FRED H. BRODER ACCLAIMED AS REEVE MANY NOMINATED FOR COUNCILLORS

Today was nomination Day in town and township, and in both communities, the nomination meetings were well attended.

Fred H. Broder was again nominated for Reeve of Morrisburg and if he should quality, and it is expected he will, he will become Reeve by acclamation.

A great many "possibles" were named for the council and an election for the four council seats is practically assured.

In Williamsburg township, where those elected at the elections in December will hold office for two years, not so many were named. Two men who have held the reeveship before, Oscar Becksted and E. A. VanAllen were named as possible opponents of the present reeve, Edgar Whitteker, who also was renominated. Five names were submitted for the office of deputy-reeve, including that of Frank Darling, the present deputy. Only four men were named to fill the three council seats, and among them, only one who was a member of this year's council.

The complete lists of nominees follow:

For reeve—Fred H. Broder.

For Councillors—Harry Meikle, Richard Morash, R. H. Armstrong, John Harback J. E. Christensen, Roy Geach, J. R. Reddick, Stan G. Finnie, Ed. Jones, Percy Ouderkirk, Wm. Weegar, Mahlon R. Seeley, Thomas Connor, Waldon Beckstead, Wesley Lapierre.

For school Trustees—Frank Stata, Howard Tindall, Mrs. Gertrude Stubbs W. S. L. Merrill, John F. Casselman, Dr. D. A Currie. For Hydro Commissioners—John H. Meikle John Matbark.

M.C.I. Holds Annual Commencement

The annual Commencement Exercises were held in the Collegiate on Thursday afternoon. Mr. W. H. Goodwin, a prominent business man of Montreal was the guest speaker.

Mr. Goodwin is a man who has seen a good deal of life and in his address imparted to the boys and girls some real sound philosophy. His address centred around five words, disposition, occupation, vocation, position, and service. The speaker showed that our mind was occupied according to what we were disposed to like, and our vocation or calling should follow from the occupation of our mind. Finally a position would follow our vocation if the occupation and disposition were correct. He urged the boys and girls to seek a position in life rather than a job. In conclusion, Mr. Goodwin said that the world needed service and the position should have as its main objective the service of mankind. He attempted to show students and elders alike that failure of positions, except in extreme world conditions was caused by having disposition occupation and vocation out of line.

The presentations to students was as follows:

Presentation of graduation diplomas by Mr. Connolly to the following, Charles Blancher, Reatha Bowman, Gertrude Carkner, John Carr, Lawrence Clark, Adelina Cochrane, Ruth Colquhoun, Jeanette Davis, Marjorie Dewland, Marion Gordier, Ruth Phillips, Bert McIntosh, Marion Martin Keith Utman, Dalton Dawley.

Presentation of Intermediate Certificates by Dr. W. C. Davy to the following, Marjorie Bowman, Isabella Cochrane, Joyce Coyle, Evelyn Crober, William Davis, Lyall Fraser, Knox Hawkshaw, Marie Hess, Ida Ing, Ann Louden Gordon Louden, Irene McHaffie, Ruth McKoy, Clair Merkley, Rae Myers, Daena Robinson, Flossie Schell, Eva Shennette, James Styles, Iva Sypes, Miriam Wallace, Dalton Willard.

Presentation of Memorial Scholarships and Class Sheilds by Miss Jane Dillen to the following:

Form V—Eleanor Larmour and Hazel Robinson

Grade 12—Charles Blancher and Adelina Cochrane.

Grade 11—Billie Gorrell and Joyce Coyle.

Grade 10—Knox Hawkshaw and Flossie Schell.

Grade 9—Denzil Sypes, Jean Johnston and Arleen Vanalien.

Class Sheilds—Form V—Eleanor Larmour, Grade 12—Charles Blancher Grade 11—Ruth Hummell, Grade 10—Knox Hawkshaw, Grade 9—Denzil Sypes, Mathematics Shield, Knox Hawkshaw.

Athletic awards presented by M. A. Eppelett in the absence of Mr. F. H. Broder, Sr. Cup to Dale Beckstead; Int. Cup to Clair Merkley, Jr. Cup to Mac Currie, Crests for achievement to Dale Beckstead, Keith Utman, Jack Davies, Billie Gorrell, Robert Loucks, Gordon Louden, Clair Merkley, Mac Currie, Carl Casselman Diana McIntosh.

After the program, parents, friends and graduates were entertained by the staff. Mrs. Eppelett and Mrs. Hotson Meikle presided over the tea table and they were ably assisted by the ladies of the staff and the senior girls.

The Collegiate Glee Club sang: "There'll Always be an England" and "Lead Kindly Light" with a descant.

If You Value Your Vote, Beat the Two-Year Term

One odd quirk of this year's nomination proceedings in Morrisburg, is the point that any candidate elected by acclamation will not know until after voting on Dec. 2nd whether he is in for one or a two-year term.

This is because of the vote on this question, which will be held in this municipality in common with most other Ontario centres, regardless of the nomination outcome, and while some self-seekers may make use of the phrase that: "It is a needless waste of money to vote on a two-year term" its supporters can reply that "It is cheap insurance if democracy is preserved."

One classical example of how well the proposal can be followed under the present annual election system may be found right in our own district, in Augusta. That township follows the practise, as a rule, of voting on their servants one year and if they prove satisfactory, of returning them all by acclamation for a second term. This has been done several times in the past.

In other words, remember this: Under the system of annual elections you can return your Council for a two-year term by acclamation, (thus avoiding the expense of an election when it is not deemed desirable) but under the proposed two-year term, YOU COULD NOT HOLD AN ANNUAL ELECTION IF IT SHOULD PROVE NECESSARY.

Honour Newlyweds

About 150 of their friends gathered on Tuesday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Canning, west of Morrisburg, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Laurin, whose marriage took place renectly.

Dancing and card games were engaged in during the evening, with music being supplied by Messrs. Carl Whitteker and Fred Morrel.

About 10 o'clock, the bride and groom were called to the centre of the floor, where an address was read by Mr. Arthur Casselman, and the young couple were presented with a large number of beautiful gifts.

On behalf of his wife and himself, the groom replied briefly, thanking those present for their generosity and good wishes, and the large crowd present sang "For They are Jolly Good Fellows." Delicious refreshments were served, and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Local Woman's Nephew Killed in England

Mrs. Percy J. Reddick has received word of the death in England of her nephew Cadet Kenneth Pyper, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Pyper, of Westmount P.Q. Although full details have not yet been received, Cadet Pyper's death is believed to have been due to a road accident. He was born in Westmount, P.Q., on February 22nd, 1917, and was educated at Westmount High School, and Bishop's College. He held the rank of Platoon Sergeant-Major, and left Canada with a Montreal regiment last December.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON VIII

GOSPEL MESSAGE.—Luke 8. ATTITUDES TOWARDS THE PRINTED TEXT, Luke 8: 4-15

GOLDEN TEXT.—Take heed therefore how ye hear. Luke 8: 18.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time. — All the events of this chapter occurred in the autumn of A.D. 28.

Place. — The preaching and teaching ministry of Christ here recorded occurred at the Sea of Galilee; the incident pertaining to the coming of his mother and brethren is to be located somewhere in Galilee itself; Gadara was on the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee; the miracle of healing and of raising the daughter of Jairus occurred in the city of Capernaum, at the north end of the Sea of Galilee.

From this lesson we should derive a deeper and more solemn conception and sanctity of human life, and the supreme importance of diligently giving heed to the word of God, and then being continually exercised to see that his word, once lodged in our hearts, is never crowded out by the things of this world, things that can so easily choke one's spiritual life and bring about a dryness of soul, a restlessness and dissatisfaction with life.

In this chapter we have one of the most charming pictures of the private life of our Lord and his disciples to be found in any of the Gospel records.

Christ's Ministry of Teaching

The inexhaustible parable of the Sower is also found, with some variations in Matt. 13 and Mark 4. Luke 8: 4. And when a great multitude came together, and they of every city resorted unto him, he spake by a parable; (a parable might be defined as an earthly story with a heavenly meaning). 5. The sower went forth to sow his seed; and as he sowed, some fell by the wayside: and it was trodden under foot, and the birds of the heaven devoured it. 6. And other fell on the rock; and as soon as it grew, it withered away, because it had no moisture. 7. And other fell amidst the thorns; and the thorns grew with it, and choked it. 8. And other fell into the good ground, and grew, and brought forth fruit a hundred fold. As he said these things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear. As far as we can determine, the seed in all four cases was of the same quality; the different consequences of sowing in four different places resulted from the different influences exerted upon the seed when sown.

The Seed Is the Word

9. And his disciples asked him what this parable might be. 10. And he said, Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God: but to the rest in parables; that seeing they may not see, and hearing they may not understand. Our Lord here means that many of his hearers are not either perceiving or understanding, although they are seeing his deeds and words. 11. Now the parable is this: The seed is the word of God. While all words, even of men, which are better than mere words, are as seeds, able to take root in their minds and hearts who hear them, have germs in them which only unfold by degrees; how eminently must this be true of the words of God. The seed of the word wholly transforms and renews when it falls on receptive ground. 12. And those by the way side are they that have heard; then cometh the devil, and taketh away the word from their heart, that they may not believe and be saved. The ears have let the word in, but before it can accomplish its work in the hearts of these hearers it is taken away by the birds of doubt. Not to believe, not to trust the word after having heard it, separates a man from all its saving power, leaves the sinner lost, more hopelessly than before.

Poor and Good Ground

13. And those on the rock are they who, when they have heard, receive the word with joy; and these have no root, who for a while belive, and in time of temptation fall away. These here spoken of are those who stand off, lose interest, stop coming to church, drop out of sight. The "season of trial" becomes a season of temptation for these superficial, emotional people. 14. And that which fell among the thorns, these are they that have heard, and as they go on their way they are choked with cares and riches and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection. The man represented here has not made clean work of his religion. He has received the good seed, but has forgotten something has to be grubbed up and cast out as well as something to be taken in, if he would grow the fair fruits of Christian character. He probably has cut down the thorns, but has left their roots or seeds where they were. He has not turned the world out of his heart. This man keeps up his Christian name to the end; but his real spiritual life has long ago been suffocated by the other growth.

15. And that in the good ground, these are such as in an honest and good heart, having heard the word, hold it fast, and bring forth fruit with patience. The fruitful hearer must not only bring an honest and good heart; he must keep the word. Again it is not the amount of knowledge you have, but the use you put it to; it is not the number of good sayings you have heard and can repeat that will profit you, but the place in your heart you have given them, and the place in the actions of your daily life.

Gold From Ocean

Gold has occasionally been extracted from the sands on the seashores of New South Wales and Queensland. It is supposed that the metal was contained in submerged rocks on the coast, which have been broken by the violent action of waves and ultimately deposited in its present form among the sand.

Platinum and uranium have also been obtained from the same source.

Farm Notes . . .

450,000 Farmers In Co-Operatives

There are almost 450,000 members or shareholders in farmers' co-operative companies in Canada. In 1938-39, the total business of these organizations was over 200 million dollars according to information compiled by the Economics Division, Marketing Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Farmer co-operatives thus occupy a very important part in Canadian business.

But not only are there a great many co-operatives—there are a great many different kinds. Most people are aware of the marketing co-operatives in fruit and vegetables, live stock, wheat and dairy products, but other associations exist across the country and which are perhaps not so well-known.

Run Own Packing Plant

At Barrie, in Ontario, farmers own and operate a co-operative packing plant. This group, organized in 1929, now has over 1,200 shareholders and in some years has packed and sold over a million dollars worth of live stock and poultry products.

The Maritime Provinces are well advanced in co-operative activity. Farmer-fishermen along the south shore of Guysboro County in Nova Scotia own a canning factory. During the lobster season, the plant is used to can sea-food and in other seasons to can small fruits. Tor Bay canned blueberries are a product of this co-operative.

Daylight Plan Shows Saving

Officials of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission recently estimated that the province would save more than 100,000 horsepower if the federal government extends daylight saving throughout the winter.

The estimated saving for October was placed at 20,000 horsepower.

AROUND THE DIAL

One of the better war dramas heard over the air today is offered by the CBC network on Thursday nights at 8.30 when the stirring piece — They Shall Not Pass — is presented. This drama from the pen of William Strange is a worthwhile contribution to the world's applause for British valor—and is a program that you will not want to miss.

Radio is certainly wonderful! Because of the world's system of time zones—some folks heard the results of the November fifth United States elections on November fourth! Quick Watson! The net and two strong guards.

Folks in this part of Ontario will be glad to know that Information Please — the best quizz show on the air — will be heard in the future over WBEN on Friday evenings at 8.30 (standard). Due to changes in stations carrying this show during the current season Ontario folks have been having trouble picking up the program of Clifton Fadiman, John Kieran, F. P. Adams and the other bright minds.

Cecil B. DeMille's Radio Theatre, heard from CFRB on Monday nights at ten, is one of the best 60-minute programs on the radio schedules. Top notch plays done by stars of the stage and screen lift Radio Theatre above the crowd — and give the public first rank entertainment.

Talk along the radio grapevine is that Bing Crosby is trying to buy the Boston Red Sox baseball team.

The Chicago Opera Company will be heard over the Mutual chain — WOR-WLW-WGR — each Monday night at 11.15 (standard) in a series that will include Pagliacci, La Traviata, Lucia de Lammermoor, Die Walkure and Aida. The capable opera stars that will be heard in these programs are among the best in operatic work today.

Recordmended: The Mills Brothers are recording again and if you like smooth, sweet, zingy harmony with that touch of "oomph" that makes these boys distinctive from anything on the air, you'll like their new waxings. If we sound over-enthusiastic, forgive us; we're crazy about those Mills Brothers dics . . . Bunny Berigan has dipped into the files and come out with an arrangement of "Ain't She Sweet" that must be classed as a Joyfer (Short for "Thing of Beauty and a Joy for ever").

"BRITAIN WILL SURVIVE" — PADEREWSKI

"Britain will survive. But if Britain dies so dies America," Jan Ignace Paderewski, greatest of all pianists and one-time president of Poland, told members of the press who were on hand to greet him as he arrived in New York as a refugee on his 80th birthday. On hand to greet Paderewski was Anthony Biddle, U.S. ambassador to Poland.

Hunter, Aged 12, Shoots His Deer

Peterboro, Ont., Nimrods predict 12 year-old Harold Legrow of that city will grow up to be quite a hunter.

He took part in a deer hunt this month for the first time and shot a doe through the neck as the animal raced for safety. The doe ran 100 yards after being shot, then toppled over dead.

The feat took place in the Madoc district and just to add an extra bit of dash — Harold was armed only with a .22 calibre rifle and not with a heavier deer-hunting rifle as carried by his older companions.

POLICY ON NEWSPRINT FAVORS CHICAGO TRIBUNE PAPER MILL

While the question is important as to how, and when, the Abitibi paper company is to be reorganized, another question of great public interest in Ontario and Quebec is whether or not the governments of those two provinces will continue exemptions from the rule calling for spreading of production equally among all the paper mills in the two provinces.

This spreading of production, or "pro-ration" was instituted by government authority a couple of years ago in order that every mill town would have some business, instead of a few being busy and a number being shut down entirely. The justification for government interference in this business is that the raw material of the paper mills is derived almost entirely from crown lands leased to the paper companies. Before pro-ration, a suicidal sales policy in the industry was denuding the forests without adequate return to any public or private interest concerned.

The industry has benefited from pro-ration, according to most authorities, but a grave weakness in the policy is that the Ontario government countenances certain exemptions. Most people would say that pro-ration should apply to all factors in the industry.

Exemption was initially claimed by the Ontario Paper Company, which is owned outright by the Chicago Tribune. The excuse for the exemption claim is that the entire output of the Ontario Paper Company goes to the Chicago Tribune and its affiliated New York News. Just what this has to do with spreading employment among the mill towns of the two provinces will be obscure to most observers.

But the Tribune's exemption became a fact. And with this exemption in force, certain other mills have had fairly good excuses not to comply with the government's order.

Thus the granting of one exemption has in some degree nullified a government policy which was designed to help employees of paper mills in towns remote from communities where other work would be normally obtainable.

HAVE YOU HEARD?

The pompous person stalked into the office and demanded to see the manager.

"I'm sorry, sir, but he's not here," replied the secretary. "Is there anything I can do?"

"No," snapped the stranger. "I never have my dealings with underlings. I'll wait until the manager returns."

"Very well, take a seat," said the secretary as she continued with her work.

As the time passed the man grew more impatient.

"How much longer do you think he will be?" the stranger demanded.

"About two weeks," was the reply. "He's on a vacation."

Passenger: "Fish Hook — that's an odd name for a station! Why do they call it that?"

Conductor: "Because it's the end of the line."

Elderly Aunt, to her nephew, a poor preacher. "James, why did you enter the ministry?"

"Because I was called," he answered.

"James," said the old lady anxiously, as she looked up from wiping her spectacles, "are you sure it wasn't some other noise you heard?"

The prodigal wrote for paternal help, winding up with the confession that he was obliged to sleep in a disused cowshed.

Back came a postcard from the father: "Dear Oswald, is there room for two?"

The vacuum cleaner man, having finished his demonstration, turned with a beaming smile and showed the housewife the amount of debris which had been extracted.

"Oh, my goodness, isn't that awful," said the woman. "I'll have to get rid of that carpet and put down linoleum."

"I'm glad to meet a man who started at the bottom and worked his way up. Tell me, how did you begin?

"I was a bootblack and now I'm a hairdresser."

Modern Etiquette

BY ROBERTA LEE

1. When you have received a valuable gift from a friend, sent by mail, and it arrives in a badly damaged condition, what should you do?

2. What are a few acknowledgments of an introduction that are forbidden by social usage?

3. When should a guest who has finished eating place his napkin on the table?

4. Isn't it a mistake for a person in company to be impulsive in what he says, always "speaking his mind" as he calls it without considering its effect?

5. When a young woman is seated at the table of a public diningroom and another woman stops to chat for a minute, should the young woman rise?

6. Is "Yours very truly" an appropriate close for a friendly letter?

Answers

1. Take it up with the post office at once and try to get it replaced. Thank your friend and say nothing about the damage. 2. "Pleased to meet you," "Delighted to know you," "Charmed, I am sure," or any other extravagrant phrase. "How do you do" is the accepted form. 3. Not until his hostess has placed hers there. 4. Yes, it is a fault that should be corrected. The old proverb says, "A wise man reflects before he speaks, and then reflects on what he has uttered." 5. Not unless the woman who stops is elderly. 6. No. "Yours very truly" is a formal close, used in business.

Lost Element Found

What he claims to be the last of the world's missing known elements completing the list of ninety-two which science has been trying to fill in since 1789, has been discovered by a Swiss radiologist, Dr. Walter Minder, of the Radium Institute in Berne. He calls it Helvetium, and says he isolated the element by radium disintegration, securing a speck no bigger than one 10,000th of a milligram.

"The quantity so far," he admitted, "is too small to make practical experiments on possible uses of the new element," but he suggests that its properties would perhaps be discovered first in the U.S.A., because larger amounts of radium are available there.

HEALTH TOPICS

Public Health Can Shape A Nation

Public health has become a dominating factor in determining the destiny of the individual and the nation, and it is logical that in the midst of war, attention should be directed on the ehaelth conditions of the civil population, Dr. Grant Fleming of Montreal declared in a recent address.

Reviewing the progress in the control, of smallpox, scurvy, cholera and similar diseases which by persistent work had been rendered almost unknown in Canada, Dr. Fleming urged that similar persistence be applied to such present day scourges as tuberculosis.

Go After Tuberculosis

"Infant mortality," he said, "quoting Sir Arthur Newsholme," is the most sensitive index we possess of social welfare." Out of 229,000 babies born alive in Canada in 1939, 13,900 did not live to see their first birthday and of this numbere, 7,000 did not survive for one month. In addition, he said, there had been 6,000 stillbirths and 967 mothers' lives were lost in childbirth.

These figures, he said, could be interpreted in two ways, as an encouraging improvement over conditions of former days, or as an impetus for action to avoid needless waste of life. Without any question," ho added, "Canada can save the lives of 500 mothers and of at least 6,000 babies.

Should Be No Typhoid

"In 1939 we had 109 typhoid fever deaths in this province, which would indicate an incidence of over 1,000 cases, not one of which should have occurred."

Milk is the most important single of food used in the home, Dr. Fleming continued, and when contaminated is "as dangerous to introduce into the family as a live bomb. Nevertheless, it is true that raw milk, which is always potentially dangerous, is regularly used by many people who flatter themselves that they are intelligent."

Saves Up Pennies For Wedding Day

Where there's a will, there's a way. A would-be bridegroom from out-of-town saved his pennies, turned up at the office of Miss M. D. Stewart, Sarnia, Ont., city clerk, accompanied by his bride-to-be, and planked down 500 of them to get his marriage license.

Our Sturgeon Produce Caviar

Selling For $1 a Pound, It Will Help Swell Canada's War Coffers

Even the sturgeon in Canada's lakes and rivers have a place in the war effort and this year they will be responsible for purchase of at least a piece of a warplane. In other words and according to fisneries department experts, Canada has a good market for caviar in the United States.

If Ontario production is up as production is reported to be in Manitoba, the Dominion will get at least $7,000 in United States money to use for war buying. Caviar usually sells for $1 a lb. and this year prices are rising.

Two factors enter into this tasty situation. First there are the prospects of a shortage for caviareaters in the U.S. because the war has interfered with importations from Russia. Second, Manitoba expects to ship to the United States this year more than 2,400 pounds of the delectable little fish eggs, 900 pounds more than last year. Last year Manitoba shipped 1,512 pounds and Ontario sent 4,870 pounds to the United States. These two provinces are the big Canadian producers.

Curves and Nerves

"Pick 'em fat, boys," advises a man who claims to know. "It's a lot easier to live with 200 pounds of curves than with 100 pounds of nerves."

How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I render fabrics fire-proof?

A. Soak in a solution of one pound ammonium phosphate to one gallon of cold water. Or add one ounce of alum or sal ammoniac to the last rinsing water, or to the starch used for wash fabrics. This will prevent the cloth from bursting into flame, although it may smoulder.

Q. How can I make a china cement?

A. Stir freshly-slaked lime into the white of an egg until it becomes the consistency of paste. Apply to the edges of broken china and let dry for at least three days. This cement can also be used on marble and glass.

Q. How can I remove stains from light - colored stockings, made from dark shoes?

A. Add a tablespoon of borax to the water in which the stockings are washed. Put the borax into the suds and let the stockings soak for an hour before washing in the usual way. Rinse well.

Q. How can I make a good household glue?

A. A good household glue that will stick paper or cloth to metal, wood, or glass, and leave no stain; can be made as follows: Dissolve 1 tablespoonful of ordinary gelatine in 2 to 2½ tablepoonfuls of boiling water. Boil a few seconds and then add a little sugar while still hot.

Q. How can I remove pencil marks from white woodwork?

A. These marks can be easily removed by rubbing them with a piece of cut lemon, and then with whiting on a damp cloth.

Here's How The Big Ones Bite on Pacific Coast

PRINCES OF ASSININITY

The Princes of assininity who are at the head of the Ontario Department of Highways, were again caught asleep at the switch by last weeks wintry storm.

Instead of having the preparatory work done for the winter motorist, of having their snow fences placed, and their crews engaged, this department has been laying off an increasing number of the highway crew personnel all fall. The result was just what might be expected. Death and injury to many Ontario motorists, not to mention thousands and thousands of dollars damage to their property.

Up in the Niagara peninsula, where this observer happened to be motoring, the famous Queen Elizabeth Way, Ontario's super-highway where an accident should be unheard of, the right-of-way was dotted with wrecked cars and trucks.

This week, Premier Hepburn went to Ottawa to a Liberal rally and told the good people there that Ontario's revenues now exceeded her ordinary and capital expenditures combined, that the province had, in six months, cut the Provincial debt by 2 million dollars. A fine record, to be sure. But Premier Hepburn did not add that this saving had been effected, at least in part, by cutting down on the highway crews, and overworking the few remaining on the employed list; he did not state that as a result of this wonderful record in money-saving, several Ontario residents had been killed last week. Nor have we heard of any men from the Department of Highways being charged with criminal negligence as a result of these deaths. But just let the poor motorist make a slip, even only a mistake in judgment, and Mitch's Attorney General will be right on his neck with a manslaughter charge.

A great many of the accidents which occurred after last week's storm could be traced definitely to one cause: the decided lack of foresight (we prefer to call it that, rather than criminal recklessness) of the Department of Highways. Where we were travelling, there was not one bit of sand put on the highways, there were no drift fences up, there were no snow plows in sight. The motorist simply had to take his life in his own hands when he ventured on the highway.

That loud talk at Ottawa about the two million cut in Ontario's debt reminds one of the pretty speeches made before the last Provincial election, when Hepburn promised to reduce the automobile fee by five dollars. He did just that, and then turned around and raised the gasoline tax to such an extent that it made the $5 saving on the license look pretty small. If Premier Hepburn is coming to the Country next year, and the present tone of his speeches would indicate that he is, he would be well advised to get to work at once on some of his tricky new ideas for saving the province money. His only difficulty may be that he has already sprung all the fantastic brain storms of which even he is capable on a trusting public. He may soon run out of ideas.

THE SPY'S ASSISTANT

One of our readers in Williamsburg has asked us to reproduce the following letter which was clipped from the Ottawa Citizen. We are glad to reprint the letter, and might add that we heartily endorse the opinions which it expresses.

Editor, Citizen: The London (England) Daily Herald and its reporter will scarcely be open to the charge of being biased by fanatical temperance views. The article by its reporter from "Somewhere in Berkshire" which appeared in that paper a little while ago, reveals the risks that are inescapable so long as public drinking houses are tolerated under war conditions.

Said the reporter:

If I had been a spy I would have earned Hitler's best thanks "for services rendered" today.

Without trying to cross-question, I learned military secrets in a Berkshire town which would be most useful to the enemy.

It was easy. I merely went into public houses and a hotel, bought beer and listened. Out of the mouths of officers and men in the public-houses came information which, linked together, would have told a spy lots of things he wanted to know.

These are some of the facts learned:

How many tanks and lorries were congregated in this district;

The number of thousands of men stationed in a certain area.

Number of companies of men who attended church parade at a certain center today;

Names of two ports from which troops were embarked from this area for France;

Complaints have been made in London that an enemy agent could get valuable information by touring West End clubs and listening to conversation. But it is a small town like this that would be a spy's delight. Tongues are loosened daily to spread knowledge of how many men are stationed in the area, how many are already in France, and how many local houses have been commandeered for officers and men. In the hotel I visited, officers were lunching. Pretty blondes and less attractive civilians talked to some of them. Round the walls were eleven notices warning the officers that a few words might reveal to an intelligence agent all that he wanted to know. They might as well not have been there.

This risk is equally present in Canada, and especially so when our Liquor Control Board approves the establishment of a beer room in the vicinity of a plant engaged in making explosives.—A. I. IRWIN, Toronto, Ont., Nov. 9, 1940.

'N ALBAIN'

You takea thesa fella, ol' Mussolin'
Anod lo war he'sa try to starta begin;
So all he sa papers growl like a geese,
To try to starta fight witha poor little Greece
Greece she say notting---notting at all,
But stand like a cat witha back to the wall,
And Mussolin' think she'sa very bad scare'
'Cause he an' 'dolph so very great prepare',
So he'sa start with his tank and his plane,
From place he'sa stole, he's calla Albain'.
Very soon he'sa sorry he'sa tryin',
For instead of a cat he'sa tackle a lion
Who'sa come down the hills with a ugly roar;
Push Mussolin' back where he wish he stay before.
And England help Greece with plane an' ship an' shell,
An' make Mussolin's headache worser as hell;
He'sa likea go back home in fulla retreat,
But he'sa no can finda his hidden fleet.

THE GALLANT JERVIS BAY

Thirty-eight ships in convoy
Steamed for England's shore,
Bringing a dauntless nation
Food and the needs of war;
Out on the broad Atlantic,
Grouped at the close of day,
Thirty-eight ships in convoy
And their escort Jervis Bay.

Only a merchant cruiser
With little of armour and guns,
But flying the flag of the Navy
And manned by Britain's sons;
Keeping in line the convoy,
Marshalling ships that stray,
While scanning the deep for U-boats
Was the job of the Jervis Bay.

But suddenly o'er the horizon
Steaming at frenzied clip,
Guns all ablaze in an instant,
Loomed a great Hun battleship;
Plowing the seas towards them,
Counting as easy prey
Thirty-eight ships in convoy
And the little Jervis Bay.

Away from the line turned the escort,
Drawing the enemy's fire,
Signalling ships to scatter
As she belched the smoke-screen higher.
Out-manned, out-ranged and outarmoured,
Well knowing the price she would pay,
Into the path of the raider
Steamed H.M.S. Jervis Bay.

Giving herself for the convoy
As she for the Nazi sped,
Till her burning decks were shattered
And strewn with her maimed and dead.
Till the guns that had barked defiance
And her bridge were shot away---
And the icy waves closed over
The gallant Jervis Bay.

Thirty-odd ships unloading,
Safe by Britain's shore,
Food for a dauntless nation,
Food and the needs of war.
Always there'll be an England
While yet she has sons to play
The part of the British Navy
And the glorious Jervis Bay.

1941 MOTOR VEHICLE PERMITS AND DRIVERS' LICENSES ARE NOW AVAILABLE

Secure Yours Early and Avoid the Usual Last Minute Rush

There has been no increase in the fees for permits and licenses. The fees charged in Ontario are still lower than in any other province of Canada or in the neighbouring states.

Table of comparison of fees in Ontario and two neighbouring provinces and states for three popular makes of passenger cars:

CAR	ONTARIO	QUEBEC	MANITOBA	NEW YORK	MICHIGAN
No. 1—4 cyl.	$ 2.00	$17.80	$14.00	$12.00	$ 8.40
No. 2—6 cyl.	7.00	22.00	16.50	15.00	10.50
No. 3—8 cyl.	10.00	21.30	16.50	14.50	10.15

Ontario's highway system is the largest in the Dominion, and for the very reasonable fees, indicated above, a great highway system comprising over 20,000 miles is maintained and made available to the motorists of Ontario and visitors from other parts of America.

The revenue collected from motorists by way of registration and license fees and the gasoline tax has made possible the construction and maintenance of this great system of highways.

For the convenience of motorists, permits and licenses are issued through the offices of 189 agents located throughout the Province.

Toronto, Nov. 18, 1940.

T. B. McQUESTEN,
Minister of Highways.

« « THE DISGUISES OF THE BRAVE » »

A sermon preached at the Remembrance Day Service held in Knox Presbyterian Church on Sunday, November 10, 1940, by the minister, the Rev. Harrison L. Lamond and printed by request.

Text: "The people looked, and behold, he had sackcloth within upon his flesh."—11 Kings VI, 30.

Brethern, how great are earth's heroisms. They take their just place among the finest things of the race. Humanity does not live by bread alone, but by wonder, awe, and homage. These are its treasures which moth and rust do not corrupt nor theives break through and steal. The brave, the courageous, the undaunted —to them we dip our flags, for them we build our halls of fame. Even here in our church services we thank God for the faithful souls who have blessed the world, whose lives shine as the light.

There are two great heroisms in the world. There is first of all the outward bravery that is everywhere seen of men. It walks in the light of day. The eyes of its fellowmen are upon it. And just because it is steadily watched, it dare not fail in its high mission. The world has come to expect that splendid fortitude, and it girds itself to meet that faith. It may not sleep at the watch It must no fail at its appointed post All hail to such bravery! We tonight as a congregation pay tribute to such mem ories

The desire for fame we may agree with Milton, is the last infirmity of noble minds,—but it is more, it is a mighty incentive with all. Look at the athletes [illegible] to themselves under that sharp spur! Watch how in some vast stadium a few boys are turned into supermen, putting every ounce into one supreme attempt. They are whipped to their utmost effort by the frenzied thousands calling down to them

The acclaim of the world will lift soldiers to unguessed heights. Napoleon draws up his battalions at the post of the pyramids, "Forty centuries, he cries, are looking down upon you!, and they whirl away to splendid battle At trafalgar, Nelson cries out the inspiring words: "England expects every man to do his duty," and superbly did those British tars respond. During the Crimean war, into the Valley of Death, into the mouth of hell, rode the six hundred—rode and rode while all the world wondered.

Even in a more personal sense—in the gallant fight for health—human applause is there to help. Poor Henley challenges the forces of fate to do their worst He defies them to break his undaunted spirit, Listen to his words:

"Out of the night that covers me,
Black as the pit from pole to pole,
I thank whatever Gods may be,
For my unconquenable soul..
Is that not inviting the world to gaze at the unequal combat, and before the eyes of watching humanity does he not gird himself anew to the fearful fray.

Religion, too, has not been beyond the same high motive. St. Paul must fight the good fight and finish his course, bitter as it may be, lest his failure work ruin in all the flock. Look at him! An ambassador in bonds, led into the Eternal City. For him the prayers of the church ascend. To him the eyes of the Christians turn. Recall his words, "For I think God hath set forth as the apostles last of all as men doomed to death, for we are made a spectacle with the world, both to angels and men'

Likewise the martyrs felt that they belonged to a wider world and to coming time Jerome of Prague in his final hour of agony cries out upon his tormentors "After a hundred years I summon you." Latimer calls to his fellow bishop that day in Oxford when the crackling flames begin to mount around them, '.Be of good cheer, Ridley, and play the man. We shall this day light up by God's grace such a candle in England as I trust will never be put out."

Truly, brethern, such heroism does not live for itself alone. It is set for the salvation of others, and for their sakes it consecrates itself.

"Awake my soul, stretch every nerve,
And press with vigor on..
A crowd of witness around
Hold thee in full survey,
Forget the steps already trod
And onward urge thy way!"

To that type of heroism we tonight pay homage—to all great men and women in all generations, saints, apostles, martyrs, gallant leaders in every walk of life and all such whose names rank high upon our Rolls of Honor, and especially for those more closely known to ourselves who in the last war and in this present conflict have won renown

But there is another company of whom I wish to speak. It is the company of those who are brave with a finer courage: the indomitable souls who are uncrowned, unhonored, and unsung They tread the universe lone. Their path lies within the shadow. They walk a solitary way. Theirs is the finer courage for it it all unseen It is finer and higher, harder nd holier. As they pass among us e often see the royal robe and account them the favorites of heaven. would astound us to discover that neath that royal robe there was kcloth within upon their flesh.

Here are the rank and file, the lain men and women who wrestle through the night alone and in silence with their mysterious antagonist —that hidden enemy known but to themselves and to their God. No ringing note of encouragement is theirs, no echo of a cheer. They wage their desperate fight, and no cloud of witnesses look on

Let me speak in a more personal view. It may be an ill-advised marriage. Were it a beautiful wedded life, the world would rise up to condole with the lonely partner, when the inevitable hour of parting has come. When Robert Browning lost Elizabeth Barrett after fifteen years, his anguish was heartbreaking, but it was a high and sacramental thing. When Ramsay MacDonald lost his brave and cultured wife, the light of his life went out. These rare and radiant women the world has honoured, and nobly did it bring its sympathy to the stricken husbands. Verily the sackcloth covered these mourning men as a mantle.

But the hidden sackcloth! Who was to condole with poor Abraham Lincoln not because he had lost his wife, but because she daily bowed his face in anguish to the dust? "If what I feel were divided to the whole human race", he had said, "there would not be a happy face on earth", and his marriage but increased his woe. His was the greater grief because he must give no sign. Here is a grief that saps the mind. Here one walks within the veil. Here one has sackcloth within upon his flesh, while he holds his head high with the disguises of the brave

In this Bible, I read of a householder, whose ample farm swept in wide acres and rich fields. A passerby would see its beauty and its bounty. He would envy the rich man his wealth, the son who was ever with him, and the servants who had bread enough and to spare. All this lay open to the view of the passer-by, just as open to his view as the robe that hung upon the householder's shoulders. But what he might not see was the sackcloth upon the flesh, the heart within breaking over another son who was even then in a far country, wasting himself upon the harlots and the swine.

Look, too how often the most devastating illnesses sometimes make no sign.. Here is one with a high blood pressure that may leave one a living ruin; or a leaking heart, that none can see, that will be an hourly menace, with just a hand's breadth between a man and death. The disguises of the Brave.

What unseen heroisms financial ruin have produced If all roofs were off, what disguises of the brave would see the light of day! A father eats but two thin meals a day, and smiles as his wife looks anxiously into his wan face. "I am not very hungry", he says, "you know I am not morking." Here is another who even this coming Christmas will hang his wreath of green upon his desolate home, sending its message of cheer to all who go down the street, and never a word about the clouds of loneliness and fear within his own heart. For the passer-by, the smile. the greeting; for himself, the sackcloth within upon his flesh.

Friends none are immune. Our Lord Himself knew that bitter inward pain "His brethren did not believe on Him," and the estrangement in that home must have been a constant grief. From the Cross he confided His anguished mother not to one of His brethren, for none were there, but to the beloved disciple. He had been wearing a seamless robe, the gift of some grateful heart; but His brethern did not believe in Him, and there was sackcloth upon His flesh.

The disguises of the brave! All Honor to them! They continue thier office of secrecy till some high emergency tears them aside, and there for the first time do the people look, and behold there is sackcloth within upon the flesh. With more than bravery have God's elect walked their appointed way. Victoriously, radiantly, have these unsung heroes in all generations borne their unseen crosses with a smile.

"They call me strong because my tears I shed where none can see,
Because I smile, tell merry tales, and win the crowd to me.
They call me strong because I laugh to ease an aching heart,
Because I keep the sweet side out and hide the bitter part."

What revelations shall heaven have to show! Then shall the redeemed see the land that stretcheth afar They shall see a rainbow about the throne. They shall see the King in His beauty. But they shall see more. They shall see the uncrowned saints in their beauty! The Victoria Cross of that land shall be given to those that never took a salute. Lowly and unnoticed have they been, but cherubin and seraphin shall bow down before them, and crown them with many crowns. The King Himself shall lay aside for them the disguises of brave. To them will be given a garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness. No longer with dark sackcloth within, they shall walk with Him in white, for they are worthy. For all such we tonight thank God and hallow their memory.

Saving Ontario's Natural Resources

G. C. TONER,
Ontario Federation of Anglers
(NO. 17)

ONE TREE PER ACRE

The Royal Society of Canada has set up a committee to survey the resources of the country, and as I wrote last week, the first report of the committee has been made by Dr. J. J. O'Neill of McGill University. Dr. O'Neill took for his subject the exhaustion of our minerals and the necessity of providing jobs for the people who will be thrown out out of work by this eventuality, suggesting that a comprehensive plan be adopted to deal with this, after study of the resources has shown the best methods.

The Clay Belt

Agriculture cannot replace mining in our northern areas for much of the soil is useless and the severe climate is a handicap. The Clay Belt of the central north is about 700 miles long and about 60 miles wider. This is good agricultural land but new crops that will not be harmed by early and late frosts must be found and introduced. Even so, considering the whole north it must be realized that the Clay Belt is just a small section of a great sterile desert as far as agriculture is concerned.

It has been estimated that nearly one quarter of Canada is covered by forest growth and that one quarter of this (150,000,000 acres) bears saw timber; the balance being young growth or trees only suitable for wood pulp or firewook. Two thirds of the saw timber is in British Columbia so that the rest of Canada has, on the average, one tree per acre suitable for timber. Over most of the mining district pulp wood is the only forest product.

Lake Fisheries

Canada has 186,000 square miles of fresh water lakes, other than the Great Lakes, in its interior. Means should be found to utilize the fisheries of these lakes. Fish grow more slowly in the north and it is an easy matter to delete such waters. Before exploitation goes too far we should know how many fish can be taken from a lake in a given period without harming the stock.

These are only a few ideas on a vital subject. Dr. O'Neill was speaking to the geologists but his address should be known to every conservationist.

A divorce was granted in New York State to a woman because her husband chewed glass and razor-blades to upset her. He had been a "circus freak."

Make Two Pounds Butter From One

To each quarter pound of butter allow a quarter pint of milk (the creamier the better). Warm a large mixing bowl, cut up the butter and allow it to get soft, but not "runny." Now warm the milk slightly (don't make it hot) and with a whisk beat the butter until it is quite smooth and creamy and free from lumps. Gradually beat in the milk, creaming each lot in before adding more. Lastly add a little extra salt. Pour the mixture into a dish and leave in as cold a place as possible, until quite set.

This butter is just a little softer than ordinary butter, so keep it as cold as you can. You will not be able to distinguish it from ordinary butter by taste.

CENSORSHIP "JOKE"

One of the biggest jokes of the year is the way in which United States newspapermen who recently toured Eastern Canada are telling their readers all about Halifax and what goes on there, whereas newspapers in Canada, by order of the censor, can only refer to it as an "Eastern Canadian port."

MIDWAY NOT NEEDED

The International Plowing Match at St. Thomas not only demonstrated the prowess of plowmen but it proved to a great many men who are interested in rural fairs that you can have competition without amusements. In recent years fair boards have had the idea that it was necessary to provide midways and other paid amusements for the patrons. Yet the plowing matches attracted some of the greatest crowds to attend any competitive event in the province and there was not one game of chance, no fancy rides and no barkers or sideshows in evidence.

"Big Chief Blanket Pin" is the name earned by one young London Boy Scout from the simple but thoughtful service rendered by him in a certain big sleeping shelter during German air raids. "See Canada Now" New Slogan Idea

"See Canada Now," is the slogan proposed for Canada's 1941 tourist promotion campaign in the United States by Howard A. Fox, of Niagara Falls, president of the Ontario Hotel Association.

If Canadian travel agencies, railways, oil companies, hotels and resorts got behind such a campaign, a tourist trade of $500,000,000 could be developed for 1941, Mr. Fox said last week.

That was equivalent to one-third of the nation's war budget.

THE WAR-WEEK—Commentary on Current Events

'Quake, Italian Defeats Queer Germany's Plans

Bad news came to Adolf Hitler's ears last week, some of the most discouraging since he failed in his plans to subjugate Britain by mass air attack. The reported collapse of a full-fledged Italian offensive against Greece, the sinking by the British fleet air arm of half of Italy's capital ships, the earthquake in Rumania, meant that the big Axis drive to gain control of the eastern Mediterranean was stalling . . . and that, in the meantime with German-conquered peoples growing restive and U. S. aid to Britain increasing daily, a hundred things could happen to spoil forever any chances of Axis dreams coming true.

Balance In the Balance

Although the military situation all over the world remained comparatively stable during the week, diplomatic activity on all fronts reached the frenzied stage. No one knew what might come out of the German-Soviet talks in Berlin; anxious was the kibitzing done by other powers (Britain, U. S., China, Turkey) who feared that Russia might join the Axis' "new world order" and upset the balance against them.

Japan Awaits Outcome

In the Far East Japan awaited the outcome of the Hitler-Molotov conversations before launching a new push into Indo-China. (Shanghai dispatches said there were indications that the Japs were preparing for a new adventure, possibly an attempt to take the Netherlands East Indies). Commenting editorially on Molotov's visit to Berlin, the Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri said that further "Russian-German co-operation inevitably would weaken the British-dominated "old order," and that Japan was driving for the same goal in the Orient.

Can Depend On U. S.

Embattled Britain fought on bravely. The Ministry of Home Security announced that 6334 civilians had been killed and 8659 injured in October air raids on Britain. Even as this news became public it was admitted in London that the submarine was definitely replacing the bombing plane as a primary menace, and that loss of shipping, loss of lives in the merchant marine might soon constitute the war's greatest problem.

But Britons knew by last week that they could rely absolutely on the United States of America. Half the United States' war material output was already pledged in behalf of Britain — Mr. Roosevelt had lost not a minute after the elections in making himself clear. Britain could expect ships next, then credits, it was believed. The red-hot question in the U. S. was coming to be: Shall we get into the war, or stay out? But in many quarters the view was held that America was really in already . . . without knowing it. . . War had only to be declared!

Canada's Decisive Role

In the Dominion, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the people of Canada of the staggering cost they must pay for the war — our share was running at the rate of one billion dollars a year in October, he said — and informed the country bluntly there were darker days ahead. The Dominion of Canada, he declared, would one day play the decisive role in the British Empire's war against aggression.

Sidelights On Main Issues

BRITAIN: Last week Britain sent all available troops to the Near East . . . the Government advanced $25,000,000 to the Greeks . . . reports indicated the Government of Eire had refused to give Britain the use of naval bases on the Irish coast . . . the London News Chronicle said that Lord Halifax, British foreign secretary, might soon resign and be succeeded by Anthony Eden, secretary of war . . .

* * *

FRANCE: Rumors had General Maxime Weygand deserting the Vichy Government and helping to unite French colonial forces against the home government . . . Meantime General DeGaulle's "Free Frenchmen" captured Libreville, chief port of Gabon in French equatorial Africa . . . Vice-Premier Pierre Laval announced to the French nation that peace negotiations between defeated France and victorious Germany would be postponed until the end of the war . .

* * *

RUSSIA: Moscow district Soviet declared for continued Russian neutrality and armed vigilance, sentiments endorsed by President Michael Kalinin of the Supreme Soviet Presidium . . . Defense Commissar Timoshenko told the Red Army to display the "maximum vigilance in an exceptionally alarming international situation" . . . a source close to the Soviet embassy in London intimated that Premier Molotov's visit to Berlin might result in new Russian-German understandings "safeguarding Russia's neutrality" . . . During the week Russia withdrew large number of troops from the Turkish-Soviet (Caucasian) border . . .

* * *

CHINA: Recapture of Yamchow, strategic Kwangtung city, and Pinglochiao, directly to the north, was claimed in Chinese reports from Hong Kong . . . further withdrawals of Japanese forces in South China took place. . .

* * *

UNITED STATES: A sensational shift of American diplomats to which could be attributed the utmost importance was predicted in Washington last week. It was reported that President Roosevelt might send no less a personage that his Under-Secretary of State, Sumner Welles, to Great Britain as his next embassador . . . Conversations continued during the week between the governments of Gerat Britain, the U. S., and Australia with regard to co-operation in the Pacific . . . Secretary of the U. S. Navy Frank Knox told an Armistice Day audience that the duty of the United States was to defend the whole western hemisphere . . .

* * *

CANADA: A re-vamped public finance system for Canada loomed as one of the major prospects of the new session of Parliament just begun . . . From the country, from within the government's own ranks pressure had been growing that action be taken, along the lines of the monumental Sirois report, to straighten out and streamline financial relatinnships between the Dominion and the provinces . . . Last week Prime Minister King declared the government's intention to act on the recommendations of the report now that the co-operation of the provinses had been obtained, and announced that a Dominion-provincial conference had been called for mid-January . . . Thorough-going social, economic and financial adjustments would be made in order to prepare for the post-war period . . . Premier Hepburn of Ontario intimated his intention of attending the conference; but would he co-operate in the adoption of the recommendations of this report?

REG'LAR FELLERS — Shy — By GENE BYRNES

Andy HARDY MEETS DEBUTANTE

Adapted from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture

By

Beatrice Faber

SYNOPSIS:

Andy Hardy is secretly in love with Daphne Fowler, New York society's top glamour girl. He knows her only from magazine photos which he collects in a scrapbook. But Polly Benedict, with whom he has quarreled, finds out about his infatuation and scornfully tells him off. Then, unexpectedly, Judge Hardy announces he is taking the whole family to New York because of a court fight over the Carvel Orphanage Trust Fund. Now Andy must make good his boast that he knows Daphne and bring back a picture of himself with her, or Polly will make him the laughing stock of Carvel.....In New York he finds little Betsy Booth, who had once visited in Carvel. She has rented an apartment for the Hardys.

CHAPTER SIX

Andy was almost in tears as he tried to struggle away from the big husky bodyguard. "But Mrs. Fowler," he pleaded, "Your daughter don't need any bodyguard to protect her from me. Can't you see I'm not a kidnapper — and I haven't got any bombs or pistols? And I wouldn't do a thing to hurt Daphne — I mean Miss Fowler."

"I think I understand," Mrs. Fowler said not unkindly but with a final air. "There's been no damage done, Frank, have the child shown out. And see that nothing of this gets into the newspapers."

"Come on son," said the voice of authority and Andy was ignominiously taken down to the front door.

Back in the car with Betsy he could only sit there and stare blankly into space. Finally, she plucked up the courage, to ask him what had happened.

He shook his head. "Betsy, I have just aged fifty years. What took place just now is a secret I will carry with me to the grave. If I could only go some place where I could find peace."

Betsy leaned forward. "Grant's Tomb, Prentice," she said and they were off.

"TELL ME EVERYTHING, ANDY"

At the Tomb up on the Drive, Andy walked around broodingly. "Yeah, it's a fine world," he said. "Back in Carvel there's people waiting to laugh at my funeral —and here in New York you got coffins to cheer me up."

"Andy," Betsy pleaded, "won't you tell me what your problem is? I'm a — a woman. Maybe I could help you."

He said, with great simplicity, "Tragedy is gnawing at my vitals. But I can't tell anybody."

"You musn't give up." She looked at him with shining eyes. "Look at Ulysses S. Grant. Did he give up when things looked dark?"

"He," Andy said heavily, "never had any trouble like I got. All he had on his hands was the Civil War."

Back home that night nobody was much help. Dad was working on his court case and Marian was entertaining Aldrich Brown Jr., who all of a sudden seemed to have reformed and was in New York covering the Orphanage story for the Carvel paper.

HE COULDN'T SURRENDER

And the way he and Marian were billing and cooing! — gosh, you might think there weren't any real problems in the world for people to think about. Disconsolately, he went to his room and started going through his scrapbook of Daphne. He just couldn't surrender to defeat now. He'd have to plan some kind of a campaign. There must be some way he could meet Daphne Fowler and give the horse laugh to Polly Benedict. Yes sir, just like Betsy had said, he'd search out the enemy's weakest point and make use of strategy.

All of a sudden, he let out a whoop. There was a clipping of "Daphne Fowler, President Dog-Lovers' Society."

"I got it," Andy yelled. "General Grant rides again. Dog Lovers' Society. O'course. A dog. Woo-woo. I mean, bow-wow."

The next morning he went to work on Betsy. She'd have to help him but he couldn't tell her how or why. "Betsy," he began skillfully. "I've still got troubles but I've also got a new philosophy. My father says life always provides compensation, solace for your troubles. And to help you forget your troubles, there's nothing like a dog."

"A dog?" She looked startled. "We've got a cat."

"Now listen," he said patiently, "s'pose you were walking down the street and you saw a kind of distinguished looking, young fellow leading a dog? What would you do?"

BORROWING A DOG

She paled visibly. "I'd run like the dickens. I'm scared of dogs."

"You mean you wouldn't speak to the man with the dog!"

"No, I wouldn't. He might sic the dog on me."

Andy said to her in despair. "He wouldn't sic the dog on you. He's a — charming young gentleman. He's a fellow dog-lover. You both be drawn together by a bond of — of mutual interest. You're both interested in our little four-footed friends."

Her eyes were misty. "I'm sorry Andy. I guess I could do pretty nearly anything in the world for you except be a dog-lover."

Andy decided he might just as well get to the point. "Well, do you know where I could borrow a dog? I got troubles and I need the — the consolation of a dumb animal."

Betsy slowly nodded. It was feminine resignation to masculine authority. "Andy, if you want a dog, I'll have to figure out some way to hire you a dog."

His whole face lighted up with triumph. At last they were getting some place. Now watch him storm the doors of the Fowler citadel.

Table-Setting Done Artfully

Linen, Flowers and Silver Should Be Chosen And Arranged With Care

If your table is round and well polished, a square cloth embroidered in a large pattern or inset with lace is very decorative. As a centre use a low bowl—carnations shading from palest pink to dark red lightened with a little asparagus ferns would look well.

At this season, of course, all the atractive blossoms of the "mum" family are in season and they make lovely colorful centrepieces.

THE CENTREPIECE

Lay the places neatly, remembering the rule that the knives and forks to be used first are placed on the outside. It is usual now to place the dessert spoon and fork level with the meat knife and fork, but with a dinner of four courses, it is more convenient to place dessertspoon and fork across the top, the spoon with the handle to the right — the fork below with the handle to the left.

Glasses are placed just at the top of the cutlery on the right-hand side — arranging them so that the first used are nearest the edge of the table.

"YOUR CHRISTMAS CAKE"

Last week in the discussion on overseas parcels and what to send I gave you a recipe for a fruit cake, which is a splendid recipe to use for those at home too, if you wish a rich cake.

In contemplating your cake preparations, you must first decide whether you wish it to be a cake which can be kept for an indefinite period. If so it must have plenty of butter to insure moistness. The fruit also must be the best type for the same purpose. A little brandy added, if you wish, will prevent any moulding. Many use applesauce or cooked dried apples, which does give a cake a very splendid flavor and is economical, but it is apt to mold and will not "keep" long. I find a little corn syrup added also assists in leaving your cake moist, especially the light fruit cake type. If you have had difficulty in this type of cake drying too quickly, do try the syrup recipe.

Another Dark Rich Cake

1½ lbs. butter
2 lb. carrots
¾ lbs. sultana raisins
¼ lb. seeded raisins
½ lb. dates
½ lb. almonds
4 cups brown sugar
5 cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon and nutmeg
12 eggs
2 tablespoons brandy
1 cup cherries
½ teaspoon soda
½ lb. citron
½ lb. citron peel
2 rings candied pineapple

Cream butter and add sugar; then well-beaten eggs. Now add prepared fruit (insures much better flavor than when added last). Next add flour into which have been sifted all the dry ingredients; next add the meats and lastly brandy, mixing very thoroughly after each addition. (Nuts, pineapple and dates should be chopped).

Light Fruit Cake

6 eggs
¾ lb. butter
½ lb. fruit sugar
¼ cup white corn syrup
¾ lb. sultana raisins
¼ lb. citron peel
¼ lb. candied cherries (leave whole)
2 rings (1 red and 1 green) pineapple
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon almond
1 teaspoon nutmeg
4 cups flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder

Slow oven for 2 hours.

Put together in exactly the same way as the dark fruit cake.

Economy Cake

2 eggs
1½ cups brown sugar
½ cup sour or buttermilk
1 teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups seedless raisins
¼ cup candied cherries
¼ cup citron peel
1 cup walnuts
½ teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups flour
1 cup butter

Cook 300 to 350 deg. F. for 1¾ hours.

Also use the same method for preparing this cake as in the first recipe.

Rise In Butter Consumption

Increase of 6,000,000 Pounds Reported in Dominion Over Last Year

At least so far as butter is concerned, Canadians are living on the fat of the land. The consumption now is up by six million pounds over this date of last year. More people are eating butter and more of it. This is regarded as an indication of better times. But the War Prices Board has started an investigation taking the form of a check-up on all butter storage. So far, the inquiry indicates that the rise of about six cents a pound is attributable to supply and demand. The production was lower in September while the demand was greater.

PEOPLE EAT IT MORE

The storage people are now called on for statistics to show how much they have, where they got it, what price they paid and for whom they are holding it. The dairy farmers say they are not getting a cent more than they are entitled to and that the price is not higher than last year's at this time.

Buying Four Pair Of Shoes Yearly

Average Girl in Canadian City Say A Comfortable Fit Most Desirable — Boys Buy Three Pairs, Survey Shows

An average Toronto family buys 14.8 pairs of shoes a year, according to a survey made among 700 pupils of the Eastern High School of Commerce. The survey was made in co-operation with the National Shoe Retailers' association.

Advertising appeals ranked as follows: Store windows, newspaper, friends' suggestion and radio, said the pupils.

HIGH HEELS FATIGUE MANY

The average girl bought 4.2 pairs of shoes a year and the average boy 3.6 pairs a year.

A very large majority of the girls decided that a comfortable fit was the most desirable characteristic.

Thirty per cent answered that high school girls suffered from fatigue caused by high heels. These girls, aged 16 to 18, voted 3 to 1 in favor of having their shoes fitted by men.

Constitution of Moonlight Chapter

On Friday evening, the beautiful constitution ceremony of the Order of the Eastern Star, took place in the Chapter Rooms in Iroquois, when Moonlight Chapter, No. 224 was officially presented its Charter followed by the installation of officers.

At 6.30 a sumptuous banquet was served to over 100 members of the Order, by the Ladies of the Red Cross Society, in the United Church Hall. The tables were attractively decorated with silver baskets of yellow and mauve baby mums, yellow tapers in silver candlesticks.

Seated at the head table with the Worthy Matron, Sis. Lottie Merkley, and Worthy Patron, Bro. Herman Hamilton, were the following Grand Officers of the Grand Chapter of Ontario—W.. G. Matron, Sis. Geddes, and P. G. Matron, Sis. McClung, of Hamilton; P. G. Matron, Sis. Sara Robertson; Gr.-Secretary, Sis. Turriff; and Gr.-Marshall, Sis. Marsh of Toronto; P. G. Patron, Bro. Barlow and Mrs. Barlow; Gr. Conductress, Sis. Eastman; Gr. Ruth, Sis. McArthur; D.D.G.M., No. 14, Sis Willans, of Ottawa; Sis. Leverette, D. D.G.M., No. 13, of Smith Falls; Sis. Fowler, of Brockville, a member of the Florence Nightengale Home Board; Gr.-Associate Conductress, Sis. Day and Sis. McInnis, of Timmins, Ont. Several P.D.D.G.M.'s were also seated at the head tables. The W.-M. Sis. Merkley acting as Toast Mistress, proposed the toast to His Majesty, the King, which was responded to, in the usual way, with Sis. Jean Ellis, presiding at the piano. The W. P., Bro. Hamilton, in his usual capable manner, very ably proposed the toast to Grand Chapter, to which Sis. Geddes replied. Sis. Barlow of Ottawa, rendered two appropriate solos. A hearty welcome was extended to all visitors, and a vote of thanks tendered the ladies of the Red Cross Society for their bountiful repast. The assembly then joined in singing: "There'll Always be an England," and later proceeded to the Chapter rooms, on King street.

At 8 p.m. the Constitution ceremony took place, with the Worthy Grand Matron presiding, assisted by the Grand Marshall and other Grand Chapter Officers of Ontario. The presentation of the Charter, always an impressive and beautiful ceremony, was followed by the installation of officers, under Charter. The altar flowers used in the constitution service, were a gift from Pratt's Florist Shop, of Ottawa. The officers of Moonlight Chapter then opened the meeting in regular form, after which Sister Geddes, W.G.M. presided for installation, assisted by Grand Chapter officers. Sisten Barlow was soloist for the evening. Following installation, the Worthy Grand Matron gave a very helpful and inspiring talk on the work of the order and congratulated the new chapter upon its progress and attractive appearance of their rooms also for the capable manner in which the officers put on the work. She assured the members that the constituting of this new Chopter will prove a strong link in the chain of the Order of Eastern Star. Several other short speeches were heard from the distinguished guests and visitors. During the evening, Bro. Dudley, W.P. of Violet Chapter, of Prescott, presented the chapter with a Gavel, which was received by Sis. Merkley, who thanked Violet for their gift. Sis. Thompson, A.M., then presented Sis. Geddes with a gift for her kindness and interest in the chapter, an don the chapter's behalf. Sister Geddes was earlier presented with a corsage by the Worthy Matron, Sis. Merkley. Also in evidence was a gift to Sis. Merkley from Bro. John and Sis. Barlow, of Ottawa. At the close of the meeting the drawing on a silver dollar, on which tickets had been sold, took place Mrs. George Ennis holding the lucky ticket. The ceremonies of this evening will long remain a happy memory in the records of Moonlight Chapter.
