Visit In Townsite Shows Steady Progress Being Made

To see real progress in the building of the new village a visitor should remain away a month, then revisit the area, comparing notes. The Post took a ride through the new site after a month's absence and the changes were drastic. Where a winding dirt road led us a month ago, there is now a gravelled road with homes on both sides of the thoroughfare, moved in by the Hartshorne mover. New homes are under construction in every section of the new community.

The western end of the new village, of course, has grown more rapidly than its eastern counterpart, for here is where the most homes have been moved to date, with sidewalks and streets complete. Yet in a marvelously short period of time, the east also has sprung to life.

Separating the two sections of the village is a large area on which the schools will be erected. Though there has been no official "go" given the plans for the new schools, it is expected that in the early spring tenders will be called for their construction. This in all probability applies to the churches as well.

It appears now that 1956 will be the big construction year.

Construction of the shopping centre has been slowed and little can be done until the necessary steel is delivered. The foundation is ready and the posts await the arrival of the steel beams.

Down on Caldwell Drive, Davis Drive and Dundas Street in the west end, residents are settling down to life in a new community. Many homes are under construction and their owners may be seen taking daily anxious looks towards the day of completion. Farther down, in a south-easterly direction from the shopping centre, a number of large homes are being built, ranging upwards of $30,000.

Ed Fitzsimmons' home and funeral chapel takes up a large area on Dundas; Jack Fetterly's home, Lloyd Davis' home and "Bill" Casselman's are all large homes. Dr. C. Haley will soon be in his new home, almost directly north of the railroad station. Near here also are more new homes being built for Gene Haley, Omer Pigeon, Marjorie and Rex Hutt and others. This scene is typical across the whole townsite.

And while these new homes rise, more of the older houses are being moved into the site filling up gaps in almost-completed streets. Next spring these residents will be busy levelling lawns and planting grass seed. It will be some time before the new

SEAWAY FORUM TOPICS INTERESTING

The St. Lawrence Seaway forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin O'Dell on Monday night with 12 members present. The topic for the evening "Who Benefits From Price Supports? Do price supports benefit the general public in addition to helping the farmer. The problem seemed quite difficult but after careful thought and discussion it seemed to be the feeling that price supports were a benefit to the consumer as well as the producer.

The meeting next Monday night will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gilmer and the topic for discussion will be: "The Farmer and the Government: How could farmers be more effective in their political strategy for Agriculture?"

This should be a very interesting topic and we hope for a good attendance of our members and there is always a welcome for new ones.

Direct Cardinal-Ottawa Highway Possibility

A report in The Ottawa Journal that a new two-lane controlled access highway from Ottawa to Cardinal is included in the Ontario Highways Department 10-year $1,000,000,000 program for Ontario roads was welcomed news to this area.

The new road to Cardinal would be 50 miles; would cost $6,000,000; would parallel Highway 26 from Ottawa to Johnstown; and would link up with the new 401 four-lane super highway from Windsor to the Quebec border.

Highway Department officials, the village can replace the shaded beauty of the old and with a birth of trees in the new site, much tree planting will be required. With the fast growth of some varieties, the "shadeless" period will be cut considerably.

Main concern to the residents this week is the presence of mud caused by the recent thaw. It became quite slippery Monday, except in areas fortunate in having sidewalks and roads, and it was hard going for some of the older residents.

This warm weather has given the contractors as well as the rehabilitation crews a break and many outside jobs are being rushed to completion without workmen suffering from frostbite.

Plan on visiting the townsite? A pair of rubber boots then, become standard equipment.

GREETINGS TO KNOX L.A. FROM MRS. J. C. ROSS

Mrs. J. B. Fenton presided at the January meeting of Knox Presbyterian Church Ladies' Aid last Monday afternoon. Hymn "Jesus Master, Whose I Am" and the Lord's Prayer in unison was followed by the scripture lesson, Isaiah 26, read by Mrs. J. R. Miller.

The minutes of the December meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. B. Bradley. The correspondence included a number of cards and notes of thanks from friends of the Ladies Aid who had been remembered at Christmas. One of these brought greetings from Mrs. J. C. Ross in Ireland.

The treasurer's report read by Mrs. Wm. Pollock revealed a very substantial balance to begin the year.

The roll was called and answered by the payment of the annual fee. Several items of business were discussed and settled.

It was decided to purchase music for the choir again this year and the secretary was instructed to send a letter of thanks to The Iroquois Post for so willingly printing notices and items for the Society.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, February 13th.

SPEAKS HERE—Parks Commission Chairman George H. Challies is expected to address the Women's Institute here on January 19th. It is anticipated the topic of conversation will dwell on the future of the Forward home as a museum and on the collection of antique items of the early era. The meeting will be held in the Town Hall at 8 p.m.

AIR SURVEY FOR WILLIAMSBURG DUE TO GREAT EXPANSION

Like Iroquois and the other communities living along the St. Lawrence River, Williamsburg is looking to the future expansion of their community. The village is a few miles north of the river but has enjoyed marvelous growth in the last few months as a result of the influx of people into the St. Lawrence project area.

Anxious to meet any future expansion of the village, Williamsburg town planning board has had a detailed aerial survey made of the entire village including the proposed planning area as set down by the Municipal Board in Toronto. The area photographed includes all of Concession 5 from Lots 28 to 33, a distance of one and a half miles running north and south and about the same distance from east to west.

The new survey, which has been approved by Williamsburg Township Council, was made by Canadian Aero Service Limited, Photogrammetric Engineers of Ottawa. It will include an accurate account of all physical features: lot and fence lines including actual building locations; 5-foot contour lines, and other features which will give the board a start in laying out a larger village.

In recent weeks Williamsburg's population has taken a considerable upswing due, chiefly, to the St. Lawrence Seaway and particularly the power project. With this in mind, a new planning board was formed recently to further investigate the possibilities of mapping out new streets and lots with the idea of attracting new citizens. Ernest Trickey is chairman of the board which is composed of Hugh Thompson, Douglas Barclay, Ramon Casselman, John Whiteaker, Graham Wells and Donald Kyle. The latter three are representatives of the municipal council. The secretary is Keith Schell.

Cost of the survey will be absorbed by both the municipal council and Williamsburg village. The present population of Williamsburg is about 330. Final diagrams and other information are expected to be in the hands of the Planning Board by February. At that time further meetings will be held to determine the next steps in the village's bid for expansion.

MATILDA COUNCIL'S FIRST MEETING IN NEW YEAR

The first official meeting of the new term for Matilda Township Council was held January 3rd with Reeve J. Orval Seeley presiding. At the meeting were: Allan Farlinger, Deputy Reeve, and Councillors Jas. Milligan, Dwight Merkle and Wilfred Cooper.

By-Law No. 705 appointing officers for the year 1956 was passed, reappointing all officers of the previous year with the exception of the Township Assessor, as the previous assessor resigned.

An assessor will be named at the next meeting.

A by-law for borrowing from the Bank of Montreal, Iroquois, and a by-law to provide for road expenditures were passed. The Reeve and clerk were authorized to sign and submit to the Minister of Highways application for statutory grants on road expenditures.

The following accounts were paid: work on roads, voucher No. 1, $1811.09; relief, $455.22; 13 fox hydes, bonus, $39.00; clerk, salary and telephone, $54.00; Casselman & Beaumont, expenses for tax sales, $127.26; Hydro account for Brinston hamlet, 1955, $189.00; Ontario Good Roads Association, membership fee, $10.00; tax collector and treasurer, re tax sales, $39.40.

HULBERT WMS

The monthly meeting of the Hulbert Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Ira Ellis on January 4th, at 2 o'clock with the call to worship opening the meeting. Hymn singing and Bible reading and questions were given by Miss Florence Roodie, Mrs. Ira Ellis, Mrs. Wesley Flegg, and Mrs. Annie Graham. Prayer was given by Mrs. Percy Ellis. Mrs. Ellis also gave the Christian Friendship report entitled "Forward". Minutes, roll call and business preceded the collection and report of the treasurer.

"Habits Help Body Building" was the title of the temperance talk by Mrs. Herbert McQuaig.

Community Friendship was given by Mrs. Ira Ellis; the Study Book by Mrs. Annie Graham and closing in prayer was Mrs. Herbert McQuaig.

DARK SILOUETTE—Outlined against the sky is the giant claw which dug up Victoria Street so that the pipeline for the village water pumping station could be laid. In the background is the dredge which started this week to dig a trench in the canal basin in which the pipe will be laid out beyond the outside pier. The work on land is almost completed. Tenders were called this week for the sewage disposal plant, another new public utility for the village.

BRINSTON WMS HEARS ADDRESS BY MRS. M. FETTERLY

Brinston Women's Missionary Society held the first meeting of the new year in 1956 church parlour on Thursday, January 5th, with the President, Mrs. Irvine Payne, in the chair.

Meeting opened with the singing of hymn Breathe on Me Breath of God". 1955 yearly reports were given by each secretary. Mrs. Chas. Strader moved adoption of the said reports.

New Slate

The recording secretary, Mrs. Stanley Froats read the slate of officers for 1956 after which Rev. A. Dukelow presided for the installation. "Standing at the Portal" was sung, followed by repeating of the 23rd psalm and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Roll call was answered with the payment of dues. Cards of "well wishes" for the new year were received from Mrs. Stubbins, Florida, and Mrs. Wm. Lennox, Sr.

The Literature secretary, Mrs. Ed. Thompson introduced as the guest speaker, Mrs. M. Fetterly, Iroquois, Literature Secretary of the Presbyterian. Her subject was "Barriers Between the Races" — how we could overcome these barriers by having more love and understanding in our hearts. Rev. Dukelow closed with benediction.

A social hour followed in honour of Mrs. Chas. Strader's group.

Misses Out on Casino Jackpot of Over $6000

Iroquois resident, Thomas Hargreaves, superintendent at Caldwell Linen Mills and an ardent Casino fan, missed out on a monster jackpot worth over $6000 this week. Mr. Hargreaves' name was called and his entry contained a wrong answer.

The $6,775 was won on Tuesday by an Ottawa lady. The answer was "Lake Huron".

Has Your Organization a Reporter?

This is the time of year when organizations in the village and township are appointing officers to take over the guidance of their groups for 1956. We would like a little word with each organization on the matter.

Public relations, the promotion of goodwill by any organization, has become most important in our way of life. So important has it become, that thousands of dollars are spent annually by large corporations, seeking to promote better relations. If they didn't feel this outlay was warranted, they would have fired their public relations staffs long ago.

In a much smaller way, your group needs a public relations staff—or as we call them—press reporters.

Your organization, no matter how small or large, needs the support of the public at large. To receive this assistance, your organization must show that this support is being utilized to best advantage. And there is no better way of showing this than through your home town weekly. Appoint a press reporter and make it a habit to send in regular items regarding your meetings and of the members who belong to your group. We will appreciate it, our readers will enjoy it and you'll be doing your organization a great service—in promoting good will.

The St. Lawrence Seaway project on Point Iroquois claimed the life of a 25-year-old dump wagon operator, Herbert St. John, Spencerville area resident, yesterday, as he prepared to unload his vehicle. Putting his head out of the cab door, St. John suffered a fractured skull when the vehicle jack-knifed, killing him instantly.

Library News

H. G. D.

We cannot always have a new book from the Library per week. At least we can never have more than one recently-purchased one, it wouldn't be fair to the rest of the subscribers, so I am still delving into the other shelves to pick some books you might like and might not know are there.

"WITHOUT MY CLOAK" is one of these, published in 1931 by Kate O'Brien. This is another story of a family—of one person in particular, Denis Considine, but his background is filled in with stories of his various relatives.

Honest John, Denis' grandfather, was the son of a horse thief, who settled down in the town of Mellick, in Ireland, and there his descendants stayed, increasing in power and popularity. Anthony, one of John's sons and Denis' father, carried on the business of Considine and Company, Forage Merchants, and trained Denis to carry on after him. Denis, who had the soul of an artist, had no real interest in the family business, but not being able to say "no" to his father, attempted to do what he considered his duty. His meeting with Christine, his love for her, her disappearance and his search make a touching tale, one which I think you might enjoy.

If you have a friend who doesn't subscribe to The Iroquois Post, let him read yours for a couple of weeks—or better still send him a gift subscription—$2.00 a year is all it costs.

An eye-witness to the accident was Alex Herman, a co-worker, who was standing near the machine waiting for it to unload. It is reported by Pentagon officials, he said St. John leaned out of the cab door as the machine was backing up. It appeared as though the victim hit his head against the cab as it lurched on the road terrain, his head falling to where it was jammed between the door and the frame of the wagon.

Herman jumped up to stop the vehicle and at first thought St. John had been knocked out by the blow.

Coroner Dr. C. R. Marcellus, of Iroquois, was called to the scene. He told The Post last night that the young worker had died of a fractured skull and that there would be no inquest.

St. John had been employed by Pentagon Construction Co. for the past six months. He was married and the father of three small children.

High School News

There will be a band concert in the Town Hall on the night of January 20th at 8 p.m. The band is under the direction of Fred Booth, of Cornwall, assisted by Rev. G. Dangerfield of Iroquois United Church.

Junior and Senior boys will play their first basketball game of the season on Friday, January 13th, with Morrisburg in the Morrisburg gym.

The Literary Society held a meeting on Tuesday and it was planned that the "formal" would be some time in April.

START TRACK LAYING OPERATIONS

St. Lawrence "Power" Track laying operations have commenced on the relocated section of the Canadian National Railway's double track line which will skirt the flooded area. This eventual 40-mile stretch of track will take the railway line around the headpond area of the St. Lawrence Power Project from Iroquois to Cornwall. Work started early in December to lay the first section of track in the vicinity of Cornwall. Already a switch has been installed at the east end of the relocated section and half a mile of temporary single track.

Meanwhile significant progress has been made in various sections of the railway relocation project. More than half the grading has been completed while installations of culverts is well advanced and ditching operations also have been progressing favourably.

Editorials

Unopened front doors

Last week's tragic farm fire in the district brings to mind an editorial in The Owen-Sound Sun Times which noted that an aged woman was trapped in a burning farm home and efforts to save her were in vain when it was impossible to open the front door. The door, apparently, was locked. In all probability many front doors to farm houses are locked, though it is amazing how many farmers leave their homes wide open even when they are absent from the home for an afternoon or an evening. Actually we suppose many farmers have no key to their back doors. And, just as true, many farmers never use their front doors.

The latter is quite understandable in that the farm housewife doesn't want children and others with muddy feet tracking through the house from the front to the back. The former situation carries with it considerable hazard, although most have gotten away with it down through the years. One would think it would take a brave man or woman to return home to an unlocked, darkened home and go to bed without doing a check. But that is what happens in many a farm home, and a lot of them are multi-roomed, rambling places. Many, of course, have dogs.

But just as it is a fact that back doors are seldom if ever locked, so it is a fact that many front doors are never opened. It is surprising, in fact, how many farm homes have no steps at front. When the house was built, a front door was put in but the farmer has never gotten around to building a platform and steps. But often the material is ready at hand, with plenty of stones, probably even a sandpit nearby, and all that is needed is the cement. Or most farmers have plenty of cedar poles and lack only the finished lumber for a frame job. Most, too, are well able to such a job themselves.

Symbol of finest hour

(Montreal Gazette)

Sir Winston Churchill, Harrow's greatest son, was welcomed back to the borough and the school on the hill. The borough made Sir Winston its first freeman. The school, which the British leader attended from 1888 to 1892, gave him an even more touching tribute.

Harrow's famous song, "Forty Years On", is a song of service, of young men dedicating themselves to duty and principle on which they can look back when they are "forty years on". The great Harrovian again heard the new, glowing verse which had been added in his honor to the school song.

In tribute to his long life of service, the boys of Harrow sang for him "SIXTY Years On":

"Sixty years on—though in time growing older;
Younger at heart you return to the hill;
You, in days of defeat ever bolder,
Lead us to victory, serve Britain still.
Still there are bases to guard and beleaguer,
Still must the fight for freedom be won;
Long may you fight, sir, who fearless and eager Look back today more than sixty years on."
The boys who sang it at Harrow will find no lack of inspiration in the years ahead. Before them stood the living symbol of Britain's finest hour. They shall have that to look back upon when they are forty, sixty years on.

Cheaper dollar means more jobs

The Canadian dollar is now considerably "cheaper" in terms of U.S. and foreign currency than it was some months ago. Instead of a premium of four per cent, the Canadian dollar is now approaching par with the U.S. dollar.

The trend is a healthy one. For if Canadian dollars are "cheaper," Canadian exports will also be cheaper for the U.S. and foreign countries to buy, and consequently be more competitive.

By the same token, the U.S. dollar is now more "expensive" and U.S. and foreign imports are likely to cost more than heretofore. The result should serve to make Canada's trade deficit with the U.S. less alarmingly large than it has been for the past few years.

It is doubtful, whether the lower price, in terms of U.S. and foreign currencies, of the Canadian dollar, will suffice to halt the flood of imports and to restore some semblance of balance to Canada's lop-sided trade picture. A depreciated dollar may mean more jobs for Canadians, but before imports can be regarded as no longer a threat to employment opportunities in Canada, a drastic revision of trade policy will be required.

Vote-getting

The guaranteed annual wage, says Romuald Bourque, MP for Outremont, "is inevitable." The issue is one, he told the Foremen's Club of Montreal recently, that cannot be treated lightly.

Unfortunately, Mr. Bourque's remarks contain not a hint as to how his scheme of a guaranteed annual wage for all is to be put into effect. Rather, he has contented himself with some very fulsome praise of a scheme which thoughtful people regard as both impractical and undesirable.

His only practical suggestion is that people should study the guaranteed annual wage scheme with great care. Those who do so — and Mr. Bourque obviously has not — will soon discover that it is one of the most impractical hoaxes ever devised by Big Labor to give their membership a wholly false concept of security.

What to do in winter

The 1955 crop was generally a good one. Grain bins are overflowing. Potato yields were high and showed excellent quality. One of the best apple crops in Canadian history was picked. Canning crops were far superior to those of other years. Favorable advances were made in several other crops.

Winter is the time for farmers to relax after a long season of plowing, planting, spraying and harvesting. It is also a time when they can accomplish a number of chores neglected during the year. The tractor needs cleaning up and perhaps an overhaul. Farm implements probably require a new coat of paint. With depressed farm prices, this is more important than ever. Next year the old tractor and old equipment may have to be used. Protection of such substantial investments becomes of prime importance.

Perhaps the farm home interior needs a bit of cheering up with a new paint job. This isn't as impossible as it once was. Odorless interior paints in lively colors have been developed in recent years which enables one to paint the inside of a home without any discomfort to the occupants.

Winter is also the time to catch up on reading the accumulated literature on the latest in scientific farming. It will soon be seed dressing time so what's new in seed disinfectants and how can losses to plant disease and

FOR PARENTS ONLY

LONG LIVE NEWSPAPER!

"ALL I KNOW is what I read in the paper," Will Rogers once said with a smile. The regular arrival of a newspaper is taken for granted in today's world. Many parents seldom pause to think how much their family life is enriched by reading it and how the home horizons are extended to the corners of the globe.

From time to time a special issue of a paper marks a historical event in the community and should be carefully kept with other family records. Most of the editors using our feature have been kind enough to place our name on their mailing list and these special editions have been a pleasure to read. The Barrie Examiner Centenary issue reflected a world where grandfather Craw served in the pioneer days as a Presbyterian minister. The Red Deer Advocate's historical issue was a delight to any Canadian. This February we join with many others in wishing the Grand River Sackem of Caledonia good wishes as it begins its second century of service.

Interest in a newspaper can begin at an early age. The little child is attracted by the pictures in a paper. He acquires information by the questioning method and it is amazing how many different questions he can ask! "The Chinese have an old saying about a picture being equal to a thousand words; it sometimes seems to me that our Junior can ask a thousand questions about one picture!" one weary mother exclaimed impatiently. Her friend suggested that she provide her small son with blunt scissors, a scrap book and paste so he could make his own picture book from old newspaper photos. This is a worthwhile activity for the child starting to school. When he learns to print, he can write his own captions under the pictures. Crayons can be used for borders. Color adds greatly to the attractiveness of pictures in a small child's eyes. Pictures of animals have a special appeal. H. I. Phillips once wrote of the reason why pictures of polar bears appear in the summer in these lines,

"When heat waves come to scorch the streets
And humid is the long-drawn day . . .
Then editors in huddles go
And to the cameramen declare

OUR TOWN

"THE WORKS"

THE SUBJECT OF BEAUTY PARLORS for men passed once around a room in which I happened to find myself the other night and quickly succumbed. But not before it had been vigorously hooted at by all the big, strong men on the premises.

The news that a certain Prince Gourielli had opened a successful salon in New York where a man can have a cream pack, an ice refresher, a manicure and a special haircut to disguise incipient baldness was greeted with disdain by all of us.

Why, no real man would be found dead in such a place, we said, outraged at the very idea.

Why so emphatic? Well, I suppose a psychiatrist might trace it back to the North American boyhood in which the lowest form of life was the sissy.

Those of us who may have been scarred in our youth by a Little Lord Fauntleroy suit are not liable to accept lightly Prince Gourielli's experiment.

True, we may use the scented after-shave lotion Aunt Frosia gave us for Christmas. We may take certain widely-advertised precautions so that we'll be—ugh!—kissing sweet. But these somewhat feminine things are done in secrecy.

A man who would walk openly, brazenly into the prince's beauty parlor and ask for a cream pack would be a terrible mama's boy or, probably, worse. I just wouldn't trust him.

I WOULDN'T, THAT IS, except that we've been doing it for years and years. The male beauty shop is new in name only. Instead of Prince Gourielli's salon it's been Jake the Barber in a retreat well-hidden from prying eyes.

I hate to go blabbing all these secrets, but I fancy a good many wives would be astounded at the spectacle of a husband getting what is known as "the works."

It happens usually on trips away from home when a man may be a little more daring than normal and somewhat casual with the entries in his expense account. A small orgy at the barber's is relatively inexpensive and can be disguised

Yes, winter can be a most profitable season for the farmer.

How the little woman shops

(Kenneth A. Thompson in Detroit Free Press)

When the little woman shops for men's apparel, how does she approach the matter? A Philadelphia manufacturer of men's clothing, H. Daroff & Sons, reports that it conducted one of those national surveys and came up with some answers on how women shop for men's wear. Most of the women in the survey said they want their men to look "smart" and "fashionable," choosing these over such terms as conservative, important, neat and unusual. Over 40 per cent said their men left "everything up to them," rather than giving any instructions. And most were guided by advertising. And while women said they preferred to shop in men's stores, records showed they gave bigger volume of sales to department stores.

Quick! To the zoo, for we must show
Some pictures of a polar bear!"

IT IS TO THE COMIC strips which most children turn at once in the paper. They want to laugh or thrill over the mishaps or adventures of their favourite characters. Unless they are encouraged to take a little more time, some boys and girls grow up reading little else in the press, except the comics.

In the senior grades in elementary school, the scholars often compile a scrap book on Current Events. Many teachers give one pupil a turn each day describing one such happening. At the present time there is a ten year old and a twelve year old in our home. The younger girl's clippings are all on local events and the older girl's are world news. This is sound procedure because what is happening in the place in which a child lives is more vivid and easier to depict than far away events in other lands.

W. A. White once pointed out that the country newspaper rests entirely on the dignity of the human spirit. Because it emphasizes the individual, he called it "democracy-embodied." Another writer, R. C. Holliday made a thought-provoking comment, "There is not in the press any reading so improving as the 'obits' . . . I doubt very much indeed whether any one could read obituaries every day for a year and remain a bad man or woman."

One of the fundamental psychological needs is to be assured of one's own value. The newspapers serve the community in giving men and women prominence who voluntarily contribute generously of their time and energy to the welfare of their fellow men.

Thus we say "Long live the local newspapers." It was in a weekly column on High School News in the Fergus News Record that we received first training in reporting. We knew the discipline of meeting a "dead-line" — and we were confirmed in our belief that for us here was the most challenging and exciting work in the world. We owe far more than we can ever repay to editors who by their suggestions have helped us. Would that every aspiring adolescent journalist could have the experience, not just of visiting a newspaper, but of writing for it! (copyright) nically under the heading "airport limousine" or "postage etc."

Every man knows what a fine feeling it is to walk into a hotel barbershop, the heels ringing authoritatively on the tiles, perhaps gagging on a cigar purchased in the lobby, and to relax in a horizontal position in a barber's chair.

"What'll it be sir?" Ah, how they build your morale with that "sir!"

"Why," you say, oh, so casually, "give me the works."

Life never seems sweeter than it does with the eyes closed beneath the steaming towels, listening to the easy inconsequential of the barber's patter with your hand in the soft hand of a manicurist who might have stepped from a magazine cover, and your old oxfords being brought to a high shine by the "boy" (aged 80) at the other end.

The tab will probably be under a five-spot, but this is as much luxury as money can buy.

NO MAN WOULD EVER ADMIT that he undergoes such treatment for the results. It is the treatment, itself, he will tell you, that appeals to him—the scalp rub that he'll enjoy so much he'll find it hard to refrain from wearing a smuggleton's smile; the face massage, the pleasant-smelling creams and lotions—all of this contributing to the feeling of well being.

The barber never says, at the conclusion, "My you look a hundred per cent better!" This would spoil the whole effect since it must be done very matter-of-factly without a thought for the finished appearance.

The customer, on leaving the chair, will find it hard not to be pleased with himself on catching a reflection in the mirror, but must make no comment. He may say only, "That feels better." Never, "That looks better."

customer may leave as pink as a baby and smell. Thus the barber shop, which is there because of man's vanity, as you and I know, somehow maintains its air of masculinity and though the inn like a bed of petunias he'll have sacrificed nothing.

GREECE -- LEGEND AND SONG. Writer Babs Brown, composer Richard Johnston, and consultant Walter Graham have collaborated to produce scripts for the new CBS radio children's series "Legends of Ancient Greece", which will be heard every week on the Trans-Canada Network. The Greek vase, drinking cup and ladle they are holding are from the sixth century; the design on the vase shows a story which will be the subject of one of the broadcasts. The theme music on the Greek program has been taken from one of the few surviving fragments of authentic ancient Greek songs.

Foremost among the advances made in St. Vital, Man., during the past year, said Mayor H. Paul in his inaugural address, as reported by The Lance, was the sale of three properties for commercial development — an indication of the growing external confidence in the town.

When the Alexandria Times ceased publication at the end of the year, it marked the end of 50 years in the newspaper field for J. Albert Laurin, life-long resident and former Mayor of Alexandria, says The Glengarry News of that town. Mr. Laurin has not retired, however, but will continue to operate the commercial printing end of his plant.

Building permits for new homes and business places in the town of Virde, Man., totalled $600,000 in the past year, reported The Empire-Advance. Sixty-five new homes were included in the total.

Boating enthusiasts in St. Vital, Man., recently had a thrill when they saw a film depicting the old stern-wheelers which were the pride of the district when the "Red River of the North" was the chief means of transportation reports The Lance.

Tragedy struck again in the Dundas area, and The Winchester Press, along with other weeklies, relates the grim story of the home fire that took the lives of Mrs. Weldon Beckstead and two of her daughters at Williamsburg.

"Magistrate Dismisses Charge of Stealing Buck in Dalhousie Twp." reads the lead head in The Perth Courier. And, if you are tempted to ask why it should be a crime in Dalhousie any more than in any other county, let us add quickly that it wasn't money — but an animal, and, anyway, it had been shot as most bucks have been, green-back or no. Which doesn't seem to make a lot of sense, does it?

Now that the Napanee hustlers have paid the contractor his final cheque for the spanking new Community Centre, and business is brisk on the artificial ice surface, these folks aren't content to rest on their laurels — they have started an "Equipment Fund" and hope to have a floor ready for laying by Spring, says The Post-Express in a couple of front page stories.

Mrs. Eva Delaney, known affectionately in Cananogue where she went in 1911, as "Mrs. Theatre," will celebrate 45 years in the picture business, says The Reporter. She loves to talk over the days that started in the silent era and covers the time to the lavish wide screen spectacles of today.

A plan to eliminate TV aerials by "piping in" programs from a central tower to private homes was proposed to the Town Council by two businessmen, reports The Smiths Falls Record-News. Co-axial cables will carry the programs to the sets, and the tower will be such as to ensure "at least four good stations."

Provincial politics screamed at readers from The Arnprior Chronicle last week as the Conservatives and Liberals brought in their heavy artillery to support their respective candidates. The election is January 12th, and The Chronicle was prepared to give the latest returns as they became available.

Farmers showing keen interest in soil and crop discussions

Carman C. Tennant,
Agricultural Representative,
Grenville County

Farmers of the area, in larger numbers than ever, attended the annual conference of Eastern Ontario Soil and Crops Improvement Associations. This isn't to be wondered at as the program was most attractive and each session was packed with very sound, practical and timely information. A large number of outstanding authorities delivered most interesting addresses. To do justice in reporting on them would require much more space than could be provided in this column.

We were privileged to hear our Minister of Agriculture, the Hon. F. S. Thomas, on Wednesday night. He dealt largely with Land Use and Conservation. Three of our immediate agricultural problems in the Province are, lack of adequate water supply, diminishing acreage of good agricultural land due to industrial development and housing projects, and the marketing of produce surpluses.

In elaborating on the subject of water shortage he cited the example of Essex County. That area which was at one time 85 per cent in bush. Around 80 years ago it was cleared and now there is virtually no forest land there. Through intensive cultivation for cash crop purposes a condition has been brought about which features scarcity of water as one of the chief problems.

This situation is typical in varying degrees throughout most of Southwestern Ontario, and to a much lesser extent in Eastern Ontario where there are many inland lakes and cultivation is not so intense.

He predicts that at some future time water supply and usage may come under the jurisdiction of a commission as hydro power is now under a commission.

It is rather startling to hear of the rate at which some of our better agricultural land is being taken over for industrial and housing developments. We have a wide ribbon of population extending from Toronto to Windsor. In the area around Toronto, Hamilton and St. Catharines particularly, this encroachment on agricultural land, with a corresponding decrease in production potential of produce of the land is becoming acute. Under a Pilot Plan which has been in operation on an experimental basis with government and municipal bodies investigating and consulting, recommendations are being made to reserve some land sections which are particularly well adapted to the growing of highly specialized crops such as peaches. It is thought that this plan will be applied to other areas, to divert to some extent at least, industrial and housing developments to less valuable land sites.

WHY AUTHORS WRITE. Mark Twain seems to have inherited from his father a wildly impractical streak which led him to dabble in all kinds of useless inventions and get-rich-quick investments. On one occasion he lost a sizeable fortune on an invention which came to nothing and afterwards he had to work like a demon at writing and lecturing in order to recoup his losses.

The marketing of agricultural produce surpluses is, and has been, a problem. Farm labor shortages have been overcome by farm mechanization. With a steady and heavy annual increase in our population it is felt that in the foreseeable future the marketing of produce surpluses will not be a problem.

He reminded his audience that produce prices during the last 10 or 11 years had not fluctuated as greatly as they had during some previous decades. Credit for this should be given to improved marketing legislation and a better understanding of the whole situation on the part of producers.

Much credit is due the secretary of the Committee of Eastern Ontario Crop Improvement Associations, D. L. Parks, and others who worked with him in drafting such a splendid program. Everyone appreciates the wonderful accommodation which is provided at the Kemptville Agricultural School both in the residence and in the Engineering Building where the program was carried on. I don't know where else such splendid facilities would be available — the whole setup, including parking even — is second to none.

Several very useful exhibits were set up in the farm machinery room including the Ottawa Valley Seed Growers' Association, an educational exhibit on weeds. J. W. MacRae's exhibit on the value of spraying corn fields with 2-4-D and an O.A.C. exhibit on potatoes. The corn competition had at least as many entries as usual with quality and showmanship being an improvement over other years. In Zone 4 Class there were 22 entries, the top winners being Garnet Ralph of Richmond, R. 2; and Lawrence Burchill of Spencerville, R. 4. These were followed by the entries of Ralph Cooper, Cardinal, R. 1; J. C. Brennan, Osgoode Station; Trevor Thompson, Kemptville, R. 3, and W. T. Newman, Spencerville, R. 5. In the section for 4-H Corn Club members with 12 entries, Sally Brown and Danny Shea of the Lyn Club took the first two prizes, with Ray and Ross Dulmage of the Grenville Club placing third and fourth.

The growing and sale of Christmas trees has become a sizeable industry. A Christmas tree is almost an indispensable thing at that season of the year, and laden with decorations and gifts is the centre of attraction in each home for about two weeks. Unfortunately when its short period of usefulness is over it is, in most cases, simply tossed outdoors to become an eyesore for a time. The person who can come up with suggestions as to a means of salvaging these trees for some really useful purpose would be doing something. I heard the suggestion somewhere that, erected somewhere in the back yard, such a tree could serve as a four centre for winter birds. What I intend to do with ours is to lop the branches off to make a cover for rose bushes. Indirectly then it will be serving, I hope, to bring beauty back to our garden next summer.

Both Saunders and Chinook varieties were produced by the Cereal Division, Experimental Farms Service, through the co-operative efforts of agricultural scientists of the Canada Department of Agriculture.

Saunders was listed as a registered variety in 1947 and named in honour of Sir Charles Edward Saunders, the first Dominion Cerealist. It was the result of a cross between Thatcher and a numbered strain C-26-44-7, made in 1938. After early trials at Ottawa Saunders was widely tested on branch experimental farms in the West before being made available to farmers in Northern and Western Alberta. It is two days earlier than Thatcher and is resistant to the stem rust races occurring up to the time of its release but not to race 15-B.

Chinook wheat was developed from a cross between Thatcher and No. S-615-11 also made at the Central Experimental Farm in 1938. Early generations of Chinook were matured and grown at the Swift Current Experimental Farm and final testing completed by the Cereal Breeding Laboratory at Lethbridge. Chinook was licensed and accepted for registration in 1952. It is highly resistant to the wheat stem sawfly, is drought resistant, and has good milling qualities, characters that make it suitable for the dry areas of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

This is the first time either variety has been awarded championship honors in world wide competition. — Department of Agriculture photo.

Historical Society officers tour projected parks area

The St. Lawrence Parks Commission were hosts Saturday, January 7th, to members of the Ontario Historical Society, the Architectural Conservancy of Ontario and representatives of the Department of Anthropology of the University of Toronto. The group was invited by the Parks Commission to tour the area to be inundated by the St. Lawrence Power Development and the area to be developed for Parks purposes.

The group, who travelled to Cornwall by train, were met by Dr. J. Carroll, Vice-Chairman, and Mr. James Smart, Consultant for the Commission, and other officials who conducted the tour. The Parks Commission was appointed in the Spring of 1955 to establish and maintain suitable park areas which will include restoration and preservation of the significant historical sites and materials of authentic local antiquity.

During the inspection, particular attention was paid to the area where it is planned to replace the Chrysler Farm Monument. "On this site of proposed park land it is intended that original and restored structures of period architecture will house items to be preserved for posterity and displayed as our heritage, such as agricultural implements, household items, military relics, original documents of literary and historic value and other such objects revered as a material link with our pioneering forefathers," Mr. Carroll told the group.

Other highlights of the tour included visits to Garlough House—located six miles east of Morrisburg. Originally known as Cook's Tavern, this was American Army Headquarters during the battle of Chrysler's Farm, November 1813.

White House Inn—built about 1800 and a popular stopping place during coaching days.

Evergreen Hall, formerly the residence of Colonel J. P. Chrysler—of which the pedimented and pillared front elevation has held architectural interest for those travelling between Aultsville and Morrisburg since the middle of the 19th Century.

These and many other studies of early structural design and workmanship such as the Carman house of Iroquois, Temperance Hall, Aultsville, and Robertson House, Mille Roches, were included on the agenda.

At the temporary Parks Administration Building in Morrisburg the party examined many items of historic significance, such as a vase made in 1810 by the Elliott Pottery Works, Aultsville. This item was donated to the St. Lawrence Parks Commission fast-growing museum collection by Miss Annie Elliott, a direct descendant of the Elliott family.

The visiting group were agreeably surprised at the remarkable progress which has been made by the Parks Commission in locating objects and recording historical data on items associated with past generations.

Included in the party making the study were—Professor George Stanley, President, Canadian Historical Society; A. D. MacFall, President of York Pioneers; Miss Ruth M. Home, Chairman, Museums Committee of the Ontario Historical Society; Napier Simpson, Secretary; Miss Marion MacRae, representing the Architectural Conservancy of Ontario; Professor T. F. McIlwraith, Department of Anthropology, University of Toronto.

WHAT'S NEW

CANADIAN YESTERDAYS

By E. A. Collard

This "historical sketch-book" by the editor-in-chief of the Montreal Gazette is the product of patient and skilful research in the byways of Canadian history and the discovery there of "human beings with all the eccentricities, irrelevancies and preoccupations that give humanity its unending attraction." Many of these had their day, in Montreal or Quebec.

In an old burial-ground in the latter city lie the remains of a Canadian who but for a scrap of paper should have ascended the throne of Britain instead of Victoria.

The scrap of paper was the Royal Marriage Act. Mr. Collard relates the story as a historian, not a journalist.

Most of the narratives are of day-before-yesterday, as far back as the middle of the 18th century, but the writer calls back to vigorous life soldiers, hermits, ship captains, clergy, politicians and especially those who would be called "characters."

He has woven a bright pattern of former manners and customs in young Canada. The narratives are illustrated by some 40 reproductions of contemporary cuts.

GULLY FARM

Gully Farm is the story of an English family who pioneered the Canadian West 52 years ago. Walter and Sarah Pinder had never been outside their Yorkshire village. They had always lived in the same snug stone cottage with loving relatives and friendly neighbors around them. Yet in 1903 they sold everything and, with their three babies, six, three, and five months, left all that was familiar and dear to them for the frightening unknown that was Canada. After a journey that seemed halfway 'round the world, they settled with nothing but a wagon and team, a cow and their own strength on the untouched limitless prairie near what is now Lloydminster, a town on the northwest border between Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Mary Pinder tells her family's story gently, without dramatics, and with a tenderness and restraint that is far more exciting than any noisy, slick writing could be. Her prairie descriptions are so real, you can feel the fierce sun and wind, smell the sweet choke cherry blossoms and wild rose. She calls it "chook cherries."

Mary Pinder Hiemstra is not so much a writer as a story teller, recording the straightforward events of how the Pinder family made a farm and in so doing helped make Canada.

ROYAL TOUR, 1956. On January 27th the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will be leaving London by air for a three week visit to Nigeria, the largest of the British crown colonies and protectorates, of which the capital is Lagos. This will be the first visit there by a reigning British monarch. Nigeria is first and foremost an agricultural country, but it also produces coal, tin, lumber and other commodities. It is a noted centre for big-game hunting. Situated on the west coast of Africa, it has an area of 372,800 square miles. That is to say, it is about four times the size of Great Britain and a little larger than British Columbia. Its population is about 30,000,000, some 15,000 are Europeans. The climate is unhealthy at the coast but better to the north where mountains rise to 7,000 feet.

High School students visit Maitland Works

(Du Pont Courier)

Sixty students and four teachers from nearby South Mountain District High School visited Maitland Works and heard talks on nylon, "Orlon" acrylic fibre and "Freon" fluorinated hydrocarbons and watched the first "Orlon" fibre being made in Canada.

The "Orlon" fibre took form when E. R. Morton of the technical department drew several strands out of a beaker of white, viscous polymer which he had prepared in advance.

The visitors arrived in two special buses and were welcomed by personnel superintendent, A. L. Crossland and F. J. Dennis, of the Personnel Department, organizer of the program. Then they:—Heard Dr. Morton tell about the manufacture of nylon and "Orlon", used a chain of paper clips to show how nylon molecules join together in superpolymers.

—Heard about the characteristics of "Freon" from W. R. Anderson, chief supervisor of the "Freon" plant.

—Saw a motion picture entitled "This Is Nylon."

—Visited the analytical laboratory and heard a talk by senior foreman John Hain, who also described the development lab.

The boys also were taken on a tour of shops by Ernie Morrison, machine shop foreman while the girls were told about the uses of nylon and "Orlon" by Dorothy Vye, librarian.

Forester describes rabies epidemic

G. W. Delahey,
District Forester

This district is indebted to the Lindsay Office of this Department for the following information which is thought to be of interest to the public in this area:

Rabies in Dogs and Foxes: Rabies can be contracted by dogs and cats and by farm animals. It has been found in many different wild animals. It is transmitted to humans generally by the bite of infected animals.

For the benefit of those unfamiliar with this disease, we list the general symptoms.

Infection of the brain gives rise to unusual behaviour characterized, in the dog, by two forms which are designated as the furious and the dumb forms. In the fox, this division is not too evident.

Symptoms in the Dog: In the furious type excitement occurs at the onset and the animal may become frenzied and the voice becomes altered, strange cries or howls being uttered. Ferociousness is also very evident. During this stages of excitement the animal is very likely to travel considerable distances, and it is prone, at this time, to attack moving objects, any animal that crosses its path will be bitten. This period of excitement lasts for three or four days and at the end of this time paralytic symptoms appear which are followed by death.

The dumb form is characterized by a partial paralysis of the lower jaw with protrusion of the tongue and excessive salivation with inability to swallow. The animal poses a wild vacant look and, as in the previous form, these symptoms are followed by complete paralysis and death.

Symptoms in the Fox: The main symptom evinced by rabid foxes at the onset of the disease is their loss of fear of man, dogs and live-stock. They roam about in the daylight and have a distinct tendency to frequent the grounds and building around farm houses. Upon occasion they have been known to enter the house itself. While in these unnatural surroundings they may or may not bite the live-stock and the human inhabitants. Following these actions the rabid fox becomes progressively less vicious and, finally paralysis sets in. The disease terminates fatally, as in dogs, with complete paralysis.

S. Baker called on Mrs. Bertha Lawrence, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. John Burnie spent a couple of days last week in Toronto where he attended the Ontario Cheese Producer's Association.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Lawrence and family were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crowder, Brockville.

Brockville rinks dominate Curling Club Windmill 'spiel

Ossie Bigford's crack Brockville rink made it two in a row out of three times in the Prescott Curling Club's annual Windmill Bonspiel which concluded on Saturday night, repeating his win of the 1955 season. By coincidence, the Bigford rink had to play three straight matches on the last day to gain their laurels as they did last year. This time they downed another Brockville rink, skipped by Hilliard Campbell, 16-8, to take the Ber-Nell Trophy.

The Superior Silk Mills Trophy, for the secondary draw, went to another Brockville rink, with Dr. Tom Goodison as skip, nipping Elzeur Contant, of Cornwall, in a 11-9 struggle that provided the thrills of the closing games of the four-day event.

The Bigford rink received the Ber-Nell Trophy and RCA clock radios for their individual prizes, with Roy Putman making the presentations. With Bigford on the title rink were Charlie Snyder, vice-skip, Clare Mylks and Fred Hamilton.

The Campbell rink received bathroom scales for their consolation awards. H. Sherwood, George Davidson and Walter Bak completed the Campbell rink. The presentations were made by Keith Johnston, vice-president of the Curling Club.

Dr. Goodison received the Superior Silk Mills Trophy from Leslie Morell who also presented the individual prizes, electric irons, to the Goodison quartette, made up of Stan Ralph, Claude Goodison and vice-skip Hub Wakely, with Dr. Tom Goodison, skip.

Taking home electric clocks for their prizes were Elzeur Contant, Alex. Campbell, Frank Boucher and Bert Findlay, runners-up in the Superior Silk Mills Trophy draw, and who had eliminated Prescott's last hope, the Jack Saunders rink of Harry Clarke, Gerry Dubrule, Joe Tushack and Jack Saunders 10-9 in a nip-and-tuck semi-final. George Gibson, vice-chairman of the Bonspiel Committee presented these prizes.

Harry Clarke, bonspiel chairman, and Frank Greer, Club president, also congratulated the curlers for the manner in which they had carried out the schedule, and thanked various committees of the local club for their co-operation.

The results of the play from Thursday through to the finals went as follows:

NEW CHURCHILL SCHOOL. The fine new four-room brick "Churchill Public School" opened its doors on Tuesday morning on the western outskirts of Prescott to pupils of the Augusta Township School Area. Built by J. F. Saunders Ltd., and associated sub-contractors, the school is situated on four acres of land on the high point of the Connell Sub-Division, on the west side of Merwin Lane. With the school population of the township increasing rapidly, the school — the second four-room school to be opened in the southern portion of the township in nine months — is designed so that more rooms may be added to the western end. —Prescott JournalPhoto

Ogdensburg Auto Show dates announced for Jan. 26 to 29

The newest 1956 model automobiles, motor boats, household appliances and mobile homes will be featured at the annual Ogdensburg Automobile Show, which will take place from Thursday, January 26th to Sunday, January 29th, in the State Armory, on Ford Street.

Automobile shows have been held in Ogdensburg since 1920, except for the depression and war years. The show last year was the largest in attendance of any ever held and for the last two days the Armory was crowded to capacity, the attendance being the largest crowd in the 50 year history of the State Armory to ever be in the building.

A highlight of last year's show were the outstanding acts which were secured through George A. Hamid and General Artists Corporation of New York and Hollywood. An even finer program has been arranged for this year's show. Music will be furnished by Mickey Sullivan's four-piece band including Mickey Sullivan in person. Other top flight acts will be the Elkins Sisters, Pupi and Pupi, Smetona, the Andes Dogs. All of these acts have played the top theatres and night clubs in this country and Europe.

The Ogdensburg Automobile Show is the only show of the kind held in St. Lawrence County as there is no other building in the county large enough to hold one. Last year thousands of people came to see the show from Massena, Potsdam, Canton, Gouverneur and all other parts of the county as well as from Canada. The Automobile Show enables people to see and compare at their leisure the latest automobiles in a wide variety of models and colors, to inspect the latest motor boats and mobile homes and to visit the entrancing exhibits of the accessory and appliance dealers. In addition to this they can view the beautifully decorated Armory and see the finest show in all of Northern New York. Acts of the caliber seen at the Auto Show are never seen outside of the largest cities of New York State.

Bowling Standing Tightens

New year's celebrations are over and the teams comprising the Caldwell Bowling League can get back to the problem at hand: that of trying to dethrone the Crocketts who have held the lead for most of the season. At times it seemed as though one or the other of the three other teams would catch up but that never came to pass. Now, the Crocketts lead the field with a 112-point margin.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

NOTE: The ensuing letter was issued by the St. Lawrence Board of Review in answer to an article appearing in The Morrisburg Leader. The Post was asked to print the letter for the benefit of those who may have read the article referred to in this letter.—Ed.)

We have studied an article printed in the December 30th issue of the Morrisburg Leader re the St. Lawrence Board of Review, and in our opinion, while the intent of the writer may have been of the best, the impression on the reader certainly would not be.

Press reports on the last decisions released by the Board of Review preferred to give considerable prominence to one or two points in the decisions that were not favourable to the property owner, but neglected to point out that an overall increase of many thousands of dollars has been recommended by the Board to date.

The decision on the VanAllen property has been the one of greatest criticism. The VanAllen property while under two titles was and still is operated as one basic farm unit. The Hydro proposal of purchase for the whole unit was $34,000. The Board recommended a total of $36,000, or an increase of $2,000. It appears to be the Board's opinion of what was a fair division of this money that is being criticized, more than the amount recommended.

In a few other cases the Board saw fit to recommend the price offered by Hydro as fair, and it is also being ridiculed for this. It is, in our opinion unreasonable to expect that the Board should recommend an increase in every case that comes before it, regardless of what offer has been made.

The Board of Review was established so that a property owner, dissatisfied with an offer by Hydro, would be able to present his arguments and hear those of Hydro before a mediatory group. At these hearings all facts and figures relating to the case are brought to light and recommendations of the Board are based on these facts. A hearing before the Board costs the appellant nothing, nor is he bound by the recommendation of the Board.

The recommendations of the Board have in only a few cases been unanimous, but in our opinion, a sincere effort is being made to do the best possible job. It must be recognized that there has been no concerted effort by the people concerned to establish a measure of value for their property. This was clearly revealed at the hearing held by the Committee of The Board of Review at Morrisburg on November 7th. To date the only effort being made to increase prices paid in the Valley, is by the Municipal Members of the Board.

It would be worthy of note, if those that are so ready to criticize the Board, would do so only after careful study of some of the cases concerned, and if they were prepared to offer some better alternative before they put the axe to the only means the people have of arbitrating their differences with Hydro, without resorting to the expense involved in taking their case to a higher tribunal.

The ill considered criticism leveled at the Board through the press and otherwise, without complete revelation of all the facts, only tends to create fear and distrust in the minds of the people when trust, co-operation and a united effort are most necessary.

Allan Farlinger,
E. A. VanAllen,
K. G. Wells,
T. W. J. Lane,
L. C. Davis,
Municipal Members of the St. Lawrence Board of Review.
