Shoe plant closing: union

By Anne Kukhta
News reporter

A strike at Alexandria Footwear has had results after almost three weeks — the plant is closing today, a union representative said.

Officials of the plant advised the Ministry of Labor on Monday of the closure, Brewery Workers Union chapter 304 business agent Cam Nelson said April 2. Nelson said he has a copy of the letter sent by the plant.

However, an official of the ministry said such a letter had not been received by press time on Tuesday. But he added that such correspondence would probably still be in the mail if only sent on Monday.

Plant manager Les Bradshaw refused to comment and no other officials could be reached. However, Nelson said he also understood the owner planned to close the plant completely, not simply relocate.

"If the business wasn't in great shape before, this is the perfect opportunity for the guy (owner Mel Lands) to put several thousands of dollars in his pocket over this thing," Nelson added.

He explained that because the plant is being closed while workers are on strike, the owner is not bound by the Employement Severance Act. Under this act, each employee must be compensated for plant closures with one week's pay per year of service — except in the case of a walk-out.

Representatives of the company that makes various types of footwear including the Adidas sports shoe have complained of problems competing in the international market. In particular, Canadian tarriffs on U.S. made shoes will be removed by Jan. 1, 1998, under the Free Trade Agreement.

To increase its competitiveness, company officials introduced a plan that is the heart of union complaints. Union representatives said the proposed modified piecework could result in a five or 10 per cent pay cut for some employees.

The union rejected the related work contract three times, the third occuring at a last-ditch meeting held by the union at 3 p.m. yesterday.

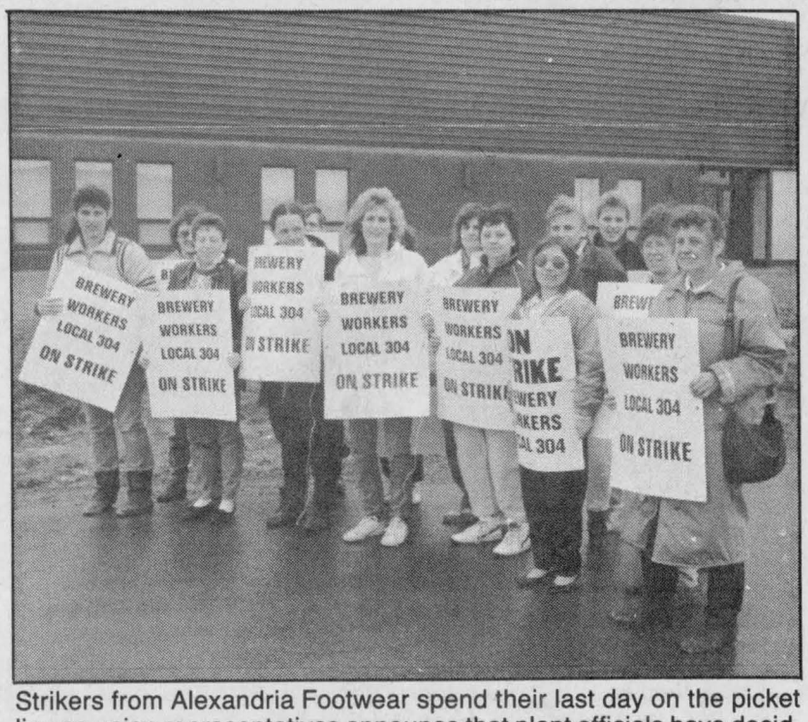
Oddly enough, union representatives on the negotiating team had advised the union in all three instances to accept the contract.

"The people who sat at the table and looked at what was going on obviously thought there was reason to swallow hard and hold your nose and accept something you don't like," Nelson said.

Now, the 76 former employees will be walking the line to the unemployment office, rather than the picket line that decorated the plant for the past few weeks.

As Nelson succinctly told a striker yesterday who was eagerly querying about unemployment benefits, "You can apply for pogy tomorrow."

None of more than a dozen workers manning the lines yesterday seemed discouraged by the grim announcement of the plant's closure. Warmed by conversation and a few hours in a trailer hiding from the rain, spirits — and confidence — were soaring.



Strikers from Alexandria Footwear spend their last day on the picket line as union representatives announce that plant officials have decided to close.

Roman Catholic commissions score with Synod

By Anne Kukhta
News reporter

It looks like a year of work has paid off for commission members who orchestrated the first stage of an internal study of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Alexandria-Cornwall.

Members of 12 commissions — six English, six French — proposed a total of 275 resolutions for an improved diocese as part of the synod Eklesia 2000. According to recently released figures, all but seven of the 275 were accepted and will now be referred to Bishop Eugene LaRocque for approval.

The resolutions were unveiled at two parliamentary assemblies on Feb. 17 and March 3 at General Vanier School in Cornwall. About 500 diocesan representatives expressed votes that Bernice Lefebvre of the third French commission said March 28 gave "the bishop the pulse in his church."

This pulse beats strongly in relation to the clergy and women and reflects a sensitivity and willingness to welcome to the church divorced people, women who have had abortions and the homosexual.

With regards to the clergy, the delegates voted to upgrade the clergy to contend with more expensive and open-minded times. In particular, 70.1 per cent agreed priests be allowed to reject celibacy.

However, this consensus will have no direct effect on the policies that now dictate a celibate clergy, a representative of the synod said.

"There were no resolutions to my knowledge that were against the faith and morals," Rev. Gary Ostler of St. Columban's parish said March 28. "But some of the resolutions (such as the celibacy one) go against existing legislations of the church (and) we can't change it but we can let them know that in Alexandria-Cornwall, this is the way people feel about it."

In doing so, another committee member named Rosaire Léger said the ball of change may indirectly be set rolling because the bishop will refer the suggestions to the authorities who do deal with decisions such as celibacy.

Other resolutions relating to the clergy that passed included one that priests' salaries be increase by $300 a month to a maximum of $1,300 and another that priests receive a health care package. Furthermore, it was adopted that priests be paid 70 per cent of their salary upon retirement.

Like the priests, women were also granted some concessions in the synod. For example, a resolution was accepted by 80.3 per cent of the voters that all key positions — such

Investigation turns up break-ins lead

By Michael O'Dwyer
News editor

Some light may have been shed on the rash of daylight break-ins spanning almost a year in the Maxville, Lancaster and Hawkesbury areas.

OPP detachments in Maxville, Lancaster, Hawkesbury, and the Surete du Quebec had been on the lookout for a vehicle and passengers fitting the description of those involved in as many as 35 home robberies.

And on Friday, March 23, Lancaster OPP charged two suspects with breaking and entering with intent to commit an indictable offence. And according to Staff Sgt. Jim McWade, more charges will follow as the couple has been positively identified in a theft dating back to last fall.

Staff Sgt. Jim McWade said originally the two perpetrators were observed by an officer on general patrol keeping watch for a suspect vehicle.

"He observed a vehicle, pulled it over to check it, and meanwhile there was a call for a break and enter. That's how they were identified initially," Sgt. McWade said.

The robberies throughout the county are similar in that they occurred in daylight while the residents were at work or away from the home. Entry was almost exclusively through forced or broken doors, and the prime target appears to be electronic equipment, jewelry and cash.

And, as Const. Gilles Ruest noted, daylight robberies are particularly difficult to identify.

"A lot of people will see a vehicle at a house in the middle of the day and think nothing of it. Usually these (thieves) have done it before. It;s a lot safer for them to go in during the day than at night," he said.

As of yet it is still unknown whether similar burglaries which have occurred in the Maxville OPP jurisdiction are related to those in Lancaster's area.

Feb. 13, three homes on County Road 21 were burglarized in the time span of about two hours.

And for some, these robberies have been terrifying.

Lesley Cadham stepped out of Gerard Kennedy's home between 10 a.m and noon. She returned to find the home had been robbed of jewelry, valuable coins, cash, and a Nintendo game.

"I was terrified for a couple of days afterward, afraid to leave the house because once you've left the house and someone has been in it, you get the terrible feeling that when you leave again they're going to come back. Not that there would be anything to take," she said March 29.

Between 10:30 and 4 p.m. on the same day, while Maurice Menard took a drive to Cornwall, thieves forced open a side door and he was cleaned out of more than $4,000 in jewelry and stereo equipment including 80 compact disks.

"They must have been watching. I hope they catch them. When you walk in and see the mess. Wow," he said recently.

And Lyn Proulx, on the same day between 8 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. was robbed via forced entry through the back door. She lost her video machine and gold jewelry.

Const. Dan Bissonette of the Maxville force said Friday two more recent robberies, on March 24 and 26 on County Road 23 may be connected.

Maxville OPP said recently these violations might also be associated with break and enters in the Hawkesbury area.

Lancaster OPP Const. Chris McDonell is investigating the b & e scourge to determine how many charges will be laid.

Charged are Gilles Dandurand, and Pauline Leduc from Valleyfield, Que. The two appeared in Alexandria Provincial Court on one charge of break and enter with intent to commit an offence, however their case was adjourned pending the appointment of legal aid.

They were charged as a result of the Friday March 23 encounter with the police. When they appeared in court, March 29 they were placed in custody and subsequently released after questioning relating to other incidents.

More information will follow with the ensuing investigation.

United Counties collect $1.4 million

Counties' budget jumps 7.8 per cent

A surprise one per cent drop in property tax assessment revenues for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry United Counties caused the 1990 budget to be shoved up to a 7.8 per cent tax increase over last year.

At budget sessions March 20, United Counties council slashed a suggested 15.5 per cent tax increase down to 6.8 per cent.

But this figure was increased to 7.8 per cent at a final budget meeting of council March 30.

The overall United Counties budget for 1990 stands at $19.7 million — up from $17.5 million in 1989.

The 20 member municipalities of the United Counties will pay $3,907,800 of the $19.7 million total budget. The rest is picked up in provincial grants.

"We expected a three per cent rise in overall property assessment income from our 20 member municipalities last year," SDG Warden Claude Cousineau explained. "But when the final figures came in there was only a two per cent increase."

Cousineau pointed out that the 7.8 per cent increase in taxes this year, "is a welcome change from last year when we were looking at an 11 per cent rise."

The warden said 1990 "is looking a lot better from an assessment point of view. Applications for building permits are climbing in all our municipalities, as builders rush to complete before the GST (Goods and Services Tax) is imposed in 1991."

Cousineau pointed out that the United Counties came in "right on budget last year in the areas we can control like roads, libraries, planning and administration — but provincially-mandated programs for social services and budgets of the children's aid and the health unit are wild cards we can't control."

Seven Glengarry municipalities will pay $1.4 million towards the services and upkeep of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry United Counties this year.

The share each of the 20 member municipalities pays from property taxes, towards the Counties' $3.9 million 1990 budget was set March 30, by United Counties council.

In Glengarry, Charlottenburgh Township will pay $474,045 — the largest share with a levy of 12.4 per cent. Maxville is assessed the lowest levy of .83 per cent and a total payment of $31,671.

Alexandria will pay $307,410 to the Counties with a levy of 8.06 per cent and Lancaster Township is next in line, paying $268,522 with a tax levy of seven per cent.

Lochiel Township will pay $152,567 to the United Counties budget with a levy of four per cent and Kenyon is close behind with a levy of 3.9 per cent and a payment of $151,117.

Lancaster Village pays $45,944 with a United Counties levy of 1.2 per cent.

The shared payments for all municipalities increased from last year a total of 7.9 per cent on average. Last year Alexandria paid $277,224, Lancaster Village paid $39,918, Maxville paid $30,384, Charlottenburgh paid $427,935, Kenyon paid $137,969, Lancaster Township paid $240,909 and Lochiel paid $139,647.

Overall, of the 20 municipalities, Charlottenburgh pays the highest share with $474,045 of the 1990 United Counties budget, followed closely by Cornwall Township which will pay $467,307.

Cornwall City is not a part of the United Counties and does not share in its budgets.

The total budget projected for 1990 in the three United Counties is set at $19.7 million — up from $17.5 million last year. Provincial grants cover the largest share of this budget — the United Counties share is $3.9 million.

The counties pay for roads, social services, tourist council, children's aid services, homes for the aged, the health council, county libraries, planning and administration.

Catholic commissions score with synod

as the diocesan chancellor, the parish animator — be available to women.

But this seeming acceptance of women in power positions is misleading, a member of the commission that studied the female role said.

"You find there's quite a bit of opposition to women participating in church," Ronald McCabe said March 28. "The opposition comes to women being active members of the church in all facets."

In particular, McCabe referred to a motion that women be allowed to become priests, which was defeated with only 46.1 per cent support.

Even though four of the 14 resolutions relating to women and the clergy were overturned, Lefebvre said just the fact that these issues were considered illustrates a growth of women in the church.

"That means we've come a long way," she said. "Attitudes are changing."

This motion of female priests joins six others under the ax. These included that women minister to the sick, that marriage course participants undergo psychological tests, and that the final two sessions of the synod be organized more democratically and with more time for discussion.

This last was put forth by one of the delegates in the second half of the assembly, contesting resolutions speadily read and voted on; they averaged one every 30 seconds. Only 44.9 per cent supported the resolution, facing 20.3 per cent opposition and 34.8 per cent abstention.

While such results from the assembly are being considered by the bishop, the next of the three-step synod process will begin.

"The first stage, I think, was a little bit of brainstorming, where you did not restrict people and put conditions on them," Léger explained.

Stage two, then, will focus on finding the appropriate means of implementing the recommendations of stage one.

And in the third and final year of the study, Léger said, "You evangelize. You sell it."

Although there is a long haul of questionnaires, discussions and two more parliamentary assemblies ahead for the diocesan members as the remaining two-thirds of the synod is completed, this first stage has already shown promise.

"The end result is fine. It gives direction. It's been thought out to a great extent. But more importantly is the process itself. There have been thousands — literally thousands (of people) — involved in Ekklesia since it's taken place," Villeneuve enthused.

Correction

A headline in one of last week's Court Report was wrong. Instead of being convicted of impaired driving as our headline stated, Gerald Latour, Jr., was found guilty of driving while his blood-alcohol level was more than the legal limit.

The News regrets any inconvenience the error may have caused.

We published a story about Maxville OPP opening an outpost in Glen Robertson and incorrectly credited Lancaster Township council with providing free facilities for the outlet. The provision was made by Lochiel council.

We regret the error.

Planting their future:

SDG Scouts, Cubs, Beavers help 'Trees for Canada'

Ten thousand more trees will be growing in the 1,200 acre Garry River Management Area on April 28 thanks to about 800 Scouts, Cubs, and Beavers from SD&G.

The project, called Trees For Canada is a cooperative effort of Scouts Canada, the RRCA, and the Ministry of Natural Resources. Hosted this year by the Second Alexandria Troop. The SD&G Scouts will join Scouts from across the nation to plant over three million trees.

The RRCA has chosen Eastern White Pine for the planting project because of the varied uses of this species. White Pine forests are great habitat for white-tail deer and ruffed grouse and, when it matures it provides a valuable crop of lumber.

Ralph Austin, chairman of the Trees for Canada campaign, is coordinating the scouts in the planting blitz, said the project is also a valuable fund-raising campaign to support the Scouts in other community-minded projects.

Scouts participating in the project will seek pledges from community members, coordinated so that each house is only contacted once.

"This will cut down the number of calls at any house and allow people to make one reasonable pledge," said Austin.

As far back as 1930, Scouts were planting trees across Canada. In 1972, the planting campaign was formalized as the Trees for Canada, and since then more than 39 million trees have been planted across Canada. To date, more than 40,000 trees have been planted on the present plot of land which is under a lease management agreement with the Town of Alexandria.

Parents want committee formed to study vacations

By Anne Kukhta
News* reporter

Parents of students at Williamstown Public School say there just isn't enough information available about the school's proposal of an early summer vacation and are starting a committee to delve into the issue.

However, even though this committee suggestion was accepted at a March 21 school committee public meeting, not one parent has yet volunteered to staff this committee, PTA president Cathy Millar said April 2.

At this same meeting, Williamstown school principal Brian Loucks outlined the proposition he said his staff designed. The plan has since been forwarded to the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education for approval and county-wide implementation.

With some modifications to the March break, the idea is to bump up the start of the summer vacation from June 28 to June 12. Correspondingly, the start of the year would be changed from after Labor Day to Aug. 20.

Loucks' main argument is that the humid June weather produces sluggish students. So by terminating classes early in the summer, Loucks said wasted time could be rechannelled to the beginning of the year.

"The real problem was there's no information"

However, parent Randy Ross said April 2 this argument just doesn't wash with him and he expects better justification of the change.

"The real problem was there's no information so there was really nothing to base an opinion upon," Ross said.

He added, "I went to the meeting with — I guess you would say I was against it. I hadn't heard anything about it. But the prinicipal indicated the majority of the teachers were for it. I wanted to hear why the teachers were for it (but) there wasn't any information.

"Unfortunately, these things are decided because of personal preferences and the nays were just as guilty as the yeas," Ross finished.

Another parent who has children in Williamstown Public School said the whole process upon which the changes were suggested to the school board was faulty.

"It's a shame it had to come up like this," Angela Dorie said March 30. "It's a shame it got to the point of him (Loucks) going ahead with this without discussing with the parents at all, that he didn't go to the parents first.... He did things backward."

And this subterfuge is continuing, Dorie said; parents still don't know what's happening now that the meeting is over.

"You know, the whole bloody thing, it's like we had the meeting and nothing more's been mentioned about it," Dorie said. "All we're getting is (Loucks's) quotes through the paper. What is going on?"

PTA president Millar said it's too early to tell.

"I think it was too early to put it to a vote. Even myself, I haven't even taken a vote because I don't think all the facts are in," she said April 2. "I'm open to listen to suggestions, that type of thing, and I think many other parents feel that too. And we're ready to listen to what the school board has to say but if they have some changes, you've got to come and give us some concrete reasons."

Millar added that the parents' committee is not likely to take shape until the fall. A lot, she said, will hinge upon the committee of board trustees that board of education Superintendent Colin Vickers says will be established to speak with parents and teachers in the three counties about the feasibility of the holiday change.

Cornwall firm gets Hall of Fame job

The lowest of nine estimates submitted by contractors vying to construct the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame last week went to J. F. Markell Homes Ltd. of Cornwall.

The firm submitted a bid of $240,880 for Phase 1, about 10 per cent below budget. The tender was opened at a Hall of Fame board meeting on Thursday, March 29 in Alexandria. It was among nine others which were also opened and considered by the board.

Construction of the facility will start immediately, and it is estimated that it will take 22 weeks to complete.

The structure is being built adjacent to the main gates at the Maxville Fairgrounds, home of the Glengarry Highland Games.

The project is being bolstered by a fundraising campaign which officially kicked off Saturday, March 24.

Phase 1 of the project includes sewer and cement work and construction of the building. Phases 2 and 3 will include the interior furnishings and landscaping, and finishing touches.

At the same Thursday night meeting, details of the project's major fundraiser, a monster bingo, were announced. It will be held on July 1 at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Chaired by board member Duncan Macdonell, the bingo will handle 2,400 players with total prize money of $65,000 in cash.

Tickets are expected to be sold out quickly.

Ross sparks fight for Charlottenburgh park

By Pauline Ashton
News* correspondent

Charlottenburgh Reeve Carol-Ann Ross charged last week $250,000 was spent installing showers at Charlottenburgh Park — "but campers can't use them because the septic system is shot."

She made the remark while requesting that Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Counties council reprimand the St. Lawrence Parks Commission for closing down Charlottenburgh and four other local parks at a meeting March 30.

After meeting parks commission officials Monday (April 2), to discuss plans for Charlottenburgh Township to lease and run Charlottenburgh park this season, Ross told The News that "none of our figures on the usage in that park match."

Ross said parks officials told her park attendance had fallen in the past three years — but Ross has attendance figures which show increases.

Parks officials told Ross their provincial funding had been cut back, and that the 15 parks and three historic sites run by the Commission along the St. Lawrence from Kingston to Lancaster, are "piling up deficits."

"What's so new about deficits?" Ross said. "I thought our parks system was run as a service — I'm not surprised they don't break even."

"It looks like St. Lawrence Parks Commission wants someone else to take over their parks," Ross reported. "They offered to lease Charlottenburgh Park to the township with all equipment for one year for $1 — and negotiate a long term lease with us later."

Ross said if the township does not take over, officials told her the park would be offered to Raisin River Conservation Authority, which runs a park two miles away, or put up for public tender.

Ross says she wants to know "a good deal more about any long-term lease agreement and who pays for what — it sounds like the parks commission wants to get back some of that $250,000 spent on showers that can't be used."

Ross said if Charlottenburgh Township took over the park, "we would be expected to pay the estimated $50,000 to $80,000 extra to get the septic system working."

She vowed if the Township took over the park this summer "it would be as-is, and we'd leave off septic tank expenses till we see what kind of long-term lease could be arranged.

"After all, that park has been piling up increase usage without showers — only toilets and basins," she pointed out. "Also the Raisin River Conservation Authority is doing a soil study to plan a new septic system, and a further study to find out what has been contaminating the beach for the last two years."

The beach was closed to swimming July and August of last season and part of the summer in 1988. Even with polluted beaches 21,307 used the park in the summer of 1988, and 21,236 camped at the park in 1987 season, Ross pointed out.

St. Lawrence Parks told Ross that the park cost $114,700 to run during the 1989 season, which was cut short by two months, and only produced $53,600 in revenues.

Ross said the whole parks matter will be explored at a township council meeting April 10 — "but I'm sure we could run it more efficiently and for a longer season than the parks commission."

Petition supporting park boasts 7,000 names

There has been a bonanza of support for the fight against St. Lawrence Parks Commission's closure of five area parks that include Charlottenburgh Provincial Park.

Charlottenburgh Reeve Carol-Ann Ross, who is also a member of the Save Our Parks Committee, said yesterday that at least 7,000 people have signed their names to a petition against the closures.

This is more than triple the original goal of about 2,000 names, which Ross said was later extended to 5,000 as the petition lengthened. A rally on the weekend added even more names, as campers with petitions were positioned at major stores and malls in nearby cities that included Cornwall and Brockville.

The petitions are being taken by the committee to Toronto today for discussion in the Ontario legislature in the afternoon.

Ross said the committee hopes the legislature will overturn the St. Lawrence Parks Commission's closure of the five parks, located in Charlottenburgh, Farran,

Reeve Carol-Ann Ross

Greville, Morrison/Nairne and Browns' Bay.

With regards to Charlottenburgh, Ross said she is well prepared to argue with government officials for its preservation.

She explained that the government is justifying the closures because of a decrease in government funding to parks accompanied by a decrease in usage. However, Ross said, she has figures to prove funding in fact increased by four per cent this year.

Similarly, she said statistics show about 21,000 people made use of Charlottenburgh Park in 1987/88, and an additional few hundred boosted this number to about 22,000 in 1989.

Furthermore, she said about $25,000 has been invested over the last couple of years to install showers at the park, although another estimated $50,000 to $80,000 would be required to complete the project. Having spent this much, Ross said closure doesn't make sense.

However, the manager of marketing and communication for the parks commission, Patricia Forrest, said about a month ago $101,450 would be saved by closing the park

The 125-acre camping park is situated off Hwy. 2 on Lake St. Francis. Twenty seasonal employees and 23 summer students will lose their jobs in the closure.

Court report

The following are cases dealt with by Judge Reginald Levesque in Alexandria Provincial Court on Thursday, March 29.

$5,000 fine for pay out

Paying out to winners of video games netted a $5,000 fine for a numbered company which operates the Impala Motel in South Lancaster.

The president of 601572 Ontario Inc., Friedhard Schneider, pleaded guilty on behalf of the company, to keeping a common gaming or betting house.

A previous plea on Sept. 21, 1989, had been one of not guilty.

Crown attorney Guy Simard told the court that on three occasions from May 22 to May 25, 1989, a Cornwall police officer had received money from Impala Motel employees after he'd accrued a number of points on video games in the establishment. He said the officer reported that on two occasions, the employees recorded the transactions in a book.

A search warrant was executed by Lancaster OPP on June 28, 1989. Five video games and game proceeds of $207.50 and the transaction register were seized, reported Simard.

Six employees were charged with keeping a common gaming house. The individual charges were withdrawn, Thursday.

Judge Reginald Levesque told the court that in rendering his decision, he had to consider among other factors, the profit generated by the video games. He said he did not know the amount of profit, but continued, if the operation had not been profitable, there would not have been a need to register the transactions.

The company has six months to pay the fine.

Fined $800

A 71-year-old Kenyon Township man was fined $800 and is prohibited from driving a motor vehicle for one year.

Jack McDonald of Concession 4, changed his earlier plea of not guilty, to guilty of driving with a blood-alcohol level exceeding the legal limit.

Mr. McDonald was arrested by Alexandria police on July 19, 1989 after Const. Roger Levert received reports that Mr. McDonald's vehicle was blocking traffic on an Alexandria street.

Mr. McDonald was taken to the Lancaster OPP detachment for breathalyser tests. The results were 245 mgs and 240 mgs of alcohol per 100 mls of blood.

Mr. McDonald has no prior record.

Theft nets $100 fine

A 68-year-old North Lancaster area woman was found guilty of theft and fined $100.

Helen Crawford of Concession 8 reversed her March 1 plea of not guilty, to guilty of theft not exceeding $1,000.

She was charged by Alexandria police on Dec. 8 after taking a pair of gloves and a corsage from the Canadian Tire Store in Alexandria. Mrs. Crawford was apprehended by an employee outside the store and the goods were immediately recovered.

Mrs. Crawford has a prior record.

Senegal doctor addresses Alexandria audience on Third World progress

Glengarrians received an insight into Third World problems on March 28.

The Roman Catholic group Development and Peace sponsored a speech by Dr. Ezechias Rwabuhihi at Alexandria's Sacred Heart church, continuing its tradition of having Third World visitors during Lent.

From Senegal on the west coast of Africa, Rwabuhihi told an audience of about 40 how his country has become self-sufficient through OFADEC, a Development and Peace project in practice in 599 countries.

Development and Peace representatives hope that appearances by people such as Rwabuhihi will sensatize Canadians to the problems of developing countries, in turn sparking a funding campaign it holds during Lent.

Evading justice catches up to Cornwall man

Two-and-a-half years of evading the judicial system resulted in a stiffer sentence for a former Alexandria resident in Alexandria Provincial Court last Thursday.

Roger Emile Derouchie, now of Cornwall, was sentenced to a total of 60 days in Cornwall jail for offences committed in 1986 and 1987. He will serve 30 days for operating a motor vehicle while disqualified and 30 days for assault, intermittently on weekends to allow him to continue employment in Cornwall.

Derouchie was charged by Alexandria police on Nov. 1, 1986 for assault, and on Feb. 2, 1987, for driving while disqualified.

A bench warrant was issued on Aug. 25, 1987, when Derouchie failed to appear in court for sentencing in relation to both charges.

The accused was arrested in Cornwall by Long Sault OPP on Feb. 19, 1990 on another outstanding 1987 charge of driving while disqualified. He recently completed a 29-day jail term for the offence.

Levesque told the court that the sentence had to reflect that Derouchie did not appear for his sentencing for 2 1/2 years. He also raised the point that the accused was charged with driving a motor vehicle while disqualified, only weeks after his driver's licence had been revoked.

This shows a total lack of remorse and disregard for the judicial process. This is an aggravating feature to this sentence.

"I am urged not to incarcerate the accused on the basis that he is now employed and it may adversely affect his employment. The court doesn not buy the argument," he said of the defence attorney's request to impose a fine in lieu of a jail term.

At one point, the prosecuting attorney suggested that, because the matter was 2 1/2 years old, a pre-sentence report be compiled to clarify the facts.

However, Levesque reminded the crown that the accused did not make himself available for a pre-sentence report as ordered in June 1987, and did not appear for sentencing until after he'd been arrested. "He had ample opportunity" to turn himself in, said Levesque.

Derouchie had a prior record.

This is increased access to postal services?

The people living in and around the village of Dalkeith have been dealt a dirty deal by Canada Post.

Not only are the circumstances behind the planned closure of the postal station there odd to say the least, but the residents have yet to be guaranteed that their level of service will not decline.

To start with, Canada Post claimed it had a so-called ''natural opportunity'' to franchise its operations there. As MP Don Boudria pointed out in the House of Commons, the corporation had no such thing. It offered the postmistress of the station early retirement, a deal she couldn't refuse. In fact, Canada Post created this natural opportunity to meet a goal it had quietly established for the village.

All of this was done before it found a suitable franchise. The corporation obviously assumed that it would have no trouble enticing an interested business owner to take the outlet. As a number of those present at the recent meeting noted, this was an assumption that was wrong, despite optimism by officials that an appropriate retail outlet would be found.

Was the federal government kidding when it said it wanted the post office to function like a business? No private corporation in its right mind would have taken steps to close a department without first having had replacement services in place, or at least a contingency plan. (Canada Post's contingency plan, in the least they say, is that everyone will be served by outdoor delivery and a stamp agency would be established, though even a suitable stamp agent has yet to be found.) In that case, the officials say, parcels would be carded and residents would contact Vankleek Hill to arrange a time when a courier would meet them with the parcel at their mail box.

This is increased access to postal services? As incredible as it sounds this is what Canada Post maintains is its number one reason for closing the village's post office. The assurances sound very weak. The plan is even weaker.

Closer to the likely truth is that the corporation wants to save money. On this point, Canada Post has come clean. And there's nothing wrong with that, provided the public, whose taxes paid for all of the infrastructure of the corporation possesses, is satisfied their interests aren't jeopardized.

However, as private business owners know, there's no easy way to save money through cuts and to maintain the previous level of service. Something has to give. For Canadians, it has given way in new subdivisions where door-to-door delivery has been discontinued, and the now infamous ''supermailboxes'' reign supreme.

In rural areas, the price is a growing number of closing post offices. Like Dalkeith's.

At a time when the rural way of life is under attack from a number of forces including urban influences, the post office threat continues to rub salt into the wounds — and wounded pride — of people like those in the village of Dalkeith.

They deserve better.

Town went wrong route in enforcing bylaw

One of the dividends of rural life is that there is sometimes no need for law enforcement officers to apply the ''letter of the law'' in the case of minor infractions. Police and bylaw enforcement officers often can solve problems more effectively by interpretting the ''intent'' of the law, and then applying discretion and diplomacy—a method that, thanks to a poorly-handled situation, has been discarded in Alexandria.

Town council chose to apply the letter of the law in the case of the Hope Street obstructions debacle. The bylaw councillors say they have to enforce prevents property owners in town from placing private objects on town-owned land. The intent clearly is to prevent an abuse of town property adjacent to privately-owned property and to release the municipality of legal liability.

But by moving to penalize a few ratepayers, council has painted itself into a corner. The obstructions—a few lamp posts and a couple of cedar trees on St. James Street—are no more hazardous to town interests or motorists than the scores of fire hydrants, hydro poles or other privately-owned objects around town on public property. But, as a result of one complaint they say, they have to apply the law.

Fine. But since council chose to follow the ''letter of the law'' course, the bylaw should be applied universally throughout town—not just in the case of a few people who tried to improve the appearance and value of their own properties and the town's.

Unfortunately, a lack of discretion and compromise in the first place now may mean the residents will take the town to court. It's too bad some plain rural common sense and honest compromise couldn't have prevailed in the first place.

Parents still left without a choice

After Thoughts

Joe Banks

Readers who spotted the front page story last week detailing the competition for education dollars now know the big stakes in the battle for the public's bucks. It's a serious game, and boards across Ontario are gearing up to promote their style of teaching, their philosophies — their advantages.

The province has spurred this classroom version of the cola wars. It approved legislation which allows both commercial and industrial ratepayers to direct their taxes to the board of their choice. This means the public boards — long the recipients of these funds — will be scrambling to hang onto those assessments it could lose to aggressive separate boards.

It could be validly argued that this represents one step toward the establishment of ''super boards'' — a union of separate and public facilities. On the other hand, while allowing industrial and commercial property owners the right to direct their taxes to whomever they wish, non-Catholic parents who want to send their children to the school of their choice are still left out in the cold.

I happen to be one of those parents, pigeonholed as a public school supporter because I, and my wife, are Protestant. Under the current rules of the Ontario Education and Assessment acts, we do not have the right to direct our taxes to the separate board. So we are required to pay a tuition fee of $215 per year to send our daughter to a separate school two blocks from where we live (even though we're saving the public board time and money by not busing our child to a public school miles away.

The public board, which receives our taxes, says it cannot pay the separate board the cost to send our daughter to a separate school because it would have to fund the full per capita rate to do so — well over $5,000 per year. The separate board says its hands are tied by provincial law and board policy, both of which make legal the monetary penalties to non-Catholics who use their schools.

The Ontario Ministry of Education? They have written us a very silly letter describing in detail the history of separate school funding in the province. They were so careful to avoid offending anybody, they said absolutely nothing to make us believe the situation would change. In fact, when it got right down to it, they said absolutely nothing at all. It was one of the best examples of avoiding a question in writing I've ever seen.

The separate board, by the way, gets a fat subsidy for our child from the province. Clearly, it stands to lose more than it gains encouraging us, through a fee, to send our child to a public school.

In the meantime, the Banks family pays taxes to a board its child does not use, and a tuition fee to another board which, under the protection of two provincial acts, discriminates on religious grounds. And here I thought that only happened in Third World countries!

But perhaps one of the most troubling aspects of this absurd situation is that it quietly forces low-income parents who cannot afford tuition fees to lie about their religion. I was advised to do it myself by an acquaintance — a Protestant single mother — who claimed on her assessment she was Catholic. No questions asked.

I won't lie, and I'll pay the tuition fee, against my better judgment. I'd rather take the whole thing into a courtroom, and have this grossly unfair policy struck down. Unfortunately, such lofty engagements cost money, far beyond the reach of an ordinary Joe. We'll continue our appeal, however.

Still, I've been told more than once, that a system that allows owners of commercial and industrial properties to switch their taxes when ordinary ratepayers cannot, can't survive forever, right?

Don't hold your breath, fellow taxpayer. I'm not holding mine.

At the mercy of our own invention

Pen Thoughts

Michael O'Dwyer

We can blame it all on Louis Pascal. He was the silly Frenchman who had nothing better to do with his time than to invent the first computer. It was a pretty rudimentary machine, but he definitely started it all.

Here we all are, a couple of hundred years down the line in the computer generation. Civilization has come to the point where more and more it seems that the computers are innovating us, rather than the other way around. If they weren't so darned useful we would surely have kicked them off the face of the earth a long time ago.

Oh sure, there are lots of great things that can be said in their defence. I, and millions of other Canadians, live my working hours in front of them. (I hate to admit it but if it weren't for Pascal I would probably be plucking chickens for a living — I never learned to use a typewriter.)

The people at IBM will probably also go on to brag that computers design our cars, airplanes and office buildings. They'd be right. And there's no end in sight to what computers will design and build for us, including innovative hair cuts.

But it doesn't stop there. Where would we be without our computerized interbranch banking, our instant cash machines, and filing systems that can hold 10,000 accounts on one 3.5 inch disc that can be mailed to Singapore for the cost of a postage stamp? Try doing that when they still used paper.

For the cost of a personal computer and some special programs (and maybe not since schools are stocking up on them) developmentally handicapped children are learning quickly and other children are improving their dexterity and hand-eye coordination at a rate never seen before. They are handy machines, no doubt about it.

But they have long since stopped being tools for us to use; they have become like breathing — essential, and if it stops, deadly.

Some may deny it, but we no longer have control.

Picture the agonizing moments staring blankly at the instant teller when it tells you that not only do you not have any money but you are hopelessly overdrawn. You know that your balance is precisely $437.24, but computers don't make mistakes and you won't get any money no matter how hard you reason with it.

And for all you know it may have been stolen because the very good thieves these days don't carry guns, they carry briefcases and are known as white collar pirates. They steal money and alter records through the keyboard.

And on a more personal note. Picture having a week's worth of stories in the machine only to find that the thing doesn't feel like cooperating. Only through direct divine intervention was that material retrieved at the brink of disaster.

But these are trivial examples of a very serious situation.

Black Monday, Oct. 19, 1988 is a day that will haunt many Canadians until they die.

Without explanation the markets crashed into the basement. What ruined many investors and nearly devastated our economy was the result of highly sophisticated computers playing the money world's version of War Games. And we couldn't do a thing about it because we had no say in the matter.

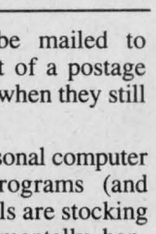
And the world's nuclear arsenals are operated through the same computer technology.

Pascal's simple invention now makes the civilized world go round. But if it malfunctions: &@+B#1u$@A(E—¿E(). Garbage.

Suicide happens here: look for signs

That's Life

Lesley Cadham



I'll never forget the day Holly called to me to say she couldn't come over. She was rushing over to Diane's house because Diane was ''freaking out.''

Her boyfriend Larry, a 17-year-old blond-haired, blue-eyed boy who had just celebrated his high school graduation with a back yard cake and ice cream party, had committed suicide.

They found him in the family car, in the garage, asphyxiated by exhaust fumes.

Later, I heard about Daphne, then Alex, and then Judy. But Judy was different. She lived. The long, jagged scars on both wrists served as a constant reminder that she'd once hit rock bottom.

I kept asking myself one question: Why did these people want to die?

Alex's family was extremely wealthy and at 16, his car was nicer than the one my 50-year-old father drove to work. At 18, Alex married his high school sweetheart.

Judy was 16, a pretty little girl with her own roomy bedroom in the comfortable basement of her family home. She had a closet full of the latest styles and a record collection I coveted deeply. Her boyfriend worshipped the ground she walked on.

But Daphne, said a close friend, had never been happy. She came from a middle-class family and owned middle-class luxuries. She never felt she was attractive enough, or slim enough, or fun enough.

They were four different people, with very different histories. But they had one thing in common: There was

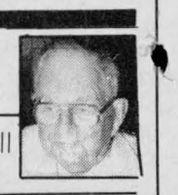
Spring ushers in summer, Games

In the Glens

Angus McDonell



Spring officially arrives each year, March 21. However, unofficially spring is really here when the timepieces are advanced an hour; the bulky overcoat is exchanged for a lighter garment and tulips are tiny spikes in the driveway border. All that was confirmed on the weekend.

It is also a reminder that the summer's renowned entertainment in the Glens, the Glengarry Highland Games, are only a few weeks away; Aug. 3 and 4 to be exact.

My thoughts of our beloved Games were motivated by the Saturday friendly visit of Scottish historian Ken McKenna from Kintail Farm on the east fringe of Glen Sandfield.

Ken brought a family heirloom book to read Men of Muscle; an interesting story relating the origin of Highland Games and a few brief biographies of Scotland's long gone athletes rightfully dubbed men of muscle. Included are the grandfather of Anne McKenna, Ken's ''Missus,'' Alexander ''Sandy'' Tait and her great uncles Gavin, William and John Tait. Also Scotland's famed hammer thrower, Donald Dinnie, who was defeated by Glengarry's ''Big Rory'' McLennan in world title competition.

My first viewing of Highland Games was at the Alexandria Fairgrounds, opposite the Monastery, McCormick Road, following the end of World War One.

The games were really only a shadow of our annual Games at Maxville. From that day onward I was devotedly interested in this highland heritage. The honor of assuming the chairmanship role of the Glengarry Highland Games in 1962 motivated researching the origin and growth of highland games especially in Scotland and Glengarry.

In the several historical accounts down through the years I have been ably assisted by that encyclopedia of highland games foundings; athletic competition rules and regulations by artist D. A. ''Doug'' Fales who requires no further introduction.

Author of Men of Muscle and the Highland Games of Scotland, Charles Donaldson, relates that the ancient Greeks and Romans knew nothing of caber, ball or hammer. Other athletic competitions featured the great Olympian games held every four years as is the custom now known as the Olympics.

Throwing a stone may have been practised in other countries besides Scotland and Ireland, but tossing the caber and throwing the hammer originated in the highlands. Tossing the caber was Scottish at the beginning and still is.

Throwing the hammer originated in the use of an ordinary blacksmith's hammer and began probably while some young Highlanders waiting until their horses were shod, and just to pass the time, took the blacksmith's hammer outside and competed who could throw it the farthest.

This form of athletic competition grew in popularity throughout the Highlands and although the dawn of Highland Games is shrowded in the mists of time, Charles Donaldson declares that it seems beyond doubt that either Inverness or Braemar was the birthplace of a properly conducted Highland Games.

In contrast, here in Glengarry, history has recorded via the files of the Montreal Gazette, July 11, 1840, that the first Highland Games was held at Lancaster, June 30 and went off with great spirit. It was promoted by Col. Carmichael and the prize list was Scottish in every detail.

Next week: brief biographies of the Tait brothers and the world hammer throw duel featuring Scotland's Donald Dinnie and Glengarry's R. R. ''Big Rory'' McLennan.

Learn to accept traditions of a new land

To the editor:

As I listened with great interest to my radio one day to Peter Z. of CBC and a reported "expert," commenting on the recent "turban" affair, I was saddened to hear him (the guest "expert") make light of the issue saying in effect that it was foolish for our Canadian Citizens, of Scottish heritage, to suggest that they should then be permitted to wear the kilt if a member of the R.C.M.P.,stating that it (the kilt) was not the same as it was not of a tradition based on religion and that people only wear the kilt on special occasions.

This guest "expert" should be made aware that the wearing of the kilt, the use of Gaelic, the playing of the bagpipes, to a Scot from the Highlands of Scotland, were indeed as religious, to the Scot, as the turban.

The disarming act took these, and other traditions away from our ancestors, following Culloden in 1746, and some Scottish emigrants came to the New World with these items hid away. In the New World these Scottish Highlanders soon learned that they were in a country that lived in a different way and they adjusted to that way of life, and wore their traditional dress on special occasions.

Because an "Act" took these rights away from the Scots, it is still very much a sacred thing to many descendants and when I wear the kilt (with a Sgian Dubh in my hose, which can be considered similar to the traditional knife our friends wear with their attire, I wear it with a pride second only to that of my pride for the fact that I am a Canadian.

I respect very much, and indeed salute our friends for having won the right to wear part of their traditional attire while in the service of the RCMP, but please don't tell me that their "right" is any different or more religious, or more important than my right to wear the kilt, to play the bagpipes, to wear a Sgian Dubh, or to speak Gaelic (if I could).

The only difference is that the country from which they emigrated did not pass an "act" prohibiting them to wear this.

There are many other traditions of a sacred or religious nature by other ethnic people, the "pony-tail" of the early Chinese, to mention but one, has, for the most part, ceased many years ago, but no doubt ceased so that they may conform with their new found home, Canada. The turban falls in this same category and where they have won the first round in this battle, they should consider their new home and the traditions which are acceptable or practiced in it, and put their turban on the shelf, to be worn on special occasions like the kilt.

We need some support for recycling

To the citizens of Lochiel:

I am appealing for community support for the set up of a recycling program in Lochiel. To date, I have gone to the Lochiel council twice asking them to set up recycling depots in our township.

I would like Lochiel to set up depots throughout the township. The start-up costs are minimal and grants are available to help defer the cost. Cornwall is building a recycling plant to process glass, metal, newsprint and plastic pop bottles and will accept all materials from Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry. My proposal is both low-cost and simple to implement.

I cannot understand Lochiel's reluctance. I realize that recycling is not a money-making project and that recycling is just one small part of waste management, but it is available, ecologically sound, and should be implemented.

The landfill sites in the township of Charlottenburgh and Roxborough are presently full. Why accelerate this problem for ourselves? We have the opportunity to extend the lifespan of our landfill through waste reduction and recycling.

The council has scheduled further discussions on recycling during their next council meeting April 10, 1990 at 8 p.m. Petitions in support of recycling are available at most stores and companies in Glen Robertson, Dalkeith, Fassifern, and McCrimmon.

If you are concerned about this issue, please sign the petition and/or plan to attend the council meeting. I cannot believe that I am the only one who wants this. Let council know that you want it too!

MP encourages Dalkeith post office users

To the editor:

Canada Post has sent to each household in Dalkeith a letter asking everyone to indicate their preferred method of mail delivery, lock boxes in a Retail Postal Outlet or a Community Mail box.

Another preference, that of maintaining the Post Office as it already operates, is unfortunately not one of the choices offered by Canada Post.

In responding to the questionnaire you, the citizens of Dalkeith, may want to use the opportunity to also indicate clearly, as you have at a recent meeting, what your real preference is, and then perhaps indicate a second choice.

I invite all of you to let Canada Post know in no uncertain terms that the decision to close the Dalkeith Post Office has not been endorsed by its users.

I thank you for taking the time to read this open letter and assure you of my continued support.

Sincerely,
Don Boudria, MP,

Suicide happens in Glengarry, too

something in their lives they couldn't live with.

The most recent statistics compiled on suicides is for 1987. That year, in Ontario, 799 men and 270 women are on record as taking their own lives. Unfortunately, breakdown by province and age group is not available from Statistics Canada. Still, looking at Canadian figures — 226 males aged 10-19 and 48 females the same ages committed suicide in 1987 — suicide happens to young people who theoretically should be looking forward to a long and full life.

And whether or not we choose to believe it, suicide happens right here in Glengarry.

In my four years as a reporter in this county, I have heard of at least five young people who have ended their lives. The Glengarry News has an unwritten policy not to publish such occurrences.

Perhaps it's tempting to believe that because you're not reading about local suicides, they aren't happening.

And perhaps it's hard to believe that your son, a straight "A" student; your daughter, the president of the student council; or your best friend, who has the latest and most expensive stereo equipment available, is thinking of taking his or her own life.

Your first instinct might be to back off, to assume the threat is a ploy to get attention.

But Dr. Kaufman (you must remember Dr. David Kaufman who has taken up residence in this column) tells us never to minimize a suicide threat. Even if the person isn't really going to do it, it's obvious that they're crying for help. There is something wrong. And that's not something to slough off.

The most frightening thing about suicide, says Dr. Kaufman, is that there is no such thing as a "suicidal type" of person. A good-looking, serious, successful high school student could be just as likely to slit his wrists as a student with failing grades and severe acne. Mental illness is not necessarily a factor.

And more than 75 per cent of young people who committed suicide talked to someone about their intentions.

There are warning signs, which may themselves be a plea for help. Like direct threats of suicide or repeated references about death. Or extreme weight loss, tension, anxiety, exhaustion, sleeplessness, agitation, loss of appetite or lack of concentration. Or unexplained absences from school or work, withdrawal from family or friends, changes in performance at school, lack of involvement in interests or hobbies, or a marked self-dislike and feelings of inadequacy and failure.

In other words, if you notice that someone is feeling down, don't ignore it. Maybe they wouldn't actually kill themselves, but who's going to be the judge of that? I wouldn't take that sort of gamble.

If you feel suicidal or if you suspect someone else does, the best thing to do is to get professional help immediately. You can start by speaking to teachers, vice-principals, principals, guidance counsellors, religious counsellors, nurses or anyone you trust, who is in a position of authority.

Sure. Suicide means the pain is gone. But so is the happiness that could have been.

Kenyon Township

Council briefs

The following are among items discussed at the regular meeting of Kenyon on March 27.

Council awaits procedure bylaws

Kenyon council is getting braced for a full-fledged debate on new procedural bylaws, April 10.

Currently being drawn up by Clerk Mary McCuaig and her staff, the procedural bylaws will give council members a track to run on for conducting council meetings.

Procedures will regulate length of debate, how delegations will be heard—how many and for how long, provide a curfew for the length of council meetings, and give directions for agenda planning.

Emergency mesures upgraded

Kenyon Council last week voted to update their draft Emergency Measures bylaw which has been in place since 1987. Names and phone numbers of officials to contact in emergencies such as police, ambulance, housing and the spill action people at the Ministry of Environment will be checked.

Lottery grant for bleachers

Kenyon Council approved a request from Apple Hill Recreation Association to make a $2,880.00 Wintario grant application for bleachers, equipment for a ball diamond and for new lighting.

Severences okayed

Kenyon Council approved two severance applications March 27. They okayed an ammended severance from Gilles Roy separating his house from the surrounding farm at Con. 4, Lot 1.

A lot severance was also approved for Harry Shott—part of Lot 23, Con. 7.

Garbage yields info

The Public Liason Committee is beginning to muster a fair idea of the waste generated by local residents.

On Saturday, organizers had the privilege of weighing, measuring, and sorting through one week's worth of garbage from 25 study families during a day-long waste management workshop at Maxville Public School.

And they discovered some interesting things.

Pat Ager, co-chair of the PLC said Saturday they collected from the study group 190 pounds of wet waste, kitchen scraps and other compostable garbage.

The average per family was 7.6 pounds, although two families had no wet waste and two returned to the workshop with buckets weighing in at 14 pounds each.

Dry garbage for the whole group came in at a whopping 521 pounds equalling an average 20.4 pounds per household, or about four cubic feet.

The reason behind the study session was to determine the disposal habits of various types of families, from seniors to young adults and families with children. Ager said the garbage stats also helped to identify where the problems lie in home waste management.

''What was surprising was the wet waste,'' she said, noting the differences in returns. ''Some people understand composting, and others need the workshop.''

Ministry of the Environment representative Bezna Guzina with the Municipal Recycling Support Program travelled from Toronto to attend the meeting and field questions and concerns from the participants.

The 71 participants of the experimental program attended seminars for the remainder of the day on waste management, recycling, and environmentally conscious behavior. And to determine the success of the talks, families will collect their garbage again to see if there is any difference.

PLC co-chair Anne MacGillivray said these workshops are gaining tremendous popularity.

''People from as far away as Ottawa and Almonte want these workshops there. People ask excellent questions, and judging from the evaluations, they are interested in doing practical things now — immediately,'' she said.

''The comments from the participants were like 'thanks for teaching us that we need to be creative and be independant.' The test (second garbage collection) will be to see if they really do care,'' she said.

Crowd flocks to women's day

The Rural Women's Day kept up its annual tradition of wowing 200 Glengarrian women.

With their tickets purchased in advance, these women flocked to the Glengarry Sports Palace yesterday for an impressive array of speakers.

These included talks from the president of the Ontario Horticultural Society, Gordon Winter, ''The Valley Farmer'' host Paul Meldrum, Hawkesbury craftswoman Kim Wilding and Cornwall fashion consultant Susan Alguire.

The day was also enhanced by a number of exhibits that included one from the Public Liaison Committee of Stormont and Glengarry and another from the Master Gardeners.

As well, entertainment at lunch hour was provided by four fiddlers: Isobel Machennan, Linda McNaughton, Helen Howes and Edna Moran.

The organizers of the event were Sally Buchan, Linda Fraser, Doreen Howes, Lilian Howes, Doris MacIntosh, Nancy MacLeod, Margaret MacPherson, Sue Robertson and Liz O'Gorman-Smith.

Snowfall causes many accidents

Police briefs

Lancaster detachment OPP say Friday's snowfall resulted in several one-vehicle accidents in the area. Damages were sustained by vehicles in two of them.

At 8:16 p.m., a 1986 Mazda sedan driven by Ian MacMillan, 28, of Lancaster, was westbound on County Road 18 one kilometre west of County Road 27 in Charlottenburgh Township when it went out of control on the slushy road and into the north ditch.

The vehicle sustained severe damages.

At 7:30 p.m., a 1988 GMC van driven by Danny Larocque, 23, of Glen Robertson, was eastbound on County Road 18 at County Road 27 in Charlottenburgh Township when it slid on the slushy thoroughfare, went into the south ditch and struck a road sign.

The vehicle sustained moderate damage.

Three-vehicle accident

A pedestrian sustained injuries when three vehicles were involved in an accident early Friday afternoon.

Lancaster detachment OPP say a 1983 Oldsmobile sedan driven by Raymond Cuerrier, 59, of Green Valley, was southbound on Highway 34 30 metres north of County Road 18 in Lancaster Township when it turned left into the path of a northbound 1984 Chevrolet Caprice driven by Marvin Sparey, 56, of Summerstown.

The Chevrolet then struck a parked 1981 International pick-up truck, and a pedestrian. The pedestrian — 37-year-old Marcel St. Louis of Cornwall — suffered minor injuries.

All three vehicles involved sustained moderate damages.

Persons charged

Lancaster detachment OPP have charged two people in relation to an incident of break and entry at a residence on Concession 3 in Charlottenburgh on March 23.

Gilles Dandurand, 38, of Grande Ile, and Pauline Leduc, 28, of Valleyfield appeared in Alexandria Provincial Court and have been remanded to a later date.

Officer Chris McDonell is the investigating officer.

Bike wheel stolen

Alexandria police say a rear wheel and tire was taken from a bike parked outside a residence at 136 Dominion Street, sometime overnight Thursday or Friday.

The bike belongs to Bradley McMillan.

Moderate damages

Two vehicles involved in an accident at Main Street and Gernish Street in Alexandria Wednesday sustained moderate damages.

Police say a 1987 Mercury sedan driven by Thornton Westley, 18, of Green Valley, and a 1988 Ford sedan driven by Cindy MacPherson, 30, of Catherine Street, were southbound on Main Street when the accident occurred. They collided when the Westley vehicle attempted a left turn just as the MacPherson vehicle was attempting to pass.

There were no injuries.

Recreational grant

MP Don Boudria presented a cheque for $8,381 to Clodemir Goulet, president of Club Rendez-Vous at the Domaine Maria Goretti seniors' home in Alexandria. The Cheque is a New Horizons grant to support recreational activities in the group. Also attending the presentation is, far left, Mayor Jean-Paul Touchette, and, to the right of Mr. Boudria, the home's owners Diane and Richard Chenier.

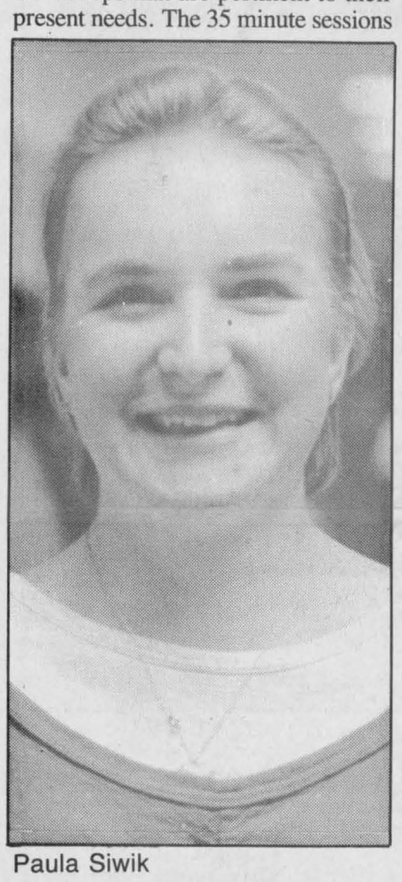
Preparing for future

The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Public School Board and the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Roman Catholic School Board are organizing a one day conference for the students of the three counties who are involved in co-operative education.

This one day seminar will be held at the Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School on April 10, 1990. Approximately 350 students who are involved in co-operative education programs during the second semester, will be in attendance. The Company of Sirens, a group from Toronto, will be presenting a one hour play, titled "The Working People's Picture Show," on women's issues in the workplace. The students will then have the opportunity to select three workshops that are pertinent to their present needs. The 35 minute sessions will deal with issues such as employer expectations, time management apprenticeship, career information, stress and the importance of communication.

The workshop leaders are made up of members of our local businesses and industries and of educators from the Boards of Education.

This one day seminar will also provide the students with opportunities to network and compare their experiences with their peers from other schools.



Paula Siwik

Futuristic story sweeps competition

Thinking ahead has earned a Glengarry District High School student $100 worth of Canadian books.

That's the prize Paula Siwik has earned as the first place winner of the Tri County Literacy Contest, sponsored by the Tri County Writers Club, for her futuristic short story titled Miss Tenson.

Siwik explains a bit about her story of the inner strength of a wheelchair-bound woman who has reached her 249th birthday.

"The whole society's changed, right, so it's how she's rebelling against the government in her own way," Siwik says. "It's her own way of staying strong."

The story was originally written as part of Siwik's OAC creative writing enrichment course. However, her teachers urged her to submit the story to the Tri County competition.

4-H groups forming

An annual rite of spring is the organization of 4-H clubs which will operate throughout the summer months in Glengarry County.

At present, there are five clubs for members with dairy calves, one for those with beef projects, a veterinary club, a horticulture club and two horse clubs.

4-H is an organization for youths between the ages of 11 and 21. The primary purpose of 4-H is the personal development of the youth of Ontario. Members have the opportunity to develop self confidence, a sense of responsibility and a positive self image.

They are helped to develop their skills in communications, leadership, problem solving and goal setting. 4-H provides an opportunity to learn about our food system, and Ontario's heritage and culture through projects such as livestock and crop production, financial management, food preparation, nutrition, recreational activities and career development.

Most of all, 4-H is fun for participants. There is the opportunity to meet new friends and participate in activities at each meeting as the leaders guide the members through the project material.

The first time a member completes a project, they receive a plaque to which they add a plate describing each project completed. Upon the completion of 6, 12, 18 and 24 projects, special provincial awards are presented to the members to recognize their accomplishments.

4-H provides many challenges and opportunities for its members. Further information on how to join a current project or what interesting projects are coming up, may be obtained by contacting the Rural Organization Specialist at the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food in Alexandria at 525-1046 or 1-800-267-1722.

Group collects federal grant

The federal government awarded an Alexandria seniors group with a grant of over $8,000.

Perrin Beatty, Minister of National Health and Welfare recently announced Club Rendez-vous will receive a New Horizons grant for $8,381 to help the organization establish a program of new crafts including woodworking; winter activities; films; outings and physical fitness.

New Horizons is a program that enables retired people to create projects of their own choosing. It offers grants to groups who undertake activities for the benefit of themselves and others in the community. The accent is on local needs as seen by older people and on their willingness to meet such needs.

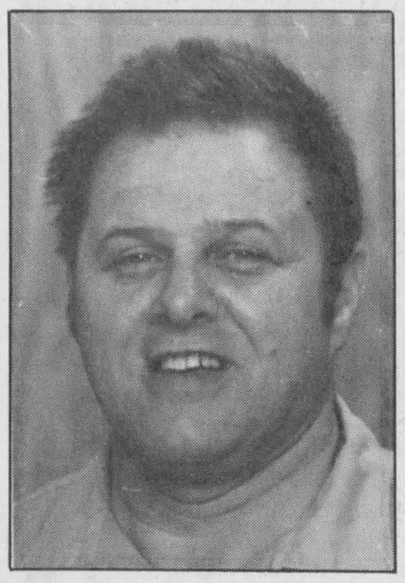
Have you seen this man, missing since January?



By Michael O'Dwyer
News editor

The poster appearing throughout SD&G on walls and telephone poles represents every family's ultimate nightmare. It is a desperate plea to find a man who went for a walk and never returned.

The poster is simple, marked by a large, bold MISSING. Below is a picture of Bob Appleton, an average looking man with four sons and daughters and a wife at home who miss him and a sporting community which will be at a loss without him. He was an active coach.

Although Appleton worked and lived in Cornwall, his disappearance has become a national concern. Information on the missing man has been circulated across the country on the police network, without many results.

Sgt. Denis Moquin of the Cornwall police said there is not a lot they can do but wait for him to turn up.

"He is still on file. There are periodic checks and there were about four or five leads (which didn't pan out). The entire country has access to the file. He's a pretty popular sports person. All we can do is hope and pray," he said.

Since Jan. 1, Appleton's daughter Roberta has been searching for her father who mysteriously disappeared without a trace in the neighborhood of the Cornwall General Hospital. Three months of searching has produced nothing but dead ends, and in her desperation she has turned to a group that will help.

It is called Friends for Friends, dedicated people with a mission to help people like Roberta Appleton who have no where elso to turn. And a big part of their contribution is explained at the bottom of the poster: $1,000 REWARD.

Gene and Morris Dupelle began the group in 1980 to organize fundraising drives in Cornwall and the surrounding rural area to help their neighbor who was struck by a drunk driver and paralyzed.

And in 1987, Friends for Friends, which had since grown to five members, launched their first campaign to locate a missing person, 21-year-old Glen Walter woman, Cathy Febrile.

"We raised over $5,000 and we hired divers and found her (body). Around Cornwall the group has raised approximately $50,000 to help needy families. And in January we did a fire benefit for Sandy Clermont and collected $3,400," said Morris Dupelle. He added that with each of the 12 families that the group has helped, Glengarry and other rural areas have been very supportive.

Having heard of the group's record of success, Roberta approached them for help. So far they have raised just over $1,000 for the reward as incentive for people to share information they may have of his whereabouts. The group is planning a teen dance and a country and western dance to enlarge the fund.

"If we can raise enough money we will hire an investigator," Morris said, adding that the fundraising takes a lot of time since the members of the help group work full time and get together only in the evenings and during leisure time.

The efforts of the group are beginning to receive media attention. CJOH television news will be interviewing Roberta next week.

Open house on April 14

The management of the St. Bernardin Bull Test Station and the Glengarry Cattlemen's Association will be holding their annual open house at the test station. The open house will be followed by an auction sale of selected performance tested bulls on Saturday, April 14, at 1 p.m. The auctioneer will be Régent Ménard of Embrun.

There will be a good selection of Simmental, Hereford and Charolais bulls as well as some percentage Limousin bulls just coming off test at 11 to 13 months of age and weighing from 1,100 to 1,500 pounds.

Bulls on offer will be above average for weight gain. Information on average daily gain, height, backfat and scrotal circumference as well as background information from the herd of origin of each bull will be provided.

A beef specialist from OMAF will also be on hand to provide background on testing programs. He will explain the improved system of indexing bulls according to the expected difference that their progeny will have over their breed average in weight gain with the accuracy figure given for the EPD depending on the amount of information available on the bull's pedigree and on the performance of its relatives.

More information can be obtained by calling manager Bill Lipton at 613-524-2778.

APD say availability problem will be solved in June

By the beginning of June, the problem of emergency availability of the Alexandria Police Department should be solved, acting Police Chief Paul Deveau said March 30.

The changes stem from complaints by the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce that in emergency situations the police are not readily available.

By that time, Deveau said, a radio-telephone system should be installed at the police station, whereby calls will be forwarded to the officer on duty through a walkie-talkie when the office is empty, or on the cruiser radio.

So gone will be the frustrating instances when people call 525-1954, the number listed as the emergency line in the directory, and get no answer. This situation forms the basis of the chamber of commerce complaint, the details of which were published in last week's issue of The News.

As outlined in a letter to the police commission on March 9, a chamber member had called the 'emergency' number as she was witnessing a crime. When she received no answer even after letting the phone ring for a lengthy period of time, she then called the local answering service.

The dispatcher at this service directed her to call the Bell operator and ask for the Long Sault OPP Zenith number. She did so, and finally contacted police who sent Alexandria officers to investigate.

After detailing this incident, the chamber letter asked that the commission consider updating the blue and white pages of the phone book, which refer only to the 525-1954 number.

However, police commissioner and town mayor, Jean-Paul Touchette, said March 30 the Zenith 50,000 line is commonly known throughout town.

"The problem will be solved very shortly but I was sure that everyone knew it was Zenith 50,000," Touchette said

On Friday night I joined the crokinole players at the hall and had a lot of fun. At home I can make the centre and even knock some checkers (the opponents!) off the board. On Friday night I could only hit the pegs. Ontop of that, I brought luck to the other side. When someone played with me, they couldn't hit the centre, but when they played against me, wow! It was 20 all the way through. Oh well, it was fun and the taffy was delicious.

Linda Whiteman has become our official taffy maker, and she's good! There were 38 people out, children and adults. Barb Graham won the door prize. The winners for the men were Evan McIntosh, Jim Graham and Gary Geddes and for the ladies they all tied for first — Wendy MacLeod, Sarah Viau and Shari McIntosh.

This must be the year to travel! We've just read about the MacCulloch Dancers and their lovely trip to Florida, now the Glengarry Pipe Band is off to the World's Competition in August in Scotland.

As money making ventures they are busy selling tickets for a trip for two to Florida and are sponsoring the Alexander Brothers, Friday, April 30 and Breath of Scotland, May 6. It looks like a good way to enjoy oneself while helping out a worthy cause.

Some happiness now. Best birthday wishes go out to Hughie MacLennan who celebrated on March 21 and his sister Darlene who's birthday was on the 31. Also to my two grandsons Joseph Ladouceur who was four on the 29th and Matthew Collin who was eight on the 30. I also wish Bill Bartlett a very happy birthday, although I'm not sure of the exact date.

On Sunday I attended a shower for Joananne Renzetti at the Laggan Public School. It was a lovely shower, and Joananne received many useful gifts. We wish her and Donald Dashney a long and happy marriage. I also want to remind everyone that there is a mixed party for Donald and Joananne on Saturday night at the Complex in Maxville. Go out for a good time and let them know that you wish them well.

On Saturday afternoon, a birthday party was held at the home of Barbara Ladouceur and Marion Loewen for Joseph. In attendance were Grandpa and Grandma, Noel and Bernadette Ladouceur, and great-grandma Mrs. Ladouceur, Daddy Yvon Ladouceur, and Roger and Ann, Jamie and Robbie, Lucien and Myrna, Christine and Katie. Everyone enjoyed themselves, especially Joseph who was thrilled with his gifts, and says thanks to everyone who gave him birthday gifts.

We say welcome to the village to Linda and Donald Wightman. They moved into their new house on Saturday. They will make a welcome addition to the village, but I know their neighbors on the farm will miss them. Next we will be welcoming the new residents at the farm.

Thirteen members and three visitors were present when Dunvegan Women's Institute recently held its March meeting.

James Joyce, president of the Dunvegan Recreation Association, and Evelyn Viau, treasurer, were present to discuss the sale of the WI hall to the DRA and to answer any questions that might arise. This was done very pleasantly and efficiently. After they withdrew, the WI president, Peggi Calder, presented a report from a qualified appraiser, and there was further discussion by the members. It was then decided to give further thought to the asking price, and a final decision is to be made at the next meeting on April 12.

The topic for the evening's program was "agriculture and Canadian industries," and convenor, Mary Fraser, introduced the guest speaker, Linda Fraser, a lady very well versed in the field of agriculture.

Linda chose to discuss the new Canada food guide, and stressed the benefits of a lower fat intake in our diet. She mentioned that soon we would be able to buy one per cent milk, which has a lower fat content than two per cent milk.

For variety, Linda supervised a "taste test." Two samples of cheddar cheese and two of yogurt were tasted by the members — one of each being the regular variety and the other low-fat. There was only a slight difference in flavor, and the low-fat one had less cholesterol. We were instructed to read the labels on the products we buy, so we could make wise choices for better health.

Mary Fraser commented on the motto, "Take time to stand and stare at the wonders everywhere." The roll call, "Compose a commercial for your favorite product," brought forth some thoughtful and amusing responses.

During the business part of the meeting letters were read concerning the district annual meeting, to be held at Williamstown on May 30, and the officers' workshop, sponsored by the area, being held at Kemptville on May 5.

A letter was also received from Liz O'Gorman-Smit, the new rural organization specialist. She is a graduate of Guelph University, and is well qualified in her field. She is married to a dairy farmer and lives in Russell, Ont.

Tickets are still being sold for the 75th anniversary banquet.

The meeting ended with a delicious lunch served by Mary Fraser and Sheila Whealon.

Spread the word of seniors' games

Glen Sandfield
Lorna Chapman
874-2408

The 39'ers did indeed turn out for the dinner at the Sugar Camp in Dalhousie on Thursday, March 29, at least 60 of them did. The club was joined by the Golden Glens and Brown House Circle clubs and they all had a wonderful afternoon.

Besides the delicious meal, they retired to the hall where a disc jockey played some terrific numbers. They all had fun doing the Paul Jones, and really made a nice day of their outing. This is the third time they have gone to this spot, and it looks like they may be back again next year, from the sound of it. There were 89 people attending this particular group party, and all had a ball they reported.

Have you written your letter to Herve Andre this week? We have to keep after him each week folks.

Recent visitors with Perle and Lionel Brunet were daughter Manon Joly, her husband Stephane, Nadya and Stephanie all of St. Constant, Que.

I received a call this week from VON area supervisor Marie Dolan concerning the establishment of a foot care clinic in Alexandria. She has been in contact with several others and has received much encouragement. The problem with such a venture is that even though it is a form of health care, there is no government funding. Certainly there is a need for such a clinic, and when one has been established elsewhere, the Legion, or some other benevolent group helps with financing. So her hope is that there might be some club willing to sponsor the clinic, or maybe several would be willing to use their combined efforts to raise the needed funds. If possible, she explained, other than seniors would be welcome, if the schedule isn't too heavy.

The VON will be officially opening an Alexandria office at 45 Main St. N. on May 8 and the public is invited to visit from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and get acquainted. Her Alexandria number is 525-1214.

Are you interested in this clinic? Is there a need for such a service? Is there a backer somewhere out there willing to undertake the funding for it? There will have to be a $15 charge per visit to help defray costs of the foot care. Make your feelings known, let her know! Come on clubs, here is a wonderful service to the community in which your group might get involved.

The 39'ers Club met on March 21 for their regular monthly meeting at the Church on the Hill hall. There were 46 members present. President Lorna Chapman said grace, and welcomed the assembly. There were four birthdays for March and they were roundly "sung to." Bessie MacLennan took her place at the piano for an Irish sing-song, led by Muriel Moore while the tables were being cleared. Mrs. Moore introduced her guest Maureen Seymore-Howell of St. Polycarpe. She read a delightful story taken from the book 44 Irish Short Stories by Devan A. Garrity. She told the group about her early life and the songs she learned at home when she was little. Our guest concluded with an a capella rendition of Galway Bay.

Mildred Whitehead gave a most encouraging financial report. Correspondence included two information sheets on the seniors games, with phone numbers and dates and locations specified. It will be a great help to the participants. I believe secretary Marguerite McGillis may have them now. There was no one reporting on the crafts, but members are urged to take available materials, such as fabric and wool for various projects for the Fall bazaar table.

Things have been rather slow, and not many craft items are coming in, so this is an appeal to all members, please do get involved and take on several craft projects. The bazaar cannot be a success if there aren't items to sell.

Tom and Elizabeth Groot explained about the change of day for the sugaring off party in Dalhousie, and people were looking forward to going. The president suggested an Easter Hat Parade for the April meeting, and there will be the annual pot luck dinner at noon. Everyone come with your favorite covered dish, salad or dessert. There is always a wonderful variety and the members look forward to this event each year. A trip to Canadianna Village in Rawden was discussed and the Groots are to have information for the club for the April 18th meeting. Hugh McDonald spoke about the Games and said that it isn't necessary to belong to a club, one may come in and enter on their own, if they are 55 years or older. He asked folks to be patient, as the work is all being organized by volunteers and to watch for notices about the upcoming banquet and dance on April 18 at the Civic Complex, Cornwall, admission $12 (for which they have procured a 12-piece band, by the way). Possibly a bus might go. Phone and get the information around to everyone. Too bad if someone would like to participate and lose out because there is a lack of communication! Spread the word to your friends.

The meeting closed with games of cards and bingo. A word of thanks to Tom Groot who worked up the sound system that the club now uses. It makes it so much nicer when everyone can hear clearly.

A united Canada gets high profile support

Reacting to the current language crisis in Ontario, nine well-known Canadians held a press conference at which they encouraged all Canadians to respect the two founding nations.

These people have joined forces with the Association canadienne-française de l'Ontario (ACFO), accepting the association's invitation to sit on the honor committee of its Solidarity Fund.

This honor committe includes such noted people as writers Margaret Atwood and Pierre Berton, Ed Broadbent, Richard Hatfield, former Attorney General Ray McMurtry and a host of other personalities.

The unveiling of the honor committee is the first step in ACFO's province-wide public awareness campaign. Taking as its theme, "Join the Majority, Support a United Canada," the campaign is intended to create a better understanding of the French Language Services Act, the historical contribution of French-speaking Canadians, and the current state of bilingualism in Ontario.

"With the help of the honor committee, ACFO will work toward Canadian unity by equipping Ontario's anglophones and francophones with the facts and information which they have not received, until now. On one hand, anti-francophone groups have been spreading untruths, while, on the other, the Government of Ontario is still not explaining its French Languages Services Act to anglophones.

Someone has to take on the leadership role," said ACFO President Roland Soucie.

This is the story of a good deed. It seems that Ethel Black and her husband came into Lancaster early one Sunday to check their premises on Main Street and, while around the back of the building, heard a pitiful moan. It was a long hair grey pussycat with its head stuck in a crevice of the basement wall.

How the poor beastie got in that position was anyone' guess. These good souls tried to extricate the cat to no avail so they called upon our new veterinarian team of Dr. Barbara Bougie and Dr. Daniel Guillet.

The doctors promptly answered the distress call and gave the cat a mild tranquilizer. This was supposed to relax the animal but the poor thing was so frightened, it turned on Dr. Barbara and bit her!

After much patience and hard work, the doctors managed to free the animal but the ungrateful feline did not stop long enough to say thanks. It disappeared across the field in a flash of fur! Thank you doctors, for being so kind.

Local waste study group featured on television show

Maxville
Gordon Winter
527-2888

Maxville made the TV news twice last Tuesday evening. On Channel 4, Mark Van Dusen was at the hobby farm of Lise and Bill Delhey who were hosting a group of young school children.

The Delhey's llama held centre stage but viewers also saw their two donkeys, sheep, goats, peacocks, deer and rabbit.

This gracious couple enjoy company and keep these animals partly for the thrills they give their visitors.

A few minutes later, on Channel 13, the new project sponsored in Maxville and Kenyon by the waste management group received well deserved publicity. Chief organizer, Pat Ager, from Bainsville was interviewed as were Kenyon Councillor Joan Siwik and farmers, Annie and Adrian St. Denis, Greenfield.

Twenty-five local families will soon be keeping track of their waste a second time after the initial survey and the workshop last Saturday. It is hoped that the second survey will show a dramatic reduction in the amount of wastes produced by each family.

Apparently, like the robins, the male bluebird returns first and this year, the first sightings were mid March.

If all those bluebird houses that were distributed last fall are not up yet, do so right away.

Fifteen tables of euchre players met for the opening party of the Young at Heart Seniors' Club on March 26 in the clubrooms in the basement of the Anglican Church. Gloria Rolland had top score for the ladies, with Cecile Currier, Moose Creek and Arlene Munro, Apple Hill, offering stiff competition.

Laggan's John Gregor McMaster led the men with Dan MacRae and Chester Valley from Moose Creek taking the other prizes for the men.

Mrs. Rolland was lucky, too, in winning the door prize.

Howard Eamon from Morrisburg had his name drawn twice for the 50-50 draw prizes, and top scorers, Mrs. Currier, Mrs. Munro and Mr. McMaster also took home 50-50 draw prizes. Other draw winners were Martin O'Brien, Monkland, Norman MacLeod and Ellen MacLeod from Dunvegan, Myrtle McMillan, Apple Hill and Catherine (Dan) MacRae, Rita Seguin and Margaret Michaud.

The next euchre will be on April 9, same place and time.

On the evening of March 25, the parish of St. Michael and All Angels Anglican Church held a testimonial dinner to honor Erwin Shields and Norman MacCrimmon, retiring church wardens. The evening also saw the launching of the parish's "Stewards for Life" campaign. Over 60 parishioners enjoyed the delicious, catered meal.

Mr. Shields had been Rector's warden for 28 years and Mr. MacCrimmon, Peoples' warden for 12. They were presented with framed sketches of the church which were done by parishioner Jocelyn Chislett. Gary Howes and Evelyn McColl, on behalf of John Sinclair who was unable to attend, spoke a few words of appreciation to each warden. Archdeacon Fred Allen also spoke and brought greetings from Bishop Lackey.

Helen MacKay had made a beautiful appreciation cake which everyone enjoyed.

For this event, Blair Williams was chairman and he paid tribute to the wardens' wives, Olive Shields and Betty MacCrimmon. The Rev. Dan Howard, rector, explained the "Stewards for Life" program and touched on some of the plans under way.

The remainder of the evening was spent visiting with good music in the background.

Shalom Retreat Centre news

The last three weeks have seen over 40 young couples complete "engaged couples marriage preparation courses." Two were led by Fr. Mike Shaw of Shalom and one by Fr. Claude Thibeau. Evaluations by the couples were so good and positive that four couples want to come back to help prepare future marriage preparation weekends.

On Friday, March 30, 14 Grade 8 students met for a day of confirmation preparation. It must have been good as 11 want to come back for further retreats.

Fr. Mike Shaw will be heading off for Ottawa to organize a weekend retreat for couples where one spouse is an alcoholic. For further information call Fr. Mike at Shalom House.

April 6, 7 and 8 will be a retreat on faith, hope and love — which is the greatest? The retreat is for all ages, men, women and young people, married or single.

There will be special renewal evenings every Thursday beginning April 26 from 7:30-9:30 p.m. until June 14. This service of eight evenings will be very useful to those who are struggling in their faith or want to deepen their faith.

There were a few write-ups about the Glengarry All Stars vs. Ottawa Old Pros hockey game in last week's paper but I would like to add one further note. It was a game not to be missed by those who were asked to play. Not just because it was good hockey but it brought back a lot of good memories of bygone games to the players. Some of these players had not played together since they were in their teens. Jim was fortunate to be asked to play and enjoyed the practices and the reminiscing as much as the game. I hope the tradition carries on.

I hope everyone escaped the April Fool jokes this past weekend. The custom of playing practical jokes on one's friends goes back to the 18th century. Before that it was celebrated as part of the spring festival. In Scotland the custom was known as "hunting the gowk" i.e.: the cuckoo.

People who were fooled on April Fool's day were referred to as "April Gowks." The cuckoo being an object of contempt. In France the person befooled was known as "poisson d'eoil."

These days most of us are concerned with the problem of our environment and how we can help by using safe products. I received a paper through the mail endorsed by MPP Noble A. Villeneuve. Among the items listed as safe for the environment were two which I thought were interesting. So I am passing them on to you.

(1) Drain cleaner; plunger flush with boiling water, one-quarter cup of baking soda and two ounces of vinegar. (2) Shoe polish: combine walnut oil and other oils.

Glens-Gananoque conference final tied 1-1

Alexandria captain Campbell injures knee, could be out for remainder of season

By Todd Hambleton
Sports editor

First, the bad news: Gananoque Platers beat the Alexandria Glens 6-5 Sunday night to tie the Rideau-St. Lawrence conference championship playoff series 1-1.

Now, for some more bad news: Alexandria offensive catalyst Glen Campbell suffered a knee injury and may be out of action for the rest of the season.

The injury occurred on the second shift of the game, played in Gananoque. Alexandria coach Pete DeRooy said he has no doubt it was a deliberate attempt to injure. "It was a dirty (expletive deleted) shot, that's what it was," DeRooy said Monday. "There's no doubt in my mind he was sent out to do that."

He is Dion Veley, #16, the accused. Veley caught the Alexandria captain and St. Lawrence Division MVP with a low hit in the neutral zone.

"He went right for the knee," DeRooy said. "The puck wasn't even around Glen. Glen was just circling at the blue line and this guy comes in and, bang, right for the knee. He dived right into him — just like a football play."

There was no penalty called. "It happened so far from the play the referee and neither of the linesmen saw it, that's why there was no penalty called," DeRooy said. "Regardless of whether there was a penalty called, one of my best players is gone."

Gone for how long is still not known, nor has the extent of the injury been determined. Campbell was to undergo therapy treatment at Concordia University during the week. "If it's torn ligmaments, he's done (for the season)," DeRooy said. "If it's stretched or bruised he may just have to miss a couple of games.

Pete DeRooy
Team won't quit

"But what can you do if a team wants to win that way? What do I do now — resort to taking their top player out? Do they want to play that game? I can play it that way, too."

Despite the injury to their first line centre, Glens played an inspired game and almost took a 2-0 series lead. They led 5-4 late in the third period before Platers scored twice in 93 seconds to move in front 6-5.

David MacDonald's goal with 5:34 left tied it 5-5; Jamie Higgs gave Platers the lead for good with 4:01 to go.

Alexandria had a chance to tie the score in the dying moments and send the game to overtime. Mike Sauve had the Gananoque goalie down and out with two seconds to go but couldn't capitalize.

"We didn't throw in the towel Sunday and we're not going to throw in the towel Friday, either," DeRooy said.

That's when the series will resume, with game three to be played in Alexandria beginning at 8:30 p.m. Game four is set for Gananoque Sunday night, starting at 7:30 p.m. Game five will be played in Alexandria on Monday (April 9) beginning at 8 p.m.

With Campbell probably out Friday, DeRooy's trump card may be the one signed by Martin Hughes of the Casselman-Cambridge Stars, one of 19 specially affiliated skaters. Hughes, a scoring centre (he had three goals and an assist in game one Friday), didn't play Sunday because of work commitments and wasn't expected to play this Friday, but that could change.

"He'll be getting an SOS call," DeRooy said. "We'll try to get Hughes in the lineup Friday, but are they (Gananoque) going to try to take him out, too?"

Alexandria Glens' Shawn Fougere was stingy in goal Friday night, holding Gananoque to two markers. On this play Fougere and his defensive friends kept a Plater forward out of the net.

Hughes has played three games for Glens this season but is eligible to play here for the balance because Stars, of the Eastern Ontario Jr. C Hockey League, have been eliminated. Hughes, who can also play the point during powerplays, played for the Nepean Raiders of the Central Junior A Hockey League for two seasons.

Sunday's contest was tied 4-4 when, with 6:43 to go, Craig Johnson scored, with an assist going to Luc Francoueur, giving Glens a 5-4 lead. The lead was short-lived, with Platers tieing the game 5-5 just over a minute later.

The game was tied 2-2 after the first stanza and 3-3 after the second period. Marc Sauve scored 25 seconds into the third period to put Alexandria ahead 4-3, but Platers tied it two minutes later.

Scott Barnes, with a pair, and Mike Sauve got Glens' earlier goals.

Lochiel, Charlottenburgh post wins in Glengarry News Cup round robin action

Lochiel and Charlottenburgh are the early frontrunners in Glengarry Cup round robin action.

Both clubs are off to two wins, no losses starts after week one of the rejuvenated Glengarry county spring hockey tournament championship.

Lochiel improved to 2-0 on the strength of Frankie Morris' four-goal game Sunday in a 7-3 decision against Lancaster. Morris scored the first four goals of the contest for Lochiel, giving his club a 4-3 lead midway through the second period.

Lochiel took command going ahead 6-3 on goals by Darell Hay and Kieran McCormick before the end of the second stanza.

Hay closed out the scoring with his second marker putting Lochiel ahead 7-4 early in the third period.

Hay and Millan MacPherson each collected a pair of assists for the winners.

Lancaster, which for the second straight game jumped out to a 2-0 first period lead but couldn't hold it, got goals from Leonard Seguin, David McKay and Jeff McDonell.

Joey McRae drew a pair of assists for Lancaster, which falls to 0-2.

Charlottenburgh broke open a close game Sunday against Alexandria scoring three second period goals three minutes apart on route to a 5-2 win. Charlottenburgh's Rod McKenzie notched all three of the rapid-fire goals.

His first marker with 6:14 left in the second gave Charlottenburgh a 3-1 lead.

McKenzie's second goal 28 seconds later pushed the lead to 4-1.

Charlie Giroux got one of the goals back for Alexandria scoring to make it 4-2 with 4:05 left in the frame, but McKenzie completed the hat trick connecting to make it 5-2 with 3:01 remaining.

There was no scoring in the third period.

Alexandria, which falls to 0-2, had taken a 1-0 lead on Dominic St. Denis' marker late in the first.

Daryl Menard tied it up for Charlottenburgh before the end of the stanza. They went ahead for good when Craig McDonell scored early in the second period.

Darin Menard picked up four assists in the contest. McKenzie assisted on two of the goals.

Lochiel and Charlottenburgh will square off when action resumes Thursday night. Game time is 10:30 p.m.

Lancaster and Alexandria meet in the 9:00 p.m. contest.

There's a doubleheader of action on Sunday. Alexandria meets Lochiel at 1 p.m. while at 2:30 p.m., it's Charlottenburgh squaring off against Lancaster.

The top two clubs after the double round robin portion of the competition will meet in the championship final.

Thursday's action

Lochiel picked up their first win Thursday night, 6-4, in a spirited game against Alexandria.

The contest was tied 3-3 early in the third period when Darell Hay connected for a pair of goals one minute apart — his second and third markers of the game — giving Lochiel a 5-3 advantage.

Willy Kippen closed out the scoring connecting to put Lochiel in front 6-3 late in the third period.

Eric MacSweyn and Frank Morris also scored for Lochiel.

Andrew Meth scored three times for Alexandria. Stephane Lefebvre scored once and had three assists.

There were four fights in the contest, and three game misconducts were handed out.

In the other game played, Lancaster started strong — they took a first period lead on goals by Stephane Gareau and Ken Robinson — but relinquished the lead to Charlotten-

MacMillan rinks take top prizes at Maxville bonspiel

Hugh Allan MacMillan's rink was the big winner at the Glengarry Club of Ottawa's 14th annual bonspiel Saturday in Maxville.

The MacMillan rink accumulated 27 points to take the two-game high title. Other team members were Mary MacLeod (lead), Joe White (second) and John MacLeod (third).

A total of 24 teams competed in the bonspiel, held at the Glengarry Curling Club.

The two-game runner-up squad, with 22 points, was skipped by Ian MacDonald. Team members were Ray Howes (lead), Joanne MacMillan (second) and Bernice McDonald (third).

Myles MacMillan's rink was the one-game winner, with 16.5 points. Team members were Alix Baxter (lead), Ron Besner (second) and Jim Poulton (third).

One-game runner-up team, with 14.5 points, was skipped by John Angus Kennedy. Other team members were John McCormick (lead), Andy Fraser (second) and Sharon MacMillan (third).

Locals upbeat after women's exhibition loss

They got beat on the scoreboard — badly — but as far as organizers of the Alexandria team which played Cornwall in a women's exhibition hockey game Sunday were concerned, there were no losers.

"There was a lot of enthusiasm associated with the game," co-organizer Margie Laferriere said. "It's a positive step in building a club of local players."

The main objective of the game was to promote in this area the rapidly-growing sport of women's hockey.

Organizers agreed that the game is a building block and that the players that participated for the Alexandria squad showed promise.

They also agreed that a practice or two may have closed the scoring gap (Cornwall won the contest 8-1).

Carole Duchene and Donna MacGregor each fired in three goals and added an assist to lead the Cornwall club.

Karen Kingston and Julie Bissonette scored once each. Picking up assists were Kingston, with a pair, and Bissonette, Natalie Bissonette and Lise Derocher, with one each.

Sandra McDonell scored the lone goal for Alexandria. Carolyn Jeaurond drew an assist on the play.

Martine Theoret played in nets for Alexandria. Defencemen were Denise Lemieux, Sue Lalonde, Margie Laferierre and Sue Decoste. Forwards were Wendy Hay, Shirley Hay, Lynn Gareau, Sandra McDonell, Carolyn Jeaurond, Viola McRae, Laurie Lefebvre, Jeanette Lalonde and Gwen Morris. The team was coached by Jim Ogilvy.

The Alexandria team will be holding a practice/scrimmage this Sunday (9 p.m.) at the Glengarry Sports Palace, in anticipation of a rematch against Cornwall before the end of the season.

All interested players (15 and older) are welcome to attend. Full equipment is compulsory.

For further information, contact co-organizers Sue Lalonde (525-3745) or Margie Laferierre (525-2316).

Local curlers compete at Colts championships

This region's representative at the Colts Curling Championships in Sherbrooke on the weekend recorded a three wins, two losses record in five matches.

The Paul Sauve rink was beaten 11-8 by Navy Club of Ottawa in the 'C'' championship game.

Representing the Alexandria Curling Club, Sauve, along with Michel Lacelle (third), Duncan MacMillan (second) and Dennis Healey (lead), was knocked into the "C'' division suffering a second round loss to the host Sherbrooke rink. Sherbrooke went on to win the "A'' championship.

A team representing the Winchester Curling Club took the "B'' title.

Teams from Gananoque and Carleton Place were also on hand for the friendly competition.

The Sauve rink earned the right to represent this district three weeks ago by compiling a seven wins, one loss record in qualifying matches against Vankleek Hill, Thurso, Que. and other teams from Alexandria.

The Colts tournament is for players who've been curling for five years or less.

Great Raisin River White Water Canoe Race is Sunday

It's that time of year again. The popular Great Raisin River White Water Canoe Race — the 17th edition — will be held this Sunday (Apr.8), beginning at noon.

Organizers are hoping for a warm spell to increase the water flows in time for the big race. "The flows are way down right now," said Andy Code, lands co-ordinator for the Raisin Region Conservation Authority, which is sponsoring the race.

"The cold weather we've had has terminated much of the run-off. If it starts to warm up the flows should increase.

"We're also counting on some rain before the race, and if we get it, everything is expected to be in pretty good order."

There's one change of note from past races. This year in the men's division there will be a pro classification and a recreational category. The recreational classification will be for boats under 17 feet in length that aren't equipped with sliding chairs.

The divisions replace the traditional men's open category.

The race features a 21-mile course from St. Andrews West to the finish line in Williamstown. A brochure outlining the many vantage points for viewing the race along the Raisin River is available at the Raisin Region Conservation Authority in Martintown and at the registration desk in St. Andrews West on the day of the race.

In last year's race, only 64 seconds separated first place from fourth place, with the father and son team of Bruno and Mark Major capturing top spot in 2:24:53. There were over 100 canoes entered.

There will be a spaghetti dinner starting at 3 p.m. at St. Mary's Hall in Williamstown. Canoe race awards will be made at the hall.

Registration for canoeists is from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the St. Andrews Separate School on the day of the race. Entry fee is $10 per canoe.

Referee's school to be offered by ODHA

The Ottawa District Hockey Association's (ODHA) 5th annual Referee's Hockey Summer School will be held Aug. 24, 25 and 26.

The camp is at the Nepean Sportsplex.

The minimum age for candidates attending the Referee's Summer School is 14, as of December 31, 1990.

The program agenda will include power skating instruction, advancement of officials, learning the playing rules, rating of game sheets, and supervision.

For more information, contact Rick Ladouceur, ODHA Development Coordinator, at 224-7686.

Champions Roadhouse champs

Rideau-St. Lawrence final resumes Friday, Sunday

the sports palace (a 6-5 loss) with Glens on a 12-game unbeaten streak to start the season, Platers coach Ron Truesdell made some comments that didn't go over to well in Alexandria. Truesdell told The Glengarry News that, among other things, "Alexandria isn't good enough to take the (playoff) championship. We think this is our year to go all the way."

Therefore, DeRooy had his troops engage in a little remedial reading over the week, to jog their memories and help the club psych itself for game one of the series Friday night in Alexandria.

It worked. Glens dominated visiting Platers, winning easily 11-2.

It marked the third straight game this year Glens have beaten the highly-rated Platers. An 8-2 win right in Gananoque early in the year preceded Glens 6-5 regular season home win.

On Friday, it seemed, Glens had finally gotten Truesdell's attention and earned his respect. There were no incendiary comments after the game. Far from it. "They're (Alexandria) a powerhouse, no doubt about it," Truesdell said. "Alexandria is a helluva team — no question.

"But we just were not ready to play tonight. We played poorly both on offence and defence."

Glens got superb goaltending from Shawn Fougere early in the contest and three goals in the first 10 minutes and never looked back.

Martin Hughes opened the scoring connecting with his first of three markers two minutes in.

Glen Campbell scored twice, with 15 minutes and 10 minutes left in the first stanza, putting Alexandria ahead 3-1. Hughes pushed the lead to 4-0 scoring with 1:25 left in the frame.

Alexandria, which led 5-1 after the second frame and outscored Platers 6-1 in the final period, got two goals from Scott Barnes and singles from Trevor Clark, Pascal Joanette, Todd Henry and Luc Francoueur.

Glens outshot Platers 45-31.

Truesdell wasn't devasted by the loss. "I expect it to be a long series," he said. "We'll be tougher at home, and we usually play better when we're in a little bit of trouble."

Platers have been in this situation before. They dropped the first game in their divisional semifinal to South Grenville then roared back with four straight wins. Last year, they were clobbered by Char-Lan Rebels in the first game of the Rideau-St. Lawrence conference final then couldn't be touched, storming back with four wins.

"The problem we have at the start of a series like this is not knowing the other team," Truesdell said. "We saw Alexandria only twice this year — it's hard to figure out how they operate in just two games.

"But we'll get to know them better as the series goes on."

Truesdell said his team, which stresses defence before offence, will have to play it that way against Glens. "When you're up against a powerhouse you have to play it defensively. They have three lines that can score — they're going to be tough to stop.

"I think the real key is to cover Campbell's line. It's that line that makes their team go."

burgh in the second period and were beaten 5-3.

Down 2-0, Charlottenburgh stormed back with three unanswered second period goals — from Murray MacDonald, Shawn McDonell and Daryl Menard — to move in front.

Charlottenburgh got third period insurance markers from MacDonald and McDonell.

Lancaster got first frame markers from Stephane Gareau and Ken Robinson, and a third stanza strike by David McDonell.

Bantams win "A" trophy at St. Isidore tournament

Alexandria Sultan Drugs Bantam Glens finally caught some breaks last weekend.

The ADMHA's hard-luck travelling team won its first tournament of the year Sunday (Mar. 25) going unbeaten in three games to win a competition in St. Isidore.

Glens capped a dramatic comeback in the final game when Michel Jeaurond connnected for the tournament-winning goal with 2:45 left in overtime, lifting his club to a 3-2 win over Gloucester Rangers.

Patrick Sauve drew an assist on the tie-breaking goal.

Glens were trailing 2-1 in the third period when Sauve scored to tie the game with 7:51 remaining.

Picking up assists on the goal was Eric Paquette and Rock Jeaurond.

Glens had taken a 1-0 lead halfway through the first period when Marc Boisvenue connected with an unassisted marker.

Gloucester came back to take the lead with a pair of unanswered goals in the middle frame.

Advance with win over St. Isidore

Glens needed a 3-2 win over the tournament hosts to advance to the "A" championship game.

Alexandria built a 3-0 lead against St. Isidore and held off a late third period rally for the win.

Brad McDonald's unassisted goal early in the first period gave Glens a 1-0 lead.

Rock Jeaurond added to it scoring to give his club a 2-0 advantage midway through the second stanza. Assists went to Ricky Latreille and Brad McDonald.

McDonald's second goal of the contest and third point in the game pushed the lead to 3-0 with eight minutes left.

St. Isidore made things interesting with goals at the 3:54 mark and with 32 seconds to go.

Alexandria started on the right foot posting a 3-1 win over Casselman in a first round game. Glens got a pair of goals from Patrick Sauve and one from Michel Jeaurond in the contest.

Marc Boisvenue had a pair of assists for the winners with single helpers going to Lucien Lefebvre, Steve Poirier and Eric Paquette.

Sultan Drugs bantams are coached by Jean-Yves Jeaurond. Ray MacDonald is the manager and Gerry Sauve is the trainer.

Play bantam house league

Alexandria Glens scored an 8-4 win over a team of players from the bantam house league last Friday.

Stephane Davidson, Lucien Lefebvre, Michel Jeaurond, Brad McDonald, Rick Latreille, Randy Lavigueur, Steve Poirier and Patrick Sauve each scored once for the winners.

Recording two assists each was Lefebvre, Poirier, and McDonald. Single helpers were notchecd by Dominic Desautels, Sauve, Davidson, Michel Jeaurond, and Boisvenue.

Scoring for the house league team — which led 3-2 after the first period but fell behind 5-4 after two frames — was Jean Burelle, Jacques Levert, Luc Titley and Marc Leroux.

Stephane Decoste had a pair of assists. Levert, Leroux and Wayne Kreische had single assists.

Novices split pair

Their playoff championship has been wrapped up but the season continues for the Alexandria Knights of Columbus Novice Glens. Glens were in action twice over the week, splitting a pair of decisions.

At home to Vankleek Hill Sunday, Glens posted an easy 8-2 win. Kurt MacSweyn and Eric Leroux each fired in a pair of goals for Alexandria, which led 3-1 after the first period and 6-2 after two frames.

Single goals were notched by Jamie Ladouceur, Gregory Lalonde, Ghislain Valade and Murray MacLeod.

Lalonde, Ladouceur, and Valade each had a pair of assists for the winners. Single helpers went to Ryan Neilsen, Daniel Boisvenue, Kurt MacSweyn and Michel Quesnel.

Last Tuesday (Mar. 27), Glens were beaten 3-1 by Louisville in a game played at the Finch Community Centre.

Alexandria was trailing 2-0 early in the third period when Ghislain Valade, from Kurt MacSweyn, scored the lone Alexandria goal cutting the lead to 2-1.

Louisville put the game away with an insurance goal late in the stanza.

Glens' season continues Saturday when they travel to Ottawa for tournament action.

Glengarry Soccer League may add division

The Glengarry Soccer League is looking at the possibility of forming another division for girls.

In previous years, 11, 12, 13, and 14 year-old players have played in the intermediate girls division. Each team in the intermediate division is allowed to sign two 15-year-old players.

But that has meant most of the 15-year-old players registered in the GSL have had to play in the senior ladies division.

"A lot of them found they weren't ready to play in the senior division so we're looking at the possibility of adding another division," said league secretary-treasurer Henrietta MacSweyn.

The proposed changes would have the intermediate division be made up of players 11, 12 and 13-years-old.

A bantam girls division, for players 14, 15, 16 and 17years of age, would be created.

The matter will be discussed at the next league meeting, April 11 at the Glengarry Sports Palace (7:30 p.m.).

In other league news, anyone interested in refereeing in any of the minor age groups (or lining in the senior ladies division) is urged to call Henrietta MacSweyn (525-2480) so that a list can be sent to all coaches.

Also, any players who were not registered last year must provide a copy of proof of age when registering this season.

Junior curlers wind up season with weekend bonspiel

By Bruce Myers
News* reporter

The Alexandria's Curling Club's junior members threw their last rocks of the year at the 19th annual Malcomson Bonspiel, held at the club Sunday afternoon.

Twelve teams of curlers aged from about seven to 19 turned up to vie for the Al Malcomson trophy, awarded annually by the Alexandria resident and long-time booster of youth involvement in the sport.

Curling started at 11 a.m. and wrapped-up around five in the afternoon. An awards banquet followed.

Each team played two games and prizes were awarded in various classes according to points scored.

The bonspiel's two-game high winning team was skipped by Mario Paquette. Third was David Lefebvre, second was Jason Marleau and lead was Roxanne Leblanc.

The two-game high runners-up were skip Peter Oma, third Debbie Johnson, second Bruce Myers and lead Trina MacMillan.

Skip Paul Lacelle led his team of third Gabrielle Marleau, second Paul McGrath and lead Warren Marleau to a two-game second runner-up prize.

The award for one-game high went to the team skipped by Eric Lavigne. Third was Kate MacLeod, second was Sandra McCuaig and Kathleen McBean was lead.

The one-game high runners-up were skip Scott Graham, third Dominic Leblanc, second Chantal Cheney and lead Nathalie Jeaurond.

Awards for individual monthly draws were also presented for the team accumulating the most points per month.

Winners of the Alexandria Curling Club Trophy, presented by instructor Joan Ryan were Alain Larocque, skip; Glen MacLeod, third; Chantal Cheney, second and Rodney Fraser, lead.

The Richelieu Club trophy was presented by Joanne Leblanc to Mario Paquette, skip; Eric Lavigne, third; Christian Diotte, second and Warren Marleau, lead.

Claude Nadeau presented the Lions Club Trophy to the team skipped by Rodney Fraser. Other players were Chantal Cheney, third; Brennan Cameron, second and Jessica MacLeod, lead.

There were only three recipients of the Royal Bank Trophy, since the lead alternated from week to week. Skip of that team was Alain Larocque, third was Hugh MacLeod and lead was Roxanne Leblanc. Art Craig made the presentation.

Four juniors were presented with special awards for long-time membership and activity as young curlers in the club. Kevin Craig, Mario Paquette, Peter Oma and Alain Larocque each received plaques commemorating their more than five years' association with the club. Instructor Shirley Samson made the heart-felt presentations.

Debbie Nadon leads Benton past Tapis

By Jeff Lowe

Debbie Nadon's three points led Art Benton to a 4-1 victory over Tapis Richard in the first game of the best of five Alexandria Ladies Soft Puck League championship final, Wednesday.

Art Benton would have to be considered strong favorites to win the final since they lost only once all year. Tapis however, opened the scoring on a rather strange goal. Dianne Trottier took a weak shot towards the net that somehow went past Nathalie Theoret. The goal woke Theoret up and she shut out Tapis the rest of the way.

From then on, Nadon and Art Benton took over. Nadon scored the first goal on a two on one play and one timed a perfect pass from Donna MacGregor. Nadon then sent a perfect pass out in front to Ginette Lalonde who made no mistake and put it past a sprawling goaltender.

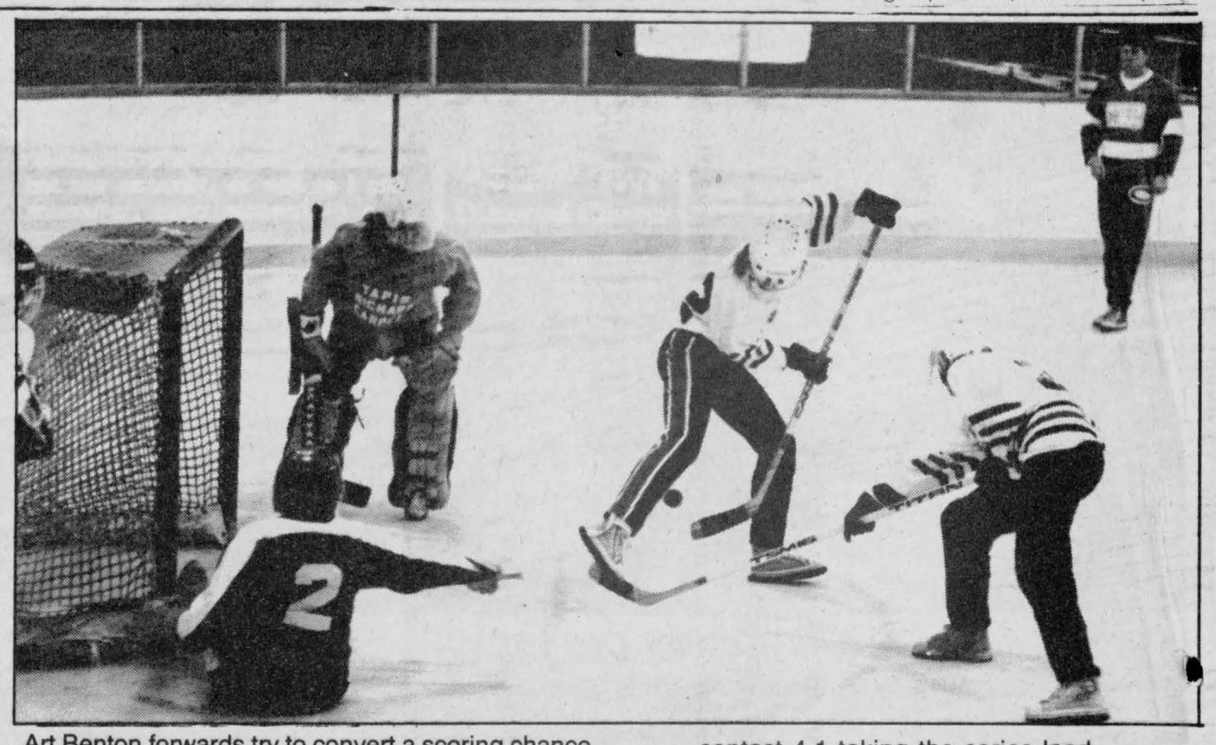
Nadon and Lalonde combined again for a goal as Nadon scored on a rebound. Tapis Richard started to press on Art Benton but Chris Ladouceur defused any hopes of a Tapis comeback. She was set up perfectly by Margie Laferriere. The series resumes Wednesday night.

In the consolation final, it took sudden death overtime to decide the victor between Titley's and Sunlife.

The game was a defensive battle all the way with both goalkeepers having excellent games. Titley's opened the scoring as Julie Menard sent a perfect pass in front to Annie St. Denis who in turn put it past Mary Anne Laframboise.

It looked like Cathy Wensink was going to earn a shutout but Janice Munro spoiled the bid as she scored with 6:12 remaining to play. Overtime came and it looked as if double overtime would be needed.

That is when Henrietta MacSweyn put in the individual effort of the evening. She took the puck at her own blueline and went end to end and scored with just one second remaining to give Titley's a 2-1 victory.



Art Benton forwards try to convert a scoring chance in game one of the Alexandria Ladies Soft Puck League final series Wednesday. Benton won the contest 4-1 taking the series lead.

Stars get revenge against United

Glengarry Stars gained a measure of revenge against Char-Lan United in the most important game of the season, Monday (Mar. 26).

Stars got goals from four different players and cruised to an easy 4-1 win in game one of their Char-Lan Indoor Soccer League two-game, total goals, A division playoff semi-final.

Second-place Stars lost just twice during the regular season, but both of those defeats were administered by third-place Char-Lan.

Brian Cameron, Herbie Maley, Darryl Hay and Scott McDougall fired in goals for Stars, who led early and built a 4-0 lead midway through the second half.

Taffy Pye was the lone Char-Lan goal scorer.

F.I.S.T. upsets Rovers

Fourth-place Cornwall F.I.S.T. pulled off the biggest upset of the night, edging regular season pennant winners Lancaster Rovers 2-1.

Guy Carriere connected for both Cornwall goals.

Allan Brown responded with a marker for Lancaster.

Cornwall F.I.S.T. are the defending playoff champions, knocking off Lancaster in last year's final series.

Consolation round

A more mild upset occurred in consolation semifinal action, with seventh-place Cornwall Strikers walloping sixth-place St. Lawrence College Road Runners 6-2.

Almost everyone got into the scoring act for Strikers, including goaltender Chris Sauer, who scored on a court-length blast.

Henk Kuklein scored a pair for the winners. Other goals were notched by Brent Starzacher, Tom Johnson and Craig Ostepchuk.

Gord Yule had both goals for St. Lawrence College.

The second games in the semifinal series' were played Monday night.

League finals get underway this Monday, beginning at 7 p.m.

No games will be played Easter Monday (Apr. 16).

The second games of the final series' will be played April 23.

Longtime minister in Avonmore dies

St. Elmo
W. MacKinnon
527-2348

A very good friend of mine, the Rev. John H. Wiseman, died early Sunday afternoon at his home in Cornwall, Ont.

Mr. Wiseman resigned from the pastoral charge of Avonmore, Monkland and Gravel Hill and retired from the active ministry in November 1989, due to ill health, after 14 years of pastoral ministry to the three Presbyterian church congregations. From all who knew Mr. Wiseman in this area, I wish to express sincere sympathy to his wife Barbara and their daughter, Marie, and to Mr. Wiseman's sister Ruth Kergan and his brother James and their families, all of Moose Jaw, Sask.

As a young man Jack Wiseman was a very active person in the fellowship of Knox Presbyterian Church, Moose Jaw, while I was the minister of the congregation 1948-56.

The syrup-making has not been encouraging as there was little or no sap running most of last week. However, on the weekend, I was the grateful recipient of two samples of good quality syrup, one from Hugh Fisher made in Garry Ivens bush and one from my brother Alex made from the sap from trees tapped on his lawn.

Track and field team still needs participants

GDHS News

The GDHS Drama Club gave two performances of their play Waiting for Godot this past Saturday and Sunday. It ran just over an hour in length. It was definitely worth seeing as it won both outstanding production as well as outstanding performance by an actor (Jason Kirkey) at a recent SD&G School Board Drama Festival. Their next performance will be at the Oshawa Drama Festival.

If you are interested in representing GDHS in the Lions Club Public Speaking Contest you should see Mr. MacLeod as soon as possible. The contest requires you to give a prepared speech of between five and seven minutes long, as well as an impromptu speech of two minutes in duration. The awards are well worth the effort: $500, $200, $100 and $50.

Attention all runners, jumpers, throwers and affiliated athletes! There is still a need for more people on the GDHS track and field team. Practices are every Monday and Wednesday after school. Why not start training at home right now? The team is especially in need of senior girls; however, everyone is invited to come and give it a try.

Senior and junior girls' soccer tryouts have begun. Practices are on Mondays and Wednesdays. Girls, you may have now noticed you have to be on either the track and field team or the soccer team, not both. Tough decision isn't it? If you are interested in being on either of the teams you should see one of the gym coaches as soon as you can, the first track and field meet isn't that far off.

Last week I commended Inouk Touzin for his participation in the science fair which was held last weekend in Cornwall. Daniel Massie, Grade 7, should also be congratulated for he also participated in the fair. His project was called "Pollution."

The boys did not take any prizes home but were very impressed with the many projects they saw.

La Vie Montante

Recently Father Gérald Poirier, spiritual counsellor for La Vie Montante of the diocese was at the monthly meeting in Green Valley.

The March 25 mass was celebrated by Father Raymond Dumoulin, and members took part in different ways — lectures, offerings, and services at the altar.

On Monday, March 26, members met at the Gauthier's sugar camp, hosted by Marguerite and Majella Lajoie who prepared the good meal. Marie Anne Gauthier was at the stove for two hours making pancakes and frying eggs to her heart's content. "What a meal!"

Afterwards Georges Lajoie played the violin, others played cards, while others were preparing games. Prizes were given to Madeleine Gareau, Wilfrid Lajoie, Pierre Beaupré and Emma Gagnon.

On Wednesday, March 28, there was a day of study for La Vie Montante at the Sacred Heart Church for the Zone of Glengarry. Isidore Secours, zone delegate and responsible for the Green Valley movement welcomed everyone. Father Poirier recited the prayers and Pauline Valade, responsible for the Sacred Heart parish and secretary for the diocese, opened the meeting.

Sr. Liliane Cayer of Dalkeith gave a lecture on how to welcome people such as the elderly, the sick, our families and newcomers in our parishes. She told us that the happiness in our faces, and a nice smile is all it takes to make people feel that we love them. Isidore Secours thanked her, and presented a corsage of roses in the name of the members for all her good work towards this organization.

Father Poirier gave a short interview of the Synod.

Sr. Adrienne l'Eriger of Green Valley who founded La Vie Montante in Green Valley and spiritual counsellor at the Sacred Heart for La Vie Montante spoke on the Bible. Pauline Valade also spoke about the Bible.

A film on the life of the Golden Age was presented, and was appreciated by all. This was compliments of the Caisse Populaire of Alexandria.

Although everybody seemed to know each other the noon hour was enjoyed by many, who ate their dinner among new members who surely made new friends for the future.

In the afternoon the following parishes were asked to give details of how each were participating in their meetings.

Green Valley parish was presented by Evelyne Secours, Dalkeith and Glen Robertson by Sister Cayer and Sacred Heart by Pauline Valade. The day was followed by a mass celebrated by Father Poirier and Father Desrosiers. Members took part in the lectures and service at the altar.

Don't forget, members of La Vie Montante invite you to come and visit them, every Sunday at 11 o'clock mass, while their nursery is open to children six months to six years. Next meeting will be held Tuesday, April 10 at 2 p.m. Be there, we will be glad to see you.

Processing policies lacking: MPP

After complaining for over two years that changes in Canada-U.S. and international trade would seriously hurt Ontario food processors, the Ontario government's only actions to date have been the closure of the food processing and farm machinery technology centre in Chatham, higher taxes and more red tape for business and an advisory committee which first met in 1989, says Noble Villeneuve, PC Agriculture and Food critic.

Villeneuve was responding to comments made Tuesday (March 20) by Ault Foods chairman Graham Freeman that Ault's — Ontario's larges dairy processor (Silverwood, Sealtest, Lactantia), will have to close unless milk prices become more competitive.

Quoting Ontario's Food Industry Advisory Committee report Villeneuve explained that there are other issues besides raw product pricing: "You just have to look at the high-taxing and high-spending Ontario government which is contributing to higher interest rates across Canada."

"We have unprecedented levels of government interference, red tape, levies and taxes here in Ontario. Of course I'm worried that many rural communities with numerous producers and food processors will be irreversibly hurt if the industry shuts down."

Char-Lan student wins honor award with "sky map"

Williamstown
Sue Harrington
347-2279

They came from every corner of SD&G, and represented more than 44 different schools from three different school boards. They spoke different languages, worshipped different gods, and had different shades of skin. But all of the young scientists who gathered on Saturday at the United Counties Science Fair in Cornwall had at least one thing in common: enthusiasm!

The projects displayed at the 1990 fair were of a quality which would have been unimaginable when the annual event was first launched some 15 years ago. Even at first glance it was obvious that a whole lot of time and hard work had been invested in each and every one. And to sustain such effort over the months takes nothing short of enthusiasm!

When the smoke from the exciting science spectacular had cleared in Aultsville Hall, Williamstown winners ranked right up there among the very best.

Top student from Glengarry was Char-Lan's Rebecca Kastack, who has won herself another trip to the Canadian Wide Science Fair, to be held this year in Windsor, Ontario. Rebecca's project was called "Sky Map" and featured a computer program she had written to plot the positions of the stars in the sky for the next five years.

Rebecca was also the recipient of the RCAF Association Wing 424 Gold Research Award, consisting of a trophy, a certificate, and $250 in cash for research. Her project was deemed best in the design of new or modification of existing software or hardware, and as such, won the Computer Science Award sponsored by IBM.

Mike Rzepczyk, a dark horse from Williamstown Public, brought honor to the school by winning a silver medal for "How salty... potato chips?" Mike's seventh place finish out of the 121 project entries (and remember these entries represent the best from their individual schools) also won him a Nutrition Research Award and the Ontario Public Schools' Techers' Federation Trophy for excellence in an experimental project.

Another Char-Lan student, Shannon Aubin, ranked ninth overall, won a silver medal, and was awarded (in a tie with Heather Williams of GDHS) the same trophy for excellence in an experimental project in the senior or intermediate divisions.

And yet another silver medal (and a cash prize of $50) went to Williamstown Public's Sarah Harrington who blew her way to a 12th place finish with her project, "Bubble-0-7."

Nina Craig of the same school, won a bronze medal, $40 in cash, and the Bergeron Electric trophy for excellence in the Atom Division. Nina's "Acid rain/plant growth" study earned her the rank of 21st overall.

To ensure that the science fair will be producing quality work in the future, a wall display category for students in Grades 1-5 has been included. This has proven to be extremely popular, with close to 300 students entering a marvelous variety of topics.

Sarah McDonald, a Grade 3 student at Williamstown Public, won a gold award for her study of "Chicken-pox," something she is somewhat of an expert in! Michael Johnson of Grade 2, won a silver for his beautifully drawn "Amphibians."

Also entering projects in the fair were Sommer Robertson, Adam Gordon, Steve Tanguay, and Sarah Meyer, all of Williamstown Public, and Shannon Campbell, Shannon MacLeod, and Lisa Lapierre, who attend St. Joseph's in Lancaster.

Congratulations to all the competitors and to the excellent chairman of this yaer's fair — Char-Lan's own Ken Johns!

Char-Lan proved its reputation for academic strength in the fine showing of its Science Quiz team, which was awarded the Bell trophy for runner-up school. Members of the team are Stve Laframboise, Adam Kubelka, Shannon Aubin and Rebecca Kastack.

It's Canada Quiz time again and our four Williamstown teams have already played one round of the general knowledge game. Williamstown Juniors: Trevor Atchison, Shonna Atchison, Nina Craig, Bucky Ross and Megan Sloan, were victorious against Long Sault on Friday. This team, which is coached by parents Penny Cavell and Pat Hamilton, has been practising very hard and their efforts have certainly paid off.

The senior team from Williamstown Public, James Doonan, Sarah Harrington, Laurie Schaefer and Adam Gordon, lost their first game against Long Sault, but are gearing up for their next match against Eamer's Corners. This team is coached by Grade 8 teacher, Ainar Smiltnieks.

Both of the Char-Lan teams are coached by Sue Payer. The Junor team of Erin Fitzhugh, Robbie Prevost, Norman Lauzon, and Derek MacGregor, beat General Vanier on Friday.

Unfortunately the senior team, Johanna Harrington, Bobby Richer, Sean O'Farrell, and Zachary Harrington, lost in their first game against GV. But is it any wonder? How many of you would know who it was who invented the electrical indicator of loose "fish plates" rail connectors?

Roland Stuhlmann, who lives on the River Road South, is holding a free tax clinic this Friday, Ajpril 6, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Legion in Lancaster.

The purpose of the clinic, says Roland, is to offer tax advice to seniors, or to people with financial hardships. Apparently there are a number of Canadians who do not bother to file a claim who might be eligible to receive rebates and Mr. Stuhlmann will tell you if you are among them.

For more information, call him at 347-2638, or come to the legion with any receipts you might have, your T4s, previous year's return, etc.

Things are hectic these days down in the McIntosh suburb of Lancster. Barbara and david Stones are hard at work in preparation for the opening of their new shop, "Schoolhouse Lane Souvenirs" which they had transported from the Gananoque region.

The shop, located beside Rob McIntosh's new warehouse, will open for business on April 10 at 10 a.m., although the official opening ceremonies won't take place until later in May.

The Stones will be selling Canadian souvenirs — T-shirts, reproduction soapstone, leather jewellery, tea towels, etc. — just the sort of small gift items you want to give to visitors to the area, or send the relatives, or even, keep for yourself!

The UCW of St. Andrews will meet tonight (Wed.) at 8 p.m. at Irvine Hall. All women of the congregation are also invited to the Seaway Valley Presbyterial taking place at Knox-St. Paul's in Cornwall on April 11, with registration taking place at 9 a.m. Dorothy Middleton will be speaking and showing slides of her trip to Nicaragua.

The Friendly Neighbors Open Euchre took place on March 22 and winners were Therese JBourdeau, Beatrice Labelle, Emily MacDonald, Fern Theoret, Euclid Poirier and Austin Abrams. The skunks went home together to Henrika and Tony Wetering.

Florida Legroulx won the door prize, with Joan Abams, Germaine White (2), Therese Bourdeau, Alice Portant and Rita Poirier winning 50/50 prizes. Rita also won the Easter ham.

A warm invitation from the Glengarry Community Club is extended to all in the community to join with them for their potluck luncheon to be held on April 11 at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, at 12 noon, followed by musical entertainment by the Char-Lan band.

Martintown
Ruth Lafave
528-4374

I will start this week by wishing my brother-in-law, Eric Lafave, a happy birthday. He turns 67 on April 5. With daylight saving time under way, we've all lost one hour's sleep. I thought I would be smart by going to bed one hour earlier. Then it dawned on me. When I set the alarm clock for seven, I realized I would be getting up at 6 a.m., standard time. Oh well! At least the sun will be up with me.

* * *

The Martintown Public School will be holding an Easter raffle on Thursday, April 12, 1990. Tickets will go on sale April 3, and will be sold by Grades 5, 6, 7 and 8 students. Tickets are 50¢ each or three for a dollar. First prize: Easter ham, second prize: Easter bunny, and third prize, Easter plant.

The school will also be having an Easter bake sale on Thursday, April 12 at 12 noon at the school. All are welcome. Proceeds of these two events will go to school activities.

Junior kindergarten and kindergarten registrations will be done by appointment only on Tuesday, April 10. Please call the school at 528-4423 to make an appointment. Children for JK must be four years old by December 31, 1990 to be eligible.

The Raisin River White Water Canoe Races will take place on Sunday, April 8, 1990. The races begin at St. Andrews and end in Williamstown. The most interesting point of this race takes place in Martintown. The canoeists have a choice of going through the dam or portaging around the bridge. It is very interesting to find out which manoevers and techniques they will use if they choose to take on the dam.

Organizers go through a lot of trouble planning the portage path, by fencing it off. Somehow, spectators insist on blocking this path. It is usually situated on the east bank of the river, on the north side of the bridge. It is clearly marked with a snow fence. The racers have a hard enough time trying to make it up the muddy, slippery bank with a canoe over their heads without having to push their way through a crowd. Spectators could easily get hurt by either a flying canoe or they could slip and end up taking a plunge in the icy water. Therefore we urge you to please stay away from the path. Join us in cheering these brave people on, and good luck to all competitors.

It is nice to see Elias Kitts walking to the post office again. He was injured late last year, when he lost his footing coming off his step ladder. He was confined to the house for quite a long time. He sometimes walks with his cane but he has progressed remarkably. It's nice to see you mobile again, and I'm sure it won't be long before you will be able to chase the little misses around the house.

* * *

I was trying to think of a good fish story to tell you for April Fool's Day but I came up blank. I always knew I'd never be a good fisherman. I will have to have a little chat with Paul Tyo. Maybe he can give me a good story for next year.

* * *

Plans for the Martintown Jamboree are under way. We are trying to come up with different ideas for this event. If you have some ideas for games or activities, attend one of our meetings or give me a call after 3:30 p.m. The more input we have, the better the event will be.

PUBLIC MEETING CONCERNING A PROPOSED ZONING BYLAW AMENDMENT

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Charlottenburgh will hold a public meeting on April 23, 1990, at 7:00 p.m. at the Township Hall to consider a proposed zoning bylaw amendment under section 34 of the Planning Act.

The proposed zoning bylaw amendment would change the zone categories for an area of approximately 93 ha (230 acres) legally described as Parts of lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9, Concession I and known locally as the Glen Walter area. The subject lands are bounded on the south by the St. Lawrence River, on the east by Rae Road, on the north by a drainage ditch and on the west by Highway 2 and the intersection of Purcell Road.

Auld Lang Syne

NINETY YEARS AGO
Friday, March 30, 1900

•A large crowd of our citizens gathered at the station on Tuesday to see a detachment of the provisional regiment, en route to garrison Halifax, which passed through. Five of the Ontario men are from the 9th Battalion among the officers being Capt. A. G. F. Macdonald of Alexandria.

•Adelard Gagnier, 4th Kenyon, has taken over the Canada Atlantic Hotel, station, and the former owner, A. L. McKay, has moved into town and will continue his practice as veterinary surgeon.

•J. A. McMillan has been appointed agent for the Canadian Cycle Co., also the National Cycle Co.

•G. H. S. Miller and G. E. L. McKinnon of Alexandria; Ed Munroe, St. Elmo; Will McDiarmid and Howard Munroe of Maxville, are among the McGill medical students who are holidaying at their homes over the Eastertide.

EIGHTY YEARS AGO
Friday, April 1, 1910

•Negotiations have been under way which if successful, will mean the establishment of another industry here in the near future. It is a paper bag factory on the premises of the new match factory building.

•J. A. Macdonell, KC, has given the contact for erection of a substantial addition to his present modern home, to J. J. McIntosh, contractor.

•Business is humming at the Munro & McIntosh Carriage Works. Already this year upwards of 2,200 carriages have been manufactured, an increase of 800 over the same period last year.

•On Wednesday a carload of horses, shipped from the railway works of D. R. McDonald, MPP, at La Tuque, reached Alexandria. They will be shipped to Saskatchewan, where Mr. McDonald proposes operating a large farm.

SEVENTY YEARS AGO
Friday, April 2, 1920

•Councillor H. L. Cheney and J. A. Macdonell, KC, represented Alexandria on a strong deputation which went to Ottawa this week to request that the Federal government provide half of the cost of the building of two bridges at VAudreuil and Ste.-Anne de Bellevue, Que., to enable motorists and others to use a direct route from Montreal to Ontario points.

Basis of Accounting
Capital receipts and income are reported on the cash basis of accounting.

2. Ontario Home Renewal Program

The Ontario Home Renewal Program was established by the Ontario Ministry of Housing in 1973 to provide grants for municipalities to make loans to assist owner occupants to repair, rehabilitate and improve their homes to local property standards.
