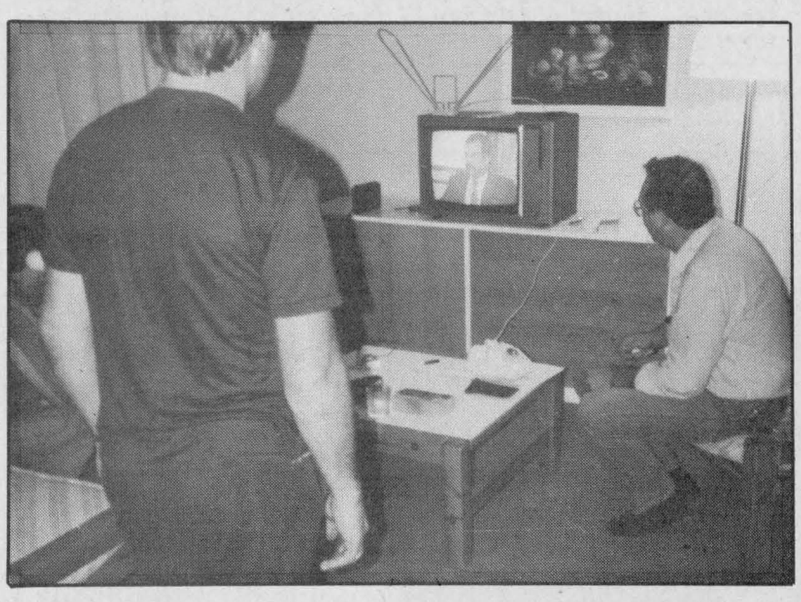
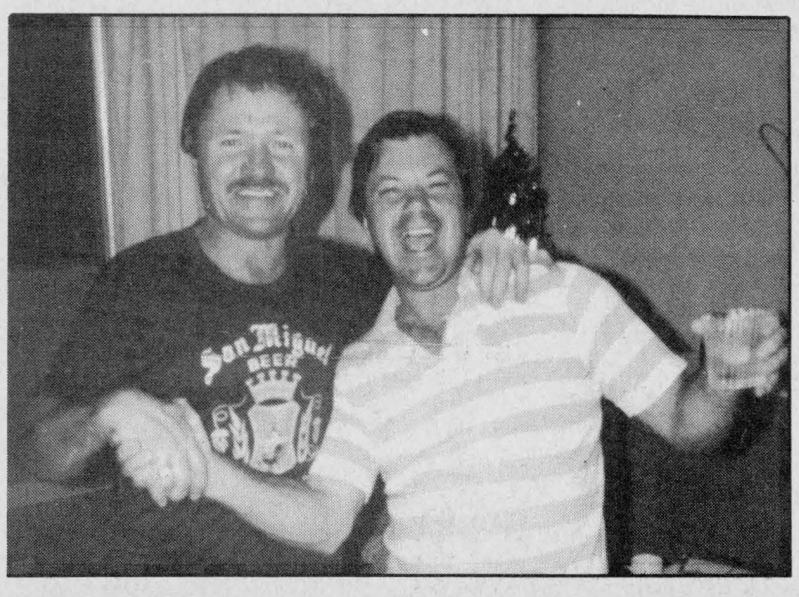
Trauma over for area families





Glengarrian among the 32 Canadians released from Iraq

By Faith Bloomfield
News* reporter

With the recent release of 32 Canadians from Iraq and Kuwàit, no one is more relieved than the MacDonalds of RR1 North Lancaster.

And 15 family members were there when the Boeing 747 carrying Hughie MacDonald and the other 323 hostages and family members landed at Mirabel Monday.

The reunion was exciting and tearful, in fact the front page photo of Monday's Montreal Gazette features MacDonald, son of John B. and Aileen, in an emotional embrace with his brother, Cameron.

The 44-year-old MacDonald, who has worked in the oil industry for 25 years, was working in Iraq alongside 11 other Canadians.

He had some trouble explaining how he felt about finally being home after being held hostage since the Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

He said there were a thousand times when he wondered when they would get out, and there were times when he "thought we'd never get out."

"It's hard to describe the feeling, the excitement and happiness. I do know that it feels good," he said, Tuesday.

MacDonald was working as a driller with the Arab Drilling and Workover Company in the town of Kirkuk, when President Suddam Hussein ordered the invasion.

It seems that the Americans are following him around, or at least that's what MacDonald's brothers joked about with him. He was also in Libya during the 1986 American air attack.

Although he said they weren't treated badly, no one ever knew what was going to happen next.

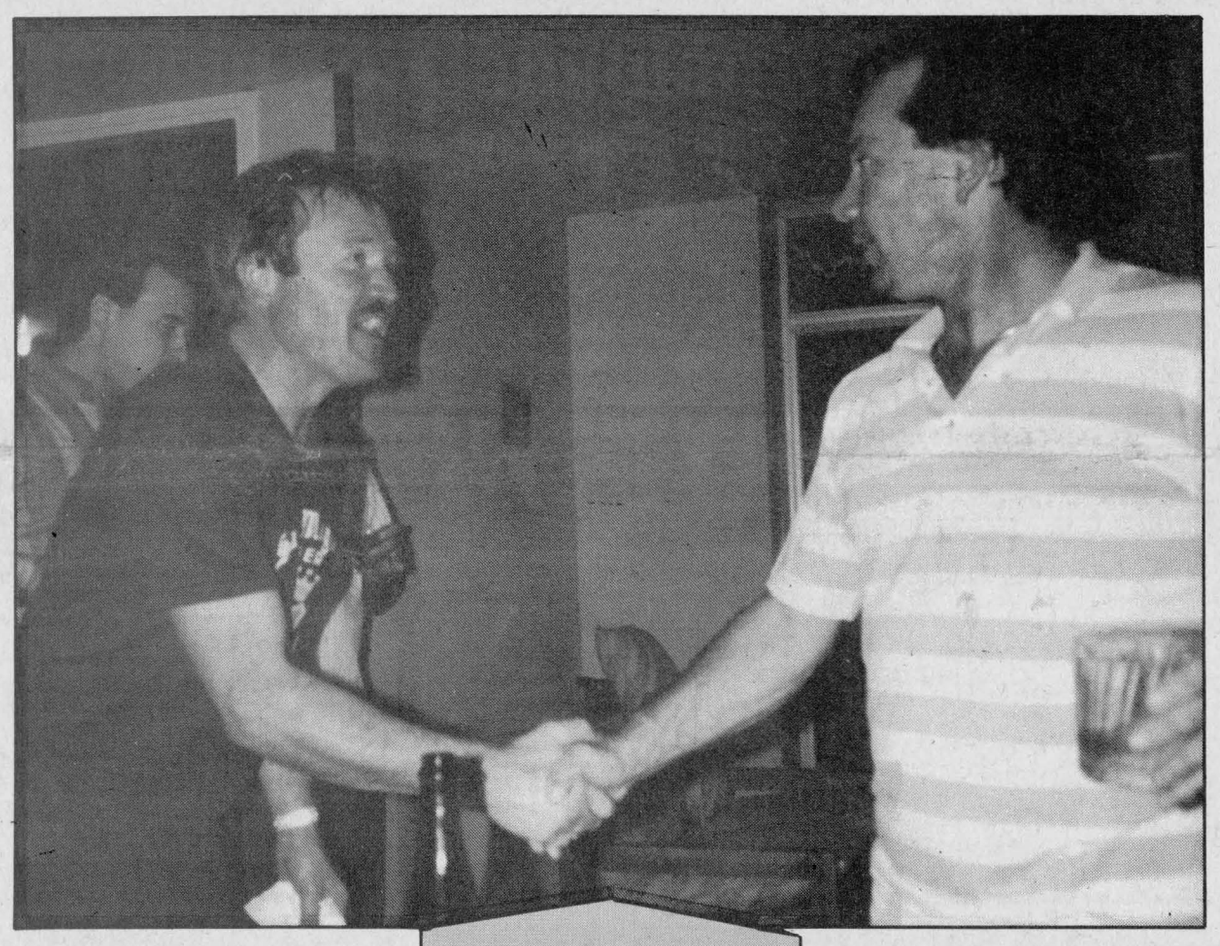
"The worst of it was not knowing what would happen from one day to the next. If war would've broken out, our lives would've been in danger," said MacDonald, adding that it was tense, but it was much worse in Kuwait.

After the invasion, MacDonald and the other crew members kept working the fields. Then, he explained, there were some problems with other workers and a scarcity of rice and vegetables.

"We all got together and quit. Then they threatened to throw us in jail or send us to strategic target areas," he said.

Eventually they returned to work, but the problems continued and Canada's Ambassador Chris Pool stepped in.

He helped the crew get their passports and residence cards back, after they were confiscated in August, said MacDonald.



The above photos were taken in Hugh MacDonald's hotel room in Baghdad during the dramatic televised announcement (above left) by Saddam Hussein that foreign hostages would be released. Seconds later, the partying began as Hugh (above left) and British national John Stevenson congratulate each other's good fortune. MacDonald was among the 32 Canadians who got home.

The crew was confined to their camp most of the time, but when their papers were returned, MacDonald said they moved to a Baghdad hotel for the last month, with very few restrictions and good communications to North America.

"At least one person a day would phone and the message would be relayed from family to family. Once we were in Baghdad, we could pretty well phone everyday," he said.

With Christmas less than two weeks away, his mother said she's already received the best gift: her son's safe return and his presence for the holidays

His future plans?

"I'll be looking for work in Alberta for the remainder of the winter and then I'm considering going overseas again."

Life begins anew for family separated for three years

For the manager of the Mac's Milk in Alexandria, Christmas came early. After waiting more than three years, Joseph Abboud was reunited with his family Nov. 30.

His wife Vania, daughters Rita, 17, and Nadine, 15, and Buddy, a five-year- old son he barely knew, were supposed to arrive in September, but as is common when dealing with two sets of bureaucracies delays occured.

They finally received their visas and arrived from Lebanon, via London, to an anxious and excited Joseph waiting in Mirabel airport.

The Abbouds are Lebanese. They lived in a small, occupied village called Chekka where Joseph was mayor — like his father and grandfather before him.

As mayor, Joseph was ordered to falsify documents for the Syrian army. When he refused, some trouble started, so he left for Canada Oct. 18, 1987.

He left behind his 86-year-old mother, two sisters and a brother, not to mention his immediate family. He wasn't sure if he would ever see them again until he received word from MP Don Boudria that they had received their papers.

Busy adjusting to the change in climate — Buddy always wants to play in the snow - the family is also getting used to the peace.

As Nadine put it, it's nice to be treated like a human being and respected. She also mentioned a fact that many of us take for granted, the freedom.

"In Chekka everybody had to be sleeping by 6 p.m.," added Joseph's cousin, Eddy Nasr.

Nasr himself left Chekka in 1974 and after living in different areas around Canada settled in Alexandria one-and-a-half years ago. He owns Eddy's Pizza and Donair.

Joseph, who arrived in Canada in Nova Scotia two years ago and stayed with a cousin, moved to Cornwall where he managed a Mac's store.

But after visiting Nasr's new hometown, Joseph decided he would also like to live in Alexandria.

"It's like Chekka. It's a little town, everybody knows everybody and it's friendly," he said.

So in September, when the former managers of the town's store moved out west, Joseph moved in.

For the first little while, no definite plans are being pursued.

But a family reunion is being organized.

Vania's sister, who lives in Boston, and Joseph's eastern cousins will join the Abbouds and Nasrs to celebrate the new arrivals in what will probably be a memorable Christmas.

And after the holidays, it's back to school for the three kids.

Nadine and Rita are happy with the thought of meeting new schoolmates at ESRG (they speak some French, and a little English) and Buddy will go to St. Joseph's.

The family would like to thank Don Boudria, Rev. Colin MacDonald and the town for their support and confidence.

GTL may be sold to Canadian transport company in new year

Glengarry Transport Limited in Alexandria may be sold to another large Canadian transport company in the new year, a GTL official confirmed Monday.

Paul Poirier, vice-president of the GTL Transport Group Inc, the corporation's umbrella company, admitted there is the prospect that GTL might be involved in a joint venture with another company, one which he describes as a positive move for the local company.

If GTL is sold, Poirier assured the move would be to strengthen the company without altering its traditional identity, jeopardizing present staff or relocating the Alexandria office.

"If this is to happen, the GTL identity would very much remain. Jobs would be protected; the seniority of our employees would be recognized in the event of a merger with another group of employees. This is something that could ensure the future of Glengarry which has seen hard times with (transport) deregulations," he said.

Another GTL official who asked not to be named said Tuesday that widespread rumors about impending layoffs and disruption are just hearsay and have no base in fact as matters now stand.

Poirier refused to name the company which might purchase GTL because negotiations are still proceeding. He did say, however the merger would make the local operation more capable of withstanding hard economic times.

"Other companies might have a larger war chest to sustain a difficult time and a merger with another large Canadian company would make the company that much stronger," he said.

GTL employs about 1,700 people, including brokers, and is privately owned by the Lefebvre family. The business was started in 1947 by Glengarrian Gerard Lefebvre who has been succeeded by his son Gilles.

Final year of Loch Garry water plan will submerge 1,300 acres

By Michael O'Dwyer
News* editor

The Raisin Region Conservation Authority (RRCA) has reached the last stages of a three-year project to raise the water level in Loch Garry, Alexandria's fresh water source.

RRCA Manager Michel Lalonde said Wednesday the Authority is in the process of securing flooding easements from about 44 property owners around the Kenyon Twp. lake before raising the level of the lake by one foot beginning in the spring of 1992.

The additional 12 inches of depth will flood 1,300 acres of private shoreline property for which the RRCA, with financial help from the Ministry of Natural Resources, plans to spend about $300,000 in compensation.

Lalonde explained Loch Garry is shallow and the extra foot in depth will represent 350 million gallons more water in the reservoir, approximately the volume consumed by the town of Alexandria each year.

"We're doing it to assure the town a reliable water supply primarily during the drought in the summertime. If we start off in the spring with an additional foot, it supplies us with more security and safeguards the existing supply," he said asserting the extra water in the lake is not to satisfy future development in Alexandria.

Land owners will be paid the assessed value of the land which will be submerged, as much as $29,000 for one low-lying parcel.

While the majority appears to support the project, two landowners have said they will not voluntarily sell their shoreline property.

James Steele, presently of Perth, and Joseph Dobo, Apple Hill, refused to sign the property easements and the RRCA has started proceedings to expropriate the land.

"We'll justify it to a hearing board, and if they side with us, we will get their land for the market value," Lalonde said.

Neither Steele nor Dobo were available to comment.

Although Kenyon has limited use of the lake water for drinking purposes, Reeve Finlay McDonell said the landowners around the lake are delighted with the raise in water level. He said he does not know why the property owners are objecting to the project.

The Corporation of the Town of Alexandria is the largest landowner on the lake and 100 of the town's acres will be submerged when the water level rises. The town was paid two dollars for the water easement.

Mayor Jean-Paul Touchette said he is thankful the project is finally coming to fruition.

"It's just them doing what we asked them to do. It's a necessity that we've been fighting for for years and there's absolutely no harm coming from it," the mayor said. The two dollar stipend was the minimum price for an easement.

Lalonde described most of the affected shoreline as undeveloped and marshy. Last fall, the RRCA raised and fortified the banks on several developed properties on the north shore of the lake so the rise in water level will not affect previously developed properties.

Loch Garry plan will submerge acres

Brian Clinton spends nine months every year on his Loch Garry property. He hasn't reached any conclusions about the project but said the extra water in the lake will have to be carefully controlled.

"The bucket is bigger so it has to be regulated," he said, noting the town of Alexandria is expanding development. "If they're using (the extra water) for a buffer, that's great. But who's going to control that? If it's controlled and implemented the way they've conceived it, it should work out," Clinton said.

Before deciding to raise the lake level, the RRCA conducted three years of research which included surveys, appraisals and consultation with government agencies.

Among the positive effects of the increased water depth is a healthier environment for the lake's marine life.

Lalonde explained that during the winter, there will be more water beneath the ice and fewer fish will die from lack of available oxygen. During the summer months, the greater water depth will make the bottom of the lake slightly cooler, more healthy for fish.

Spending smart

Terrence Wheeler dies at 58

By Bruce Myers
News* correspondent

"I'll go and see Mr. Wheeler at the guidance office. He'll help me out."

For almost a decade, that was the old standby that almost anyone at Glengarry District High School (GDHS) could use if they found themselves in a fix.

Whether it was a timetable conflict, personal problem, or debate over which university to attend, Terrence ("Terry") Patrick Wheeler was always there to lend students a hand.

Mr. Wheeler died suddenly at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall on Sunday. He was 58 years old.

A graduate of St. Michael's College of the University of Toronto, Mr. Wheeler was on staff at GDHS for 23 years.

He started out teaching history when he first arrived at Glengarry in 1967. He became head of the guidance department in 1982, however, and there made his greatest impact on the student body.

Every student came into contact with Mr. Wheeler. He was the first teacher Grade 8 students met before they entered the big and mysterious world of high school. And he was the teacher who played the biggest role in students' final months at Glengarry, helping fill out university and college applications — helping them make some of the biggest decisions in their lives.

His influence on the school extended beyond the walls of the guidance office, though.

A prolific booster of all school activities, he was always more than willing to donate his spare time to student projects. And one would never see a soccer game at GDHS that didn't have Mr. Wheeler out on the sidelines cheering on the home team.

Terry Wheeler's impact on Glengarry District High School, and the community, will not be easy to forget; he has directly contributed to the future of this county like no other.

The students he has helped and guided over the years are his legacy.

He leaves behind wife Miriam MacGregor, and daughters Paula Christine and Tonya Marie Wheeler of St. Andrews West.

He was son to Christina Janet Ann McGillis of Janet MacDonell Pavilion in Cornwall, and the late Dennis Wheeler.

Also surviving him are brothers Anthony (Tony) and John Morris of St. Andrews West, and Kevin of Brockville, and sisters Valerie (Mrs. Roger Edwards), also of Brockville, Mary Ann (Mrs. Lawrence Boyle) and Noreen of Ottawa, and Julie of St. Catherines.

He was predeceased by brothers Garrett and Joseph Gabriel ("Gabe").

Funeral services are today (Wednesday) at 2 p.m. at St. Andrews West Roman Catholic Church. He will be interred in the parish cemetery.

Cultural centre finds a new home

By Michael O'Dwyer
News* editor

Alexandria's francophone cultural centre may soon have a new home. Directors are awaiting the go-ahead for a one-acre lot in the industrial park to begin building by spring.

President of Les Trois P'tits Points Jean-Claude Larocque said the centre has put in an offer for a one-acre lot owned by the town and he's just waiting for the green light on funding and zoning he said.

The offer for the $22,500 property north of the water tower on MacDonald Boulevard is conditional upon a zoning change and financing from the federal and provincial governments.

Alexandria Clerk-treasurer Leo Poirier said the change in the zoning from industrial to institutional should be effective 30 days from today and should not hinder the new development.

And the government funding looks positive according to Larocque, but "obviously the change in government has created some delay because of new ministers and the new government that is in place now."

When government funding is approved, he said he will approach the community with local fundraising efforts. "We hope we will have answers within a few weeks," he said.

The centre, which has a membership of about 150 people, is presently housed in Ecole Perpetuel Secours. All of the centre's frequent events and concerts must be held in other locations which have available space.

The new centre will change all that.

"We want to continue the programs we have with the elemenatry schools all through the Glengarry area but accomodate the shows for adults in the new centre," he said. The building will feature a hall with a capacity of 150 to 200 people. The new site will also house cultural centre offices and space for workshops.

General director of the centre Michel Guerin said the new premises will give the centre a lot more visibility and help Les Trois P'tits Points better serve the community.

Larocque agreed. "I think the new building will promote the cultural events. A lot of people are still not aware that there is a cultural centre and having a physical location should help a lot," he said.

The proposed new building may also be home to a new francophone community health centre, although the two organizations are independant.

Cultural centre directors have no binding contract, however they have received letters of confirmation that the health centre would locate in the proposed new building.

Lancaster brings in Christmas

With more than 20 floats, this year's Lancaster Santa Claus Parade was truly a success. Prizes were awarded for best overall floats — 1st, 2nd and 3rd prizes, most original float, best out-of-town float, best youth achievement float, best business float, etc. etc. Pictured above are Claire Leger's Little Quack of Ducks (winner of the third best overall and best walking costume) who performed the bird dance to everyone's delight.

Impaired suspect testifies, trial adjourned until Dec. 21

A verdict in the case of James F. Adams, an East Boundary Road resident charged with alcohol-related offences, is expected to be rendered next week.

By 4:20 p.m. Dec. 6 in Alexandria Provincial Court — the fourth day of the trial which has spanned six months — defence and prosecuting lawyers had presented and heard all witnesses. But insufficient time to hear lawyer's submissions and to consider a verdict lead Judge Reginald Levesque to adjourn the trial until Friday, Dec. 21 at 10 a.m.

Adams was charged on March 18, 1989, with operating a motor vehicle while having a blood-alcohol level exceeding the legal limit and with operating a motor vehicle while his ability was impaired by alcohol. Charges were laid after his vehicle struck a 45-year-old man crossing Main Street.

A breathalyzer test on March 18, 1989 reflected that Adams had almost 240 mgs of alcohol in 100 mls of blood, three times the legal limit permitted for driver's operating motor vehicles. Witnesses who spoke to Adams almost immediately after he got out of his car said there was an odor of aleohol on his breath.

However, Adams previously testified that he had only had one beer after geting up that morning and that after the accident he drank a tumbler — approximately 12 oz. in capacity — of scotch served to him in the office of Ottawa House manager Edith Topolniski. The accident had occurred outside the hotel and Adams helped the victim into the establishment.

Adams, under cross-examination by Crown Attorney Guy Simard when the trial adjourned on Nov. 1, was the first witness to take the stand on Thursday.

Simard reminded Adams that evidence showed he had been looking for a way to get out of the charges and had told Lancaster OPP to delay proceeding with the charges until he had contacted "friends in Toronto to get it (charges) dropped."

When Simard and defence Lawyer Thomas Swabey finished questioning Adams, Levesque said "you would use whatever influence you would have in your possession for a way out of the charge... It is somewhat bizarre to observe that notwithstanding your looking for a way out.. that you did not disclose that you consumed alcohol after the accident. Can you explain that?"

Adams replied, "Yes, I was trying to use influence to get out of it. The reason I did not disclose (that he'd had a drink in the hotel was because) it would put Mrs. Topolinski's licence in jeopardy." He added, he would rather lose his driver's licence than have disclosed information that would have cost Topolinski her liquor licence.

He decided to tell his lawyer about the drink after the hotel burned down, he said.

Later, Simard pointed out that Topolinski did not own the hotel, and so would not have been the one to lose the liquor licence. Adams replied that at the time, he did not know whether she owned the hotel.

Mavic MacPherson, a barmaid at the Ottawa House at the time of the accident, and a witness for the defence, testified that she poured Adams a drink in a 12 oz. glass about 10-15 minutes after the accident. When asked what the drink was, she replied that it had been scotch, a "brown" liquor.

She also told Swabey that an Alexandria police officer had been in to see her later that day, before 6 p.m., to ask whether Adams had had alcohol in the hotel earlier that day. She said she told the officer that Adams had a drink, but did not tell him what kind of liquor Adams had consumed. She also told Swabey that she did not see the police officer taking notes of her statement and that she could not remember how many officers there were, who they were, or what time they came.

During cross-examination, Simard asked whether she knew all the Alexandria police officers. MacPherson replied that she did and later said she believed one of the police officers to come to the Ottawa House was Paul Deveau.

Simard also asked whether MacPherson remembered talking to Alexandria police officer Const. Bob Latreille around 4:50 p.m. that afternoon, on Main Street south of the Ottawa House, and asking the officer "about Adams."

She said she couldn't have seen him at 4:50 p.m., because at that time, she did not get off work at the hotel until 6 p.m.

A forensic consultant, called to the stand by the defence, told the court that if a person consumed alcohol from 7 p.m. until 4:15 a.m. the following morning and then had another drink at between 10 to 10:30 a.m. there would be a "strong odor of alcohol, or that which is associated with alcohol."

The consultant, Dr. Auseklis Percons also said that people cannot distinguish the type of liquor consumed by breath odor, because it is not the alcohol which produces the odor, but rather substances within the human body.

BIA meeting held despite stall petition

By Michael O'Dwyer
News* editor

Eighteen Alexandria business operators and BIA proponents met for a third information meeting Dec. 5 despite a petition circulating in town to delay the meeting until the new year.

The Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce executive, sponsoring the drive for a BIA in town, decided to hold the meeting regardless of the movement by 19 business owners to stall the establishment of a Business Improvement Area (BIA) on Main Street.

The petition was officially presented to the Chamber minutes before the start of the Wednesday night meeting.

The executive partially respected the wishes of the petitioners, however, and agreed to delay asking town council to pass a motion designating the BIA. The Chamber will hold another information meeting in January, the place and time to be named later.

The Wednesday night session, meeting chairman Joe Banks said, was a follow up to the previous two gatherings. In response to concerns over the cost of the program which arose during the previous, sometimes stormy meeting Nov. 21, coordinator Bill Gallant presented business owners a proposed three-year budget to explain how a BIA might operate.

Banks stressed to the gathering that the budget estimates were for discussion purposes only and that a BIA board of management would ultimately decide how much or how little to spend.

The proposed budget projected a cost in the first year of $60,500, $83,600 in the second year and $94,350 in the third. Those figures sparked some controversy over the cost and the focus of the BIA. The proposed Alexandria budget was compared with BIA budgets in Almonte ($15,800 per year) and Pembroke ($105,000 per year).

"The problem I have is that two-thirds of your budget is administration. In Almonte, there is only one-fifth of the costs in administration. In other words, we're spending $39,000 in administration with only $21,000 going to the town," said Renald Theoret of Sky High Video.

Included in the first year administrative cost is not only office and accounting equipment but also $24,900 in wages for a full-time coordinator and town promoter.

Gary Brennan of Sunscoop said he thought it was "ridiculous" to have a coordinator and administrative costs of almost $30,000 when the Almonte BIA operates on a total budget of only $15,000.

Gilles Paradis reminded the audience that the Alexandria's proposed budget is subject to revision by members and the BIA board of directors and serves only as an example for business operators.

"The board can throw it in the garbage and make a completely new one," he said.

Banks added that while the Almonte BIA survives on $15,000 annually, the association only promotes two small events and it is not yet clear whether that town's BIA is effective.

Lawyer Jean-Marc Lefebvre, who was one of the plan's most outspoken critics at the last meeting, said he was quite satisfied with the direction of the BIA.

"I know the people sitting on the board will be us. I'm really pleased to know that we have the Almonte alternative, but I think the administrative costs in the budget are not that unrealistic," he said. Lefebvre's name is one of those which appears on the petition to postpone the BIA formation.

Alexandria's budget is based on four major events based on the seasons. In the second or third year, the budget features a major special theme event, likened to Maxville's Highland Games, which will draw thousands of spectators to the town.

Alexandria P.D. played role in manhunt

Alexandria police played an integral role in the arrest of a man sought for an armed robbery recently in Shawinigan, Quebec.

A Canada-wide warrant was put out by the RCMP for Armand Briere, 49, of Montreal, who committed the armed robbery while on parol for an earlier armed robbery conviction.

Alexandria police had received information that the man had been living in Alexandria since September. Alexandria police contacted Cornwall RCMP and Briere was arrested last Tuesday (Dec. 4) afternoon. He was then turned over to Montreal RCMP.

Theft of gas

Alexandria police say someone stole approximately $45 worth of gas from a Duggan Fuels truck parked in the yard on Bishop Street near the CN station.

The theft occurred sometime overnight Tuesday (Dec. 4) or Wednesday.

Single-car accidents

Lancaster detachment OPP investigated a pair of single-vehicle accidents over the week that resulted in severe damage.

On Friday at 8 a.m., a 1985 Pontiac sedan driven by Tina Michaud, 22, of Cornwall, was northbound on County Road 19 one kilomtre north of County Road 17 in Charlottenburgh Township when it attempted to pass a school bus on the slippery roadway.

The car went out of control and into the ditch, rolling onto its side.

There were no injuries.

Last Tuesday (Dec. 4) at 11 p.m., a 1981 GMC van driven by Eugene Thompson of Rexdale was eastbound on Hwy. 401 near the CNR crossing in Charlottenburgh Township when it went hit black ice, went out of control and flipped over.

There were no injuries.

Police briefs

Impaired teenager nets hours not fine

A 16-year-old Charlottenburgh Township youth was ordered by Judge Reginald Levesque on Dec. 6 to carry out 40 hours of community service work and has had his driver's licence suspended for one year after being found guilty of driving a motor vehicle while having a blood-alcohol level exceeding the legal limit.

Alexandria Provincial Court was told the youth had been stopped by Lancaster OPP on Dec. 2, after turning his vehicle around to avoid a RIDE checkpoint on Cty. Rd. 17 in Lancaster Township. Police pursued the youth.

Breathalyzer results netted at the Lancaster OPP detachment were 105 mgs of alcohol in 100 mls of blood.

The lawyer for the youth's defence said, "...peer pressure is not an excuse, but it causes young people to drive when they know they shouldn't."

She asked for a longer period of prohibition from driving in lieu of a high fine, explaining that the youth is a high school student who is not employed.

Judge Reginald Levesque told the accused that in sentencing, he was taking into account that the youth had stopped his vehicle on the road's shoulder shortly before the RIDE checkpoint and turned it around to avoid passing police officers.

The youth has no prior record.

Public or not

Come Jan 1, the GST isn't the only new piece of legislation the beleagured public will have to deal with. Ontario's new Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act has far-reaching implications for people seeking more access to their local government records from school boards to municipal offices.

On the surface, the act is a good idea. It sets out what's open to public eyes and what's not, a legislated dividing line between the public's right to know and its right to be protected.

But more than a few cursory peeks behind the legislation, and it's clear there are holes in it which can be filled with interpretation by bureaucrats as a means to withhold names, addresses and phone numbers.

That's because the law does two things as its name suggests. It guarantees (in theory) the public's right to examine records held by local municipalities, school boards and other agencies. At the same time, it officially protects a person's right to privacy. Obviously, there is going to be several times where the two interests will converge. And early reaction, at least according to reports in Ottawa, show that officials will choose the side of prudence and caution—and withhold material which even peripherally involves a person.

That means the legislation won't make it any more difficult for a municipal politician to prevent an individual from obtaining material on a potentially embarassing subject. And even if the law prevents him from doing that, the potential for delay may render the information virtually useless by the time it is finally disclosed.

The new law says that requests for information is to be processed within 30 days. Still, that process could be stretched out for months if third parties who are named in reports are asked for permission to release their names, or the municipality handling the information isn't sure what to do.

The implications are as deep and far-reaching for the media, which requires documentation to substantiate stories in the public interest. While the draft guidelines suggests releasing a name or address in some cases when the public's welfare is compromised, it's equally vague in other sections. Some records, it says can be disclosed where ''a compelling public interest in the disclosure of the record clearly outweighs the purpose of exemption.'' The ''compelling public interest'' isn't defined.

On the plus side, health inspection reports of area restaurants will be open to public scrutiny, as will the ratings of schools as they relate to student achievement.

But in its present form, the act remains a roughly-hewn piece of legislation that leaves too many doors open for abuse. Clearly, this was not its intent.

Christmas is here

The Christmas spirit is alive and well and living in Glengarry.

There's a very good feeling to the way the county's communities are celebrating the Christmas season this year. Far from withering, the holiday spirit is vibrant and alive throughout Glengarry, thanks in large measure to some innovative and ambitious work by volunteers.

But far more than the physical appearance of this time of year, Glengarrians have responded to the need by those less fortunate than themselves through food drives and donations of toys, money and time.

Particularly in Alexandria, the ways and means of gathering donations has demonstrated a determination by groups to see that no family or person goes through the holiday without some Christmas joy.

The town's Chamber of Commerce has wonderfully offered a gift wrapping service this Friday and Saturday. The only condition for wrapping — one food item per gift be donated to go into Christmas baskets for the needy. Yet, this is but one imaginative way groups have prompted people who have, to give to those who don't have.

The town itself has taken on a very festive atmosphere this year. High school students under the guidance of art teacher Gary Harris have painted the windows of several businesses with seasonal artwork. The Mill Square is brightly lit as always with a handsome Christmas tree, and combined with the several houses and streets, the town looks as dazzling as ever.

Of course, the Christmas parades deserve mention because of the enormous amount of work that goes into them.

The most positive aspect to most of the activities and the community parties accompanying them is that they're mostly free. That's important, especially during this recessionary year. It's one more element to the spirit of giving we can all sometimes take for granted.

And on top of everything, Glengarry's own Hugh MacDonald, a longtime Canadian ''guest'' of the Iraqi government throughout this Middle East crisis, is back home for the holidays with family and friends!

Yes, the Christmas season is truly here.

Fear of the unknown sets in

After Thoughts

Joe Banks

It's beginning to look a lot like . . . GST panic is setting in, as the Jan. 1 deadline looms before business and consumers like a great storm cloud on the horizon. Yet, there's more than one or two business folk around these parts who aren't past registering their business or talking to their cash register reps for the changeover.

It's true. Thanks to a late deluge of GST information, the uncertainty created by the actions of delirious Senators and the human nature among all of the rest of us known as procrastination, we stand before the Jan. 1 collectively, but mostly unprepared. The GST — the most reviled piece of Canadian legislation ever, stares us grimly in the face.

So here we are, facing the prospect of ordering invoices, receipts, software upgrades and wondering what it all will mean. Sure, there's a few of you who've done it already, and await the GST with a certain calm as a confident boxer would before a big fight.

But for the small-timer, who has scraped a living together thanks more to wits and instinct than any knowledge of debits and credits, GST remains one more awful burden to bear. Some are wondering if being self-employed is worth it any more.

It's something like being afraid of the dark. It's not the fear of the known, but of the unknown; the GST is no longer just one more tax. It's a symbol of the scourge of government which has lost its understanding of those fears. Computer models show GST anxiety only to be ''irrational'' based on no sound reasoning. But they are fears which have people talking about folding business, or curtailing it. And thoughts and eventual actions like that affect us all.

Some of our customers, nervously eyeing the GST requirements, are talking about cutting back advertising because of the tax. We, in turn, have to rush in and explain that advertising for a commercial business is considered an ''input tax credit'' in GST jargon, as is any expense businesses have to absorb to operate. The bottom line is, the tax on that ad is 100 per cent refundable when the business is 100 per cent a commercial activity. Customers lose some credits only when the business they advertise has 10 per cent commercial use or less. Tax credits between 10 and 100 are available on a proportionate basis.

Painstaking customer education like that is just a piece of the side effects of the GST's onset. And there's a lot more question marks surrounding the tax than answers right now. The timing couldn't have been worse, but Canadians haven't protested in a way to tempt the government to delay its implementation or cancel it completely.

The options are simple; we cope or quit. There was a time when there was no question of what we did — we always coped. It was part of the Canadian spirit and beyond that, a challenge in the face of adversity. But what we were is no longer what we are. Eroding unity, cuts to Canadian culture through vehicles like CBC and VIA Rail; the will to see past it all — and the GST — is waning.

Sure, we'll grudgingly go through the motions, a result of our habit of quiet resignation which was tested this year more than any other.

Some will quit, but the nation is still not financed by quitters. No, the bulk of us will cope with the GST in these days leading up to Jan. 1, the same way we coped with Oka, Meech Lake and more recently, a recession. After all, they all passed didn't they?

And today, we're a ''different country'' for them.

Sex offences must be stopped

Pen Thoughts

Michael O'Dwyer

Little Andrea Atkinson won't suffer any more pain. The six year-old child was killed shortly after she was beaten and sexually assaulted. The assailant, may be a very, very sick teenaged man who has finally been arrested six weeks after the death of the little girl.

The culprit raped and killed the child who was on her way to play with one of her little friends on the next floor of the Toronto apartment building where Andrea and her mother lived.

The accused, a janitor in the building, was nabbed by police about two weeks ago and is awaiting trial for the first degree murder of the child.

If found guilty, he will eventually go to trial, he will probably be convicted of a lesser offence and he will be released in a very few years.

Such was the case of Murray Gartton in Kitchener. Gartton was released on parole in 1987 when he sexually assaulted a 15-year-old girl named Heather Corey, smothered her to death and set her body on fire. He pleaded guilty and was charged with second degree murder last Friday.

The crime for which the 39-year-old welder had been released when he cut short this young woman's life was almost identical. He served nine years of a 14-year sentence for the attempted murder of a 20-year-old woman who he raped, choked and left for dead in a field.

These crimes evoke seething rage in our communities. People want to kill these men, castrate them, anything to stop them from victimizing other children, possibly our own, and make them feel at least some of the pain they have inflicted upon their victims and families.

I am one of those people. I would like to see these people suffer a great deal. A couple years in the federal pen just doesn't seem to cut it.

But Canada doesn't allow capital punishment for any crimes and castration does not seem to appear anywhere in the Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

An interview with Dr. John Bradford, head of forensic psychiatry at the Royal Ottawa Hospital also revealed the matter of sexual offenders is not a simple one.

Doctors don't know the cause of pedophelia, he said. There is biological evidence that there is an abnormality involving the sex hormones and their response system which behave differently than in normal people. There is also some evidence that there is some genetic link and 35 per cent of men who molest children were themselves sexually abused.

What researchers do know is that men who have committed sexual offences with children often do so again if they are not treated — 48 per cent involving young boys will be repeat

Hydro shock is electrifying

That's Life

Lesley Cadham

Electricity can kill.

I should know, having come uncomfortably close to a head-on collision with a half-ton truck while deliberating the cause of a stroke-inducing Ontario Hydro bill. Who knows what was on the truck driver's mind, but I managed to emerge from an imaginary cloud of kilowatt hours and winged hundred-dollar bills long enough to give up the middle of the road.

The truth was, I'd become obsessed. The danger signals were all there: Sleepless nights, unopened mail, unstarted work and a strong disdain for television commercials cheerfully presenting houses engulfed in bright Christmas lights. Where do people get the money to keep all those lights burning from dusk until bedtime?

Worst of all, I had taken to camping out in front of the hydro meter with a flashlight, waiting for the register to stop turning.

And not only did I spend more time watching the meter than I did the television, I began experimenting. I felt like the guy on Close Encounters of the Third Kind who persistently tried to recreate Devil's Mountain out of mushy substances such as mashed potatoes. His family finally left him.

My pre-occupation with the Hydro meter really began when I noticed the kilowatt register spinning like a 45-rpm record. I turned off the heat to see whether the baseboard heaters were the culprits. The register continued at its brisk pace. I turned off the refrigerator. Then the television. And all lights in the house.

''Light a candle and go on with your supper,'' I instructed my guests. ''I hope you brought extra sweaters: The luxury of dining in balmy 15 degree-celcius heat is about to end. I've lowered the heat to 13.''

Everyone left.

I went and turned off the hot water tank. The register finally came to a halt.

Then I called Ontario Hydro. A very kind person in the billing department told me that hot water tanks use more energy than clothes dryers and that aside from baseboard heaters, they are the biggest energy hogs in the home. She offered to send me a pamphlet which will tell me how much energy each home appliance and utility uses.

She also taught me how to read my meter and now, things don't look so bad. Yet.

If I think I'm already paying too much, wait until Ontario Hydro's 8.6 per cent increase and the GST take effect. The GST will tack another $5.61 onto an $85 monthly hydro bill.

A friend called the other day. ''Don't you love the Christmas season? There's electricity in the air,'' she asked.

''As long as I'm not paying for it,'' I replied.

Local priest continues pilgrimage

In the Glens

Angus McDonell

We wrote here in the last issue about the local members of a recent pilgrimage to the shrine at Medjugorje, Yugoslavia. It was headed by Ms Brenda Demers, Lancaster, and included Fathers Cameron and Maloney and St. Finnan's pastor, Father Bernard Cameron, who then continued on a deserving holiday both as a pilgrim and a tourist. He recounted his pleasant experiences in an interesting interview. We begin in Moscow after a 16-hour train ride from Helsinki.

Father Cameron described Moscow as an old city of nine million people. His tour guide registered him in a 24-storey hotel overlooking Red Square and the Kremlin. He was permitted to visit inside the Kremlin walls. The Kremlin actually is a walled estate of land where the Tsars once lived and ruled.

There are three churches; one a cathedral and another a basilica. ''The cathedral'', quoting Father Cameron, ''Of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary is a beautiful building and in September of this year a mass was celebrated for the first time since 1917 and attended by all the Ambassadors to Russia.'' Father Cameron continued, ''I counted 32 spires with crosses and most of which are lit at night.''

There are upwards of 100 Christian churches in Moscow and what impressed Father Cameron was the devotion of a younger generation who were born and grew to adulthood under Communistic rule. He noted that among the citizens in conversation a general two-word sentence prevails; ''I believe.'' He was perplexed with the extra courtesy extended to him and a cab driver explained that his visa was typed in Russia identifying him as a priest.

From Moscow Father Cameron visited Leningrad, located on the shores of the Baltic Sea, the second largest city in Russia. Here Father Cameron found many matters of interest and perhaps the most beautiful Cathedral in the world is that of St. Peter and Paul. The museum ''Hermitage'' the greatest of all Europe.

Father Cameron left Russia with a great desire to return, knowing that the present revolution will give the Russian people a freedom they desire.''

A unique tourist experience was encountered in Germany. Sharing a train compartment with a German railway executive, fluent in English; Father Cameron related that he was on his way to a town in the vicinity of Cologne where his father, Alexander, was among the first Canadian prisoners taken in World War I, Sept. 1915.

The heroics of the Canadian Forces in both wars is part of the Kaiser and Hitler legacy. This factor is evidenced when Father Cameron was invited to be an overnight guest of the official at his home where the ''red carpet'' was rolled out with dignity and friendship.

We shared Father Cameron's enthusiasm of his train ride along the famed Rhine River through the vineyards to Switzerland as was our route in 1964; Bea and I.

Father Cameron rates travelling through the Alps to Rome ''Offers the most beautiful scenery.'' In Rome he offered mass in St. Peter's Basilica, visited the Papal Gardens and the Vatican Museum.

From Italy Father Cameron became the pilgrim instead of a tourist as he again crossed the Alps to France and Portugal for prayerful visitations at the historic shrines of Lourdes and Fatima respectively. Then one more — the Shrine of Knock, in Ireland.

Reverting to the role of a tourist using the train and bus, Father Cameron encircled Ireland from Dublin south to Cork, Killarney, around to Galway Bay. Then it was across the Irish Sea to Fort William, Scotland.

Father Cameron's ancestors hail from Fort William. This is a town of some 3,000 residents, bordering Loch Linnhe, Inverness-shire, near Ben Nevis. It is among the most popular tourist centres in the

Local P.O. staff helps

To the editor:

As a resident of the town of Alexandria for over 25 years it's rather shocking to read that people with ''lock boxes'' are screaming at the post office, re: delivery of The Glengarry News (Page 1, Dec. 5 issue). If they can toddle to the post office to pick up their mail or have a friend look after it, why can't they stop by The News office or some of their favorite stores where it is available if they regularly have a problem?

First consideration should be given to rural delivery, and all R.R. Alexandria residents who subscribe are the ones who should get their paper on Wednesday if at all possible.

The local staff have always been courteous and helpful — and it's not their fault that delivery, in spite of all sorts of ''modern policies'' isn't as speedy as ''the good old days'' when a letter written in Montreal or Toronto on Wednesday would reach a country mailbox at 1:30 p.m. on the next day.

Along with other complaints, the employees aren't any happier stuffing our boxes with so called ''junk'' than we are dumping it in the waste baskets. Sure the P.O. makes money on it — but it should just be piled neatly on a shelf and if we are interested we can take it. The only possible exception would be the ones containing refundable coupons.

Think about it.

Sincerely,
H. I. MacKinnon (Mrs.)

What is a cleat?

To the editor:

The recipe for Cleat Wine which appeared in the recent ''Glengarry's Favorite Recipes,'' has aroused quite a bit of interest among your readers as to the organic identification of cleats!

I too have had problems in tracing the meaning of the old Yorkshire word, which, of course predates the athletic footwear so well known in North America.

Enquiries amongst acquaintances and family from the North of England were fruitless. However, further research into old English dialects uncovered the word ''clite'' used in Somerset for the plant Burdock. Also, the modern German word for Burdock is Klette.

So, our best guess, therefore (and that's all it is) is that Cleat Wine is Burdock Wine. While Dandelion and Burdock is still a popular beverage in England, it is an acquired taste and I cannot guarantee a successful outcome for this recipe!

Yours sincerely,
Carol Downing,
Alexandria.

Add voice to controversy

To the editor:

I should like to add my voice to the controversy surrounding the sale of cigarettes in drug stores.

This is supposed to be a free enterprise society whereby a merchant should be allowed to carry whatever goods he chooses. Most drug stores have become mini grocery stores, carrying items that do not pertain to the medical profession and I am not opposed to that. Cigarettes come under this heading and I do not feel that anyone, be it government, municipality, or a self appointed vigilante committee has the right to dictate where, I as a smoker, can or cannot buy my cigarettes.

As an adult I have the mental capabilities to understand that smoking may be hazardous to my health. However, it is my decision whether or not I choose to smoke.

There are laws to prevent minors from purchasing cigarettes. Enforce these laws rather than penalize us smokers. We have too much government as it is, let us make up our own minds.

It's time we started to stand up for our rights too. I'm tired of being a second class citizen because I choose to smoke.

Sincerely,
Julie Gaspar,
R.R. 1, Maxville

Canadians can help

To the editor:

The news reports indicate that this winter will be a time of severe food privation in the Soviet Union. I have heard people say: ''How I would like to send them some food!'' This, in spite of the goodwill, would be difficult for a lone individual to carry out. On the other hand, an organized group could arrange to send quantities of food. This letter is published in the hope of bringing together an ad hoc committee for this purpose. If interested, please call 527-2531.

The government of West Germany is presently supplying the Soviet Union with large quantities of foods. This action, which will help to cement future peace between old enemies, is a model for Canada and the United States. The purpose of the proposed ad hoc committee would be to organize private funding of food shipments, and also to promote public pressure on the Canadian government for large scale funding of grain shipments.

Remember Canadians in Gulf

To the editor:

In September, 934 Canadian men and women set sail on three war ships for the Persian Gulf. At this special time of year, it is fitting to remember them as they will be thousands of miles away from home for the holidays.

Their experience in the Persian Gulf varies from short periods of intense danger to longer stretches of boredom. Letters and cards will brighten their day.

All letters can be addressed to the Officers and Crew of:

HMCS Protecteur, HMCS Terra Nova and HMCS Athabaskan, FMO, Halifax, Nova Scotia, B3K 2K0.

Armed Forces personnel in Halifax will ensure your letters and cards are delivered.

Don Boudria,
MP, Glengarry-Prescott Russell.

Sex offences must be stopped

offenders and 35 per cent involving young girls. These figures are probably low because many such crimes are not reported.

While he said he would not consider surgical castration a solution to the problem, he did say that in cases where it has been performed it has been extremely effective: cases with 80 per cent rate of recurrence have been reduced to five per cent after castration. ''If this was cancer treatment it would be a miracle cure,'' he said.

Instead, Dr. Bradford and other physicians are using therapy and drugs instead of scalpals to treat deviant sexual behavior. He says exciting new treatments are on the horizon.

Part of the problem with repeat sex offenders is the justice system, he said.

''Jail is not the best place to get treatment. You're looking over your shoulder so you don't get a knife in the back,'' he said. ''And it's one thing treating them in prison, quite another when they are on the street where there are all the temptations. There is a problem with the coordination (between treatment and the justice system.)''

Dr. Bradford suggested the key to the solution is before the trial when offenders are most motivated. ''I think the opportunity is that place and time to get them evaluated and set up a treatment. The pretrial arena could be more useful rather than the trial.''

There doesn't appear any doubt that as long as people, young and old, continue to be victimized by repeat sexual offenders there is indeed a big problem. These are special crimes committed by very unhealthy individuals and perhaps call for special measures. What these measures are is the realm of professionals. That they are needed is for all to witness.

Local priest continues pilgrimage

Highlands. Father Cameron had no problem in researching his family history. As he entered the St. Mary's parish cemetery near the gate was a large tombstone in memory of Allan Cameron who gave his life with the troops of ''Bonnie Prince Charlie'' in the historic battle of Culloden Moor, Inverness-shire, Scotland, April 16, 1746.

A memorable pilgrimage-tourist holiday brought to a close in the Highlands where the sounds of the pibroch still echoed the battle command that it is a right to preserve Scottish heritage.

Everyone will be affected by GST implementation

By Faith Bloomfield
News* reporter

Everyone seems fed up with the GST, including area merchants forced to charge it.

It hasn't even been approved and already the Goods and Services Tax has cost people money preparing for its implementation.

The Lancaster Freshmart spent more than $10,000 buying two new cash registers equipped to track the GST and print receipts identifying what taxes, if any are being charged.

The registers they replaced didn't need to be upgraded and probably never would, as NCR (National Cash Register) refurbished them yearly, said owner Bruce Maynard.

He said grocery stores, especially small ones, are forced to put out huge amounts of money at a time when they can't really afford it.

"The government is forcing us into the '90s. The average store owner has no idea about this thing," he said.

In his opinion, he said the tax is a "nightmare" and it's creating "chaos in the marketplace."

As with all businesses, the grocery store's operating costs — deliveries, accounting fees, franchise fees, utilities, etc. — will be charged the GST.

As part of the new tax, the government is offering an input rebate to owners.

"First I take what I've paid out and minus what I've collected. The difference, I owe them or they owe me," explained Maynard, adding he figures it will take his bookkeepper more than 20 additional hours per week.

He said he'll have to figure out what products have GST, what have GST and the provincial sales tax (PST), and what have just the PST.

"The government is having us do their collecting for them," said Maynard.

And the owner of Danskin's Scottish Gift Shops in Alexandria and Maxville agreed.

Julia Danskin said with collecting the GST she "feels like we're (store owners) working for the government."

As a small business owner, Danskin does everything herself, including all the office work.

Although not too sure what she'll be required to do, Danskin is certain it will be very time-consuming to collect and separate both taxes, not to mention the mounds of paperwork involved.

She said she's hoping the tax will never happen, but if it does she can see the government disappearing under a pile of paperwork.

Danskin suggested that it's too bad people can't simply send all their tax money to one place, and "let them (the provincial and federal governments) fight over it themselves."

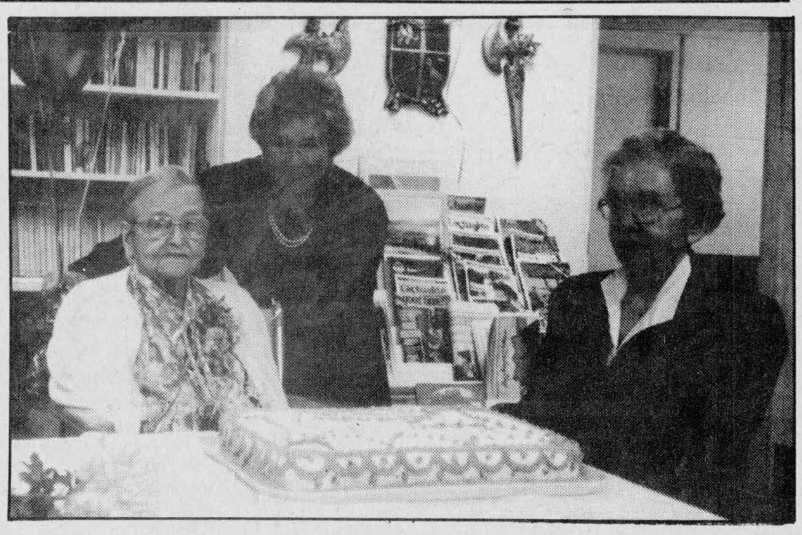
The government is giving retailers the option to include the GST directly into the ticketed prices or to add it at the cash the way the PST is added now.

Danskin said she thinks she will clearly identify where the money is going.

Theoret Video Inc., on Main Street Alexandria, has already started using receipts with a space for the GST to be shown.

Owner of the family-run video store, Hughette Theoret is also not sure what is expected.

And Maynard did find something positive about the proposed tax: "The only pleasing thing to me, is that in another two years Mulroney will know what we think of him and his tax."



Celebrating her centennial

Anna May Gourley celebrated her hundredth birthday on Friday, Dec. 7. Mrs. Gourley, who was born in East Hawkesbury in 1890, is presently a resident of the Community Nursing Home in Alexandria. She celebrated her special day with her two daughters (pictured above) Evelyn, who is also a resident of the Community Nursing Home and Vivian from Bermuda.

A team effort

The Hwy. 417 ramp north of McCrimmon Corners for traffic to and from Montreal was officially opened with a ribbon cutting last Friday morning. The ceremony completed three months of work at a cost of $525,000 funded by the Ministry of Transportation, said Gordon MacIntyre, general manager of Cornwall Gravel which had the contract for the project. Attending the opening, from the left, are: Caledonia councillors Roch Cadieux, Roger Souligny and Claude Taillon, Brett Clemens (MTO), W. Hawkesbury councillor Yves Deschenes, Reeve Niel Levac, Rudy Lorrain (MTO), MPP Prescott-Russel Jean Poirier, former transportation minister Ed Foulton, Caledonia Reeve Jean-Paul Charlebois, Bert Tarini (MTO), Lochiel Reeve Ron MacDonell, Kenyon Reeve Finlay McDonell, Leonard Boucher and Caledonia Roads Superintendant Gergoire Leroux.

Ouellette re-elected as chairman

Members of the SD&G Public Board of Education French Language Education Council (FLEC) once again chose Alexandrian Micheline Ouellette as chairman, and Daniel Morin as vice-chairman.

Ouellette, who has been with the public school board for nine years, said the biggest challenge the council is currently facing is the opening of the first French-language elementary school in the United Counties, scheduled for September 1991.

"We have the very strong intention of creating a school to be recognized by its excellent programs, the quality of its teaching staff and the emphasis to be placed on language and culture.

"The site has been chosen, purchases are being made, publicity is underway, administration will be chosen next month, with recruitment of staff and students to follow, and our programs will be established: In brief, we will be ready for September, 1991," said Ouellette.

Glengarry students wanting to attend the Cornwall school will be provided with transportation.

She continued, FLEC will work with the French-language section of the separate school board on common projects which, "while respecting our differences, will prove to be of benefit to the entire francophone community."

Also, in co-operation with the French language section of the separate school board, FLEC will continue to study the possibility of forming a separate French-language school board in the three united counties. Ouellette said the FLEC committee will do all it can to ensure that two French-language committees are heard at the same political level as other Ontario school boards, and given equal consideration.

Ouellette spent her first four years on the board serving on the French Language Advisory Committee and five years ago, became a trustee within FLEC.

Morin has been on the board for two years.

Hastings, Abraham re-elected

On the heels of his re-election as SD&G Public School Board chairman, Roy Hastings said his board will attempt to keep school tax increases down to single digits in 1991.

Hastings said though he cannot precisely say what the spring's budget will mean to taxpayers, "It will definitely be in the single digits, as close as we can come to the cost of living." Trustees are scheduled to begin pre-budget planning meetings this month.

Hastings, elected board chairman last December, was re-elected for a second term on Dec. 4, as was vice-chairman Brock Abraham.

Hastings jested, "If I didn't do it right last year, let me have the chance to do it over again."

However, on a more serious note, he said, "I was very pleased to have a second year..in politics, one can't be sure."

Hastings told trustees that he is surprised that the taxes he pays toward education is less than the tax he pays on gasoline, a small amount compared to what he pays in income tax and is less than his bills from Ontario Hydro and the fuel company.

"I'm even more surprised that my education taxes are only 66 per cent of my municipal taxes because the education system includes the operations and maintenance of 32 elementry schools, 10 secondary schools, an administration building, a resource centre and 165 bus routes. In addition, there are more than 1,300 employees and we are educating more than 12,000 students. It's an $80 million business."

Hastings later said, "This board will be attempting to keep tax hikes down to single digits."

He added, he could not promise what the spring's budget will mean to taxpayers, but said the increase will be as close to the cost of living hike as the board can get. Trustees will begin pre-budget planning meetings this month.

And to try to lower the cost of education, Hastings said he wants to form a joint committee with the SD&G Roman Catholic School Board to consider cost-saving measures by possibly arranging for each board to purchase services from one another, and to jointly purchase items such as supplies.

Expounding the virtues of the board, he said, "The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Public School Board is a model for fiscal responsibility...Only with this board is each trustee able to question an individual's cheque and only on this board can the potential deficit in a single cost centre be found before it happens...

The theory that budget is an all year planning process has increased our efficiency. The reporting of the monthly cheques and statements one week in advance of the finance committee's monthly meeting gives each trustee an opportunity to scrutinize each cheque and to examine the spending in each month in relation to budget for each cost centre. This practice of monitoring the spending is unique in Ontario..."

Maxville man heats home using corn

A new alternative energy source that its distributor predicts will be the "product of the nineties" was on display in Maxville Saturday afternoon.

It's the Dovetec Corn Stove — which uses corn as fuel — and over 200 curious people had a look at the demonstration model set up on the sidewalk in front of Home Hardware.

"With the cost of electricity and other sources of heat skyrocketing in the next few years, this product will take off," said Paul Wilson, president of Ottawa-based Enviro-Tec and distributer of Dovetec products in Glengarry County. "We've just been innundated with orders — it's really taking off."

On average, 200 units are being sold in Canada and the northern United States each week. Already more than 5,000 units have been purchased.

The corn stove — CSA and ULC approved — is an environmentally-friendly product in which no chimney is required and the combustion rate efficiency is 98 per cent. There is virtually no pollution involved with the self-contained unit. "Corn is the cleanest source of solid burning fuel available on the market today and that includes wood and oil," said Wilson, of St. Elmo. "The consumer is helping the environment and saving the cost of a chimney.

"It's a saving of 65 per cent over oil."

There were actually two units on display Saturday. One was a corn heater which produces 35,000 BTU's, and the other a central furnace producing 100,000 BTU's, "which would heat any house in Glengarry," Wilson said. A space heater producing 60,000 BTU's will be available later this month. In each case, corn is fed into the top of the unit and a rotating auger drops the corn into the fire pot.

The cost for each of the three units is in the $2,000 range.

The Dovetec Corn Stove dealer for Glengarry County is Bill Shields, owner of the Maxville Home Hardware. It takes one to two weeks for delivery.

Shields is interested in receiving inquiries from farmers who can supply corn as fuel. The corn first needs to be dried and cleaned. "We're hoping to work closely with the farmers," Shields said. "With the excess of corn there is right now this product will be very good for them too."

Shields is also hoping to come up with dealers for the product in the Alexandria and Lancaster areas.

Bill Shields dumps corn into revolutionary new heating unit.

Board ousts styrofoam cups

Two students of Dixon's Corners Public School, adamant that SD&G Public School Board members stop using the styrofoam cups that sit at the trustees' table at each board meeting, doled out mugs to board members last week.

Shortly after taking possession of the reusable drinking vessels, the board resolved to stop using styrofoam cups during board and committee meetings.

Students of Dixon's Corners, Cornwall Collegiate Vocational School and St. Lawrence High School attended the meeting and through skits and presentations, showed trustees what they are doing to promote a healthier environment and to save the world from waste overload.

Trustee Joe Gunn commended the students, saying, "They're helping us to clean up the world we have polluted and to make it environmentally safe.

Lancaster Township

Council briefs

The following were among the items discussed at the regular meeting of Lancaster Township council, held Nov. 21. All council members were present.

Council receives rare gift

It doesn't happen too often but a delegation showed up at the meeting offering money to council.

Joanne Stevenson gave the township, on behalf of the Bainsville Women's Institute, a cheque for $100 towards the maintenance of the Bainsville Women's Institute park.

The park was started last year to commemorate the W.I.'s anniversary. Together with the township the park was funded and is being tended.

Reassessment can wait

Correspondence discussed at the meeting included a response from the Ministry of Revenue regarding council's request to get the municipality reassessed.

The letter referred to a request from the United Counties of SD&G requesting a complete reassessment in 1992. It suggested the township wait and everyone will be reassessed at the same time.

Council agreed to wait.

A hazardous waste

According to the bills and Clerk/treasurer Michel Samson, the hazardous waste day held Sept. 29 was not worth it.

For the four-hour event, the township was billed $8,590 to be shared with the Ministry of Environment.

There was a base fee of $3,200 for transportation, and the cost ranged from $35 to $450 per barrel/drum. Six drums and 20 barrels were used.

Samson said some of the barrels were only half full and much of the garbage had to be brought to the dump anyhow.

He said paint tins were emptied into barrels and then tossed onto the dump truck, still containing hardened paint.

Samson said he doubts council will host the day again next year.

Terms on way to being official

The draft of a new set of terms of reference for an official plan and a zoning bylaw was sent to the Ministry of Municipal Affairs for approval after the county planner okayed changes made by council Nov. 7.

The terms will be made public when they have gone through the necessary steps and the document is no longer referred to as a draft.

The following items were among those dealt with at the regular meeting of Lancaster Township council Dec. 5. All members were present.

Delegates debate road widening

Two delegates addressed council regarding the widening of the road along concession 8.

Both Bernard MacDonald and Allan E. MacDonald were invited by the clerk to discuss selling their lots to the township.

There are 23 mature maple trees on the land belonging to Bernard MacDonald. He is hesitant to sell because he said "the trees are over 100 years old" and he "would hate to see them destroyed."

He suggested if council wants the land they should pay him extra for the trees.

Reeve Charlie Sangster said council would have to think about it and wouldn't be doing anything immediately.

Allan E. MacDonald was wary about signing the deed offered to him because he felt the township owed him interest. He built a fence more than two years ago around the 13-foot depth of his lot the township wanted to buy.

MacDonald said he felt once he built his fence, the land beyond it then belonged to the township.

He eventually consented and signed the document as council requested.

The road is being widened to improve drainage and make more room for snow plowing. Council also hopes to pave it in the future.

Connection method needed

Discussions about the current sewer project in Green Valley pointed out the necessity of a method for residents to connect their private services to the system.

Clerk/treasurer Mike Samson said residents will have to have a permit and an inspection will have to be made of each site before the connection will be made.

"Permits will cost $40, and with it the Ministry of Environment and the townships will state when the connection can be made," he said.

Samson also said the township of Charlottenburgh suggested Peter Newland from the MOE do the inspections.

Council decided Samson should prepare a bylaw regulating the use of the sewers and drains similar to one passed by Charlottenburgh Oct. 23.

Collection rate increase

Char-Lan Sanitation notified the township that the rates for garbage collection in South Lancaster would be increasing by five per cent in the new year.

This year's rates were $7,066 or $59.25 per residence, said Samson. Next year it will cost $7,420.

Encroachment policy planned

It may cost Alexandria $150 to apply for encroachment agreements if a new policy under consideration by the town is instituted.

The town is currently working on its first-ever policy which would spell out regulations and penalties for Alexandrians who own objects which encroach on town property. An encroachment could involve a sign hanging above a town sidewalk, or a building which exceeds the private property boundary and is built partially on public property.

It is not known whether the policy will be approved at the next council meeting, Dec. 4, as it will have to undergo the scrutiny of the town's solicitor before approval, said Clerk Leo Poirier.

After the policy is adopted, people "we're aware of" will have to apply for an encroachment, said Poirier. Alexandrians who have already entered into an encroachment agreement with the town will not be affected.

Previously, the town had no recourse when encroachments were committed. The town hoped its people would exercise common sense and not build on town property.

But once the policy becomes law, people committing encroachments will be required to apply for agreements. The matter would be handled by town council, but there would be no certainty that the town would approve the request. If a request was denied, the encroacher would have to remove the object or face having town employees do the job.

Originally, the town was considering a $50 encroachment application fee, however, the town's planning committee decided to increase the fee to $150 because of the time and effort which has to be put into drawing up the agreement.

"The town employees will have to work on it and the town should get money for that, instead of having the ratepayers pay for it when it is only to one person's benefit. One-hundred-and-fifty dollars is low," said Councillor Archie McDougall, also chairman of the planning committee.

Inquiry report still has question marks

By Bruce Myers
News* correspondent

The final report of an inquiry examining the conduct of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board (OMMB) regarding the approval of the sale of milk from cows treated with a controversial growth hormone still has the Glengarrian who asked for the inquiry asking questions.

Lorraine Lapointe, a Martintown dairy farmer, said that the report of the Farm Products Marketing Commission has still left several stones unturned, and she has not ruled out the possibility of pursuing her enquiries further.

The inquiry centered around the actions of the board during the later part of 1987. During that time, milk from cows undergoing experimentation with bovine somatotropin (BST) in Southern Ontario was being mixed with that of untreated cows and sold on the consumer market.

BST is alleged to increase the amount of milk a cow produces by as much as 25 per cent.

Lapointe wanted to know whether a formal decision had been made by the OMMB to do this, and why county milk committees and individual farmers were not asked their opinions before the action.

She first made this request to the commission in Sept. 1989, but was refused. Her appeal to the Farm Products Appeal Tribunal was successful, and the body ordered the commission to conduct an inquiry that would answer Lapointe's question, as well as a probe into how the OMMB develops, ratifies and implements its policies with regard to drug, chemical and hormone use in cows.

The fve-member inquiry finally met for two days in June, and just recently released its report.

Among its findings, the inquiry concluded that there was no requirement on the part of producers to inform the board of any drugs, chemicals or hormones not approved for commercial government use that were being used on cows.

The inquiry members also made a number of recommendations to the OMMB, including:

- That the board work toward a clear policy on the marketing of milk from dairy herds being tested with drugs, chemicals or hormones;
- That OMBB require all producers inform the board, in writing, of deliveries of milk from test cows;
- That the board work with all involved parties to reach a common policy on the use of drugs, chemicals and hormones;
- That OMMB monitor research more closely;
- And that the board work to keep its lines of communications with producers open.

"I'm satisfied with what I got," said Lapointe, in a Monday interview. Even though she said she feels her main objective — making OMMB accountable for its actions — was accomplished, she is still considering further action against the board. She stated she is consulting her attorney as to what her next move will be.

"I feel that there were some terms (of reference) that were not answered," she added.

But she did say that she thinks a major victory was won for milk producers and consumers as a result of the exercise. "The producers and consumers have a say in this, and society does have a say in science and technology, because we either benefit from it or we don't benefit from it," Lapointe said.

While Lapointe called the final result a "semi-victory", the OMMB also considered the inquiry's report a type of vindication.

Bill Mitchell, acting director of board/industry relations, said that even though the board is still studying the report, he said its members are "pleased" with the result.

"In general, I think the board was satisfied with the findings of the report," he added.

Mitchell offered that, while he liked the inquiry's recommendations, such as that the board institute a concise policy on BST and drug use and increased observation of experimentation, he explained that board policies on these matters already exist.

"The problem is that there is already a policy to market Grade A milk," he stated. "The policy is already clear. The board is already checking... marketing research."

Mitchell could not say whether the board was prepared to go another round with Lapointe over the issue, if she decides to pursue the issue further.

"The bottom line," he concluded, "is that we'll have to wait and see."

Lancaster Village

Council briefs

The regular monthly meeting of Lancaster Village council was held at the village office on Wednesday, Dec. 5. The following are among the items dealt with by council.

New directors for lodge

There have been two new directors appointed to the Glen Cairn Lodge Lancaster & Distict Non-Profit Housing Inc.

Bringing to eight the total number of directors are Lloyd McRae of Bainsville, and Jim Thompson of Lancaster.

Disposal fees up

Council has voted to accept a five per cent increase for the village's garbage collection. Char-Lan Sanitation will again pick up the garbage for the 1991 calendar year.

The increase means the village of Lancaster will be paying over $30,000 to dump its garbage. Besides the $15,000 cost, there is an annual $5,800 tipping fees charge.

The village also pays $9,228 to Charlottenburgh for use of the dump.

Holiday vote, parade donation

Council has donated $300 to the Village of Lancaster Santa Claus Parade. The parade was Saturday (Dec. 8).

Jan. 2 has been declared a civic holiday in the village by council.

Christmas wrapping

The Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce is inviting town shoppers to "rap" during a "wrap session this weekend, while helping the needy.

This Friday afternoon and evening, Saturday and Sunday, the Chamber will be offering a gift-wrapping service out of the building on 54 Main Street South, across from the Municipal Parking Lot. The cost? A bargain at one can or box of non-perishable food or an item of new clothing to assist the Lions Christmas basket drive for the area's needy.

VIPs from Club Richelieu, the Lions, The Optimists and others will be doing the wrapping.

The hours are as follows: Friday, Dec. 14 from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 15 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 16, from noon to 6 p.m.

Heating in the Winter. Air Conditioning in the Summer. It's all there, right under our Feet.

If you want to reduce your electric heating bill, look down at your feet. Now look a few feet further. Look at the earth itself. It could be your next source of heating and air conditioning.

Ground source heat pumps are designed to draw heat from the earth and pump it into your home. In the summer, the ground source heat pump reverses its operation. It extracts heat and humidity from your home and pumps it into the earth. The excess heat can also be used to heat domestic hot water or swimming pools and hot tubs.

This is truly the cleanest most efficient way to heat and air condition your home. And while ground source heat pumps cost more than traditional furnaces and air conditioners they soon pay for themselves with savings. That's why today's progressive home builders and renovators are specifying them for their clients.

Call us for more information about ground source heat pumps. You'll see that one of the most advanced technologies in heating and cooling is as old as the earth itself.

News from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in South Lancaster. On Sunday, Dec. 2, the church celebrated the Lord's Supper.

The congregation was pleased to welcome the following new members into the church family. By transfer of certificate — Mrs. Kathleen Leek and by Act of Session — Ronald Leek. During Communion service Bonnie Cumming, accompanied by Malcolm Cumming on piano, sang the beautiful hymn Come, O Long Expected Jesus.

Also on the same day, 18 members of the youth group went swimming at the Training Institute in Cornwall. Following the swim everyone drove to the Pizza Hut where pizzas were devoured by the score. The youth group also met this past Sunday evening at the home of Connie and John Ferguson for a spaghetti supper. The group then discussed plans for the Christmas Eve service. Everyone was assigned a scripture reading as well as other appropriate reading which will tie in with the theme of the service — "Christ is Come."

Thanks must be extended at this time to Connie and John Ferguson, Sonya Mulder and Ian MacMillan who continue to work hard and show such interest in the work of this important and worthwhile ministry. St. Andrew's Sunday School recently purchased a VCR which will be used as a teaching tool. Many Bible stories and Christian programs are now displayed on VCR cassettes so it is hoped that the Sunday school, the youth group and the Presbyterian women's group will benefit from the use of this new acquisition. Gifts of a color TV and a TV cabinet stand were donated to the Sunday School and were much appreciated.

Christmas activities are well under way. On Sunday, Dec. 16 at 11 a.m., the Sunday School will conduct the worship service. The teachers and young people have been very busy preparing their service of scripture and song and it is hoped that many will come out to encourage and support their efforts. Following the service a fellowship hour will take place in the church hall.

Sheila and Eric Urquhart recently returned from a week in Calgary where Eric had officiated at his first baptism held Dec. 1. Eric was very pleased to have been asked by his nephew, Michael Molloy, to travel to Calgary for the baptism of Michael's daughter, Mikhaila Marion. For those who know Michael, his little girl looks just like him.

News from Lancaster Public School. The school volleyball teams attended three tournaments during the week of Nov. 26. The senior girls started it off with an after school tournament at Iona. They came out the winners with a record of six wins, one tie and one loss, defeating the host team in the finals. The second tournament saw two co-ed teams travel to Tagwi on Nov. 28. One of the teams returned with the trophy without a single defeat for the day. Unfortunately the school's luck did not hold out one more day as the boys team went down to defeat at Iona in their after school tournament.

All in all, it must be said that all of the participants will emerge that much more talented in the field of volleyball in anticipation of their high school sports careers.

On Dec. 4 Mr. Nowickyj's senior band entertained the Lancaster seniors at the Legion Hall. It was the first of many requests to hear them play. On Dec. 12 the band will entertain the residents of Chateau Gardens. The primary grades made placemats for each resident and Mrs. Roy's Jr. and Sr. Kindergarten classes made cookies. A last reminder about the Christmas concert. The school is hoping seniors who wish to attend but need transportation will call 347-2648.

The baby parade is following Santa's

Williamstown
Sue Harrington
347-2279

As I was about to say last week, when I was cut short by that most horrible of modern day nuisances - time - congratulations to Karla and Bruno Major! Another grandson has joined the pack. This one's name is Brett and he is the son of Myles and Lori, who are, of course, also to be congratulated!

Buddy and Marion MacNaughton have a brand new grandchild as well. Brenna, the nine pound daughter of Shelley, and husband Mike Seguin, was born Monday in Kingston. And with this birth announcement comes a bit of a tale.

Apparently the new parents took their time going to the hospital - in fact they walked there at midnight! A leisurely, 20 minute, moonlight (?) stroll. The baby was born a couple of hours later and then, at four o'clock that same day, they all went home again.

The question being asked along the Fourth, is, naturally enough, "And did they walk on the way back?"

* * *

The baby parade may be just beginning, but the Santa Claus parade in Lancaster is finished for another year. And what a good parade it was! I don't say this just because Williamstown Public won first prize in the school float category, or because Charlottenburgh Nursery School and the Char-Lan Band had entries as well, but because it was a delight to watch.

Congratulations, Lancaster, on a good job, well done!

Principal Brian Loucks says that Williamstown Public's entry was a joint effort among parents, teachers, and students. Thanks to School Committee Pres. Lynn Lafave, teachers Cathy Kinloch, Sharon McCullough and Cheryl Lariviere, and parents Lorraine Lauzon, Verna Warden, Betty Doonan, and the, as of press time, unidentified man with the staple gun!

Thanks also to Karen Lauzon, Blaine Kinloch, and all the many children who went along for the ride. And, of course, to Gary Vallance, for providing the wheels.

While handing out thanks in such profusion, a great big one must go to the members of the Friendly Neighbors, for their recent Christmas Dinner, held at St. Mary's Centre.

President Rena Major welcomed the many members and guests on behalf of the club, and wished everyone well for Christmas and the New Year. Having instant luck were Edith Major and Kay Amell who won fruitcakes as door prizes.

It's much easier to say, "thank-you," than "I'm sorry." But sorry I am, for losing the Optimists news last week to that old thief mentioned in the opening paragraph. Poor Del Oxley wasted all that time talking to me, as well. But let's see what we can salvage, shall we?

The Optimists are busy doing good deeds in the community. At the moment they are working in cooperation with the Childen's Aid Society to raise money to buy snowsuits, etc. for needy children, and have already provided for at least twelve winter outfits. Should you wish to contribute to this cause, donations will be accepted at: Optimists' Winter Clothing Fund, Box 183, Williamstown, Ont., K0C 2J0. Tax receipts will be provided.

Members of the Optimists will ensure that Santa Claus gets to visit all the elementary schools in the area during the last week of school before the holidays. He also will not be forgetting the young of heart, either. Residents of Chateau Gardens will be visited and given gifts.

The Optimists have meetings every second Wednesday at Smithfield Hall at 8 p.m. If you would like the chance to give back to your community, cosider the possibility of membership. Contact Mrs. Oxley, or any Optimist for more information.

There now. Am I exonerated?

don't forget: Santa comes to the Firehall this Sunday, Dec. 16, between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. to have a word with all Williamstown and area girls and boys. This annual tradition, eagerly awaited by our children, is made possible through the dedication of our volunteer firemen.

* * *

It's dance time this Saturday night, the 15th, at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, as you are invited to come and "Meet the Rebels." The boys will be playing Kemptville, beginning at 7:45 p.m. and then afterwards you will get the chance to see the faces behind the masks, and, if you're lucky, get autographs as well!

If you've yet to take in a Jr. B game in Williamstown, plan to attend this one. Cheer the Rebels on, so that those faces are smiling at the dance!

Got your babysitter yet? St. Mary's Centre will be the site of toe tapping and glass clicking on New Year's Eve, as its annual dance is held. There will be party favors, a hot and cold buffet, and dancing to music by Ultra Video and Sound.

Everyone is welcome, and guess what? The tickets are reasonably priced!

A disturbing bit of news, now. Heather Pasco is currently a patient at the Ottawa Civic Hospital where she is recuperating from injuries suffered in a motor accident.

Heather was driving a vehicle which was struck from behind by a truck in Ottawa last week. The truck driver fled the scene, but witnesses were able to give police the licence number of his vehicle. Heather suffered fractured vertabrae as a result of the accident, but fortunately, after an operation, is expected to recover fully, although she will be in a brace for three months.

Heather has been working and attending Carleton University in Ottawa.

We will have a small skating rink at the school this year. This rink will be mainly available for our junior kindergarten to Grade 6. Hopefully students will be able to acquire skates over the holidays. Perhaps Santa may assist. I understand Archie's Golf Course on Vincent Massey Drive has a skate exchange. Please call before you go to check the availability of your required size.

Hot dogs will be served as usual on Dec. 14 and 21. Just a reminder that as of Jan. 11, hot dogs will go up in price to 75 cents.

Corey Kalsi and Rory Buchan are pleased to announce the winners in the Grade 5/6 photography contest. They are Simeon Rivier, Douglas Patterson and Dewey Wagar, first, second and third respectively. Congratulations to all.

The Christmas concert will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the school gym. All classes will be participating. The title is "The North Pole goes rock and roll" and much more. Wouldn't it be something to see Santa and Mrs. Claus dancing the jive or the boogie woogie. I don't know about you but I have to see this!

There will be early dismissal on Friday, Dec. 21. Children will be dismissed at 2:30 p.m. to begin the Christmas holidays. Classes will resume at 9 a.m. on Monday, Jan. 7, 1991. The staff at the school would like to wish everyone a happy, safe and restful holiday.

Three-year environmental education plan approved by board of education

A three-year environmental plan designed to educate students and the public about environmental conservation has been developed for schools under the SD&G Board of Education.

The plan, which includes initiatives to educate people and to put environmental conservation into practice, was developed by Superintendent of Education Colin Vickers and presented at the Nov. 27 board meeting.

"This is not just a recycling plan, but also a plan of reduction. Reducing paper should save our trees... We can do many things without spending a penny," said Vickers.

In a later interview Vickers said there are currently projects underway in many SD&G schools to promote waste management, such as recycling of tin, aluminum and paper.

And in the new year, the environmental plan will become part of the education system.

In 1991, plans include continuing current practices of recycling, reusing and reducing. They also include sponsoring a leadership conference for high school students interested in learning more about their environment and about school-based projects to improve the environment; providing funds for students and staff to attend conferences and forums dealing with the environment; reducing the consumption of paper products by 10 per cent; reducing the amount of travel done by board staff and teachers; providing transportation to schools to carry recyclable materials to depots; providing storage facilities for recyclable products; seeking ministry of environment support in locating buyers for products; expanding the use of recycled products; and forming an environmental education and practices advisory group.

A plan for 1992 to establish a full-time position for a co-ordinator, consultant and monitor for environmental education programs and practices lead some trustees to briefly question whether the board would be in a position to do it.

But trustees were assured that the plan would be subject to revision and the board's scrutiny each year.

Nine choirs unite for evening of Christmas music

Glen Sandfield
Lorna Chapman
874-2408

Friends and neighbors were delighted to be on hand for the recent 83rd birthday celebration dinner and musical program held in Glen Robertson for Daisy O'Neil (Jamieson).

The hostesses, Peg O'Neil and Jackie Brown, were delighted at the turnout for their mother's party. After the dinner Germain Lacombe entertained with songs that he accompanied on his guitar. Peg O'Neil also shared the program by singing and leading a sing-song. This evening is sure to be one of Mrs. O'Neil's most pleasant memories, shared with friends, on her special day.

Ecumenical Evening of Carols Very Successful

On Dec. 4 at Glen Sandfield United Church, nine choirs assembled to share in an evening of Christmas music and carols. St. Alexander's soloist was unable to attend, so there were but eight churches represented.

The evening began with a short mini-concert by several area fiddlers, accompanied by Karen MacLeod. Rev. Colin MacDonald welcomed the crowd of over 100 people, and all stood for the opening carol O Come All Ye Faithful, with verses sung in English, French and Latin. St. Martin of Tours' choir of Glen Robertson sang It Came Upon The Midnight Clear and Dans Cette Etable, followed by the congregational hymn Away in a Manger. It was a treat to have the Gaelic Men's Choir sing a Christmas lullaby in Gaelic, and In My Bonnie Native Glen in both English and Gaelic. Sine McKenna joined them for the lullaby. St. Andrew's choir of Dalhousie Mills sang Christians Awake. The Kirk Hill United Church Choir sang O Holy Night accompanied by Mrs. MacLeod. Glen Robertson's choir was accompanied by Germain Lacombe on the guitar. The St. Columba Presbyterian church choir was accompanied by Clara MacLeod as they sang Christmas in the Valley (by special request). St. Paul's choir of Dalkeith sang What Child is This and C'est Noël accompanied by Mike Gibbs on his guitar. East Hawkesbury United's choir sang Once in Royal David's City, accompanied by Stella Fraser on the pump organ, which she played for the singing of While Shepherds Watched by Night. Alexandria's Church on the Hill choir sang The Coventry Carol accompanied by Gerard Dachsael, who also played for the St. Andrew's choir. He too remained at the pump organ for the singing of the congregational carol Joy to the World.

Following the congregational carol Hark the Herald Angels Sing, an invitation was kindly extended by St. Andrew's United Church in Dalhousie Mills for the choirs to assembel in their church for the carol-sing in December 1991.

The Glen Sandfield choir sang How Great Our Joy, accompanied by Bessie MacLennan, who also played for most of the other carols. The area fiddlers joined the choirs and congregation for the singing of Silent Night accompanied by Karen MacLeod, and this carol was also sung in both English and French.

Rev. Colin MacDonald gave the benediction and refreshments were served to the seated crowd. The consensus of those who were there that evening was that this service was one of the most successful ever held. At first there were just seven churchs taking part, and it does seem to be a growing event, for this year nine choirs participated. It is becoming an annual tradition, bringing together Roman Catholic churches with both English and French choirs, United Churches and Presbyterian choirs, in a truly ecumenical sharing of the wonderful joy and music of Christmas.

McCrimmon WI Enjoy Christmas Party

The members and guests of McCrimmon WI attended a Christmas dinner meeting at St. Columba Presbyterian church on Dec. 6 which was catered by the ladies of the church. To say that it was the best ever would not be an exaggeration. The turkey and all the trimmings left the diners very well satisfied. At the end of the meal, the meeting was called to order by president Marguerite McGillis. Margaret MacPherson read the minutes, and Helen MacLeod the cheerful treasurer's report.

The roll call was "A Christmas card for a shut-in friend and a highlight of the year." There was a great variety of special events recalled. Among the group there were trips to Oklahoma, Waterloo convention, Edmonton, Hawaii, California, Cape Breton, Norfolk Virginia, boat trips, weddings, the births of grandchildren and great grandchildren, anniversaries celebrated, class reunions, and fairs. It sounded like a very full year for the ladies.

Mrs. McGowan acted as the delightful Santa Claus again this year, and the gifts were as usual as varied and beautiful as could be. The motto-commentary was given by Gretta MacDonald, and she spoke on "What I can spare? What can I share?" The joy that one finds in giving is shared by the one receiving the gift, and two people feel the warmth and pleasure of the gift. In olden times gifts usually were homemade, and each person given a present was receiving part of the person's time and love. You knew the time that the gift took to make was precious, and with you in mind, and so was very special and made just for you. She finished with a poem called "Come Share the Bird, the Bird, the Bird" and she had everyone in stitches.

Bertha Fraser reported on the successful landscaping course she had led recently, with Nan Campbell. Marion Urquhart distributed the tulip patterns and quilt blocks for the members to complete for the January meeting. Leaves and block were included in the package, along with the tulip pattern which each lady will make in her choice of print fabric. This is a new approach and seems to be a very economical method for the branch to follow. Most everyone has print scraps left over from sewing projects, so the overall colors will be a delightful surprise when it is completed. Bessie MacLennan took her place at the organ for the carol singing, led by Lorna Chapman.

As We Wish You a Merry Christmas and Auld Lang Syne rang out, it made everyone realize that it is indeed the end of 1990, and they would not meet before 1991. The group departed amidst happy holiday wishes being called back and forth throughout the group.

Bonnie, Nancy, Jamie Chapman, Michel and Carl Sabourin all of Ville LaSalle came up Sunday on their annual trek to Bill Aalders farm in Glen Robertson for their Christmas tree.

Afterwards they stopped in to see Bud and Lorna Chapman and also visited Joan and Richard Rigby and family of Dalkeith.

Santa Claus was delighted to meet more than 130 children and present them with gifts at the Christmas party sponsored by the Recreation Centre and the Optimist Club of Glen Robertson on Sunday afternoon.

Le Sablier, a group of drama students from ESRG put on a Christmas play, supervised by Jean Claude Larocque. Music was supplied by Germain Lacombe who played seasonal songs on his guitar with the children singing along. The cotton candy was a big hit too.

Marcel Larocque, past-president of the Optimist Club, marked a 40+ birthday at the party on Sunday. Tuesday, Dec. 11 Dianne Larocque turned 26 and wished she and Pierre were in their new home for the occasion.

The Optimist Club of Glen Robertson will be preparing Christmas baskets. Michel Rozon, at 874-2343, will gladly receive donations of both food and money to help in filling the baskets.

Don't look now but Lions tied with Rebs for final playoff spot

It could be said that Morrisburg Lions got Char-Lan Rebels attention Saturday night.

A lopsided 8-3 home ice loss to the last place club will do that to a team.

But then again, Rebels coach Randy Larocque already knew Lions would be no pushover as the two clubs battle for fourth place in the St. Lawrence Division.

"They've (Lions) improved quite a bit but I was expecting them to improve because Doug (Casselman) is a pretty good coach," said Rebels mentor Randy Larocque.

The win was Morrisburg's fourth in its last five games and here's a legitimate attention grabber: Lions clubbed Rideau Division leaders Gananoque Platers 8-6 Friday.

These guys aren't so bad after all. Coupled with its win Saturday, Lions now have 14 points and have pulled into a fourth place tie with Char-Lan. The top four teams in the St. Lawrence Division will make it to the playoffs. The fifth or last place team is out. It is only December but the EOJBHL schedule is only 34 games long and that means we're more than half-way through it. if you think there's a sense of urgency in the Char-Lan camp, you'd be right.

True, Larocque's troops have three games in hand, but just a few weeks ago they were closer to third place than they were fifth, and staying ahead of the once-woeful Lions was nothing more than an afterthought. All of a sudden Rebels are in a fight for their playoff lives.

"Never mind third place or fourth place or fifth place, our goal right now is just to start playing well," said Larocque, whose club took it on the chin again Sunday, losing 9-4 in Kemptville. "We've forgotten about doing the little things well; we started thinking we can play the 9-8 games when it's the 4-3 games we'll have to win to be successful.

"It seems like all the other clubs have improved and we haven't — we're playing at the same level. We've got to pick it up a notch before it's too late."

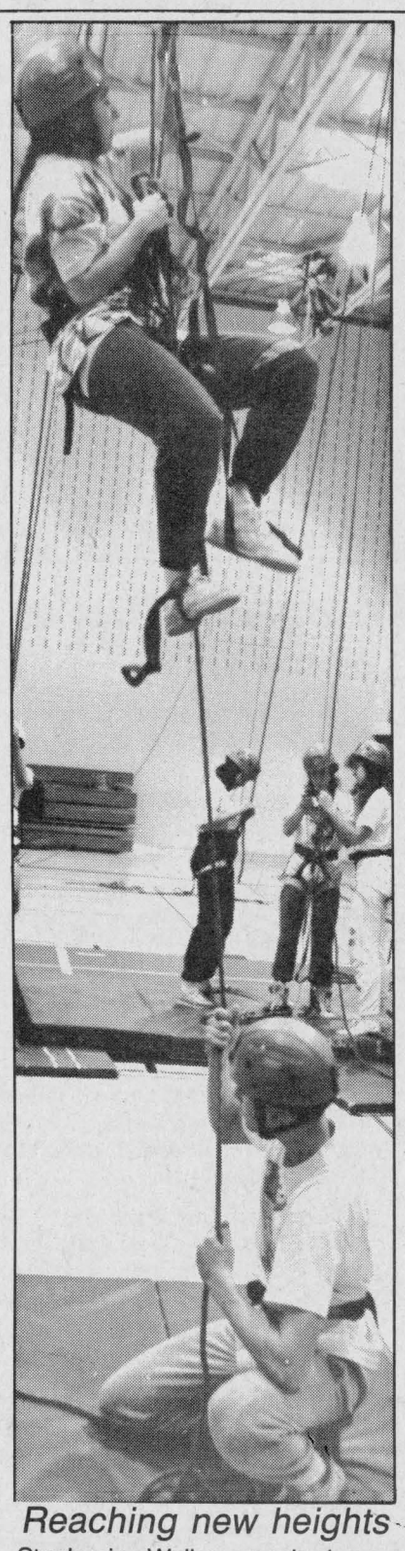
Casselman saw Saturday's encounter as a must-win for his team. "You're darn right it was," said Casselman, whose club was beaten twice earlier this season by Char-Lan. "We're fighting for a playoff spot and this is one we had to have.

"Our goal is to make the playoffs — anything else will be a bonus."

Char-Lan plays Morrisburg three more times this year. "That's what's going to decide it — the head-to-head games," Casselman said.

Morrisburg led 6-2 after two periods and outshot Char-Lan 48-34.

On Sunday, Rebels fell behind 6-0 in Kemptville after 12 minutes and dropped a 9-4 game. "I'm a little unhappy with our goaltending lately," Larocque said. "On Sunday we won the rest of the game 4-3 but it doesn't do you much good when you get so far behind so early."



Reaching new heights

Stephanie Walker reached new heights when her GDHS outdoor education class learned the fundamentals of rock climbing in the gym last Friday. The event, organized by phys-ed department head Tina Cairncross was instructed by Rob Chisnall, past president of the Ontario Rock Climbing Association. He is also a forensic knot expert and Guiness record holder for accomplishing the most one-finger chin-ups. Sixteen students participated in the course.

Glens win streak snapped

The Alexandria Glens' win streak ended at nine games Friday but did it conclude prematurely?

"I think it did," said Glens coach Pete DeRooy shortly after Alexandria's 8-4 home ice loss to surging Kemptville 73's. "I feel we should have won it. We had the chances to put them away."

And how. Glens had taken a 4-2 lead on a Glen Campbell goal with 16:27 left in the third period. And they were pressing for more, trying to deliver the knockout blow. There was a puck rattled off the crossbar and a few gilt-edged chances that went for naught. Then things went south. Kemptville, looking for its fifth straight win, reeled off six unanswered goals — in less than 10 minutes.

"That turned out to be the game — us not extending the lead when we had the chances. It wasn't that we sat back after going ahead 4-2...we just couldn't score any more."

The Kemptville offensive explosion capped a wild third period. The contest resembled a playoff game for two stanzas, with the score tied 1-1 and both goaltenders — Chris Bellefeuille (Alexandria) and Pete Spengler (Kemptville) — turning in solid efforts.

Things went haywire early in the third. With 18:51 left, Marc Sauve banged one in from the side of the net giving Glens a 2-1 lead. With 17:58 to go, Glens' Mike Sauve added what appeared to be an insurance goal, collecting a loose puck in the slot and scoring with a low drive to push the lead to 3-1.

Alexandria forward Glen Campbell (no. 6) battles for rebound Friday.

Kemptville got that one back cutting it to 3-2 with 17:46 remaining, but Campbell's goal restored Alexandria's two-goal lead. It was Alexandria's final marker.

A bad-angle shot from along the boards eluded Bellefeuille with 15:41 left and it was a 4-3 game. Jason Quesnel drilled in a powerplay slapshot blast from the top of the circle to tie it 4-4 with 10:08 to go, and on the same shift with 9:47 remaining, Andy Meth gave Kemptville the lead with a well-placed slapshot from the left circle that found the top right corner.

Kemptville closed out the scoring with goals at the 8:17, 7:19 and 6:02 marks.

Kemptville had taken a 1-0 lead six minutes into the first period; Glens came back to tie it up on Mike Sauve's first goal with 44 seconds left in the stanza. The second period was scoreless.

For 73's coach Lindsay Selleck, who took over for Doug Rigby six games ago — he was fired for discipline problems on the team — the outcome was never in doubt. "That's when we're dangerous — when we're behind," Selleck said. "We played

Midget Glens fall short

Alexandria Hope's Auto Parts Midget Glens fell short in their attempt to make it two in a row Sunday.

Glens were coming off a tournament "A" championship at Finch the previous weekend, but at an event in Chesterville Sunday, Alexandria was bounced out losing its semifinal game.

Glens were beaten 3-0 by host North Dundas Demons.

Demons went on to lose the tournament championship game 3-0 to Hawkesbury.

Alexandria beat a strong Canterbury club 3-2 in its first outing. Ricky Latreille, Stephane Pilon and Patrick Ravary each scored once for the winners.

Brad MacDonald, Luke Murray, and Steve Poirier contributed assists.

League result

In their Lower St. Lawrence Valley league home game Saturday, Glens turned back Char-Lan Rebels 5-0.

Victor Denobriga sparked the attack with a pair of goals. Randy Lavigueur, Randy Gebbie and Stephane Pilon each scored once.

Notching one assist each was Francois Ouellette, Michel Jeaurond and Luc Sabourin.

Glens play at Char-Lan tonight (Wednesday).

Rudi Payer Sport loses first game

Rudi Payer Sport fell from the ranks of the undefeated Sunday dropping its Cornwall Indoor Soccer League game to St. Lawrence Roadrunners, 5-3.

Roy MacDonald, Gareth Pye and Phil Poitras each scored a goal for Rudi Payer Sport.

Champions Roadhouse dealt Kortec Auto a 3-0 setback. The club's top scorer, Albert Bott, connected for a pair of markers. Sammy Nees added a single.

George Theoret turned in a strong goaltending performance to record the shutout.

In women's division action, Bergeron Blazers Under 16s topped MacMillan and Howes Hearts 2-1. Bonnie MacLeod scored the lone Hearts goal.

Meth haunts former team by scoring winning goal

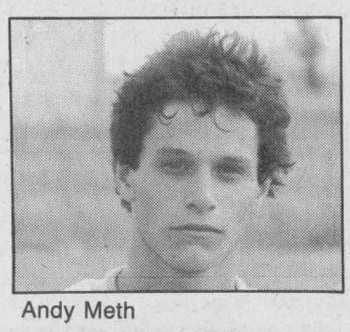
A former teammate came back to haunt Alexandria Glens Friday night.

Your ears were not deceiving you when they heard Glens P.A. announcer Steve Poirier utter the name Andy Meth four times during Kemptville 73's visit to Alexandria. Twice it was for assists, once for a penalty and the other time for what turned out to be the winning Kemptville goal midway through the third period.

"He's meant everything to us," said Kemptville coach Lindsay Selleck, whose team hasn't lost since Meth joined the club five games ago. "He's really picked up the offence."

Meth, playing on the left wing, has averaged three points per outing.

How did the Alexandria resident and former Glen wind up playing for Kemptville? It goes something like this: Last year, when Meth was skating for Concordia Stingers, Glens coach Peter DeRooy gazed into his crystal ball and figured Meth might be available to play Jr. B this season. Out of cards, DeRooy approached Kemptville coach Doug Rigby, who, as a favor, signed Meth making him elgible to play this campaign. The rights to Meth were turned over to Glens.



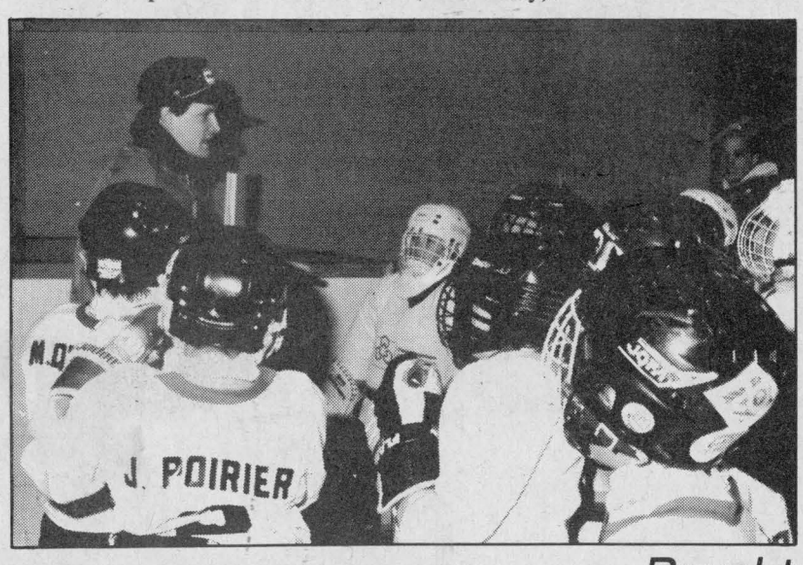
Andy Meth

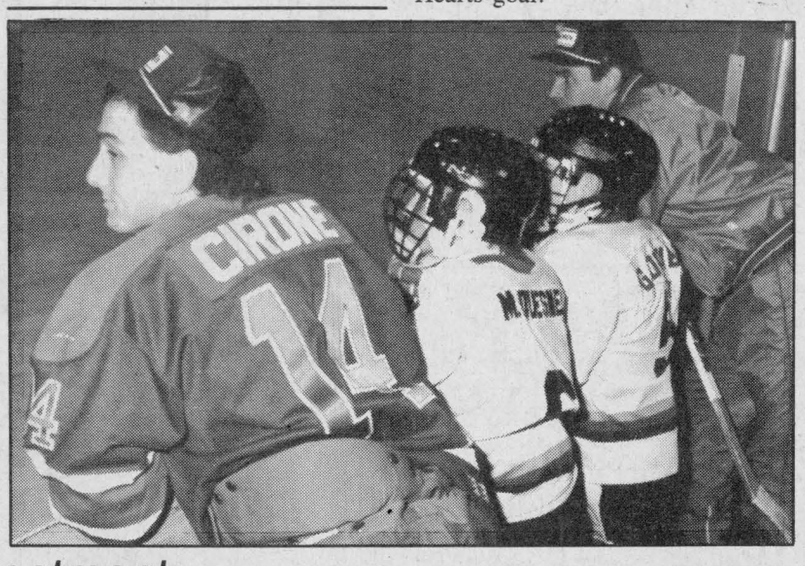
But earlier this season, Alexandria instead inked defenceman Luc Decoeur and forward Glen Campbell as their two overage 21-year old skaters. The rights to Meth reverted back to Kemptville and the 73's signed him as a free agent in mid-November.

"I'm sure glad they (Glens) sent him up here," Selleck said. "He's some kind of hockey player."

"I'm enjoying playing here (in Kemptville)," Meth said. "They're a good bunch of guys."

Meth said it was a strange feeling playing against his former team. "At the start I didn't feel like going out there...it's tough to faceoff against friends and guys I've played minor hockey with for years. But once they dropped the puck it was Kemptville against Alexandria."





Royal treatment

The Cornwall Royals of the Ontario Hockey League held a practice in Alexandria Monday night and when it was over, they shared the ice with the Alexandria Atom Glens for 45 minutes of drills and scrimmages. Left, Glens listen carefully to instructions from Royals coach Marc Crawford. Right, a couple of Glens played on a line with Royals star forward Jason Cirone.

County concensus: Fans glad Senators back in Ottawa

Todd Hambleton
Sports editor

I'm tired of writing. Anyway, the biggest story of the week was the Ottawa Senators getting an NHL franchise, so lets's just rap about it. We went to Champions Roadhouse in Alexandria to schmooze sports and the Senators.

It could have been any watering hole in the region: everywhere you went Friday people were still talking about the news that broke Thursday.

Where were you when you heard? Like a lot of people, Andre Major of Alexandria was in his car listening to the radio when he found out Ottawa was in. And like most people we talked to — in the area virtually equidistant from one of the oldest and newest NHL franchises — he's thrilled Ottawa now has a team.

"It's a darn good thing for the community," Major said. "Anyone who goes to the Riders games is going to see the Senators play. I intend to — they're now our local team."

What's that sound? Oh yeh, it's Montreal Canadiens fans shredding their newspapers. But even Habs fans are welcoming Ottawa to the league.

"I'm glad they (Ottawa) got in," said Montreal supporter Jerome Poirier of Alexandria. "But to tell you the truth, I don't think the people of Ottawa will support a team — there isn't enough of a fan base...look at the 67's (Ottawa's Jr. "A" team). All they can draw is 1,500 to 2,000 to a game.

"But I'm glad Ottawa will get the chance. I'll try to take in some games...it's going to be interesting."

It seems like a lot of people from Glengarry will be going to Senators games — whatever the cost. "I'll go see some games, even at 50 bucks a ticket," said Morris Lefebvre, of Alexandria, and one of several Bruins fans we spoke with. "There's talk that the ticket prices could be that expensive. I couldn't go every week, of course, but I'd want to see at least a couple of games."

Lefebvre admits he may be watching a sub-par on-ice product the first few years, but that doesn't bother him. "They could put peewees out on the ice the first few years and as long as they're wearing the Ottawa Senators jersey, people will support them — I will. But after the first few years the on-ice product will have to improve.

"This is such a hockey area. All the little communities around here like Alexandria, Casselman or Winchester are going to support this team."

This area does support Ottawa teams — just look at the number of Rough Rider fans from Glengarry. Allan Cameron of North Lancaster is a long-time Rough Riders fan, but his hockey allegiances are with Montreal. Is that a quandary? "I'll still support Montreal but I'll go to games in

Ottawa didn't have the market cornered in happy hockey fans this week. Fans in this neck of the woods were also whooping it up when the capital was granted an NHL franchise.

Local fans plan to support Ottawa Senators

Ottawa,'' said Cameron, who was a bit surprised Ottawa was awarded a team. ''Especially with the land problems they're having, it didn't look good. It looked like Hamilton and St. Petersburgh would get teams but neither did.''

''For sure I was surprised,'' said Dale Hambleton of Dalkeith. ''It's OK that they got it but I wouldn't have been depressed if Ottawa hadn't gotten in. It's better Ottawa than Hamilton and it's better that a Canadian city got it instead of another American one. What's the other team, Tampa? They don't even know who Gretzky is down there.''

Stanton MacDonald of MacCrimmon echoed Hambleton's sentiments. He too is only lukewarm to the idea of Ottawa being in the big league. ''I guess I'm glad they got a team but I won't have any time to go to the games,'' MacDonald said. ''Will they survive? I don't know if they'll even get started — there's no land yet for the Palladium.''

Anyway MacDonald is one of a rare breed — he supports the Maple Leafs. He won't be too concerned if the Senators lose a lot the first few years. He'll have his Toronto losing streaks to keep track of.

''I'm still going to support the Leafs,'' he said. ''I've always supported them and I'll stay with them until the day I die. Don't forget: they're the only team so far this year to hold Gretzky to one point.''

But we digress. Back to the Senators. ''I think it's really good (that Ottawa is in),'' said Randy Macdonald of Alexandria. ''But it's a darn good thing for the Senators that this is such a strong hockey area because Ottawa doesn't support didly squat.''

Rob MacDonald of Alexandria raised a number of interesting issues. He speculated that Ottawa 67's may lose their coach in the deal. ''I wouldn't be surprised to see Ottawa lose (Brian) Kilrea,'' MacDonald said. Will Ottawa lose the 67's? ''The 67's will survive but Hull may not. Except for Gretzky, the Hull team doesn't have much going for it.''

MacDonald is a Boston and Detroit fan but he's thrilled Ottawa got a team and he plans to support it. ''I'm very happy for Ottawa. There are good, comfortable seats at the Civic Centre and the Palladium is going to be beautiful.

''Financially, I think they're on solid ground... luxury boxes will help. There are enough big companies around to buy them up.''

Will there be enough tickets to go around? Gerald Flaro of Alexandria thinks so. ''I have a sister in Ottawa and she promised to get me tickets for the very first game,'' Flaro said. ''I go to games in Montreal four or five times a winter but now I hope to go to see Ottawa play every week.

''They'll be bad for a few years, but who knows — it didn't take the Islanders long to contend.''

''Nah, they won't contend for a few years,'' said Bob Johnson of Alexandria. ''But I'm still going to go up there...it's an hour and a quarter drive at the most to Kanata.''

SD&G champs

Tagwi Warriors midget boys volleyball team captured the SD&G ''A'' championship at a tournament Wednesday (Nov. 21) in Iroquois. Team members are, in front from the left, Jeremy Nixon, Todd Stelmach, Darrly Sobering, Chris Lefebvre, Dan Larsen, Adam Loyer and coach Joe Stelmach. Bantam Rapids lost to Ottawa

The Major 'AA' Bantam Rapids played one of their best games of the season last Wednesday. But they still ended up on the losing side of a 6-3 decision to the Ottawa Valley Titans, one of the top ranked bantam teams in Ontario.

Rapids played the Titans even for most of the game, but gave up three shorthanded goals.

Scoring for Rapids were Pat Cadieux of Maxville and Martin Laroche of Cornwall who each had a goal and an assist.

Chris Richards of Cornwall had the other goal.

Kemptville 73's making run at St. Lawrence Division leaders with a lot of heart tonight.

''We've got some good leaders and the team is in good physical condition. At no point did we count ourselves out of this one.''

Selleck has certainly turned the club around. Kemptville won again Sunday (9-4 over Char-Lan) and the 73's are now just a point behind first-place Glens. At the midway point of the season, two tiers have formed in the St. Lawrence Division. Glens, Kemptville and Winchester (now in third place) are battling it out for first, while Char-Lan and Morrisburg lag behind and are engaged in a struggle for the fourth and final playoff spot.

Glens over Brockville

Glens had skated their winning streak to nine games Wednesday night beating homestanding Brockville 5-3.

League-leading scorer Marc Sauve scored three times for Alexandria, which led at period intervals by scores of 3-2 and 5-3. Leading 3-2, Sauve completed his hat trick midway through the second pushing the Alexandria lead to 4-2. It was Glens third straight powerplay goal. Brockville narrowed the margin to 4-3 with seven minutes left in the second but Shawn Taggart restored the two-goal Alexandria lead scoring 1:14 before intermission.

The third period was scoreless. Luc Decoeur had the other Alexandria goal. Serge Bellefeuille collected three assists.

Both Gaels b-ball teams still unbeaten

Both Glengarry Gaels boys' basketball teams improved their SD&G Athletic Association regular season records to 2-0 Thursday scoring home court wins over Rothwell-Osnabruck Lancers.

Junior Gaels needed double overtime to slide past Lancers 67-62. Robert Meth led Gaels with 23 points. Scott McPherson contributed 14 points. A three-point basket late in the fourth quarter sent the contest to overtime.

The senior game was close, with Gaels pulling out a 61-58 decision. David MacDonald paced Glengarry with 18 points.

Lalonde Store Peewees lose exhibition game to Massena

VanderWielen dairy produces winning yields in Stormont County

Maxville
Gordon Winter
527-2888

Another local dairy farm has produced winners in the realm of yields. This time it is the herd of Vander Wielen Farms Inc., headed by father Tony and assisted by sons, Hubert and Frank, in Dyer.

This Holstein herd, for Stormont County, had the highest herd BCA of 202.5, the best BCA for over 50 cows, the best for a two-year-old at 256, and the best for a three-year-old at 245.6.

Congratulations go to this family which has been farming here for 26 years and which has prospered with hard work and good management.

With additional digging, evidence has been obtained at the pioneer cemetery that will enable the committee to seek funding to restore the cemetery. There is a list with ten names of the approximately 40 who may be buried there. If any of our readers have information of others who are buried there, this correspondent will be pleased to take the names. The original list of ten is attributed to the late Mrs. A. D. MacDougall and is familiar to the families of those on the list.

We extend sympathy to Mrs. L. W. (Annie) McKillican in the death of her sister, Margaret Hiney of Ottawa, and to all the nieces and nephews of Mrs. Hiney. Mrs. McKillican is the last member of her family which dates back many years in this area and which has contributed much to the community. At this time, we remember with gratitude brothers Allan and Duncan McDonald and sisters Mrs. Finlay McRae, St. Elmo east and Mrs. Hugh John McLennan, Baltics Corners.

Our hearts and sympathy go out to the widow of Larry Smith and her four young sons. Mr. Smith was killed in an auto accident near home on the 6th Con. Kenyon. The family was new to the area.

The Christmas party for the members of District 25 of the Superannuated Teachers of Ontario was held last week. In spite of the inclement weather, Claire Besner, Connie Blaney, Thelma Colbourne, Jean MacCuaig, Helen MacLeod, Shirley McGregor and Gordon Winter represented the retired teachers from this area.

To keep the record straight, Gordon McKillican was mentioned recently in the 80 years ago column of Auld Lang Syne as an agricultural teacher in Peterborough and this is not entirely correct. In 1910, Mr. McKillican, a graduate of OAC in Guelph, went to work in Peterborough in the office of the Agricultural Representative and while he may have gone to the schools on occasion, he was not a teacher.

Evelyn McColl has been spending some time in Peterborough to assist her daughter Elizabeth Roy and her family. Mrs. Roy is feeling better now.

Lorna Winter is presently in Windsor, providing grandmotherly services in the home of Colleen and Bill Blair.

Gordon Winter and his aunt, Catherine McEwen, were in Ottawa last week to assist Gladys and Gerald MacEwen celebrate the 50th anniversary of their marriage. Mrs. McEwen remained for a few days.

The village office is no longer headquarters for Ewen MacDonell. While still on call, Mr. MacDonell will not be there full time in his capacity as building inspector, zoning administrator and bylaw enforcement officer. We thank Mr. MacDonell for his courteous services over the many months of the Sanitary Sewer project.

Committee members appreciated the publicity given in last week's Glengarry News for the village's Centennial preparation. While I am considered the chairman of the Centennial book committee, many members of an active committee are working on this book and all deserve much credit for its preparation.

It has not been decided yet whether the book will have a hard or soft cover and the price of the book has not yet been set. A grant we were promised has been withdrawn but nevertheless, I hope the book will not cost any more than $40.

Two members, Shari MacIntosh and Amy MacEwen have received their trillium pins for having completed their sixth club.

Young-at-Heart Euchre

The first afternoon party of our seniors' club was a bit disappointing because of the weather forecast but all those there had the usual good time.

Margaret Cadieux, Alexandria, led the ladies with Queen Euchre, Gloria Rolland, coming second and Alice Richer, third.

For the gentlemen, Winston Van Putten, Apple Hill, had top score, Norbert Ryan came from Casselman to earn second best score and Hormidas St. John came in third but he also took home the door prize.

It paid Onagh Ross to drive from Martintown since she was a double winner in the 50-50 draw. Mr. Ryan was also lucky in this draw as were Laggan's well known farmer and euchre player, John McMaster, Dunvegan's horseman, Kenneth MacLeod, and Herbie O'Byrne.

There will be another afternoon euchre on Dec. 17 at 1:30. The dates for later ones, will be announced.

WMS presents life memberships

Dunvegan
Marion Loewen
527-2284

Christmas is almost with us once more. In the churches the Advent wreath is being lit each Sunday.

The first Sunday in December was the day the first candle was lit. It is the candle of hope. On the second Sunday in Advent the second candle, the candle of peace, was lit. The next two Sundays the candles of joy and love will be lighted. It is good to take the time from our busy schedule to think on these things and to renew our faith in the holy birth so that the stresses and strains of life will not become more than we can handle.

Choir practice will be held Wednesday evening (tonight) at 7:30 p.m. at Kenyon Church. A call has gone out for some male voices to join in and help over the Christmas season and especially Christmas Eve at 7:30 p.m. when there will be a candlelight service.

The Skye Women's Missionary Society held its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Doris MacIntosh.

The afternoon began with a lovely Christmas dinner, following which, president Flora Chisholm presided over the special Christmas service taken from the Glad Tidings. Several members took reading parts in this service.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the presentation of Honorary Life Membership certificates to two worthy members, Doris MacIntosh and Lynda Heinsma. Addresses were read by Bertie MacCrimmon and Eunice Nixon and presentations made by Mary MacDonald and Isabel MacLeod.

The roll call was answered by nine members and three visitors giving Christmas readings.

A motion was passed that no meetings would be held during the winter months.

Mrs. Stanford MacCrimmon presided over the election of officers, assisted by Mrs. Mary MacDonald.

The folllowing slate was chosen for 1991: past-president — Evelyn MacQueen, president — Flora Chisholm, vice-president — Eunice Nixon, secretary — Bertie MacCrimmon, treasurer — Doris MacIntosh, expense treasurer — Evelyn MacQueen, Glad Tidings and historian and press — Isabel MacLeod, literature — Mary MacDonald, and auditors — Lynda Heinsma and Marvel MacLeod.

Kenyon Women's Missionary Society

The December meeting of Kenyon WMS was held in the church hall. After a delicious luncheon, the worship service from the Glad Tidings was convened by Helen Grant assisted by Elizabeth Stewart, Hilda Campbell and Mary Fraser.

The program "Symbols of Christmas" was conducted by Helen Grant and Darlene Wild.

Murdie and Louise Clark and Chris of Kemptville were accompanied by Mrs. Dan MacRae of Maxville and Donald Clark of Dunvegan to Pointe Claire, Quebec, to spend the day and have dinner with Ron and Wilma Jelly and family.

Dunvegan Recreation Association

The D.R.A. has planned a ski trip to Saint Sauveur on Thursday, Jan. 3, 1991. Buses will leave Dunvegan at 8 a.m. sharp and return to Dunvegan about 5:30 p.m. The tickets will be on a first come, first served basis. For more information or to register, call Mary Ann McRae at 527-5774.

* * *

Curling anyone? The D.R.A will also hold their day of curling on Saturday, Jan. 12. If you are a curler or are interested in trying it, call Donna Addison at 527-5472 or Karen Campbell at 527-3009, but remember your name must be on the list by Jan. 6. There will be a roast beef supper that night for a small fee followed by a dance. The Merry Macs will be playing, so come out and have a lot of fun.

The W.I. will hold their annual Christmas supper and meeting on Thursday evening at 7 p.m. at the W.I. Hall.

On Friday in Prime Time at the Lancaster Library we listened to a very interesting presentation by Eileen Crites.

Eileen is a travel hostess for Venture Tours. She did run her own tours but decided to retire. However, as so often happens, about three months later, she received a call from Venture Tours, and she went back on the road again.

With Venture Tours the trips are geared for seniors, but you don't have to be a senior to participate. If you are alone you can ask for someone to share a room and they will try to pair you with another single.

There was a lovely tour leaving for Toronto and Niagara Falls to celebrate the Christmas season and view the lights. It sounded fantastic, but it was leaving — this week I believe. Oh well, maybe next year. If you want to know more, call me and I'll try to help you.

I got more information last week from a woman who comes from England about the location of where our "mystery" balloon may be from.

I wrote last week that Cornwall, England is situated near Newguay which is not quite right. Newguay should be spelled with a "q" — Newquay, and is a seaside resort on the north shore of Cornwall. Now Cornwall is a county in England. So from what I gather the balloon comes from Cornwall County in England.

Congratulations to Ivan and Roxanne Viau upon the birth of their son on Dec. 5. Derick was born at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall and weighed 7 lbs. 2 ozs. This is a brother for Justin. Proud grandparents are Emile and Colette Viau of Green Valley and Marcel and Pauline Bellefeuille of RR3 Alexandria.

A lovely Christmas party was held for the children who attend the Sunday daycare at Ste. Marie's Church last Sunday. The children and their families had lots of fun opening their gifts brought to them by "Santa" and snacking on all the goodies and joining in Christmas carols.

A special thanks to all involved in running the daycare. You're doing a fantastic job and the proof is when the kids never want to leave after mass.

A well-known and long-time resident of Green Valley passed away last week. Rene Goulet, 74, of the 8th Conc. of Lancaster passed away suddenly at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall. Mr. Goulet was a World War II veteran and had a life membership in the Legion.

He is survived by his wife Lucille (Rivet) and 10 children. They are Rene (his wife Brenda), Jeanne, Paul, Maurice, Aline, Agnes, Gerard and Irene, all of Green Valley; Lucie (Mrs. Renald Roy) of Alexandria and Helene of Cornwall.

The funeral was held on Saturday, Dec. 8 at Ste. Marie's church in Green Valley.

A belated birthday wish is sent out to Rachelle Leblanc on Dec. 7. Happy birthday to little Cathy Poulin who was one year old on Dec. 10 from her godmother Tammy Titley.

Sympathy is extended to Jacqueline Leger and her family upon the death of her cousin Pierre-Yves Carriere. Pierre-Yves was the son of Wilfrid Carriere who grew up in the Glen Nevis area.

Optimist News

This is a call to all Green Valley residents. Prepare your home (outdoors) for Christmas because the Optimist Club is sponsoring a "beautiful home" contest.

The club wishes to express its appreciation to the community for the Christmas spirit everyone is showing by the many lights and decorations on the many homes.

Next week three Optimist members will patrol the area to determine what home the club will compliment this year.

The Optimists are proud to announce that two local students from Ecole Secondaire Regionale Glengarry entered the Optimist Club's writing contest.

They are Patrick Carriere and Sylvain Menard. Both students will be honored by the club for their participtiion. This year's topic was "Freedom, is it a right or a privilege?" Thanks to the ESRG teachers for their support in this worthwhile project.

Keep a watchful eye peeled for the Optimist Club float in the Alexandria Christmas parade next Sunday, Dec. 16 at 2 p.m.

Speaking of Christmas, are you still looking for the perfect gift to buy for someone special on your list? Well, the Optimist Club has the answer! Tickets for the "Club 1000" draw are still available from any member.

The first draw for a trip to Acapulco (value of $3,000) will be held Jan. 27, 1991. During the six consecutive months, a draw will be held for $1,000 each. Ticket proceeds are for our youth and community projects.

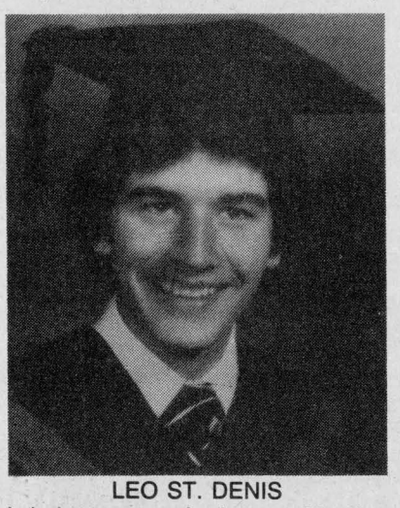
In Memoriam

WIGFIELD — In loving memory of a dear brother, brother-in-law and uncle, Ernest, who passed away on December 17, 1989.
We hold back the tears when we speak your name
But the ache in our hearts is still the same;
No one know the grief we share
When the family meets and you're not there.
—Sadly missed by Pearl, John, Brian, Rosanne, Joyce, Adrian and Cindy. 50-1p

McNEIL — In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother Anna Mae (Sally), who passed away Dec. 21, 1988.
We do not need a special day
To bring you to our minds,
The days we do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps one to forget,
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss you yet.
Memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by family. 51-1p



LEO ST. DENIS
In loving memory of a dear son & brother who passed away Dec. 11, 1981.
There will always be a heartache
And after a silent tear
Always precious memories
Of the days when you were here
We hold you close within our hearts
And there you will remain
To walk with us throughout our lives
Until we meet again
Always remembered by your family
Marie, Clarence, Roger, Dennis, Carolin & Donna.

Feeling Overloaded at Christmas?

We understand. At Ontario Hydro we get overloaded too! Christmas lights add to our load, so please don't turn your outside lights on until 7 p.m. and remember to turn them off at 11p.m.

Better still, create an extra cosy Christmas feeling while outside lights are on by turning most inside lights off.

Let's give tomorrow a hand.
Be a power saver.

GST?
THIS WEEK YOU ASKED THE GST CONSUMER INFORMATION OFFICE.

Q: I'm thinking of buying a new car in 1991. How will the proposed GST affect prices?

A: The outgoing Federal Sales Tax (FST) is now part of the price of new cars. So, while they will be fully taxed at 7% in 1991, the expected effect of replacing the FST with the GST on the average $22,000 mid-size car is a reduction of around $850.

Q: My son has figured out it will cost $500 in lumber to build a dock at our cottage if he bought it now. How much will that lumber cost with the proposed GST?

A: You can expect to pay about $512 for that same amount of lumber for personal use based solely on the changeover from the FST to the GST.

Q: I know the proposed GST won't apply to city bus fares but I take the commuter train to work. Will I have to pay GST?

A: No. Daily commuter trains are considered a municipal transit service, so fares are exempt from GST.

We're here to answer your questions about how the GST will affect prices. Call us toll-free Monday to Friday 9am-9pm. Ask for your free copy of the "Consumer's Guide to the GST and Prices."

The answer is to call your GST Consumer Information Office.

Culligan Water Conditioning

THE WATER TREATMENT PROFESSIONALS
1440 TENTH ST. E. 932-8044

In our province, good water is often hard to come by — and just plain hard.

That's why it's important to treat it right. Properly treated water will repay you — not just in its purity and softness, but in hard cash savings too.

Hard water can be expensive. It makes your clothes dull and grey, and they wear faster. It means you use more soap and waste more water. Corrosion destroys pipes and shortens the life of fixtures and appliances.

Iron in your water stains your bathroom fixtures, your laundry and your dishes.

Your family deserves the security of a clean healthful supply of safe drinking water.

The Cornwall location is ably managed by Bob McCrum.

The people at Culligan can test and evaluate your water, and then suggest the appropriate system suitable to your needs.

This company started as the Zeolite Company in Northbrook, Illinois in 1924, founded by Emmett J. Culligan. Known under its present name since 1936, this firm has expanded to serve over 96 countries with a vast network of over 1,350 dealers around the world.

Culligan offers the sale and rental of a comprehensive line of products and services to treat problem water conditions in homes, businesses and industries. These systems range from drinking water systems, iron removal, taste and odor control, to completely automatic water softening systems, water dispensers, and water coolers. Bottled water is available and a salt delivery service will ensure an adequate supply.

This firm stands behind their guarantees and always provide excellent after-the-sale service. That's why Culligan is still the leader by reputation.

SHORNEY'S OPTICAL

Have Great New Looks In Lenses
820 McConnell (contact lenses & hearing aids)
Cornwall Square 933-1084 — 938-0584

Lenses aren't just little glass "windows" anymore. Indeed, technology has "made a spectacle of itself" in recent years, providing a variety of new developments in lenses and lens treatments. In fact, even choosing complete eyewear has become a science, with video-enhanced, computerized equipment that transfers facial, frame and lens data to images of the prospective eyeglass wearer in alternate styles of eyewear.

SHORNEY'S OPTICAL, your eyecare professional, will help you choose the best vision correction possible and the most attractive alternatives in spectacle wear. And although you may be a layman when it comes to deciphering a spectacle prescription, there are some things you should know about what's in lenses.

For instance, if you're nearsighted to the point of being "blind as a bat", high-index lenses may be the best way to overcome the look of "bottle cap" lenses, those lenses that seem inches thick.

Scratch-resistant coatings are particularly helpful for those who tend to abuse their glasses.

Sunwear, for example, is today more often than not treated to filter out harmful ultraviolet (UV) and infrared (IR) rays.

There are also lenses that look like "upside-down bifocals" but actually are designed for people needing near vision correction above eye level, like painters and pilots.

If bifocals and trifocals are not cosmetically appealing, progressive lenses may be the way to go.

SHORNEY'S OPTICAL has been offering quality and personal service since 1928.

Superior PROPANE INC.

South Branch Rd., Cornwall 933-0224
Hwy. #2, Prescott 925-4815

A high-efficiency propane furnace can reduce your fuel bills. Conventional furnaces have an efficiency of 66 to 75 per cent. A high efficiency furnace is rated up to 98 per cent efficient. This translates into fuel savings that are ideal for both the home and cottage. See the selection of leading names such as Lennox "Pulse," Clare "Megasave," Duomatic Olsen "Ultramax" and Glow Core.

Superior Propane's water heaters are highly economical, fully automatic and four times faster than electric water heaters.

Consider Hunter or Warm Morning Wall Furnaces. Single or multi-room automatic propane heating comfort without costly duct work and registers. Front and optional side and rear outlets. Perfect for homes without basements. Sizes available from 35,000 to 85,000 BTU's.

Superior Propane also feature Warm Morning, Hunter, or Duo-Therm Space Heaters. Fully automatic propane space heaters are the ideal home heating supplement. Choose from models ranging in sizes from 20,000 to 65,000 BTU's.

How about their Dru, Hunter or Warm Morning Direct Wall Heaters. Units are installed directly to an outside wall. Room air is not used and there is no need for ducts, chimneys or even electricity. Direct vent heaters do not draw cold air into your home through doors and windows like conventional heaters. Perfect for cabins, room additions, sun rooms or garages.

Thinking about a fireplace? Try propane fireplaces by Dru, Valor or Hunter. No ashes to clean! No logs to carry! Just frame, glowing logs and warmth.

Superior Propane is one business in this area the people are really warming up to.

KALRIM CYCLES & SPORTS

Where Service is a Fact, Not a Promise
Boundary Rd., Progress Square 937-4488

In the early 1970s, millions of adults purchased cycles for exercise, racing or touring; many did so because bicycles don't have expensive repair and maintenance costs. The latest addition to the bicycle field in terms of popularity are the mountain bikes or all-terrain bikes. They were invented by hobbyists who borrowed parts and ideas from the hill climbing or dirt bike motorcycling sport. Utilizing the type of handlebars & brake levers found on motorcycles, lightweight racing bike gears, wide waffle-tread tires accompanied by heavy duty rims, a beefed-up frame and your leg power, you can take a mountain bike where most other bikes have never gone before and survive no damage. They are noted for their soft, cushioned ride and positive traction characteristics and are as at home on city streets as they are on the trails. KALRIM CYCLES AND SPORTS are recognized as the 3 united counties bike headquarters as they cater to a multitude of avid cyclist types and novices alike through knowledgeable sales, service and stock of parts or accessories.

KALRIM CYCLES AND SPORTS opened in March 1989 and is locally owned by COOKIE and his wife BETTY PARADIS-KALSI. Brand name bicycles include Raleigh, Gardin, Mongoose, Haro and Genesis Bianchi. They have a professional service department, custom wheel building service and repair all makes and models.

Who wouldn't love to find a new bicycle under the Christmas tree this year?

Although riding a bicycle is still a simple activity, buying a bicycle isn't. Bicycles are more specialized than ever and because of this it is important to buy from a bicycle specialty shop. There are more recreational bicycles than ever and some are made specifically for touring (and long distance and short-distance touring bikes differ substantially from one another). Then, there are racing bicycles in every class from beginner to expert, commuter bicycles, mountain bikes, BMX and more. It's not easy to gauge the value of bicycles, as sometimes a cheaper bicycle may not look different from a more expensive model, but there is a difference in material, frame work and general craftsmanship. At KALRIM CYCLES AND SPORTS they assemble, test and then re-check every bicycle before it leaves the shop.

Whether you are a beginner or a pro, stop in at KALRIM CYCLES AND SPORTS where customers are friends as we feel this business merits your patronage and our recommendation.

PLACING YOUR SATISFACTION BEFORE PROFIT
447-11 ST. W. 932-1194

Many thousands of motorists will experience some kind of disabling vehicle trouble this year. Although some mechanical difficulties cannot be anticipated, many highway breakdowns can be avoided through preventative maintenance.

Regular engine tuning is vital if you want to get the most from your energy dollar and it should be done at regular intervals. A winter tune-up is most important to get your engine ready for drastic temperature changes and by doing this, it can cut fuel consumption by up to 10 per cent.

Due to the economical situation in today's market, more and more people are holding on to their vehicle for longer periods of time. As with any mechanical device, the longer you keep it, the more maintenance and repairs it will need. The best way to save money in the long run is to pay close attention to how your vehicle handles and sounds, and avoid putting off service work. It's like going to a dentist; no one likes to do it, but it is a must.

Choosing the right person to repair your car can often lead to disappointments. You can now go to very specialized shops like muffler or brake centres, or your general garage. The most important thing to remember when making a final choice is that the shop is only as good as the mechanics working in it.

Bourk's Ignition Ltd. are specialists in carburetion, auto air condition sales and service, propane conversion, batteries, ignition, generators, starters, windshield wipes, and speedometers. They carry a complete line of A.C. Delco parts and a large selection of tools, hoses, belts, test equipment and service equipment.

The business today is under the personal direction of Dunrobin resident Tom Bourk, President, with Keith Lebarron, Vice-President, and Dick Fisher, Secretary. Bourk's Ignition Ltd. opened in Cornwall on April 21, 1986 and is managed by Keith Jones.

The staff at Bourk's Ignition Ltd. constantly update their training to coincide with the changes in technology like the electronic computer controls, and also are equipped with the specialized tools and equipment that is required to repair your foreign or domestic car, van or truck right the first time.

Nobody likes to be without their vehicle for any lengthy period of time; however, when the time comes to have yours tuned or maintained, try Bourk's Ignition Ltd.

Stradwick's "THE FLOOR COVERING PEOPLE"

RECOGNIZED AS ONE OF THE VERY BEST IN THE BUSINESS
11 BALMORAL 932-8833

More and more people are discovering Stradwick's. When we say discovering, we mean that this centre has an unbeatable record for one of the largest selections of floor coverings in the area.

Stradwick's has been serving Cornwall and the area for more than 30 years and is locally owned and operated by Pierre (Peter) Matte. They feature many great brand names in Carpeting, Hardwood Flooring, Sheet Vinyl, Ceramics, serving residential and commercial needs.

They are your authorized Armstrong Floor Fashion Centre.

If you can't stop in for some reason they have a shop-at-home-service where they'll bring samples right into your home.

When you are building a new home or cottage, you want to do it right the first time with the highest quality products that will fit your budget. While you may invest in an innovative kitchen, up to date plumbing fixtures, or new windows and doors why would you skimp by incorporating second rate carpeting and floor coverings?

Many different types of floor coverings are available to be used in homes, summer cottages, small retail shops, etc. When purchasing such flooring products at Stradwick's to do the installation yourself, the staff can inform you about important jobs such as removing all high and low spots, cleaning, removing trim around the floor, measuring and cutting procedures on irregular shaped rooms, using adhesives, as well as how to get the most from surplus material.

When you feel your floors need a smart beauty tonic, try the floor covering power of this company which has many locations throughout Ontario. If you are looking for quality products along with variety and realistic prices, you will find it all at Stradwick's, the floor covering store in Cornwall we recommend.

It gives you the opportunity to share the responsibility for determining policies and services. That's one reason why Annual Meetings are held. So that you can find out first hand exactly what's been happening with your Credit Union in the last year . . . And at the same time, you have the opportunity to discuss your thoughts with the rest of the membership. Share and share alike. Use your Credit Union for all its worth!

Each and every member is a shareholder, and profits are used to offer members the best possible terms, interest rates and service charges each individual credit union can manage. Credit unions can respond to your financial needs faster because decisions are not made in some distant head office, but at a local level.

Credit unions have tripled their business volume in Ontario since 1973 and will continue to grow through pioneering innovations. They are pioneers as they were the first financial institution with daily interest accounts, automated teller machines, all-in-one statements, weekly payment mortgages, and the use of computers for personal financial planning.

We feel in dealing with Howard Smith Cornwall Credit Union Ltd. you will receive service at the most professional and personal level.

CHRISTMAS SAFETY SUGGESTIONS

"Merry Christmas to all ...and to all a good night."

DON'T LET YOUR CHRISTMAS GO UP IN SMOKE!!!

Have a safe and happy holiday season.
Decorate your home with all that's bright.

Please take the following safety precautions to ensure a safe fire-free Holiday Season.

To the citizens of Alexandria

As Fire Chief of the Town of Alexandria, I urgently appeal to each and every citizen to do his utmost and take every precaution against fire during the holiday season.

In setting forth the following safety suggestions, it is my earnest wish that they be strictly adhered to and thereby help to eliminate disaster and destruction by fire at a time when peace and joy should reign:

—Choose a 'fresh cut' tree with a high moisture content.
—Store the tree outdoors.
—Make a new diagonal cut at least 2'' from the butt before setting the tree up indoors.
—Stand the tree in a container that holds plenty of water. Refill the container each day.
—Anchor the tree securely. Place it away from sources of heat to reduce drying.
—Use only electric lighting sets that bear the mark of approval and inspect for damage and frayed cords.
—Use only 15-amp. fuse on circuit serving your tree.
—Use glass wool or asbestos 'snow' or other non-combustible material in decorating the tree or your home.
—Dismantle and remove the tree as soon as it has served its purpose.

How to Choose a Fresh Cut Christmas Tree

—Bend needle gently. If needle bends instead of breaking, the tree can be termed 'fresh cut'. Should the needle snap, it indicates a dry and brittle state and is not suitable.
