Uncertainty looms at Footwear as 76 workers picket

By Michael O'Dwyer
News editor

Seventy-six Alexandria Footwear employees walked out Friday, putting into jeopardy their jobs and the fate of the plant itself.

Members of the Brewery Workers chapter 304 are rejecting for a second time a company plan to introduce modified piecework to improve the competitiveness of the shoe company in the international market.

The plan, the union claims, could result in a five or 10 per cent pay cut for some employees.

Cam Nelson, business agent for the union local said Friday while walking the picket line that the potential for losing wages was there and this is not acceptable to the workers.

"The company told us they would close the plant if we went on strike. We're hoping that is just a negotiating tactic. Despite that, the members are not going to take these cuts," he said.

Paul Larocque, laborer and union plant chairman is not so optimistic about the walk-out.

"I think we will end up losing the plant, but we'll adopt a wait-and-see attitude," he said.

"We recommended twice that we accept (management's new plan) but the membership strongly turned it down."

The union was in a legal strike position on March 9.

While plant manager Les Bradshaw said he had no knowledge of the strike on March 16, Vice-president Ray Whippey refused to comment on the labor dispute, saying only that he is "refusing to make negotiations in the newspapers."

Health and safety union steward Andre Lacombe said the problem boils down to inept management.

"It seems that (management) wanted this strike. We want to work, but we don't want to lose money, and if we have to lose, let them lose too.

"We won't take cuts for their ineptness. What we need is a change in management."

Alexandria Footwear manufactures various sorts of footwear including the Adidas sport shoe.

Under the Free Trade Agreement which went into effect Jan. 1, 1989, Canadian tariffs on U.S. made shoes will be removed in 10 equal stages over the next 10 years. The goods will be tariff-free Jan. 1, 1998.

Tariffs currently vary according to the type of shoe being sold, but the average is about 20 per cent.

The FTA has already taken a toll on other Canadian shoe manufacturers.

The Agnew group factory in Lachine, Quebec, closed its plant last March forcing all 53 employees out of work. The company cited the pressures of free trade as the cause.

Alexandria Footwear workers hit the picket lines after rejecting a company deal aimed at streamlining the operation.

Alexandria firefighters work in vein to quell the raging flames at the Hope barn on Main Street, Glen Robertson. Police are investigating the incident as arson.

Arson suspected in barn blaze

Witnesses say two youths were seen running from a horse barn in Glen Robertson shortly before the structure was enveloped in flames in the early afternoon of March 15.

The imposing building on the village's main street, owned by Viola Hope, was empty of all but hay and a tractor. It was totally destroyed in the blaze which began around 1:15 p.m. while dozens of onlookers watched from a distance, repelled by violent heat and flames.

Maxville OPP Staff Sgt. Brunet said Monday he is treating the investigation of the blaze as an arson. He said also that the fire may have been accidently set since "it is common knowlege that the young people use the barn."

The barn has been vacant of horses for about six years, and no value has been set on the damage as of yet.

The Alexandria Fire Department attended the fire for about three hours, and departed while the hay and ruins were still smouldering, said Chief Gerald Charlebois.

"A (Lochiel) township man stayed and watched it burn all night," said Charlebois. "It takes a lot of water to put out all that hay. It's easier to just let it burn."

Mrs. Hope, who had sold the horses following the death of her husband, said she had a hard time keeping neighborhood children out of the barn.

I locked the doors and everything," she said Tuesday. She added that the blaze could not have been caused by an electrical malfunction as all utilities to the structure had been shut off.

Hope said while it was sad to see the barn go, the vacant building was dangerous.

"It's a good thing that (the fire) stayed in itself and it didn't spread," she said. "It's sad to see it go, (but) a vacant thing is dangerous and hard to look after."

Sgt. Brunet requests that anyone with information on the incident call Maxville OPP or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-267-8477.

Police watch commences in Glen March 26

Plans to bring the Ontario Provincial Police to Glen Robertson have come to fruition.

Starting Monday (March 26), an OPP officer will be stationed in the Glen a few hours a week, to bridge the wide gap between the Maxville detachment and Lochiel's eastern and northern extremities. The office is to be located in the Glen Robertson Social Centre at the east side of the hamlet.

The Glen Robertson extended service office, to be the first in Glengarry, is aimed at giving the police increased visibility and at giving residents of Lochiel easier access to an OPP officer if there are questions or concerns.

Bringing the office to the Glen is a result of efforts by Lochiel Township Council and the OPP.

"We hope it will mean better service for people in that area," Sgt. Gerry Brunet, head of the Maxville detachment said Tuesday. "If something does happen down there, they won't have to be running back here."

A sign has not yet been posted at the office in the Glen Robertson Social Centre, but it's on its way.

There are still a few other items to be ironed out, but rather than keep people waiting, the OPP decided to wrap up the loose ends later.

Sgt. Brunet reported that he plans to draw up a schedule of hours and days for when an officer will be stationed in Glen Robertson. This will not be available immediately, he said, adding "We're taking it one step at a time."

The grand opening of the office will take place at the Social Centre on Monday at 2 p.m., and will be attended by officials from the Maxville and Long Sault detachments, and by representatives of Lochiel Township.

Long-serving Glengarry Monsignor dies at age 81

Among Alexandria's most prominent sons and respected priests, Rev. Msgr. Donald A. Kerr, died yesterday at the Janet Macdonell Pavilion in Cornwall. He was 81.

Msgr. Kerr's presence throughout Glengarry County was most noticeable between the years 1946 to 1965, when he served as temporary curate at St. Andrews West from Oct. 1946 to May 1947, as Pastor at Apple Hill from 1947 to 1949 and as Pastor at St. Raphael's West from Jan. 30, 1949 to July 1, 1961.

He was also made rector at St. Finnan's Cathedral in Alexandria in February of 1965.

Msgr. Kerr was born on June 28, 1908 in Alexandria, the son of James Kerr and Mary McPhee. He attended elementary school at St. Alexander's Separate School in Alexandria. He continued his high school and university studies at St. Alexander's College in Ironside, Quebec, and later attended the Seminary of Philosophy and the Grand Seminary, both in Montreal.

Msgr. Kerr was ordained June 15, 1933 by the Most Rev. Felix Couturier in St. Finnan's Cathedral, Alexandria.

From July 1933 to July 1, 1940, he was an associate pastor at St. Columban's. He then joined the Canadian Army as a chaplain and remained in the army until 1946. In October of 1946 he was assigned as a temporary associate pastor at St. Andrews West. The following year, he became the pastor of St. Anthony's Parish, Apple Hill and St. Michael's Parish, Monkland.

His longest pastorate was at St. Raphael's West where he remained for 12 years. In 1961, he became the pastor of Holy Cross Parish, Cornwall. During that time, he was made a Prelate of Honor.

In February of 1965, he was named rector of St. Finnan's Cathedral. Then Msgr. Kerr was appointed chaplain at Macdonell Memorial Hospital, Cornwall until his retirement in 1986.

He is survived by a twin brother, Alexander of Ottawa and a sister, Mrs. Christine McIntosh of Alexandria. He was predeceased by two sisters, Mrs. Joanne Doyle and Miss Penelope Kerr.

Dalkeith post office closing after 123 years of serving community

By Anne Kukhta
News reporter

After about 123 years, the Dalkeith post office is closing.

Canada Post representatives have announced that the time-honored building will be empty of postal paraphernalia by the beginning of June, following the retirement of postmistress Maureen Tessier at the end of May.

"I'm happy and I'm sad because I hate leaving the people," Tessier reflected March 15 on her retirement. "I enjoyed my work.... I have a little feeling of letting the people down."

However, she said she had an offer she couldn't refuse in the form of a financial settlement from the government upon her early retirment.

"This way, I'm getting more security than if I just retired," she explained, adding that she had originally planned to work another four years until she turned 65.

The Dalkeith Post Office services 357 residents in Dalkeith and the surrounding area.

Postmistress offered retirement settlement

While Tessier's retirement means the end of the post office in the rented building, it doesn't mean the end of postal services, a Canada Post spokesperson said.

Lily Sioris, an officer of Canada Post's community affairs department, explained, "We have a national program on to increase accessibility to our customers and the only way we can do this is through a ... retail postal unit because their hours are fantastic."

A retail postal unit is operated out of a store that sells the basic postal necessities in exchange for a handling fee and sales commission from Canada Post. The unit is operated for the length of time a store is open.

In search of such an outlet, Canada Post officials have sent letters dated Feb. 26 to retail businesses in the village, Sioris said. Also, they have scheduled a public meeting at 5 p.m. on March 22 at the former parish hall in Dalkeith.

As well as Canada Post representatives and village residents, this meeting will be attended by Glengarry, Prescott, Russell MP Don Boudria, who is the official critic of Canada Post. On March 19 he said he plans to use the opportunity to object to the post office closure.

"This isn't a matter of two post offices being so close that you can shut one of them down and people aren't going to say anything because one of them is superfluous," Boudria said. "You can't exactly walk to the nearest town from Dalkeith, unless you've got very good legs, better than mine."

While Boudria admits retail postal units offer the same basic services as post offices, he said Dalkeith will experience a loss in terms of employment.

"When you're a little community like Dalkeith that doesn't have many Birthday greetings go out to Mrs. J.J. MacDonald. The former Alexandria resident celebrated her 96th birthday in the Parisien Nursing Home in Cornwall.

Mrs. MacDonald is better known throughout Glengarry and especially Alexandria as Agnes Sandy Ranald MacDonald. She was a talented pianist and when only 12 years old, was taken to Montreal by her music teacher Professor Mulhern.

There, she played at a Royalty dinner party in the staid Windsor Hotel.

During the pioneer era of silent movies, Agnes Sandy Ranald played the piano at the Wonderland and Star theatres in town. She was a noted accompianist to old time violinists of yesteryears.

A Royal opening

The new Alexandria Royal Bank branch at Main Street South was officially opened on Wednesday, March 14 at a well-attended ceremony. The state-of-the-art facility, which features two 24-hour banking machines, one of which is a drive-through, has been serving Alexandria area customers for about two months now. Above, area manager Michel Germain greets the guests at the celebration, while praising the "smiles" and dedication of his staff, some of whom can be seen in the background. Below, Mr. Germain assisted Alexandria Mayor J.P. Touchette with the ribbon-cutting honors, while Pauline Brunet, left, discount officer and Doris MacLennan, manager of customer service, far right, look on. A light lunch was served and the guests were invited to tour the impressive new facilities.

Franco-Ontarian Teachers' Association may sue APEC

By Michael O'Dwyer
News editor

The anglophone rights group, APEC, may be heading to court for what one group sees as the propogation of hatred toward franco-Ontarians.

The Franco-Ontarian Teachers' Association is taking legal action against the Alliance for the Preservation of English in Canada because of "hate literature and slanderous rhetoric that is used by APEC in furthering its anti-French cause," said teachers' association President Robert Millaire.

The ensuing legal action was spawned by a video clip of one APEC meeting aired on CBC's The Journal March 7 during which guest speaker retired Armed Forces Officer Jock Andrew compared the spread of French in Ontario to the spread of AIDS, saying both are spread the same way and both should be stamped out.

Teachers' association President Rob Millaire said Friday this type of video or literature is just not acceptable.

"We're going ahead (with this lawsuit) because of a program on The Journal last Tuesday. They were comparing franco-Ontarians with the AIDS virus. Until last Tuesday we didn't care about the books, Enough and Bilingual Today, French Tomorrow (distributed by APEC, but) with The Journal putting down one of the founding nations of this country we had to do something," Millaire said.

"We want this to stop. They are going further than their mandate. The small extremist group is becoming very powerful and very dangerous. They're giving false information and riling everybody up," he added.

Local APEC President Don Ross of Martintown said Monday he is unaware of the offending video, the program on The Journal, or the impending law suit.

National president Ron Leitch said from his Toronto office he is aware of the controversy but maintains the video is not representative of APEC's position on francophones.

"I guess (the franco-Ontarian teachers) are entitled to their own opinion on the matter. Jock Andrew doesn't set policy for APEC, and I don't see it as propogation of hate," said Leitch.

"As soon as we became aware of the contents of the tape, I personally ordered the removal of the tape and instructed the St. Catherines branch to repurchase the tapes.

"It was an unfortunate statement and would have been better left unsaid. I don't condone it and you won't find anything against French people in our literature, only against government policy," he added.

Andre Pinard, information officer for the teachers' association is pleased the video has been hauled out of distribution, but the issue is now one for the courts.

"At this point, we will let the courts decide," he said. "APEC is selling this (video) as APEC material. It's not that one person said that but that it is sold by APEC. We have no problem with the critique of bilingualism, but we were deeply offended by that (AIDS) remark in particular.

"As French speaking citizens, we can't allow that material to be sold or promoted. If they've taken that off the shelves, that's good for us, that's half of the battle. Anybody would understand our point of view. Any comment perceived as racism should not be allowed."

The AEFO will meet with lawyer and Glengarry native Al O'Brien March 22 to decide a game plan. If prosecution is what the teachers' association is seeking, consent on such a case must be given by the Attorney General.

Don Young who edited the seven minute piece on APEC for the national news program said it "did not reflect particularly well" on the English rights group. He said the video which was used for the program was purchased at an APEC meeting.

Leitch said that rather than being a destructive force, APEC is a healthy vent for those frustrated with the official languages policy in Canada; it is not a racist organization.

"The (video) remarks were made over a year ago, on Feb, 1989. In no way do we support an anti-French statement. We're a forum against the official languages services act, venting anger. We act as a safety valve and some people vent off at our meetings. We are performing a good service. Anti-French sentiment is not part of our organization, even if that is what some of our people express out of anger," he said.

PLC kick off waste reduction pilot project

A one-of-a-kind waste management project kicked off Saturday at the Kenyon hall as Public Liasion Committee members coached 25 families on the joys of counting.

The project was designed by the PLC, part of the Stormont-Glengarry Waste Management Steering Committee, to gauge the waste reduction capabilities of families. Models were taken from Kenyon Township and cover the spectrum of family stages: five of them have young children, five have teenagers, five are from farms, five are single couples and the remaining five are seniors.

Each of these families agreed to keep track of their garbage for a week, counting discarded items and separating waste into wet and dry components. They have been provided a seven-day chart to monitor 86 commonly discarded items.

Then, on March 31, four PLC members will host a free seminar on reduction and leadership for participating families and any volunteers willing to pass on the training to residents of their own municipalities.

A representative of the Ministry of the Environment will attend this meeting to observe and answer any questions the audience might have about recycling.

Volunteers who'd like to participate can register with the project chair and Lancaster Township PLC representative, Pat Ager, at 347-3303.

After the seminar, the week-long project will be repeated by the 25 families from April 21 to 28 to determine the value of reduction initiatives taught at the workshop.

Then six months later, a PLC phone survey will determine if any of these techniques are still being practiced.

Monkland mishap

Four Toronto-area people were treated for injuries at Cornwall General Hospital after a collision at the Hwy 43/138 intersection at Monkland on Tuesday afternoon. The Alexandria Fire Department's rescue unit was called to the scene. Charged with failing to stop is Gerry Sawhezky, 27, of Kitchener, James Alty, 50, of Scarborough, who was driving this car, escaped with minor injuries along with the other three.

Lochiel Township

Council briefs

The regular meeting of Lochiel Township council was held at the township hall on Tuesday, March 13, at 10 a.m. Deputy Reeve Jean Larocque took over the reeve's chair during the morning portion of the meeting. Reeve Ron MacDonell took over in the afternoon. The following are items dealt with by council.

Dump hours extended

Lochiel Township residents will soon have three more hours a week to dispose of their garbage.

Township council agreed to open the waste disposal site near Glen Robertson an hour earlier, beginning April 1.

The new hours are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays.

The additional hours will raise the cost of operating the dump by about $150 a month, said Township Clerk Ray Charbonneau.

Township residents do not pay tipping fees. Non-township residents are not permitted to dispose of waste at the Lochiel site.

Charity begins here

The Township of Lochiel has turned down requests from two municipalities seeking to use the township's waste disposal site.

The most recent refusal went to Charlottenburgh Township and prior to that, to Roxborough Township.

"We look after ourselves first. Charity begins at home," said Deputy Reeve Jean Lucien Larocque.

Community work newest judicial trend

By Anne Kukhta
News reporter

Where a visit to Alexandria Criminal Court once left lawbreakers locked behind bars or saddled with fines they could never pay, now many find themselves holding paint brushes and brooms.

This is the latest trend in judiciary punishment. Called community service work, it is based on the idea that you commit a crime against a community, you make amends to that community. As well, it's organizers credit it with the double benefit of motivating offenders.

"It gives a person a chance to give something back to the community," local community correctional services board member Bob Pelletier said March 19. "It also gets them out of bed in the morning."

In Glengarry, Prescott and Russell counties, a network of about 150 volunteer agencies assist a board of directors in placing offenders in work-for-free situations, as ordered by a judge as a punishment. Probation officers supervise this work, which is commonly set at 100 hours during an offender's probation.

"If they're willing to do it and they're there all the time, there must be some good in this person. The community should help them along," Diane Chenier, the owner of Domaine Maria Goretti, Inc., explained her faith in the community service work system.

In the past three years, four offenders have been stationed at the Alexandria nursing home.

At the nursing home, the offenders basically helped with the upkeep and maintenance of the building. However, tasks for the community work can include delivering meals to elderly shut-ins, assisting disabled children with swimming lessons, or operating a book cart at the hospital.

In Alexandria alone, a number of institutions join the nursing home in helping the correctional services including the Glengarry Sports Palace, Sacred-Heart Roman Catholic Church, ARC Industry, and the Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

Alexandria Criminal Court's use of this punishing device isn't surprising — presiding magistrate Judge Reginald Levesque was the founding father of the Glengarry, Prescott and Russell counties community correctional services.

It all started in 1982, when Levesque sought to fill a judiciary gap that occured when either incarceration was too harsh for the crime committed or the offender couldn't afford to pay a fine. Often, young offenders fit into this catagory.

"It's another tool to use or employ when the court is dealing with the sentencing problem that has to take into account the principal of specific deterrance (of the accused)," Levesque said March 19. "It was happening too often in my experience, when the court would have liked to have that option and didn't have."

The three counties now have this option as a result of a grant from the Ministry of Correctional Services for the hiring of personel. In 1987-88, the ministry provided more than $2.3 million toward community services across the province that dealt with an average of 5,013 adult clients each month, based on figures from a ministry pamphlet.

The ministry's financial investment seems to be well placed as an estimated 95 per cent of community service orders are completed successfully, again according to the government pamphlet.

A similar rate seems to be reflected in Glengarry.

"I get the general impression that it does work because the (repeat offense) rate is lower when you make use of it," Judge Levesque said, explaining that rarely does an individual who has been sentenced to community service work reappear in his court on criminal charges.

An annual training seminar will be held by representatives of the community correctional services. Those interested in volunteering their business for the service are invited to attend the workshop, which runs from 9 a.m. until noon on March 23 at the Caledonia Community Centre in St-Bernardin. Judicial personalities will be present.

Canada Post closes 123-year-old post office

jobs to start with, you can't afford to lose one," he said.

"Dalkeith has had more than their share of bad luck," he continued. "It used to be a thriving community in this area and it's been hit with lots of bad luck. And I hate to see us lose the little we've got."

If nothing else, Boudria said he would like to see the retention of indoor mail boxes for Dalkeith residents, as opposed to the outside boxes that are typical of retail post offices.

"If we lose and don't manage to keep the post office, at the very least we should be able to keep indoor boxes. Canada Post should find a retailer who's willing to provide them," he finished.

In Dalkeith, there are only two retail stores who could provide postal services — Pinetique furniture manufacturing outlet and Goulet's general store — since the recent loss of three other businesses.

Of the duo, only Pinetique is actively seeking the postal contract.

"I'll wait to see what they have to offer," said Pinetique vice-president Monique Benson on March 15.

She said she has already spoken to representatives of Canada Post and told them "I'd consider it but I want to talk to them (more) first."

But even without additional information, Benson said Pinetique would only offer minimal services.

"Handling the basics is one thing, handling the whole thing is another," she said.

"I know the people of Dalkeith are a little disturbed that they may not have some services," she added. "They're concerned about losing the rural route and I'm not sure I could do that."

Currently, three couriers deliver mail five days a week from the Dalkeith office on three runs to outlying areas that stretch to Laggan, McCrimmon Corners and almost as far as Hwy. 417 on Hwy. 34.

Tessier, however, said villagers needn't worry about the loss of these deliveries.

"The rural routes will continue the same as they are now except the base will be different. It won't be Dalkeith," she said of information given to her by Canada Post representatives.

Although she said Canada Post has not disclosed the location of this new base, she said villagers have speculated that the outlying mail will be sent to either Vankleek Hill or St. Justine for sorting and then pick up.

Council again rejects program

A Lochiel township resident seeking council's support for a waste recycling program was, for the second time in four months, sent home without an answer.

Joanne Marriott addressed council last week, explaining that her small group -- which included two local Optimist Club members — wants to set up calf hutches in the Lochiel Township dump, to provide depots for recyclable products.

Her first presentations to council took place in December.

But Reeve Ron MacDonell told Marriott that the township is already spending money for the Stormont-Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan.

Marriott, admittedly pessimistic about the master plan, replied that the counties' study would take a few years to complete, and that action to stop wasting recyclable goods should begin now.

She offered to do the leg work to launch the project, but said she needed a firm commitment from council before spending more money on long distance telephone calls to research markets.

Charlottenburgh Township strike ends in 10th week with new contract

By Anne Kukhta
News reporter

Things are back to normal in Charlottenburgh Township. The recreation centre and nursery school have reopened, residents have halted their petition assault on the township council and placards no longer obstruct the view from the municipal office.

It took some concessions to bring about the end of the township stike after almost 10 weeks of picketing, the president of the Charlottenburgh branch of the Canadian Union of Public Employees said, concessions that wouldn't have been made weeks ago.

Gerry McPhail, working at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre in Williamstown on March 20, explained that union members decided the 10-week strike had to be settled, even if it would cost them some compromise.

As a result, meetings on March 18 with union members and councillors had a contract ratified before the night was over and 19 workers back on the jobs the next day.

"We're happy the workers are back on the job," township administrator Merlin Dewing said the day work resumed. "Nobody wins when you're on strike. It's an exercise in mitigation. You just cut your losses."

These losses generally centred around forfeiture of some changes the council had announced at the beginning of the contract dispute about a year ago. Instead of these changes, many clauses of the two-year contract that expired last April were reproduced in this latest agreement.

McPhail gave some examples of these original management demands.

One of these bones of contention was the councillors' attempt to replace the established work schedule of the office and clerical staff with a floating timetable, McPhail said. However, the final contract reflects the original schedule of 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. from Monday to Friday.

The recreational and road staff, on the other hand, acceded to management's floating schedule. On a one-year trial basis, the administration will post the timetables one month in advance, with any changes announced with 10 working days notice. Deviations will be compensated with overtime payments.

McPhail said the councillors also made some concessions with regards to part-time workers. Originally, they had demanded the end of privileges such as seniority and grievance, only to back down in the agreement.

However, they did insist that the part timers be exempt from health benefits.

"It wasn't mostly what we wanted. It was what we were trying to keep," McPhail reflected on unions part in negotiating. He added that the final agreement was worth all 10 weeks spent walking the picket lines.

As well as retaining some rights, the union did walk away with some extras, including a vision care plan for permanent employees.

These same employees also received a raise. For the clerical and day care workers, this raise will be reflected in a 90-cent-an-hour increase from May 1989 to May 1990 and a 50-cent-an-hour increase for the same period a year later.

Outside workers will receive the same raise of $1.40 over two years. However, it will be paid in two 70-cents-an-hour increments in each of the two years.

At odds with the exorbitant amount of time taken to settle the strike, Charlottenburgh Reeve Carol-Ann Ross said the settlement is fairly low key. She said there was nothing earth-shattering in the agreement that would account for the prolonged fight.

Instead, she attributes the extended dispute to "misunderstanding."

"During the March 6 council meeting, we went out to the picket lines and talked to the workers," Ross said March 19 of the councillors. "(And) I know from speaking to some of the people that they still didn't know what was going on."

However, despite the confusion Ross said encircled the negotiations, she said, "I think it went well.... This side is happy and I assume the other side is happy."

Help town, chamber honor its citizens

It's a familiar story. The Town of Alexandria and the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce seek to honor its outstanding citizens — and few people submit nominations.

Are there so few people living, working and participating in the community worthy of such an honor?

The answer, of course, is no. There are more than enough worthy people in Alexandria and district to qualify for Citizen, Businessperson and Youth of the Year. All it takes is some thought, a little time and a piece of paper.

The criteria is simple. If you know of a deserving youth between the ages of 12 to 21 years, an outstanding businessperson, or an energetic citizen living in Alexandria and district who you feel should be recognized for dedication to the community, submit your nomination and the reasons why you have chosen them, to the town.

A committee of judges made up of representatives of both the town and the Chamber will choose the winners from among the submissions.

It's that simple. Unfortunately, the deadline for submissions is tomorrow (March 22). While that doesn't leave much time to get your nominee's name in, the importance of this program is such that even last minute entries will be gratefully accepted.

Recognition of Alexandria's civic contributors is one of the most important gestures the citizenry can make in furthering the spirit of community accomplishment and pride. It would be a sad comment on the town if this program slipped by without appropriate response.

Leaders, citizens fail to understand gamble

The stakes continue to rise over the Meech Lake impasse. Studies have come out by two respected financial institutions saying Quebec would not unduly suffer economically if it separated from Canada. Quebecois businessmen are emerging boldly on the nightly news proclaiming that they are ready to tackle the challenges an independent Quebec would bring. And increasingly, shoulders are being shrugged, as if separation were the logical next step — and just around the corner.

There is a general, all-encompassing feeling that separation is not the worst-case scenario it once was. Reform Party leader Preston Manning is quickly (and unfortunately) gaining crediblity for his hard stance against official bilingualism. He feels the government of Canada and Quebec should get on with the business of negotiating Quebec out of the country.

The almost apathetic attitude being exhibited by him and a growing number of vocal francophones and anglophones is frightening. The disintegration of the 123-year-old nation Canadians know today is in danger of transpiring without anyone speaking out in its defence.

But, for ''experts'' to suggest Quebec's declaration of independence would cause relatively few economic problems is simplistic. The province and Canada have shared billions of dollars in assets, some of which cannot be valued. They have contributed equal payments for major projects, even during the Levesque years. A break-up would mean a massive effort of negotiation — and no guarantees for an amicable agreement.

And this is only the economic fall-out. Nobody knows what will happen to the French and English minorities in and outside of Quebec. Persecution is a nasty word, but given the recent bent toward intolerance, it is not beyond doubt to expect a divided nation to heighten its feelings against francophones, or indeed other minority groups.

And what about the future? Jean Chretien has been heard sentencing the rest of Canada to United States annexation if Quebec separates. And few people are disagreeing! But extremism isn't necessarily limited to parties. Joe Clark was accused of fear-mongering when he tried to remind his audience of the FLQ days of 1970, during a speech in his riding. He has been working briskly on damage control, but the implications he alluded to were clear: risk more violence in Quebec as language tensions increase without Meech Lake.

And these are supposed to be the reasonable people, the voices of calm in the gathering storm. Jacques Parizeau must be amused by those federalists doing his job for him.

But for Quebeckers, Ontarians, westerners and maritimers, these mounting symptoms of discord are yet to make them heed an old gambler's axiom; a card player never really knows what he's lost until it's gone.

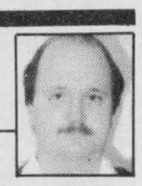
They didn't know what's in a name

After Thoughts

Joe Banks



Life should not be complicated for a guy named Joe Banks.

Anybody who has a name that simple (as in easy to say) ought to be able to roll through life, unimpeded by the normal worries of the harried world.

In fact, in school, the name was a big advantage. I got to stand near the front of lines during field trips because all the 'B's came high on the class list. My name was the target of neat jokes; ''Don't give your money to Joe. He's a Banks.'' I'd quip back that there was royalty in my family (Royal Banks) and that my grandfather's name was used widely in Newfoundland (Grand Banks). Such wit occasionally won me friends. Hey, suddenly there really was an advantage to the 'Banks' name dad never told me about.

Then, when I grew up, my name began to cause problems. It started when I was invited to a banquet, and was accidentally called ''Joe Barnes.'' It happened to be a sports dinner. And I could see the queer looks on the audience when they realized I wasn't the quarterback for the Montreal Alouettes.

Well, now I see Hollywood's got around to using my name. Now, life is really getting hectic.

It seems the name of the oppressed hero in the movie, ''Joe versus the Volcano'' is none other than Joe Banks. And everybody — I mean everybody — thinks they're being cute when they tell me. Now I know how Dwayne Macdonell felt when he shaved his moustache off.

I must admit, however, that I've pondered the reasons behind the writers' decision to use my name. It occurred to me that one of my high school buddies — who I'd heard was doing some ghost writing in the States — may have been playing a practical joke. But I quickly dismissed that possibility. He was, after all, a more direct practical joker, the kind who would balance a pail of water over a partially-opened door.

Closer to the likely mark is the similarity of the name to that of the movie star, Tom Hanks. The first name has three letters and the last name is altered only by the substitution of the B for the H. Given this theory, the character's name could have been Tim Canks, Danks, Fanks, Ganks, Janks, Kanks (sounds too much like Canks), Lanks, Manks, Panks, Ranks, Sanks, Tanks (too masculine), Vanks, Wanks, Yanks (too American) or Zanks. Add other three letter male first names to these, like Jim, Ted, Bob or Rod, and you've got limitless combinations.

I though Jim Wanks had possibilities. It's a funny-sounding name, perfect for a comedy. Or how about Rod Lanks? I suppose that suggests someone tall, which Tom Hanks is not, particularly. Ted Zanks? Maybe a little too zany to be believable, no?

But they chose Joe Banks. Hmmm.

In any case, I haven't seen the movie. Critics are raking it over the coals and Moviescan is only giving it a C+. The plot doesn't sound too great; Joe Banks, a burned-out businessman, tries to get off the treadmill and renew his life by jumping into a volcano. Sounds like a sizzler to me.

Thanks, boys. You could've used my name in an epic war story or a baseball movie.

Sounds like mom's choice of names for the fifth born is being wasted on a turkey.

Now wait a minute . . .

Flow of news mustn't be stifled

Pen Thoughts

Michael O'Dwyer

Journalists are notorious for making friends quickly and losing them even faster. What goes in print always affects somebody. And more often than not, someone is going to take exception.

And many people won't become involved in the news for fear of making themselves public, exposing themselves to public scrutiny. This much is a given; some people feel anonymity is safe, and journalists have to work around that.

But however people perceive the news, the industry has no other agenda than to bring the events of the world and community to the readers. It is a public service, and the not uncommon hostility is because of the exposure not due to any malice on our part. (The occasional slip-up which raises hackles doesn't really count.)

We are nosey, but we are not spies. We are ruthless, but we are not out to hurt, we delve into private lives but we are highly ethical; firm, fair, and impartial. Or, we strive to be.

At risk of sounding too much like the American Constitution, the essence of this business is impartiality. If we overstep those bounds, not only will we hear about it, but we lose credibility (our most important quality) and business plummets. It doesn't pay for the information industry to play favorites.

And besides that, the news industry is good for everybody. It keeps everybody abreast of what's going on, from the most trivial to the most monumental. With this common information, people can make decisions on life aware of what's going on at every level, whether that is Alexandria's policy on bilingualism or waste disposal or POLITICAL UPHEAVALS IN IRAQ.

Why, in God's name, would anybody hang a journalist. Hate him, yes. Send nasty letters to the editor, yes. BUT HANG HIM??

The man's name was Farzhad Bazlot. He was doing his job for The London Observer, he was accused, tried, sentenced, and hung by the neck until dead. Wow.

This man wasn't part of the fight, he was just reporting it.

Depending on where you go, journalism can be a risky biz, the kind of stuff you see in Salvadore. There can be stray bullets to dodge, but that's a risk. In the low-risk Glengarry, I've accepted flattened tires and kicked in tail lights in stride. But to be deliberately killed is something different altogether. Kind of like honing the sites onto a Red Cross volunteer.

If they didn't like him there, the Iraqi government should have told him to go home.

The rest of the civilized world must not tolerate this behavior. Not only has it caused the needless death of a foreign citizen, it has no doubt hindered the news gathering process the world over. The flow of information must not be stiffled.

Centre says need for support group

That's Life

Lesley Cadham

I'm not sure whether it's providence, an amazing coincidence, or simply that there is a profound need for a parents' support group out there. But last week I found out that there are other people trying to do the same thing as I, but going about it in perhaps a more formal way.

About six days after my column regarding the parents' support group hit the newsstands, I received a phone call from a man who sounded like he'd just won a million bucks. Maybe he did feel that he'd struck gold, for he and his wife were successful in helping to initiate a meeting hosted by the Family Counselling Centre in Cornwall, the thrust of which was to find out whether there is a need for a parents' support group.

Unfortunately, the meeting was never publicized and the news was only spread by word of mouth. It was held a few hours after I heard about it, in Cornwall.

Apparently, about eight parents attended, report the Lancaster couple, Leo and Beverley Gaucher. They knew friends were having problems coping with their teenagers, and very much wanted to find help. Hats off to you both.

And it looks good for setting up a parents' support group, Family Counselling Centre Executive Director Ray Houde told me this week. Sessions, which would perhaps be held once a week for 12-15 weeks, could begin as early as mid-April. There's a ''definite need'' out there, he said.

The chances of getting the Family Counselling Centre to host sessions in Alexandria will depend on how much local interest we can show. I told Mr. Houde that I'd received a few letters from parents who wholeheartedly supported the idea of setting up a group, and he seemed to think there are enough people to get one under way.

However, nothing can happen here until after it happens in Cornwall.

There would be a fee to attend the sessions, depending on a parent's ability to pay. Those who absolutely can't, could be eligible for assistance.

By the way, the Family Counselling Centre offers individual and family counselling, credit counselling for families with financial difficulties, and counselling for victims of family violence.

They've been in the business since 1936, when the centre opened to help provide food and clothing to less fortunate people. After the Second World War, the centre offered counselling to men who had been in the war, and to their wives whose roles had changed during their husbands' absence.

In 1975, they responded to families' needs for financial counselling, and in 1986, the growing awareness of family violence drew the centre into helping victims — both the battered and the batterer — deal with the trauma.

If the idea of paying for a parents' support group doesn't interest you, there remains the possibility of setting up a less formal group. I'm still interested in finding out whether people out there want to establish one, and you can still write to me at RR1, Alexandria, K0C 1A0.

You can't mix apples with oranges.

Unless you're me. I apologize for telling you that there are almost four million teens in Ontario — about half its population. I should stay away from numbers. The fact is, there are almost four million teens in Canada, whose total population is 26 million. The teen population in Ontario is actually about 1,300,000.

It's time to retire

In the Glens

Angus McDonell

While our orphan kitten was purring on my lap, I have spent the past hour lounging in my Archie Bunker den chair musing over the same theme that Pierre Elliot Trudeau consecrated on the evening he went for the walk in the snowstorm. I ahve come to a similar conclusion as our former prime minister; it is time to retire.

After half a century of involvement in the Ottawa-Glengarry realm of sport, not counting 20 years earlier at the high school level in the Glens, what more appropriate time to start the countdown than this Saturday night here in the Sports Palace when Glengarry's grand old sportsman Stanley G. McDonald drops the puck to officially begin the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame building fund campaign. The symbolic game will be under way with the Ottawa Valley Old Pros playing our Glengarry All Stars. Finally the ribbon cutting a few weeks away will officially open the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame.

Here is how those 50 years began. It was 1940 and among World War Two problems at home was juvenile delinquency. I was convenor of Ottawa's juvenile playground baseball and was drafted by juvenile Judge Allan Fraser to have the game set an example of responsibility.

I was amazed to learn by executive association the depth of Glengarry sport heritage in Ottawa. Judge Allan Fraser's ancesters were pioneer Loch Garry settlers where Masterson's Beach cottages are now. Tom Lowrey, managing editor of the Ottawa Journal played hockey with Alexandria 1913 champions and Jim McCaffrey, Rough Riders manager, played goal with the Alexandria lacrosse champions. King Clancy was a booster as his father in past football years played with Glengarry's ''Big Dunc'' Macdonald, Joe Corbett and Stuart Rayside.

At this time, Maxville Millionaires were the big attraction at the Ottawa Auditorium in intermediate hockey playoffs with excursion trains conveying scores of fans from Glengarry and Stormont. In 1940 they went on to win the Eastern Canada championship in Glace Bay. The Citizen and The Journal covered the series by special correspondents.

Then there was the official opening of Alexandria's Glengarry Gardens attended by Cecil Duncan past president C.A.H.A.; Tom Lowrey and Bill Westwick, Ottawa Journal; Tommy Shields, Ottawa Citizen; Jim McCaffrey, Rough Riders and Ottawa's police chief with Glengarry roots, Dunc ''Banker'' MacDonell.

In 1948 at Dr. Don Gamble's request I investigated the possibility of arranging a special train to convey the Ottawa crowd to the Glengarry Highland Games. Here we go again with an example of a sport fraternal bond.

Dean Ingram, the CNR Sparks Street office manager, was also one of the city's top amateur baseball pitchers. Obviously we had baseball in common and any special train obstacles were cleared away with ease. Add that Joe Corbett and George Shepherd were highly respected Glengarry railway officials.

I could go on and on but space is limited. So I'll conclude with a tribute of gratitude to CFRA which has done so much, so often, in assisting many of us to write countless chapters of Glengarry Highland Games and sport history for posterity.

There was the wit and excellence of emcee Frank Ryan in the founding years of the Highland Games and skillfully succeeded by Ken ''The General'' Grant for the past 25 years. Then Don Holtby and his interest in our young football ''kickers'' with J. T. Hay in the lead. Talented Ernie Calcutt the after dinner guest speaker who wagered a hammer throw against a caber toss that we would have a Sports Hall of Fame in the Glens before Ottawa. I'll never be able to repay Terry Kielty for his professional help to me in discharging master of ceremonies duties in my first years as chairman of our Highland Games and Alexandria Lions Club sportsmen dinners.

Letters

Quebec playing constitutional games

To the editor:

A quote from the Montreal Gazette of Feb. 14, 1990 defines the Meech Lake Accord in a nutshell. It states "the Meech Lake Constitutional Agreement meets five conditions set down by the Quebec government as requirements before it will sign the Constitution Act of 1982."

This perpetual propaganda that Quebec is not a party to the Canadian Constitution and has yet to sign the Constitution Act of 1982, is totally fraudulent!

To quote Senator Dr. Eugene Forsey, in the Globe and Mail of January 22, 1990, "the Constitution Act of 1982 is an act of the parliament of the United Kingdom. No province signed it because no province could sign it. No province and no person representing any province can sign it now — almost eight years after it was brought into force."

"The proclamation was signed on April 17, 1982 by the Queen. It was also signed by Pierre Trudeau, Jean Chretien and Andre Ouellet, all three, incidentally, elected representatives of Quebec constituencies. No person from any province except Quebec signed it then. No person from any province can sign it now. It was signed once and for all by the persons legally entitled and required to sign it. It cannot be changed, amended or revoked. No signatures can be added; none can be taken off."

Why the perpetuation of this pretence that Quebec is not part of the Canadian Constitution?

Death of Lord's Prayer is a farce

To the editor:

Referring to "Death of the Lord's Prayer in the Feb. 28 issue of The Glengarry News.

What a farce. What a joke Mark Giulliano wrote last week about our Lord's Prayer in public schools. He said, and I quote: "Let's get rid of the Lord's prayer in schools."

I was shocked and disgusted to see such blasphemy. He even went on to say that the words in the Lord's prayer were ridiculous and that it did not belong in public high schools.

Well hear this, Mr. Giulliano. The Lord's Prayer belongs in the public school. The Lord's prayer belongs in the separate school. The Lord's prayer belongs in every church of God. And most of all, the Lord's prayer belongs in every household.

Statistics today show that a majority of students entering college or universities don't really know how to write or read. Will we stop teaching in our public or separate high schools? No we won't.

So instead of trying to get rid of our Lord's prayer in the schools maybe we should have a special class to teach the meaning of the words of our Lord's prayer. And then — maybe just then, this whole world would be a better place to live in.

I hope that I haven't offended anybody.

Nap. Deguire,
Alexandria

Not sorry for scathing statements

To the editor:

Please correct that portion of your report (March 14, page 3) on the Charlottenburgh Township regular monthly meeting which indicated that I had apologized for my statements. I did not apologize for my statements. I apologized for misunderstanding the purpose of the meeting. The statements stand.

A large portion of the hostility which was prevalent at the meeting was caused by the reeve's announcement that negotiations would only be carried on in closed session. It seems to me that, if council is doing something to be ashamed of, it would be better to quit doing it than to try to hide it.

Eventually something good might come from this debacle. Perhaps a bylaw could be passed limiting labor-management disputes to two weeks of private sessions. Subsequently, only open sessions would be permitted with the ratepayers sitting in.

In this way we could have instant arbitration, with the ratepayers as the arbitrators. This ends my involvement in the matter.

Sincerely,
Alan A. Macdonell,
Charlottenburgh Township

Time for butt-out bylaw

To the editor:

The Education Committee of the Heart and Stroke Foundation, Glengarry Chapter, would like to respond to Marie McDougald's letter "Butt out at School Dances."

We heartily agree with her stand that we must protect the health of our young people by providing "smoke free spaces."

But how will our teenagers know we take non smoking seriously if they see adults smoking in our public buildings?

We must show our youth that the citizens of Alexandria are not only aware of the hazards of smoking but that we are prepared to do something about it!

Alexandria Town Council, isn't it about time you passed a non-smoking bylaw?

The Education Committee,
The Heart and Stroke Foundation, Glengarry Chapter

Protest to preserve balance of wildlife and environment

To the editor:

I think there has always been a delicate balance between wildlife and humans.

Hunting and trapping is important but, in some cases this goes to the extreme because people abuse the rights they have.

I enjoy nothing better than going for walks and enjoying the outdoors.

But if more of us went after big companies that pollute we might have some effect. Let's hope our wonderful and one of a kind country will be here for our children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Simonne Laferriere,
Apple Hill.

Save local farmers' fields

To the editor:

In recent years, I have watched drastic declines in the numbers of our favorite birds.

Bluebirds, robins, thrushes, thrashers, and meadowlarks are among the birds that are dying because of a common agricultural practice.

Continuous growing of corn results in a buildup of rootworms in the soil. Insecticides are needed if the farmer is to have a profitable crop on such fields.

However, the insecticides that eventually kill the worms also poison the food of the birds — those very same worms.

If farmers rotate their crops, it is not necessary to use chemicals to kill rootworms. Then the birds can be healthy, and keep the insects in balance. This is the type of action that we need if we are to save our environment.

Our organization, Farmers' Fine Feathered Friends, is appealing to everyone to support and encourage changes in agriculture. Sustainable, more profitable agriculture will result from using fewer chemicals, and taking better advantage of techniques such as rotation.

We need to adopt the idea that chemicals are used only as a last resort. We need to adopt national policies that provide fair returns to farmers who use safe practices.

The bobolinks, orioles, wrens, partridges, pheasants, and many more birds are threatened because of corn rootworm insecticides.

Please join our movement to save the environment, starting in our local farmers' fields.

Pipe band Generalissimo passes away suddenly

By Angus H. McDonell

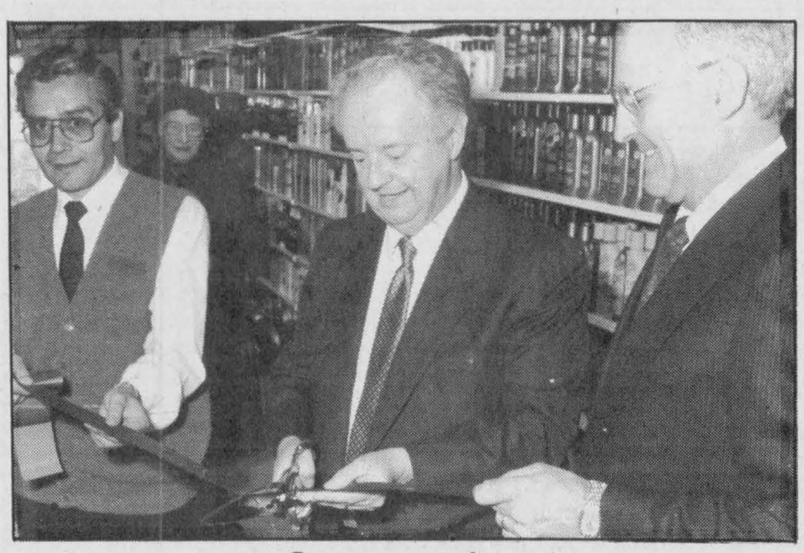
Glengarrians were saddened to learn last week of the sudden death on Sunday, March 11, in Glasgow, Scotland of Pipe Major George Forgan in his 55th year.

Pipe Major George Forgan was the distinguished and popular generalissimo of the massed bands presentation for the last number of years at the Glengarry Highland Games in Maxville. He will be regretfully missed by the hundreds of Highland Games fans who travel each year to Glasgow from various parts in Canada, the U.S. and overseas, especially Scotland and as far away as New Zealand and Australia.

Always meticulously dressed in Pipe Major's highland regalia much like Glengarry's long gone 59th battalion featuring the white spats, knee length sporan, tartan shawl with glittering shoulder brooch and busby hat, carrying the mace with precision and dignity. He would organize 45-55 pipe bands to march on the infield in units to open the Games and to the standing ovation of the multitude in attendance the highlight was the closing tradition for the past 42 years of the massed bands led by Pipe Major George Forgan playing the traditional finale "The Road to the Isles."

George Forgan was born at Leven, near St. Andrews, Scotland. During World War Two he served in the navy and after his discharge settled in Hamilton.

George Forgan was both a piper and drummer mainly with the Hamilton Erskine Pipe Band. He became a valued member of the Ontario Pipers and Pipe Band Society specializing in conducting the massed bands program part of the Games organized schedule each year. It was in the interests of the Pipers and Pipe Bands Society of Ontario that George Forgan was in Glasgow, Scotland, at his untimely passing while attending the annual meeting of the Royal Scottish Society.



Open at last

Investigating lawn damage

An incident of damage to property is under investigation in the Apple Hill area, Maxville detachment OPP report.

Police say that several lawns were damaged Sunday when a vehicle drove over them. The incident occurred at approximately 2:15 a.m.

The investigation is continuing.

Extensive damage

A one-vehicle accident on Kenyon Concession 2 Road near Marcoux Road last Wednesday (Mar. 14) resulted in extensive damage to the car.

A 1980 Chevrolet Camaro driven by Paul Lauzon of Alexandria, left the roadway, struck a tree and went through a fence. Lauzon was charged with driving while suspended and having no insurance.

Police briefs

Four sent to hospital

A one-vehicle accident on Highway 417 at 11:50 p.m. Saturday resulted in four persons being taken to Hawkesbury Hospital.

A 1984 Ford driven by Kim Sherman, 20, of Orleans, was westbound on the thoroughfare when it swerved to avoid hitting an animal, went out of control and rolled over into the median.

Passengers in the vehicle were Richard Blais, 21, Neville Martelock, 18, and Nathalie Bedard, 19, all of Ottawa. They all suffered minor injuries.

The vehicle was severely damaged. No charges were laid.

Reeve George Currier had a smile a mile wide last week when he announced to me that the high school property had been sold. It is expected that construction on the building will start next month to provide apartments in part of the building, at least.

The new owner is open for suggestions, apparently, for uses to which this large building may be put and does not wish to compete with any of our present buildings. We wish him the very best and thank him for any progressive decisions he may make for the good of the village.

If you see someone out digging through a garbage can one of these days, it probably means the person has forgotten to keep track of the day's garbage. Twenty-five families are participating in a survey of the amounts and kinds of waste each family is producing for one week.

After a workshop, the families will again keep track of their wastes and hopefully the amounts will be greatly reduced. Then the good word will spread throughout the neighborhoods and one solution, reduction, to waste management problems will become the "in" thing.

Led by radiant, 98-year-old Mac Campbell who was celebrating his birthday that day, Manor residents on March 14 enjoyed the birthday party sponsored by the local Horticultural Society. The other 12 celebrants for the month were: Christena McLeod, Pearl Campbell, Daisy Sayers, Fanny Joyner, Laura Downing, Hilda Whittaker, Anna-May Albright, Elven Sloan, Hattie Campbell, Melba Campbell, Martha MacCuaig and Grace Bender.

Freida Greer and Dorothea Conners chaired the committee which planned the program and Mrs. Conners also served as emcee.

The ladies in the choir are calling themselves the Singing Grannies and just may prove as popular as the Singing Farmers in the months to come. Christena McDonald was the accompanist for the choir and Betty Tinkler was a featured soloist. Other choir members were Oris Beaudette, Isabel McDonald, Hilda MacLean, Edythe Coleman, Agnes Campbell, Shirley Humble, Iona Morrison, Freida Greer, Margaret Jack and Dorothea Conners.

A short play, which featured outlandish outfits and exaggerated roles, brought out many laughs from the capacity crowd in the Manor's auditorium. The cast consisted of Shirley and Bob Humble, Christena Cumming, Edythe Coleman, Hilda MacLean, Isabel McDonald, Keith Jack, Ross Conners and Gordon Winter.

Several other Society members were also present to assist with the presentation of the birthday gifts and the serving of the birthday cake and drinks after the program.

If you have an amaryllis bulb that has finished blooming, keep it well fertilized and in a sunny window and you will find that the leaves will stand upright and have a good deep, green color. The plant will be easier to care for and you should be assured of more blooms next winter from the bulb, provided it is kept growing for part of the summer followed by a few months' rest.

The Public Liaison Committee (PLC) of the Stormont-Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan is spreading the news — the news of the 4R's of waste management. They are responsibility, reduction, reuse and recycling.

The committee has planned a workshop which will be held in the Maxville Public School on March 31 starting at 9 a.m. The theme of the workshop is "How to Save the World One Step at a Time." Seminars will be offered on a variety of topics and lunch will be provided. There is no charge for the workshop.

If you are interested in helping to spread the news about being friendly to our environment, you are invited to phone Pat Ager at 347-3303 to preregister for the workshop.

The unseasonally fine spring weather last week brought the birds back unusually early. Billy MacLean was the first to report a robin, seen on March 14 on the MacLean farm east of St. Elmo. However Shirley Taillefer of Alexandria phoned to report that she had four robins at her feeder on March 10. Mrs. Taillefer also reported two flocks of Canada Geese flew over Alexandria the same day.

After reporting on the birds, Mrs. Taillefer told me that she was the daughter of the late Donat Rolland and of Bertha Rolland of this village, so it gave me an opportunity to give her a little pep talk on family histories. Another one will be coming in later to add to the over 200 family histories we presently have on file for the Centennial Book.

I saw the first grackles in Maxville last Thursday. They seem to follow the robins closely.

I also found a dead female pine grosbeak at the base of one of our windows. I regretted the death of this relatively rare bird when it struck the window.

With the spring weather, try to take time to listen to the new sounds some birds are making. The chickadees are sounding more like summer and the evening grosbeaks are beginning to flock and to signal their departure from the area.

Earlier in the month, I forecast a St. Patrick's Day storm to pay us back for the earlier fine weather. Now I'll have to say that it will be an April Fool's Day storm that will say goodbye to winter finally.

Sixty years ago, Cormack Stewart left for a new position in New Brunswick. He was the son of the late Mrs. M. L. Stewart and an uncle of Burns Jr. Burns, now a resident of Regina and retired from the CBC has volunteered to do some writing for our Centennial Book.

A-flingin' in Florida

MacCulloch Dancers return from EPCOT extravaganza

By Bruce Myers
News* correspondent

The flight is brief. Soon the airplane is making its final approach to Detroit's airport. A quick switch of planes, and the entourage of Glengarrians is back in the air. Next stop: Orlando.

The group, most clad in their custom-made blue and white windbreakers, fill up most of the tail end of the craft. Unbeknownst to the rest of the passengers, they are the MacCulloch Dancers, Glengarry County's cultural pride.

They're on their way to Orlando, Florida and Disney's EPCOT Center to perform for six days. It's a trip that's been anticipated for months; hours of practice, fundraising and just plain hard work finally pay off as the plane levels-off en route to the sunny south.

The uniformly-dressed gang of girls turned a few heads as they took their seats earlier and the curiosity of a couple of flight attendants peaks when one asks pipers Bruce McCuaig and James Libbey to give the other passengers a taste of the bagpipe. They oblige, of course.

Soon, the plane is transformed from a tool of transportation into a crucible of cultural exchange, as the piping duo fill the flight cabin with the sounds of the Highlands.

Glengarry, now about 1,500 kilometers away, still seems as close as ever.

The plane soon crosses into warmer climes. A slow descent through the clouds reveals the lush and abundant greenery of the balmy state below that will be the group's home for the next eight days.

The heads of many a Floridian turn as the assemblage of pale-skinned, tired-looking and somewhat disoriented Canadian performers disembark from the boarding gate.

But the girls don't care — they're finally in Florida.

Greeting the Canucks among the sea of people in the terminal is a tall, perky blonde woman whose name tag reads "Tami." She informs the group that she's going to be their liaison with Disney World for the week and if there are any problems, see her.

Within minutes, the caravan of dancers turns onto Florida's Turnpike. After passing billboard after billboard advertising some of central Florida's biggest tourist attractions, a turn is made onto International Drive — Orlando's "main strip" — and where the hotel is located.

Upon arriving, the group is told their rooms won't be ready for another two hours. A little annoyed and very tired, the performers satisfy themselves with grabbing a seat by the pool out back.

Dancers and musicians plunk themselves in chairs by the water; for many, this is the first opportunity to sit down on solid ground for several hours. And as they sit or stand, staring at the lake adjacent to their hotel, many begin to come to the realization for the first time that they are finally — honestly and truly — in the sunshine state. The ear-to-ear grins and glazed looks in the eye say it all.

Of course, one would expect that the excitement of starting a trip that's been anticipated for a good 10 months can't stay bottled-up for long.

It doesn't.

Like a metamorphosis, the entertainers arise from their hotel rooms and start the fun. Some dive into the pool, others check-out the local stores. Some plan their agenda for the week and others limber-up for their upcoming performances.

But someone, always someone, starts a party.

As the bright, orange-colored sun rises to indicate the start of a new day, so too do the members of the group, although some are quicker to get out of bed than others.

Each at one's own pace finds a little spot to down some breakfast in preparation for a late-morning practice called by Rae MacCulloch, the group's instructor and top banana for the trip. Unfortunately, the girls don't have the luxury of a fully-equipped dance studio like they do back in Martintown; the asphalt parking lot out behind the hotel will have to suffice.

They make the best of it, though, and after running through the routine of the show a couple of times, the instructors feel confident that the girls will be at their fore that evening.

Soon after that, everyone attempts to pile their performing costumes and paraphernalia — and themselves, too — into the three vans. It's a bit of a tight fit, but they manage and are soon en route to EPCOT Center (Experimental Prototype Community of Tomorrow).

They arrive, and for the rest of the afternoon, the members of the group soak in as much of the features of the park as they can before having to return to a designated meeting place 90 minutes before they're scheduled to go on stage.

The afternoon hours pass and almost all of the group has met and have gone ahead backstage to dress for the show. All are accounted for, except for four.

Mrs. MacCulloch's assistant and daughter, Debbie (her other assistant and daughter Heather arrived the next day from Ottawa) sits in the dressing room, slightly annoyed, dreaming-up some vicious method of torture that could be used on the girls upon their arrival.

No sooner does Debbie narrow it down between draw-and-quartering and locking them in their hotel rooms for a day, than the quartet quickly but quietly sneak into their dressing rooms. A glare from Deb is all they get; it's all they need.

For about the next hour, the dressing room is a mad house.

Girls, some dressed in kilts, others garbed in floras and a number in step dancing costumes, run around frantically, each with her own monumental problem in preparing themselves.

Taps are loose, laces are broken, pleats are wrinkled, sashes won't stay attached; the anxiety level in the room is enough to put any average person under. But for the MacCulloch Dancer emergency repair crew of instructors and parents, it's just another show — only a little farther away from home this time.

While the female performers run around in a fury of frantic preparation, the guys of the Brigadoons and pipe band can't help but chuckle and shake their heads as they nonchalantly slip on their kilts, pick up their instruments and start to warm-up without, it seems, a care in the world.

After the last disaster is averted, and minutes away from show time, everyone assembles in two straight lines outside the dressing room trailers. The ever-present Tami rattles-off some last minute instructions on how to act and stay "in character," and offers a little pep talk. Within seconds, they reach the stage and disappear behind it.

As the audience waits anxiously, questions from American spectators can be overheard:

"What part of Scotland did you say they were from?"

"Why in the world are those men wearing skirts?"

"What are they going to do with that bag and sticks?"

Soon, the curious murmur of the crowd is broken.

"Ladies and gentlemen, Walt Disney World's international festival program is pleased to present as special guests today, the MacCulloch Dancers and Brigadoons, from Martintown, Ontario, Canada, under the direction of Rae MacCulloch. Ladies and gentlemen, please welcome the MacCulloch Dancers and Brigadoons!"

The announcer's Hollywood-like voice pierces the air all over the park as the Brigadoons and pipers rise and two dozen sword-brandishing dancers take the stage.

Six sets of Highland dancers perform the "Swords of Glengarry," hopping and leaping around the weapon once used as a mainstay in Scottish battle, now employed as a prop in a dance.

After that first act, seven more follow. For the next 30 minutes, step, Highland, flora and hornpipe dancers reel, clog and jig to the music of the pipes and Brigadoons, all wearing permanent smiles from ear to ear.

The audience gets in the act, too. Yells and cheers are heard on and off stage throughout the show from performers and spectators alike.

But the crowd really goes wild for the step dancers, when the music stops — but the dancers don't. For close to a minute, the only beat and music is that made by the dancers' feet, in perfect rhythm and unison. The yells turn to screams and the audience explodes into applause for the girls' remarkable sense of timing.

When the last group of individual dancers make their final salute, everyone dances together in harmony, each doing their own step, but in unison.

The dance en masse ends and the girls all line up at the rear of the stage, hold hands and join in the Brigadoons' rendition of a farewell ballad. They walk up to the front, take a bow to the roaring applause of the audience and leave the stage with the overwhelming satisfaction of knowing they had pulled it off without a hitch.

After the last performer disappears behind the stage, the comments from the Americans take a different turn.

"They were marvelous, just incredible!"

"That was just magnificent, I'm staying for the next show!"

"I've never seen anything like it before in my life; it was terrific!"

Some fellow countrymen were also in the crowd during the show, and are equally impressed in their comments.

"I never knew we had anything like this in Canada," an Alberta couple intones. "It's wonderful."

"That was a great show," reflect a Nova Scotia husband and wife, "it reminds us of home."

And the comment of a fellow Ontarian makes the dancers feel like they've accomplished their mission.

"I've never been more proud of being a Canadian."

Other tourists aren't satisfied with just seeing the performer from afar. They run up to the stage right after the show and get photos taken with dancers, pipers and musicians as if they were Mickey Mouse or Donald Duck.

The MacCulloch Dancers have certainly made a good first impression, to say the least.

About 1,000 spectators flooded EPCOT's America Gardens Theatre nightly for six days.

Now all they have to do is leave the same impression with 17 more audiences in the next six nights.

Between their first and final shows, the Glengarry cultural ambassadors had ample chance to see a lot of the sights the area had to offer.

In the eight days open to them, they just about totally covered the sights of Walt Disney World's three main parks: the Magic Kingdom, EPCOT Center and the new MGM Studios/Theme Park.

Lounging around the pool was a pastime for many, and sunbathing was a major part of their week. Although some may have taken-in a little too much sunshine for their own good, returning to Canada red as lobsters.

The group had their fun in the sun during the day, but when the night fell, their demeanor changed somewhat.

They knew they had a show to put on.

It's closing night.

Throughout the whole day there was a different feeling in the air among the dancers. Now, in the dressing trailers, the mood is reflective, almost sombre as the girls don their costumes for the final trilogy of shows.

The final march toward the stage resembles more a funeral procession than a group of happy-go-lucky young performers. They go backstage. The familiar voice of the Hollywood announcer they've heard a score of times before introduces the group again.

They run through their routine once. After the first show, Mickey Mouse shows up for a photo: something some of the girls have been waiting for all week.

The last two performances are given and everyone slowly and reluctantly heads back to the dressing trailers, not really wanting to leave the stage that has been like a home for the past week.

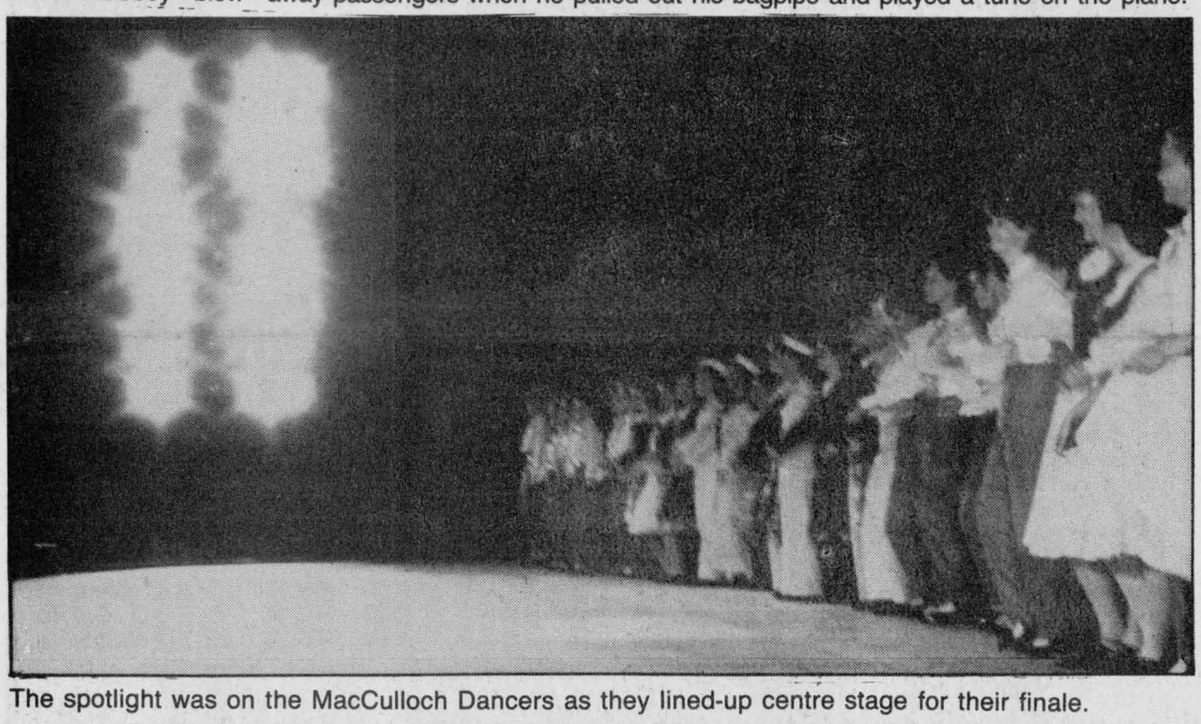
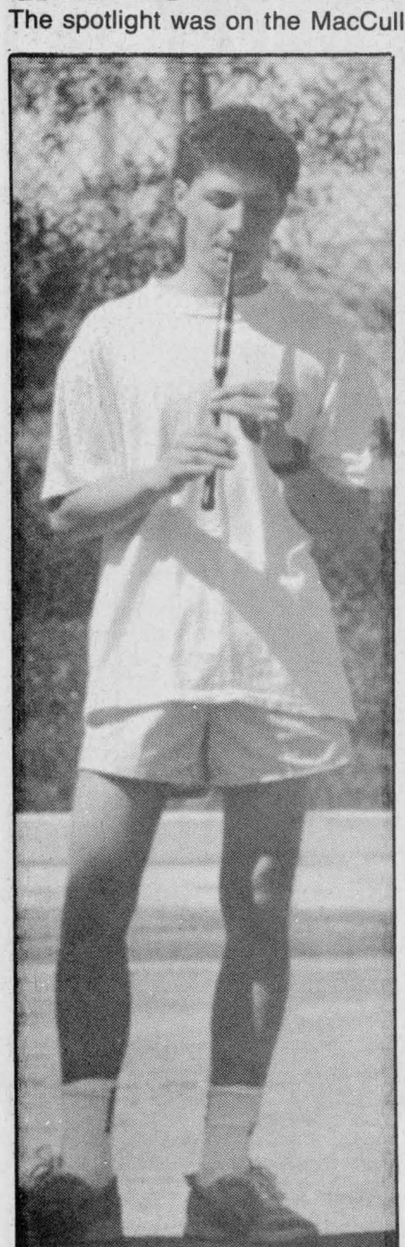
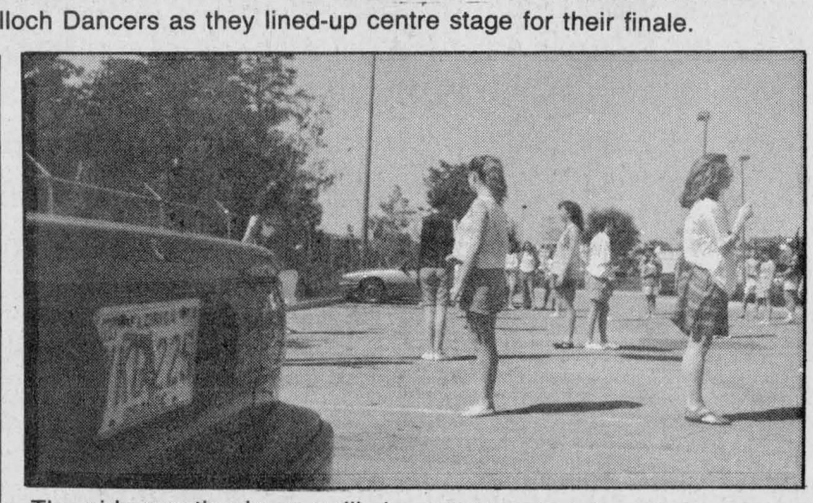
James Libbey "blew" away passengers when he pulled out his bagpipe and played a tune on the plane.



The spotlight was on the MacCulloch Dancers as they lined-up centre stage for their finale.



Bruce McCuaig loosens-up his fingers on his practice chanter during an outdoor rehearsal.



The girls practice in an unlikely spot: their hotel parking lot.

Photos by Bruce Myers

They trudge their way back, however, and all cram into one trailer for a little farewell ceremony. Gifts from the performers are given to Tami and other representatives of EPCOT who were responsible for getting the dancers down here in the first place.

But the EPCOT people had a gift for the performers, too. After showering the dancers and musicians with compliments, the man in charge officially invites the group back again; bring more dancers along if you like, he adds.

After the last photos are snapped and the last goodbyes are said, everyone crawls back into their dressing rooms, changes and piles their belongings back into the vans waiting outside.

The drivers are all ready to go, but the group wants to stay behind for a few minutes — to see the fireworks show. They feel it's a fitting way to end a smashing six days.

They stay for a few minutes longer. As the vans pull away, hints of light can stil be seen in the sky. It's almost as if EPCOT Center itself were saying goodbye to the MacCulloch Dancers.

It's 9:30 a.m. Friday — the final day — and the group has to be checked-out in a half-hour. After a short wait, everyone is in the vans again, as they pull out of the hotel parking lot for the last time, on their way to the airport.

Reflections of the week past are foremost on everyone's mind on the plane trip home. But when the lights of Montreal come into view, an overwhelming sense of warmth (not literal, of course) overcomes many of the dancers. They're home.

After customs forms are signed and luggage is claimed, the whole group leaves the terminal, some being greeted by parents, friends and family. Others hitch a ride with a bus heading back to Martintown.

It's raining in Montreal. As the assortment of vehicles departs from the terminal all filled with tanned, broke, and exhausted dancers, the girls look out their windows at the dark and dreary weather outside, rain drops trickling down the glass and snow on the ground. It's almost a depressing scene. But as they pass by a group of people all bundled-up in winter clothes and a sign advertising cheap snow removal, it was a far from depressing thought that crossed their minds.

"There's no place like home."

CONSEIL SCOLAIRE PUBLIC DE

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD

Cornwall, Ontario, K6H 5S6

Welcome children and parents to your Public School system.

GET READY

The first years are the most important years of the child's school life. Early impressions affect the way in which children will react to people, to new experiences and to life in general.

Our Kindergarten programmes help children grow in a child-centered, activity-oriented atmosphere through providing opportunities for each child to:

1. develop a happy, positive attitude to learning;
2. adjust to his/her new environment;
3. strengthen self-confidence and self-worth;
4. develop independence;
5. form good habits of health and safety:
6. learn to accept routines and responsibilities;
7. develop concepts and skills appropriate to his/her stage of maturity;
8. inspire creativity and individuality by learning through play;
9. learn about himself and his world;
10. experience natural curiosity by exploring and discovering through play; and
11. trust, accept and respect others and their property.

SUGGESTIONS TO PARENTS

You Can Help!

BEFORE SCHOOL BEGINS:

1. Read to your child often — the greater the variety the better.
2. Provide opportunities for your child to play with other children.
3. Introduce a brief period away from family members e.g. babysitter, relatives, friends.
4. Encourage your child to accept responsibility and independence.
   (a) dressing and undressing
   (b) tidying up
   (c) personal hygiene
5. Discover the route your child will travel to and from school. Several "dress rehearsals" are important.
6. Take time to talk and listen to your child. Speak slowly and clearly. Discourage baby talk.
7. Always discipline in a consistent, honest and gentle but firm manner. Praise good behavior.
8. Select and control your child's television viewing.
9. Enrich your child's education by providing new experiences, e.g. parks, library, beach trips by car, train, bus, airplane, picking strawberries, etc.
10. Build a working partnership with your child's teacher. Together you can develop your child's concept and give him/her needed support and guidance.

EARLY IDENTIFICATION

The Ministry of Education requires all Ontario School Boards to have a process which includes:

1. consultation with parents;
2. awareness of language development;
3. a variety of strategies for reviewing social, emotional, intellectual and physical development;
4. program modification when required;
5. assistance from other professionals to determine appropriate learning programmes.

Our process is not intended to be definitive or predictive but indicative of the present needs of each child. Our objective is to provide the best programme possible for your child.

AFTER YOUR CHILD ENTERS SCHOOL
KEEP ON HELPING

1. Smile and praise all of your child's efforts. Remember the "process" is more important than the "product". Praise works wonders.
2. Maintain a positive, encouraging attitude towards your child's learning.
3. Work in harmony with your child's teacher so that your child's progress may be enhanced.
4. Provide a "special" place for things brought home to share with your family. Your child will not necessarily bring home "artistic creations" each day.
5. The rate of development and stages of maturity vary greatly from child to child but children use the same stepping stones on the road to maturity. Avoid comparing your child to another.
6. Establish regular routines relating to meals, bedtime and tidying up.
7. Show your child love, encouragement and support.
8. Be an attentive and interested listener.

Students playing around with nutrition

They may not be the Parker Brothers, but a group of five Laggan students certainly challenged their classmates with a game.

Called Expert Eater, the board game rewards nutritional eating through a Monopoly-type format. Only in the boys' version, jail has been replaced by a hospital, Community Chest cards by nutrition trivia, and money with cholesterol chips.

The quintet scored the highest mark in the class and was rewarded with a pizza, which incidently is one of the nutritional foods headlining the boys' game.

The game starts with each player burdened with six cholesterol chips and the knowledge that their markers can't exit the parking lot start until at least one of the two dice simultaneously rolled turns up a two.

Once players have nabbed this golden two, their markers forge through a maze of junk food squares depicting sins such as french fries that earn an extra two cholesterol chips or cake, which sends them back to the parking lot.

On the other hand, a number of healthy squares dot the board. However, instead of giving, these squares take; landing on an apple costs a player a chip. But less is better in this game — 12 chips sends a player to the hospital.

There are some shortcuts in the circuitous route that ends only when a player lands exactly at the finish line. Some of the hospital questions direct markers to other spaces, and there's both a ferry ride and a fast lane. Correct answers to nutritional trivia at these spots advance markers by several spaces.

On Saturday, March 31 and Sunday, April 1, a collection for development and peace will be taken at St. Raphael's parish. This money will be used to help the less fortunate in our world. Last Monday, Therese Whelan from Alexandria, who is involved in the diocese in this work gave a presentation on this program. Ms. Whelan has visited some of the poor in Latin America and spoke about this with the aid of a slide presentation.

We thank you for your conviction and dedication to this program.

Mervyn and Anna Margaret MacDonald have just returned from a trip to Muskegon, Michigan to visit their son Blair. While there they were able to watch Blair in action as coach of the Muskegon Lumberjacks hockey team. They won!

On their way back they stopped in Guelph to visit their eldest son Tony and his wife Ruth. They only stopped for a short visit but were able to watch Tony being interviewed on Global Television.

Huetta Allinotte had visitors recently. Son Ed with wife Judy and family stopped in on their way to a family ski trip in Quebec and then again on their way back. A few bruises and sore muscles but all had a great time.

Well, they have arrived! Last week there were six robins sitting on my lawn. Didn't I tell you it was just around the corner? The same morning I heard a flock of geese flying over, and in the afternoon I saw a red-winged blackbird. Yes folks, spring is all but here. Even if we get a few snowflakes, at least we know now they will not stay. I love it!

I hope everyone enjoyed St. Patrick's Day and didn't drink too much green beer.

I received another phone call from a lady in Quebec who also received an advertisement for the creme which is supposed to reduce your weight. She would like to know who has been sending these advertisements. It seems that she is somewhat puzzled as to how they got her name and address. If anyone has any further information please give me a call.

Just choose any full-size pickup (except extended cab models) in stock. There's never been a better time to get your hands on the innovative design, advanced technology, and precision manufacturing that have made Chevy and GMC Canada's best-selling family of trucks.
NOW LEASE A NEW 1990 CHEVY OR GMC FULL-SIZE PICKUP
FROM $377 PER MONTH WITH NO DOWN PAYMENT††
ONTARIO GM DEALERS
Your GM Dealer's right here for you
CHEVROLET • PONTIAC • OLDSMOBILE • BUICK • CADILLAC • CHEVY & GMC TRUCKS

†These offers may not be combined.
9.9% financing offer with no limit on the amount financed available only to qualified retail buyers financing their purchase through GMAC on a maximum 48 month/minimum 12 month financing contract. Example: $20,000 financed 48 months at 9.9% A.P.R., monthly payment is $506.29. Cost of borrowing is $4,301.92. Assuming a $1000 rebate as the alternative, legislation requires that the value of the $1000 rebate be included in the cost of borrowing example in order to arrive at an effective interest rate. In the example given, the effective interest rate would be 12.05% A.P.R., and the total cost of borrowing including $1000 rebate not taken, would be $5,301.92.
Or choose a $1000 rebate. Offer available only to qualified retail buyers, and can only be applied to the transaction.
Offers available on new and unused or demonstrator 1990, 1989, and prior year models of Chevy & GMC C/K full-size pickup trucks (excluding extended cab models) purchased from dealer inventory. Offers valid for a limited time starting March 3, 1990 to close of business March 31, 1990, or while quantities last.
Some models may not be immediately available from dealer stock. Fleet orders and leases are ineligible for these offers. The buyer will be responsible for the payment of applicable taxes, including federal excise tax, licence and applicable freight charges at the time of the transaction.
All credit applications will be subject to approval by GMAC, which may require a down payment should the buyer's credit not meet its standards. Offer includes Dealer and Dealer Association participation.
††Based on 48 month SmartLease™ and a suggested retail price of $17,644 for a Chevy or GMC full-size pickup to qualified retail buyers. Lease rate in effect for vehicles delivered from March 3rd to March 31st, 1990. GMAC may require a down payment should the buyer's credit not meet its standards. Security deposit may be required. Some mileage conditions may apply. 24 and 36 month plans also available. Freight charges, insurance, licence, and applicable taxes not included. See your individual Dealer for freight charges. Dealer may lease for less. Ask your participating GM Dealer for details about similar retail lease savings on other selected models with SmartLease™.

They're back! My mother-in-law, Yvonne, called to let everyone know that two big robins set up housekeeping in her tree on March 14. She also said they must have had a good winter as they were nice and fat. Flocks of Canada Geese have also been honking their way over my place since last week. Oh, goody, spring!

The following is a press release sent by Eric Urquhart of the Community Protestant Church which was issued by the Congregational Christian Churches in Canada with whom the Community Protestant Church is affiliated.

"At a special Day Apart held at Brantford, Ontario, pastors and lay persons were advised by Mr. Keith McMinn of Goodwood, Ontario; President of the Congregational Christian Churches in Ontario (CCCO) that the Congregational Christian Churches in Canada (CCCC) was now a legal entity. While many were from Central Ontario, some had travelled 10 hours by car, while others had flown in from the East and West coasts, and enthusiasm was the order of the day. The new Canadian church fellowship received its Corporate status December 6, 1989. The Congregational Christian Churches in Ontario was formed in 1852 and has grown from seven churches in 1988 to 59 churches across Canada. There are four Regional areas — Pacific, Prairie, Central and Atlantic — that will have representation on the National Board. At a time when thousands of church people are looking for stability in worship and teaching, the Congregational Christian Churches in Canada maintain their faithful stand to use the Holy Scripture as their written authority in faith and practice. This fellowship was part of a world-wide coming together that met in Brazil in the fall of 1989. The World Evangelical Congregational Fellowship (WECF) brought together representatives from 11 countries for a week of study. The Congregational Christian Churches in Canada will hold its Annual Meeting at Western University in London, Ontario from May 25-27, 1990."

Licences raise money

Resident angling licence revenues have been used to supplement existing funding for Ontario fisheries management programs since 1987.

A total of 124,161 seasonal and 4,027 four-day resident angling licences were sold within the Eastern Region of the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources in 1989. There was no significant change in eastern Ontario licence sales from 1988. Provincially, resident angling licence sales generated 10.7 million dollars in revenues.

During the 1989/90 fiscal year, $819,700 of resident angling licence generated funding was allocated for eastern Ontario fisheries management projects.

There was no Apple Hill column last week due to a sudden bad turn my father had taken last Sunday.

Although dad (Babe Marleau) had a few rough days, he's back on the road to recovery. It seems to be the reverse of the calm before the storm. Everyone who asks about dad has to agree that he will not just give up. Thanks to everyone for the continual thoughts and prayers.

Mae Benton would like to thank all of the canvassers who helped the Heart and Stroke Foundation drive. Those who canvassed were: Helen Faubert, Maureen Bissonnette, Mileyk Benton, Madeline Guindon, Audrey McIntosh, Nancy Van Putten. Special thanks to Serge Andre, and to Jeanie MacDonald of the postal service.

On behalf of the community I would like to thank Mae Benton for her help to such a good cause.

Yes Claire, I didn't forget.

There will be a ham and turkey bingo at St. Anthony's Hall on Monday, March 26 at 8. Claire Van Putten is putting all this together for the Apple Hill Recreation. They are hoping for a good turnout. From the names on the sheet they had, there is no lack of prizes, so come out and enjoy an evening, and maybe come home a winner.

The Green Dyer annual curling bonspiel at the Glengarry Curling Club, Maxville, on Friday and Saturday this past weekend was very successful with 168 curlers participating. The bonspiel was organized by Nicole Villeneuve of Dyer. The team of which I was a curler in the bonspiel had as skip Harold MacCrimmon of McCrimmon's Corner and Gerald and Christine Jans of Athol as second and lead.

We lost our first game on Friday afternoon to a team with Dave Findlay as skip, Bruce MacGillivray — lead, James Campbell — second and Jean Campbell as third. On Saturday afternoon we won a game with a team skipped by Elaine Villeneuve of Dyer. Other curlers from this community who curled in the bonspiel were Hugh Fisher of Athol, Chester Valley of Tayside and his son-in-law Leo Villeneuve of Potsdam, N.Y., Albert Villeneuve of St. Elmo West, Bill and Catherine Kippen, Laurent and Helene Souligny, Bill Metcalfe, Eric Metcalfe, Brian Campbell and Andrew Arkinstall.

First off, I'd like to correct the heading on my column of last week, Mar. 14. Our village postmaster does not retire until May 31. We hope that we can discourage Canada Post from closing the post office.

There are to be representatives from Canada Post Corporation at the Optimist Hall — St. Paul's Hall, Dalkeith, on Thursday, Mar. 22, from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. or later. At that time they will answer questions, and listen to suggestions and comments regarding changes to our postal service.

A celebration of heritage

The seldom noticed Irish and French of Glengarry had a welcome chance to kick up their heels on the weekend. Champions roadhouse (top) hosted a St. Paddy's Day bash Saturday featuring the jigs and reels of Brandy and Port. On Sunday, celebrating franco-Ontarian culture, Les trois p'tits points sponsored a sugaring off party at the Bonnie Glen featuring the fiddling and dancing of Arc-En-Son.

Glengarry News Cup meeting to be held Thursday at arena

After a two-year absence, The Glengarry News Cup hockey tournament may be making a comeback.

Organizers and team representatives will meet Thursday at 9:30 p.m. during the Border League final to hammer out a format for the tournament.

At a preliminary meeting Sunday, it was decided that the proposed one-team per township idea will be adopted.

So far, representatives from three townships and the Town of Alexandria have expressed an interest in organizing a team. Team representatives are Steven Stewart and Andy Meth (Town of Alexandria), Robert Hope and Randy Larocque (Charlottenburgh Township), Carter MacDonald and Todd McDonell (Lancaster Township) and Gordie Howes (Lochiel Township).

Organizers are hoping a team representing Kenyon Township will enter the competition.

Anyone interested in playing should contact a team representative. Players from outside the county wishing to play would have their names entered into a draft.

Anyone interested in playing or helping organize the tournament is urged to attend Thursday's meeting.

The tournament could begin as early as next Thursday (March 29).

Benefit game is Saturday

Six former National Hockey League players will be in the lineup Saturday when the Ottawa Valley Old Pros meet the Glengarry All Stars in a benefit hockey game for the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame.

The game will be played at the Glengarry Sports Palace, beginning at 8 p.m.

The former NHLers in the Ottawa lineup are Tim Higgins (Detroit, Chicago), Ed Hatoum (Detroit), Bill Kitchen (Montreal, Toronto), Brian Smith (Los Angeles), John Barrett (Detroit) and Dave Barrett (Minnesota).

The Ottawa Rough Riders have three representatives on the team. They are Kim Lyttle, Ken Evraire, and Gerald Wilcox.

Other members of the Ottawa team — coached by Andy Rochon — are former Ottawa 67's Peter Gaw, Lary Skinner and Ron Davidson, and John Bonar, Murray Kuntz, and Pat Draper.

They'll be opposed by a 23-member Glengarry All Stars squad. They are goaltenders Rene Lefebvre, Jim McDonell and Alain Giroux, and defencemen Rock Lajoie, Willie Terry, Ralph McSweyn, Roger Levert, Hubert McDonell, Artie McQuaig, and Donnie Morris. Forwards are Rodney Shepherd, Mike Boisvenue, Billy Kippen, Brian Wensink, Jimmy Maville, Raymond Poirier, Donald Blaney, Gilles Joanette, Leo Seguin, Frank St. Pierre, Wendell Lafave, Jim McDonald, and Gary McDonald.

The Glengarry All Stars will be coached by Chris McDonell and Ken McDonald. Team managers are Angus H. McDonell and Peter Conway. The equipment manager is Don Campbell. Honorable directors are John Chafee, Bill Shields and Archie Stewart.

CFRA sports announcer Don Leger will be on hand to introduce the two clubs as part of the pre-game ceremonies, beginning at 7:40 p.m.

Glens recover from Friday blowout

Pivotal game five in St. Lawrence Division final is tonight in Alexandria

By Todd Hambleton
Sports editor

When those unfortunate souls left the disaster site after witnessing Friday's Nightmare on MacDonald Boulevard, they may have been asking themselves, among other things...

a) How could such a carnage have taken place? And...

b) How is arena manager Mike Depratto going to book all that extra icetime at the Glengarry Sports Palace?

But hold on just a minute.

Yes, Alexandria Glens were the victims of a savage 12-3 beating at the hands of the Kemptville 73's in game three of their St. Lawrence Division best-of-seven final.

No, the death knell is no longer ringing in the ears of the Alexandria faithful.

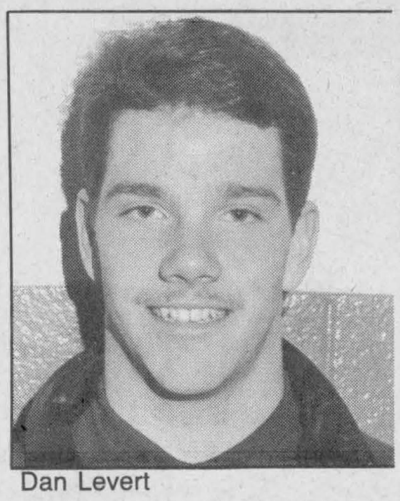
Glens are back on track in their quest for the division crown scoring a gut-check 8-4 win over 73's in Kemptville Sunday night, evening the series at two games apiece.

Crucial game five in the set is tonight (Wednesday) at the Glengarry Sports Palace, beginning at 8 p.m.

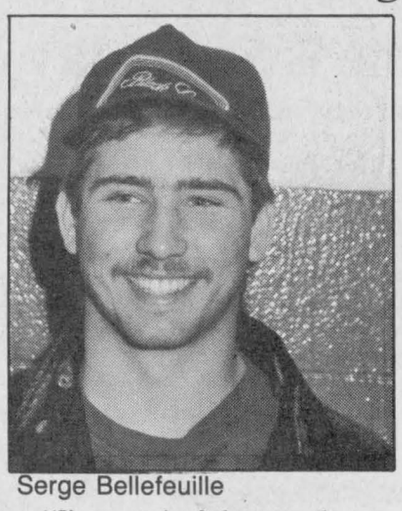
With their backs to the wall, Glens — a thoroughly frustrated team after Friday's debacle — came through with their biggest win of the season.

Alexandria jumped out to an early 2-0 lead and never looked back. "After Friday's game, coming out strong and taking the lead was important and that's what we did," DeRooy said. "It was good for their confidence."

It was a boost of confidence that was profoundly shaken after game three.



Dan Levert



Serge Bellefeuille

"Friday night was just a complete disaster," said DeRooy, who made a point of crediting the Alexandria fans — over 100 of them made the trek to Kemptville — with playing a role in the win. "The way we played Friday I wouldn't have expected anyone to come Sunday. I thought most people would stay at home and count us out after losing two games in a row like that — a lot of people were disappointed and they had good reason to be dissapointed.

"But the fan support was terrific and the boys were happy about that — it really spurred them on. The morale on the team is a lot better now."

Who played well Sunday? Do you have a players list handy? "Barnes, Campbell, Sauve, Levert, Bellefeuille, Francoueur...the whole team," DeRooy said. "It was a complete team effort.

"I'm proud of the way they rebounded. A loss is a loss whether you lose by one goal or nine. But it's the way we played that was the worst part of it. But they got it out of their system and came back and played a great game."

Glens got off to a good start when Craig Johnson scored on the first shift. Todd Henry added another first period marker as Glens led 2-1 heading to the second period.

Alexandria took a 5-2 second period lead on a pair of goals by Scott Barnes and one from Mike Sauve.

Marc Sauve, with a pair, and Glen Campbell rounded out the scoring for Alexandria in the third period.

Friday's loss

Alexandria winning five of six regular season games against Kemptville this year.

Alexandria scoring at least five goals in every game (40 consecutively, counting season and playoffs).

Alexandria having the top goaltending tandem in the league with a GAA of 4.68.

Alexandria not losing twice in a row all season.

Just some of the numbers that didn't seem to add up Friday night, after visiting 73's barely broke a sweat in skating to a 12-3 win. It wasn't just that they had won the game to take a 2-1 series lead; it was that they made it look so easy and only seemed to meet token resistance in doing so.

It marked the second straight game Glens have failed to score at least five goals and the first time they've lost back-to-back games. And while they weren't scoring, they were giving up goals in unprecedented numbers, yielding 21 in two contests.

Without giving away any secrets, Kemptville coach Doug Rigby provided some answers as to why his club has surprised, so far.

"Offensively, we've been doing well because we're digging hard in their end of the rink, and getting second and third shots away," Rigby said. "Everyone is shooting the puck well, and, to be honest, we have been getting a lot of good bounces.

"In a way, we've been fortunate to get the breaks."

How have you been taking care of things in your own end, coach? "We're playing a physical style," he said. "Not rough, just physical. Alexandria plays this rink to a tee and they're such a good skating team, you have to bother them and slow them down.

Alexandria's Craig Johnson (30) has a word with Kemptville forward Kevin Holmes Friday night. They settled their differences with a scrap late in the third period.

Ernie's posts third straight win

Their opponents in the Alexandria and District Industrial Hockey League will have to wait through the off-season before getting another crack at the Ernie's Cement Work two-year unbeaten streak.

Ernie's captured their third straight playoff championship Saturday afternoon in Maxville with a not-as-close-as-the-final-score-would-indicate 3-2 decision over upstart Lalonde's General Store. Ernie's wins the best-of-three series 2-0.

Ernie's controlled the tempo from the outset and went ahead for good when Garrett McGillis connected five minutes into the first. Ralph Humphries drew an assist on the marker.

John Vincent pushed the lead to 2-0 scoring the first of his two goals with 4:43 to go in the first. Danny O'Brien and Jean-Paul Claude drew assists on the play.

Vincent notched an insurance marker with 8:55 remaining in the third.

Lalonde's made the score respectable scoring twice in the final minute. Richard Lebrun got his team on the scoreboard with 23 seconds left; Roch Cholette closed the gap to 3-2 connecting with 10 seconds remaining.

Ernie's took game one last week winning 6-5 in overtime.

Great season

Knights of Columbus Novices cap season with playoff victory

Alexandria Knights of Columbus Novice Glens capped a season in which they won five tournaments by capturing the Lower St. Lawrence Travelling League championship trophy with a 2-1 win over South Stormont in a sudden death playoff tie breaker Thursday in Long Sault.

Gregory Lalonde's second goal of the contest with 40 seconds remaining in the second period snapped a 1-1 tie and held up as the game-winner.

Glens had taken a 1-0 lead on Lalonde's first goal with five minutes remaining in the opening stanza. South Stormont tied it 1-1 with 2:51 left in the second period.

Glens completed regular season action in first place. They won four A championships and one consolation title in tournament competition.

In an exhibition game Sunday, homestanding Glens dumped visiting Louisville 8-3. Gregory Lalonde and Kurt MacSweyn each fired hat tricks to lead Glens. Lalonde added three assists. Jamie Ladouceur and Ghislain Valade each scored and assisted. Guillaume Ouimet had three assists with single helpers going to Murray MacLeod, Eric Leroux and Ryan Neilsen.

Lancaster stays alive with Sunday win in Border League final series

The celebration has been put on hold indefinitely.

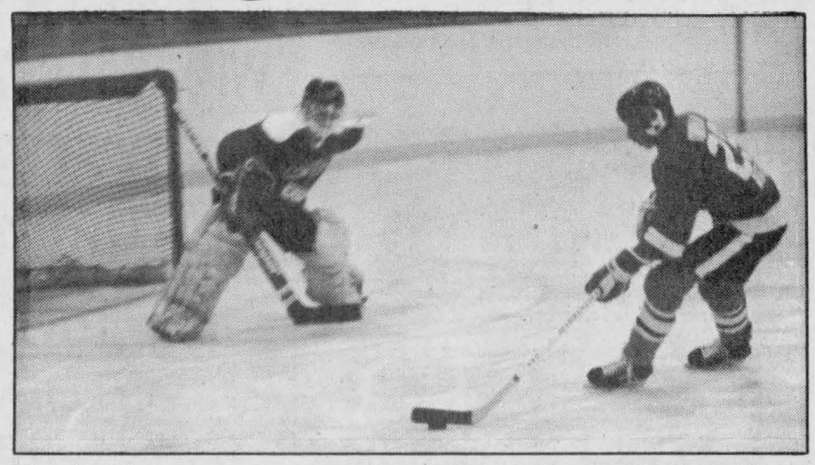
Champions Roadhouse came into game five of the Border League final Sunday needing just a point to clinch the championship trophy but they didn't get it; Lancaster staved off elimination skating away with a 7-5 decision.

Champions leads the eight-point series 7-3 and can wrap it up with a win or tie Thursday. Game time at the Glengarry Sports Palace is 9 p.m.

But Lancaster, in recording their first win of the series, made it a lot more difficult than it should have been. They were in complete control and went ahead 6-2 when Willie Kippen notched a shorthanded goal with 9:44 left in the third.

Champions came storming back with three goals in 58 seconds to close the gap to one. Jerry Blanchette's second goal of the contest on a slapshot from the faceoff circle that got past Mark Titley made it 6-5 with 7:32 left.

Kippen, with his second goal, gave Lancaster some breathing room scoring to make it 7-5 on a low slapshot blast from the top of the circle that beat Ghislain Giroux four minutes remaining.



Donald Wightman moves in on Champions goaltender Ghislain Giroux Sunday. Staff photo — Todd Hambleton

Steven Stewart scored three times for Lancaster, which led 1-0 after the first period and 4-1 after the second.

Donald Wightman and Dan Bryere had singles for Lancaster.

Leo Seguin, with a pair, and John Soucy, had the other Champions goals.

Champions wins Thursday

Champions took a 7-1 stranglehold in the series with a 6-2 win Thursday.

Leo Seguin scored three times and added an assist for Champions, which led 2-1 after the first period and 3-2 after the second stanza.

Joey McRae, Jerry Blanchette and Norm Seguin had the other Champions goals.

Stephane Gareau and Robroy MacDonell replied for Lancaster.

Char-Lan Indoor Soccer League playoffs kick off Monday

The Char-Lan Indoor Soccer League playoffs kick into gear this Monday (Mar. 26).

All eight teams in the league will be in action. The top four teams from the regular season will play game one in their two-game, total goals, semifinal showdowns.

Lalonde's General Store Pee Wee Glens fall short in finals

Alexandria Lalonde's General Store Peewee Glens had its bid to become the second ADMHA team to win a playoff championship fall short in Long Sault Tuesday night.

Glens were beaten 1-0 in overtime by South Stormont in the tiebreaking championship game. South Stormont got the winning goal with 8:21 left in the extra period.

Alexandria had recorded an easy 7-1 win in Cornwall Thursday (Mar. 8). Glens, who led 3-1 after one period and 6-1 after two stanzas, got a four-goal, one-assist performance from Alain Borris. Mathieu Poulin scored twice and added a helper. Rock Jeaurond notched the other Alexandria goal.

Other assist getters were Billy Tuppert (two), and J.P. Lefebvre.

Tapis to meet Art Benton

By Jeff Lowe

Once again, it will be Tapis Richard and Art Benton tangling for the Alexandria Ladies' Soft Puck championship.

Art Benton had already clinched a berth to the final and were awaiting the victor of Tapis and Sunlife. The series was deadlocked at one as Sunlife won the first encounter and Tapis won the second. Sunlife opened the scoring as Sue Lalonde picked up a pass from Sharon Jasper and rifled a shot past a bewildered goalkeeper.

However, it was not to be for Sunlife as Tapis Richard woke up and took control with four unanswered goals. Louise St. Pierre scored as she deflected a low, hard shot by Elaine Oetelaar.

Anne MacMillan then scored with a nice solo effort that left the goalie and defenceman wondering what hit them. Diane Trottier then scored on a two-way passing play with MacMillan. Trottier then assisted on Jackie Bray's goal to put the game out of reach. A small consolation for Sunlife is that they play Titley's in the consolation final.

Baker on top team

A Vankleek Hill area resident is part of a national championship-winning team.

Mike Baker is a member of the Concordia (Montreal) Stingers Basketball Team, which won the CIAU championship game 80-62 over Guelph Gryphons Sunday in Halifax.

It was Baker's final game after five years with the Stingers. Baker, the Stingers co-captain, spent four years on the bench before becoming a starter as a senior.

"I can't believe it," said Baker, a guard. "I wish I had another year. This is a dream come true."

Stingers were considered dark-horses at the start of the eight-team championship tournament, but went undefeated in three contests to capture the title.

Concordia is the first team from Quebec to win the CIAU men's basketball championship.

McMillan and Howes Bantam Rebels close out season

Char-Lan McMillan and Howes Bantam Rebels suffered a pair of one-goal defeats at a tournament in Metcalfe, Thursday.

Rebels were edged 2-1 by St. Isidore in their opening game.

Ian MacDonell scored the lone Char-Lan goal.

Assists went to Ryan Winters and David Murray.

Rebels were eliminated from the competition falling 3-2 to Kemptville in overtime in their second outing.

David MacDonald set up Patrick Campeau for Char-Lan's first marker.

Terry O'Farrell netted a shorthanded goal for Rebs. Assists went to Hamish McDonell and John MacDonald.

Refunds available

Refund cheques will be made available at the arena this week. They can be picked up Thursday and Friday from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., and on Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. All players are requested to return their sweaters and equipment at that time.

The Char-Lan Minor Hockey Association Annual Meeting is April 9, at 7:30 p.m.

Executive position elections will be held. All persons interested in a position on the executive are urged to attend.

The meeting is at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre.

Hall hockey game is Saturday

Alexandria Mayor Jean-Paul Touchette will sing the national anthem.

As part of the pre-game ceremonies, Al Douglas of Maxville will make a presentation on behalf of Bell Canada to hall of fame director Bill Campbell. The contest officially kicks off the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame fundraising drive.

At 8 p.m., Glengarry's grand old sportsman Stanley G. McDonald will drop the first puck. He'll be escorted to centre ice by Campbell and CFRA president and general manager Terry Kielty.

Mrs. Elmer McNaughton of the Alexandria Legion Branch Ladies Auxiliary has graciously consented to host an informal luncheon for the players at the Alexandria Legion club house following the game.

There are still a few reserved seats in the centre section available. They can be obtained by contacting a Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame director.

Tickets for the game are $4 for adults and $3 for kids.

St. Lawrence Division final resumes with game five tonight

"We don't want to knock them down, we just want to get in their way.

"The Winchester series was our Stanley Cup," Rigby continued. "But now that we've won two games by lopsided scores, the guys are really starting to believe in themselves. We feel we can win this thing and go farther."

Coming off a 9-3 win at home in game two a week ago, Kemptville carried the momentum over into game three, surging ahead 6-1 after the first period.

A big hole for Alexandria to crawl out of, but not insurmountable, right? After all, if you're going to fall behind by that much, you may as well do so early in the game, when there's all kinds of time to mount a comeback. And when Marc Sauve collected a rebound in the slot, manouvered around Kemptville goalie Brent Shaddick and scored making it 6-2 just 44 seconds into the second stanza, it looked like there was going to be a ballgame after all.

But Kemptville held the fort, put two more in before the end of the second going ahead 8-1 and added four goals in the third before Andrew Sauve scored the third Glens goal with five minutes left in the game.

Pascal Joanette had connected for Alexandria's first goal three minutes into the first period. It had tied the game 1-1 before Kemptville went on their offensive rampage.

Who knows what to expect tonight? Which Kemptville team will show up: the one that's been unstoppable offensively so far in the playoffs, or the regular season version that was merely a minor irritant to its opponents, edging out Char-Lan for third place?

One of the clubs will be trailing 3-2 and facing elimination when game six gets underway Friday night in Kemptville, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

If the series goes the limit, game seven is Sunday at the Glengarry Sports Palace. Game time is 7:15

Another bad season

Todd Hambleton
Sports editor

These are trying times for snowmobile enthusiasts. Like a howling blizzard transformed into a warm-front zephyr, an industry that not long ago was all the rage is almost dormant in these parts.

What this area needs is a snow job. And one of these years, please. "There hasn't been too much snowfall anywhere south of the 417 for the last 10 years," said Mike Prieur of Mac's Marina in South Lancaster. "Business has been terrible for the last bunch of years and it was pretty lousy again this season.

"We used to sell machines to people who could drive them out of their back yard and onto the trails. Now there just aren't any trails, or the trails that are around have breaks in them from a lack of snow or plowed fields.

"These days you're pretty well limited to travelling with them and taking them north. Until there's snow on the ground, there won't be much of an upswing in sales."

It's a familiar refrain from dealers all over the county: No snow, no sales.

Snowmobiling season. Now an oxymoron, if ever there was one.

It didn't used to be that way. The new toys on the block made inroads into the outdoor sportsmans' world in the sixties and their popularity peaked in the seventies. Rejean Seguin, past-president of the Dalhousie Snowmobile Club (one of two in the county; the other is the Glengarry Snowmobile Club in North Lancaster) and now its secretary-treasurer, remembers the good ol' days. "We had about 200 members in the seventies; we've been at 40 for the last five or six years," said Seguin, whose club grooms and maintains 61 kilometres of trails in Ontario and 61 in Quebec.

But again this year they didn't get to use them very often and the grooming machine spent most of the winter in park in Seguin's yard. It looked like it was going to be a banner season and a return to the glory years when temperatures and snow fell in late November and December, but an unusually long January thaw abruptly put an end to it. "We had about 50 good days this year," sighed Seguin. "In the early years, snowmobiling season went from December to March and sometimes into April.

"Only the ones that really enjoy snowmobiling and are willing to travel to the snow and good trails across the Ottawa River have stayed in it."

So the snowmobilers that remain go on road trips (literally), hold dances and crown the club queen. They even had a poker run rally in January, but, you guessed it, the mode of transportation was automobile, not autoboggan.

Even in the glory years, though, the snowmobile's propensity for breaking down, usually (it seemed) late at night when at its furthest distance from home base, had to make owners wonder if this was such a great idea after all.

The fad began to die out when sales dropped, average winter temperatures rose and snowfall levels decreased. Can you spell G-R-E-E-N-H-O-U-S-E E-F-F-E-C-T?

"There seems to be a strip through this area where there's no snow anymore and it's resulted in low sales," said Gary Shepherd of Shepherd Motors in Alexandria. "Up north and in Quebec, sales are booming again."

Luckily for Ron Beausoleil of Ron's Service Shop, that's where his Yamaha and Polaris dealership is located, near the 417 at Moose Creek. "Sales have been going up pretty good here the last couple of years," Beausoleil said. "This year we sold about 75 new ones. In the early eighties I remember selling about five or six over the course of a winter.

"But snowmobiling is a lot different now than it used to be. People used to go around the yard or on local trails and put 200 to 300 miles on them before the machine was done. Now they go across the Ottawa River with them and put on 10,000 kilometres a year. It's become a sport more than anything else: Snowmobiles are like a pair of skis — you have to go and find the snow.

"But the industry will pick up all over the area, too. Snowmobile sales are like the weather — they seem to go in cycles."

The Alexandria Figure Skating Club took part in a test day held in Alexandria on Sunday, February 25.

Passing their tests in the Preliminary Dances were Véronique Vaillant in the Canasta; Mélanie Titley and Marie Josée Larocque in the Swing.

Passing their tests in the Junior Bronze Dances were Kimberly McIntyre and Tanya Macdonald in the Fiesta; Kristina Michaud, Isabel Lamarche and Andrée Anne Major in the Ten Fox.

In the Senior Bronze Dances, Julie Bellefeuille passed the Fourteen Step, while Mandi Newland and Lynne Titley passed the Fox Trot. In the Junior Silver Dances, Josée Titley passed the Rocker.

In the Senior Silver Dances, Stephanie Fraser passed the Paso.

Also, in the Gold Dance Category, Claudine Nadeau passed the Viennese.

Passing the test in the Preliminary Free Style were Trina Boisvenue, Andrée Anne Major and Marie Eve Dubois, while Julie Bellefeuille passed her Junior Bronze Free Style.

Also, Brigitte Doiron is the first skater in the Alexandria Figure Skating Club to pass her Gold Free Style.

Marie-Paul Stang crowned club queen

Marie-Paul Stang of Alexandria is the new Dalhousie Snowmobile Club queen. Stang was crowned at the club's year-end dance Saturday night in Ste. Justine.

First princess is Dominique Faubert of North Lancaster. Second princess is Sylvie Guenette of Ste. Justine.

Appreciation plaques were presented for 15 years of service to Denise Seguin of Dalhousie Mills,and for 10 years of service to Jean-Marie Leroux of Glen Norman.

The next order of business for the club is the executive position elections and meeting in April. The Dalhousie Snowmobile Club president is Gilles Aubin.

Alexandria Atom Glens fall short in playoff final

Alexandria Caisse Populaire Atom Glens came as close as a team can come to winning a championship without carting home the playoff trophy. Glens were at the Water Street Arena Thursday to play Cornwall and were beaten 2-1 in overtime in the Lower St. Lawrence Travelling League championship game.

David Campbell's goal with 1:34 left in the first overtime session ended the contest. Glens realized that luck was not on their side when Jason Poirier moved in on a penalty shot earlier in the extra session — with a chance to end the game — but had his shot hit the post.

Alexandria had taken a 1-0 lead when Chancey Lajoie notched an unassisted goal late in the second period. Glens were just 2:31 away from winning the game when Jamie Herrington tied it up for Cornwall in the third period.

Ronald McDonald House Tournament

Glens picked up one win in three outings at the Ronald McDonald House Tournament in Kanata on the weekend. Glens began the tournament on a rough note, dropping a 10-3 decision to Eganville, which went on to reach the tourney final outscoring its opponents 25-4 in four games. Scott Nielsen, Sylvain Campeau and Francois Lortie got the goals for Glens. Chancey Lajoie had an assist. Glens Hustler Award winner was Chancey Lajoie.

Jason Poirier, from Francois Lortie, accounted for the Alexandria scoring in a second outing 3-1 loss to Osgoode. Poirier was selected Hustler Award winner. Glens scored a 5-1 win over Valley East from Sudbury in their final game. Alexandria got one goal each from Poirier, Campeau, Lortie, Lajoie and Mark Laferriere. Lortie had three assists in the contest. Collecting one assist each was Nielsen, Marc Gauthier, Poirier and Andrew Bower. Campeau was the Hustler Award winner. Jason Poirier and Andrew Taillefer were selected to play in the tourney all star game. Poirier notched an assist on his division's lone marker.

Glens end their season this weekend, participating in the Cornwall Atom A Tournament.

Top coaches at seminar

Some of the best coaches and lecturers in the game will be speaking at the Provincial Advanced 1 Coach Level of the National Coaches Certification Program in Ottawa.

The Ottawa District Hockey Association (ODHA) will be hosting the program June 28 to July 4 at Carleton University.

Among the speakers will be former Hawkesbury Hawks coach Jacques Martin, now an assistant with the Chicago Black Hawks, Chicago assistant E.J. McGuire, New York Rangers head coach Roger Neilson, University of Waterloo coach Don McKee and Belleville Bulls Mentor Dan Flynn.

The seminar itinerary will include the most up-to-date course topics in the coaching field.

The NCCP seminar is for candidates who have successfully passed the Intermediate Coach Level in the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's program.

The ODHA will accept the 60 best qualified candidates. Deadline for application is March 30.

"We're extremely pleased with the opportunity to host such a prestigious event," said ODHA Development Coordinator and Green Valley native Rick Ladouceur.

For further information on the seminars, contact Ladouceur at 224-7686.

Cornwall City hosting pee wee championships

The City of Cornwall will play host to the third edition of the Hostess Cup, Ontario's provincial pee wee hockey championship tournament.

The competition will be played at the Cornwall Civic Complex April 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15.

The tournament will involve the overall branch winning peewee (12 and 13-year-olds) teams from the Ottawa District Minor Hockey Association, the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, the Thunder Bay Amateur Hockey Association and the Metropolitan Toronto Hockey League.

The six-team field will be rounded out by host Seaway Valley Royals, representing the Cornwall-based Seaway Valley Hockey Association.

The six clubs will play a complete single round-robin series with games held from April 11 to 13.

Upon conclusion of the 15-game, three-day, round robin series, the clubs finishing first through fourth inclusive will meet Saturday, Apr. 14 in sudden-death, semi-final playoff games.

UP TO $100. Rebate* on Goodyear Dyna Torque Radial Tires
There's a reward for choosing Goodyear's best tractor tire.
It's a consumer rebate on selected Dyna Torque Radials you buy between March 12 and June 30, 1990. Direct from Goodyear.
Dyna Torque radials cost a bit more than ordinary bias ply tires, but they're worth it. You get improved traction in the field, and that saves you time and money. Tests have proved it. Tests also prove that tractors equipped with Dyna Torque radials save up to 9% on fuel bills over conventional tires.
So your reward for buying Dyna Torque Radials is more than just the rebate being offered. You save significantly over the life of the tire. And you know you need all the help you can get.
*On selected sizes only. Allow 6-8 weeks for processing. Rebate effective on a maximum of 8 tires.

Birthday boy's ticket wins $5,000

Glen Sandfield
Lorna Chapman
874-2408

It's a pleasure to be able to offer congratulations now and then, and this week they go out to Mike Gibbs. Hazel Gibbs treated her son Mike to a birthday lunch and enclosed a Wintario ticket in his card. Imagine his delight when he checked the numbers and found that he was the lucky winner of $5,000. They went to Toronto on Wednesday to collect. So congratulations Mike and I want your mom to buy me a ticket for my birthday (it's in May). The winning ticket was purchased from Mr. St. Denis' Tabagie.

At the March 12 euchre party in the hall at Glen Sandfield there were eight tables in play.

Winners are as follows: For the ladies' high prize — Perle Sabourin, ladies' low prize — Hilda McNie. Gents' high prize went to Kenneth MacMillan, and the low one to John MacMaster. Door prizes were won by Tonie Oetelaar and P. R. MacMillan and the draw went to Bill Connors. Next euchre party will be on March 26 at 8 p.m.

There were 18 ladies present at the McCrimmon WI meeting on March 15 at the Lochiel Township Hall.

The roll call of "your favorite recycling hint" elicited many useful suggestions for everyone to try. Among the varied ideas were — return your plastic shopping bags to the IGA, A&P, Loblaws or wherever, for recycling. One member is trying to get VIA to find some other type of lunch container for their travel snacks. In the meantime, she passes them around to any and all who can use them in their fridges or freezers. They are just great for taking cookies or squares to meetings. Carry cloth shopping bags was another great idea, and the Brown House Circle has a member who took the pattern of our old familiar plastic bag and made it up in fabric and it is super. Paper bag book covers (remember when we used brown paper for our school book covers?) seem to have come back in style. One litre plastic milk bags have many uses, one of the best is for pattern storage. You can see what is there without having to get out the envelope, open it up and check numbers, etc. Also they are great for document storage envelopes. Ice cream containers and plastic jars make fine freezer ware and so do the milk bags. Plastic javex and vinegar bottles make newspaper holders, for the delivery of dailies. Large soft drink bottles can partially split and used to hold knitting wool and keep it from getting tangled or soiled. They called it a yarn-barn. Soup tin cookie cutters are another useful item. These were just a few of the ideas presented at the meeting, all very valid in view of the necessity of keeping down our waste. One person remarked that there is a newspaper recycling depot at Pleasant Corners, and Mr. Campeau about a mile north of Alexandria, has a depot for recycling materials. He is refusing newspapers now, I believe. Another lady told the group that the dépanneur in Dalhousie will buy your soft drink cans (don't flatten them however). One guest's good hint was that large plastic bottles, when cut into quilting templates, last much better than cardboard or paper ones, can be washed, stored indefinitely, and used hundreds of times. There in your garden you can find javex bottles (bottoms cut off), uncapped, used to cover tender seedlings (hot caps) as good and far cheaper than purchased ones.

Correspondence read by secretary Estelle Brazeau concerned a workshop on May 9 at Kemptville in the Parish Building about Feathers and Friends. The deadline for registration is April 19. A delegate, Betty McDonald, will attend the How to Reduce Waste Workshop in Maxville on Mar. 31. Invitations will be circulated for the 75th anniversary tea on June 16 from 2 to 4 p.m. at Laggan School. Details have to be finalized on this project as yet.

May 7-13 has been delegated as Pitch in Week, and McCrimmon members ordered two dozen garbage bags from the government ministry. Each of the work parties will choose an area to clean up, and after the week is over, the whole place should have a much better appearance. The church yard, playground or even roadsides could be likely targets for these intrepid environmentalists.

Marion Urquhart commented on the motto Conservation or Starvation and as she remarked it is pretty self explanatory. We must realize that if we do not conserve our every day energy uses we soon may have no choices. Save the trees for our air's sake. Save the waters for our life's sake.

It is really scary the way big companies put profit ahead of our environment, and soon it will be a life and death situation — very soon! Birds and animals do not pollute, but they suffer from humanity's pollution by loss of habitat, oil spills, noxious fumes, etc.

We all know or are learning just how serious the thinning of the ozone layer can be for our future generations. Where will the world be if it begins burning up? We still have choices. Let's pray we make the right ones.

Miss Urquhart introduced the guest speaker Liz O'Gorman-Smith the new ROS.

Mrs. O'Gorman-Smith began by telling the group that in 1900 a farmer fed 12 people, in 1986 a farmer fed 90 people but in 1990 one farmer will feed 120 people. In other words there are more people being fed by less farmers all the time. A sobering thought. The little family business, where a few cows and pigs would feed a family, and leave enough over for extras, has gone. Massive machinery has replaced field hands, milking machines take the place of hand milkers. Everything has become more efficient and more costly and the small farmer finds it too difficult to compete anymore. She said that one person in five are involved in the food industry in some manner other than by farming.

The Agriculture Awareness Program being presented in the classrooms in some schools through videos, books, posters and written material like pamphlets and books, films and slides are making the young people understand agriculture's important place in our economy.

Our speaker mentioned that she wants to get an Agriculture Awareness Committee going in the area, this is one of her upcoming projects.

A delightful game, rather like Trivial Pursuit was played. Each team threw a big cube to select their category and then attempted to answer the questions Mrs. Smith gave them. It was great fun and very interesting. Categories included fruit and vegetables, meat, poultry, farming, grains and grasses, and general. (That last one was the hardest.)

Mrs. S. MacCrimmon had Fun Time and chose to tell some Irish stories. In her short reading she had a letter from an Irish mother to her son, which had everyone in stitches. Lunch followed the adjournment of the regular meeting and Lorna Chapman P.R.O. sold some of the banquet tickets. There are many left, but they will go quickly. Do get yours soon as they have to be returned by April 7 at the latest. Next meeting will be on April 19 at Lochiel Hall.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Members of Council,

Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Village of Maxville.

We have examined the consolidated balance sheet of the Corporation of the Village of Maxville as at 31 December 1989, and the consolidated statement of operations for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, these consolidated financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Corporation of the Village of Maxville as at 31 December 1989, and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in accordance with the accounting principles disclosed in Note 1 to the financial statements applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The consolidated financial statements of the Corporation of the Village of Maxville are the representation of management prepared in accordance with accounting policies prescribed for Ontario municipalities by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs. Since precise determination of many assets and liabilities is dependent upon future events, the preparation of periodic financial statements necessarily involves the use of estimates and approximations. These have been made using careful judgments.

(a) (i) Basis of Consolidation
These consolidated statements reflect the assets, liabilities, sources of financing and expenditures of the revenue fund, capital fund, reserve funds and reserves and include the activities of all committees of Council and the Maxville and District Sports Complex which is under the control of Council.

All interfund assets and liabilities and sources of financing and expenditures have been eliminated with the exception of loans or advances between reserve funds and any other fund of the municipality and the resulting interest income and expenditures.

(ii) Non-Consolidated Entities
The Maxville Hydro Electric Commission is not consolidated.

(iii) Accounting for County and School Board Transactions
The taxation, other revenues, expenditures, assets and liabilities with respect to the operations of the school boards, and the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry are not reflected in the municipal fund balances of these financial statements except to the extent that overlevies (underlevies) are reported on the "Consolidated Balance Sheet" as other liabilities (other current assets).

(iv) Trust fund and their related operations administered by the municipality are not consolidated, but are reported separately on the "Trust Fund Statement of Continuity and Balance Sheet".

(b) Basis of Accounting
(i) Sources of financing and expenditures are reported on the accrual basis of accounting with the exception of principal and interest charges on long term liabilities which are charged against operations in the periods in which they are paid. The principal and interest charges are not accrued for the period from the date of the latest installment payment to the end of the financial year.

Village of Maxville

(b) (ii) The accrual basis of accounting recognizes revenues as they become available and measurable; expenditures are recognized as they are incurred and measurable as a result of receipt of goods or services and the creation of a legal obligation to pay.

(iii) Fixed Assets
The historical cost and accumulated depreciation for fixed assets are not recorded for municipal purposes. Fixed assets are reported as an expenditure on the "Consolidated Statement of Operations" in the year of acquisition.

(iv) Capital Outlay to be Recovered in Future Years
The "Capital outlay to be recovered in future years", which represents the outstanding principal portion of unmatured long term liabilities for municipal expenditures or capital funds transferred to other organizations, is reported on the "Consolidated Balance Sheet".

2. OPERATIONS OF SCHOOL BOARDS AND THE UNITED COUNTIES OF STORMONT, DUNDAS AND GLENGARRY

Further to Note 1 (a)(iii), the taxation, other revenues, expenditures and overlevies (underlevies) of the school boards and the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry are comprised of the following:

	School Boards	County
Taxation and user charges	$ 213,879	$ 30,881
Requisitions	213,879	30,881
Overlevies (underlevies) for the year	$ -	$ -
Overlevies (underlevies) at the beginning of the year	-	-
Overlevies (underlevies) at the end of the year	$ -	$ -

3. TRUST FUND

Ontario Home Renewal Plan trust fund administered by the municipality amounting to $ 85,273 (1988 $ 89,089) has not been included in the "Consolidated Balance Sheet" nor has its operations been included in the "Consolidated Statement of Operations".

AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Members of Council,

Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Village of Maxville.

We have examined the balance sheet of the trust fund of the Corporation of the Village of Maxville as at 31 December 1989, and the statement of continuity of the trust fund for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the trust fund for the Corporation of the Village of Maxville as at 31 December 1989, and the continuity of the trust fund for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles disclosed in Note 1 to the financial statements applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Notes to the Financial Statements - Trust Fund

1. ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Accounting
Capital receipts and income are reported on the cash basis of accounting.

Expenditures are reported on the cash basis of accounting with the exception of administrative expenses which are reported on the accrual basis of accounting, which recognizes expenditures as they are incurred and measurable as a result of the receipt of goods or services and the creation of a legal obligation to pay.

2. ONTARIO HOME RENEWAL PROGRAM

The Ontario Home Renewal Program was established by the Ontario Ministry of Housing in 1973 to provide grants for municipalities to make loans to assist owner occupants to repair, rehabilitate and improve their homes to local property standards. Individual loans are limited to $ 7,500 of which the maximum forgivable portion is $ 4,000.

Ontario Home Renewal Program loans receivable at 31 December 1989 comprise repayable loans of $ 29,672 (1988 - $ 31,100) and forgivable loans of $ 15,751 (1988 - $ 22,035). Loan forgiveness is earned and recorded at a rate of up to $ 600 per year of continued ownership and occupancy. In the event of the sale or lease of the home or in the event of the homeowner ceasing to occupy the home, the balances of the repayable loan and the unearned forgivable loan immediately become due and payable by the homeowner.

Welcome back, spring

Williamstown
Sue Harrington
347-2279

It was, as the saying goes, a sight for sore eyes.

the first thing I saw as I looked out on Monday morning was Gerry McPhail putting up a new message on the arena's billboard. It read, "Strike over. Bingo Tuesday."

Yippee! Like the relief one feels when a summer's heatwave finally comes to an end, so Williamstowners are feeling light-hearted again. The gloom and doom which has hung over the village for the past couple of months has evaporated and there is dancing in the streets. (Not literally, of course, though I hear the Irish whooped it on Saturday night!)

Congratulations to all involved in solving the dispute, especially those who were able to bend.

someties it is better to be a willow.

Birdhaven is what Williamstown is named on birdland maps. After this week I'm sure of it. The skies were dark with clouds of transients. On Sunday there were thousands of Canada Geese resting in the cornfield at the old Jamieson place on the road to Lancaster. On Saturday, a gang of red-winged blackbirds stopped momentarily in my raspberry patch before winging it off to St. Andrew's cemetery.

The first robins in Williamstown arrived earlier in the week, with a group of four introducing themselves to Jane O'Brien on March 15. Catharine MacDougall saw one of these couples and she marvelled at the attentions paid by the male to his mate. "Very courteous and affectionate he was," says Catharine.

"Could teach some of us a lesson," I replied.

It seems the jet-setters are suffering from too much "lag" to lift up their receivers and give me a call. So while I'll not be able to give you a complete rundown on "fun in the sun spots," as I had planned, I'll try to let you know who went where so you can have a conversation launching pad the next time you run into someone brown in the post office or the bank.

Mexico seems popular with the Williamstown travellers this year. Marietta and Kevin Pelley had a trip down to Cancun where they visited with Kevin's sister Rhonda and her husband, Donald MacLeod.

Bob and Mary Smith flew to Los Angeles where they rented a car and struck out off on desert sands.

The Proctor family hopped down to the Dominican Republic for a holiday with a difference.

And then there was the Williamstown contingent to Myrtle Beach. It seems Judy and Bruce Cumming were dining in the golfing city, when whom should they spy but John and Julie Chafee. Don and Barb Kannon were also there, staying just down the road. Representatives of the Char-Lan teaching staff were also to be found on the links, but the less said about golf carts, the better!

The McCullough dancers from Williamstown performing at Epcot included Julie MacDonald and Leslie Grant. One spin-off of the dancers' trip has been the appearance of Micky Mouse ties, I'm told.

The students returned home safely from Florida, one a little earlier than the rest, and not without a few horror stories, but that is what memories are made of, isn't it?

Randy Larocque and Robert Hope joined up with the boys from Maxville to play hockey in Holland, Wales, and England, while Loes Vande Nieuwegiessen had a trip back to her native country.

Also heading to Europe was Joan MacDonald, who travelled with her sister to West Germany.

No doubt there are many more of you whom I have missed mentioning, but all this travelling makes me wonder. Would a travel agency be a viable industry in Williamstown?

I mention the following trip in a separate breath, because there is a moral to the story. It seems that when Helen Sloan travelled with young Kimberley down to Texas to join up with Gary who was at a convention in Houston, she had trouble getting across the border because she had not brought along her daughter's birth certificate.

Apparently there have been so many cases of kidnapping in chld custody wars, taht a birth certificate is now a must for young children ging into the States and back to Canada.

Just thought I'd let you know.

Congratulations to Cathy Millar of the Williamstown Public School committee. Cathy was recently awarded the Toastmaster of the Year trophy in the Seaway Toastmaster's Club.

Those of you who weren't able to make it in to Cornwall to hear Rose-Marie Chretien speak about her adventures in the Jersey animal kingdon, will have another chance. Rose-Marie will show her slides and speak this Sunday evening at St. Mary's Hall at 8 p.m. to anyone who is interested.

This may well be your last chance — Rose-Marie expects soon to take up permanent employment in Granby.

The community was shocked to learn of the injuries suffered by John Troost last week when his wood working shop caught fire. Apparently, John, although on fire, rolled out his flames and then re-entered the shop and singled handedly put out the blaze, which, had it not been contained, would likely have spread to the house as well.

Mr. Troost is presently in the Ottawa General Hospital and although suffering from his painful burns, has managed to maintain a marvellous sense of humor.

We commend him for his bravery in re-entering the building: it was a truly heroic act.

* * *

Laurels too go to Lucie Colosimo for her quick actions when Mr. Troost went to her place for help following the accident.

Audrey Blair and Dawson Pratt are back on top in bridge this week, followed by Angus and Mary McDonell in second place and Maurice Lagroix and Garnet MacDougall in third.

Sympathy is extended to the McCleary family of the South Branch road on the passing of Heather's father which occurred on March 12 in Cornwall.

All of you interested in farm equipment and maintenance take note. On April 8, Charlottenburgh Farm Equipment, which is run by Ziggy Loos and sons (and Brigitte!) will be holding an Open House and Grand Opening at their location on the King's Road. Ziggy now has the Massey-Ferguson dealership for Glengarry, and has a complete tractor and implement line, which he services as well.

The event is scheduled between noon and 6 p.m. There will be live entertainment provided and refreshments will be served.

The Glengarry Community Club is now back in full swing with the ending of the strike.

Door prize went to Edna Edmunds.

Alda Major and bill Edmunds were the winners for the wearing of the green at the St. Patrick's Day birthday party.

Mary Rose Pilon and Cecile LeBlanc and Bill Edmonds and Donald MacGregor were the card winners. Lone hands went to Lyall Gibson and Theresa Welcher, while Catherine Welcher won the door prize. Honored for their March birthdays were Mary Rose Pilon, Joyce Irvine, Ethel Leitch, Janet Johnson and Margaret McMath. Alda Major made the birthday cake.

The special raffle prize donated by Dorothy Roy was won by Luella Montroy.

Over at the Friendly Neighbors, 41 members and guests appeared for their recent pot luck luncheon. Sister Lillian Prevost said the grace.

The 50/50 winners included Mary McDonell, Alda Major, Imelda Chretien, Georgina Zachaib, Hilda MacDonald and Maurice Lagroix, twice!

Showing their true Irish blood, Delia Lafrance and Edmour Seguin won for the wearing of the green.

Ahhhh! Peace and quiet, the kids are back to school.

Boy, some people have all the luck. I am referring to the lucky winners of a trip to Florida, Lloyd and Rita Renaud. Their name was drawn as a result of a promotion for an area car dealer. If you purchased a vehicle within the months of January and February, your name was entered in the draw. Congratulations, Lloyd and Rita!

At this time I would also like to congratulate my husband's nephew and godchild, Michael Lafave and his wife Nadean on the arrival of their first child. Their little girl was born on Monday, March 12. Michael is the son of Malcolm and Dorothy Lafave of Cornwall.

The Martintown Community Centre is looking for a few local people who would be interested in tending bar for some of the events. For further information you may contact Don at 528-4200. The Centre also has a Mother's day event planned for May 12. There will be a Sadie Hawkins dance and a Boxed Lunch Auction. The lunch will be a little different. Instead of the women making the lunch for two, to be auctioned, the gentlemen will be making them and the women will place their bids. The lady who bids the highest will share the lunch with the man who made it. We will be dancing to the music of Northfield, a rock and roll band. Celebrate Mother's day in style and join us for a good time. I will have more on this event a little later on.

On Saturday, Mar. 10, the Martintown Firefighters were called to assist the Williamstown Firefighters at a fire on the Laing farm. The barn's hay loft was ablaze when our men got there. Both fire departments managed to save part of the building. The horses were all saved but unfortunately, the loft burned and collapsed. When the Martintown men left, only the walls were standing. Williamstown remained at the scene, making sure the ashes were extinguished. Allan and Carolyn Laing would like to express their heartfelt gratitude to both Fire Departments by extending a warm thank you to all the people involved in fighting the blaze. "Their efforts were very much appreciated."

We have another new resident to welcome. Sandie Johnston is living in Bob Renaud's former home. Welcome to our village Sandie!

Jeanette and Norman Legault, Connie Aubin and Norman's brother Vernon and his wife Pauline recently returned from a two-week vacation in Cancun, Mexico. The highlight of their trip was a visit to the Chichin Itza Ruins which is similar to an Egyptian pyramid. The ruins are part of the culture of the Maya Indians. Most of the residents are descendants of the Mayas. There are sculptures at the sight of people playing a then popular game similar to soccer only the ball had to be thrown up into very high nets. As a reward for winning, the captain of the team would be decapitated. There was no greater reward than going to heaven. This ruin was built in the middle of nowhere and looks more like an observatory. Scientific evidence cannot explain the hieroglyphics which appear at this site. The weather was beautiful and the sea water was so blue that you could see the sea floor. They walked on a sandbar, approximately one-quarter of a mile long. The water only went up to the knees. If you decide to make this trip, Jeanette strongly recommends that you try the Jaguari's Restaurant. You are served a nine course meal containing beef, which is served on a sword. Not to worry, Jeanette said the waiter cuts the meat off the sword for you. It is a little more expensive but well worth it.

I have a little love story for you this week. The young lady's name is Annie and they young fellow's name is Dudley. Although they are neighbors they had never met. One day they were invited to a little get acquainted party. Their eyes met, the bells started ringing. It was love at first sight. The next thing you know, the couple was nowhere to be found. They finally emerged from a little dark corner with grins on their faces from ear to ear. I need not explain any further. Spring fever struck again. No need to worry though, Dudley is only three months old and Annie, well she has been spayed. Now we know that even puppies fall in love, it is not limited to only humans. Isn't love grand. That's it for now, see you next week!

GREAT NEWS from MILLER HUGHES FORD LTD.

Get 9.9% Fixed A.P.R. Financing Direct From Ford Credit! -or- $1000.00 CASH BACK!

RANGER #1 Selling Compact Truck in Canada!† AEROSTAR The Ultimate Peopie Mover! F-SERIES #1 Selling Truck in Canada!†

*These offers may not be combined. Retail buyers choosing a reduced financing rate in lieu of cash rebate are eligible for 9.9% financing over a maximum 24-month term. Other low financing rates for longer terms available. On approved credit. Special financing is available when you purchase or lease any new 1990 or prior year Ranger, Aerostar or F-Series Regular Cab. Delivery must be taken from dealer inventory. Example: $10,000 financed over 24 months at 9.9% A.P.R., the monthly payment is $460.99, the cost of borrowing is $1,063.76. Assuming a rebate of $1000 as the alternative, should you choose a reduced financing rate instead of the cash rebate, legislation requires that the amount of the rebate must be included in the cost of borrowing in order to arrive at an effective interest rate. In the example given, the effective interest rate would be 18.70% and the total cost of borrowing, including the rebate not taken, would be $2063.76. Cost of borrowing will vary depending upon the amount financed, term of loan and financing rate. See dealer for details. Cash back and A.P.R. offers end April 7, 1990. You may keep the cash or apply it to your transaction. See dealer for details. †Based on '89 CY R.L. Polk and Compusearch registrations.

HURRY! AN OFFER LIKE THIS WON'T LAST LONG!

In Memoriam

BELLEFEUILLE — In loving memory of our dear mother, Rose Bellefeuille, nee Robinson, who passed away February 21, 1951 and a beloved father, Donat Bellefeuille, who passed away March 21, 1977.
Seasons come and years roll by,
But love and remembrance never die;
Each contour of their dear selves
Is graven on our hearts.
—Always remembered, Richard, Gerald, Jacqueline, Pauline, Marlene. 12-1p

TAILLEFER: In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother AMANDA JULIENNE who passed away 9 years ago March 18, 1981 at age 93.
Death beckoned her with outstretched hands
But she was not afraid to go
She journeyed to the Promised Land
Though the path she did not know
There with step so light and gay
She polishes the sun by day
She lights the stars that shine at night
She keeps the moonbeams silvery bright
For our Mother never really died
She just keeps house up in the sky
And in the Heavenly Home above
She waits to welcome the fifteen children
She so dearly loved
Forever in our daily thoughts and lovingly remembered by the family 12-1p
