Teenagers take awards in plowing

A 16-year-old boy from Dalkeith walked off from the Glengarry Plowing Match with five first prizes.

Kevin Nixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Nixon of Dalkeith, won the best plowed ridge by competitors from Glengarry, best plowed ridge by a new competitor, best plowed ridge in junior class, best ins and outs and best competitor in class five.

The best plowed ridge competition for girls ages 15 to 24 was won by Elizabeth McRae. Currently Glengarry's Dairy Princess, the 16-year-old girl will be entering the "Queen of the Furrow" competition at the International Plowing Match in Joyceville next week. She is the daughter of Mrs. Rosetta McRae, Munroe's Mills and the late Angus McRae.

Gordon McCuaig of Dalhousie, Que., won the class one competition. Class four (utility) had six competitors who finished in the following order: Ross MacGillivray, Dalkeith; Ronald McDonald, Alexandria; Wayne Mitchell, Bainsville; Willie Terry, Dalkeith; Jim Vallance, Maxville, and Donald Vallance, Maxville.

The five competitors in class five finished as follows: Kevin Nixon, Dalkeith; Elizabeth McRae, Apple Hill; Iggie Peters, Lancaster; Ian Vallance, Maxville and Gordon Howes, Dalkeith.

Ross MacGillivray of Dalkeith won the best plowed land in utility class of three or more furrows. The competition held Wednesday, Sept. 14th on the farm of Bruce McDonald, Kirk Hill, formerly known as the Elbert MacGillivray farm, was judged by the well known plowman, George Hay of Russell.

Prizes ranged from $10 to $15. A special prize of $10 for best ins and outs was donated by Jack Fisher of Bainsville, and a prize of $10 for best-plowed-ridge was donated by George Kinloch of Martintown.

The 12 entries had a very successful day, reported Jim Wightman, secretary. The Junior Farmers of Lochiel and Kenyon served the competitors a very satisfactory lunch in the field and a successful banquet was held that evening, catered by the ladies of Kirk Hill United Church.

In spite of the fact that it was raining all day, the competition was considered a success, reports Jim Wightman, president of the local association.

NFU wants meeting on grain corn

The National Farmers Union is requesting a meeting with Ontario Agriculture and Food Minister William Newman to discuss the weakening position of Ontario grain corn.

Glen Robertson farmer Joe O'Neill, who is on the NFU committee investigating the problem, said lower-priced American corn is a major problem.

"There is quite an influx of American corn, particularly into Quebec which does affect the grain growers in this area because of our markets there."

He said number two corn is selling for about $1.80 a bushel while costs of producing a bushel range from $2.20 to $2.65 a bushel.

The NFU is seeking the creation of a marketing commission, to regulate the grain corn market.

The present tariff system is ineffective, O'Neill said, because import duty on U.S. grain corn is only eight cents a bushel.

The Ontario industry is also being threatened by cheaper western feed grains, he noted.

One of the main reasons Ontario producers cannot compete is the high cost of land, O'Neill explained.

"It's more than doubled in the last five years."

Longer growing seasons in the U.S. also give the Americans an edge, he said.

In a press release, the NFU's Ontario office says "the problems of corn producers cannot find adequate solutions until there is a Canada Grains Board, with a truly national grains policy."

In the meantime, "some kind of marketing authority is essential," the release says and "could serve as a step toward a broader more comprehensive plan in the future."

Gassing prompts enquiry

The Ontario Ombudsman's office is enquiring into the carbon monoxide gassing more than a year ago of a registered nursing assistant.

Helen MacRae, 31-year-old mother of three, was overcome by fumes in a ministry of health owned ambulance July 3rd, 1976, while escorting a woman who required a caesarian section.

The ambulance was en route from Glengarry Memorial to Cornwall. It was later determined that fumes had entered the patient compartment of the ambulance through a rotten section of floorboard.

Mrs. MacRae says she still suffers headaches, nausea and loss of memory as a result of the incident.

A charge of permitting operation of an unsafe motor vehicle was laid against the hospital's supervisor of ambulance service, but was dismissed in provincial court.

At the request of the victim's husband, Grant, the Ombudsman's office has obtained the ministry of health's file on the mishap and is investigating.

REPAIR COMPLETED—Gas was finding its way into the town sewer system last week and gasoline stations in the immediate area were requested to check their fuel supply systems. Theoret's Gaz Bar found the pipe leading from their storage tank to the pumps to be faulty. Approximately three gallons of gas were escaping from the system each day, a situation which could have caused an explosion. Repairs were completed Friday afternoon.

Archeologist says

Local island is ancient site

The fall season of the Glengarry Historical Society opened when an enthusiastic meeting was held in the Nor'Westers Museum, Williamstown.

The guest speaker was an archeologist, Jim Pendergast, assistant director of the National Museum of Man who had been much in the news recently as he has headed up the group of archeologists who discovered the remains of an Indian village near Williamsburg. A native of the Cornwall area, Dr. Pendergast received a warm welcome from the capacity audience.

He was introduced fittingly by one of his former teachers, Miss Emily McInnes, and thanked by a fellow student, and long-time friend, Mrs. Helen Kennedy.

Dr. Pendergast explained that there is evidence that Indians were present in the vicinity of Cameron Island 9,000 years ago in the time of Abraham. A succession of various primitive Indian societies existed in the following years, the first to make pottery living in the St. Lawrence-Lake Ontario area from 1200 BC to 800 AD.

These were followed by agricultural tribes and then by the Iroquois who prospered more than all the other tribes surrounding them because they had better diets. They were successful politically too, because of their agricultural prowess and their good nutritional habits. Cameron's Island is the oldest known habitation in the area and was a mud-bank encampment.

The earliest people were hunters and thus nomadic. Later came the Meso-American peoples who were minor agrarians, farming corn, beans and squash. Agriculture necessitated the establishment of villages and the formation of alliances. The Five Nations was one such alliance.

The Iroquois communal house (long house) was explained in detail and illustrated by Dr. Pendergast. The St. Lawrence area Iroquois had long houses averaging 21 feet wide and of varying length. Through excavation and identification of post holes and fire pits, the archeologist is able to learn about the size of the house, the number of occupants and their manner of life. A long house generally had four to twenty fire pits. Each fire place was shared by two families.

The speaker stated it was a shaking experience to find human remains in the digging at Williamsburg and emphasized archeologists did not dig for the fun of it but to learn more about man. In the Williamsburg location he believes a two-acre village was

No one hurt in accident

For the second time in seven days a car struck the front of an Alexandria building. This time, on Thursday evening, a car struck the balcony of a home at 19 Derby St. West. On the same evening of the previous week a car had struck the front of Stedmans Store.

The car, driven by Mrs. Agnes Robinson of the Second of Kenyon, struck the balcony of a home owned by Miss Theodora MacDonald and completely removed the structure from the front of the building. The car continued on and came to rest against the home of Donat Deschamps across the street.

The car is beyond repair, report police. The front end is smashed, windows are broken and the roof is partly removed from its posts. The driver of the car suffered only minor cuts as a result of the broken glass.

She told police that she was heading west on Derby when an approaching car caused her to swerve. The blinding sun further added to the loss of control, she said.

It is the practice of Miss MacDonald to sit on her front verandah at that time of the evening. However it is also her practice to spend the winter in Montreal, and luckily, she left Alexandria to do just that only one day previous to the accident.

THURSDAY NIGHT IN ALEXANDRIA—The balcony on the home of Miss Theodora MacDonald was torn from the house Thursday evening when a car went out of control and struck the building seen at left. The car came to rest against the home of Donat Deschamps, (standing at right). Seven days earlier a car struck the front of Stedmans Store.

PCs selected as delegates

The Progressive Conservative Association of Glengarry-Prescott-Russell held a general meeting recently at Jessop's Falls Hotel, Plantagenet. Highlight of the meeting was the election of delegates to attend the National meeting at Quebec City Nov. 2-4th. The following delegates were chosen:

Leo Binette, St. Eugene; Bruno Massie, Alexandria; Jean-Louis Montreuil, Hawkesbury; Mrs. Edith Minogue, Cumberland; Dr. Claude Lalonde, Alexandria and Alfred and Kenneth Rock, Lancaster.

Alternate delegates chosen were: Ron MacDonell, Alexandria; Mrs. Bernadette Montreuil, Hawkesbury; Dr. George Walker, Rockland; Mrs. Simone Binette, St. Eugene; Mrs. Kay Somers, Orleans; Allan Rock, Lancaster.

Maxville clerk moves next door

J. R. Steel, former clerk-treasurer of Maxville, will take over the same duties for Kenyon Township November 1st.

Mr. Steel, who resigned from his Maxville post some months ago, succeeds Kenyon clerk-treasurer Steve O'Connor.

An Apple Hill resident, Mr. Steel was replaced in Maxville by Pauline Lalonde of Strathmore.

Kenyon received 10 applications for the job and Mr. Steel was the only person with municipal experience. He also has some knowledge of the French language.

Official opening

Motel adds a marina

The Lancaster Inn, just west of Lancaster on Highway 2, is holding an official opening this weekend.

Known for many years as the Grey Goose Motel, the Inn has been renovated and the rear quarters expanded into a marina by the new owners, Roger Lalonde and Ian MacIntosh who took over the business from Mrs. Aldy Brisson a couple of years ago.

The site now boasts a marina capable of holding 138 boats for rental, a gas dock, pump-out, power and water. On the waterfront at the rear of the motel, the marina is capable of docking boats up to 40 feet in length.

The motel has ten units, some of which are double. The dining room will specialize in perch dishes and the owners claim they have several good recipes.

The Inn will be open weekdays from seven in the morning until one a.m. and on Sundays until 10 p.m. Meals will be served until 10 p.m. daily.

The proprietors both have a local connection. Roger, a native of Alexandria, is the son of the late Dave Lalonde and Mrs. Lalonde, now of Cornwall and Ian's mother is the son of Ken MacIntosh and the former Mabel Bellis of Lancaster.

Need parents on committee

A meeting will be held at Glengarry District High School on Thursday, September 29th to elect parent representatives for the school committee.

Two representatives, one English-speaking and one French-speaking, are elected from each municipality attending the school, Lancaster, Lochiel and Kenyon Townships and the Town of Alexandria. These are for a two-year term, but may stand for re-election at the end of that time.

The Lochiel representatives, Gerard Massie and Yvette McCormick have completed their two-year term and both say they are willing to give other parents a turn at the job.

Kenyon representative for the past two years, Nancy MacKenzie who also acted as chairman, has moved from this area and must be replaced by an English-speaking parent. Georgette Trottier of Kenyon has served a two-year term and was not available for comment. She resigned her position as vice-president at the June meeting.

In Alexandria, Frank McLeister has served only one year. Chief Sylvio Cleroux who has completed his term said he would be willing to stand for re-election.

Lancaster Township parents, Hortense Charbonneau and Anna Margaret MacDonald have each served one-year terms.

The teacher and student representatives are named by their own group at separate meetings.

The school committee is set up under guidelines issued by the SD&G County Board of Education and all adults of the school community are eligible to attend and vote.

John Staynor, a GDHS teacher on the school committee, was appointed to serve as chairman following the resignation in June of Mrs. MacKenzie.

The elected representatives elect the chairman and vice-chairman.

Engine in truck ignites

A van owned by Menard's Construction of Green Valley caught fire outside the Caisse Populaire in Alexandria Friday.

Company spokesman Yvon Trottier said workers had parked the van and entered the bank to cash cheques. While unattended, the van's motor ignited.

Alexandria firefighters extinguished the blaze, believed to be caused by faulty wiring.

Mr. Trottier said the engine is badly burned but the rest of the truck escaped undamaged.

Glengarry groups at National Arts Centre

The Glengarry Club of Ottawa will be hosting the Glengarry '77 Concert at Ottawa's National Arts Centre September 24th.

The event, which begins at 8:30 p.m., will feature the Glengarry Pipe Band Concert Party, Ray MacCulloch dancers, the Old Time Fiddlers and The Cobblers.

Vocalists Jamie and Luane Wood will also perform.

This is the fourth NAC show for the pipe band and also for the MacCulloch dancers.

The band has toured Scotland, marched in the Rose Bowl Parade in Pasadena, California, and performed on national television. One of this year's highlights was the trip to New Orleans.

The MacCulloch dancers, under the leadership of Ray MacCulloch, have travelled extensively, performing their original ethnic dances choreographed by Mrs. MacCulloch.

The group of young people has performed in such places as Scotland, Nova Scotia, Pasadena, Philadelphia, Washington and New Orleans. Both the CBC and CTV television networks have presented shows featuring the group. Pianist is Cathy Fraser.

The Cobblers, are young Glengarry musicians who play Scottish-Irish music. Members are Inez McDonell, accordionist; Brian Job, drums, Herbie Seguin, vocalist; Marietta Fraser, bass; and Daryl McLeod, violin and mandolin.

Violin selections will be performed by Malcolm Dewar and Daryl MacLeod.

Jamie and Luane Wood are well known in Cornwall for their singing at weddings and concerts.

Max Keeping, news director of CJOH television is the master of ceremonies.

Tickets are available at the Hub in Alexandria, Danskin's in Maxville and at Coronet Camera and Jack MacDonell Motor Sales Ltd. in Cornwall.

Reeve chairs workshop

Lochiel reeve Alex McDonald chaired a workshop at the Association of Municipalities of Ontario meeting in Toronto recently.

Liquor Licence Board on Ontario chairman Ebert Rice spoke at the workshop which dealt with liquor licence regulations.

The chairman noted that the LLBO and LCBO are separate organizations with the latter in charge of the sale of liquor and the former in charge of licensing functions and regulating events.

Some people are under the misimpression the two organizations are one and the same, the reeve noted.

Mr. Rice also said the LLBO has received complaints about some of the entertainment in licenced establishments—such as strippers and topless dancers—but the LLBO has no authority over entertainment.

No extra funding for roads

Charlottenburgh Township is not likely to get its requested increase in provincial road subsidy funds.

In a letter to council, Transportation and Communication Minister James Snow said extra funds for the township would be considered if money becomes available but this "possibility is most unlikely."

He urged the township to carefully monitor its expenditures and only do necessary work to avoid overspending its roads budget.

Reeve Adrian Gadbois has stated repeatedly that the township would have to reduce its road program this year if additional provincial funds could not be obtained.

The province annually allocates a sum of money for road work to each municipality.

Motorcyclist breaks leg

A 16-year-old Glengarry District High School student suffered a broken leg Thursday when his motorcycle came into collision with a car at the intersection of Main and Kincardine Streets.

Eldege Leger, RR 2 Green Valley, was northbound, proceeding to school, when a car moving west on Kincardine made a left turn onto Main.

Alexandria police say the youth tried to avoid the vehicle but his left leg hit the car's rear bumper.

Leger travelled about 125 feet before stopping his bike and falling to the ground. He was taken to Glengarry Memorial and transferred to Hotel Dieu.

Police have charged the driver of the car with failing to yield to traffic on a through highway.

A. W. Caddell died

Arthur W. Caddell, a one-time frequent visitor with Alexandria and area relatives and friends, died recently in Indian River Hospital, Vero Beach, Florida. Mr. Caddell was 76.

Arthur Caddell, as a young man, followed his family tradition of police work by enlisting with the New York City force. He was a competent, valued member and served several terms on the executive of the Patrolman's Benevolent Association of New York.

Some 20 years ago ill health forced Arthur Caddell to retire and seek a warmer climate. The Caddells then established their residence in Vero Beach, Florida. As a member of the Vero Beach B.P.O. Elks Lodge, the deceased filled the role of treasurer for a time.

An ardent and knowledgeable baseball fan, Arthur Caddell was especially loyal to his home area Brooklyn Dodgers. Following World War Two when Dodger President, Walter O'Malley, destined that the spring training camp would be located in Vero Beach, Arthur Caddell became a staff member. His knowledge of the work entailed, and popular personality, created a lasting bond of sportsman's friendship that included not only the young players in camp but also some of the game's great players, like manager Walt Alston, pitchers Don Drysdale, Sandy Koufax and Tom Lasorda, the current manager of L. A. Dodgers.

Mr. Caddell is survived by his wife the former Ann Agatha Weir, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weir of McCormick Road and Alexandria. Mrs. Caddell is a sister of Jim Weir , Alexandria, and Mrs. Mary Emberg, St. Raphael's. Also surviving is a brother and sister.

Funeral services were held at St. Helen Catholic Church. Memorial service was conducted by B.P.O.E. Lodge 1774, Vero Beach. Interment was in Crestlawn Cemetery, Vero Beach.

By-law being mailed out

Lochiel Township's proposed zoning by-law was to be mailed out to ratepayers this week.

Once the by-law is circulated and objections received, an Ontario Municipal Board hearing will be called to review the by-law.

The zoning by-law, the first for the township, will govern land use and establish rules for erection of buildings.

The township is divided into the following zones: rural, general commercial, highway commercial, industrial, institutional, special rural wrecking yards, special rural pits and quarries, open space, conservation, residential, mobile home, and holding.

involved, much of it having been under highway or corn fields for many years.

He believes the inhabitants of the ancient village were descendants of the Hochelaga Indians of the Montreal area who over a period of time moved west to the sand dunes of Prescott. The Williamsburg location is believed to be a visitation site on the way.

Reports were presented by the chairmen of various Society committees indicating much activity. A new committe was formed to study the feasibility of presenting bursaries for both of the high schools in the county.

Mrs. Lorna Winter recorded the minutes as 18 members answered the roll. Hymn 384 "Go, Labor On, Building a Good Foundation" was sung with Mrs. Catherine McEwen at the piano. Mrs. Munro gave a reading pertaining to this theme and followed with scripture text from Exodus 32(1-8) (19-23).

Mrs. Florence McNaughton presented a very inspiring lesson, written by Rev. Guy Case, Napanee, entitled "Blaming the Fire" and Mrs. Alma Runions led in prayer. The offering was received by Mrs. McEwen and dedicated to God's work by Mrs. Munro.

The slides and souvenirs depicted a very different atmosphere than is probably prevalent there today. All present thoroughly enjoyed discussing her visit over lunch during the hour of fellowship that followed.

About 2,000 visited ruins

About 2,000 people visited the St. Raphael's ruins and entered their names in the guest book over the summer, reports ruins committee chairman Robert McDonell.

McDonell also told Charlottenburgh Township Council last week that an architect will soon be visiting the ruins to examine whether the walls need to be stabilized.

In his report, he noted that the committee hired five university and college students to work as guides and do maintenance work at the historic site over the summer.

Work included painting benches, landscaping, gardening and keeping litter under control.

Visitors came from various parts of Canada and the U.S. to attend the several functions at the ruins, including Music for a Midsummer's Day, Tonartus, a Galarama and religious ceremonies.

Is high school football on the way out? If so, it will be a sad semester for the many who look forward to school in the fall, their spirits heightened by the urge to get back in the game.

The dailies have been carrying reports this summer of a controversy started by a chiropractor who claimed many ills could be traced back to injuries sustained playing football. Soccer was a good substitute, he reasoned.

We just received a press release from the Ontario Medical Association's sports medicine section. It quotes Chairman Dr. George LeMasters who claims, "We know of no scientific evidence that injuries are more frequent or more serious in football than in some other high school sports."

He is staying on fairly safe ground, I notice. He doesn't name the other high school sports. Some of us can think of a few dangerous ones but we won't mention them either.

However, it has just come to our attention that Ian Sandilands and Randy McDonell made the football team at St. Francis Xavier University. Ian was not able to play football last fall because he had torn the ligaments in his ankle playing soccer before the football season.

Randy spent most of last summer running back and forth to hospital following an operation on his knee. From a soccer injury.

They both spent countless hours going through therapy to get their limbs back in shape. Especially so they could play football.

The discussion rests.

WILL MEET IN JUNIOR A EXHIBITION

Local fans will get a chance to see some home-town talent in two exhibition games in the Central Junior A Schedule. Luc Poirier at camp with the Brockville Braves and Frankie St. Pierre with the Hawkesbury Hawks are both having a good camp, according to their coaches.

Both played with the Junior B Glens here last season.

Braves' Coach Tony MacDonald is confident Luc will keep showing up better as the camp progresses. "He scored the first goal in our first exhibition game against Kingston," said MacDonald in a press release. "He is the kind of kid who is eager to learn and is easy to coach so he has a couple of very desirable qualities right there."

Tommy St. James, coach of the Hawks is quiet enthusiastic about young Frankie. "He played a very good exhibition game against St. Andre d'Avelin; he is anxious for a crack at Junior A level and we will be giving him a good chance," St. James told us yesterday.

The Braves and Hawks will be playing exhibition games in Brockville on the 25th and in Hawkesbury on the 30th, both at 8 p.m., so local fans will want to get out and see how last year's teammates measure up against each other.

Ringette planned for season

Ringette is off and running again this season in Alexandria under the watchful eye of Jean Yves Jeaurond who organized the sport last winter for the first time in this area.

This year, like last, will include teams for girls from seven to 18 years of age. However a new twist has been added to the league this year. Ladies ringette for women over 19.

The league has reserved ice time from 7 to 7:50 a.m. Sunday mornings for the new house league. "It's planned mostly as a get fit fun game for the older players," said Jean Yves.

Registration for all age categories will be at the Sports Palace on Saturday, Sept. 24th, between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. and on Monday, Sept. 26th between 4 and 9 p.m.

Any further information can be had by phoning Jean Yves at 525-1870.

Softball leagues combine for annual awards night

The Alexandria Men's and Ladies' Fastball Leagues held their annual awards night Friday, Sept. 16th at the Sports Palace where recognition was given the season's stars of the game.

Hubert McDonell was the winner of the regular season MVP award; MVP in play-off series was awarded to Serge Vaillancourt; Luc Poirier was the winner of two trophies, most improved player and most gentlemanly player. Robert Boisvenue received the top batter award and Luc Seguin received the rookie of the year award.

MVP awards on an individual team basis went to Serge Vaillancourt of ABS, Hubert McDonell of Dalhousie, Andre Seguin of the Rockets, Doug Meldrum of the Chippers and Robert Lajoie of Bergeron and Hope.

Ladies' award winners were, best rookie in league, Terri Jette of the Beavers; most improved player, Denise Seguin of Green Valley; top batter in league, Karen MacDonald of the Roadrunners and league MVP Karen Collier of the Roadrunners.

Individual team MVP award winners were, Micheline Brunet of GTL, Elaine Oetelaar of Green Valley, Nancy Parsons of the Sluggers, Carol Deguire of the Beavers and Karen Collier of the Roadrunners. League champions were the Roadrunners who won every game but one this season.

A special award and presentation was given Peggy Hay for her efforts over the years as league president. Andrea Macdonell made the presentation on behalf of the league, saying that Peggy always had time to give to the league and always had a smile to go along with it.

Heavy registration at hockey school

"The ADMHA hockey school is more successful than expected," said Gaetan Giroux, principal organizer of the two-and-a-half week session now underway at the Sports Palace.

Over 139 hockey players registered for the school. However a limit had to be placed on class numbers and some applicants had to be turned away.

Gilles Joanette is coaching the eight-to-10 year olds; Barry MacDonald is coaching the 11-to-13 age group and Claude Roy is in charge of the 14-to-16 age group.

"There is no lack of volunteers," said Gaetan, "and we have already heard favorable comments about the school. It's hard on both the players and the coaches as the school is held six days a week from Sept. 15th to Oct. 1st. But I have noticed an improvement in many of the players already. If nothing else, we will have the jump on teams from other areas simply because we will have players in better condition as a result of the school."

"Students have come from all over Glengarry and one group of four comes all the way from Grenville each evening," said Gaetan.

Local boys on university football team

Two Glengarry students currently attending St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish are in the line-up on the University Football Team.

Ian Sandilands, Williamstown and Randy McDonell, Bridge End, have become part of the "X-men" as the St. F.X. players are known.

The team plays in the "Atlantic Conference" area, in the Atlantic University Athletic Association. Other teams involved are Acadia, N.B., Mount Allison, PEI and St. Mary's in Halifax.

Ian attended university in Ottawa last year but was unable to play football because of an ankle injury. He is a former Char-Lan student and son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sandilands.

Randy has been on the Gaels football team at GDHS for the past few years as well as a member of the Glens Jr. B hockey team. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McDonell, Bridge End.

Glens open training with 30 players

The Alexandria Jr. B Glens are hard at work this week, training and trying out for the team lineup. Over 30 players are out to each practice under the watchful coaching of Joe Kelly.

They will be open to public scrutiny this Friday at 8:30 p.m., when they have their first inter-squad game. Admission is $1 for adults. Children are free.

The first exhibition game is in Rockland on Sept. 25th at 7:30 p.m. On Tuesday, Sept. 27th at 8:30 p.m., they will host the Hawkesbury Junior A Hawks from the Central League. Friday, Sept. 30th, they play the Morrisburg Lions here at 8:30 p.m. Then they take on Rockland here on Saturday, Oct. 8th at 8:30 p.m.

The first regular season game gets underway here on Friday, Oct. 14th, when the Glens host the Metcalfe Jets.

Coaches are named for travelling teams

The Alexandria District Minor Hockey Association has named its coaches for the travelling teams. The coaches for the house league won't become definite until after the final registration Saturday.

Guy Lanctot will be coaching the Atoms travelling squad again this season. Ray Trottier will be replacing Gaetan Giroux in the Peewee division Wayne Crack will once again be the Bantams' coach and Barry MacDonald will continue as the coach of the Midget team. Barry will be assisted by Joe O'Neill as manager.

The ADMHA report that referees will be required to attend Level One clinics this season.

The organization is in need of a statistician. Anyone interested in helping out with this task may contact Morlin Campbell at 525-2839.

Final registration for ADMHA is being held Saturday, Sept. 24th at Bergeron and Hope and Glengarry Sports Shop. A $5 late registration fee will be charged after that date.

Stars beat Char-Lan in CDSA Soccer Final

by Hotspur

Glengarry Stars won the Cornwall and District Soccer Association play-off championship trophy at Joe St. Denis field Sunday, edging Char-Lan United 2-1 in the sudden-death final.

The Stars played a fast-moving, attacking brand of soccer. Speedy Glengarry forwards John and Ronnie MacPherson spearheaded a well-coordinated forward line which kept hard-working CharLan defenders Peter Graham, Dave Brown and Chris Ropchan under steady pressure.

At the other end of the field, Char-Lan United relied on sudden counter attacks, mostly down the left wing where Darcy Gordon gave the solid Glengarry defence its most anxious moments. With its inside forwards forced to take up the slack in midfield, where Paul Dwen played a standout game, Char-Lan's three-man forward line often found itself outnumbered by the Stars' sure-footed defense where centreback Andre Chenier and left full-back Bruce MacGillivray effectively shared the "sweeper's" role, providing a solid cover for steady netminder Norm Laliberte.

For the first 20 minutes of the game, play see-sawed from one end of the field to the other, keeping the large crowd on its toes with some narrow misses on both nets. After 22 minutes, Char-Lan's defence was caught out of position, allowing John MacPherson to get in behind and beat netminder Don Kannon with a deflected shot into the side of the net.

The first half ended with Char-Lan enjoying an edge in play and threatening to tie it up. The Williamstown club continued to press early in the second half before the Stars took control again. After 65 minutes, Chal-Lan evened the score when Darcy Gordon picked up a loose ball in the Stars' penalty area following a Denis Carr corner kick and booted it home for the tying goal.

Two minutes later, however, John MacPherson put a damper on United's victory hopes with his second goal of the night. He broke through on the right wing and rifled an angled shot past a powerless Kannon in the Char-Lan net. For the remainder of the game, Stars continued to press their tiring opponents. They missed a chance to widen the score when Laliberte blasted a penalty kick strainght at Kannon. After the final whistle, the crowd applauded both teams for having played a fine game worthy of a final.

The CDSA's first annual dance and awards night Saturday, October 8th, will officially end the new soccer league's successful rookie season which brought the following championship winners and runners-up:

Knock-out Cup: Avonmore Pacers (champions); Char-Lan United (runners-up)

League: Avonmore Pacers (champions); Char-Lan United (runners-up).

Play-offs: Glengarry Stars (champions); Char-Lan United (runners-up)

New events at GDHS track and field day

A couple of new additions have been added to the day-long GDHS track and field events. A hay-bale toss for girls and a modified version of the caber toss for the boys are included in the competition.

The day's activities are scheduled to start at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 28th and will include the usual track and field competitions.

A new physical education course has been started by the grade 13 students. Every Monday, those interested, take horseback riding at John Peters' VLN Farm in Lancaster. Others are playing golf and tennis while still others are planning a canoe trip to Algonquin Park.

Jr. C franchise not approved

A strong effort is being made by Norman Wray of Dalkeith to have a junior C hockey franchise in Alexandria. But reports are that he is being blocked every step of the way.

Mr. Wray has gone so far as to reserve ice time, appoint a coach, Cameron McCormick, and register the teams name, "The Alexandria Junior C Hockey Club." But he has been unable to obtain the necessary sanction from the Ottawa District Hockey Association, the governing body in this part of Canada.

However, Mr. Wray continued further. He together with ADMHA president Morlin Campbell, Cameron McCormick and Larry Stevens, local president of Jr. C hockey, appealed the case directly to the ODHA executive in Ottawa on September 14th. But the answer was still negative.

Mr. Wray said that he was told by the ODHA that an area of this size could not support both Jr. B and Jr. C hockey without both suffering. "I don't understand their reasoning," he said. "The Junior B club has approximately 30 players out to each practice while we have over 40. That doesn't sound like we would have trouble supporting the league."

Mr. Wray feels that there are many hockey players who would like to play junior hockey but aren't quite good enough for junior B. "This would give them a place to spend their energy rather than on the streets," he said.

He feels so strongly on this subject that he is making an attempt to join up with the newly organized Intermediate B league. He is also appealing his case to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

"We are in the process of establishing a written agreement between ourselves and the Junior B Glens in that we would become their farm team," he said. By doing so the Junior B club could draw from them and the Junior C club could pick up the B cuts.

"The ADMHA supports the idea of a Junior C club here and judging by the turnout at practice so do the players. It's beyond me then why the ODHA won't allow us in their organization," he concluded.

Oldtimers to hold hockey tournament

The Glengarry Oldtimers Hockey Club will be sponsoring another hockey tournament this fall at the Sports Palace. Competition promises to be larger and longer than in previous years.

Scheduled to start Wednesday, Oct. 19th through Sunday, Oct. 23rd, the tournament will include 24 teams, as compared to 16 last fall. Already signed are teams from Ottawa, Montreal, Brockville, Varennes and Cornwall.

Competition will include four games on each of the first three nights starting at 7 p.m. This will determine the "A" and "B" series which will be played on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 22nd and 23rd.

Trophies will include MVP, Best Defence and Best Goalie and all players of the "A" series winning team will receive a beer mug. There is a $75 per team entry fee.

The local oldtimers won their own tournament last year which they didn't expect to do considering the high caliber of competition. This year their chances will be further reduced with the addition of eight more teams.

A dance will be held on the Saturday night with trophy presentations being made on Sunday evening following the last game.

Organizers report that "to foster the spirit of friendship, refreshments will be available at the arena in the hall overlooking the playing surface."

Further information can be had by contacting Bob Leroux at 525-1433.

MacGillivray top scorer

The Glengarry Soccer League has changed its statistics with respect to the league's top scorer award. Campbell MacGillivray is the sole winner of the award. He did not share it with Earl MacLennan and Donnie Morris as previously reported.

Campbell scored 18 goals and was awarded the Father Gauthier trophy for his efforts.

ABS wins fastball

by Gilles Depratto

ABS were declared 1977 Alexandria Fastball League champs when they defeated Dalhousie 5 to 1 in the sixth of a seven-game series Thursday night at Island Park.

Robert Boisvenue led the way for ABS as he singled, doubled and tripled in his four times at bat. Mike Vaillancourt went two for four.

For Dalhousie, Ian McKay, Huntley MacDonell and Raymond MacDonald all had a hit as Serge Vaillancourt allowed only three hits, walking two and fanning nine Dalhousie hitters. Hubert McDonell was the games losing hurler.

News of

The Urquhart family gathered at the home of Mrs. C. T. Upton (nee Rena Urquhart) Lancaster, on Sept. 11th to welcome Claggan Roy Urquhart of San Francisco, California, who is vacationing with relatives in Canada. C. Roy Urquhart is the youngest son of the late Roy Urquhart formerly of Williamstown, Ont., who also spent some years of his youth residing at Martintown and Dunvegan. Relatives arrived from Ottawa, Manotick, Perth, Curran, Newington, Ingleside, Alexandria and Williamstown of Ontario and Montreal, Que.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dixon of Sarnia, spent the weekend visiting Mrs. C. T. Upton of Lancaster and also friends in Bainsville.

Opposes bonuses

Charlottenburgh Township has appealed to Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau to block a proposed $800 yearly bonus for bilingual civil servants.

The government has proposed paying the bonus to civil servants who are required to use both official languages in the performance of their duties.

Reeve Adrian Gadbois suggested the pay raise was out of order during a period of high inflation and unemployment.

"Far too much time is being spent on language issues that have cost this country millions of dollars," the reeve said in a prepared statement. "Not enough time is being spent on long-range programs to provide work for people."

Council endorsed Gadbois' statement and voted to use it as a basis for a letter to the prime minister.

"This council feels this (bonus) is not warranted and should never be allowed at a time when inflation is on the increase and unemployment is at its highest peak," the statement says.

The reeve warned that the increase would only stimulate pay increases throughout the civil service.

Councillor Bill Cooper said the issue would create friction between English and French-speaking Canadians.

Looking for funds

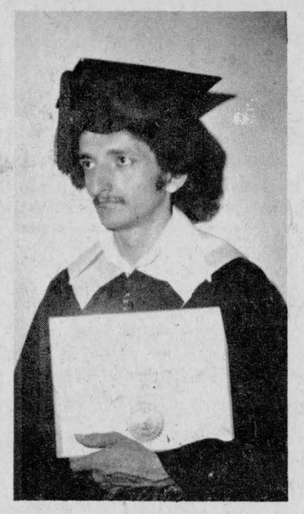
United Counties Council has voted not to make a grant to the association of recreation directors in SD&G to carry out a survey of recreational facilities and needs in the counties.

Alexandria Reeve Jean Paul Touchette said recreation is a local matter and the counties council should not become involved.

Morrisburg Village recreation director Douglas Moses and Dr. J. E. Rosenquist met counties council recently to seek support for the survey, which would be the first in the province.

The survey would be used to co-ordinate needs with facilities and is estimated to cost about $70,000.

The association is hoping to raise funds from various sources, with about $60,000 being available in government grants.



HONORS GRAD—J. Claude Larocque of Alexandria graduated recently from Ottawa University with a BA degree and received a specialization with honors in theatre arts. A graduate of GDHS, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurent Larocque of Alexandria.

Museum to display

An exhibition of quilts and hooked rugs will be held at the Nor'Wester and Loyalist Museum at Williamstown, Saturday and Sunday, September 24-25, 1:30-5:30 p.m.

Many different patterns and techniques of quilting will be demonstrated, including, woven, pieced and patterned quilts.

Offered use of centre

Charlottenburgh Township has been asked to make use of the controversial Kinette Day Care Centre in Cornwall.

In a letter to council, the ministry of community and social services has suggested the township investigate the possibility of purchasing services from the centre, which officially opened September 1st with an enrolment of 12.

It is Cornwall's second municipally-owned centre and has many vacancies.

The ministry subsidizes municipal day care centres 80 per cent.

Charlottenburgh should consider utilizing the centre because "it is very unlikely, during this period of financial restraint, that there will be capital funds available from the province to provide new day care services," the letter said.

It suggested that if there are working women in the township in need of such services, this is the time to make use of the centre.

"It is also an opportunity that may not come again in the near future," the letter said.

Council took no action, however.

IT'S OUR OPINION

Alexandria should award medal

It was with some dismay that we learned of Alexandria Council's decision not to award the Jubilee Medal allocated to the town by the federal government.

The medals are being distributed to municipalities throughout Canada to commemorate the queen's silver jubilee. The medals are to be awarded to citizens who have been of "exemplary service" to their respective communities.

Despite the fact that other municipalities have been able to cope with the situation, Alexandria's town fathers quickly backed away from this new responsibility.

One of the prime concerns, we understand, was that there are many deserving people in town who could qualify for the award. Some might be upset if they did not receive it. Consequently, the best way of not hurting any feelings is not to award the medal at all, the argument goes.

We can't appreciate the logic. In fact, there are several words that can be used to describe such action. Cop-out is the one that comes most readily to mind.

If a mechanism for awarding the medals can be devised in other towns, it can be devised here. In Smiths Falls only two weeks ago, for example, the local paper proudly displayed the picture of that municipality's medal winner. He happened to be a doctor with 54 years of service.

We simply cannot subscribe to councillors' excessive concern about the difficulty of picking one outstanding person. Surely a similar dilemma occurs when a citizen of the year has to be selected.

Councillors are elected to make decisions. They should not avoid issues simply because they are difficult. If we extend the don't-get-upset argument, we shouldn't pave any roads in town because people who still have older roads might be offended. We shouldn't improve sidewalks on one street because people on another street might be upset that their's wasn't done first. In fact, maybe councillors shouldn't even run for office because people who don't vote for them might be upset when they win.

We will concede that the choice of a medal winner would not be an easy one and perhaps an independent committee of non-politicians should have the final say. That way, local councillors would not have to fear political pressuring.

But as for worthy people being upset at not receiving the medal—we can dismiss that as a phoney issue. The truly dedicated people who commit themselves to the betterment of this town do so out of pure love for the community. They seek no prizes, medals or rewards other than to see their town prosper. These type of people would not be offended if an equally qualified person received the medal over themselves. Anyone who would be small-minded enough to get upset, would only be demonstrating that he or she didn't deserve the medal in the first place.

And now for the good news

"It's a good world after all." Two people in the news this past week have convinced us. Sean O'Sullivan and Danny Geoffrion.

O'Sullivan is the 25-year-old member of parliament for Hamilton-Wentworth who decided he would leave his post in the ranks of the governing to enter the seminary for the priesthood. Neither of these decisions are outstanding in themselves. People have been known to resign from political posts before. And men are still laying aside other ambitions to become priests.

But the timing here is noteworthy. If O'Sullivan had remained in his riding for one more year he would have had a pension of $5,000 a year for life. And considering the salaries in the ministerial field it would surely have been a welcome supplement. We just have to admire the dedication of such a man.

Then there is Danny, who has been captain of the Cornwall Royals Junior A hockey team for the past two years. This is an enviable position on such a team and one the 19-year-old filled capably.

This week the young son of "Boom-Boom" offered to relinquish his leadership to let someone else have a chance at the honor. Such consideration of his fellow teammates is highly commendable and an indication that the term "a good sport" extends much further than a handshake after a game.

Such gestures on the part of these two young Canadians are an inspiration, and an indication that high moral values in our society still do exist. Thank you, Sean and Danny for giving us a chance to "accentuate the positive."

'From the old rail fence'

by Anna Margaret

The housing shortage has been hitting some of my best friends. At least back in my childhood days they were among my best friends; I haven't seen much of them lately.

Sad how we forget the friends we treasured and enjoyed. It was Tom Sproule, president of the Conservation Club in Vankleek Hill, who drew this to my attention recently.

Tom and his friends have become concerned over the disappearance of the bluebird from this area. One of the reasons for this demise is the departure of the rail fences where bluebirds used to nest. A "fence-sitter" from way back, how well I remember "my little Woodstocks" flitting in and out of their nests.

Anyhow, the concern of these nature lovers has prompted them to do something positive. And so they are erecting a "bluebird trail" with little birdhouses stationed along it, just the exact size for the little birds. They have about a dozen sightings along the Rouge River in the Grenville-Calumet area.

Tom also tells me of a real whole-hearted conservationist by the name of Coral Young in Calumet who has his own bluebird trail started with about 100 little houses, built to specific size to discourage entry of other birds etc. He keeps tab on his tenants regularly, checking to see they have not been evicted or mistreated by a more powerful species.

I have not met Coral Young yet. But doesn't he sound like a nice person to get to know? I'm told he even cleans out the nests. Now about my nest . . . Oh well, I'm glad someone's kind enough to do it for the birds.

Strange how co-incidence puts things in a different light. We got a letter last week which might have sounded routine at any other time, but receiving it just now produced a chuckle.

The letter was addressed to Bob and myself and advised us if we needed any information in the safety line now that we had undertaken new responsibilities, we could count on "Safety Canada."

It was nice of Manager P. G. Green to write us. After all, our job may be more of a hazard than we realize. So if the tomatoes and eggs start to fly our way, we may well be calling on you, Mr. Green.

When it comes to ancestral roots, Glengarry lays claim to a powerful lot of sprigs off the old tree scattered about North America. But it seems we have missed out on a "biggie."

A king no less. At least he has been called that by many, and in his realm, we will cede justification. Yessir, none other than Elvis Presley.

The neighbors are claiming him. The neighbors up Plantagenet-Curran way. So says, Geoff Johnson, columnist in the Citizen. As the story goes, Elvis is thought to be a descendant of "Thresher Dan" Presley who left the Ottawa Valley area a long time back and settled in Mississippi.

I suppose we can't claim them all.

Perspective

by Bob Roth

Our surplus of teachers

The Ontario Teachers' Federation has just embarked on the biggest selling job it has been faced with in years. As enrolments in most schools (our area high schools excepted) continue to decline, the OTF is pressing for a reduction in classroom size.

"Declining school enrolment should have the effect of lessening the number of students in every classroom. If we truly believe in the quality of educational opportunity, providing teachers with more appropriate numbers of students to work with is a reasonable means of ensuring it," newly-elected OTF president James Carey says in a press statement.

"Teaching is a person-to-person process. Teachers attempt to educate each student to the limit of his or her capacity. We are more concerned with a student's progress than a student's grade placement. Those outside education sometimes confuse that with a lowering of standards. Obviously smaller classes would enhance the educational process.

"At the present time," Carey continues, "when we already have a surplus of trained teachers, we should substantially reduce the size of our classes to enable each child to learn more effectively. This is expensive only if one ignores the costs of later diagnosis and remediation of learning difficulties, special education and adult re-training.

I say the teachers have quite a selling job to do because taxpayers throughout Ontario have become very skeptical of the teaching profession in recent years. Carey suggests people sometimes "confuse" downplaying the grading system with lowering standards. The student's progress is what really counts, he says. Who would deny the statement? But it is a rather flippant comment which too easily brushes aside such issues as why many universities have found it necessary to implement remedial courses in such fundamental subjects as English grammar and composition.

There are people—particularly those who were part of large classes in days gone by—who would argue that the quality of the teacher, not class size, is the determining factor in whether or not a good education is obtained.

During the past decade we have seen the highest spending, both in capital and salaries, ever invested into an education system. People have watched their property taxes soar, realizing all the while that 60 cents of every dollar was going to education. But as the costs rose, the quality seemed to decline. It just didn't make sense. Rightly or wrongly, the general public has resented the pay increases granted to teachers over the past few years.

Teachers have simply not succeeded in convincing people that salary increases in other sectors of the economy were just as high, if not higher.

Meanwhile, all the blame for declining standards is being placed squarely on teachers' shoulders. In fairness, responsibility should be spread around a little more. It was not the teachers, but government officials, who radically altered the education system (even though many of the proposals came from educators). Teachers have pointed out that some of the innovations seriously eroded the teacher's authority in the classroom. The option system, in fact, severely limits the teacher's control over quality of education because he or she cannot determine what a student chooses to study.

Teacher critics argue that the profession should have spoken out sooner. As it is, the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation only began to campaign for a core curriculum a couple of years ago.

I suspect, however, that many of these philosophical questions will be shoved aside as the debate on declining enrolments unfolds. The dollar will predominate. Homeowners, already shackled to a burdensome weight of property tax, will likely want to see the enrolment decreases translated into cost reductions. And that means hiring less teachers, not more.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

THANKS TO THE EDITOR

Cornwall, Ontario
September 15, 1977.

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

The recent retirement of Eugene Macdonald as Editor of the Glengarry News has saddened many of us who looked forward to reading his weekly editorials which always had a distinct and skilful format.

The impressive and thought provoking manner in which he discharged his responsibilities rates him as a man of unique and distinctive character.

To regress on his many contributions to the people he served during the past decades, one can only conclude that the void which has been created will still be visible in the distant future.

I, together with my colleagues on Counties' Council, join his many friends by wishing Eugene a happy and healthy retirement and thank him most sincerely for the services that he has rendered to our community during the past years.

Sincerely yours,
Edwin Waldroff,
Warden.

They'll Do It Every Time

Martintown Rumor Mill

Art Buckland—528-4261

"Why should I go to see Glengarry '77, instead of staying home and talking to the dog and going out to the silo to test the corn so I'll know whether to give it to the cows or to myself?" Old John was replying to his wife's question, just as he had replied to that same question the night before and the night before that.

Morag, his wee wifey, began her umpteenth attempt to persuade him to go.

"You know, John, how you like the pipes, especially when the band is led by Davey Danskin and Johnny MacKenzie."

"Yes, woman," he answered, "I know that. I could listen to those pipers for days."

"True, and sometimes you do, much to my sorrow."

"Aye, but still I canna leave the cows for all that time."

"Awach, Johnny, come away wi' ya. Besides the pipers, they also have Rae MacCulloch's lovely young lassies. You know how they can strathspey, jig and reel. I've seen your eyes light up when they get stepping, all 23 of them. I've even seen your tongue hang out, you must have been that tired just from watching them."

"Aw yes, they are lovely young things. They always puts me in mind of the two of us dancing through the Glens at dawn. But I can't leave the cows."

"Perhaps when I tell you that the opera house will be ringing with the mellow sound of fiddling, perhaps then you will agree to leaving your old cows for a while."

"Oh lass, I know about the fiddling. Malcolm Dewar and Daryl MacLeod really fiddle up a storm. Still, it's the cows."

"Fiddlesticks on the cows. Moreover, The Cobblers will be in top form after their triumphant week at Molly McGuire's Pub in Ottawa. And you have enjoyed Brian McDonell's singing for years."

"Aye, aye, and the cows love the tunes too, puts their grade up a notch, yet I canna do it."

"You have remarked how much you like to hear Jamie Wood and his sister Luane sing 'Annie Laurie'—they'll be there. Garry Matthews and Robin Upton will also be performing. I hear that Robin is going to sing 'Skye Boat Song' in seventeenth century military dress."

"Is that so lass? Won't that be great? Still and all it's the cows, don't you see? I do hate to miss it though."

"Did you know that Max Keeping is going to be Master of Ceremonies in Dave Danskin's kilt?"

"You don't say lass, Max Keeping of CJOH-TV? That Irish Newfoundlander in a kilt. Some show! Some Show! We are going, for sure! Oh ho, this will be something. Get tickets, lass."

"You mean John, that you are going to Glengarry '77 on this Saturday just to see Mr. Keeping with a kilt?"

"Don't be daft lass, of course not, I'm going to be in the full house audience of 2,300 not to see Max with a kilt, but Davey without! Phone Alex Irvine the drover. We're taking the cows with us. Oh yes and tell him we're bringing the bull too. They'll be accustomed to that in Ottawa."

Martintown Mac says that you should not miss Glengarry '77. Buses leave Cornwall, Maxville and Alexandria. Phone 528-4261 for tickets or information on this great all new Canadian Scottish Concert.

classes for girls in Alexandria on the 17th of the same month. In Sept. of that year they moved into a house built by the parish on the present convent property, to which was given the name of the Convent of St. Margaret of Scotland. The late Rev. Dr. Chisholm added two buildings of moderate dimensions which served for school purposes until the time of the Rev. John S. O'Connor, who, in 1870, rebuilt and enlarged the main school building. In the course of time the school accommodation became inadequate to the demands of the ever increasing number of pupils and to meet the want the present spacious and beautiful school house was erected, under the direction of the late Bishop (Rev. Alex Macdonell 1890-1905). Today it stands, the result of 50 years' devotion to education, a memorial to the late Bishop's unremitting attention to his children, and to the devoted zeal of the good Sisters, who seconded his every effort and who deserve the gratitude of the people, whose children have reaped the benefit of their fostering care and education.

In Sept. 1905, the Sisters who heretofore had charge of the girls only, took charge also of the boys. The new Alexandria (Sep.) School which was completed at this time, and which replaces the familiar old brick school house, built by the Rev. Dr. Chisholm, accommodates the senior classes, while the convent building, besides being the residence of the Sisters, accommodates the Junior classes. The records show in 1865 an attendance of 90 pupils. Today there are 600 on the roll of the school. Fifteen Sisters carry on the educational work at the present time, which was commenced by two in 1856. In 55 years, 100 Sisters have been stationed in St. Margaret's, of whom 66 are now living. If the youth of Alexandria be noted for virtue and refinement, the credit is largely due to the excellent and painstaking teachers and members of the Congregation of the Holy Cross.

Secretary.

SPARE NOTHING

September 12th, 1977

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

That was a long and articulate letter from Mr. Chuck Larocque of the Executive of Williamstown Volunteer Fire Department printed in the September 7th issue of your paper. He made his points well. Who in Canada could fail to agree to any proposals to provide the finest fire protection facilities for such an architectural masterpiece as the historic Village of Williamstown. In my opinion nothing should be spared.

Up to question though is how much change do you do to the historical character of the Village to achieve this protection. There is a not so fine line here. Even if the new hall could have been designed to follow the soft and gracious lines of the still dominant 18th and 19th century buildings, then veneered with stucco or clapboard and roofed like the Thompson-Bethune house, the ugly modern doors, paramount to quick egress, would have exposed the sham and consequently would violate the integrity of the village.

To me as a Canadian with a deep concern for the preservation of Williamstown as a whole, I am sorry to see the location chosen for this essential building. For those of us who love to come and wander, apparently aimlessly, through the village it will be a highly visible eyesore, antique bricks or not. Surely a less obvious site could have been chosen.

And when it comes to provide monies for the needed hall, one cannot escape wondering about those spent in converting the delightful South Branch Road, formerly a significant symbol of our heritage, into a modern speedway.

Oh dear, when progress and the urge for change take over, both beautiful life-styles as well as utility are so easily lost in the shuffle.

May the dedicated volunteers of the matchless fire department continue to be blessed in their watch over historic buildings, and equally, may the village one day take its rightful place as one of Canada's most important historic sites.

Yours sincerely,
John Hill.

BRING BACK THE GAELIC

Pointe Claire, Que.
Sept. 11, 1977

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

Being the son of Gaelic-speaking Highland parents from Scotland, I am naturally much interested in activities of a Scottish flavor in your beautiful county of Glengarry. I have driven along almost every back road and country lane and have visited the historic sites, the villages, and attended the Maxville Highland Games.

With all the emphasis on piping and drumming, Highland dancing, fiddling, etc., I would like to mention that the Gaelic language has disappeared almost entirely from Glengarry. To me this is a terrible shame but it is not something that cannot be rectified.

In my travels through the county I have met a number of older people who told me that they knew quite a bit of the old tongue and that they spoke it quite regularly with their parents earlier in the century.

Do the readers of this newspaper who care about such matters realize that the language may die out completely here within a very short time? Well, I am one person who would like to learn Gaelic in an organized series of classes. Even if I had to travel every Saturday morning from my home in the west end of Montreal to Alexandria, I would certainly think it was worth it.

Surely there must be others in the county like myself who would like to learn Gaelic. At one time, all Scots spoke Gaelic. Now there are only a few thousands left who speak it although there are some encouraging signs of a revival in Scotland itself and in Cape Breton.

My parents spoke nothing but Gaelic as children in the Hebrides and I long deeply to learn it myself. My admiration of French speaking Canadians for their spirited defence of their own language has convinced me that now is the time to move on this question.

If there is any interest in Glengarry County in the direction of starting Gaelic classes on Saturday mornings in Alexandria, my attendance for one is guaranteed. So is my support, both morally and financially. Please write me or this newspaper if you think as I do, or have any enthusiasm in this regard.

Mature cattle found to need less protein in their feed

by Dennis McKnight,
Lecturer, K.C.A.T.

Estimates of protein requirements for growing-finishing cattle have recently been revised by the National Research Council-National Academy of Sciences (NRC).

In general, protein requirement decreases as cattle mature, muscle development lessens, and body fat increases. The values ranging between nine and 10 per cent protein for 500 kilogram (1,100 pounds) steers are considerably lower than previous recommendations.

These changes reflect the findings at a number of U.S. experiment stations and an experiment reported from Guelph in May 1975. That study found that Herford-type steers on a corn grain-corn silage ration analyzing 9.2 per cent protein with no supplement gained as well and as efficiently as steers supplemented with protein after 56 days on feed and live weight of 420 kilograms (925 pounds).

The question arose as to whether Hereford-type steers fed high quality corn silage, but little or no grain, would benefit from protein supplementation, and if so, for how long in the finishing period. Previous research involved moderate to high grain feeding.

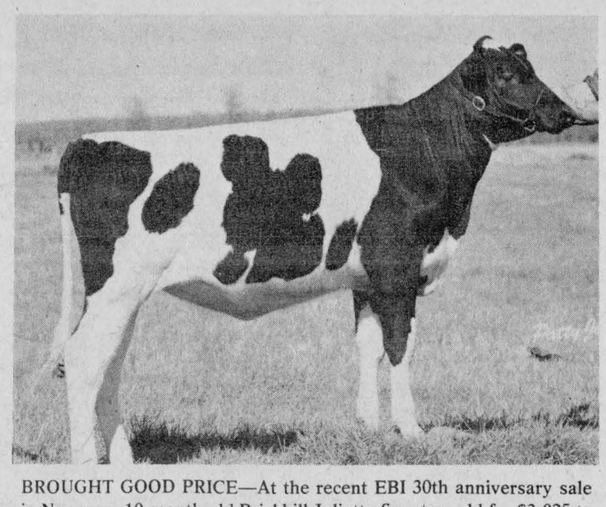
So an experiment was conducted at Guelph with the following four dietary treatments: (1) no supplemental protein; (2) supplemental protein withdrawn at an average pen weight of 389 kilograms (856 pounds); (3) supplemental protein withdrawn at an average pen weight of 435 kilograms (957 pounds); (4) supplemental protein throughout the trial. Corn silage was the main ration ingredient (94.5 per cent of ration dry matter) and protein levels averaged 8.5 per cent for non-supplemented and 10.6 for supplemented rations. Rations were balanced to meet mineral requirements at all times.

Results indicate that as Hereford and Hereford-cross steers attained the live weight range of 390 to 430 kilograms (860 to 945 pounds) a crude protein level of 8.5 per cent was adequate in a corn silage ration. These results suggest that for finishing steers fed high levels of quality corn silage the 1976 NRC recommendations may still be in excess of requirements.

Since few critical experiments have been conducted on the protein needs of growing-finishing Holstein steers, an experiment was conducted at Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology with Holstein steers fed a HM ear corn-corn silage ration with protein supplement to 369 kilograms, 409 kilograms, 455 or 500 kilograms live weights. Results were similar to those obtained with Hereford-type cattle at Guelph in 1975.

No significant benefit was observed from supplementing a mixed corn-corn silage ration analyzing 9.1 per cent protein on a dry basis, once cattle had reached approximately 410 kilograms live weight. These cattle started in thin condition and it would appear that they experienced compensatory growth. The effect of feeding program and condition of cattle during the growing phase on protein requirements during finishing period needs further study.

Research and field experience have amply demonstrated that when cattle are fed protein deficient rations animal performance was poor. So withdrawal of protein supplement should only take place when one is confident that the basic ration is adequate in protein. In practical terms this means that when corn and corn silage in the ration provide an average of nine per cent or more protein on a dry basis, protein (but not mineral and vitamin) supplement can be deleted from the diet of fattening steers weighing 900 pounds (410 kilograms).



BROUGHT GOOD PRICE—At the recent EBI 30th anniversary sale in Napanee, 10-month-old Brickhill Juliette Senator sold for $3,025 to Donald Dudd of Port Hope. She is the daughter of Nelacres Johanna Senator out of a Very Good Rockman dam, bred and owned by Andre Villeneuve, Maxville.

Lives of missionaries contrasted in WMS study

The September meeting of the WMS of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Martintown, was held in the church on Tuesday, September 13th. Mrs. William Johnston, vice-president, presided and opened the meeting with the call to worship and a hymn. Mrs. Lloyd Clingen was organist.

The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Dan Ferguson and Mrs. Duncan Christie led in prayer. Fourteen members and one visitor answered the roll call with a verse containing the word "preach." The offering was dedicated by Mrs. Clingen. Mrs. Stuart Blackadder gave the treasurer's report. Members sent thirty cards and made twenty-two visits to sick and shut-ins.

Plans were made for the annual supper on October 12th. Members were reminded of the Special Fall Meeting of Glengarry Presbyterial, to celebrate the Queen's Silver Jubilee, in St. John's Church, Cornwall, on September 26th.

Miss Emily MacInnes read the story of the life and work of a missionary of the church, Miss Lucy Baker. Miss Baker was born in Summerstown, worked among the native people in the Prince Albert area, died in Montreal in 1909 and was buried at Dundee, Quebec.

In contrast, Mrs. Harvey McMillan read a letter from Mrs. Gerald Bartholomew, nee Kathleen MacDermid, of Seattle, who had visited her daughter and family in Lomalinda, Columbia, S.A. in July. By plane, translators of the Wycliffe group visit the tribes, learn their language and print books of stories, books of agriculture and the gospels. In the school there are 90 elementary pupils and about 30 high-schoolers; some are natives and others, children of the missionaries.

High school football forecast . . .

By Angus H. McDonell

Along the line of smokey hills
The crimson forest stands
And everywhere the quarterbacks call
Throughout the autums lands

(With apologies to Wilfred Campbell)

This week's activity in Canadian football overflows to is annual crest as the high schools field their gridiron squads to begin interscholastic play. And right here in the United Counties we are part and parcel of that great autumn sport, that has gradually taken over from lacrosse to become Canada's National game.

The first sign of football fever is apparent when the CFL teams hold their pre-training camp trials for aspiring young players. For instance, we all kept an eye on J. T. Hay during his first Rough Rider tryout. Following the schedule opening by CFL and junior leagues, our high school graduates entering University with the hope of playing football, report in late August. Already Char-Lan's John McDonell is playing with Ottawa U. Gee Gees. One of the all time great quarterbacks in our high school league history. Wayne Lee of Vankleek Hill, is working out with the University of New Brunswick squad. Last season Wayne piloted Gaels to the SD&G school football championship. At St. Francis Zavier, Antigonish, Randy MacDonell and Danny McPherson, tough defence linebackers of champion Gaels, should make the team. Another likely new member of the X-men is Ian Sandilands of Char-Lan.

By-passing football, for this year at least, is another all-time Gaels' great, fleet-footed Johnny Charlebois. Johnny "C" is at Western U. embarking on an engineering course along with GDHS teammate Dave Baxter. Incidentally still another Gaels' luminary of a year of two back, John Morris, has exchanged the rigors of the Concordia Stingers' gridiron for the comfort of the University sports editor's chair.

The foregoing is 1976. Now, buckle the seat belt and come along with us and review prospects of the 1977 SD & G high school league. At Williamstown, Char-Lan principal, Don Shaw, is quite enthusiastic about the number, size and quality of the candidates in training under his new coach, Andre Lavictoire. Char-Lan's former coach, Rick Forrestor, is now vice-principal at North Dundas. Andre Lavictoire was Forrestor's assistant at Char-Lan the past few years and is no stranger in the league. His biggest problem will be filling the cleats of stalwarts, John McDonell and Ian Sandilands. As in other years Char-Lan will be tough to handle.

At St. Lawrence High School campus, Cornwall, one of the finest gridirons anywhere, we were warned that the "Saints" could very well be the surprise team in the league this year. They have a young, fast backfield and the entire team looks very promising. (Gaels beware in your exhibition game this Friday.

Across the Friendly City at Vanier High their biggest boost to this year's offence is the former CCVS line buster Glenn Dick. Not much change in the defence, a scout told us. Their rating was given as fair.

Back to center town, Sydney at Fourth, where Don Kannon is now head coach at CCVS. Bill Metcalfe retired and as Kannon has been assistant of late, he automatically took over the controls. Don Kannon is another coach well known in the league having guided the fortunes of Char-Lan for some time. Also a member of Charlottenburgh Council. His assistant will be Ron Dafoe.

CCVS defence is practically intact from last year. They bear Als' Marv Levy slogan, "Defence don't play exciting football but they win championships." Coach Kannon has moved last year's quarterback, O'Reilly, to the halfback slot while Greg Venn will be signal caller. Not too many over-all changes. The Golden Raiders are slated for the championship final as usual.

Now through the Indian Lands to the Tagwi Warriors' tepee, to meet their chief Don Bond.

After the "dog days" of summer if is a fall exhilarating experience to mingle with the school team coaches. Don Bond is among those who make you feel at home in the football fraternity. The George Brancato of the league. Yes, he had quite a turnout to first drills, about 75. Some French-speaking boys from Crysler eager to play. Great desire and anxious to learn the fundamentals of the real basic-block and tackle. An asset to the league.

"What about a quarterback this year, Don, now that another of the school great ones, Brian Kinear, has gone"? we questioned. Don cautiously replied, "We may be o.k. as Brian Wensink is coming along." Then he bubbled with enthusiasm as he told us he had a grade nine youngster, Maxville's Ronnie Besner, as backup qb and he looks very promising. So the Warriors appear solid in the pilot slot.

Add Alan MacDonell, the St. Andrews jet, skirting the ends, as he did last year from the backfield, or out as wide receiver and other defences have a double threat to contain. Add another St. Andrews gridiron star, halfback Rick McPhail in his third year. (Rick must hail from St. Andrews; where else do you find McPhails and Wheelers?). At offensive end will be Peter Wensink, a brother of Boston Bruins' John Wensink. And a first cousin of Brian, plus the soccer Wensinks, we presume. Among other returnees are Peter MacDonald at offensive center and Andy (Gerald) Blair at guard.

"What about punting, Don, we hear the league's best last year, Dave Rumer, has left Tagwi."? "Well, we are not certain but Brian Wensink could or might have to replace Dave." One final question, "Don, going back to your lean years in Maxville, that is, of course, only in player numbers, you always came up with an ace mostly through development. What have you in store for the fans this year"? By the brief hesitation we felt we had a scoop. "Well, I'll tell you, Angus, a family from Toronto by the name of Armbridge have taken up residence in Finch. They have a student son, Ralph, that looks real good." We pressed on, "Come now Don how good"? "Versatile to the point that I'll put him where I'll get the most mileage."

Commanding that much talented experience from last year, we will get out on the proverbial gridiron limb and say, "The team that defeats Tagwi will be the 1977 champions."

Now back home to the camp of the defending champions - GDHS Gaels. Here you meet another cautious, conservative coach, Stan Fraser. Down through the years he reminds us of old friend, Ottawa's Frank Clair. Often pessimistic, never over-confident. Those are some of the assets good coaches must possess to be successful. Both Stan Fraser and Jean-Yves Jeaurond, head men of Gaels, are this type. And this is the year they must rely on such gifted talent. Because this is the year they must rebuild.

The 64 dollar question we first asked Stan and Jean-Yves, "Who will replace at quarterback last year's great passer and runner, when he had to, Wayne Lee"? More cautious replies like at Tagwi. We were told that Andre Chenier, out last year, is back and right now being given a lot of work. Also practising the call of plays is Emile Lefebvre, the offensive end of last year's champions. That is good news. But not all the news relative to such an important post. A couple "rookies", "Sandy" Maclaren and Jimmy Everson are eagerly training with the desire of a year or so from now being the Ronnie Lancaster of this school league.

Should Luc Poirier make the grade to junior hockey in Brockville under coach Tony MacDonald, this will be another fullback gap that will be difficult to fill. John MacLeod, a solid player last year, could be moved to take over another gaping hole left by middle linebacker Danny McPherson. Scott Hay could possibly be given a lot of backfield work. He is the likely punting replacement for Danny McPherson. No doubt Scott will be assigned to the placement kicking.

All of 80 candidates reported to training camp last week. The largest number in GDHS football records. Depleted of experienced players like Wayne Lee, Johnny Charlebois, Randy MacDonell, Danny McPherson and Luc Poirier, to mention a few, it will be asking a lot of Fraser and Jeaurond to mould another champion in one year.

However, in this revamped league of six teams there is a new playoff pattern in Gael's favor. The first-place team meets the fourth while second and third square off in the other sudden death semi-final. Then the winners meet in a final championship game. Coaches Fraser and Jeaurond, obviously by now, have made a lot of cuts from the initial 80 prospects. With four school teams qualifying for the playoffs, this time-spread will allow for correcting mistakes and inserting new players in early schedule games. This is in contrast to other years. Two defeats meant curtains. Gaels will be in there all the way. Credible defenders despite the loss of so many key players.

La Citadelle, Cornwall, dropped out this year. St. Lawrence, Vanier, CCVS, Char-Lan, Tagwi and Gaels make up the circuit. They play exhibition games this Friday and then it is block and tackle for keeps starting September 30th.

This Friday, Tagwi meets CCVS, Vanier plays Char-Lan while St. Lawrence is here testing Gael's new formations. Ottawa referees will officiate as in other years.

An interesting and exciting football season is coming up. The greatest consolation to those boys who spend endless hours drilling after class, their cheerleaders and coaches is the cheery support of the fans. So there, you are folks, the ball on the five-yard line. Show us some of that Montreal football fervor at Olympic Stadium. And like Toronto on Sunday, 47,000 plus in the rain.

St. Lawrence Estate new name of former sanatorium building

The St. Lawrence Estate was officially opened in Charlottenburgh Township last week.

The name change for the former St. Lawrence Sanatorium on Highway 2 was simply reflecting a change in operation that has actually been in effect for some time now.

The nursing home has not treated tubercular patients exclusively for many years.

Forty years ago to the day, the buildings were officially opened to serve the United Counties area, which was one of the hardest hit by tuberculosis in the province. The facility ceased to be a sanitorium about nine year ago.

B. B. Eastman, who was assistant superintendent of nursing during those first 31 years, said there were often several members of one family being treated at the same time in the old days.

Dr. Larry Gray, reeve of Winchester village and treasurer of the present Estate board, said the original plans were drawn up during the regime of Premier Michell Hepburn and the facility cost $347,000.

Miss Eastman and United Counties Warden Edwin Waldroff unveiled a plaque commemorating the former sanatorium and the new direction of the institution. It is now a 111-bed nursing home and one of the few which are publicly owned.

Chief speaker was Nadine Burrows, regional supervisor of the ministry of health nursing home inspection service. She traced the development of the institution, with emphasis on latest developments.

Extensive improvements have been made over the years and the Estate is now devoted, not only to the care and shelter of the sick, but also to the restoration of people to take an active part in life around them.

Charlottenburgh Reeve Adrian Gadbois, vice-chairman of the board, said he was "proud and happy to see some of the things the board of that time envisioned coming about. In some respects, the work then planned is completed; in others, there is still a substantial amount to be done.

"I am confident that in future this institution will retain its rightful place in the community and maintain its dignity and standing."

Board chairman George Cameron, a Cornwall alderman, said the sanatorium had always been a useful part of the community and in its early history had been of vital importance in reducing the incidence of tuberculosis, which was claiming many lives in those days. Once suucessful in its original purpose, it sought to serve other needs.

Stormont-Dundas MP Ed Lumley praised the foresight of the people involved in planning and operating the institution. The site chosen makes the nursing home one of the most attractive anywhere, he said.

Montreal office handling home insulation grants

People wishing to apply for a grant under the Canadian Home Insulation Program have to contact the CMHC office in Montreal, the office of MP Ed Lumley says.

The Cornwall riding office of the Stormont-Dundas Liberal has received many calls in recent weeks but cannot help people with their grants since all enquiries have to be made at the Montreal office.

"We only have one copy of the application form and that's just for our own information," Lumley assistant Luc Bertrand said.

Some confusion has arisen because the national program is being handled through the Montreal office even though Quebec is not participating in the program, Bertrand said.

Under the program, people with homes built prior to 1921 can obtain a government grant for two-thirds of the cost of insulating the home to a maximum of $350.

The grant is taxable and all materials have to be CMHC approved.

Bertrand said the government is trying to avoid bureaucracy by having all enquiries handled by the one office. People interested in the program can write to: Canadian Home Insulation Program, P.O. Box 700, St. Laurent Station, Montreal, Quebec, H4L 5A8 or call toll free 514-341-1511.

Leaders earn badges

Four adult leaders in the local scouting movement have received their Wood Badge Training over the summer months.

Colin Marshall and Alvin Graham of the district service team have earned their Service Team Part II Wood Badge allowing them to give better service to adult leaders throughout the district.

Anne Stewart and Cathy Caron both cub leaders with 1st Maxville have earned their Wolf Cub Part II Wood Badge, giving them more expertise in the working with boys in the Wolf cub program.

Part II Wood Badge is formal scout Training at the provincial level giving both theory and practical experience to the applicant. The wood badge scarf, beads and parchment will be presented to the recipients at the annual dinner in November.
