Youth charged in death of teens released

Suspect agrees to several conditions of bail, including not driving, curfew and staying away from Alexandria

By Greg Kielec and Sue Harrington
News* staff

A youth charged with second degree murder in a March car crash south of Alexandria which killed four teens has been released from custody.

The youth was released by Judge M.J. Fitzpatrick in Cornwall, yesterday afternoon after agreeing to meet a number of conditions imposed by the court. He is to appear in court again May 12, in Alexandria.

He was charged in March with second degree murder, manslaughter and criminal negligence causing death, after, according to police, his car struck from behind a car containing four Alexandria teens, causing it to go out of control and strike a tractor trailer.

The decision to release the youth comes after four days of hearings into whether the accused should be released from custody. The hearings came on the heals of a psychiatric assessment completed on the youth at Royal Ottawa Hospital.

A number of witnesses were called to testify either for or against the youth's release, but details of the testimony cannot be published due to a publication ban placed on the court proceedings by Judge Fitzpatrick at the beginning of the hearings.

The youth did not have to pay bail money because of his submission to the court undertaking.

According to the conditions:

He must live with his sister and be "amenable" to the displines of her household.

He must observe a curfew from 9 p.m. to 7 a.m. unless accompanied by an adult member of his immediate family.

He must not drive any motor vehicle under any circumstances and is not to associate with any of the other four youths that were in his car at the time of the crash.

He also must not associate with anyone that he knows has a criminal record.

He must stay out of licensed drinking establishments, including restaurants that serve liquor, and must abstain from liquor and non-medical use of drugs.

He must carry his bail papers on him at all times and produce them at the request of a police officer and must report to Maxville OPP every Friday afternoon between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

And he was told to stay out of Alexandria except for court appearances and to meet with his lawyer.

The families of all four deceased youths were at the court hearing. It appeared that the youth's mother and sisters were also in court, but it is not certain if the youth's father showed.

The two sides sat apart, one at one side, the other at the remaining side, separated by the centre aisle.

The youth, wearing a green shirt and black pants, showed no emotion when read the decision of the court and kept his head bowed when read the charges against him.

Petition drive launched to change Young Offenders Act

By Greg Kielec
News editor

A petition drive has been launched in the area urging changes be made to the federal Young Offenders' Act.

Diane Boisvenue, a parent of one of four teens killed in a March car crash just south Alexandria, made a presentation to Alexandria council last Tuesday, explaining the petition drive.

An area youth was charged with second degree murder and two other offences by police, who say the youths car struck the car the four teens were in, causing it to crash.

Being a young offender, the maximum sentence the youth can receive if convicted of second degree murder is five years in a youth detention centre.

The Young Offenders Act has become a hot issue in the area in recent weeks, with a youth charged in the fatal car crash and the arrest of one 18-year-old and two young offenders in connection with the murder Alexandria area resident Gerry Cuerrier.

The groundswell of support for changes to the Act started with the senseless drive-by shooting in Ottawa, which killed Nicholas Battersby of Britain, and has gained momentum as violent incidents across the country involving young offenders capture newspaper headlines.

"If the law doesn't change this year, fine," Boisvenue said told members of Alexandria council last week..

"If the court could change it, even ten years from now, at least I can say I did something good."

A copy of the petition has been left at the town office for people to sign, and people will be going around the area soliciting names.

The drive organizers are being supported by the group Victims of Violent Crime in Ottawa, and petitions have been presented to Cornwall Mayor Ron Martelle and also will be presented to MPs Bob Kilger and Don Boudria.

Youths accused in town murder back in court here tomorrow

Greg Kielec
News* editor

Three teens charged in connection with the murder of Alexandria resident Gerry Cuerrier will be back in Alexandria court tomorrow.

But it is not certain what, if anything, will take place during tomorrow's appearance.

Jason Horvath, 18, of Kenyon Township and two young offenders were charged with murder after Cuerrier was discovered shot in his home on March 28.

Cuerrier was shot by Horvath's father's RCMP service revolver, according to police.

The three teens have been held in custody since their arrest and have made a number of court appearances already.

Police are required by law to bring offenders held in custody before a judge every seven days.

No pleas have been entered in the case and no bail hearing has been scheduled yet for the youths.

Area tornado-like storm hurtles plane, rips roof off barn

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News* reporter

Area residences were given a forceful reminder of the wrath of mother nature on April 28 when she stormed through Glengarry, leaving moderate destruction in her path.

The Grolpher family was stunned as they watched a customer's airplane cartwheel 100 feet across a field during the flash storm.

A neighbor was surprised to see Jim Gillissie's barn roof fly across the McCormick road.

And Richard Lalonde was disappointed to come home to $10,000 damage to his barn.

Such spectacles led some to wonder if a tornado had passed through.

Glengarry weatherman, George Hambleton of Atmospheric Environment Services said it is hard to discern a storm from a tornado unless a funnel can actually be seen coming or going.

He said it's difficult to measure wind speeds during storms like last Wednesday's because it can vary from place to place or even from one side of a road to the other.

"Most of the time it is decided it was a tornado judging by the damage that was left behind," said Hambleton.

He added final judgements about storms can sometimes take weeks.

Environment Canada weather specialist Andre Cyr agreed and said the path of the storm has to be examined for signs of rotation.

He added the winds on April 27, that were recorded at 70 kph at Ottawa International Airport, were typical of those that accompany severe thunderstorms.

In some instances the winds begin as high as 10,000 feet in the upper atmosphere and when they hit the surface they can be extremely forceful.

"It was a very scary experience," said Frank Grolpher, aviation engineer and owner of the Alexandria Airport.

Grolpher said the sudden gusts of wind took hold of a 600-lb. plane, broke it free from the chains that were tying it down, flipped it backwards end- over-end and dropped in the neighboring field on its roof.

The severe winds that Grolpher estimates reached 130 m.p.h., also ripped open the hanger wall, leaving a gaping hole.

"It (the wind) just sucked the tin right off."

The Piper PA12 Supercruiser, owned by Cpt. Barry Franklin of Cornwall, was at the airport for mechanical repairs and the engine was out of the plane at the time of the storm.

Built orginally in 1947, Grolpher said the heritage three-seater plane, though severely damaged, can be and will be repaired when the insurance claim is paid.

Not far away from the airport, Jim Gillissie said he was working at his restaurant at the time of the storm and didn't see what happened to his barn, but his neighbor did.

"My neighbor called and told me he saw my barn roof fly across the road."

The winds took the 170 foot long roof off of the barn that Gillissie was using to store hay in and dropped it several hundred feet away across McCormick Road.

"The funny thing was the hay was not disturbed, it just lifted the roof right off and left the hay in place," said Gillissie.

"We were lucky really, it didn damage the house or the restaurant."

He said the winds also snapped a large elm tree in two by the river behind his place and that convinced him that it was more than just a storm.

"It was definitely a tornado, to snap a 100-year-old tree like that, it had to be."

Gillissie said he doesn't have an estimate for how much damage was done and he is fully insured.

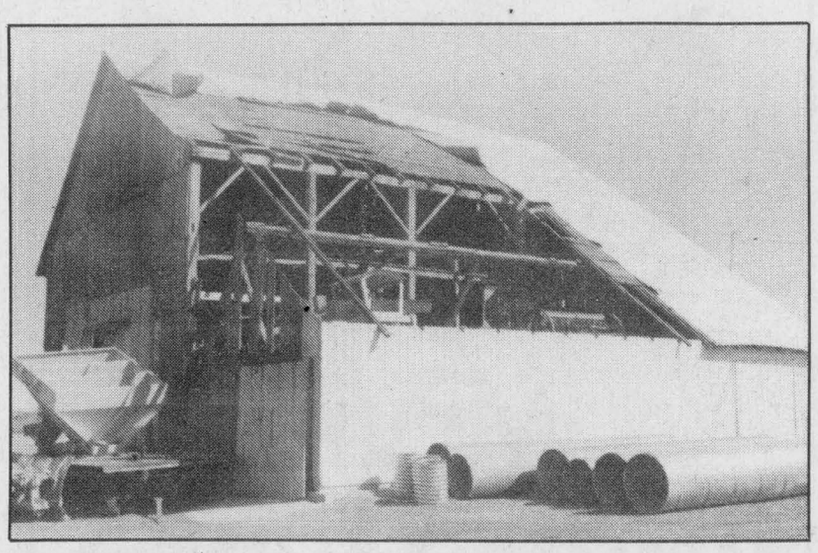
He adds that he now has a long clean-up job ahead of him before rebuilding.

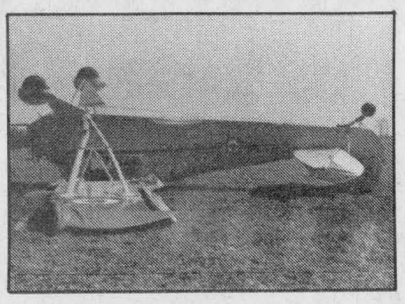
Richard Lalonde also wasn't witness to what happened to his barn.

He was in Ottawa at the time of the storm and said it wasn't as bad there as he was told it hit here.

The storm took away much of the roof on a barn he uses for storage. Lalonde said he's pretty disgusted as he just completed major repairs to the barn a few years ago.

"I'm glad it doesn't happen everyday," said Lalonde.





Area residents felt the ravages of mother nature during an end of April storm. Above: Richard Lalonde's barn sustained $10,000 damage in the April 28 tornado-like storm that blew through Glengarry. Annette Candieux and her daughter Akasha hope the local Easter Seal fundraising campaign will come out of the red.

Easter Seals: They give more than they receive

Alexandria donates $4,643 to cause, but $13,000 spent on 25 children whose parents depend on funding it provides

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News* reporter

Residents may not realize that money raised for Easter Seals in Alexandia is spent locally on about 25 children who depend on it, says Annette Cadieux.

Cadieux is a single parent of two who benefits from Easter Seal towards the care of her youngest daughter.

"I'm afraid that most people think Easter Seals are just stamps. You buy them and it helps someone, somewhere, but not in Alexandria."

Cadieux describes her family as "hooked on Easter Seals" because of the information, financial help and support she has received for her four-year-old daughter Akasha, or Kay as she is known, who has Anglemen's Syndrome.

"You can't even explain the gratitude you feel for them (Easter Seals)," said Cadieux.

"They've been there for the worst parts of your life."

During the hard times, about two years ago when Kay was diagnosed with a rare genetic disorder, Easter Seals provided her with the most up-to-date information and support services to help her cope.

But people don't seem to realize the good Easter Seals does in Alexandria, if their contributions to the fundraising so far are any indication.

The month-old campaign in Alexandria has raised $1,907 through mail-outs requesting donations and campaign organizer Marc Bigras says it is "doing terribly."

Bigras, president of the Alexandria Lion's Club that organizes the local annual campaign, said the goal for this year's campaign is $5,000 by the end of May but that amount doesn't approach what is spent in Alexandria by Easter Seals.

Last year Easter Seals spent nearly $13,000 in Alexandria to financially assist with the purchase of equipment needed by disabled children, travel and treatment expenses, recreational and educational programs, family support services, diagnostic clinics and in-home consultations.

Bigras says Alexandria didn't make its goal last year, raising $4643, and this year seems to be heading for more disappointing results.

"We would like to see all the people of the community make a contribution to this worthwhile campaign," said Bigras.

Cadieux said she knows how worthwhile Easter Seals is because it touches her life in many different ways including summer camp programs for the whole family that make her face light up when she talks about them.

"Easter Seals camp was a Godsend for us."

Cadieux said that for her eldest daughter Anastacia, 6, who is not disabled, it was an opportunity to meet other siblings of children with disabilities.

The siblings seem to become instant soulmates, said Cadieux.

"For her to meet other siblings who can relate to how she feels was really good for her."

"And the parent contact was excellent for me. It was the first time

Normal weather for April

Since the first snowfall on October 31, 1993 until the end of April 1994 we have seen 337 cm (132 in.) of snow.

The normal amount of snow for that time period is 225 cm (100 in.).

Unfortunately there is still a chance for more snow.

There was 25 cm (10 in) of the white stuff falling on May 10, 1963.

Along with the winter's snowfalls, we saw 353 mm (14 in.) of rain during the winter months.

And the total precipitation for the winter of 1993-94 was more than one-third above normal.

The summary of April weather is: snow 35 cm (14 in.); rain 79 mm (3.1 in.); with high temperatures of 22 C (72 F) and a low of -15.5 C (4 F).

April has seen normal average temperatures.

Council members protest zoning deal for developer

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

A special zoning deal for an Alexandria developer has been questioned by some members of Alexandria.

The deal gives developer Jean Clement a cut-rate deal for the rezoning of his old Brown Shoe factory property and nearby property owned by the town all in one shot.

The 10-acre Brown Shoe property was purchased by the town in November for $100,000. The town kept five acres and sold the remaining property and building to Clement for $125,000.

Normally it would cost Clement $1,200 to zone the industrial property to a residential designation. But because he is allowing the town to include its property in the redesignation package, council will only charge him $625.

The deal will save the town the time and effort it would take to rezone its property separately and send it to Toronto for approval, according to town planner Terry Hart.

Because the combined parcels make up a large block of land, it will likely get quicker approval than two separate parcels would, said Hart.

The only person to vote against the proposal at last Tuesday's Alexandria council meeting was Councillor John Hope.

He said there was no need giving Clement a special deal when the town planner could do the work at no cost to the town.

He said Clement will get all the benefit of the deal and the town will lose.

"I think Mr. Mayor we should do our own four (parcels). It's the municipality's (land). Let the individual do it by himself."

Councillor Roger Lemieux also questioned the deal, even though he voted in favor of the plan earlier in the meeting,

"Why give this guy a deal," he asked council members.

He said once the cost of newspaper advertising is figured in, the town will only make $425 on the rezoning.

And he asked how much the town is saving by having the land rezoned at the same time as Clement's.

"If it is a $500 advantage, then it's worth it," he said.

Reeve Bruno Massie, however, said Clement deserved the favor because he gave the town such a good deal when he purchased the Brown Shoe property from the municipality.

"We came out ahead of the game," he told council members.

But Hope said Clement benefitted most because he got such a good deal on the purchase of the Brown Shoe building.

Councillor Archie McDougall said it will be a benefit for the town for the next 25 years if the rezoning is done and it is to the town's advantage to carry it out.

By rezoning one large parcel at once instead of a number of smaller parcels, the town is simply following the planning advice it gives other developers, he said.

Board member apologizes for outburst at hospital

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News* Reporter

A hospital member accused of berating emergency staff publicly has apologized for the outburst.

Board member Jacques Joly gave a written apology to doctors during the in- camera session of last Thursday's board meeting, says a board member who preferred not to be named.

The apology was for his uproar in the emergency room on March 31.

No further reprimand is expected, said the board member.

Joly berated emergency staff when they were unable to immediately attend to the feverish child of someone he knew in the emergency room on a very busy evening, according to a letter signed by seven local doctors.

The mother of the child had been advised to go home and was told she could be called back when a doctor was available to see the child, said the letter.

The letter continued to explain that Joly returned to emergency with the mother and was very "loud and abrasive" with the emergency staff over the situation.

The board member who preferred not to be named said the board isn't sure the doctors' version of the incident is accurate.

The letter was given to the Glengarry News anonymously and the board member said the board was upset the story appeared in the paper before it was discussed at the meeting.

GMH Chief Executive Officer Kurt Pristanski said, "We are still looking into it."

Pristanski said it was an internal matter that was handled during the in-camera, or not for public knowledge, session of the board meeting.

And that as such, Pristanski said, "I'm not commenting at this time."

Neither Joly nor GMH board chair Sam Sultan were available for comment.

Laggan Public students learn about the old Glengarry way

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News reporter

Students at Laggan Public School went back in time this week to learn how much education has changed.

Students from Pre-Kindergarten through to Grade 6 took a few lessons the old-fashioned way in a one-room school house workshop, complete with writing quills, slate boards and woodstove heating.

The workshop was part of a two-day exercise for Education Week that had students learning how to prepare old-fashioned ice-cream, lemonade and bread recipes in the mornings.

They attended afternoon classes in the former School Section No. 1 school house that was relocated to Laggan Public School property last year.

The groups of about 20 students were made of students from two or more grades and once inside the school house they were taken through short reading, writing and arithmetic lessons given by teachers from Inkwell Learning Materials in 19th century period costumes.

Inkwell specializes in hands-on workshops to teach children what historic childhood was like.

The teachers, Louise Burchell and Carol Sargent who are former Upper Canada Village educators, help students discover how children contributed to the family by doing chores and how modern and historic classrooms differ through workshops that use antique tools and teaching methods.

Most of the Grade 1 students said they liked using slate boards and quills and said students in the old days had to be more quiet in the classroom than now.

"The primary focus was to give the children an idea as to how education has changed," said Laggan Public School principal Kent MacSweyn.

"And we wanted to make it a real-life experience for students."

Louis Bray Construction given sewage work contract

By Greg Kielec
News editor

Louis Bray Construction Ltd. has been awarded the contract for the sewage pumping station and forcemain work for Alexandria.

The awarding of the tender for the close to $1 million job was announced at a meeting of Alexandria council last Tuesday.

The area construction company put in a bid of $850,000 for the work, the lowest entered, and according to town engineering firm J.L. Richards and Associates, has sufficient experience to carry out the project.

It was initially thought that Cornwall Gravel Company Ltd. had the lowest of three tenders submitted, but it was realized during the evaluation process that there was an error in addition of the tender, placing above the Bray bid at $918,000.

Bray is estimating the construction work to take 35 weeks and has given a $5,000 letter of credit.

The work is subject to approval from the Ministry of Environment and Energy (MOEE) and funding for the town from the province's Ontario Clean Water Agency.

The credit of $5,000 will be deducted from the contract if awarded to Bray.

The planned work will help increase the town's sewage treatment capacity, eventually leading to — with other sewage system upgrades — a lift of the MOEE's new development ban in Alexandria.

The ban has been in force for about a decade, first because of water filtration plant problems, and most recently due to a lack of sewage treatment capacity which has caused overflows of raw sewage into the Delisle River.

MOEE's road rule breach not town's problem: Mayor

By Greg Kielec
News editor

Alexandria Mayor Jean Paul Touchette says the town is not responsible for the flouting of Lochiel Township's spring half-load restrictions for its roads.

Lochiel Clerk Ray Charbonneau complained in a letter to Alexandria council last week, that the MOEE had ignored half-load restrictions when it brought heavy equipment on McCormick Road to the town sewage treatment plant April 16.

The equipment was brought in to install a splitter box at the sewage plant, which allows the MOEE to divert sewage flow to another sewage lagoon if the one being used has reached its capacity.

During the work, 3,140 cubic metres of untreated sewage was poured into the Delisle River over a six-and-a-quarter hour period, an act which had been protested by Lochiel Township, which was downstream of the sewage dump.

The sewage dump has also been protested by a school downstream of the sewage plant in Quebec, which wants Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson to protest the discharge to Ontario Premier Bob Rae.

Charbonneau said in his letter that "council understands that such machinery is required for the project proposed, but would appreciate consultation when passing over or doing works in the Township of Lochiel."

"It has been mentioned prior to departments involved that not sufficient notice has been the case with this project and this is yet another incident," he said in the letter, tabled at last week's meeting of Alexandria council.

"Council has therefore requested that when this hyhoe is removed, it be informed a few days previous so that our road forces may monitor the floating (transport)."

Touchette said the problem is not with Alexandria, but with the MOEE which is in charge of work at the sewage treatment plant.

He was backed by Deputy Reeve Jacques Joly, who said Lochiel

Mayor Jean Paul Touchette

Reeve Ron MacDonell told him Lochiel is upset with the MOEE for its lack of communication with the township.

But Councillor Jacques Lajoie said the town still should work to improve relations with Lochiel, not give the township "the cold shoulder."

Replied Touchette, pointing out the letters of protest from Lochiel: "I don't know who is giving who the cold shoulder."

Lajoie said he has been getting many calls of concern about relations between Lochiel and Alexandria. "Let's let bygones be bygones," he told council members.

Marcel Dugas of J.L. Richards and Associates Limited , the engineering firm in charge of the work, said in a letter to Lochiel that he was not aware of the size of equipment that was to be brought in for the work.

"It is hoped that the contractor has taken all the required precautions in this matter."

He said the contractor responsible for upcoming forcemain and pumping station work will be advised of Lochiel's request and that his firm will work to ensure the request is carried out.

GMH using 'courtesy' to attract doctors

By Pauline Ashton
News correspondent

In an effort to attract more doctors Glengarry Memorial hospital physicians agreed to grant "courtesy privileges" to doctors who want to use some facilities of the hospital.

For the past 25 years only physicians with full admitting privileges at the hospital could use x-ray and lab facilities.

Now doctors practising in the area can use limited hospital facilities by working 48 hours a month in emergency, or serving on medical staff committees.

Hospital board members meeting April 28, welcomed the move, and promised a yearly $18,000 salary for a doctor to run the emergency department, and up to $15,000 in grants and $5,000 in consultants fees, to persuade a new doctor to move into Glengarry.

Acting Director of Nursing Bev Craig of North Lancaster, was named new director of nursing, by CEO Kurt Pristanski, a move approved unanimously by the board.

A 23-year veteran nurse at the hospital, Craig has been acting director for the past nine months.

Pristanski rated Craig's performance "above average" and said she is "well respected by her staff."

Recent resignation of Dr. John Edgar, and the move of his practice from Alexandria to Cornwall, left the hospital short-staffed in the emergency department.

The resignation goaded the board into offering the cash incentives to attract more doctors to Glengarry.

Pristanski warned that Alexandria is competing for doctors with Northern Ontario centres which have special incentive grants, provincial funding to build clinics, and low office rental provisions to attract doctors to remote areas.

Several board members were upset when Pristanski announced $177,000 has been transferred from capital budget to the operating budget to cover funding retirement packages handed out to the former CEO and his wife who headed up the computer department, and two other employees due for early retirements.

"We're not allowed to run a deficit by provincial law," Pristanski explained.

"We had to get provincial approval to take that money out of capital funds."

Pristanski pointed out that the retirement of a pharmacist, and another employee, and replacing them with part-time staff will save $50,000.

He said increased lab work could add up to another $50,000, with the whole $100,000 flowing back into capital funds.

Vivian Campbell, director of finance, said $261,000 retirement package agreed on for the former CEO and his wife is not paid in a lump sum but spread over a period of time.

Board member Alan MacKinnon, an Alexandria lawyer, said this year there has been a $500,000 drop in the hospital's cash position and "I look at this as a horrendous change not approved by the board."

Board member Wally Hope wondered "how long is our surplus going to last if we follow this system of financing."

Board Chair Sam Sultan pointed out that permission had to be gotten from the province to switch the capital funds and that "this is the meeting where the board must approve the move."

Sultan pointed out that the board had approved the retirement package months ago and knew it had to come out of the operating budget.

CEO Pristanski pointed out if the money to fund the emergency department and retirement packages is not taken out of capital "where do you want us to cut? I don't think you want to cease emergency services."

Pristanski explained "nobody ever thought six months ago that the group pension plan would cost $100,000, that emergency department which was costing almost nothing for physician coverage, would end up costing $82,000 because outside doctors now must be hired."

Until recently hospital emergency was covered by local doctors who were paid a fee-per-patient basis by OHIP.

But as doctors got older and busier, they could not keep up emergency coverage, and the hospital was forced to hire outside physicians to keep the service going.

Board members approved coverage of the deficit from capital expenses, but Pristanski was asked to set up a plan for refunding capital through future fiscal restraints, and cost cutting.

Sharing may save dollars for South Glengarry residents

By Sue Harrington
News correspondent

A joint meeting held last month of officials from three Glengarry municipalities — Charlottenburgh, Lancaster Township and Lancaster Village — could result in the sharing of fire services to the benefit of residents in the extremities of Charlottenburgh Township.

A resolution passed April 25 by Charlottenburgh Council authorizes the township's reeve and clerk to enter into an agreement with the Village/Township of Lancaster, "for enhanced fire protection for Charlottenburgh."

The agreement would see the joint Lancaster Village/Lancaster Township Fire Department responding first to calls for some areas now serviced by Williamstown or Glen Walter Fire Departments.

Affected areas would be:

1) along Hwy. 34 from the CNR line (northern boundary) south to Lancaster Village.

2) The area west of Lancaster Village, extending to and including lot 59 along County Rd. 17.

3) The area west of Lancaster Village, being south of the main railway line and bounded by the Raisin River (Celtic Road area).

4) The area, including Hwy. 401 protection, from the township boundary to Fraser Road to the west second from Highway 401 to the St. Lawrence River.

Closed meeting held to set date of public meeting

By Pauline Ashton
News correspondent

Closed meetings of Maxville Manor board of directors and the Manor's general membership were scheduled April 27, to set a date for promised public meeting.

Councillor Owen Walker, who chairs the Manor board of management, told Kenyon council April 26, that there seemed to be enthusiastic support for a public meeting at the Manor annual meeting.

"They approved it, it's long overdue."

Manor workers asked Kenyon council for help in getting Maxville Manor board meetings open to the public, earlier in April.

Workers are worried over cutbacks in hours, plans for expensive private rooms, and negotiation of a new union contract.

Walker reported that Manor Executive Director Craig Munro is wary about attending a public meeting.

"He may be concerned that the union will turn the meeting into a tar-and-feather session," Walker explained.

Deputy Reeve Donald Besner pointed out that Munro is the best person to know what's going on at the Manor when there is public concern about what is happening at the Manor.

"Munro should be there to answer questions at a public meeting along with a representative from the Ministry of Health," Besner suggested.

Besner explained although the Manor board does not have to open meetings to the public, "the Manor is a defacto public body and its meetings should be open."

Councillor Gwen Morris said at a recent seminar on hospital governance "we were told that too many boards have been operating in a slipshod fashion wasting too much money."

The YOA is killing us

Sign the petition.

It's the one circulating around the county calling for an overhaul of the the Young Offender's Act, the same one now so much under scrutiny and seige in Ottawa.

It's a petition that deserves support, not only because of the recent violent deaths that have resulted in murder charges laid against young offenders here, Cornwall and Hull.

It deserves support because the Young Offenders Act has been a poor law since it was passed in the mid-80s, one whose emphasis on protecting the criminal, has led too often to exposure of the innocent.

And society has had to endure a burgeoning number of increasingly violent and heinous offences by young, impressionable people since, with dwindling confidence that the punishment would fit the crime.

Police chiefs, media commentators and even some social workers in the mid- 80s warned against serious consequences of the implementation of the Act. But their words fell on deaf ears, overwhelmed by the stern pronouncements from lawyers and politicians in ivory towers and the bleeding hearts of the nation, most of whom supported the YOA under the guise of shielding young souls against the harmful affects of lengthy jail terms and publicity.

Trouble is, they couldn't or didn't want to foresee how the recipients of young offenders' violence or the families of dead victims would have to absorb the fallout of this flawed law.

Nor, seemingly, could they see the end results of a new recession, declining morals, broken families, the replacement of religious values by TV and a cold understanding of the Act by the teens who would commit the crimes. Nor did they see how all of this would be linked to increases in teen violence that would mean no more than a maximum five year sentence for first-degree murder and three for second degree murder (unless prosecution was able to jump through judicial hoops to win an application to try teenagers between 14 and 17 in adult court.)

And now, only after Glengarry has witnessed the arrest and charging of three young offenders in connection with the deaths of five people in two separate incidents, and a spate of more high-profile murders in Cornwall, Ottawa and Hull, the politicians are beginning to pay attention.

Justice Minister Alan Rock is reviewing the law completely to make it more effective. But the wrinkle is, there is no agreement on how far reforms should go.

This past Monday, MP John Nunziata quite rightly attempted to take direct aim at the most glaring shortcoming in the law through his private members bill. His proposal would have lengthened the maximum penalty for murder to 10 years from five for youths. And it would have allowed details about a young offender to be made public after conviction for a second serious crime.

The bill, unfortunately, died after an hour of debate when the Bloc Quebecois refused permission for longer discussion. One of the Bloc MPs called Nunziata's bill ''simplistic'', noting that by increasing sentences and reducing ages, the country is accelerating the rate at which prisons are filled, and make young people a burden on society for the rest of their lives.

His solution? A comprehensive program of helping youths in trouble and teaching them responsibility.

Great, but there is no reason why such programs and teaching could not work hand-in-hand with tougher penalties. Besides, the separatist member's solution on its own suggests that such initiatives don't exist in other forms at other government levels. They already do.

And history has shown that help programs and education is only so effective, regardless of the amount of money governments throw at them.

The root of the problem is much more complex, beginning with homelife and the inner turmoil that has engulfed so many young people today.

Without strong moral structures to uphold the essential lessons of right and wrong, such lofty solutions amount to little more than window dressing.

The immediate concern should first and foremost be the safety of innocent citizens; jailing young offenders who commit murder for longer periods meets that need.

And while the Bloc would tinker with tame solutions, the situation involving teenage criminals has become so serious that teachers and students have expressed fear for their well-being.

Fights, threats and verbal assaults are becoming an increasingly evident fact of life in our high schools. School boards are being moved to extend the periods of school suspension of violent students.

The need for such an initiative would have been unthinkable when the YOA was first hatched.

But it's another piece of stark proof, as Glengarrians know firsthand, that the YOA is too weak a law in times that need a stronger grip on youth crime.

For moms, a day just doesn't cut it

After Thoughts

by Joe Banks

Mothers deserve more than a day.

They deserve a week. And maybe a month.

And I mean every mom. Not just the ones who can boast their offspring have been raised properly to become the prime minister of Canada or the head of McDonald's or the CEO of General Motors or even the publisher of The Glengarry News.

(That was for you, mom).

Now don't whine, you non-moms out there. I know you're already dreading this Sunday, having to keep the tube off in the heat of the Stanley Cup playoffs and all that. Jeez, you'd think the Canadiens were still in the chase for heaven's sake.

Think about it.

For starters, is a single day of 365 fitting enough for any woman who has endured the trials of pregnancy, labor and then delivery? And then, only to know that once that was over the real fun of stretch marks, cellulite and hormone changes were about to begin?

As one who was a first-hand witness to the rigors of the birthing process, I can argue with credibility that there should be a special Order of Canada category for having accomplished that feat, in front of an audience of gaping medical technicians no less.

Of course, moms a few generations back didn't have paid maternity leave, birthing chairs, pre-natal classes, anesthetics or husbands in the delivery room to shut up when they think they're being helpful by counting whiffs between contractions.

The moms of a generation or more ago had it really rough. Under conditions that would be considered positively horrific today, they routinely and with greater frequency brought into the world offspring, assisted often by midwives.

Too many of them did it amidst the poverty of the Great Depression, when one more mouth to feed was a constant source of silent worry. And ''relief'' payments — today's welfare — carried with it the humiliation of proving absolute need before it was even considered.

For this reason alone, the grandmothers and great grandmothers of today should be awarded an honorary status set somewhere between knighthood and sainthood. No doubt, they would insist it would have to be done after the dishes are done.

But there's lots of other reasons unrelated to the pain of momhood, that warrant mothers receiving better-than-passing recognition.

A just-released Statistics Canada survey has found that in most traditional marriages, women still do the bulk of the housework and child-rearing, even in those homes where they are expected to toil outside the house for a second income.

Men, the study said, aren't all loafs. But because they do less child-rearing and less of the household dirty work, their work which presumably includes things like car and house repairs, is worth less, about $7,000 a year less, that is if the relative housework of men and women were to be assigned net value.

Any of you guys disagree? Come on, be honest. When was the last time you scrubbed a toilet bowl? Yep, I thought so. And I don't think changing sparkplugs or tightening up a chair leg is quite in the same league.

If it makes you feel any better, I'll admit it. My name's Joe and I haven't scrubbed a toilet.

But, to change the subject as quickly as possible, I know from my ''dad of the 90s'' duty of grocery shopping that moms are still most often spotted pushing grocery carts, kids in tow, than dads — to the tune of four or five to one. When a dad is there, he is usually the cart man for his better half who is doing the much more vital work of comparing prices.

Yep, they're moms, those people with the list and calculator in hand. The same ones peeling the sucker off the back seat, contending with the back-to-school wardrobe, bad-hair days and doling out advice to the victim of a first broken date.

Somehow, a day just doesn't cut it.

Letters/Opinions

To the editor:

On April 10, 1994, our family collectively lost a brother, a son, a husband, a father, an uncle and a good friend. It is the first break in our family, and, as such it was especially painful. The outpouring of support from the community during this time of grief has been phenomenal, and has undoubtedly helped my family cope with such a devastating loss.

Unfortunately, the sensitivity of the people of Glengarry found no parallel in the Glengarry News. It would be more than an understatement to say that we found the picture displayed on the front page of the April 13, 1994 edition offensive and categorically inappropriate. Your picture of the wreckage of Kieran's car on the day of his funeral simply pandered to morbid sensationalism without regard to the feelings of those who knew him. Do you call this journalism? We call it voyeurism.

You purport to be a ''community newspaper,'' but your paper did not even have the common decency to contact our family or visit our home. The other newspapers in the area, geographically and emotionally divorced from the situation, showed the compassion that The News should have demonstrated by meeting with our family, offering their condolences and inquired as to whether we were prepared to share our thoughts about Kieran.

We remember Kieran as a writer, a poet, a dedicated teacher, an entertainer, a person who required very few material possessions, and a very genuine and loving human being. Apparently many people in the area felt the same way about Kieran, for they patiently waited in line outside the funeral home for upwards of three hours to pay their last respects to Kieran and extend their deepest sympathies to our family.

It is indeed unfortunate that your newspaper did not hold Kieran in the same high regard as the community you purport to serve.

Yours very truly,
Kirsteen McCormick, on behalf of the McCormick family,
Alexandria.

Blaming does not help deal with tragedy

To the editor:

A tragedy hit Alexandria a few weeks ago and the media played an important role in covering the story. However, the population in general and the family members of the deceased four young men must continue to live their daily lives; but what difficulties must they face?

An event as tragic as this one brings about many thoughts and reactions which are very painfull for most people. How must we react in such circumstances? At first there is the element of surprise, the shock that such a dramatic event could happen so close to home (we always believe that it can happen elsewhere or to someone else but not to us). This is followed by feelings of sadness and depression and then anger sets in — how could such a tragic event like this one have happened and how could it have taken away the lives of four healthy young men with brilliant futures ahead of them?

All of these emotions create discomfort for those who are living them and they feel as though they must develop a way to chase them away. How? By finding people who are responsible, people they can blame? This reaction is completely normal because no one wants to carry the responsiblity for such a tragedy on their conscience. The newspapers have put a lot of emphasis on blame and accusations where this story is

Clan Donald

Highland Paths

by Ken McKenna

Why ''Clan Donald'' and not ''Clan MacDonald,'' like all the other clan associations? The answer is rather complicated. It has to do with the fact that Clan Donald was much more than a single family descended from a common progenitor, as was the claim of the other clans. The ''Donald'' of clan Donald was the grandson of Somerled, the half-Norse, half-Gael, who drove the Norsemen from Scotland in the 12th century. Somerled took over the lands formerly occupied by the Norsemen and became Regulus, or King, of the Isles. This sea-kingdom included vast tracts of the mainland of Scotland and in the north-east of Ireland and all the islands from the Isle of Man in the Irish Sea to the Butt of Lewis, the most northern spot in the Hebrides. The Lords of the Isles ruled their territory as a separate kingdom from Scotland for hundreds of years.

Only those directly descended from Donald are really MacDonalds by blood. The vast majority of those calling themselves MacDonald, (or any of the dozens of variations of the name), are those whose ancestors adopted the name for many reasons — through marriage or because they allied themselves with the most powerful clan in Scotland, or because it was expedient to do so. This was a common practice in the days of clan feuds, when the wrong name could get you into big trouble. These followers of Clan Donald were identified as ''Domhnullach,'' ''of the Donalds'' or ''belonging to the Donalds.'' (It is pronounced something like ''Dhon-ulluch,'' the ''ch'' pronounced softly as in ''loch.'') The same practice was followed in other places. The followers of the Royal Stuarts in the 17th and 18th centuries were known as ''Jacobites,'' after the Latin for James (Stuart). The followers of the powerful Norman-Irish Fitzgeralds were known as ''Geraldines,'' although very few were actually Fitzgeralds.

So in the Gaelic language, unless you are directly descended from the original Donald, as are all the chiefs of Clan Donald, you call yourself Domhnullach. No other clan has this distinction. There is no equivalent word for this in English, unlike the Fitzgerald ''Geraldines.'' In English, (and who spells their name in Gaelic anymore?), the name is MacDonald, or whatever version of the name is used in your particular family.

The Clan Donald Society of Glengarry-Stormont was revived a few years ago under the leadership of Duncan (darby) MacDonald. It is only right that the clan has an active group in this area. The overwhelming majority of the people who first started settling Glengarry over 210 years ago were MacDonalds. Contrary to the ad that appeared in the News on April 27 for the Clan MacLeod celebrations of the Glenelg immigration of 1794, many shiploads of Highlanders had arrived in Glengarry before the Glenelg settlers, from 1784 on, not to mention the earliest arrivals from the Mohawk Valley in New York.

The Glengarry Highland Society will sponsor Gaelic conversational classes for beginners, intermediate, and advanced learners from Saturday, May 7 to Saturday, June 11 from 1:15 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Glengarry District High School in Alexandria. Anyone who has attended these classes before can attest to Sine's success with the new language system she uses. After a very few lessons, learners start chatting away among themselves. It is great fun and an ideal way to spend a Saturday afternoon. Sine (Sheena) will also be leading more Gaelic song workshops later. For information, call 874-2861.

The other day, Bob Lemieux told the women in the drug store that he sang in the Gaelic Choir. ''We don't believe you!'' they said. Bob stood back and gave them a sampling. They believe him now. (The Gaelic Choir will be singing at the Clan Donald Ceilidh at the Maxville Sports Complex this Friday, May 6, at 8 p.m., along with many other star performers. You can hear some of Glengarry's best and dance the night away, with an early lunch thrown in, all for $5.)

Maxville in danger of slipping into obscurity

To the editor:

Where does Maxville fit in? An excellent question!

When your correspondent, Gordon Winter, posed this query in his column, April 20, 1994, he may have thought of it as rhetorical. I would suggest that the answer is not that simple and requires some serious soul-searching by the village's residents.

Since moving here nine years ago I have been struck by two things. One being the proud heritage of this community. The other being the unwillingness of many within the community to realize that times have changed and that no person, no group, no village, can survive on past glory.

During the last 100 years, while most other communities in the area have grown and flourished, the population of Maxville, in absolute numbers, has remained unchanged. This is not in itself a bad thing but, when linked to other issues, I believe it to be a symptom of a deeper problem. It seems that Maxville has become more isolated and inward-looking while the rest of the world is looking outward.

As an example, if you were to look at any world atlas of suitable scale you would find Maxville. Why? . . . because of the railway. In the past, any community important enough to have a station was important enough to be "on the map," literally. Yet, when the Save the Train committee was trying to organize opposition to the proposed closing of the CN line, well publicized meetings held in Maxville were notable for the lack of attendance by local residents. Alexandria and Kenyon successfully carried on the battle without Maxville.

This is not the only illustration. In most of the economic and social development activities, in which I have been involved, Maxville has failed to provide any leadership. The recent meeting, to which Mr. Winter referred, is another case in point. Collectively and individually, Kenyon council members organized a workshop to try to establish an economic development organization for North Glengarry, to benefit the entire area. This meeting was very well publicized, and yet again Maxville was notable for the absence of any formal representation.

I was there as one of several members representing the Maxville & District Chamber of Commerce, but I had no brief to represent the Village of Maxville and neither did anyone else. Lochiel, Kenyon and Alexandria all had representatives present. The name of Maxville quite simply never came up in a formal context. Dunvegan, on the other hand, was held up as example of the ideal model for low impact economic development today and into the 21st century. Ironic, eh?

All this has the potential for a tragedy. Despite the best efforts of a few (including Mr. Winter), Maxville is in danger of slipping into obscurity. Its proud heritage could become a footnote in the history books. Unless it is prepared to "get serious" about its place in the here and now, Maxville might as well give up, merge with Kenyon and save its ratepayers the cost of maintaining a redundant administration.

And, just in case you think this is aimed solely at the policitians, it isn't. Although I believe that those who run for leadership roles should lead, I also believe it is the responsibility of all citizens to become actively involved in their community and to participate in setting its course for the future. If they don't, they forfeit the right to complain.

As for the Highland Games, I am prepared to commit heresy. The way it is currently organized it does not deserve more than a one line mention because, as far as I can see, it brings very little real economic benefit to the area . . . most of the money it generates does not even stay here. If I am wrong, I will be pleased to be corrected.

Yours sincerely,
Michael Cowley-Owen,
Maxville.

Placing blame does not help deal with tragedy concerned — this stems from matters of justice but it does not settle the difficulties of those who must meet or see people on a daily basis who could have been directly or indirectly involved in this tragedy.

What can we do as a community in such a situation? One thing is for sure: nothing will bring back the four young men. Can we prevent other similar catastrophes? Yes, I sincerely believe we can. How? By analyzing the cirmustances of this drama. This misfortune could have happened to anyone, even to us!

Concretely and practically, what can we really do?

1) This accident must serve as a reminder that these things can happen to anyone.

2) We should support and encourage the government's approach in its reform in the issuing of licence permits. Maybe it deprives the younger people of certain freedoms, but it could save a great deal of injuries and lives.

3) Many people are directly touched by this drama. Listen to them and if certain people have more difficulty than others in dealing with this bereavement, give them the support they need, and if necessary, help them obtain services from professional mental health workers.

4) No one should pass up the opportunity to share their emotions because the result could be much more damaging if they are kept bottled up inside.

In conclusion, I would like to remind you that anger and the need to place blame on someone else are normal reactions, but unfortunately, it does not solve anything. If you or someone you know feels the need to get help, do not hesitate to obtain services provided in your community.

MOEE's acquiescence in sewage dump no surprise

To the editor:

We are not one bit surprised at MOEE's approval of the sewage dump into the Delisle River.

We have reported to this same ministry, the construction of a ditch which is constantly draining the Alexandria landfill site into our creek which then flows into the Delisle River.

It has now been 13 months since we have physically shown this ditch to MOEE.

Our late mother had sent a registered letter and we have continued to send several registered letters to MOEE's Cornwall office and Toronto office asking that this be checked into. Nothing. Absolutely nothing was done — no remedial action, no testing.

Unless someone can prove to us that brownish, blueish, reddish and foaming water is not a sign of pollutants, we will continue to be alarmed about this ditch and its impact.

MOEE have also been advised about the town's deliberate destruction of their buffers in 1988/1989. Nothing was done — now, there is a problem and the town must expropriate?

No, we are not surprised about the "sewage dump" and we are convinced that the MOEE's lack of action about the Alexandria landfill site situation amounts to their approval — their approval allowing the ditch to drain freely; their approval without response and checking into and, therefore, without consideration on their part going into the impact it has on the environment.

We are disappointed citizens as we thought MOEE's primary concern and purpose was the protection of the environment.

Sincerely,
Carmen Viau, Claudette
MacKay, R.R.2, Alexandria.

Town is unfair in tendering for sewer work: contractor

To the editor:

On April 12th, the Town Council Environmental Committee accepted two quotations, one for sewer cleaning, and one for catch basin cleaning.

On both of these quotations they did not accept the lowest quoted price.

The whole point of having work tendered or quoted on by a town or municipality is to get quality work at the best possible price for their taxpayers.

Sewer-Matic Drain Service Ltd. is prepared to provide the residents of Alexandria with quality service, and the best price.

Our highly-trained and skilled operators, along with state of the art sewer and catch basin cleaning equipment, makes this possible.

I wonder how many other tenders or quotes your town councillors accept the higher quotes on. I sure hope your property and business taxes are not going up!

While writing this letter to the editor, I received an abusive threatening phone call from one of the town's employees. He explained to me that the contractor with the higher price got the job because he had bene doing this work since 1979.

If this is the case why bother wasting the other contractors time and money and just give it to that same contractor.

I would hope the town people of Alexandria would want to get better value for their tax dollar.

I am hopeful that the Mayor of Alexandria will offer some sort of explanation to the taxpayers, as to why this was allowed to happen.

Thieves steal safe and van in Loeb heist

Police Briefs

Thieves made away with the safe containing an undisclosed amount of money and the company delivery van on Sunday night when they broke into the Loeb grocery store on Main Street.

Thieves got into the store through a hole they carved in the roof, then gained access to the safe by carving a second hole in the wall of the office.

They set the safe onto a dolly and wheeled it to the loading bay where they put the safe into the delivery van.

"It was probably a professional job," said Deveau, "by people not from around here."

The van is described as a white 1994 Chevrolet with the license plate VP8264.

Lock your car!

Alexandria Police warn residents to lock up their cars after 11 unlocked vehicles were entered Friday night and some of their contents stolen.

Judging by the way the crimes were done, Police Chief Paul Deveau said, "It's probably a group of young people."

A 1991 Firefly was entered at 117 Catherine Street, and the glove compartment was sifted through but nothing was stolen.

At 147 St Paul St. three vehicles were entered.

Insurance and registration papers were stolen from a red Mercury, a wallet containing cash and credit cards was stolen from a 1994 Dodge sedan and nothing was missing from a 1983 Chevrolet sedan.

A folder containing an OHIP health card and personal papers went missing from a 1990 Cutlass at 166 St. Paul St.

Two more cars were entered at 97 St. George St., where six cassette tapes, a fishing reel and two pairs of sunglasses were taken from a Honda.

Nothing was missing from an Acadian that was also entered at the same address.

Two pairs of sunglasses and one pair of prescription eye wear was stolen from a vehicle at 83 St. George St.

On Sandfield St. a 1979 International tandem truck sustained minor damage on the driver's side door when thieves broke in and stole an equalizer.

A Motorola cellular telephone with a value of $400 was taken from a white van at 186 Bishop St.

Also on Bishop St., three pairs of dress pants and a grey leather jacket was stolen from a 1993 Chevy Lumina parked at 119 Bishop. Total value of $520.

Money stolen in Charlottenburgh

CRIME STOPPERS ECHEC AU CRIME

Crime Stoppers needs help to solve a break, enter and theft in Charlottenburgh Township where thieves got away with $2,300 in coins and bills.

Sometime between Feb. 13 and March 8, a 14-page Olympic coin set, two gold coins, $500 in small change and $200 in small bills were stolen from a residence at R.R. 2 Cornwall.

Information called in on this or any other crime could qualify the caller for a cash reward of up to $1,000.

Call Crime Stoppers at 937-8477 or 1-800-265-8477.

High-priced repairs

The Maxville OPP suspect a contractor may be defrauding an elderly man in Kenyon Township by charging him $37,000 for minor home repairs.

"We don't know for certain if it's fraud or not," said Sgt. Bob Closs, "but we are looking at it."

The man was charged the high bill for several minor repairs including installing a steel door, replacing a tin roof on a 10 foot by 10 foot shed, removing a tree, dumping a load of gravel in the laneway and installing a pre-cast step.

Sgt. Closs suggests, "If you're going to have house repairs done, make sure you know the person."

Compressor stolen

Sometime between April 27 and 30 a barn on Leitch Road was broken into and an air compressor was stolen.

The 3.5 hp compressor is described as blue-grey with a value of $750.

Recoverd car

A black 1985 Oldsmobile stolen from Cornwall was found in Summerstown Station on April 29 by Lancaster OPP.

Seatbelt challenge

Students surveyed Lancaster drivers on Saturday as part of the national Seatbelt Challenge Campaign and found 90 per cent of area drivers use seatbelts.

The results of the student survey will be compared to the results from other communities across Canada.

Char-Lan District High School students stopped 234, using traffic survey signs at the corner of Hwy. 34 and County Road 17, and found 211 drivers were buckled up.

To ensure accurate results, the police were not with the students, as many people buckle up at the sight of a police cruiser.

Arena ransacked

A group of people broke into the Glengarry Sports Palace on Monday night and stole the contents of the safe after making a mess of four rooms.

The troublemakers entered the palace through a panel over a door in the back of the building and went into the figure skaters' locker room, storage room, main office and canteen.

In the main office, thieves broke into the safe and stole an undisclosed amount of cash including about $400 in quarters.

In the other rooms, the group threw the contents of cupboards around, broke doors and windows and generally vandalized the premises.

St. Lawrence parks are getting ready for 1994 season

Air out your tent, dust off your trailer, bring the boat out of storage and get ready for a season filled with sun and fun.

Glengarry Park, Mille Roches and Woodlands Campsites and Picnic Areas, McLaren Campsite, Crysler Beach, Riverside-Cedar and Ivy Lea Campsites and Brown's Bay Picnic Area will all start their operating season on May 20.

The Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary will offer Nature Awareness Camping from July 1 to August 26.

New wilderness campsites will be available at Ivy Lea this year, and Mille Roches Campsite will offer 30 new electrical sites.

Planning a family or corporate get-together? Bookings can also be made for group picnic sites at Crysler Beach, Woodlands, Mille Roches and Brown's Bay Picnic Areas.

Things are starting to stir at the Upper Canada Golf Course where the Pro Shop is presently open Monday to Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Until the end of May, golfers may be interested in purchasing a season's pass, for sale at special 1993 rates.

As well, this is a good time for booking summer and fall banquets and tournaments. Weather permitting, the golf course will open for play at the end of April.

Cruising around to look for a summer anchoring spot? The Crysler Park Marina has again been improved; in addition to a wide range of services, it now offers 20 new 40 foot docks.

The Harbourmaster's Office is currently open Thursday through Monday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and seasonal boating opportunities are still available. The Marina will officially open in May, weather permitting.

Early spring is also an ideal time for wildlife and spring flower watching at the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary.

Visitors will find 8 km of walking trails teeming with returning waterfowl and other animal species, but not yet with mosquitoes.

For camping and picnic reservations and a 1994 calendar of events, please call the Parks of the St. Lawrence at (613) 543-3704. The Upper Canada Golf Course can be reached at (613) 543-2003 and the Crysler Park Marina at (613) 543-3254.

Alexandria pledges support to summer youth Olympics

Relative, mother of teen accident victim hope project will raise funds for youth centre

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Alexandria has pledged its support to an Olympics program involving area youth over the summer at Island Park.

The town's youth and special events committee will be meeting to decide what ways it can assist the Olympic program.

Council members also said they will cover up to $6,000 in costs, but have not yet put that commitment into a resolution.

The program was pitched to Alexandria council last Tuesday by organizer Glenys Bartlett, as a way to get youths involved in positive activities over the summer break.

Bartlett, a relative of one of the teens killed in March's horriffic crash,as well as Carole Deguire, the mother of one of the four teens , and one youth were at the council table to make the presentation.

The program aims are twofold; to involve youths from 6 to 14 years in different types of Olympic-oriented activities in the summer and to give older teens from age 15 years and up the responsibility of operating the program and earning a profit.

The youths can form teams and get three morning practice sessions a week at the park to hone their skills for a final Olympic competition at summer's end. The older teens will supervise, sell refreshments and possibly orchestrate other activities of their own.

The end goal, says Bartlett, is the formation of a self-supporting, totally teen-run youth centre to provide activities for youths and adults alike.

Council members were quick to endorse the deal last Tuesday, but were reluctant to make any firm commitments until it was first discussed at the committee level.

Councillor Archie McDougall said whatever the cost is for the event, it would be so small compared to the money council spends each year that there should be no question about supporting the project.

The community should be involved in the project indirectly under council; "that way everybody in the town can participate, he said to the applause of a jam-packed visitors gallery.

Councillor John Hope, chairman of the parks and recreation committee, said a ceiling must be set if council is to cover any losses out of the program.

Told by Bartlett that $6,000 should adequately cover any potential loss from the event, Hope said he would take it into consideration. But Bartlett added, that money is not her primary concern.

Reeve Bruno Massie had proposed council wait for two weeks before making a decision, but was told by Bartlett there was no time to delay.

Councillor Roger Lemieux however said there was no reason council could not give immediate support to the plan.

"They are looking to see if the town is in agreement with our proposal," he said.

Told by council members around the table that they do favor the project, he said: "Then let's go ahead with it."

McDougall also pushed to get immediate approval from council. "Mr. Mayor, all we young people say: Let's go now, let's go now," he said to the roar of crowd, so large many were left standing on the sidewalk outside of town hall.

A youth making the presentation with Bartlett said it is council's responsibility to take measures to help youths.

"I don't think there's one person here that can tell us they don't want to support our youth in Alexandria," said Natalie Lajoie, a youth involved in the presentation.

"I think for a long time the youth has been ignored, not by choice but because that is the way things were."

"And I think now, given everything that has happened, it is time to give consideration to our youth," she told council members.

Provincial road funding staying the same: minister

The provincial government is providing municipalities with $704.5 million in funding for municipal roads in 1994, the same amount spent last year.

''This investment brings enormous economic benefit and creates thousands of needed jobs in communities across the province,'' said Transportation Minister Gilles Pouliot.

The funding supports both regular activities and supplementary or special, one-time projects that the province's 882 municipalities and First Nations have planned.

The government is also providing an additional $722 million for municipalities during the next two years through the Canada-Ontario Infrastructure Works program.

The $2.1-billion program will help municipalities make local infrastructure improvements, creating up to 25,000 jobs province-wide.

Pouliot said that the investment in municipal roads would ensure the efficient movement of goods and enhance road safety, as a step towards the government's goal of making Ontario's roads the safest in North America.

''We are pleased to be able to provide this level of support to create and sustain thousands of jobs in the province,'' said Finance Minister Floyd Laughren.

''We recognize that capital spending is one of the best ways to stimulate the economy.''

Municipal roads transfers represent the province's share of the cost of building and maintaining local roads, highways, bridges and other structures, as well as installing traffic signals and controls systems for the safe, efficient movement of traffic.

Allocations to individual municipalities will be announced in the next few days.

The 1994 allocation is equivalent to last year's commitment, after the Expenditure Control Plan and in-year constraints were completed.

Easter Seal campaign needs boost

I had met other parents who share the same disappointments.''

The five Easter Seals camps are the largest summer programs for campers with special needs in Canada.

Campers participate in a host of recreational activities including horseback riding, sailing, swimming and other sports and physical activities.

Cadieux said all parts of her daughter's life are made easier with help from Easter Seals, even going to school.

Easter Seals public nurse Mary Moore advised and worked with Alexander Public School to who them how to accommodate Kay, making it possible for her to attend regular Pre-Kindergarten classes.

Cadieux said the only problems the teacher sometimes has in the classroom is with other students vying for Kay's attention and arguing over who can sit with her.

The teacher has solved the problems by letting the class 'leader of the day' sit beside Kay, push her wheelchair and pick who gets to sit on the other side of her.

Cadieux said Easter Seals becomes a part of your life when raising a disabled child and it is one of the only places she can turn to for financial help.

''Kay needs a lot of equipment but we can't afford it,'' said Cadieux.

In the past few years Easter Seals has provided Cadieux with partial funding to purchase over $4,000 of equipment including a car seat, toilet seat and tricycle.

Right now Cadieux is doing a juggling act to find money to purchase her daughter's first wheelchair, a piece of equipment that can cost several thousand dollars and with a growing child will need to be replaced every few years.

So far, Kay has been using borrowed chairs, lent to her from Easter Seals and she will likely ask them for about $1,200 to buy the chair.

''It's hard because I don't want to ask Easter Seals for everything but Kay needs this stuff.''

Many of the services Easter Seals provide benefit Kay directly, said Cadieux, while other services are geared to her as a parent including support services through nurses who visit regularly and provide the most current information. As well as a Parent-to-Parent Link Support Services that offer parents the opportunity to meet their peers.

''I think Easter Seals helped me the most by giving the most up-to-date information on Anglemen's.''

Anglemen's Syndrome is a rare genetic disorder, discovered in 1975, with only 46 cases of it in Canada.

It occurs when a piece of a particular chromosome is missing, causing a neurological response that leaves a person with coordination problems and an inability to speak.

Walking is possible but is usually delayed until the person is 4 to 8 years old.

A very happy demeanor and shaky, puppet-like movement is also typical of Anglemen's and it is usually accompanied by severe to profound mental retardation.

With all the good Easter Seals does for Kay and other children in Alexandria, Cadieux said she finds it hard to accept the disappointing fundraising results here, proving people are not interested in supporting this worthy cause.

And as a member of Easter Seals' parent delegate committee she said she sees other communities like Pembroke do extremely well, while Alexandria stays in the red year after year.

''Can they (people of Alexandria) not accept my child's disability as well as other towns?''

The Easter Seals Society was founded in 1924 and is an agency dedicated to helping children with physical disabilities reach their potential and gain independance.

Children under 19 and their families benefit through nurse visits, summer camp programs, research and financial assistance.

Donations can be made by contacting any member of the Lion's Club, by mailing back donation envelopes received or attending the Monster Bingo for Easter Seals at the Sports Palace at the end of June.

Program preps kids for college

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News* reporter

In an ever-changing world the key to success is being prepared.

A community college preparation program being developed at Glengarry District High School will prepare people for the change from high school or the workplace to college life.

The program, initiated by Tina Cairncross, physical education department head and guidance councillor, and David McPherson, librarian, will begin in February 1995.

It is being offered as a final semester choice for graduating students who want to attend college and to adults in the community who are planning to return to the classroom.

The curriculum is flexible, allowing the course to be customized to suit each student in the areas of communications skills, social science, computers, keyboarding, note taking, financial planning, career guidance, personal life mangement and college coping skills.

"We're trying to arrange for a soft landing," said GDHS principal Ed Turpin.

Turpin said the course will start with the basics such as making attendance the student's responsiblity, giving them a head start on being the adult they are expected to be when they reach college.

They will learn how to budget their money so that they will be less tempted to spend unwisely when they receive several thousand dollars in grant and loan money at once.

Students will also learn some skills they will need in their new classrooms such as keyboarding in order to hand in typed assignments, how to take notes during a lecture and effective study techniques.

Interpersonal communication will also be addressed in the curriculum and students will be taught interview techniques as well as how to ask questions during a lecture.

Because the course is flexible it also allows the students to tailor their studies so they may take prerequisites needed like computer courses or social science.

The premise is that the better-prepared student will be more successful and less likely to drop out of college.

"You hear about so many students dropping out of college and I hope this will help me (not to)," said Julie Mason, 16, who will attend the program next year and plans to work with abused children.

The program is offered as a full-time course lasting for one semester and successful students will earn four high school credits as well as a possible exemption from level 1 English college course.

"I hope to gain some knowledge of how college works and some preparation," said Jeff Breckenridge, 18, who wants to take marine biology after high school.

Students taking the program will be enrolled at GDHS but the program will run independently of the school.

By extending the program to the community Turpin said he hopes high school students will learn from the adults who take the course.

"I hope it impresses on students that learning is not going to end in high school or college, that learning is on-going."

Acceptance into the program is limited and is based on a selection process that includes a personal interview.

Program information may be obtained at the GDHS guidance office.

Council Briefs

The April meeting of Maxville council was held a week later on April 19, in order to have a full attendance of members. The following are some of the items of business discussed.

Infrastructure program

Clerk Connie Charbonneau was instructed to investigate the costs for a second floor in the sports complex and for new kitchen/washroom areas for the hall.

Also, a new sturdy sign is planned for the corner of Fair and Mechanic Streets to advertise the dates of the Kenyon Agricultural Society's Fair and the Glengarry Highland Games.

These two organizations will be asked for financial assistance to have this sign erected.

The CNR station

It was decided to include plans for the station in the Infrastructure program because of the lease terms on the land that are very definite.

However, it is hoped that others will show an interest in the renovation and eventual use of this historic building.

1993 Financial Statement

Winston Irving from MacKillican and Associates presented the 1993 financial statement for the village and its areas of interest. The bottom lines are as follows:

The village had a surplus of $81,527. The Recreation Committee has a surplus of $1,979. The sports complex has a deficit of $23,600 and Maxville Hydro had a surplus of $10,600.

Manor delegation

A delegation representing employees of the Maxville Manor was given time to explain the present situation there, as they see it.

June Nixon was spokesperson. Mrs. Nixon explained that the Manor's floor area has been expanded but the number of residents reduced.

Ninety rooms will be private ones with washroom facilities. Staff donated to the project but members "did not know that they were buying their way out of jobs."

A cut of 60,000 staff hours has been made while it takes 2.33 nursing care hours/resident/day to provide adequate care.

It was moved by Ewen MacDonald and seconded by Ruth MacQueen that a letter be sent to the Hon. Ruth Grier, Minister of Health, explaining "our concern with the anticipated cuts in grants to Maxville Manor. We feel that the quality of care available at the Manor will be jeopardized as will the economic wellbeing of the community."

Ground monitoring at lagoon site

M. S. Thompson and Associates will be authorized to do additional work at a cost of $1,200 for the survey and interpretation of the data from the piezometers at the sewage lagoon.

Water level readings determine the water table and this information is required to establish ground water flow direction.

Caring for Life

By Dr. George McKiel

Anorexia and Glengarry Teens

1 in 10 of our high school/college girls are destined to have an eating disorder. It's much more rare in male teens. Advertising can be informative, entertaining and creative, but, in any guise, it is manipulative and it is this aspect that can be profoundly convincing for young adults. Most Glengarrians simply accept advertising as the warp and woof of community living, yet, for those vulnerable to its incessant message(s), advertising can be deadly. Take the case of Anorexia Nervosa, the disorder characterized by loss of appetite and bizarre patterns of eating — it's really a subconsciously, self-imposed starvation. Advertising depicts the young, sexy female as a lithe, good looking but rather thin person, which to a normal young adult then creates a subconscious image that her body is too heavy. Her guilt at not being the same as her image begins to impose emotional conflicts which can culminate in a self-imposed and progressive starvation.

Once on that road, the starvation regime becomes a steady habit, until the physical consequences are so severe that the young person becomes emaciated. One case I heard of recently dropped from 120 lbs. down to 75 lbs. - a medical disaster. By then the lowered basal metabolism becomes associated with other complications; depression, impaired mental performance, liver and kidney dysfunction, the latter manifested by a tendency to void large amounts of urine. It will also reflect in a cessation of menstruation, another devastating worry. Ultimately the disinterest in food, the starvation regime, can bring death from sheer starvation or one of its complications.

Discussing anorexia with the dietician at the Eastern Ont. Health Unit brought out some sinister aspects. Girls as young as 9 yrs. have become anorexic and with today's bulky clothes fashions it's easy to hide the resulting skinnyness. The victim becomes so habituated in her denial of food that she devises crafty ways to conceal it from her teasing schoolmates or parents. Often she will eat with them but then heads straight for the bathroom to induce vomiting. Such a pattern may then lead to another eating disorder, bulimia, that typically affects single, middle class, young, white females. It's also called the binge/purge syndrome for uncontrolled overeating is followed by forced vomiting or overdoses of laxatives. Again, this binge/purge cycle is a response to fears of being overweight, stress, depression. Bulimia (bous = ox, limos = hunger) can upset the body's electrolyte balance and increase susceptability to flu, salivary gland infections, dry skin, acne, muscle spasms, loss of hair, kidney and liver problems. Both anorexia and bulimia are a very private thing so it's difficult for parents or even close friends to spot the affliction. However, much harm can be done unless their Glengarry physician can refer them to the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ont. (Ottawa) where hospitalization, psychotherapy and medical treatment will be used to break the wasting disease.

Roy's take 'Top 10' again this year

Business Beat

By Joe Banks, 525-2020

For the second consecutive year, Roy's Pontiac-Buick-Cadillac of Green Valley has placed in the top 10 General Motors dealerships for customer satisfaction in Canada.

It's a feat of great achievement. Roy's owner Bob Labonte said the honor stems from the prestigious President's Triple Crown award which recognizes the top 100 dealerships in Canada according to vehicle sales, parts and service and business management.

While the Labontes were attending the GM Presidents Triple Crown business meeting April 10 at the Ritz-Carleton in Amelia Island in Florida, Bob was requested to accept the honor in front of hundreds of his peers.

GM president George Peoples and Tom Mason, executive vice president of GM Canada, personally rewarded Bob in front of the dealers with a gold Triple Crown pin with the number 10 marked on it, designating the customer satisfaction honor. Bob received the same honor on behalf of the dealership last year.

GM determines customer satisfaction from a questionnaire sent out to clientele. Says Bob, "We are rated according to the responses from the customers, which is really nice because it is the customers who make us what we are."

Special section to highlight events

We've counted over 20 special events taking place in Glengarry County this summer, and The Glengarry News will be producing a special section to highlight them all.

To be released mid-June, some 30,000 copies of the section will be printed and distributed through the News and the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder. It will highlight the county and the myriad of events that will be taking place here.

Any business wishing to advertise in this section can contact the advertising department at 525-2020. The deadline for inclusion is Friday, June 3.

Children's clothing service

Carol Munday, formerly of Montreal, has established a new children's clothing service offering a shop-at-home concept in Williamstown.

Called Karol's Kids, the business will offer brand-name designer funwear at discount prices. Each hostess who books a home show is given an introductory gift as well as special discounts on all purchases.

The clothing is for children from sizes 12 months to 14 years. Carol can be called at 347-2939.

At the same location, Picton-native Aubrey Johnson, a professional photographer with over 23 years experience, has established a lamination business.

Aubrey offers a personalized pick-up and delivery service, as well as a variety of laminating techniques to complement any decor, whether business or residential. Call the above number to view a portfolio of samples or to request a flyer.

Marcel Levac hasn't moved!

A slip-up in last week's Business Briefs relating to The Cottage Blue left some readers with the impression that Brown House honey specialist Marcel Levac has left.

Well, the Levacs are still in their familiar home. The Cottage Blue was once owned by Marcel's father.

Sorry about the confusion.

Chasing industry no longer is a reality for economic development

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Big industry can no longer be relied on to boost the economies of small communities, people were told at a North Glengarry Forum for Economic Development.

"It's not chasing smokestacks. There's not too many smokestacks to chase anymore," said Guy Desjardins of the Ontario Ministry of Economic Development and Trade.

Small industry is where communities are undergoing the most economic growth, he told about 50 people during the first of three panel discussions at the forum, held at the Apple Hill Community Centre.

Desjardins was one of four speakers in the first panel discussion. Other speakers were Susan Carter, executive director of the SD&G Community Futures Committee, Liz O'Gorman Smit of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs, and Neil Williamson, director of the SD&G Department of Economic Development.

It is the small businesses and industries that communities need to maintain their quality of life. And it is those small companies that his ministry is looking to help, Desjardins said.

His ministry can offer help to any Ontario-based company which does all its production, marketing and business decisions right here in Ontario.

"We're looking to help more Ontario home-based companies," he said.

Six different ministries work together under the program to help small, Ontario companies, which raises questions with some people.

"A lot wonder what happens when you ask six large egos to get into a room and work," Desjardins said.

But they should be looking at the benefits — access to five times the government staff they had access to before.

Noble Villeneuve, MPP for Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry and East Grenville, said those benefits are hard for the province's residents to find.

"What you say is very good if it would work."

Too often, people looking for assistance from the government get overburdened with departmental red tape, he said.

"By the time they get through the red tape, especially the ministry of environment, the wind has gone out of their sails."

He said the MOE in Kingston thinks its "God almighty" and people can't even cut a tree on their property without consulting with the Ministry of Natural Resources.

He said he doesn't want to throw water on good ideas. "But please, don't shoot them down before they get off the ground."

People and product combine to pack a punch at Rodger Grant Toyota

People and the product -- those are the two biggest advantages that Pat Landon, sales manager of Rodger Grant Toyota in Cornwall, feels he has over his competitors.

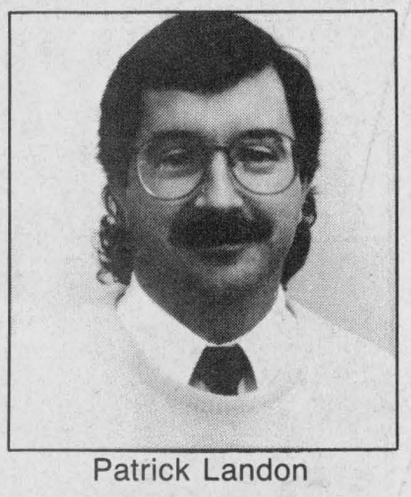
Pat, a veteran of the area's automobile industry for 14 years, says the people he works with at the dealership are superior in their fields and go out of their way to perform to the satisfaction of their customers.

He includes among the 10 full-time and two part-time employees, people like Brian Strachan, who Pat has worked with at other dealerships since 1983, and who he calls "the best parts man I've seen in the three United Counties."

And then there is the Glengarry connection; Class A mechanics Andre Paquette of Maxville and Doug MacLeod of Dunvegan, and business manager Tom Everson, from Lancaster who attended GDHS, and who has been with the dealership since 1988.

Pat and top-flight service manager Doug Kenny are both Cornwall natives, giving them an excellent insight into what their customers want.

"People want straight talk, good value for their buck and not to be talked down to," he says.



Patrick Landon

"One thing these guys do is listen." He describes their sales approach as "soft-sell."

Pat himself knows what he's talking about, having sold practically every type of car over the years with various dealerships throughout SDG. Fourteen years ago, he got involved in the automotive industry because "of a love for automobiles. I have a fascination for what cars can and cannot do, whether its stock, formula 1, it doesn't matter."

"But you know the nicest thing about selling somebody a great car is?" Pat says with pride. "It's selling them one and not being afraid to see them on the street. I love to call my customers and see how they're doing."

Coupled with top staff is the Toyota product itself, for which Pat feels there is "no comparison."

"It is not unusual to see a Toyota get up to 400,000 kilometres," the sales manager says. "People from all over North America are writing to the company telling them about it. They hold their value better than any other unit on the continent."

The Toyota Corolla, he says, will soon be the top-selling car of all time, and a recent CAA survey poll found that 97 per cent of Camry owners said they'd buy the same car again.

"New or used, these little toys run and run."

Behind that reputation is Rodger Grant Toyota's facilities which boasts a "state of the art" facility with three operational hoists.

With all of this going for it, it's no surprise that Rodger Grant Toyota is seeing its best business since Rodger Grant, (for decades a well-known force in the Cornwall automotive industry), bought the franchise in July of 1990.

And though modest in size, Landon says it's a modest dealership that packs a lot of punch.

"We're a lean, mean, fightin' machine," Pat says with a smile.

Glengarry's Summer to Remember

This summer promises to be the most event-filled in our county's long history, and we're helping you be part of it!

From the 200th anniversary of the Glenelg settlement in Lochiel Township to fairs, festivals and of course old favorites like the Glengarry Highland Games, the summer of '94 won't be one that will be easily forgotten. In fact, we've counted more than twenty events and attractions that we'll be featuring in a special supplement we're publishing in mid-June.

This special visitor's edition, done in a magazine format, will be distributed to 30,000 readers through The Glengarry News and the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder, and for as little as $49, your business or organization and any events you are planning can be represented.

Give us a call. Our advertising representatives will be happy to help you advertise that special message that our visitors and residents can use all summer long! The advertising deadline is Friday, June 3, so book your space early!

Open birthday party for Williamstown PS

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

Pretend you have just picked up your mail. Out from the pile of flyers tumbles something that looks like REAL mail. You open it and find it is an invitation to a birthday party. A 30th birthday party. The birthday party of an old friend — Williamstown Public School.

Yes, everyone loves a birthday party, and unlike some of those hurtful occasions when you were young, EVERYONE is invited to this one. And the best thing is — it lasts a whole week!

Be among the first guests at the party when it starts with opening ceremonies on Monday, May 9 at 10 a.m. Special guests in attendance will be former staff (including Kay Clark who is coming from St. Catharines), trustees past (George Irvine) and present (Art Buckland), municipal politicians (George Shoniker) and others equally famous!

Listen to the school choir and individual soloists, tap your toes to the piping of Derek MacGregor, and watch the lassies Highland dance. Say ''oooh'' as the mural of ''Williamstown through the seasons'' is unveiled, and say ''aaah'' after you have stuffed yourself on some of the huge birthday cake made by former staff member Nancy Gauthier. Go home and sleep it off.

The next day, watch students as they give demonstrations of skipping routines in their ''jump rope for heart'' project. Support them if you wish.

On Wednesday, step back in time to see history projects of former Williamstown greats — people, houses, churches, traditions. These projects are being created by senior students at the school and will be on display in the gym from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Thursday might be a better day to lose yourself in the past, however. That afternoon, beginning at 1 p.m., not only will you have the chance to view the history projects, but the whole school as well! In the library, film producers Brenda Lauzon and Verna Warden will show their video on all the old schools which have made up the present Williamstown Public. Memorabilia will be available for you to browse through, and if you have something of interest you would like to show, but don't want to part with, please bring it along for the day. Throughout the afternoon, tea will be served in the gym, with teachers of the old school, doing the pouring honors.

Rock 'n Roll to the music of ''The Prophets'' at the big dance being held Friday night, May 13 at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre. Tickets are available throughout Williamstown, at the school, or at the door.

The racing event of the year will trip off Saturday's Fun Fair being held at the school, beginning at 12 noon. The Principals' Tricky Trike Race pits present incumbent, Grant Edwards, against some of his valiant predecessors. An SOS has been issued today for a STURDY trike. If you have one you could lend the school for this event, please call Williamstown Public at 347-3461.

The Fun Fair features a barbecue lunch, games, games and more games, prizes, a book sale and a White Elephant sale.

This is an ideal family event, and it is hoped you will all join in the fun that your invitation promises. After all, you don't even have to RSVP!

Well, the secret is out. There will be a big change at Char-Lan DHS next September. Principal Brian Gilmour has been named head of the T. R. Leger School, and in his place, Mary Mayer will be coming to Williamstown.

In his five years at Char-Lan, Mr. Gilmour has been the ''ideas man'' and driving force behind a number of very worthwhile projects which have kept the school at the forefront of education, while at the same time, strengthening its students' ties with the past.

Because he has not gone yet, (and will certainly be here for the big reunion), it would be premature to list all the things he has done for Char-Lan (maybe he'll do some more before his time is up!)

In one of those strange coincidences that dot our lives, the day I heard of the change in principals, I happened to be reading a history book of my father's. There was a clipping in it about Simon Fraser, taken from the Jan. 7, 1967 edition of the Standard-Freeholder. I turned the page over, and there was a picture of Brian Gilmour in hockey garb, with an article about his spectacular play as a defenceman at Boston University!

Says the article: ''There isn't much that Gilmour doesn't do well, including book work, with Dean's List grades in the School of Education. He is also President of ''Scarlet Key,'' — the All-University Honorary Activities Society — which is the highest honor an undergraduate can attain at BU.''

Maybe my father was saving Brian's write-up; Simon Fraser just happened to be on the back!

I didn't stumble upon any old clippings about Mary Mayer, but I did manage a mini telephone chat with her. She says she is really looking forward to coming to Char-Lan and that she has heard good things about the school.

Being a rural lady (she's lived in Monkland for the past 18 years), Mary says she's happy to return to work in the country.

Originally from Cornwall, and a graduate of SLHS and the University of Ottawa, she began her teaching career in Cornwall with the Separate School Board, where she later became an elementary school principal.

She moved into secondary school work, when she joined the staff at Tagwi where she taught English and French.

The Alternative School was just a baby when Mary started there in 1980. Since then she has done a myriad of things for adult education, culminating in her present position of Assistant Dean at the T. R. Leger School.

We welcome Char-Lan's first female principal, and hope she will enjoy her stay in our school!

Results have been received from the University of Waterloo Math contests for students in Grades 9, 10 and 11 at Char-Lan.

Congratulations to Heather Kennedy, who scored top marks in the Pascal contest for Grade Nine and will receive a medal and a certificate of distinction for ranking in the top 25 per cent of all contestants in Canada. Allison Knight was second in Grade Nine, with Colin Kinnear placing third.

Mathieu Trudel scored very highly in the Cayley contest for Grade 10. He also receives a medal for top in the school, plus a certificate of distinction for ranking in the top 25 per cent. Sommer Robertson was second in Grade 10, and Carmelle Gagnon, third.

Michael Mahnkopf was the sole Grade 11 to write the Fermat Contest.

Lots of news from the Flipsen household these days. Grandchildren no. 16 and 17 for Corrie and Arnold were born during April.

Brett Dylan Massia was born on the 9th, a son for Carole and Marvin Massia, and a brother for Devon, who is 18 months old.

And on the 28th, another boy, Paul Michel was born to Myra and Michel Flipsen of Richmond. He is a brother for Nicholas who is five years old.

Sylvain Flipsen has left for six months of mission work in the Dominican Republic. While there Sylvain and his group of co-workers will assist in the building of houses, and infrastructure projects, as well as working in the fields. What an experience!

There's a new angel in the Vogel family. Crystal Linda Vogel arrived on April 13, weighing 8 lbs., to Paul and Linda Vogel who are now living near Apple Hill. Congratulations!

Guests are welcomed; members expected, to tomorrow (Thursday) night's meeting of the Historical Society at the Church-on-the-Hill in Alexandria at 8 p.m. Poet Gary Geddes will be reading from his works.

* * *

Community sympathy is sent to the Aitken and Kentell families on the passing of Kenneth Aitken on April 28, and to Jane O'Brien on the loss of her sister, Margaret Angela McDonell who passed away last Wednesday.

Education week events at Martintown Public

Martintown
by Lillian Rouleau

The school will welcome families and friends during an Open House, Wednesday evening, May 4th.

Visitors are encouraged to visit the classrooms and see the students' work prior to the program, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the gym.

There will be a lively jazz vocal presentation and the choir will be performing as well. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Great Owl book fair

Students have been browsing through the display of books set up as part of the Great Owl Book Fair, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings. All proceeds from the sale of books will go towards school activities.

Milk lunch bags

The Ontario Milk Marketing Board's Re-usable Milk Lunch Bags have been on sale at the school. The final date for orders is Thursday, May 5.

Orders must be pre-paid and the cost is $4 each. The lunch bags will be delivered in June, during Dairy Month.

School sweaters

The school is again taking orders for the ''Old Grist Mill'' T-shirts ($10) and sweatshirts ($20). The contact person is secretary Bev Runions, at 528-4423.

An order will be placed at the end of May, for delivery in June.

Students in music festival

The school will be entering two choirs and two double duets in this year's Kinsmen Music Festival. There will also be several soloists competing from the school.

The two choirs will be performing on Tuesday, May 10 at 10 and 11:15 a.m., at Aultsville Hall, St. Lawrence College.

The double duets will be performing on Monday, May 16, at 2 p.m. at Aultsville Hall.

Frog Chorus Hike

All nature lovers are invited to take part in the Frog Chorus Hike, Wednesday, May 18, at the Cooper Marsh. There will be a slide presentation in the Visitors' Centre at 8 p.m. followed by a hike through the marsh.

Dress for the weather, bring a flashlight and a $2 fee, and plan on spending an interesting time getting acquainted with the evening sights and sounds of the Cooper Marsh. The contact person is Rosemarie at 347-1332.

4-H News

On Saturday, April 30, 25 4-H members gathered at the Martintown Community Centre, to attend a five-hour session, which was a combination of four meetings of the spring 4-H ''Social Recreation'' Club.

For the first half of the day, members had two meetings and played games. Then, at noon, everyone ate their lunch, after which members had two other meetings and played some more fun games.

To wrap-up this 4-H project on social recreation, the last meeting will be at the Martintown Community Centre, on Wednesday evening, May 11.

Summer recreation programs

Registrations are being held at the township recreation department all through the week of May 2 to 6, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., for the following activities: minor soccer, tennis lessons and membership, roller

Charlottenburgh reviews water and sewer rates

By Sue Harrington
News* correspondent

Charlottenburgh will review water and sewage user rates within the Purcell System, council decided at a regular meeting April 25.

The decision follows the separate appearances before council of two ratepayers — one a businessman, the other a cottager — both seeking relief from what they considered to be unfair charges.

The businessman, Howard Benson, owner of the Blue Anchor Restaurant, was successful earlier this year, in having his charges lowered.

A staff report on cottager Ron Keddy's request, however, recommended that the flat rate fee of $775 per annum per unit, that he and all other residential users pay, be reaffirmed.

Councillor Frank Prevost objected to the staff report's recommendation.

"I agree with Mr. Keddy," said Prevost. "It's unfair to charge full rate to a cottager who is only able to use his building six months of the year."

Reeve Dave MacDonald countered that various "snowbirds" who go south in the winter only use their residences half the year.

He also reported that Keddy's neighbor pays the $775 per year although he doesn't use a single drop of water because he didn't hook up to the system.

"I don't see him here asking for relief," said the reeve.

Councillor Don Kannon suggested that cottages which were in existence before the system was installed should be allowed to be assessed at less than one unit.

"But we should grandfather it so that while people who are caught up in it are not penalized, if a cottage is sold it would revert to one unit.

Reeve MacDonald warned, "This water issue is going to come up again and again. If you want to change the system, let's look at the whole thing."

The suggested resolution to maintain the flat rate at $775 was deferred.

Meanwhile administration was instructed to prepare a report which would review the system and suggest possible changes to it.

skating and arts and crafts.

Minor ball registration

Registration will be held Monday, May 16 from 6 to 7 p.m., at the fire hall for youths wanting to play ball this summer. The fee is $5.

The T-Ball teams, for 6 to 8 year-olds, will play on Mondays at 6:30 p.m., as will the minor ball teams, for 9 to 12 year-olds. The teens' teams, for 13 to 16 year-olds, will play on Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. Games will begin the week of June 6th.

Coaches are still needed and volunteers can sign up on registration night. The contact persons are Mary, at 528-4352, Bonnie at 528-4573 and Anita at 528-4405.

Tri Star basketball

The Optimist Club sponsored a Tri-Star basketball competition, testing the youths in their skills of passing, dribbling and shooting. The event was held in the gym of the Martintown Public School, Sunday afternoon, May 1.

First place winners received a $25 gift certificate, and second place finishers received a $10 gift certificate. Plaques will be presented at a later date. Refreshments were served after the competition.

In the 8-9 year old category: Douglas Winn, first with 66 points; Timothy Rouleau, second with 58 points. In the 10-11 year-old category, Melissa and Tyler Doyle tied with 121 points, and Margaret Winn placed second with 112 points. In the 12-13 year-old category, Rachelle Desjardins placed first with 129 points and Barry Clark was second with 128 points.

Many thanks to Principal Dave Irwin for the use of the gym, and congratulations to all the participants.

Fishing derby

Youths are invited to participate in the Kids' Fishing Derby sponsored by the Optimist Club, Sunday afternoon, May 15, at the park. There is no registration fee, and kids up to 16 years old may register, beginning at 12:30 p.m. Prizes will be awarded for the biggest, the smallest, and the most fish caught.

Garage sale

Anyone wishing to reserve a table in the Community Garage Sale sponsored by the community library, please contact Jeanette Arnot at 528-4522.

The sale will be held at the Martintown Public School, indoors and outdoors, Saturday, May 14, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Anyone wishing to donate used items in good condition for the Optimist Club table, please contact Liliane Rouleau at 528-4972.

Optimist Club

In lieu of their regular meeting for the first Thursday of the month, Martintown members will join the Lagan Optimists for an inter-club visit, and will share their Optimist experience and activities with them, Thursday evening, May 5.

The next regular meeting will be held Thursday, May 19, in the Martintown Community Centre, at 7:30 p.m.

Line dancing — time change

The line dancing group is having a great time each Wednesday morning, and there are still openings available. The cost is $2 per session on a pay-as-you-go basis. The instructor is Beverly Hincks, and the class will now begin at 9:15 a.m., and last one hour.

Kenyon Township

Council Briefs

The following items were discussed by Kenyon Township council at the regular meeting April 26 in Greenfield.

Invoice check

Check of an invoice from Kenyon Township drainage consultants McNeely Engineering, saved $2,240 in duplicate hour charges.

Council members questioned charges for McNeely consultants to attend a drainage convention.

"I can't see why we have to pay a consultant to attend a training seminar," Councillor Owen Walker objected.

A McNeely representative explained that his firm usually spread expenses of a work-related convention among its clients.

McNeely had not gotten approval from Kenyon council to add the charges.

Councillor Blair Williams said Kenyon should be asking for much more detail on consultants' invoices, "we must watch all our consulting arrangements closely."

McNeely Engineering was asked to bring back fuller information on its invoice to the next meeting of council.

Religious scruples

When Emile Theoret told Kenyon council he could not use the township garbage dump on Saturdays, the only day it is open to the public, he was allowed to make orther arrangements.

Theoret, a Seventh Day Adventist whose holy day is Saturday, was told to call Kenyon Roads department and make arrangements for the dump site gate to be unlocked, when needed. Theoret said he makes only a few trips each year.

Trial hours

Kenyon roads department employees are going on a four-day 10-hour-a-day work week, for a trial period from May to September.

The shorter week, which leaves road crews off work on Fridays, will save $4,318 in wages. Crews will be available for emergency call-outs on Fridays.

Crews will work from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. Early morning hours were recommended, mornings are cooler and there is less traffic on township roads.

Tenders

Blair Construction of Roxborough, which has a gravel pit in Kenyon, bid lowest at $184,750 to supply gravel, stone dust and quarry stone to Kenyon Township. Three firms bid on the contract.

Canada Transport Tank Lines was the only bidder on a calcium tender at $33,928.

Charlottenburgh boundary

Kenyon council disagreed with a resolution from Charlottenburgh to surface the boundary road between the two townships with the "triple chip method."

"We've got to meet Charlottenburgh council and discuss surfacing this road," Councillor Gwen Morris suggested.

"The decision can't be made by just the reeves and roads superintendents, this is a high traffic road."

Kenyon applied for $25,000 infrastructure grant and a $50,000 supplementary grant, for the surfacing project which will be cost-shared on a 50/50 basis with Charlottenburgh.

Kenyon passed a motion agreeing the road must be surfaced, but left decision of the surfacing method up to a future joint meeting between councils.

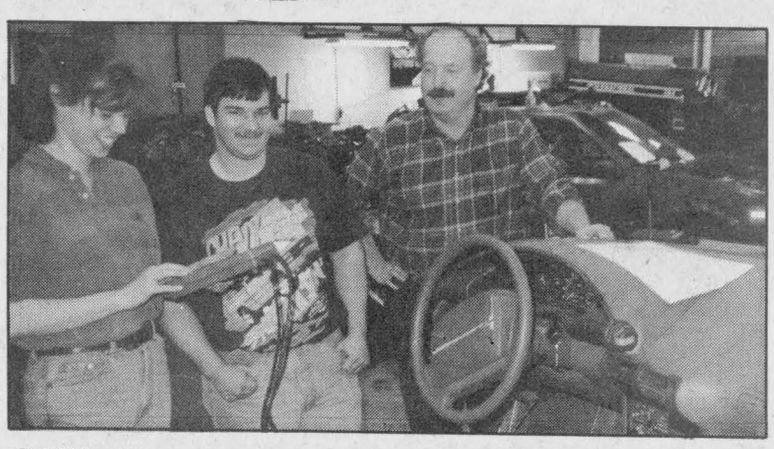
GDHS HOME OF THE GAELS

Students From The Past — Grade 10-D, 1969/70



GDHS takes great pride in preparing its students to be successful, contributing citizens in their communities.

A Tribute To The Man Who Called Me Margaret

To you, dear friend, I pen these thoughts with great admiration for who you were. Even though you are no longer with us, your happy personality, the casual chats in the hall, and your loving concern for all GDHS students are still vivid in my memories. I thank you for the many lives that have been made happier because of you.

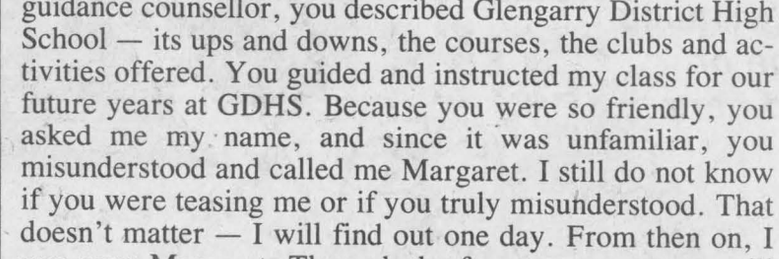
My first memory of your presence in my life begins at my public school, Huntly High. There, for an afternoon as guidance counsellor, you described Glengarry District High School — its ups and downs, the courses, the clubs and activities offered. You guided and instructed my class for our future years at GDHS. Because you were so friendly, you asked me my name, and since it was unfamiliar, you misunderstood and called me Margaret. I still do not know if you were teasing me or if you truly misunderstood. That doesn't matter — I will find out one day. From then on, I was your Margaret. Through the few years you were still with us, you never called me by my real name. You called me Margaret — always. I remember the little talks in the hallways, the friendly punches in the shoulder, or that deliberate wink of your eye. You were a happy man, a generous person, a determined counsellor, a dedicated member of the school, and a loving and fatherly teacher.

At your funeral in St. Andrews, I played my clarinet along with my comrades. We played Amazing Grace for you, and I know that you were not lost but saved. And because of this, I know that I will see you again.

Terry Wheeler, I am grateful for the friendship we shared, for the cheerful and loving personality you shared with the people around you, for always being there when a problem arose, and for just being you.

See you in Heaven.
Your Margaret

(This tribute to former Guidance Head, Terry Wheeler, who died suddenly in December 1990, was a recent contribution to the GDHS student creative writing magazine — THE ZINE.)



New Next Year

GDHS will have three new courses next year. Peer Helping, College Prep and a course for adults, Transportation Technology, are scheduled for the school year 1994-95.

ONWARD TO SUCCESS

Seventeen students have entered the Carleton University Writing Contest. GDHS has consistently done well in this competition. Congratulations to Bob MacLeod and the English Department.

Matthias Meier and Lianne Paquette, placing third at S.D.&G. Science Fair, will compete in the National Science Fair at Guelph University, May 15-21. Their project, Magnetropism — The Effect of Germination and Plant Growth, won rave reviews from the judges. Congratulations to the students and their teacher, B. Filion

Congratulations to Y. Ménard and his students who participated in recent french language competitions. Catherine Tucker was awarded a first in a board-wide public speaking contest. Catherine will travel to Toronto to the All-Ontario. Bonne Chance!

During the period May 2-6 four students will attend mini courses at Carleton University as part of our enrichment program directed by Robert MacLeod. Congratulations to the four students, Debbie Amstutz, Ryan Macaulay, Ian Bratberg and Jaime Claude.

GDHS continues to dominate soccer. This year the senior and junior boys' teams are S.D.G. Champions. Congratulations to the junior girls' volleyball for winning the S.D.G. Championships.

Charlotte Husey, poet, Nirmal Sinha, scientist with National Research Council and Chantal Whelan, psychiatrist, are a few of the many guests who make presentations to students. Other seminars and assemblies cover such issues as road safety, stress, anger management, body image and substance abuse.

The GDHS senior and jazz bands visited and hosted Nepean High School during April. During May 11-15 the band travels to Toronto for the Musicfest competition.

Congratulations to D. Sauvé, producer and director of the GDHS drama presentations in the Sears Seaway District Drama Festival for his first-place award for the production, ''Episode In The Life Of An Author.'' Sara Leger and Cory Major were awarded ''best actors'' and Gordon Kerr and Kristina Michaud were awarded ''outstanding technical crew.'' The plays, ''Episode In The Life Of An Author'' and ''On A Cold Frosty Morning,'' will be staged in the Oshawa competition.

A High Tech First For GDHS

Glengarry has recently become the first high school in the board to introduce an On-line catalogue in its library. The library's holdings, both books and periodicals, can now be searched by computer from various sites in the school. This, plus the numerous CD-ROMs available, makes the electronic retrieval of research materials a reality at Glengarry.

GDHS offers many interesting extra-curricular activities

Charlottenburgh Township council member wants total picture on tenders

By Sue Harrington
News* correspondent

A discussion over tender packages became a tender issue at a regular meeting of Charlottenburgh Council April 25.

The tender talk was initiated by Councillor George Shoniker who requested once again that he be allowed to see all tender descriptions before voting on the recommendations made by department heads.

Shoniker said he thought tender documents should be included in agenda packages.

Reeve Dave MacDonald suggested that rather than creating extra paper work by the inclusion of the documents, Shoniker could come early to council meetings and look over the tenders.

"I think we have a very competent staff," said the reeve. "Anyone of you can come in and look at the tenders earlier."

But Shoniker disagreed, saying he should not have to come in earlier, or make an extra trip in order to examine the tenders.

Councillor Don Kannon then entered the discussion, suggesting that the old practice of opening tenders at the council table at 7 p.m. be reinstated.

"Why not open the documents here at 7 p.m.? asked Kannon. "If they seem fine, we can pass them that night; if there's a problem, we can wait."

Road Superintendent Ewen MacDonald, warned that tenders were not just awarded on cost alone, but on other factors such as past performance.

MacDonald also showed the extra paperwork which would result if the tender documents were included, holding up a five-inch thick stack of papers which were the tenders to be discussed that evening.

In a recorded vote, Councillors Shoniker, Prevost and Kannon voted in favor of the resolution to include the tenders in the agenda package, with Deputy-Reeve Leslie O'Shaughnessy and Reeve MacDonald voting against.

The matter then took an unexpected turn when Councillor Kannon asked Administrator-Clerk Marcel Lapierre not to include the extra paperwork in his package.

Lapierre said that he could not comply with the councillor's wishes because he had been directed by the just-passed resolution to provide the tender documents in council members' agenda packages.

Kannon then proceeded to draft a resolution requesting that the extra pages not be sent to him.

The resolution passed.

During the month of April the Sunshine Gang met every Tuesday afternoon.

They had a wonderful time at Besner's Sugar Bush where they enjoyed all the pancakes and syrup they could eat plus many other goodies including snow taffy. The meal was made by the volunteers.

A much needed session of exercises after the long winter of sitting inside was enjoyed.

They were pleased to have Ruth Stanton with them again to help write about their school days.

Ruth has been with them three times now helping with creative writing. These stories will be put into book form for each to have one.

Mrs. James Magoon and seven of her nine children met with them for an afternoon. The children do the drawings for creative writing books and it was nice to meet the ones who did the pictures on their stories.

Kenyon sets deadline for eyesore owner

Kenyon council has approved no-charge dumping for garbage and refuse from property owned by Mary Ellen Bissonnette, and set a cleanup deadline of July 31.

Council directed Bylaw Enforcement Officer Ken Robbers to send out letters requesting cleanup to owners of "eyesore" properties, followed by warning letters setting deadline dates, if there is no action.

"Generous time-frames are written into the property standards bylaw," Councillor Owen Walker pointed out, "but we should keep up the pressure on owners who take no action.

Reeve Wilfred Vallance said some owners cooperate but "other owners who have been approached take a very negative attitude."

Councillor Blair Williams suggested working gradually and keeping an eye out for growing disaster areas, making use of publicity before taking legal action.

"Turning fields into junk yards depreciates the value of surrounding property," he said.

"It's better to encourage people to cooperate than coming down like a hammer," Williams said.

"There are people around here who have always collected old cars in their fields."

Charlottenburgh lauded for its great shape

By Sue Harrington
News* correspondent

Charlottenburgh Township is in great financial shape according to its auditor, Ross Markell.

Markell gave his report at a regular meeting of council, held April 25.

"Again I'm here to say you've had a great year," Markell told council, attributing its success to "strong budgeting and strong control."

Township reserves are in excess of $2 million, although about $1 million has been "spoken for" for capital projects.

"You're at the point now where you can enjoy it," said Markell, pointing out that because of the township's reserves situation, it was able to take advantage of Canada/Ontario Infrastructure grant offers without having to increase the mill rate to taxpayers.

"This is a business — it runs about eight million a year. If you don't have strong reserves you can be in trouble," said the auditor.

Markell's only concern was with the amount of taxes receivable which are currently at 17 per cent. Markell said he becomes a little worried when this figure rises above 15 per cent.

"If we could get that down to 10 per cent it would give you greater cash flow," he told council.

For the past few weeks Myrna MacSweyn, secretary, Laggan Public School, has been adding these notes from the school. Thanks Myrna. I hope you all enjoy them.

As an activity of Education Week, students at Laggan were busy with "The One-Room Schoolhouse" workshop. Classes were divided and a group travelled to the Big Beaver school located on Laggan property to participate in One-Room School activities that might have taken place in the 19th century and early 1900's, while another group was busy in the gym and kitchen preparing items for a school picnic. There was butter being made, ice cream being churned, ginger cookies baking and lemonade mixing. Popular board games of that era filled in the time. The students rotated so that everyone got to experience each of the activities.

Also at Laggan this week is the Scholastic Book Fair. Each class is scheduled to visit the Book Fair in the library one afternoon this week. Parents are welcome to come in on Wednesday afternoon from 3:15 p.m. to 4 p.m. to purchase books.

The Excursion '94 travellers returned on Friday afternoon. Many positive comments have been overheard about their trip, but they also seem glad to be home and sleep in their own beds!

Each class is also busy with the preparation of a banner which will be used for the 25th anniversary of the school. Every class is making their own portion of the banner which will be displayed at the Maxville Fair as well as the anniversary party in July.

Laggan Optimist News

Weather wreaks havoc with start of "A" high school soccer season

After delaying the start of the girls' high school "A" soccer season the past two seasons, Mother Nature relented a bit this spring as the 1994 campaign got under way on time last Wednesday in Avonmore.

But that doesn't mean that weather conditions were ideal.

A stiff wind with the force of a two-handed shove made ball movement extremely difficult in the senior game between the visiting Char-Lan Crusaders and the Tagwi Warriors.

Then things really got nasty during the junior contest.

What had been a mostly sunny early spring day turned into a dark and dreary late afternoon, with the thunder rumbling ominously in the background.

Early in the second half, a shower of rain and hail pelted the players and the handful of spectators on hand.

The skies had cleared up by the end of the game, but not before making a couple of dozen soaked, bone-chilled players wonder if they wouldn't have been better off in science or math class that particular afternoon.

Tagwi goalie shines

Next to Mother Nature's show of strength, the most remarkable performance of the afternoon was turned in by Tagwi junior netminder Carmen Seguin.

Seguin was outstanding as the junior Warriors held the Crusaders to a 1-1 tie.

During one sequence in particular, Seguin made two saves on Kara MacDonald and one on Tracy Benson within a span of a few seconds.

Ariana Winn was the only Char-Lan player to put a ball past Seguin while Shelley Villeneuve was the only scorer against Crusaders keeper Heather Smith.

Char-Lan seniors win

The senior Crusaders started the afternoon's action with a 2-1 win over Tagwi.

Char-Lan got on the board early in the game thanks to a Tagwi miscue.

An indirect kick was awarded to Char-Lan when the Warriors kicked the ball back to their goalie.

Kelly Lariviere took the kick, rolling the ball to Peacey who drilled home the game's first goal.

Crusader forward Katharine MacLachlan doubled Char-Lan's lead a few minutes later.

Jennifer Casselman got Tagwi on the board late in the first half, but the elements combined with a strong defensive effort by the Crusaders to keep the second half scoreless.

Char-Lan's Christine Lalonde plays a head ball during last Wednesday's senior girls' soccer game between the Crusaders and the Tagwi Warriors. Char-Lan won the SD&G season-opening game 2-1.

Sauve and Sauve tandem leads locals at Jock River Canoe Race

Several local paddlers turned in top three finishes at the Jock River Canoe Race near Manotick last Sunday.

Bruno Major of Williamstown and son Mark of Alexandria finished third in the men's open class.

The race was won by former Charlottenburgh Township resident Corey Van Loon and partner Patrick Lynch.

The Summerstown father-daughter duo of Maurice and Denise Sauve won the mixed class while the L'Orignal team of Pierre and Heather Pinard finished second.

In the amateur men's class, Yvon Ranger of Alexandria combined with Garry Atchison of Williamstown to place second behind winners John Doyle and Soern Peterson.

Gary Jans and Ray Brunet came in third.

Glengarry marathon runners hit the road Sunday in Ottawa

By Wendi Lawson
Sports reporter

Seven local runners will be participating in the National Capital Marathon in Ottawa this Sunday.

Mary-Lynne Sauve of Glen Robertson, Anne Tuppert of Green Valley and John Edgar - who recently moved from Alexandria to Cornwall - will be competing in the full marathon.

Four other Glengarrians - Terry Tuppert, Shane Tuppert, Dianne Lefebvre and Laurie MacDonell - will be running the marathon as a relay.

The runners will be running a total of 26 miles or 41 kilometres. In the team event, two runners do 12 k m, one runs 10 km and the other 8 km.

The marathon starts and finishes at Carleton University.

Obviously, extensive training is necessary for an event as gruelling as the marathon.

Sauve, Tuppert and Edgar have been training since January 1, running about four miles a day. Each day the trio added a mile to their routine.

This will be the fourth marathon for Sauve while Edgar has run two other times.

Tuppert, on the other hand, will be making her marathon debut, and because it is her first time, Sauve and Edgar were counted on to provide support.

"They give me a lot of good advice on how to survive the race." said Tuppert. "They also give me a lot of encouragement while I am running." Tuppert said.

"When I get sore or really tired, they tell me I can do it and to keep it up. They both have shown me how to train and how to keep in good shape without any injuries."

Being that this is Tuppert's first try at this, she's hoping to get though it without any problems.

"I'm very nervous, but it will be a nice challenge because it's something I've never done before. I hope I can hang in because I've never done 26 miles yet in training. I've only done 24."

Stewart steps down as GM

HOCKEY Notes

Archie Stewart has resigned as general manager of the Alexandria Jr. B Glens...again.

It's the third time in four seasons that Stewart has officially announced he's giving up the GM's job.

On one occasion (1991), Stewart returned prior to the beginning of the following season while on the second (1992) he came back after a year off.

Claude Roy filled the GM's chair in Stewart's absence during the 1992-93 season.

Stewart's replacement this time around will be team president, secretary and treasurer Leo Poirier.

One of Poirier's first acts as the new GM was to confirm the return of head coach Robert Boisvenue for next season.

The Yves of destruction: You can forget about goalie Yves Leger returning to play with the Glens next season.

After playing for the Glens in 1991-92, the Cornwall native had spent the last two seasons at the tier II junior A level with the Nepean Raiders of the Central Junior Hockey League.

With the Raiders not interested in keeping Leger as a 20-year-old, there was hope on the part of Glens management that the veteran puck-blocker would be back in Alexandria for the 1994-95 season.

Those hopes were dashed last week when Leger's rights were acquired in exchange for future considerations by the Cornwall Colts.

Leger - who has also spent some time with the Hawkesbury Hawks during his junior A career - posted a record of 30 wins, 18 losses and 2 ties last year in Nepean.

Now that Leger is within the Colts' fold, you have to wonder where that leaves Brett Thompson.

Thompson - who had an outstanding season with the Char-Lan Jr. B Rebels this past winter - is still Colts property, but it's difficult to imagine how he fits in the big picture of the Cornwall crease scenario.

Rapid ascent: A couple of products from the North Glengarry-Stormont Minor Hockey Association successfully completed the first phase of the Ontario under-17 program this past weekend.

Centreman Matthew Poapst of Monkland and defenceman Ryan McElroy of Avonmore were two of the 11 players picked to represent the Ottawa District Minor Hockey Association at the Ontario under-17 camp in Kitchener next month.

A total of 44 players from the ODMHA were at the Canterbury Arena in Ottawa on the weekend in hopes of earning an invite to the provincial camp.

Poapst and McElroy - who both played with the Seaway Valley major bantams last season - will now be two of the 86 players from across the province who will be vying for positions on the Ontario under-17 team that will be competing at next year's Canada Winter Games.

Two other Seaway Valley players attended the regional camp; right-winger and Char-Lan product Tim Corput of Williamstown and Chris Proulx of Cornwall.

Protest ruling made: The ODMHA has ruled in favor of the Alexandria and District Minor Hockey Association in regards to a protest filed during the Upper Canada Minor Hockey League atom division finals.

The ADMHA had protested a loss to the Kingston Township Titans because the association thought two Kingston Township players should not have played in the game.

The players had been issued game misconducts for checking from behind during the final 10 minutes in the previous game, but the referee had later amended the call to making body contact.

Unlike hitting from behind, there is no game misconduct or accompanying one-game suspension for making body contact.

With one of the players in question contributing a goal and an assist, the Titans defeated Alexandria 3-1 to win the championship.

ADMHA president Michel Depratto says he wasn't worried about who got the championship as much as he was with the officiating principle involved.

"(Kingston Township) can keep its cup. We were just concerned that the referee had changed his call after the game," said Depratto.

"The referees can not be allowed to change their minds about a judgement call after the game is over."

Slap shots and high tea: Former Kenyon Township resident Frank Morris is competing at the World Ice Hockey Championships in Bolzano, Italy as a member of Great Britain's national team.

Morris has been playing professional hockey in Great Britain for a number of years, and is one of 15 Canadians on the British squad.

He was his team's man of the match in Great Britain's 4-0 loss to Germany.

The Brits haven't been in the "A" pool of the world hockey championships for 32 years, so expectations were modest going into the tournament.

One objective was to keep Canada and its legion of NHL stars under 10 goals, and that objective was achieved as the Canucks won by a score of 8-2.

Heading into yesterday's game against Austria, Great Britain was 0-4 with seven goals for and 34 against.

A loss to the Austrians would force Britain into a relegation match against France to see who will get sent down to the "B" pool at next year's championships.

Sr. Gaels coach on sidelines

SOCCER Notes

It was a tough break for Glengarry senior soccer coach Marc Sauve recently when he suffered a separated shoulder.

Sauve is will miss work for a number of weeks and will be unable to complete the season behind the Gaels' bench.

Assuming Sauve's classes and coaching duties will be Dianne Lefebvre, a former member of the Glengarry girls' championship soccer teams in the 1980's.

Both the senior and junior Gaels will be in exhibition tournament action this weekend.

The regular season resumes next Wednesday (May 11) with games at North Dundas District High School.

Storm front hits Lake Placid: A collection of local soccer players headed down to Lake Placid this weekend to take part in the Dawn-to-Dark International Soccer Festival.

The Glengarrians - who went under the name the Atlantic Storms - were one of 32 teams competing in the men's draw of the indoor soccer event.

The Storms were winless with a 0-3-1 in four games.

One of the losses was to a team from Potsdam's Clarkson College, whose outdoor soccer team won the division II championship in the NCAA this past season.

The Atlantic also lost 6-0 to a team from San Diego and 4-1 to a team from New Hampshire as Glen Campbell scored the only goal.

Julien Boisvenue and Andre Chenier scored in the Storms' 2-2 tie against New York United.

The tournament was played on artificial turf at Lake Placid's two Olympic arenas.

Dream on: It's baaaaack.

After a two-year absence, the Glengarry Soccer League Dream Team Contest is on the scene again to test everyone's soccer knowledge.

The contest has a new sponsor - the Atlantic Hotel - but the format is expected to be more or less the same.

Once again, the contest will feature a so-called expert panel, and the race is on to dethrone two-time champion Jamie MacDonald.

Offence was at a premium

League goaltenders collect five shutouts on opening night of 1994 Alexandria Women's Ball Hockey League season

The Alexandria Women's Ball Hockey League got under way Monday night with three games at the Billy Gebbie Arena.

All six teams return from last season with one name change, Glengarry Pharmacy is now known as Atlantic Hotel.

The defending champions - Seaway Express - returned in full force as they defeated Bob's 5-0 on opening night.

Deb Nadon scored twice while singles went to Krista Casselman, Deana Cuglietta and Jo-anne Tessier.

Donna MacGregor had two assists.

Bob's was without regular goaltender Gillian Chaddock, while Sue Villeneuve recorded the shutout for Seaway.

In other action Monday, there was no scoring in the games between Maxville and the Atlantic Storm and Tapis Richard and M and D Sports. Natalie Theoret got the shutout for M and D sports while Carmelle Hagen got it for Tapis.

Sylvette Decoste recorded the shutout for the Atlantic and Kathy Wensink got credit for Maxville's zero.

The league will resume tomorrow night and will continue through subsequent Mondays and Thursdays.

Laggan sweeps C-L indoor soccer titles

Laggan's bantam teams won both divisions of the pre-season Char-Lan Indoor Soccer Tournament at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre on Sunday.

The Laggan girls have won the Char-Lan tournament in both years of its existence while the Laggan boys dethroned Alexandria as champions.

Andrew Fraser, Andrew Taillefer and Jason Poll also scored for the winners.

Laggan opened the scoring four minutes into the game when Fraser's long-distance shot deflected off an Alexandria defender and into the goal.

Laggan took control of the game with a pair of late first-half goals. Calvank scored his first of the game with a bullet drive into the far corner while Andrew Taillefer gave Laggan a three-goal lead with his third goal of the tournament.

Calvank and Poll closed out the scoring with goals in the second half.

Andrew Szelid recorded the shutout.

Laggan girls get revenge

The Laggan girls may have entered the tournament as defending champions, but Glen Sandfield was considered the favorite after breezing through the round-robin with a perfect record.

One of Glen Sandfield's preliminary round victories was a 6-2 defeat of Laggan, but Bonnie MacLeod's troops got their revenge with a 4-2 victory in the championship game.

Laggan's prospects didn't look very bright early in the final as Glen Sandfield's Meghan Macpherson opened the scoring in the first minute of play.

Laggan went ahead for good thanks to a couple of strange goals before halftime.

Elizabeth McIntosh's high floater went over the head of Glen Sandfield goalie Melanie Salvatore to give Laggan a 2-1 lead and then Jessica MacLeod's shot dribbled through a crowd as Laggan went up by two.

Laggan was 2-0 in the boys' division preliminary round, crushing Char-Lan 6-1 and defeating Alexandria 4-1.

Craig Calvank scored a hat trick against Char-Lan while Dean MacGillivray had a pair of goals.

Robin Gauthier replied for Alexandria.

Because of goal differential, Char-Lan needed a victory over Alexandria in the last round-robin game to earn a berth in the final, but Alexandria scored a late goal to earn a 4-4 tie.

Chancy Lajoie scored twice for Alexandria while Cameron Lajoie and Jason Poirier chipped in with singles.

Derek Wereley had a deuce for Char-Lan while Lee Klazinga scored once. The fourth Char-Lan goal was put in by an Alexandria defender.

In the girls' division, Glen Sandfield dominated the preliminary round with a 3-0 record and a goals for-goals against ratio of 20-3.

Julie Vander Byl, Meghan MacPherson and Rachel Denner each scored twice as Glen Sandfield defeated Laggan 6-2.

Becky Howes and Tina Bond replied in a losing cause.

Denner scored three times in Glen Sandfield's second game, an 8-1 trouncing of Char-Lan.

Sarah Dalby, Amanda Nicholson, Elysa Keyes, Julie Vander Byl and Meghan MacPherson each added a single goal for the winners while Shonna Atchison scored the lone Char-Lan marker.

Glen Sandfield blanked Dunvegan 6-0 in its other round-robin game.

Sarah Dalby accounted for half of her team's offence by scoring three times while Julie Vander Byl, Rachel Denner and Meghan MacPherson each scored once.

Laggan had a win and a tie in its two other games, beating Char-Lan 2-1 and playing to a 1-1 draw with Dunvegan.

Jessica MacLeod scored all three Laggan goals in those two games while the Laggan defence yielded only two goals - one to Char-Lan's Michelle Owen and one to Erin Graham of Dunvegan.

Owen scored three goals as Char-Lan downed Dunvegan 5-3.

Shonna Atchison and Kara MacDonald also scored for Char-Lan while Isabel Campbell, Erin Graham and Sarina McRae replied for Dunvegan.

Bowling loop hands out year-end awards

The Wednesday Night Mixed Bowling League held a banquet at Alexandria's Legion Hall late last month to honor the best performers from the 1993-94 pin season.

In the team category, the North Stars won the overall championship with 114.5 points, followed by the Alley Cats in second with 110 points.

Les Courageux (97 points), the Sex Machines (95.5), T and L's (94) and the Sex Maniacs (76) rounded out the team standings.

The team high average went to the Alley Cats (1,171), the high series went to the Sex Machines (3,713) while Les Courageux rolled the high team single (1,359).

In the playoffs, the teams finished in the following order, first to sixth; Sex Machines, North Stars, Les Courageux, T and L's, Sex Maniacs and Alley Cats.

Playoff standings were based on total pinfall over a three week period.

In the individual award department, Alicia Scally and Doug Scally were the big winners as they were named top male and female bowlers of the year.

Hugette McIntee - with a plus-15 - was the most improved female bowler while Normand Campeau's plus-16 won the award as most improved male.

Joanne Nadeau captured three individual awards, winning the women's high average (242), high series (905) and high single (364) honors.

Second- and third-place finishers were Marcella Dorie and Hugette McIntee in the high average category, Alicia Scally and Anik Samson in high series and Nicole Decoeur-Sauve and Alicia Scally in high single.

On the men's side, Andre Major won the high series (813) and high single (365) awards while Serge Titley's 211 average was the best in the league.

Titley was also third in both high single and high series while Doug Scally was second in average and high series.

Other men's winners were Rosaire Samson (third best average) and Normand Campeau (second highest single).

Linda Leroux, Denise Titley, Marc Therrien, Normand Campeau and Rosaire Samson all received awards for perfect attendance.

Nephews of Uncle Sam welcome in Jr. B hockey...but

J.L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

The big enchiladas of the Eastern Ontario Junior B hockey world will be meeting in Kemptville later this month, and you can probably already guess the subjects that will be up for discussion.

While we're sure the good people of the EOJBHL will have their hands full dealing with the various issues - increasing the number of overage players and playoff-qualifying teams are old favorites - there's one other matter the league brass may want to consider.

Yankee Doodle Imports

Last year's edition of the Winchester Hawks was the latest team to create a big flap by signing American imports and parachuting them into the lineup in time for the playoffs.

Not only did the Americans take away ice-time from Canadian players, they steadfastly refused to report details from the Teale Trial.

You can't blame a team for trying to build a winner at all costs, but some team officials think that players should play in the regular season to be eligible for the playoffs.

Here's a compromise. After signing an American, junior B teams should be forced to pass along the player's phone number to the other clubs.

Rival GMs would then be allowed to contact the player at any time for the purposes of giving him a pop quiz.

If the American is unable to name at least three Canadian provinces, he is banned from the league for that season. Other improper responses that would merit disqualification would be the inability to give Kemptville's team nickname within five numbers or incorrectly identifying the EOJBHL arena that sells the best hot chocolate.

Even if the player successfully passes the test, there are certain rules he must follow after joining the league.

Referring to his new teammates as "Hey you!" is a definite no-no. American skaters would not be required to do anything drastic - like actually memorizing a dozen names - but the U.S. import should always use the player's number or a distinguishing facial characteristic in calling to a mate. ("Hey 17" or "Yo, Banana-nose" for example, are perfectly acceptable.)

In addition, teams signing American players should not be allowed to play Bruce Springsteen's Born in the U.S.A. on the public address system during home games.

Canadian-American treaties make little reference to hockey - when the free trade agreement talks about the rights of plumbers, it's referring to Gerry Deguire, Archie Stewart and Brian McCuaig, not Steve Poirier, Terry O'Farrell and Dan Desjardins - so it's up to the EOJBHL to take a stand.

The league must hurry and make its decision on this issue, because time - like Ken Corp - is short.

Men's ball hockey begins

The 1994 Alexandria Men's Ball Hockey season is under way.

The league dropped the ball on another campaign with four games last night, while four more contest will be played tonight.

The league features nine teams again this year, including two newcomers.

The rookie clubs are RVA Steel and M&D Sports. The new clubs take the place of Titley Chev-Olds and the Baribeau Sharks.

Returning clubs include Jake at Work, Frenchie's, the Dalhousie Bruins, Alexandria Auto Glass, Mc-Mac Tents, the Brodie Bombers and Marc's Canteen - winner of three consecutive league championships.

Marc's is the only team not in action tonight as games include Jake's vs. RVA, Brodie vs. Auto Glass, Frenchie's vs. Dalhousie and M&D vs. Mc-Mac

Glengarry senior girls win two races at Stevens Memorial relays

The Glengarry senior girls' track and field team won a pair of races at the Dave Stevens Memorial Relays at Iroquois' Seaway District High School last Thursday.

The team of Lyne Bedard, Lisa Dragone, Chantal Secours and Natalie Jeaurond placed first in both the 4x100m relay and the 4x100m shuttle relay.

Bedard, Jeaurond and Dragone are all junior-aged and were part of the Glengarry team that finished second in the junior girls' 4x100m event.

Sylvia Stadelmann was the fourth member of the team.

The team of Daphne Hambleton (200m), Marianne Boos (200m), Chantal Duchesne (400m) and Wanda McDonell (800m) finished fourth in the junior girls' 1600m medley.

Teams from ESRG-GDHS placed second and third in the midget girls' 1600m medley.

The foursome of Martine Theoret, Joanne St.Denis, Kyra Howes and Tammy Rolland finished second while the unit comprised of Tina Vanore, Valerie Lavigne, Jenny MacGillis and Laura Patrick was third.

Boys' results

The best boys' division result was a third-place finish turned in by the midgets in the 4x200m event.

Michael Roy, Olivier Barrie, Marc Bigras and Jason Bacon represented the Gaels in that race.

Kevin Van Den Oetelaar, Matthew Tucker, Nick Moffatt and David Taillon combined to finish fifth in the midget boys 4x100m.

The senior boys - including Eric Lavigne, Luc Elie, Dustin Bleile, James Addison and Francois Viau - were fourth in the 4x100m and the 4x100m shuttle.

The top finish turned in by a junior boys' team was a sixth in the 4x200m race.

The Gaels were represented by Alain Poirier, Tim Corput, Sebastien Elie and James Addison.

In-track meet next

The next big day on the Gaels' track and field schedule comes today when the school will hold its intra-mural competition.

Glengarry will pick its team for the SD&G championships - to be held at Tagwi on May 12 - based on today's results.

The Eastern Ontario regional championships will be held the following week.

Harrowsmith publishes piece by local writer

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

Velma Franklin has acquired many credits over the years — a farm wife, mother of seven children, a writer of a weekly column, a Maxville correspondent for the Glengarry News and a curator at the Pioneer Museum in Dunvegan are among them. Now Mrs. Franklin has had an article published in the April/May issue of Harrowsmith.

For the Animalia section, Mrs. Franklin submitted an article on a subject dear to her heart — her sheep. At the last count, the flock consisted of five animals, including two lambs. They provide her with much enjoyment and wool for her hobby of weaving.

The article is entitled: ''The Original Lawn Mower'' or ''Trading the howling gas guzzler for efficiency on four feet.'' While we all cannot make use of these animals for lawn mowing, we should read Mrs. Franklin's article and in so doing, share a few minutes with her in the pleasures of sheep husbandry.

His former students and friends here were interested in learning that Gary Atchison, a teacher now in Martintown Public School, was a first place winner with his partner in the Raisin River Canoe Race. Competing in the Men's Recreational Class, Mr. Atchison won the race in a time of two hours, 18 minutes and 32 seconds. We extend our congratulations.

Karen (nee Tait) and Gary Rupert, 5th Con. Roxborough, have enjoyed a great 10-day holiday in Hawaii.

Terri Conners has completed her studies at Waterloo University, is presently enjoying a holiday in Switzerland and has graduation and her new job in Ottawa to look forward to. We congratulate Terri and wish her much happiness for the future.

Joyce, Mike and Paul Montaigne, Pembroke, were weekend guests with her mother, Eileen Scott.

They have sold their home on Catherine Street and have moved to an apartment in Moose Creek. This news means we have lost Helen and Teddy Zmijewski as village residents. We will miss them here, as they walked a great deal and do wish them well in their new home nearby.

The two Siwik sisters are home from University — Paula from Trent and Anona from McGill. The former is looking forward to a most interesting summer in France where she will be working on a project with fish. Heather Johns has also completed her first year of studies at McMaster University.

Betty Kennedy, a former Dunvegan resident, and before that of Three Bridges, died suddenly in Vankleek Hill last week. We extend sympathy to her son, the Rev. Duncan, a former minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and MacRae (Mac) and their families, both of Ottawa.

Also John W. Munro, a Manor resident and long-time resident of Apple Hill died last weekend after a short illness. Mr. Munro had devoted years of service to his wife, Gladys, while he was able, and now she survives in Bestview Manor in Cornwall unaware of his death.

Why is it that people and their works cannot be appreciated sooner? Stewart McCormick sold his paintings for a pittance and now two are being advertised for sale at prices of $3,500 and $3,800. While he was a resident at the Manor, your correspondent had Mr. McCormick sign two of Dorothy Dumbrille's books — Up and Down the Glens and Braggart in My Step as he illustrated them.

Then there was Art Sauve here whose carvings are selling in the thousands of dollars range, too, as much appreciated folk art. While Mr. Sauve put in the time with his carving and painting years ago, we passed by his display on his lawn and hardly gave it a second glance. The years certainly do alter our realizations.

Dr. Royce MacGillivray, Waterloo, is spending this week in the area. He has supplied the information that the duties of a pathmaster were to check on street conditions and possibly those of the board sidewalks, here in the village, 100 years ago.

There is going to be a Stanley Cup parade here in the village, maybe. At least we know that Brian MacLeod, Earl MacLennan, Bruce McDonald and all the other devoted fans of the Montreal Canadiens won't be in it. They had high hopes until late last week.

That leaves the organization of the parade up to other hockey fans. There are many who are planning on joining one to celebrate a Maple Leaf win of the Cup but Allan Blaney leads a small contingent of Boston fans who are certainly holding great expectations for a win by their team. Watch the hockey scores and perhaps you will eventually read about the plans for the parade in this column. May the best team win, may the losing fans be good losers and may all fans join in for the fun of it, if the parade takes place.

Your correspondent had a letter from Dorothy Fresque of Fort Coulonge, Que. with the eulogy for Bob Ramsbottom enclosed. The Rev. Gordon Fresque had been asked by Mr. Ramsbottom to conduct his funeral and Ernie Carswell, the eulogy.

In part Mr. Carswell quoted ''The making of friends who are real friends is the best measurement we have of a man's success in life.'' He went on to say ''The number of visitors, the many telephone calls, the gifts of food and flowers, the very size of the audience here today are poignant reminders of just how successful Bob was in his life.''

Copies of the eulogy are available at the Village Office or a self-addressed stamped envelope will bring a copy from this correspondent.

The annual meeting of the Maxville Cemetery Board was held on April 26. Gregor McEwen was re-appointed chairman. The financial report presented by Dale Munro was audited by Verna MacGregor and Donald Kennedy and indicated a satisfactory financial situation.

Plans were made to hold a separate meeting to rewrite the constitution, to install eavetroughs on the vault in order that there can be a small water supply and to build pillars at the vault entrance and thus complete this project.

Mr. McEwen announced that he is going to have a sign installed along the road to advertise the existence of the Pioneer Cemetery which has been cleared with a fence built.

The Memorial Service for the Maxville Cemetery will be held on the first Sunday in September, as usual.

While retaining the duties of secretary, Mr. Munro wished to relinquish the treasurer's duties and Lorna Winter was named to this office after earlier indicating that she was willing to undertake them.

Albert Russell and Roger Rolland were re-hired as the cemetery's caretakers and the auditors were re-appointed. The directors on the cemetery board are Donald Cumming, Ian D. MacLeod, Gregor McEwen, Eldred Scott and Gordon Winter.

The annual workshop and luncheon for volunteers at Maxville Manor was held on April 28 at the sports complex with co-ordinator, Phyllis Burtenshaw in charge.

Sue McDonald conducted a workshop in the morning entitled ''The Best You Can Be.'' It was about self-esteem and recognized the need for each individual present to acknowledge his or her attributes in order to lead a productive and happy life.

Grace for the luncheon was given by the Rev. Frank Bailey, pastoral care co-ordinator and then a most delicious meal was enjoyed by close to 100 persons.

Ron McCrory, chairman of the board of directors spoke briefly and presented awards to volunteers for years of service. Those who were recognized for five years are as follows: Lillian Batchelor, Tom Boyle, Marie Boyle, Neil Bush, Fay Campbell, Huguette Cuerrier, Christena Cumming, Noella Daoust, Rolland Daoust, Yvette Delaney, Alma Ellis, Howard Ellis, Julie Gaspar, Bev Gormley, Don Gormley, Bob Humble, Shirley Humble, Rev. Jack Hyde, Dolores Legault, Gordon Lindsey, Robert Martin, Eli Martin, Yvette Martin, Rollande Montcalm.

Alex McConnell, Betty McCormick, Burns McIntyre, Sandy McRae, Theresa McRae, Kaye McDonell, Francis McDonell, Mary Neville, June Raymond, Barb Rochfort, Clive Rochfort, Eldred Scott, Murdena Scott, Carole Seguin, Elizabeth Stewart, Glenna Van Drunen, Mable Watkins, Maldwyn Watkins, Bob Wetheral, Jean Wetheral, Bill Williams, Jean Williams.

Louise Jourdeuil received the five-year award that was due her last year.

Gladys Roulston and Joan Siwik were recognized for 20 years of service while Olive Shields has been serving for 25 years.

Mrs. Burtenshaw announced that 35 new volunteers had been added to her list over the last year.

Evelyn McDonald spoke on behalf of the Residents' Council and fittingly thanked the volunteers for helping to make the lives of the residents more meaningful.

Louise Castellan from the local District Health Council spoke on long term care. The Manor is now known as a long term care facility and not a home for the aged. Castellan explained about the co-ordination service for placement in facilities in the five eastern counties. Government services wish to develop a system in which long term care services are available to all those who need them and at the same time try to minimize the needs for them.

The Sage Age Theatre, Canada's only improvisational seniors' theatre, entertained its audience with thoroughly amusing skits to draw the day's events to a close.

The ladies of St. James CWL held their annual meeting on April 26. The members of the Moose Creek CWL were invited to attend along with prospective members. Past diocesan president, Gwen Morris was also present.

The evening began with mass and the installation of officers for the coming year. The group then adjourned to the Manor where a delicious pot luck supper was enjoyed in the Town Square with the buffet set up in the activity centre. Msgr. Rejean Lebrun asked the blessing.

The evening concluded with an interesting talk and video by Linda Vander Wielen on her trip to the Dominican Republic. Her co-worker was the late Kieran McCormick and they accompanied several students from St. Joseph's High School in Cornwall.

The members of the CWL wish to extend a hearty vote of thanks to members of the Manor staff, Phyllis Burtenshaw, Stephanie Hills-Nichol and Elizabeth Quesnel who so graciously helped to make the evening such a pleasant one.

The annual spring recital by the pupils and instructors of the Glengarry School of Piping and Drumming will be presented on May 17 at 8 p.m. in the sports complex. All students will be participating and trophies and prizes will be awarded. A lunch will be served afterwards.

Everyone is invited to attend and show interest and support for the pupils who devote a great deal of time learning to play the bagpipe or drum.

The executive is especially proud of the number of adults who are coming to the school. Some are now band members and proving that it is never too late to learn to play the bagpipes.

Charlottenburgh Township

Council Briefs

A regular meeting of Charlottenburgh Township Council was held April 25 in Williamstown. The following items were discussed at the meeting.

Public meeting in Martintown

Martintown residents are invited to a public meeting regarding the proposed sewage system for their hamlet. The meeting will take place on May 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Martintown Recreation Centre.

Three volunteers from the public at large will be chosen to sit on an advisory committee for the project — along with two council members and a consultant.

Meeting date changed

A regular meeting of council, scheduled for May 23 has been changed to May 30 because of the Victoria Day holiday.

Charlottenburgh's next council meeting takes place May 10 at 7 p.m.

Ruins concerns "valid"

Receipt of a report by John Ashurst on the condition of St. Raphael's Ruins led Reeve Dave MacDonald to comment, "Our concerns are valid; we do have a major problem here."

A memorandum to council from Administrator-Clerk Marcel Lapierre says, "The report, although in terms that are possibly softer in general, express (sic) the same theme as the McNeely Report."

No estimates of costs were given.

LACAC Appointment

Joan Gibson has been named as an additional member to the township's Local Architectural Conservation Advisory Committee (LACAC).

Chamber of Commerce Fun Day

Glen Walter Chamber of Commerce has asked the township for permission to hold a Fun Day, June 18, at Glen Walter Park.

The day would be similar to the highly successful grand opening of the park held by the municipality last year.

Council had no objections to the proposal, provided the group was responsible for all clean-up.

Building Activity up

A report from Development Officer Dwane Crawford says that new housing starts in the township are double those of this time last year.

"It looks as though we're starting out to have a good year," he said.

Martintown Post Office site re-zoned

No objections were received at a public meeting held before the regular council meeting to consider the rezoning of the property in Martintown previously the site of the hamlet's post office.

The rezoning from "Institutional (I)" to "Special R2 Hamlet and Suburban Residential Zone-10 (R2-10)" will permit the old post office building to be renovated and used as a single residential dwelling unit.

As no objections to the rezoning request were heard, council later in the evening, passed the bylaw to amend the municipality's zoning bylaw.

Alarm system for Rec Centre

The Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre in Williamstown will soon have an alarm system leased from SDG Alarms.

Installation cost will be $700 plus $37.10 per month in leasing fees. Monitoring, which is done by the company itself, will cost a further $235 per year.

Correspondent publishes in Harrowsmith will be chipped at a later date.

Steve Titus at the sports complex has many plans for the summer season. Some are as follows and others will follow: Registration for Minor Baseball will take place on May 11 from 6-8 p.m. and on May 14 from 9 a.m.-12 noon at the complex. Coaches are still required and Steve's motto is "Be an active parent, be a coach."

On May 19 at 7:30 p.m. there will be an open meeting for the Maxville Skating Club. All those interested in figure skating and regular skating lessons are invited to attend this preliminary meeting. Steve will provide complete information when contacted at 527-5659.

We are still feeding the birds niger seed and oil sunflower seeds. As a result we have had purple finches and one rare red breasted nuthatch. Still around are the red polls, juncos, grosbeaks, blue jays, chickadees and the gold and house finches. Perhaps some will nest in the immediate area. Readers are also mentioning the flocks of Canada Geese still around. They are better nesting in the far north but they had better hurry up.

Time to blow EOHU's horn, forum agrees

The Eastern Ontario Health Unit needs to shine the spotlight on itself, concluded a public forum held in Alexandria, April 13.

"There's a real lack of publicity and promotion about the unit's services and programs. The health unit should let the public know about its good work," said a participant.

Other suggestions included building a stronger co-operative effort between related care-giving or service agencies, and to ensure all services are available in French.

"If the unit's mandate is to provide services then those services must also be offered in French.

"And it's not enough that a program be translated into French — it should be developed in French," said one participant.

Overall, the group agreed EOHU provided the community with much-needed services, but there was room for improvement in the areas of public information and collaboration with other agencies.

EOHU staff assured the group their suggestions and comments would be presented to the board.

The public forum was one of five held in the five counties to help EOHU set its strategic plan for the next five years.

Sacrament to be celebrated

St. Elmo
by W. MacKinnon
527-2348

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated in Gordon Church, St. Elmo, on Sunday, May 22 at the morning service of Divine Worship at 11 a.m.

The members of St. Andrew's Church, Maxville, will join with the members of Gordon Church in the fellowship of worship and communion. Visitors will be welcome at the special service.

The sympathy of St. Elmo friends is expressed to the Rev. Duncan S. Kennedy, his wife Katalin, and to MacRae Kennedy and his wife Mary and Jarrod, all of Ottawa, Ont., in the loss by death of their mother Elizabeth (Betty) Fleming Kennedy, whose death occurred at Vankleek Hill on Friday, April 29.

Announcements

GREGORY Scot Trepanier is pleased and thrilled to announce his recent marriage to Nicole Marie Brunet on Friday, April 29 in L'Orignal. He and his beloved bride will reside in Dunvegan after they return from Cloud "9".

Deaths

AITKEN, KENNETH JOHN — At his residence on Thursday, April 28, 1994 in his 56th year, Kenneth John Aitken of R.R.#1, Summerstown, Ontario. Beloved husband of Darleen Osborne. Dear father of Arlene (Mrs. Ian Kentell) and Herbert (Karen) Aitken both of Summerstown. Dear son of the late Herbert Allen Aitken and the late Lila Hall. Dear Grandpa of Alison and Christopher Kentell. As requested by the deceased there will be no visitation. A private funeral was held with the family at Salem United Church in Summerstown. Interment will follow at Salem United Church Cemetery. As expressions of sympathy memorial donations to the charity of your choice would be appreciated by the family. 18-1c

In Memoriam

MENARD — In loving memory of a dear wife Manon who passed away May 8, 1993.
No one will ever know what it meant to lose you.
Still loved and missed.
My heart is crushed and sore.
Days seem so long without you around.
Deep in my heart your memory is kept.
Always thinking of you.
—Sadly missed and always remembered and loved by her man, CowBoy. 18-1p

LAVIGUEUR, CLAIRE—IN LOVING MEMORY or our wife and mom, Claire Lavigueur who passed away May 3rd, 1989
The kindness of your nature,
The sunshine of your smile
Are things we all remember
And treasure all the while.
It broke our hearts to lose you
But you did not go alone,
For part of us went with you.
We do not need a special day
To bring you to our minds;
The days we do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
We hold you close within our hearts
And there you will remain.
So when the tears begin to fall
with grief so hard to bear,
Those memories of your presence
To comfort us are there.
We love you and miss you so much, husband Rene, Marie, Raymond, Sandra, Suzie, Carole, JoAnn, Monique, Eva, Steve. 18-1c

Cards Of Thanks

WE the parents of the late Edgar Fourney wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to Rev. Ian MacMillan, the organist and choir, soloist, friends and relatives for their many acts of kindness; for the food, flowers, cards and visits. A special thanks to Dr. Young of Cornwall and Dr. MacLeod of Ottawwa Civic, the VON, the Oxygen technicians and also the McArthur Bros and MacNeil Funeral Home, Lancaster and the many donations to the Eastern Ontario Lung Association.
—John and Eileen Fourney. 18-1p

McINTOSH — I would like to take this opportunity to thank my relatives, friends and neighbors for phone calls, cards and visits, especially my family for their love, help and support. A special thank you to Dr. Shah, Dr. McLean and all the nurses and staff at the Hotel Dieu Hospital while I was a patient there. These acts of kindness are greatly appreciated and will always be remembered.
—Stewart McIntosh. 18-1p

THE family of the late D. James MacAdam who passed away April 8, 1994 wishes to thank family and friends for their expressions of sympahty and visits. A special thanks to Dr. Varma, nurses and staff at Glengarry Memorial Hospital. 18-1p

BORROR — We, the children of the late Yvette Borror, wish to express our sincere appreciation and gratitude to all relatives, friends and acquaintances, who paid tribute to our Mother. The kind expressions of sympathy, comforting thoughts, words and deeds, will forever be remembered by her family.
—Betsy, Tommy and Nancy. 18-1p

THE family of the late Paul Roy would like to express their gratitude to those who sent flowers, cards, mass cards and donations to the Cancer Society. Special thanks to Father M. Larouche, Dr. A. Borduas, Sylvie Lefebvre and the VON for their support and kindness; also to the Knights of Columbus for their generosity. It will always be remembered.
—The Roy family. 18-1p

BLACK — The family of the late Catherine (Kay) Black wish to extend sincere thanks to all relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness and generosity during the illness and passing of a dear mother and sister. The many calls and visits, floral tributes, sympathy cards, gifts of food, and donations to the ALS Society and the VON are greatly appreciated. Special thanks go to the ladies of St. Andrew's United Church near Bainsville and to the pallbearers: nephews Gordon Black, Lyall MacLachlan and Wayne MacLachlan; cousins Rae McCallum and Morden MacRae; and neighbor André Charlebois. The thoughtfulness and support of all those who helped will long be remembered.
—Sandra and Jim Black and Janet Cattanach. 18-1p

I really appreciated the cards, letters and phone calls while a patient at the Ottawa General and since returning home. Special thanks to Ann, Bev, Margaret Ann and Erin.
—Sincerely, Penelope MacCrimmon.

A SPECIAL THANK YOU is extended to The Hub of Glengarry, Pizzeria Jessica, The Burger House, Pierre's Submarines, D'Antan Bakery, Alexandria Lanes, Alexandria Acropolis, Lalonde Pronto, Alexandria Drug Mart, M&D Boisvenue Sports, Dairy Queen, Canadian Tire, The Atlantic Hotel, Genuine Pizza and Donair, Alexandria Builder Supplies, Giant Tiger, Champions Restaurant and Maggie's Barbeque. These businesses have generously made donations to the T.R. Leger Alternative School. The success of the programs is largely due to the cooperative efforts of the community. Thank you once again. 18-1p

LEGROS
The family of the late Paul Legros extends sincere thanks to relatives, friends and neighbours for their visits, sympathy cards, floral arrangements, mass offerings and contributions to the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario during our recent bereavement in the loss of our dear husband and father.
Special thanks to Lise Derocher from the McArthur and MacNeil Funeral Home, to Father Rudy Villeneuve and to a very caring group of ladies from St. Lawrence Parish (Curry Hill). Our most sincere appreciation to the members of St. Andrew's United Church, Bainsville, for the special memorial service held in Paul's honour on Sunday, May 1st.
Thank you to all who brought us comfort and strength in our time of great sorrow. Your acts of kindness and your compassion will long be remembered.
18-1c The Legros Family

Betty McDonald named WI president

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

The members of McCrimmon WI met on Thursday, April 21 at the Lochiel Township Hall for their annual meeting.

The roll call was "Sing or Say" or pay 25 cents and membership fees. Some of the material given by the ladies was really funny.

Gretta MacDonald read "Some Alternatives to Exercise" and got the women laughing.

Another story was about some barrels of whiskey that were stored in the church basement. When they learned that the bishop was coming for a visit the men ran to get the barrels and emptied them into the river.

That Sunday morning the bishop was amazed when his congregation burst out laughing when he announced the hymn Shall We Gather at the River.

Another one was — the kindergarten teacher was struggling to get some winter boots on a little boy. She huffed and pulled and finally got him dressed, when he said "Teacher, these ain't my boots."

Oh no she groaned and bent down to take them off again. When they were finally off he looked up and smiled at her and said, "They ain't mine, they're my brothers but I have to wear them cause they are too small for him." Did we hear that poor teacher groan again? The Preservation of Man was the title of another poem read that day. There was a good bit of chuckling at that meeting.

Nancy Campbell read one of the Laggan contest entries about Abbie Hoffman the track and field runner.

Mention was made of a song contest with original words and music about Women's Institute. The deadline is November '94.

The Maxville Manor birthday party will be on May 25 for 12 celebrants.

The quilt committee had the lovely finished quilt to display.

Nancy Campbell had received the WI pencils for the Laggan School Project contest participants.

A discussion of details for the upcoming District Annual meeting to be hosted by this branch at Kirk Hill United Church included the fact that there will be a bazaar table at that time. The theme is Women's Institute in Action.

There will be a $2 registration fee and luncheon tickets will be $6 and we need to remember to bring our own mugs.

Further discussion of annual meeting plans followed. The executive vacated the chairs for the installation of officers ceremony, which was conducted by Mrs. Marjorie Crowley.

The new slate of officers are as follows: Past President — Betty McDonald, President — Margaret MacPherson, Vice-President — Gretta MacDonald, Secretary — Betty McDonald, Treasurer — Christina Urquhart, District Director — Betty McDonald, Directors — Doris Spencer, Enid MacDougall, Marguerite McGillis, Tweedsmuir History Curator — Nancy Campbell; Auditors — Marjorie Crowley, Helen MacLeod, Program — Enid MacDougall, Helen MacLeod; PRO — Lorna Chapman; Agriculture and Candian Industries — Gretta MacDonald; Citizenship and Legislature — Helen MacLeod; Educational and Cultural Activities — Marguerite McGillis; Family and Consumer Affairs — Lorna Chapman; Resolutions — Marjorie McCaskill; Lunch Convenors — Sara G. MacMillan, Sadie MacMillan; Nominating Committee — Enid MacDougall, Christina Urquhart; Scrutineers — Enid MacDougall, Christine Urquhart. The meeting ended with light refreshments.

The McCrimmon WI executive meeting took place on April 29 at the Lochiel Township Hall. The year's programs were put together for placement in the booklet.

Last minute details for the district annual meeting were discussed and finalized. The voting delegates to the annual meeting will be past president Betty McDonald, Margaret MacPherson, president, and Christina Urquhart.

The Glen Sandfield United Church Sunday service will take place in Glen Sandfield at 10 a.m., May 8 and at East Hawkesbury United at 11:15 a.m.

There were 48 members of the 39'ers out to the meeting at the Church on the Hill hall on April 20 for a splendid pot luck meal. The food that was so generously provided by the members was plentiful and very tasty.

April birthdays were celebrated by Tom Groot, Isabel T. McDonald. Lucky cup winners were Bessie MacLennan and Denny Van Loon.

After Muriel Moore led a rousing sing-song the business meeting began with O Canada.

There was a hidden ballot vote to decide the fall bazaar date and the result was that the date will still be in September.

Notice was given to the group that former member Chris Gill, now of Edmonton, has been in hospital and has recovered enough to be at home but is far from well. The group signed a card for her, to be sent wishing her a speedy recovery.

She was a good friend to many in the group and is still held in great affection by many of the members.

President Stella Kingston adjourned the meeting and the afternoon continued with cards and bingo with Tom Groot doing the calling.

Many of the people went downstairs to the rummage sale held by the United Church ladies.

Maxville man attends AALP seminar April 11

Corry Martens, R.R. #1, Iroquois, Carol Williams, R.R. #2, Merrickville and Jack Fraser, R.R. #1, Maxville, all participants in the Advanced Agricultural Leadership Program (AALP), recently attended the fifth seminar of the two-year leadership program.

During this seminar, based in Owen Sound, April 11-13, participants examined the "Dynamics of Change" and learned tools to manage change.

Paul Levesque, instructor at the Achieve Service Academy in Mississauga, began a workshop on change with the warning "Adapt or perish!" According to Levesque, "Change is inevitable.

The trick in helping people deal with change, is to make it less painful." This requires careful and constant communication.

The 30 Leadership Program participants come from 21 counties across Ontario and represent a broad spectrum of agricultural backgrounds.

They discussed local issues with community leaders from Grey and Bruce Counties at a dinner in Tara, April 11.

In meetings with Ontario Hydro management at the Bruce Nuclear Power Development, and Canadian Agra executives in Kincardine, they learned how leaders in these two industries are helping to direct change.

The purpose of the Leadership Program is to develop leaders who will work to maintain the strength of the Ontario agri-food industry.

The program is administered by the Agricultural Leadership Trust — a partnership of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs, University of Guelph, Ontario Federation of Agriculture, and the Foundation for Rural Living.

The next session is planned for July when the group will visit Saskatchewan and North Dakota to learn more about Canadian/North American relations.

For more information contact Patricia Mighton or Cathy Honderich, Box 1030, Guelph N1H 6N1 (Telephone: 519-767-3268).

VOLUNTEER OF THE WEEK

Margaret Vokins

Margaret Vokins, our volunteer this week, has been involved with Brownies for twenty-three years, beginning in Pincourt, Quebec, when her daughter Kim joined at the age of seven. When the family moved to Lancaster fifteen years ago, Margaret joined a pack there. For two years she worked with the Pathfinders (the thirteen to fifteen age group); however, she found she enjoyed the younger girls more so returned to them.

Once a year Margaret goes camping with the Brownies, staying at places like Harrington Lake, Morin Heights and Lac Adair. One year her Brownie Pack was invited to camp at the Glen Robertson Centre for free; another year they joined with Guides to camp in the big barn at the Williamstown Fairgrounds. On April 24th the Brownies had a Hobby Show in Alexandria to display their varius crafts, such as weaving, ceramics and artwork.

Margaret is on the Alter Guild at St. John's Anglican Church in Lancaster. She was also the secretary-treasurer for the Benevolent Fund, an organization set up in the Lancaster and Bainsville area to raise money to subsidize people in dire need.

Margaret and her husband Tony were born in England but moved to Canada in 1966. Here they raised their two children, Kim who lives in Cornwall and Mark who lives in Victoria.

In spite of giving so much of her time to the Brownies and the church, Margaret also finds time to knit and garden.

Obituaries

Edgar George Fourney

Edgar George Fourney died at his residence Concession 4, R.R. #1, Lancaster on April 18, 1994.

Mr. Fourney was a son of John Fourney and the former Eileen Edgar. He is survived by his wife Linda (Gordon) Fourney.

He is also mourned by a son and two daughters. They are Scott, Sheryll and Shannon, all at home.

Also surviving are two brothers Rev. Lloyd (Mamie) Fourney of Edmonton and Rev. Robert (Janice) Fourney of Windsor.

The funeral was held on April 21 to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, South Lancaster and to St. Andrew's Cemetery, South Lancaster. Rev. Ian MacMillan of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church officiated.

Pallbearers were: Bruce Munro, Robert Smith, Roy Keeler, Ralph Humphries, Peter Sommers and Mackie Robertson.

Donald James (Jim) MacAdam

Donald James (Jim) MacAdam died at the age of 81 years at Glengarry Memorial Hospital on April 8, 1994.

James served in the Canadian Navy, World War II. After the war he was supervisor at Canada Metal in Toronto for 30 years. He moved to Alexandria seven years ago.

A son of the late James MacAdam and the late Pearl MacDonald, he is survived by his wife the former Rita Lalonde and by a son Robert MacAdam (Pauline) of Whitehorse, Yukon and by three grandchildren: Jamie, Allison and Lindsey.

A brother Raymond and sister Jean Speican, both of Vancouver, also mourn.

He was predeceased by a brother Herbert and a sister Ruth.

Alexandria Legion 423 members conducted a service at the funeral home Monday evening and a guard of honor at the funeral service.

The funeral was held at 2 p.m. at St. Finnan's Cathedral on April 12. Monsignor D. B. McDougald officiated. Burial will be in Sacred Heart Cemetery at a later date.

Pallbearers were all nephews: Lee Abrames, Richard Lalonde, James Sumerville, Michel Lefebvre, Richard Lefebvre and Marc Lalonde.

Dorina Pitre

Dorina Pitre died at Hopital St-Luc, Montreal, Que., on April 21, 1994. She was 84.

Born in Penetanguishene, Ont., she was a daughter of the late Dollard Robitaille and the former Marie Louise Chretien.

She is survived by her husband Robert Pitre and was predeceased by a former husband Bernard Laliberte.

Also mourning is a daughter Claudette (Mrs. Yvon Gariepy) of the Town of Mount Royal, Quebec, and she was a stepmother-in-law of Micheline and Josee Pitre.

Three grandchildren and six great grandchildren mourn as do many nieces and nephews.

Two brothers and a sister survive: Leo and Bernard Robitaille, Cornwall, and Mrs. Claire Lemieux of Alexandria.

She was predeceased by four brothers, Joseph, Donat, Francis and Elie Robitaille and by two sisters, Mrs. Angelina Paquette and Miss Elizabeth Robitaille.

The funeral took place at 2 p.m. on Monday, April 25 at Nativity Co-Cathedral, Cornwall. Rev. Jacques Labelle officiated. Spring interment will be in Nativity Parish Cemetery.

Pallbearers were members of the Nativity Guard.

Speaking easy

Two Ecole Secondaire Regionale Glengarry students have done well in public speaking contests sponsored by the Eastern Ontario District Optimists Club, held in Casselman on April 24. Martin Chenier and Sophie Ranger, centre, will advance to district competitions to be held in Kingston this Saturday, May 7. Congratulating the winners are (left) Robert Henri, lieutenant governor of zone 6 and Margaret Henri, president of the Alexandria Optimists Club.

Ratepayer seeks answers

Stanley MacLeod led a delegation to Kenyon council April 26, asking when Caledonia-Kenyon Boundary Road surfacing work will be finished.

Apart from telling MacLeod that a $15,000 supplementary grant had been applied for, Reeve Wilfred Vallance could promise delegates nothing.

"Work has been carried out on that road for six years," Vallance admitted.

"But this year when we're braced for a 20 per cent decrease in our budget because of reduced provincial funding, I just don't have a crystal ball. I can't guarantee when anything will be done," he said.

Deputy Reeve Donald Besner explained that the project has hung on for nine years, since the two townships agreed on improvements to boundary road.

Florida Depratto pockets $1,000 in Optimist's draw

Good Samaritans

Driving to Cornwall last Tuesday night around 7:15 p.m. with my two sisters to visit another sister of mine in the hospital, my tire blew up on Second Street. We all got out of the car and wondered what to do.

A jogger came along and I asked him if he would help us. He gladly responded but had trouble with the jack.

Out of nowhere, came another young fellow who gave us a hand and in a few minutes we were on the road again.

I don't know their names but it proves that in today's society, there are lots of kind and good people around.

I do hope they read this article and from the bottom of my heart, a very sincere thank you.

Bazaar

The annual spring bazaar in the church hall proved again a great success.

Arlyss Belair of Glen Robertson won $100 while Victor Levesque of the Glen and Steven Fitzgerald of Cornwall were $50 richer each.

A sandwich press donated by Rita Chartrand was won by Lily Rozon of Alexandria.

Violaine Lauzon of Glen Norman won the "Guess the amount of pennies."

The pennies were a gift from Rita Chartrand and for those of you who are still wondering the total, there was 2008 pennies in the bottle.

A beautiful cake, graciously donated by Lise Menard went to John Flood of the Glen.

Anna Den Otter of the Glen was the lucky recipient of the lovely spoon rack which was donated by Mike Oetelaar of the Glen.

A group of youths and one adult plant some trees near Loch Garry. Scouts and Beavers from Glengarry and Stormont, including a contingent from Glen Walter, took part in the exercise Saturday morning. The youths were then treated to hot dogs and snacks at the Apple Hill scout camp.

Scouts to host car wash

Glen Walter

The signs that spring is here are becoming more numerous as we begin the month of May although it appears the song about April showers bringing May flowers may not be completely accurate.

After all, the forecast of wet snow announced this past Sunday by a local radio station makes one wonder if one has left the month of April behind.

Still to see the grass turning green, although those of us with lawnmowers know what that means in a few weeks, and to see buds swelling and a faint green haze on neighboring trees does a heart good after all the cold and snow area residents suffered through this past winter.

Another sure sign of warmer weather is the sight of long faces as the favorite hockey teams of area residents are eliminated in what many call hockey's second season.

We ask Glen Walter neighbors and residents who root for any other team than Montreal to be especially considerate around their friends and acquaintances who are still in shock after the 5 to 3 drubbing at the hands of Boston. After all, it is their turn to be the Habnots.

Besides this might be the year of the Leafs.

Mother's Day Draw

Area residents are urged to step out and show their belief that summer is coming by purchasing tickets for the Glen Walter and District Chamber of Commerce's Mother's Day draw of a chaise-lounge, Tony Murray, chamber vice-president announced.

Tickets for the May 7th draw to be held at 9 p.m. at the Blue Anchor Dining Lounge are on sale at area businesses or from chamber members. All proceeds are to go to charity.

Scout Garage Sale a Go

Area residents are invited to come to the First Glen Walter Scout troop's garage sale to be held at the garage of Precious Blood Parish May 28 to 29.

Joanne Marion, group chairperson for First Glen Walter, said the garage sale will be held rain or shine and invites those with any items they may wish to donate or baked products they may wish to contribute to contact her at 931-1047.

Green Valley Brownies do well at Highland District Hobby Show

The Green Valley Brownies did very well at the Highland District Hobby Show which was held at Elda Rouleau School on Sunday, April 24.

They won the trophy for the best group entry which was a market place with stalls selling fruit and vegetables, cakes and bread, clothing and potted plants.

All these were made by the Brownies with guidance but very little help from their leaders. Individual winners at the Hobby Show were:

Mallory Lutz won first for her needlepoint and was awarded the trophy "Best in Show" for Brownies. She also won first for her stamp collection, second for weaving and third for Holiday Decorations.

Julie Dumouchel won first for art (poster paints), first for art (markers), first for needlework (cross stitch), first in holiday decorations, second for handmade doll, second for decorated camp hat and third for art (crayons).

Vanessa Constant won first for art (markers) and third for her animal collection.

Mila MacDonell won third for baking (squares). They joined with the other Brownies and Guides from Highland District for an afternoon of fun, games and crafts.

Needless to say everyone was very proud of the girls.

Mrs. Lambert was recently awarded her 25-year pin. She says, she was asked just over 25 years ago to help out at a Brownie Pack for a couple of months where she lived in Lorraine, Quebec and has been at it ever since.

I'm sure Mrs. Lambert has enjoyed these last 25 years, because she does a great job. Keep up the good work.

Food for thought: If you haven't any charity in your heart, you have the worst kind of heart trouble.

God bless and have a safe week.

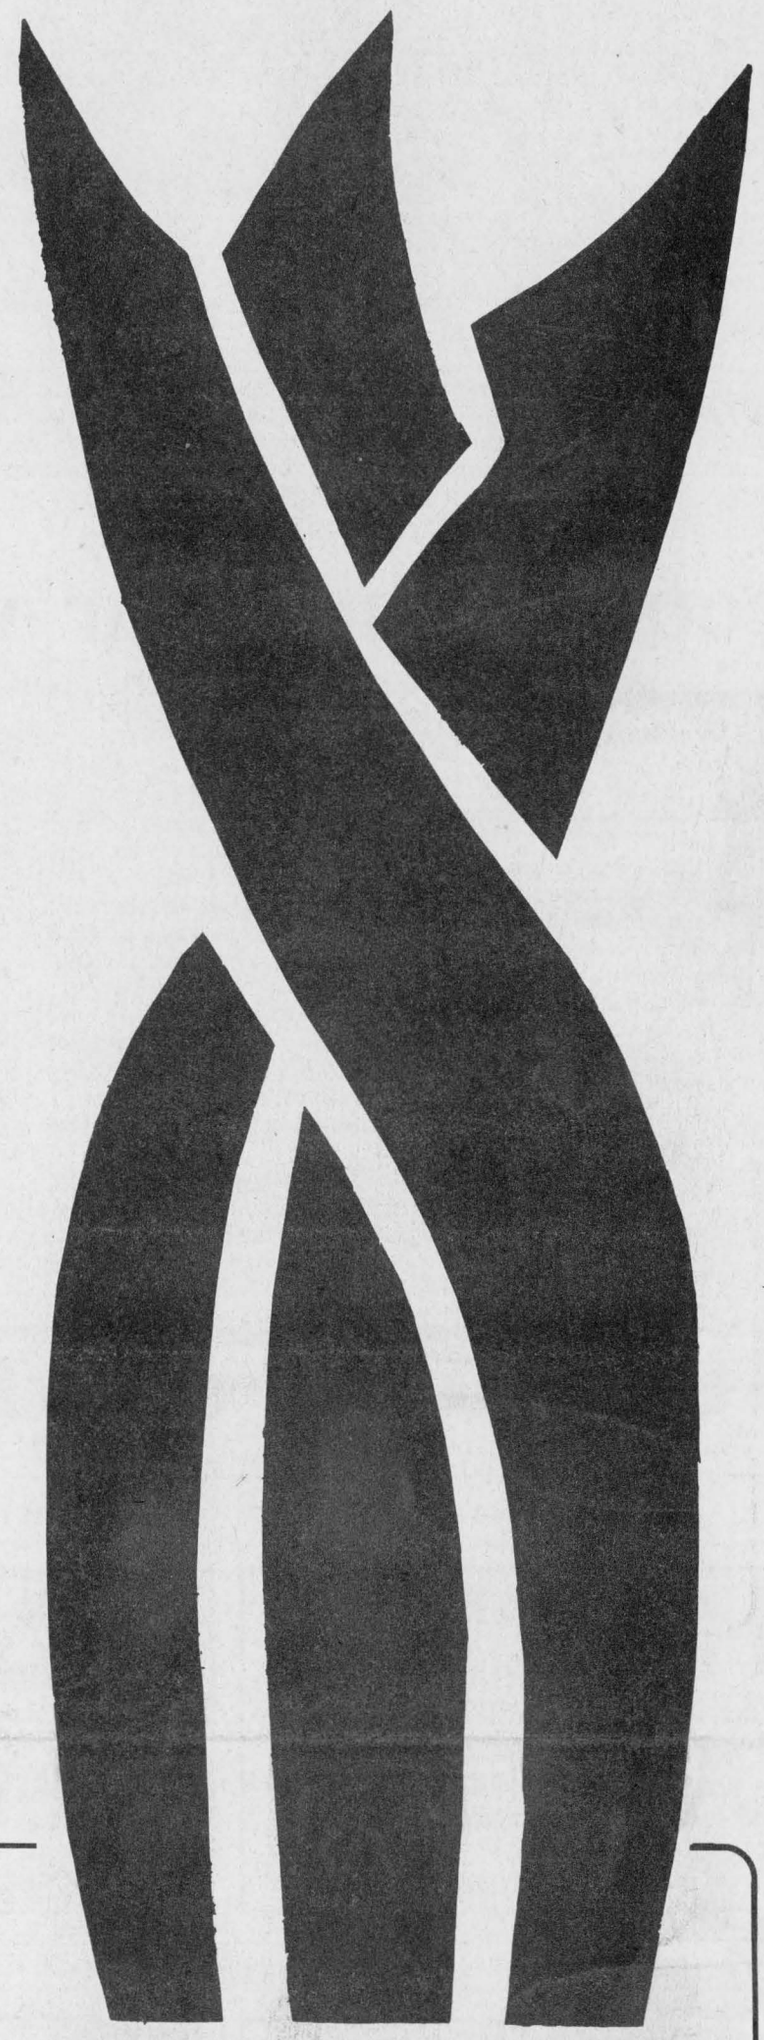
THE PRESIDENT'S TRIPLE CROWN

We've Done It Again

...THANKS TO YOU!!!



The most prestigious award that General Motors can give a dealership is based on Total Performance and most particularly, what you, our customers think of us.

We work very hard to satisfy your needs and to go the extra distance our reputation has earned for us.

This effort has paid-off...Again!
We've Been Awarded The Triple Crown

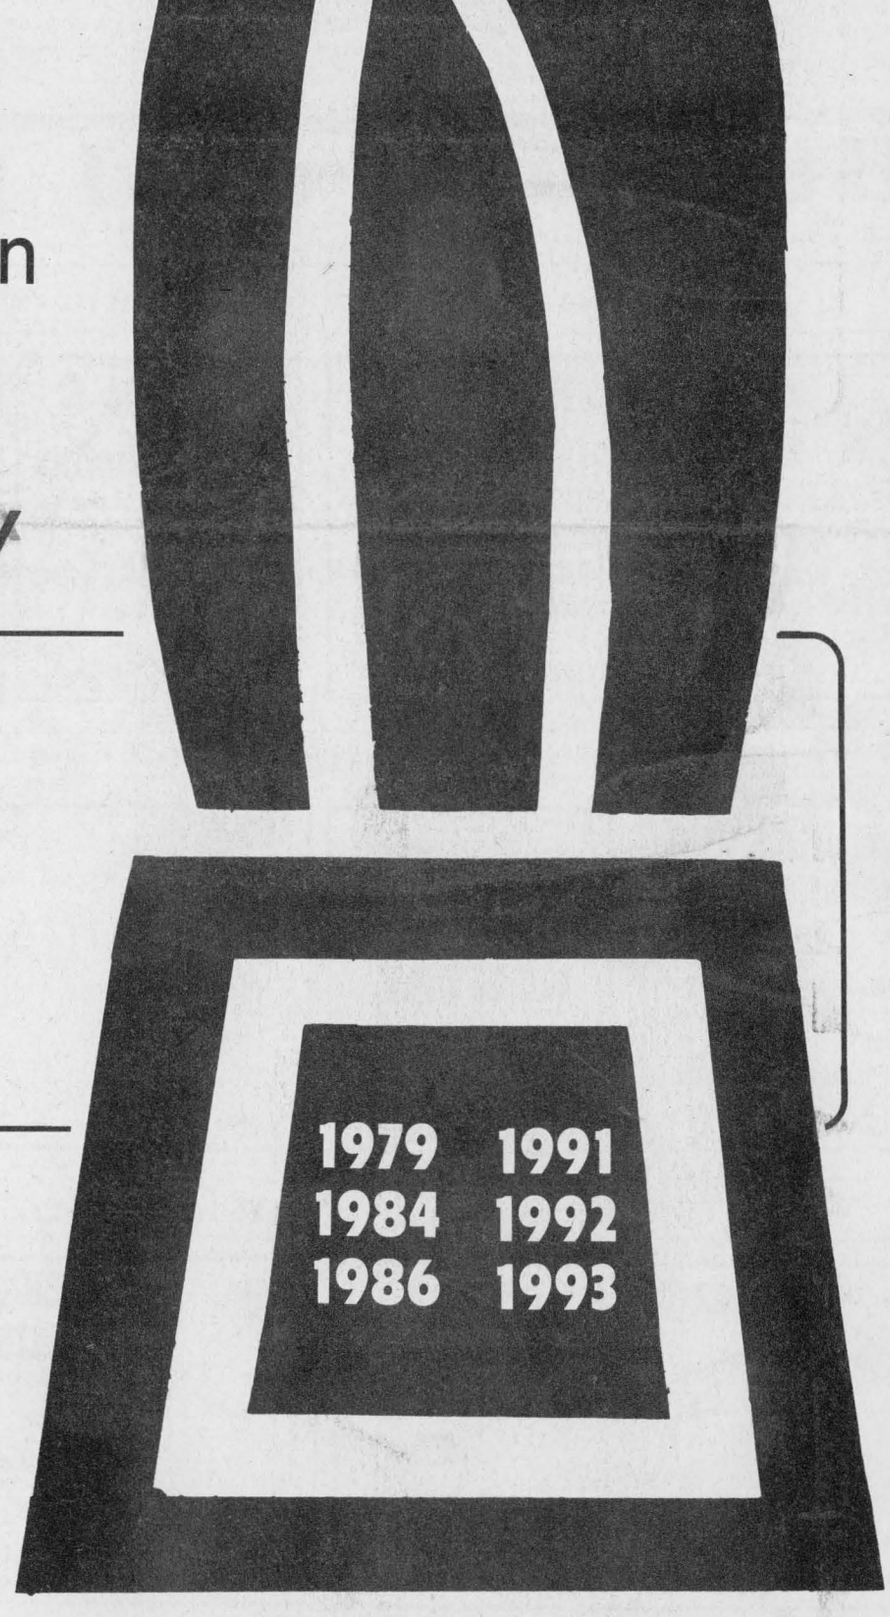
FOR THE 6th TIME!!!

And for the last 3 years consecutively

WE'RE ONE OF CANADA'S TOP 10

Your Pontiac, Buick, Cadillac, GMC Truck Centre has been recognized by General Motors as Ranking In The Top Ten Dealerships In Canada.

This is the second year in a row we've had this honor, a very rare one indeed, considering the many hundreds of General Motors Dealerships there are in Canada.



And It's All...

THANKS TO YOU

Our Loyal, Satisfied Customers
