Glengarry veterans mark ocean battle's anniversary

By Greg Kielec
News editor

One by one the candles in black cutout cardboard ships representing the Canadian Navy were extinguished, with each ringing of a bell in their memory.

As each candle was snuffed, the name of a ship and the number of crewmen that perished with it was read out to the approximately 100 people packed into the Royal Canadian Legion in Alexandria.

Legion members gathered together Saturday evening, on the 50th anniversary of the Battle of Atlantic, to remember those who perished in the battle to keep the seaborne supply lines to Allied troops in Europe open.

The year 1943 is widely considered to be the time when Allied Forces gained the upper hand against German U-boats in an effort to protect North Atlantic shipping lanes to Britain.

In the first three weeks of May, 1943, Allied escorts sank 31 U-boats, forcing Germany to abandon the North Atlantic convoy routes. An attempted comeback in September failed.

Canada lost 32 naval ships during the war, 24 of them in the Battle of the Atlantic, the longest-running battle of WWII, with a loss of more than 2,000 lives.

By war's end, 25,421 convoyed merchant ships had crossed the Atlantic and the Royal Canadain Navy and RCAF received credit for 47 of the 788 U-boats and two Italian submarines that had been destroyed.

For Cliff Mullins, who served on the convoy escort ship HMCS Baddeck, a small corvette in charge of hunting down and destroying submarines, the ceremony brought back memories.

"I found it quite moving at times. I had to blink my eyes a few times."

He thought the ceremony was "wonderful", adding guests who travelled from Legions in Valleyfield, Cornwall and Lancaster had the same impression.

"Over the years you tend to forget, and you shouldn't. Then when they have a ceremony like that, it brings it all back. And you feel good about it."

The ceremony featured as special guest native Glengarrian Lieutenant-Colonel McDonald CD, liaison officer with military air traffic control in Ottawa.

Also in attendance was one of the few surviving veterans of WWI and a participant in the Battle of Vimy Ridge, Bill Williamson.

Accidents result in serious injuries

By Scott Ferrier
News reporter

Seven people were rushed to hospital Monday afternoon following a ghastly accident on Highway 401 which nearly claimed the life of a helpless infant.

The seven, two Montreal residents five Italian tourists, were injured whan a 1992 Nissan Pathfinder, driven by Maria Dimolfetta of Montreal, went out of control, crossed into the medium and flipped twice just east of Lancaster at 2:35 p.m.

Lancaster OPP Const. J.P. Dupuis said the scene was chaotic. Five of the seven people in the Pathfinder, including nine-month-old Emanuele Carfagrini, had been tossed from the vehicle.

The infant had came to a rest on her stomach in a water filled ditch, her head was submerged and was revived by a pair of nurses from Toronto who drove by the scene and stopped to lend assistance.

A first aid instructor and an officer from Lancaster OPP arrived at the scene and helped stabilize some of the crash victims.

Only the driver and her husband, Giovanni Dimolfetta, were wearing seatbelts at the time of the accident. The remaining passengers are all from Italy.

Emanuelle was rushed to Cornwall General Hospital and taken by air ambulance to CHEO. His condition was not available at press time.

Maria, Eugenia and Maro are in good condition at Cornwall General Hospital. Giuseppe was treated and released from CGH. Giovanni and Carmelo were taken to Hotel Dieu in Cornwall. They suffered multiple injuries but are in stable condition and recovering.

In a separate incident on Sunday night, Manon Poirier of Green Valley, her young son Julian and the driver of a tractor trailer were all hospitalized and are listed in serious condition following a collision near

Ratepayers angered by Alexandria sewer charges

By Greg Kielec
News editor

Alexandria council members have promised a review of Alexandria's new sewer user charges after being berated by ratepayers upset about the charges.

Councillor Jacques Lajoie proposed taking a second look at the recently instituted user charge, imposed to raise money for sewer system upgrades, after a searing speech by Alexandria business owner Madeleine Lalonde.

Councillor Archie McDougall also concurred that a second look may be in order. "It is possible the situation in this case may be reviewed."

And Jacques Joly, head of the environment committee which drew up the rates, said that while he believes the rate structure is fair, he is open to reviewing the issue.

About 20 Alexandria and area residents, and even Lochiel Township Reeve Ron McDonell, attended last week's meeting to complain about the surcharge, which is expected to raise $280,000 annually for sewage system upgrades.

In a debate peppered with emotional exchanges, they accused council, in its application of the charge, of being unfair to businesses and to residents living just outside of town limits.

They accused council of taxing businesses to the hilt and giving them nothing in return and of gouging residents in surrounding municipalities for services provided.

Kenyon and Lochiel Township residents, who pay double what town residents pay for the user fee, said it

Alexandria deputy reeve supports smaller United Counties Council

By Greg Kielec
News editor

Alexandria Deputy Reeve Jacques Joly has come out in favor of cutting the size of the 37-member United Counties Council.

Joly said at a council meeting last Tuesday night that he would favor cutting counties council by eliminating its 17 deputy reeves.

But he added, he would only favor the move if there is a provision for alternate council members to attend if a reeve were unable to attend a meeting.

Joly made the declaration in response to questioning from Councillor John Hope, brought by a request from Kenyon Township council to support a motion it recently passed calling for counties council downsizing.

"If it (counties council) was ever brought down to just reeves, there would be a savings there," he said.

But he added, the savings would not be the "excessive" amount that some people believe.

It was estimated at the time that eliminating deputy reeves could save $80,000 a year.

Counties council had decided in September, 1990 to eliminate deputy reeves as a cost-cutting measure.

But in January, 1991, a vote on the proposal was was deferred after some members began having second thoughts.

Momentum against the proposal gradually grew, and when it finally came to a vote in March, 1991, it was defeated.

Counties councillors instead came up with a compromise decision, which cut council cost -- not as much eliminating deputy reeves would save -- by reducing the amount of meetings.

Councillor Jacques Lajoie said the controversial cut has been an issue brewing at the counties level for a while.

"This has gone on for a number of years where they tried to downsize," he said.

Mayor Jean Paul Touchette said Friday he would favor downsizing, but would also like to see legislation changed to allow the head of council to sit on the regional body.

The present legislation prohibits mayors from sitting on counties council. Only reeves and deputy reeves have that privilege.

There was no decision by Alexandria council on Kenyon's request for support of its motion, but Joly said the proposal could be brought up at the counties again.

Councillor Roger Lemieux said it was felt at the time that cutting deputy reeves would have left too much work for the remaining reeves on counties council.

Reeve Bruno Massie said counties councillors felt that because they grant so much money to different agencies, they should maintain the same representation on committees.

GMH board earmarking $40,000 for inquest into elderly's death

By Pauline Ashton
News correspondent

Glengarry Memorial Hospital board members have set aside $40,000 for lawyer fees and expenses for an inquest into last year's death of an elderly woman at the hospital.

The board Thursday, approved the hiring and expenses of lawyer Robert Zarnett to represent the hospital at a May 31 inquest into the Aug. 18, 1992 death of Alexandria resident Tekla Guindon.

The hiring is an endorsement of a decision that was already made by Chief Executive Officer Jerry Adams without board approval, a move that Adams was chastised for by board members.

The board also approved renting motel accommodations for 16 hospital staff members who will testify at the inquest in Cornwall, which may run as long as two weeks.

Adams said the motel rooms will be used by staff for conferences.

Board Chairman Sam Sultan said the hiring of the lawyer was approved after learning that hospitals involved in inquests generally use lawyers familiar with inquest procedures.

Regional Coroner Dr. Peter Clark of Peterborough, will preside at the inquest.

Local coroner Dr. Laszlo Roman was the on-duty physician at the hospital at the time of the death and therefore could not handle the inquest.

Roman believes the inquest is being held to determine why a skull x-ray was not done on the 69-year-old Guindon who died seven hours after being found semi-conscious at her residence.

He also told The News in an interview a few months ago regarding the inquest that the procedure may also look at ways to address problems of care for elderly living at home.

Hospital plans to expand emergency department, procedures

Glengarry Memorial Hospital plans to expand its emergency department to treat non-emergency cases by June 1.

Hospital board members discussed last week putting more doctors on call, and having on duty extra nurses and X-ray technicians, to cover the emergency department during peak evening hours from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

"We're trying to provide service for people who can't get to their own doctor in office hours or don't have a doctor," board chairman Sam Sultan explained.

"Staff will look after patients very promptly," Sultan said. "Patients will be welcomed at emergency, instead of going through a lengthy screening process.

"But our main aim is that people seek treatment at our hospital even if their illness is not an emergency."

Board member Don Kannon said doctors at the hospital "strongly support the move to offer more service to residents, and it was Dr. Nadeau (medical staff chief) who got the doctors behind providing extra staffing hours."

Kannon said the board wants maximum use made of the hospital.

"Ours is a small hospital and if it is not fully used by local residents the provincial government could close us down as they have hospitals in other small towns," Kannon warned.

"We would all be losers, the doctors, staff, and the public."

Chief Executive Officer Jerry Adams sees expanded coverage during evening hours in emergency as a "great service for residents of Alexandria and area because so often you have to take the whole day off work to see your doctor during office hours."

Adams said the eight doctors from Alexandria, Maxville and Moose Creek who staff the hospital, are all enthusiastic about the increased coverage for their patients.

Ratepayers see red over error

Officials at the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Catholic School Board have been beseiged by taxpayers upset over a front page story that appeared in last week's edition of The Glengarry News.

The story incorrectly stated that a potential tax increase could amount to another $500 for a taxpayer who owns a home valued at $100,000 and channels school taxes towards the SDG Catholic School Board.

The increase could be around the neighborhood of $25 for a tax assessment around $5,000. However, the value of a home and the amount assessed for tax purposes are two separate values. A home valued at $100,000 is assessed considerably lower for taxes.

The News apologizes for the error.

George Hambleton's weather report for the month of April

April of 1993 will be known as the snowiest on record with 81 cm (32 inches) falling.

This winter's total snowfall amounted to a whopping 369 cm (12 feet and one inch). That's the most since 1970-71 when 419 cm (13 feet and nine inches) fell.

On April 22 and 23, 49 cm (about 19 inches) of snow fell. That was the highest snowfall in a late season storm since March, 1971 when the late season record was recorded.

Area residents may want to keep their shovels handy because in 1964, on May 11, 28 cm (11 inches) fell after a week of summertime temperatures.

Temperatures in the month of April were on track. However, the snow (which equalled 81 mm of precipitation) and 110 mm (4.3 inches) of rain amounted to a monthly precipitation measurement of 191 mm (7.5 inches). Normal April precipitation levels are 75 mm (three inches).

Lajoie proposes cutting size of council

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

An Alexandria councillor is proposing the number of members sitting on council be cut in order to save taxpayers money.

Jacques Lajoie asked Councillor Francine Richer last Tuesday, head of a special committee reviewing council procedures and policies, to examine the possibility of cutting council.

Lajoie, who at a meeting three weeks ago unsuccessfully tried to have council cut its pay by 10 per cent, said he is still serious about cost cutting.

He said there is a momentum for change, citing delegations of people frustrated with the level they are taxed, and Kenyon Township's push to have the size of counties council reduced.

Council is looking at various options to cut costs. But it should be willing to make sacrifices itself as well, he said.

Mayor Jean Paul Touchette said Friday he would favor cutting the size of council, which could quite conceivably be worked out before the next election.

"You've got to do something to cut costs," he said.

If sorted out before the next election, the proposal then could be put to the voters for their approval.

Touchette believes a council membership of four or five would be adequate to represent Alexandrians.

"Most councils in the area have five (members)," he said. But he added, "it's up to the voters."

Friends work of art to help accident victim

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

If there's two things that Lucas Van Barneveld cherishes in this world it's his friends and making stained glass windows.

It seems appropriate that he has created an eye catching stained glass window to help raise money for a close friend, Christina Guimond, who's been paralysed since late February.

"When I heard about what happened and the expense to bring Christina back (by air ambulance from Jamaica), I wanted to do something to help. I know the family isn't wealthy and there will be a lot of costs piling up so . . ." says Van Barneveld, who works as the sous-chef at the Priest's Mill Restaurant in Alexandria.

The seven-square-foot rectangular-shaped stained glass window will be raffled off on Saturday, August 7.

There are only 300 tickets being sold at $25 apiece. The tickets are being sold in Toronto and Montreal, where some of Christina's family and friends live, as well as at the Priest's Mill.

Christina was paralysed on Saturday, February 27 in a tragic pool diving accident while vacationing in Jamaica. She's currently at the Montreal Rehabilitation Centre, a wing of Montreal General Hospital, where she's undergoing intensive therapy.

Jack Quinlan — a family friend whose known Christina and her mom, Margaret, for a number of years — says that both are in high spirits. Christina is working on regaining the strength in her left hand, which she can still move.

Christina, who had to undergo extensive back surgery, has been leaving the centre on weekends to visit with friends. She came down to Alexandria by ambulance to stay at her mom's home during Easter weekend.

Jack says that the raffle was a wonderful idea because it will help raise money for the Chrissy Fund.

"Making a stained glass window is a lot like a jigsaw puzzle, only it's less unforgiving because it's made out of glass," says Van Barneveld, who's been working with the medium for six years.

He spent nearly 50 hours on the window which will be raffled off. With only 300 tickets for sale, the odds of winning are substantially better than winning the lottery. Plus the money raised will go to a worthy cause, says Van Barneveld.

The window currently hangs in front of the west window, overlooking the waterfalls, in the Priest's Mill. Different light creates a different effect.

When it's bright and sunny, the blue stained glass which is covered with four or five different colored flowers and surrounded by bevelled glass (which creates a prism effect) is bright and cheery. But when the sun is nowhere to be seen, the window produces a moody and dark light.

The rectangular window is perfect for hanging in the kitchen, bedroom, dining room or any other room. All it needs is light.

Anyone who would like to look at the window can drop by the Priest's Mill during working hours but are asked to call first.

The raffle is part of an overall fundraising campaign which also includes a trust fund which has been established at the Royal Bank in Alexandria. Donations to the fund can be made "in trust to Jack Quinlan".

Palace projecting $105,000 1993 deficit

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Alexandria council will pay $52,000 for the operation of the Glengarry Sports Palace this year.

The figure is Alexandria's share of the sports facility's projected $105,000 deficit for this year's operation which is subsidized by Alexandria and the townships of Lancaster and Lochiel.

Alexandria traditionally kicks in funding covering 50 per cent of the total deficit. Lancaster Township and Lochiel each kick in 25 per cent, which comes to $26,250 each this year.

The annual operating deficit is forecast in the sport's facility's 1993 budget drawn up by the Sports Palace board.

The board is projecting $409,800 in expenses for the sports facility's operation this year, offset by $304,800 in revenue.

For the average hockey jock, the budget will mean a few more bucks an hour to rent ice at the palace. Fees will increase to $95 an hour or $142.50 for one and a half hour.

Last year's ice rental fees were $90 an hour.

The board is projecting $304,800 -- including $4,429 surplus from last year -- in revenue this year, about the same as last year's intake. And it is projecting $409,800 in capital and operating expenditures.

On the revenue side, board members anticipate $163,000 in ice rental fees, $21,000 net from the canteen, $40,371 from the community hall, $2,000 from the ballfields, $70,000 in donations, and $4,000 from skate sharpening.

On the expenditure side, $195,000 will go toward salaries, wages and benefits for maintenance, administration and operation of the canteen. That is $10,000 more than was spent last year.

Light, heat, water and power, building maintenance, community hall supplies, and sanitary and office supplies are expected to cost the palace $175,500, $10,000 more than 1992.

For insurance, professional fees, advertising, travel allowances, telephone, licences and memberships, skate sharpening, ballfield and other expenses, the board anticipates spending $28,800, about $1,000 less than last year.

Maxville PS students learn entrepreneurial spirit

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

In the eyes of 30 children attending Maxville Public School, Ivan Coleman was the second coming of Ivan the Terrible.

For five minutes, Ivan stood before these Grade 8 students taunting and teasing them.

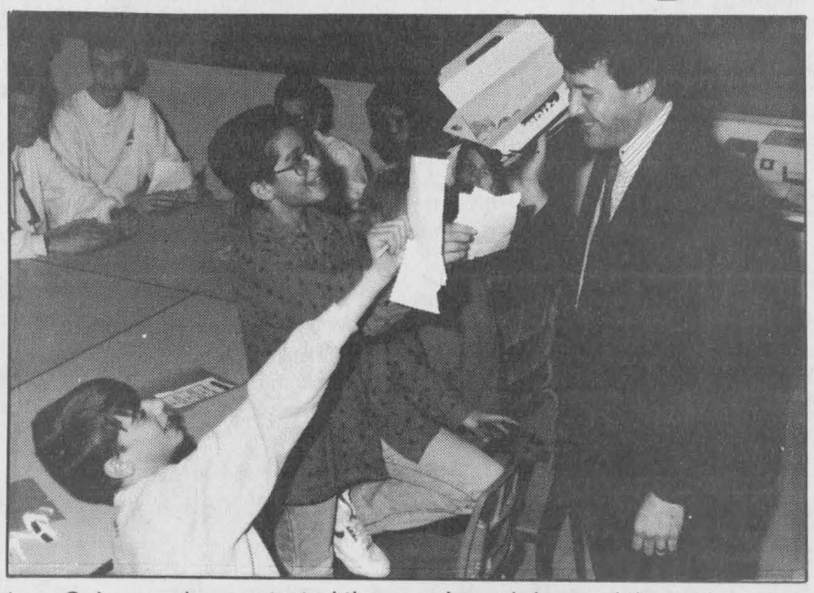
The children waved money at him. They wanted to purchase his wares yet he wouldn't sell them — not without haggling over the purchase price. The six-foot-tall man clutched a mysterious brown box and opened it up for all to see.

The object of the student's desires were bite-size doughnuts. They were willing to part with $30, $40 or even $50 for one tiny morsel that would quell their need for sugar.

Ivan stood at the head of the class saying how wonderful his products are, showed them off and even ate one as the students helplessly watched.

The man that stood before them, dressed in a business suit and tie should have worn a horned helmet and animal pelt because he surely was Ivan the Terrible. But all Ivan was doing was smart business.

"Greed is good," a movie character once said. And Ivan proved it with this business exercise.



Ivan Coleman demonstrated the supply-and-demand theory by using bite-sized doughnuts at Maxville Public School.

The marketing representative at MacEwen Petroleum Inc. taught the dos and don'ts of big business during a 12-week junior achievers program. The theories were brought down to a level that the students could relate to and have fun with.

"I think they really welcomed this because it's a change of pace for them," Ivan said. "They get to do anything they want to do. All they need is the heart to do it and never sell themselves short."

Maxville Public School was the only elementary school which participated in the Junior Achievers program, which was sponsored by the Maxville and District Chamber of Commerce, in Glengarry County this year.

Thirteen elementary schools participated in the program throughout Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

Ivan said the students were razor sharp and caught on to the basics like supply and demand and cost efficiency.

Last Thursday, when Ivan was teaching his final class, he brought in the tasty goodies to illustrate the supply and demand theory.

Students used funny money to purchase the products. Some bought doughnuts and immediately gobbled them up while others hoarded them. As the supply dropped, Ivan raised his prices. The students who saved their wares were entertaining lucrative offers.

Greed is good but it can also be profitable.

One student sprang from his chair and offered to buy what was left in the box for $200. Ivan cracked a sly grin and immediately knew that his pupils had become corporate raiders-in-the-making.

Other areas covered included business troubleshooting, operating a successful restaurant franchise and how to balance the books.

Ivan said, "I hope that they realize that just because a business isn't there they have to give up. Maybe they'll accept the challenge and open up their own small business."

GACL launches membership drive to get new blood

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

The Glengarry Association for Community Living wants you.

The agency, which operates groups homes and programs for the mentally challenged, has launched a membership drive in preparation of its annual meeting on June 16.

Area residents must be registered as members by May 17 to be eligible to vote at the June annual meeting and board members are actively soliciting area residents to become involved in the community organization.

Derek Parkinson, treasurer of the GACL board, said the agency is facing critical times ahead and could use all the support it can get from the community.

"There might be somebody out there who has a great idea as to programming or what you are going to do with (GACL clients," Parkinson said Monday.

But the only way that will happen is if people who can contribute to the association join as members and even possibly become members of the operating board.

"I'd like to see lots of memberships and I'd like to see a real cross- section," Parkinson said.

"The larger, the better -- the better cross spectrum of people you can get into the organization."

There is no financial incentive to get involved with the organization, the only gain one receives is knowing that they are doing something to better the lives of mentally challenged individuals.

And one basically needs to have an interest in helping the mentally challenged to become actively involved in the organization.

Parkinson would like to see the membership's involvement, which is essentially a "custodial" role, changed. Members' involvement should not end with the payment of their membership, but begin.

Parkinson would like to see members taking a direct role,by becoming involved with the clients by participating in activities in group homes.

"You're looking for people who want to do this sort of stuff."

One challenge the board will be facing is the possible closing of ARC Industries which provides work for mentally challenged adults who live in five group homes in Alexandria.

He is hoping fresh ideas brought in by new members may help the board decide what action to take if ARC is closed by the province.

"We have to come up with alternatives," he said. "If they close ARC Industries, what are we going to do?"

Receipts and membership cards will be mailed to members following the submission of a GACL form and $6. GACL staff members are eligible for associate members at the same fee, but do not have voting privileges.

Court Report

The following are among the cases dealt with by Judge Rommel Masse in Alexandria provincial court on April 29.

Six months jail for Cornwall man

A man involved in his second drunk driving accident in three years has been given six months in jail and been prohibited from driving for five years.

Satpa-Singh Guram, 37 of Cornwall, pleaded guilty to having caused bodily harm in a drunk driving accident stemming from an incident on March 2.

Guram was behind the wheel of a vehicle that collided head-on with another car near Martintown. Guram and the other driver escaped uninjured, but Guram's 10-year-old daughter sustained a three-stitch cut over the eye.

Guram's blood-alcohol level on the day of the accident was found to be in excess of 200. The legal limit is 80.

In 1990, Guram was found to be legally drunk after being involved in an accident where three people were injured.

Cigarette smuggler jailed

A Chateauguay, Que. man has been sentenced to six months in jail after being convicted of cigarette smuggling for the second time in 1993.

Benoit Martin, 36, was arrested on Feb. 24 and found to be in possession of 500 cartons of smuggled cigarettes.

Because it was Martin's second offence, the Crown requested the maximum fine of $8,242.50, but instead the court decided on a jail term.

Judge Rommel Masse determined that with the unemployed Martin already shouldering a $17,000 fine for a January smuggling conviction, it was unreasonable to think that the accused would be able to pay another hefty financial penalty.

Masse also expressed concern that Martin would opt to continue working in the illegal cigarette trade in order to raise the money to pay the fines rather than find legitimate employment.

Prohibited driver jailed

A 18-year-old Alexandria man who drove while his licence was suspended for drunk driving has been sentenced to 21 days in jail.

Ian Racicot was arrested on Feb. 12 by Lancaster OPP when he was identified as a disqualified driver after being pulled over for a minor violation.

Racicot was subsequently charged with fraud for having passed a cheque for $50 under a false name at an Alexandria service station on Feb. 9.

The court placed Racicot on probation for 30 days and ordered that he pay restitution to the service station. His driving privileges are suspended for another two years.

Flasher jailed for 35 days

A Cornwall man convicted of seven counts of exposing himself at senior citizen homes has been sentenced to 35 days in jail.

Daniel J. Turner, 46, entered senior centres and exposed himself to its residents on seven occasions between Aug. 15 of last year and Feb. 8.

It was the third time that Turner has been convicted on sexually related offences.

Judge Rommel Masse imposed a five-day sentence for each of the seven counts and also placed Turner on a probationary term which included treatment and counselling for alcohol abuse as one of its terms.

Man pays for tall tale

An Alexandria man will do 45 hours of community service after pleading guilty to public mischief in relation to a false report made to police.

Anthony Lutz, 29, reported to Alexandria police on April 20 that his father's car had been stolen.

Within an hour, the vehicle was located in a ditch just outside Glen Robertson and Lutz then admitted that he had rolled the car, causing $1,500 in damage, and had concocted the theft story to cover up the accident.

Lutz was also placed on six months probation.

Drunk driver fined

A 24-year-old Lancaster Township man has been fined $600 after pleading guilty to drunk driving.

Andrew Van den Oetelaar was arrested by Maxville OPP on April 16 after he was observed by a police officer making an erratic turn.

Breathalyser tests eventually showed that Van den Oetelaar's blood-alcohol level was more than three times the legal limit.

The court prohibited the accused from driving for a period of one year.

Money isn't the answer

The $300,000 grant from the Ontario government for both area school boards to relieve the suffering of recession-battered children in SD&G is a weak response to an immensely disturbing problem.

School board officials have reported there is an excellent chance more funding will be forthcoming, but considering the budget cutting mode of the NDP government these days everybody from parents to trustees should take a strident role in ensuring adequate funding is delivered to the board and the people who need it.

Across the three counties, the blistering effects of the recession has trickled down to affect the most vulnerable people of our communities — the children. A lack of work and resulting decline in self-esteem of employable people has resulted in a number of children attending school without proper breakfasts while others are having emotional problems because parents are unemployed and arguing over finances.

Teachers, in the front lines of this battle against the recession's effects, are feeling the sting of trying to deal with these problems. They are forced to carry these children's burdens, and yet they cannot speak publically about the scale of them.

One teacher in the county recently told us 20 of 26 children in the class were trying to cope inside dysfunctional families, whose parents had either separated, divorced, or were going through the ravages of alcoholism and abuse. That's just one classroom.

And obviously, dealing with the baggage these students bring with them every day to school will have — and is having — an impact on the teachers themselves.

So the $300,000 earmarked by the province is a drop in the bucket for a problem which realistically needs millions. The boards wanted $9 million, to be paid out over three years, to expand in-school feeding programs, to hire more counsellors at social agencies and to train teachers on what agencies children and their parents could be directed to for assistance.

And unfortunately, money alone will not make this particular fallout of the recession go away. The problems the school boards are endeavoring to cope with are very deeply rooted. They have mostly to do with the deindustrialization of Cornwall and people out of work, and a general decline in moral values throughout society. Trying to solve those is akin to shadow boxing; there may be all the punch that's necessary, but delivering a knockout blow is impossible.

For now, however, the boards need direct financial help to at least keep this most worrisome of problems in check. They need the resources and personnel to do an effective job of protecting the counties' children from hunger and learning handicaps.

Indeed, when it comes to responding to a starving population in Third World countries around the world, Canada has a reputation of responding generously and without hesitation.

We need to take a page from that book, and direct those selfless energies toward helping the people who help the most valuable asset of our society to move forward into the future — the children of SD&G.

Kenyon Optimists the latest in family

The latest in the growing family of Glengarry Optimist clubs was officially born this past Saturday night. The Kenyon Optimist Club, which has actually been meeting since last year, celebrated its charter night, and in so doing, enhanced what has become an increasingly potent service community in the county.

Anyone who reads The Glengarry News on a weekly basis will know, within that community, how tangible the contribution of Optimists is throughout the county's communities. Optimists now have clubs in virtually every corner of Glengarry. Dalkeith Optimists, a veteran club, sponsored Kenyon's entry into the fold, but hamlets like Green Valley, North Lancaster, Glen Robertson and others have also benefitted from the outstanding work of this important service organization.

Not that the work of the Lions, the Kinsmen, the Richelieu and others aren't important as well. Combined, all clubs add innumberable economic and social benefits to the quality of life in the county.

Optimists, however, devote everything they do to the growth and development of youth in the communities they serve. Their most visable contribution these days are the outstanding oratory competitions they sponsor. The "Say no to Drugs" campaign is another equally important initiative which attempts to tackle the cancer of the spread of drug use among the youth of the county's communities.

As MP Don Boudria told Saturday's gathering at the Angus Gray Hall in Maxville, "there is no greater work than that done for the benefit of our youth." Kenyon Optimists can be justly proud that they have set themselves on a course to continue in that noble Optimist tradition.

They deserve our appreciation and thanks for that spirit.

When licensed worlds collide

After Thoughts

by Joe Banks

Everybody has to earn a buck.

Income is not only essential to purchase food, clothing and shelter, but in our society it's also a way of creating wealth and from that, work for others.

That may seem obvious, but there are times when we dismiss or forget the importance of private enterprise. That's especially true when public and private interests — the role of the business operator vs the role of the government and community at large — collide.

These days, all too often, the private entrepreneur is on the losing end of those collisions. Real estate lawyers see it when they see their clients tied up in crossed and overlapping mandates of government departments, environment and housing, for example.

Worse yet, free enterprisers can become the victims of their own community associations and groups which, by operating "nonprofit" functions (and have the marketing advantage of tagging that phrase onto their event), can bring about the demise of a private business.

There's a situation brewing over in Kenyon Township with the Apple Hill Recreation Centre, and the owners of the King Edward Hotel, a privately-owned licensed establishment located in the hamlet. There the centre has obtained permission from the municipality to apply for a permanent liquor license. The rationale is that it is cheaper for the centre, and indirectly the taxpayers, to purchase and renew annually this license, than to pay per day for special occasion permits. The other advantage is that organizers, often volunteers, would no longer have to apply for a permit for each event, relieving stress and inconvenience.

Gwen Benton, owner of the King Edward, however, is anything but relieved by council's decision. She and husband Art have owned the King Eddy since September 1991. Ironically Mr. Benton was the fundraising chairman, for the construction of the centre and now he is faced with the real possibility of publically-funded competition from a centre he helped build.

Mrs. Benton, who will be appearing in front of Kenyon council May 11 to explain her position, feels the centre is not, and never should be, permanently licensed. The status would allow the centre to be opened for business the same hours as any privately-run tavern restaurant and hotel in Glengarry County.

The centre's board has clearly stated it will only open for special occasions. Benton says that's fine now, but wonders what could happen years later, with a new chairman and members mulling over figures. If they face books awash in red ink, who is to say they wouldn't choose to open with regular hours? It happened in fact at Legions across the country, and other not-for-profit organizations fighting for fiscal survival.

Benton isn't looking for protection from competition. Free enterprise is what makes the world tick, she says.

But competition from the free market is not the same as tax-supported competition.

And she has some compelling questions to ask, like why tax dollars should be used to compete against a private business that has paid over $8,500 in taxes to the township since it was purchased in 1991. This is the same hotel that sold Nevada tickets for the centre, raising over $3,500 for the Kinsmen Club of Glengarry to donate to the centre for construction.

And apart from this, as the contracted caterers for the centre, the Bentons felt they should have been informed of the decision, since they were using their catering endorsement to run the bar at the centre since July at no cost to the centre and at no profit to the Bentons.

This is the latest, but by no means the only, time bar owners have decried the opening of yet another non-profit permanently licensed establishment. Often that criticism is muted or sounded strategically to local politicians, because they don't want to be seen to be picking on facilities built for and operated by, the public.

After all, that could jeopardize business.

Their fears are understandable, given the competition in Glengarry for a shrinking share of the beer/liquor pie. Add one more permanently licensed, non-profit bar to the equation, and that pie could well disappear completely.

And that spells bad news for the hospitality industry in Glengarry, at a time when good news is hard to come by.

Politics hot out of the oven

News to me

by Greg Kielec

When politicians take to the kitchen to discuss their municipalities business, taxpayers can rest assured that more is being cooked up than just oatmeal muffins.

That is the assertion in an The Ottawa Citizen editorial in yesterday's edition, and a point applies to political doings not only in Ottawa, but in Glengarry as well.

The editorial takes aim at informal gatherings — coffee klatches — held by Ottawa Mayor Jacquelin Holzman and draws a parallel between them and informal meetings held by the Ottawa Board of Education in which a new $18 million board building is being planned away from public scrutiny.

The gist of the editorial basically is, no matter what the politicians involved say, the public's right to know is being circumvented in the form of political meetings which are informal in name only.

But the practice of hashing out municipal business somewhere other than in the public eye is not a phenomenon that occurs only in Ottawa.

How much business is already decided before local politicians grab their chairs at the council table? One can usually tell by what is not said regarding important municipal issues.

If a council or board is passing resolutions without any discussion at all at the table, then chances are, all of the relevant discussion has already taken place, away from the ears of the public.

The reasoning of members of such councils is that they are simply efficient. But, since council members get paid the same amount whether they have a one or four-hour meeting, who is this efficiency benefitting?

If being "efficient" means that full debate is not carried out in public on municipal issues, is that the kind of efficiency ratepayers want?

In Alexandria, council business is routinely discussed before a meeting and the battle lines drawn before members even get to the table.

In Charlottenburgh, closed meetings have been held to hash out business prior to council meetings, not to mention members annual private retreat to discuss township business at the expense of ratepayers.

The public school board showed a disregard for public decision making when then chairman Cindy Martin-Hrycak without board approval did an expensive renovation of her office.

The Glengarry Memorial Hospital board, supposedly open to the public, still makes major decisions and holds discussions on key issues behind closed doors.

It is unlikely that such decision making, whether it is behind closed doors or out of the meeting chamber altogether, will change.

But we can take comfort in the fact that even the decisions made out of the public eye eventually come out, and if there is criticism to be levelled, there are always ratepayers willing to take on the task.

And as long as there still are few politically astute inviduals keeping their finger on the doings of their favorite municipal body, the balance between the will of the politicians and the need of the public will remain.

The Kintail Band

Anyone travelling to the Isle of Skye by way of the Kyle of Lochalsh ferry will pass through all or part of the mainland area known as Kintail. It extends from the sea eastwards for about twenty miles on both sides of Loch Duich, from Glenelg inland. It is bordered on the south by Glengarry and Glen Morriston and on the north by the lands of the Chisholms (Strathglass), the Frasers of Lovat and the Urquharts of Glen Urquhart. Eilean Donan (St. Donan's Isle) is an ancient castle of the MacKenzies, held for them by their allies the Macraes of Kintail, known as "MacKenzie's Coat of Mail." The castle was destroyed by government troops after the Jacobite Rising of 1719, but was restored in this century. It is at Dornie, and the Kintail people brought that name to Glengarry in the early days of settlement here. It has been said that in the 18th century, out of the hundreds of families who lived in Kintail, all were Macraes except seven. The importance of the great Clan MacKenzie owes a great deal to the loyalty and support of the Clan Macrae. They produced poets as well as warriors. Duncan Macrae, known as "Duncan of the Silver Cups" compiled the book of poems known as The Fernaig Manuscript in the 17th century, which contains many Gaelic poems of his own and others.

But the poet who interests us most, because of his connection to Glengarry, is John Macrae, known to the Gaelic world as Iain MacMhurchaidh: John, the son of Murdoch — The Kintail Bard. Before he emigrated to North Carolina in 1774, he wrote a poem in answer to a letter from his friend John Bethune, who had gone to America before him. This John Bethune is generally acepted to have been the Presbyterian minister who went from North Carolina to Montreal and then on to Glengarry, where he became famous as the first Protestant minister in Upper Canada, and was the great friend of the Big Bishop, Alexander MacDonell of St. Raphael's. He was also the ancestor of the Hero of Red China, the eccentric Dr. Norman Bethune. Other descendants made their mark in the world in the church, in education and in business. His home in Williamstown, now lovingly looked after by David and Delande Anderson, is a centre for all things to do with the early history of Glengarry.

At a gathering two years ago at the Bethune-Thompson House, The Glengarry Gaelic Choir sang a poem that the Kintail Bard had written before 1776. It was a poem full of hope for the bright days that he was sure lay ahead. Another poem, this one written in America, is in the form of a lullaby to his daughter, "Dean Cadalan Sàmhach, a Chuilean Mo Rùin" — "Sleep Softly, My Darling Beloved." Both these songs will be sung in competition on Saturday morning, June 5th, at Mòd-Ontario-Glengarry at Iona Academy in St. Raphael's. One of the nine workshops (you can attend any three at a cost of $4 each) on Saturday afternoon will be on the Kintail Bard, with Màiri Sìne Campbell from Plockton in Rossshire as presenter.

Unfortunately, the hopes of the Bard for a new life far from the money-grubbing landlords of his native land were in vain. Because he spoke out against the rebel Americans, he was thrown into a dungeon and eventually executed, possibly by being tied to two horses driven in opposite directions. He may have thought that as a bard he would have enjoyed immunity from harm, as would have been the case under the Gaelic code which protected and revered bards, no matter what they said. But the laws of the Gael were unknown to those who persecuted him. If he had lived, he would have probably ended up here in Glengarry with his friend John Bethune, and his descendants might well be singing today in the Glengarry Gaelic Choir.

The Choir, by the way, will be singing this Saturday, May 8, at the Clan Donald Ceilidh at the Maxville Sports Complex. See you there.

Reminiscing of old times in Alexandria

To the editor:

Would you still have 2 copies of your 100th anniversary edition available for sale?

My family operated a Restaurant in Alexandria from 1930 to 1941. My maternal Grandfather helped us to start up what was originally called Bridge Sweets located a few doors south of your offices. We later moved to larger quarters where I believe The Hub now exists next door to Meloche and Sabourin Butchers.

My Grandfather George Sabourin frequently held my hand as he walked along the main street on his way to work at the Glengarry News. He was an amazing and jolly person who would stop to talk with everyone and could converse in fluent English, French or Gaelic. I thought he was a genius.

My uncle Joe Sabourin also spent all of his working life at the paper.

Maybe it was from their genes that I decided to establish my own newspaper in 1991. In the 1930's Alexandria had another newspaper called the Alexandria Times. It was owned by the perpetual Mayor Albert Laurin, and it was located almost directly across from our restaurant.

Amusingly enough my grandfather lived on Kenyon Street directly across from Albert Laurin. My widowed aunt Lena Hurtubise had to leave her three children with my grandparents. Her eldest son George Aimé fell in love with oldest Laurin daughter and this caused serious rifts in the two families.

Over 50 years later I still have fond memories of the people I grew up with, some of whom I admired, and others for whom I had little respect.

Dr. D.J. Dolan was the finest medical doctor in town. His son John and I were bosom pals. Frequently Dr. Dolan would take us with him to visit his patients in the country. For payment of services he frequently received eggs, live chickens, live turkeys and other assorted animals.

And who could forget the dentist who could anaesthetize you with his alcoholic breath. The second dentist Dr. McCallum was very good but sometimes too busy to see us so we had to settle for halitosis Harry. High school Principal J.T. Smith was always known as strict disciplinarian whose Achilles heel was his penchant for blonde teachers who had nice legs.

The aromatic essences in Astrom's and McLeister's drug stores were a delight and all the fascinating hardware items particularly the small wagons in Chenier's Hardware store captured our attention for hours on end.

Saturday night Lacrosse games between Alexandria and the St. Regis Indians, Angus George, Angus Thomas, etc. were always exciting. Local lawyer Percy Bergeron, later a judge in Cornwall, played goalie for Alexandria. After the game all the Indian team plus squaws — as they were called then — would invade our private upstairs dining room to eat. My mother would ask the team Captain Angus George what he wanted, and he invariably said, two egg sandwiches and coffee. When asked, all of the other team members responded with an ugh.

The Squaws had to sit on the floor and they had to pay for their own which was generally the same price. In those days a complete meal of soup, steak, vegetables, potatoes, dessert and coffee cost 35¢. Cigarettes were 1 cent each with packages of 5, 10 or 25. Only the lawyers and hoi polloi could afford the 25 cent pack.

Many of the kids I grew up with had interesting sobriquet's such as Jiggs Charebois and Corn Flakes McKinnon.

What began as simple request has become an epistle. If Eugene was still around he might get a chuckle out of this letter.

With kindest regards,
Gerald O. Saxton

Reclassified

To the editor:

Twenty five years ago, I was considered a man of average education, bilingual, well-travelled and reasonably well read. At that point in time, the Government of Canada asked me to ignore the older generation and to show tolerance and understanding towards bilingualism, legalized homosexuality and many other controversial acts of legislation.

Two and one half decades later, because I object, not to immigration and multiculturalism, but to current immigration POLICIES and multicultural LEGISLATION, a recent Angus Reid/Southam News poll has reclassified me, (using different worlds meaning the same thing), as being old, English speaking, ignorant and a country hick.

The Ottawa Citizen has added the word "bigot" to the list of adjectives.

A big thanks for winter aid

To the editor:

Now that the winter is officially, and hopefully, over, I would like to take this opportunity to thank some of the Alexandria townsfolk and business people for their spirit of community.

After a particularly heavy snowfall, with the prospect of a couple of hours of hard shovelling ahead of me, along would come a neighbor with his new snow removal equipment, and within a couple of minutes the dreaded load would be shovelled away, leaving me just the finishing touches. He would be off with a wave of his hand.

Only last week, April 22 to be exact — who will forget that cruel trick of the Almighty? On my way home from visiting a friend, my car decided to take matters into it's own hands and head directly for a ditch on Kenyon Dam Road. As luck would have it, a truck behind me was heading to the Glengarry Truck Centre. The driver stopped, and drove me to the depot. It was no time before those kind people had a chain attached to the car and hauled it out of the ditch, non-the-worse for its dunking. When I offered payment for their services, they waived it aside, saying they were glad to help.

Alexandria Honda inspected the car after it's foray into the ditch, declared it unscathed, and sent me on my way. No charge.

To these people, I want to say a huge and heartfelt thank you, and wish them all a very happy, warm and sunny summer.

Yours sincerely,
Jane Troop

Historian clarifies Canada 125 article

To the editor:

Thank you for including part of our interview on the Friday evening of March 19 at the presentation of the 125 Canada Medal ceremonies. It is welcome and appreciated.

There is a couple of distortions in that article and this letter is to provide information to clarify them.

First of all I live at R.R. 1, Lancaster, Ontario, not Bainsville, Ontario but the GGS library is at the home of Rhoda Ross, Curry Hill, R.R. 1, Bainsville, Ontario. But that distortion is no doubt from information provided by the medal ceremony. Second is GRAVESTONES OF GLENGARRY series of which there are 3. VOLUME 1(1976), VOLUME 2(1978); were the first two books I had published and VOLUME 3 of this series came out in 1988. There were many more titles after this as should have been evident from the material we have sent the Glengarry News over the years and in particular your complimentary subscription to BRIDGING THE GAP this past year plus.

For these publications, for the research involved, for preserving an aspect of Local History, family history and genealogy for the benefit of all those interested individuals in this County, both locally and across North America is why I was nominated for and presented with the 125th Canada Medal.

In that article, under Harriet MacKinnon there is an error. This error likewise comes from the information provided by the 125th Medal Award Ceremony and is not the fault of The News.

Thanking you for your time and interest and continued support.

Yours truly,
Alex W. Fraser

Sex assault suspected

A Kenyon Township man has been arrested by Maxville OPP and is facing 24 charges of sexual assault.

The man is alleged to have sexually assaulted his daughter.

Maxville OPP and the Children's Aid Society in Alexandria conducted a joint investigation.

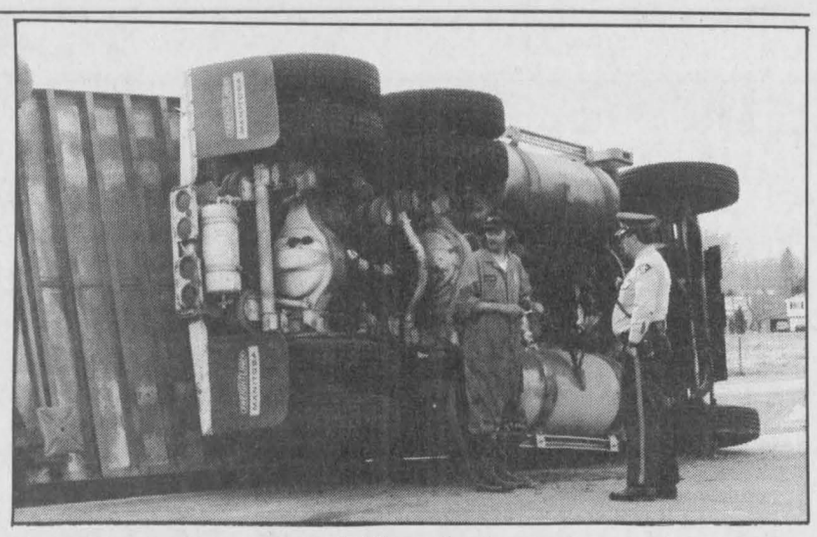
The name of the man is not being released because it would reveal the victim's identity.

Unwelcome meeting

A 74-year-old Dunvegan woman has been charged by Alexandria Police with failing to yield the right of way at a stop sign following a two-car accident.

Ellen MacLeod was southbound on Sandfield Street on Saturday at 11:58 a.m. However, she didn't stop at the intersection of Sandfield and St. Paul Street and was struck by another car, driven by Kenneth MacDonald, 74, of Lochiel who had the right of way.

MacDonald's vehicle struck the right side of MacLeod's car. Both drivers were not injured but their cars sustained moderate damage.



Flippin'

Lancaster OPP Const. J.P. Dupuis speaks to a towtruck driver from Gananoque while waiting for assistance at the scene of an accident on the Highway 401 exit ramp in Lancaster. Zoltan Szali, 43, of Mattawa, Quebec, was driving around the curb too fast at 2:30 p.m. on Wednesday when the load he was hauling shifted and the transport fell over. Szali was not seriously injured.

Break-in nets thieves guns

Crime Stoppers needs the public's help in solving a break, enter and theft that occurred sometime between April 1 and April 11.

Thieves broke into a private residence located in Kenyon Township on Concession Road 3 by kicking the front door open. They stole, among other things, a 12-gauge shotgun, 303 rifle and two televisions.

Anyone with information on this or any other crime may be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000. Police don't want your name, they want your information.

Call Crime Stoppers at 534-8477, or, when calling long distance, 1-800-265- 8477.

Alexandria. Her other son Phillip was treated and released from hospital.

Manon Poirier was southbound on Highway 34 just south of Alexandria at 10:15 p.m. The Green Valley resident's 1979 Pontiac Trans-Am hit the rear end of a southbound tractor trailer driven by Joseph Lafrance, of Waterloo, Quebec, which had stopped to turn left.

Both Poirier and Lafrance were rushed to Ottawa General Hospital where they are listed in serious condition.

Poirier's two sons, Julian and Phillip, were passengers. Julian is listed in serious condition at CHEO while Phillip was taken to Cornwall General Hospital where he was treated and released.

Lancaster OPP are investigating.

Study expected in four months

Charlottenburgh should have its new waterfront area study completed within four months, following a decision to accept a proposal for the work from McNeely-Tunnock Ltd., at an upset cost of $13,885, plus GST.

Pierre Mercier, senior planner and vice-president of the firm, appeared before council on April 26, to outline the study, which, when completed, will result in the Charlottenburgh Township waterfront secondary plan.

The goal of the waterfront plan is to provide land use policies and guide development within the study area, for years to come.

The St. Lawrence River waterfront is presently characterized by a mix of seasonal and permanent residential dwellings, open space areas, institutional, neighborhood commercial, and tourist and marine-related uses.

The presence of "provincially-significant Class 1 Wetlands" and a sensitive shoreline ecosystem will also be considered in the plan.

Mercier told council that he wants to work closely with the public on the project.

He said he intends to hold workshops with land-owners before drafting any policies.

"It really diffuses problems with residents," Mercier said.

Board member urges dealing

Board member Wally Hope has suggested "a little wheeling and dealing to lower the price" of a $.5 million x-ray machine for Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

A tender of $470,253 from Siemens for the x-ray machine was approved Thursday, along with a speeded up x-ray developing system called "Daylight" from Dupont for another $81,747, plus an unspecified amount more to install lead walls and a stepped-up electricity system to accommodate the machines.

"Listen, if I was the Siemens salesman I'd be kissing you for an order of that size," Hope said.

"I'm sure we could get a chunk more knocked off."

Technician Mary Rankin said she "wiggled them down pretty close over three months of negotiation and they came down from $390,000 to $300,000 on one piece of equipment."

Rankin said she also hopes to get big bucks for the old generator, X-ray and developing machines.

"They are inadequate for our hospital but they would work well in a smaller facility."

Chief Executive Officer Jerry Adams was rapped by board members for not having estimates of the cost of lead-lining walls around the equipment and running in heavier electric lines.

He estimated "a few hundred dollars for the work."

Finance committee chair Kent MacSweyn was appointed to help Adams and Rankin with the equipment purchase.

MacSweyn was critical of the lack of estimates for renovations needed to install the equipment and suggested appointing a building committee to ride herd on all future renovation costs.

Lancaster fire deparment holds the line on budget

By Scott Ferrier
News reporter

Lancaster Fire Department has held the line on its annual budget.

The 1993 budget, retroactive from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, will amount to $56,150, the same amount as last year's budget. However, that figure doesn't include salaries.

The budget was tabled at Lancaster Township Council's meeting held Wednesday, April 7.

Taxpayers in Lancaster Township will foot approximately 39 per cent of the total budget, $21,907. Ratepayers in the Village of Lancaster will pay 21 per cent of the total budget.

The remaining revenue will come from last year's surplus, interest collected and money paid by the Ministry of Transportation to cover a section of Highway 401.

"It was necessary to keep this budget as low as possible because the economy is in such bad shape," says Lancaster Fire Chief Gene Picard.

"We budgeted for the necessities. We could have gone for more but didn't."

Nearly half of the budget, $22,935.36, will be spent on necessities such as new equipment including hoses, boots and helmets as well as repairs to the pumper and tanker.

Picard says the department will save money in other areas like training. Previously, the firefighters had to travel to Toronto for additional training. Now, the Ontario Fire Marshalls office does the training in the village.

The chief and deputy chief are the two highest paid fire officials earning $20 and $16 per hour respectively. The captain will receive $14, lieutenant, $12, firefighters, $10.

Marilyn Lebrun, the clerk-treasurer for the village of Lancaster, says last year's budget was $70,230 including salaries which amounted to $14,080.

Ratepayers angered by sewer charges is another example of council unfairness to people on the boundary line of town.

"When you talk about Lochiel residents, you would think we were lepers," said one woman who refused to be identified.

"We've got the right to use it (town services), but we've paid for it. Everything from potholes to a light bulb, we're charged double the amount."

"I wish I could move my house across the street (to Alexandria). If you have any help, send it down. I'll move."

Her comments were echoed by Stella Kingston, who said she was shocked to receive her bill and find she must pay double the user charge Alexandria residents pay.

"Instead of living on the wrong side of the tracks, we're on the wrong side of the street," she told council members.

And she took issue with Deputy Reeve Jacques Joly's assertion that the rate structure devised by the environment committee and approved by council was fair to everyone.

"Every time you need money, you're going to charge the residents of Alexandria (one price) and charge Lochiel double?"

She added, that council was irresponsible not to get the work done years ago.

"It's something you should have done 10 years ago when there were lots of grants from the government," she said.

Business owner Madeleine Lalonde, in an emotionally charged speech, said council is once again dumping on the town's businesses by charging them more than residential water-users.

And she suggested those who were on council prior to the last election donate one year of their salary to help build the sewer repair fund.

The town charges town businesses $15 a month user fee, when residences, which are charged $10 monthly, use more water than businesses, Lalonde said.

"It is ridiculous to charge me $375 a year for one toilet," she told council members.

She estimated her business would only use 1/300th the amount of water a residence uses.

She said merchants have been given short shrift by council for a long time, something that is obvious by the amount of empty businesses along Main Street.

New sewers may raise the value of commercial buildings, but they do nothing to raise the values of people who have businesses but do not own the building they are in, she said.

"Right now the only option you're giving me is to move out of town."

Councillors Jacques Lajoie and John Hope had raised concerns about the business charge being higher than the residential charge when the charges were brought to council for approval.

But their concerns, which were reiteratered last Tuesday, were dismissed at the time.

Mayor Jean Paul Touchette said the user charge was necessary and was forced on the town by the MOE, which would have "shut Alexandria down" if council did not comply.

Touchette, however, was told by one of the crowd members, that she had already called the MOE and were told the town was not forced to implement the charges.

It was left up to the town to decide how to raise money for the repairs, she said she was told by the MOE.

Veterans mark ocean battle

Commander George O'Dair, said the courage of those in the battle will not be forgotten.

"The Legion will remember the men who went down in these ships... we will remember them," he assured those attending the ceremony.

Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria focused on the roll of seamen in turning the tide in the four-year battle.

He said the anniversary serves to commemorate the "dramatic turnaround" achieved by seaman to gain the upper hand in the battle against German U-boats.

Gordie Kerr, the Legionnaire who organized the ceremony, said it was a fitting tribute to those who helped win the battle.

"I thought it was very good. It went very, very well."

The Battle of the Atlantic is generally celebrated the first Sunday in May. It began Sept. 3, 1939 and ended on VE Day, May 8, 1945.

Substance Abuse

by Bronwen Geddes

Because of his accident, I see things differently.

I can look at the long, thin stem of the purple loosestrife and can connect it to his indiscriminate cravings. Its hollow stem mysteriously transports life-giving minerals towards the young flower. The seed is small and potentially hazardous, but some find it attractive and alluring. It is those select individuals who are able to benefit from the absolutely addictive beauty of the loosestrife. To walk by once is to be enveloped in its world - to be caught in its enchanting web. Beautiful flowers shelter the powerful seeds, but the addict sees only the outer casing. The seeds disperse by the hundreds of thousands and spread easily. The speed at which the seeds scatter, and the amount of available sun and rain, greatly influence the severity of the weed.

Its root system grows to such enormous proportions that it is practically impossible to pull the quick-spreading weed from its swampy bed. Its thirst controls the plant to the point that whole ecosystems are drunk. Its effects move quickly and sporadically throughout - like an automobile hurtling down a gravel road. Sometimes the gravel becomes loose. Attempt at control becomes an act of defiance.

So, too, with Edward's addictive substances which were, to him, sources of vision and of life. Each gradually began to destroy his internal and external ecosystems as, hurtling down a gravel road, he was oblivious to anything other than his unquenchable thirst. He could no longer focus or conceptualize. His eyelids began slowly to close, as the last fix took a downer effect, and caused a terrible sleepiness that was unavoidable.

An eight-year-old child, with chestnut curls, was caught in the overturned vehicle that ignited soon after his unconscious mother was pulled from the wreckage, from the deep purple flames.

Murphy's End

by Harry Wilson

Sean knew he never should have taken this damned job. There was something about it that made his insides - his "deepest guts" his mother would have called them - squirm. Unfortunately though, he had accepted and was now in his present position.

O'Riordan, who was head of Operations in the area, had given explicit instructions to Sean to station himself behind the faded and cracked billboard of the smiling cows dancing with the farmer. So with a hint of a smile on his young face, he took his position and began to wait.

Eamon Clark, President of the Irish National Bank, was due to arrive at a quarter to eight that evening. It was now exactly twenty minutes to eight. At a quarter to eight, when Eamon Clark stepped out of his private car, Sean Murphy was to kill him.

His mother had warned him never to get involved with short, swarthy, northern Irishmen, which was exactly what O'Riordan was. He should have listened to her.

The next five minutes passed slowly. During this time, Sean examined his weapon, tied his shoe, blew his nose, and checked his weapon again. The rifle was a thing of great beauty to Sean. It was very clean, very metallic, and very useful. It was also very deadly.

Sean peeked under the edge of the cheap plywood billboard and squinted into the tepid Belfast night. A line of cars was slowly making its way towards the bank offices, directly across from Sean. Clark was here.

Security, apparently, was thin, relegated only to the procession on the street below, and nowhere else.

Sean raised his weapon, sighting carefully on the infra-red scope. The gun felt smooth and heavy in his experienced hands. The grip was perfect, and Sean knew it would be a perfect kill.

Security got out of the car first. That was fine. Standard procedure. They were all dark men, in dark suits, suspicious of everything and anything. That was what they were paid for. But who could be suspicious of a billboard with dancing cows and a smiling farmer? Apparently no one. Consequently, no one saw Sean as he stood up, placed Clark in his sights, and remembered to squeeze the trigger, not pull it.

The steel, hollow-tipped round made its way slowly down to Clark, slicing through air that both executioner and victim had breathed, making them all the closer. To Sean, everything suddenly slowed incredibly. He saw the bullet leave. He saw it travel. He also saw it make a direct hit between Eamon Clark's eyes. Sean had time to smile, then he ran.

He picked his way carefully along the top of the black, sticky, tar paper roof of the building, wending his way between the dusty red brick chimneys, grimy with age old soot. Freedom and a cold ale were just around the corner.

Five feet from the edge of escape, a familiar hollow tipped round hit Sean in the back of the head. The bullet travelled well and true and killed Sean almost instantly. In that one instant before Sean let loose his hold on life, his sea-green eyes were taken with an image he knew well, for he'd seen it many a time, but until now, had never been a part of it.

Sean Murphy recognized Death and knew it had come for him, scythe and all. With his final breath, he thought of his mother, and once again, wished he had listened.

Co-op Education: Community Partnership

by Ursula Sweitzer

The official goal of the co-operative program at G.D.H-.S. is to integrate classroom theory with experience in the work place, a partnership between business, industry and school.

As one of thirty-three students enrolled in co-op this semester, I'd like to tell you of my experience with the program.

Being in my final year of high-school, and having finished my prerequisite 0AC's for university, I needed something to liven up what had the potential of being a VERY LONG final semester. I had always been interested in the co-op program, but due to my misconceptions, dismissed the idea. It wasn't until my Biology teacher, who organizes the program, discussed the possibility of a placement relating psychology and teaching, that my interest was peaked. If I could have some hands on experience dealing with my chosen field in university, I'd not only be able to test my interests, but also get a feel for what my future may be.

I am presently a teacher's assistant, helping in the Special Education Department of the Alexander School. I've not only been able to learn from the children, but I've also begun to understand how they learn. As well, I've now proven to myself that I have the patience to be a teacher. I enjoy the responsibility, the rewards of teaching, and the staff with whom I work. Extra help is always appreciated in the crowded classrooms, and I get to benefit from the experience of my supervisor.

Co-op has allowed me to pursue my interests, and lets me take home a fulfilling feeling I couldn't get in a classroom. Co-op can provide diverse work experiences, a means of exploring possibilities for your higher education.

Spanish in Glengarry

by Mark Michaud

They can hear English, French, Gaelic, and Spanish through the headphones. Are they at a United Nations' conference? Not exactly. They are in the G.D.H.S. language lab.

Spanish, you might ask. In Glengarry County? The lab, and the Spanish course make our school unique. Ours is the only school in S. D. & G. to have both a language lab and Spanish course. The course was established for many reasons.

Glengarry District's principal, Stephen Blasko, felt there was a need in the community. Spanish is arguably the second most dominant language in the Western World. Official requests from parents and the imminent arrival of free-trade amongst Canada, Mexico, and the United States provided sufficient reason to pursue the subject.

The class is being taught by former Glengarry student Anne Ferguson. One might ask how a young lady of Scottish descent who attended French schools ended up teaching Spanish. "Spanish as a third language is very easy to learn, especially since it shares such a close tie with French," she explained. "What is taught in this class can easily be plugged into a basic Spanish language course in university and is great for those who want to travel."

Some students have already planned to put their newly acquired knowledge to good use. Three pupils have signed up for an exchange which will bring three Spaniards to Glengarry for the months of August, September, and October. Our students will fulfil their half of the exchange in February, March, and April.

To date, the introduction of Spanish to Glengarrians has been a great success. Sixty students were registered for the course this year, and twenty-seven are already slated for next year. Although a working knowledge of Spanish may broaden your career opportunities as well as make travelling more enjoyable, you will also be able to sing along with all your old José Feliciano albums.

The Dance

by Tena Upton

I stood in the wing of the stage waiting for my cue to go on. The stage in front of me resembled a mile long stretch of barren land. The lights bounced off the highly polished floor and settled onto the midnight black backdrop in intricate patterns. I slowly looked up at the ceiling and was instantly hypnotized by the glaring lights which hung in perfect rows. My palms began to feel cold and clammy. My stomach felt as though a million butterflies were doing their dance of joy, fluttering here and there, tickling every inch of my insides. Then I heard my cue. My ears roared in protest. Not yet! Not yet! Legs which felt like long wet strands of spaghetti slowly carried me out onto the stage. As if in a dream, I spun slowly, ever so slowly to face the crowd. My eyes misted over when the bright lights glared at me, mocking me, turning my Buchanan kilt into a dazzling display of bright red, orange, green, and yellow material swinging and swaying from my hips. A wave of fear rolled gracefully from my head right down to my toes. The crowd was a gigantic black abyss which hissed and murmured like a giant python ready to strike at any instant. My whole being began to shake like a rattle. The music began. At first it was quite faint, as if it were playing in my dreams. It began to get louder and louder. My body responded to the melodious call. My muscles tightened, my frame stood straight and ceased to quake. My hands rose to my hips and placed themselves in the grooves made just for them. My heels rose off the floor and my protesting toes took on all my weight. I was now in a familiar trance, ready to spring into action like a trapped fox looking for an escape. The dance had begun.

Adult Transportation Course

by Lee-Anne McDonald

Students who graduated a few years ago might be surprised to find that computers are a common sight in the technological classes at Glengarry District High School Since February 23, 1993, fifteen adult students have been taking advantage of the modern equipment that the school has recently installed.

The transportation department has offered an adult day course in transportation technology. This adult course, taught by Dwayne Lowe, is designed for the rural or urban person who is interested in maintaining equipment (car-truck-farm). The focus is on the four stroke cycle engine, both diesel and gasoline. Many support systems are explored, such as starters, alternators, brakes and various methods of fuel distribution. A hydraulic, pneumatic and welding component is to be included for those interested in farm equipment maintenance and repair. There is no charge for the course except for parts and fluids. Some students have been known to run up bills of a few hundred dollars at local stores.

Of the fifteen people enrolled, six are women who generally took the course to become more aware of what goes on underneath the hoods of their cars. Just recently, one female student changed the radiator of her car, saving herself a lot of money. Although the ability of the students varies, everyone can benefit from the course because students are encouraged to work according to their ability in independent work projects. Dwayne calls it a "challenge" to meet everyone's needs. On an average day starting at nine o'clock, he says that there are about 10 cars being worked on by the owners.

Not only does the course give people a new understanding of how their cars function, but it also gives them a sense of respect for the technicians, the time necessary to make repairs, and the hard work involved. This course was made available to the public in order for the community to make full use of the advanced technological equipment that is available to the students.

Tree stumps
Gnawed in fleshy, white cones
- I pass in my bus this morning,
Whizzing to my life.

The mass of clipped twigs and branches
I know is there
Or even its proud fortifier
As my bus rushes away.

I wish now there were a beaver here
To curb this dizzying flow.

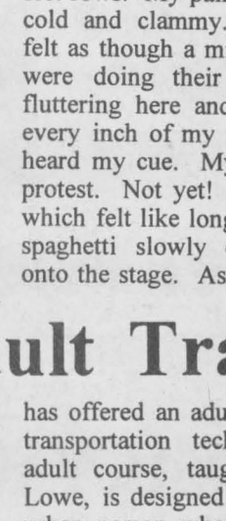
Swiss Immigration to Glengarry

by Rahel Meier



From the view point of a Glengarry farmer, the invasion of Glengarry by Swiss (and other European) farmers has two sides. For older farmers without offspring willing to work on the farm, it is a gift from heaven that farm prices have doubled and that their farm has become a much sought-for object. For the young Canadian farmer, it can be a horror. Now, his father asks him for twice the price for the farm than he did a few years ago. On the other hand, the son may now sell the farm for twice the price he had to pay his father. Farm enlargements become more difficult and expensive.

All farmers had a positive answer to the next question which was "Did the Canadians living around you help out the first few years?" Canadian farmers (especially Glengarrians) are very generous and helpful people. As a Swiss myself, I remember very well how our neighbour came over with a cake that had printed on it "Welcome to Canada." He also shared his machines, and gave us the names and telephone numbers of electricians, plumbers, and veterinarians. Help of this sort is greatly appreciated by Swiss farmers who hardly know how to speak English.

(This essay will be printed in full at a later date in the Glengarry News. Ed.)

The spring bazaar held last Saturday was a success and the winners of the draws were Betty Rappel of Verdun, Jean Real Proulx of North Gower and Gisele Sauvé of Glen Robertson. Juliette Robertson won the guessing the beans contest. Special thanks to Lise Menard who graciously donated three brightly decorated cakes. The lucky recipients of the cakes were Erin Kelly, Lucille Henri and Barton McDonell.

Optimist news

André Carriere of Rigaud was the lucky winner last Sunday for the $1,000 monthly draw ticket which was sold by Maria Beauclair.

Pierre and Diane Larocque, Ron and Louise Carriere, Henke and Linda Van Den Oetelaar, Robert and Johanna Massie and Maurice and Colette Sauvé attended a charter presentation for the Kenyon Optimist Club last Saturday at the Angus Gray Hall in Maxville. Congratulations to the Dalkeith Optimist Club who are the sponsors and also to Marie Peters who was elected president of this brand new optimist club. We certainly wish them success and long life in helping the youth of their community.

First Communion

Last Sunday, ten young boys received the bread of life for the very first time in St. Martin of Tours church. On this very special occasion, their little faces were filled with a radiant glow of joy and love. Parents and family members were also very proud. They were: Jonathan Brazeau, François Decoeur, Mathieu Charest, Craig Jodoin, Brent Hagen, Eric Larocque, Eric Leblanc and Marc-André Pépin. Nicholas Saint-Amour and David O'Neill of Dalkeith were also part of the group.

Scottish heritage course crosses time, cultures

by Sean Burgess
G.D.H.S.

now boasts one of only two Scottish Heritage courses (to my knowledge) in North America. The course, which is taught by Stanley Fraser, has proven to be popular among students at the school. Surprisingly, not all of the students taking the class are of Scottish descent.

The course first looks at Scotland's current geography, government, and culture before moving on to study its history. The focus of the course then shifts across the Atlantic Ocean with the migration of Scottish settlers to Canada. Students learn the history of Glengarry, largely through the use of field trips and guest speakers. The highlights of the course, however, the lessons on Scottish culture, including elementary Gaelic and music lessons.

The course was a student-driven idea presented to Mr. Blasko and the school committee three years ago. I was one of the "pioneer" class of 15 two years ago; in the second class currently running there are twenty-two students. Mr. Fraser is particularly pleased with growth in the second offering as the usual trend is a drop following the "halo" effect of a new course offering. He also reports that tomorrow (Thursday) an official from the Ministry, Mr. Michael Perry, will be visiting the class with a view to upgrading the status from "experimental" to "on-going approved." It will likely be offered on an alternate year basis.

So if you see Mr. Fraser shuttling students across Glengarry in his van for field trips, you can thank him for helping keep the Scottish traditions of Glengarry alive and well in our younger generation.

Group releases first cassette recording

Celtica: Area folk/traditional group

Celtica, a local band which plays traditional Celtic and contemporary folk music in an acoustic style, has released its first cassette recording.

Formerly known as The Seanachies, this foursome is working hard to create an original sound while focusing on a repertoire of familiar, and not so familiar, songs from the Celtic folk tradition.

As a trio, The Seanachies began about six years ago with Jim McRae (Vankleek Hill) on guitar singing lead vocals, Darrel MacLeod (Laggan) on fiddle and mandolin, and Dave McCormick (North Lancaster) on bass.

A year and a half ago, they became a foursome, adding Jean Mills (Vankleek Hill) who plays keyboard, recorder, Appalachian dulcimer, autoharp and guitar.

Now, as Celtica, they feature strong vocal harmonies and original arrangements which highlight their broad assortment of acoustic instruments.

The songs on their first recording range from the familiar "Flower of Scotland" and "Banks of Sicily", to a modern Gaelic protest song (sung a cappella), an ancient ballad, and an original piece written by Darrel and Jean called "Lament for the '45."

They have performed recently at the Priest's Mill in Alexandria, The Granary in Vankleek Hill, as well as in concert with Imaginary Heaven in Vankleek Hill and at the annual St. Andrew's Concert in Alexandria last fall.

Next month, they will be appearing at the annual May Show in Vankleek Hill, and they will also be the duty band for the upcoming Gaelic Mod in June.

The cassettes are available at Danskin's Scottish Gift Shop in Maxville, the Fassifern General Store and Marielle's Confectionary in McCrimmon.

Festival Alexandria to feature wide variety of chamber music

The third season of Festival Alexandria will feature a wide variety of chamber music performances from June 27 to August 15, 1993.

The season will open with the Liebeslieder Waltzes of Brahms, featuring pianists Lauretta Altman and Wayne Riddell, soprano Beverly McGuire, contralto Ruth Barrie, tenor Matthew Lombardi and baritone Claudel Callender. This June 27 concert will also feature songs by Daunais and Gershwin.

The following week, on July 4, the Claudel Quartet will present works by Schumann and Mendelssohn, and on July 11, Danielle Habel, Robert Langevin, Charles Meinen and Ruth Barrie will perform works for harp, flute, viola and voice by Debussy and Bax.

On July 18, Richard Roberts, violinist and Lauretta Altman, pianist, will be heard in a program of Schubert, Schumann and Saint-Saens; on July 25, an all Poulenc recital will be presented by Theodore Baskin oboe, Whitney Crockett bassoon, David Marlowe french horn, Ruth Barrie contralto and Lauretta Altman piano.

Grieg, Beethoven and Brahms will be featured composers at the August 1st concert, with Adolfo Bornstein violin, Charles Meinen viola, Patrick Binford cello and Lauretta Altman piano.

Guitar duo, Les Deux Amis will perform works by Tartini, Scarlatti and Gnatelli on August 8, and the season will close with a concert by the Kingston Chamber Players on August 15, featuring works by Mozart, Gershwin and Ravel.

All concerts take place in a restored century-old barn on the Second Concession of Kenyon, just south of the town of Alexandria, and begin at 3 p.m. Tickets are $10 (adults), $7 (students and seniors.

Subscriptions are also available for $65 (adults) and $50 for students and seniors.

Family and group rates are available. Further information may be obtained by calling or writing the festival office at Festival Alexandria, 234 Cambridge St. N., Ottawa, Ontario, K1R 7B2 — (613) 594-3642 (Ruth Barrie), (514) 484-9076 (Laurie Altman), (613) 525-4165 (local info.).

Council urges cut back

Life is lonely for township deputy-reeves these days. Charlottenburgh's incumbent, Leslie O'Shaughnessy, like Kenyon's Donald Besner, was the sole objector to a resolution urging a reduction in the size of United Counties Council.

The resolution, passed by Charlottenburgh Council at its regular meeting held April 26, was in support of the Kenyon resolution of April 6, which asked "the United Counties to reduce their costs by decreasing the number of people who sit on council."

It also urged "all municipalities within the United Counties to make their views known on this matter."

Deputy-Reeve O'Shaughnessy, who sits on a counties council ad hoc committee to look into its possible re-organization, thinks the decision to reduce numbers should come from counties council, not from the municipalities.

"After sitting on counties council, I think we (deputy-reeves) should stay," reported O'Shaughnessy, who added he was concerned that in a reorganization, Charlottenburgh might not end up with the same voting power it now enjoys.

Currently Reeve Dave MacDonald and O'Shaughnessy have two votes each.

"It's hard to vote in favor of giving up your job," commented Councillor Don Kannon, who voted yea in the recorded vote.

Reeve MacDonald said he thought cutting the size of council in half was a good idea, but that he would like to see the deputy-reeves become alternates to the reeves.

Charlottenburgh Township

Council Briefs

Meeting venue changed

There will be a change of venue for the next council meeting.

The next regular meeting of council, scheduled fro May 11 at 7 p.m. will take place at St. Mary's Centre, Williamstown, instead of at the township hall.

The change is to accommodate a larger than usual delegation of residents from the Street Road.

Grand opening of park

Council is applying for an occasional liquor permit as part of the festivities for the grand opening of the Glen Walter Regional Park, slated for June 19.

Smoke alarms to be mandatory

Smoke detectors could soon become mandatory in Charlottenburgh residences.

Following the move made by other municipalities recently, council voted to instruct its administration to prepare a bylaw making smoke alarms mandatory in residences throughout the township.

The request originated with Charlottenburgh's Fire Committee.

Yield signs to stop

Two intersections in the township will soon have stop signs.

One will be placed where the Paragon Rd. meets the Summerstown Station Rd. and the other will be at the North Branch Rd. and County Rd. 20.

Both locations are presently serviced by yield signs.

Bonnie Glen filled for Scottish music night, $1,400 raised

Yes, their hearts still beat fondly for Glengarry, their county of birth. Last Saturday evening, the members of the Glengarry Club of Ottawa held a most successful event at the Bonnie Glen to raise funds for the Manor's building project.

A capacity crowd filled the popular hall to enjoy a most delightful evening. They came from Ottawa and all local points to enjoy the music of the Brigadoons and a varied program of Scottish numbers from Ottawa and Glengarry. The organizers were ecstatic and Betty McCormick who played a dual role for both the Glengarry Club and the Manor fundraisers, beamed all evening.

The sum of $1,400 went to the Manor fund as a result of the success of this evening. Gordon Black, whose Glengarry home was Bainsville, and who is the Glengarry Club's president, made the presentation to Gordon Winter who represented the Manor.

The lunch was delicious and thanks go to those in charge of preparation. Thanks are also expressed to Alexandria IGA for supplying the sandwich fillings, to Lanthier Bakery for the bread and to Marcel Lanthier for his generosity with the Bonnie Glen facilities.

The United Church was the scene of a wedding of particular interest last Saturday when Joan, daughter of the Rev. Frank and Felicia Bailey was married to Michael Voss. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father and she was given in marriage by her brother, the Rev. Anthony Bailey. Marcia Bailey, Montreal, was her sister's matron of honor.

A reception for the guests was held in the church hall afterwards. The couple will live in Ottawa where the groom is a computer programmer.

Florence (Mrs. Leonard J.) McNaughton is celebrating her 95th birthday, quietly, on Sunday, May 9. This lady's roots go way back in Maxville when she was principal in the public school, then a wife and mother at Notfield farm and after Mr. McNaughton's death she rejoined the teaching profession until the age of retirement.

We extend best wishes to Mrs. McNaughton.

Visitors of Evelyn Willis at the Manor were her sister, Kay Carey and Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGimpsey, St. Catharines.

His high school friends here and friends in his native Moose Creek were sorry to learn of the death of Dr. Jack Doyle, Peterborough. We extend sympathy to his wife, the former Fern Lavigueur of Maxville and his family. Jack was the son of Dr. P. E. Doyle, the family doctor in Moose Creek for many years and of Mrs. Doyle, both deceased.

Agnes Campbell and Isabel Frith Templeton, Howick, attended the memorial service for Elizabeth Hamilton MacKenzie last week. They were able to speak with two of the Hamilton brothers Chalmers and Walter.

An informal high school reunion will be held again this year in the United Church hall on July 30, the day preceding the Highland Games. In former years, the reunion included those who attended our high school prior to 1940. For this one, the cut-off date is indefinite. Additional details will be given later.

I have spotted two more wild animals on our street. A skunk crossed our back yard one evening trailed by the Shields' kitten but there were no ill effects, although the skunk warned the kitten a couple of times to keep its distance.

Then one morning, a large beaver appeared on the street. It showed little fear and I don't know where it went.

I know now that all black squirrels don't have brown tails because one has appeared with a black tail. I suspect our brown-tailed ones are a mutation or perhaps hybrids.

The band and tree swallows arrived back last week. The tree swallows quickly check out the bluebird houses and choose favorites. It is recommended to have at least two of these houses installed a short distance apart and then the bluebirds will have one and the tree swallows the other.

The Rev. Gary Van Bruchem, minister of St. Andrew's and Knox Presbyterian Churches will receive the Doctor of Ministry Degree from Knox College, University of Toronto, in Convocation Hall on May 12 at 8 p.m. We extend our congratulations to Mr. Van Bruchem in reaching this peak in university degrees after much hard work and dedication.

The annual meeting of the Maxville Cemetery Board was held last Tuesday evening in the office of the Munro Funeral Home. Secretary-treasurer Dale Munro, reported that the compliances from the new Cemetery Act had been met and that the financial statement had been audited and indicates a satisfactory condition. Verna MacGregor and Donald Kennedy were re-appointed auditors, Gregor McEwen, chairman, Dale Munro, secretary-treasurer and Albert Russell and Roger Rolland, caretakers.

It is planned to have two more brick pillars built at the vault entrance to the cemetery and to have more evergreens planted.

While there is no connection between this cemetery and the pioneer one a short distance southwest of it, the board members of the former are interested in having a fence built around the pioneer cemetery on the west side of the Jakob Schmid farm. Gregor McEwen will accept donations from all those interested in having this small plot of land set aside to honor forefathers who are buried there.

First meeting is entitled "Chomp, Jump and Snooze" facts about health; other topics to be discussed are protect your senses, protect yourself from crime, safe decisions about drug use and sexual activity and building self concept.

The ladies of St. Michael's and All Angels ACW held a recent luncheon. It was successful and due to a surplus of food, the congregation enjoyed more of the same after church on Sunday.

The renovations of the rooms at the west end of the church are completed and we now have a nursery and a good sized room for meetings. The work was mainly done by parish members and is a much needed improvement to the church facilities.

Both sides on the hockey scene remain happy. It has been brought to my attention that the loudest cheers for the Canadiens come from Ireland which lies between Three Bridges and Laggan. There was a bit of gloating for three days until the Maple Leafs scored in overtime Saturday night. Now they are even and bets made by opposing supporters have been cancelled. Numerous early morning and late night telephone calls have been reported of late and they have been offering support and of course, ridicule.

Some are wondering if the community could stand a final series between the Leafs and Canadiens. I can only suggest that the further the Leafs go, cheered on by their vocal supporters, the better the specials should be at the Leaf supporters headquarters here in the village.

Fifty years ago, Lauchlin MacInnes arrived overseas with the RCAF. After the war he completed his education and became a high school English teacher. He now lives in Mississauga and enjoys a busy retirement. One of his projects was to write a very interesting account of his high school years at home and at Maxville High School.

Ninety years ago, Dan McKercher moved from his farm now operated by the Vallee family across from the fleamarket to his home on Catherine St. now owned by Brian Richer. The McKercher daughters were Kathleen, Mrs. John M. MacRae and Mabel, Mrs. James Ross, both deceased.

Seventy years ago, Hattie Daniels became the night telephone operator. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Daniels and a sister of Alfred and of Ella, Mrs. Ernest Chrisp. The telephone office was on the north side of the railroad tracks and on the east side of Main St. The building was removed long ago and the property belongs to the convenience store.

Plenty of Char-Lan students make honor roll

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

Mid-term report cards were issued to Char-Lan students a while back, and I'm pleased to be able to recognize those who have excelled (over 80 per cent) in their studies. Char-Lan is unique in that it appears to be one of the few schools which still has mid-term exams. In fact, one of the great educational inequities of our time is that entrance to universities these days is decided upon the marks one has achieved up to the mid-term of the second semester. And if a school does not have mid-term examinations, these marks are often determined solely upon class tests, assignments, projects, and the often nebulous "participation." According to sources close to me, students from some schools are arriving at our universities never having written a research essay or having sat for a full-fledged exam.

The following students needn't worry. Their Char-Lan experience should prepare them well!

Grade Nines who have made the transition smoothly, include (in alphabetical order): Janis Amell, Trevor Atchison, Shirley Bergeron, Kimberly Bold, Nina Craig, Nicole Flaro, Carmelle Gagnon, Daniel Gillespie, Jeffrey Girard, Kelly Giroux, Reid Guest, Amanda Hicks, Tim Hodgson, Raymond Lang, Jaye Makinson, Richard Malo, Laurel McCosham, Lisa McEvoy, Steven Meilleur, James Nichol, Kevin O'Farrell, Daniel Olsson, Michelle Owen, Angela Parker, Sommer Robertson, Samantha Schofield, Heather Smith, Mathieu Trudel, Janet Varrin, and Ariana Winn.

Grade Ten: Derek Abrams, Kimberly Allaire, Andrew Beaudin, Adam Blackadder, Jason Buriak, Glenda Geneau, Sarah Henssen, Lana Jarvo, Tania Keefe, Natasha Lapointe, Jennie McIntosh, Julie McIntosh, Katy Secord, Christine Sloan, Tina St. Denis, Tania Thauvette, Chantal Whitaker, Heather Williams, and Krista Wind.

Grade Eleven: Lesley Bethune, Michael Bissonnette, Lance Brabant, James Doonan, Sarah Harrington, Sarah Harris, Lisa Lapierre, Jacin Lapointe, Julie Levac, Bryan Parker, Vicky Peacey, and Michael Rzepczyk.

Grade Twelve: Lisa Curry and Roberta Prevost.

OAC: Lisa Buriak, Heather Johns, Laurie Legault, Terry O'Farrell, and Angela Smith.

Over at Williamstown Public comes news of staffing changes for next year. Because of the large number of registrations for Junior Kindergarten, there will be two JK classes, both held in the afternoon. Teachers will be Susan Phippen and Kathy O'Farrell.

After a stint at Char-Lan, Rosemary Sookman will return to Williamstown Public in September, to teach Grade 5. Charlene Syrduk will teach Grade 6 full time, while Gisele Joanette will be the full-time Core French teacher.

Now that you've had a few days to play around in your gardens, do you find that your perennials are coming up everywhere? Don't know what to do with them all?

Sharon McCullough and her Grade Two class are planning to pretty up the flower beds in front of the school and have issued an appeal for any extra plants you could donate. These may be dropped off at the school anytime in the near future.

The last day of school this year will REALLY be the last day of school. That is because for the first time in years, there will be no elementary summer school held in SD&G.

Somehow I'm not too sad about this. The sight of those wan faces pressed against school bus windows on a beautiful July day used to trouble me. Besides, we mustn't forget that the youth of Glengarry (to quote an author recently in the news) "have access to the wonderful university of the forest with all the wealth of fauna and flora contained therein." How lucky can we be?

The bees were working out in our gardens while the workers from St. Andrew's Church held a bee on Saturday. The old, "Many hands" thing held true — the place was spicked and spanned in less time, it seems, than a sermon takes on a warm day!

One problem remained after the clean-up, and that was, to quote Mary Alguire, "Major leaves!" By Monday, however, all was well — the leaves had begun their transformation into compost, thanks to Luke Bryan and his faithful dog, Siggy.

Identity problems are not restricted just to people these days, it seems. Churches, especially locally, are wondering whether the big union (schism?) of 1925 ever took place. For the second time in several weeks, St. Andrew's United here in Williamstown has been called St. Andrew's Presbyterian in the media.

Meanwhile, just to confuse things a little more, St. Andrew's Presbyterian in S. Lancaster was called St. Andrew's United in the "Glengarry School Days" play program. And this after the ladies of the church had been so kind as to lend us all the dishes for the dinner theatre, too!

Our sincere apologies!

I'm not sure which church they were married at, but John and Reina Troost were married 40 years ago, and this Saturday they will celebrate their anniversary with an Open House at Smithsfield Hall in Lancaster.

Here from a distance for the occasion is Reina's sister, Janneke Van Rietschoten, who, despite her 80 years, is visiting from Holland. Also attending will be Bill and Jane Willemsen, of Calgary.

Everyone is asking, but who knows? Who bought the Moore house (the old Presbyterian/United Church manse) in Williamstown?

After many months, a "sold" sticker has been slapped on the "For sale" sign, and curiosity is running high. Help us out on this one, readers/Rogers, so that we may welcome the newcomers in fine fashion.

Rumors also report a change in ownership at Jack Delaney's Restaurant and Pub, but I've yet to substantiate them.

In its time as a food-serving establishment, "J.D.'s" has had a series of proprietors: MacDonald (take-out only), Colette (remember the Harleyburger?), Pye (famous for pizza and pinball), Latreille (became a pub), Conway (major redecoration), Tuck (became a gathering place), and ?????

In the food mood now? Great! Indulge yourself this Saturday morning (May 8), from 10 to 12 noon, at the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum's Bake Sale and morning coffee.

Funds raised from this event will go toward the museum, its upkeep and programs.

The museum opens for the season on May 22. Beginning June 1, there will be a special exhibit of early tinware, and, as in the past two years, ladies from Picnic Grove WI will serve afternoon tea on certain Sundays, to be announced.

Your support for this Saturday's bake sale would be much appreciated, both in donations of baking, and in the purchasing of same (or someone else's!)

So "Glengarry School Days" reportedly netted $14,000, did it? Everywhere I go, I am asked what I have done with the extra $10,000!

Sorry to be the harbinger of cold, stark truth, but the profit raised will be around $4,000, when all said and done. And don't blame the writer of the article, either: she assures me she didn't make the error.

But even $4,000 is not so bad — could cover a ticket to some quiet island in the South Pacific.

One way, of course!

School Fundraisers Successful

School committee chairperson, Linda Pritchard, reports a successful year of fundraising for the school and students at Martintown.

The sale of St. Albert's cheese in the fall netted a profit of approximately $1,100, as did the sale of N.S. wild, frozen blueberries in the spring. The Easter bake sale netted approximately $200.

The proceeds from these fundraisers will go towards the purchase of additional units to the playground equipment for the primary grades.

Many thanks are extended to all those who worked so hard to make these events successful, and to the community at large for its support.

Happy birthday to Iona Academy

By Scott Ferrier
News reporter

Students and faculty alike celebrated Iona Academy's 80th birthday in grand style Monday afternoon.

Motorists driving by the school located on the King's Road may have wondered what was going on.

Teachers led a procession of students across the road to the St. Raphael's Ruins.

The 300 restless students were sprawled on the grass and listened to various speakers talk about the storied past of how the school was founded and what it used to be like.

The school was founded in 1913, but a house was built for Rev. Alexander Macdonell in the early 1800s. He was accompanied by emigrants from Northern Scotland, including disbanded soldiers of the Glengarry Fencibles, all landed in Lancaster.

They had hoped to build a church but the war of 1812 and bad crops blocked their path. In 1818, Macdonell received a loan from England to build a proposed school for boys — later to be called the The College of Iona.

For the students, walking from the Ruins, led by Glengarry Pipe Band piper Chris McPherson, back to school symbolized leaving the old country for the new, much like the emigrants had done. It also represented the arrival of St. Columba on the island of Iona, in Northern Scotland in 563 and spread the Christian faith from there to the mainland of Scotland and, later on, wherever Scots settled.

Ron McAllister, principal at Iona Academy, was pleasantly surprised by how smoothly the afternoon of activities went. Students were serenaded by the Glengarry Gaelic Choir and entertained by Highland Dancers, who were all students at Iona Academy.

"This is an informal way of showing the kids where the school came from. We added a little pomp to keep them interested. The little things may motivate them.

"That's the beauty of it. If you pique their curiousity they may want to go digging a little deeper and find out about themselves," said McAllister.

Iona Academy was born when Rev. D. A. Campbell, pastor of St. Raphael's from 1900 to 1948, invited the Sisters of the Holy Cross to come to St. Raphael's and a private school for girls opened.

The school expanded several times and was eventually bought by the Sisters. However, because the government didn't susbsidize private education, Iona Academy was briefly closed in 1973.

That same year, the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Catholic School Board bought the school.

McAllister hopes the birthday bash will become an annual celebration of song, dance and the school's past.

The event was held in conjunction with Education Week. Students will be participating in other activities such as drawing their family tree. The week-long festivities will be wrapped up Friday at 9:15 a.m. with mass in the small church beside the Ruins.

The school is hosting an open house, Wednesday evening, May 5, to mark Education Week.

There will be an informal program in the gym at 7 p.m. with special music performed by students competing in the Kinsmen Music Festival, followed by an original play production by Mr. Kennedy's enrichment group.

The Optimist Club will present the Tri-Star Basketball awards, and there will be announcements of interest to parents and students. The guests can then visit through the classrooms and the Gr. 7/8 Art Gallery, to appreciate the many projects the students have been working on this year.

The Great Owl Book Fair is being held at the school Tuesday, May 4, through Thursday, May 6, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

On Tuesday, May 11, Karen Runions, a member of Cornwall's Energy Efficiency Team, will bring a message on energy awareness to students in grades 3 through 6.

The swimming schedule for the month of May is as follows: May 7: Gr. 7/8; May 14: Gr. 6; May 21: Gr. 4/5; and May 28: Gr. 3/4.

Mrs. Norman Kennedy has joined the teaching staff until the end of June. She will be assisting Mrs. Harrison with the LLD program and will work with students requiring English as a second language, language training and speech therapy.

* * *

Please note that there will be no summer school program for elementary students effective July 1, 1993.

The Brownhouse Circle

The Brownhouse Circle made a scheduled trip to old Montreal on Thursday, April 29. The bus first picked up members and guests of the Golden Glens in Alexandria, then to the Brownhouse Circle at St. Raphaels. Other guests were picked up at the Outreach Services office in Lancaster, making a total of 36 for the trip.

The first stop was made at Dunkin Donuts in Dorion, finally arriving at Du Vieux Port Restaurant in Old Montreal. After a scrumptious lunch and souvenir shopping the very capable chauffeur Jean Paul Vachon headed back to Glengarry. Another rest at Bob's on the shore of the St. Lawrence for a stretch and refreshments and then everyone was back in time for a light dinner after so much lunch.

The next activity is a yard sale on May 8 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at St. Raphael's Parish Centre.

Best wishes to Serge Driemanis, past president, on a speedy recovery from a broken ankle.

Our thoughts and prayers are extended to the family and friends of John A. O'Connor, a native of St. Raphael's parish who passed away last week. His funeral was held in St. Catherine's and was attended by many from the area.

The CWL Diocesan Convention is being hosted this year by St. Raphael's CWL on Sunday, May 30.

The St. Raphael's CWL hosted the May birthday party for the residents of the Alexandria Community Nursing Home last Monday. A good time was had by all.

In August the World Youth Day 1993 will be held in Denver Colorado. Students from the Diocese of Alexandria/Cornwall will be going to participate. Our representative from St. Raphael's is Vincent Rines. To help defer the cost of the worthwhile experience the students will be holding a Garage Sale on Saturday, May 8 at 763 Guy St. in Cornwall between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The Sunshine Gang recently has had varied programs which were enjoyed by everyone. Members went to Besner's Sugar Bush where volunteers made pancakes with maple syrup and, before leaving for home, enjoyed 'snow taffy'. One week the group met with the Fairweather Group in Alexandria. Members also met the Ontario Dairy Princess, Becky Bearinger of Kitchener and Glengarry County Dairy Princess Meagan Robertson. Don Boudria, M.P. spoke to the group about the wall hangings both groups had made celebrating Canada's 125th birthday.

The volunteers were honored at a luncheon where corsages and boutonnieres were given to Leeanne Osborne, Vivian Shipley, Rachelle St. Louis, Jean McKiel, Lou Butrym, Joan Readman and George McKiel by Joanne Trottier, executive director of Glengarry Interagency. Ruth Stanton, who is working on creative writing, gave the group a wonderful afternoon by encouraging each member to write down a happy (or not so happy) memory.

Opening kicks

Six bantam teams tuned up for the 1993 minor soccer season last Saturday by taking part in an indoor tournament in Williamstown. Here, Laggan's Ann-Marie McIntosh (left) tries to boot the ball past Glen Sandfield's Sarah Dalby in the girls' division final. For complete details, see page 19.

Sports nuggets

Broomballers come up empty

The two juvenile broomball teams that travelled to Cornerbrook, Nfld. last month for the national championships returned home without the much coveted goal.

The girls' team, which included three Glengarry residents, lost only one game during the round-robin portion of the competition but was relegated to the consolation playoffs because of a controversial tie-breaking procedure.

The Ontario girls crushed their opponents 8-0 in the consolation game but had to content themselves with fifth place overall at the championships, which were won by Quebec once again.

The Ontario boys team, which had six Glengarry representatives, finished in sixth place in Cornerbrook.

Curling club installs executive

The Glengarry Curling Club of Maxville announced its slate of officers for the 1993-94 season at the club's annual meeting on April 24.

Don Bond, the president for 1992-93, gives way to new prez Dale Munro.

Bill Sobering (vice president), Janice Blaney (secretary) and Thelma Colbourne (treasurer) were also elected as executive members.

The club's directors include Herb Holmes, Roger Jeaurond, Ann Kennedy, Catherine Kippen, Jean MacCuaig, Alyson Mainville, Dan McGale, Julie Robertson, Scott Robertson, Margery Stewart and Carolyn Tinkess.

The club also honored this season's winners from draws in the men's, women's and mixed divisions at the meeting and presented Catherine Kippen with a special recognition award.

High school soccer, take 3

For the third time this season, a schedule has been drawn up for the 1993 girls high school soccer season.

With time at a premium because of poor weather this spring, the ''A'' and ''AA'' schedules consist largely of a pair of tournaments.

The ''AA'' schools, including Glengarry, will be playing 14 games at three sites in Cornwall next Monday (May 10) while Char-Lan and the other ''A'' schools will meet at Seaway next Wednesday.

The ''AA'' clubs will get together again on May 17 at Glengarry while the ''A'' teams will complete their season with a tournament at Tagwi.

The SDG championships are scheduled for May 21 for ''AA'' schools and May 25 for ''A'' clubs.

Tapis, Seaway stay perfect in ladies ball hockey action

Tapis Richard Ranger and the Seaway Express remain undefeated and tied for first place after three rounds of play in the 1993 Ladies Ball Hockey League season.

Both clubs stretched their winning streaks with victories at the Glengarry Sports Palace on Monday night.

Seaway handed Chez Bob their first loss of the season in a 1-0 Express victory.

Karen MacDonald set up Jenny Ogilvie in the first period for the game's only goal while Sue Villeneuve recorded her third consecutive shutout of the season.

Seaway's goal, on the other hand, was the first allowed this year by Bob's goalie Gillian Chaddock.

Tapis Richard kept pace with Seaway by beating winless Glengarry Pharmacy 2-0.

Lorna Howes and Mary Nixon scored in the second frame to account for all of Tapis' offence. Sylvie Cuerrier gets credit for her second shutout of the year.

In other action on Monday night, expansion club Maxville hit the win column for the first time by defeating M and D Sports 4-1.

M and D took a 1-0 lead on a first period goal by Lori Oma but Linda Vanderwielen responded by scoring once in the second period to tie the score and again in the third to put her team ahead for good.

Louise Villeneuve and Debbie Decoeur scored for Maxville in the final minute to seal the outcome. Lianne Major had two assists on the night.

M and D remains tied with Pharmacy in the league cellar.

Donna MacGregor
Nets hat trick

Action last Thursday

Goalies took the spotlight on the second night of league play last Thursday as shutout performances were turned in in each of the three games played.

Gillian Chaddock had her second ''zero'' of the year as Chez Bob got past Maxville 3-0.

Bob's got one goal in each period of the contest including two by Julie Bissonnette and one by Glenda Lauzon. Sylvie Menard assisted on two of Bob's tallies.

Tapis Richard also got one goal in each frame in beating M and D Sports by a score of 3-0.

Mary Nixon led the offence for Tapis with a goal and an assist while Sue Stewart and Sharon MacDonell also scored for the winners.

Sylvie Cuerrier handled all the M and D shots and gets the shutout.

Seaway cruised to their second consecutive easy victory in the other game last Thursday as the defending champions routed Glengarry Pharmacy 7-0.

Donna MacGregor, last year's scoring champion, scored Seaway's final three goals to notch the league's first hat trick of the season.

Debbie Nadon, Joan Filion, Gino Lalonde and Lise Durocher also connected offensively for the Express.

Helene Brossoit had two helpers while Sue Villeneuve registered the shutout.

Maxam cops three awards

Junior B club honors best of 1992-93 hockey season

To absolutely no one's surprise, Cory Maxam was the big winner at the Char- Lan Junior B Rebels' year-end banquet in Williamstown last Friday night.

Maxam, who set new team records for assists and goals in 1992-93, took home three trophies including the John and Denis Major Award as the Rebels' most valuable player.

The right-winger, who piled up 48 goals and 88 assists for 136 points this past season, also walked off with the Gilles Barber Shop trophy for being the team's top scorer and the Chafee Sporting Goods Award as the team's top rookie.

Maxam's linemates and fellow 100-point marksmen, Denis St.Jean and Marc Bellemare, also won some hardware on Friday.

St.Jean got the Travis Award for leading the team in game-winning goals while Bellemare received the John and Julie Chafee Award for being selected the team's most valuable player in the playoffs.

St.Jean had four game-winning goals while Bellemare racked up 12 goals and 34 points in 10 playoff games.

Graduating captain Greg Wylie was named the winner of the Soni and Earl Sandilands Trophy for sportsmanship and playing ability and shared the Kenneth MacDonald Memorial Award (for overall proficiency) with

Management stays put

There will be no changes in the Char-Lan Rebels' management and coaching staff for the 1993-94 season.

Coach Philip Brown, assistant Jeff Carter and general manager Lynd McDonald will all return for a second consecutive year in those positions after helping lift the Rebs from fifth to second place last season.

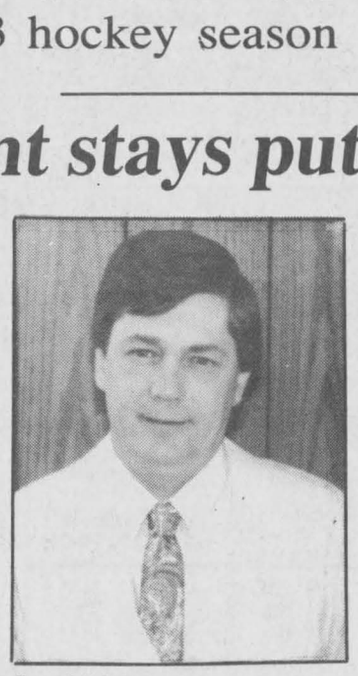
The return of the trio was officially announced at the team's awards banquet on Friday night in Williamstown.

''We're very pleased to have these fellows back and we're hoping they'll be able to finish what they started this past year,'' Rebels' president John Chafee told the gathering.

Optimism was the operative word on Friday as Rebels brass spoke confidently of moving up even further on the junior B ladder.

''When I first got this job last year, I didn't know what to expect because I had never been around junior B and Jeff (Carter) had never been around junior B,'' Brown said.

''But now I feel pretty good about what we did and I'm looking forward to doing even more next year,'' continued Brown. ''I think we can go all the way.''



Lynd McDonald
Returns as GM

One of the key's to last year's improvement was the Rebels' summer evaluation camp and the team plans to hold another camp this off-season.

The club's returning players and many of the area's top prospects are expected to congregate at the Cornwall Civic Complex for an evaluation session in August.

Pro hockey arrives

Quebec Nordiques president and part-owner Marcel Aubut and Cornwall mayor Ron Martelle shake hands moments after the duo had shaken the local hockey community by announcing that the Nords' American Hockey League franchise would be moved to the Seaway City. The arrival of the yet to be named team was announced at a press conference at the Cornwall Civic Complex last Wednesday.

Alexandria's Jason Poirier and Daniel Steiche celebrate after Poirier had given his team a 2-0 lead against Char-Lan in the boys final. Steiche also scored for Alexandria in the championship game.

Laggan, Alexandria win indoor soccer titles

The Laggan girls and the Alexandria boys prepared for the defence of their 1992 Glengarry Soccer League titles last Saturday by winning their respective divisions at an indoor tournament at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre in Williamstown.

Both finals at the six-team tournament went into overtime and both featured rematches of last year's GSL championship series.

The Laggan girls came from behind to down Glen Sandfield 4-3 as Tammy MacSweyn completed her hat trick with the game-winner seven minutes into the first overtime.

Glen Sandfield had built a 3-1 lead in the second half on a pair goals by Julie Vander Byl and one by Julie Horvath.

But Laggan rallied as MacSweyn notched her second goal of the game with a floater from 25 feet and then Jessica MacLeod nailed the equalizer in the closing minutes of regulation time.

In the boys final, Alexandria slipped past Char-Lan 3-2 as Andrew Bowen banged in a loose ball for the game-winner in the second overtime.

Daniel Steiche and Jason Poirier had given Alexandria a 2-0 lead in the first half of the final, but Char-Lan got goals from Jeff Proctor and Richard Malo to tie the score and eventually force overtime.

Tournament results

The final loss was a bitter pill for Char-Lan to swallow as the hosts had won both games in the preliminary round of the tournament while outscoring their opponents 8-1.

Alexandria and Glen Sandfield played to a 4-4 tie in their head-to-head meeting.

Chancey Lajoie paced the eventual champions with three goals while Andrew Bowen netted a single.

Neil Decoeur, Eric Dagg, Hamish Cunning and Shawn Hughes connected for Glen Sandfield.

Char-Lan defeated Glen Sandfield 5-0 as Garry Benson (two), Kevin Bard, Richard Malo and Jeff Proctor were the goalscorers. David Small recorded the shutout.

In the other preliminary game, Benson, Spencer Roberts and Kent McDonell scored for Char-Lan in a 3-1 win over Alexandria, whose only goal was provided by Daniel Steiche.

In the girls draw, Laggan went 2-0 by beating Char-Lan 3-1 and Glen Sandfield 1-0.

Jessica MacLeod had a goal in both games while Becky Howes and Tammy MacSweyn had the other goals against Char-Lan.

Char-Lan's Shannon MacLeod was the only player to beat Laggan goalkeeper Laura Urquhart in the preliminary round.

Glen Sandfield earned the other final berth by whipping Char-Lan 4-0 in the other first-round game. Julie Vander Byl netted a hat trick while Julie Horvath chipped in with a solo marker.

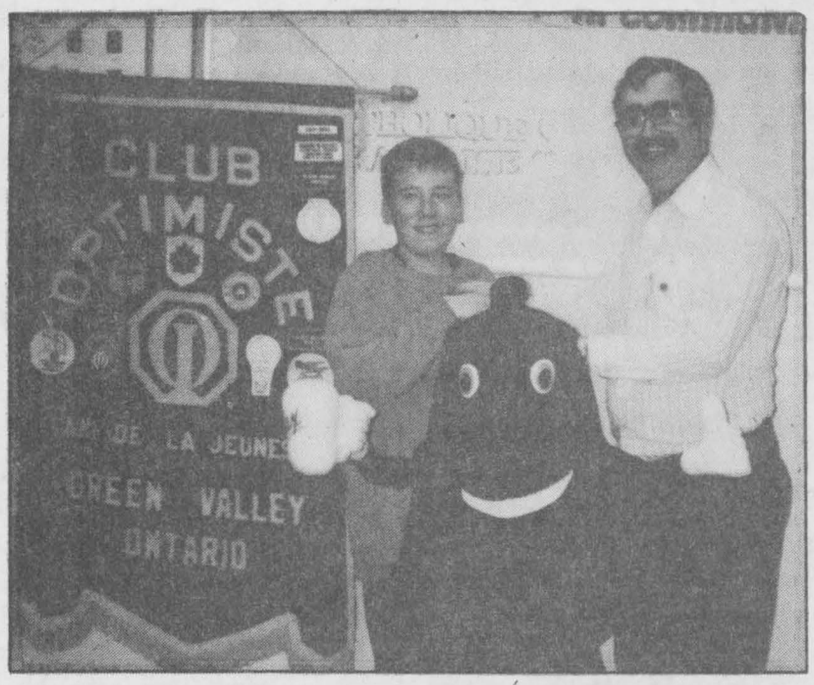
The Green Valley Brownies attended the Highland District Gathering at Elda Rouleau School Sunday, April 25. They led the parade into the gymnasium and marched around like real professionals. For their part of the program they sang and acted out six nursery rhymes which they had arranged themselves.



From April 26 to April 30 Sainte-Marie School in Green Valley celebrated National Book Week. For each book read, students received a ticket towards a drawing of a large stuffed toy donated by Optimist Bernard Brunet. In the photo is Optimist President Henri Jeaurond with Daniel Brunet, winner of the draw. The 153 students also won the challenge given to them by the principal by reading 1,488 books in 4½ days. He will therefore spend one recess on the school roof making bubbles.

A few weeks ago they made lovely gift baskets containing soap, playing cards, candy and fruit for the "Meals on Wheels" folks. Needless to say, they were very much appreciated. The girls have been working hard on their badges and crafts and are now getting prepared for their camp which will be held in July at Morin Heights.

Prepare for blue box pickup

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

This week the blue box program begins in Lochiel Township and I am sure that those who have been pushing for a more environmentally acceptable, friendly way of disposing of household waste are pleased with the results of their campaign. It only remains now to see how well the community will co-operate in sorting the various types of trash. The better we co-operate with the pickup, the more efficiently they will be able to do their job. If you don't follow the rules laid out in the brochure we all received, it could be that your box would not be emptied. So, in order for this all to fall into place, let's all do our utmost by sorting, bagging, etc. to help it become a really visible operation; one that will make the work and expense worthwhile. If you are like me, you have a backlog waiting to go to RARE, and I suppose the overflow will still have to go to RARE by car, but once we have caught up I'm thinking that it will be a really good idea, this blue box project, and with everyone's co-operation, it certainly will be a resounding success.

There was a euchre party at the Glen Sandfield hall on April 28, with 14 tables in play. Lady's first, second and low prizes went to Murielle Poulin, Tina MacSweyn and Doris MacMaster. The next euchre party in Glen Sandfield will be on May 13 starting at 8:15 p.m.

Recent visitors with Ann and Kenneth McKenna were Murdo MacLean and his wife Filina. Mr. MacLean is the president of Mod Ontario, Rob and Jenny Dunbar and Kenneth MacSporran and Christine Beaton-Houser are all from Toronto. They are members of the Mod executive, and had made the trip to review accommodations at Iona Academy in St. Raphael's and the Bonnie Glen, where the Friday evening supper and ceilidh and the Saturday evening banquet and concert will take place. They seemed quite pleased with everything! Ann and Kenneth McKenna, longtime residents of Glen Sandfield, have really been working long months to get everything ready for the big weekend, and they wish to inform everyone that there are still plenty of tickets available. The more the merrier! Their phone number is 874-2861.

Optimist news

On May 1, at the Optimist Club bingo the big winners were Mariette Myre of Hawkesbury and Veronique Lajoie of Alexandria who each won a jackpot of $400. The mystery game of $280 was won by Carol Deguire and Emilia Cadieux. The bonanza game was won by Mrs. Ernestine Leroux of Hawkesbury.

Fifteen members of the Dalkeith Optimist Club attended the charter presentation of the Kenyon Optimist Club on May 1 at the Angus Gray Hall in Maxville. The Kenyon Optimist Club is sponsored by the Dalkeith Optimist Club. A dinner, presentations, and a dance were enjoyed by all those present. The able Master of Ceremonies was Joe Banks and the new club's president Marie Peters thanked all those who attended. We congratulate the Kenyon Optimist Club and wish them every success as "A Friend of Youth."

On April 23, the Dalkeith Optimist Club purchased a new photocopier for the use of the club and the Dalkeith Library. Members of the community are welcome to use the photocopier at the library at a minimal cost.

Members of the Dalkeith Optimists are busy making plans for a bingo on May 23 at 1 o'clock at the Optimist Hall. All the proceeds from this bingo will be donated to CHEO. They urge everyone to encourage them in this project for the benefit of the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario. Donations would be gratefully accepted.

The Kenyon Optimist Club held its Charter banquet in Maxville Saturday night, joined by co-sponsoring club Dalkeith and many other Optimist organizations from the area. President Marie Peters, with her new gavel, was joined in this photo by Travis Pelletier, left, who won second prize in the new club's logo contest, Jesse Jackson, whose design won and Lucien Bonin, far right, vice president of the club. Both boys won $25 and a plaque for their efforts. About 130 people attended the banquet which was held in the Angus Gray Hall in Maxville.

—Clifford MacDonald. 18-1p

DOLAN — The family of the late Geneva Dolan wish to sincerely thank friends and neighbors for kind expressions of sympathy at the time of the death of a beloved mother.
—Margaret Dolan, Bernard and Francis, and Genevieve Emond. 18-1p

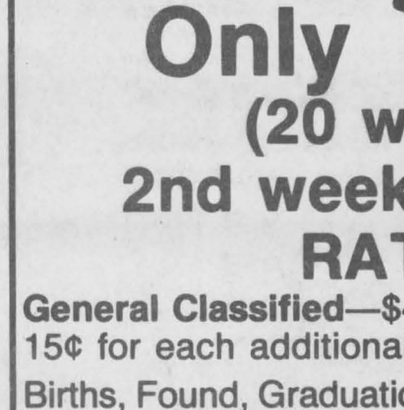
In Memoriam



DECOSTE, Leona — In loving memory of a dear grandmother who passed away May 3, 1988. When a grandmother breathes her last farewell, the stroke means more than words can tell. Our home seems quite another place, without the smile of grandmother's face.
—Always loved and remembered by grandsons Norman & Alain 18-1p

In Memoriam

BINETTE — In loving memory of Lucien who died May 1st, 1990.
You never failed to do your best
Your heart was warm and tender
You lived your life for those you loved,
And those you loved remember.
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone,
Part of us went with you,
The day God called you home.
—Always loved and remembered, Richard and Lise Quesnel. 18-1p

MURRAY, Catherine D. — A mother's day memory of my mom who left earth on August 14th, 1990.
No farewells were spoken,
No time to say goodbye,
You were gone before I knew it,
And only God knows why.
I think of you in silence,
I often speak your name,
Now all I have are memories,
And your picture in a frame.
To your place of rest I travel,
Flowers are placed there with care,
But no one knows the heartache,
As I turn and leave you there.
My heart still aches with sadness,
My silent tears still flow,
For what it meant to lose you, mom,
No one will ever know.
—Always in my heart and thoughts, Marlene. 18-1p

PICHIE — In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away May 4, 1998 and dad on March 6, 1966.
Our hearts still ache with sadness and tears,
When something goes wrong,
We seem to hear you whisper,
Be brave, your not alone;
Deep in our hearts,
There is a picture,
That is very precious.
—Sadly missed by daughter, Alma, Roland Hurtubise, Marcel, Florence, Marc, Eric and Julie. 18-1p

MASSIA (Aurora) — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother who passed away August 6, 1992.
I miss your jokes
and smiling face
I miss the support
and endless praise.
I miss our talks
and the walks we took
No matter what I'd do
You'd take the time to look
Now the times we've shared have too quickly passed
But my memories of you will forever last.
—Sadly missed and never forgotten by your baby, Raymond Massia, Mary and family

Caring for Life

By Dr. George McKiel

Shingles

Recently, when my sister was going through the terminating phase of her husband's Alzheimer disease, she found she needed a surgical operation. The stress proved to be too much, the insults to her immunological system precipitated an attack of shingles, a most painful disease that usually affects the torso but may also appear on the limbs, scalp or even the face. Some victims say its the most painful thing they have encountered in life. It starts out with a low grade fever and very real fatigue. Then in a few days it erupts into skin blisters subsequent to a rash that looks like measles though localized.

The blisters contain a virus, highly contagious to anyone who has not had chickenpox. In fact it's caused by a return of this particular virus which has the name of Varicella zoster. The chickenpox virus is often picked up by children so its considered a childhood disease. When you recover from chickenpox the virus does a rather neat but sneaky thing, it hides out in the nervous system, returning years later to produce a totally different disease — shingles (pronounced shing-giz). If you have had chickenpox, even without knowing it — a mild case, you face a 40 per cent chance of getting shingles at some point, probably when you have, like my sister, a downturn in your immune system such as when you are under severe stress (bereavement or loss of job). The virus is one of the family we call Herpes and you are probably familiar with them for causing cold sores. On this second breakout the virus replicates in a nerve cell where it's been hiding in dormancy, destroys the cell as it utilizes it to make more vital particles. Then these viral particles migrate down sensory nerves, which carry the sensations of touch and pain, and so out to the skin. There will be deep pain in the area under attack. Often its rash has evolved into blisters and they are itchy as well as painful, its tempting to scratch. But that will have the effect of breaking the blisters and spreading the area affected. To avoid this it's best to treat the sore area with calamine, cool compresses, cornstarch or baking soda plasters, or even better, an ointment containing aloe vera. Don't use corticosteroid ointment as it tends to suppress the immune system. Do rest and do take a painkiller such as aspirin. The body is unable to cure itself of Herpes zoster but an antiviral prescription, acyclovir, will help your immune system to control the virus. This medication will lessen the shingles severity and it is relatively inexpensive.

The blisters will dry in 10-14 days and for those getting shingles, at least 90 per cent, that's it — you are finished with the shingles. But, if you are over 50 years of age, there is a 50-50 chance of postherpetic neuralgia (PHN), a painful condition which may drag on for months. For PHN your doctor can prescribe antidepressant which can enhance the brain's ability to modulate pain. Or other helpmates could be cooling with an icepack, a vibrator, exercise, or best of all, maintaining a positive mental attitude. Sometimes PHN'ers find that TENS is helpful. Tens is the transcutaneous electrical nerve stimulation where you simply place electrodes over the affected skin region and small amounts of electricity is then directed to underlying muscles and nerves.

Shingles does not "favor" particular age groups. The dormancy of the virus in the nervous system does not have any pattern as far as time span. Shingles can strike any age. In fact my 20 year old son had a bout of shingles when he was 20 and it was examitis that put him under stress.

Saturday bake and craft sale successful

North Lancaster
By Bernadette Campeau 347-2572

The bake and craft sale held last Saturday in the township hall was very successful. Ladies brought in plenty of delicious baked goodies and beautiful crafts which others were happy to purchase and take home.

The winners of the door prizes were Yvonne McDonell and Theresa O'Shea. A big thank you to everyone who helped in any way.

Welcome to the month of May and let's enjoy the proverbial May flowers that the April showers are supposed to bring. This is usually a very busy month but then again, is there a month that isn't? Lawns are being raked, flower beds are getting prepared to grow the beautiful plants that we so enjoy all summer long (or short).

With spring and summer comes stag parties and weddings. Luc Decoeur and Tanya Henri had their stag last Saturday evening when many friends and relatives gathered to celebrate before they take the big plunge. Congratulations to both of you and let's pray for beautiful weather on June 5th.

Another party, this time a surprise for the special guest, was held on Saturday, April 24 in Lancaster's Smithsfield Hall. Paul Poirier was greeted by the singing of happy birthday from bus drivers and family. After a few words from Margo Pepin and myself, the presentation of a 4'x5' sign was made to the birthday boy, which you will soon notice on the side of the road.

We then gave Paul a chance to express his feelings and although he admitted not being prepared for this, the right words were found to express some of his thoughts and appreciation.

Congratulations to Patrick Campeau who has joined with the Knights of Columbus when going through the rituals of his third degree on Sunday, May 2. He seemed quite pleased with the day's happenings and his dad of course was quite proud.

Birthday wishes this week to my neighbor Kevin Craig on the 4th and happy anniversary to Roger and Aline Claude on the 3rd and Norm and Mimi Vaillancourt on the 8th. Best wishes to all.

Congratulations to the Williamstown organization on the success of the presentation of "Glengarry School Days" on April 23, 24 and 25. I'm sorry I missed out on a ticket, but I had a very busy weekend. I do hope I will have the opportunity to be present at a future stage presentation.

St. Elmo friends and neighbors extend best wishes to (Mrs. D. N.) Kay MacRae on taking up residence in Maxville.

On an exchange of pulpits by the clergy of the Presbytery of Glengarry on Sunday, May 2, Rev. Jeff Smith of Avonmore conducted the morning worship services in Knox Church, Moose Creek, and St. Andrew's Church, Maxville. The Rev. Garry Van Bruchem conducted the worship services that morning in Kirk Hill.

A. Wallace MacKinnon of London, Ont., visited with his father this past weekend on a return trip from Bridgewater, N.S., where, on April 30 he made a presentation for International Process Systems on environmental matters and the recycling and composting industry.

We might be late wishing you a happy birthday Annette but we hear you're counting the years backwards anyway.
