GLENGARRY IN BRIEF

Check winter driving reports before leaving

Motorists can be better prepared for winter driving conditions by checking the Ministry of Transportation's bilingual winter road condition reports, which began operating Nov. 6.

"Winter weather in Ontario can be unpredictable, placing extra demands on your vheicle and challenging even the most experienced drivers," said Transportation Minister David Turnbull.

"Take the time to ensure that you are well prepared for winter driving and always drive according to conditions."

The MTO's toll-free telephone line for province—wide reports is 1-800-268-4686. The information is updated four times a day, seven days a week.

Information for local road conditions in Eastern Ontario can be found by calling 1-877-401-8777.

Road conditions are also posted at www.mto.gov.on.ca.

Recognized for promoting literacy

BY JASON MAGDER
News Reporter

Dalkeith-area resident Diane Coombs was honoured last month when she got the opportunity to participate in the first National Summit on Literacy and Productivity.

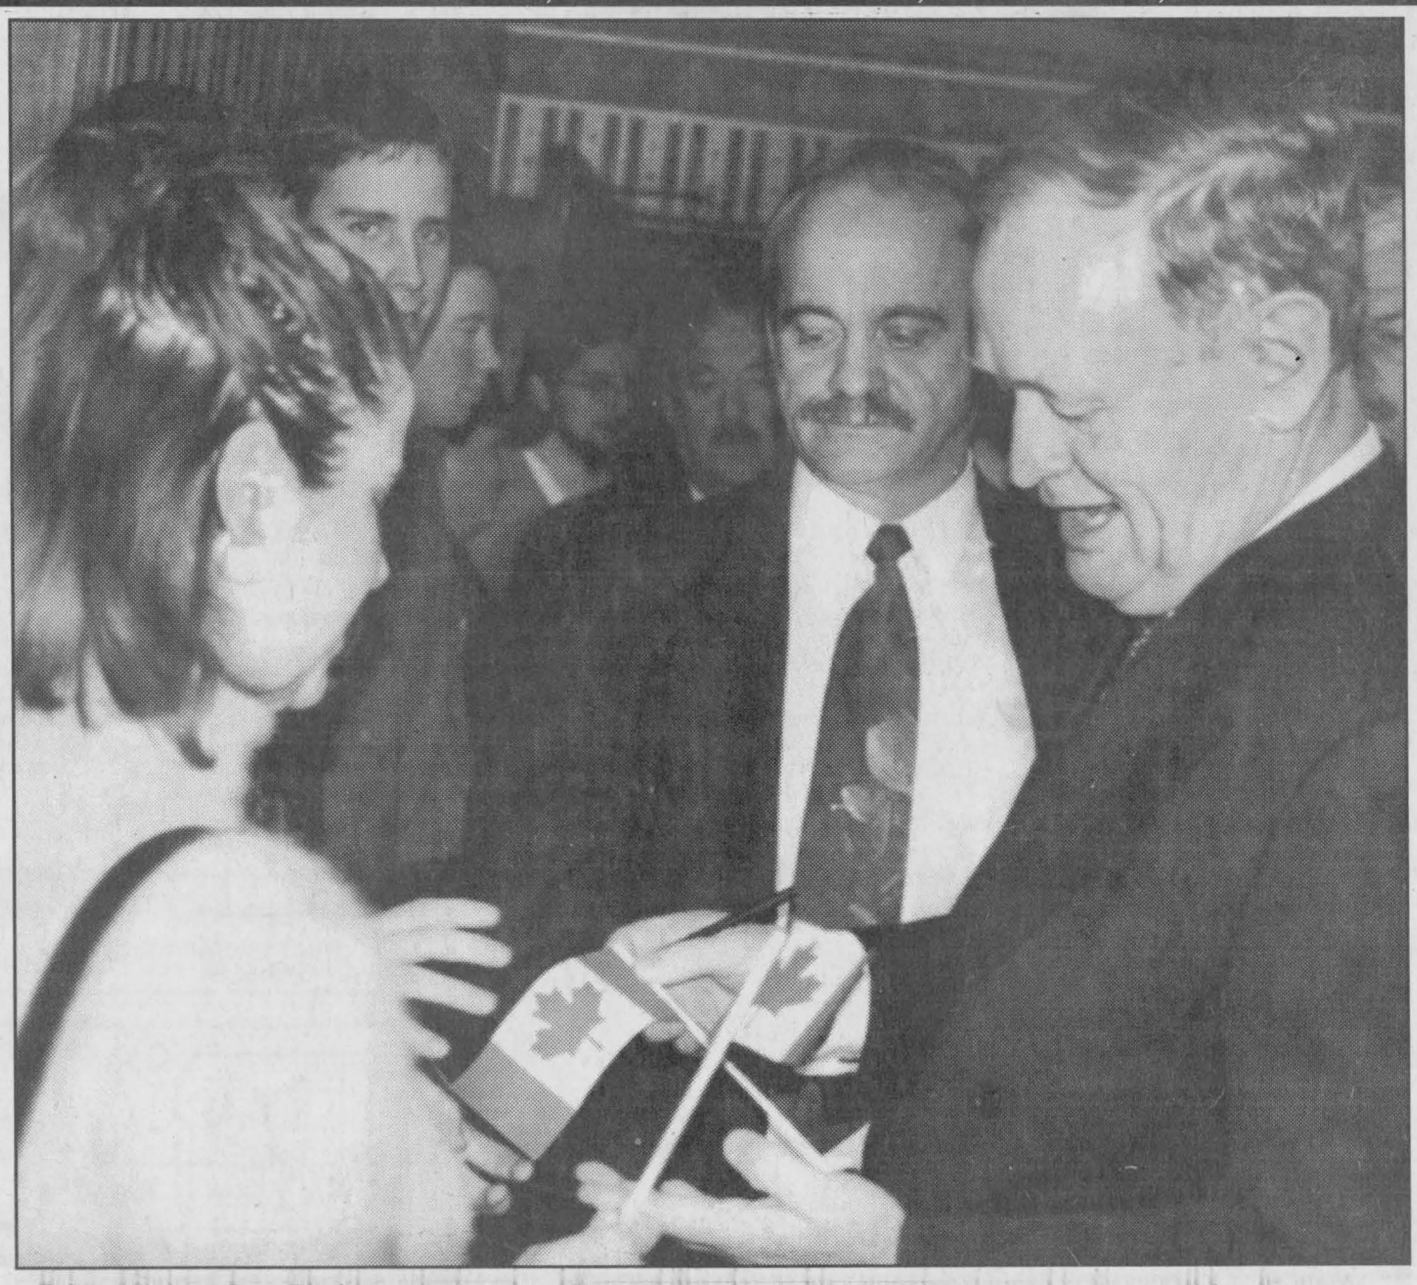
Coombs works to promote literacy at T.R. Léger Alternative School in Alexandria as well as her own organization, A+B=$. Coombs received one of the 20 invitation-only seats. There were 80 participants in the conference.

"I got to work with a very interesting guy by the name of Thomas Sticht," Coombs recalls of her experience. "He's quite famous in literacy and cognition circles. He's world renowned for his expertise in cognition and learning and adult literacy."

The conference aimed to design a literacy plan for Canada, which includes much more than basic reading and writing skills.

During the conclusion of the conference, Coombs aimed to crush the common perception that literacy groups are forms of charity, or that literacy is a disease that must be cured. She believes that Canadians of all ages and educational backgrounds can improve their literacy rates.

"There's not a big adoption of lifelong learning outlooks," Coombs said. "While education tends to increase the literacy rate, some of our adult population looks at school like putting in your 12 years of time, and that's it."



Prime Minister Jean Chrétien mingles with the crowd Tuesday as his campaign stopped in Cornwall for the morning. Chrétien was greeted by over 500 supporter's at the Best Western Hotel.

Clarity Bill defended by Chrétien

BY JASON MAGDER
News Reporter

Prime Minister Jean Chrétien says his clarity bill was the most important piece of legislation passed in a very long time.

"When we started on the path of having a bill on clarity, everyone was very nervous," Chrétien told over 500 supporters Tuesday at a Liberal rally in Cornwall's Best Western Hotel.

"But these three members backed me up," Chrétien continued, referring to local MPs, Don Boudria and Bob Kilger, as well as Leeds-Grenville's Joe Jordan. "They were not like(Pregressive Conservative leader) Joe Clark, who will say anything to please the people."

Chrétien was referring Clark's comment that he would do away with the clarity bill if his party formed the government.

"When it comes to Canada, Canada is first and the bill of clarity will remain as long as the Liberal party will remain in power," Chrétien shouted over the crowd's jubilant applause.

Chrétien also took the opportunity to take shots at the Canadian Alliance party. He said that their proposal to have referendums on many different topics is irresponsible.

"They're running away from their responsibilities," Chrétien said. "They talk about having a referendum on abortion. Do you know what will be the problems between the different towns? We don't run away from our responsibilities," Chrétien said.

Boudria, the MP for Glengarry-Prescott-Russell also spoke, and he thanked Chrétien for his dedication to the region.

"The Prime Minister was in Glengarry in 1993 and 1997 and this year he's in Cornwall," Boudria said. "It indicates that the Prime Minister is dedicated to all the regions of Canada including Stormont-Dundas-Charlottenburgh and Glengarry-Prescott-Russell."

Kilger, Stormont-Dundas-Charlottenburgh's MP introduced the Prime Minister and pointed to the gains that the local economy has enjoyed in the last seven years.

"Imagine, when we came to power in 1993, the unemployment rate in Cornwall was over 20 per cent. Today, it is below 10 per cent - that's Liberal leadership," Kilger said.

Later on, Chrétien spoke to local media about his government's commitment to rural development.

"We have a program of infrastructure and municipalities can apply to that for their projects," Chrétien said. "We also have regional development programs and a secretary of state for rural development. We believe we have to have a plan for the rural areas and we have to keep working."

Chrétien arrived in Cornwall at 9:20 a.m. and departed the city at 11:50 a.m. to his next stop on the campaign trail, Kingston. During the final week of his campaign, he'll divide his time mostly between Quebec and Ontario before spending the weekend in his home town of Shawinigan, Quebec.

Harvesting for the impoverished

BY JASON MAGDER
News Reporter

As the harvest winds down in South Glengarry, there is still some vital combining, that will go to the Canadian Foodgrains bank.

This year, 15 churches from the area participated and raised money to rent 45 acres of land and grow soy beans and corn. The Foodgrains bank donates these as well as sorghum, wheat, oats, canola and barley to churches in countries all over the world, where they are needed.

Last year, donations went out to countries in Central America, as well as Yugoslavia and North Korea among others. The food is donated to churches all over the world, based on need.

The foodgrains bank attaches two conditions on the food they give. The first is that the food be given to everyone in the community, not just Christians, and the second is that women and children receive their fair share.

The farms near Lancaster have been harvested already, but the farms in North Lancaster and Martintown will be harvested this Saturday.

Although the 65 acres of land used this year is over 10 acres more than last year's crop, the yield will be considerably less because of the poor growing season this year.

In all, there is approximately 13,000 churches involved in the project across Canada.

Improv Games coming to South Glengarry

BY JASON MAGDER
News Reporter

The South Glengarry Performing Arts Club is just two months old, but that has not discouraged it from starting what members hope will be a long standing tradition – the Annual South Glengarry Improv Games.

The games will begin with a free workshop in the beginning of January and then there will be competitions every Friday night until the end of March or beginning of April, depending on the amount of participating teams.

"What has happened in the past is that the high schools have had these contests," said Performing Arts Club President David Rawnsley. "But they can't have it this year because of the dispute between the school boards and the teachers."

However, Rawnsley encourages people from the community at large to participate in the event, and has already received an entry from a team from Zellers in Cornwall.

The contest will have teams of six-eight people competing in a series of games such as death in a minute as well as silent, gibberish and one-word scenes. All teams will have a maximum of 20 seconds to prepare.

Winners will receive a trophy as well as bragging rights to call themselves the funniest people in South Glengarry. Admission is free, although there is a $20 deposit, refundable at the end of the competition.

The SG-PAC was formed in mid-September after drastic improvements were made to the Char-Lan High School stage and drama facilities. Rawnsley, the chair of the school-council board until September, decided the group would maximize the potential of the new facilities.

An emotional meeting

It was a surprisingly short meeting, and a reflective one, as the out-going council had its last meeting on Monday night.

Mayor-elect Bill Franklin extended an olive branch to his rival, outgoing Mayor Grant Crack.

Priest's Mill reborn with new owners

BY GREG PEERENBOOM
News Editor

A trio of established local entrepreneurs have undertaken an ambitious project that aims to restore the troubled Priest's Mill to its former glory.

Preparatory work is already under way at the old mill and its attached restaurant space with the intention to operate a pub and fine dining establishments, confirmed new owner Barry MacDonald.

"We would hope to open Feb. 1," MacDonald announced Monday during an interview at The Glengarry News.

MacDonald, owner of Berkshire Securities in Alexandria, has teamed up with Champions Roadhouse owners Dan and Alain Giroux, who have proven a track record in the restauranting.

Dan Giroux, contacted afterwards, preferred to let MacDonald act as the spokesman, but did elaborate briefly on the brothers' venture.

"It's going to be more of a pub than a bar," Giroux said of the venue in the downstairs level.

"We're going to bring in premium, imported beers with a very good selection of wines and scotches.

"We're also going to name it Champions Pub, not Roadhouse."

The fine dining section will be upstairs and will not open coinciding with the pub.

Without the Girouxs' involvement, MacDonald would not have considered buying it.

"I'm in the investment business and I don't want to do anything else."

But the majority of the building's space, including the three-story mill, will not be forgotten and allowed to deteriorate further.

MacDonald said he fully understands the significance of revitalizing the Priest's Mill, which is on the site of the original grist mill, founded by one of Glengarry's founding fathers, Rev. Alexander Macdonell.

"Whether it's office space, apartments, or condos, something will be done with that building but I want it to respect the heritage of the building."

MacDonald readily agrees the Priest's Mill has become a concrete metaphor for the historic downtown core.

He said when the mill is open and attracting customers, the surrounding businesses do better and the general ambience improves. But when it is closed, the mill becomes a focal point for ails that trouble the downtown.

In recent years, the building, operated by Ernie and Chris Sauer as The Hub of Glengarry Restaurant, had experienced several well-documented ups and downs.

The Sauers were forced to turn over the ownership to their mortgagee, Ernest Meuller of Switzerland, after they fell behind on their payments.

MacDonald declined to reveal the real estate price.

The life-long Glengarrian, like many others, always held the Priest's Mill close to his heart.

"I remember coming here with my father to pick up feed," he said after the interview, looking upwards where the elevator existed inside the mill.

Although there might be heritage funding from public coffers available to help restore the mill, MacDonald intends to finance the work himself.

Mill reborn with new owners

He became intrigued with the idea of owning it after heard the story told by Gary Clarke, who turned a decrepit building into the now successful Sam Jake's Inn in Merrickville.

"He said, 'If you're going to change the downtown core, it's going to happen because of business people. . . not by (municipal) council'."

Meanwhile, another development further heightened MacDonald's interest. North Glengarry Council began making plans to redevelop and expand Alexandria Island Park and link it with the new Glengarry Trails, west of the town.

Talks between John Rodgers of Remax Real Estate in Cornwall and Meuller began during the summer.

"It took longer than usual to get the deal done," MacDonald said, because it was purchased through power of sale.

"I hoped to have it earlier so we could begin working on it. We had planned to open for Christmas."

An emotional last council meeting for North Glengarry Councillors

in the moments before question period. "I don't think that they troubled either one of us. What I would like to tell you tonight publicly and thank you for is the high standard of personal conduct that you set for this council. I feel very strongly that it's a standard that the next council should maintain."

The audience then applauded Franklin's comments.

Kent MacSweyn also exhibited some melancholy for the end of his term.

"Strong debates"

"We had some very strong debates and we didn't always agree on anything," MacSweyn said. "But when we disagreed, we put it aside and carried on and dealt with the next issue. It was a really positive experience for me and I've enjoyed it. And I would like to wish Bill (Franklin) and Gary (Gary Shephard) good luck."

However, the meeting was not without its disagreements. When it came to the approval of the latest lawyer fees, in excess of $100,000, Franklin wished to defer the issue until the next meeting, meaning until the new council could go over the fees in more detail.

Councillor-at-large Gilles Paradis defended the cost, saying that a lot of the lawyer fees are recoverable. The motion went through with four in favour, Franklin opposed, and Lochiel ward Councillor Claude Massie abstaining.

The meeting ended with an emotional address from Crack.

"Over the last week I have come to be very relaxed," Crack said.

"Time with my children"

"I'm certainly going to enjoy spending my time with my children. They don't fully what understand what has transpired over the last three years. I've been basically gone, preoccupied for the last six years, which is quite unfair.

"But I have no regrets for serving the public. I have no regrets taking the heat on behalf of council on many occasions.

"Professional council"

"I thoroughly enjoyed my experience. I thoroughly enjoyed working with such a professional council. There was always respect at the council chamber."

Crack then wished the future council good luck adding, "I'll be around, but, very far in the background."

Alliance candidate takes shots at Liberal member

By Jason Magder
News Reporter

Canadian Alliance candidate for the Stormont-Dundas-Charlottenburgh riding, Guy Lauzon says the people in his riding have been badly-served by Liberal MP Bob Kilger.

"I believe that the current member does not respect the constituents because he doesn't return phone calls. He doesn't return correspondents. There's a lot of complaints that I've been receiving about arrogance. The voters feel that they are not being represented."

Lauzon said that a constituent in his riding told him that he repeatedly wrote letters to Kilger without a reply. Lauzon also said that his brother wrote a letter to Kilger in August and did not receive a reply.

Lauzon also feels Kilger was negligent in his duties as party whip recently when he failed to force his party to show up to the announcement of the auditor's general report.

The Canadian Alliance Party is going to do a lot for the poverty in the region, Lauzon said, through its tax cut plan.

"By the government's own figures, 20 per cent of children live in poverty in this riding," Lauzon said." We can eliminate that through our taxation policies whereby the first $26,000 earned by a family of four will not be taxable. We will eliminate 1.4 million people from the tax role."

His party will also restore all of the funding that has been taken out of healthcare by the Liberal government. This means the Alliance Party will pledge to put back $25 billion into the system as opposed the $21.5 billion the Liberals have thus far promised.

For farming, Lauzon says his party will bring Ontario farmers onto an equal footing with farmers in Quebec and the US by pressuring those governments to reduce their subsidies to farmers.

For Lauzon, the main party issue is arrogance.

"Because every third person I talk to says 'we have to get rid of the Liberals, I can't take the arrogance any more.'"

Lauzon added that the other main issue was scandal.

"Do you realize that there's 22 criminal investigations ongoing against (Human Resources Development Canada) and five of them are in the PM's riding?"

Lauzon has been following the HRDC developments closely, being a former employee of the organization. Lauzon served for 22 years as a n HRDC manager, before retiring in 1996, and boasts a squeaky clean record at his post. this is Lauzon's first volley into the political arena. He said until the Canadian Alliance Party came along, he had never even been a member of a political party.

"They believe in respect and integrity, honesty, morality and ethics," Lauzon said. "And that's what's so appealing to me, their family values."

Tories would not hesitate to help

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

With two young faces, the venerable Progressive Conservative Party hopes the Eastern Ontario voters still see their party as the true alternative to the governing Liberals.

Ashley O'Kurley, of Casselman, is the PC candidate for Glengarry-Prescott-Russell. Michael Bailey, of Iroquois, is running in Stormont-Dundas-Charlottenburgh.

Agriculture is the issue foremost for both candidates.

Ashley O'Kurley

As such, O'Kurley and Bailey trumpeted programs that would help farmers compete on a higher competitive level.

As part of a PC government, they would bring in Federal Agricultural Stabilization Transfer (FAST).

"One thing you can say about Liberal agriculture policies, it hasn't been fast," O'Kurley said. "It's been very lackadaiscal and very slow in responding to the needs Canadians face on the international markets."

He said a responsive program is needed because prices fluctuate so much that farmers often don't get an adequate return for their harvest or produce.

The PCs would complement this program with a much quicker disaster relief program and a big reduction to gas excise tax, so farm inputs would be lower.

The biggest reason Tories would do more for farmers is because international subsidies make it difficult for local farmers to sell on the world market.

Health care is also high on the PC list.

O'Kurley and Bailey say the Liberals' record on health care has been poor, and that credit for recently increased funding should go elsewhere.

"It was the provincial governments that forced the federal government to do something," O'Kurley said. "Seven years after all those cuts, funding is still not back to those levels. They won't be until April 2002.

"We would not wait that long, we would do it this year."

"Think about all the medical technologies that have grown and how much more expensive they've grown. All these technologies have become much more expensive."

O'Kurley said delaying the complete funding restoration is unacceptable.

"You can see these people aren't taking care of, first of all, the farmers, nor the people who rely on our health and education systems."

O'Kurley also highlighted environmental concerns, especially the impact of large factory farms.

He said federal, provincial and municipal zones of jurisdiction should be blurred when faced with proper enviromental management.

"We do see a role of federal government as a strong advocate.

"We would bring in legislation to ensure the federal government has a strong and effective voice."

To ensure the federal government has enough money for these important programs, O'Kurley said the federal debt should be "down to nothing" in 25 years. He said this is necessary because all the baby-boomers will be relying heavily on the health system and there will be only a three-to-one ratio of workers to retirees. Now it's still five to one.

Promoting major principles of society

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

New Democratic Party hopeful Kimberly Fry sees an ideal world supported by the four pillars of health, education, environment and jobs.

Special attention to these four key concerns is needed for a progressive society to exist, said Fry, a 25-year-old Masters student of politics and environment studies.

"Universally across Canada, if you're living in an urban area, rural area or semi-urban area, everyone can relate to those four key issues," Fry said.

Agriculture also takes on extra importance in Stormont-Dundas-Charlottenburgh riding, and ties in some of the "four pillars".

Kimberly Fry

She said there is a lot of ground to make up in reduced social programs after the Liberals slashed transfer payments to rein in the deficit.

"There's been huge cuts to education over the last seven years, which has affected class size.

"Everyone can feel that over the country in post-secondary education."

As a result, many students carry a big debt load and struggle for many years in poverty.

"The average student has $25,000 in student loans," she said, even Canada has the third highest tuition fees.

This particularily affects rural residents who must also pay for accomodations after leaving the family home.

The same logic also applies to health care. Rural residents don't have close access to specialized treatments, so they incur more costs and waiting periods.

"We start to think about having a special plan for education and health care to address rural communities."

The last pillar, rural employment, is even more directly related to agriculture.

"How are we going to make employment for people who want to stay in their home places in Glengarry County, even if there may not actually be jobs in agriculture?"

To answer her own question, Fry suggested that government funding should not favour big corporations like Supply Chain Management, the Wal-Mart warehousing firm.

"Job creation should be more small scale and imbedded in the community.

"Especially now with the technologies. Small communities with fibre optics can get on board and be part of the technological revolution that's going on."

This "clean" industry also falls into place with improving the environment, an area Canada has gradually fallen behind in.

"Canada has to start living up to some of its international commitments to the environment.

"Once you start to look at weather problems and how they affect the crops, then it starts to become reality."

Dealing with all these issues is a personal matter to Fry.

"I'm saddled with a $25,000 student debt. I'm living well below the poverty line.

"I've felt the effects of health care of being less accessible. The cuts have affected me, my family."

Experiencing this first-hand has allowed her "organizing spirit" to rise up once more and accept a leadership role.

She said a willingness to plunge passionately into something has always been her trademark.

Balanced approach for an equitable society

By Greg Peerenboom
News Editor

In their bid to win another federal election, incumbent MPs Don Boudria and Bob Kilger are trying to cover all the bases.

From his election platform, Boudria outlined nine issues that he feels are important to Glengarry-Prescott-Russell residents and which his government has made efforts to address. Here are some of the most significant.

•Protecting agriculture

Boudria has pledged to get a better deal for farmers facing their worst crop year this decade.

Boudria has requested that Ontario Minister of Agriculture Ernie Hardeman recognize the current plight and boost provincial safety net funding. He said the Liberals themselves have increased its share by 85 per cent in the last few years.

Boudria also promises to work for a level-playing field between Canada and other countries, which subsidize agriculture more heavily.

"We've got a crisis on our hands," Kilger said, of hundreds of Eastern Ontario cash crop farmers, who are just coming off the fields with one of the poorest yields in a long time and market price that could send many of them to bankruptcy.

"Obviously the government will have to deal with it in a priority way very shortly after the election," Kilger said, meaning a re-elected Jean Chretien Liberal government shore up federal assistance and prod the province to do likewise.

"We have to come up with the resources or ability to offset those losses and minimize the negative impact felt by the entire farm community."

Kilger acknowledges the current programs are not very user friendly, but all that is needed is patience.

"Let's find the money first – then talk about process."

He said a government must be prudent when delivering financial aid, while admitting the troubles involving the Human Resources Development Canada jobs grants.

"We've come out of a real difficult time with some criticism towards (HRDC) around administrative issues.

"There's some legitimacy being addressed.

"But you can't have it both ways, we can't tell one department of government, 'Come on, get out there spend the money.' And tell another, 'For God's sake, get your act together and clean up the administration."

Kilger also received some heat indirectly over the HRDC 'boondoggle'.

As party whip, his job is to ensure MPs attend committee meetings, such as the Auditor-General's report on the HRDC, which many of his Liberal colleagues missed.

He said it's beyond the government's capability to save every farmer.

He said international subsidies, which his government is trying to reduce, make it harder for Canadian farmers to compete.

"Even with the resources that we will probably come up with, the sad reality is some people will lose their livelihood.

•Health care

Area hospitals are in for a steady cash infusion increase after the Boudria's Liberals pledged to give $21.5 billion to the provincial health ministries. Critics claim that amount still falls short of what was taken away during the mid-1990s.

Kilger points to another issue which the Federal Liberals have done well on recently and in partnership with the provincial governments is the five-year $21.5 billion health care allotment.

"That begins to give people greater assurance, more optimism, more confidence that health care is going to be there and going to improve."

He said the new accord isn't just a handout but a blueprint for specific requests, such as reducing waiting lists or hiring more medical staff.

This accord also encourages each province to share positive results with each other so other provinces don't have to "reinvent the wheel" when it comes to providing health care.

•Fiscal management

After eliminating the deficit, big surpluses have been created that will allow the Liberals to reduce average personal taxes by 27 per cent starting Jan. 1.

The mini-budget offered plenty of tax cuts, which falls right into traditional Liberal philosophy.

Now that surpluses are available, he said all sectors of society should benefit, including take-home pay.

The Liberals' balanced theme is also borne out on its cigarette taxes.

Smoke taxes are up somewhat since they were drastically lowered. Kilger said there was a time when they needed to be dropped to reduce the attractiveness of cross-border smuggling.

Now with that problem stymied, prices were increased because cheap smokes were enticing the youth.

•Technology in rural area

In recent years, even months, all schools and libraries have gone online, thanks partially to federal funding. Boudria wants the government to help rural areas have access to high-speed telecommunications.

•Building public infrastructure

Boudria points to a recently signed federal-provincial deal that will bolster highways, sewers, telecommunications and other local services by virtue of a $6 billion agreement. Ontario will receive about $2 billion.

•VIA Rail funding

The Liberal government has approved a $32 million investment to improve the Ottawa-Montreal link that serves the heart of Glengarry. It is hoped service will be faster.

•Boosting tourism

Boudria is behind federal funding for tourism initiatives such as the Glengarry Trails and established success stories such as the Glengarry Highland Games.

Belle-Isle lists specific topics

Citing the $4 billion cut from training programs since the Liberals came to power seven years ago, NDP candidate for Glengarry-Prescott-Russell, Guy Belle-Isle wants to spearhead the creation of a national training standard.

"Restoring federal funding is only part of the equation," Belle-Isle said. "We have to make sure that the fund is available to all workers with equity for women, people with disabilities, visible minorities and Aboriginal people."

Belle-Isle also believes the creation of a nation-wide roster of employment services linking federal and provincial training and labour adjustment programs is the key to serving all unemployed Canadians.

"The federal government has to re-establish itself in the role of a lead player in job training and only the NDP is committed to doing so with an infusion of $1 billion."

On the environmental front, Belle-Isle is holding the Liberals to their promise of banning a pesticide that could be responsible for causing respiratory ailments in children.

He said Dursban has been banned in the US, but Health Minister Allan Rock still hasn't done so, even though he promised to six months ago.

Old Priest's Mill still at 'the hub' of Alexandria

Downtown Alexandria got an early Christmas present this past week with the news that The Hub will soon re-open under new management. On its own, the 'Sold' sign that appeared Friday morning on the Main Street façade of the building does not represent a cure-all for downtown Alexandria, where vacant storefronts appear to outnumber the 'going concerns' in some of the main blocks. Nonetheless, it serves notice of the possibility of better things to come.

The structure, has over the years served as a barometer of sorts for the state of the downtown.

As its present name suggests, the structure, has over the years served as a barometer of sorts for the state of the downtown. In its prime during the 70s and 80s, The Hub was a centre of activity and the business community was a better place as a result. But in recent years, it has known worse, rather than better, times.

Of interest, are some of the factors that prompted entrepreneur Barry MacDonald to buy the property. At its heart are what, on the surface, would appear to be two totally disparate concepts. The first is MacDonald's longstanding interest in the area. As a life-long Glengarrian, who can trace his roots here back through many generations, MacDonald has a strong appreciation for the history of the area and the significance of which The Hub, formerly known as Priest's Mill, has played in its development.

Offset against this sense of social consciences is a clear understanding that good intentions are not enough to succeed in the current business climate. MacDonald was inspired, in part, by the comments last summer by entrepreneur Gary Clarke who played a critical part in the rejuvenation of Merrickville, turning a decrepit building into the now successful Sam Jake's Inn. Like Clarke, MacDonald recognizes that entrepreneurs must take the initiative if a revitalization of downtown Alexandria is to take place.

As well, he is heartened by the decision made in late summer by North Glengarry Township Council to undertake a redevelopment of Alexandria Island Park. Although much of the early discussion regarding the park has centred on the creation of new facilities for children and the cost associated with such plans, the underlying idea remains the need to develop a stronger linkage between the park and the downtown.

It's worth noting that there are precious few communities that can boast a lake and park with such proximity to the downtown. So, it's not surprising to hear it referred to as the "jewel" of Alexandria by many including, most recently, newly elected North Glengarry Mayor, Bill Franklin. But jewels, like any other item can lose their value if not cared for over time. Mayor-elect Franklin is already on record as stating that water quality control throughout the township will be a critical priority for his administration, and that is of equal importance in the case of the Mill Pond, where poor water quality regularly diminishes its recreational capabilities.

But jewels, like any other item can lose their value if not cared for over time.

If downtown Alexandria fosters any hopes of regaining its lost vitality, it will need more than a consultant's report and the good intentions of entrepreneurs such as Barry MacDonald to succeed. Nonetheless, both are vital steps in the right direction.

The main election issue: we don't care

JAY SPEAK

JASON MAGDER

It was on Wednesday morning, when I began recovering from the rush that accompanied the municipal election that I had to remind myself that we're in another election.

If this comes as a surprise to you, or you haven't heard yet, it's a federal election which includes Glengarry.

There was some hooplah a few weeks ago prior to the announcement. Every day, different newspaper articles came out that gave different predictions about the election call. We had rumours, we had Liberal party spies, and it was very exciting.

Then, poof! Here we are a full month into the campaign and there is not so much as a sign from the campaigners.

In North Glengarry – the same township that was gripped with municipal election fever, with hundreds of people attending all-candidates meetings – there are only a few signs speckled around by incumbent Liberal MP Don Boudria, and hardly any evidence of any other parties.

The parts of South Glengarry, which are included in the Stormont-Dundas-Charlottenburgh riding are not much better, with a few signs put up by Liberal Bob Kilger and Canadian Alliance candidate Guy Lauzon.

Signs aren't the only evidence missing from the campaign, so are the candidates themselves. Most of the electorate will not even get a chance to meet their potential representatives. The only all-candidates meeting held for the Glengarry-Prescott-Russell riding has been for students in Vankleek Hill Collegiate Institute, and took place during the day, thus making it very difficult to attend for the average working person, to whom the parties appear to be gearing their platforms, to attend.

The isolation that we feel here in Glengarry is likely felt by our brothers and sisters all over rural Canada. The parties are not taking issues like agriculture, the environment or rural economic development seriously. For me and my friends, there is a further isolation, with the parties paying almost no attention to issues of concern to youth, such as university funding and job creation. The latter issue was mentioned a lot leading up to the election. However, for some reason, none of the parties seems to think it is important enough to talk about now.

Voter apathy in this country is at an all-time high. With ads on TV encouraging us to "get on the list," all we want is for our politicians to get on with this country's real issues. This is not to say that healthcare and government spending are not important issues. It's just that they are not the only ones.

My sister at Queen's University recently spoke to me about a presentation she is doing in class to encourage young people to vote. She found out that more than half the people between 18-24 do not vote in elections. The problem: young people don't feel any issues pertain to them. But I think she's talking to the wrong people. She should give a pep talk to the ones seeking election rather than the electorate.

So if you're feeling left out of this election campaign, you're not alone. Our political leaders have been left out too.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Liberals take full advantage of conditions

To the editor,

We find ourselves in the midst of a federal election campaign because it would seem that Jean Chretien prefers to send us to the polls this fall rather than wait until spring to spend $200 million on an election. From a practical standpoint it always makes more sense to spend money later rather than sooner. Of course, it is clear that government spending has never been a concern of this Liberal government. Let's examine some of the reasons why our current Prime Minister would make such a decision then.

The other political parties were unprepared when the election was called and it would be an ideal time for the Liberals to take advantage of this fact. The opposition Canadian Alliance has just this year been founded and has selected a new leader. With the opposition not fully up and running yet, it is the ideal opportunistic time to call an election.

It is no secret that Ontario is a crucial battleground for votes this election. Our province will make or break the Liberal strong hold on the destiny of federal politics. With municipal elections underway in Ontario at the time, it created voter confusion by calling a federal election to coincide with the municipal campaign. Some municipal and federal signs even have similar colours.

If a government wants to win an election, it is best to choose a time when opposition voters may not vote. The fall certainly seems to favour the Liberals with snowbirds heading south, farmers busy with harvest and hunters pursuing their hobby.

The Liberals were riding high in the public opinion polls when the call was made and it would make sense to capitalize on this before the opposition leader has a chance to prove himself in Parliament during the current session. Postponing the election would give the opposition leader Stockwell Day time to expose the real Jean Chretien beneath the teflon popularity.

So, the important question is whether the Canadian electorate will ignore the arrogance of this Liberal government and give it an easy ride at the polls on Nov. 27?

Different rules for convicts and students

To the editor:

I would like to bring to the reader's attention that our "Safe Schools" just might not be as safe as they seem.

Since Aug. 28, I have had discussions with Mr. Doug Jarvis, Winchester Public School principal, and Mr. Don Fairweather, superintendent of education, Eastern Region, Upper Canada District School Board regarding criminal checks for volunteers and the nomination and election of school council members.

Criminal checks are mandatory for all volunteers in the board under Policy #205.

However, what the principal and the board do with the results of these criminal checks is discretionary.

There are no black and white rules; it's truly discretion. So, if you have three speeding tickets, and that comes up on your criminal check, the principal and the board may say you are an unsafe driver and not allow you to volunteer to drive for school trips. If you've been convicted of a criminal offence and are currently serving probation for 18 months, the principal and the UCDSB may consider you acceptable to volunteer within the school.

We need rules that determine how the principal and the UCDSB use the information obtained from a criminal check. Discretion cannot be one of the rules!

The principal and the UCDSB, citing the Ministry of Education PPM 122, also consider a person who has been convicted of a criminal offence and is currently serving probation for 18 months, as an acceptable nominee and member of School Council.

I find it extremely hypocritical that a student can be immediately suspended under the Ontario Schools Code of Conduct for uttering threats, but a member of school council, who is responsible under PPM 122 for "development, implementation, and review of board policies at the local level" can be convicted of this charge in Provincial Court, be placed on probation for 18 months, and then be responsible for the "school code of behaviour."

There should be no discretion in the matter of safe schools and rules must be black and white. Persons currently on probation for a criminal offence should not be allowed on school council nor should they be allowed to volunteer.

If you feel that discretion should not be used in criminal checks and that a person on probation should not be allowed to be on your school council, please contact your local trustee or the following people and let them know how you feel about this issue.

•Don Fairweather or Gino Giannandrea, director, Upper Canada District School Board,1-888-779-2559.

It appears as if only public pressure will change this board's mind.

Co-moderators of All-Candidate meetings express appreciation

To the editor:

The co-moderators of the recent North Glengarry All Candidates Meetings, Doreen Ashton Wagner and Garry Smith would like to thank all who had a part in the four meetings. We would specifically like to thank all the candidates for their participation since these meetings provided one of the few opportunities for the electors to see, hear, question and evaluate the candidates, all together.

We also thank the some 700 electors who demonstrated their interest in the democratic process; they represent about seven per cent of all the eligible voters in the Township.

Lastly, we thank all those who participated in the background and made these meetings possible; the staff at the sports complexes in Alexandria and Maxville, the Glen Robertson Community Centre and the Parish of Our Lady of Sienna in Greenfield. And let us not forget our co-sponsors of the meetings, the Maxville and District Chamber of Commerce. To all, our sincere thanks.

Yours truly,

Garry R. Smith,
Chair

Don't let Nellie McLung down

To the editor:

In 1873 when Nellie McLung was born (Helen Letitia Mooney) in Chatsworth, Ont. she was not a person under Canadian law. Women were denied the right to vote.

Nellie moved to Winnipeg in 1911 and joined with other women to lobby for women's suffrage. In January 1916 the women of Manitoba were the first in Canada to achieve the right to vote and in 1929 the women of Canada legally became PERSONS.

With their vote women could ensure their values and opinions were reflected in the laws.

So remember the importance of your vote on Nov. 27. Don't let Nellie down. We owe it to her and to ourselves.

BERRY PICKINGS

SANDRA BERRY

Sometimes I forget that people can take certain comments very personally.

I also fail to remember that we live in a small town and the smallest gesture or even a simple phone call can have repercussions that one is not even aware of. I thought that was all behind us in the early 1990s when the talk was about the underlying meaning of my green hair or unshaven legs. Or the stupidities I committed on Thursday, Friday and Saturday night when I had a little too much to drink.

But it's 2000, the hair is back to its original colour and I now visit the esthetician for waxing. As for any stupidities, all are done with what remains of my unalterèd cerebral faculties, except for an occasional glass of wine.

For those who question the reasoning behind this column, it is not to criticize anyone but simply to get you thinking, even if it's just for a few minutes.

The comments in my column of two weeks ago, which I know at least one person read, was not in any way biased. It was just my opinion on what I believe should be the reasons for one's vote.

So I did not refer to local politics as being more than coaching minor soccer, with the intent of pointing my arrow at anyone in particular. I could have just said it was more than coaching minor hockey, working with 4-H or volunteering at the Maxville Manor. I used coaching as an example of community participation.

But I understand that one candidate, Mike Depratto, sensed that I was stating that he wasn't up to the job. Not at all.

I didn't know that he had coached minor soccer until after the column appeared. Yes, once again my ignorance is at fault.

I used minor soccer as an example as it seems everyone I know in this county either once played soccer or has a child involved, if not in soccer, then in some other kind of sport. I thought that it was an example everyone could relate to.

Perhaps I should have used three examples, growing soy beans and landscaping as well as minor soccer. But this column is not meant as an elaborate metaphor on politics.

If I have something to say, I don't use symbolism, paradoxes and all those other fancy literary tools, I simply get to the point.

Another funny little rumour that was going around is that I was involved in passing around pamphlets supporting Bill Franklin.

Now for this one, I know there's no truth to it unless I'm still unaware of some of my actions, as was the case in the 1980s.

It is true that I did get a call to get involved in Franklin's campaign but I didn't, partly because I am not that politically active, and, secondly, because it would have been inappropriate as a member of the editorial department, of The Glengarry News.

I do not use this newspaper to promote a hidden agenda. I think of it as a job, where I work to the best of my abilities and get a pay cheque in return. What I do outside this office is my own business. But there is one thing I will never do and that is to allow any of my personal activities to influence the reputation of this paper.

My sincere apologies to anyone who I may have offended in my column of two weeks ago.

Wearing the work of thy hands

The sacrifices I have to make to get an interview. This time it was carrot cake at Art World Café – again. I do believe the owner, Michelle, thinks that carrot cake is my normal breakfast fare.

But it was worth the indulgence to meet Wanda Bender of Glen Robertson.

Wanda has some of her handmade clothing at the Café and I do like clothes.

I noticed that Wanda has chosen classic styles ranging from peasant blouses, laced up bodice dresses, vests, drawstring skirts and trousers and Highland shirts. What takes them out of the ordinary are Wanda's choice of fabrics and trimmings. Some of her styles have a medieval influence and Wanda herself, suits this fashion.

"I love using cotton, especially cotton muslin," Wanda explained. "Cotton softens the more you wash it. For my patterns I use basic ones and alter them by adding or taking away details. Also I add trimmings to the peasant shirts which makes each one unique."

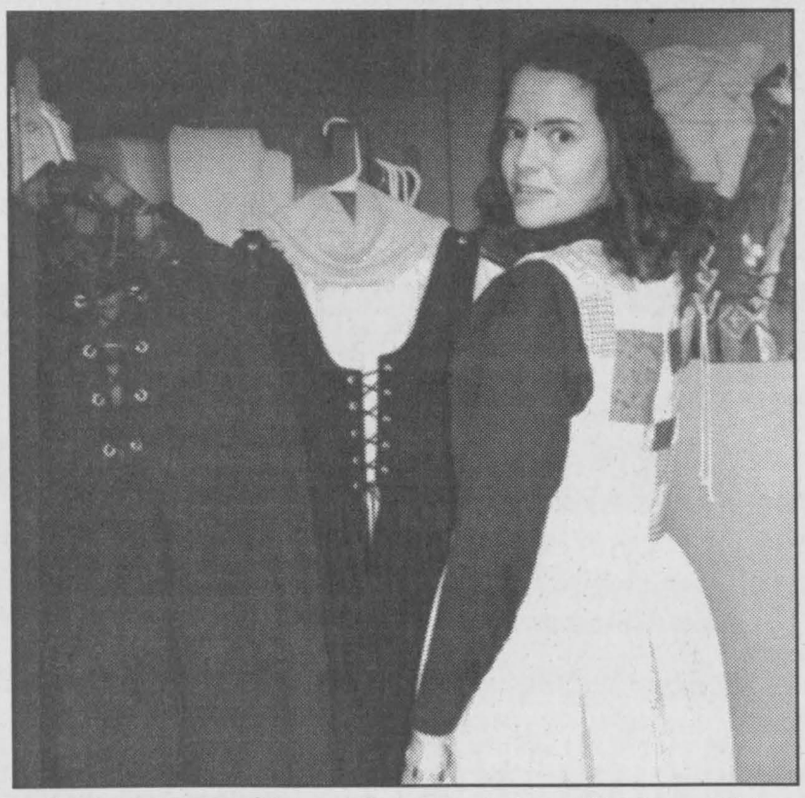
Wanda comes from a long line of fabric people. Her mother, Charlotte, used to own a craft shop and taught quilting around the area.

"I remember the first thing I made," Wanda told me. "I was about nine and I made a little pillow and put it into my mom's store. It sold. That was it."

Wanda has three children; Justin, Ewen and Elizabeth. She assured me that her oldest son often asks to sew a pillow.

"I learned by watching my mother," Wanda said. "I started making my own clothes because I didn't have anything nice and I didn't want something that a lot of other people had as well."

Wacky Wanda's Creative Clothing, as she calls her business, only started last March.



Wanda Bender models one of her own designs. This dress with its laced up bodice and patch work back is only one of the many styles that she makes.

"At first I made some summer shirts. I wore some and kept some in my car. Michelle bought my first tank top after I wore it in and she asked where I got it. Naturally I just happened to have some in the car. Then I sold her a peasant blouse. So in fact my business just kind of, happened.

"I have fun sewing. I enjoy watching people try on my things and especially seeing people wearing my creations. I am always looking for new trimmings; laces and beads, to make my clothes really different."

The first day that Wanda's clothing were in Art World Café it seemed to be the men who came in to buy. One man bought two highland shirts. Meant to be worn with kilts, I imagine they would look great with jeans as well.

While most of her clothing will be gone from the Café by the time you read this, there will always be samples and she certainly will take orders.

Wanda is also going to be participating in the Monkland Christmas Craft Show at the Community Centre, Monkland this Saturday and Sunday. Open from 10 a.m.-5 p.m., it is a good opportunity to see her work.

I couldn't resist. I bought a great bias cut, raw silk skirt with self fringe. Since it is bias cut, perhaps it was a mistake to have that piece of cake. Oh well, better go and do another mile of fast walking.

As I said, Wanda's designs suit her and to find she plays folk music on a guitar seemed to fit the image.

"I took lessons about a year ago," Wanda said. "I did it to strum around the campfire with my kids."

All the clothes are easy to wear. I might add that they are quite reasonably priced as well. Wanda can be reached at 874-1135.

Candidate thanks organizers

To the editor,

I would like to personally express my sincere appreciation to the North Glengarry Community Economic Development Group (NCGEDG) and to the Maxville and District Chamber of Commerce for their sponsorship of the four All-Candidates meeting during the municipal election campaign.

They provided an opportunity for the community to see and hear first-hand all the candidates and, thereby, be better informed before going to the voting booth.

I would extend a special thanks to the moderators, Garry Smith and Doreen Ashton-Wagner, for the excellent way they directed the meetings and provided translation as required. Their efforts were appreciated, as evidenced by the hundreds of citizens who attended.

Icy roads cause seven car crashes

Police Briefs

On Sunday, icy roads were the cause of seven crashes, two of which were severe.

At 7:10 a.m., a Scarborough resident was westbound on Highway 401 when his minivan lost control on a patch of ice. The van, carrying six passengers, went through the median and rolled several times on the eastbound lane before stopping on the north shoulder. Three children aged 10, 11 and 13 were thrown from the van. The 11-year-old was transported by air ambulance to CHEO in Ottawa. The other four were taken to Hotel Dieu hospital in Cornwall.

At the same time, a GMC Safari Van slid into the bridge over the Raisin River. The two Quebec residents were taken to Cornwall General Hospital.

Prescott does well at winter fair

By Sandy Woosey
News Correspondent

During November 5 and 6, 16 dairy 4-H members from Prescott and Glengarry County traveled to Toronto to take part in the Scotia Hays Classic of the Royal Agriculture Winter Fair.

This event features the best dairy calves and show persons from across Canada. This year's Classic had 352 4-H members take part. Sunday night started the Showmanship preliminaries with Brad Sayles of Ayr, Ontario judging, Stephanie Anderson was the only member to return Monday morning for the finals , she finished off 23rd out of the 99 junior show persons. The Grand Champion show person was Joel Phoenix from Durham West County, the Reserve show person was Curtis Gregson from Halton County who also received the Honorable Mention.

Show person was Scott Buckley from Victoria County. The Conformation classes were held on Monday. The classes ranged in size from one (a Brown Swiss) to 87 (Holstein Summer Yearling). The classes were divided into heats, with a percentage pulled in to return for the finals and the rest not placed.

Ken Empey from Dorchester, Ontario had the difficult task of judging these classes.

Ayrshire Conformation

The Ayrshire calves had one class with all ages judged together. Duane Tolhurst of Vankleek Hill was sixth with Trenant Acres Jelly ET, Kerri Mode also of Vankleek Hill was 10th with Bonnie Brae Jazz.

Julie Anderson of Vankleek Hill had the 19th place Senior Holstein Calf with Kirklea Broker Rosetta. Jennifer Conway of Chute à Blondeau exhibited the ninth place Junior Holstein Yearling with Gleneric Markstar Babe.

The Champion Dairy Calf was Newgreen Rudolph Abby 1, the Holstein Junior Yearling exhibited by Tyler Howard from P. E. I.

The Reserve Champion Dairy Heifer was exhibited by Genevieve LaFrance from Quebec South with Belli Tiger Alexine, the Holstein Summer Yearling winner.

The Honorable Mention went to the Holstein Senior Calf Class winner exhibited by Michael Phoenix of Durham West, Blue-Top Counselor High Class.

Irregardless of whether the members placed, they should be congratulated on the way they represented their respective counties. They worked hard to get to the Royal.

Canadian Action Party targets free trade

By Jason Magder
News Reporter

George Eli Novy's Canadian Action Party aims to reclaim Canada's sovereignty, which his party says has eroded with the NAFTA deal as well as by allowing international corporations to own Canadian companies.

Novy is the candidate for the Stormont-Dundas-Charlottenburgh riding and he believes that if there is nothing done to repeal NAFTA within the next two to three years, all hope for regaining Canadian sovereignty will be lost.

"We are slowly losing our ability to control our own laws," Novy said. "We blame the Liberal government for being chumps and totally in cahoots with these multi-national companies."

In terms of healthcare, the CAP believes that NAFTA is the back-door through which a US-type system will emerge.

"There are articles in the agreement that require Canada to accord US health-service providers the same treatment they accord Canadian providers without exception," Novy said. "It's a very frightening scenario. The federal government doesn't promote the fact that it is party to the dismantling of medicare."

Novy was born in Salzburg, Austria and spent most of his childhood in Argentina. A graduate from McGill university with a bachelor's degree in Spanish and music composition, he has lived in Canada since 1964. Novy worked for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for 23 years and retired in 1996. He currently resides on a small farm in Williamstown and teaches music.

Novy says the CAP would dissolve the NAFTA treaty within six months of forming the government. The party would do the same to the Canada-US Free-Trade Agreement.

The CAP is also highly critical of Canada's farming policy.

"We consider it a disastrous policy by the Liberal government not to match the subsidies that the US government has for their farmers," Novy said. "We're not even close to half of what they give to the US farmers down south."

The CAP also advocates a return to the monetary policies of the past, which would take control of the dollar away from the hands of international investors and back into the Canadian government.

Natural Law proponents have an alternative

By Jason Magder
News Reporter

Instead of governing through policies and bureaucracy, the Natural Law Party of Canada believes in maximizing the potential of the human brain.

"Transcendental Meditation technique has shown to be very effective in reducing hypertension, arteriosclerosis, heart disease, and so on," said Stormont-Dundas-Charlotenburgh candidate Ian Campbell, who is one of the original members from when the party formed in 1992.

"Heart disease is the leading cause of death in our country, so many thousands of lives can be saved by this."

The party says the meditation technique will allow people to become more healthy. It allows the body to have less stress and for the mind to expand. This fosters creativity and the willingness to be a better and healthier person.

"A person's awareness is more expanded and that means he will take more things into account. He starts to have better habits, and spontaneously drinks less and smokes less and very quickly he has better health."

"Every individual has all of the natural laws in the whole cosmos within themselves. If you can enliven that within you, you'll make better decisions," Campbell said.

"When you vote for Natural Law, it's not something that you do every day. Every decision that we make every day is a vote for or against every day. If we eat something that's good for us, that's a vote for Natural Law. If we eat something that's not good for us, that's a vote against."

In terms of agriculture, the party has a policy that would see all poisonous pesticides removed from the industry.

"In fact, we would not allow the importation of poison-based agriculture products," Campbell said.

In the party's Vedic organic agriculture policy, they would see all food grown organically. The party would devote a lot of money to organic research.

"There are specific diseases that are more common in farming areas. Certain types of cancer, for example are related to heavy nitrate use," Campbell said.

Organic foods and more of a focus on meditation are the things that the Natural Law Party believes will solve a lot of Canada's crime, health and economic issues.

"In Canada we still have crime. We still have 30 per cent of our population suffering from disease," Campbell said. "We spend immense numbers on health. There's poverty, there's child abuse. And all those things are still there. All of those things can be corrected and removed. We don't have to have any of those. We have the technologies to do that."

Air Ambulance has come a long way

In 1977, the first air ambulance service in Ontario, called Bandage One, was established in the Toronto area.

Twenty years later the air ambulance service has evolved into a comprehensive province-wide program that allows for on-scene emergency response in local communities and critical care transfers from community hospitals to tertiary care centres.

In September 1999, an exciting new Air Ambulance service began operating in Eastern Ontario. Building on the success of Bandage One, the Ministry of Health and Long-term Care added four new Advanced Care rotar aircraft, or helicopters, and expanded the existing provincial service.

This expansion, in partnership with Canadian Helicopters, included establishing an Ottawa Air Ambulance Base to serve Eastern Ontario.

The Ottawa Air Ambulance Base is staffed with two advanced care flight paramedics serving the surrounding communities 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

An Advanced Care Flight Paramedic is capable of practicing the same level of care as Advanced Care Paramedics who work in the land based service in the Ottawa area.

However, Advanced Care Flight Paramedics are trained in procedures and interventions beyond the scope of practice of their land based co-workers.

Advanced care flight paramedics can place a breathing tube in the throat to ensure adequate breathing and place a patient on a transport ventilator, so they may breathe, during the sometimes-long transports. They can establish intravenous access and administer a myriad of medications from Aspirin to intravenous antibiotics. They carry 45 different medications to help treat patients while in flight. They can use intravenous pumps to infuse multiple medications at one time to help keep critically ill patients alive during transport. They can interpret cardiac arrhythmias and treat them under medical directives provided by Sunnybrook base hospital. They can perform cardiac defibrillation and electrically pace a sick heart that refuses to beat effectively.

This expanded scope of practice that flight medics have allows sending facilities to keep their physicians and nurses or respiratory therapists on site rather than going along as escorts with the patient. The Air Ambulance also allows communities to keep the limited resource of their land ambulances in their communities.

The flight paramedics work with the local land ambulance services and local hospital emergency departments to provide rapid response in emergency situations and critical care transfers.

Flight paramedics have excellent support from Sunnybrook Base Hospital in the form of on-line medical control.

This means that physicians who specialize in areas such as trauma and emergency medicine are readily available to manage the in-flight care of patients being provided by the advanced care paramedics on the aircraft. This is done using new technology in radio communications and satellite telephones.

The physicians and flight paramedics establish communication to assess, treat and stabilize patients en route to a destination hospital.

Expertise such as the world-renowned Trauma Program of Sunnybrook and Women's College Health Science Centre, the Ross Tilley Burn Centre, and the High Risk Obstetrical and Neonatal Groups are made available to the people of Eastern Ontario through the Ottawa Air Ambulance.

The Ontario Air Ambulance Program includes more than the Bandage One base in Toronto and the Ottawa Air Ambulance Base. Sudbury, Thunder Bay, Timmins, and Sioux Lookout are the four other Critical Care bases.

Two bases utilize planes and the other two bases utilize helicopters. Kenora, London and Mossonee are the other Advanced Care rotar wing bases.

In addition to the services available through the Ottawa Air Ambulance, Eastern Ontario has three air ambulance services, located in Almonte, Kingston and Smith's Falls with Primary Care Standing offers if Agreement SOA.

What does SOA mean? How is it different from the service offered by the Ottawa Air Base?

Firstly, the aircraft are fixed wing aircraft, or planes, rather than helicopters, and the service is dependent on a "needs" and "availability" basis rather than provided 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. The service provides a basic level of care, rather than advanced life support, with trained paramedics who also have the in-flight medical support of the Sunnybrook Base Hospital.

As the lead organization for the air ambulance service in Ontario, Sunnybrook Base Hospital has been responsible for the air transport of approximately 11,000 patients. The dispatch of the provincial air ambulance service is facilitated by the Medical Air Transport Centre and falls under the same medical authority as the rotar and fixed wing programs - Dr. Christopher Mazza.

If you would like to learn more about this exciting Emergency Health Service, please contact the Champlain District Health Council at (613) 723-1440 or 1-800-723-2130.

It's time to tread the boards and start acting

WILLIAMSTOWN

SUE HARRINGTON
347-2279

Right about now you are getting tired of the person you've been in 2000. You are determined to be "someone new" once January rolls around. Want to know a painless way to do this?

The South Glengarry Performing Arts Club (SG-PAC) is holding an information/auditions evening at 7 p.m. this Tuesday (Nov. 28) at Char-Lan High School, for all locals who would like to be involved in the club's major production scheduled for late April. "A Chorus of Disapproval," by British playwright, Sir Alan Ayckbourn, will be produced by Una Thain and directed by David Rawnsley. Sue Harrington (who?) will be the assistant producer, and Susan Reasbeck is in charge of marketing and public relations. An assistant director is still required.

The play is a comedy about an amateur theatre group (how fitting!) which is attempting to mount a production of the musical, "The Beggar's Opera." As such, there is singing (of sorts) and lots of scope for hiding the flubs of novices. The play will be presented "cabaret-style" in the Char-Lan Cafetorium, to allow the best opportunities for viewing that the flat floor surface can offer up.

So, you are needed! There are roles for eight males and six females. The parts range in size from no-line walk-ons to a couple of very major leads. Ages required range from older adolescent to 70 years, plus.

Also needed are tons of production workers. If you are a non- performing animal who is more comfortable designing or constructing sets, managing the stage, doing lighting (on the new computerized system), looking after properties, costumes or make-up, helping with publicity, ticket distribution, sales etc., please plan to attend the meeting on Tuesday.

This promises to be a real community event. Don't worry if you've never been involved in a play before. Come out and have fun! Rehearsals don't start until January, so they won't interfere with your holiday commitments.

Have you heard of any Glengarry ghost stories?

Psst! Heard any good Glengarry ghost stories lately? A few of these surfaced over Hallowe'en and have piqued the interest of some locals. The plan now is to collect the stories and compile them into a book complete with photographs (of the houses frequented by the ghosts, the doors slammed by them, the items hidden by them, etc., etc.)

We have all heard some good tales. Now's the chance to have them written up so that they may be saved for posterity.

Please call Rosalind at 347-2927 to relate your story. She is looking for approximately eight stories from Glengarry County for her book.

The Horticultural Society's annual meeting

The big Green Thumb (huge, actually, belonging to Jack Beanstalk's giant) Horticultural Society's annual meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. on Monday (Nov. 27) upstairs at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre. All members, would-be members and friends are urged to attend.

President Maureen Stephens reminds us that the federal election is not the only one taking place that day. It is, in fact, also election time at the Green Thumbs. A slate of officers will be presented (and accepted, understood). The evening will then be livened up with a little wine and cheese and holiday merry-making.

As this is membership renewal time, please bring along the wherewithal to complete this most important of obligations!

Robertson and Russell honoured at O.A.A.S.

Do we know how to pick them!!! Two first-prize winning entries at last summer's Williamstown Fair have received similar honours at the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies (District I) convention held recently in Metcalfe.

Clarence Robertson, president of the St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society, and Bev Runions, secretary-treasurer, were on hand in Metcalfe as Phyllis Rowland's quilt was chosen as the best out of 14 submitted from various fairs around the district.

Also receiving honours was Christina Russell, daughter of Sandra and Dave Russell. Christina, a very talented young lady, designed a poster (celebrating agricultural fairs in Ontario) which was judged to be the best entry at the district level.

Both Phyllis' quilt and Christina's poster will travel to the Ontario convention of agricultural societies being held in Toronto in February.

Congratulations to you both!

St. Mary's holding annual Christmas tea and bake sale

I always consider it to be the Christmas kick-off event in Williamstown. This year the ladies of St. Mary's are holding their Christmas tea and bake sale on Saturday, (November 25), from 2 to 4 p.m.

The sale is always held in the little hall (attached to the church) and, as such, is a cozy place to have a cuppa and socialize. There will be a draw on a basket and a chance for you to do some Christmas shopping at the craft and bake tables.

Everyone is welcome to attend.

Save the Children are offering Christmas cards

About now you are going over your Christmas card lists and making additions and deletions.

The folks involved in Save the Children, are offering Christmas cards as a fund-raiser. The cards may be seen at the post office in Williamstown, or by calling Grace Gordon at 347-2990.

New "2000" designs sell at 10 cards for $9.75, while previous years' cards are 15 for $9.75.

It is to be hoped you will support this worthy cause.

Lou needs a good home

Wanted: a home for a "Holstein" cat (white on one side; "cow- spotted" on the other). Described as being "slightly deranged," this four year-old fixed male, Montreal-style cat, is looking to make a move to the country.

Please call John (reverse charges, if desired) at 514-982-9898, if you are willing to help "Lou" get out of the fast lane.

Open euchre results

Open euchre results from the Friendly Neighbours games last Thursday show Carol Dubeau winning the ladies high. Johanne Oetelaar was second; Rena Major, low, and the skunk went to Cecile Leblanc.

John Krol was tops for the men, followed by Tony Wetering. Delard Dubeau was the low.

Tony also won the door prize.

The Glengarry Community Club's euchre winners

The Glengarry Community Club's open euchre winners included Florine Goodfellow, Dorothy Croll, Cecile Leblanc, Roger Pilon, Bill Leitch, and Delarde Dubeau, with the door prize going to Florence Dubeau.

The Gertlers are grand-parents again!

Maynard and Ann Gertler became grand-parents for the eighth time on Nov. 17 when a "nine pounds plus" baby boy was born in Montreal to Franklin S. Gertler and Catherine Oliver Gertler.

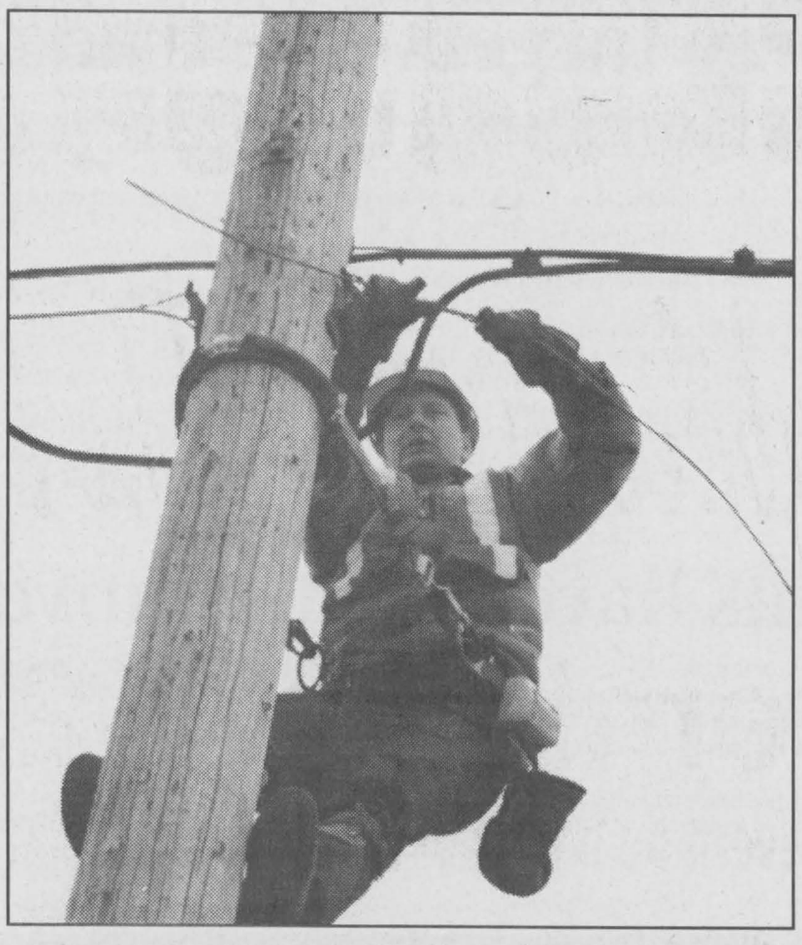
The new fellow, who is a brother for three year-old Nicholas, makes it seven to one (lads to lass), in the Gertler grandchildren count.

Let's give Heather a warm Glengarry welcome

Corrie and Arnold Flipsen also have another new grandchild, with the birth on Nov. 13 of a baby girl, Heather, to Stefan and Lynn. Congratulations to you all!

Grand opening for New Day Coffee House in St. Mary's

Everyone is welcome to attend the New Day Coffee House at St. Mary's Centre this Sunday, Nov. 26, at 7 p.m. The evening features music by Justine Butkovich, Milltown, Barbara Heller-Burns and Nancy Beaudette and the Celebration Choir.



Wiring the town

Mike Irven, a worker for Dundas Powerlines in Chesterville works to update Regional Cablesystem's wiring to fibre optic wires. This will enable businesses to get high-speed Internet and will allow homes to get cable Internet by the beginning of next year. It will also allow the company to offer more channels. Regional Cablesystems will be adding 10 more channels by February.

Great to see old hall host music of its time

DUNVEGAN

PEGGI CALDER, 527-5293

The old-time music evening last Friday night at the Dunvegan Recreation Association was a resounding success by all reports. Participants came from Carleton Place and Ottawa as well as the surrounding area.

It's a great idea to have the old hall in use for an event that highlights the historic music of the region. Organizer Ron Clare plans to hold another in early spring.

New box service

A group of brown community mailboxes have mushroomed up in the parking lot east of the DRA hall. The new service now being offered to village residents as of this week is that they can keep their box number down at the postal outlet at Bird on a Wire for $62 plus tax per year, or can have free delivery to the community mailboxes. (Rain, snow, and high winds should be interesting factors.)

It kind of boggles the imagination to try and figure the logic of charging for the in-house box where sorting is done, or offering a free box at another location, that involves a separate sort and extra delivery time.

According to the bright voice at the Canada Post customer service, this is being done across Canada, because post office boxes were mostly taken up by residents (isn't this the point?) and there wasn't enough room to add more (I wasn't sure if she meant physically or if they ran out of numbers). I've heard that our situation came about from complaints about the distance down to Bird on a Wire.

If you want to voice an objection, you can write to Canada Post Customer Service, 2701 Riverside Drive, Ottawa, ON K1A 0B1.

Jury duty

Last week I went down to the Cornwall court house to take part in my civic duty of jury selection. This was the first time I'd actually been part of the selection, and although I didn't want to give up work, I was rather intrigued by how the whole process worked.

Claude MacIntosh of the Standard Freeholder was on the other side of the crowded room, and I was sure he'd have some comment. Sure enough, in Friday's paper, his "Coffee Break" column had his views on the day's events.

It was confusing as to who was awaiting trial. Two seemed to have arrived on their own, and one was escorted in by OPP officers and sat in the glassed-in bench, sort of like a penalty box. Clean-cut and nicely dressed, he was quiet and attentive.

It was interesting to hear the reasons (or were they excuses? as my boss at Alcan used to ask) that people felt they should be excused from this duty.

Part way through, the judge gave us all a lecture on how one of us or a friend or family member could very well require this procedure, and that this is a very special part of our judicial system. And that he knew no one wants to serve.

Although two male farmers were let go because they were farming with their wives only and were milking a large number of cows, the woman who asked to be excused because she was farming with her husband was refused, which caused someone to comment later that the decision wasn't a fair one.

Following a break, we were informed that two of the accused wanted trial by judge and the other had pled guilty. This clean-cut young man was the fellow who had killed two teenage girls six years ago, and it was sobering to realize the responsibility of being part of a jury that might have judged him.

Join us

On Dec. 1, starting with a social half hour at 6:30 p.m. in the old Greenfield township hall, the Glengarry Pioneer Museum is planning a first annual potluck meeting with a newly organized committee.

If you would like to get involved, please call Dane Lanken (525-1108), Blair Williams (525-2886) or me.

Squeeky is still on the lam

The small white dog that many have been seen in the area has been missing since August from a summer residence on the 8th concession. She is shy by nature, and seems to be even moreso now.

The owner, Marie Sullivan, has put flyers out in all the mailboxes west of Munro's sideroad and Three Bridges because that seems to be where most of the sightings are.

She has also asked that people let her know if Squeeky is visiting regularly so she can drive out from Cornwall and try to call the dog in.

Now with snow in the offing, hope is fading. If you see this little dog, that looks a bit like a poodle, please contact Marie at 938-2955 or give me a call.

"Set fire to your lighthouses"

If you missed the Montreal Gazette on Nov. 10, there was an article about an English notice that had been sent to a Westmount resident's son who no longer lived with her.

It concerned having his name struck from the voters' list for the referendum on forced municipal mergers.

"For lacking to present yourself at Westmount City Hall your name can be strike-off from this electoral list." and "You are, hereby, inform that a strike-off demand . . . have been deposed."

Why? "No longer live there."

That competes very well with a sign years ago on the Decarie Expressway reminding people to turn on their car lights. In translation, it stated, "Set fire to your lighthouses."

No wonder so many of us moved out of the province.

Big donation

The St. Vincent-de-Paul Society, represented by treasurer Marcel Boileau, from right, vice-president Rita Bourbonnais, president Hilda Brunet received a huge financial boost last Friday when they gratefully received a $10,000 donation from the Alexandria Caisse Populaire, represented by bank manager Lise Lauzon. The Society, which operates a food bank for much of Glengarry, will now be able to place a down payment for a mortgage that will eventually allow the Society to buy the building they house their second-hand goods in, instead of paying a monthly rental fee. When the mortgage is paid in full, the Society will be able to allocate more resources for the needy.

South churches join in to save children

LANCASTER

MARG MILLETT
347-2207, FAX 347-1297

In Pakistan a child was sold into slavery at the age of four and by the time he had reached ten, Iqbal Masih had worked six years shackled to a carpet loom. It's called child labor, a most abusive practice. Iqbal Masih escaped his chains and once free, he traveled throughout Pakistan and to other parts of the world to help stop exploitation and poverty of children. Unfortunately, at the age of twelve, he was assassinated as he rode his bike with friends in front of his Grandmother s house.

Craig Keilburger, a Canadian from Toronto and of the same age, read about Iqbal as he was enjoying his comics. This story moved him into action and changed his life forever. He personally presented his concerns to a number of world leaders. He traveled over the world to understand this problem and also encouraged other young people to get involved. Eventually Craig started a wonderful organization called FREE THE CHILDREN. It is presently found in more than 20 countries worldwide and it's all about children helping children.

Craig is now 17 and as committed as ever. For only $2,500 U.S. a school can be built, and for $600 U.S. a teacher can be hired for a year.

When researching this story I learned that children in a Boston Middle School, who had met Iqbal and visited with him, also took up the torch and actually worked for a long period of time to raise enough money to build a school, named after him. Presently there are 250 children attending this school, 50 of them bought from slavery with the promise to attend school.

The reason for this story? On Dec. 3, the Churches of South Glengarry will mark the beginning of Advent with an Ecumenical Service of lessons and carols at Knox Church. This special service starts at 7.30 p.m. and all offerings will be sent to FREE the CHILDREN. Refreshments will be served afterwards. All are cordially invited.

Wine and cheese

The Knights of Columbus would like to remind readers that this Saturday is the date for their Wine and Cheese Night at St. Joseph's Parish Hall on Oak Street in Lancaster. Only $5 per person and the popular Christmas Draw will be held that evening.

Congregations unite

The long history of happy and successful co-operation between the United Churches, Knox in Lancaster and St. Andrew's in Bainsville, has culminated in a decision to amalgamate.

On Jan.1, 2001, two congregations will join as one and be known as St. Andrew's and Knox United Church. A special service to celebrate this amalgamation will take place at St. Andrew's and Knox, Bainsville, on Jan. 7. Suitable plaques will be mounted at both churches to mark this occasion.

This change will hardly be noticeable as the two congregations have been worshipping together at these churches for many years. Presently services will still be held at Bainsville for the first three Sundays of each month and at Lancaster on the last Sunday. Special services, such as the popular Community Lenten noon hour services and the post Easter concerts, will be at the Knox location. The Knox Bargain Center will continue to serve our community.

Baptism

On Sunday, Callum Emil Dolphin, infant son of Nigel and Christina Dolphin and Hanna Patricia Robertson, daughter of Jason and Tasha Robertson, were welcomed into the United Church through the Sacrament of Infant Baptism. Congratulations to all of the families.

Rev. Wright speaks

This Sunday, Rev. Wilf Wright, the Eastern Ontario Secretary of the Canadian Bible Society, will be the guest speaker at Knox United Church at 11:15 a.m. He will speak of the work of the Society throughout the world. An offering for the Bible Society will be taken.

Parade meeting

Members of the South Glengarry Club Council please note. The next meeting for the Santa Claus Parade will be on Thursday at 7:30. Come to the Millett's on Treehaven, #6537.

Busy, busy, busy

This was a tasty weekend for me. Friday night, for Barry and I, it was savory spareribs at Big Luke's. Saturday noon was a wonderful luncheon with a friend, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in South Lancaster.(Barry was home stripping furniture.) Finally we enjoyed delicious meal at the Antique Car Club annual dinner catered by Shawn and Laura Legue. The meal included a to die for vegetarian lasagna.

After this dinner, a very friendly group of Car Club members voted in a new executive and now Brian McCuaig can take a deep breath and relax. After six years as president I am sure that he was happy to turn this job over to new President, Pierre Roy. Vice-president for the new year is Doug Amirault, secretary, Linda Roy and treasurer, Mary McCuaig. This club has a lot of fun but is serious about helping out in our community, not only with donations but with long hard volunteer hours on community projects. They are a major part of the work involved in our parades.

Parade

Speaking of the parade, just a reminder. It's on the second Saturday, Dec. 9. Registration and parade line up is at Smithsfield and the Lancaster Legion Hall. Theme: Family Christmas. There has been amazing goodwill and commitment for this 2000 parade, including two bands, plus the very popular S.J.McLeod School Band and many floats. One very nice man from Williamstown has offered the use of two vehicles to tow floats. The parade will start at 2 p.m. Info? Need a tow? Call Barry at 347-2207

Bake and craft sale

Nov. 25 is the Chateau Gardens Christmas Bake and Craft sale. This event goes on throughout the day with draws every hour and an opportunity for great bargains. Just come to the residence and enjoy yourself.

Farewell to Jasmine

Our old cat Jasmine, or Jazz as we called her, was 21 years when she died recently. We miss her. She was a character and faced life boldly and with great joy. Our Siamese, Mariah Ming, is pining in an unexpected way. She stays close by all of the time, and has even shown great affection to Gus and Su-Lin. Her behavior is surprising because there seemed to be an understanding between these two cats to agree to disagree and a safe distance was always kept. As Jazz got weak the others seemed to pay attention. Gus even washed her face often and she liked that, the old cat who, in youthful days would have smacked him good! Watching animals interact is very interesting, their intelligence and little souls often underestimated. Hey, you animal lovers understand.

Have a super week!

Make a change in people's lives

GLEN ROBERTSON

COLETTE SAUVÉ
874-2076

Development and Peace asks Canadians to join a campaign that will have an impact on the lives of the poor in The Third World and understand the causes of poverty in a world of plenty.

In Columbia, Latin America, a hydroelectric dam was built near their community with American and Canadian money.

This huge dam destroyed the river that runs through their area, flooded their land and killed all the fish they relied on as their main source of protein.

The people can no longer use the river to travel upstream to the market towns; malaria has become a serious problem and the community continues to suffer.

Another example is a Canadian mining company, which has a project in the Philippines where tons of garbage has been dumped in the river and destroyed the fish which fed the people.

There are many more examples where Canadian corporations did not act responsibly when they did business with poorer countries.

It is not from a lack of resources in the world that some people are poor but because of how these resources are acquired and shared.

The greatest wealth producers and wealth holders in the world today are trans-national corporations including Canada which have operations the world over.

These corporations have a huge impact in our lives and they make tremendous profits and often simply look to increase their profit margins.

The Canadian government is currently reviewing the acts which govern the export development corporation and private Canadian corporations.

You can make a difference if you act now!

Next weekend after both masses, you will be asked to sign a card addressed to Canada's Minister of International Trade asking the government to conduct proper environmental assessments and consult thoroughly with local communities in order for any project to go ahead and that it should be easier to find out information about these companies and their dealings in poor countries and challenge them when they behave irresponsibly.

Third World people are all our brothers and sisters. If you were in their place, wouldn't you be glad if somebody would help you?

Bazaar and tea

Christmas bazaar and tea will take place this coming Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. in the church hall with a bake sale, white elephant, books, plants, chance games, crafts and personalized labels. Come and browse around and enjoy a good cup of tea with friends in a pleasant atmosphere.

Birthday wishes to former parish priest

Couple receives St. John Ambulance Awards

MARTINTOWN

VIRGINIA WINN
528-4379

Marion and Winston Smith, who live west of Martintown, were recognized as volunteers at the annual awards banquet of the St. John Ambulance held recently in Cornwall. Marion, who many of us know for her work at the Martintown Animal Hospital, has completed 8000 hours of service, and Winston was honoured for his 5000 hours. Their volunteer work involves providing first aid at community and public events attended by crowds small and large. Marion also received the Superintendents Award, the Attendance Award and the Fellowship Award and both Marion and Winston were named as Officers in the organization. Congratulations to you both. We are proud to have you as part of our community!

Baptsim

On Nov. 12 the Smith s granddaughter, Lindsay McKenna was baptized at St. Andrew s Presbyterian Church in Martintown. She is the baby daughter of Michele Smith and Leo Boland, and a family reception was held in her honour at her grandparent's home following the service.

Also on Nov. 12 at the church, 45 boxes for Operation Christmas Child were received and dedicated before being sent overseas to brighten the lives of children in countries where there is war, famine or conditions which do not allow children to have even the basics which we all take for granted.

Wedding anniversary

Congratulations are in order for Heather and Grant Buchan who celebrated their 25th Wedding Anniversary on Friday at the Bonnie Glen. Daughter Kirsty and son Rory hosted the event in honour of their parents.

Reeve-elect from Martintown

Martintown can claim the winner of last week's contest for Reeve of South Glengarry, Dave MacDonald, as one of ours, due to the fact that he lives in one of the suburbs of Greater Martintown. Congratulations on a fair and well-fought race.

University graduate

This week it is just one message of congratulations after another. Andrew Beaudin, son of Shirley and Mike of Beaverbrook Road, received a BSc with Honours in Chemistry from Carleton University in Ottawa last week. Andrew is continuing on with his studies in Chemistry in a master's programme at Carleton. Well done, Andrew!

Soccer champions

Several Martintown residents were members of the Char-Lan District High School senior boys soccer team which won the championship at a four-team tournament on Nov. 10. Tyler Doyle, Steve Jarvo, Mike O'Farrell, Leigh Thompson and Kyle Fraser had the opportunity to play thanks to the efforts of volunteers who organized the event to compensate for the lack of extra- curricular activities in our high schools this year.

Craft show lost and found

The Christmas Craft show and sale at the Martintown Community Centre on Saturday was a great success, according to the organizers, Anita Goudie and Mary Rankin. The crowds were good, the booths full of wonderful and original items, and the bake table just out of this world! Anita wants to thank everyone who donated baking and all those who made the event special by showing their crafts.

One young shopper must be disappointed because she bought a small wooden cat at a booth on the lower level, but left the bag on the table by mistake. Tracey Chisholm, a crafter new to the King's Road west of the village, found the item left behind by a dark- haired girl of about seven or eight and gave it to Anita Goudie. If you are the one, or a relative of the same, the stray kitty can be collected by calling 528-4405.

Martintoners exercise class

Bev Hincks, who organizes and leads the Martintoners exercise class on Mondays and Fridays at the Martintown Community Centre, wants to encourage more people to jump in. To that end, she is offering a reduced rate for members bringing a friend, or for those joining two at a time. The break for new members will be $15.00 for 10 weeks of classes. The classes are from 8:30 to 9:30 those two days of the week, and more information is available by calling Bev at 528-7502.

Turkey dinner for school

The School Council of Martintown Public School has taken on the task of organizing the annual Turkey Dinner for the students of the school. This is the first year of retirement for Bev Runions, and the Committee feels that it will take an army of parent volunteers to achieve the standard set in the past! This year's dinner will be held on Dec. 13, and the organizers are asking for donations from the community to help offset the cost of the turkey and all the trimmings as well as other expenses associated with this event. Call the school at 528-4423 or Bernice VanDerBurg at 528-4572 for further details.

Report cards will be sent home on Wednesday, Nov. 22, and interviews will be conducted on the evening of Nov. 23 and during the day on Nov. 24. There will be no school for students on Friday, November 24, a Professional Activity day. Best wishes to students, parents and teachers as they face this somewhat stressful week.

Surprise visit

I had quite the surprise of my life when my sister Rosemary Sherman arrived unexpectedly from England to help usher me into a new decade on Friday. (Exactly which decade, I'll leave to your imagination!) Rosemary lives in the little village of Deanland, which is a suburb of Six-Penny Handley in Dorset, which is south west of Salisbury, famous for Stonehenge. She has lived overseas since 1969, but manages to come to Canada for visits fairly regularly just to convince herself that she really prefers living in England! She shared her visit with more family in Montreal and Ottawa, but she and I had two days together, including the Actual Day. We travelled to Kingston together in order to bring home our Valerie for a celebration, a dinner in Old Montreal.

Optimist Club Euchre

The results for the Martintown Optimist Club Euchre for Nov. 14 are: Ladies, 1st Rita Seguin, 2nd a tie for Pauline McKinnon and Solange Glaude, 3rd was another tie between Ann McDonald and Alice Cooper. Winners of the 50/50 draw were Hormidas St. John, Florence Harkin (3times!), Pauline McKinnon, Billy Johnston, Marcel Glaude and Maurice O Connor. Lots of double winners last time. The next Euchre will be held at the Martintown Community Centre on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Please note the earlier time, moved up from 8 p.m., for the winter months.

Goodtimers Bridge

The results for the Martintown Goodtimers Bridge for Tuesday, November 14 are as follows: North/South, 1st Isobel Quail and Homer Grant, 2nd Audrey Blair and John Roulston, 3rd Jean and Jim Campbell, 4th Norah Ruth and Marion Thompson. Magic show

Nov. 20 is the International Children's Day and the school wishes to mark this event in a special way. Magician Luc Le Duc will present a magic show on Nov. 22 which will be open to all students.

Enjoyable day at Domtar

The Grade 1 students visited Domtar Forestry Centre in Apple Hill on Nov. 7. This education field trip nicely rounded off the work that the students have been doing in the classroom and, despite the cool weather, everyone had an enjoyable day.

Dolls from Maple leaves

On Nov. 13 a team from The Carrousel showed the Grade 4 students how to make dolls from maple leaves. The class was able to show their parents the dolls that same evening and the students are going to dress the dolls for a Christmas event.

Thanks to those who helped in the presentation!

Best Santa Claus parade ever for Maxville

MAXVILLE

GORDON WINTER
527-2888

It was definitely the best Santa Claus parade ever. The 13 floats represented a great deal of work and at the same time, interest in this annual event. Thanks must go once again to Bob Alderson for having the Legion Band from Two Mountains, Que. here for the parade.

What is a parade without music and when will we have some bag pipe music to give the Scottish flair that we cherish?

The first prize float was entered by Youth UNLTD under the supervision of Phil Benjamin and his wife, Laurie. They gave much credit to the young people for their initiative in planning and arranging the float.

The Sunday School of St. Michael and All Angels Anglican Church earned second prize for its entry and the Lacombe Family from east the 6th Concession received third prize.

It was entered under the name of Lacombe's Custom Work, an enterprise that has a large complement of machinery and that is well known in the agricultural community, especially.

At the Sports Complex, both the Lions Club and the Recreation Committee served up refreshments to the children and saw that they had a good time after the parade concluded there.

Cuerrier coucillor

Congratulations George for regaining your position as the municipal guide in Maxville. At the same time, thanks go to Johanne Wensink for her three years as councillor for Maxville.

The times were very busy ones and sometime turbulent, yet Johanne served us well, while at the same time holding down a very responsible position in Ottawa.

Her husband, Brian, gave us a choice and offered his talents to fill the councillor's position.

It was a clean campaign, there are lots of other jobs Brian can fill and perhaps run again in three years time.

The same can be said about Mary Anne Kampouris and her run at the deputy-mayor's position.

She received many compliments on her speaking style, will no doubt keep busy as a volunteer and it is being speculated that she will be positioning herself to run again.

To all the other candidates, those who were successful and those who were not, we say thanks and ask that the new council remembers Maxville as the former one did. It has often been said that our streets have been kept in excellent condition, both winter and summer, and all municipal properties, neat and clean.

It must be mentioned that it was great to see how the candidates had most of their signs down on Tuesday morning.

I don't know how it could be accomplished, but there was some confusion as to where voters would find their polls. Also, there should be some way to have the voters list more up to date.

Villeneuve news

Brian Villeneuve, Toronto, was here recently and visited his cousins Cammie and Lois MacLeod, Helen and Ian MacLeod and Vera MacEwen.

Best wishes are extended to two families with the birth of grandchildren. Charlotte and Donald Kennedy s daughter, Elizabeth and her husband, Mathew Good became first time parents with the birth of Liam.

Jocelyn and Regent Villeneuve, St. Elmo, have another grandaughter, Stephanie, born to Lynn and Daniel Larocque. Lynn is the travel agent who operates Casselman Travel. Stephanie came just a few days before her Villeneuve grandparents celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversary.

Account grows

Curtis Cumming, son of Christine and Jim, was a lucky winner in Scotiabank's Getting There monthly draw.

All young people who have accounts opened in their names in the banks across Canada are eligible for this $100 prize. So the account of Curtis is now larger by $100.

Close to 300 shoe boxes filled

The project known as Operation Christmas Child has been completed here in Maxville and 296 shoe box sized special boxes have been filled with toys, clothing, school supplies and candy for Third World Countries. Spear-headed by Margaret Phillips, the project involved the four churches and two schools and is considered the most successful one yet.

Children aged two to 14 years will be the grateful recipients. They were divided into three aged groups and those who filled a box was asked to indicate if it was intended for the youngest, middle or oldest group.

Thanks go to Mrs. Phillips and all those who filled a box.

There are several buildings in the village that are at least 100 years old but none can compare to the Presbyterian Church which started to serve the community 100 years ago last January and remains in an excellent and attractive condition.

The 100th anniversary of the church building will be held this Sunday at 7 p.m. and the people of the Church are holding a celebration to recognize the centennial of the present building and the 174th anniversary of the congregation, which first worshipped in the White Church which was in the present cemetery.

It will be an honour to have you share in this time of memories. A former minister and a native of Three Bridges, the Rev. Duncan Kennedy, will be the guest speaker.

There will be a table of memorabilia and a birthday cake will be served at the fellowship time following the service.

The Anglican Church Women of St. Michael and All Angel's Anglican Church will be holding their annual fall bazaar and luncheon in the church hall on Saturday from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. There will be a bake table, attic treasures and plenty of home-made soup and pies.

The following day, the new priest, the Rev. Jim Collins will be welcomed into the parish. He has been a priest in the Pontiac area for the last few years and it is hoped that he will be here for a long time to come.

Meet Alliance candidate

On Thursday at 8 p.m. the Alliance candidate for Glengarry, Prescott and Russell, Sebastian Anders, will be at the Sports Complex to meet supporters and those who may become supporters

Friday deadline

I am requesting that Friday become the deadline for submissions for this column.

Last week, three came in too late to be included and it should be a simple matter to get the job done just a bit earlier to avoid disappointment.

At the same time, I am asking that accounts of meetings be kept brief, yet with all the necessary facts and that they be written in the third person, to avoid me having to reword them. Thus it won't be we decided but the members decided or it was decided that . Thanks.

Thank you

The Recreation Committee would like to thank everyone who attended all of the Halloween festivities during the week-end of Oct 27-29.

All the events were well attended.

I must leave the account of the Horticultural Society's meeting until next week but there is one piece of business that must be addressed this week.

After the ice storm of 98, a sum of money came to District One of the OHA for the planting of trees. This money has now been divided up among the societies of the district and the local share is $200.

No decision was made as to where trees could be planted so it is being thrown out to members of the community to indicate where new trees could be planted.

It would not be on private property and it is to be kept in mind that members of the Society come from the village and the broad district including Glen Sandfield, Alexandria, Apple Hill, Greenfield, west of the village, well into Roxborough, Sandringham, Riceville and Fournier.

You are invited to phone me if you have a suggestion for this tree planting project.

Bridge

The Burwashes, Bernice and Dawson had the top scores, in that order, at the Saturday afternoon bridge party at the Manor.

Calendar draw

In the Lions Club Calendar draw last week, the winners were John Comtois, Cornwall, Chantal Secours, Alexandria, Marc and Ginette Matthias, Alexandria, Corey Colbran, Thunder Bay and Marilyn Bissonneault, Williamsburg.

Blood Clinics

Two blood pressures are planned for the Manor as follows: There will be one at 4:30 p.m. prior to the Diners Club this Thursday and next week on Wednesday; the other one will be conducted prior to the monthly euchre.

Nature for all seasons

I was very pleased to hear from Sandra Campbell O'Neill last week telling me about a workshop that the feed store that she and her husband operate sponsored.

She also included several pages of information on the feeding of the winter birds.

The workshop was led by Terry Sprague from Quinte Conservation and attracted about 80 people.

I will get an address and phone number if there is anyone interested in holding a similar event.

A newsletter was included also with Sandra's letter and it was entitled ONTARIO EAST Nature for all Seasons. Its phone number is 1-800-440-2366 with a website www.ontarionature.org

I was sorry to see a wild turkey as road kill recently.

We need all of these birds that were introduced into the area a few years back but at least the dead bird was evidence that there are some around.

Head for shopping spree

GLEN SANDFIELD

LORNA CHAPMAN
874-2408

The 39ers seniors club met at the Alexandria United Church hall on Nov. 15 for their regular monthly luncheon with President Doris Spencer in the chair. Lucky cups were found by two sisters, Sadie MacMillan and Christine MacKenzie.

After luncheon the brief business meeting opened with the singing of O' Canada.

The roll call was answered by 23 members. Treasurer Elisabeth Groot gave an encouraging financial report and also gave an update on the sale of crafts at the table they had manned at the Bonnie Glen on the day of the giant craft sale.

Wearing her trip arranger's hat, she reminded everyone that the Senior's Day trip to the Bayshore shopping mall in Ottawa would take place on Dec. 5. Everyone is asked to be on hand at 8:30 a.m. in the Jean Coutu parking area.

Anyone interested in going on this outing may call Mrs. Groot at 525-4202.

Secretary Dot Burnett read the minutes of the October meeting. Part of the correspondence included a thank you card from Marguerite McGillis.

At the request of the president, Kathe Persike accepted the position as head of the Telephone Committee.

At the end of the formal meeting Tom Groot called for the bingo games and Gerald McGillis was the luck winner of the 50/50 bingo full-card game.

Exchange visit

The McCrimmon Women's Institute Branch met at the former OMAF boardroom in Alexandria for their regular monthly meeting on Nov. 16.

President Enid MacDougall welcomed the visiting Bainsville W.I. members and, after singing O Canada, the Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect, she drew everyone's attention to the extensive display of their Tweedsmuir History books which had been arranged by curator Betty McDonald.

The roll call was "A toonie for the Erland Lee Museum." The motto "History is forgotten if not recorded" was commented on by Betty McDonald.

One of the Bainsville W.I. visitors won the prize for the Jumbled Word Quiz.

Another of the visiting ladies spoke about a trip to Ottawa where she and many other W.I. members met Adrienne Clarkson and the Prime Minister.

The Bainsville members put up their W.I. banner and all the W.I. members gathered under their banner. There were people from many places in the provinces of Quebec and Ontario.

Everyone enjoyed their Ottawa trip, meeting new W.I. acquaintances and some of the members of government.

During a fellowship time, everyone enjoyed the opportunity of perusing the interesting McCrimmon Branch's Tweedsmuir history books.

These W.I. Branch exchange visits are always most pleasant and this one was certainly no exception and everyone seemed to have a great time.

Holy communion

This Sunday at 11:15 a.m. there will be a joint celebration of the sacrament of Holy Communion at East Hawkesbury United Church with the congregation of the Glen Sandfield United Church. Everyone welcome.

Stories from St. Raphael's
HIGHLAND PATHS

KEN MCKENNA

Since I began writing these Highland Paths columns over eight years ago I have received a great deal of information from readers about Glengarry. Starting today and in future columns, I will be including the written memoirs of Rita (McDonald) Tourangeau, Betty McDonald and the late Harriet McDonald, as prepared by them for the 200th anniversary of St Raphael's parish in 1986.

Rita Tourangeau: "I was born in the village of St. Raphael's over 70 years ago. While the village itself has not grown very much as have many other surrounding towns and villages, it has changed to a great extent.

"We had three general stores as I was growing up, a post office, a cheese factory and a blacksmith shop. All our purchases were made in one or all of the stores except for clothes. However, the stores did carry some suits for men and boys, shoes for children and adults. There was no packaging of foods in those days. We brought our containers to the store to have them filled with molasses, vinegar, etc. Eggs and butter and other things were brought to the stores for barter. The stores are gone as are the post office, the cheese factory and, of course, the blacksmith shop as there now are few horses to be shod.

"We had a community of native people who lived a mile west of the village. They brought axe handles, baskets, etc. to the stores to exchange for food and household necessities. They were lovely gentle people and their children attended the local school.

"The farmers came with their milk to the cheese factory every morning and sometimes we would coax them to give us a ride on their wagon down and back up the hill where the factory was situated.

"The Catholic church was a beautiful building erected by the first settlers who came from Scotland and some United Empire Loyalists; the latter having come from New York State. It had no pillars and could accommodate one thousand worshippers. It was always well attended and in my early years sermons were long and in both English and French. [A century earlier, the language would have been Gaelic]. Over the course of the years neighbouring parishes were initiated, the result of which depleted our congregation. After the beautiful church burned in 1970 a smaller church was built to serve a much smaller congregation. Only the walls of the former church remain and are now known as St. Raphael's Ruins.

"There was a parish hall which has been torn down. [The present parish centre across from the church was originally a school]. It was a hub of activity. There were many plays, some by adults and for a greater part by the students of Iona. Card parties and parish suppers were held and what stands out in my mind were the dances. They were well attended and always conducted under the watchful eye of our pastor Rev. Father Duncan A. Campbell. [Fr. Campbell was the founder of Iona Academy]. I am sure that many of us met and danced with the person who would become our husband or wife.

"The elementary school was a two-storey building with the four first grades upstairs and the last four downstairs. The teachers were nuns. The floors were swept by the pupils. There were wood stoves in both rooms and the boys were responsible for bringing in the wood and keeping the fires going during the day. When we passed our grade 8 (senior fourth as it was then known) entrance exams, which were set by a board and the exams held in Alexandria, we went on to higher education at Iona Academy. Iona was a boarding high school for girls but the day pupils were both girls and boys. We had music lessons and also a separate building where many continued after high school to enrol in a business course. All the teaching was done by Sisters of Holy Cross.

"There was a very close friendship among the residents of the village. When someone was ill or dying, the ladies, two at a time, took turns in sitting all night with the sick. Very few went to hospital in those days unless for a serious operation. If someone died, the wake was not held at a funeral home but in the home of the bereaved family. Food was brought in abundance and friends and relatives gathered from far and near to console the family.

"Fortunately many of the good aspects of the village have remained and we are a close-knit family even though life as I knew it has changed in many ways. At the present time we are living in my grandfather's house which was built about 1885."

O'Shaugnessy shuts out South Grenville

ALEXANDRIA JUNIOR B GLENS

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Alexandria Glens goaltender Bryan O'Shaugnessy was in between the pipes Nov. 12 during a 6-2 loss to a mediocre Gananoque Islanders club.

Glens bench boss Marc Sauve has stated he couldn't have asked more from his goaltenders (including Felix Limoges) to date and Friday in Alexandria he gave O'Shaugnessy a chance to redeem himself after what the coach said was his worst outing of the season.

O'Shaugnessy responded.

O'Shaugnessy recorded the first Glens shutout of the season as Alexandria blanked the lowly South Grenville Rangers 6-0.

Although the Rangers (2-16-0) have just two wins on the season and have a Rideau-St. Lawrence Division low 37 goals scored so far, a shutout doesn't come around too often in junior B hockey.

O'Shaugnessy did look a little shaky heading into the game Friday at the Billy Gebbie Arena.

Just 47 seconds into the game it looked like the Rangers would go up 1-0 until an early whistle negated a goal.

O'Shaugnessy mishandled a shot from outside the zone and the puck squirted loose toward the net and was batted in by a South Grenville forward.

Having lost view of the puck referee Sean Roche blew his whistle a mere second before the puck crossed the line.

"We put him back in there because he didn't really have a good outing against Gananoque," said Sauve.

"He had a shaky start, especially on that first shot but he picked up his play and had a good game. You have to take into consideration who we were playing though, they only have around 40 goals this year."

The night didn't include just one first (O'Shaugnessy's first junior shutout) though.

Affiliate Michael Lauzon connected with his first hat trick in junior hockey including the third with just 28 seconds left.

"Mike will play pretty much regularly with us, we told him he was our first call-up when we released him," said Sauve.

"He was close to making it this year and he continued to play well."

Another first from Friday night was Joel Poirier's first goal of the year, which turned out to be the game-winner.

"Joel needed that," said Sauve.

"He's been looking for it and it might get his confidence up. The boys were really happy for him."

Glens 6 Rangers 0

Poirier's goal 8:45 into the first period was all the Glens would need but several players padded on to their season scoring totals as Alexandria routed the South Grenville Rangers 6-0.

Poirier pounded in the puck after it rebounded off the boards behind the Rangers net off of a Louis Brisson shot and ricocheted back in front of the goal. Nathaniel Brand also picked up an assist on the goal.

Up 1-0 the Glens made their lead 3-0 with two second period goals.

Just 1:52 into the middle frame Eric Leroux made it 2-0 when he scored from Jeff Lobb and Brand.

With 3:17 remaining in the period Lauzon scored his first of three from Brisson and Michael Cunning.

The Glens added another three goal in the third period.

Lauzon scored his second of the night from Lobb and Leroux with 8:32 remaining.

Glens goaltender Bryan O'Shaugnessy calmed down after this South Grenville goal 47 seconds into the game Friday night in Alexandria was waved off by referee Sean Roche. The rookie goaltender was flawless the rest of the way as he earned the Glens first shutout since Oct. 24, 1999 in a 6-0 win.
Staff photo — Todd Anderson

Lauzon hat trick was capped off with 28 seconds left when he made no mistake of a play from Nicolas Besner and Ghyslain Valade.

After the Glens fourth and fifth goals the Rangers became frustrated a shoving matches started up.

Unfortunately for the Glens both Cunning and Johnson were assessed fighting majors after the second quarrel and since there was less then 10 minutes left were not available for Sunday's game in Westport.

"It was a questionable call, it was kind of a pushing match," said Sauve.

"But the guys have to realize how much time is left and they can't put themselves in those situations. There both first-year junior players and it was a learning experience."

The two talented youngsters were missed in the game against the Rideau Division-leading Westport Rideaus (13-4-1) as the Glens suffered their worst loss of the season.

Rideaus 8 Glens 4

The Rideaus scored three goals in the first period another three in the second and two in the third as they controlled the flow of the contest throughout but according to Sauve the game fell apart in just a matter of two minutes in the opening frame.

Rebels ride Dube's three-point night

Veteran forward cracks top 10 in league scoring with solid effort against Tikis

Rebels.

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The Char-Lan Rebels enjoyed a successful season a year ago finishing second in the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League.

The Rebels benefitted from the scoring prowess of rookie Scott Champagne.

Champagne has since moved on to the Gloucester Rangers along with another talented young forward, Mike King.

This year the Glens have received some scoring from rookies Troy Sinfield (seven goals and eight assists) and Steve Jarvo (four goals and 11 assists). It's been the scoring from leaders like veteran Nick Dube that has created the ressurection to what has been a turbulent start to the 2000 season for the Rebs.

The Rebels still have lingering thoughts of their 0-7 start to the season but have rebounded to a current record of 8-11 and stand fourth in the St. Lawrence Division standings.

Dube has been a large part of the turnaround as he moved into the top 10 in league scoring last weekend with 11 goals and 10 assists for 21 points.

The Rebels have also welcomed offensive contributions from veteran Ian McConnell (eight goals and three assists) and defenceman Doug 'Bubba' Ferguson (three goals and 11 assists) and Ryan Major (three goals and eight assists). Andrew Banville's four goals and nine assists also deserve honorable mention.

With the additions of junior-experienced players Derek Duval and Danny Lafave, the prospects of the Rebels enjoying a successful end to the season have suddenly increased.

The team has been set for awhile now, after a flurry of roster changes the team has started to mold and things are looking brighter in Williamstown.

Still there are some quirks to work out.

In last weekend's pair of games, general manager John Chafee put it best when he said, "they played very well Saturday night (against the Brockville Tikis) but were a very different team Sunday (against the Gananoque Islanders). Brockville has as good a team if not better, than Gananoque."

Saturday in Williamstown Dube was all over the place as he registered a three-point night, including two goals, in a win over Brockville.

Rebels 4 Tikis 2

Dube's goal assisted by Pat Smith with 1:23 gone into the third period turned out to be the eventual game-winner as the Rebels doubled the Brockville Tikis 4-2 at home.

The Tikis scored three minutes later but Chris Corput scored short-handed from Lafave with just under five minutes left to seal the win.

"He's been one of the best penalty-killers in the league," said Chafee.

"He's playing with a lot of intensity now."

The Rebels opened the scoring midway through the first period when Dube was sent in alone on Tikis goaltender Tyler Karonyi from Smith.

Dube looked like a natural goal scorer as he faked a move to the right the rifled the puck through Karonyi's legs.

The 1-0 Rebels lead was doubled two minutes into the second period when Duval scored on the powerplay

Melnyk bounces to provincial championships

Local youngster first to compete for provincial trampoline title

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

Earlier this season Canada earned two medals during the inaugural inclusion of the trampoline at the Summer Olympics in Sydney.

In the wake of the accomplishments of Karen Cockburn and Mathieu Turgeon, who both won bronze medals, one local girl has begun what looks like a promising career.

Williamstown native Nicole Melnyk, 15, earned the opportunity to compete at the trampoline provincial championships in Toronto April 6, 7 and 8 after finishing fourth in her division during a qualifying meet in Kingston last weekend.

"It's exciting, a whole other experience," said Melnyk.

"It's just amazing you're in the same room as world champions. You have to be there to believe it."

The Kingston meet was the first of three qualification events (January in Toronto and February in Ottawa are the other two) which will be highlighted by the Ontario Championships in April.

Both Cockburn and Turgeon are scheduled to appear at the Toronto qualifier.

"I'm really looking forward to it," said Melnyk who will obviously be taking part in the meet.

Melnyk is in her second year of competitive trampolining but has been part of the Air Gliders Trampoline Club based in Cornwall for four years. She has been there since day one.

She joined the club after hearing about it from family friends. Before joining the club Melnyk competed in gymnastics briefly.

Melnyk competed in the provincial 1 division last year and moved up the provincial open class this season.

Melnyk finished 14th in Ontario last year in provincial 1.

The divisions go up from provincial 1, provincial open, provincial 2, national then world. After that there's the Olympics.

After Canada earned two medals in the first year of trampoline at the Olympics this year in Sydney, Melnyk's mother, who is treasurer of the Air Gliders Trampoline Club, said many young athletes have been motivated to compete.

"It's motivated athletes immensely," she said.

"Personally with Nicole it's given her aspirations of going on to the Olympics. For her and other young athletes it was lots of encouragement."

Melnyk

"Me and Gab (Air Gliders Trampoline Club teammate and friend Gabriel Martin) have made a pact that we'll go to the Olympics," said Melnyk.

Melnyk won't be alone at the provincial championships, her other three teammates that compete have also qualified. They are Gabriel Martin and Christine Madore of Embrun and Angele St. Louis of Cornwall.

"My teammates have been there for me. We encourage each other to do well."

A total of 33 athletes have a membership at the club. Most participate recreationally.

The four girls practice three nights a week for two hours each session.

Melnyk said she also works on mental training at home and has recently started a new work-out program at Nav-Canada where her father David works.

Although the four girls have already qualified for the provincials they will have to compete in at least one more competition.

Participants must compete in at least two qualifiers so the girls will have to at least head to Toronto in January or Ottawa in February.

Competitors have two routines.

One is compulsory and consists of jumps that must be attempted.

The other routine is optional and participants create their own routine. They must deliver judges an outline of what they'll be attempting.

Judges mark the competitors on how will they stick to the routines and also grade mostly on form like body straightness. Grades also depend on degree of difficulty.

Five judges score marks with the highest and lowest mark being thrown out and only the middle three counting.

"It's done just like the Olympics," said Carole Melnyk.

Judges marks are out of 10.

Carole said there are several factors in being good on the trampoline.

"Dedication, willingness to achieve, being a team player but an individual at the same time, having some natural ability and being able to train all year so you can compete for 30 seconds. It's all important."

Melnyk has set a personal goal for this year's provincials.

"I just want to jump my best. Sometimes you can place badly but jump really good. Last year I was stressed a lot, this year I have controlled my stress and I just want to go out there and do my best."

Melnyk is a student at Char-Lan District High School and is active in other sports namely soccer and track and field.

Last year Melnyk was named the school's junior female athlete of the year.

Islanders stop Rebels win streak at four games

from Dube and Major.

It was Duval's fifth goal since joining the Rebels nine games ago.

"It was a very good game," said Chafee.

"It was fast-paced and well refereed. In fact we had the same referee in both games and he (Paul Matte) let the boys play some tough hockey. Saturday the guys were flying, it was an exciting game."

Unfortunately for Rebels fans, Sunday in Gananoque was a different story.

Islanders 4 Rebels 1

"The effort wasn't there," said Chafee. There wasn't too many players into it and no it wasn't because of the travel to Gananoque."

Only Eric Larocque was able to beat Islanders goaltender Brett McGarry after a swift move from the corner and a deke at the end before putting the puck in the short side.

Dube and Banville assisted.

The Islanders scored twice in the first and once in the second and third periods.

"Eric's goal picked us up a little but Gananoque continued to nail us each chance they had. We didn't respond like the Rebels usually do. We can't put our finger on what went wrong."

The game had its fair share of misconduct penalties.

Rebels goaltender Tim McCuaig didn't feel left out. In fact, he was in the middle of a couple of plays near the end of the game.

McCuaig received a two minute unsportsmanlike penalty for kicking the puck down the ice with his pads with 2:45 remaining. Then he received a four-minute spearing penalty with 2:01 left. McCuaig was then assessed a game misconduct likely because Matte didn't want to see any other problems escalate. Louis Phillipe Raymond finished the game in goal.

Ian McConnell, Andrew Banville and Eric Larocque also received 10-minute misconducts for what Chafee said were disagreements during conversations with the referee.

Rebels notes:

This weekend the Rebels travel to Westport on Friday to take on the Rideau Division leading Rideaus (13-4-1) starting at 8:15 p.m.

"We know it's always a tough game in Westport," said Chafee.

"They have a small rink but we usually play better on Fridays than Sundays."

On Saturday the Rebels host the Rideau Division last place team South Grenville Rangers (2-16-0) starting at 7:45 p.m.

The Rebels had four consecutive powerplay chances in the second period of the game against Gananoque Sunday but failed to score. If they had it may have been a different story.

Nick Dube took a hard shot in the ankle Sunday during warm-up and needed ice on it before the game. Dube still played and shouldn't miss any action.

Ryan Major was ejected from Saturday's game against Brockville with 14:44 remaining after he dropped the gloves with Breen Taylor.

Eric Larocque scored his fourth goal of the season in a 4-1 loss to the Islanders Saturday night in Williamstown.

Mustangs beat Stars for first time

MAXVILLE

By Todd Anderson
Sports Editor

The Maxville Mustangs have now beaten every team in the Eastern Ontario Hockey League.

Entering last weekend's play the only team that was still have an unbeaten streak during the two-year existence of the Maxville hockey club was the reputable Casselman Stars.

Last Saturday that streak ended as the Stangs put together a solid performance resulting in a 6-4 victory.

An early 3-0 lead wasn't a surprise for Mustangs faithful. In recent games Maxville has led after the early stages of the game before a melt down negates any chance for victory. Saturday that meltdown never came.

"Everything went well," said Mustangs head coach Ivan Coleman.

"We got off to a 3-0 lead and held them off. It was a well-played game by both sides. It was a fast game."

The game marked the introduction of yet another new face on the Mustangs roster.

Former Casselman stand-out, defenceman Luc Chartrand, 21, made his Mustangs debut after impressing the club in practice last Wednesday.

"He was one of their key players last year," said Coleman. He's the total package. He's a little out of shape because he hasn't played any games this year but he has maturity and leadership qualities, he doesn't panic with the puck and puck control in our zone will be the main thing we notice."

Saturday night Chartrand was part of Mustangs history as his new team earned their first-ever victory over his former club.

Mustangs 6 Stars 4

Mustangs Pat Burlinguette's second short-handed goal of the game with 2:11 remaining in the second period was the turning point as the Mustangs reacted to a Casselman comeback.

On the play Burlinguette blocked a shot at his own blue line and out-raced a Stars defenceman for the puck along the south-side boards in between the Mustangs blue line and the red line.

Burlinguette went in alone on Stars goaltender Mathieu Lapointe and beat him to his right.

The goal came after the Stars crept to within 4-3 of the Stangs with three second period goals.

Also scoring the second period for Maxville was Brad MacMillan from Eric Bourgeois and Stephen Alguire.

It was MacMillan's second goal of the night. He also started the scoring for the game with a goal at the 10:46 mark of the first period from Bourgeois and Nick Quenneville.

Coleman said the recent move back to centre has made MacMillan return to the form that helped him lead the team in scoring last year.

"Brad is always quiet and never complains about anything. We weren't getting his full potential from the wing so we put him back at centre and as you can see it has payed dividends."

Also scoring in the opening period was Trevor Wotherspoon from Burlinguette and Alguire at 6:56 and Burlinguette with another shorthanded goal unassisted with 1:02 remaining.

Burlinguette has started to benefit from passing the puck more often said Coleman.

"He picks a hole the size of a grape fruit but he's realized you don't have to score to get points. It keeps the defenceman thinking on other teams."

Wotherspoon closed out the scoring of the game with 5:02 remaining from MacMillan.

With 2:36 remaining Casselman's Ghyslain Ranger ran into Maxville goaltender Mathieu Seguin for the third time in the game. While in a scrum in the corner defenceman Maxim Proulx noticed Ranger was leaving Seguin so Proulx took control of the situation.

"Mini-max knew Ranger was way too big to fight so he came flying in and hit him at the knees from behind. He knew he had to get him out of there somehow. Goaltenders can't leave the crease or come to the bench so Seguin was stuck there."

Proulx received a five-minute match penalty.

Two nights earlier the Mustangs hosted the Vankleek Hill Cougars who were looking to avenge a 7-4 loss in their previous meeting.

There was an unbelievable stat from the game. Both teams were not assessed a single penalty.

"Have you ever seen a junior game with no penalties," said Coleman.

"We get along fairly well with Vankleek Hill but I'll tell you, both teams weren't happy."

Cougars 8 Mustangs 5

Mustangs forward Renel Cadieux's third period natural hat trick made things look more respectable but it was too little too late as the Vankleek Hill Cougars got their revenge with a 8-5 win.

The Cougars scored four goals in the first period and led 7-2 heading into the third period as they earned their sixth win of the year and moved three points over the Mustangs for fourth in the EOJCHL.

The only bright spot for the Mustangs was the play of Cadieux.

His first came with 8:02 remaining from Burlinguette, Quenneville.

The second came with 6:54 left from captain Derek Crawford and Quenneville. The hat trick was finalized with 2:44 left from Burlinguette and Chartrand.

MacMillan scored the Mustangs first goal with 4:12 remaining in the first period from Cadieux and Crawford.

Former captain J.F Gagne potted the second Mustangs goal with 7:50 remaining in the middle frame from Pierre Decour and MacMillan.

Mustangs notes:

The Mustangs play both of their games on the road this weekend.

On Friday they travel to Embrun for a 8:15 p.m. start against the Panthers. On Saturday the Stangs travel to Vankleek Hill to lock horns with the Cougars at 7:30 p.m.

Maxim Proulx will be facing a three-game suspension for his actions Saturday night against Casselman.

Two players from Vankleek Hill have expressed interest in playing for Maxville and have received permission to attend their practice this Wednesday. The Mustangs have five cards left to sign players.

Head coach Ivan Coleman will coach Friday in Embrun but will miss Saturday's game in Vankleek Hill because of prior commitments.

Renel Cadieux's hat trick Thursday came after he grasped the concept of a new play Coleman said.

"He was crowding the crease too much so we told him to go to the high slot. It obviously worked."

Rudi's Magic move to 4-1 and remain in first place

Rudi's Invitational Indoor Soccer League

Women's division

Rudi's Magic remained in first place in the ladies division of the Rudi's Invitational Indoor Soccer League after a 3-1 win over the Hearts of Glengarry Monday in Williamstown at Char-Lan District High School.

League-leading scorer Jenny Larkin was at it again as she scored four minutes into the contest and also at the 36 minute mark to bring her season totals to six goals in five games. Vanessa Van Sleeuwen scored her fourth of the year as well in the win.

Lisa Poirier was the only player able to beat goaltender Laura Urquhart. For her efforts Urquhart was named player of the week on the ladies side.

In the other contest Monday, Cornwall Strikers remained just two points behind the Magic in second with a 3-0 win over the Char-Lan Dazzle.

Lynn Struthers, with two and Julie Gallinger scored in the win. Linda Blanchard continued her stellar goaltending this year with a shutout.

The Magic are in first with a record of 4-1 followed by the Cornwall Strikers who are 3-1-1.

Men's Division

The Glengarry Stars and East Side Mario's remained tied for first on the men's side after both teams earned wins over the Char-Lan squads last Monday.

The Stars got past a determined Char-Lan Rangers team winning 3-1. Gabriel Gratton, Shawn Henderson and Phil Lewis scored in the win. Kevin Libbos replied in a losing effort.

Lothar Schareina was solid in goal for Char-Lan and earned player of the week recognition for the men's division.

In the other contest last week, Shawn Montroy, a usual dependable forward, recorded a shutout as East Side blanked Rudi's Rage 4-0.

Chris Knight and Kieren Kennedy potted two goals each in the win.

Kennedy now leads the division in scoring with nine goals.

The Glengarry Stars and East Side Mario's remain tied for first with records of 4-0-1.

Both teams have allowed six goals this year but the Stars have a 26-25 edge in goals scored. The two teams play each other next week.

Next weeks schedule:

6 p.m. Rage vs Rangers
7 p.m. Strikers vs Magic
8 p.m. Dazzle vs Hearts
9 p.m. Stars vs East Side Mario's

Windows still winless

Glengarry Windows remained winless after six North Glengarry Broomball League games after falling to the league-leading Dave's Drywall club last Sunday.

Dave's scored a 4-1 win as their depth proved too much against Windows.

League-leading scorer Gary St. Pierre was held to just one assist in the game but Bruce Massia picked up the pace by scoring two goals.

Jason Norman (third in scoring with seven points) and Lance Ouderkirk (sixth in scoring with five points) have the other two goals for the winners. Donald George Carrier had the lone goal for Windows.

In the other contest last week, Lacombe Custom Work earned their fourth win of the year 2-0 over Marc's Canteen. The result marked the first time that Marc's Canteen has lost this season in five games.

With the win, Lacombe's have crept to within a tie of the second-place Marc's club (who has one game in hand).

In the contest last Sunday, Pierre Lacombe and Roch Lacombe handled the scoring while Martin Cardinal provided shutout goaltending.

Cardinal is on top among league goaltender with a goals against average of 1.33. Dave's Keith Presley is second at 1.40 and both have earned one shutout this season.

Novice B Rebs prepare for silver stick tournament

The Computer Sense / Rebels Char-Lan novice travelling team met the Hawkesbury Hawk in an exhibition game last Friday, at the South Glengarry arena and had a solid performance from all their players to shutout Hawkesbury 2-0.

The game comes a week before leaving for Pembroke where they will be competing in the Silver Stick tournament, a well known competition which is also a qualifier for a national contest held in Michigan USA, later in January 2001.

For Char-Lan, Reid Lepine opened the scoring in the first period completing a nice play by Tyson Spink.

The Computer Sense crew's second goal came with 5 minutes to play in the second period when defenceman Jonathan Jasper took charge of the offence.

Richard Guillet and Josh MacDonald were remarkable in the victory sharing the shutout. Shots on goal were 15 to 10 for the local team.

Building a rivalry. That's what the Cornwall Royals and the Computer sense / Rebels Char-Lan novice travelling team did last week-end when they played a back-to-back series.

In the first game, in front of a large crowd at the South Glengarry arena, Cornwall and Char-Lan skated to a 3-3 tie.

Cornwall took the lead with the next two goals.

Char-Lan came back to tie the game late in the third period with a goal from Reid Lepine unassisted. Nine seconds later Cornwall scored for a 3-2 lead. Char-Lan wasn't ready to concede the game though.

After pulling their goalie for an extra attacker, Reid Lepine tied the game for the Rebels with 5 seconds left in the contest. Chad Galliott assisted on the play.

The shots on goal were 21 to 9 in favour of Char-Lan.

In the second game, the Computer Sense / Rebels Char-Lan novice travelling team pulled a 3-2 road victory collecting 3 points in a maximum of 4 against Cornwall.

Like the previous match, Char-Lan's domination in the third period ended up being a turning point in the game.

Scoring for the Computer Sense / Rebels was Tylor Spink, with his first of the year.

Eric Ming and Chad Galliott completed the scoring. Alex Bosse assisted twice while Reid Lepine collected one assist.

Local curling team off to regionals

On Nov. 18 Alexandria Curling Club hosted the Zone 1 Scott Tournament of Hearts Playdowns.

Three teams played off for the right to represent Zone 1. Alexandria was represented by a combined team - two ladies from Vankleek Hill and two from Alexandria. The team is skipped by Lyn Wilson (Vankleek Hill), Carol MacLeod (3rd - Alexandria), Katie MacLeod (2nd - Alexandria) and Mary Thomas (lead - Vankleek Hill).

While this Vankleek Hill - Alexandria team lost their first game against a team from the Ottawa Curling club, they maintained their composure and played a solid second game against another Ottawa Curling Club team.

As two teams from each zone are allowed to go onto the regionals this second game for both teams was a key game. The locals won this game 10 - 4 and earned them the right to go on to the next step - the regionals.

The game was close with both teams trading points - with the score tied 3 - 3 after five ends. As with all competitions the games are 10 ends with a two minute break after the first five ends.

This break worked well for the local team as they scored a 4-ender in the sixth end. The 3rd Carol MacLeod made a key double takeout which turned the end around and enabled skip Wilson to finish it off with a clear draw for four with her last shot.

The Ottawa team couldn't recover and allowed the locals to steal one in the 7th end. Ottawa took one in the 8th but Vankleek Hill - Alexandria came right back with two in the 9th. That was it - the game was over.

This local team's next competition will be Dec. 15 - 18 at the Royal Kingston Curling Club in the regionals.

Glens lose confidence against Rideaus after mishap on long shot scored the first goal of the game with 9:42 remaining in the first period on a bizarre play.

Merkley fired the puck in from centre ice and as it was heading over Limoges head in the Glens goal he reached up to catch it. The puck ricocheted off his glove, down in the net.

With that the Glens lost some confidence which a veteran Rideaus team noticed and Westport scored another two goals in the next two minutes.

"The first goal went in from the red line and they saw that our boys were down and they took advantage of it," said Sauve. They're what I expected a veteran team that plays with grit.

The Glens finally got on the board with 5:54 remaining when Besner scored from Stephane Maltais and Steven Owens.

The Rideaus scored three unanswered goals in the second period to build up a 6-1 lead.

In the third the Glens tried to come back scoring three goals but it wasn't enough as Westport added another two of there own for a 8-4 final.

Glens defenceman Marc Filliol scored his second goal of the year 3:06 into the final frame from Owens and Brisson.

At 13:25 Besner potted his second of the night and 13 of the season from Brisson and Maltais.

At 4:34 Brisson capped off a three point third period with his eighth goal of the year from Besner and Leroux.

Glens notes:

The Glens played the Akwesasne Wolves last night as a make-up game to their Sept. 23 game that was rescheduled. Results were not available at press time.

The Glens were hoping to gain ground on the first-place Kemptville 73s who are currently three points ahead of the Glens.

The Glens had one game in hand heading into last night's contest with the last place Wolves (2-16-0).

The Glens host the Gananoque Islanders (10-9-0) in Alexandria Friday night starting at 8:30 p.m.

On Sunday the Glens travel to Athens to meet the Aeros (7-11-0) starting at 7:30 p.m.

Captain Simon Menard dropped the gloves for the second time this season with South Grenville's Matt McNarly with 1:26 left in the second period Friday.

J.F Menard was told last week by his doctor to take another week off but has been cleared to practice with the team this week.

Both Joel Quesnel and Steven Vanden Oetelaar are still listed week-to-week with shoulder injuries.

Prior to O'Shaugnessy's performance Friday, the Glens last shutout was two season ago on Oct. 24, 1999 when Pat Vaillancourt defeated the Winchester Hawks 6-0.

Despite the four-goal loss to Westport, Sauve isn't overly concerned,

"We can play with anyone in this league," he said. We have to put 60 minutes of hockey together every game though."

In Memoriam

GAREAU –In loving memory of Marcel Gareau, who passed away on November 21, 1997.
You had a smile for everyone,
You had a heart of gold,
You left the sweetest memories,
This world could every hold,
To us you were so special,
What more is there to say,
Except to wish with all our hearts,
That you were here today.
– Forever loved, Jackie, Andre, Michelle and Jean Marc Poulin 47-1p

In Memoriam

DEROUCHIE, Doris –In loving memory of a dear grandmother who passed away November 21, 1999.
Sleep on dear good grandmother,
It has been a long year
Since you left our hearts filled with Sadness and tears;
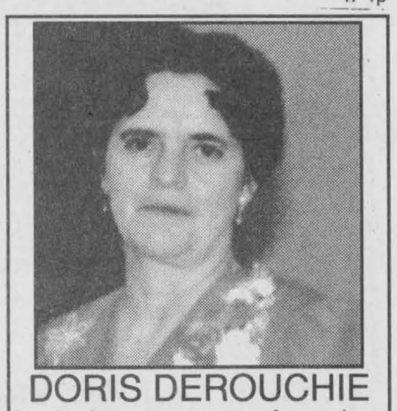
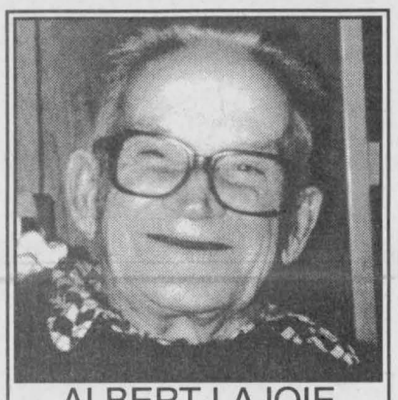
Yours was a heart that was blithesome and gay,
Scattering sunshine all along the way;
You know how we loved you
And yes, love you yet,
Though God took you from us
We cannot forget.
– Always remembered by all your grandchildren 47-1p



DORIS DEROUCHIE
In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away Nov. 21, 1999.
She never failed to do her best,
Her heart was true and tender,
She toiled hard for those she loved,
Then left them to remember.
At early morn, when all was still,
God gave His great command;
In silent peace she passed away,
Into the Better Land.
Sadly missed and always remembered by all her children 47-1p



ALBERT LAJOIE
In loving memory of a precious grandfather who passed away Nov. 26, 1994.
God has called our Grandpa,
Away from a world of strife.
To shine among the angels,
In a fairer, brighter life.
Our hearts are full of sorrow,
And tears have dimmed our eyes.
But we shall meet him once again,
In the home beyond the skies. 47-1p
Love you always Grandpa, Grace

DALKEITH

JEAN MACLENNAN
874-2385

The Dalkeith library had a successful "Microwave Cooking Workshop for Kids" on Thursday night.

Thanks to Joseph Fraser and Philip Desmarais as assistant cooks. Even with the microwave constantly shorting out the electrical system, they were able to demonstrate cooking porridge, eggs, weiners, bagel cheese melts and popcorn. The best part for everyone was the sampling and making hot chocolate.

Thanks to all the kids and adults who came.

There is a large display of Christmas books out now for all ages.

Our next Christmas Craft workshop is Dec. 12 at 7 p.m.

All are welcome to participate.

Spaghetti supper a success

The Laggan Parent Council had a very successful evening when they served the Third Annual Spaghetti Supper.

Over 250 people enjoyed good food, good fun and a chance to socialize with friends and neighbours. It is truly a great community affair.

Many thanks to all the contributors of food and prizes.
