Most sites for proposed dump are in Glengarry

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News reporter

More than three-quarters of 14 mega garbage dump sites being considered for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry are located in Glengarry County.

Among them are four potential sites in Kenyon Township.

The first is a joint site with Roxborough township of 110 hectares on Con. 2 (6 lots and Indian lands), the second is 110 hectares on Con. 2 (3 lots), the third is 160 hectares (2 lots) on Con. 5 and the fourth is 100 hectares (3 lots) along Con. 6 and 7.

The sites were listed in an Oct. 26 news release from the United Counties Waste Management Master Plan committee.

Three candidates sites have been named in Charlottenburgh, including three lots of 140 hectares on Con. 9, 140 hectares (4 lots) on Con. 7 and 70 hectares on Con. 5 and 8 (6 lots).

In Lancaster 5 lots totalling 190 hectares have been listed on Con. 8, along with a shared mega site of 590 hectares (12 lots) on Con. 1 in Lochiel and Con. 9 in Lancaster.

And in Lochiel a 70-hectare site of 3 lots has been named on Con. 2.

Glengarry residents are invited to a series of open house meetings where details of the possible sites for a 100-acre mega garbage dump will be revealed.

The meetings, set for Nov. 1, 2 and 3, are sponsored by the Waste Management committee and are intended to give the public information on the process to date.

The open houses will be followed by a public workshop meeting on Nov. 16, the fourth since 1992, where the public can give feedback and input into the final decision process.

At next week's open houses, the committee will give information on all the candidate sites with potential to be the location of the super dump operated by the three counties.

"We hope to explain to people how the process has worked until now," said study co-ordinator Anne MacGillivray, "and get their input on the candidate areas."

"It's part of the final process for how it (the final site) should be picked," said United Counties Warden Charles Sangster.

"These are candidate areas only and require further investigation," said MacGillivray.

MacGillivray added no field work study has been completed on the proposed sites.

The sites have been judged against a list of seven pages of criteria such as proximity to hamlets, wetlands, airports, agriculture, surface water, aggregate resources, unique or rare flora and fauna, parks and more.

"We looked at all the areas where they couldn't have it," said Sangster, "and it got down to only three or four per cent in the United Counties where they could have it."

The list of 14 potential sites is expected to be slimmed down to three or four, with public input, by the spring with a final decision to be made by next fall.

The study into finding a location for a dump operated between the three counties was prompted by the provincial government.

"Life spans (of landfill sites) were running out and we were lead to believe by the Ministry of the Environment that this was the way to go," said Sangster.

"To come up with a plan for what to do with our garbage for the next 20 years."

Half of the $644,000 cost of the study is being paid by the government and half of the expected $3- to $7-million site development bill will also be footed by the Ministry of the Environment.

The Glengarry county open house will be held on Nov. 1 at the Glen Robertson Community Centre in Glen Robertson.

In Dundas County, the open house will be held on Nov. 2 at the Matilda Township Community Hall in Dixons Corners.

And on Nov. 3 the Stormont open house will be held at Tagwi Secondary School, Hwy. 43, east of Avonmore.

A presentation will be given from 7:30 p.m. at each of the open houses which start at 7 p.m. until 9 p.m..

The public workshop on Nov. 16, to get to a short list of sites, will begin at 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. at Tagwi Secondary School.

Pre-registration is requested for the workshop by Nov. 11.

For more information contact Anne MacGillivray, study co-ordinator at 938-6122 or 1-800-267-2538.

Corrosion to blame for line break at Williamstown

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News reporter

Preliminary studies show the Oct. 6 pipeline break near Williamstown was caused by corrosion, said the Chief Pipelines Investigator with the Transportation Safety Board.

"The field work has been completed" showing general corrosion, where rust has been "eating the pipes from the outside in," said Larry Gales, chief investigator.

"The coating on the pipe has permitted the corrosion to develop to a point where it could not hold the internal pressure."

The preliminary testing was completed at a laboratory at Uplands Airport in Ottawa and a final report is not expected for another few weeks.

The Transportation Safety Board was called in after a pipe break forced the evacuation of nearly 40 Williamstown area people.

A 12-metre section of pipe burst at about 10 p.m. releasing pressurized gas into the air and keeping nearby

Only one race to focus on in Charlottenburgh

Contest between Leslie O'Shaughnessy and George Shoniker, both first-term incumbents

Over the next three issues, The Glengarry News will be profiling the candidates running for all public offices in the county. This week, Charlottenburgh Township is featured.

By Greg Kielec
News editor

The choices are clear for Charlottenburgh Township residents in the upcoming fall municipal election — either vote for Leslie O'Shaughnessy or George Shoniker.

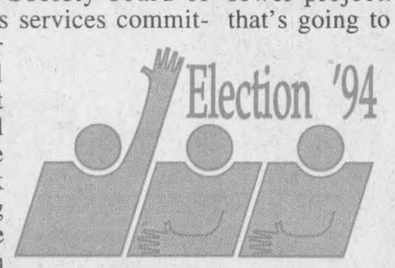
Those are the only choices that ratepayers have this election and for the only council position that voters get to choose — the position of reeve.

Both the candidates running are incumbents, first elected to council in 1991, but neither are incumbents in the position of reeve. Shoniker is an incumbent councillor while O'Shaughnessy is the incumbent deputy reeve.

The two jumped into the race for Charlottenburgh's top political position after Reeve Dave MacDonald, elected to his first term in 1991, announced he would not run for a second term.

O'Shaughnessy is a 40-year-old RR1 Cornwall, resident who works in the real estate business, is married and has two children.

The aspiring reeve sits on the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Children's Aid Society board of directors and its services committee, is a member of the Cornwall Regional Airport Commission and sits on the Gray's Creek Marina steering committee of the Raisin Region Conservation Authority.



O'Shaughnessy feels the major issue facing Charlottenburgh is downloading from a cash-strapped provincial government hurting from a $500 million cut in federal transfer payments.

It is critical to determine how the funding cut will be passed on to municipalities, either through cuts in funding to mandated services, or cuts in other funding given to municipalties, he said.

One example of such downloading is the provincial announcement it will no longer pay for interim municipal tax assessments. That decision will cost Charlottenburgh $50,000 a year, he said.

Another big issue facing Charlottenburgh is the Martintown sewer project. "That's something that's going to have to be watched very carefully," O'Shaughnessy said. Whatever happens, Charlottenburgh is ready, he said.

"Charlottenburgh is in a good position to face the challenges...Financially the picture is good."

George Shoniker, a married father of three, also lists cutbacks in provincial funding as the most critical issue facing Charlottenburgh.

He says that Charlottenburgh must maintain a positive approach and keep taxes in line in spite of provincial cutbacks.

The 37-year-old electrician, an RR1 Summerstown resident, is active in a number of area organizations.

He is past president of the Glengarry-Stormont District of the Boy Scouts, is a member of the Ontario Electrical League, past president of the Glen Walter Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Mount Carmel House board of directors and of the SPCA satellite broadcasting association.

Candidates meeting planned for Wed., Nov. 2

Alexandria's meet-the-candidates night will be held at the Glengarry Sports Palace next Wednesday evening at 7 p.m.

Each candidate running for public utilities commission, school board and council will have time to make a speech. A question and answer session will follow.

The event is jointly sponsored by the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce and The Glengarry News.

Two Glengarry women recognized in provincial campaign for acheivements

Dairy farmer, local midwife who delivered 500 babies among recipients

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News reporter

Two Glengarry women are being highlighted by the Ontario Women's Directorate in a poster campaign celebrating the contributions of 56 exceptional Ontario women.

Lorraine Lapointe of Martintown and Lea Tittley of Alexandria are featured in the poster, entitled Women of Change, for their achievements.

Lapointe is being recognized as the first woman on the Ontario Milk Marketing Board and Teeley as a midwife having delivered more than 500 babies.

"We are acknowledging that all women in Ontario are agents of change in their own way," said Marion Boyd, Minister Responsible for Women's Issues, in a new release.

"They do not have to be well-known or to have accomplished spectacular feats in order to have positive impact on their families and communities."

Twenty-five thousand 60-inch by 20-inch Women of Change posters were printed, featuring 41 photos and the stories of 56 women.

The posters will to be used in elementary and secondary school classrooms in Ontario to promote discussion of women's contributions.

"I think it's very good to recognize the work of women and it encourages younger women to make a mark in society," said Lapointe.

"It encourages girls by showing them it's not that scary to make changes, that ordinary people can do it."

Inspired by Winchester resident Dianne Harkin who established the Eastern Ontario Women for the Survival of Agriculture group, Lapointe became the first woman elected to the 12-member Ontario Milk Marketing Board in 1992.

"I felt that there was a lack of communication between farmers and the board," said Lapointe.

A dairy farmer of nearly 20 years, Lapointe said she felt she could make changes in the system by representing the producers at the board level.

She started her appointment in 1993, representing the second largest area in Ontario and adds another woman will begin with the board in 1994, representing the largest section of Ontario.

Her work on the board takes a lot of her time reading and preparing for discussions for "everything that has to do with the management of the board."

But Lapointe said no matter what she does at the board table her heart is always on her 350-acre farm, north-east of Martintown.

"I never miss milking the cows because that brings me back down to earth," said Lapointe.

"My best thinking comes when I'm sitting between two cows," she laughed.

Lea Tittley is at her best when thinking about some of the 500 children, including 16 of her own grandchildren, who drew their first breath in her hands.

Tittley is celebrated as a 40-year midwife who helped women all over Glengarry county bring their children into the world.

Tittley learned her profession from her mother and attended her first birth in 1926.

"From the moment that baby was born," Tittley said in a press release, "I couldn't stop. A life is the most precious thing in the world."

That first boy she delivered would now be 68 years old.

In Tittley's generation, rural women made birth arrangements directly with a midwife, often residents from their homes until after 1 a.m.

Residents reported the explosion-like break sounded like a jet engine as it ripped a 25-metre trench in a field about 150 metres from the north shoulder of County Rd. 19.

A TransCanada Pipeline Company investigation into the cause of the break is also underway and their report in not complete yet, said a company spokesperson.

"We have not heard anything official from the Transportation Safety Board as to the conclusion of their investigation," said David Annesley, director of public affairs.

The pipeline company has scheduled a public meeting for Oct. 27 at St. Mary's Centre in Williamstown to address public concern.

"We expect people who are interested in any aspect of the pipeline to come out for discussion," said Annesley.

without involving a physician.

As part of her service, Tittley would stay in the new mother's home for nine consecutive days.

In the late 1950s, 30 years into her practice, Tittley was only charging $5 per day and would often accept barters of wood, chickens or handmade clothing as payment.

Today, Tittley is 92 years old and in frail health, living in an Alexandria nursing home.

Two years ago, for her 90th birthday, she was awarded the Canada 125 medal by Liberal MP Don Boudria for her contributions to women of Glengarry county.

Tittley's story has also been featured in French-Canadian short film.

The 56 women featured in the poster were nominated by more than 70 women's groups and community organizations throughout Ontario in 1993.

The same groups responded to meetings held in Sudbury, London, Toronto and Ottawa one year earlier where they helped develop the idea of promoting ordinary women and their accomplishments.

Apple Hill home turns into movie set

By Greg Kielec
News editor

They had already filmed for most of the afternoon, each minuscule segment repeated time and again until the perfect shot was captured.

But as the cameraman looks to the back of his camera, it is clear something is amiss.

Trying to keep his eye on the scene unfolding in front of the lens, he motions the producer to look at the area in question.

It is general practice for it to be "quiet on the set" whenever a film shoot is taking place. But in this case, a tractor trailer could have roared through the living room and not a sound would be captured on the film.

The producer yells cut and the panicked searching begins to determine how much they have lost. After zipping back through reams of video, the grim truth is realized — about two hours of filming has been lost.

The culprit is a loose audio cable, one end connected to the sound boom or mike, the other lying in a tangle in the middle of the living room floor. It's connected to nothing.

But this isn't Hollywood. There are no multi-million dollar actors and producers, there are no Hollywood-sized egos.

So without any tantrums, without threats and counter-threats without even so much as a harsh glare, the troops gather together to assess their losses and rally around one another to forge on.

It isn't every day the home of an Apple Hill woman becomes the set of a short feature film, or any other type of film for that matter.

But when your son is associate producer of the project, it obviously helps.

The crew of the French film Le Cuckoo posed at the front steps of the Apple Hill home of Jessie McIntyre where part of the short feature film was shot this past weekend. Shown in the photo at the right, Russian cameraman Andrew Khabad films a scene involving the two main characters.

The son in question is Paul McIntyre, public relations director for Concordia University Television and associate producer of the film project.

His mother, whose home was the site of the shoot this weekend, is Jessie McIntyre.

The film being shot is Le Cuckoo, a French-language piece detailing a family dispute arising out of the death of the father.

Problems arise for the son Phillipe when the daughter returns after the death of her father, after having disappeared for years, for her piece of the pie.

The crew was at the McIntyre home to shoot some night scenes for the film. The remainder of the film will be shot in Montreal and is expected to be completed early in the new year.

The crew was to originally film the segment at a home two hours east of Montreal. But McIntyre convinced them to shoot it at his mother's home because of its historic value as well as its close proximity to Montreal.

"They said: 'Where's Apple Hill ?'" said McIntyre, describing the crew's first reaction to the idea.

The film venture is a mix of Concordia technical and production people, actors who have donated their own time — about a year's work to the project — and professionals, such as a well-known and respected cameraman Andrew Khabad from Russia.

The film could eventually be seen by millions of people in the United States through a college film competition, in which Le Cuckoo will be entered.

"Apple Hill will become globally known," joked McIntyre, who stresses he is an Apple Hill native at heart.

"My roots come here. I'm one of the apples that fell off the tree and rolled to Montreal."

McIntyre said the film is significant because it explores the problems that arise in a dysfunctional family, a topic which is very '90s oriented.

To do the shoot, the McIntyre home had to been transformed into a film set.

The outside windows were taped over with black material to keep sunlight from entering the scenes. Furniture was moved to make way for lighting, camera and sound equipment. And the upstairs was transformed into a makeup room for actors working in the production.

The schedule was gruelling — from 10:30 a.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. Sunday, straight through until 9 p.m. each day. Saturday's shooting would have been finished earlier if it was not for the audio gaff.

But the actors and crew seemed

Homemaker support program affords elderly independence

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News reporter

Independent living is something we may take for granted when we are younger. It's something many of us value as we get older.

A 91-year-old Alexandria woman has found support for independent living through the Canadian Red Cross Society Homemakers.

The homemakers offer seniors the opportunity to live on their own by providing assistance with personal care and housekeeping.

"I feel happy because I want to stay in my house," said Mamie Louise Massie.

"I don't want to go away from my home. My house is mine."

Massie, who has been living in her home for over 27 years, is visited by Alice Grimm of the Red Cross six times per week.

Grimm spends three-and-a-half hours per visit tending to Massie's needs including light housekeeping, preparing meals and making Massie comfortable.

"I really enjoy my work," said Grimm. "It gives you a good feeling knowing you're helping people."

Massie raised her family of 11 children on a farm in Lochiel Township and feels after all the work she has done in her life she should be able to live the way she wants.

She added that she gets a lot of help from her children who see her often, but the care she gets from Grimm is special to her.

"She's like a mother for me," said Massie. "She's a very good lady, I'm very lucky."

Grimm agrees theirs is a special relationship after five years.

"She always tells me I'm like a mother to her," said Grimm. "I like elderly people. I find them lovable."

(L to R) Alice Grimm of the Red Cross helps Mamie Louise Massie of Alexandria to live independently by providing home care service.

Last week was Home Support Recognition Week for the Red Cross Society, highlighting that one in 10 people in Ontario is helped by the society's homemakers.

The homemakers provided more than 372,000 hours of service to seniors and people with disabilities including meal preparation, assistance with personal care, housekeeping tasks, shopping escorting clients to medical appointments and other outingsp.

Engineers blamed for underpricing

By Sue Harrington
News correspondent

Charlottenburgh Councillor George Shoniker blames the township's engineers, McNeely Engineering Consultants Ltd., for grossly underestimating the cost to build the proposed replacement for Finney Bridge.

The consultants had estimated the job at $610,000, but the lowest of four tenders received, from L. J. Looby Contracting Ltd., was $822,742.

Council agreed on Sept. 26 to award the tender, "subject to the necessary extra funding being forthcoming from the infrastructure grants program."

According to the engineers it was the knowledge that the infrastructure grant money "was out there," that had, in part, driven up the tenders.

Frank Pfendt, Senior Structural Engineer with McNeely, also blamed the increase on the cost of steel, particularly American steel, which has risen recently by at least 15 per cent.

At the Sept. 26 meeting, Shoniker demanded to see the tender package for the bridge job, and, between meetings did some sleuthing of his own. Shoniker called several contractors and said he had discovered that a fair price for the bridge replacement was in the neighborhood of $1 million.

"I called contractors to see if they had infrastructure grant work, and they have none," said Shoniker. "And that part about the steel is B.S. This is telling me that they (the engineers) don't know what they are doing."

Reeve Dave MacDonald said that the Finney Bridge estimate was not the only one recently to be under the actual cost; tenders for the township's proposed tennis courts at Glen Walter Park were also above the estimates made by township staff.

The reeve said the McNeely consultants would be present at council's next meeting Oct. 24, at which time Mr. Shoniker could discuss the matter further.

> "A policy statement like this at the municipal level is unnecessary bureaucratic red tape."
> Charlottenburgh councillor- Don Kannon

Attempts by Charlottenburgh Township's administration to set a clear policy regarding background information to, and the opening of tenders were thwarted Oct. 11 evening when council decided to defer a staff report.

The administrative report was prepared following repeated requests by Councillor George Shoniker to have all tender documents included in his information package prior to council meetings.

According to the staff report, the circulation of "background information" on the tenders to all council members would ensure "proper and accurate distribution."

Councillors other than Shoniker, however, said they did not want or need the extra paperwork in their information packages.

Both Deputy-Reeve Les O'Shaughnessy and Councillor Don Kannon agreed that though they did not want the extra information in theirs, they felt that any council member who did want the information (i.e., Shoniker) should have it included.

Councillor Shoniker remained adamant that he should receive the tender information.

"I know about tenders, and I want to see it," he said.

Shoniker also said he wanted tenders opened at the council table during the first council meeting of the month. If there were problems, then the awarding could be deferred until the next meeting.

"That's what I've been saying since day one," agreed Kannon.

But Reeve Dave MacDonald said that usually contractors come in to see the tenders opened during the working day. The proposed policy would continue this, with tenders being opened on Thursdays at 11 a.m., the week prior to agenda preparation week.

MacDonald admonished Shoniker for not being willing to take the time to come in to council meetings early and look over the tender information.

"You're running for the job and you won't take the time to come in and research this," said MacDonald.

The reeve also said that staff "was doing it properly" in preparing the proposed policy statement.

Don Kannon disagreed. "A policy statement like this at the municipal level is unnecessary bureaucratic red tape."

Charlottenburgh Township

Council Briefs

A regular meeting of Charlottenburgh Council took place on Oct. 11 at the township hall in Williamstown. The following items are among those dealt with by council.

Pressure on province to mow

A resolution from the Township of Matilda requesting that the province of Ontario return to the practice of roadside grass cutting in 1995, was wholeheartedly endorsed by council.

"Every time I was on the 401 this summer it was disgusting," said Councillor Don Kannon, comparing Ontario's weedy roadsides with well-maintained ones in Quebec.

Council also thought it ironic that the township has a roadside cutting program and the province does not.

"Get ready for snowmobiling week"

A request from the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs to declare the week of Nov. 21-27 as "Get ready for snowmobiling week '94" was supported by council.

Alexandria Diner's Club a success among seniors

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News reporter

Good food with good friends was on the menu at Glengarry Outreach's second Diner's Club lunch event on Oct. 12 at the Legion Hall.

Ninety-three seniors turned out for what will now be a monthly affair in Alexandria.

"We do it for the social aspect and to have people mingle with each other," said Glengarry Outreach Director Rosemary Cameron.

"When you can go that extra mile and see a smile on someone's face, it makes you feel good."

The diners enjoyed a catered meal of ham, beef patties, potatoes, vegetables and cole slaw, served up by volunteers, for a nominal fee of $5 per plate.

Pumpkin pie finished off the meal, followed by door prize draws, bingo and a card game.

Though the event did offer a pleasant way to spend the afternoon, most Diner's Club goers agreed the main attraction was to spend the afternoon in the company of friends.

Seniors having lunch at the Glengarry Outreach Diner's Club are served a tasty meal by volunteers.

"I always pick good company," said Archie O'Connor of Green Valley.

"The music was good and I'll be back, if they'll have me," he laughed.

Local entertainers Marland Murray, Martintown; Cecile MacDiarmid, Moose Creek and June Raymond, Apple Hill, also volunteered their time and offered up some old time fiddling music.

"I think we're very fortunate," said Lorna Chapman of Glen Sandfield. "The food was terrific and it's a nice feeling being among friends."

"It gets (seniors) out and amongst one another to enjoy one another," said Jennie Cameron of Alexandria.

The next Diner's Club will be held on Nov. 23 and reservations should be made by calling Glengarry Outreach at 347-1175.

Transportation, provided by volunteers, can be arranged for anyone wishing attend the Diner's Club.

PM, Liberals have won back our trust

One year after his election as prime minister, Jean Chretien is still the best person for the job. Certainly that's what the majority of Canadians believe, and for good reason.

Jean Chretien has worked hard to bring credibility back to the federal government. He may not have won the trust of every Canadian, but the simple fact that his government has been scandal-free in 365 days, something the previous federal Conservative government or the Ontario NDP could only fantasize about, is heartening. It bodes well for his election promise to give government credence among Canadians who had, in significant numbers, turned to tax-dodging as their faith in the system eroded.

Beyond this, he has delivered on his promise to cancel the helicopter purchase started by the previous Conservative government and advanced on the infrastructure program which has directly benefitted — and will continue to benefit — communities here. His government also took the extremely controversial step of revoking taxes on cigarettes, a move that has proven to be both politically and socially adept.

It is perplexing, then, though perhaps not surprising, to hear Bloc Quebecois Leader Lucien Bouchard — as has Reform Leader Preston Manning — suggest the government remains popular because it has done little.

The above accomplishments are significant after the government's first year, and certainly what Chretien and his team promised during the election. Besides, the PM correctly sensed that Canadians wanted the government to back off for a while, from any hint of constitutional negotiations to concentrate on job creation, and to give the nation a breather before the Liberals begin making the hard decisions that must be made, whether they be popular or not.

With his first year behind him, Chretien is turning loose his finance minister Paul Martin, who has impressed the financial community with his frank, not-so-veiled warnings that more serious cuts in government spending, or major hikes in federal taxes, lie ahead.

This has caused indignant cries from special interest groups, but the Reform party, which seeks deeper cuts in the Ralph Klein fashion, likes what Martin is saying. Bouchard has tried unsuccessfully to parlay Martin's stance as yet another slap in the face to the people of Quebec.

If there is any wrinkle in the short term, it is that the finance minister is on a collision course with Human Resources Minister Lloyd Axworthy, who wants to re-write the social safety net guidelines Canadians have enjoyed for so long. Obviously this county, which relies substantially on social assistance, has much at stake depending on what eventually filters down.

But the ace in Jean Chretien's hand is the strengthening economy. Inflation continues to be a non-issue, imports and exports have hit record highs, productivity is soaring, and all of that is beginning to translate into jobs.

Little wonder, then, that the PM is the most popular leader in the country's history after one year in power. We can only hope it continues as he and his government work to untangle the very troubling challenges ahead. He and his team will, after all, need the public's confidence for those solutions to work.

Setting the agenda in a proactive way

There is plenty to like about the North Glengarry Community Economic Development Committee, what it is doing, and what it wants to do, especially now.

Remember the committee? It ran a successful forum in Apple Hill in April and a follow-up session in Alexandria in June. Its goal is simple; "to strengthen the community of North Glengarry by drawing on its own social and economic resources through effective planning, partnerships and communication."

The organization, not yet a year old, has taken some proactive steps during this municipal election campaign. It sent letters to every north Glengarry candidate, filling them in on the committee's good work so far, diplomatically suggesting that each get to know about the committee and its goals.

Right now, the group is establishing a database of local home-based businesses to help bolster what is becoming one of the fastest-growing industries in the county. It has other, equally imaginative and productive ideas in mind that it intends to pursue in the months to come, from encouraging sharing of resources between municipalities to enhancing promotion and communication to encourage new residents to move here.

At a time when voters expect candidates to bring the issues to them, this committee is taking the issues to the candidates. With less than a year under its belt, these are fruitful beginnings to what we anticipate will be an enormously beneficial group.

Make them work for your vote

After Thoughts

by Joe Banks

There will be a parade of strangers knocking on your door this week and they're not just there for the candy. No, the only treat these folks seek is your vote.

The trick will be deciding among them who is worthy to receive it come local polling day on Monday, Nov. 14.

And like the goblins in the days before Mutant Ninja Turtles bubble gum, who actually had to earn a treat with a song or a rhyme, these are folks you should expect will earn your vote.

Yes, EARN your vote. This will be the only time over the next three years that you will hold such powerful sway, so your choice is important. You should expect each candidate, no matter how many years he or she has been part of council, PUC or school board, to convince you they are the right choice. And convincing you means, or should mean in the mind of the candidate, hard work, from the beginning of the campaign to its conclusion.

If you're still unsure, there is always a failsafe test. Look around you. Look at your municipal tax bill, and the services you pay for. Are you happy with them, the way your community looks, the way it is led?

Answers to these questions should lead you to an easier decision — do I vote for the incumbent, who has steered us toward this, or do I vote for change?

Unfortunately in 1994, a person's last name still plays a far too important role in deciding whether they are elected, than their ability (or inability) to grasp and act on the issues. That means the person with the greatest number of family contacts has a distinct advantage over the newcomer.

But every candidate, regardless of name, shouldn't expect a single vote if they are not prepared to make themselves available as frequently as possible during the campaign.

Knocking on doors and wearing out shoe leather by candidates is important, because voters still want to put a face to a name. That technique is complicated now as people are less cautious about opening doors these days, especially during increasingly cold evenings.

Something as simple as inserting the telephone number into any campaign advertising or brochures, or for that matter, election posters, puts a candidate no more than a phone call away from any question an uncertain elector may have.

Some candidates, including Alexandria mayoralty hopeful Grant Crack, have picked up on an imaginative idea that Blair Williams, an incumbent candidate in Kenyon, employed during the 1991 campaign and will probably use this time around. He and others hosted a series of coffee parties, meeting in groups of no more than 20, to provide voters a chance to get to know him in informal surroundings.

The parties are held in any voter's home who would be interested in hosting one.

Others try gimmicks. I remember a candidate during another election who was trying to unseat an incumbent by distributing pencil erasers with the words "Erase the Mistakes of the Past" printed on them. Another, a farmer who had an orchard, handed out apples with his name printed on labels stuck to each fruit. That one was clever. Apples, of course, are symbolic as the fruit of wisdom made famous by Sir Isaac Newton and, more recently, Macintosh computers.

Then there is, of course, the all-candidates meetings, where contestants put themselves and their speaking abilities on display. They are generally given a matter of minutes to outline their platform. Then voters can ask questions, providing there is enough time, and listen for the reaction that will strike them the right or wrong way.

Candidates meetings have the advantage, for the voter, to quickly compare the calibre of candidates running for office. If there is any shortcoming, it is that candidates can float around the issues without tackling them head-on; time limitations can prevent any real in-depth discussions, especially when a number of candidates must speak.

There's 101 other ways candidates can work to impress you over the next three weeks. Only you know what it is you want to hear from them, and you should be satisfied they did their best in delivering. After all, they want your permission to represent you and your interests for the next three years.

Any way they do it, with or without tricks and treats, don't feel you owe them the vote. Make them work for it.

All's fair in love, war and politics

News to me

by Greg Kielec

Is all fair in love, war and politics? Anyone who has caught tidbits of a new book about the Mulroney years leading the Progressive Conservative federal government may certainly think so.

Charges of meddling in RCMP investigations, awarding lucrative advertising contracts to friends of the party and creating a $4 million "pension" fund to ease the prime minister's transition back into private life are among the revelations.

But do these types of political shenanigans take place at other government levels? Maybe not to the extent that it did in the Mulroney government.

It may also be that they do occur, but that the players and the deals are smaller, and hence aren't really big news..

And do such shenaningans take place on the municipal election front?

One just had to walk into most municipal offices just before the deadline to withdraw nominations last Monday to see the tomfoolery begin.

It is not as high powered as federal politics, nor does it involve the big dollars. But that doesn't mean there is no strategy when it comes to surviving and winning in municipal politics.

And that is no more apparent than at election deadline.

It is a clever game of chess right up until the election deadline, candidates waiting to see who will make the first move, who will stick it out and who will drop out with the threat of competition.

People sit or stand around with their poker faces, revealing all about the predicament they are in, but at the same time revealing nothing.

And the games continue after the final deadline. Rumors waft into The News of a candidate being forced into the election race by political allies even though he was planning to step down, a complaint comes in that one candidate's posters are being ripped down in Alexandria.

Another complaint comes in that a reeve who decided not to run is supporting another candidate in the race for the position.

Yes all is fair in love, war, and it seems as well in politics. Like a federal election race — and as was proven during United States President Bill Clinton's campaign — success all depends on hard work and organization.

The hard work part of the philosophy involves slogging the pavement, going door to door, getting out to public events and generally becoming known and getting your views known.

The organization is essentially how many people you have working and what they are doing for you.

So when all the ballots are finally cast election date, it generally is the person who got out and pressed the most flesh and whose workers were the most talented and tenacious that wins the day.

Unfortunately, how talented the candidates are, what their views are, how responsible and trustworthy they are, are all questions that do not merit a lot of attention.

And often an election race boils down to a simple popularity contest — who is the most likeable, who has family with political history, who says what the voters want to hear, not what they need to hear.

Yes municipal politics is a game too. Its just takes place on a smaller scale, without the prime time television clips, without the plastic-looking news anchors, and without much interest from the voters themselves.

There just isn't a huge groundswell of public interest when it comes to municipal politics. Maybe I'll be proven wrong this election. I doubt, however, that I will.

Halloween

Highland Paths

by Ken McKenna

It is hard to believe that it is only within living memory that Halloween has become a celebration observed by non-Celtic people. Originally a pre-Christian ritual in Ireland and Scotland, called Samhuinn (pronounced Sah-win), it marked the beginning of the Celtic year. The second part of the year began with the celebration of Beltane (May 1). Samhuinn was celebrated on November 1. The non-Celtic peoples divided the year according to the solstices, the shortest and longest days of the year. When Christian missionaries first began converting the Celts, it was their policy to graft a Christian feast day onto a day that was already held sacred by the people, so Samhuinn became All Hallow's Eve, or Halloween, for the Celts, as Yule became Christmas for the Nordic people. Most of the non-religious aspects of our Christmas come from the Germanic people. The Celts preferred to celebrate Christmas as a purely sacred day, and reserved their whooping and hollering for Halloween and, later on, for New Year's Eve.

Samhuinn was the original thanksgiving day for Celts. The harvest was in and the people prepared for winter, celebrating the end of one year and the beginning of another. The fact that November marked the apparent death of growing things led to the ancient Cult of the Dead, when the spirits of the deceased came back to re-visit their homes. It is easy to see how the Christian festival of All Saints, commemorating the "blessed dead," fitted in with the old Celtic celebration.

F. Marian McNeill in her book "Hallowe'en" tells the following story: "Within the present century the late Mr. John Duncan, the well-known artist, had the extraordinary experience of being taken for a revenue (a ghost) in one of the islands in the Hebrides. He told the present writer the story himself, and wrote it down at her request.

"He happened to be spending Halloween in Barra. Some young fishermen approached him. 'There are no fausse faces in the shop this year. Won't you make us some, Mr. Duncan, that we may have some fun?'

"From a roll of cotton," he continues, "I cut pieces large enough to go round a head, cut out holes for eyes, and with a paint-brush indicated the other features. I tried to make faces that would look kind and benevolent, but in spite of all I could do, the masks had a most alarming appearance. The lads were delighted and danced with glee. They insisted on my wearing a mask too.

"The first black-house we went into was crowded, but on our appearance the crowd backed before us, the women screaming and throwing themselves on the ground in an ecstacy of fear. I threw back my mask and the effect was electric. They all yelled with laughter. I pulled my mask down again and they were convulsed with terror. I snatched the mask off and helped to hammer my fellow-conspirators out of the house.

"After visiting several houses with similar effects, the lads said: 'Let's visit Uncle Eachann!' Now Uncle Eachann was a great big fellow over six feet tall. He had the reputation of being the strongest man on the island and also the most superstitious. He lived all alone in a black-house on the other side of the island. 'He will murder us,' one of the lads whispered to me reassuringly.'

"As we approached the lonely house, everybody tip-toed silently. They shoved me to the front, knocked at the door and drew to the side. I felt like a sacrificial victim. I faced sudden and violent death. Old Eachann shuffled to the door. Before I could say a word, he took me by the right hand and with deference and courtesy led me to the fire, set me on the bench and sat down beside me. We sat thus in silence. I thought to myself. 'It's all up. He knows me well enough,' and I lifted my mask to speak to him. He gave a violent start and shrank from me. I said, 'Did you not know me?', and my blood was frozen, in turn, when he stammered, 'I-thought-you - were - a-dead-man!' "

Believe in Christ's resurrection: Reverend

To the editor:

I am glad that your readership is taking such an interest in the theological debate, between Rev. John Simpson and myself, and I welcome Dr. Brian Young's entrance to it. Dr. Young has challenged me to express myself more clearly on three Christian beliefs: (1) Whether it is necessary for Christian people to believe in the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the grave; (2) Whether we can challenge one another's beliefs and still be loving our neighbor; and (3) Which of unity or truth is more important for the church.

(1) It is necessary for Christian people to believe in the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the grave? Absolutely, yes. Dr. Young is quite right when he says that to deny the resurrection is to deny the essence of the Christian faith. St. Paul was even clearer, when he said, "if for this life only we have hoped in Christ, we are of all people most to be pitied." (1 Cor. 15:19) In my reply to Rev. Simpson (Oct. 12) I did not deny Christ's resurrection. I did, however, question Mr. Simpson's insistence that you have to believe a "literal and historical" resurrection or else you are an "anti-Christian pagan" out "to destroy the church."

In reading the gospel accounts, it is clear that whatever kind of body that Christ had after his resurrection, it was quite different from the one he had before it. (see letter of Oct. 12) Whether Jesus' resurrected body could properly be called "physical" is unresolved in the New Testament. The gospel records show that Jesus' body could appear and disappear, go through locked doors, travel from Jerusalem to Galilee, could not be touched, yet could eat fish, and finally could ascend into the clouds and into heaven beyond them. The New Testament authors spoke with one voice when they said that the resurrection of Jesus took place, but they did not all say the same thing about the nature of Jesus' body after the resurrection. Similarly today, it is essential to Christian faith to believe the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the grave, but we may differ as to how it actually took place. There are people who find it most helpful to think of Jesus' resurrection as physical, perhaps because that seems more real to them that way. God bless them! But they should not condemn others for a different reading of the gospels the way Mr. Simpson did.

Yes, it is necessary to believe in the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the grave, and not just because the gospels say so. As fallen people, we need a savior and we cannot save ourselves. Jesus Christ is not a dead hero to the church. Christ is a living presence, who rose and comes again whenever people gather in his name. The risen Christ continues to lead us, and strengthen us, and save us. A dead hero cannot do that. So it is necessary for Christian people to believe in the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the grave -- in whatever kind of body he had.

(2) In Dr. Young's letter he says I argue "that if anyone challenges a teacher or a leader of the church then he (or she?) is both divisive and lacks love." This is, of course, nonsense. Debates like the one we are enjoying are essential to our faith moving forward. I agree with Dr. Young that, as parents must correct their children, so as we challenge and discuss our faith we are led into God's truth. But if a parent were to tell an errant child, "You are destroying this family and are no longer entitled to be a part of it," the child would be devastated. This is what social workers call psychological abuse. Mr. Simpson took a similar approach in his letter. He called those who did not believe in a "historical and literal resurrection" "anti Christian pagans" and as a minister of the Presbyterian church, Mr. Simpson is being irresponsible and cruel. There are ways of challenging people about their beliefs (In my letter I suggested to Mr. Simpson that he has ways to do this.) and as Dr. Young points out, when we do, we "speak the truth in love." But condemning people as "anti-Christian pagans" is not speaking the truth, and it is not speaking in love. So as to whether we can challenge one another's beliefs and still be loving our neighbor, yes we can. But Mr. Simpson did not.

(3) Which is more important for the church, unity or truth? Dr. Young says truth yet he sees the message of Christ as a truth that divides people into believers and unbelievers; followers and those who reject. I used to believe along those lines. In my preaching I used to try to draw the line between belief and unbelief sharply and distinctly, "as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats." My sermons would then let people see for themselves on which side of the line they ended up. Most of the time, I fear, the congregation ended up with the goats, and I was there with them!

Over time I came to see the gospel as good news for everyone, whether they could picture themselves as one of Jesus' loyal disciples or not. When we are reconciled to God, we are also reconciled to each other, and I see in that the coming of God's kingdom amongst us. I don't believe in unity at all costs. People can be united for evil purposes too, and history has many gruesome examples of it. But the gospel of Christ unites us to God as it unites us to one another. So I believe that God's truth does not divide us, rather it unites us. We don't have to choose between truth and unity. If it is God's truth, it will unite us in love.

Finally, I want to thank The Glengarry News for making this debate possible. The issues we have been discussing are important not just for church members, but for all people who are trying to live by faith. We all struggle to find the presence of God in our lives, and talking about what we believe often leads us to the truth.

Yours sincerely,
Rev. Garry van Bruchem,
Maxville/Moose Creek
Presbyterian Church.

'Home Children' not mentioned in Auld Lang Syne

To the editor:

I have been reading the section on "Auld Lang Syne" for some time now, but have not seen any reference to "Home Children." No mention of children placed on farms as hired hands in Lochiel, Vankleek Hill, Skye and surrounding areas, starting before the turn of the century and their lives after coming of age. Surely they have not been forgotten.

Sincerely,
M. Vernon,
Cornwall.

Police warn of telephone scam artists

Four Maxville area residents have reported receiving phone calls from fictitious companies attempting to lure residents into spending money to win a prize.

"When you call them back, they are non-existent," said Maxville OPP Sergeant Wayne Villeneuve.

The callers have told residents they have won a prize including $5,000, a sport boat or a 1994 Ford Eurosport.

The callers have gone on to explain that for a fee, of as much as $470, the residents may claim the prize.

Villeneuve said the callers have tried to make arrangements with the residents to send a courier company to the home to pick up a check.

Villeneuve adds the courier company is legitimate and not involved in the scam.

The callers do give a company name, such as Embassies Industries Incorporated, and telephone number but there is no such number if called back.

Residents are warned not to feel pressured into spending money to win a prize.

Break and enter at Martintown Fire Hall

Crime Stoppers needs help solving a break, enter and theft at the Martintown Fire Hall.

Thieves entered the fire hall through the side door and stole a Citizen television and VCR with remote, a Honda pump, a Honda generator and a bag of 50 pairs of asbestos gloves.

Total value of the stolen property is $4,000.

Readers with information on this or any other crime are asked to call Crime Stoppers at 937-8477 or 1-800-267-8477.

Stolen truck

A 1988 blue and silver Chevolet pick up truck was stolen from 8 Main St. on OcT. 20 between 11 a.m. and 3:15 p.m.

The keys had been left on the front seat of the truck that was parked just south of the Hub of Glengarry restaurant.

Alexandria Police are looking for a male suspect in his early 20s seen near the vechicle before it went missing.

The suspect was wearing a dark leather bomber jacket with a Harley Davidson crest on the back.

Lochiel wants farm bill slowed

Council passed a motion asking Queen's Park for more time for municipalities to study clauses in Bill 163, which is in third and final reading phase at Ontario Legislature.

"Regulations in Bill 163 restrict municipal council powers, and regulate agricultural practices like when manure can be spread and what a farmer can do on his own property," Clerk Ray Charbonneau warned.

New program in Alexandria targets equity groups for apprenticeship training

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

A new program being offered in Alexandria, is encouraging equity groups to enter apprenticeship training.

The Access to Apprenticeship Training program was launched this summer, but the Alexandria office just opened Oct. 5.

Maurice Roy, program coordinator, said the goal of the program is to get women, francophones, visible minorities, disabled and aboriginal persons to enrol in apprenticeship training programs in non-tradational jobs.

"Anybody who's interested, I can help them out," Roy said.

As well as training future employees, the program scouts prospective employers to take part in the program.

"Apprenticeship training is the big thing we're trying to push," Roy explained.

The ACCESS office is located in the former GTL building at Highway 34 at the south end of Alexandria. The office is open the first and third Wednesday of each month.

Anyone interested in learning more about the program can call Maurice Roy at 933-9675.

Court Report

The following cases were heard by Judge Diane Nicholas in Ontario Court (Provincial Division) at Alexandria, Oct. 20.

"Horrendous" drinking

"A horrendous number of people are drinking and driving and getting killed in this area" Judge Diane Nicholas said, fining Summerstown resident Linda Houle $750, suspending her license, and prohibiting her from driving for 12 months.

Houle, 30, pleaded guilty to driving with higher than the legal limit of 80 milligrams of alcohol in her blood sample, after a collision March 23, in Charlottenburgh at Highway 2 and County Rd. 27.

The accident involved two vehicles and both drivers were treated for minor injuries.

Houle registered 149 and 160 milligrams on breathalyzer tests, which Judge nicholas called "fairly high readings."

Designated driver

Judge Diane Nicholas sentenced South Lancaster resident Robert Bissonnette, 34, to 14 days in jail for his second conviction within a year of drunk driving.

She suspended his license and prohibited him from driving for two years saying, "a second conviction in a year shows you haven't learned your lesson yet."

Bissonnette's lawyer said Bissonnette was acting as designated driver early in the morning of Sept. 18, "when he drove everyone else home because he thought he was in the best shape."

Bissonnette blew readings of 180 milligrams of alcohol on two breath tests, and pleaded guilty to driving with more than the legal limit of 80 milligrams. He will serve his jail term on weekends.

Judge Nicholas warned Bissonnette "a third conviction could mean six months in jail."

One block home

Kenneth Mills, 46, was within a block of his Lancaster home May 9, when he was stopped by police on Highway 34 for driving very slowly in a 60 kilometre zone.

He racked up two breath readings of 180 milligrams of alcohol later at Lancaster OPP station. Legal limit.is 80 milligrams.

Mills pleaded guilty to driving with readings over the legal limit, and drew a $600 fine from Judge Diane Nicholas, plus a 12 month license suspension and driving prohibition.

Mills lawyer said, "his only explanation is that he drove the car because his spouse's license was under suspension and he was only a block from home."

Smuggling

Montreal resident Daniel Joannette, 28, was fined $6,007 and $3,254 by Judge Diane Nicholas for smuggling contraband Canadian cigarettes and American spirits into Canada.

The fines are twice the excise tax evaded on each of the items. He was given two years to pay.

Joannette pleaded guilty to violations of the Excise Act after he was picked up June 6, in the Charlottenburgh area, on a tip from a surveillance unit.

OPP officers found his car loaded with boxes of cigarettes and liquor covered by a blanket.

Glengarry farm woman realizes dream, opens her own travel agency in Lancaster

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

You have heard of the expression, "she'll be at it 'till the cows came home.'"

Well, the cows have come and gone for farm woman Mary Smith and now she is pursuing her dream.

Smith officially opened her own travel agency in Lancaster Saturday, bringing years of dreaming about owning her own business to a reality.

The business was launched with an open house and ribbon cutting on Saturday, with local dignitaries and numerous well-wishers on hand.

It is the second travel agency to open in Lancaster — an existing travel agency ironically is located right across the street from the new Glengarry Key Travel.

But Smith says there is plenty of business for both travel agencies, business which now ends up at travel agencies in Cornwall or Montreal.

Smith's aim is to get those area residents doing their travel holiday shopping locally instead of going out of town.

And with a computerized reservation system, the agency will have the same benefits in extra efficiency — less time spent on the phone, hence quicker service — as big city travel agencies.

Smith made the decision to pursue the business about a year ago, after she and her husband sold their dairy herd, allowing her the time necessary to devote to the venture.

Her husband switched over to beef and cash cropping after selling their dairy herd, and that combined with the help of their son, gave Smith the free time finally to pursue her dream.

Smith liked travelling — she and her husband had travelled a lot during their years farming. Opening the business was kind of a natural extension of that desire.

"It's something I thought about for a long time," she said in an interview Monday. And it just happened that "the right things came together."

Smith will emphasize good service at the agency and a philosophy that no trip is too small for them to look after.

She said it is a mere coincidence that her business is located directly across from an existing travel agency. There are not many business buildings available for rent in Lancaster, she explained.

The spot was available and just happened to be the right size for what she needed, she said.

With some advertising and quality service, she is hoping customers will keep coming back and also spread the word around about the new business.

content to accept that these things happen and relentlessly plugged along.

Producer Stephane Tremblay said when they arrived around 8:30 a.m., he had "remorse" that they were not shooting outside. "It was so beautiful," he said, speaking on the set Saturday.

For Tremblay, who is also writer and screenwriter of the film, it is his third professional film production.

"This is a good one," he said of the film. "It's the best one so far."

He hopes to eventually become a motion picture director or writer. "I'm torn between the two."

Jessie McIntyre said she enjoyed the experience and would lend her home again for such a venture if she had the opportunity, although not immediately.

"It was fun. It was like coming to a party in your own house for two days."

She said it was interesting to see "all the tricks of the trade" and never realized the amount of work involved just to get one 15 second clip.

"It was most educational. I never sat 'behind the scene', so to speak."

And she never imagined through all those years of parenting that she would one day be giving up her home for her film making son to do a shoot. "I never would have dreamed of it."

The shooting also revealed that you never stop being a mom, even if your son is an associate producer.

Paul found out when his mom good-naturedly threatened to put him over her knee after enduring persistent ribbing from him at the end of a day's shoot.

The crew thought it would be a good idea if she did, but said they would need to shoot it four or five times to get all the different angles.

The production team wanted to buy her some type of gift for lending her home for the shoot, but McIntyre told them she would be happy just with a video of the film.

Who knows, should the film become critically acclaimed, she can show it to the tourists who come to see the historic shooting site of the short movie.

Well, you can always dream.

Roads department to construct tennis court

A decision to use the township's roads department to do the initial work on three tennis courts proposed for the Glen Walter Park will save Charlottenburgh up to $7,000 .

Recreation Director Brent Daigle, said that the estimated total cost to construct the courts was $30,000. However, when four companies were asked to give their estimates, the lowest received was $44,991.

"For some reason the pricing has gone crazy out there. It almost smacks of gouging," said Daigle.

Monies for the project are slated to come from part of the Canada/Ontario Infrastructure Grants applied for by the township.

Realization that the Canada/Ontario Infrastructure Grants are "out there" has sent tenders on construction projects spiralling, Charlottenburgh Council was told at a regular meeting held Sept. 26.

Representatives from McNeely Engineering Consultants Ltd. said that although there were some specific reasons why the township's Finny Bridge replacement project estimates were off base by more than $200,000, it was the trend "everywhere."

Senior Structural Engineer, Frank Pfendt, told council that the main reason for the increase is that contractors are not interested in doing jobs at cost.

"There's a mark-up here. It's a problem when conditions change in the market; it's difficult to read it," he said.

McNeely has estimated the cost of the new bridge to be approximately $610,000. Instead the lowest bid tendered -- from L. J. Looby Contracting -- came in at $822,742.

After reviewing the tenders in detail, the consultants said an increase in the cost of structural steel was also a culprit. General fabricated steel prices have recently increased by about 15 per cent. In addition, about 30 per cent of the steel in the contract will be supplied from the United States, since it is not available in Canada. In this case, the exchange rate has had an effect on the costs.

The consultants also reported that the prime bidders "may have included a significant portion of their profit and overhead in the steel price. This is because the two steel items are paid as a lump sum fairly early in the he new year."

Despite the increase in cost, McNeely recommended to council that it proceed with the project.

"Since we do not expect steel prices to reverse direction, we do not believe that re-tendering the project at a later date will improve the result," said Pfendt.

In fact,two of the bidders have indicated that if they were to re-tender in the new year, their prices would probably increase.

After discussion, council decided to award the tender, contingent upon the municipality receiving the necessary extra funding from the Infrastructure Program. Application for the extra money had to be in by Sept. 30.

Consumers Gas discusses supplying Charlottenburgh

Representatives from Consumers Gas of Ottawa have appeared before Charlottenburgh council to discuss the prospect of supplying gas to residents living in the southwestern area of the township.

Jim Nubel and Dan Jamieson came to Charlottenburgh at council's request, because of the number of subdivisions planned in the area.

One of the developers, Vladi Kovinich of Visions, was present at the meeting and expressed his interest in having gas available to his subdivision.

"I'd like to see this get off the ground as quickly as possible," said Kovinich, who said he had convinced all his customers to heat with gas.

The Consumers' representatives were not so optimistic, however.

They explained that they were regulated by the Ontario Energy Board, and that, because of the relatively low population, at least 70 per cent of the homes in the area would have to want gas before the board would grant permission.

"It doesn't shape up too well right now," said Nubel. We're at 30 per cent; it should be 70."

However, according to him, there were some things which could be done to ensure the delivery of gas to the area. The first thing would be to do a survey of homeowners.

Depending upon the response and upon their ability "to capture" more homes within the next five years, the gas company could go before the board.

"If we saw a good overall response, you could use a monthly loan charge to make up the difference," said Nubel, citing Deep River, where such a thing has been done.

He estimated a savings of 30 per cent over oil, and 50 per cent over electricity, could result if homeowners were to switch to gas, even with a monthly loan charge.

Nubel also said their company could help with the cost of new furnaces for customers who wanted to switch from oil or electricity. He said Consumers had a rental with buy-out option policy in place for the furnaces, estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $2,100.

Council agreed to the company sending out the survey packages to all businesses and homes in the area.

No confusion this election on who to vote for

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

Isn't it funny in autumn how some leaves manage to cling to their trees despite the fact that all their neighbors have re-located? High winds, even gales, cannot force them to leave. They are staying put, and that is that.

No names will be mentioned to avoid embarrassment, but do you know what? Yesterday I saw one of our village residents standing on a ladder, picking those last remaining leaves off his tree! Can this be the new definition of a perfectionist?

Well, no one can claim confusion as the reason for not voting in this year's municipal election in Charlottenburgh! This is the Year of the Either/Or. Either you vote for Leslie O'Shaughnessy for reeve, or you vote for George Shoniker. Either you vote for Art Buckland, or you vote for Lloyd Gorling (for English public school trustee).

Yes, acclamation is the name of the game. And since so many of the people who will make your decisions for the next three years have been acclaimed, I thought I would introduce them to you in this column.

They say that there is a first time for everything, and for the veteran politician, Don Kannon, this is his first acclamation! Don is now Deputy-Reeve, a position he ran for in 1985, and did not get. Don says his strength lies in perseverance, and his political career bears this out: when defeated he does not crawl back to his den on the Street Road like a wounded animal, but builds for the next campaign. And wins!

Don is a native of Montreal, but is quick to point out that he has lived in Charlottenburgh for the last 27 years and loves it here. He is married to Barbara, and has four adult children.

In his day job, Don is a teacher. He is presently at CCVS where he teaches co-op. However he did spend seven years teaching at Char-Lan, where he was heavily involved with the football and other sports teams and taught driver's ed.

Like those write-ups in high school year books, I thought you might get a glimpse of the real man, if I asked some personal questions. When I asked Don to confess to a weakness, he said it would have to be his inability to say "No," although he did say he was getting better at it! (All of you groups with gaps in your executives, take note!)

You can tell a lot about a man from what fuels his body and his mind. Don says his favorite foods (at the moment) are anything "fat-free." His favorite author is William Faulkner.

At 26 years of age, Frank Prevost is both your youngest councillor, yet at the same time, your most experienced! A veteran of the past three years, Frank admits to breathing easily about being acclaimed, but also to feeling a little disappointed about the lack of an election. I guess it's a little like scoring into an empty net!

Frank is a Tyotown native, and loyal he began; loyal he remains -- he now owns his parental home in the hamlet.

Frank attended Char-Lan High School, and works in the service department at Miller-Hughes Ford in Cornwall. He also finds it difficult to say the N-word, and counts shyness as a weakness.

His favorite food is pasta (of any kind) and he says he has no favorite authors because he reads everything.

A very eligible bachelor, indeed!

John Lounsberry has become a name much more familiar in 1994 than when he ran in the last municipal election for deputy-reeve. He attributes this to the fact that in the interim he has become much more active in the community. Among other things, John has organized the Blazing Paddles -- an annual canoe race from Cornwall to Summerstown.

John and his wife and family are the proprietors of By-the-Sea Bed and Breakfast on the St. Lawrence River, west of Summerstown. John has some very interesting ideas on promoting the St. Lawrence, which he thinks has not been recognized for its potential.

The Lounsberrys have lived in Charlottenburgh for six years, although John hails from Picton. He thinks that Prince Edward County and Charlottenburgh have lots of similarities, although here "we have allowed our connection with the water to diminish." He is adamant that the provincial parks will re-open.

John works in agricultural automation in Cornwall, and says he is torn in two directions: between the technical and engineering side of him and the artistic and creative. He enjoys drawing, particularly historic buildings (a recruit for IACAC, perhaps?)

He admits to weaknesses, but says he "goes after them." He said he had great difficulty with French at one point, but was determined to overcome it, and now is bilingual.

His favorite food is Nachos Supreme (the hotter the better). His favorite author is George Bernard Shaw, followed closely by Robert Burns.

Although he is a total newcomer to municipal politics, Jim McDonell says it is part of his inheritance. His father, Bernie McDonell spent ten years of his life serving as the reeve of Lancaster Township.

The Lack of an election this time in Charlottenburgh came as a surprise to Jim, who feels that acclaimed councils may not be as good as they would be if they were elected. However, he is looking forward to serving residents and thinks his ability to get along with people will be an asset in trying to work harmoniously with other townships and with Cornwall.

Jim says he is not a big supporter of a lot of growth and development in the area, provided, of course, that the municipality can still provide good services for its residents. In fact, when asked what his interests were, Jim replied, "The community and Glengarry." He likes the rural way and thinks that those who want "a busy life" can find it in the cities.

Residents of the South Branch, Jim and his wife Margie have three young children.

He is employed by Bell Canada as an engineer and works out of the engineering office in Cornwall.

When asked to confess to a weakness, Jim mumbled something about his "goaltending" but it could have been that he was on a cellular phone in his car and I didn't quite hear him correctly!

Joking aside, Jim was instrumental in organizing Border League Hockey for many years and has also been involved in soccer.

No hesitation about his favorite food --"dessert" -- or about his favorite author, "H. G. Wells." Spoken like a true engineer!

There you have it! A great cross-section of talents, interests, strengths, weaknesses and personalities. Personally, I don't think you could have done better if you had voted them in yourselves! Best of luck to you all.

In other news, happy anniversary wishes go out to Eddie and Theresa Bridson who celebrated their 42nd, on Oct.. 25. I'm told they usually don't pay much attention to anniversaries, but they should! Congratulations to you both.

One more poll springs up for election race

Glen Walter
by Ron Holla
931-2658

Area residents will not have one, but two polling locations to express their preference for reeve of the township of Charlottenburgh before election day -- Gilles' Barber Shop in Glen Walter and Kevin Bougie's' store in Summerstown Station.

People willing to vote will be allowed one vote a week and ballots are a quarter each, John Warden, one of the poll organizers, said.

"Those who want to vote will have until 4 p.m. each Saturday to make their mark," Warden said.

"Votes will be counted each Saturday night and the results communicated."

Warden repeated that all funds raised will go to charity.

No poll at Marty's

With both Gilles' Barber Shop and Bougie's store serving as informal poll locations, there will be no poll at Marty's Convenience Store this election year, John Warden said.

"We just want to clarify that we already have two locations."

Election debate planned

Glen Walter and area residents who send their children to Horizon Jeunesse Elementary School are advised of a planned candidates' debate Nov. 7 featuring all candidates for the French section of the SD&G Public School Board.

Expected participants include the two candidates for the Alexandria-Charlottenburgh-Lancaster seat -- Micheline Ouellette and Doug Jones.

The debate is planned at the school from 7 to 9 p.m. and will include a time for candidates to make a short presentation and then field questions from the audience, Lise Couture, Horizon Jeunesse PTA president, said.

Parents are encouraged to come and meet the candidates in order to make an intelligent choice.

Former Stedman's sold, to re-open as dollar store

Business Beat

By Joe Banks, 525-2020

The Stedman's building, for over two years an empty shell on Alexandria's Main Street, has been bought and will be reborn as a dollar store in mid to late November.

Baldev Grover, owner of Le Monde du Dollar World, a 10-store retail operation that specializes in low-priced, bargain merchandise, confirmed Monday that his company has bought the former Stedman's property.

Le Monde du Dollar World is known in Montreal as an established liquidation outlet. Its closest store to Alexandria is in Hawkesbury.

The store, Grover said Tuesday, will offer a "wide selection of household items, party goods, stationery, gift items, greeting cards, cosmetics, audio/video accessories, porcelain decorations, confectionaries, toys and seasonal items." He estimates the total stock count will reach about 7,000 different items.

The new building owner believes now is the right time for his new store to open.

"During a recession, everyone is looking for a bargain," he said in an interview from his Montreal office. "They will find that at Le Monde de Dollar. I will give my customers more value for their dollar, more variety and service with a smile."

He said he's had his eye on the store for some time, but did not believe at first there were enough people in the surrounding area to support it. He has since changed his mind, and with negotiations for the property proceeding "back and forth" since last spring, the time was right.

His staff team is now placing orders "day and night" to get the store ready for its opening in mid to late November. Staff hirings are being done through his Alexandria bank.

All candidates meet next week

Just a reminder to all business people and residents that Alexandria's all-candidates meeting is scheduled for next Wednesday, Nov. 2.

Sponsored jointly by The Glengarry News and the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce, the meeting format is planned as follows: PUC and council candidates will have three minutes each to speak, school board trustees and deputy reeve candidates, four minutes, reeve candidates, six minutes and mayoralty candidates, seven minutes.

Questions from the floor will be allowed in the final hour of the evening, and voters will have the opportunity to chat with candidates after the meeting.

BIA gearing up for Christmas

The Alexandria Business Improvement Association's theme for its Christmas promotion this year will be "Old Fashioned Christmas", emphasizing the traditional symbols of the holidays and the idea of the family.

The BIA at its Oct. 20 board meeting spent considerable time discussing Christmas promotions, and it will be working with other community organizations like the Richeleu Club and the chamber to make the holiday one of the most festive yet.

The annual town Santa Claus parade will be held Sunday, Dec. 11 this year, organized and coordinated by the Richeleu Club which will provide the Santa Claus float. In order to help promote the event — an example of cross-cooperation among groups — the BIA agreed to advertise it for the Richeleu Club.

Chamber President Dean Picher was at the meeting to tell the group that the chamber intended to again sponsor the candlelight/ tree-lighting parade and have budgeted $300 to offset expenses for the event. He said there were plans for a more circular route to Mill Square this time to encompass both the north and south ends of town. The date suggested for that event is Dec. 2.

The BIA is also moving ahead on a Holiday Dollars promotion, which would make available up to $150,000 in Christmas-shopping loans for qualified consumers through the Caisse Populaire.

Plans also call for a Santa photo session for kids, with part of the funds generated going to charity, babysitting services for Christmas shoppers and business window painting.

Holiday hours recommendations

The BIA also recommended that stores stay open three Sundays before Christmas including Dec. 4, Dec. 11 and Dec. 18, and that they remain open to 9 p.m. on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from Dec. 14 to 23.

Recycling plant doing well

But council members told to keep financial details secret

By Greg Kielec
News editor

Council members were given a report on the town recycling plant's financial performance to date at a council meeting Oct. 11, but have been told to keep the contents secret.

Council members were given the report by Deputy Reeve Jacques Joly, the head of council's environment committee, which oversees the recycling operation.

Joly said the report shows that things are really going well at RARE this year, better than original estimates.

But he told council members it is necessary to keep the report secret because the figures it contains are unaudited.

Reeve Bruno Massie said the committee must also be careful what it reveals because it is in competition with other recycling plants for waste material.

Generally any document that is tabled at a council meeting is considered a public document and must be released to the public.

Joly, asked about the report Monday, reiterated that it is being kept secret because it contains unaudited figures.

An audited report of the RARE plant's revenue and spending is generally released each spring, along with the town auditor's report.

Joly said the figures show RARE is in good shape, but said those figures could change before year-end.

"Things really looked better than last year. On the overall, it's very positive."

The success of RARE shows that the partnership with area municipalities to bring recyclables to the plant is working, he said.

"The more people involved, the better it will be for everyone concerned."

Among those on hand to greet them were: Helen (Dougal) MacLeod, Doris MacMaster, Marian (Rae) MacGillivray, Billie Nixon, Clara MacLeod and Grant MacGillivray.

Laggan Public School Senior Soccer Tournament

Laggan Public School sent senior boys and senior girls soccer teams to Pleasant Corners Public School on Saturday, October 22, to compete in their Invitational Soccer Tournament. Both teams can be proud of their performance. They brought home the trophy for both divisions, winning every game.

Participants were Rory McLeod, Eric Nielsen, Frank Safruk, Steven Robinson, Kurt MacSweyn, Jesse Steiche, Andrew MacDonald, Geordie Gay, Brad McMillan, Aaron Elder, Jeff Boesch and Jason Robinson; Abbey MacGillivray, Tristi MacSweyn, Tamany Booth, Erin Jamieson, Alanna Shepherd, Sheila McIntosh, Tarah MacPherson, Tamara Hartrick, Julie Ouillet, Elisa Rupoli, Christy Keusch, Shannon Jamieson and Beverley MacDougall.

Most all of these students participate in the Glengarry Soccer League during the summer months.

It's evident from their performance on Saturday that the time they put in at games and practices over the summer has been a great influence on the caliber of players they have come to be.

They have developed a keen sense of team play and it's a pleasure to watch them.

The players praised coach Sandra Barton for the time she has spent with them and the assistance from Bonnie MacLeod and Henrietta MacSweyn was appreciated for filling in with coaching when needed on Saturday.

The soccer intramurals are coming to an end with playoffs this week. Next on the agenda for sports will be volleyball. Senior team tryouts are Tuesday after school.

Big Beaver activities

A meeting of teachers who have taught in one-room schools is planned for Tuesday, November 1, at 7 p.m. in S.S. #1, Kenyon.

Mr. MacSweyn is interested in generating ideas for utilizing the school and he promises that those in attendance will not be conscripted into a job.

Laurier-Carriere School

More than 400 students participated in the Iona Academy cross-country race held October 18.

An impressive number (45) were entered by Laurier-Carriere school which was one of the only two French schools that were represented.

All of Laurier-Carriere entrants finished the circuit which was a feat in itself.

The school placed second in the boys' 600m, third in the girls' 1500m and also third in the boys' 2000m.

All the participants are to be congratulated, especially Melissa MacDonald who finished first in the 2000m.

Jason MacDonald placed second in the 600m. Lucie Decoeur, Travis Hagen and Rebecca Cardinal placed second, third and fourth respectively in the 1500m.

Beer and wine sales supported by council

Lochiel council supported a motion from the Convenience Stores Association of Ontario to allow the sale of beer and wine in their stores.

United Counties council last month voted against the idea.

"I can't see anything wrong with the idea," Councillor Bill Hagen said.

"Quebec stores have been selling wine and beer for 20 years and it would sure be a boost for small town stores like Dalkeith."

Halloween comes early to McCrimmon WI

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

After the national anthem and the Ode and Mary Stuart Collect, Margaret MacPherson McCrimmon WI president, opened the Oct. 20 meeting of the McCrimmon WI Branch in Lochiel Township Hall with a most appropriate poem called October, taken from the WI book of poetry.

Members and guests answered the roll call of "Name a public servant in your township or county."

The deputy reeve was named several times, Reeve Ron MacDonell, the warden, Sir John A. MacDonald, Mayor of Alexandria Jean Paul Touchette, Maurice Montpetit, Wayne Morris, Mr. Walker, John Besner, Rosemary Cameron and Kent MacSweyn got a mention from the members and guests.

Five Dunvegan WI members attended this meeting as invited guests, as did Jean Bush, and they all came in costume.

This was a Halloween meeting and there were many strange and unusual personages present. A scarecrow, a silent mysterious beauty, a modern cow (girl), a witch and a kind of skeleton-faced spook were there, a hearty tomboy rubbed elbows with a ninja and a black garbed witch.

One lady wore a blouse nearly 100 years old and it looked just fine with her black cloche hat. Another woman was dressed in a full cotton crocheted shawl were nice but they were topped with a black bowler, of all things.

Well it was all in fun and one gal wearing a really pretty mask was only too glad to uncloak after the costume parade and prizes. There was a special prize for the little Pumpkin girl visitor.

During the business part of the meeting the secretary Betty McDonald reminded the group of the district executive meeting at the OMAF board room in Alexandria on Oct. 22 to discuss plans for the 80th anniversary of the institute.

McCrimmon has been invited to Martintown for an exchange visit on Nov. 17 at the Seniors' room in the community centre at 1:30 p.m.

The Dunvegan WI members were at Lochiel that day on a branch exchange visit and all the other branches will be visiting back and forth over time. The members enjoy seeing the other branches, greeting seldom seen friends and seeing other ways of presenting meetings.

The programs are always different and interesting, ranging from skits, music and songs to speakers. However, the guest speaker's program this day was a bit different, in that she gave a demonstration of Halloween decorating.

The speaker was Sheila Olson of Town and Country Flowers in Alexandria. She had some wonderfully easy and unusual decorations to show her listeners, such as a very attractive pine cone basket.

It was made by cutting pine cones in half and hot glueing them to a basket and dipping it all in varnish.

This could be used anytime of the year as a floral base for a table centre, in the hallway, on a side table, filled with holly for Christmas, candies for a party, fruit or even Easter eggs.

Greenery and Christmas glass balls would be most effective, as would it be filled with autumn leaves, maize and small pumpkins for Halloween. The ideas are endless. What a great way to give jams and cookies as a gift.

The cones are really very hard to cut and must be sawed apart with a fine jigsaw blade, or hacksaw print dress that could have come from the last century.

The granny nightgown and white blade, but it was worth the end result.

She kindly demonstrated how to tie a big bow with orange plastic ribbon for out of door decorating.

She advised her listeners that regular ribbon would soon wilt in dampness, and this plastic ribbon shreds easily and comes in many colors and widths, for all seasons.

The audience was captivated by a floral tape centre ring that was covered in white ribbon and had pretty wee silk flowers glued all around it. Whole, it made a napkin ring; cut open, it made a most attractive bracelet.

There again it could match any outfit, or season. Another use for a tape reel is to glue a black pipe cleaner around it, leaving a tail and forming a cat's head of the covered wire pipe cleaner.

It was really cute for a Halloween napkin ring, and no one guessed just what she had used for the base. A small pumpkin held a very pretty colorful floral arrangement which was kindly donated by the speaker for a draw prize. Lorna Chapman was the lucky winner.

Several Halloween quizzes were great fun, and Flora Chisholm won the Word Search game. Another Dunvegan lady, Marion Loewen, won a word game that we always get at parties, "How many words in the word Halloween"? and she found 20.

Prizes went to Gretta MacDonald for the closest birthday date, and to Dunvegan's Catherine MacRae for having come all the way from Maxville that being the farthest away from Lochiel.

Lorna Chapman had the motto, "Perfection is not expected but improvement is," and framed her commentary in the form of an original poem called We're human after all, Just do the best you can, which was well received.

The quilt committee is still looking for a pattern for next year's WI quilt and it just may be a pieced quilt this time.

The meeting adjourned with the Queen and the WI grace. Everyone enjoyed some light refreshments served by the hostesses, and the pleasant conversations with the guests.

Also, the members who went to Morrisburg to see the quilt show were most enthusiastic about the exhibition and talked about what they had seen. It was most impressive and the work was very well done. The tiny stitches were as regular as if they had been machine quilted; quite a compliment!

The Dunvegan ladies thanked their hosts for a lovely afternoon and the McCrimmon women promptly invited them to come back anytime. It was a really most pleasant meeting!

A very happy birthday to Perle Poirier on her recent special day. May you enjoy many more.

Sincere sympathy to Mrs. Annette Lyman on the recent death of her husband Angus and to the rest of the family at this sad time.

The card parties, the Outreach Diner's Club dinners, travelling on the Outreach van, the World Day of prayer and the Joint Christmas Carol services have all tended to bring this community closer together than ever before in history.

So, when someone passes away in Glen Robertson, it isn't only those people who are saddened. Our circle of friendship has grown to include people we might seldom encounter, but for these "mingling" events that take place now.

They bolster the warmth of neighborliness and caring that is deeper than ever. Would that the whole world could find this wonderful feeling among all people.

I think then that we would see the end of the warring, the killings and the fear. We are so fortunate in our little corner of the globe, that we find ourselves welcome no matter what church we enter, no matter whose home we visit (for the most part).

Respect for each other, and consideration abound here, and that is just what we should feel for our neighbors.

All I can say is that I hope it never dies but keeps on growing and spreading, like the waves after a pebble is tossed into the water. It's a good feeling, isn't it? We are truly fortunate!

Baxter named chair of international body

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

The community has never had a president of an international organization but we do now. John Baxter is president of the International Blind Power Lifting Federation and was in Marbela, Spain, recently for the world championships and in turn won a gold medal.

Afterwards, Mr. Baxter went to France for meetings of the International Parolympic Committee.

Now on home ground Ontario Powerlifting Championships are being planned to be held in the Sports Complex. On Oct. 28 at 8 p.m., the senior women will be competing and the local ladies you might wish to cheer for are Helena Plamandon, Casselman, Heather Johns now studying in Hamilton and Terrilynn Malboeuf, St. Rose.

The next morning starting at 9 a.m., the intermediate men will be competing and the local lifters will be Maurice Besner, Maxville, Eddie Lacroix Jr., Apple Hill and Ryan Calvank, Alexandria.

We wish much success to the organizers and contestants of this two-day event on Oct. 28 and 29.

Reluctantly, Alma, Mrs. O. F. Villeneuve has had to give up her lovely home and move to the Manor. Mrs. Villeneuve spent over 60 years in the home with her husband Osie and her three sons while they were growing up. However, Mrs. Villeneuve is pleased that a fine young couple, Laurie and Andrew Arkinstall, have taken ownership and that the home she loved so much will be in capable hands.

Last Friday night, an attempt was made to steal a car in the village. We never thought that we would have to worry about such matters but now it appears that the least we can do is keep our cars locked at night.

"It is a dream come true" Kathryn (Mrs. Lyndon) Jackson said when discussing her first week of operating Lobeka's Eatery and Crafts. In partnership with her sister Sonja Havis, the ladies are enjoying their new venture and are very pleased with the volume of business. It is very obvious these days that the commercial enterprises are succeeding in the promotion of Halloween decorations. The village is taking on a very festive appearance with the grounds of many homes extensively festooned. Take a drive around some evening and enjoy the sights.

Ann Woite, the speaker at the Horticultural Society's meeting last week was most informative and entertaining when she spoke on poisonous plants and plants with curative powers. For example, the crushed leaves of toadflax (alias butter and eggs or wild snapdragon) when rubbed on a poison ivy rash, will cure it quickly. Ms. Woite had many fresh specimens and was able to cure the rash from nettles on the spot with a leaf of curled dock.

The Society has decided to no longer sponsor the Christmas decorations contest in the area. Perhaps there is another organization that will pick up this worthy cause.

I hope you read Ian Cumming's article on Don Johnston, Martintown, who was chosen this year to judge the Holsteins at the Royal Winter Fair. Our own Howard Morrow, Don's uncle, was given much tutorial credit for his early "Holstein education." The late Mort Johnston of Navan was Don's father and his mother is Ida Johnston, nee Morrow, of Ottawa. If I have stimulated your interest and perhaps curiosity, reread the article and learn of this rare honor.

Steven St. Denis of Glengarry District High School deserves a word of praise in admitting that he loves school. He was quoted last week in admitting this fact as something about himself that his friends might not know. There aren't too many students today who have such a positive attitude to school and I fully expect Steven is the type of student that all teachers look forward to teaching in the classroom.

Elections were held at the public school for Students' Council positions and the following are holding office for the school year: Head Girl -- Kathleen Jack, Head Boy -- Richard Durocher, Secretary -- Cathy Taxepeus, Treasurer -- Matthew Delaney, Class reps.: 8A Travis Pelletier and Jennifer Little, 7B/8B Matt Noel and Natalie Dore, 7A -- Rodney Benton and Lisa Sabatine, and 6, Kristine Jack and Scott MacDermid. Mme. Smith is the staff advisor.

Willy Marie Gillingham and Jeff Oakes are heading up the school committee as president and vice-president respectively.

The Grade 1 students are going to sing for the residents at the Manor this Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Gee in her newsletter told about the fire prevention presentation at the school and concluded by writing "We are very fortunate to have a fire department that is so actively involved in teaching our students fire safety." Chief Donald Sabourin, Martial Brabant and Dale Crites were the department's representatives.

There is a weekly play group starting at the school for preschoolers. Phone 527-2195 for information if you are an interested parent.

Stephen Titus, Sports Complex director has submitted a report from the Complex covering activities since the spring. The following is part of the report and more will follow.

Back in May, a group of interested parents and myself began meetings to organize a skating club for Maxville.

A survey was conducted and it was found that over 44 people responded positively.

A minimum of 25 committed members was needed as required by the Canadian Figure Skating Association. So it was decided to go ahead and start advertising and registering for the fall of 1994.

Ads were put in the newspaper, on community TV cable 12 and flyers were sent to the schools and summer day camp. Unfortunately response to actually register was poor.

Also there was a lack of volunteers for the executive that would have to be formed in order to meet Canadian Figure Skating regulations.

As a result the few who did attend all the meetings and put in many hours of time and effort decided that it would not be possible to operate the club this year.

ASK THE CHIROPRACTOR

Can chiropractic cure back pain?

This is a more complicated question than it may appear. Pain in the back may be due to so many different causes that a careful examination and differential diagnosis is necessary. A modern chiropractor will do this, and if necessary refer the patient to a physician or surgeon.

However, most of the so called lumbago, pinched nerve, sprained sacroiliac, slipped disc, etc., cases do respond well to the specialized treatment of a chiropractor.

In other years, the European Night has been a highlight of the social activities. With encouragement of the Chamber of Commerce, the ladies are once again holding it and the date and place is Nov. 12 at the Sports Complex.

There will be music by an Edelweiss Band with an authentic European meal served from 7-9 p.m. The proceeds will go the the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario.

Advanced tickets may be purchased at Maxville Farm Machinery, Fritz Fine Food, Christine Jans, Eileen Colbourne, the Village office or from Dora Bill.

Do plan to attend and purchase your tickets early. You are assured of an excellent time and meal prepared by the ladies from several European countries. If you are quiet and just want to watch, you will see all these friends congregating for an evening of visiting in several languages.

On Friday, several members of the Horticultural Society planted 100 tulip bulbs at the War Memorial on Mechanic Street West. In May, these tulips will bloom in commemorative gardens all across Canada. Each flower in those gardens will be dedicated to someone who made a difference in World War II.

The year 1995 marks the 50th anniversary of the end of this war.

The Glengarry News reporter tried to reach the site of the planting to take a photograph and do a larger write-up. With about 20 people there, the planting was done very quickly and the photograph didn't get taken. Perhaps one will appear in the paper next May when the tulips are in full bloom.

Over 200 people attended the Pumpkin Festival last Saturday and ensured that it was a real success, much to the satisfaction of its sponsors, the local recreation committee. All those who attended are thanked and special thanks go to the Anglican Church Women, the Girl Guides, Janna Michaud, the crafts people, the Maxville firefighters and the local OPP officers.

Brody MacDonald won the prize for guessing the weight of the 56-pound pumpkin.

Stephen MacMaster brought in the largest pumpkin.

The pumpkin carving winners were Hughie MacQueen, Steve Allen, Amanda Chisholm, Meagan Munroe, Cheryl Hillier and Natalie Jackson.

The winners in the coloring contest were Christèna Chase, Jake Wensink, Charlotte Bradley, Colleen Scally, Stephanie Taxepeus, Melissa MacGregor, Steve Allen, Anna Marie Jack, Kaila Craibe, Trevor Martin, Amanda McLeod, Matthew Finnerty, Brock Ducross, Stacey Dearmas, Sarah McLeod, Katie Dubeau, Tracey Renaud and Kelly McCourt.

Young at Heart euchre

There were double smiles going home from the euchre party last week. Hormidas St. John had top men's score and won a draw prize. Earl Emell came second and won a draw prize and Kenneth MacLeod had a third highest men's score.

Judy Johnsen topped the ladies, followed by Onagh Ross and Gladys Barton. Alice Richer won the door prize as well as draw money.

Other 50-50 draw winners were Shirley Dixon, Jean Smith, Peggy Cline, Bertha Lalonde (2), Fern Brabant, Jessie MacRae and Clifford Losey.

Your correspondent didn't forget the addresses. He decided to let you try to remember where everyone was from.

The next euchre is on Halloween night, same time and place. You are assured that there will be no ghosts to interfere with the play.

News Flash! Wendy Shields' cat is home after a mysterious absence of six weeks from its Strathmore home. No, the cat is not a tom that was on the prowl, it didn't have kittens because it is spayed and it didn't visit Maxville -- its former home. In any case it received a warm welcome from all!

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM

Consumers Gas

It's time to prepare your heating system for cold weather.

For better heating economy and efficiency follow this easy step by step checklist.

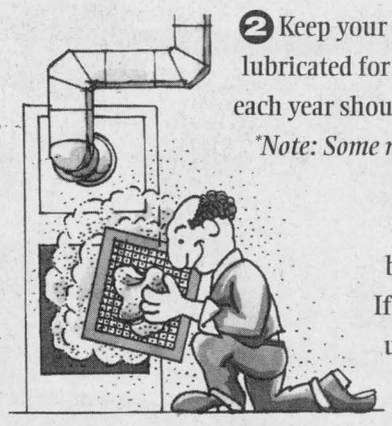
Heating System Check-up

1. On warm air systems, clean furnace filters or replace disposable filters before the winter. A dirty filter can reduce air flow and cause your system to work harder than it has to.
2. Keep your electric motor and fan bearings (and/or pump) lubricated for greater efficiency. (Two drops* of oil in the well each year should do it.)

Note: Some new motors do not need lubricating.*

3. If you have a hot water heating system, ensure that it is filled to the proper level by bleeding air from each radiator.

If you observe these basics you will soon find that using gas can be even more economical.



Chimney Check-up

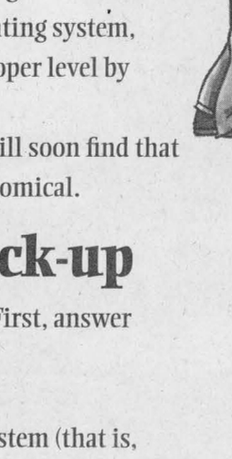
It's difficult to know when you have a chimney problem. First, answer the following questions:

1. Does your chimney have a metal chimney liner?
2. Is your heating system connected to a metal venting system (that is, not a brick or stone chimney)?

If you answer "Yes" to either of these questions, you probably need not worry about your chimney being able to adequately vent your furnace. Any brick or stone chimney should receive periodic inspection from a chimney expert.

However, here are three simple checks you can make yourself:

1. Check the cleanout pit at the bottom of your chimney: Should you find any debris, remove it. If it contains bits of mortar, brick or stone, erosion could be taking place.
2. Use a mirror to look up your chimney, through your cleanout door, during daylight hours. You should have an unobstructed view to the outside. There should be no visual evidence of crumbling mortar, brick or stone. Your chimney may be "offset", which will not allow you a visual inspection with a mirror. In such cases, we suggest an inspection by a chimney expert.
3. Check outside chimney brickwork. You should not see a white chalky substance on the bricks, stone or mortar.



If you have a problem

1. If there is any chimney blockage above the vent connection, turn off your heating system (and your gas water heater) immediately. Call a chimney repair company for an inspection.
2. If there is more than an inch of broken mortar, brick or stone in the cleanout pit and you cannot see daylight using a mirror, follow the instructions in step 1. If there is no blockage, call a chimney repair company for an inspection. You may operate the furnace and water heater until the chimney is inspected, but you should check the chimney periodically for blockage until you have the chimney contractor's report.
3. If you see a white chalky staining on exterior brickwork, stone or mortar, but the cleanout pit is clear and there are no obstructions in the chimney or signs of deterioration on the chimney's exterior, ask a chimney repair company for an inspection. In the meantime, you may operate your heating system safely.

Consult your Yellow Pages for Chimney Builders and Repairers.*

Some conservation tips

Follow these simple rules and the result will be a better, more economical heating system.

1. Make sure you have well fitting doors and windows. A good fit keeps cold air out and warm air in. Proper weatherstripping and caulking also helps.
2. Rugs, furniture, drapes, etc. should not be allowed to obstruct warm air outlets and cold air returns.
3. Proper attic insulation means lower fuel costs.
4. Dampers in open fireplaces should be closed when the fireplace is not in use.
5. Hot water radiators will not heat effectively if air is in them. All air should be bled off.
6. Make sure your humidifier is working correctly. Proper humidification can contribute to heating economy and your comfort level.

Crusaders take team trophy at SD&G cross-country meet

It was a case of the little school that could.

Williamstown's Char-Lan District High School finished first in four of the six divisions to win the overall championship at the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry high school cross-country running competition in Long Sault last Thursday.

The Crusaders swept the girls' divisions, finishing first in midget, junior and senior competition. Char-Lan even had a "B" team which placed third in the midget division.

In the boys' divisions, Char-Lan finished first in the senior class and third in both the midget and junior age groups.

Here is a division-by-division breakdown of the Crusaders' performance:

Midget girls: Team "A" members Jennie Craig, Melissa Pregent, Shonna Atchison and Kara MacDonald finished first while the "B" team - Lindsay Leroux, Korrie Maynard, Jennifer Green and Heather Kennedy - placed third.

Char-Lan's top individual racers over the 3700m course were Craig (second), Pregent (fourth) and Atchison (fifth).

Junior girls: Char-Lan won the team title thanks to the efforts of Sarah McLean, Tricia Daigle, Christina Beaudin, Nina Craig and Chantal Thauvette.

McLean's fifth-place finish was Char-Lan's best individual result.

Senior girls: Vicky Peacey won the senior girls' 5100m race with a time of 24 minutes, 54 seconds. Teammate Michelle Owen was fourth.

Peacey, Owen, Shannon MacLeod, Jennie McIntosh, Kelly Lariviere and Tania Thauvette led Char-Lan to the team title.

Senior boys: Murray Link of North Dundas won this event by over three minutes, but places two through five went to Char-Lan runners.

Adam Blackadder was second, followed in order by Jacin Lapointe, Andrew Beaudin and Rory Blackadder. Char-Lan won the team title.

Junior boys: The team of Allan Alguire, Derek Abrams, Richard Malo, Stephen Meilleur and Jason Michaud finished in third place.

Midget boys: Char-Lan also finished third in this division. The team members were Paul Dawson, Peter Casgrain, Chris Malyon, Jordan Hale and Simon Harrington.

Almost the entire Char-Lan team will be competing at the Eastern championships at Madawaska tomorrow.

Gaels finish in tie for third

While their neighbors to the south were stealing the show at the SDG cross-country meet on Thursday, the team from Glengarry - which won the overall championship in 1992 - was turning in a respectable third-place showing.

But it was a distant third-place as the Gaels finished tied at 15 points with St.Joseph's, well behind overall champion Char-Lan (55 points) and runner-up La Citadelle (45).

The best individual result turned in by a Glengarry runner was a third by Sabine Hagen in the midget girls' race.

Kelly Winkiewicz was fourth in junior girls while Jesse Winkiewicz was fifth in midget boys.

The Gaels' best team was the midget boys' squad, which finished second in its division.

Alexandria's Derek Derocher - seen here side-stepping a check from Morrisburg's Josh Gowsell during Sunday's game at the Billy Gebbie Arena - scored the game-winner in overtime as the Glens defeated the Winchester Hawks 5-4 on Friday night.

Charging Glens tame Lions

After four weeks of play in the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League season and after a home-and-home series against each divisional opponent, the Alexandria Glens have established themselves as one of the favorites for the 1994-95 St.Lawrence Division crown.

The Glens extended their winning streak to four games with a pair of wins on the weekend - a 5-4 overtime road triumph over the Winchester Hawks on Friday and a surprisingly easy 12-5 home victory over the Morrisburg Lions on Sunday.

Randy Gebbie had four goals against Morrisburg while defenceman Tim Graham netted a pair. Hamish Cunning, Karl Hehn, Derek Derocher, Carl Cadieux, Luc Chaumont and Darcy MacDonell each had a solo marker.

Mike McAllister had a pair of goals for the Lions while singles were added by Tim Waldroff, Francis Briere and Chad Duguay.

Alexandria had a 4-0 lead before the Lions got on the board with 14 seconds left in the first period. The late goal did nothing to get the Leos going in the second period, and Alexandria was up 7-2 after 40 minutes.

The Glens outscored Morrisburg 5-3 in the third period.

Glens alone in first

The win gives Alexandria a 6-2 record on the year for 12 points, two more than second-place Kemptville and four more than the third-place Lions.

Naturally, Glens coach Robert Boisvenue is happy with the results so far.

"I'm very satisfied, especially on the defensive side of things. We're doing a very good job of controlling the play.

"The reason we're in first is that the guys want to play hockey and they want to win. We have 12 forwards and six defencemen and every single one of them wants to be part of a winning team."

Despite the early success, Boisvenue isn't ready to declare the Glens as the frontrunners for the division championship.

"That's a pretty hard thing to say. I don't think I should be the one to say something like that. I just want us to keep working the way we have and to stay healthy."

Glens nip Hawks in OT

On Friday night in Winchester, Derek Derocher scored with 2:33 left in overtime to give the Glens a 5-4 win over the Winchester Hawks.

"Ryan Cunning deserves all the credit on the play," said Boisvenue. "He started the play by taking the man out behind the net, he stole the puck and he set up Derek who was wide open at the side of the net.

"That's what I like about this team - that a guy like Ryan Cunning who doesn't play all that much still goes out there and gives it his all every time he's on the ice."

Cunning's and Derocher's overtime heroics became necessary when the Hawks' Rob Raistrick scored the only goal of the third period to tie the score at four.

The Glens had taken a 4-3 lead after 40 minutes thanks to two goals by Jason Hall and singles by Hamish Cunning and Karl Hehn.

Warren Holmes, Eric Savard and Craig Halpenny had the other Winchester tallies.

Glenformation: The win in Winchester allows the Glens to even their road record at 2-2. Alexandria is a perfect 4-0 on home ice...Jason Murree's meeting with the league to review charges from an Oct. 9 game against Morrisburg turned out to be a non-event. The referee - who had alleged in a report to the league that Murree had attempted to headbutt one of his linesmen - did not show up to present his side of the story and the case was thrown out. Murree will be back in the line-up this week, perhaps replacing Richard D'Aoust who injured his shoulder on Sunday...The Glens have five players who have scored at least five goals so far this year - Carl Bougie with seven, Karl Hehn with six and Jason Hall, Randy Gebbie and Derek Derocher with five apiece. Two other players - penalty-killing specialist Darcy MacDonell and rookie defenceman Tim Graham - have four goals...The Glens face their first Rideau Division opponent as the South Grenville Rangers will be in town on Friday. On Sunday, the Glens will be in Gananoque.

The Gaels take the fifth

Defence carries Glengarry to another SDG junior title

If they gave out rings for high school championships, Brian Filion would be ready to start working on his other hand.

The coach of the Glengarry junior boys' soccer club piloted his team to its fifth consecutive Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry league championship on Friday as the Gaels shut out the St.Lawrence Saints 2-0 in the final.

The win allows Glengarry to advance to the Eastern Ontario championships, to be held today in Perth.

Defence carries Gaels

Although the end result was the same, this edition of the junior Gaels is much different than any of the previous four.

With no natural goalscorers, the Gaels had to rely on strong defence and goaltending to win most of their games.

"The strengths of this team were the fullbacks, the halfbacks and the goaltender," said Filion after Friday's win. "But nobody stepped up to be our (offensive) finisher.

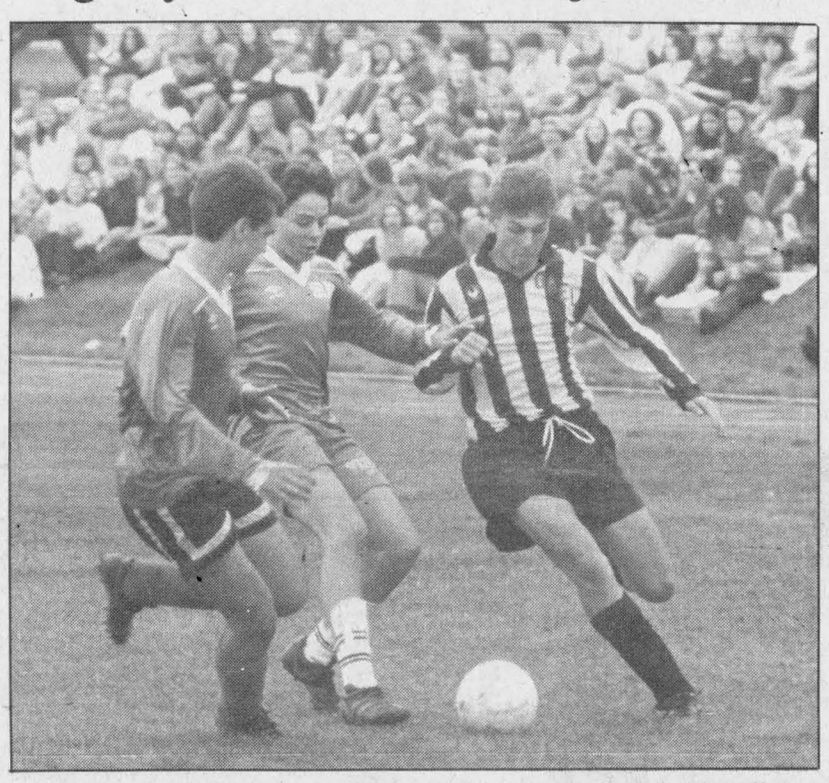
"The effort was there, and we have a lot of players who would be good complements to any offence. We just didn't have one guy like Toni Boos last year who could fill the net for us."

Fortunately for the Gaels, the stingy defence made an abundance of goals unnecessary. Glengarry recorded eight shutouts in 10 league and playoff games.

The Gaels got the only goal they would need five minutes into the final when Jason Poirier nudged in Scott Nielsen's corner kick.

Poirier had scored the only goal in the Gaels' 1-0 win over the Char-Lan Crusaders in the semifinals.

Glengarry sat on the 1-0 lead for most of the rest of the game, and the Saints had no more than three good chances to tie the score.



A large crowd looks on as Glengarry's Jason Poll fights off two St.Lawrence players while trying to get to the ball during last Friday's SDG final.

The best came with 10 minutes left in the second half when St.Lawrence striker Joel Grant got the ball past charging Gaels' goalkeeper Steven St.Denis. Glengarry fullback Jonathan Hamelin saved the day by preventing Grant from getting to the loose ball, which rolled wide of the net.

A few minutes later, the Gaels iced the game when Dean MacGillivray scored.

Notes: After Friday's game, Filion expressed regret that certain members of his team did not get a chance to play.

"I think I did carry too many players," said Filion. "I feel bad I couldn't get them into the game today, but I hope they realize how important they were to the success of the team when we had all those doubleheaders during the regular season."...For three junior team members, Friday's win marked their third consecutive SDG championship. The members of the hat trick club are Steven St.Denis, Scott Nielsen and Andrew Fraser.

Rebels finally hit paydirt

Sproul's three points lead Char-Lan to first win of season

Sooner or later, you knew it was going to happen.

The Char-Lan Rebels' first win of the season just happened to have come a lot later that coach Jeff Carter would have liked.

After starting the season with five straight losses and one suspended game, Char-Lan officially broke into the win column with a 5-4 win over the Winchester Hawks at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre on Saturday night.

Lyle Sproul scored the game-winner with just over five minutes left in the third period. Sproul also had two assists on the evening.

Jamie Herrington had a pair of goals for the Rebels while Terry O'Farrell and Brent Lauzon chipped in with singles.

Derreck Holmes - with two goals - Rob Raistrick and Jason Ross scored for Winchester.

After a scoreless first period, the goals were flying fast and furious in the second frame with Char-Lan outscoring Winchester 4-3.

That score remained until the 12:38 mark of the third when Holmes' second of the night tied the game at four.

Two minutes later, Sproul scored on assists from Kevin O'Farrell and Dan Carriere to give Char-Lan the lead for good.

Luc Mulvaugh preserved the precious win for Char-Lan by making 22 stops in the third period and 46 in the game.

Even though Char-Lan would lose 9-4 the next night in Kemptville, the Rebel players have to feel a little better about themselves now that the goose egg is gone from the win column.

"A lot of the guys were starting to wonder if we would ever win," said team captain Rob Curran.

"Actually, we knew we could win, it was just a matter of building up our confidence. There's a lot of young guys on this team and it's not as if we were getting blown out (in the losses).

"We were so happy to win on Saturday, it would have been a real heart-breaker to let that one get away."

Curran feels that this initial victory will allow the Rebs to build to bigger and better things.

"Last year, we had such a talented team, all we had to do to win was show up.

"This year, we have to work hard every game to have a chance to win and we've got a group of young, determined that can do that."

73's win on Sunday

On Sunday night in Kemptville, the 73's scored twice into an empty net to seal a 9-5 win over the Rebels.

Pats nip Gaels in senior final

The Glengarry Gaels went on the road to win the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry senior boys' championship in 1992 and 1993, but a determined La Citadelle club prevented from pulling off the hat trick in 1994.

The Patriotes edged the Gaels 3-2 on Friday in Cornwall to avenge La Citadelle's 3-2 loss to Glengarry in last year's SDG final.

This year's game proved to be every bit the struggle that a match-up of undefeated teams would suggest.

"Both teams had to fight for every inch out there," said Gaels coach Laurent Rivard.

"They had their moments where they had the advantage and then we would counteract. It was a very good, close game."

Twice the Gaels took a one-goal lead in the contest, only to see the Pats fight back to tie things up again.

Mike MacDonald opened the scoring for Glengarry, but La Citadelle's Marc Leclair tied the score at one before the halftime break.

Alain Decoste restored the Gaels' lead in the second half, but the Pats knotted the score again on Pierre Rozon's penalty shot goal.

Claude Viau scored the winner for La Citadelle with about five minutes left in regulation time.

Rivard was impressed by the new SDG champions.

"They're persistent and they never give up," he said. "They could be down 3-0 and I wouldn't be surprised if they came off the field with a 4-3 lead.

The Gaels' string of road wins in the SDG final came to an end at La Citadelle on Friday.

"They don't panic and they keep working hard until the last whistle."

Fit to be tied

How closely were these teams matched?

Both teams finished the regular season with undefeated records, but the Gaels had two ties compared to only one for La Citadelle.

One of the ties for Glengarry came on Sept. 21 when the Gaels and Pats played to a 2-2 draw in Alexandria.

With so little to choose between the teams, does Rivard wish the final could have been played in Alexandria instead of Cornwall?

"It's pretty hard to say whether playing at home would have made a difference or not," he said. "Sometimes, playing at home is an advantage, and sometimes it's not.

"Two years ago we went to Char-Lan and won and last year we went to La Citadelle and won. This year, things just didn't work out in our favor."

Notes: The Gaels reached the final with a 3-2 win over St.Joseph's in the semifinals on Wednesday. Alain Decoste had all three goals.

Meanwhile, the Patriotes slipped by Char-Lan 3-2.

Participants lean forward in anticipation of the start of last Tuesday's Glengarry Athletics cross-country running competition at Iona Academy in St.Raphaels. About 365 students part in the event.

Who needs the NHL anyway?

J.L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

It's Day 75 of the baseball strike and Day 26 of the hockey lockout. Have you found anything to occupy those nights you would normally spend flicking channels between one game to another?

It's obvious some of you have decided to go out and watch some Alexandria Glens games. The crowds at the Billy Gebbie Arena have been slightly bigger than normal although the patrons - with a few notable exceptions - still tend to be somewhat on the docile side.

The product on the ice is pretty good, and the Glens are holding down first place in the early-season going.

The most impressive thing about Alexandria in the first eight games of the year is how diverse the offence has been.

Eleven different players - including two defencemen - have scored at least two goals and a different scoring hero seems to emerge every night.

With everybody else in the division rebuilding - remember, this was supposed to be a rebuilding year for Alexandria too - the door is wide open for a team with mature rookies and productive veterans to establish itself as the favorite for the St.Lawrence Division championship.

So far, the Glens have been that team, but beware of clubs like the Winchester Hawks and the Morrisburg Lions, who could turn their fortunes around with just a couple of player signings.

The most important factor in the St.Lawrence Division race could be the fate of Morrisburg centreman Geoff Hare. Hare missed the first part of the season because of work commitments, then showed a reluctance to come back when former head coach Johnny Morrow left the Morrisburg scene.

If Hare decides to come back and young players such as Tim Waldroff, Chad Duguay and Francis Briere continue to perform, the Lions will be right up there with the Glens in the battle for top spot.

The situation is a little more complicated in Williamstown, where a slow start has left the Rebels as the early candidate to miss the playoffs.

This edition of the Rebels works hard and keeps the score close, but almost always seems to find a way to lose. In that way, they are similar to the 1991-92 Rebels, the last Char-Lan team to miss the post-season.

On the plus side for Char-Lan, the goaltending has been strong, the players are young and eager and the line-up is slowly starting to take shape after an early-season rash of injuries and suspensions.

But the best thing the Rebels have going for them is the relative weakness of the division. One team could break away from the back, but most of the other clubs will probably stay bunched close together until the stretch run in January.

If the Rebels can get the offence going, a couple of wins in a row could be all that is needed to move up a spot in the standings.

Speaking of offence, how would Marc Bellemare look in the Rebels' line-up right now?

After two spectacular season with the Rebels, Bellemare has been a standout this year for the Hawkesbury Hawks of the Central Junior Hockey League.

The centreman is the Hawks' top scorer and in fact he led the entire CJHL in scoring at one point.

Other locals whose names appear in the CJHL scoring leaders include Pete St.Jean of the Cornwall Colts and Cory Maxam and Matt Gray of the Brockville Braves.

The death of the Border League has created a problem for Glengarry Sports Palace manager Michel Depratto.

The Border League was one of the Billy Gebbie Arena's prime tenants on Thursdays and Sundays, and suddenly there's huge chunks of prime ice-time available.

Throw in the demise of Industrial League in Maxville and the cancellation of the Glengarry News Cup last spring and the question arises: is recreational hockey in Glengarry dying a slow death?

Most of the adult hockey being played in Glengarry arenas right now is of the pick-up variety, and maybe that's how players like it - just lace up the skates and go out and have fun for a couple of hours.

It will be interesting to see what response is when the call goes out for News Cup teams next spring.

Hearts go to 2-0 after win over Kirk Hill

Four different players score in Minimax win

Four different players shared in the scoring as the Minimax Hearts defeated Kirk Hill 4-1 in a battle of Glengarry teams in the Cornwall Indoor Soccer League's women's division on Sunday.

Sharon MacMillan, Lynn-Marie Legault, Wendi Lawson and Bonnie MacLeod each scored once for the Hearts, who improve to 2-0 with the win. Minimax is in a three-way tie at the top of the women's division.

Shirley Hay scored for Kirk Hill, which drops to 0-2.

Paddy's is 1-1 after dropping a 1-0 decision to Chumps on Sunday. Jennifer Latour scored the game only goal.

In other games, the Bootleggers routed Old Fort 13-3 while the Bergeron Chargers beat the Roe Lee Rovers 5-3.

Rachel Denner had four goals for the Chargers while Christine Villeneuve had a pair for the Rovers.

Rudi's edges Flyers

In men's division play, Rudi's squared its record at 1-1 with a 3-2 win over the Apple Hill Flyers.

Greg Deschamps had two goals for Rudi's while Gareth Pye had a single.

Randy Lavigueur and Malcolm MacPherson tallied for the Flyers.

The CIMF U2's made it two wins in a row by blasting Jovana's 12-1.

Ben Pregent, Pat Clarke and Brian Deschamps each scored three goals for the U2's. Garry Benson had a deuce while Scott Giroux added a single.

The Atlantic Storm was doubled 8-4 by Filion Trophies as Mike Cafariello scored three times for the winners.

In other games, Mr.Sub edged Best Western 5-4, Roadrunners I routed Roadrunners II 9-2, La Maison downed Jiggers 5-2 and the Osnabruck Cosmos shaded Cornwall BBQ 3-2.

Rudi's old-timers blank Storm

In the old-timers division, Rudi Payer Sport improved to 2-0 by shutting out the Atlantic Storm 3-0.

Dave Brown, Doug Gray and Pat Clarke each scored once for Rudi's.

The Ital-Can Rangers outscored Pizza Hut 6-5 in the other old-timers game.

In Memoriam

LOBB, Aurèle – In loving memory of a dear father, father-in-law and grandfather who passed away Oct. 26, 1984.
What would I give to clasp his hand
His happy face to see
To hear his voice and see his smile
That meant so much to me.
– Love always, Gerald, Suzanne, Marc and Alain.

LOBB – In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather Aurèle who passed away October 26, 1984.
Time speeds on, ten years are gone
Since you were called away,
Through tears we watched you suffer
And watched you fade away;
Our hearts were broken
But when we saw you sleeping
So peacefully, free of pain
We would not want you to suffer so again
You never deserved what you went through.
And now you sleep in God's garden
No worries, no pain.
There is a bridge of memories
From here to heaven above,
That keeps you very close to us
It's called a bridge of love.
As time goes by without you
And days turn into years,
They hold a million memories
And a thousand silent tears.
To us you were very special
What more is there to say,
Except to wish with all our hearts,
That you were here today.
– Most dearly loved and remembered by your children. 43-1p

LONG – In loving memory of Daniel Long who was taken from us Nov. 1, 1988.
– Always remembered and loved by his loving wife Ethel McEwen, Barney, Charlie and grandson Danny Long. 43-1c

LEFEBVRE, Pierre – In loving memory of a dear son who passed away Oct. 23, 1983.
We cannot clasp your hand, son dear
Your face we cannot see
But let this little token
Tell that we still remember thee.
– Sadly missed and always remember by your mother and father, Jacques Jr. and Diane. 43-1p

Thanksgiving dump opening popular - reeve

Opening Lochiel dump for two days on Thanksgiving weekend was a popular move with residents, Reeve Ron MacDonell said.

"But as fast as people brought scrap in others loaded it up and trucked it out."

The two open dump days were laid on to clean scrap and refuse out of the township, MacDonell said.

"But it looks like garbage was just moved around to sit in someone else's yard," he laughed.

Councillor Bill Hagen said he watched loads of steel pipe and truck tires leaving the dump.

"Good luck to them if they can use it."

Councillor Armand Paquette noticed Quebec trucks hauling out loads of scrap.

Reeve MacDonell was glad to see old tires hauled away, "it costs us $1,700 a load for the township to get rid of tires."

Cross-border can trade in Lochiel

Someone's stealing beer and pop cans out of the blue recycling boxes along Lochiel Township roads and cashing them in for five and ten cents a can in nearby Quebec, Lochiel Clerk Ray Charbonneau told council.

"And the recycling depot in Alexandria tells me they can't get enough paper and cardboard to fill their orders now," Charbonneau reported.

Councillor Armand Paquette said he'd heard "there's machines in some Quebec stores that give credit on your grocery bill when you pop in empty cans."

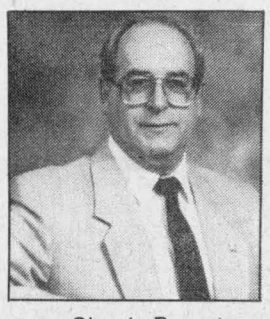
VOLUNTEER OF THE WEEK



Claude Brunet

Claude Brunet was born in Alexandria but moved away to teach school. He taught for thirty-seven years,twenty-nine of them as a principal, and then retired in Alexandria. Claude spent one summer as a volunteer in Togo, Africa, where he taught a refresher course for 120 local teachers. He met his wife Hilda there, under the auspices of the same organization that sponsored him, the Canadian Teachers' Federation.

Claude is the Grand Knight of the Knights of Columbus in Alexandria, which, he joined in 1968. Besides serving as Grand Knight, he has served as Assistant Grand Knight and District Warden and is now a member of the Fourth Degree. The Knights of Columbus serve their church and community in many ways: preparing Christmas baskets for the poor, giving money to victims of fire, working for the Arthritis Society and the Heart and Stroke Foundation, and sponsoring school projects that encourage children to look for "the Christ in Christmas." The group also helps the Poor Claire Sisters, a group of nuns who depend upon the community for their food and household goods in return for their prayers.

Claude is also a member of the Alexandria Optimist Club, is responsible for the Social Communication Committee for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Cornwall, and is chairperson of A La Page, an organization that helps adults learn to read.

If you know people who volunteer their time in community service, let us know. We would like to acknowledge their contribution. Phone Ruth Stanton, 525-4386.

Halloween - Fun and Safety

The interesting customs of All Hallows Eve, on the evening of Oct. 31, preceding the Christian feast of Hallowmas, All Hallows, or All Saints Day goes back to the ancient Druids. They believed that on this evening Saman, the lord of the dead, called forth hosts of evil spirits. Like Glengarrians, the Druids customarily lit great fires on Halloween to ward off these unwanted evils. To bring Glengarry more into the picture, the ancient Celts regarded Halloween as a propitious time for examining the portents for the future - it was the last evening of the Celtic year. The Celts too, believed the spirits of the dead revisited their earthly homes on Halloween. Then came the Romans who adopted the Halloween traditions, combining them with a Roman festival held in honor of Pomona (not related to the Pefanis home on Highway 42!), goddess of the fruit of trees.

It's fascinating that the Celtic tradition of lighting fires on Halloween survived up to modern times in Scotland and Wales. Traces of the Roman harvest festival survive in the custom, in Canada and England, of playing games involving fruit. Ducking for apples in a tub of water, the decorative use of pumpkins which are hollowed out, carved to resemble grotesque faces and illuminated by candles placed inside.

The trick or treat is a much more recent custom, children today are not likely to invoke the spirits of the dead if you don't come across with the candy, fruit or pennies. Mostly they are out for the fun of dressing up, collecting handouts while indulgent adults enjoy the creativity of their costumes.

But Halloween safety needs to be emphasized and repeated to avoid potential risks. So here are some tips:

- Use makeup rather than a mask that can obscure seeing clearly.
- Choose a costume that's light in color so it can be seen at night. Better still, use reflective tape or bands.
- Don't invite the goblins and ghosts inside for treats: they have probably been told NOT to go into other people's homes.

Don't leave obstacles (tools, ladders, toys) on lawns or steps or even in your porch. Keep your porch or outside light on as well as the welcome of front window lights.

- Ensure competent supervision for all trick-or-treaters, according to the age and maturity of the child.
- Be sure the costume - including any part such as a cape - is the right length so your child will not be tripped up in the dark.
- Ensure whiskers, beards, wigs, veils, or hat trimmings do not obscure vision or cause a fire hazard.
- Don't let kids carry a knife, sword or other sharp instrument even a make-believe. A fall could hurt the child or the youngster who happens to be in the way.
- Insist that your children bring all goodies home before eating them. Look over all treats, we do hear of bizarre malcontents who slip a razor blade in an apple.
- Be sure your children's costume is flame proof: paper costumes should be fire resistant.
- Costumes should allow freedom of movement - billowy or streaming parts can catch on bushes, hedges or fences.
- If you're driving on Halloween, exercise vigilance for kids, who excited with the spirit of the occasion, may dash out onto the road without warning.
- Parents need to remind children to use the sidewalks, crossing streets only at cross walks or intersections.
- Encourage children to carry a flashlight.
- Keep pets, especially dogs, in the house.
- Use Halloween as a fun event but also the opportunity to inculcate a sense of responsibility. For instance, UNICEF would be delighted to accept Halloween pennies for their excellent programs, internationally, which help children.

The Centennial year at St. Catherine of Sienna has been highlighted this past week.

Rev. Father Joseph MacDonald o.f.m. from Toronto and a native of Greenfield shared with locals the main responsibilities of a Christian today.

Faith for the 90's was the theme of the retreat.

A call to holiness, a call to serve, a call to be reconciled, a call to be healed were the main teachings developed.

The faithful of the parish appreciated the clearness and simplicity and firmness of his talks.

His presence was an experience that will long be remembered.

The whole community was saddened to hear about the sudden death of Angus Lyman last Friday afternoon at the Civic hospital in Ottawa.

Angus was always a willing volunteer for many services in church activities. He will be missed. To his wife Annette, to all his family and friends, we offer our most sincere sympathy. His funeral was held in St. Martin of Tours on Tuesday.

Happy birthday wishes to Sid Plamador who will be 85 years old today (Oct. 26) from his family. The best to Joy MacMillan this coming Friday, Oct. 28, from your friends; to my brother, Jean-Paul Menard this coming Saturday and to Patsy Blais on Oct. 31. Happy wedding anniversary to Fern and Lily Rozon on Oct. 28. Congratulations to all of you.

Parish supper

Father Denis Lefebvre and all the Glen parishioners are sending out a cordian invitation to everyone to come and enjoy a delicious supper in the parish hall this coming Sunday, Oct. 30 from 3:30 to 8 p.m.

Meatballs, turkey, coleslaw, macaroni salad, vegetables, stuffing, cranberries, tea, coffee, pies, squares and cookies are on the menu at the very reasonable price of $8 per adult, $5 a student, $2 under six years old and there will also be family rates. Take out meals will be available. Mmm, doesn't this sound too good to miss? See you there.

Alexandria House League

Alexandria house league started their hockey season. Acting as coach for Team B is Gilles Decoeur and assistant coach Denise Lacombe.

Team B is composed mostly of Glen Robertson players who are: Daniel Lacombe, Marc Sauvè, Mathieu Lalonde, Pierre-Paul Decoeur, Pierre Van Den Oetelaar, Michel Diotte, Patrick Lortie, Douglas Shattler and Vincent Borsellino.

Chris Cholette and Eric Major who is the goalie are from Alexandria.

We wish them the best of luck.

Laurier Carriere School

On Oct. 17, Daniel Lacombe, Eric Larocque and Kevin Van Den Oetelaar attended a zone meeting at Notre Dame des Champs accompanied by Robert and Johanna Massie.

Grades 4, 5 and 6 pupils enjoyed a fun day visiting the college in Alfred.

They took long walks in the woods, learned the correct way to plant trees and were given tricks to get along with Mother Nature.

They also used the facilities, a great big swimming pool.

On Oct. 18, over 400 students of which 45 came from Laurier-Carriere School participated in a cross-country race at Iona Academy.

In Grade 7, Melissa McDonald finished first, Jason MacDonald of Grade 2 took the second place and Steve Gauvreau the sixth place.

Travis Hagen finished third in Grade 5.

Representing Grade 6, Lucie Decoeur took the second place, Rebecca Cardinal, the fourth place and Claude Leblanc the eighth one.

Steven Van Den Oetelaar for Grade 8 won the third place, Emilie Ranger, the fifth one and Dominique Lanthier finished in sixth place.

All the students finished the race. So, we say to them bravo and keep on. It's participating that counts. We are proud of you all.

* * *

Speedy recovery wishes to Aurèle Decoeur who is recuperating at home after having suffered a farm accident.

* * *

Don't forget to turn you clock back one hour before retiring on Saturday night and appreciate that extra hour of beauty sleep.

Have a good week!
