The Senior Epworth League.

Another pleasant and profitable evening was spent by those who were present at the Epworth League service on Monday evening.

The topic, "Two Prayer Lessons," was taken by Miss Helen Smith who read a very helpful paper on the subject. Miss Cora Merkley sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." The attendance was almost up to the hundred mark and may be taken as evidence of the sustained interest in the League's work that the young people of the community are taking.

Jail Car on Train.

The first of the C. P. R. harvesters' excursions from the east has arrived at Winnipeg, taking in four thousand harvest hands. There was an agreeable absence of the disorderly disturbance that marked these excursions through Ontario in previous years. This was owing to a new arrangement, the rear car on the train being occupied by special service officers and was used as a temporary jail. All disturbers of the peace were promptly arrested, handcuffed and placed in the temporary cells. After half a dozen were in the cells it served as a wholesome warning to the others.

Molsons Bank Clerks Must Get $1200 or be Single.

Some of the would-be benedicts in the Molsons bank, who have not had the necessary $1,000 a year salary, required by the bank before they could marry, will now have to tarry a little longer. A copy of an order issued by General Manager Elliott of the bank has been received in Ottawa. The order makes it compulsory for clerks to have a salary of $1,200 before getting married. In increasing this rate the Molsons bank is going beyond the limit set by most of the Canadian banks. The limit in the Traders bank, the Bank of Ottawa and the majority of banks is $1,000. The bank of Montreal, however, makes it more difficult for a man to acqnire a better half, with a restriction that he should have $1,500 per year.

Has Side Show Lamb.

Mr. J. H. Loughridge, of Morewood, Ont., has a curiosity on his farm in the shape of a little lamb born this spring with some most unusual characteristics. While the animal has but one head and neck it has four front feet and about the breast a second body branches off, and on each of the bodies there are two hind legs and a tail. The animal, though alive, is unable to stand properly and when it is perched on one pair of legs the other limbs are in the air. It is white in color and is unique in this part of the country.

Vankleek Hill Fire.

Fire which broke out in the sheds of the Dominion hotel at Vankleek Hill on Monday morning, destroyed the stores and residence of P. H. T. Saucier, jeweler; A. Matte, miller; Chee Foo, laundryman, and J. Farmer, harnessmaker. As all the buildings were of frame, they burned fiercely. The stock belonging to C. S. Northrott was badly damaged by smoke. Most of the losses are covered by insurance.

Baggage Does Not Hold Seat.

According to a recent decision of the Court of Appeals of New York a piece of baggage placed on a car seat of a railway train by a passenger does not preempt the seat. The court ruled that passenger cars are to carry passengers, not baggage and that placing a grip or other luggage in the seat while the owner temporarily leaves the car in no sense secures him the seat. In other words if you want to make sure of a seat in an ordinary coach do not leave it when you've got it.

Mr. Kavanagh Goes to Morrisburg.

Mr. C. R. Kavanagh, manager of the Bank of Ottawa in this place has returned from a trip extending over about two months. He visited the Seattle exposition, Chicago, St. Paul, Detroit and other principal places in the United States; also Vancouver, B. C., and other principal centres in the northwest. He was delighted with his trip and from appearances it seemed to agree with him. On his return he was apprised of his removal from Chesterville to the branch at Morrisburg, to which place he has gone. Mr. Kavanagh has been manager here for the past four years, or since the opening of the branch, during which time he has established a good connection for that institution. He has made many friends in this district who will be sorry to hear of his leaving.

Dedication at Monkland.

Formal Opening of the New St. Andrew's Church.

The dedication services of the new Presbyterian Church at Monklands, Ont. were held on Sunday, Aug. 15th. The Rev. N. H. McGillivray, of St. John's Church, Cornwall, who is Moderator of the field, conducted both services, assisted by the pastor, Mr. Andrew Drysdale.

There was a very large turnout at the inauguration, every part available being occupied.

The Moderator, who chose for his text the words "I go a fishing," (John 21-3) gave a very eloquent rendering of the subject, bringing clearly before his hearers the necessity of each and all being interested workers and faithful followers of the cause of Christ in every sphere. He congratulated the Monklands people on their newly erected place of worship—which, had it not been for the energetic and enterprising spirit of their pastor, would certainly not yet have been erected. For not only had he raised all the money necessary, but he had also superintended the whole building proceedings and it was greatly to his credit that so fine a building, suitable to the needs of the community's spiritual well-being, had been opened entirely free from debt.

In the evening the Rev. Mr. McGillivray chose his text from Exodus 4th Chapter, 3rd verse: "What is that in thine hand?" and was listened to with marked attention by another large and very appreciative congregation.

Following the dedication services, on Monday, a supper and entertainment was held celebrating the opening of the new church. During the afternoon Mr. D. McLean, of Montreal, and Mr. A. McRae, of Maxville, rendered bagpipe selections, which enlivened the proceedings considerably. In the evening a concert was given. There wns a splendid programme, preceding which an interesting account was given by Mr. Drysdale as to why the church had been built, and how they had been enabled to complete it free from debt. He kept the large audience in humour by referring to how all the requirements for the new church had been purchased at the lowest price—that price, being in the majority of cases, nothing or next to it.

The programme was contributed to by Miss Nesbitt, Miss MacIntyre, Miss May Shaver and Mr. Nesbitt, of Avonmore; Mr. F. J. McRae and Miss McRae, of Maxville, and Mr. John A. Drysdale, lately from Scotland, who rendered selections on the violin.

Speeches were given by Mr. Duncan Campbell, and Mr. Isaac Robinson, who paid a great tribute to the untiring and persevering qualities of their pastor, and just as Mr. Drysdale was at the point of closing what had proved a very enjoyable evening, Mr. J. Munro, accompanied by Mrs. Wm. Hill, ascended the platform, and, to the applause of the audience, remarked that the program was not yet finished. There was still something else to be performed, and on behalf of the congregation, then asked Mr. Drysdale to accept an address and well-filled purse as a token of their gratitude. The church has been named St. Andrew's, in honor of their pastor, and it would always be a reminder to the people of Monklands of one who had endeavored to elevate the people and help the good cause.

Mr. Drysdale replied in a brief address. It had always been his aim and object in life to spread the cause of Christ and His Kingdom. For this he had striven, and he sincerely hoped that in the new church many would find the comfort and spiritual blessing he earnestly prayed for.

The National Anthem being sung and benediction pronounced, a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

Wanderer Found.

Kingston, Aug. 21.—Reports just received here state that Eliza Woodcock, the young woman missing from her home near Ardendale for eight days, was found in the woods and that as a result of her long wanderings without food or shelter has become insane and will be sent to Rockwood asylum.

Bear May Have Killed Woman.

Kingston, Aug. 20.—It is said that pieces of dress and some bunches of hair have been found at Davis Bend, near Beaver Creek, by a searching party looking for Miss E. E. Woodcock, who disappeared on the night of Aug. 14th. The goods were found four miles from where E. Campbell last saw her. Her friends fear foul play, while others think that in the rough and rugged country she may have fallen a victim to a rapacious wild animal. The search is to be vigorously prosecuted. Beaver Creek, the home of the young woman, is near Ardendale Station, on the Canadian Pacific Railway, between Tweed and Sharbot Lake, and about 120 miles from Kingston.

The footprints of dyspepsia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First, these tiny inside Stomach, Heart, and Kidney nerves fail. Then gas belching, Heart palpitation, or failing Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the heart or Kidneys. That is wrong, Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative. It is the nerves, not the organs that are calling for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the gain. A test will tell. Sold by W. G. Bolster.

Hilarious Tramps Caught.

Belleville, Ont., Aug. 20.—The three tough tramps who cut a dash around Tweed about three weeks ago, were on trial here to-day before Magistrate Masson. Their names are Charles Howard, George Acomb and William Crashley. At Tweed they stole a boat, and floated in the river, stopping off at a farm house long enough to steal a pig which they killed. They were firing off a revolver for amusement it was said, and one of them got a bullet in the neck. Then they were arrested and brought to the county jail here. This morning they pleaded guilty to stealing the boat and pig and Howard pleaded guilty to having a revolver in his possession illegally. The magistrate deferred sentence for a week.

How He Heard News.

Kingston, Ont., Aug. 20.—Patrick McArde picked up a newspaper and in it learned of the killing of his youngest brother at Field, B.C., through an explosion. The deceased was a prospector, and had been in the West for some time. The brother has sought a lawyer to ascertain why he was not notified, as among the belongings was a certificate of his birth sent to him from Kingston, and also to look after the unmarried man's estate and considerable life insurance.

WHAT every cook should know is, which wheat makes the best flour, and why.

Winter wheat is put into the ground in the fall, but does not ripen until the following July. It matures slowly, is soft and very starchy.

Spring wheat is sown in April or May, and ripens in August. It's a flinty, translucent wheat, rich in gluten and contains nearly twice as much nutriment as winter wheat.

Royal Household Flour

is made entirely from the hard, nutritious spring wheat, carefully selected from all the wheat of this kind grown in Canada.

Royal Household is fine, light and pure—milled by the most improved methods—in a mill as clean as your own kitchen.

SIR GILBERT PARKER

The Greatest Canadian Novelist.

A tall, well-built man, with dark hair, closely trimmed beard, calm, observant eyes, gentle, and with the ease and polish of a fine stock intensified by the culture that comes from travel—this is Sir Gilbert Parker, Canada's great novelist. In the famous city of Quebec he was born in 1862, the son of an officer in the Royal Artillery and the descendant of many generations of fighting men. It seemed natural that he, too, should woo the cannon, but he had his eye on the cassock and was educated for the church. He was ordained a deacon but his train of thought was switched off the clerical track when he began to lecture on English literature at Trinity College, Toronto.

In 1886 he went to Australia for his health, and as one of the editors of the "Sydney Herald" had a roving commission to study the South Sea Islands and their people. In his three and a half years in Oceanica he broadened in mind and grew more sturdy in body; he wrote and lectured, became interested in the stage and with wide-open eyes saw life under new conditions. The literary harvest of this period was an adaptation of Goethe's "Faust," produced in Sydney, another play "The Vendetta," and two books of travel. Then he went to England, and his real literary genius had its first outcroppings in his works of fiction.

His remarkable short stories "Pierre and his People," opened up the literary dark continent of the Hudson Bay country. They were fresh, crisp, vigorous and virile tales; the field was new, the treatment masterly, the character drawing vital, real and sympathetic, and the open-air atmosphere bracing and tingling as a cold-water plunge. They had the same note of sureness, the same unquestioned revelation of the coming of a great writer, that marked the début of Kipling in his "Plain Tales from the Hills." Most authors have a special sentimental fondness for their first-born, but Sir Gilbert bought back and suppressed his first novel "The Chief Factor," after more than fifty thousand copies had been sold. Of his twenty or more books, perhaps "The Right of Way" has inspired most discussion and added most to his prestige and popularity.

This famous novelist, journalist, lecturer, poet, dramatist and member of Parliament, lives in London, in the aristocratic seclusion of Carlton House Terrace, a short street closed at one end, so that the rumble of traffic comes only like the surge of the sea heard at a distance. In a study on the fourth floor Sir Gilbert does his literary work. Success, which turns the heads of many of fortune's favorites, simply gives new poise, ease and dignity to others. Simple, strong and unaffected, Sir Gilbert carries with an unconscious grace the honors he so justly won.

FISHERMEN IN CANADA

MANY NOTABLES SPEND VACATIONS IN THE EAST.

James J. Hill and a Party Are at the St. John River and Sir Charles Ross Goes Almost to the Straits of Belleisle For His Sport — Restigouche Salmon Club Sells Its Shares at $15,000 Each.

James J. Hill and his fishing companions now in camp on the St. John River, nearly four hundred miles below Quebec, on the fringe of the Labrador peninsula, are having royal sport. They went in their yacht from Quebec City to Mr. Hill's river, for which he pays the Government of the Province of Quebec $5,000 a year. The river accommodates about four or five rods easily, and the combined score of the anglers often runs from 500 to 600 fish. Mr. Hill is a most persistent fisherman, casting from fairly early morning as long as it is light enough to see the fly on the water at night, without any apparent fatigue after the first few days in camp. His angling companions this season are George F. Baker, Samuel Thorne, L. W. Hill, President George B. Harris of the Burlington and Dr. Geo. D. Stewart.

Sir Charles Ross, the manufacturer of the Ross rifle, with which the Canadian militia is armed, goes further away still from civilization for his fishing, within a short distance from the Straits of Belleisle, where he finds his fish in a river rejoicing in the name of Olomonasheboo.

The Restigouche Salmon Club, is the most exclusive of its kind in the world. Its shares are worth some $15,000 each, and can only be held by those who can pass a ballot of existing members. The annual dues are very heavy, and it has been said that every salmon killed by members costs them from $5 to $10 per pound. The fishing privileges of the Restigouche Salmon Club are worth not less than a million dollars. Some of them are only leased from the New Brunswick Governments for a term of years, but others are riparian rights, for which large sums of money have been paid to the original owners.

Yet there is still living an old angler who forty years ago paid but $100 a year for the lease of the entire Restigouche River, now valued at considerably over a million of dollars. Mr. Brackett, the angler in question, is the famous fish painter of Boston, who created the four pictures of which reproductions are so common entitled "The Rise," "The Leap," "The Struggle" and "Landed." He is now 86 years of age, and is at present fishing on the Marguerite, a branch of the Saguenay.

Another club of millionaires leases the Cascapedia from the Quebec Government, paying some $10,000 annually for the privilege. This was the club to which belonged the late J. G. Hecksher, secretary of the New York Horse Show. It was formed by W. H. de Forrest and Harry Holling, R. G. Dun and others. Mr. Dun and H.R.H. the Princess Louise, are credited with killing the two largest salmon taken out of this river, one of the fish weighing fifty-four pounds, the other fifty-two. The present Prince of Wales has also fished the Cascapedia, as well as most of the Governors-General of Canada. When King Edward was in Canada as Prince of Wales in 1860, he was taken to the Marguerite River for salmon fishing, and though a fine salmon was hooked for him by his guide, he failed to save it.

Dr. S. Weir Mitchel, the novelist, is one of the latest anglers to pass through Quebec on his way to the Restigouche, where in the past he was in the habit of fishing with William K. Vanderbilt, Billy Florence, Stanford White, Henry T. Sloane, Rev. Wm. S. Rainsford, Robt. Goelet, Wm. L. Breese, and other club members.

Some individual salmon pools on the Restigouche have been sold as high as from $30,000 to $50,000, and in some instances the vendors were poor farmers who happened to own the strip of land bordering upon the valuable piece of water where the salmon rest below a fall or rapid on their difficult journey up the river to their spawning grounds.

Rarely, however, has it been given to any salmon fisherman to enjoy the luck described from the Godbout River on the north shore, where the guardian of the stream, Napoleon Comeau, in one day killed fifty-seven fish weighing 634 pounds.

Sir Lomer Gouin, Prime Minister of Quebec, and a party of friends are fishing with much success the finest river on the north shore of the Gulf—the Moisie—as guests of Iver W. Adams, of Boston. He bought the entire bed of this river from the Government with all fishing rights owned by the province thereon for the sum of $30,000, but other privileges bought by him materially increased the cost of the fishing rights, which are now valued at considerably more than $100,000. The fish in this river often weigh from thirty to forty pounds each and they are exceedingly abundant. Litigation is now pending before the Privy Council in London as to the proprietorship of the stream, the fishing in which is claimed by a party owning most of the river banks. The question is one of vast importance to American salmon fishermen, as it may affect many other fishing rights in Canada based on riparian ownership.

LAST OF THOUSANDS.

How the Newspaperman Gave His Preacher Father a Text.

A good story is told of a trick played some years ago by a well-known Montreal newspaperman on his father, a minister in Chicago. The scribe was home on a visit, and while knocking about the house came on his father's purse. Looking into it in idle curiosity he discovered a single one-dollar bill. The sight of the lone bill brought an inspiration, and taking out his fountain pen he wrote on the margin of the bill the following words: "The last of many thousands spent on wine and women."

Not long after his father called him into his study. The minister's manner was very impressive.

"See this, my boy," he said in solemn tones, handing over the bill with the inscription, "study it carefully, and ponder on its lesson. This is a sad warning given to us all by some unfortunate wretch who fell lower and lower until he reached the end of his fortune. God alone knows if after spending that final dollar he did not end his fatal career by a self-inflicted death. Take this to heart, and—" the sermon went on for about a quarter of an hour.

At first the joker had been inclined to tell the truth about the inscription to his father. But as the clergyman proceeded in a voice of great emotion, he realized that the explanation would be difficult to make. And finally he decided to let the matter rest and leave his father in the possession of this beautiful case in point. The result was that the minister got up in his church the next Sunday with the dollar bill in his hand, and preached on this text one of the most powerful sermons he ever delivered. In fact so great was the success of it, that every now and then he makes the famous dollar bill the subject of an exhortation to young men. It would be a brave man who would tell him the true story of it now.

Weight of Brain.

The average weight of the human brain is forty-nine and a half ounces avoirdupois for males and forty-four ounces for females. In males the minimum weight is about thirty-four ounces and the maximum sixty-five ounces. In females the minimum weight is thirty-one ounces and the maximum fifty-six. In newborn infants the brain weighs about 11.65 ounces for the male and ten ounces for the female.

A Beneficent Rule.

"So you are ninety-four years old! To what do you attribute your long life?"

"A good many things have contributed to it, the most important, I think, being the care which I have always taken not to get into a fight with a bigger man than myself."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Trick.

"I know he does, but the trick is to get edible radishes and lettuce out of it, and that he can't do."—Detroit Free Press.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend Hogs Fed on Garbage.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—A disease suspiciously like cholera has been discovered among the hogs around Ottawa. A SPIKED MOUNTAIN.

One of the Remarkable Geological Freaks of Mexico.

One of the most remarkable geological freaks in Mexico is a mountain situated on the outskirts of Pachuca which presents the appearance at a distance of being covered with spikes. The sides of the mountain are closely studded with stone columns or palisades. These columns are five to twelve feet long and as large around as an average man's body. It is a remarkable uplift of nature which has the appearance, however, of being the handiwork of human beings. One side of the mountain is almost perpendicular, and the stone columns protrude from the surface at right angles, forming an impressive picture.

Pachuca is one of the most noted mining districts in Mexico, and it is said by geologists that this remarkable spiked mountain is out of keeping with the remainder of the formation of the mineralized region. The stone is as hard as flint and has withstood the elements for ages. The spikes form a natural battlement that makes the mountain appear from a distance like some ancient fort. The mines of the Pachuca district are situated not far from this wonderful freak of nature, but the formation encountered in their respective underground workings is of an entirely different kind from that of the palisade outcropping. —Pachuca (Mexico) Cor. Indianapolis News.

THE DANGER IN DUST.

A Medical Writer Who Says "Let Sleeping Germs Lie."

Did you ever realize what a dangerous thing it is to clean house in the spring? A writer in a London medical journal, the Lancet, insists that spring cleaning has many possibilities for evil if not properly conducted. Dirt and dust are full of disease breeding germs; but, however dangerous these creatures may be when lodged in the woodwork or comfortably settled under the hall carpet, they are much more ferocious, this writer insist, if stirred up and irritated and sent flying through the air. If we can't keep our houses clean as we go we had better let them stay dirty. This writer's rule is to "let sleeping germs lie."

What a house would look like after forty years of total abstinence from spring cleaning we leave to our women readers to judge. Yet we venture the assertion that there is one creature who would find the situation entirely satisactory. It dislikes the annual cleaning ceremony, it hates to eat cold suppers off the kitchen table, and beating carpets is to it an abomination. It will doubtless make capital out of the Englishman's warning against the perils of housecleaning.

Book of the Dead.

The Book of the Dead is a most remarkable literary relic of ancient Egypt, of uncertain date and origin, but well known before the kings of the first dynasty. Probably the collected work of many minds in different ages, it was regarded as the work of the god Thoth and therefore of divine authority, dealing mainly with the dead and their future state. Some of its texts, prayers, hymns and ritual were used by the predynastic priests, and parts of the book are said to belong to a period fifty centuries before the Christian era. Copies of it were placed in the tombs, and texts from it were inscribed on coffins to preserve the dead from dangers and to direct them to the boat of Ra on their way to the hall of Osiris, which was the goal desired. The oldest existing papyrus copy of the book was written for "Nu, the son of the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal Amenhetep and of the lady of the house Senseneb" and probably belongs to the early part of the eighteenth dynasty.

A Fateful Breach of Etiquette.

Under the third empire in France Sainte-Beuve brought disgrace upon himself because at breakfast at the Tuileries he carelessly opened his napkin and placed it over his two knees. To this he added the crime of cutting his egg in two at the middle. Court etiquette prescribed that the half folded napkin should lie on the left knee and the top of the egg was to be merely broken with the edge of the spoon and drained with the tip of the spoon. For his failings in these respects Sainte-Beuve's name was stricken off the imperial visiting list. — London Chronicle.

Balancing an Egg.

All the world knows how Columbus on a historic occasion made an egg stand on end. After many learned theories had been advanced on balancing the egg he set the egg on end by, of course, mashing down hard enough to form a base, but the problem is capable of still another solution. It is an easy matter to set an egg on a plate, for instance, if you know how. The trick is impossible until the egg has been boiled in an upright position. The position of the hardened yoke at the end of the shell lowers the center of gravity until the sphere can be spun or even balanced with ease.

Explosion Wrecked Hotel.

Women in Adjoining House Killed by Shock.

Elmira, N. Y., August 24.—The police are investigating the origin of an explossion and fire which completely destroyed the Olympic Hotel, on West water street, in this city, and caused the death of Mrs. K. W. Roby this morning. A policeman on his rounds tried the doors on the hotel just before the explosion and found them locked as usnal. He had proceeded only half a block when there was a terrific report and the rear portion of the building was blown into the Chemung river. An instant later a sheet of flame swept from all the windows on the second and third floors. The hotel was a roaring furnace by the time the firemen arrived and was completely burned out. Mrs. Robby was not in the hotel. She was sleeping in a room on the second floor of a frame building adjoining hotel The force of the explosion tore a hole 12 feet long and 20 inches wide through the ceiling of her room near her bed and the shock killed her. The fire is believed to be of incendiary origin, but the nature of the explosion cannot be ascertained. No one was in the hotel at the time of the explosion, the proprietor having locked the doors and left at 1 a. m.

Women's Institute Meet.

Mr. W. H. Casselman's lawn presented a very attractive appearance yesterday afternoon, the occasion of the Women's Institute meeting, when about thirty-five ladies were present, some of these members attending their first meeting and others joining for the first time.

The program consisted of a paper on "Various uses of salt," by Miss Ella Harrison and one by Mrs. W. A. Brown on "Woman's share in the world's work." Some very nice hot weather desserts were demonstrated by Miss Stella Merkley, Miss Minnie Foster and Miss Edna McGee. From these early beginnings we feel the art of cookery will reach a high degree of excellency in the near future. A very pleasant social hour was then spent and light refreshments served. Mrs. Casselman's kindness as hostess contributed much to the success of the meeting and the institute feels very grateful to her for putting her home at their disposal. All ladies are welcome to attend these meetings.—Com.

Left Widow and Board Bill Behind.

Sydney, N.S., August 24.—D. J. Smith from Boston, who had been stopping at a hotel in Sydney for some time, disappeared last week, leaving a board bill of $100. During the latter part of his stay Smith paid daily visits to the post office in quest of a $1,000 check which he expected from friends in Boston. Finally the money arrived and the recipient disappeared. While awaiting the arrival of the funds the man paid ardent attention to a pretty young widow, proposed marriage and was accepted, and the wedding was to come off as soon as the cheque reached here. The woman gave Smith her watch and a considerable sum of money to keep for her.

The police sent a telegram to New Glasgow, and the fleeing lover and board bill jumper was captured at Truro. He was being returned, and while the train was going at a fast rate Smith asked permission to go to the lavatory. Once inside he locked the door and forcing open the window he made good his escape. Search has been made, but Smith has not been located,

The Late William R. Allison.

The sad news of the sudden death of William R. Allison, of Dunbar, on Friday morning, April 13 was received with surprise and general regret throughout the entire community. He appeared to be in his usual health and worked up to noon the day before, ate a hearty dinner; but about 2 p. m. complained of severe pains across his chest and in his limbs, and in spite of all that medical skill could do, died about 12 hours later.

In his departure Winchester Township loses one of its most widely known and most highly respected citizens. His father's name was Andrew Allison and deceased was one of the ten children six sons and four daughters of whom only three survive viz. John Andrew and Nettie.

Willism R. was born Aug. 25th 1842, and lived all his life on the old farm and homestead. For nearly half a century he was a consistent member of the Methoist church and in his zeal and enthusiasm spared not himself, but like one of old, was "in labor more abundant," Both in his official and private career his whole hearted fidelity excited the admiration and won the confidence of all who knew him.

The funeral which was very largely attended, was held in the church, his pastor, Rev. J. Seller conducting the service, assisted by Revs. Wm. Phillip, President of the Conference, Thomas McAmmond, John Webster and A. J. Belton. The choir was assisted by Mrs. Laura Kerr, who sung two solos "Over Jesus Care" and "Face to Face." His remains were laid in the family lot at Elma cemetery by his four sons, Calton, Anson, Hugh and Fred.

To his widow Mrs. Allison, sons, two daughters, Jennie and Carrie, two brothers and one sister are extended the prayers and sympathies of a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

STEALING IN STORES.

TRICKS OF THE SHOPLIFTER.

The Satchel With a False Bottom and the Slit In the Dress Near the Belt. Some Schemes Successful Because of Their Very Simplicity.

As numerous as they are ingenious are the tricks of the modern shoplifters, declare store detectives. It keeps the detectives busy to "get on" to the devices of the men and women who live by their wits in stealing from stores. For tricks that are canny few classes of criminals, it is said, approach them.

The method of stealing by using the satchel with a false bottom is one of the cleverest of the tricks.

Well disguised, the shoplifter enters a store. Her eyes run over the counters. She perceives the object she wants—usually something small and valuable, sometimes a purse a customer has left lying on the counter.

Over the object the shoplifter places her satchel. Pretending to delve into the satchel to extract a purse or handkerchief, the thief lifts a false bottom in the bag, reaches under it, draws inside the desired article, adjusts the false bottom, closes the satchel and walks away.

"But this is only one of many clever ruses employed," declared a detective the other day. "The women especially are ingenious. Their dress, of course, helps them.

"One of the methods of stealing is for the shoplifter to have a slit in her dress near the belt. As she stands near the counter she can deftly seize the article desired, be it a piece of lace or costly fabric or a bit of jewelry, and slip it into the skirt. The folds of the skirt are voluminous and conceal the thing stolen.

"Some tricks are successful because of their simplicity. A fashionably dressed woman may walk into the clothing department, look over coat suits, pick up one, fold it neatly up, place it under her coat and walk away.

"If she is detected she will indignantly declare that she bought the suit some time before and that she has brought it back to be altered.

"Or a woman, her hands glittering with rings and dressed in the latest style, may walk into the store some winter day. She wears only a rich coat of dark fabric.

"In the coat department she will ask to see some fur lined coats. Oh, she is very particular and tries on one after another. Other customers come up, and the saleslady gets busy with them while madam is trying to suit herself.

"While the saleslady is turned she puts on one of the richest sable trimmed coats, turns on her heel and walks away. Perhaps the salesgirl may not notice the loss until there is an account of stock.

"Each month from fifty to sixty arrests are made in the average large department store. The detectives must be extremely careful, for a false charge would precipitate a suit for damages, which would mean many thousands.

"Certain departments hold especial lures for shoplifters. The jewelry department is invariably guarded. When the furs come in we have sleuths who keep their eyes open for the woman who likes to take a fur to the window to examine it, then running for the door; the woman with the false skirt and the woman who puts a fur on and audaciously walks away."

Although the sales departments and the detective departments work together, there exists between them a spirit of justifiable rivalry. If a detective perceives some one getting away with goods it casts discredit on the person behind the counter from which the goods were stolen. Therefore the sales folk keep an alert watch for shoplifters.

One might imagine that goods are dumped pellmell on the counters of the big stores. As a matter of fact, the efficient saleslady will have everything so arranged that she will notice the disappearance of an article almost immediately.

If a saleswoman suspects a person she immediately notifies the head detective. If it is a woman, a woman detective is usually put on the job. It is said store managers usually find women more efficient than men.

Few arrests are ever made in the stores, as an arrest gives only undesirable publicity. The detective usually follows suspected persons from the store and arrests him or her outside.

It is said that arrests for shoplifting in New York exceed 3,000 a year. In that city a full description of all shoplifters caught are sent to the Retail Dry Goods association, which in turn distributes the information to the various members.

Only by concerted action and with highly organized staffs of detectives can the stores cope with the ingenious shoplifters.

The detective system of the big stores, however, is now so perfect that it is dangerous to attempt shoplifting. Even the cleverest shoplifter faces a long jail term in the pursuit of her nefarious work.

More than that, if a shoplifter for any reason should escape paying the penalty of crime in one city she may not be so fortunate in another. Descriptions of all suspected persons are sent out broadcast, and arrest in another city may mean a jail term, even though the thief may have escaped punishment previously. — Philadelphia North American.

Newfoundland and Canada.

The political leader who should today appeal to the Newfoundland electorate on the question of Confederation would be disastrously defeated. But on the day when the leader of a party in the Island Colony makes up his mind to risk temporary defeat for the purpose of accomplishing Confederation, that day brings union between Newfoundland and Canada within the horizon of the proximate future. That leader must—unless the financial exigencies of the Island bring him extraneous aid — face an arduous campaign of education, but it will be a campaign crowned with victory.—Francis Asbury Carman, in The Canadian Magazine.

PAID THE DEBT.

The Captain Settled the Account Before His Vessel Sailed.

In Burnaby's "Travels In America In 1759," a book quite popular during the latter part of the eighteenth century, the following incident is related:

The captain of a British man-of-war cruising off the Massachusetts coast left his wife in Boston. On one of his visits to port she came down to the wharf to meet him, and she was saluted as a true and loving sailor's wife deserved. This violation of law was at once reported, and the captain was brought before the magistrate and sentenced to be publicly whipped. There was no getting out of it, and the captain submitted quite gracefully.

Just before the departure of his ship he gave an elaborate entertainment, to which all of the magistrates were invited. After the festivities were over and every one had shaken hands with the captain and was going over the side the magistrates were seized by the arms and stripped to the waist. Each one was led to the gangway, where a vigorous boatswain gave him thirty-nine lashes on the bare back and then hustled him over into a boat amid the cheers of the whole ship's company.

How Tobacco Got Its Name.

The origin of the word tobacco is not definitely settled. Oviedo, one of the early Spanish chroniclers, says it was named after a Y shaped instrument which was commonly used as a snuffing tube. The two prongs were placed in the nose, and fumes of the powdered leaf were inhaled. This was called "tobaco," which was the name given to the plant. On the contrary, one of the islands of the West Indies is said to have furnished the name. It is asserted that tobacco was first taken into Spain in 1558 by Fernandez, a physician, who had been sent by Philip II. of Spain to investigate the products of Mexico. It next reached Portugal, was soon introduced into France by the French ambassador, Jean Nicot, and sent to the Portuguese court in 1559. When he returned to his home he presented some of the seed and leaves to Queen Catherine de' Medici, and the scientific name of the plant was thereafter designated as "nicotine" in his honor.

The Honeymoon Boat.

If anywhere on the Pacific coast you should ask for the honeymoon boat, everyone would understand that you meant the Canadian Pacific's Princess Charlotte, which, when it was put on the Seattle-Vancouver service last summer, speedily acquired this happy nick-name. But it has been left for a cartoonist (not for the first time in history) to set the seal on a fashion. Mr. Fitzmaurice, of The Vancouver Daily Province, had an amusing picture the other day showing the quays of Vancouver thronged with newly-married couples attracted by such announcements as "Wedding rings free with every return ticket," "All employes are experienced best men," etc. The artist's version of the familiar hotel catchword that porters meet all trains is "The Company's own bridesmaids meet every boat on arrival." Still, the C.P.R., as an enterprising corporation, would be the last to deny merit in the idea.

Growth of Saskatchewan.

Figures recently issued from the Census and Statistics Office tell of the marvellous growth of the Province of Saskatchewan. At the end of June 1906 there were 122,398 farms in the three prairie provinces, and at the end of 1908 the homesteads entered, less all cancellations, increased the number to 190,234, or by 10,853,760 acres. In Saskatchewan alone the net increase was 41,423 farms, but these figures do not take into account the farm lands purchased from the railway companies and other corporations in the same period.

CAR BANNER FEED JUST ARRIVED

J. W. Hummell,

Opposite McCloskey House.

HE WAS NOT A FLIRT.

Therefore He Resented the Woman's Attempts at Familiarity.

He was riding homeward, comfortably seated and reading his paper. Being a trifle nearsighted, he was applying himself even more closely to his paper than other homegoing passengers. Thus intent in the day's news, he was startled when a woman came up beside him and touched him lightly on the shoulder, at the same time casting a longing eye on his seat.

He is a polite man, and he got up. "A woman with that much nerve is entitled to a seat," he muttered to himself. "The idea of a woman deliberately nudging a man out of his seat!" Other women standing near by laughed unreservedly. He hid his embarrassment behind his paper, for he felt that his good nature had been imposed upon and that the laugh was on him.

By and by there was a vacant seat next to the one he had given up to the woman, and he sat down once more. The woman turned and looked at him amusedly. He could feel her gaze, even though he made a bluff at being intensely interested in his paper. Pretty raw, it seemed to him, for a woman deliberately to take the seat of a total stranger and then sit there and laugh at him because he was such a mark.

Then the woman spoke to him. "Aren't you going to talk to me?" she asked.

He could stand her familiarity no longer. "Well, of all the"— He stopped right there when he looked around and recognized her. It was his wife!—Cleveland Leader.

COOKS' SHOPS.

They Were the Beginnings of the Modern Restaurant.

In primitive times the only places in London where the public could be entertained with food had been the cooks' shops. The famous East Cheap was a great thoroughfare, down which the stalls of the butchers alternated with those of the cooks. You chose a joint at the flesh market, and you carried it next door to be cooked for you by a certain hour. If you wished for wine, you must bring that with you, for the cooks sold no liquor, although they seem to have provided, as time went on, more and more of the natural accompaniments of meat, such as bread, vegetables and pastry.

This habit continued until well into the reign of Elizabeth, and so long as such an inconvenient custom prevailed there could have been no real comfort for any citizen who chose to dine abroad. He must have had as much trouble with porterage and baskets as a country party has today at a picnic. But about the time that Shakespeare came up to London a remarkable change took place in the customs of the town, and the practice of public hospitality and entertainment was singularly facilitated.

The nature of this change lay in the sudden development of the tavern and the consequent withdrawal of the cookshop. The worshipful company of pastelars, as the cooks were called, ceased to enjoy the monopoly of providing hot meals.—Edmund Gosse in Harper's Magazine.

Railroads Are Never Finished.

In one respect a railroad is unlike any other project undertaken by man—it is never finished. Like a cucumber vine, says a writer in Popular Mechanics, the instant it ceases to grow it begins to wither. There must be continuous expansion and enlargement. Larger cars require more powerful locomotives, and both in turn call for heavier rails, bigger roundhouses, stronger bridges, longer platforms and sidings, increased safety devices, while the straightening of curves and the leveling of grades come in for their share of attention on even the oldest roads. Little wonder, then, with our railroads consuming nearly one-half of all our manufactured steel and iron and fully one-half of all the lumber made each year, that they are the unfailing barometer of the business activity of the nation.

The Wonders of Science.

It was left for the exhibitor of a phonograph in the streets of Utrecht, according to an American traveler, to put the finishing touch to the wonderful invention. There was the sound of a military band in full blast, and then suddenly the tune stopped and "Halt!" rang hoarsely out upon the air.

"Who's that interrupting the concert?" flippantly inquired the American, edging close to the operator.

"That," said the man, surveying him blandly, "was the voice of Napoleon Bonaparte giving the order at the battle of Waterloo."

That Was the Trouble.

A Wichita man was fussing because of his aching teeth. "Why don't you go to a dentist?" asked one of his friends.

"Oh, I haven't got the nerve," was the reply.

Nasal Catarrh.

Catarrh in almost every instance starts with a common cold in the head, which is added to with another cold, and because of some extra exposure or weakness of the system, it becomes chronic.

A full case of disgusting nasal and throat catarrh then develops. Unless a radical cure is affected then the disease passes rapidly to the throat, bronchial tubes and finally to the lungs.

No man or woman can ever get new lungs any more than a man can get a sure cure by inhaling Catarrhozone, and this is proved after you read further.

Quick, Lasting Cure.

"After ten long years of suffering with Catarrh in the throat and nose I write to tell you that I am now completely cured with Catarrhozone. What a relief it was to get that buzzing stopped in my ears, to have my nose free and easy to breathe through—what a blessing it was to get cured of droppings, catarrhal dyspepsia and bad breath. All this is the result of Catarrhozone, which I recommend everyone to use for any trouble in the throat, nose, bronchial tubes and lungs."

John McCullough,
Moosebrook, N. S.

Let Catarrhozone cure you, get the large dollar outfits which lasts two months and contains an indestructable hard rubber inhaler. Smaller sizes 25c. and 50c. each. Beware of imitations of Catarrhozone, which all reliable dealers sell, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Norwood Mystery.

Norwood, Ont., Aug. 10.—The result of the post-mortem conducted by Drs. Sutton and Pettigrew on the body of Thos. Willougby, who shot his daughter here on Tuesday last and then died himself from some unknown cause, has not been made known, but it is expected that the doctors failed to find anything definite regarding the cause of death. The stomach and a portion of the liver of the dead man were sent to Toronto to be analyzed for indications of poison.

A band of gypsies from the United States entered Canada at Sault Ste. Marie. They are going to the west to take up farms, and had $11,000 in gold with them.

HIS UNCLE RICHARD.

Judge Mahaffy Had Seen the Man's Ancestor In Ireland.

Judge Mahaffy, of Muskoka, some time ago enjoyed a trip abroad, and since his return he has had quite a lot of interesting experiences to relate and was induced to write some of them for publication in The Herald, of Bracebridge, where he lives. One of the judge's stories relating to his visit to his native Ireland is at once gruesome and highly amusing. He tells it this way:

I paid a visit to the old parish church at Bailieboro one day to look up my grandparents' graves, and, walking up the slope leading to the church that stands at the top, I noticed the sexton as I thought digging a grave. I went over to speak to him and just as I got there he pulled the lid off and disclosed the skeleton of a tall man. There he lay, or rather his bones, just as he was buried, the flesh and clothing all gone. The skeleton was perfect, the arms down at the sides. The ground being clay and wet, had given the bones the color of walnut. The teeth were all there, quite sound, and the underjaw having dropped down on the breast made the mouth look wide open and gave him the appearance of having a sardonic laugh, at what was going on above. It was a gruesome sight.

"What on earth are you uncovering the body for?" said I.

"Oh," said he, "one of his relations has just died and desired to be buried with him."

"Why," I said, "is that a common thing here?"

"Oh yes," he said, "very common."

"Who was this man?" I asked.

"Richard Blank," said the sexton.

"Why," I said to myself, "we have a family of that name in Muskoka, and one of them has the same Christian name. They are all tall people, too."

"When did he die?" I asked.

"Twenty years ago," said the sexton.

I said no more but treasured up the incident to see about it on my return; in fact for six months I could not get the remembrance of it out of my head. After my return, while revising voters' lists, I came to the place one day where the family of that name lived, and in the evening called on them.

"What part of Ireland did you come from, Mr. Blank?" I asked.

"County Cavan," said he.

"What was your market town?"

"Bailieboro," he said.

"And what church did you belong to?" I asked.

"Oh, at that time," said he, "we were English church."

"Yes," I said; "I was over there last May and saw your uncle Richard."

"Oh, no," said he; "Uncle Richard died twenty years ago."

"I know," I said, "but I saw him."

"Oh," he said, "how could that be? Uncle Richard is buried at the parish church in Bailieboro these twenty years. He left us a legacy."

I then told him the circumstances, and strange as it may appear, it was sure enough the skeleton of his Uncle Richard that I happened in the very nick of time to see uncovered. You see that truth is sometimes stranger than fiction.

NORTH WOODS INDIANS.

Natives Who Helped the Whites Across the Upper Wilderness.

It was the North woods Indians who led the white race across the upper wilderness trails and helped that race to get and to hold its footing there. As the lower tribes, such as the Iroquois, were allies of Great Britain in war, so the people north of the great lakes were the allies of that country in industry. Without the sturdy voyagers of the north, half Indian at least, the fur trade could not have been.

If you read the story of Sir George Simpson, of David Thompson, of Sir Alexander Mackenzie, of Harmon, of Hearne, of Alexander Henry the younger—indeed, of any of the early or late explorers of Hudson bay or the old Nor'west company—always you will find that the real man behind the pack and paddle was this northern native. Perhaps he was not full blood. Indeed, for the most part the typical voyager was not. From the time of Greysolon du L'hut on down, wild white blood has merged with wild red blood.

The first fur traders on both sides our territorial line got on very well, for there was much marriage according to the laws of the aboriginal world, and the tendency was for the two races to dwell in harmony. It was firewater, cows and plows that broke up the game.—Emerson Hough in Recreation.

Western Land.

To invest safely in mining stock requires special knowledge of a kind that the average man does not possess; while investment in real property is a step the probable results of which can usually be forecast without the possession of special forms of technical information. Thousands of acres are yet obtainable, and those who secure them cannot fail to grow with the country.—Daily Standard, Regina.

The Boer Marksmen.

Our Brother Boer does not seem to relish the Canadian successes. He is again protesting against the use of the Ross rifle. He is also learning that there are some fairly good marksmen outside of South Africa.
