gone unnoticed. It is equally easy to get the notion that you are not appreciated. Generally, you'll find that somebody, perhaps the one you'd least expect, has noticed after all. Why not be a bit more mindful of the good other folk are doing and at the same time try to do good yourself without the expectation of reward or praise.

GLARING HEADLIGHTS

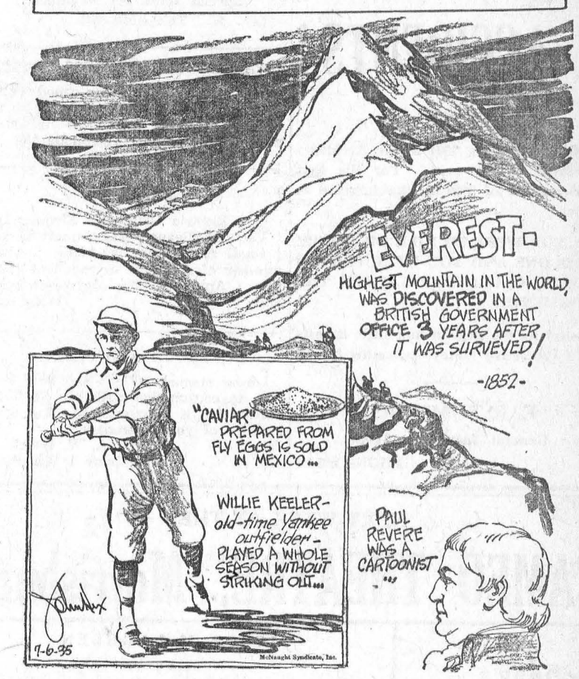
(Collingwood Bulletin-Enterprise)

A few days ago a memorandum was issued to police departments by Attorney-General Roebuck and Minister of Highways T. B. McQuesten. Declaring the most common cause for complaint is glaring headlights, it urged the police should increase the frequency of their check-up on headlights, dirty license plates, steering mechanism, windshield wipers and rear-view mirrors.

"Police officers are requested to pay special attention to all these matters and to warn those who may offend. Failure to heed a warning should always result in prosecution. The traffic laws have teeth, which, if employed, will make illegal driving extremely unpopular," the memorandum says.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By JOHN HIX

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



Strange as it seems, the highest mountain in the world, Mount Everest, was simply Peak XV—just another unnamed peak—for three years after it was surveyed. Its discovery as the highest in the world came about in the Indian government offices in 1852 while data gathered by the British Trigonometrical Survey was being computed.

Government surveyors made observations of many peaks of India which, for convenience, were numbered when names were lacking. One day in 1852, three years later, a computer rushed into the office of Surveyor General Sir Andrew Waugh, to announce that he had just that minute discovered the highest mountain in the world. Officials, checking against his figures, found that Peak XV stood 29,145 feet high according to observations previously made.

Sir Andrew Waugh named the peak Mount Everest in honor of Sir George Everest who was Surveyor General of India before him, and during whose term of office the survey was started.

Paul Revere, jack of many trades and master of quite a few, was one of America's first political cartoonists. His work as an engraver enabled him to become a colonial cartoonist when anti-British material was needed for publication. Revere's first love was silversmithing at which he excelled. He also found time to practice dentistry, do government printing, establish a gunpowder factory, run a hardware store, cast cannon, and run a copper rolling mill. As a dentist he once repaired George Washington's false teeth, and it was his boast that he could make false teeth that were not only ornamental but could be used to eat with.

Hundreds of flower lovers between Alvinston and Watford, who planted a few seeds of Russion red sunflowers from the gift package of seed sent last spring by Dr. John McLeay, of New York, are now viewing their tall, sturdy plants, many of which are 14 feet tall, and wondering when they will stop growing. September should produce a great array of red sunflowers throughout that section.

THE VAIN THINGS

"Yes," said the boastful young man, "my familf can trace its ancestors back to William the Conqueror."

"I suppose," remarked his friend, "you'll be telling us that your ancestors were in the Ark with Noah?"

"Certainly not," said the other, "My people had a boat of their own."

HERE, THERE, EVERYWHERE

ITEMS THAT INFORM, INSTRUCT, MAKE YOU LAUGH AND MAKE YOU WISE.

Be exact. Slipshod methods bring slipshod results.

You probably have noticed that corn on the cob gives you that gnawing feeling.

Wonder what causes indigestion? The inability of a round stomach to adjust itself to a square meal.

When you have a motor accident, what will people say? "Too bad, and he seemed a careful driver," or "I'm not surprised; it's a wonder it didn't happen to him long ago?"

To pay every man and woman in Alberta $25 a month, as he proposes, Mr. Aberhart will have to raise $120,000,000 a year. What puzzles most people is where it's coming from.

Mrs. Calista Fowler of Elgin, Illinois, celebrated her 104th birthday this week. She attributed her long life to "no worries and minding my own business." Comparatively few persons, at that rate, will live to the age of 104.

Advertisers who support the advertising columns of the home newspaper and who otherwise spend their money locally are Community Boosters, and in turn are entitled to local patronage. Be a Community Booster for your home district.

There is only one success—to be able to live your life your own way, says Christopher Morley. If that is success, we are positive that but few people in this world will ever achieve it. But all of us would like to.

The Dancing Masters of America announce that "wiggling and hopping" on the dance floor must give way to smoother movement, "with a twist of the foot instead of hops." While this isn't a world-shaking announcement, it is interesting as indicating a return to the graceful dancing of a generation ago.

We are not sent into this world to do anything into which we cannot put our hearts. We have certain work to do for our bread, and that is to be done strenuously; other work to do for our health, and that is to be done heartily; neither is to be done by halves and shifts, but with a will; and what is not worth this effort is not to be done at all.

Always and everywhere the pay as you go is the direct, courageous and honest route to economic health and public welfare.

Try to buy at home first. Your local merchants are prepared to give you the best the market affords at fair prices and with better service.

The date of Thanksgiving Day will not be changed again; but people who cannot be thankful on a Thursday may stick to the Monday originally selected.

A Chicago woman bequeathed $25,000 to her pet dog; which indicates again that a great deal of money is in the hands of people who don't know what to do with it.

The Governor General and the Countess of Bessborough and family are booked to leave Ottawa for England on the 26th instant. His successor will not reach Canada until after the elections.

Reports say that Mr. Aberhart's followers in the Iberta Legislature have little political experience. They will gain that as soon as they start to carry out their platform and the office seekers are buzzing about them.

At a meeting of scientists it was said that if blue lights were turned on in a room a crying child would be apt to become silent. We're inclined to think that when there is a little wind on the stomach or a safety pin undone and scratching it, it would require more than the blue light to produce quiet and peace.

Down in Kansas they have such a governor as to make glad the heart of the taxpayer. This is Alf. M. Landon, whose government has voluntarily reduced revenues and at the same time balanced its budget. He doesn't believe in the policy of spending to win back prosperity. "I've tried to do my duty as governor as I would run a business, he explained. "Our costs never topped our income. The trouble with most politicians who spend other people's money is that they never have to meet a payroll on Saturday night. We don't experiment with the taxpayers' money in Kansas and we don't mortgage their future."

Our Column

Cultivate personality. Personality is to an individual what perfume is to a flower.

The interest of local residents in the cultivation of flowers is an encouraging sign of community progress. It indicates not only a contented people but also a measure of civic pride which is reflected in the improved appearance of homes and grounds, giving added beauty to the town as a whole.

Loose gravel, sharp turns, narrow bridges and cattle on roads, are all chargeable with a percentage of the motor accidents. But carelessness and supposed smartness on the part of drivers is responsible for far more.

And now we suppose that every baby born in Canada is a little Liberal, a little Conservative ,a little Reconstructionist, a little C. C. F.'r., a little Laborite, a little Nationalist, a little Social Creditor, a little Progressive, a little Communist or a little what have you.

RETIRES AFTER 46 YEARS

After 46 years with the maintenance of way department of the C. P. R., as sectionman and section foreman, Peter H. Stewart, of Kemptville, has retired on pension.

PRESENTATION IS MADE

Prior to her departure from Brinstons to enter the Brockville General Hospital as a nurse-in-training, Miss Laura Johnston, of that place, was the guest of honor at a farewell tendered by her friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. White. She was presented with an address and a boudoir lamp on behalf of those present.

MISSION BAND MEETS

The Rosevere Mission Band held its regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the S. S. rooms. 30 children were present under the leadership of Miss Alice Singleton. Miss Betty Stewart gave an item on Temperance and Patti Cass gave the Scripture lesson, while Doreen Armstrong took up the offering. Miss Singleton gave the lesson story and the treasurer reported over half the allocation had been raised. The Mizpah Benediction brought the meeting to a close.

BOY THROWN FROM SPEEDING CAR

What might have resulted in a tragedy occurred on Saturday afternoon last when Harry Keyes, six-year-son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Keyes, received painful injuries from being thrown heavily to the pavement as he opened the front door of a car which was in motion.

The boy was sitting in the front seat of the vehicle enroute to Iroquois. Noticing that the door was not closed tightly he swung it open in an effort to shut it more securely. The wind caught it suddenly and tore the door open, throwing the lad clear of the car, which was travelling about 40 miles an hour.

Mrs. Keyes, who was driving at the time, at once proceeded to return home where medical aid was summoned. It was found that no bones had been broken although Harry was painfully bruised At the present time he is making a good recovery.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT ON PRESCOTT HIGHWAY

Another car accident took place in the vicinity of Kemptville on Monday at about 4 p.m. when a coupe owned and driven by Nat Braham of Ottawa, failed to navigate the sharp curve at the cheese factory near Beckett's Landing. Two of the rail posts were smashed and William Drazin, a passenger, crashed through the windshield and received severe cuts about the head, neck and nose which required a number of stitches. He was treated by Dr. O. F. Beamish, of Kemptville.

Mr. Braham received an injured knee and with Mr. Drazin was enroute from Ottawa to Prescott to see Ronald Lyon who on Sunday was injured in a car accident at Miller's Corners when Mrs. Roy Hacks was almost instantly killed. Mr. Braham's car was towed into Kemptville for repairs to radiator, fenders and bumper.

PAINT PRICES SHARPLY REDUCED

Sharp reduction in the price of first quality house paint to $3.75 per gallon is announced by the manufacturers of some of Canada's best-known brands of paint, the reduction to take effect immediately.

In making the announcement, the companies concerned state that the reduction is not justified by any change in market conditions or manufacturing costs. They point out, however, that during the past few years many householders have been misled by "bargain" prices into using inferior paint with results that reacted unfavourably on the whole industry. Drastic action was felt to be necessary to check a situation that seriously threatened property values all over the country.

The new low price is designed to make it easier for property owners to use first quality paint only, with resulting benefit to property and to the community in general.

The companies announcing the reduction are Canada Paint, International Varnish, Martin-Senour and Sherwin-Williams.

VEHICLES MUST BE EQUIPPED WITH FLARES

Truck owners are warned, in a statement issued yesterday by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Ontario minister of highways, that if their vehicles are operated outside the limits of urban municipalities after dark, they must now be equipped with flares as required by the Highway Traffic Act passed at the last session of the legislature.

Mr. McQuesten said "records of the motor vehicles branch show that serious accidents have happened all too frequently when the lighting system of disabled vehicles has broken down on the highway after dark."

MAN INSTANTLY KILLED AT FINCH

A sad accident occurred about two miles east of Finch on the main line of the C. P. R. on Thursday afternoon last, when Jonah Alguire, 55-year-old employee of the section crew, was instantly killed when struck by the Empress of Australia flier at 2.05 p.m. W. O. McConnell, foreman of the crew, also was injured, receiving a fractured left leg and minor bruises and abrasions.

The two men, accompanied by W. A. McMillan, also of Finch, were engaged in cutting weeds along the right-of-way, while the hand-car was sitting on the west-bound tracks. Suddenly the flier came into view around a curve, half a mile distant, and the men sprang to lift the hand car from the tracks. They had succeeded in geting it almost clear when the train struck the group. Alguire was killed outright, while McConnell was hit by a fragment of the handcar resulting in his injuries. McMillan was able to jump clear of the train and escaped unscathed.

The train-crew stated that they had seen the men on the tracks and the engineer had applied the brakes. The speed of the train, however, prevented them from making a stop before hitting the victim. McConnell was taken on board the train which proceeded at once to Smiths Falls. He is reported to be making satisfactory progress.

The late Mr. Alguire was born in Osnabruck township and had resided there all his life. For the past 20 years he had been employed by the C. P. R. The funeral, which was held on Sunday last, was largely attended. He is survived by his wife, two brothers and one sister.

MURDER AT SMITHS FALLS

Mystery surrounds the death of William Muldoon, Smiths Falls' locomotive engineer, who was found dead at the wheel of his automobile on Sunday last. The victim bore marks of violence and medical evidence is that a bruise on the forehead was the probable cause of death. Additional injuries in the form of abrasions on the back and groin of the dead man will fit in with the theory that he was murdered, police say.

Police officials are confident that an early solution to the crime will be forthcoming and already a definite line of action is being taken in an effort to run down the slayer.

SERIOUSLY INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Rene Viau, a laborer employed on the farm of Mr. Ward Smith, just east of Winchester, was seriously injured on Saturday afternoon last when a large stone weighing about 200 pounds, suddenly rolled into an anchor post in which he was working. He was at once carried to the house where Dr. Lloyd of Chesterville was summoned. An examination revealed that he had suffered a fractured pelvis and internal injuries. He was later removed to the hospital, where his condition is regarded as serious.

The evening was spent in games and music, after which a buffet luncheon was served. The tea table was decorated in a pink and white scheme and illuminated by tall tapers. Mr. Wilson is also a member of L. O. L. No. 862, Winchester, and at the present time is the master of the lodge, while Mrs. Wilson is an active member of the Women's Institute.

On the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary, messages of congratulation were extended from the different organizations of which they are members, Rev. W. D. Turner of St. Paul's church being present to convey good wishes from the church.

Members of the family present were Gordon Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wilson and Jackie and Lois. The only member not present was a son, Morris, who sent a message of congratulation, accompanied by a silver tea service.
