See What Your Neighbors Say About the Empire Mechanical Milker

Williamsburg, Oct. 11th, 1916.

EMPIRE CREAM SEPARATOR CO.
146 Craig St., West,
Montreal.

DEAR SIRS,

I have had the Empire Mechanical Milker milking my herd just about five months now, and I am pleased to say I am perfectly satisfied in every way. My son can milk our 22 cows in 50 minutes with one double unit. I would advise any who intend buying a milker to see the Empire before buying.

Yours truly,
ARTHUR THOM.

Montreal.

DEAR SIRS,

I have had the Empire Mechanical Milker in my barn about seven months and am pleased to say we have never had to milk by hand once since we had the milker installed. It has given entire satisfaction in every way. From the experience I have had I cannot do anything else but praise it. I have seen a couple of other makes of machines in operation and I am sure I made no mistake when I bought the Empire.

What I would advise you to do is to have intending purchasers look at the different makes of machines in operation. If you will get them to do this you need not fear the outcome.

Yours truly,
JOHN H. JOHNSON

Two More Chesterville Boys Wounded

Pte. Russell Cochrane formerly of the Molsons Bank Staff here, where he enlisted with the Grenadier Guards, is among the wounded in yesterday's casuaity list, and this morning the name of Pte. Ed. McMillan, son of James O. McMillan is listed amoung the wounded.

Has Two Sons and Nine Nephews in Khaki.

Mr. Archie Munro of Saskatoon a former well known resident of Finch township is at present spending a vacation with his brother, Mr. John Munro of Finch township It is eighteen years since the former has visited his friends in this section. Besides two sons who passed through for overseas with western units this week he has now nine nephews at the front fighting for King and country.

Women's Institute Meeting

The meeting of the Women's Institute at the home of Mrs. Cass on Wednesday night was well attended in spite of the disagreeable weather. A splendid programme had been arranged consisting of vocal solos by Mrs. Cass, Miss McCorkindale, Miss Saucier and Mr. F. Bolster. A most interesting paper prepared by Mrs. Houlehan on "The Citizen and Child Welfare" was read and discussed. The President and Miss Helen Moad were appointed delegates to the Eastern Convention to be held in Ottawa Oct. 31st.

Hallowe'en Party.

In aid of the school children's Christmas gift to our soldiers in the trenches, a hallowe'en party will be given in Hamilton's Music Hall, Tuesday evening, Oct. 31st, from 7.30 to 9.00. The pupils of the schools will entertain their friends by music, songs, recitations, etc. The trophies won at the Field Day will be presented and prizes distributed. At 9.00 o'clock an intermission will be given for refreshments which will be served for a light charge by witches. Those desiring to do so may "hike" for refreshments.

The latter part of the evening will be devoted to games, fortune-telling, the fairies hop.

See posters for admission charge.

Coroner's Jury Did Not Place Responsibility

The coroner's jury empanelled to inquire into the cause of the death of George Fyke, who was fatally injured when a 50,000 gallon water tank collapsed at the Maple Leaf Condensery on Oct. 7th rendered a verdict on Friday nigth stating that Fyke's death was caused by the falling of the tank and in the opinion of the jury the collapse was caused by some defect in the material or erection of the tank. The blame was not placed on any definite point as having been the cause of it giving away and as to whose was the responsibility for it is left for the courts to decide if it is found necessary.

The evidence did not bring out much more than the plain fact that the tank fell and that as a result George Fyke met his death. Only two men saw the tank go down, Charlie LaPierre and Jerry St. Pierre and neither of them know anything of the cause.

Mr. Page assistant to J. B. Hires could not throw any light on the matter and said that the piers on which the tank was supported had been placed in accordance with the specifications supplied by the Gould, Shapley and Muir Co. and the superstructure had been put on them under the direction of a man supplied by that company.

G. F. Sayles, local manager of the Condensing Company had not had anything to do with the erection of the tank and had no knowledge of the cause of the collapse.

J. Wallar, a steam fitter, an employee of the company, had had nothing to do with the erection and knew nothing whatever about it.

J. E. Sennett, the expert employed by Gould, Shaply and Muir detailed the method of putting up the tank after the piers had been placed. He had considerable experience in such matters and had erected many tanks of similiar capacity and at greater heights. He believed that it had been properly erected and that the material was of the same quality as used elsewhere by him. He could not state what had caused the collapse.

J. Harkness, County Crown Attorney appeared for the Crown, while M. F. Muir of Brantford, watched the interests of the Gould, Shapley and Muir Co.

ONTARIO MAN SAYS GERMANS KNOW THEY ARE BEATEN

The following interesting letter from "somewhere in France" was recently received by Nurse Martin of Kingston from a former patient who had passed through the Kingstone Hospital under her care.

Sept. 27, 1916.

My dear Miss Martin;—

How little our desires are able to find expression in action these days. Since Monday I have wanted a half hour in which to write you a short letter and let you know what was going on around me and how I liked being in the Big Offensive. I've never been able to find that long to myself and I know you will always understand that in the army we are the victims of circumstances to any extent that no other situation I know can parallel. One's time night or day is never his own and he cannot plan half an hour ahead. At a time like this when men and guns are working at high pressure all the time the question of getting enough sleep is quite a problem. I am writing this while the others are asleep, all but the men on duty at the gun, who must keep up a constant barrage of shrapnel on the enemies' trenches so as to prevent his being able to make his positions strong. You will be reading in the home papers of the constant advances made by our men; and as Fritz is driven out of his strongholds, he tries to make fresh one behind. It is our duty in the Artillery to prevent his doing so.

It is a wonderful opportunity—this chance we are getting of striking home at the Germans, and knowing that we are winning, and best of all, they know it too. I with my own eyes have seen thousands of prisoners, officers and men, marched back to the rear past our battery, and they say with a sort of despairing gesture—"Ah yes, you will win the war." One cannot help feeling rather sorry for them, they look a pretty poor lot. No fight left in them. The other day a squad of them halted not far away and while the guard's back was turned one of them tried to sneak away, but the guard was on the alert and with an order to halt brought his rifle to his shoulder the German turned, flung his hands up over his head and joined the ranks pretty quickly. These prisoners are the lucky ones. They say so themselves. They're out of the war for good—and in our hands are sure of good treatment.

It is not fair to condemn all Germans for the dastardly work of some of them. Our stretcher bearers were bringing down a couple of wounded men from the front line to the advanced dressing station and with the party were half-a-dozen prisoners, one of whom was an officer. After the party had gone a little way, the German officer ordered the other Germans to take the stretchers. And so they passed me—the Germans carrying our wounded, and very gently too, while our stretcher bearers walked behind.

It is not oncommon to see as many as two hundred German prisoners marching along with 4 guards, one in front, one on each side and one behind. The poor devils are so glad to be prisoners that they would go without a guard at all, if they knew the way.

This great battlefield is in many ways one of the most terrible sights imaginable and nothing could bear stronger testimony, to the power of our artillery. Not a yard of it but bears evidence of shrapnel or high explosive.

Countless shell holes, tangled and broken barbed wire, battered trenches, gaunt bare poles that not long ago were trees, not a leaf or a branch left, towns that can no longer be found for they have been absolutely blotted out. So thorough has been the work of our big guns that it is impossible to pick out the streets of some of the villages, let alone the houses not a brick can be found.

Winter fashions in furs, aren't in it for a minute with the latest craze souvenir collecting. We have plenty of opportunity. German rifles, ammunition, clothing and equipment is to be found everywhere. A Prussian helmet is the only one worth while now. I have a pair of goggles from a German gas helmet and a belt of machine gun ammuuition and several other odds and ends. The dugout where I am writing this is largely built out of material we got from old Fritz's dugouts. We live in his dugouts if they have not been too bady wrecked. Some of them are as much as 30 feet below the surface and able to hold 20 to 30 men. We tear down other dugouts and build our own out of them. We sleep on beds "made in Germany" and use German stoves. And sometimes, little as we like it, we are compelled to use some poor feilow's grave if it happens to be in our way, there are so many nameless graves scattered among this wilderness of deserted trenches and shell holes. Many a brave fellow, British, French or German has found a last resting place in the crater of a "Jack Johnson" with nothing more to mark the spot than his boot protruding from the thin covering of earth that was all his hurrying comrades had time to give him.

But this is getting gruesome. Let's change the subject. Have you read about the new British war wonder. The English papers are full of accounts of it and I suppose the Canadian ones are too. "Willies" we call them, I don't know why! If you are no wiser I'll explain, they are a huge armored car that is able to travel across this country, over trenches, shell holes, barbwire, etc., without any inconvenience. It is proof they say against rifle bullets and carries quite an armament of weapons. It must scare poor old Fritz half to death to see several of them bearing down on him, spitting fire and unharmed by shot and shell. The Germans aren't the only people who can invent things. I'm all O.K. and hope to be home soon.

OBITUARY.

Chas. Hutchinson.

There passed from this life on Sept. 23rd, an old and respected neighbor in the person of Charles Hutchinson. The deceased was a son of the late Franklin Hutchinson of St. Lawrence County, N.Y., and was born in Rome, N.Y., in 1839. He came to Canada in 1860, and in Oct. 1865 he married Jane, daughter of the late Lorenzo Thomas of Winchester Township, and took up farming, which occupation he followed. In March, 1868 he moved with his family to the township of Finch, close to Cannamore, and had resided in this section ever since. In 1898 he gave up farming and purchased a home close to the village of Morewood, where he resided until his death. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and two sons and two daughters, viz—Benson C. of Morewood, Colman of Winchester, Nellie, wife of Orrin Dillabough and Minnie, wife of A. B. McConneil, farmers of Morewood. He also leaves one brother and one sister in N. Y. State and one sister in Iowa. The deceased was seized with a stroke on Sept. 13th and lingered in a partial state of consciousness until the 21st, when he passed peacefully away. The funeral took place on the 25th of Sept. and was largely attended, interment being made in Maple Ridge cemetery. The service was held at his late residence and was conducted by the Rev. D. D. Elliot, assisted by Rev. K. A. Gollan, who took for his text Eccles, 3rd Chapter and 2nd verse. "A time to be born and a time to die."

The pall bearers were I. Barrington, Thos. McGregor, Geo. Barrington, H. Smirle, A. Steven and Jas. Moffatt.

The deceased was of a kind, lighthearted disposition and will be greatly missed in the community. In religion he was a consistent member of the Methodist Church and in politics a Liberal. The sympathy of the community is extended to the family in their bereavement.

Morewood, Oct. 23rd, 1916.

Accident to Mountain Tp. Councillor.

Mr. Joseph Robinson, the popular councillor of Mountain Township, met with a serious accident on Tuesday of last week. He was assisting Mr. Moffatt, a neighbor, at filling a silo, and fell from a ladder, a distance of 16 feet. Several ribs and hip joint are broken. In all probability Mr. Robinson will not walk until Christmas. In the meantime he will be much missed in the council. We wish for a speedy recovery.—Herald.

Dora had just returned from Snnday school, where she had been for the first time.

"What did my little daughter learn this morning?" asked the father.

Selected as Chaplain to 154th.

(Alexandria News)

The selection of a Glengarry clergy man to fill the appointment of Catholic Chaplain for the Counties Own cannot fail to be considered good judgment on the part of the Militia authorities. The choice of the Rev. Ewen John McDonald must be popular and acceptable to all ranks of the 154th, the Rev. Father having been in close association with the lads of Glengarry and Stormont from childhood's days until the stern reality of war has called forth our manhood, in which crisis he, to his unbounded satisfaction will not have, even temporarily to sever his intimacy, but on the contrary, more firmly knit together the comradship hitherto existing, in his capacity as a Chaplain. His services and spiritual consolation will be available in war as in peace.

The news of the appointment of the Reverend Father came as a great surprise to his many friends, and the honor conferred on him was received with feelings of joy and sadness.

Rev. Father MacDonald is the oldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John K. MacDonald, 9th Lancaster. He was educated at the Separate and High Schools here, and with a view to preparing for the priesthood he entered Montreal College, Montreal, where he pursued a fine classical course, as well as a course in theology. On December 17th, 1910, he was raised to the sublime dignity of the priesthood. He served as curate at the Church of the Nativity, Cornwall, at Crysler and St. Raphaels. For the past few months he was stationed at the Palace here.

Prior to his departure the Knights of Columbus entertained at a complimentary banquet in his honor in their rooms on Monday evening, the guests including brother knights and ladies, and the near relatives of the Reverend gentleman.

Captain the Rev. E. J. MacDonald reported for duty at Kingston on Wednesday morning and the sincere wishes of all follow him in his zeal for the cause of justice and humanity.

Cornwall Man Killed.

Cornwall, Ont., Oct. 20,—Today Mrs. A. G. Watson received a cable from the Secretary for War, London, Eng., informing her that her son, Second Lieut. Wallace Watson, had been killed in action on Oct. 15th. Lieut. Watson was born in Cornwall on July 11th, 1894, and was 22 years of age. He was educated at the Cornwall Public and High schools and on graduating from the latter he entered the service of C. A. McHaffie, druggist. After completing his apprenticeship in the drug store he entered the Ontario College of Pharmacy, Toronto, and while a student there he joined the Imperial forces and left on Jan. 1st last for London. He took a course at Oxford, Eng., and was given a commisslon as second lieutenant in the 11th Yorkshires. After going to the front he was transferred to the 2nd Yorkshires, and he was serving with that regiment when he met his death.

Judgment in Favor of Teachers

A case of interest to school teachers and trustees was decided by Judge Wiseman at Midland recently. It appears that at Easter last, two teachers closed school at three o'clock in order to catch trains to get home for their Easter holidays. The trustees objected to this and the teachers were dismissed. They appealed to the Teachers' Alliance and action followed. One teacher in a primary grade had followed a long established custom in the school in closing at three o'clock and the other had left a qualified teacher in charge of her classes for the last hour of school, and the court ruled that the regulations had not been contravened, that the teacher had left the school with the full knowledge of the principal and that the trustees had erred grievously in dismissing them. He allowed the teachers the full two months' salary and expenses, the school board to pay the cost.

Was Killing off Game Wholesale.

Herman Yoster, a German resident of Wylie township, near Pembroke, was fined $340 and costs or three months in jail for wantonly slaughtering deer and moose in the district where he lives. He is in jail now, but says the fine will be paid shortly.

Chief Carroll and County Constable Dixon went up for him, and made a search of the surroundings. They found 23 deerskins and four moosehides, while the carcases of the slaughtered animals were lying around in the woods.

The skins and guns were confiscated, and the former sold to a dealer, while the guns will be disposed of.

"I wish success were a woman."

"Why?"

"Then everybody would know its secret."

Was Moving Day for Germans in Regina Trench.

British Front in France, Oct. 21, via London, Oct. 22.—With the return of fighting weather the British resumed the offensive on a larger scale this afternoon and turned on enough gunfire and sent in enough troops to make sure Regina trench was theirs. It was the most important attack for three weeks.

All this month Regina trench has been developing a sinister reputation. It joins on the old first line fortifications in the neighborhood of Thiepval, and anything in that region, with its comfortable dugouts, the Germans like to retain in order to prevent the active battle front from broadening, and for another reason which a British soldier expressed when he said: "With winter coming on we feel the need of those deep, snug dugouts the Germans spent so much time in building."

Parties of the British got possession of portions of Regina trench on several occasions, but the Germans swarmed in front of their burrows and repulsed the invaders. Evidently Regina trench was not to be taken by nibbling and required one big bite. In such cases there is nothing to do but wait till clear weather when the gunners can see what they are doing and turn on a number one artillery curtain fire.

Yesterday morning a set gunners' smile was on the face of the whole army. Instead of rain and mist making a gunner's bane of low visibility an almost wintry sun was shining in crystal clear air—literally an artilleryman's heaven. All the gun tribe necessary for the job were up and in position already waiting for such a day as this when the eyes that see for them from the observation posts can tell whether the practice shells they leisurely fire are on the target, they can on the signal being given for the concert to begin. When the same kind of weather continued today staff officers who arranged these affairs said: "This is moving day for the Germans in Regina trench."

The Regina is a long trench of nearly three miles—about the same length as the battlefront at Gettysburg.

Shortly after noon, when there had been the usual amount of shell fire all morning and no signs anywhere on the landscape that anything unusual was going to happen, a number one curtain fire was suddenly turned on with the same effact on the ear as when all the whistles of New York start when the clock strikes 12 on New Year's evening.

The usual billowy cloud of shell smoke vaporously extensive in the cold air, churned and whipped the length of the Regina trench with the customary accuracy of these swathes of death and tempest and then the British infantry were in full possession of the trench. Some Germans bolted from the first ugly breath of that barrage, knowing from experience that the only thing to do was to move on to another position and force the gunners to prepare another deludge for the next step of the allied offensive. Six hundred left alive were taken prisoners.

The guners are smiling at the stars tonight, which promise another fair day tomorrow. The cold weather has transformed the army into a winter chrysalis. The battalions are marching up the trenches all wearing their overcoats. The call is for more chocolate and more slices of bacon frizzling in pans in the dugouts. The gunners who were stripped for their war work in August now warm their hands on the heated gun barrels. At night on the field where fires are permitted the men gather around the blaze of any wood they can gather. Those digging new trenches on the ground won do not mind how cold it is, so long as the ground is not soaked by rain.

Cheese Markets.

The course of prices paid for cheese at the country boards this week was somewhat irregular, as at several boards they were 1-16c to 3-16c per lb. lower than last week, while at others they were 1-16c to ¼c higher and the tone of the market on the whole at the close of the week was no doubt stronger owing to the increased enquiries from English importers at advanced prices and the fact that some business was done, with prospects of more activity in the near future. A factor of some importance in the situation is the fact that the make is now decreasing, as the receipts for the week were over 20,000 boxes smaller than the previous one and only about 10,000 boxes larger than a year ago.

Parcels for Prisoners of War in Germany must be very Strongly Packed

The Post Office Department had been notified by the British Post Office that many parcels sent from Csnada to Prisoners of War in Germany are being received in London in a damaged condition, so that frequently they have to be forwarded to Holland for transmission to Germany. The British Post Office adds that in most cases the damage appears to be due to the fact that the parcels were inadequately packed by the senders.

The public are warned, therefore that parcels for Prisoners of War, unless they are very strongly packed, will probably arrive in such a condition as be of little or no use to the recipients.

Ordinary thin cardboard boxes such as shoe-boxes, and thin wooden boxes should not be used, nor does a single sheet of ordinary brown paper afford sufficient protection. Even where proper materials are used, it is important that the contents should be tightly packed so as not to shake about during transit. The followlng forms of packing are recommended:—

(1) Strong double cardboard or straw board boxes. Those made of corrugated cardboard and having lids which completely enclose the sides of the box are the most suitable.

(2) Tin boxes such as are usad ror packing biscuits.

(3) Strong wooden boxes.

(4) Several folds of stout packing paper.

The British authorities advise that parcels for Prisoners of War in Germany must not be wrapped in linen, calico, canvas, or any other textile material.

Parcels posted in Canada for Prisoners of War in Germany which have not been adequately packed by the senders will not be forwarded but will be returned to the senders, as the British Post Office has notified the Department that parcels which are inadequately packed must be returned to the senders.

Try Making Your Own Bread.

With flour at five dollars per bag and bread consequently high in price, many hous wives would like to make the bread for their families in their own homes. Below is given the recipe used by Miss Margaret Davidson, head of the Domestic Science Department of the Central Technical School in Toronto where she uses it for instruction purposes.

Recipe for eight pounds of bread: 2 quarts liquid, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons butter or lard, 6 teaspoons salt, 1 yeast cake, 5 quarts flour.

Method: (1) Make the liquid luke warm; (2) add to it the butter and sugar; (3) dissolve yeast cake in small portion and add to whole; (4) add enough flour to make a thick batter and beat vigorously; (5) add flour to make a soft dough and knead; (6) put into greased pan or bowl to rise in a warm place, letting rise o double its bulk; cover and wrap, if necessary; (7) shape into loaves and put in greased pans; (8) set to rise again in warm place; (9) bake in moderate oven one hour.

NOTES.

1. The liquid may be from potatoes crushed through a colander, water and, all. The starch of the cooked potato seems to be in the right condition for yeast to grow. Bread made from potato water keeps fresh longer than other breads. Or the liquid may be milk and water, or water; or milk, whole or skimmed.

2. One yeast cake, compressed or dry, will make eight pounds of bread, possibly more and certainly less, taking less time for less. Dry yeast needs to be given time to get in the growing condition. Explicit directions are given on the packages for its use and the housekeeper who keeps that on her shelves can never be at a loss for good bread, rolls, etc.

3. The amount of flour given in the recipe is three times the amount of liquid, which is an excellent guide, but it depends on the quality of flour whether it will be necessary to use all or not. A good bread flour should be purchased and care taken not to make the dough too dry—a soft dough which can be kneaded, and which springs and grows under one's hand, is what is wanted.

4. Temperature is one of the most important factors in bread making. The yeast plant is most sensitive—it will not grow if it is not warm—a cold wind blowing over or against the pan in which it is set to rise will delay it indefinitely. Most cooks have a bread blanket in which the pan or bowl, after being well covered, is wrapped. Care must also be taken that the liquid is not too hot when the yeast is put in. There isn't a woman who cannot find the right temperature and make bread successfully.

5. It is not hard work or a lengthy job. Kneading is a simple wrist movement, not one which tires the arms, like beating eggs, nor the muscles of the back, if one stands properly. And bread makes itself, the time necessary for the required amount of work is very short and especially if a bread mixer is used. It is well worth the money to invest in a mixer—all the heating and kneading may be done in three minutes in a mixer.

7. Bread should rise after being put in the oven. It is well, therefore, that the oven should be moderate for 15 or 20 minutes when the heat may be increased slightly to secure a good brown crust.

8. Bread should be taken from pans as soon as it is out of the oven, and cooled on stands which allow the air to circulate. It is a mistake to cover it while it is warm.

Cornwall Youth Convicted.

David Joyce and Osie Monsion, two boys about 18 years of age, are in jail here as a result of an escapade in which they participated last week. The lads hired a rig and went to visit Joyce's uncles, Leclair Bros., butchers, at Moose Creek. After their departure it was discovered that the safe had been opened and $35.00 in cash and a Dominion Express order for a smaller amount were missing. The same night the store of Mrs. Brazeau, at Moose Creek, was broken into and a box containing about one hundred packages of Derby cigarettes were taken. Mr. Leclair came to Cornwall and reported the theft to Chief Smyth and issued a warrant for Joyce's arrest. The young man was arrested and pleading guilty was sentenced by Police Magistrate Danis to one year in the Ontarie Reformatory. Monsion was arrested later and was remanded for eight days. Joyce is said to be an incorrigible youth. He can neither read nor write, and his uncle states that while he resided in Moose Creek nothing could be done with him. He has been living in Cornwall for a few months.

Monsion appeared before the Magistrate on Saturday and was allowed to go on suspended sentence on payment of the costs and the value of cigarettes.

154th Battalion Leaves Barriefield.

The 154th Battalion "Counties Own" left Barriefield last Saturday evening about ten-thirty, togged out in their new uniform as a Highland battalion. They passed through Morrisburg shortly after two o'clock Sunday morning and left Montreal for an eastern point between six and seven o'clock that same morning. Doubtless many friends of the boys of Chesterville and vicinity would have been at Morrisburg, even in the middle of the night, could they have learned when the battalion was to pass through, but that information was not given. Many who had relatives in the "Counties Own" haunted the C. P. R. station here practically all day Sunday on the off chance that the battalion might pass this way. A flurry of excitement was caused about ten o'clock when a large troop train pulled in and many rushed to the station expecting to see the 154th but it had on board westerners from Saskatchewan.

The 154th was in course of formation about ten months, and while many thought at the outset that a full battalion could not be raised from these counties, a great many more than the required number passed through the ranks and for one cause and another during the weeding out process were discarded. When the final appeal for a hundred and fifty more men was made a few weeks ago it is understood that they were secured and that the "Counties Own Kilties" left Barriefield fully up to strength.

Who Begrudges A Red Cross Gift?

Chesterville, Oct. 24th, 1916.

To the Editor of the Record,
Dear Sir,—

In view of the recent request made of our village council as a part of Canada, for the British Red Cross funds I would like a space in your paper to express some of the sentiments of at least one of the ratepayers of our village.

We have today, Chesterville citizens who have made the supreme sacrifice; mothers who have given their sons, wives who have parted with their husbands, sisters who have bid a fond farewell to their brothers. All are not called upon to make that greatest of all sacrifices, but all are called upon to bear their share of the burden of this terrible war. Those who have made this sacrifice have a right to expect that their loved ones will be furnished with medical aid and every chance possible for recovery from their wounds. Is there a ratepayer in our village who would raise his voice in protest against such such an expenditure under similar circumstances for himself? How much more is he in duty bound to give the man who is taking his place at the front this chance. When those who have loved ones at the front are willing to take a double share of the burden, surely no one else will protest.

Surely none of the members of our council believe that they could be censured for voting funds to such a cause as the British Red Cross Society. Rather the censure would be invited by refusal to support our gallant men at the front. No argument can be brought forward why the council should not make the requested grant, and any threat made against a member giving his support to this motion comes from a mind which would have no influence at an election poll, as this mind's vision is bounded soley by the clasp on his pocket book.

Let us hope our council board is made up of men who will see their duty plainly in those matters of more far reaching benefits than those bounded by their own door posts, and give their financial support as liberally as individual families have given of their loved ones.

Thanking you for the space and assuring you that I feel I have voiced the opinion of the great majority of the ratepayers of our village in the above sentiment, I am

Yours in loyalty
A Ratepayer.

OBITUARY

Charles T. McConnell

There passed away at North Winchester on Sunday one of the few remaining old settlers of this township when Charles T. McConnell was called to his reward at the advanced age of eighty-seven years. Two weeks prior to his leath he was the victim of a paralytic stroke and although he recovered from the first attack sufficient to be about again; it was shortly followed by others which resulted in his death.

The deceased was born in East Hawkesbury in 1829 where he lived with the family until about 1850 when they moved to the northern part of the township and took up farming. In 1862 he married Jane Beattie, daughter of the late Robert Beattie of Chesterville and the young couple commenced farming on the place on which he died.

Besides the widow three sons, Alexander, William and Charles Amon all of Morewood district and one daughter Mrs. Wesley Smith of Morewood, are left to mourn his loss. Throughtout his life the deceased was a prominent member of the Methodist Church and in politics was a follower of the policies of Sir Wilfried Laurier.

The funeral took place on Tuesday from the Methodist Church where Rev. D. D. Elliott assisted by Rev. K. A. Gollan conducted the services. Interment was made in the Methodist Cemetery.

RED CROSS WORK.
Morewood.

A number of ladies gave a Red Cross tea in the Presbyterian Hall on the evening of Oct. 19. The rainy night was against the success of the evening but the sum of $20 10 was realized. The ladies had sewing and games were furnished for the children.

A Red Cross tea will be given on Friday afternoon, Oct. 27th, at the home of Mrs. Geo. Barrington. Work given out from 2 to 4 o'clock, when lunch is served. Everybody welcome. A large attendance is requested.

The committee have a quantity of yarn on hand and as knitted articles such as socks, wristlets, mufflers, &c. are urgently called for we would be glad to have as many as can find time to knit for the soldiers call at the home of Mrs. J. W. Bogart for yarn and instructions.

A large load of newspapers were sent to Chesterville last week to be sold for Red Cross purposes.

MOREWOOD.

An old and highly respected resident, Mr. Chas. McConnell passed over to the silent majority on Sunday. The funeral took place on Tuesday. The bereaved friends have the sympathy of the community.

Mrs. Gollan and Mrs. Cheney were appointed delegates to the Women's Institute convention in Ottawa on Oct. 31st and Nov. 1st. A number of the members should try to attend this convention as it is both interesting and instructive

Mr. J. H. Summers and family have moved into the house recently occupied by Mr. Dodds.

Mrs. Ault spent the week-end with friends in Chesterville and Morrisburg.

Miss Evelyn Swerdfeger was the guest of Miss Alice Coulthart on Monday night.

Duration of the War

The Russian Government has submitted to the Duma and Council of the Empire a budget for 1917 framed on the theory that the war will last through another year. The outlay proposed is 4,078,000,000 rubles, or, roughly, $2,000,000,000. While this is about one eighth the amount Great Britain is spending it represents a heavier burden on the Russian people, possibly, than does the greater sum in the case of taxpayers of the United Kingdom. The interest in this case, however, is less economical than an indicating the idea of the Russian staff as to the time the war will continue. The eastern theatre in which Russia plays the chief part for the Entente Allies has had its peculiar vicissitudes. In 1914 the Russian armies had things much their own way for a time. East Prussia was overrun, and Galicia was made more Russia than Austrian. The German attack on Poland failed, and it was only by unusual generalship that von Mackensen was able to withdraw his army from the front of Warsaw. In 1915, on the other hand, the Teutonic forces had things largely their own way but with limitations. The Russians had to go back, but they did so with their faces to the invader, and at no place did their line break. This year, with hard fighting, which is not over yet, the Russians recovered some of their lost ground, both within their own territory and in Galicia, which they again invaded. Their financial arrangements are probably framed on the idea that at least another twelve months must elapse before the work of recovering their country will be finished. In this their action is in agreement with what was said by General Sir William Robertson at the London Canada Club dinner to the Duke of Devonshire last week. The head of the General Staff of the British army was cautious in speaking of the future. He would not say the end was in sight though he might have hoped it was. He could say though that the beginning had been got through and that he thought the stage we are now in is the middle. This is more than a cautious man in a responsible position would have ventured six months ago; and therefore it is comforting. Perhaps it should be the more so because all concerned seem to have agreed that any collapse on the part of the Teuton confederates is not without the early probabilities, though it may come, and that unexpectedly. Making preparation to fight on will have its moral effect on the enemy.

"Wee Sandy's Revenge."

The Chicago Tribune tells how Sandy McTavish got even with a crowd of Germans.

Strains of "God Save the King," played by a German band in a German saloon at 111 South Clark Street, floated out into the loop last night. A Scotchman had hired the band to play the British national air, and he enjoyed it more than any one else. Earlier he had been ejected from the saloon, which is kept by Ed. Dreifus, and this was his revenge.

The Scot was from Canada, When he first dropped into Dreifus' place some Germans were toasting Capt. Hans Rose of the U-53. The Scot refused to drink the toast.

"My name's McTavish—Sandy McTavish—'Wee Sandy,' they call me, and I'll give ye a toast." he shouted. "Here's to King George."

It took five Germans and the porter to put Sandy out.

Two hours later he was back with the "Hungry Five," the German band he had hired in the loop, and led it into the saloon. The band played the air four times before the Germans knew what it was, but after that Sandy and the musicians soon were in the street.

BRITISH BLAST GERMANS OUT OF TWO POSITIONS

London, October 22—The Regina trench, one of the positions in northern France which the Germans have most tenaciously clung to, has been captured by the British. It was taken in a new sweep they made on Saturday north of the Somme After the usual artillery preparation, only more intense, the British attacked on a 5,000 yard front between the Schwaben ridge and the village of Le Sars, Everywhere the objective was attained, which included the capture of the Regina and Stuff trenches. Up to to-night 1,018 prisoners had been counted, and they are still coming in. The German losses were very heavy in the fighting, while the British are believed to have been slight. The enemy made no attempt throughout Sunday to retake the position. They exploded a mine at Ypres and occupied the lip of the crater, but are holding it under a heavy shell-fire. On Saturday morning the British made another advance towards Bapaume at Butte de Warlencourt, from the direction of the Albert road. The Germans admit the British gains, but claim the success cost tremendous losses.

There has been fighting of extreme violence on the French sections of the north and south and south Somme fronts. With redoubled fury the Germans again buried themselves at Sailly-Sailliset. Three big attacks were made after intense shell-fire, but each time the enemy was driven back without reaching the positions. Attacks were renewed later in the day, but always with the same result, and prisoners brought stories of the tremendous havoc wrought by the French gun and rifle fire. Similar efforts failed south of the Somme between Blaches and La Maisonnette. On the other hand, the French gained a brilliant success near Chaulnes. By means of a quick attack they gained possession of a wood to the north and took 250 prisoners. Late on Sunday this new position was heavily attacked, but the Germans were again beaten, having suffered very severe losses. South of the river the Germans had secured a footing in the edge of Blaise Wood by means of liquid flames. In the afternoon the French surrounded this force, captured 150 men and killed the rest.

It was a very successful week-end for the allied aviators. The weather was clear and particularly adapted to artillery and aviation work. A total of 27 German machines were driven down with the loss of only five British aeroplanes. The British broughf down twelve machines, and the French fifteen. Much damage was also done to German military organization behind the lines, railway stations, trains; munition depots, and supply bases all being heavily bombed with marked success.

Possibilities of Flax Production.

In the Agricultural War Book for 1916 there are several pages devoted to particulars regarding the cultivation of flax in Canada, principally in Ontario, although in Quebec, Manitoba and Saskatchewan the plant is cultivated to some extent. The principal contributor to the subject in the War Book is Mr. James A. McCracken, Secretary of the Canadian Flax Growers' Association, with headquarters at St. Mary's, Ont, In giving statistics regarding the somewhat limited cultivation of flax in this country Mr. McCracken says "Canada can do a good deal more in this direction than she is doing. The urgency grows stronger when we appreciate that every acre of flax devoted to fibre purposes means from $75 to $100 in exports. Whatever flax we export goes mainly to the New England mills and to Ireland, thereby assisting in relieving, directly or indirectly, the needs of the hour." Mr. McCracken goes a great deal fuller into his subject in a pamphlet issued under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, entitled "A Review of the Status and Possibilities of Flax production and manipulation in Canada." He sketches the history of the production in Canada, giving figures which show that, despite the products, there has been a decrease instead of the apparently warranted increase. However it is satisfactory to know, on the same authority that "the tide of revival is reaching the remoter portions of the former flax area of south western Ontario" and that the number of flax centres that promised to assume activity this year approached 30. Mr. McCraken gives minute particulars regarding the flax field, its choice and cultivation; fertilizers, seed and sowing, the implements and machinery required after harvesting and for commercial utilization, the use of flax in paper manufacture, marketing, etc. The pamphlet can be obtained free on application to the Publications Branch Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

SEVEN YEARS TORTURE

ALBERT VARNER

Buckingham, Que., May 3rd, 1915.

For seven years, I suffered terribly from Severe Headaches and Indigestion. I had belching gas from the stomach, bitter stuff would come up into my mouth after eating, while at times I had nausea and vomiting, and had chronic Constipation. I went to several doctors and wrote to a specialist in Boston but without benefit. I tried many remedies but nothing did me good. Finally, a friend advised "Fruit-a-tives". I took this grand fruit medicine and it made me well. I am grateful to "Fruit-a-tives", and to everyone who has miserable health with Constipation and Indigestion and Bad Stomach, I say take "Fruit-a-tives", and you will get well".

November Will be Warm

Washington, D. C., Oct. 21—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent Oct. 26 to 30, warm wave 25 to 29, cool wave 28 to Nov. 1. Temperatures of that week, centering on Oct. 28, will average above normal. Don't forget that these dates are for meridian 90, an imaginary line drawn from near New Orleans, St. Louis, Duluth and northward. As all weather features drift eastward you must count from one to three days earlier according to distance west of that line and one to two and a half days for east of that line. The tropical storms move northeast along the Atlantic coast, and their time cannot yet be successfully forecasted.

During the week centering on Oct. 27, very severe storms are expected and our readers are urged to be prepared for them. They will miss nine-tenths of the country and we cannot locate them, but we are quite sure as to when they will occur. Heavy rains are expected during that week in large parts of the cotton states.

Next warm wave will reach Vancouver near Oct. 30 and temperatures will rise on all the Pacific slope. It will cross ridge of Rockies by close of Oct 31, plain sections Nov. 1, great lakes and Ohio vallevs Nov. 2, eastern sections 3, reaching Newfoundland near Nov, 4. Storm wave will follow about one day after warm wave and cool wave about one day after warm wave,

This will be a continuation of the severe storm period mentioned above, but the storms will decrease as they near the Atlantic coasts. Following this storm wave will come a severe cold wave that will cause general killing frosts in large parts of the cotton belt. We also expect some severe tropical storms during this great continental storm period but cannot now give particulars.

Our forecasts for September were generally good, except less rain than expected in parts of southwest and middle west. Our temperature lines were somewhat defective.

We still advise farmers to sell their surplus grain. While they might get higher prices by holding there are too many risks. "A bird in hand is worth two in the bush," is an old and very true aphorism. We are now of the same opinion about cotton. The safest thing is to sell now while you can get good prices.

The discovery that the moon and sun control the tides was made not many years ago. The scientists who occupied government positions in Europe scowled at the discovery denied it, but more common people saw the point and forced the orthodox scientists to accept it. Very similiar history has attended and still awaits planetary meteorology.

November promises unusually warm weather from near 8 to 24. This will be quite favorable to live stock pasture and will save much feed. But following 24 a great change to colder weather will occur for which farmers should be prepared.

THE HEAVY DRAUGHT BEST HORSE FOR FARM WORK

A great deal has been written for and against the "Farm Chunk," a horse weighing about 1, 350 pouuds, and there are many farmers in favor of such an animal for farm work. The class for agricultural horses at Fall fairs brings out many of these farm chunks and as a rule the chunkier they are the better chance they have of winning and so the farmer is encouraged in his belief that he has the best horse for his business though such an animal is, in fact, a miniature draughter and no better for speed and handiness than a 1,500 or 1,600 pound horse, which could move a much bigger load.

The horsemen of the country who breed heavy horses with the intention of selling at a good price, point out that the farm chunk is not a paying proposition for them, so that should be evidence enough against this type, so far as his marketing qualities go. There are now too many of the type in the country for use on the farms and no man in any other line of business has use for them.

Considering the absolnte usefulness of horses on the farm, why should not the farmer have the most use for the heavy draught? The days of working small corners of land and jumping over stumps are past, so far as Old Ontario is concerned, anyway, and the man who really farms can make up a load of grain, stock or anything else connected with his growing operations. big enough to give the heaviest team all they want to draw, better roads are in favor of the big horse and speed greater than a walk is not needed with railroads as close as they are to the majority of farms.

Other saleable horses beside the heavy draughts are expressers and delivery horses. but the farmer does not need these; they may suit a market gardener and if he will have them he should breed them or else buy from a man who makes a specialty of breeding horses of from 1,100 and 1,405 pounds for market, they won't be farm chunks anyway, as the man who wants a team to deliver small loads wants some speed about them.

The right idea in classes of horses will in time be forced upon the farming community by the law forbidding the use of any but pure-bred stallions; then a man will have a model of a good type in each animal that is kept for service.

In arranging classes for horses at the Fall fairs it would be a good thing to have only pure-bred horses shown on the line and in competition with others of the same breed, though a sweepstake could be arranged for all breeds, while horses for special purposes, such as heavy draughts, express, delivery, etc., should be shown to suitable vehicles and judged largely on their performance, soundness of course, to count also.

As regards the expense of keeping the big horse for farm work, there is no cause for complaint, as the good big horse will move more load in proportion to the feed he consumes than will the smaller one, that is, and keep up the work day in and day out.

Valuable Horse Hurt

Mr. Roy Davis of Smiths Falls the owner of Queen Hal, received bad news about the mare. He sent her off last spring for training and for the past few weeks she has been doing great work on the grand circuit in the United States. At some of the big meets she carried off the best purses and in her last trial she made a half mile in 59¼. In a race at Cleveland on Tuesday she fell and broke one of her hind legs. This will put her out of the racing business even if it does not make it necessary to kill her. This means a great loss to Mr. Davis as Queen Hal's performance on the track had probably never been equalled. She gave promise of being the fastest trotter in the world,

Canada Beavers in New York City.

The work of the beavers—widely celebrated but seldom observed in its accomplishment—is to be seen any of these October afternoons at the New York Zoological Park. Seven of the energetic little animals—heretofore too shy to appear above ground while a human was within a mile of the beaver pond—have thrown caution to the winds and are building an extension to their mud and wood mansion.

The strange feature of the behaving of the beavers is that there is a genuine need for the addition that they are rapidly completing. Within a week four new beavers are to arrive from Algonquin Park, Canada. Mr. William T. Hornaday is inclined to believe that a beaver wireless must have informed the present householders that another apartment was a necessity.

All of the beavers at the park came originally from Algonquin Park and during the three years of their stay here they have never before been observed doing a tap of work. They invariably disappeared the moment anyone went near the beaver pond. Craftily they built ther little home and repeatedly blocked the level water drain which keeps the pond at a controlled height. Every month a wagon load of piled mud was removed from around the drain, for the beavers are natural conservationists and never will allow water to drain away. They have no interest, of course, in what the park management considers desirable.

PREMIER MAKES AN APPEAL FOR NATIONAL SERVICE

Ottawa, October 23—Sir Robert Borden tonight issued the following appeal in behalf of National Service. To the people of Canada:

"The world-wide struggle in which our Empire is fighting for its rights, its liberties and its very existence, has continued for more than two years. Every effort that could honourably be made on our part to avert war was put forth with the deepest earnestness and sincerity. There was no escape from the contest save in dishonor and ultimate disaster. The wonderful extent and thoroughness of the enemy's long and careful preparation was imperfectly understood at first, and the magnitude of the struggle has surpassed all anticipation. Great Britain's first expeditionary force has been increased more than twenty feld and that of Canada more than twenty fold. The climax of the war is rapidiy approaching. The last hundred thousand men that Canada will place in the fighting line may be the deciding factor in a struggle the issue of which will determine the destiny of this Dominion, of our Empire, and of the whole World.

"The most eloquent tribute would fail to do fitting honor to the youth of Canada who have already rallied so splendidly to the colours and whose heroic valor and glorious achievements have crowned the Dominion with imperishable distinction before the world. Remembering the sacrifice by which that distinction was won, we recall with solemn pride the undying memory of those who have fallen.

"In the history of every people there may come such a challenge to the spirit of its citizens as must be answered in service and devotion if the nation is to have an abiding place in the future. The events of this war bring challenge today to the manhood of Canada.

"Since the war began more than three hundred and seventy thousand men have enlisted in this Dominion. Two hundred and fifty-eight thousand have gone overseas, and more than one hundred thousand are now in the battle line. During the first ten months of the present year the number sent forward will aggregate one hundred and forty-one thousand. From 1st of January to April 15th of this year, the enlistments were at the rate of nearly one thousand per day. Up to the present our forces have been enlisted and organized more rapidly than facilities of transportation and accommodation in Great Britain could be provided. During the past four months the number of enlistments have greatly decreased, and, having regard to future needs, the time has come for this appeal.

"Notwithstanding the success of the Allied forces in various theatres during the past summer, there is reason to know that the enemy is still strong and determined. A mightier effort than may be imagined is necessary to secure a conclusive victory. This war must have so decisive a result that lasting peace can be secured. We are fighting not for a truce, but for victory.

"In all mechanical appliances which have played so great a part in this war the Allied nations have almost, if not quite, overtaken the enemy's standard of preparation. Therefore, the result will depend upon the organization of the man-power of the Allied nations. Canada must be strong and resolute in that great endeavor.

"Our strength can be most effectively thrown into this conflict by utilizing, in all our national activities for sustaining the agricultural, industrial and commercial stability of Canada, those who through age or by reason of physical condition are not available for service at the front, to the end that we may place in the battle line the greatest possible proportion of those fit for military service. With this view the Government has asked the Director-General and the directors of National Service to undertake duties of the highest importance and urgency. It is imperative that the men and women of Canada, individually and through their varions organizations shall serve the nation in those capacities in which their service may be of the most value. Thus, it is the urgent duty of the Canadian people to join with the Government in organizing the full power of the nation in terms of human energy.

Under the responsibilities with which I am invested, and in the name of the state which we are all bound to serve, it is my duty to appeal, and I do now appeal, most earnestly to the people of Canada that they assist and co-operate with the Government and the directors of national service in the endeavor for this purpose. To men of military age, I make the appeal that they place themselves at the service of the state for military duty. To all others I make appeal that they place themselves freely at the disposition of their country for such service as they are deemed best fitted to perform.

And to the women of Canada whose spirit has been so splendid and so inspiring in this hour of devotion and sacrifice I bid Godspeed in the manifold works of beneficence in which they are now engaged, and I pray them to aid still more in every field of National Service for which they may feel themselves fitted.

Let us never forget the solemn truth that the nation is not constituted of the living alone. There are those as well who passed away and those yet to be born. So this great responsibility comes to us as heirs of the past and trustees of the future.

But with that responsibility there has come something greater still, the opportuuity of proving ourselves worthy of it. And I pray that this may not be lost."

Lost his Bet

One of the most eloquent lawyers that ever pleaded in a court of law had a cork leg. None but the most intimate of his acquaintances knew for certain which was the sham limb. One day he was engaged in a case when a young lawyer sought to utilize his knowledge for his personal benefit. The celebrated counsel was pleading in the most earnest manner, when the young lawyer whispered to a stranger near him.

"You see how earnest old rusty is, I'll bet you a pound that I can run a pin in his right leg and he will never know it."

The bet was booked. The wag took a long pin from his vest, and leaning forward, drove it up to the head in the lawyer's leg. A yell blood-curdling and more awful than that of an Indian, made the hair of the jury stand on end and the judge jump from the bench.

"Great Scott," exclaimed the wag. "It was the wrong leg, and I've lost my bet."

She—Maud is very fickle. She never had use for one fellow long.

He—That's because she doesn't have him long before he gets short.

WISHES CANADA COULD SEE HER SERIOUS AND CONFIDENT SONS GOING INTO BATTLE

Ottawa, October 24—The unfaltering courage of the British army, the heroism and devotion of the French people, the skill of the Canadian Medical Service and the Red Cross, and the silent power of the navy, are praised without stint by Dr, James W. Robertson, who has returued to Ottawa after a visit to England and France as the representative of Canada on the invitation of the British Committee for the agricultural relief of the Allies.

It is hoped that as a result of an Empire wide movement the farmers in the overseas dominions will gladly help their brother farmers to get started again after their countries have been cleared of the enemy. Dr. Robertson stated that plans are being formulated but that no definite announcement can be made as yet.

The delegates who included representatives from New Zealand, Australia and other self-governing dominions, visited the Somme and Verdun regions in France, as well as other parts of the far-flung battle line. Dr. Robertson, who formerly was principal of MacDonald College at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, and later chairman of the Commission on technical education, formed some vivid impressions of his trip.

Of the British army, in France, other more competent by far than I have spoken and wrttten," he said, "I had read much, I had read with a certain reserve the unstinted praise of its spirit, its unfaltering courage, and in later months, of its sufficient equipment. I no longer have any reserve, I had read nothing which adequately represents what I saw and felt. Miles and miles and again miles, behind the cutting edge of the wedge at the front, as far as the eye could reach, were encampments of infantry and cavalry and artillery and aeroplanes. The country roads were thronged with traffic like the main thoroughfares of a great city.

"At crossings and junctions of roads in the open country soldier policemen directed the traffic. I did not see one blockade or hear an ill-tempered wrangle nearer the front I saw Australians, New Zealanders and Indian cavalry, with hosts of Kitchener's army from England. Scotland and Ireland. I saw Canadians marching towards their places for the great attack at Courcelette. I spoke with men of one battalion. I passed several others. The occasioh was not one for any affectation or posing for effect. I wish Canada could see the serious, confident, happy bearing of her sons when their hour of trial was ahead. One could only smile through tears while the heart beat faster from pride in the bearing and spirit and character of the men."

Colt Drags Boy to Death.

Renfrew, Oct. 20.—Dradged to death in a field by a colt there was the fate of Earl Fraser, aged fifteen years, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Fraser who live on a farm in Horton township a few miles from Renfrew. The boy went alone to a field to bring in some horses, and, placing a halter on the youngest one of them, he tied the halter around his waist. The horse started to run, and the boy, falling, could not free himself, and was soon dead.

A CHERUIT MODEL.

DIRECT FROM PARIS.

This handsome gown, so Frenchy in its design, is developed with winey broadcloth and georgette crape, which makes a foundation for the sleeves and bodice. Please notice how cleverly novelty plaid ribbon has been used as a girdle and tie, while a pointed fox scarf gives the right finish around the shoulders.

WINTER NECKWEAR.

Newest Notes About Attractive Ways to Dress Your Throat.

Windsor ties of silk taffeta and crape are in plain, ombre, striped and plaid effects. Ribbon ties are in velvet, satin, grosgrain and belting designs. These are more in cross stripes than in one color. The ends are tasseled with jet or steel, have large silk balls, plaited fans of silk or Chinese looking pendants of jade. The very newest have a buckle of the ribbon part way down and tiny roses of chiffon dot the neck let from the buckle to the ends. The new jabots have a cascade of lace edging from three to ten inches wide.

The newest ideas are sport stock and glazed leather sets. Scarfs of this soft leather are swathed around the high collars. A plain piece of neckwear is a stock of black moire, taffeta or satin with high tabs in front and small tabs of white organdie resting on these. Striped velvet ribbon is worn as a necklet in rose, turquoise, black bright green, watermelon pink, gold old blue and violet.

Soft black satin ribbon six inches wide has pointed ends edged with skunk fur. The ribbon is wound around a high collar and tied in a large bow at the back on one side. A choker of violet faille has a short scarf of the same tied once in front, with a circular turnover at the top, fur edged Turnover points in front trim high collars. Plaited ruches on top of high collars encircle the head. Panne velvet collars are trimmed with dull silver lace.

Vestees of white pique, plain and plaided silk, glazed feather, bits of ancient embroidery, beading, tapestry, broche, etc., are all used for a waist length vestee. Linen and pique stocks are stiff with an upper effect to turn over and are worn with a stock bow One has wings at the sides, another has a tiny shelf standing out all around and points at the sides. Another is scalloped wider in front.

Marabou collars and muffs are in brown, gray or white and always trimmed with ribbon. A black maline collar and muff set has black and white ribbon bows centered with large jet buttons.

German Toast.

Materials.—Three eggs, one-half teaspoonful salt, two tablespoonfuls sugar, one cupful milk, six slices stale bread

Utensils.—Griddle, bowl, dish, egg beater, cup, spoon, knife, shallow dish

Directions.—Beat eggs slightly; add salt, sugar, milk; strain into shallow dish. Soak bread in mixture; cook on a hot, well greased griddle; brown on one side, turn and brown on other. Serve with sauce made by creaming one-half cupful butter; add one cupful sugar gradually, one egg, well beaten; one teaspoonful vanilla. Just before serving add one-half cupful hot milk.

NOT ENOUGH CHILDREN

ever receive the proper balance of food to sufficiently nourish both body and brain during the growing period when nature's demands are greater than in mature life. This is shown in so many pale faces, lean bodies, frequent colds, and lack of ambition.

For all such children we say with unmistakable earnestness: They need Scott's Emulsion, and need it now. It possesses in concentrated form the very food elements to enrich their blood. It changes weakness to strength; it makes them sturdy and strong and active.

WHY I should select a Mutual Policy!

FIRST -Because in a mutual company the assets are the sole property of the Policy-holders

2—Because in a mutual company ALL of the profits go to the policy-holders.

3—Because in a mutual company the executive is directly responsible to the policy-holders: ALL the directors are policy-holders' directors.

4—Because mutual companies hold the record for stability.

5—Because mutual companies have all the "safety-first" features of stock companies with mutuality thrown in.

6—Because the largest American companies are already mutual or seriously considering mutualization, and already more than one-half of legal reserve insurance is mutual.

7—Because mutual companies are not built up in the interest of the FEW, but of the MANY.

Therefore I will take for mine
