SDG&EG C.O.R. party without an election candidate

By Michael O'Dwyer,
News* editor

Disappointed Confederation of Regions party faithful gathered in Alexandria Wednesday evening to hear the fateful news from party president Gordon MacGregor: C.O.R. would not be sending a candidate from the SDG&EG riding to the provincial election.

"I've decided not to run," said MacGregor. "But after the time I've spent talking and travelling, I've burned myself out," he added, suggesting that if there would have been another year to prepare for the election, the party would have had a better chance of success.

Late into the evening at the Alexandria Curling Club, the meeting took an unexpected twist when a man at the back of the room, Ken Rock of Lancaster, who was unknown by most in attendance, announced he would represent C.O.R. in the provincial election.

The 34-year-old trailer park manager told the puzzled crowd of about 35 that he had worked for the Progressive Conservative Party for the past 16 years and decided the government needed a change.

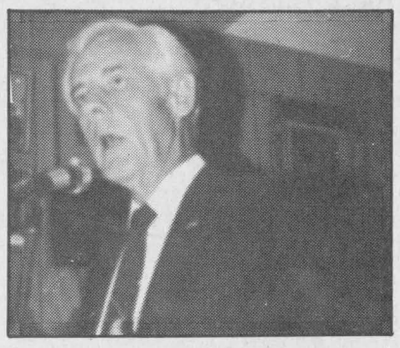
When asked when he decided to switch allegiance he offered no comment.

Election '90

Only three of eight party executives were at the meeting, and despite the fact that party officials in attendance, including MacGregor, could have filled the void to vote for the new candidate, MacGregor decided not to hurry the matter and allow other candidates the chance to run.

"We don't want to be subject to criticism from other parties," said MacGregor.

The meeting adjourned with the decision to hold a general meeting Aug. 14 in Morrisburg.



President Gordon MacGregor

Rock told The Glengarry News Monday that he later rescinded his interest in the candidacy because the campaign would run through his peak season at the trailer park.

At press time on Tuesday it was uncertain whether the party would find a suitable candidate for the Sept. 6 election.

"It's a heck of a way to run a party, but what can you do when a man like (Premier David) Peterson is in power," said C.O.R. riding association president Ed Drake who said Peterson's early election call was unfair and undemocratic. "He's done everything he could to keep all but the established parties from having a voice."

In the scant two months since C.O.R.'s official recognition as a political party, it has established more than 40 riding offices in the province, with at least 32 confirmed electoral candidates.

Among the party's platforms are a more stuctured immigration policy, recorded votes and better accountability to the public in the legislature, a balanced provincial budget to avoid debt, and the abolition of Bill 8 which insures francophone services throughout Ontario.

Couple nabbed for theft

By Faith Bloomfield
News* reporter

Two ex-Alexandria residents were arrested in Calgary and charged with possession of stolen property over $1,000 on Saturday.

The two, Jennifer Monton and John Marshall lived in town for a couple of years before they left suddenly in October 1989, in a car rented from Tilden Rent-A-Car in Cornwall on Sept. 28, 1989.

According to Staff Sgt. Peter Copple of the Calgary Police Service, the car was found in a parking lot on 7th Ave. S.W. and Monton and Marshall were discovered nearby.

Tilden reported the car stolen on Jan. 8, when an agent from the car rental company laid a private information, swearing the information himself.

"This is done because reporting a rented car stolen is a very sensitive issue. There is a contract involved. The question — when does an overdue rented car, become a stolen vehicle? It must be decided by a justice of the peace before it can be acted upon," explained Cornwall police Staff Sgt. Garry Derochie, Tuesday.

A private investigater, hired by Tilden's insurance adjustor, tracked the pair across Canada.

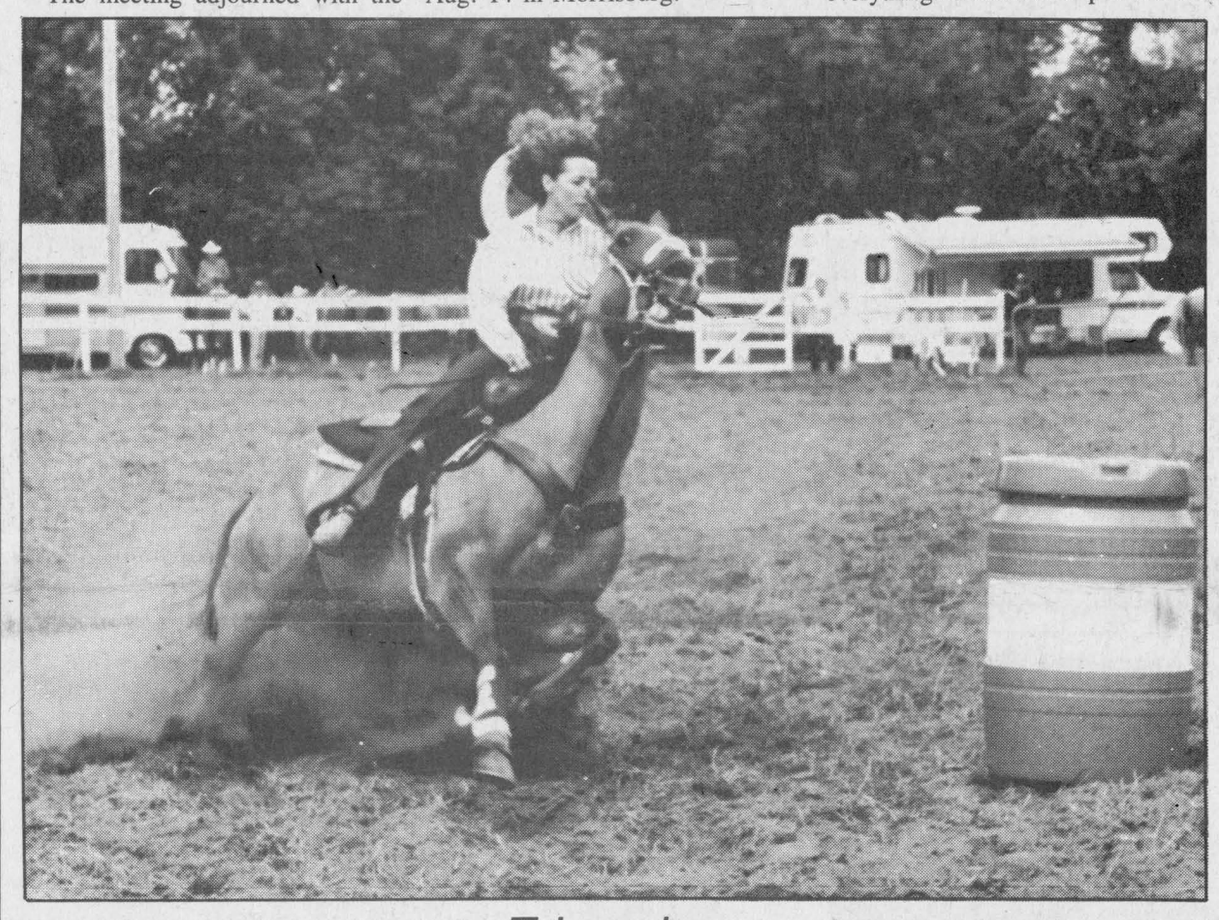
"They received a speeding ticket in Barrie, Ont., and had addresses in Bracebridge, Ont. and Alberta," said the detective Bud Davis.

After a bail hearing Monday night, the pair now being held in Calgary Remand Centre. Alberta Provincial Court clerk Lorne Casey said they will be held until Thursday or sooner if they make bail.

At that time they will have to return to court to decide on action.

Monton is a 27-year-old paraplegic. She is currently being held in a health care section of the remand centre to accomodate her handicap.

Both Monton and Marshall, 25, are being sought for a number of other charges across Canada, including a cruelty to animals charge originating in Alexandria when the couple lived on Derby Street.



Tripped up

This rider had a difficult time keeping the horse on its feet at the Williamstown Fair Western Horse Show Saturday afternoon. The pair managed to round the barrel successfully and complete the course.

Trans Canada extending

The installation of more than six kilometres of the 91.4 cm pipeline (4.15 miles of 36 inch pipe) is needed to supply more natural gas to homes and industries in Eastern Ontario and Quebec, said Keith Ryan, district manager for the natural gas transmission company's Les Cedres, Quebec office.

He said natural gas is becoming popular and more and more facilities are being sought to handle the flows.

"For the volumes of gas needed in this area, the new line will transport more natural gas from Alberta," said John MacMillan, a construction supervisor with the company.

The expansion will continue throughout the area, with several more pipelines added next year.

Ryan said, "Right now there are two pipes at the Martintown station and we received the right of way to add the third."

TransCanada right of way agents negotiated easements with individual landowners for the pipeline. Construction began July 3 and should be complete, weather permitting, by the second week in September, said MacMillan.

Christie Howes crowned Dairy Princess

By Todd Hambleton
Sports editor

Glengarry's newly-crowned Dairy Princess says competing for the title was something she's looked forward to for years.

Christie Howes, of Martintown, was selected Friday to represent the counties' dairymen at the annual Glengarry Dairy Princess Competition. The pageant was held in Williamstown at the fairgrounds.

"This is something I've wanted to do since I was a little girl," said Howes, the 17-year-old daughter of Ray and Linda Howes. "I figured this would be the year to go for it because next year at this time I'd be getting ready to go off to school and it would have been impossible to do the job if I was out of the area."

Howes will be attending Grade 13 at Char-Lan District High School in September. The former member of the MacCulloch Dancers plays bagpipes, enjoys sports and is active in Junior Farmers and 4-H.

Howes' duties began the day after her crowning, with the handing out of ribbons to competitors at the Glengarry County Holstein Show.

As Dairy Princess, Howes will be the counties' goodwill ambassadress, representing area dairymen at various functions.

Ursula Vogel crowns Christie Howes

She will be asked to visit schools, attend cattle shows and dairy-related events, representing the wholesomeness and purity of nature's nutritious drink.

Howes has had a hand in past dairy princess competitions: as a volunteer, she's assisted her dad in the purchasing of the crown the past few years.

Howes, who hails from a 300-acre holstein farm where about 30 cows are milked, attempted to clear up some perceived misconceptions about milk in her Friday night address to the judges and a gathering of about 100 people at the CKBY Travelling Road Show Stage.

"Consumers have many misconceptions about milk," Howes said. "Many believe it is an expensive drink but when it's compared to softdrinks and beer and other products, it's cheaper.

"And while milk is also perceived as being fattening, in terms of value per calorie, it's unbeatable. Milk is wholesome and pure, and I hope to be the person to promote the dairy industry and the good qualities of milk products."

Howes' lone opponent, 20-year-old Cathy Fraser of Dalkeith, also touched on milk's good qualities in her dissertation. "In a world where prices are rising and quality is slipping, milk is still a good value for the hard-earned dollar," said the daughter of David and Ruth Fraser. "The nutritional value of milk must be stressed to ensure a strong future for dairy farms everywhere."

Fraser, a recent graduate of Glengarry District High School, will be attending Georgian College in Barrie in the fall, having been accepted to a pre-health science course.

The pageant also included appearances by Ontario Dairy Princess Lynda Thompson, and Glengarry Milk Committee Chairperson Linda Fraser. Outgoing 1989 Dairy Princess Ursula Vogel, of Williamstown, was emcee.

"The suppport I've received from the community, my family, friends and the milk committee has been tremendous. It's been a very enjoyable year," said Vogel, adding that highlights of her tenure included attending various banquets, meetings and schools in the county.

Vogel's reign isn't quite over. In two weeks she'll be competing at the Ontario Dairy Princess Competition.

Dundas gets 1st lady ag rep

A native Glengarry woman is returning to Eastern Ontario to take over as agriculture representative for the county of Dundas starting Oct. 1.

After six years as ag rep in Milton County just outside Toronto, Phyllis MacMaster looks forward to working in a smaller, less urban area.

Her new work in Dundas may be a little more busy than the post she left in Milton. There were only 49 full-time dairy farmers in that town, compared to the 375 in Dundas. But she said that's fine with her.

"I am very dairy oriented, I grew up on a dairy farm. It's one of my strong areas. But it'll be a challenge. I've got a lot to learn about Dundas." she said on Tuesday in a telephone interview from her Milton office.

MacMaster grew up in Laggan on a dairy farm. She left to study agriculture and animal science at the University of Guelph. After graduating in 1979, she became the assistant ag rep for New Market in York.

Five years later she became the first female ag rep in Ontario, with her appointment in Milton.

MacMaster said it will be a big adjustment returning to a smaller municipality, but the advantages outweigh the negatives. She said she is excited to be moving closer to her family and old friends.

"Small towns are wonderful. There is a great community spirit and participation," she said.

Local farmer chosen for Caribbean exchange

Brent Barton of Vankleek Hill is one of 16 young farmers recently chosen from across Canada to participate in the Canadian Caribbean Agricultural Exchange Program. He was the only participant chosen from the province.

The 21-year-old Barton who lives on a cash crop farm will be sharing his home with 22-year-old Gideon Black of St. Vincent Island in the Caribbean. Black hails from a banana farm.

Black will be arriving in Vankleek Hill on Aug. 30 for a six-week stay. On Oct. 20, Barton will head to the Caribbean to stay on Black's farm.

"This is a chance of a lifetime, to be able to go to another country to work and learn from other cultures," Barton said. "It's a great opportunity for me to meet young farmers from the Caribbean and across Canada."

Sixteen Caribbean farmers have also been chosen to participate in the exchange and will arrive in Canada to live and work on their Canadian Exchange partners' farm. The Canadians will travel to their counterparts' homes on the islands of Grenada, St. Lucia, Dominica, or St. Vincent to learn about Caribbean farm practices and way of life.

The exchange is designed to foster an understanding of global agriculture around the world and help develop leadership in farm organizations. Barton and all other participants will be expected to help educate their own communities to the international dimension in the food production crisis and participate in agricultural organizations and the community upon their return.

Park to privatize in 1991

Charlottenburgh Park, which has been closed to campers for the 1990 season may be operated by independant businessmen as soon as next summer, said St. Lawrence Parks Commission Manager Mike Paradis.

The Charlottenburgh facility is one of five Ontario parks which were closed by the commission in February because of increasing costs or poor usage. These lands have recently been offered to municipalities and other interested parties to run for the commission and, according to Paradis, interest in the project has been great.

"In the two days since the documents have become available, 25 individual packages have been distributed," Paradis said, emphasizing the park land is not for sale; it will be leased to successful applicants based on certain criteria. Among the deciding factors will be financial return, the provision of increased tourism to the area, low competition to existing facilities, potentional for success, local employment benefits.

Of the five original parks put on the auction block, Farran Park has already been snatched by Osnabruck Township. The remaining properties up for grabs are Charlottenburgh, Nairne, Grenville, Brown's Bay and Lake View Parks.

Many prospective entrepreneurs have already inquired into the Charlottenburgh site on Hwy. 2.

Paradis, who is organizing the project, said anyone interested in one or more of the lands can obtain information from the St. Lawrence Parks Commission. The closing date for proposals is Oct. 5. Successful applicants should be in operation in the 1991 season.

Participants at the Glengarry Association for Community Living walk-a-thon Sunday make their way toward Alexandria. Organizers say between $8,000 and $9,000 was raised.

First GACL walk-a-thon nets approximately $9,000

The Glengarry Association for Community Living had its first walk-a-thon Sunday, and thanks to the weather and the generosity of people in Glengarry, it was a success.

Once all the pledges are returned and tallied, organizers expect to make between $8,000 and $9,000, said Kitty Ewaschuk, a volunteer for the walk-a-thon committee.

''Everything was sponsored. We got drinks from Coca-cola, hot dogs from the Alexandria IGA and buns from Betty Bread,'' she said.

And because of these donations and the fact that there was no administration fee, ''everything went directly to the (GACL) clients, for their benefit,'' said John F. MacDonald, another committee volunteer.

GACL is an organization based in Alexandria which trains and employs developmentally disabled Glengarrians and helps them become productive members of society.

About 45 people walked the 8 km. course which started and finished at the Alexandria Flying Club.

''It's sufficient exercise for those who are in good shape, and not too far for those who aren't,'' said MacDonald. It took most people about two hours to complete.

Ewaschuk walked in the event and collected over $1,000 in pledges. The next highest collector was Ailleen Barbara. So far Barbara has turned in $461 and has at least another $300 remaining to collect.

''I don't do that much walking, but the association has been very good to local clients. I got a lot of personal satisfaction and truly enjoyed it,'' said Barbara, who is also on the fundraising committee.

Another walker, Gilbert Sauve finished the walk in an hour and 45 minutes. This is the 62-year-old man's third walk-a-thon and he found the 8 km. ''too short'' and the official starting time ''too late, because it was just starting to get hot at 10 a.m.''

Sauve suggested the walk be lengthened to 15 km. and maybe not on a gravel road.

''There were families pushing strollers who had some trouble on the road,'' he said. Nevertheless he had a fine time and is considering doing it again next year.

Luck of the draw nets $155,000 rig

A ticket for the 10th anniversary draw at the Notre-Dame du Nord truck rodeo Aug. 5 was well worth the $100 investment for George Villeneuve of Maxville.

Villeneuve, who didn't even attend the rodeo but bought the ticket from a friend, was notified the evening of the draw he had won the grand prize — a $155,000 truck and trailer.

The ticket was one of 5,000 sold for the draw.

It was worth a trip to the rodeo grounds north of New Liskeard on Monday to collect the cherry red fully equipped and heavily chromed Peterbilt tractor and Temisco trailer.

Villeneuve, who works for his father Bernard, president of Villeneuve Milk Transport Ltd., said he hasn't decided what he will do with his winnings.

"But there's a good possibility it will be hauling cold, beautiful milk," he said.

If the long term plans for the rig haven't yet been settled, it will definitely be on hand Aug. 19 for a party at cousin and SDG&EG MPP Noble Villeneuve's home in Maxville.

Villeneuve said the hardwood trailer will be supporting the orchestra at a corn and pig roast from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. to which everybody is welcome, he said.

Lancaster Township takes over wharf

The township of Lancaster has taken over responsibility of the South Lancaster wharf by signing a five year lease with Fisheries/Oceans Canada on Aug. 1.

A Township official said the lease is open-ended and the $2 a year fee is a mere formality. A by-law authorizing the lease was carried by council at its last regular meeting Aug. 1.

"Once the lease arrangements have all been finalized, council will be the local agent for the structure. The ministry is based in Burlington and can't provide enough supervision here," said Mike Samson, clerk/treasurer for the township.

This means, upon approval of a budget, council may beautify, repair and maintain the wharf at the ministry's expense. There may also be funds for improvements, he said.

Council would also like to control the use of the wharf, said Samson.

Residents close to the structure have been complaining about noise, garbage and the general state of the pier for the past year and a half.

With the permission of Fisheries and Oceans Canada, barriers were erected to block cars from driving up and down the wharf and more garbage cans were placed to stop the waters from being polluted.

One resident affected by the changes said she is "all for the improvements."

Sarah Cameron said she thinks the wharf is now safer for young children and anglers, as well as looking cleaner and tidier.

"When I saw the two garbage cans with bags, I thought it was quite an improvement. If there is the potential for beauty, then something should be done. From the view I have, it now looks beautiful," she said.

Waste group holds special meeting

Doing his part

Maurice "Moose" Rochon of Glen Walter tosses one more bag of aluminum pop cans into his overflowing barn. Rochon is storing the cans for La Citadelle High School in Cornwall until a market can be found to recycle the waste. He volunteered the space to help out his brother-in-law, recycling enthusiast Chuck Charlebois. Charlebois also played a major role in the future recycling plant in Alexandria.

A special meeting held at the conservation authority building in Martintown Aug. 8 showed there is a lot to be learned about waste reduction, and the municipalities must get involved.

Five guest speakers at the meeting informed municipal representatives about the availability of grants and funding, including processing consultant Lyle Ludolph from Ontario Multi-Material Recycling Incorporated, and Ministry of Environment Coordinators Vesna Guzina and Rick Harris.

Recycling is not the only way to limit the use of our dump sites, they said. There is also reduction of waste, product reuse and composting, said Michael Cowley-Owen, co-chairman of the Public Liaison Committee searching for new dump sites.

Guzina suggested composting as a way for municipalities to start their waste reduction programs.

It is a system that allows and encourages all natural wastes to rot and produce fertilizer instead of using valuable space in dump sites.

It's the best way to begin, because it's not expensive and participation is fairly individual, said Guzina. She said grants should be applied for as soon as municipalities know how much money they will need.

Municipal representatives already operating waste reduction systems offered suggestions on how to get people to recycle.

Valerie Harvey, a representative from the Brockville recycling centre, said increased tipping fees have shown many people that it is economical to recycle.

"There is always a cost with regard to recycling, revenue returns do not compensate for the operational costs. The municipalities need to be prepared to make a financial commitment." But, she said, you have to look at the costs in relation to what is being saved in tipping fees.

Fees for access to the dumpsites in Brockville go as high as $230 for city commercial compacters, refuse trucks and semi-trailers and $460 for the same outside the city.

An unofficial method of newsprint and paper reduction used by Cowley-Owen was suggested. It's also inexpensive.

"I took a paper grocery bag and filled it with all the junk mail, flyers, supplements, anything that I hadn't asked for, but nothing addressed to me by name.

"When it was full, I taped it up and mailed it to the Federal Ministry of Environment, C/O the House of Commons, Ottawa K1A 0A6. Of course, a covering letter accompanied the package, explaining why it was sent."

He said he received a letter from the minister saying his point was well intentioned and understood. Cowley-Owne feels if enough people do this, maybe the waste will stop.

Mainstreeting in Alexandria

Provincial Liberal candidate for Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry and East Grenville Denis Sabourin was in Alexandria Monday afternoon eliciting support for his campaign. Above, Sabourin chats with Alexandria Drug Mart owner Sam Sultan. With him are Mayor J.P. Touchette and Denis Ethier, former Liberal representative for the federal riding of Glengarry-Prescott-Russell. Ethier has been out of politics for six years but after retiring from his position as Chairman of the Livestock Feed Board, he said he is supporting Sabourin "actively and publicly."

Lancaster Township

Council briefs

The following items were among those discussed at the Township of Lancaster council during the regular meeting on August 1.

Dumpsite review

It was mentioned that the operation of the dumpsite in the township of Lancaster should be reviewed to see whether more hours of operation might be necessary.

At present the site is opened two days a week, but somehow people obtained keys and have been using the site on other days.

Council Clerk/Treasurer Mike Samson said people have not been putting their garbage in the proper bins. He said with the environment such an important issue and potential ministry inspections, council needs to review the necessity of increasing the hours of the dump.

The issue will be discussed further at the next meeting Aug. 15.

Ditch easement

The ditch is used as drainage in the spring when the snow and ice melt and the small lake in the area swells.

The ditch crosses six lots which have not yet been sold and Samson said in order to guarantee access to it, council must get the right of way before the lots are sold.

Hazardous waste date

The Townships of Lancaster and Charlottenburgh are holding a joint household hazardous waste day on Sept. 29.

This special waste day is for the garbage that can't be put in dumps, such as: chemicals, weed sprays, paint and thinner.

More information will be available closer to the date.

PLC co-chair takes garbage tour

Stormont-Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan PLC coordinator Anne MacGillivray toured the master plan study area's 13 municipal garbage dumps last week as she explored each landfill site.

"Sometimes we don't realize what happens to our garbage after it's taken away for us in those clean, green garbage bags," says MacGillivray. "Often when I've spoken with school students and community groups I've discovered that many people have never seen their local garbage dump. And seeing one should be part of everyone's waste management education. So, on my tour, I took slides of each site and will be able to use them as part of my presentation to area residents. After all, probably not everyone wants to do the 'garbage delight' tour like I did."

MacGillivray notes that the sites she saw are generally quite clean, although weather conditions can play havoc.

"I toured sites over four days. One day it poured rain steadily so I saw how the site operators manage in mud. The other three days were sunny and very, very hot so I got the dust, the odor, the bugs and the birds. It was an education. I have great respect for the site attendants."

The attendants MacGillivray spoke with said they are all aware of what materials could be recycled (especially cardboard) and are certainly willing to co-operate in any recycling venture, she notes. "They know better than anyone how quickly a site can fill up."

"After seeing six sites in one day the amount of garbage overwhelms," she notes. "I know dump tours aren't everyone's idea of summer fun, but if everyone got a good look at how much waste we're responsible for, I think attitudes would change dramatically.

"After seeing the sites, all I can think of every time I buy something is where the product and its packaging ends up."

Dump tours, notes MacGillivray, are becoming part of candidates' campaigns in the upcoming Ontario election, particularly in the Toronto area.

"It's time everyone in this province got a good, close look at garbage so I'm happy to see campaigning politicians actually visiting landfill sites. Maybe they've finally caught on to just how important an issue this is in Ontario.

"Just think — garbage is grabbing headlines," grins MacGillivray.

MacGillivray will soon have her Garbage Delight slides available for presentations to any schools or groups in the Master Plan area.

St. Finnan's celebrates

By Angus H. McDonell

Centuries ago in the Highlands of Scotland it was the custom of Celtic missionaries to ring a small, hand-held bell calling the people to prayer and hear their priest.

At four o'clock in the afternoon of Sunday, September 9, the bells of St. Finnan's will chime in harmony and fittingly repeat the ancient Celtic tradition, summoning the people of God of the Alexandria-Cornwall Diocese with its Bishop, Most Reverend Eugene LaRocque to celebrate the centennial of their Diocese at Pontifical Mass in St. Finnan's Cathedral.

The mass will be the climax of the 100th anniversary celebration coupled with a banquet at 7 p.m. in the Glengarry Sports Palace, Alexandria, hosted by Bishop LaRocque and attended by guest bishops, clergy, dignitaries and representatives of the diocese parishes.

It should be noted here that St. Finnan's mission was founded 58 years before the Stormont and Glengarry county parishes became the diocese of Alexandria, 1890.

It is sound logic to assume that when Bishop Alexander Macdonell appointed "Father John" McDonald as pastor of this fledgling mission at Priest's Mill, the appropriate name should be St. Finnan's in memory of the revered follower of the sixth-century apostle to the Scots, St. Columba.

Historians relate that St. Finnan was the legendary holy man of the MacDonalds of Clanranald. His territory seems to have taken in that area which later became one of the strongholds of Clan Donald. It bordered the land of the MacDonells of Glengarry, who seem to have had a special reverence and devotion to him.

St. Finnan's parishioners are to pay tribute in their own way to their clerical ancestors who gave Alexandria the credibility to be rated as the worthy seat of the new diocese 100 years ago.

The week-long parish celebrations will begin next Sunday, Aug. 9, at 11 a.m. high mass, St. Finnan's cathedral.

On Monday evening, 7:30, there will be a commemorative mass for all the families of the parish — 1832 to 1990.

On Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. there will be a mass to honor all the clergy who have served in the diocese. Following the mass all are invited for light refreshments to be served on the parking lot beside the Alexander Hall. In case of inclement weather, the social hour will be held in Alexander Hall.

Wednesday evening the parish ladies of the Catholic Women's League will conduct a special program in St. Finnan's beginning at 7:30.

Thursday evening beginning at 7:30, a procession will leave the cathedral and proceed to the Grotto on the lawn southeast corner of Bishop and Catherine streets, for devotions of the rosary and benediction. Again light refreshments will be served following the service on the parking lot across Bishop street and no tickets are required.

On Friday evening, 7:30, in St. Finnan's a social hour is scheduled.

Saturday morning, at 10 a.m., an open mass will be said in the cemetery at the rear of the church signifying thanksgiving and appreciation of the deceased parishioners' dedication dating back to the founders in 1832 and the builders of St. Finnan's stately cathedral in 1890. An historian, many years ago, in capsule form best described their efforts: "They gave of volunteer labor and from their meager earnings until it hurt."

Following the mass all are invited to partake of light refreshments behind the church.

On Sunday, Aug. 26, at 11 a.m., a mass of thanksgiving will be said in St. Finnan's. All are invited for refreshments right after the mass on the church lawn. Because of restrictions, seating will not be provided. Bring your own folding chairs. This will be the only occasion during the entire program that the ladies of the parish will be asked to donate light refreshments.

10-year-old biker injured in collision

A 10-year-old Lancaster boy sustained minor injuries late Friday morning when the bike he was riding in the village was struck by a car.

Lancaster detachment OPP say Shawn Thorpe, of 113 Oak Street, was riding his 10-speed bike along the paved east shoulder of Highway 34 in the village when he attempted to cross the roadway and was struck by a northbound 1987 Pontiac Sunbird driven by Jacques Frenette, 63 of Montreal.

The car and the bike both sustained minor damages.

Police briefs

Minor injuries

A 1986 Toyota Corolla coupe westbound on Highway 401 1.2 kilometres west of Fraser Road sustained major damages late Saturday morning when it went out of control and rolled over into the median.

The driver of the vehicle, 29-year-old Ali Afrafiabi of Montreal, and a passenger, Farrdeh Ghassemi-Bakmtari, 26, also of Montreal, were both taken by ambulance to Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall with minor injuries.

Major damage

A 1986 Ford pickup truck sustained major damages in a one-vehicle accident at an unknown time Saturday.

Lancaster detachment OPP say the vehicle, driven by Keith Flaro, 21, of RR1 Martintown, was southbound on County Road 27 just north of Glen Road in Charlottenburgh Township when it went out of control and left the roadway, skidding into the east ditch.

The driver has been charged with failure to report the accident.

Theft of antennas

Alexandria police say two CB antennas were removed from a truck sometime overnight Thursday or Friday.

The Farley Windows-owned Ford truck was parked behind Baribeau Tire Service Centre on Main Street North when the theft occurred.

The antennas are valued at $150.00.

Use new number

Alexandria police would like to remind town residents that the new telephone number for the force is 525-5555.

Military involvement will end dialogue

The Quebec government exercised poor judgment when the Surete du Quebec was instructed to approach the Mohawk barricade in Oka with guns blazing. And it will do so again if the Canadian Army is brought into the action.

Peaceful negotiations between Mohawk leaders and provincial officials appear to be progressing slowly and steadily toward a resolution of land rights. It could even be said this headway has been miraculous — only one month has passed since the violent gun battle between Indians and police which took the life of a Quebec officer.

The stand-off between police and Mohawk Warriors may have done nothing but delay the process and stir racial tensions.

Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa put the issue back on edge when he requested the federal government to place the army on standby. Once again, Bourassa is threatening the Mohawks with firepower, and once again he will force a needless confrontation.

Mohawk negotiator Joe Deom admitted July 10 the army involvement was a surprise and a shock but that the Warriors won't disrupt the talks because they are anxious for a settlement.

Why Bourassa brought the military into the picture is anyone's guess. Perhaps the failure of his police to quell the Natives struck a personal note. Perhaps he will subdue the Warriors at any cost.

Once again the ball is in his court. He may play it wisely and avoid further confrontation or endanger more lives and bring the army to Oka.

Tighten your belt feed the senator

Canadians must be wondering how many more notches on the ever-tightening economic belt it will take before the federal government stops preaching about wage restraint and starts setting a responsible example. Given the fact that Members of Parliament recently approved an increase of approximately 30 per cent to each of their expense accounts, it would seem that a breathless Canadian public might have to turn blue before anyone in Ottawa notices.

The case in point is a recent raise — some $6,000 per year in tax-free expense money — which was quietly given approval in principle by the House of Commons Board of Internal Economy. If the increase goes through as planned, it will boost each MPs' expense money by just under a third bringing the total personal expense tab for each MP to $26,600 per year (in addition to a basic annual salary of $62,000).

The fact that federal representatives have seen fit in these slumping economic times to enhance their expense accounts by 30 per cent pales in comparison to their appalling sense of timing.

Wasn't it just recently that federal Finance Minister Michael Wilson was seen in the media urging every Canadian to tighten their belt to help battle the federal deficit and inflation? And hasn't Prime Minister Brian Mulroney frequently been heard encouraging Canadian workers not to demand pay raises in anticipation of the so-called one-time jump in inflation that will be caused by the proposed seven per cent Goods and Services Tax? In light of the approval of the tax-free raise by the Commons Board (a group comprised of one New Democrat, two Liberals, and five Tories), surely Canadians will be forgiven for a little incredulity, if not downright anger, at the blatant hypocrisy of the whole affair.

The approval of the raise is especially distasteful given the fact that more than a few MPs, Michael Wilson included, were publicly very angry when the Senate recently voted themselves a $153 bonus for showing up for work in the Upper House. Can Canadians be blamed for hesitating to rally to any call for help on the deficit and inflation? Curtailing wage demands and expectations until ''things get better'' and the GST can be introduced is going to be tough to swallow given the complete lack of leadership exhibited by all three parties in approving this lucrative raise at such a time.

Given the almost unprecedented low standing of the federal government coupled with this latest display of non-leadership, it's no wonder that Canadians increasingly feel that their elected representatives are out of touch with reality.

These days, the federal government's ivory tower is not in the clouds — it's in the stratosphere.

An very unrealistic gesture

Pen Thoughts
Michael O'Dwyer

The announcement that Canada was jumping into the Persian Gulf foray may be a source of pride for many Canadians — an indication that we as a nation will still act on our convictions, uphold our position in NATO and fight for what we feel is right.

But in the case of the Iraq — Kuwait conflict, Canada's risk is a mighty big one, our committment in men and machinery is unrealistic, and our usefulness may be negligible.

After decades of ignoring the maintenance and modernization of Canada's military equipment, the decision to send the three outdated ships about 5,000 miles to support the blockade of Iraqi shipping in the Persian Gulf is ludicrous.

If the government felt the money needed to maintain our military was better spent on social programs and education, then so be it. And if our nation's leaders strongly believe that our money should not be spent on defence then we should have gracefully backed out of NATO years ago.

But we didn't, and we still have a job to do.

Though not widely known, the Canadian Navy has a specific role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization: submarine warfare. We are not expected to produce a navy to rival the U.S. armada, just play our part in the team.

And having made that committment, we have not honored it.

Canada spends next to nothing on national defence, though we can't very well blame the politicians for the sorry state of our equipment. The entire population of Canada screams in unison every time the issue arises. The most recent plan to purchase nuclear submarines to patrol the north was squashed so violently that it will probably never again see the light of day.

So at the Brussels Conference when NATO requested Canada to send ships, we didn't have any to send. We could not sail with outdated equipment into a battle zone and expect to survive or be much use to anybody.

Mulroney was quick to go public with his condemnation of ''the criminal of historic proportions'' Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. But when it came down to the crunch and three of our ships were needed, none were worthy.

The ships needed a speedy communications and surveillance refitting for them to be of any use at all. But the touch-up work, which should have been done years ago, postponed their arrival in the Persian Gulf until September, months after they were needed.

Military officials say that even with the rudimentary overhaul, our ships will still be sitting ducks. No matter that our sailors are world renowned for their training and abilities, if the ships go down so will the over 800 men aboard them.

If we were still fighting in Korea, we would probably be all right. That was the last time Canada's navy saw battle. Between 1950 and 1952, six Canadian Tribal Class Destroyers bombarded the coast of Korea.

One of those grand old ladies is presently on its way to the Gulf. The HMCS Terra Nova is more than 30 years-old. The frigate HMCS Athabascan, built in the mid-seventies, is a little better equipped, with surface-to-air and anti-submarine guided missiles. The supply and repair ship, the HMCS Protecteur, also more than 15 years-old, should help them get there — it's well furnished with machine shops, forges, fuel and ammunition.

Hopefully they won't be late for the party or delayed by low flying friends which they should have seen but didn't because of antique warning systems.

It's one thing for the people of Canada to object to squandering trillions of dollars in an arms race, but to let our military sag to such a pathetic low is inexcusable. We have a small but important role to play and we have not only let down our allies but also the sons, brothers and fathers who will be manning the ships. If we want to play the hand of cards we must either ante up or quietly fold.

On dealing with the media

Guest columnist
Andy McLeister
Winchester Press

Every now and then I feel it's important to offer some advice about dealing with the media. It is especially important in smaller communities where individuals and organizations rarely have adequate resources to hire professional information officers or public relations firms.

Community groups are usually peopled by selfless, unpaid volunteers who promote whatever cause they embrace with the kind of passion and energy that speaks well of their commitment. They are often successful when it comes to fundraising and/or fostering public interest in their endeavors. Just look around this area and you can't help but notice the fruits of their labors.

Here is a monument erected by a community group to honor its war veterans. There is a park with a swimming pool, slides and swings constructed by a service club. An individual donates space for a small park with benches, so downtown shoppers can rest their weary bones in the shade on a hot summer's day.

These unpaid volunteers build and maintain hospitals, and supply them with the latest high tech equipment; they visit lonely patients, here and in retirement and nursing homes.

They are in the classroom, helping the regular teacher. Again, they donate or otherwise acquire learning and recreational materials to augment what tax dollars already buy: many of the frills enjoyed by students are compliments of these dedicated souls.

These are the people who organize the country fairs we enjoy each summer. The dances, barbecues, and banquets, summer camps for youngsters, bus trips for seniors. The list of accomplishments by the ubiquitous volunteer goes on and on.

As I said, they are usually quite successful in running their affairs. However, the way they handle reporters sometimes leaves a lot to be desired.

I'm bringing this subject up this week because of a recent incident in which one of those selfless volunteers made some statements which he later regretted when he saw them in print. I'll leave it up to you, the reader, to figure out who it was, because he was already embarrassed enough by the article in which he was quoted. He may suffer further embarrassment if he sees his name in a column in what could be construed as an unflattering context.

Suffice it to say that in a telephone interview the gentleman told me some things that were clearly critical of other members of his organization. His comments were noted and subsequently used as the thrust of a news article. He telephoned after that week's paper hit the streets and complained that he didn't realize his criticisms would be published.

I trust he was able to smooth things over with colleagues of his who might have been offended by his statements. Although harsh, they were well-intentioned.

But most important, the comments were made, they were made to a reporter, and they were said for the record. And the journalist is duty-bound to report those statements, irrespective of who they may offend. Indeed, the more inflammatory the comment, the greater the likelihood that it will be seen in print.

Therefore, let me pass on a simple tip or two about talking to the press. It will make my job and yours a teenie bit easier, if we are all playing by the same rules.

Before making controversial statements to a reporter, know what you are going to say. Do not blast away and then, at the end of the interview, tell him or her that what you said is off the record. It is the reporter's prerogative to determine what is or isn't for the record, not the person being interviewed.

The only exception occurs when prior to speaking, the source asks to go off the record, usually in order to give the reporter some background that would help clarify an issue. Be warned, though, that you are still on the record until the reporter accedes to your request.

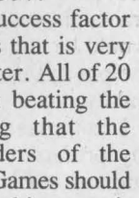
Some people presume that they merely have to tell the reporter that something they are about to say is off the record, and then they launch into a tirade before the interviewer has a chance to respond. Or worse, they say their piece and then tell — not ask — the reporter that what they said is not for publication. Sorry, but it doesn't work that way.

Worst of all is the person who gives an interview and contacts the reporter the next day, or even the next week, after they've given matters further thought, and demand — not ask — that their statements be deleted from the resulting article. Sorry, but I'd liken that to telling the painter after the job's been done that you've changed your mind because your house looked better with the old color.

We certainly don't want our sources to clam up on us. Yet it would be in your best interest, when talking to the media, particularly when your comments might do harm to the very project you're promoting, to remember the adage: ''Loose lips sink ships.''

Glengarry realizes the dream

In the Glens
Angus McDonell



Plaudits are still echoing throughout the Glens and far beyond for the professional quality of heritage entertainment staged at this year's Glengarry Highland Games.

To those of us in the veteran stage of contributing to the Games in any way down through the years; a deep feeling of gratitude prevails. We mentioned here last week the pleasant evidence of third generation volunteer workers. A classic example is the case of the late Peter MacInnes family.

Peter as history has recorded was the motivator of the idea to reorganize Caledonia Games in Glengarry after his 1947 attendance of Highland Games in Western Ontario. His daughter Jean (Mrs. Jim Campbell) for many years is a member of the highland dancing committee. This year granddaughter Lynn (Mrs. Bruce MacGillivray) was a prominent office volunteer worker on Games day. Multiply this blossoming progress that assures continuity and it can be confidently predicted that the half century milestone is brightly looming in the not too distant 1997.

There is another success factor of this year's Games that is very gratifying to this writer. All of 20 years ago we began beating the drums proclaiming that the founders and builders of the Glengarry Highland Games should be gradually enshrined in a tangible, fitting way that would be visible for all time. The 1990 Games, we consider, has again proven the necessity of securing Celtic heritage in Glengarry for posterity.

Those visions are about to become a reality. The building's general structure is complete and located beside the entrance to the KAS fairgrounds. In essence it is a museum, however, it was christened Sports Hall of Fame to differentiate from the two existing museums, Dunvegan and Williamstown.

We refer here briefly as to how some of the donated funds are being directed to skilled Glengarry artisans. In the classified section of this News issue included in a fundraising display is a drawing of the proposed fairgrounds gateway that will replace the old arch entrance. This is the artistic work of Glengarrian by adoption artist Doug Fales of Montreal.

The structure will be of Glengarry fieldstone and widely known craftsman Ian McCormick, Alexandria, is scheduled to do the mason work. He and his brother Cameron recently repaired the stonework at the Glengarry War Memorial in Alexandria.

Maxville's Ferguson brothers have been requested to desgin the entrance iron gates to be approved by the KAS fairboard.

The landscaping at the Sports Hall of Fame building is being tendered by Gauthier's Greenhouse Garden Centre of Bainsville.

While viewing the proposed gateway sketch it will also be noted that the building fundraising drive is in full force leading to the official opening, six p.m., Sept. 12, followed by cocktails in the Maxville Complex at 6:30 and the banquet at 7:30.

The nucleus of the Sports Hall of Fame committee is much the same personnel as directed the building of the Maxville and District Sports Complex 10 years ago. The building, not including furnishings, was debt free at the official opening. The Hall of Fame directors are laboring with the same objective. This will be accomplished with your financial help Glengarrians here in the Glens and wherever The Glengarry News reaches you.

Don't accept Quebec chauvinism

To the editor:

The armed Quebec police attack on the Mohawks at Oka is another symptom of the serious illness which is affecting Quebec society. The malignancy is caused by the current control of Quebec by French chauvinists in the political, intellectual and economic spheres and media of the province. It is abetted by the lack of awareness of the majority of French-speaking Canadians to the attack on the democratic principles in Quebec.

The excessive blind nationalism of the French chauvinists has resulted in the denial of individual rights with Bill 178, the Charter of the French Language and the refusal by the government to abide by the decisions of the judiciary. Their extreme nationalist direction of political, economic and cultural activity and their racist slogan of "Quebec pour les Quebecois" has contributed to the violence of the police against the Indians of Oka and other minority groups living in the province of Quebec.

The infiltration of French chauvinists into the Parliament of Canada and the Federal political parties has resulted in a refusal by the Federal government to prevent the humiliation of Canadian citizens living in the province of Quebec. All that is left to the minorities of Quebec is to appeal to the United Nations and the International community in the hope that they can help restore individual rights and bring the majority of French-speaking Canadians to understand the type of society that will be forced upon them if they do not stop the French chauvinist minority and restore a democratic society in Quebec.

Meanwhile, Canadians in the other provinces of Canada must stand firm and ensure that the whole of Canadian society is not contaminated by accepting the denial of individual rights in Quebec and allowing the racism of French chauvinists to be an accepted part of Canada.

In praise for Kitty

To the editor:

Every once in a while in some communities a special person stands just a little taller than the rest of us. A person who gives of her time, energy, knowledge and money, even at the expense of her health.

We in Glengarry have such a person in Kitty Ewaschuk. With a nasty cut on her foot she went from door to door and business to business steadily for three to four weeks, getting sponsors and donations for the Glengarry Association for Community Living. This lady volunteers for many good causes but dear to her heart are the mentally handicapped. Over a period of about 10 years, she alone has raised thousands of dollars for GACL.

About two years ago, this special lady was the target of some hateful and hurtful letters from people (published in The Glengarry News) who either had personal axes to grind or were ignorant of this lady's devotion to the GACL.

She is no longer on the Board of GACL yet she has volunteered many hours for the recent GACL walkathon. Where were all those caring people of two years ago? But Kitty was there organizing and working.

If any community has had great benefit from this caring lady, it is Glengarry.

You are the best and I am proud to be your friend.

Jackie Brown,
Glen Sandfield.

Are rights violated?

To the editor:

We recently moved to this area and have been pleased to note that no evidence of linguistic animosity has manifested itself.

It is with great disappointment therefore that I read a lead article on page one of your issue dated Wednesday, Aug. 8, under headline "Equipe Psycho Sociale launches recycling plant in Alexandria."

The article concerns a recycling project made possible by Ontario government grant of some $226,000. The project will employ 10 workers and a manager.

The last paragraph of the article causes me some consternation, when it states: "Only francophone and bilingual residents will be eligible for employment at the plant."

Is this in the interest of human rights legislation in Ontario?

E. M. Warren,
Alexandria.

Disqualifying English?

To the editor:

After reading the final paragraph of the article (Aug. 8) concerning the recycling plant, declaring that only francophones or bilingual residents would be eligible for employment at the plant, I was quite upset, to put it mildly.

I can understand bilingualism being preferred and I agree that two languages are an asset, but to disqualify English speaking people in a town that only a few months back proudly declared itself a bilingual community is quite hard to digest.

Will not every taxpayer be contributing to this? In all fairness and respect it could have been worded a lot more delicately, by merely stating bilingualism preferred.

This is not Quebec but Glengarry that is made up of a lot more nationalities than just French.

We all know that two sticks, however small, rubbed hard and long enough together will start a fire.

Sincerely,
Ernie Etherington,
RR#3, Alexandria

Time for action

To the editor:

"We believe we should aim for some early agreements containing specific commitments to demonstrate that we're prepared to act," said Joe Clark, at the recent economic summit.

Greens like me believe we should just act, Mr. Clark.

Act to reverse the VIA rail cutbacks and immediately thereafter, to increase the service.

Act to put a carbon tax on fossil fuels.

Act to eliminate the use of CFCs.

Act to ensure that our forests are harvested no faster than the trees grow.

Act to eliminate the need for new power stations by insisting on energy conservation.

And a hundred other actions that could show the world that Canada will do its part in reversing the disastrous course on which humankind is now set.

Not agreements, not commitments, not demonstrations, not preparations, Mr. Clark, but Actions.

Deputy reeve out of intensive care

Dunvegan
Marion Loewen
527-2284

August the 15 and the month is half over. Only two more weeks left and the kids are off to school. That means fall is here. When I was going to school I always loved fall, and, in spite of being thought of as a weirdo, (that was not a word in those days) I looked forward to starting school. It meant life would once more have some order out of chaos. It also meant the gathering up of food, (my mother canned and made pickles), and getting snuggled in for the winter. The children today are not able to feel this warmth anymore. Most people are too busy to do canning and pickling, and the evenings are busy either with TV or all the activities that take place today. The family fellowship and interest in each other's activities is lost because everyone is doing his own thing. I realize this is a sign of the times, but it isn't only the children who lose in this busy world. The adults lose too! This is what you call burnout.

Gabriel and Joseph Ladouceur are home after one week with their mother at Wasago Beach, and two weeks with their dad, Yvon Ladouceur in Alexandria, and a few days at Lac Simon, Que.

On Saturday afternoon Vira MacLennan and Marion Loewen attended the Williamstown Fair and enjoyed supper out.

MacDonald, Leona Lafrance, Dorothy McCormick, Adelard Sauve twice, and Jean Heath. We congratulate the winners and wish everyone good luck at the next euchre night on Aug. 24.

I know all his friends and acquaintances will be glad to hear that Norman MacLeod is out of intensive care, but he will be in hospital for a while yet.

Cameron reunion welcomes 90

Bagpipes and swirling kilts welcomed ninety descendants of Donald Cameron and Margaret MacPhee home to Glengarry on July 27, 28 and 29 for the first Cameron Reunion.

Donald Cameron and Margaret MacPhee emigrated from Invernesshire, Scotland in 1834 and were married the same year in Fort Covington, N.Y. They then settled on a farm, 35.5 Lochiel, east of Fassifern.

Fourth generation descendants living in this area are Peggy MacGillivray, Dalkeith; Marjorie MacKinnon, Alexandria; Christina Franklin, Greenfield; and Hugh Allan MacKinnon, Ottawa. Jean MacRae of Detroit, MI was unable to attend due to illness.

Registration, supper and social evening was held Friday at the Alexandria Curling Club. Old photographs and bits of family history were on display.

Saturday morning brunch was followed by a variety of activities including golf, fishing, pool parties, and a bus tour of Lochiel and a visit to the old homestead property presently owned by Raymond Theoret.

Hugh Allan MacKinnon was master of ceremonies for dinner on Saturday evening. He entertained with stories and poems. Hugh Allan also outlined the family history and presented everyone with a book containing the Cameron and MacPhee family trees. This information was originally compiled by his mother, the late Mrs. Hughina MacKinnon.

Mrs. Donald Ewan Cameron was presented with a corsage and decorative lucky horseshoe. At 95, Mrs. Cameron is the only third generation survivor. She travelled from Mission City, B.C. with her sons Donald Neil of Kamloops, B.C. and Alex of Surrey, B.C.

Entertainment was provided by piper Kelly Olsen, soloist Kristin Gauthier, Highland dancers Erin Saunders and Tara Kemp. Alec Cameron recited The Cremation of Sam McGee. Violinist David MacPhee and pianist Elizabeth MacDonald provided many tunes for dancing.

Following brunch on Sunday, everyone was bussed to St. Columba Church in Kirk Hill. At the southeast corner of the church there is a monument in memory of Donald and Margaret Cameron. Flowers were placed in the church by Jean MacRae in memory of her parents Robert and Elizabeth Cameron.

After a barbecue and fish fry, farewells were said late Sunday afternoon. Plans for the next Cameron Reunion were already under way.

Pork ban lifted

Agriculture Minister Don Mazankowski and Australian Agriculture Minister John Kerin reached an agreement to permit exports of Canadian fresh and frozen pork to Australia.

After seven years of consideration, Australia removed an embargo it had maintained on fresh and frozen pork exports from Canada because of the risk of introducing transmissible gastroenteritis (TGE), a swine disease not present in Australia.

The decision to lift Australia's ban on Canadian uncooked pigmeat imports was initially announced last September, but additional time was given to Australian producers to gather information to justify continuing the prohibition.

Australian research has confirmed that the risk of TGE transmission is minimal and does not support a trade prohibition.

"The ban can no longer be justified on scientific or economic grounds, and could be perceived as a non-tariff barrier to trade," Kerin stated.

Under the agreement, permission to import the fresh or frozen pork into Australia from Canada must be obtained in writing from the Director of Animal and Plant Quarantine in Australia. Each shipment will be accompanied by a quarantine entry certificate and follow the requirements outlined in the agreement.

"Canada negotiated vigorously for several years to have the embargo lifted," Mazankowski said. "This agreement is a welcome development for both the federal government and industry."

International Trade Minister John C. Crosbie said he is delighted that this issue has been resolved to the benefit of the Canadian pork industry.

"The Canadian Pork Council is very pleased to gain access to this market after years of hard work," said Tom Smith, President of the Canadian Pork Council. "This decision represents one more opportunity to compete in world markets."

Area diocese celebrates centennial anniversary

By Msgr. Rudolph Villeneuve P.H.

Editor's Note: The following is a message from Msgr. Rudolph Villeneuve P.H. on the 100th anniversary of the Alexandria-Cornwall diocese.

The Prophet Micah, a contemporary of the great Prophet Isaiah in the eighth century B.C., predicted that the little town of Bethlehem would eventually be glorified because the promised Messiah would be born in this small town.

As the Diocese of Alexandria-Cornwall prepares for the festivities on Sept. 9 which will mark its 100th anniversary as a diocese, there are no claims that a savior will be born in its midst. However, as an area which was at one time the cradle of the Catholic Church in Ontario it does lay claim to having survived and progressed in spite of countless difficulties during the past 100 years.

Caught in the restructuring of two large neighboring dioceses, Ottawa and Kingston, the newly created diocese of Alexandria founded on Jan. 23, 1890 was cut off from the Diocese of Kingston where its first Bishop, the famous Warrior Bishop, the Honorable and Most Reverend Alexander Macdonell from St. Raphael's resigned as the first Bishop of all of Ontario (Upper Canada) (1826-1860).

By a happy coincidence the newly appointed first Bishop of the newly created diocese of Alexandria was also a bearer of the same name, Bishop Alexander Macdonell, a native of the township of Lochiel and pastor of St. Finnan's Parish, Alexandria at the time of his appointment. With a small complement of 10 parishes and 10 priests, including the Bishop in 1890, the Diocese of Alexandria-Cornwall has now a Catholic population of approximately 56,000, with 34 parishes, 43 priests, eight permanent deacons, 105 religious sisters and brothers.

The Diocese of Alexandria-Cornwall in the exremely eastern section of Ontario, bordering the Quebec border, is a microcism of the Catholic Church of Canada. It has experienced and reflected many of the basic problems of a diocese that has evolved from a predominantly rural diocese in its early years to a diocese with an increasingly urban and suburban population. It has also solved fairly successfully the principal problem facing Canada today, how to live harmoniously and progress peacefully with a population almost equally divided among Canada's official language groups, French and English, augmented recently by vibrant faith of new immigrants of other language persuasions.

The Diocese of Alexandria-Cornwall has not lived as in other parts of the Canadian Nation with Two Solitudes, of French and English. There is a constant intermingling of both groups and a strong ecumenical cooperation among all linguistic and inter denominational groups.

The official history of the diocese, soon to be published is entitled "A Hundred Thousand Welcomes," a title derived from the traditional greeting of our Gaelic, Highland Scotch background "Ciad Mile Failte."

People from all parts of Canada and beyond who have visited here have always remarked on the friendliness and the open welcome they receive from the people of our diocese, whatever language they may speak. We hope and pray that this will always remain a trademark of our diocese, which may be small in numbers but is big in heart.

39ers hosted party for nine

Glen Sandfield
Lorna Chapman
874-2408

Allison McCauley of Dunvegan spent a few days recently with Tamara Hartrick and accompanied the Hartricks to the Pre-Games Tattoo in Maxville.

On Sunday the Hartrick family hosted a luncheon for Janet and Jim Makasky and their daughters Emily, Marilyn and Rebecca of Snelgrove. Also attending were Marilyn, Kristin and Erin Lawlor of Harrowsmith, Roddie McFall of Ottawa, Bessie MacLennan, Stewart, Joyce, Rory and Beth MacLennan of Glen Sandfield.

Last Monday, Glenn and Kay Stewart of Mississauga visited at Glenlennan Farms on their way to see friends in Beaconsfield, Que.

A recent family get-together at Lloyd and Isobel MacLennan's place took the form of a barbecue dinner with many of the family present. Among those on hand were Grant and Rita MacLennan, Ron and Christina MacLachlan, Kevin MacLachlan, all of the area, Earl, Janice and Shayne MacLennan of Maxville, Ian, Sharon, Robin, Jason and Jennifer MacLachlan, all of Fort McMurray, Alberta, Josie and Melanie MacLennan of Toronto, Gwen, Ernie, Monika and Gary Vanek all of Ottawa.

* * *

Sunday visitors with Bud and Lorna Chapman were Richard and Chickie, Stephanie, Vincent and Allison Hillier of St. Lambert, Que., and in the evening Bonnie Chapman of Riviere des Prairies, Nancy and Jamie Chapman, and Michel Sabourin of Ville LaSalle, Que. Jamie will be here for a week with his grandparents.

We hear that Julie Mason had a very successful birthday party last Saturday evening. May we add our congratulations and best wishes for your birthday Julie and may you have many more.

The Glen Sandfield UCW presented a worship service on Aug. 9 at the Alexandria Community Nursing Home for residents and their friends. The service was led by Lorna Chapman who was most ably assisted by Nan Campbell and Margo MacRae, with Bessie MacLennan at the piano. Favorite hymns, poems, scripture and a short meditation called When I am Hemmed In, seemed to be well received. Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Campbell sang a duet and the president sang a solo. The group has been invited to return next winter.

* * *

The 39'ers were invited to give a birthday party at the Alexandria Nursing Home on Tuesday, Aug. 7. There were nine celebrants in all. Greetings were offered to Alexine Boyer, Donat Ouimet, Erma Lanthier, Ida Legault, Catherine Obleman, Stella MacDougald, Nora Botting, Ovila Bourgon and Bruno Brunet.

A lovely cake complete with candles was kindly made by Mildred Whitehead. The program was emceed by president Lorna Chapman. The Lochiel Strings began their part with some lively tunes and as always they were very well received. Muriel Moore, Frank Hamilton and Lorna Chapman sang several solos and duets, interspersed by the fiddlers' music.

Two girls, Tamara and Dana Tkachenko from near Fassifern way, sang a capella and they were just charming. It was their debut, never having sung in public before, and they performed like veterans, their clear voices blending very well in The Battle Hymn of the Republic. I predict that we will be hearing a lot from them in the future, they are very talented young ladies. The Strings played for the singing of happy birthday, and during the serving of the cake and juices. Bessie MacLennan ably accompanied the other singers. We remarked that Pat Hauser was playing with the fiddlers that afternoon. She is usually at the piano, when we've seen her, she seems to be a lady of many talents, who unselfishly shares them when invited to do so. The residents said that they had enjoyed the program very much and the 39'ers received a very warm thanks from Nicole Vaillancourt. Heartfelt thanks are extended to those who kindly came out to entertain.

East Hawkesbury United Church in Ste. Anne's is celebrating its 125th anniversary. Sunday afternoon Aug. 12 they held a special anniversary service with Rev. Pat Gale-MacDonald and Rev. Colin MacDonald officiating. Rev. Alice Fraser McAlpine of Chateauguay, Que. who was raised in this church, and the GEPC delegate to the ministry read the scriptures.

Rev. Roland Kelly, a former pastor of this church (and of Glen Sandfield United and the 'Round Church in Dalhousie Mills) brought greetings from congregations in the Maritimes where he had recently been guest minister. He had many fond memories of his time in the area which he shared with the congregation. Duncan Philips sang a lovely solo, and later joined Cathie Fraser for a duet that was very much enjoyed.

Not too many understood the words of the Gaelic psalm read by Harold MacMillan: Fortunately it was printed in English on the folder for the congregation to follow along. The large choir sang Wandering Child, a tender old gospel hymn. Over 20 voices joined in singing four part harmony for a rich choral offering.

Father Martineau of St. Ann's Parish brought greetings from his church, wishing that everyone could live in peace and harmony as God's children, and members of God's family here on Earth. He presented them in both French and English. Several letters of congratulations were read by Rev. Colin MacDonald including one from Don Boudria MP who sent his regrets at being unable to attend as planned, and another from the Prime Minister. There was also one from the Governor General offering his congratulations. Robert Miron was Precentor for the hymn The Lord's My Shepherd. He chanted each line, and the congregation repeated it in tune, as it was done 100 years ago. The last two verses were sung as it is done today, accompanied by the organ. It was most effective. Close to 200 people must have attended, seated both outside and in. Even the thunderstorm never materialized, on this day to remember!

Men: Fair adversaries in baking competition

Williamstown
Sue Harrington
347-2279

The forecast was foul; the days were fair. Perhaps it was the delicious feeling of proving the weather experts wrong that so enhanced the success of Williamstown's biggest annual weekend. For successful it was — in hundreds of different ways!

The exhibit hall, after several lean years, was beginning to look fat and full. Baking entries had spectators, usually male, drooling uncontrollably. Ten lemon meringue pies! A dozen or so plates of brownies! Ten batches of date squares!

It was with the date squares that I began to notice a trend. I have long suspected that men are fond of date squares — after all, they used to be known as ''matrimonial cakes'' in my day! But it was only at the fair that I realized that men are beginning to be better date square makers than their female bakers. Both first and second prizes in the category went to men!

It used to be that only Doug Hargrave was man enough to enter his baking, but this year brought a record number of entries in the cake-baked-by-a-man class, which, by the way, was won by Doug Sova. Dave Irwin picked up his exhibits on Saturday and the red ribbons were just a fluttering! Neil Robinson is also becoming a name to be reckoned with in the baking circles.

So keep it up ladies! We'll get them trained yet.

Meanwhile Ron Eamer is still reeling over the shock that his red currant jelly only netted him a third place ribbon. ''I can't understand it,'' a down-in-the-mouth Ron told me in an exclusive interview. ''My jelly was red and clear — just like a fine rose wine!''

* * *

Hopefully a list of fair winners will appear elsewhere in this paper, either this week or next, and you will find out all about who did what. But I would like to congratulate here the two winners of the special baking contest sponsored by Fleischmans and Red Roses Flour. Ladies and gentlemen, the best pie maker in Glengarry is Williamstown's own Lynn Lafave!

For a taste of the best raisin bread in the county, you'll have to go a little further — to Alexandria, to see Isobel McDonald.

* * *

Walt Disney's prodigies came to Williamstown Saturday morning, as the children's parade entered the fairgrounds. Lead by a couple of mice, Minnie and Mickey by name, the stage was soon filled with Donald Ducks, Porky Pigs and even a Dumbo!

As to the identity of the parade leaders, someone mentioned that she recognized Garnet MacDougall's legs — on Minnie!

Elizabeth Chatfield came all the way from B.C. to breathe life into Mickey — yet another example of this year's gender bending!

* * *

I jest, of course. Elizabeth was in the neighborhood to greet husband Ernie who arrived in Montreal after a visit to England.

During their week's visit to Williamstown, the Chatfields were the guests of Wendy Rozon.

* * *

Another visitor from afar, Olwen Austin, of Brisbane, Australia, was also at the fair and was also interested in the children's parade.

The object of her interest was one of the Winnie-the-Pooh's, the winning Winnie, to be precise — Katrina Payer, her granddaughter.

Mrs. Austin is visiting her daughter Sue and son-in-law Rudi Payer, of the Second Concession. (I've forgotten its new name already!)

* * *

Also making circles at the fair and catching up on all the news were Rev. Clifford Evans and Christine, now of Almonte.

How nice it is, that we have the fair to lure all our old friends and neighbors back for visits!

* * *

Cecile Carlsberg was ''home'' for a visit with her sister Donalda Lafave during fair days. Seeing Donalda reminded me that I had forgotten to mention that son Ellery had been home from the west earlier this summer, and I do apologize!

* * *

Despite the crowds who were at the fair, several people were conspicuously absent. Even though her beautiful knitting was entered in the showhall, Dorothy Croll was unable to attend. Dorothy is in hospital and we wish her a speedy recovery.

Last year's nail hammering champ, Pat Hamilton, was also in hospital, but has since returned home.

* * *

Someone who was conspicuous at the fair was Del Oxley who is anxiously awaiting her big event. Did it arrive yesterday on daughter Samantha's fifth birthday? Guess you'll have to wait until next week to find out!

In the meantime, happy birthday, Sam!

* * *

And two more locals will celebrate before the week is through. Congratulations to George Stewart, and to my own Johanna who will be 16 on the 16th.

I'd be forced to eat leftover fair baking if I'd said ''sweet!''

* * *

You may have noticed Nick MacDonald- Wolochatiuk, the fair's roving photographer, weaving in and out between shots, on his bicycle.

I'm told the photos of the fair will be on display at the Williamstown Public Library in approximately two weeks' time, and you will be able to order copies of any of the prints you wish.

* * *

Believe it or not, there is life in Williamstown after the fair! Coming up this weekend is the big Green Thumbs' Flower Show on Saturday at St. Mary's. Please call Carmen Hunting for entry details if you are a new exhibitor. Viewing times will be from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

On Sunday, action returns to the fairgrounds, as the Lancaster Masonic Lodge hosts a pork roast, beginning at noon until nothing is left but the bare bones.

This is an ''all you can eat'' pig out, with sauerkraut, baked beans and lots of lovely trimmings.

Everyone is welcome; for more information contact Ziggy Loos at 347-2961.

* * *

Williamstown's society evening of the year, the wine and cheese at the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum takes place on Aug. 22 at 7:30 p.m.

* * *

Jim Hill, having recovered from his fish-frying duties at the fair, is busy, along with Archibald MacDonell, preparing for a meeting of the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame which will be held in Williamstown on Monday, Aug. 20, at 8 p.m. at St. Mary's Centre.

An invitation is extended to all local residents of all age groups, oldtimers through to teens, who might be interested in the progress of the new building (nearing completion), diaries of the history of the group, photos, and in recommending athletes worthy of recognition for future induction.

The 12th annual induction dinner will be held this year on Sept. 12 at the Maxville Sports Complex, and the new Hall of Fame building will be opened just prior to the meal.

Says Jim, ''For the Founders and the population of Glengarry, it will be a dream come true.''

Barbara and Don Kannon were pleasantly surprised on Saturday evening when they returned to their home to find friends and relatives gathered together on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Organized by their children, Mark, Peter, John and Cheryl, with help from Lydia Glover, the party came as a total shock, according to Barbara.

In addition to their local friends and neighbors, family members travelled from Kitchener, Brockville and Montreal for the event on the Street Road.

Filled with heroes

Martintown
Ruth Lafave
528-4374

Definition of a hero: any man, woman or child admired for their courage, nobility, exploits, qualities and/or achievements.

We all have a hero who we admire very much, a sportsman, an explorer, an actor and even fictional characters. They come in all shapes and sizes and from all walks of life.

Some heros do not attain the grandeur and fame that others do. These heros are people from all over the world who suffer from fatal illness or injury. They have the courage to live life to the fullest and try to achieve their goals in the very short time they have left. And mind you, these people do not suffer alone. Their families suffer along with them. Every pain and every sleepless night is felt by both the victim and the loved ones. We try to give our suffering relative the quality of life they deserve and that is best for them. Our relatives try to leave us with memories to remember them by. A child suffers with pain, his parents suffer with him. A wife struggles and her husband and children struggle with her. A husband fights for life and his wife and children fight with him. All these people are heros. According to the definition of the word hero, all these people have courage, qualities and have many achievements, they are heros!

We have some of these heros in Martintown. Many of them I have never known and those I did know or have heard of, deserve to be mentioned and acclaimed as heros. As you read the following list, a partial list of people, try to recall what one of these people achieved and the memories they have left for you. Remember, this is only some of the people that I have heard of or know of, there are many more: Wilfrid Amelotte, Henry Aubin, Barbara Barton, Jean Barton, Kenneth Barton Sr., Catherine Beckstead, Neil Bethune, Laurette Bougie, Leo Bougie, Ralph Bruyere, Robert Ceasor, Ewen Christie, Harriette Christie, Hughie Christie, Susan Clark, Jack Cousin, Martha Cousin, Gerald Desjardins, Gerald Dicaire, Leo Dicaire, Edna Elliott, John Elliott, Hartley Dupuis, Frank Flaro, Howard Flaro, Mary Louise Flaro, William Fraser, Uncle George, Herbie Goudie, Charles Grant, Rhodes Grant, Gerald Ingola, Jack Kehoe, Gordon Keir, Percy Keir, Moss Kellet, Jean Guy Kennedy, George Kinloch, Edmund Lafave, Glenn Lafave, James Lafave, Joseph Lafave, Isabelle Lafave, Laura Lafave, Liza Lafave, Robert Lafave Sr., Alex Lagroix, Janet Lajoie, Cecil Lalonde, Joe Lalonde, Paul Lauzon, Edmira Lapointe, George Lloyd, Sandra Flaro, Bonnie MacDonald, Archie MacDonald, Marilyn MacDonald, Paul MacDonald, John MacDonell, Marguerite MacDonell, Finlay MacIntosh, Jim MacIntosh, Edith McArthur, Leonard McArthur, Wilburn McArthur, Peter McCuaig, Christine McDermid, Ken McDermid, Ian McMartin, Jeff McMartin, Martin McMartin, Alec McMillan, Harvey McMillan, Isabelle McPhail, John McPhail (Father), Audrey Morris, Bud Nicholson, Frank Paradis, Bernie Parent, Nora Parent, Marguerite Renaud, Diane Richer, Steven Richer, Colombe Riley, Robert Rivette, Gordon Ross, Florence St. Onge, Keith Seguin, Marie Smith, Frank Swiatkowski, Clarence Thompson, Salem Thompson, Alex Tyo, Lea Tyo, Jean Wittford.

I would like to dedicate the following excertps from The Song of Roland, translated by Merriam Sherwood, a hero tale, to all these heros and I dedicate this week's column to one of my heros and his wife, very good friends, Robert Renaud who

Fifth annual Heart and Stoke tournament a great success

Final tabulations haven't yet been made but organizers of the 5th annual Eugene Macdonald Heart and Stroke Golf Tournament expect about the same amount of money that was raised last year will go towards disease research.

"It was another big success," said Pete Conway, co-organizer of the event along with Wally Hope, Jr. "The weather was perfect for golf and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves.

"Of course a tournament like this can only be succesful with the tremendous help we got from all the volunteers, and from the corporate foursomes with their generous donations."

Over 100 golfers from the region took part. Tom MacDonald fired a 71 to win the tournament. Julie Rouette took the ladies title with a 75.

For the third year, organizers held an auction sale of sports paraphenalia and clothing. Among the more popular items up for grabs was an autographed Expos glove and a pair of Montreal Canadiens season tickets.

Several prominent sports figures were on hand for the anniversary tournament and dinner. Montreal Canadiens defenceman Mathieu Schneider, Winnipeg Jets goaltender Rick Tabaracchi, Quebec Nordiques forward Ken McRae, Winnipeg Jets draft pick Jason Cirone, Washington Capitals selection John Slaney and CJSS radio station sports director Fred Pletch all participated in the tournament.

The winner of a draw for a weekend trip to Quebec City was Joan Belch.

Over $3,000 was raised a year ago for the Ontario Heart and Stroke Foundation.

Winnipeg Jets goaltender Rick Tabaracchi lines up a putt at the 5th annual Eugene Macdonald Heart and Stroke Golf Tournament Saturday. The former Cornwall Royals netminder was one of several special guests on hand for the event.

Raisin race record set

For the second consecutive year, a course record has been set at The Great Raisin River Footrace.

The new mark is 35 minutes and 50 seconds, and it's owned by Manual Salvati of Ottawa, who fended off previous record holder Andy Jones to win Sunday morning's event in Williamstown. Jones, also of Ottawa, who established a new course record a year ago, finished with a time of 35:57. Kevin Lee of Nepean was third overall and in the male 29 years and under division, with a time of 37:27.

Muya Wachira of Ottawa was fourth overall and took first in the 30-39 age category with a time of 39:42. In fifth place overall and first in the 40-49 years category was David Spataru of Rock Island Illinois, with a time of 40:12. Ian Sim of Winchester took the men's 50 and over division in 45:44.

Former Williamstown resident Cecilia O'Neil (nee Cornelissen), now of Lindsay, was the top female winning the 20-29 years division in 42:55. Debra Brown of Ottawa was first in the 30-39 age group and Gloria Opzoomer, of Balderson, was first in the ladies 40 and over category.

Blazers club reaching out

Todd Hambleton
Sports editor

It isn't just area hockey players who are migrating to Cornwall these days. That trend has reached the soccer pitches, where local youths are now suiting up for the Cornwall Blazers Soccer Club travelling teams in unprecedented numbers.

"But this is not a Cornwall team," stressed Gerry Hughes, Blazers vice-president and head coach of the junior level (under 18) team. "It's a Cornwall-based team. The Blazers is an area club that just happens to play its home games in Cornwall."

True. The Blazers, with 140 players on eight teams, is an all-together separate entity from the Cornwall Minor Soccer Association. The soccer association is a 900-player house league, while the Blazers are travelling clubs drawing players from all over the region and competing in the Ottawa-Carleton Soccer League.

"It's taken some time, but now we're drawing more players from the outlying areas," Hughes said. "When we drew up our constitution we were looking at drawing players from all over the three United Counties."

That constitution was drawn up in 1983, and the Blazers were born, but with just a single club — the junior team — suiting up for play in the Eastern Ontario Soccer Association, the early days were tough. With a shortage of adequate coaching and playing talent, wins were few and far between.

As the club grew over the years and the organization became better known, more and more of the players, particularly at the bantam and junior levels, came from Glengarry County. In fact, on this year's junior squad, six of the 17 players — namely Shawn Taggart, Phil Poitras, Jeff MacLean, Bob MacLeod, Kevin MacCormick and Tommy McKay — are from this neck of the woods.

Coach Hughes likes it that way. "We wouldn't have much of a team without them," he said matter-of-factly. "Without them we just wouldn't be competitive with the likes of Nepean, Gloucester and Gatineau, teams with fairly large drawing areas."

So the Blazers need Glengarry kids but Hughes says it's a two-way street: young Glengarrians with aspirations of playing soccer at a higher level some day need the Blazers. With the arrival of the Canadian Soccer League — and it looks like it might be sticking around for awhile — there's now something for young talents to shoot for.

No players who've gone through the Blazers' ranks have yet made it to the CSL, but Hughes believes that day is coming. "That's what we'd like to see — that's the dream," said Hughes, whose been involved in minor soccer here since he came to the area in 1978. "We're one step away from these kids making a CSL pro team. Quite a few of the players on the other teams have gone on to play in the league."

And he's convinced it's going to happen soon because the calibre of the Ottawa-Carleton league has risen to the level of the prominent soccer regions in the country. "We're now ahead of Montreal and on a par with the brand of soccer they play in Vancouver and Toronto," Hughes said. "We're now giving local kids the chance to play in one of the highest calibre leagues in the country."

Stars, Alexandria A and B facing elimination

The hard times that the Glengarry Stars have fallen upon of late has brought the club to the brink of elimination.

A pair of goals by league-leading scorer Andy Meth and one from Glen Campbell Saturday lifted Glen Nevis to a 3-0 win over Stars in game one of their best-of-three Glengarry Soccer League senior men's division semifinal.

Stuart MacDonald recorded the shutout.

Stars, last year's playoff finalists and the regular season leaders earlier this campaign, needed a win last night (Tuesday) to extend the series to a decisive third game (Friday, 8:30 p.m., if necessary).

The other semifinal series between second-place Greenfield and third-place Alexandria Drillers got underway last night. It continues Thursday (Glengarry Sports Palace, 8:30 p.m.) with game three scheduled, if necessary, for Saturday night in Greenfield.

With Greenfield and Glen Nevis tied for first place at the end of regular season play, an extra game was needed to decide the pennant winner. It was played Thursday, and Glen Nevis, on the strength of a pair of Andy Meth markers, took the contest 2-1. Robert Wensink tallied for Greenfield.

In a regular season contest played Wednesday (Aug. 8), Greenfield, on a Kevin Villeneuve goal, upended Pine Grove 1-0. David Wensink recorded the shutout.

Two games were played last Monday (Aug. 6). George Theoret (Glen Sandfield) and David Wensink (Greenfield) recorded shutouts in their clubs goalless draw. Donnie MacDonell had a pair of goals and Billy Dewitt scored once in Drillers 3-3 draw with Glen Nevis. Glen Nevis marksmen were Roddie MacLeod, Kennedy MacDonald and Andy Meth.

Senior ladies

First-place Laggan and second place Dunvegan have taken leads in their best-of-three semifinal series'.

League-leading scorer Bonnie MacLeod fired a pair of goals Friday pacing Laggan past Alexandria A 2-0. Colleen Kennedy recorded the shutout. The series was to continue Monday night with game three, if required, to be played Thursday in Lochiel at 7 p.m.

Jennifer Taggart scored both her team's goals in Dunvegan's 2-1 edging of Alexandria B Saturday. Julie McDonald replied for Alexandria B. Game two was last night. A third game would be played Friday in Dunvegan, starting at 7 p.m.

In regular season play Tuesday (Aug. 7), Greenfield got two-goal

League having two banquets

The Glengarry Soccer League will be having separate awards banquets this year for its senior and minor divisions.

The senior men's and ladies' awards presentations will be held Saturday, Sept. 8, at the Bonnie Glen. Tickets are $12 per person and are available by advance sale only.

The awards presentations will begin at 7:30 p.m. They will be followed by a dance at 9 p.m., with music by the Brigadoons.

On Friday, Sept. 14 at the Glengarry Sports Palace, it'll be the minor soccer awards night and dance.

The awards presentation will begin at 7 p.m. A dance, featuring the music of Sound Express DJ, will be from 8 p.m. until midnight. A light lunch will be served.

Top teams in tyke division eliminated after first round

Upsets were the story as Char-Lan Minor Soccer Association single-elimination playoff action kicked off Thursday night in Williamstown.

The top two teams in the tyke division have already been eliminated in semifinal action. Regular season pennant winners Piche Bros. were upended 2-0 in overtime penalty kicks by fourth-place Rozon Insurance. Marcel Booyink and Kaylee Fraser scored the goals. Rozon will meet Bolger Steel in this week's final. Third-place Rozon dumped second-place Rudi Payer Sport 5-1, on the strength of three goals by Shawn Pilon and two from Daniel Desnoyers. Michael Conway tallied for Rudi Payer.

In a consolation round semifinal game, Kurtis Delaney scored a hat trick and Matthew Gordon had a pair lifting Emard Lumber over Soccerfest Blue 5-1. Michael O'Farrell tallied for Soccerfest Blue.

Championship and consolation finals will be played Thursday night. The league's awards banquet is at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, beginning at 8 p.m.

Sprite results

Gold Diggers and Orange Crush will square off in the Lancaster Optimist Sprite Division final. Chris McIntyre scored four times — Kurtis Delaney added a pair and Matthew Gordon connected once — pacing Gold Diggers past Green Giants 7-2. Jordan Flaro scored both Green Giants goals. Orange Crush scorers in a 2-0 win over Red Devils were Graham Charbonneau and Nicholas Currie. Philippe Hadzocos had the shutout.

Mosquito scorers

Derek Werely fired in a hat trick and singles were recorded by Gerry Goulet, Kara MacDonald, David Booyinc and Jason Contant in MacMillan and Howes' 7-0 win over Char-Lan United. Joshua Jodoin had the shutout. They'll meet Rudi Payer Sport — 4-1 winners over Jack Delaney's — in the divisional final. Dean Fraser, Gwen Tuppert, Jason Varrin and Kent McDonell connected for Rudi Payer Sport. Angela Marsollais had the Jack Delaney's marker.

Greenfield, IGA to battle in ball hockey final

For the seventh consecutive year, Roy's Express and Champions Roadhouse (formerly Dalhousie Chez Paul) will meet in the Alexandria Men's Ball Hockey League playoff final.

Express advance with a two-game sweep of Baribeau Tire Service, wrapping up the semifinal set Tuesday (Aug. 7) with an 8-2 win. Leonard Seguin and Marc Just fired two goals apiece for the winners. Singles were notched by Jean Lauzon, Marc Sauve, Frank St. Pierre and Leo Seguin.

Sylvain Elie and Denis Lalonde had the Baribeau Tire Service markers.

Champions had a more difficult time in their series against Mike Gibbs, needing a powerplay goal in overtime from Marc Titley to advance with a 4-3 win.

Bobby Bowles had scored late in the third period to tie the contest 3-3 and force the extra session. Phil Poitras and Shane McDonell had the other Mike Gibbs' goals. Titley and Darin Menard each had a pair for Champions.

Express won the first six championship meetings, with Champions ending the streak in last year's final. The clubs split their two regular season encounters.

The final got underway last night (Tuesday) and continues tonight with game two at 8 p.m.

Greenfield, IGA advance

Greenfield and IGA will continue their best-of-five consolation final tonight, with both teams advancing from the round-robin portion of the playoffs.

The odd-team out is Jake at Work — the defending consolation champs — which upended Greenfield 4-3 last Wednesday but needed to win by a three goal margin to advance. Mike Sabourin had three of the Jake goals, with Gerry Blanchette netting one marker.

Bill MacLean, Mario Dumont and Ray Robinson tallied for Greenfield.

Last Tuesday, IGA whipped Jake at Work 9-5. Paul Vincent had three goals for the winners, with doubles added by Richard Daniels and Stephane Landriault. Pat Ravary and Pascal Joanette scored once each.

Gerry Blanchette had a pair of goals for Jake at Work. Georges Carriere, Richard Picard and Roch Sabourin added singles.

Express, Champions meet again

Ball hockey league final series will be hard-fought

The Roy's Express-Champions Roadhouse rivalry over the years is kind of like the Soviet Union-American nuclear arsenal build-up during the Cold War: Both sides have kept stockpiling offensive and defensive weapons in an attempt to stay one step ahead of the enemy.

It may not be much fun for the rest of the teams in the Alexandria Men's Ball Hockey League, but it has provided for some entertaining showdowns in the playoff final. This year's summit, marking the seventh straight year the two clubs have met in the championship series, got underway last night and continues tonight (Wednesday, 8 p.m.) at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Roster stability, combined with an annual infusion of new talent, is what has kept Express and Champions (until this year they were known as Dalhousie Chez Paul) on top year after year.

Six players from the early years, when Roy's began its string of seven playoff championships in 1982, still suit up for Express. The team's biggest roster loss was the departure two years ago of prolific goal scorer Grant Crack, who holds the record for goals in a single season with 58.

But player editions like Marc Sauve (forward, second year), Jean Lauzon (forward, second year) and Guy Quesnel (goalie, second year) has kept the club on top.

This year Dalhousie is without forward and team leader Kennedy MacDonald, who scored the goal last year in Champions 1-0 game five win, giving them their first playoff trophy. Also gone is high-scoring winger Alex Mclaren.

But the addition of defenceman Glen Campbell, forwards Darin Menard, Daryl Menard and Stuart MacDonald, as well as goalie Claude Gallant, has made Champions a threat to recapture the title.

Five players have been with the team since 1984, the first year Champions advanced to the final.

An analysis of relative team strengths and weaknesses isn't really necessary: both teams are loaded from top to bottom. Sufficing, instead, is a roll call of the cast of characters who will take to the cement floor in this annual rite of late summer.

Roy Calder to be one of six Hall nominees

By Angus McDonell

Roy Calder, a Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame nominee at this year's induction dinner, was a son of Alexander John Calder and his wife the former Flora MacLennan. Their farm home was of stone architecture and located on the third concession of Charlottenburgh, not far across the fields from St. Raphael's and the Johnson Road to Williamstown.

Like most teenage farm boys, prior to the possible ownership of a car, Roy Calder was keenly interested in horses especially the roadster class. His father held the opposite view but granted son Roy permission to buy a horse of his choice.

At age 18, Roy Calder had saved enough money to buy his first roadster from John Fraser. This was a "Little Bay Mare named Daisy" to quote Roy Calder in an interview many years ago.

Roy, despite his youth and lack of driving experience in the show ring took great pride and satisfaction competing at Riceville, Maxville, Alexandria, Williamstown and Cornwall fairs.

Roy Calder had raised his sights to a future beyond the family pioneer farm home. He sold his pet Daisy, completed his high school studies at Cornwall Collegiate, joined the Two Mountains Sand Company operated by his uncle, the president, north of Montreal. Eventually Roy bought his retiring uncle's shares and succeeded him to the presidency.

In the meantime, Roy Calder, although devoted to the sand business, maintained his youthful interest in roadsters. Fortified with financial security and leisure time he returned to his first love of show ring competition.

Calder bought a horse, Andy Spencer, from Leonard MacEwen of Russell, Ont., and a teammate, Vivian Lee, in Richelieu, Que. He then entered the urban fair circuit; each horse competing individually, then hitched as a matched team roadster class. They were shown at Ormstown, Sherbrooke, Lachute and Ottawa. The horses were kept at the Calder farm now Laval-Chomedy and the stable groom was Real Lalonde from Alexandria.

After gaining major success at the fairs, Roy Calder was anxious to get into the "big league of horsemen." In 1956, he attended the Chicago International Fair and was struck by admiration of a horse named Royal Commander.

Wishing to be assured that this roadster was as good as he appeared, Roy summoned a knowledgeable Ormstown horse judge, Bob Gregg. They travelled to St. Charles, Ill., to meet the owner of Royal Commander and appraise his value and soundness. An intense discussion resulted in the purchase of Royal Commander at $5,000. (We insert here the difference between Williamstown Hall of Fame, Gordie McNeil and his counterpart Roy Calder. Gordie bred, raised and trained his show horses while Roy bought his.)

Royal Commander was transported to his new home by General Motors vice-president Jim Humphries, (not our retired Agrep), in his luxury van.

The following spring Calder and his prized horse competed at the early fairs from Maxville through the Quebec circuit and finally the Ottawa Fair. They were winners all the way.

In 1960 Calder scaled the ultimate in his ambition to join the elite horsemen by driving Royal Commander in the prestigious Toronto Royal ring.

Here Royal Commander was judged the winner in the roadster class and also the open stake championship.

Eventually age prevented Calder's horse from competitions. In his sportsmanlike character Calder gave Royal Commander to family friends north of Toronto where he was humanely cared for until he died three years later.

Roy Calder will join his counterparts, George Hope and Gordie McNeil in the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame on Sept. 12 in Maxville.

Ladouceur takes over top spot at track

For the first time this season, there's a new Modified points leader at Cornwall Motor Speedway.

Alexandria's Laurent Ladouceur sits atop the standings for the track championship, after usurping the title from Kingston's Pat O'Brien. O'Brien had held the points lead at Cornwall since the start of the racing season, but Ladouceur leaped in front on Sunday night, winning the 25-lap Modified feature.

In the Bev Smith Memorial Race for the Children — which annually raises over $5,000 for sick and handicapped children — Ladouceur grabbed the lead from Hawkesbury's Jean Larocque on the 10th lap, and cruised unmolested to the feature win.

Laurent Ladouceur

O'Brien meanwhile, finished seventh.

Ladouceur now leads the points standings at three different racetracks: Cornwall, Edelweiss and Can-Am.

Ladouceur — who trailed O'Brien by four points entering the feature — was aided by several early caution flags, which allowed him to move from the back of the 23-car field to second place after only three laps. After riding Larocque's rear bumper for a few laps, Ladouceur made his move on lap 10, overpowering Larocque in turn number four.

Larocque finished in second place, with Doug Carlyle of Kingston in third. The Modified heats were won by O'Brien, Cornwall's Roger Lalonde and Brian Herne of Hogansburg, N.Y.

In the Semi-Pro feature, Cornwall's Dave Renaud entered the winner's circle for the second straight race, capturing his fourth feature this season. Finishing second was Junior Crites of Cornwall, with Dalbert Legrow of Massena in third.

Leon Dllormier of Akwesasne won the Duke Stock feature.

Next week is the Giant Tiger Dash for Cash, a 12-lap race for Modified drivers who have yet to win a feature at Cornwall this season.

Ladies Softball League semifinals get underway this week

By Roxanne Menard

As the Alexandria Ladies Softball League regular season comes to a close, IGA has made a valiant effort to try to overtake first place Art Benton. They managed to tie them 13-13 Wednesday night. It was looking good for IGA after two innings when they were leading 5-2. It was even looking good in the fifth inning when IGA tied the game by scoring five runs. When Art Benton put Manon Carriere out for the third out, they prevented a loss and settled for a tie.

For IGA, Claudette Poulter had four RBI and Jocelyne Menard got two.

Art Benton's Pam MacCulloch, Helen Brossoit, Karen MacDonald batted in two RBI each.

In the earlier game Wednesday night, Caisse Populaire beat ABS 10-3.

Caisse's big inning was the first when they counted eight runs. ABS scored only in the fifth inning.

Chantal Legault of Caisse slammed a home run, a double and three RBI. Carol Oetelaar had two RBI.

Tuesday night saw Sultan Drugs clobbered Champions Roadhouse 19-6.

Throughout the game, Sultan maintained a comfortable lead thanks to Dianne Larocque's two singles, one double and four RBI. Dominique Duperron also helped with two singles, two doubles, one triple and three RBI. Julie Montpetit and Jeanine Lalonde got two RBI each.

For Champions, Rachelle Piette, Vivian Massia, Brigitte Lobb and Lisa Deguire scored one RBI each.

The second game Tuesday night saw Roy's Garage winning 10-5 against BMR.

It was 3-2 for BMR after three innings. Roy's tied it up in the fourth, then scored seven runs in the fifth to BMR's two.

Roy's Viola MacRae was hitting strongly with two singles, one double and two RBI. Also with two RBI were: Jackie Prieur, Diane Riley and Tracy Sauve. For BMR, Sylvette Decoste scored two runs while Linda Menard and Sue Decoste got one RBI each.

The semi-finals in the playoffs will begin this week. In the best of two out of three, the games for the "A" division will be Art Benton vs ABS and Caisse Populaire vs IGA. The B will consist of Roy's Garage vs Champions Roadhouse and BMR vs Sultan Drugs.

Glen Sandfield stays alive in bantam division playoff series

The regular season champs are finding out that the playoffs are a whole new ballgame.

Char-Lan MacKay Poleline had to settle for a 1-1 tie against fourth-place Glen Sandfield in Glengarry Soccer League bantam boys division playoff action Thursday in Lochiel. The draw means Glen Sandfield is still alive, now trailing their four-point semifinal series 3-1. Michel Jeaurond scored for Glen Sandfield while Jeff Robertson had the goal for the regular season pennant winners.

Char-Lan took the series opener 7-0 last Monday, getting three goals from David MacDonald and singles from Ben Pye, Greg Deschamps, Paolo Panizzan, and Gary Benson. Terry O'Farrell was in nets for the shutout. The other series between Laggan and Alexandria is tied at a game apiece. Alexandria took game one 1-0 Wednesday on a Jamie Nelson marker. Kent Starkness was in nets. Laggan came back with a 2-1 win Saturday on goals by Ian Kirton and Steven MacIntosh. Jamie Nelson scored for Alexandria.

In bantam girls action last Monday, Isabel Seguin and Lisa Poirier each fired in goals as Alexandria edged past Glen Sandfield 2-1. Samantha Poll scored in a losing cause. On Tuesday, Greenfield got two goals from Louise Villeneuve and singles from Carrie Libbos and Brenda Van Loon in a 4-2 win over Laggan. Carol MacLeod scored both Laggan goals.

The lone intermediate girls game played, on Thursday, saw Alexandria top Laggan 5-2. Rachel Denner (three goals) Lynn Bedard and Melanie Bowen scored for Alexandria. Jessica MacLeod and Tara Barton had the Laggan markers.

In junior girls play Thursday, Tamara Hartrick was the lone scorer in Glen Sandfield's 1-0 edging of Alexandria. Also on Thursday, Laggan got two goals each from Tina Bond and Cindy Laferriere, and one from Tristi MacSweyn, in a 5-0 blanking of Glen Robertson. Erica Dion and Sheila MacIntosh shared the shutout.

In an extra game played for third place last Tuesday, Mandy Duval was the lone scorer as Alexandria nipped Glen Robertson 1-0. Heidi Egger got the shutout.

Alexandria and Glen Sandfield have advanced to the sprite division final. Alexandria beat Laggan 2-0 Friday on a pair of goals by Jamie Ladouceur. Jimmy Bray notched the shutout. Last Wednesday, Ladouceur and Ryan Neilsen scored as Alexandria doubled Laggan 2-1. Daniel Laferriere scored for Laggan.

Glen Sandfield ripped Glen Robertson 11-0 Wednesday to advance. Scoring in support of shutout netminding from Jason Lobb and Darcy McCormick was Steven Vanden Oetelaar and Murray MacLeod, with three goals each, Luc Leblanc and Eric Quesnel with two apiece, and Daniel Lafrance.

In peewee play, Alexandria scored a pair of lopsided wins over Glen Sandfield. On Wednesday, Alain Decoste (three goals), Jason Poirier (two goals) and Chancey Lajoie scored in a 6-1 win. Craig Calvank connected for Glen Sandfield. Earlier in the week Alexandria won 10-1, on goals by Alain Decoste (three), Chancey Lajoie (two), Jason Poirier (two), Brennan Cameron (two) and Jamie Moffatt (one). Jason Poll scored for Glen Sandfield. In the other series, Laggan, on Daniel Steiche marker, and Greenfield, with a score from Joel Menard, tied 1-1 Thursday. Greenfield took the opener 1-0 on a Jason MacIntosh goal. Steven St. Denis recorded the shutout.

Slo-pitch final series tied 1-1

The Glengarry Slo-Pitch League semifinal playoff series between BMR (Dunvegan) and Alexandria Pizza will come down to a decisive third game Sunday (8:30 a.m.). BMR tied the best-of-three set at a game apiece winning 16-12 on the weekend.

Mike Duval and Eddy MacDonald each scored three times for BMR, which took a 13-2 lead with a big nine-run fifth frame. Lionel Quennville, Bill MacLean and Bill Wylie each scored a pair of runs with Marc Duval, Randy Cousineau, David MacKinnon and Claude Cleroux scoring once each. Gordy Van Putten scored three runs for Pizza, which closed the gap with a nine-run sixth inning. Winston Van Putten added two runs with single runs scored by Andre Lauzon, Rejean Duperron, Roch Cholette, Andre Cholette, Gaetan Dupuis, Andre Rochon and Mike Lajoie.

The winner will face Labelle Series in the final. Labelle wrapped up its series in two straight games, winning 18-6 Sunday. Marc Hurtubise, Bob Quesnel and Frank St. Pierre each scored three runs for the winners.

Twilight results

The Glengarry Golf and Country Club's Men's Twilight League awards banquet and dance will be held Saturday, Sept. 22. Members can sign up at the clubhouse.

There's still plenty of action left in the 1990 season and on Sept. 5, the first-place team in each division will square off for the championship.

After 11 weeks of regular season action, Champions Roadhouse and Titley Chev-Olds are the divisional leaders. Champions leads Glen Division standings with 41 points. They're followed by Alexandria Moulding (38.5 points), Burger House (34.5 points), Guindon Tires (30 points), and Atlantic Hotel (21 points).

Titley Chev-Olds tops the Garry Division with 43 points. Next is Glengarry Windows and Doors (36.5 points), followed by Gerry Deguire Plumbing (29.5 points), Roy's Pontiac Buick (29 points)

Alexandria ball hockey final underway

Goaltending

Guy Quesnel will be between the pipes for Express while Claude Gallant handles netminding duties for Champions. Interestingly, Quesnel, who posted a league-leading 2.44 goals against average, was in nets for Champions last year, copping the playoff MVP trophy with a sparkling performance in the final.

Gallant was between the pipes for Express a year ago.

Defence

The Express defensive pairings of John Shago-Gilles Massia and Marc Just-Norman Seguin have been together the last six years. Shago, however, is serving a five-game suspension for fighting in Roy's semifinal series against Baribeau Tire Service, and won't be able to return to the lineup until game five of the final, if it goes that far.

The Champions defensive unit will have to make an adjustment in the final — that of getting used to playing with a goalie. The club went without one for over half its games this year yet managed to put all of them in the win column. They won't try to get away with such hubris against Roy's. Having the luxury of playing with a 'keeper are veteran rearguards Paul Lefebvre, Jean-Luc Menard, Todd Hambleton and newcomer Glen Campbell.

Forwards

Leo Seguin and Frank St. Pierre are both now 30, but they're still the heart of the Express attack. Seguin, a centre flanked by left winger Marc Sauve and right sider Leonard Seguin, was the club's top scorer with 35 points (15 goals, 20 assists).

St. Pierre, playing on the right side on a line with newcomer Jean Lauzon (centre) and Luc Sabourin (left wing), was fourth overall in league scoring (32 points, 16 goals, 16 assists). Both lines score often.

Coach Remi Sauve and Gilles Gareau provide backup offensive support when called upon.

Like Roy's, Champions has two lines that seem to score at will. Marc Titley (centre), Blake Hambleton (left wing) and Andy McRae (right wing) formed the top scoring unit in the league this year, combining for 107 points.

The other line is centred by Andy Meth, the league's top scorer with 51 points (24 goals, 27 assists). He's flanked by Daryl Menard and Darin Menard.

Outlook

So all this firepower and no place to go, because the Sports Palace floor gets awfully cramped when these two teams play a close-checking game. And if past finals are any indication, it will be a low-scoring series.

Just as good pitching will stop good hitting in baseball, good defence in hockey will neutralize the offences. If both defences play up to their potential, the team scoring the first goal in each game will hold a decisive advantage.

The defending champs come into the final as slight favorites, if only because that's the honor you accord the defending champs. But don't bet against Express, a hungry club anxious to overturn last year's decision and capture its eighth playoff title in the last nine years.

Prediction: A virtual toss-up.

THANKS to the Sacred Heart of Jesus. G.C. 32-2p

PRAYER to the Holy Spirit. You who make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all that is done to me and You who are in all instincts of my life with me. I want to thank You for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with You and my loved ones in Your perpetual glory. A person may pray this prayer three consecutive days without asking for their wish. Promise to publish this dialogue as soon as favor received. J.B. 33-1p

Optimist club holds huge 'pig out' party

Green Valley
Helene Quesnel
525-3303

There hasn't been much going on in town over the past weeks. But this Sunday (Aug. 19) there'll be some hustle and bustle going on at Françoise Lefebvre's home. As you know Françoise has sold her beautiful home on Main St. and an auction is being held there on Sunday. The auction sale begins at 12 noon and a lot of furniture and other items will be up for grabs.

I don't know where Françoise is moving to but I'm sure it won't be too far and that she'll visit us often. Good luck to you Françoise.

* * *

The Optimist Club had a big outside party last weekend at the home of Paul Campeau of Charlottenburgh.

The party was dubbed "Le gros "pig out" and pig out they did. The evening started with a scrumptuous supper with the main course being roast pig, of course. After supper the group joined in games of horseshoe and sandbags followed by a dance.

The evening was lots of fun and the dance floor got pretty heated.

* * *

We wish a speedy recovery to Yvonne Seguin who was in hospital for a few days.

Hope you're feeling better 'cause the Green Valley kids are anxious to have you back at the highway to say a friendly hello and cross safely.

* * *

A couple of familiar faces were on the Auld Lang Syne page of last week's News. The picture was taken almost 30 years ago and features Green Valley's Emile Viau and Doris Joanette.

* * *

Lots of Green Valley kids and parents were either in Montreal or Ottawa a couple of weekends ago attending the New Kids on the Block concert.

My daughter, Cathy and I were among the screaming fans at Lansdowne Park to view the New Kids. Although it rained throughout the whole performance, Cathy says it was the best birthday present she's ever had. I must confess that I also enjoyed the performance but I don't think my hearing will ever be the same.

* * *

Birthday wishes go out this week to Geraldine Tibbals on Aug. 8, to Manon Bourdon on Aug. 9, to Marc Blais on Aug. 10, to Robin Gauthier and Patrick Viau on Aug. 12 and Marie-Josée Brunet on Aug. 13. Happy birthday to all!

* * *

Don't forget to call me with your news. I'm sometimes hard to reach but just leave your name and number and I'll return any calls. Hope everyone has a good week!

Village filled with heroes

passed away Sunday, August 5, 1990, and to Ghislaine.

"Beneath a pine tree he went running. He lay down on his face on the green grass. Under him he placed his sword and horn . . . He confessed himself again and again. For his sins he offered God his right hand glove . . . 'God, by Thy power forgive my sins, great and small, which I have committed from the hour that I was born until this day when I am slain.' He held out his right glove toward God. The angels of heaven descended to him . . . Saint Gabriel took it from his hand. On his arm his head was resting. With clasped hands he went to his death. God sent to him His angel cherubim and St. Michael of the Peril of the Sea. Saint Gabriel came with them. Together they bore the soul of the Count to Paradise."

* * *

The Martintown and District Horticultural Society will hold its 25th annual flower show on Thursday, Aug. 16 at the Martintown community centre. Exhibits will be placed in the hall from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and will be open to the public from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

Nicky Flaro turns 12 today. Happy birthday Nicky.

Reverends Ian MacMillan, Don Chisholm and Norma Bowman, Eric Urquhart and Brenda Demers. A little concert was held on Friday morning for families and friends, followed by lunch. Offerings collected during the week reached a grand total of $162, all of which was given to the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario. Many thanks go to everyone who helped make the week a grand success. See you next year.

A gathering of the descendants of Kenneth John and Wilhelmina Urquhart took place in Calgary, Alta. on July 7. More than 50 were welcomed by Michael Molloy (son of Marion) and Lois Dykstra (daughter of Gordon) to the western-style breakfast held at the Symon's Valley Bar-B-Q Ranch in Calgary. What a lot of chatter as introductions were made.

Most of the Moose Jaw, Sask, family had never met the others and it was great as they gathered from that fair city, points in British Columbia, Calgary and Ft. Collins, Colorado. The easterners from Ottawa, Alexandria and Lancaster were able to hold their own, and were no slouches in the baseball games or the horseshoe pitches either.

Everyone looked great in their 'Urquhart Reunion' T-shirts and white stetsons worn in true rodeo style. The day was great, the weatherman cooperated and the western bar-b-q served in the evening was hard to beat.

Trophies were handed out to the eldest present — Eric Urquhart, the youngest — 2-day old Mikhaila Molloy, the one who came the furthest — Melinda Main of Lancaster, and the one with the greatest number of family members present — Kenneth Urquhart of Moose Jaw, Sask. A special plaque was presented to Eric and Sheila Urquhart in recognition of the many family gatherings they have hosted and a plaque commemorating the locations and years of each reunion was a special gift from Rena Upton, in absentia. Greetings from the remaining 'original 16' were received and read from John Urquhart, Anabel Miller, Margaret Leeds and Rena Upton.

A family gathering was held at the home of Millie Pidgeon in South Lancaster on Saturday (Aug. ll). Present were Millie's daughters, Debra, and her husband, Gary Rutkowski and their two daughters, Tanya and Ashley, all of Barrie and Eleanor (Mrs. Mary Alguire) and her daughter, Cindy Moke along with Cindy's two daughters, Tina and Sherry, as well as their friend, Joanne Diotte, all of Long Sault. Visiting from Ottawa were Millie's niece, Marilyn and her husband, John Masters, as well as their daughters, Cathy and her husband, Ron Clarke and Cheryl and her friend, Mike Bryden. From South Lancaster, sister-in-law Bea Kaye and myself, niece Janice Montreuil. A bar-b-que was held along with much catching up on family news.

* * *

Visitors at the home of Joan and Hugh Gibson of Williamstown recently were Joan's friend Cathy Casey of Dundee, Scotland; son Donald and his wife, Nancy of Melbourne, Australia and son Brian and his wife Shelley (McNeil) of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia. This influx of relatives was all due to the wedding of daughter Lynne to Jim Labelle of Orillia on Aug. 4 in Toronto. Friends from Lancaster, Sylvia and Walter Pilkington, went to Toronto to the wedding and then visited in Orillia with their daughter's mother-in-law. A surprise visit was paid to the Pilkingtons before they left by their daughter, Ann, and her husband Tony Andrvsyszyn and their three kiddies, all of Baden Solingen, Germany.

Wedding

Joanne Vink, formerly of Alexandria and daughter of Imelda and the late Herb Vink will marry Serge Fauteux of Hawkesbury, son of Roger and Lorraine Fauteux, in L'Orignal on Aug. 18. The reception will be at St. Bernardin's Hall after the 3 p.m. service. Everybody is welcome to attend.

Three locals to be honored in diocesan centennial

Maxville
Gordon Winter
527-2888

At the celebrations marking the Centennial of the establishment of the Diocese of Alexandria-Cornwall on Sunday, Sept. 9, in Alexandria, three local people will be honored.

The Bishop has requested that the Holy Father, Pope John Paul II name the Rev. Rejean Lebrun pastor of St. James, Maxville and St. Catherine of Sienna, Greenfield, prelate of honor with the title of monsignor.

The community shares with Father Lebrun the joy he is experiencing in being so honored.

At the same time, Sr. Gertrude Godard s.s.c.j. of Greenfield and Hilda Villeneuve, Williamstown and formerly of Maxville will be awarded the Diocesan gold medal. Sister Gertrude is a familiar figure as she has ministered here for many years.

Miss Villeneuve is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jim Villeneuve of Athol and the sister of the late Alderic, Lionel and Hormidas. While still at home she was organist in her church for many years and since then has been the housekeeper for area priests.

We congratulate these two ladies and thank them for their devoted services.

An Alexandria native, Laura Sabourin who is known to many will also be the recipient of the gold medal.

The printing of five post cards was completed in time for sales at the Highland Games. These cards are a forerunner of Centennial celebrations, the supply is excellent and the Maxville scenes most interesting. Erin Blair is this project's chairman.

One card is a composite of our four churches, and another shows our two schools, the curling club and the sports complex.

Three are reproductions of old cards. One shows Main St. from the railroad crossing, facing south in 1906, another the CNR station in its busy days and the third of Main St. facing north from the Presbyterian Church. The original was taken about 1936 or 1937.

Henry Wilkes was sitting in front of us at the Games and identified the people in this photograph.

Mr. Wilkes, a barber at the time, was standing in front of what is now Ruby's store, a piece back were the late Rod McLennan, McDonald's Grove and his two children, Eileen and Weldon, and about in front of C. B. McDermid's drug store was Bessie Whyte, now Mrs. Wilkes. Coming out of Smillie's store on the east side of the street was the late Danny Malcolm MacGregor of Sandringham. The photograph was taken by the late Fred McMillan. These cards are on sale at several village stores.

We extend sympathy to Florence MacLennan and to other members of the MacLennan family in the death of her husband Roderick, last week. The late Mr. MacLennan had been an active member of the community for many years and his contributions were appreciated.

Armand Currier also died last week and to the large Currier family we offer our sympathy. Armand had been a faithful worker about town for many years.

Hilda and Alex MacLean of Maxville will be celebrating their 30th anniversary on Sunday, Aug. 19. The celebration will take place at the home of Edith and John Coleman at 35 Mechanic Street W. An open house for best wishes will be held from 1-4 p.m.

The Highland Games were the usual great success. We congratulate Heather MacLeod in winning the top prize in the open 13 years and under class. Also, all the hard workers are to be thanked and congratulations on the Games' smooth operation.

It is a questionable gesture to name some of the ''oldtimers'' who were there, but if I have missed some, I will name them next week. Probably enjoying the visits as much as the events were Gretta Hoople Campbell, London, Bessie and Henry Wilkes, Brockville, Audrey and Bob McKillican, Regina, Herb McKillican, Bath, Duncan MacLeod, Ottawa, Erma Metcalfe Baird, Carp, Bob Ellis, Ottawa, Harvey and Stella Metcalfe, Ottawa, Margaret Kippen Turpin, Ottawa. Gerald MacEwen, Ottawa, Fred Currier, Hawkesbury, Aida Winter Anderson, Beaconsfield, Bill McDiarmid, Ottawa, Glen Stewart, Toronto, Rhoda Stewart Calbeck, Ottawa, Father Cleary Villeneuve, Japan, and Frankie Davidson, Cornwall.

With the streets looking so clean for the Games, a reader has asked me to appeal to all residents and to those passing through the village to avoid throwing garbage on the streets. It is just a simple, yet important matter, to keep our village clean.

We are sorry to report that Ovila Doth was in hospital for a few days but is better again.

Sorry about this, but Sir Edward Peacock was not Governor of the Bank of England, he was just a board member.

* * *

We wish Ruby MacGregor and Cheryl McCrory much success in their new Crafters' Workshop which will open in September in the front part of the garage at the corner of Main and Catherine Streets.

* * *

If you haven't noticed them yet, take time to enjoy the flower beds at the cemetery, Sports Complex and the Medical Clinic. The local Horticultural Society is responsible for them and they are particularly attractive this year with the extra time and money spent on them.

* * *

Edythe and John Coleman and Hilda MacLean spent a few days at a cottage near Laurel, Que.

* * *

Iris and Gordon Marriott, Bradford, Ont. were guests of their former neighbors here, June and Royce Nixon for the Games' weekend.

* * *

Barbara Lariviere has been on holidays for two weeks and took in the Gatineau Clog while away.

* * *

Dorothea and Ross Conners were away for a few days. Daughter Cathy was picked up in Quebec after a French immersion course and then the long way home was taken for some sightseeing and visiting.

* * *

Sergeant G. Brunet of our local OPP detachment wishes it to be known that as far as he was concerned, the only problem area at Games' time was at the camp grounds. Excessive drinking and noise disturbed the campers who were there to participate in the Games or just to relax. Next year, it is planned to take steps to curb this situation. Most of the excessive drinking and noise was generated by persons who were not connected to the Games and many who did not even attend the Games.

Sara Mayer, daughter of Janet and Blair, was the guest of Kathy Lane and Sue Petit at the New Kids concert in Ottawa. The tickets were compliments of McDonald's Restaurant and included a backstage pass. Sara had her photograph taken with Danny Wood.

The letter recently received by villagers concerning an increase of cablevision to $17.95 monthly does not mention tax. Our monthly cost is $23.91 which includes tax and a second outlet.

The annual memorial service of St. James Parish cemetery will be held on Sunday, Aug. 19 at 2 p.m. at the cemetery on Highland Road. If the weather is bad, the service will be postponed until the next Sunday, Aug. 26.

The goldfinches are nesting at this time but I have never seen one of their nests.

The grand finale minor ball tournament will be held on Aug. 18 at the Sports Complex and is sponsored by the Recreation Association. Starting time is 11 a.m.

Each player and coach will receive a meal ticket for a hot dog, chips and drink. All parents and friends who are most welcome to attend will be able to purchase refreshments at the Dunvegan booth. Profits from the canteen will be donated to the Centennial ballfield and playground project.

Sixty-five years ago, Fred McKinnon bought a Dominionville farm from Sim Hutt. Mr. McKinnon did not farm there long before moving to Cornwall. He was the brother of Margaret McKinnon Stewart, long time teacher here in the public school.

Ray and Connie Charbonneau and two children live in the farm house and have the grounds looking very attractive. Mrs. Charbonneau is our village clerk and her husband fills the same position for Lochiel Township.
