Suspected tobacco smugglers nabbed after OPP checks

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Police seized about $30,000 of contraband tobacco last week after two separate arrests on Hwy. 401.

Officers of Ontario Provincial Police's Lancaster detachment stopped a 1991 Oldsmobile for a routine traffic check Thursday night and a 1985 Chevrolet for speeding Saturday night.

Police found 600 cans of contraband tobacco with a street value of $18,000 in the Oldsmobile and another 511 cans with a street value of $15,330 in the Chevrolet.

Police arrested both drivers and handed them over to the RCMP who charged them with posession of non-stamped tobacco.

Charged are Joel Norton, 22, of Kanawake, Que., and Michael Lee Cooper, 23, of Hogansburgh, N.Y.

Both men were released after paying $500 bail.

They are to appear at the Provincial Court in Alexandria on April 23.

All tobacco sold in Canada must be stamped to indicate that all excise and other applicable taxes have been paid.

Const. Frank Radeschi of the RCMP anti-smuggling unit said illegal tobacco is smuggled from the United States side of the Akwesasne Indian reserve onto Cornwall Island by boat or snowmobile.

He said once smugglers cross into the Canadian side of the reserve, ''runners'' are hired to transport the tobacco to places like Montreal or the Kahnawake Indian Reserve just south of Montreal.

High-speed chase ends with escape, seizures

RCMP seized about $20,000 worth of cartons of illegal cigarettes Monday after a high speed police chase on Hwy. 401.

The chase began after an Ontario Provincial Police officer of the Lancaster detachment noticed two eastbound Buicks believed to be carrying contraband cigarettes on Hwy. 401 at around 10:45 p.m.

A high speed chase began at the Fraser River and backup was called as the police officer tried to stop the two cars.

The chase was called off after one of the cars crossed over the Quebec border.

The Quebec Police Force was notified, but was unable to find the car, which had a Quebec licence plate registered to a Kahnawake, Que., resident.

Meanwhile, the driver of other Buick pulled over onto a shoulder near Lancaster Village and ran away.

The OPP canine unit traced the scent of the driver to the village, but no suspect was found.

Police searched the car and found 500 cartons of cigarettes in the back seat and trunk, which were handed over the the RCMP.

Public board considers staff cuts

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Teachers and support staff workers in Glengarry's public schools are not frantically worrying as the SD&G Public School Board examines layoffs as a way to balance its budget.

The board announced in a press release last week that 59 jobs might be cut in schools across the United Counties if budgetary requirements cannot be met.

It is not yet known how many jobs are threatened in Glengarry because exact details have not yet been worked out.

But so far, teachers and support staff workers in Glengarry's schools have not expressed fear.

''In this particular school, we really got no need for concern,'' said Barbara Menard, a Grade 12 English teacher at GDHS and a representative with the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation.

She said attrition should cushion any job cuts at the high school.

The board announced in a press release last week cuts have been suggested as a way to deal with the board's increased financial contraints.

The release blamed the Ontario government for demanding schools maintain expensive education programs with less and less funding.

''While the government demands implementation of pay equity, waste management, restructuring of education, employer paid health tax, and a host of curricular and special education requirements, it has steadily reduced its own share of these expenses,'' the release stated.

Alexandria robber given 18 month jail term

By J.L. Lefebvre
Staff writer

A Lachine man has been sentenced to 18 months in jail for the robbery of an Alexandria businessman.

Robert Briere, 26, who has a lengthy criminal record and has several outstanding charges against him in the province of Quebec, pleaded guilty to the charge in Alexandria provincial court on Thursday after being taken into custody on Monday.

The charge stems from a March 21 incident at the Alexandria branch of the Caisse Populaire when a town businessman had a night deposit bag containing over $700 in cash and $1,700 in cheques snatched from him.

As the man approached the building's night deposit slot, Briere, who had been in the enclosed bank machine area, suddenly opened the door and struck the man, knocking him off balance.

Briere grabbed the bag, raced down the street and disappeared after hurdling a snowbank.

Police eventually found the deposit bag and the cheques at the Alexandria home of Briere's cousin, but the money was not recovered.

A tearful Briere told the court from the prisoner's box that he used the profits of his crime to support his cocaine habit.

Briere also told the court that he tried to hang himself early last week after being taken into custody by Cornwall police.

Briere's attorney said that his client's upbringing was marked by both physical and sexual abuse.

The defence said the incident ''was not a serious robbery'' because there had been no threats or physical injury involved.

Citing the fact that his client had pleaded guilty at the first possible opportunity, defence counsel suggested that the proper jail term would be one of nine to 12 months.

The Crown on the other hand argued that because of Briere's lengthy criminal record, the principle of rehabilitation was the least important in determining sentence length.

The Crown suggested that the protection of the public was the primary concern, and requested an 18-month jail term.

Judge J.M. Bordeleau sided with the Crown's submission, even suggesting that perhaps a two-year sentence would have been more appropriate.

Addressing Briere, Bordeleau said: ''The people of Alexandria have the right to be protected from persons like you.''

Fishing trip heads downriver

Five men ice-fishing on the St. Lawrence near Lancaster were shanghaied by nature Saturday as the ice they were fishing on broke off and began to float away with the men on board.

Witnesses who saw the men drift helplessly on the river called the Ontario Provincial Police at around 3 p.m.

The men were saved at around 3:40 p.m. with a coast guard helicopter, which was sent from Valleyfield, Que.

All five men, Bob Sabourin and Ken Vandyke of Lancaster, Andre Fontaine, Glen Lapointe and Leo Roy of Cornwall, were not injured.

Council gives okay to proceed with BIA

Reeve Bruno Massie casts only dissenting vote

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Alexandria council has moved one step closer to forming a Business Improvement Association (BIA) in town.

Council has given Clerk Leo Poirier the go-ahead to prepare the bylaws necessary to create a BIA in Alexandria.

The bylaws will be drawn up and made available for business owners to view before the issue comes up for a final vote, likely to occur at an April 28 meeting.

The bylaws will require that levies for large businesses be no more than $400, and a minimum $50 levy for small businesses, with a maximum $20,000 budget for the BIA.

A final public meeting was held 10 days ago to gauge support for the plan, and according to most councillors at a meeting last Tuesday, the majority of Alexandria's business owners are in favor.

The BIA would use special levies from businesses based on their commercial assessment to handle marketing and promotion and to undertake projects to improve the physical appearance of business areas.

But the proposal has been a contentious one, and still must be approved by the Ontario Municipal Board before it can formed by council.

Council members agreed that while there have been some objections, the majority of business people at the March 24 information meeting seemed to favor the proposal.

Deputy Reeve Jacques Joly said a show of hands at the meeting appeared to indicate business is in favor of the plan.

Councillor John Hope said the presentation by Mike MacDonald, president of the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce, convinced many business people previously against the plan that it is a good thing.

But Reeve Bruno Massie remained unconvinced. He said out of 15 to 20 business people he spoke to at the meeting, only four favored the BIA proposal.

Massie, who has been opposed to the BIA idea since it was first proposed, was the only council member last Tuesday to vote against the motion to go ahead with the BIA.

He said he believed many business people felt too intimidated to voice their objections at the meeting and did not want to create hard feelings.

Massie said there is too much tax from too many levels of government already on businesses and they do not need one more tax on top of that.

''At one point of time, we are going to be over-organized,'' said Massie, who filed an objection on behalf of his business when the BIA was proposed last summer.

''There's a time where it will have to stop. The merchants will not be able to put up with it.''

Councillor Francine Richer, however, said business owners' main concern was how much the BIA would cost them. Now that they have seen how low the levies will be, they favor the idea, she said.

For the small amount invested, business owners will be receiving a bargain. Those who give $50 ''will get back even more,'' she said.

Town backs open meetings

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Alexandria council has added to the growing pressure for Glengarry Memorial Hospital to open its board meetings to the public.

Council unanimously passed a resolution by Councillor John Hope urging the hospital to open its meetings and encouraging the public to take an interest in the hospital.

The motion states: ''That the members of town council support, endorse and encourage that all board meetings of Glengarry Memorial Hospital be open to the public, effective immediately.''

Hope introduced the resolution in light of the hospital board's decision to allow he and Glengarry News publisher Joe Banks to attend a meeting March 26.

And the councillor praised Deputy Reeve Jacques Joly and Mayor Jean Paul Touchette for supporting his request to attend the meeting.

''I was very grateful that the board so graciously allowed me to sit in,'' he said, prior to introducing the motion.

''I thank the Deputy Reeve (Jacques) Joly for taking my request to the board.''

''I am pleased to see that he, along with Mayor Touchette are supporters of this open door policy to the meetings.''

The hospital board is expected to vote May 26 on a resolution introduced by Gwen Morris urging the board to open its meetings to the public.

Morris and other open meeting proponents, Kent MacSweyn and Sam Sultan had wanted board members to vote on the motion on March 26, but decided to delay the vote to allow time to consider the impact of open meetings.

Board Chairman Edgar Tourangeau, would not say whether he believed the resolution will sway hospital board members to vote for an open door policy.

''It's not my decision. It's got to go before the board,'' he said in a telephone interview Thursday.

He would not say whether he favored an open meeting policy or the present closed meeting policy.

But he did say he feels ratepayers are getting adequate representation by board members from their home municipalities and can use them as a window into hospital operations.

''I think we have very good representation,'' he said, adding:

needs and the exact amounts expected through government grants have not yet been determined, said Richard Forrester, the board's finance and facilities committee chairman.

But, he said if the board finds itself with a cash shortage, layoffs might occur with 59 job losses as the worse case scenario.

He added that is only one option.

Local taxes might be increased, or collective aggreements might be renegotiated in order to balance the budget.

Maintenance and custodians renegotiated for lower wages last week to ensure they won't be laid off.

Teachers and support staff workers might be asked to do the same, Forrester said.

Lise Proulx, the president of the Office and Professional Employees International Union, which represents support staff workers, said they have not yet decided what position to take.

But Ken Ward, the SD&G district president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation, said workers should not be the ones to bear the board's financial burdens.

He suggested the board's books be examined to find other means of cutting costs.

''I would like to see other places where we can cut money,'' he said.

''We are not convinced that cutting positions is the only solution.''

Speaking easy

Young public speakers from 70 Lions clubs from throughout Ontario and Quebec competed at a regional public speaking competition held in Alexandria Friday night. It's the second year in a row Alexandria Lions have hosted the event, the winners of which will head to an interprovincial competition in Toronto in May. From left, the winners are Raymond Novak, English boy winner from Opeongo High School in Renfrew; Leanne McAllister, English girl winner and overall highest points from Seaway District High School; Lyse Lajoie, French girl first place and Serge Campeau, French boy first place. Both Lyse and Serge, students of ESRG in Alexandria, will have their expenses to Toronto paid by the Alexandria Lions Club. Winners of each of the four categories received a $500 prize.

''I think we're doing everything in a fair way.''

In fact, board members are doing such a good job, there is really no need to have public scrutiny, he said.

''There's only a few hospitals in the whole province of Ontario that are in the black and we are one of them.''

Asked why the board does not let ratepayers in to see the good job they are doing, Tourangeau replied: ''We don't want to show off what we are doing.''

The public also can learn about the hospital during the board's annual meeting, the one meeting every year in which the public is invited to attend, he said.

GDHS wins big at SD&G drama festival

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

GDHS students won big at the Sears Seaway Drama Festival in Tagwi Secondary School over the weekend with their two synergetic and smoothly performed plays.

GDHS's Meyer's Room, a play about a lonely man who controls people by manipulating their weaknesses, won five awards, including best production, which was shared by the Tagwi production In A Room Somewhere.

Both plays have been selected to be performed at the regional competition in Peterborough, Ont., which will take place next week.

Jason Kirkey and Lee Mitchell of Meyer's Room and Michaela Mader of The Store won awards for outstanding performance.

An award of merit went to Jason Mines of Meyer's Room and the play's technical crew: Donald Theoret, Cory Major, Shawn Whalen and Crystal MacDonell.

GDHS drama teacher David Sauve said he knew his students would win.

''My intuition was right,'' he said.

The audience also enjoyed Meyer's Room

''They were relaxed,'' said Annette Labonte, a student of Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School.

''They knew what they were doing,'' said Natasha McAvoy, also of Cornwall Collegiate.

Larry Poirier, theatre teacher at Tagwi, said GDHS's performers were disciplined.

His students were also big winners at the festival.

Tagwi won four awards for excellent performance and three awards of merit.

Poirier called both schools the ''powers'' at the festival:

They dominated the awards at the festival, in which seven high schools, including Char-Lan, performed 12 plays.

The plays touched on serious topics, such as death, greed and fear of reality.

Students behaved and performed as professionally as possible to win a chance at the regional competition.

But feelings of competition were not predominant at the festival, said adjudicator Steven Baker, a Toronto based actor, writer and producer who studied under Poirier in the mid-1970s.

He said most schools had good performers, and despite the fact the event was a competition, there was a general friendly atmosphere.

''All the kids seem to be interacting,'' he said.

He admits the students are competitive, but he didn't feel any rivalry.

''There may be a friendly one, but there's no animosity.''

He said most teenagers in drama experience new emotions that do not inspire feelings of competition.

''And the plays reflect that.''

Temporary home found for six GACL clients

Six clients of the Glengarry Association for Community Living have been spared from homelessness.

They have been staying in a temporary residence in North Lancaster since March 28 while a permanent group home is being built in the Alexandria area.

A new home is being built on a Kenyon Township lot near West Boundary Road in Alexandria.

The clients should be able to move in sometime in June.

They were about to be homeless two weeks ago when an appropriate group home could not be found.

Last month, they were about to move to another Alexandria house, but found out they couldn't move into the home because it's located 400 metres from a nearby home, violating a municipal bylaw requiring group homes be a minimum of 500 metres apart.

The home is being built by contracter Ed Oetelaar, who will lease the home to the GACL.

GACL Executive Director Bob Grantier said the association is trying to raise enough money to eventually purchase the home, the cost of which has not been released.

Townships compromise on boundary road

Kenyon and South Plantagenet townships have paved over their boundary road problems.

South Plantagenet during a meeting on Monday, agreed to pave the dirt road, which suffered tremendous wear and tear with heavy traffic drawn to the 417 Flea Market, located in South Plantagenet.

Kenyon agreed to upgrade the 1.5 km stretch of the road with gravel to prepare it for paving.

Costs have not yet been figured out.

Monday's meeting was another in a few months of attempts to arrive at a peaceable solution.

Last week, the townships came to an agreement that is hoped to stop the degeneration of the boundary road.

It was during a closed session March 30 that councils agreed to equally share the cost of upgrading the controversial boundary road, and to jointly apply to the Ministry of Transportation for supplementary funding to carry out the task.

The cost has been estimated at about $60,000.

At the March 31 council meeting, Kenyon Township council passed a resolution asking South Plantagenet to pave the upgraded road within two years, and that the road east of the flea market be designated and marked as a controlled or limited access road for local traffic and residents of Conc. 9.

Finally, the resolution stated that any decision to amend a 1987 joint agreement between Kenyon and South Plantagenet regarding the boundary road be deferred to a special meeting scheduled for June 1.

But the agreement, which on March 18 council determined had been violated by South Plantagenet, had no bearing on the recent decisions taken by both councils, said Vallance.

The agreement stated that neither township could allow any major development along the boundary road without the consent of the other township.

Chamber concerned about tourism proposal

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

The president of the Maxville and District Chamber of Commerce fears Cornwall will be the big winner if funding from the Seaway Valley Tourist Council is spread across the United Counties.

The Cornwall chamber proposed to counties council at a March 31 meeting that funding to the disbanded Seaway Valley Tourist Council be spread around to other chambers in SD&G under the auspices of the umbrella group the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Chamber of Commerce.

Counties council and the City of Cornwall previously funded the SVTC, which aimed at promoting tourism in SD&G.

James Joyce, the president of the Maxville and District Chamber of Commerce, said Cornwall's concern to promote tourism in the city might cause a neglect of developing tourist attraction in the country side.

The concern was stated in a draft position paper on the Cornwall proposal.

Joyce said such rural tourist concerns are not consistent with Cornwall's concerns of attracting tourists mainly along the St. Lawrence River area.

The paper went on to say that putting Cornwall in charge of spreading the funding around SD&G is ''a bit like putting the fox in charge of the hen house.''

''In the United Counties we are at ground zero,'' stated the draft paper.

''We have little or nothing to attract tourists. We have no ski hills, no lakes, no theme parks, no scenic vistas… the stuff that tourists flock to see.''

The draft position paper suggested farms in SD&G attract city day-trippers by organizing farm tours, setting up bed-and-breakfasts, organizing agricultural festivals, and getting involved with farmgate marketing.

Kenyon Township Reeve Wilfred Vallance and Maxville Village Reeve Jim MacEwen said at first, they had the impression that Cornwall was about to hijack the funds.

They said their impressions changed at the counties council meeting on March 31 when representatives of the Alexandria, Maxville and Cornwall chambers of commerce spoke about the proposal.

Sheila Olson, owner of the Town and Country Flowers and Gifts shop in Alexandria, represented the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce to the counties council meeting on March 31.

She said that although Cornwall initiated the idea, the city wants to share the funds with other chambers in places such as Lancasters, Alexandria and Maxville.

But she added, Cornwall's chamber is much larger and it might be difficult to spread the funding to everyone's satisfaction.

''But they're trying.''

Mike MacDonald, president of the Alexandria chamber, said at this point it's hard to tell how the funding will be spread.

''It's too early in the ball game to call it a Cornwall venture,'' he said.

He said if counties council agree to the proposal, a board will be set up to determine how the funding will be distributed throughout SD&G.

Lalonde wants compromise on street work

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

The chairman of the Alexandria Non-Profit Housing Corporation is urging Alexandria council to work with developer Denis Ethier to complete a street at the Le Foyer seniors home.

Bruno Lalonde, at last Tuesday's council meeting, suggested council try to reach some sort of compromise with Ethier, head of Les Investissements Demaca Inc., to complete an extension of St. George Street leading to Le Foyer.

Residents have been complaining since last spring about the condition of the street, which has been a source of numerous council debates over the past 12 months.

Lalonde, in a short presentation at the beginning of the meeting, suggested council focus on the completion of St. George Street and temporarily release Ethier from his obligation to complete a portion of Sandfield Street, also part of the east Alexandria development.

Council members quietly listened and quickly moved onto other business after the presentation without commenting on the former councillor's suggestions.

Lalonde said there is no sense in spending money on asphalt and curbing for Sandfield Street when it likely won't be used for the next 10 years because of government development restrictions.

The restrictions, which prohibit any new development in Alexandria, are due to the inability of the town's sewage plant -- which has reached its capacity -- to treat any more effluent.

Lalonde also suggested the town give Ethier back his bond, which was at $70,000 but since has been reduced to $40,000, to allow him to complete the work.

Clerk Leo Poirier however said Ethier does not have a bond with the town for his work but does have a letter of credit for $40,000.

Lalonde insisted it is up to council to ensure the street is completed, noting that the subdivider's agreement requires the street to be completed 24 months after the start of its construction, which in St. George Street's case, was 1989.

He said the issue is out of the hands of the Alexandria Non-Profit Housing Corporation which operates Le Foyer, and it should not be up to the residents to pursue the developer.

The housing corporation, which purchased the land on which Le Foyer was constructed from the Ethier development, had owned the street but turned it over to the town late last year.

Lalonde said the corporation relinquished the street, which the town had repeatedly asked to take over since spring last year, because the housing body has no agreement with Ethier to complete the street.

Rejuvenated historical society uses art of the spoken word to revive past

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

The Glengarry Historical Society went a few steps further and took a few steps back last week.

The rejuvenated society moved forward by signing about 10 new members, who joined another 100 people at the Church on the Hill in Alexandria Wednesday night, April 1, to listen to three Glengarrians who stepped back in time to recite old stories about the county.

The audience sat inside the darkened church as a solitary lamp shone over the heads of the story tellers who sat around a table to simulate a late night kitchen chat.

They told stories from a time before the railroad became a familar fixture to shortly after World War II.

Storyteller Andrew Harkness, a former Williamstown High School student who studied mechanical engineering at McGill University, said the stories are not fiction.

''We believe them. They are 100 per cent true,'' he said.

''The stories really are about the people of Glengarry, the Highland settlers.''

He, Donald Fraser, whose ancestors were part of the 1824 Scottish immigration to Plantagenet, and Clarence Fiske, a former Williamstown High School student who studied law at McGill University, told stories that often were followed by laughter and applause.

They told stories about drunken street brawls, grave robbers, royal visits, and court cases.

Such stories, says society President David Anderson, keep alive the true history of Glengarry's people.

''We bind stories to histories,'' he said in a speach.

The event attracted people interested in learning about Glengarry's colorful past.

''As a Glengarrian, I've always been interested in historical details about Glengarry,'' said Maurice Gauthier of Green Valley, who just recently joined the historical society.

Other than listening to old stories about Glengarry, Gauthier enjoys attending events sponsored by the society as a way to meet friends.

Coffee and cookies were served afterwards while people socialized and made new friends.

Petra Graham, a dental assistant who lives in Maxville, is another new member who has been interested in Glengarry's history ever since she immigrated from Germany in 1988.

She decided to attend the storytelling session as a way to introduce herself to Glengarrians and their history.

''It's the only way to get to know people,'' she said.

And the people drawn to the event help make the society's ventures successful, Anderson said.

''We get the right people, people that are really interested in what we are doing and have a good knowledge of their history,'' he said.

The Glengarry Historical Society plans to host other public events.

Author Marianne McLean, who wrote a book on Glengarry and its Scottish roots, has been invited to speak about her book in early May.

Kenyon Township

Council Briefs

The regular meeting of Kenyon township council was held at the township hall in Greenfield on March 31 at 7:30 p.m. The following are among items dealt with by council.

May upgrade 6th

Frequent users of Kenyon Township's 6th Concession road may soon find it smoother sailing.

The township has begun to look into whether the road will require much preparation to receive a sort of hard-top mixture that hardens like pavement, and to seek estimates for the cost of such a project.

Deputy Reeve Donald Besner requested repair of the 6th road and also of Kennedy Road in Apple Hill, another road which will be considered for upgrading.

Representatives from the township are expected to look at the roads during the April 10 road tour.

The 6th concession road, approximately 10 km long, stretches from Hwy. 34 to the Greenfield road.

Manor funding postponed

Concern about the economy and a hesitance to add to an inevitable municipal tax hike this year led Kenyon Township council to review and perhaps postpone a $150,000 grant toward the expansion of Maxville Manor.

Council agreed to invite Manor Executive Director Craig Munro to a council meeting to provide an update on the expansion project, due to rumors that the project may be postponed.

But council was also concerned that now, during a recession, would not be a good time to ask ratepayers for $150,000.

Councillor Gwen Morris suggested delaying the payment until next year to see whether the economy will improve. The payment could be stretched out over five years.

Councillor Blair Williams said, ''I don't think we should slam the door on the project, but I don't feel comfortable voting for it (payment) tonight.''

Free disposals coming

Kenyon Township residents will get a small break on tipping fees this spring, and could be in for home garbage pickup in the future.

Reeve Wilfred Vallance presented council with the suggestion that residents be permitted to dispose of waste gathered in spring and fall clean-ups, without paying the tipping fees.

Residents will be allowed to enter the waste disposal sites on two consecutive Saturdays, to dispose of almost anything except toxic, chemical, or commercial waste. Construction waste will be accepted.

The dates have not yet been set.

McCuaig also reported that the cost of covering waste in Kenyon's two sites is lower than in previous years, due to the township's passbook system.

Residents have been issued passbooks which must be shown upon entry to the dump. Non-residents are not permitted to use the sites.

McCuaig was also to investigate the cost of launching a garbage pickup service in Kenyon.

Cash grants slashed

Kenyon Township council refused a request for funds by the Glengarry District High School band and deferred another request by North-Glen-Stor Minor Hockey.

Council, discussing its second and third requests for funds of the evening, decided they should get away from awarding cash grants.

Councillor Owen Walker said there were few causes he would want to support as much as the high school band, but that it was not appropriate for the township to provide the funding.

Councillor Gwen Morris concurred, saying she'd be glad to provide a private donation.

The previous council promised $1,000 to the minor hockey league, to help offset the cost to the township team members. But this term's council questioned the legitimacy of following through with a decision made last year and deferred the matter.

Rec centre for sale

The old Apple Hill Recreation Centre, slated for closure in mid-May, is being offered for sale by Kenyon Township.

The new recreation centre is scheduled for completion June 27, building committee president Marcel Leroux told council last week.

Leroux and other members of the committee attended the March 31 council meeting to bring council up to date on the project, a system discussed at the March 18 council meeting.

The building can be demolished or removed.

Mobile homes get set rate

A flat building-permit fee has been established for mobile homes.

Rather than setting a fee based on a building's square-footage, council has decided to charge $80 for building permits for mobile homes.

Fees for mobile homes were the same as permanent dwellings — 18 cents a square foot — however council concurred that the building official does not have as much work to do for mobile homes, and so they do not cost the township as much money as permanent residences.

Drainage superintendent resigns

Kenyon Township is seeking a new drainage superintendent.

The township's superintendent Peter Addison, who resigned as building official in the midst of the Kenyon Township hall controversy last year, has pulled out of the job as drainage superintendent due to personal reasons.

The township will accept applications until May 1.

Volunteer members sought

A public meeting to discuss a property standards bylaw for Kenyon Township was to have been held last night, and the township was hoping to establish a committee to bring the bylaw to fruition.

Council decided last week that members will likely not be paid to attend property standards committee meetings.

Councillor Blair Williams raised the point that the committee should be comprised of people who believe in the concept, not people who are looking for income.

Property standards bylaws, which can be composed to include regulations about the appearance of yards and buildings and can also include rules to govern the interior of buildings, have been a source of controversy in other Glengarry municipalities in the last few years.

Policing cuts spell trouble

When it comes to recession budgets, should police services be subject to cuts in the same manner as any other municipal department?

It's a question worth asking, in light of comments made by Alexandria Police Chief Paul Deveau last week in a memo to town merchants.

"Due to financial considerations, there is currently one day per week when there is no officer on patrol during business hours and there are indications that the Alexandria Police Service Board may consider increasing this to three days per week in the not too distant future," he wrote.

Deveau was obviously sounding the siren for his department and for the town's merchants, who in recent weeks have been victimized by crimes including a robbery at a town bank on a recent Saturday evening. The words doubtless did not go down well with the police services board.

But Deveau's words do not smack of one more government bureaucrat attempt to preserve a bloated, self-administering empire.

Even a cursory look over police reports on a weekly basis for the last year portrays a picture of an increasing number of petty — and some serious — offences. The recession may have something to do with this; unemployment creates discontentment and sometimes desperation. Alexandria's proximity to the border and two major cities makes it accessible by criminal elements and the undesireable people they attract. Privately, town citizens have commented on the growing number of unknown, "seedy" people in town, people police can only watch and monitor in the role of deterrence.

Remove or restrict that presence, and there is a real fear Alexandria will become known as the town with limited police services, and an easy target for hardened criminals.

Yet, there are those who would call Deveau's comments and the above prospects out of line and tantamount to scaremongering, circumventing the board that governs his department. But he is also responsible to Ontario's Solicitor General and the Ontario Police Act, and those provisions ultimately puts him at odds with local interests. Indeed, OPP cuts in the district resulted in the same alerts by constables, and the same fears of the erosion of deterrence.

That, after all, is the most of the job: Being seen. If the presence of the police department diminishes, so does the deterrence factor. It only makes sense. We suppose it irks some critics who see constables driving around town, apparently doing nothing. Do they contemplate alternatives?

Municipal councillors have some heavy decisions in store, as they relate to tabling a lean budget. With the counties government passing an unacceptably high budget, with the school boards possibly trimming staff to hold increases, and in light of the province's own intents as outlined in the Speech from the Throne, it — and the other councils of Glengarry — have to consider cuts to staff and services to maintain a reasonable tax base.

The hidden — and dangerous — costs attached to short-term cutbacks in police services, however, should weigh heavily on their minds.

Open meetings not enough

The Glengarry Memorial Hospital board deserves congratulations — and further encouragement — for its enlightened decision to open up its recent meeting to the public. We can only hope this is the beginning of a new era of communications between GMH and the people it serves.

Unfortunately, the board fell short of following through, agreeing instead to delay passage of a resolution sponsored by board member Gwen Morris, calling for the permanence of open board meetings. It is our hope that delay will not be used to seek new barriers, loopholes and excuses to continue to keep out the public, but rather to find new ideas and concepts to build on the acceptance of open meetings, to make the general public a meaningful part of how their hospital is run, and the services it will provide — or not provide — in the future.

Alexandria council apparently agreed with this need, as it last week endorsed unanimously a resolution by John Hope to support open meetings. The same resolution should be roundly supported by neighboring municipalities which also are affected by the hospital's well-being.

but, it must be emphasized: Open meetings do not an accountable hospital make. The board, after all, only deals with a certain number of decisions that affect the day-to-day running of the hospital. Open meetings are only one tool the public has to effectively monitor the facility. It's also going to take proactive involvement on its part to be part of, for instance, decisions like the quiet closure of the hospital's maternity wing which might have been prevented had users had any input.

For now, however, let's not take anything away from the board's decision to open its March meeting up to public scrutiny. They resisted a long history of closed-door policies and should be commended with trying to bring their procedures in line with the open thinking of the 90's.

Put on a Groucho mask and smile

After Thoughts
by Joe Banks

There has been a disturbing and distinct absence of giggling, chortling and outright laughter in the general populace these days and I don't think it's got anything to do with the chlorine content in the water.

Few are the days that go by when we are beseeched by a sullen caller, down on the world in general and our brand of journalism in particular, or for that matter, any other brand that caught their eye on the newsstand that day.

Hey, I don't know a single person who cares for the weather, although spring seems to be finally wheezing its way through an unrelenting wind and stubborn snow still stuck to the lawn. Yes, I hate the recession too, my Hydro bill's too high, mention of the word "Constitution" makes my knees weak and I think Mike Tyson has proven that even a multi-millionaire can bear an uncanny resemblance to a certain South American snake, in full shed no less.

But come on folks, at least it's April.

That's what I tried to tell the man who failed to see any humor in the "story" we published on the front page of last week's issue, and subsequently inside under the giveaway banner, "Shocking News." That was the one about the Royals moving to Alexandria, a story much on the minds of loyal (and sullen) Royal supporters in the Seaway town as Newmarket eyes the Jr. A franchise.

And yes, he also read the "column" printed in this here space on the subject of snow fires and said the humor was sadly lacking there as well. I suppose the fact that two of the columns were reversed, rendering it non-sensical, didn't help, but then it was April 1st, wasn't it?

Fortunately, there were others who did see that we at the News are a bunch that is not above lightening up from time to time, our sugaring off party at Alcide Juillet's Saturday night notwithstanding. And enough readers commented favorably that I was convinced we "gotcha" more often than not. Even our driver, Gaston Trottier, asked wide-eyed and mouth agape, "You guys are kiddin' about the Royals, right?"

To those who, try as they might, couldn't crack a smile at the idea of snow fires or the Royals moving to Alexandria I say this: join the Glengarry Memorial Hospital board. Now there is a serious band of troopers. (Oops, I feel a letter coming on, one about the inappropriateness of making fun of our board members.)

For the rest of us, I declare a national holiday of laughter is in order. April 1st is the natural date, but any day is okay, particularly if it's between March break and Easter. And if that doesn't work, let's (not the government — it 'll want to study humor for a century before carving it into law) declare a moratorium on frowning or gloom. Let us carry party favors and little plastic horns, to blow away those dark clouds that hang above our heads on bad days. Let us wear Groucho Marx noses and moustaches for as long as it would take before our bosses, spouses and benefits clerks say "Who are you anyway?"

Ah, it is but a wish, one that smacks of spring fever and likely too much of this Tylenol I've been taking lately. Shall we continue as we are? I suppose, as laughter wrinkles the skin and hides the eyes, as W. C. Fields should have said.

But is it too much to ask for a collective break? Give us a grin, at least, and show us you really don't read the front page that seriously.

Don't be afraid to be an April Fool.

Nightmare on St. George Street

News to me
by Greg Kielec

Just when you finally thought it was safe to attend an Alexandria council meeting, the issue of Denis Ethier, the Alexandria Non-Profit Housing Corporation, Alexandria council — and one rather innocuous street — has come back to haunt residents of this fair town.

Call it The Nightmare on St. George Street. Call it whatever you want.

It is an issue which has dragged on for a frighteningly long time. And when it comes up it turns Alexandria's normally docile (NOT) chambers into the chamber of horrors.

It has been slightly more than a year since I first started at The News. And a good portion of the year's council meetings have been spent carrying out a political version of Wrestlemania that just won't end — the much-awaited completion of a portion of St. George Street.

Without the benefit of a play-by-play announcer, the charade has been almost impossible to follow. The manoeuvers at the council table are of the type rivalled only by the Hulkster himself.

It has been your classic Hollywood movie plot; heroes wrestling villains, light versus dark, good pitted against evil.

There have been more plot twists than an episode of Dynasty. There have been debates unmatched even by most seasoned veterans in our highest political forum, the House of Commons.

Tempers have flared, blood pressures have risen, teeth have been clenched and no threat has been spared.

But when you get past all the politics and you pull the personal animosities aside, the simplicity of the issue is shocking.

The issue involves one street — not even a whole street, just part of a street, a little baby street, still in its infancy.

The problem is this infant street is having a childhood much longer than residents at the nearby seniors home Le Foyer would like.

Baby streets can be cute. There is a certain innocence they possess, an essence of natural wholesomeness that can only come from the earthly elements they are comprised of: gravel, potholes and mud.

But it is one baby the residents of Le Foyer would rather not have to worry about.

The residents there have already done their time as parents. Babysitting a developmentally delayed street is not on the top of their retirement "things to do" list.

They want a street which can take care of itself, a roadway which can hold its own against the traffic demands of Alexandria.

In short: They want to see black, beautiful asphalt.

And I think, listening to Bruno Lalonde's presentation to Alexandria council last Tuesday, that is what he wants too.

It does not seem like much to ask for. All that is needed is a little co-operation.

And it is co-operation that Lalonde, chairman of the Alexandria Non-Profit Housing Corporation which operates Le Foyer, seemed to be asking for at last Tuesday's meeting.

For some reason, that seems to have been a rare commodity on both sides — from council's and from the developer's standpoint — thus far in this street fight.

But there is no reason why that cannot change.

It is time for everyone involved to show a little compassion for the road to Le Foyer.

This is no life for such a promising young street, its future held in abeyance, lying naked and unprotected, exposed to the harsh elements of our world.

So I offer one message to Alexandria council and to the developer — work out some kind of deal, any kind of deal within reason to complete St. George Street.

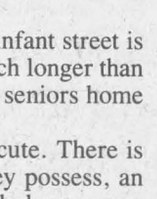
Give the road a chance. End an infant street's misery. Offer it the life it deserves.

For its sake and the sake of the residents of Le Foyer, allowing the road to grow into the street every road hopes to be.

Find a way to give St. George Street some asphalt. You all will be glad you did.

Running sap is a sign of renewal

That's Life
by Lesley Cadham



I can hear the wind somewhere. Maybe up there, in the tree tops. Sighing and breathing, between us and the sky.

Not down here, where I am waiting for the tractor to lumber back along the rutted, soggy trail, bringing back the bulk tank so we can finish gathering sap from the many maple trees.

Not down here, where we already face enough obstacles, where we move from one overflowing bucket of sap to another, struggling through sometimes knee-deep snow or mud to reach the almost tasteless liquid, before we labor back along the path toting 40-lb. pails of sap.

Far below the tree tops, we are out of the wind, surrounded only by sunshine, the songs of birds come home for spring, and the steady drumming of sap as it hits the bottoms of emptied buckets.

The air has mercifully lost some of its winter harshness and now it carries the pungent odor of wet soil, and occasionally, the aroma of a woodfire and sweet maple syrup.

Waiting for the tractor, listening to a cacophony of spring sounds, I forget for a moment that my overalls are wet up to the knees and that a few moments ago I'd wished I was beside a warm fire somewhere. I forget that my shoulders and arms ache so badly from carrying the buckets that I am sure I'll never be able to do anything as simple as washing my hair again. And I forget that I've got to carry 40 or 50 of those sap-filled buckets to the bulk tank on the tractor so that just one gallon of maple syrup can be produced.

What I remember is that the flow-

Selling condoms in schools sends the wrong message to students

Letters

To the editor:

I am writing in response to recent articles in the media promoting the installation of condom dispensers in the schools.

This kind of policy will only further some confusion in the child's mind about the validity of the concept of right and wrong, and present only one moral absolute: the use of contraceptives every time you have sex.

It should be noted that the condom carries a contraceptive failure rate of up to 33 per cent for women under 25 years of age (New England Journal of Medicine, 320: 12p779). As a contraceptive, condoms need prevent a phenomenon which can only occur during one week out of each month. However, to prevent sexually transmitted diseases (STDS) the condom needs to protect against pathogens which are often ever present. Also while on the subject of condom prevention of S.T.D.S., we know from a 1988 study that 48 per cent of "mature, well informed" homosexual men in New York City were still having unprotected anal intercourse with multiple sex partners over five years after the call for condom use inundated their community (Archives of Sexual Behavior, 17:6, 1988 — a decidedly gay publication). If Aids can't scare the highest risk population in the highest risk city in the U.S.A. into using condoms, how can we assume it will scare teens into doing so?

The dispensing of artificial contraceptives to teens does not significantly lower the risk of pregnancy. It increases the risk of having an abortion and of developing S.T.D.S.; and worst of all it leads to greater problems with self esteem because teens are encouraged to become involved in sexual relationships of an abusive nature.

Simplistic application of technology to the complex psychosocial problems in this area has met with anything but success.

Too many teens today think the word chastity is only a name for Sonny and Cher's daughter. There is however, another meaning and it represents a wonderful solution to many of these problems that today teenagers face.

Sincerely,
Carson Chisholm,

Bus drivers should be thanked

To the editor:

As a student who is on a school bus every day "except if I'm sick," I feel it is time we thank our bus drivers.

In the news lately, school buses, and the drivers have been an important topic.

School bus drivers should be thanked for the way they safely handle the icy roads, and the many problems they have to handle.

I really think it would be nice if the paper would recognize and thank our bus drivers for they are special people.

That is why bus #28, "Laidlaw" has a special driver. Her name is Helen Gilmore and Helen deserves a "big-thanks" for her safe driving.

Sincerely,
Corey Kalsi,

Pension raises not very generous

Canadians must oppose distinct society

To the editor:

The three major federal political parties in Canada, by surrendering to political blackmail are assuring the separation of Quebec from Canada. Their unanimous recognition of the province of Quebec as distinct from Canada opens the door for Mr. Mulroney and Mr. Clark to give the separatists within the province of Quebec the powers that they need to attempt the final step to separation.

Those of us who live every day in Quebec recognize that the separatists have divided themselves into two groups. One group is called Liberals and the other the Parti Quebecois. The only difference between them is one of strategy. The Liberal separatists follow the successful step-by-step process followed by Norway when it separated from Sweden. This group believes that by taking this last step of gaining federal powers and leaving the federal government impotent in its relations with the province of Quebec — except to provide it with funding and projects — will assure a more enhanced economic base for the new country. They also believe that by obtaining these powers now and waiting for some ten years to separate, the separation will be done peacefully and with improved opportunities for an economic relationship with Canada and the United States. The Parti Quebecois separatists believe that the split should be made now rather than ten years from now. They argue that Canada has continually given in to Quebec demands, because it cannot economically afford to cut Quebec completely loose. Therefore, they believe that Canada will once again meet whatever demands Quebec makes, at the time of separation: for an economic relationship, joint citizenship, a common currency and the individuality of the new Quebec.

As an English-speaking Canadian who has lived all his life in Quebec and whose roots go back to 1823 in the province, I ask Canadians to stand firm: tell your premiers and other politicians to refuse to accept the province of Quebec as being distinct from Canada. We must be one nation, not two. The present constitution has served all of Canada well for 125 years. It has the flexibility to meet the maturity of Western and Northern Canada, and assist in developing the Maritimes; it can and has allowed Quebec and Ontario to grow and prosper along side of the other provinces. I ask you to call the separatists' bluff.

Allow the Canadians in Quebec to speak for themselves in a referendum. If the majority doesn't want to be Canadians, let them end the charade now.

Maurice J. King,
Rockburn, Southwest Quebec

Constitutional dice being rolled again

To the editor:

Marcel Masse, Tory MP from Frontenac, Quebec, is to be congratulated. It only took 27 years. In 1965, when he was associate minister of education in the Quebec government, Masse wondered if "a transfer of sovereignty from Ottawa could be achieved without destroying economic links." The plan drafted that same year was detailed in the Toronto Star in 1967.

Quebec Premier Daniel Johnson said, "We must work for the expansion of the French-Canadian nation." On state television in France on Aug. 11, 1967, he explained, "We want Quebec to be the pivot of the development of the interior of Canada."

Premier Robert Bourassa in 1975 kept to the plan. "Quebec has set itself the ambition of being and maintaining a French state in a Canadian Common Market."

After the failure of the Meech Lake Accord, Bourassa spoke about a super-structure arrangement with the rest of Canada that would copy the new Europe 1992. The two independent nations would send an equal number of delegates to the super Parliament, where they will negotiate to decide the fate of 26 million people.

Economic union received little support from the delegates in Montreal. The weekend session of the Unity Committee in Vancouver was for the purpose of summarizing decisions made at the other four locations. Economic union was, despite some protests, again presented to the delegates. The report signed Friday, Feb. 28 recommends distinct society status for Quebec and economic union. It opens up all of Canada for Quebec business, but allows Quebec to discriminate against others by using French only laws.

I hear the rattle of the dice. Ladies and gentlemen, faites vos joues! Place your bets, but don't expect to win because this game is rigged. At the risk of being mis-labeled a bigot, I refuse to play.

Sincerely,
D. Rhea East,
Stratford, Ont.

Ontario residents deserve referendum

To the editor:

Are we a lesser people than the residents of British Columbia, Saskatchewan, or Quebec?

Citizens of these provinces have the right to a referendum on any changes to the Canadian Constitution.

In April 1991, Bill 81, the Constitution Approval Amendment Act, received all-party approval in the British Columbia legislature. Also, in the spring of last year, the Saskatchewan Legislature passed a bill permitting the residents of that province the opportunity to hold referenda.

As yet, residents of Ontario are not entitled to the same right to express our approval, or disapproval, of important legislation such as amendments to our Constitution.

We must not allow ourselves to be lesser Canadians!

It is vital that we petition Premier Rae. He must listen to the voices of the people of Ontario.

For information regarding starting a petition, contact Gordon Haley, c/o Box 25055, Barrie, Ont. L4M 6J7, or phone (705) 728-1320 or 728-3149.

Gordon Haley,
Citizens for Referendum Committee

We must unite to save the country

To the editor:

Canadians have to question the patriotism of politicians, business leaders and other persons discussing our constitution. Canada has been a nation of peoples of all races, nationality, color and creed. All have been free to speak their own languages, enjoy their own cultures and celebrations. Quebec alone has changed that. It has put severe restrictions on persons of other languages which our politicians have not opposed and are now prepared to entrench in the constitution with the "distinct society" clause.

Neville Chamberlain, discredited prime minister of Britain, tried to achieve "peace at any price." We all know the result. Now we have all those politicians and other supporters of the "distinct society" speaking "unity at any price." A country has to have a constitution which protects the rights and freedoms of all its citizens. No province has the right to be legislated superior to another. We need a Winston Churchill to save our country as he did to save France, persons of integrity to stand up to Quebec and say no.

There is only one province which wants sovereignty or separation. That is the crux of our constitutional problem. All the proposed constitional proposals other than the distinct society should be put aside. Canadians do not want any province be it Alberta, Quebec or any other to have powers superior to another. If one province has more powers than another then we do not have a country. All the other proposals should be worked out by all the premiers who would, as is their right to protect the interests of their citizens, do so in a fair and honest way.

Efforts are being made to frighten people in the Atlantic Provinces and in the west of the disaster which would occur if Quebec separates. Our economies would collapse they say. Quebec receives billions of dollars more from the federal government than it contributes. It sells its products from coast to coast. Look at the labels of the products you buy. Quebec sells eighteen billion dollars worth of goods each year to Ontario. There is every evidence that Quebec citizens are more and more wanting to remain in Canada even without the "distinct society." All we need to do is have someone strong enough to "draw a line in the sand."

"Canadians" banding together from coast to coast can save Canada and a constitution which respects the rights of all its peoples equally and fairly.

Businesspeople fail to turn out for training proposal meeting

By Greg Kielec
News editor

An information meeting at an Alexandria restaurant turned instead into an impromptu one-newspaper press conference Wednesday, when no business people showed up for the session.

The meeting was held to provide information to businesses about the province's plan to implement local training boards to help employers and employees access a wide range of programs — 46 in total — under different levels of government and departments.

But it became apparent not long after the meeting started that businesses would not be flocking to the 8 a.m. session. In fact, not one business representative showed up.

The session was to provide information to businesses via Carmen Cousineau, executive director of SD and G Industrial Training Council, and Susan Carter of SD and G Community Futures Committee.

Carmen Cousineau said one reason for the zero turnout may be that government consultation has reached the point of overkill — people are suffering from "consultation burnout."

She added, it is difficult to get people to give input when they feel their concerns will not be heeded anyway.

But this is one instance where businesses can help shape government policy and programs. "This is their kick at the cat."

She likened the situation to voting. "If you don't vote, you can't complain."

There will be a series of 20 meetings across Ontario to receive input on the establishment of local boards for training and adjustment. The meeting for this area will be held in Cornwall tomorrow (April 9).

It is proposed the boards participate in provincial and national labor market policy development and provide labor market information and assessment of skills training and community adjustment needs.

The board will identify the needs of, and provide information for employers and workers, and carry out strategic planning and the coordination of programs and services to meet community priorities.

And the board will monitor and evaluate the effectiveness of programs and services, promote life-long learning and training culture and increase training access for minorities.

The Alexandria information session was one of three held across Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry over the past week.

Organizers had their largest success in Dundas county, at a session in Morrisburg which attracted 40 people, but only had one person show up for Stormont county's information session, held in Cornwall.

The training and adjustment initiative proposes the creation of a local board to represent residents in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry and Prescott-Russell, one of 22 local boards which will be formed across the province.

The proposal to form local training boards stems from a government task force on training initiated three years ago.

Interested businesspeople can submit their names to attend the input sessions or can make a submission in writing.

Roadwork to start in June

A $1.45 million and long-awaited project to reconstruct Cty. Rd. 17 between Lancaster Village and Williamstown has been scheduled to begin in mid-June.

Reconstruction will begin at Lancaster Village and is expected to continue to Char-Lan District High School, with a tentative completion date in the fall.

Over the last several years, there have been many complaints about the condition of the bumpy, curvy road, and according to SD&G United Counties Roads Superintendent D. J. McDonald, reconstruction will include toning down the sharp curves.

Though the work will cause inconvenience to most travellers, the road will probably be closed only once during construction, at Finney's Bridge when installation of a new culvert may require closure for approximately four days.

McDonald said Monday, the counties roads department will ensure that access to farms along Cty. Rd. 17 will not be hampered.

The counties are slated to receive about 75 per cent funding from the Ministry of Transportation.

The site of reconstruction has been undergoing an environmental assessment for the past year. Environmental assessment is a study on the effects of projects on social, economic and natural environments.

Preparation for the project is almost complete, said McDonald, with the exception of obtaining private land along the roadway near Williamstown for the purpose of road widening.

But most Cty. Rd. 17 residents have been involved in the environmental assessment says McDonald, adding that he hopes there won't be too many problems acquiring the land.

Little-known facts about our Raisin River

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

Warning! This column will be vertically challenged (short, for those of you unaware of the political correctness phenomenon sweeping our country). In order that other, more important news stories may be printed this week, I have volunteered to keep my writing lean and mean. So it's up to you to fill in the adjectives, adverbs and figures of speech which usually bloat my comments. Ready pen? Start writing!

Everyone knows what's happening this Sunday. It's the canoe race, and if you want to know the entry how-to's you'll have to read elsewhere. But if you want to be the winner, stick with me. The way to win this year is to start the race at South Lancaster, instead of St. Andrew's, and paddle UP the river. It really isn't so hard — hundreds of voyageurs did it — and besides it really is the only legitimate way to win this year. Why? Because the finish line sign is facing the wrong way! Whether blown by Aeolus (do your homework), or erected by a twentieth century Leonardo, nobody knows, but the banner is definitely inside out.

Of course, clever canoeists could always bring mirrors!

A fact to untangle. It has come to my attention once again that some people still think the Raisin River got its name because it is brown. Wrong! The river was so named because of the abundance of wild grapes lining its banks. The people naming it were French. The word for grape in French is ''raisin,'' hence the anglicized Raisin River.

As a postscript, not verified, (but perhaps it could be): sometimes the Raisin River is known as the Black River. This is not because some grapes are black, but because, according to the tale, the grapes were so prolific in some stretches of the river that the vines formed an arbor overhead. Early travellers on the river felt as though they were paddling through a tunnel, very dark, and very BLACK! What a lovely image!

Information such as this might just surface at Char-Lan High School on Friday. On that day School Reach teams from eight schools will compete for the St. Lawrence Region championships. The School Reach teams' competition is based on the general knowledge of the players, and I'm pleased to say the Char-Lan team is not only hosting the day, but is one of its participants, based on its excellent play in the preliminary rounds. In other words, our school has made it once again to EOSSAA, (substituting ''Academics'' for ''Athletics'' in the first A)!

Good luck to you, Char-Lan, and many thanks to coach Sue Payer for all the time spent preparing the team.

Another Char-Lan victory, and two years in a row! Julie Levac, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Levac, has won a trip to the United Nations in New York City, for her oratorical skills. Julie topped the field in a public speaking contest held at the Oddfellows Lodge in Morrisburg on the weekend, and will visit the Big Apple in July, along with a group of other winning students from all over.

Last year Stephanie Laplante, daughter of Ruth and Al, won the same contest and had a wonderful time in New York. Both Stephanie and Julie are graduates of the special Toastmasters course taught at Char-Lan last year by Cathy Millar.

Court Report

The following are among the cases dealt with by Judge J.M. Bordeleau in Alexandria provincial court on April 2.

Jail term for drunk driver

A 59-year-old Maxville man has been jailed for 30 days after being involved in an accident while severely impaired by alcohol.

Albert Russell had about three times the legal alcohol content in his blood last November when he was involved in a two-vehicle crash near the intersection of County roads 19 and 20 in Charlottenburgh Township.

The accident caused $3,000 in damage to Russell's car and $8,000 damage to the other vehicle.

Because this was Russell's second conviction and because of the accident, the Crown asked for a 21 to 30 jail term.

Judge J.M. Brodeleau opted for the upper limit, and also imposed a two-year driving prohibition.

South Lancaster man jailed

A South Lancaster man was sentenced to 21 days in jail after being involved in an accident while he was legally drunk.

Michel Rose, 25, was leaving a party being held at the Charlottenburgh Recreational Centre last September when his vehicle flipped over on its side only yards away from the arena.

In addition to the jail term, Rose also has his driver's licence suspended for two years.

Hefty fine for hauling stolen goods

A Mississauga man was fined $2,000 after 10 cases of stolen cigarettes were found in a car he was driving west on Hwy. 401 near Lancaster.

David William Hill, 46, pleaded guilty to having possession of stolen property.

Hill said he was hired to deliver the cigarettes, valued at over $22,000 from Montreal to Toronto.

Charlottenburgh Township

Council Briefs

A regular meeting of Charlottenburgh Council took place on March 18 at the township hall in Williamstown. The following items are among those dealt with by council.

Funding request for abused children

A delegation of Father Kelvin Maloney and Bob Smith appeared before council to request Charlottenburgh's help in setting up a child sexual abuse clinic in Cornwall.

Father Maloney, representing a group of 19 independent board members, believes it is imperative to establish the clinic to provide counselling services for a growing number of Cornwall and area children who have been abused.

''It's our responsibility to help children who are abused,'' Father Maloney told council.

Following September's closure of a sexual abuse clinic operated by the Children's Aid Society, local clients needing therapy have been forced to travel to Ottawa to seek treatment. Smith said that there are between five and ten cases of child sexual abuse reported in Charlottenburgh Township each year.

The delegation's request for ''a couple of thousand'' per year over a five-year period, toward the estimated $250,000 annual cost of the clinic, was referred to the budget process.

But Reeve Dave MacDonald warned that should council agree to the request, it would be for three years only. ''We can only commit ourselves for the life of this council,'' he said.

Dog-catcher not answering

Deputy-Reeve Leslie O'Shaughnessy said he had received complaints from residents of the Glen Walter area about dogs running loose, and about the dog-catcher's failure to respond. O'Shaughnessy said that when people phoned the dog-catcher they were greeted by an answering machine, and when they left messages, their calls were not returned.

Clerk-treasurer Marcel Lapierre said he would address the issue.

Opposition turns out lights

There will be no street lighting for residents of the Richmond Road, following a township survey which indicated a majority of property owners were opposed to the plan. Of the 30 owners in the area, six responded in favor of lighting, while 13 were opposed. Eleven failed to reply.

Sunday shopping date changed

The meeting to discuss Sunday shopping in the municipality, scheduled to take place at the Charlottenburgh Recreation centre on Mar. 25, has been postponed until May 4.

Pitch-in Week

Charlottenburgh will allow free access to its landfill site for private, registered vehicles on four days during the province's pitch-in week.

Residents who have had their vehicles registered with the township will be allowed to enter the site on May 2, 5, 7 and 9, for the disposal of non-commercial, non-hazardous waste.

The annual heavy garbage pick-up will be held during the same week.

OPP in Martintown

Council granted permission to the OPP to establish an extended service office at the Martintown Community Centre. It is expected there will be no financial impact on the municipality.

Purcell Sewer and Water Committee

Bylaw 4-92 was passed by council, setting up the Purcell Sewer and Water Committee. Although Chief Administrative Officer, Merlin Dewing, recommended that the new committee be a liaison committee, council decided to make it an advisory body, with no per diem payments to members.

Waste workshop planned for April 25

What will we do with our garbage? That's the question SD&G residents will try to answer April 25 at a public workshop being held by the United Counties of SD&G Waste Management Master Plan.

The 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday workshop will focus on developing screening criteria for waste management technologies and practices suitable for the United Counties of SD&G, says Steering Committee Chair John McAllister.

The workshop will be held at North Dundas District High School, located on Hwy. 43, between Hwy. 31 and Chesterville.

Anyone who generates waste is invited to pre-register for the workshop by April 21, so that arrangements for lunch can be made.

Everyone is welcome, notes McAllister, adding that he is hoping to see a healthy representation from the 20 municipalities participating in the study.

For more information and pre-registration, write or phone Study Co-ordinator Anne MacGillivray, P.O. Box 240, St. Andrews West, Ont. K0C 2A0, tel/FAX 938-6112.

Symptoms leading to drop outs stressed

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

The decline of self-confidence and motivation which leads to dropping out of high school was stressed during a play to elementary school students two weeks ago.

The play, L'ange guardien, held Thursday afternoon, March 26, at the GDHS/ESRG auditorium, was about Philippe, a 16-year-old from a broken family.

Troubles at home and neglect from his father shattered Philippe's confidence and motivation, which eventually led to him dropping out of school.

The play was performed in front of 350 grades 6 to 8 students from six French elementary schools in Glengarry.

The children, who were bused back to school immediately following the play, appeared to have enjoyed themselves.

"We touched where they live. It's their life," said Pascal Montet, the producer of the play, which was written by Yves Masson of Sherbrooke, Que.

College dropout Fabien Dupuis, who played Philippe, said students don't just quit school all of a sudden.

"When you drop out, you don't realize it," he said.

Dupuis said dropping out is the last stage of a series of events, such as waking up well past class time, and skipping classes altogether.

And he added that some students "drop in," where they stay in school, but are not paying attention. "They're spaced out," he said.

Either way, many students drop out after losing their motivation, often due to poor home lives.

"If you have many problems, you don't want to do anything," said Martine Francke, who played two characters in the play: Philippe's girlfriend, Caroline, and his mother Madeleine.

"It's difficult to concentrate in school when you have too many problems. You don't feel like listening," she said.

And if family members are also preoccupied with their personal problems, a student is often left alone, with no reason to pursue studies.

Maurice Levac, a facilitator with the Stay in School Initiative (START), said many senior elementary students who are not interested in school have already decided to quit as soon as they reach 16, after which they are not required by law to be in school.

START, a program funded by Employment and Immigration Canada and the Ministry of State for Youth, tries to encourage students to stay in school through programs and their "Dropping out is no way out" commercials.

Levac is one of eight facilitators in SD&G who carries out START projects with funds that have been applied for by the SD&G Industry Education Council of Cornwall.

He organizes activities such as the career fair which will be held in May at Ste. Marie school in Green Valley, where he works. Each student researches a particular occupation and makes a presentation at the fair.

He also provided guidance and career counselling, and arranges for guest lecturers to speak on their careers and the importance of education.

Statistics show that 64 per cent of all jobs require a minimum Grade 12 education, while 30 per cent of all Ontario high school students drop out.

Plays such as L'ange gardien is one way to expose students to the hardship life offers after dropping out.

"Maybe they'll think twice about dropping out," Levac said.

Dupuis said dropping out of school leaves fewer opportunities for a better lifestyle.

"If you want to drop out, drop. You will have to come back one day, because you can do nothing without a diploma," he said.

"If you want to work at a job for $4 an hour, you can do that. And you'll come back when you're motivated."

Student braves famine to help Third World

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

What a difference one year makes.

Tagwi Secondary School student Susan Poapst braved 30 hours of hunger pangs — something she could not bring herself to do last year — by participating in a famine to raise money for Third World famine relief last month.

"Last year, I wanted to get involved, but I turned into a coward," said the Grade 12 student Thursday afternoon, March 12, after her first meal in more than a day.

But this year she felt courageous enough to participate in Tagwi's 30-hour famine, an annual event which started last year.

"I figured 30 hours is not much," Poapst said adding that she has raised more than $100 through sponsors.

The students raised about $680, which will go to the Third World relief and development organization World Vision Canada.

Organizers are not only pleased that students raised three times as much money this year compared to last year. They are pleased each student that participated learned a little more of what it feels like to live with hunger.

Grade 13 student Sarah Worrall, who organized the famine, said she was having trouble concentrating in class.

"And you get a lot of stomach growls which disturbs the class," she said.

The students were only allowed to drink juices and water throughout the famine.

After the 30 hours were up noon Thursday, about 12 of the students booked a room to have a small pizza party.

"Ahhhh! It was terrific," Worrall said about the first bite.

"It felt like as if I had no food in my stomach for more than 30 hours. I think I know how people in Third World countries feel when food arrives."

But Grade 11 student Kristina Fiches, who participated in the famine for the second consecutive year, said it's impossible for the students to fully understand Third World hunger.

"I don't think you can get a good view," she said.

"Their conditions are a lot worse. We can still go home and have fruit juice while they can only have contaminated water.

She said the minority of Canadians who are poor still have some access to food from such places as welfare agencies and food banks.

Whereas the vast majority of people in the Third World are hungry and have far less access to help, and even far less access to technology, money and tools to develop more self-sufficiency.

World Vision helps organize projects such as literacy campaigns, and construction of clinics in Third World countries.

Last year the organization raised $1.8 million through 30-hour famines.

Grades 11 and 12 teacher Johanne Leduc, who helped organize this year's famine at Tagwi, said that such an activity helped sensitize students, teachers and others to Third World poverty.

"They can make their message known to their peers, their parents and their community," Leduc said.

Poapst said the 30-hour famine proves that teenagers are not powerless in helping fight poverty around the world.

She and Grade 10 student Nicole Jeaurond have raised about $250 together.

"That makes a little difference right there."

Former addict shares his past to warn about drugs

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Children were twitching when former drug addict Normand Lacombe, 31, revealed his gruesome 15-year experience of drug and alcohol abuse to students at Alexander school March 13.

"I went through hell, and I don't want you to go through it," Lacombe said to about 85 children, about half from St. Joseph's school.

"I used to inject with needles, heroine, coke, morphine," he said pointing to his forearm.

Once, when Lacombe was shooting heroine, his two-year-old son Jeffrey asked his father what was going on.

"Dad! What are you doing? What is this?" Lacombe recalled, holding back tears.

"I woke up with my little boy sleeping on me, and my needle was still in my arm."

Lacombe, a construction worker and part-time musician, explained to students how his addiction began, how it ruined his life, and how he is now enjoying life two years after rehabilitation at Mount Carmel House.

He told students about his tough-guy days in high school, when he smoked cigarettes and neglected school work.

His tobacco addiction led him to experiment with harder drugs, a temptation many youths are up against.

"It's something everybody wants to try," he said. "In my days, it started with a pack of cigarettes and ended up with drugs."

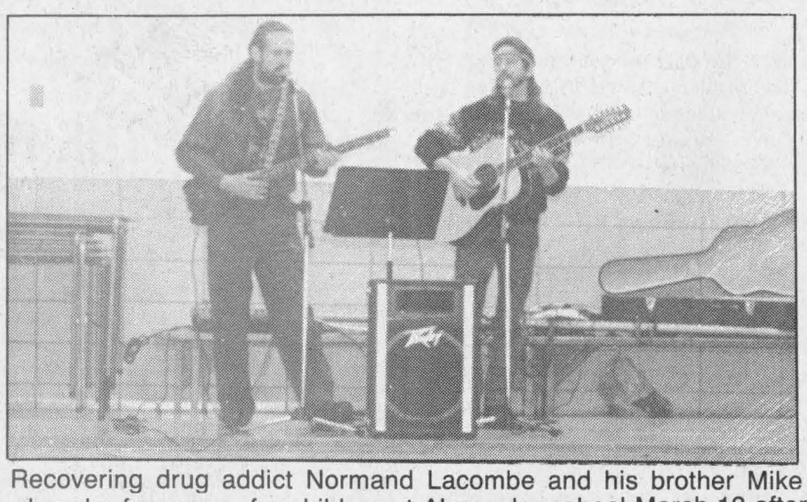
At 13, he smoked marijuana for first time.

Two years later he quit school and worked full time as a brick-layer with his father's construction company.

At 16 he married a dancer, who was also a junkie.

They spent much of their money on drugs and alcohol.

After his wife passed rehabilitation, she took their two-year-old son and left Lacombe, who was still a heavy drug user.



Recovering drug addict Normand Lacombe and his brother Mike played a few songs for children at Alexander school March 13 after an anti-drug speech. Staff photo — Andre Perrella

"I had friends — lots of them. And then no one wanted anything to do with me," he said.

Meanwhile, Lacombe continued spending all his money, be it earned, borrowed or stolen, to support his habit.

He relied on pushers who were becoming impatient with Lacombe's debts.

"I owed so much money," he said.

He sold his food, furniture and stereo for drugs.

"I had sold everything. I only had my bed left. I was shaking in my bed. I had nothing left."

A student asked Lacombe to estimate how much money he spent on drugs.

"Two houses, three cars and a boat," Lacombe said.

"A lot of money."

He tried to commit suicide three times as a signal for help.

Two years ago, Lacombe decided to help himself by entering Mount Carmel House for rehabilitation.

Lacombe stays clean by working with his father's construction company in the summer and chopping wood in the winter.

"Today I'm really grateful I got a good job, a trade. I'm one of the lucky ones."

He now lives in St. Justine with his common-law wife, and raising their five-month-old son.

He said talking about his past serves a therapeutic need.

"If I keep it inside, I'll blow up and start again," he said.

He presented his speech to members of the Alexandria Optimist Club in January.

The club agreed that Lacombe would be a good anti-drug speaker for area students.

He spoke to Ecole Elda-Rouleau students last month.

Optimist Club member Chantal Baribeau, who co-ordinated the speech, said it's not enough for teachers to tell their students to say no to drugs.

She said an anti-drug campaign is much more persuasive when presented by a recovering drug addict.

"What he regrets doing might give a stronger message," Baribeau said.

And students seem to be getting the message.

"It makes you think," said Kim Fradette, 14, of Alexander school.

Someone near her Glen Robertson home offered her drugs once.

"I just said no," she said. "The next time someone approaches me, I'll say no — that's for sure."

Principal Charles Beaudette hopes all students will think like Fradette.

"These kids are eventually going to have to make a choice," he said.

"If they hang around the right crowd, they'll say no to drugs. They're safe, secure.

"As Normand said, it just takes the first one to get started."

In 1977 our family brought to this area an exclusive concept in the form of a Functional and Itemized Pricing system for the purchase of funeral services.

In October of 1990, some 14 years later, the Government of Ontario recognized that this pricing format gave the consumer complete control over funeral expenses and passed legislation directing all funeral establishments in Ontario to offer it to the funeral purchasing public.

Today our family continues to offer Cornwall and the surrounding area a level of professional foresight and competence second to none.

Gaels win downscaled SDG

There weren't very many horses in the field this time around, but Glengarry has once again raced its way into the winner's circle in tri-county gymnastics.

With only one other school to compete against, traditional foe North Dundas, the Gaels captured the 1992 SDG gymnastics championship last Thursday in Alexandria. It's the seventh SDG crown in a row for Glengarry.

The Gaels outpointed the Devils 289 to 225 overall to take the team event as declining enrolments and increasing costs has driven the number of participating schools to an all-time low.

The fact that the two remaining schools are Glengarry and North Dundas, the last team other than Glengarry to win the SDG title, should come as no surprise as both schools have been gymnastics powerhouses over the years.

On an individual level, Glengarry girls took the top overall position in every four of the five levels. The only class which was not won by a Gael was Level IV, in which there were no Glengarry entrants.

Manon Campeau led Glengarry's individual winners by sweeping the number one position in each event at Level II.

Suzanne Glaude was the lone gymnast competing at Level V, and while she was assured of the win, Glaude still put on an impressive display. Her 34.85 point total was highest among all the event's competitors.

Glengarry other overall winners were Lisa Poirier (Level I) and Cynthia Wilson (Level III).

Manon Campeau, shown here on the uneven bars, was one of several star performers for Glengarry last Thursday.

Here is how Glengarry's gymnasts fared:

Level I (seven competitors) Lisa Poirier: vault, uneven bars (3rd), floor event, beam, overall (1st), Melissa Mallette: floor (4th), vault, bars, beam, overall (2nd), Kimberley Rolland: bars (4th), beam (6th), floor, overall (5th).

Level II (four competitors) Manon Campeau: vault, bars, beam, floor, overall (1st), Natalie Therrien: vault, floor (2nd), bars, beam (4th), overall (3rd), Isobel Campbell: beam, bars (3rd), vault, floor, overall (4th).

Glaude wins qualifier

Suzanne Glaude has qualified for the Ontario provincial gymnastics championships after winning her second provincial qualifier of the season this past weekend in Ottawa.

The 18-year-old North Lancaster native won the event, the third and last provincial qualifier, despite being in only her second week of action after missing four months with a knee injury. Glaude suffered the injury at the year's first porvincial-qualifying meet in December.

Glaude still managed to win that event, but the injury caused her to miss the second qualifier.

The Glengarry student said she was surprised to win after the long layoff but added that she was pleased to reach her goal of making the provincials in her last year of competition.

In addition to placing first overall, Glaude took first in the vault and floor events and added seconds in the beam and on the uneven bars.

Her average score from the two events allowed Glaude to be named as the region's top gymnast for the year.

The all-Ontario championships will be held on June 30.

Glens lose in final after a wild ride

A worn and weary Alexandria bantam Glens team was soundly defeated 8-1 by Renfrew in the final of the regional championships in Smiths Falls on Sunday.

The loss ended an emotional weekend of highs and lows for the Sultan Drugs Glens, who produced several dramatic moments throughout the tournament.

The first of a series of nail-biters came in Alexandria's first game when Martin Boisvenue scored a shorthanded goal with 3:18 left in the game to lift the Glens to a 4-3 win over a Pembroke major bantam club.

Karl Hehn, Darcy McDonell and Dominic Laferriere also scored for Alexandria in the opening win.

Later on Saturday, the Glens played a rough-and-tumble affair with South Grenville, and earned a tie in the back-and-forth game when Darcy McDonell scored on the power play with just 47 seconds left.

Alexandria had taken a 2-0 lead in the game on goals by Michel Lortie and Jean-Pierre Lefebvre before South Grenville answered back with three markers in a row.

Eric McCarthy tied the game with a short-handed score, but South Grenville then replied with an apparent game-winner with 2:08 left in the game.

But Alexandria suddenly found itself with a two-man advantage with under a minute remaining and with the Alexandria goalie on the bench for a sixth attacker, McDonell got the equalizer.

Alexandria's next game was on Sunday, and relatively speaking it was a tame affair. The Glens scored the first three goals and the last four in defeating Russell 7-4.

Martin Boisvenue recorded a hat trick while Eric McCarthy, Chris Leblanc, Dominic Laferriere and Michel Lortie picked up singles.

The win put Alexandria in first place in its division and pitted the Glens against league rival Casselman in the semi-final.

Things looked bleak with nine minutes left in the game as Casselman led 5- 1, but Alexandria had yet another last-minute miracle up their sleeves.

The Glens closed the gap to 5-4 and then with only eight ticks left on the clock and the goalie again on the bench, Martin Boisvenue took a feed from Karl Hehn and put it in the top corner to tie the game.

Boisvenue scored again in the third overtime, with each team playing with three skaters, to complete the comeback.

The marathon win appeared to take too much starch out of the Glens however as they turned a flat effort in the final. Top scorer Martin Boisvenue was knocked out of commission early in the contest, and many other players were nursing assorted bumps and bruises.

Darcy McDonell had the only Alexandria goal in the final loss.

Charity v-ball tourney

Champions Roadhouse will be attempting to defend its title at the Domtar charity volleyball tournament in support of the Cornwall food bank this Saturday.

Champions will be playing at the General Vanier site of the tournament while Paddy's, the other Alexandria team competing in the event, will be at St.Lawrence High School.

An awards ceremony and a tabulation of funds raised will take place at 3:30 p.m. followed by the semi-finals and final.

County Royalty speaks out

Sports scripts

By J.L. Lefebvre

Local Junior A hockey fans are breathing a little easier these days now that the Cornwall Royals proposed move to Newmarket is in a holding pattern.

(Ed. note: okay, we admit it, the Royals never really planned to move to Alexandria).

The ball is now squarely in the court of the fans of Cornwall and area who must now put their money where their petition signatures are if they are sincere in their desire to keep the Royals in the Seaway City.

But no matter what happens, many will continue to be puzzled by the question: How can a team with such a proud history come within a skate blade of packing the U-Hauls and heading west?

The question was put by the Glengarry News in the last few days to three current or former Glengarrians who have previously donned the Royals jersey. In all fairness, it should be pointed out that the trio was interviewed prior to the most recent developments, but many of the points they raise are still relevant.

Michel Boisvenue played for the Royals in the late 60's and early 70's when Cornwall was a member of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League.

Now owner of a sporting goods store in Alexandria, Boisvenue says he finds it hard to believe the club may be forced to leave town.

''It's too bad (that they want to leave). There's no reason why junior hockey can't survive in Cornwall.''

Boisvenue says the team lost touch with the community along the way.

''The Royals don't do nearly enough promotion. They're concerned about low attendance so why don't they do something about it?

''Instead of charging kids full price, why not let them in for one or two dollars? It's better to have an arena that's full of kids that pay a lower price then one that's nearly empty at the full price.''

Like many others, Boisvenue feels the Royals erred in switching from the Quebec league to the OHL.

''I don't think they ever should have changed leagues, but then again maybe they had no choice in that and were forced out (of the QMJHL).''

Luc Sabourin is another Alexandria resident who played with the Royals, for one season five years ago.

After capping a successful career with the Guelph Platers with a Memorial Cup title, Sabourin was prepared to enter the working world when Royals GM Orval Tessier asked him to come to Cornwall as an overager.

There are those that think Sabourin should have been a Royal from the outset of his career. Instead, Sabourin was ignored round after round until finally getting picked up last overall by the then expansion Platers.

Sabourin's value as a potential gate attraction hit home when the Platers came to Cornwall during Sabourin's rookie season. Over 100 fervent Alexandria hockey fans turned out to cheer ''Ti-Loup.''

Sabourin is just one of many local products, including Denis Larocque of Hawkesbury, Ken McRae of Finch, Terry Carkner of Winchester, Neil Sandilands of Williamstown and Scott Pearson and Tony Joseph of Cornwall who had to go elsewhere to play junior hockey after being passed over by the Royals.

''It's disappointing to see what's happening to the team,'' he said. ''I know a lot of hockey fans around here will find the nights really long during the winter with no Royals.

''But it's expensive to run a junior team and I know the economy isn't too good in Cornwall right now. Nobody's working and no one can afford tickets.''

Sabourin has an interesting angle on the subject since the team he started his junior career with, the Guelph Platers, moved to Owen Sound shortly after Sabourin's departure.

As is the case in Cornwall, lack of attendance was the culprit. Said Sabourin: ''In Guelph we never really had the crowds the team needed.''

One of the most popular Royals in the history of the club was tough guy John Wensink, an Apple Hill native.

A member of the 1972 Royals Memorial Cup winning team, Wensink, now in the construction business in St.Charles, Missouri, says he was shocked when he heard the team was planning to move.

''It's kind of an empty feeling to think about it. I have a lot of good memories of the team and of the players I played with,'' said Wensink, who is best known for being one of Don Cherry's favorite players when he played for the Stiff-collared One in Boston and Colorado.

''The same thing happened in St.Louis not too long ago when the football Cardinals moved away and they've been trying to get a team ever since. It just goes to show that once you lose the team, boy I tell you, it's hard to get it back.''

Although he admits it's difficult for him to analyse the situation from a distance, he senses that the team isn't doing all it can in the public relations department.

''This year is the 20th anniversary of our Memorial Cup win in 1972 and every time the phone rings or I check the mail I hope it's an invitation to a reunion of that team.''

Wensink thinks there would be a lot of interest in seeing a group that included six players who went on to NHL careers, most notably Richard Brodeur, Bob Murray and Wensink.

The former Bruin suggests the '72 Royals could have played an exhibition game against local hockey coaches with proceeds going to minor hockey.

''They have a beautiful building in Cornwall and there's a lot of good hockey people in that area . . . I'd really hate to see the Royals leave town.''

Wensink knows all about mobile franchises. He was in Colorado when the Rockies moved east to become the New Jersey Devils.

''There was absolutely no fan interest in Denver except for the time Don Cherry was coach. With his style of hockey, the place was packed. Maybe that's what they need in Cornwall, a team with lots of character to draw fans.''

Would a John Wensink-coached Royals club be that kind of team?

''You never know, I'd definitely go for it (the head coaching position) if the team would be willing,'' he said, adding that he has sent the team resumes in the past in hopes of landing a job.

Wensink, who was unaware that former coach John Lovell had been fired, said he'd love the opportunity to get involved with the team again.

While Boisvenue, Sabourin and Wensink have different theories on the reasons behind the move and different suggestions on how to save the Royals, they are united in their hope that the team stay.

Would you expect any less from Glengarry Royalty?

Char-Lan novices cap dream season with win at regional tournament

The Char-Lan novice Rebels captured the championship title at the Eastern Ontario playdowns on Sunday by topping the Petawawa Patriots 4-2 in the final.

Chris Knight scored twice in the win with Graham Charbonneau and Jonah Leroux picking up singles.

Leroux was largely responsible for getting the Rebs into the final after his four-goal performance, including the overtime winner, defeated Osgoode-Rideau 4-3 in the previous game.

Leroux was outstanding throughout the tournament, scoring seven goals and adding four assists for 11 points in five games.

He scored once and assisted twice in a 4-1 Char-Lan win against Cumberland. Ryan Major scored twice in that game and Patrick Smith once.

In a game played on Saturday, the Rebels edged Kanata 4-3 as Jonah Leroux, Chris Knight, Darren Meloche and Matthew Verdone fired in goals.

Char-Lan's lone blemish, albeit a small one, came in their first contest when they were held to a 1-1 tie by Prescott. Graham Charbonneau had the Reb marker.

The tourney win ends the season for Char-Lan as there is no province-wide championship at the novice level.

MacMillans big winners at bonspiel

Hugh Allan MacMillan and Myles MacMillan skipped winning rinks at the 16th annual Glengarry Club of Ottawa bonspiel at the Glengarry Curling Club in Maxville on Saturday.

Hugh Allan's team, which consisted of Allan Rattray, Donnie Vallance and Maggie Lawson, took two-game high honors while Myles' rink of Bruno Besner, John Wood and Rhonda Sexton were one-game winners.

The runner-up in the two-game high category was the rink of skip Doug Robinson which consisted of Margie McGillivray, Charles Jackson and Tory Masterson.

One-game runners-up were Allan Cameron (skip), Garfield MacDonald, Kerri MacMillan and Leslie Clark.

The annual day-long event, which this year had 24 teams competing, attracts curlers and fans from across the county in support of worthy causes in Glengarry.

Glengarry Club representative Neil McDonell presented cheques to the Maxville Manor Building Fund, Mount Carmel House, Lancaster Meals-on-Wheels and the Glengarry Pipe Band.

Merchants to host tourney

Alexandria the team to beat as streak continues

Alexandria remained undefeated in Glengarry News Cup competition on the weekend by recording two easy victories; 9-5 against Lancaster on Friday and 8-2 against Charlottenburgh Sunday.

Norm Decoste (three goals), Luc Sabourin (two goals) and Leonard Seguin (one goal) all had five-point nights in the win over Lancaster. Serge Bellefeuille, Marc Sauve and Stephan Nadeau each added single goals while Stephane Landriault had four assists.

The game was close early as Lancaster's Bob Bowles connected with 5:33 left in the first to cut Alexandria's lead to 2-1. Alexandria responded with five goals in a row, including four in the second period, to take control of the game.

Stephan Pilon, Grant McDonald, Mike Sauve and Darin Menard scored for Lancaster in the third to make the score somewhat more respectable.

The situation was similar on Sunday when Charlottenburgh had leads of 1-0 and 2-1 before Alexandria turned on the offensive juice to bury their opponents.

Stephan Nadeau, Marc Sauve and Norm Decoste each popped in a pair of goals for Alexandria, with singles going to Luc Sabourin and Bruce Pride. Norm Jeaurond had three assists.

Eric Hamelin and Rob Curran connected for Charlottenburgh, which is still looking for its first win after five tournament games.

Glengarry pair takes SDG mixed doubles title

The Glengarry duo of Jean Theoret and Sofie Levert won the mixed doubles championship at the SDG rookie badminton competition in Cornwall last Wednesday.

Theoret and Levert got by Andre Lafrance and Michelle Cheffer of La Citadelle to capture the mixed doubles title.

That loss was one of the few setbacks of the day for the Patriotes as they cruised to the overall title with 58 points, well ahead of the St.Lawrence team which collected 29 points.

A couple of notches lower, Glengarry finished in a tie with Rothwell-Osnabruck for fifth position with a total of 17 points, one point behind Tagwi and General Vanier who were tied for third.

Char-Lan ended up tied for seventh with two other schools with nine points.

The girls doubles team of Christine Sloan and Joanne Legault led the seven-member Crusaders squad by reaching the semi-final in their event.

The senior badminton competition is slated for today.

Lancaster rallies from 3-0 deficit to gain Cup final berth

Lancaster Township has earned a berth to the Glengarry News Cup final after coming back from a 3-0 deficit to defeat Lochiel 4-3 on Sunday at the Billy Gebbie Arena.

The win gives Lancaster a 3-2 record while Lochiel drops to 2-3. Even if Lsancaster loses to Charlottenburgh and Lochiel surprises Alexandria in the round-robin finale this Friday, Lancaster would still advance to the final against Alexandria by virtue of its two wins vs. Alexandria.

Lochiel needed a three-goal win to clinch second spot (Lancaster won by two goals in the previous meeting between the two clubs) and took three steps in the right direction towards that end on Sunday.

Lochiel took a 3-0 lead when Pascal Joanette scored his second of the game less than five minutes into the second period. Luc Duval scored Lochiel's other goal.

Lancaster's offence, meanwhile, was being frustrated by close Lochiel checking and great goaltending by Mark Titley.

Lancaster coach Chris McDonell called a timeout with five minutes left in the middle stanza, and whatever he told his players seemed to work as Lancaster had scored twice within the next 94 seconds and then a third time with only 16 seconds left in the period.

Grant McDonald, Darin Menard and Daryl Menard were responsible for tying the score.

The third period was entertaining with good action at both ends, but it was Stephan Pilon, on a partial break with under seven minutes remaining, who would break the tie and give Lancaster the win.

Lochiel had set up Sunday's game as a showdown for the second final berth by crushing Charlottenburgh 6-1 on Friday night.

Ricky Latreille had a pair of goals and two assists to pace the Lochiel attack. Donald Wightman also scored twice with singles going to Marc Hammond and John MacSweyn.

Tie-breaker sinks Glens

The Caisse Populaire atom Glens won two of three games at the Tournament of Champions in Long Sault over the weekend, but failed to advance to the semi-finals.

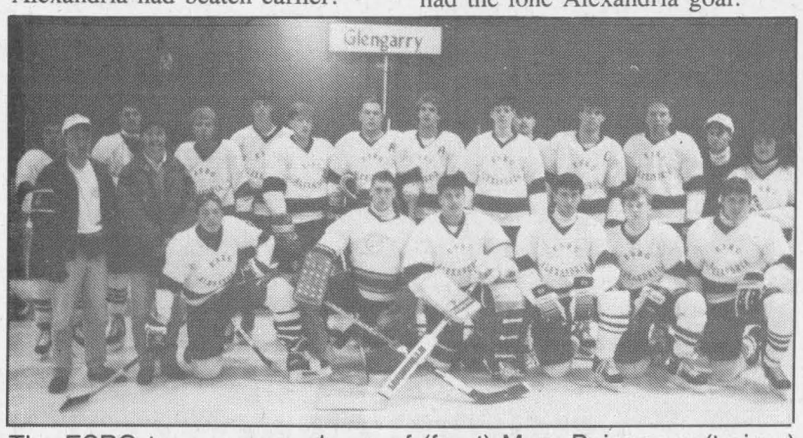
The tourney ended for Alexandria because the team they were tied with in the overall standings at the end of the round-robin, West Carleton, had scored two more goals.

To make matters even more frustrating, the tournament was eventually won by Smiths Falls, a team Alexandria had beaten earlier.

The Glens had beaten the Bears 3-2 in the round-robin thanks to first-period goals by Jamie Ladouceur, Michel Quesnel and Kurt MacSweyn.

Alexandria's other win came 6-1 against Casselman as Kurt MacSweyn fired in a pair of goals. Gyslain Valade, Jamie Ladouceur, Nigel Newland and Gregory Lalonde added singles.

The only loss for Alexandria came in the opening game, a 2-1 setback against Pembroke. Guillaume Ouimet had the lone Alexandria goal.



The ESRG team was made up of (front) Marc Boisvenue (trainer), Laurent Rivard (coach), Joel Trottier, Donald Glaude, Michel Lajoie, Eric Hamelin, Roch Jeaurond, Marc Menard (back row) Steve Poirier, Michel Jeaurond, Randy Gebbie, Patrick Sauve, Normand Jeaurond, Luc Duval, Patrick Ravary, Francois Ouellette, Sylvain Lavigne, Pascal Joanette, Luc Sabourin, Jean-Yves Jeaurond (coach) and local hostess Julie. Absent is coach Bernard Lafrance.

Lamarche stones ESRG

ESRG was frustrated by a familiar face in its efforts to advance to the playoffs in the francophone hockey tournament in Kapuskasing on the weekend.

Plantagenet goalie Patrice Lamarche, a member of the Alexandria Jr. B Glens, stoned the Glengarry shooters in leading his team to a 4-3 victory

ESRG lost the game despite outshooting Plantagenet 38-18. Pat Ravary, Normand Jeaurond and Patrick Sauve, the Gaels' player of the game, were the only shooters able to beat Lamarche.

Glengarry opened the tournament with a 4-1 loss to Hanmer as Steve Poirier potted the lone Gael goal.

ESRG then played to a 4-4 tie vs. Hearst as Sylvain Lavigne connected twice on offence. Randy Gebbie and Pascal Joanette also found the range.

Pat Ravary was the top gun in the Gaels' only win of the weekend, a 6-4 triumph over Rayside-Azilda. Ravary collected three goals and added two assists while linemate Pascal Joanette had two goals.

Stars have advantage in C-L indoor soccer final

The Glengarry Stars are up 1-0 on Rudi Payer Sports after the front end of their two-game total goal series for the Char-Lan Indoor Soccer League championship.

Carman MacMillan's Stars, last year's playoff champs, and Chris Armstrong's RPS squad, the top regular season club in 1992, will hook up again in Game Two at the Char-Lan high school gym at 8:30 p.m. on Monday to complete the series.

In the opener, Don Pidgeon blasted in a 20-footer with Payer a man down in the first half to decide the outcome. RPS was playing shorthanded after Ben Pye had been sent off by a yellow card.

RPS had several opportunities to tie the game, including late in the opening half when Chris Smith was awarded a penalty kick, but Stars netminder Victor Denobriga was equal to every challenge.

Payer had another golden opportunity in the second half when the Stars' Marc Seguin was sent off for picking up his second yellow card of the game. That gave RPS a manpower advantage for the final 11 minutes of the game, but the Stars defence refused to buckle.

The defensive foursome of Don Pidgeon, Darrell Hay, Craig MacSweyn and Lyndon MacNaughton was particularly effective in shutting the door on Rudi's offence, which was without regular season scoring champion Bruce Mitton.

The Minister of Offence is expected to play for RPS in the second game of the final.

Strikers 3 Nomads 1

Les Bradshaw's troops find themselves down by two goals in the two-game consolation final after the Ingleside Strikers emerged with a 3-1 win over the Nomads on Monday.

The Colebrook brothers did all the offensive damage for Ingleside as Paul booted in a pair and Dave added a single.

All the Striker goals came in the last 10 minutes of the game after Mike Lavigueur had given SDG a 1-0 lead with a goal early in the second half.

Game Two will be played next Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The CLISL will hand out its year-end awards at Jack Delaney's in Williamstown on Monday evening following the conlusion of the league final.

Benton is one win away

It may not be as sweet as last year's title, but Tapis Richard has won a Ladies Sponge Puck League championship just the same.

Last year's league champions wrapped up the consolation title last Wednesday with a 4-1 over MacMillan Insurance at the Glengarry Sports Palace. Tapis wins the best-of-five final three games to none.

Cheryl Rigby potted two goals for the winners while Ann McMillan and Cathy Depratto each added a goal and an assist to the offensive effort.

Wendy Hay spoiled Ann-Marie Van Sleeuwen's shutout bid midway through the final period.

Benton needs one more win

Meanwhile, in the "A" championship battle, Art Benton has taken a 2-1 series lead with a narrow 3-2 victory last Wednesday over SunLife.

Clara Juliao scored what eventually turned out to be the game-winner with 7:26 left in the game. The goal gave Benton a 3-1 lead at the time.

Carole Blais scored 31 seconds later to close the gap to one goal but that was it offensively from both sides.

Julie Bissonette had SunLife's other goal while Marie Bellemare and Ginette Lalonde each scored second-period goals for Benton.

Game four of the series goes tonight at the Billy Gebbie Arena.

Sauve offers advice for the novice racer

Planning to take part in the Great Raisin River Canoe Race this weekend?

Five-time winner Maurice Sauve has some tips to help you compete safely — and enjoyably.

—In terms of equipment, each paddler should have, naturally, a paddle and a lifejacket, but Sauve also suggests a jug of water and an extra paddle.

—Because the Raisin River is still frigid at this time of year and the weather unpredictable, Sauve suggests canoeists wear work gloves and rubber boots. Since the lower body doesn't get too much movement during the race, thicker clothing should be worn below the waist than above.

—Speaking of clothes, whether you capsize or not (and beginning paddlers more than likely will), you're likely to get wet, so having a change of clothes at the finish line in Williamstown is a good idea.

—In case your canoe does sink, get to shore as soon as possible, drain the canoe and get going, Sauve advises. This not only shows your determination but it more importantly reduces the chances of getting hypothermia.

If you decide that paddling on glacial waters isn't your cup of iced tea, you can get some enjoyment out of simply being a spectator.

The Raisin Region Conservation Authority, which sponsors the race, can give you hints on where the best spots are to watch the fun. The RRCA will be handing out an information brochure on the day of the race, just prior to the noon start.

Hill loses indoor final

Despite winning the regular season championship in the Cornwall Indoor Soccer League, Kirk Hill couldn't add the the playoff title to its credit as they lost 5-4 to Jovana's in the ladies final on Sunday in Cornwall.

Kirk Hill got off to a strong start in the see-saw affair, scoring the first two goals of the contest before Jovana's roared back with three in a row.

The Hill tied things up again, but then mnisfortune struck as an own goal by Kirk Hill helped Jovana's take control of the game.

As the score would indicate, there was exciting action at both ends throughout the game, and with each half extended by 15 minutes for the final, there was more of it.

Brenda Golden-McMaster, Shirley Hay, Carolyn Cameron and Lisa Poirier scored the Kirk Hill goals.

Filion's Jewelers beat City II 8-6 to win the men's division final. The Lancaster Rovers won the consolation title with a 5-3 win over Filion Trophies.

GDHS students victorious at Sears drama festival

GDHS
Donald Théorêt

For some strange reason, I cannot get Queen's "We Are the Champions" out of my head. Oh, I know the reason: I seem to remember GDHS's triumphant awards sweep last Saturday night at the Sears Seaway Drama Festival.

As I mentioned in last week's column, certain drama students from GDHS took part in the Seaway Festival (along with six other schools) held at Tagwi on Friday, April 3 and Saturday, April 4. As expected, competition was fierce, and the abundance of talent on display was simply outstanding. yet only two plays could be chosen to advance to the next level — and a tough decision for Stephen Baker, the festival adjudicator, who had to judge 12 plays during the two nights of competition, had to be made.

GDHS's production of "Meyer's Room," directed by David Sauvé, was one of the plays that won "Outstanding Production." The other winning play was "In a Room Somewhere," directed by festival organizer Larry J. Poirier, by Tagwi.

Not only did "Meyer's Room" win as best production, but all three actors in the play were recognized for the outstanding acting. Jason Kirkey and Lee Mitchell were each given an "Outstanding Performance Award," while Jason Mines was given an "Award of Merit." Futhermore, Donald Théorêt, Cory Major, and Crystal McDonell, were given an "Award of Merit" for their outstanding contribution on the winning play.

Finally, GDHS's second entry in the festival, "The Store," was also well received: Michaela Mader, the lead actress, was given an "Outstanding Performance Award" for her mesmerizing turn as the figment of a deranged man's imagination.

GDHS and Tagwi now advance to the next level — the Eastern Regional Showcase — which will be held in Peterborough on April 14, 15 and 16.

In other news, the Lions Public Speaking Contest was held at GDHS last Friday, April 3. Chris McPherson, Tara Smith and Sarah Viau each showed a wide range of talent, lending a good name for our school. Tara Smith's rank in the Rotary Club competition permitted her to advance to the next level — the semi-finals — which will be held on April 23 in Montreal. She will represent the Rotary Club of Hawkesbury.

Finally, the GDHS Gymnastics team won the the SD&G trophy at the gymnastics meet last Thursday. The second highest ranking team, North Dundas, will join GDHS at EOSSAA (Eastern Ontario Secondary School Athletic Association) in Deep River on April 9 and 10. Girls from level 1 to 5 will compete in individual events, namely vault, beam, bars and floor. The top four individuals of each event at EOSSAA will then take part in the OFSSAA competition, held April 23, 24, 25 at Seneca College in Toronto.

Development, peace was centre of celebrated mass

Glen Robertson
By Colette Sauvé
Tel. 874-2076

This year, Development and Peace celebrates 25 years as a Canadian Catholic organization for the development and peace in the Third World. A mass was celebrated at St. John Bosco Parish presided by Bishop Eugene LaRocque. The issues that face Third World people are ones we must face too. In Canada, as in most countries of North and South America, poverty is increasing. Our world is changing rapidly pushed along by forces such as international finance and trade interests. The financial world and big companies (which are usually based in the wealthy countries) can and do impose their will on governments around the world, with little concern for the impact on people's lives. It is easy to feel discouraged when we realize that many people are suffering because of other people's actions and that no one seems to be doing anything about it. But when we take a good look at the situation, most of us are looking for ways to change things. Perhaps, we can learn something from people in other countries. In Latin America, where poverty is much greater than anything we are likely to experience, many people have begun to work together to bring about change in their communities. Their efforts can be an inspiration to us in the work facing us here in our own country. Solidarity Day was Sunday, April 5. The Share Lent is more than just a fundraising campaign. It is also a time for prayer, for education and for celebration of the dignity and equality of all people. The aim of Development and Peace is to fund projects which will help eliminate the causes of underdevelopment and to help people become self-supporting. Since the gospel calls us to build a world of peace and harmony, we have to ensure that justice and solidarity win out over violence.

Monday, March 30, the contest "Art de s'exprimer" was held at Laurier-Carriere School. There was 11 participants. They were: Sandra Belair, Anik Hagen, Dominique Lanthier, Jason Larocque, Melissa McDonald, Jennifer Prieur, Emilie Ranger, Julien Rozon, Réjeanne Vachon, Amanda Vander Byl and Judy Wylie.

André Brunet was master of ceremonies and in charge of the contest. Principal Paul Hurtubise welcomed everyone. Each contestant had to talk between two and three minutes on the following subject "If I could see the future."

Winners for Glen Robertson were Jason Larocque and Jennifer Prieur and for Dalkeith Julien Rozon and Amanda Vander Byl.

Congratulations to the winners and all the participants! It is a difficult thing to get up on a stage and talk for a few minutes in front of friends and guests and in my book all the 11 students are considered winners.

Tuesday night, March 31 in Dalkeith Optimist Hall, the finals for "Art de s'exprimer" was held to find out who will represent zone 6 at the district on May 2 in Cornwall.

Laurier Vaillant was in charge of the contest and emcee for the evening. There were two grand winners: representing North Lancaster — Benoit Mallette and from Vankleek Hill — Stéphanie Desjardins. Congratulations to all!

Destruction of landmark fence applauded

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

Seldom do we applaud the removal of a landmark. However, last week, one came down at the corner of Mechanic and Main streets and no one is sorry. The structure was the massive fence that has obstructed vision at this corner for many years.

Understandably, the late George Eppstadt was discouraged when his ordinary fence was damaged. Therefore, his solution was to build a fence that could remain for years, undamaged. It has, but motorists at this intersection never liked it.

George Currier, the new owner of the property made the fence removal a priority and everyone is happy.

Mrs. O. F. Villeneuve enjoyed a visit from a friend, Ella Stobbe of Ottawa. The friendship of these two ladies dates back to the days when they were students in the School of Nursing in the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

John Williams, accompanied by Bev MacLennan, Apple Hill, attended the annual seat meet, held this year at Hagersville. Held primarily for collectors of cast iron machinery seats, the meet attracted collectors from as far away as California.

Mr. Williams also visited his daughter, Julie and Heather, students at Guelph University.

The happy mother of the village's newest twins is Marilyn Pace. Her name was incorrectly spelled last week.

Peter and Dorothy McDougall, 5th Con. Roxborough have become the grandparents of a beautiful new granddaughter, Tracey Bray, born on March 24. The proud parents are Wendy and John of Sandringham and the two young sisters at home are TAsha and Stephanie. Best wishes are extended to all.

His many friends wish Donald Blaney a speedy and complete recovery from his recent hockey injury.

The Rev. Jan Staniforth with her husband John Chapman and son, John Haig, attended a family dinner in Ottawa on March 29 to honor her grandmother, Elsie Curll on the occasion of her 95th birthday. Other relatives with Maxville connections in attendance were Mina McDonald, Sydney, N.S., Margaret and Tom Winter, Oromocto, N.B. and Lorna and Gordon Winter.

Lorna and I have been away for a week visiting family members in Grimsby and Windsor.

April 15 is the date for the next Horticultural Society meeting in the United Church hall. The pot luck supper starts at 6:30 p.m. This will be membership night and the guest speaker will be Rosemarie Chretien from Cooper's Marsh. She will give an illustrated talk on her year's experience on the Island of Mauritius. A warm welcome will be extended to all.

Nix on lumber grading

A resolution from the Township of Bastard and South Burgess opposing mandatory grading of lumber gained support from Kenyon Township council.

Council criticized the new Ontario legislation that requires that all lumber used in construction be graded, calling it an intrusion into people's lives and a "make-work program."

Council was taken aback by the fact that each piece of lumber must be graded by a travelling grader who is paid $295 per day plus travelling expenses. The nearest grader is located in Arnprior, council was told.

the Summer. It's all there, right under our Feet.

If you want to reduce your electric heating bill, look down at your feet. Now look a few feet further. Look at the earth itself. It could be your next source of heating and air conditioning.

Ground source heat pumps are designed to draw heat from the earth and pump it into your home. In the summer, the ground source heat pump reverses its operation. It extracts heat and humidity from your home and pumps it into the earth. The excess heat can also be used to heat domestic hot water or swimming pools and hot tubs.

This is truly the cleanest most efficient way to heat and air condition your home. And while ground source heat pumps cost more than traditional furnaces and air conditioners they soon pay for themselves with savings. That's why today's progressive home builders and renovators are specifying them for their clients.

Call us for more information about ground source heat pumps. You'll see that one of the most advanced technologies in heating and cooling is as old as the earth itself.

Caring for Life
By Dr. George McKiel

NIACIN
Can help prevent heart disease

Glengarrians, like one in three Canadians, should reduce their blood (meaning dietary) cholesterol or run far more risk of heart disease.

Neither physician we spoke to about this subject would agree to have their name printed on the premise that it could be construed as advertising. However, they endorsed this article.

By modifying diets and, in stubborn cases, using drug therapy, the risk of heart diseases can be much reduced. The drug route, using cholestyramine or colestipol costs close to $75 a month for the medication and can produce nasty side effects.

An alternative, suggested by the John Hopkins Medical Institution is to use the vitamin, niacin (also called nicotinic acid). In a major, yearlong study by National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, participants used daily doses of three grams of nicotinic acid and results demonstrated lowered levels of cholesterol (10 per cent) and a reduction of heart attacks (20 per cent).

Our usual diet contains 15-35 mg of niacin, vital for metabolism and nerve function and preventing pellagra (ask any former Japanese prisoner what it's like). To trigger the liver decrease of VLDL or very low-density-lipoprotein, the nicotinic acid dose must be 60 times higher than usual, i.e., a daily dose of three grams. This can also produce side effects so a high diet of niacin should be done with your physician's guidance. The doctor will probably start you with a small dose and then build up as you adjust to the side effects (rashes, flushings, itching and, perhaps, nausea and diarrhea). Taking an aspirin one-half hour before the niacin is helpful as is taking the niacin with meals (but not with hot liquids such as soup). Diabetics may have problems with large doses of niacin as their blood sugar level will climb. Niacin can also reactivate peptic ulcers. The good news of massive niacin daily is that you do, significantly, improve LDL/HDL ratio, thereby lowering chances of heart diseases.

George McKiel has a doctorate in zoology but has extensive background in nursing education both in Canada and Australia. He is currently a board member for the VON, Eastern Ontario Chapter. You are invited to comment on these articles and suggest other medical/nursing topics you would like researched and written on by calling George McKiel, 525-5455, or drop a line to the Glengarry News.

To help you fill out your income tax return

Extended hours

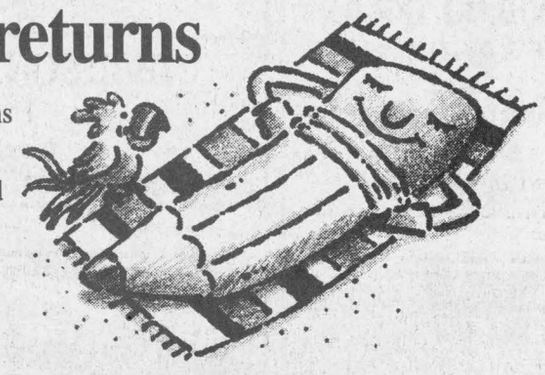
From February 24 to April 30, we offer an "after hours" phone service from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

You can also call T.I.P.S. Info-Tax, our automated phone service, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, for recorded information on selected topics.

No-calculation returns

To make things easier, we've designed two simpler tax returns that don't have any calculations.

These optional returns are great for people with straightforward tax situations. If you're under 65, you can use the "Short." If you're 65 or over, the "65 Plus" is for you. Whatever return you use, you should fill out only one.



Make sure your return is not delayed

Lots of people fill out their tax return with great care, only to miss details that can make all the difference. For example, if your address is incomplete or incorrect, your refund could be delayed or sent to the wrong place.

If you will be moving, write the new address on your return, or if you don't know it yet, please call us to let us know as soon as you can so we can update your file.

Another important detail is attaching all the slips and receipts that support your claims for credits and deductions. If any are missing, your return may get held up while we contact you for the information.

We're making it easier.

Jr. Horticultural Society

Eight children attended the first meeting entitled Choosing our Crop, held at the home of Karen Kinloch, on Saturday, April 4. The group was divided into juniors, for those five to 10 years old, and seniors, for those 10 years and up.

The meeting began with looking through seed catalogues and each child decided what he or she will grow (vegetables and flowers), leading up to the show to be held in August at the community centre. This is the highlight of the summer, when the children will submit their entry for judging. Next meeting will be held in May.

50/50 Barrel Draw

The winner of the Optimist Club 50/50 barrel draw is Keith Everall. We have all been watching the blue-barrel sitting, then leaning on the ice in the middle of the river just above the bridge, wondering when it would finally go through. Well, Saturday was the day! At 3:09 p.m., Saturday, April 4, the barrel sank through enough to disconnect the electrical timing device, and the person who had the chosen the exact time is Keith Everall, who wins the 50/50 draw. Congratulations Keith!

The Optimist Club members held their meeting Thursday, April 2, at 7:30 p.m. at the community centre.

Plans are being finalized for the Say No To Drugs program to be held during the last week of April. On Mon., April 27, there will be a BABES puppet show at the school for the primary grades.

Tuesday, the 28th at 8 p.m., there will be a parents' information night, also at the school, with a film and a panel of guests which will answer questions from the audience, and free literature. This is open to anyone in the community who is interested.

Wednesday, there will be a Talent Contest, for students in the middle grades, who will prepare a skit, song, rap, etc. on the theme of Say No To Drugs.

Friday, May 1, there will be a teen dance at the community centre, from 8 to 11 p.m.

The members heard a report on the Tri-Star basketball competition, and winners will be receiving their plaque at the school's open house on May 6. The Shriners, who have been sponsoring Natasha Knight who won in her age group, have asked to be a part of the evening, as this was her first athletic event since surgery.

Luane Doyle will be representing the club at the upcoming zone meeting on April 12 in Ottawa.

Road signs for the Optimist Club have been received from the supplier, and will be installed along the roads accessing the village.

Elections of the '92-'93 executive will be held on April 30, at a special meeting, to choose the executive to take over on October 1. The Optimist International bylaws specify that officers hold a one-year term and that the new executive be elected six months prior to their term, thereby allowing each officer a six months training period.

All members are encouraged to attend meetings in order to keep abreast of the business of the club and participate.

Winner of the 50/50 draw was Marilyn Peters. The next meeting will be April 16 at 7:30 p.m. at the community centre.

St. Andrews Presbyterian Church

There will be a sessions meeting at 9:05 a.m., before service on Sun., April 12. The Lord's Supper will be celebrated, new members will be received into the congregation, and Marion Smith and Kevin McLeod will be ordained elders.

A time of fellowship and refreshments will follow the service. The men of the church will also be making their plans for the sunrise breakfast they traditionally serve the church family on Easter Sunday.

There will be a Good Friday service at 8 p.m. on Fri., April 17, at the St. Andrews United Church, Martintown. Rev. Norma Baumet will be conducting the service, and Rev. Ian MacMillan will be preaching.

The congregation is encouraged to bring a lily on Easter Sunday to decorate the church.

The Youth Group of St. Andrews Presbyterian churches in Martintown and Lancaster will be attending the 8th annual Easter drama, The Crucifixion, at the Life Centre in Gloucester on Thurs., April 16.

The group will meet at the church, and leave at 5:30 p.m., to attend the play, for which there is no admission charge. Some 20 youth are expected to attend. To arrange transportation, phone John Ferguson or Rev. Ian MacMillan.

News and events

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McDermid were hosting their granddaughter Karen and her husband Dan Bonin this weekend. They were visiting from their home in Milton, and attended church with their grandparents.

As a followup to a previous item a few weeks ago I phoned Sharon Huizinga to enquire about her planned trip to Sudbury. Sharon took a few days during the March break to go and visit the campus of Laurentian University, and she met with basketball coach Ennis, and played with the team there. She also discussed her courses with the professors, and now it's a fact . . . Sharon will be attending Laurentian University in September, majoring in law and justice. Congratulations and good luck, Sharon.

Our own Jo Van Loon of the North Branch will be singing with the Centennial Choir on Fri., April 10 at the Aultsville auditorium, under the direction of Peter Willsher, who also teaches piano to Martintown public students. The presentation is entitled Show Tunes from Broadway and curtain time is 8 p.m.

The school committee of Tagwi Secondary School is inviting parents to an evening seminar, Thurs., Apr. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Dr. David Kaufman, chief psychologist for the SD&G Public Board of Education, will address the audience on To Go Grey or not to Go Grey, — How to Survive as a Parent of a Teenager. He will speak on communication styles between parents and teens, and suggest assertive ways to establish home routines. There is no admission charge for this seminar, and all parents are welcome.

Martintown Public School

Marland and Pearl Murray of St. Andrews visited the Grade 6 class this past week, at the invitation of teacher Mrs. McLaughlan.

Mr. Murray is the treasurer of the Cornwall Township Historical Society, and has contributed to books on the local history. He was also instrumental in setting up the replica of the 1784 log church in St. Andrews.

The log church is the actual size of the original and is made of hand-hewn logs, built to specifications as researched by experts, and was erected last year on its present site near the bridge in St. Andrews, after being two or three years in the planning stages, fundraising, etc. Mr. Murray spoke to his young audience on the history of Martintown, and told them stories of long ago.

The grades 5 through 8 students had a spring dance in the gym on Fri., April 3.

Two Grade 8 students have been nominated by teachers to attend a three-day national hearing on the environment and international development. To be eligible to apply, the youth had to be nominated by teachers, and meet the following criteria: be 10-15 years of age, have shown a special interest in development and environment issues; have demonstrated leadership potential; have ability to work with others; have good oral and/or writing skills.

They had to submit an essay, up to 650 words, or a video or audio tape, outlining two environment/development issues of concern to them, possible solutions to these problems, and a role that youth can play in bringing about change.

A selection panel representing a cross-section of Canadian youth will select a total of 24 delegates representing different regions of Canada. The conference is scheduled for April 23-26 in Ottawa.

If chosen, based on information provided on their application forms and their essays, Danielle or Michelle James could be attending the Ottawa Conference organized by the Canadian Coalition for the Rights of Children. The Canadian representative chosen at this National Hearing conference will be attending the United Nations Conference on the Environment and Development in Brazil from May 26-June 12, 1992.

Good luck to our Martintown students in their effort.

Reminders

Canoe race Sunday

It's a go for the Canoe Race set for Sun., April 12. Andy Code of the Raisin Region Conservation Authority tells me that the weather is expected to be mild this week, and clearing for the weekend. The water level is higher than in years past, with a flow of 1600 cu. feet per second as of Monday. This is expected to be reduced by race day, but record times are anticipated for this year's race, as the water is flowing fast. The race gets better every year!

Come out and watch the canoeists on Sunday, and remember to be a friendly Martintowner, as you are hosting all these visitors to our small community. See you at the race!

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. & Mrs. Keith Lapierre of Summerstown are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter Julie to David, son of Mr. & Mrs. Alex Jeffrey of Thorndale, Ontario. the marriage will take place on June 6, 1992 at St. Mary's Parish in Williamstown.

In Memoriam

BONHOWER — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Roy, who passed away April 8, 1991.
God called him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts we love him still;
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
—Always remembered by Jean and family.

ROUSSIN — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Rolland who passed away on April 11, 1983.
The years are quickly passing
Though still we can't forget
For in the hearts that love him
His memory lingers yet.
—Always remembered by wife Pauline and family. 15-1p

UCW partakes in celebration of birth, renewal

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

The members of the Glen Sandfield UCW met Wednesday afternoon April 1 for their regular monthly meeting, but it was anything but a regular meeting. The president Lorna Chapman welcomed the group and read a short passage on wholeness from the Alive booklet. After the prayer, the member's purpose was repeated to begin the brief business meeting.

Nancy Campbell our gracious hostess and secretary read the minutes and she had received a letter from the group's foster child Derra in Africa. It is always written in French and translated into English. This is a beginner and he composes an interesting letter for one so small. (He is about eight years old.)

The summer event is in Lennoxville this year at Bishop U., on August 7, 8 and 9. The UCW annual meeting will be in Knox St. Paul in Cornwall on June 9. Registration is at 10 a.m. In Prescott April 8 there will be a UCW meeting, and the topic of the speaker's talk will be celebration of women. A roast beef dinner will be served, cost $5.

Margo MacRae gave a very favorable financial report and the meeting was turned over to Nancy Campbell for devotions. This portion was the celebration of the Seder Meal, such as Jesus would have had with his disciples at the last Passover supper. This is a week-long celebration of the Exodus from Egypt, and during the meal in a Hebrew home, the chapters from Exodus relating the flight from Egypt would be read.

Bessie MacLennan took the part of the mother, and lit the festive candles. Margo MacRae read the father's part, the Niddush, the blessing of the feast, and the Kiddush Cup (the first cup of grape juice, which would have been wine at Jesus' meal). The ritual of handwashing followed before Marpas, the celebration of birth and renewal.

The group responded to the prayer "Blessed are you, King of the universe, O Lord our God, who creates the fruit of the soil." All dipped the bitter herb in salted water (parsley) and ate it. Afinomen, the father breaks the matzoh (unleavened bread) and a piece is hidden by the children (Della MacDonald and Lorna Chapman) to be eaten later at the end of the meal, to remind all of the Messiah, whose appearance is awaited.

The youngest child asks the four questions, which tell the story of the exodus from Egypt, and the father answers each in turn. The Haggadah is the telling of the story of the departure from bondage, (when Exodus 12, 13 and 14 would be read). The symbols are held up by the father. The lamb bone represents the pasach or paschal lamb sacrificed by the Hebrew people in memory of Passover. The Matzoh is a reminder of the affliction and haste of the Exodus, when they could not prepare leavened bread.

The bitter herb Maror (parsley or horseradish) recalls the hard lives of slavery in Egypt. The haroset a mixture of apple, cinnamon nuts and wine symbolizes the mortar the Israelites used to carry out the Pharoh's labor. A sandwich of Matzoh, Maror and Haroset was eaten, the matzoh, symbol of freedom, the maror of slavery and the haroset of toil. For in time of bondage there is hope of redemption, in time of freedom there is knowledge of service. Haliel Psalm 113 was read alternately, and the second cup is called the Hagoadah. (The cups were refilled if necessary.) The symbolic meal begins with a hard boiled egg, dipped in salt water, a symbol of tears and grief for the loss of the temple. Slices of egg dipped in salt water are eaten. It is also a sign of new life and new growth, thus of hope. As the Passover dinner began, the children would find the hidden Matzoh and receive a small gift. Father says, "What has been broken can be made whole. Today's children are those who will bring peace, hope and freedom in the future."

Grace is said after the meal, and Afikomen (dessert) is redeemed for a gift and the father gives it out. After this nothing more is eaten. He would take a piece of the matzoh break it, and pass it on to the next person, until all have a morsel. This is probably the moment where Jesus at the last supper with his disciples, took the bread, blessed it and broke it and gave it to his disciples saying, this is my body, broken for you (Luke 22:19). All eat what they have taken.

The third cup is called the cup of blessing refilled if necessary. This is probably where Jesus took the cup, offered thanks and gave it to the disciples saying, "This cup, which is poured out for you is the new covenant in my blood (Luke 22:20).

An empty chair had been left for Elijah, and according to tradition the cup is filled and the door is opened while stand to welcome the long expected messenger of the final redemption of all the people from oppression. The Jewish people would read all of the Psalms 113 to the end of Psalm 119. The devotions closed with the passing of the peace.

It is thought that at this point Jesus said "Peace I leave you, my own peace I give you, a peace the world cannot give." All make a sign of peace. The benediction was given by the father. "Shalom." Festivities would then continue until all are dancing and celebrating together, it is a great time of joy for the Jewish people. For our group it was a very moving experience.

A reminder that Christian Women's meeting in Lachute will be April 13 at 1 p.m. They are holding it in the Orange Hall this time, due to renovations. Our own Patricia Hamilton is the special feature speaker on clothes that suit you fashion designs. At the recent official meeting in Glen Sandfield everyone was sorry to learn that Rev. Pat and Rev. Colin MacDonald will be leaving the charge at the end of June. They will be going to a church in Woodbridge, where the congregation is mostly Italian. Everyone wishes them the very best in their new situation, but they will certainly both be missed in GEPC.

The News 1920 and 1921

Alexandria's Tribute of Love and Sorrow

Through the united efforts of the Glengarry and County's Own Chapters I.O.D.E. and Glengarry Camp G.W.V.A. an mpressive ceremony was staged in Alexander Hall, yesterday morning. This took the form of a cenotaph which was to serve as the symbol of Alexandria's tribute of love and sorrow to its war dead. The cross was draped with flags and placed in the centre of the stage.

His Worship Mayor Simon filled the chair very acceptably. The ceremony was opened by the keeping of two minutes silence followed by the singing of the National Anthem after which the Bugle Call for Prayer was sounded by Bandmaster Eldridge.

His Lordship Bishop Couturier was then called upon. He recounted a few of the many hardships which our brave heroes suffered, of the continual danger they had to face and pointed out that they had been inspired throughout by a sense of duty. He stressed the necessity of instilling in the hearts of the children a true sense of duty as life would not be worth while without it. These men had shown the greatest love in laying down their lives for us, and we owed them a debt we could never repay. Never, therefore, should we forget, what had been done for us, and we must ever be ready to obey the call of duty.

The flowers, presented by the Glengarry and County's Own Chapters, I.O.D.E., the Great War Veterans, Miss Eva Playter for the Glengarry Mothers, were then laid on the cross.

Latest News of Hydro-Electric

The past ten days or so has seen a rapid advance in the re-construction of the distribution system for Alexandria, the poles are now practically all erected, and a considerable amount of the wire has been strung, Main, Elgin and Bishop Sts. having been completed as far as the Grand Trunk Ry. Crossing. The line from the Grand Trunk crossing to the Power House has also received some repairs, this section being n good condition will not be replaced, beyond a few improvements.

The pales to carry the primary line into Lacombe's Mill have also been erected, Mr. Lacombe being the first power customer to sign a contract for power in Alexandria. Poles carrying the urimaries into the Munro-McIntosh Carriage Plant have also been erected, as well as at a few other minor points.

On the Main High Tension Line from the Cornwall Sub-station into Alexandria, the work was temporarily held up last week owing to some slight difficulties with the Highway Department regarding right of way, this difference has now been settled we are glad to note, and the work is going on again, the poles are all up as far as Martintown. A number of men are now employed in Alexandria preparing poles and material to start construction from this end, and a considerable amount of material is now on the ground for the Alexandria Sub-station.

A "40-foot Blow"

To blow ensilage 40-feet into a silo—requires continuous and evenly distributed power on heavy and lighter loads alike.

Choking means subsequent delays

Upon the belt rests responsibility for driving the cutting box at proper, even speed.

Klingtite Belting

will do the job. Its extreme flexibility and rough, gripping surface prevent slippage and save power. And Klingtite will not stretch.

Before buying a belt, or making a renewal, come and have a talk with us. Or, a post card will bring you fuller particulars.

It's been rather like camping out around our place for the past week. They have been remodeling my kitchen and I have been eating my meals, wherever I can find a seat. However, things are looking up and thank goodness everything will be back to normal soon I hope.
