Boudria appointed deputy whip for new government

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Don Boudria is not a member of Prime Minister Jean Chretien's cabinet.

But don't shed a tear for the Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP.

He believes his time in the sun may still come.

''This isn't the end of my political career. This is just the beginning,'' says Boudria, a Liberal MP who has represented this riding since 1984 and who many believed was a can't miss cabinet minister.

Boudria grabbed national headlines in 1984 as a member of the Rat Pack, a group of boisterous Liberal MP's who pressed the Mulroney government into answering their questions and kept the party in the newspapers.

Other Rat Packers such as Sheila Copps, deputy prime minister, and Brian Tobin, fisheries minister, were sworn into Chretien's cabinet Thursday.

Boudria was appointed deputy party whip last week and was not named, as many media and Liberal party members speculated, to the cabinet.

Chretien attempted to bring a balanced representation of MPs from BC to Newfoundland to his first cabinet. Ninety-eight of the 99 Ontario seats in Parliament went to Liberal candidates making Boudria's chances a bit slimmer of making the cabinet.

The cabinet, for the most part, features well known and established MPs, some who served under former Liberal Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau.

As a member of the opposition, Boudria was the party's deputy whip from 1989 to 1991. Among his responsibilities, Boudria will have to make sure there are enough Liberal MPs in Parliament to vote on legislation and there are enough MPs on the various committees.

''It's still a very important job as is representing my constituents,'' Boudria says.

On the night of the federal election, Boudria was reluctant to talk about his chances of becoming a cabinet minister.

He did express ''disappointment'' that the call from Chretien never came but says there will be other cabinets and other opportunities.

Water, sewer relief here for Glen Walter

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

They missed out the first time around, but 26 Glen Walter residents are making sure to capitalize on their second opportunity.

The residents are likely to see their wishes come true — an extension allowing them to hook into the small hamlet's water and sewer system — either this fall or in the spring.

A recent meeting was held to update the residents on the proposed $300,000 project, which has received majority support from the residents. Only one of the 26 people surveyed oppose the extension.

And it has provided residents — plagued with leaky septic systems and contaminated wells for years — with the news that what had been up until recently been an elusive dream, may actually become reality.

''(I'm) ecstatic. Totally, totally ecstatic,'' said Andre Pommier of Glen Walter, who will benefit from the extension to go west from Glen Walter up to the golf and country club.

''It looks good. It looks like a reality,'' he said in a phone interview Monday.

All the preliminary work is done for the project, the only thing left is word from Ministry of Environment and Energy on whether the work will receive the traditional 85 per cent grant that goes to such projects.

With 85 per cent ministry funding, the 26 households will be left with the balance, about $35,000 to pay, which works out to $6,000 a household, Charlottenburgh Reeve Dave MacDonald said.

The township has received some hard-to-be ignored support for its funding application — letters of support from three divisions of the MOEE.

MacDonald, who expects a decision from the ministry either this fall or in the spring, said he is impressed with the positive reaction the proposed project has received.

''We haven't had any negative feedback whatsoever,'' he said in a Monday telephone interview.

The reeve said it was nearing crunch time for many of the residents. It was either get municipal water and sewer services or spend a lot of money on their own private water and sewage systems.

And the timing for a municipal extension could not have been better for Pommier, who said he and many other residents were tiring of the continual water and sewer problems.

''It's going to better the area and it's good for the environment,'' he explained.

The residents were ''just a little too far out'' when the original water and sewage system was designed in the late 1980s according to Pommier.

For him, the system ended up just 1,000 feet from his property line, but it may as well had been miles away.

But the residents did not give up, and when the present council saw the

Police arrest b and e suspects

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

A pair of Cornwall residents have been charged for their part in a crime spree that stretched from Valleyfield, Quebec to the Toronto area over the weekend and included a series of break and enters in Kenyon township.

Another adult, of no fixed address, has also been charged.

The most serious occurrence happened in Kenyon township Friday afternoon when a children's campsite was vandalized.

Paint was splashed all over the walls and in the upstairs chapel, garffiti covered many of the other walls, huge glass windows and several doors were smashed and paint was poured into the water purification system. Maxville OPP peg the damage at $10,000.

Ten to 15 trailers at the campsite were also broken into. Maxville OPP still have to contact the owners to find out what has been stolen.

Maxville OPP were called in to investigate the break and enter at the children's camp.

The investigating officer observed two suspicious cars parked near the campsite. Only one of the two drivers was apprehended. The second car took off.

The officer discovered eight stolen licence plates in the car when he checked it. The man was charged with possession of stolen property.

Maxville OPP Sgt. Bob Closs could not release the name of the man charged or the other two charged because he wasn't sure who was charged with what crime.

Two other men have been charged with break, enter and commit mischief. Other charges are pending against all three men.

The driver of the second car and another adult were apprehended by Peel Regional Police, just north of Toronto, during a break and enter on Sunday. Maxville OPP have warrants out for their arrest.

Lancaster water rates rising?

Lancaster Village residents may face another hike in the cost of their water rates for 1994-95.

Clerk-treasurer, Marilyn Lebrun, explained that the Ministry of the Environment and Energy (MOEE) which operates the pumping station and the sewage treatment plant, has said that the municipality is in a $40,000 deficit position for water, but that sewage is in a $56,000 surplus.

Lebrun said she would like another meeting with the MOEE to determine ''who made the deficit.''

''I am unclear about this,'' she said. ''Did we not charge enough, or did their operating and maintenance cost more?''

The village currently pays $150,000 per year to the MOEE for their services, but has no control over their budget.

Water prices were raised last year for the first time in five years, from 98 cents to $1.01 per cubic metre. The proposed increase for '94-'95 would see rates rise by 7.49 per cent.

''I think we should ask some questions about this,'' said Councillor Janette Abbey.

Another resignation from board

The three-member Alexandria Police Services board has been hit with its second resignation in less than a year.

Board member Lorraine Lanthier announced her resignation — effective Dec. 31 — from the embattled board Oct. 27, citing pressure from other activities.

So the board, which had just filled a vacancy created with the resignation of businessman Paul Poirier in January, is now faced with filling another vacancy.

Poirier was reappointed after his resignation to sit on the board until a new member was found and participated in his final police board meeting in May.

His vacancy was filled by Helene Faubert-Gravel, an Alexandria loan clerk and former police auxiliary member who has also worked as a legal secretary.

Lanthier, who has served since March 1990, was also on the police board's committee on employment equity. Her position will be taken over by board member Faubert-Gravel.

''I couldn't seem to get any interest going on employment equity,'' Lanthier told the board.

''I hope you have more luck than I did,'' she told Faubert-Gravel.

The board will advertise for a new member soon, but it may be months before the vacancy is filled because the appointment must be made by the Ontario Ministry of the Solicitor General.

Agriculture, business columns debut today

The Glengarry News introduces two new columns this week.

A monthly agricultural column reporting and commenting on issues of interest, premiers this week on page 21, written by Williamstown dairy farmer Ian Cumming. Readers are invited to submit comments and items for the column, and are welcome to contact Ian personally.

And in order to better serve and inform the Glengarry business community and consumers who use it, we also begin ''Business Beat'' this week. Printed on page 16, the column highlights business happenings in Glengarry County. Publisher Joe Banks will be writing the column, and he hopes to glean material from the county's three chambers of commerce, business owners, consumers and anyone else who may have news about the county's business community.

Specifically, Banks is looking for news from the retail or industrial community including staff additions, changes and retirements, expansions, special events and interesting innovations aimed at improving business in the county.

The News will continue to publish separate stories on new business openings and changes in ownership.

Gaelic echoes of bygone days

Members of the Glengarry Gaelic Choir entertain the crowd during the annual St. Andrew's concert at Glengarry District High School held Friday night. A good crowd filled the high school cafetorium to take in a variety of Scottish musical entertainment at the annual concert. In addition to all of the regular concert favorites such as the Glengarry Strathspey and Reel fiddlers, over 150 children were on stage simultaneously, the debut of the Glengarry Gaelic Children's Choir from schools throughout the county. The Glengarry Highland Society-sponsored event drew a crowd of about 200.

George Hambleton's weather report for the month of October

The long hot summer of 1993 was followed by the slightly cooler and wetter month of October.

On average, October was 2.7 degrees Celsius (5 degrees Fahrenheit) cooler than normal. The high reached 22 C (72 C) and the low bottomed out at -7.5 C (18.5 F).

Rainfall for the month was up by approximately 30 per cent. A total of 103 mm (4 inches) fell with 11 cm (4.5 inches) of snow falling on the last day of the month.

The average temperature for October was identical with the past month with 5 cm (2 inches) of snow and only 62 mm (2½ inches) of rain.

Lochiel okays unusual severance application

Council agreed Oct. 12 with Realtor Robert Poirier's argument that under Lochiel Township's Official Plan of development, two consent (severance) applications can sometimes create four separate lots, allowable under the plan without going for a subdivision plan.

Normally only three lots are severable on agricultural land.

Council treated the severances with extra caution because landowner, Armand Paquette, is a member of council. Paquette declared his interest and did not vote on the matter.

Last month council approved three lots for severance on Paquette's 15 acre holding at Con. 3, Lot 25. He was told to apply for a plan of subdivision if he wanted to sever a fourth lot.

Poirier, representing Paquette, pointed out that a clause in the Official Plan allows more than one lot to be created when only one consent is applied for.

Council agreed, and noted that all four lots front on a township road, the health unit approved the land for septic tanks, and one lot fronts on a concession road as well as a town road.

Councillor William Hagen reported no objections to the development from Paquette's neighbors, "but there will be other people who will want the same thing, more than three lots without the trouble of creating a subdivision."

Council approved severance of a lot from the farm of Maurice Seguin at Con. 1, Lot 24, to be used by his son as a building lot. There has already been one lot severed from the property for another son.

Committee to sponsor "A Breath of Scotland"

The regular monthly meeting of the Glenelg Bicentennial Committee was held in Laggan School on Oct. 3, with Morlin Campbell in the chair.

This committee is organizing festivities commemorating the 200th anniversary of the arrival of Scottish settlers to Lochiel in 1794.

It appears that plans for the celebration, to be held next August are progressing very well, though there is still alot of work to be done.

It was decided that the committee would sponsor "A Breath of Scotland" show during its Canadian tour next spring.

The show will be on May 2 in the Glengarry District High School, Alexandria.

It was also decided to immediately offer tickets for sale as Christmas gifts, in the hope of raising some working funds.

County honors its war dead in Sunday ceremonies

Remembrance ceremonies were observed throughout Glengarry County last Sunday, Nov. 7, in advance of Remembrance Day tomorrow, Nov. 11.

Services were held in Lancaster, Alexandria, Williamstown and Maxville Sunday, on a cold and windy day that had vetarans, cadets, band members and spectators rubbing hands and bundled up against the traditionally chilly day.

In Alexandria, where the Glengarry War Memorial stands, about 20 veterans took part in the parade from the legion to the cenotaph. They were joined by the Glengarry Pipe Band, local Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies.

They were joined by about 100 spectators, municipal representatives of Alexandria, Lochiel and Kenyon townships and church leaders.

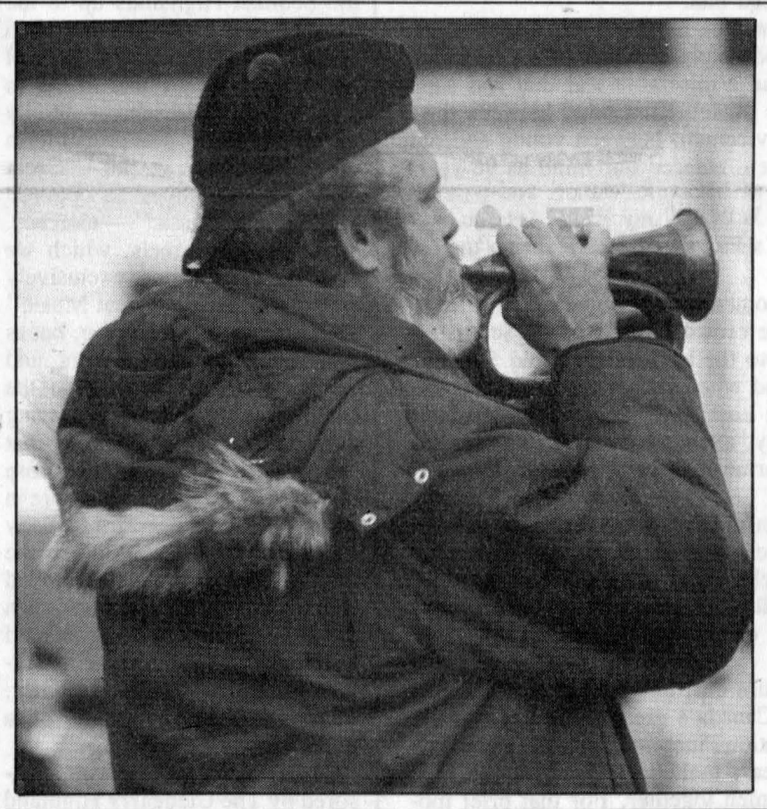
This year's acting Silver Cross Mother, Bessie Clingen, laid a wreath on behalf of those who lost their sons in the wars.

The poem ''In Flander's Fields'' was recited flawlessly by 96-year-old Bill Williamson of Maxville Manor. Mr. Williamson is possibly the oldest living Canadian veteran of the WW 1 battle for Vimy Ridge and the only Glengarry WW 1 vet alive.

Upon return, the parade passed the reviewing stand at the corner of Main and Kincardine streets. Taking the salute, accompanied by legion representative Darlene Campeau, was Major David C. Iley, CD.

Major Iley of Perth and Sault Ste. Marie is serving at National Defence Headquarters in Ottawa in the Directorate of Land Requirements. He is the project director for the program dealing with the construction of replacement armouries for the militia in Canada.

The parade later retired to the legion rooms to partake in refreshments.



Remembrance Day custom holds special significance for these students

The following are among essays written by Grade 7 students of Martintown Public School and is based on the story behind a bugle found on the battlefield of Vimy Ridge. 'The Last Post' was played with it by Martintown P.S. teacher Dave Irwin at Alexandria's Remembrance Day ceremony this past Sunday, Nov. 7. The bugle is owned by Morlin Campbell of RR #1, Dalkeith.

History of the bugle

I was born in 1896 in Glasgow, Scotland in the Douglas & Son Co. Ltd. building. I sat in storage for 14 years then in 1910 I was shipped to the Princess Patricia Regiment in Canada. Canada went to war in 1914 and I was taken to help out before each battle and during them. In the morning and at night I played ''The Last Post'' and ''Reveiller.'' My bugling friend ''lips Malone'' 17 years old played me daily. One time before battle he was playing me and got shot. I fell in the mud, horses and soldiers trampled over me. (Look at me and you'll see the scars.)

I stayed in the mud for I don't know how long until the uncle of Morlin Campbell rescued me. He took me home, cleaned me up and gave me to Morlin as a present.

The following summer I was used every day. His mother blew me at mealtimes so the boys in the field could hear. I was very content, but only for a while. War again! All the boys left, uncle died and mother wasn't well. So I got stuck in the attic for 40 years!

40 years later Morlin Campbell found me, cleaned me up and brought me to Laggan Public School. I sat there for a while until this great musician Mr. Irwin came along. Every few years he plays me. It's wonderful. I never want to get stored away again.

Remembrance Day, even though cold and wet as it usually is, reminds me of that dirty battle on Vimy Ridge when I never saw ''lips Malone'' again.

By Dawn Aubin, Grade 8

The Horn

I am the horn. A horn made of brass in Glasgow, Scotland in the year 1896. I was lying on a battlefield on Vimy Ridge. An uncle to Morlin Campbell picked me up out of the mud and brought me to my new home in Laggan, Ontario where I now sit on a mantle.

From Generals to privates, men respected me and obeyed my command. A voice on the wind, a free spirit. Oh! If I could sing again, what a tale I could tell. Tales of great battles. Tales of cavalry charging, sabres drawn and rifles aimed.

I cried loud and clear. Men and horses charged, cannons roared, rifles fired. I saw men fall, dying, crying in agony, screaming in rage, their blood staining the earth beneath them. An awful sight, yet victory was ours that day.

Many times I called the charge, many times I sang the Last Post. I am the Horn. This is my life. This is only one of my many tales. Breathe into me, I have many tales to tell. Some of victory, others of defeat.

Town lawyer appointed to Council of Regents

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Higher learning has taken Alexandria lawyer Pierre Aubry to a higher post.

Aubry has been appointed to the Ontario Council of Regents for Colleges and Applied Arts and Technology.

The appointment by Ontario Premier Bob Rae will see Aubry, with his other council members, indirectly overseeing the operating of community colleges across Ontario.

The lawyer also will serve as liaision for three area community colleges: La Cite in Ottawa, Loyalist College in Belleville, and Lambton College in Sarnia.

The council's mandate is to advise the Ministry of Education on various issues involving the college system and is responsible for the appointment of college governors and for collective bargaining.

''The effect is pretty much indirect, but there is an effect there,'' said Aubry Monday.

The appointment is the latest step up the chain for Aubry, who has been a member of the St. Lawrence College board of governors for six years, including six months on the president selection committee.

Aubry, who has pretty much ''done everything'' during his time on the board, including a stint as board chairman and chairman of the finance committee, will now get a chance to see things from the other side.

''It is a change, because when I used to be the chairman of the board for St. Lawrence College, the shoe was on the other foot.'

''We were discussing with the council of regents why we wanted certain people to to be able to come onto the board and so on. We'd have to argue with these guys.''

''So now I'm on the other side. So it's kind of strange.''

One major issue for the college system is how to continue providing the same service while encountering shrinking budgets, Aubry said.

Even with less money, colleges still have to provide the best product possible, he said.

''In the end, it's the success of the students that's important.''

Another hot issue is accreditation, determining how to credit university students who switch over to college for credits they have earned at the university level and vice-versa.

The council launched Vision 2000 three years ago to look into education issues for the future and committees have been established to make recommendations to address the accreditation problem, Aubry said.

And ensuring that students in high school get the training they need for a particular field before they enter the college level will also be a focus, as we enter an era of increasing global competition.

Aubry's appointment to the council is for three years, with a possibility for reappointment for another three years.

He will continue his law practice here in Alexandria, but will be taking three days a month for meetings of the Council of Regents in Toronto.

Alexandria Optimists honoring two youngsters for contributions

This year, for youth appreciation week, the Alexandria Optimist Club has decided to recognize two youngsters for their outstanding behavior with and among their peers.

It was during an Octogone meeting (Optimist for youth), that members defined ''outstanding''.

It was therefore these youngsters who established their own criteria, then chose two youth, one male and one female, to be awarded a certificate of recognition.

Marcel Dupelle, a Grade 10 student, son of Marcel and Monique Dupelle, was chosen for his strife for excellence. He is always willing to participate in the many activities presented by the Optimist club. He always accepts new challenges with a smile.

Roxanne Sarault who is in Grade 12, is the daughter of Victor and Aline Sarault. She won her peers' admiration for her warm smile, her unconditional friendship and her ''joie de vivre''. She is characterized as being a pleasant person to be with.

Marcel and Roxanne will receive a certificate of appreciation on Friday, Nov. 12, 1993, at the Radisson Hotel in Ottawa. This award will be presented by Richard Joly, governor of the Optimist Clubs of Eastern Ontario.

Lancaster Village

Council Briefs

A regular meeting of Lancaster Village Council took place Nov. 3 with Reeve Jennifer Charbonneau in the chair. The following are among items discussed by council.

Clerk to attend seminar

Village clerk-treasurer, Marilyn Lebrun, will head to Kingston, Nov. 16, to attend a seminar for lotteries. The day long course will cover new rules and regulations for all types of lotteries — including Nevada tickets, raffles and bingos.

''There are all sorts of new procedures regarding lotteries and I have nothing in the office to answer questions,'' said Lebrun.

Couincil voted unanimously to send Lebrun to the seminar, at a cost of $105.

Village also to help Lan-Char

Council agreed to pay $1,500 to help the Lan-Char Medical Centre, which has been operating on a loan of $2,600 from Lancaster Township. The centre is owned jointly by Lancaster Village, Lancaster Township and Charlottenburgh.

Reeve Charbonneau said that rentals in the building should now cover themselves.

Charlottenburgh has also agreed to a $1,500 contribution.

Local donations

The Lancaster Fire Department will be given a $200 donation from the municipality for hosting its annual Halloween party.

And in anticipation of a request from the organizers of the Santa Claus parade, council decided on a donation of $300. The parade will be held this year on Dec. 4.

Tree bylaw

Clerk-Treasurer Lebrun will check into the possibility of a tree bylaw for Lancaster Village.

The request was made by Councillor Roger Menard, who was commenting on recent tree plantings by residents.

''Look around town. There are lots of little trees that will be on village property in the future. There should be some sort of bylaw,'' he said.

The clerk replied that the PUC had its own policy for trees, but that the village really didn't have anything similar.

Menard's concerns about the trees stem from the $5,900 in costs to the village, incurred during the clean-up of August's tornado.

Expectations and realities

Why?

It's the question that cries out for an answer, in the wake of the horrific deaths by explosion Oct. 26 of Vivian Faubert, Bob Brunet and their 19-month old daughter, Sophie.

And it is one that may never be answered, as police continue to sift through the clues and the backgrounds of these two people. They still cannot conclude with certainty whether the deaths were accidental, or the end result of a murder-suicide.

But the circumstantial evidence speaks volumes.

What is known, from the tragic stories that have been pieced together, is that they were a volatile couple taken to bouts of violence and abuse against each other. Vivian Faubert was drawn along with Brunet into a deadly vortex of alchohol, drug, physical and verbal abuse, a circle of hell it appears neither of them could, or wished to, escape.

Vivian Faubert tried resisting, even residing at La Montee d'Elle in Alexandria for some time. She secretly moved into an apartment, but she was inexplicably drawn back to him; the two moved in together after she learned of her pregnancy. The police continually warned her of the dangers of her remaining with Brunet.

Still, the progression of violence continued. Perhaps the most telling story of what lay ahead was when Faubert was rousted out of bed by Brunet and ordered to accompany him to a gravel pit, where he held a gun to her head while he ordered her to beg for her life.

Brunet himself, who at least once fished with dynamite and was intrigued by guns, faced several serious charges of possession of restricted weapons and possession of explosive charges. He was charged with assault with a weapon following the pit incident.

The week they died, Brunet, who was sought by police at the time, was to appear in court to answer to those charges.

But apart from his fascination with firearms, there also remains the disturbing question of exactly how and where the explosives used got in the hands of Brunet. That's an issue that has implications for the public at large.

But the most jarring aspect of this tragedy stems from the destruction of innocence, first the little girl Sophie, and second the fallout for Vivian Faubert's sons, both young boys at an impressionable age. It is hoped the community, their school, their friends and family can rally to help them heal the terrible scars this incident has no doubt left behind.

This tragedy, if there can be any possible meaning extracted from it, serves as another very big wake-up call for Glengarry, and society in general. Furious violence is not an urban blight alone. The awful phenomenon of abused women returning to abusive men is not a cold statistic. Nor is drug and alcohol abuse and addiction and all of the terrible consequences they wrought.

It is in our midst.

Violence in our midst

At first blush, it would be easy for the constituents of Glengarry-Prescott-Russell to feel slighted, at least disappointed, on MP Don Boudria's behalf for his having not been named to a cabinet post. After all, everybody believed he would get one, right?

But then, nobody was counting on the Liberals landing a 177-seat majority government either, a government that is loaded with highly qualified talent.

But apart from this, it is perhaps us, the voters, who are slow to get the new politics we have all yearned and shouted for so much. Tradition dictated that those MPs who worked hard in Opposition automatically got a cabinet post. It happened with the Conservatives when they ascended to power in 1984, and it was especially true during the Trudeau years.

It was a reward for slogging through the tough times, a justifiable form of patronage, and was a way of using experience to maximum potential.

Boudria earned his spurs and then some throughout the 80s, first as a Rat Packer, then as a hard-working and knowledgable critic in the House. The old gauge of tradition dictated he be rewarded for his labors.

But with some early signs that the new Liberal government is trying to turn the corner on the old boy system, is it reasonable to criticize the PM for not following the tired patterns of the past?

Instead of landing in that select group, Boudria was named deputy whip, a position he held in Opposition for some time, and one in which he excelled. This time, with assistant responsibilities for the herding of several dozen brand new MPs in a 177 seat-strong government, he has a big job ahead of him.

And the odds are that as the government advances into its mandate, and as he proves himself in a governmental role, Don Boudria will be a favored candidate during cabinet reshuffles. His future continues to appear bright.

Re-learning lessons of Remembrance

After Thoughts

by Joe Banks

Had the pleasure of taking part in some events last week, completely unrelated, that quietly put a new slant on Remembrance Day and the notion of sacrifice.

Each was a modest — and timely — reaffirmation of the ageless goodness of people, at least the people who live around this little piece of the world.

They are gestures that are often overshadowed by other events that confirm the existence of unhinged evil in the most unlikely of places by the unlikeliest of people, aimed at the most innocent members of society, small children. It is there, from the destruction of three lives including a 19-month-old girl by an apparent car bomb outside Alexandria, to the trial of two 11-year-old boys in England over their role in the murder of a toddler.

So it is heartening to recall and celebrate the flip-side of that failing, the spirit of sacrifice, to learn about people like Lynus MacPherson of Lochiel. He donated his 100th unit of blood during the Red Cross Blood Donor clinic at the high school in Alexandria last week.

A couple of us, patiently waiting to give our tenth or so donation, watched with some awe as he was photographed with his well-earned certificate for pumping out that 100th unit.

The award was timely, coming as it did so close to Remembrance Day; during the war years many of the local residents of Lochiel Township were called upon to give blood to the Red Cross, often in impossible circumstances.

As Mr. MacPherson himself says: "In those days there were no air conditioned rooms in the summer and many of the donors fainted from the heat. Of course you always came home with a supply of iron pills, as you were called upon to donate blood about every three to four months."

In winter, the concession roads weren't open, and Mr. MacPherson recalled walking to Lloyd MacMillan's "where his hired man hitched the team of horses to Lloyd's car and pulled it to Brodie Corner. The road to Dalkeith was not open so we had to travel to Glen Robertson, on to Alexandria then by Highway 34 to Vankleek Hill to the blood clinic. We had dinner in Vankleek Hill, then the same route in getting home, then I had to walk home from MacMillans."

Since the war, Mr. MacPherson has donated blood twice yearly, making that officially 100 donations. Had they been counted during the war years, the count may well exceed that.

His contribution and the hundreds of other Glengarrians who gave blood helped the war effort overseas by the military to end a miserable war that was sapping the life from the planet. That bond between the civilians and the servicemen, between young and old, between now and then, entered our mind as 96-year-old Bill Williamson of Maxville Manor, and possibly the oldest surviving WW 1 Vimy Ridge veteran, recited "In Flander's Field" perfectly during the cenotaph ceremony.

It was indeed a moment to remember. Even the birds were silent, the crowd hushed as his Scottish brogue echoed up into the trees of that cold Sunday on cenotaph hill. And when school teacher Dave Irwin trumpeted "The Last Post" using a bugle found on the fields of Vimy, eventually making its way into the hands of local farmer Morlin Campbell, those bonds were clearer.

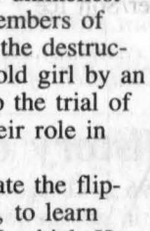
Later, in the legion during the post-service gathering, as the veterans clapped each other on the back, reminiscing and re-telling old stories, jokes and gossip, there was Bill Williamson in the corner, surrounded by a couple of young soldiers and his family.

They had sought him out, this survivor of the horrible majesty of Canada's greatest land battle, just to meet him. Generations met and for a brief second, a difference of 70 years melted away.

They were servicemen together. For that brief moment, Mr. Williamson's eyes shining, they were young together.

The MacPhersons and the Williamsons, it seems, came from different times and places. But inside of a week, between the two of them, they were reminders that the lesson of Remembrance among servicemen and civilians is one that can be re-learned over and over again.

Becoming the toaster of the town



News to me

by Greg Kielec

It is during times like this that one takes time to reflect on serious matters, like toaster ovens.

Whatever happened to toaster ovens? A hot item when they initially hit the market, they seem to have since gone cold.

It could be another of these cases of something looking good on paper and only on paper.

Maybe it is because no one could really figure out what it was.

There is nothing worse than a kitchen appliance with an identity complex.

Is it a toaster or is it an oven? I don't know, you decide.

Part of the problem may be the consumers' sentimental attachment to devices which actually pop their toast when their task is complete.

How many fingers have been burned because of the lack of such a feature on the toaster oven.

Another problem is the difficulty to cook such things as large fowl or roasts in the toaster oven because of its extremely small size.

To be fair, it is quite possible that small pheasant or quail probably could be squeezed into the devices, although with some difficulty, provided they are not jammed full of stuffing.

Still, being Canadians and all, turkeys, chicken and large roasts are where it's at in the cooking scene, and suffice to say, for bird roasts and big birds, the toaster oven just doesn't cut it.

Developed and marketed properly, it is possible that the lowly toaster oven could someday get beyond that status of being just another cheap, tacky wedding gift.

Maybe if it was made a little larger and marketed differently it would be a success.

Here is one example. It could have been marketed as a toaster-soft ice cream maker. Put your rock hard frozen ice cream in it and enjoy soft ice cream in a matter of seconds.

For those who enjoy toast with their ice cream, such a device would seem as if it was sent from heaven. You could now get your bread toasted and ice cream melted at the same time with one novel, easy-to-use device.

Long gone would be the days of frantically running to the toaster to ensure your tasty slices are not being burned to a crisp and then back to the stove to prevent your ice cream from becoming a gooey, liquid slurp.

And the beauty of the idea is that you are selling a feature that, even with recent advances in technology, is just not possible with conventional toasters.

Sure, conventional toasters are fine for making toast. But can they brown your bread and melt ice cream at the same time? I think not.

Some people may argue that, sure you can cook toast and melt ice cream at the same time with a conventional toaster.

As I see it, the only way would be to put the toast in then place a bowl of ice cream on top once the popping mechanism is depressed.

But trying such a technique is simply flirting with disaster.

Take this scenario. You have just depressed your toast and placed your bowl on the top when the phone rings. It is an emergency and you cannot get off the phone.

Area concerts and recitals

Highland Paths

by Ken McKenna

Pipe Major Colin MacLellan's recent recital of the art of the bagpipe was a rare treat. Colin is one of the world's great pipers and although he has given many displays of his expertise elsewhere, it was only fitting that he gave his first Glengarry recital in Maxville, the place that he now calls home. With his wife Shelley MacPhee, who is also a fine piper, they carry on the work of P/M John T. MacKenzie, ensuring that the pipers of Glengarry are the finest in the land. The tradition of piping goes far back in the MacLellan family. Capt. John MacLellan, Colin's father, who was a friend of some 40 years, once told me that his family's roots were in Arisaig in MacDonald of Clanranald country, on the seacoast just south of Glengarry. In 1963 I visited Colin's grandparents, who were living at that time in Torridon. Colin's grandfather was also a piper of note and a reed-maker. I was able to get some excellent reeds from him for my pipes and had a pleasant visit with them. We are very lucky to have someone with Colin's heritage handing on his knowledge to the young people here. We'll tell some more about P/M John MacLellan and his association with The Army School of Piping in Edinburgh Castle another time.

At the recital, Derek MacGregor led off, followed by Ann Margaret McCuaig. Both played very well, with finely tuned instruments. Then Colin took over. He explained that pipers in the Scottish Highlands up to the disaster of Culloden in 1746 played only what we now call pibroch, although that word in Gaelic — piobaireachd — simply means "piping." The proper term is "Ceol Mor," the "Great Music" of the pipes, as opposed to the "Small Music" — marches, strathspeys and reels, which we now associate almost exclusively with piping. The "Great Music" almost died out at one time, but as long as there are players and teachers like Colin MacLellan, the tradition is secure. After hearing him play, it is no wonder that "Ceol Mor" is enjoying more popularity now than ever before in history. We look forward to many more recitals of this kind in the future. Over 200 people enjoyed Colin's concert in Maxville. When the great piper John Burgess held a similar recital at the Gaelic College in the Isle of Skye recently, 35 people turned up out of a population of 10,000.

The St. Andrew's Concert sponsored by The Glengarry Highland Society last Friday at Glengarry District High School opened with one hundred children from five local schools — St. Joseph's (Alexandria), Iona, Laggan, Maxville and Williamstown, joining with the 24 members of the Combined Glengarry Gaelic Choir singing mouth music with Highland dancers Colleen Murray and Megan MacPherson. There was a tribute to the great MacCrimmon family of pipers, combined with a tribute in honor of Remembrance Day. "Cha Till MacCrumein" — "MacCrimmon Will Never Return" — the 1745 pibroch by Sean Burgess, with soloist Gerry Tibbals and the choir joining in. Solos and duets were sung by Fiona Fraser, Lorna Chapman, Sine McKenna, Cathy and Cassie Depratto, Marion Whitton and her sister Heather Whitbread, and Choir Director Ken Roach. Dave McCormick and Darrel MacLeod and The Glengarry Strathspey and Reel Society rounded out the evening with their distinctive Glengarry sound. It was an evening to remember.

The next big event in the Scottish Music calendar is "Glengarry '93," the big concert sponsored every two years by The Glengarry Club of Ottawa. This promises to be an outstanding event, and will take place at Centrepointe Theatre in Nepean at 8 p.m. on Saturday, November 20. The Glengarry Club concerts have earned a reputation over the years for the best Scottish Canadian entertainment in this part of the world. The Gaelic Choir will join other singers, dancers, and musicians to bring the finest of Glengarry and

To the editor:

As the first taste of winter finds itself melting beneath our feet, it would seem fitting to announce that the hunt is on for this year's tree to spruce up our Mill Square over the holidays.

Last year, as one of several activities, the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce, with the assistance of many in the community, hosted their very first old fashioned holiday evening. It was an evening filled with Christmas Carols, free hot refreshments, a ''candle light'' parade, Santa for the kid in all of us and, of course, the official lighting of the tree downtown.

Part of what made last year's evening so enjoyable was the fact that the tree was a gift, donated by someone, as an example of what the season can hold for all of us.

This year's evening of holiday spirit is well into the planning stages, and promises to be an enjoyable event for all.

If one of your readers would have the tree we're looking for, and of suitable size, we would like to hear from them. The evening of Dec. 9 will be the official lighting, but we would require it at least 10 days in advance.

We will arrange for transportation, and would need to hear from you as soon as possible in order to make these arrangements.

Sincerely,
Dean Picher, Vice-President,
Alexandria and District
Chamber of Commerce.

Is a breeder's word worth anything?

To the editor:

A few weeks ago, I called a horse breeder on R.R. 5, Alexandria to see their horses. I asked how much a particular horse would cost? The owner said $2,000 then dropped to $1,800.

The following week I went to ride the horse. The breeder told me to come back next week to ride it since the daughter wasn't there.

I came back that week and the horse was in a small pen. I asked to go in the field to ride it. The breeder refused to let it out. They said that before selling it to me they would have to train it some more.

A few weeks later I called the breeder to buy the horse. They said that they did not even know which horse I was referring to so I told them which one. Then they told it it's $2,500 because they have been training it and it's doing well and they would be crazy to let it go at $1,800.

I thought a verbal agreement was as good as a signed contract! This horse breeder quoted me a price on a specific horse in front of my husband and brother-in-law. What a way to run a business!

Extremely disappointed,
Linda Leboeuf,
LaSalle, Que.

Remembering Remembrance Day

The following are the lyrics of a song written by Glengarrian Wesley G. Bomhower, in tribute of Remembrance Day.

In The Glens of Glengarry
(Glengarry Schotiche)

There were MacGregors and McKays and the big McDonald boys
Who left their homes in Scotland for across the Northern Sea
There were Campbells, Camerons too, the McRaes and the McCews
From the south they came to settle Glengarry
They were UE Loyalists named and they'd surely gained some fame
In that war of Independence staying loyal to the Crown
There were Urquharts and McLeods and the clan McLenan proud
Stalwart men who made Glengarry their new home.

From the Province of Quebec came the Privosts and Levesques
The Lafaves and Montpetits, the Majors and the Legros
The Laframboise and Larues, the Larocques and the Gerouxs
They were hardy men who came to Glengarry
Then they hewed the forests down and built villages and towns
And they tilled the fertile soil from the dawn to setting sun
As these French and Scottish men worked together in the glens
In the glens of old Glengarry they called home.

Many of us left the glens, but we'll oft return again
Just to ramble down the country roads that bring back memories
Of those happy carefree days, yes, those surely were the days
When we were kids in County Glengarry
There were others left the glens, but they'll ne'er return again
For they lost their lives a-fighting in those wars across the foam.
But their hearts will still be here in the glens we all loved dear
In the glens of old Glengarry we called home.

Wes Bomhower,
Calabogie, Ont.

Wes Bomhower was born and raised in Glengarry County and also lived for a time in Stormont County. His parents were both residents of Williamstown; his father was Ellis Bomhower, and his mother was Helen Urquhart, daughter of Kenny John Urquhart and Wilhelmina Robertson.

Becoming the toaster of the town

Suddenly the toast pops, the ice cream bowl goes flying and you have a big mess. You take a deep breath and thank God that it was not boiling oil that was in the bowl or it could have been a lot worse.

Well, alright, maybe that is a little farfetched, but the potential negative implications cannot be ignored. People just cannot be melting ice cream on top of their toasters without causing a national safety crisis.

Enter a new device, which can melt your ice cream safely while still being able to brown your toast.

And by the way, what is the name of that novel device? Is it a toaster or is it an oven?

How about, the New Fabulous Toaster/Soft Ice Cream Maker. I think it has potential.

I just wonder how many people eat toast with their ice cream anyway?

Maxville OPP warning drivers to be on lookout for deer

Police Briefs

Maxville OPP are advising people driving on Highway 34 or on Highway 417 in the Maxville area should be paying extra attention while behind the wheel since car-deer collisions are becoming more frequent.

Within a span of two hours, three drivers ran into deer late Monday afternoon and early evening.

Maxville OPP aren't sure if the number of accidents has increased because hunters are chasing the animals out from the bush.

The first crash took place on Highway 417, 2 km west of Highway 34, at 5:22 p.m. Jean-Claude Lafontaine, 50, of Pt. Gatineau, Quebec was driving his 1988 Lincoln westbound when a deer emerged from the south ditch and was hit.

The car sustained moderate damage.

Ngoc Binh Bui, 36, of Ottawa ran over a dead deer just as he was attempting to pass a truck. Bui was westbound on Highway 417, near Highway 34, at 5:40 p.m. when the accident took place.

The undercarriage of Bui's 1991 Pontiac sustained extensive damage.

The final close encounter of the day occurred at 7:50 p.m. on Highway 34, just north of the 1st of Kenyon. Luc Poirier, 33, of North Lancaster was northbound on Highway 34 when a deer crossed his path. The deer was hit by Poirier's car but ran off.

Poirier's 1991 Ford sustained moderate damage.

None of the drivers were injured.

Police want high-tech recyclables back

Crime Stoppers is seeking the public's assistance in solving a break, enter and theft at the RARE recycling plant in Alexandria that took place sometime on the weekend of Saturday, Oct. 16.

A fax machine, two computers and two printers were swiped from the recycling plant after the culprits forced open a door on the north side of the building.

Anyone with information on this or any other crime may be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000. Police don't want your name, they want your information.

Call Crime Stoppers at 534-8477, or, when calling long distance, 1-800-265- 8477.

Driverless crash

Jean Yves Jeaurond parked his truck one place Monday but he found it at another after leaving a Gernish Street garage.

The 42-year-old RR 2 Alexandria resident parked his 1986 Mazda pickup truck alongside the Gernish Street garage.

While inside the garage, the truck rolled down the block, through the intersection of Dominion Street and Gernish before crashing into a fire hydrant. Fortunately there was no other traffic in the area.

The truck sustained moderate damage.

Unusual mishap

An Alexandria resident crashed into a hydro pole while pulling into the Caisse Populaire parking lot Monday.

Colombe Lauzon, 40, was southbound on Main Street and attempted to pull into the empty parking lot but crashed into the hydro pole. Lauzon didn't see the hydro pole because of the sun.

Lauzon's 1993 Ford Aerostar sustained moderate damage.

Gas bar BE

Approximately $1,000 worth of lottery tickets and cigarettes were swiped from a Main Street gas bar sometime overnight on Saturday.

The culprits gained entry by smashing the front doors open, doing about $400 damage.

High-tech theft

Lancaster Heights residents returned to their home Monday afternoon to discover their home was broken into.

A VCR, stereo, camcorder and an alarm system that had not been installed, worth a total of $2,000, were stolen.

Boat theft

An 18-foot boat and outboard motor were stolen from an area marina sometime overnight on Monday.

The theft of the Williamstown area resident's 1990 Princecraft blue-gray boat and 1993 Mercury IIS hp motor was reported to Lancaster OPP Monday afternoon.

Furnishings swiped

A sofa, two chairs and two end chairs, worth approximately $1,000, were swiped from a Lochiel township home. The break in at the residence was reported to Maxville OPP Monday.

Boat swiped

An 18-foot custom-made fibreglass boat and 1990 Johnson motor were stolen from a Glen Walter area residence Saturday morning. The boat and motor are worth about $9,000.

Another SECCES story in Moose Creek

There was happy reminiscing Monday in Moose Creek, as Wayne Stephan, a local resident, realized a lifelong dream and opened Big Guy's Used Furniture in 1200 square feet of space in Hooper's General Store.

It was exactly a year ago when Stephan, 46, was handed his pink slip from a Glengarry-based trucking firm, after 28 years and more than 2 million miles in the transportation field.

The prospects for re-employment in the industry were "slim to none in this area," according to Stephan, "After a couple of weeks letting the initial shock sink in, I reported to the local Canada Employment office to register for unemployment benefits," he reflected.

"I had contemplated my situation for quite a while in that, at my stage in life, the opportunities back on the road with a reputable company would be few and far between for someone my age."

"I decided then that I should take control of my destiny and do something for myself and my future."

It was about then that his fiancée showed Wayne a pamphlet about SECCES, a non-profit organization funded by Employment and Immigration Canada and the SD&G Public Board of Education, and mandated to expose and train would-be entrepreneurs in all the elements of planning and starting up a new small business.

Wayne became very excited at the prospect.

"I picked up the phone immediately and contacted Helen McIntosh at SECCES to see how I could enrol in her course."

"She asked me to attend an interview, and then a workshop in Winchester, before she would give me any indication if I qualified for the courses."

Once Wayne was approved for enrolment, he embarked upon a 16-week, five-day-a-week intensive curriculum at the SECCES Boundary Road location. There he learned all about the elements of successful business planning and start up.

"I was really surprised at how little I really knew about starting a business," Wayne recalls.

"I thought that all you had to was find a location, have a bit of cash to buy some inventory, and open the doors."

"But the SECCES course taught me that if I fail to plan, and plan properly and address all aspects, good and bad, relevant to my business and to me personally, that I should 'plan to fail.' "

The buying and reselling of used furniture, appliances, and sundry goods was the business concept that had struck Wayne, and Moose Creek was his chosen area in which to operate.

"When I did a market analysis of the area, Moose Creek was identified as the ideal strategic locatin for my venture," Stephan recalled.

"And our survey also told us that quality goods at the lowest possible price remained the most important element to our potential customers in these tough economic times, and with our low overheads, we can ensure that excellent value and savings will be passed on to our clients."

There are other spinoff benefits as well.

"Hooper's General Store is an excellent, central location, and our presence here will be good for their business, and theirs for mine," he added.

McIntosh added, "We are very proud of all our Alumni and Wayne certainly demonstrated tremendous energy and enthusiasm for his business. Since our inception in 1989, more than 150 clients have successfully completed the SECCES program."

"Over 80 per cent went to become self-employed, and more than 60 of them are still in business today. Some Alumni are presently in 'start-up mode'."

"This is a statistic we are extremely proud of, which is also insignificant contrast to national statistics which indicate that 70 per cent of all small businesses fail to make it through their first year of operation."

Tagwi cut-ups win pumpkin carving contest

Pumpkin carving came to Tagwi Oct. 28. A contest was held in which teams competed in different categories.

The winners are as follows: Most gruesome — Todd Brownlee, Chris DeHong and Derek Beaudette; Most creative — Christine Bedard and Sue Bowness and Best Over All — Emily Colquhoun and Samantha Brown.

Judges were parents who were in the school for interviews. The multi-cultural club held a haunted house at lunch.

The junior boys volleyball team were defeated by La Citadelle but played a good game. The boys are ready for Glengarry next week against Seaway Spartans.

The Senior boys team has won three straight and is in first place as of Nov. 1.

Students attended a blood donor clinic held at Glengarry District High Thursday. Students seventeen and over were transported there by bus.

Representatives from Laurentian, Guelph and Ottawa Universities have been in the school to answer our questions and promote their facilities.

Council wants more officers at Lancaster OPP

Reintroducing 24-hour around-the-clock patrols by Lancaster OPP is a step in the right direction but more needs to be done, Lancaster Township Reeve Charlie Sangster said.

Lancaster Township council endorsed Charlottenburgh Township's recent resolution calling on the Solicitor General to increase police personnel and resources for the OPP detachment.

Council passed a resolution at its last general meeting, held last Wednesday, supporting Charlottenburgh's stand.

Alexandria police come to terms on collective agreement

By Pauline Ashton
News* correspondent

Alexandria police will get a 1.8 per cent salary raise over two years, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1993.

Police services board agreed to the settlement Oct. 28, which was tentatively accepted by Police Services Association President Roger Levert.

The board and police have been discussing the collective agreement for several months and after a meeting in September, the police association was threatening arbitration.

However, Mayor J. P. Touchette said he still hopes that the OPP will take over policing of Alexandria.

"I'm going to be at Queen's Park next week and talk with Solicitor General officials," he said.

Faubert-Gravel suggested "maybe we are pushing for something which is a dead issue, asking for OPP policing. We sent a letter about it not so long ago and got no response."

Touchette's 20-year crusade for OPP coverage of Alexandria was recalled by a letter to the board, from local MPP Noble Villeneuve.

Villeneuve warned that the NDP government will soon end "free" OPP policing of municipalities. A charge of $100 per citizen has been suggested.

Alexandria was specifically exempted from the 600 municipalities which soon may have to pay directly for OPP services because the town has its own force.

Alexandria might be better off even paying $100 per citizen for OPP services. Police services cost $400,000 this year, board secretary Leo Poirier told The News.

But with 3,414 population, under the OPP plan, costs could drop to $341,400, a savings of $58,000.

Poirier warned costs could climb, "if the town had to provide police offices and other services."

Court Report

The following are among the cases dealt with by Judge J.M. Bordeleau in Alexandria provincial court on Nov. 4.

Alexandria man on probation

An Alexandria man has been placed on probation for two years after pleading guilty to five counts of petty fraud.

Armand Duperron, 29, wrote bad cheques totalling $247.51 in making purchases at five area gas stations.

The court issued a suspended sentence and ordered that Duperron make restitution to the businesses as one of the conditions of his probation.

Drunk drivers fined

Three men were fined and had their licenses suspended as a result of drunk driving convictions:

Andre Martin, 27, of Cornwall pleaded guilty to drunk driving and was fined $400.

Martin was arrested by Lancaster OPP near Curry Hill Rd. on Oct. 26 and his breathalyser readings were more than twice the legal limit.

Andre Menard, 46, of South Lancaster was found guilty of drunk driving as a result of his arrest on Aug. 5.

The court ruled that there was enough evidence to suggest that Menard's ability to drive was influenced by alcohol at the time of his arrest.

He was fined $400 for drunk driving and an additional $300 for having refused to provide a breath sample to police.

Alan A. MacDonell, 62, of Williamstown was found guilty of drunk driving.

MacDonell was arrested on Dec. 28 after forcing two police cars to swerve to the side of Glen Road in Charlottenburgh Township.

He was taken to the Lancaster OPP detachment where breath samples showed readings of 120 and 115 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood. The legal limit is 80.

MacDonell was fined $300.

All three men were prohibited from driving for one year.

Water and sewage system close to becoming reality

support among residents for the extension, "the whole gang got behind us," Pommier said.

When they are hooked up, the 26 homes will have to pay $775 a year to maintain the water and sewer system and to pay for upgrades.

With a $100 expenditure every two months to empty his sewage tank at his Highway 2 property, fronting the St. Lawrence River, even that probably seems too good to be true.

And people who do not want to pay the $6,000 per household cost for the system in one shot have the option of paying the money off over 10 years, according to MacDonald.

On Sunday, Oct. 31 the Lancaster/Martintown Presbyterian Charge was honored to have as special speaker, the Rev. Fernando Cascaste, executive secretary of the Fellowship of Costa Rican Evangelical Churches.

Rev. Cascaste was accompanied by his wife, Xiomara, and Ms. Lee Ann Purchase of the Presbyterian Church in Canada office, Toronto.

Rev. Cascaste spoke of the support which the Presbyterian World Service and Development Agency gives to the poor communities struggling for survival in Central America. These funds are making a big difference in these countries.

The Lancaster/Martintown churches have given a significant amount of money to projects supported by PWS&D and hope to assist a specific project in 1994.

In his sermon, Rev. Cascaste made the point that to be a Christian is to be different, to be aware of our neighbor both here and abroad.

Rev. Cascaste and his wife ministered to the children and to the congregation in song. They taught the congregation the simple, yet moving Spanish gospel song, the English equivalent of which is "Alleluia, give glory to God."

The guests were entertained at Rev. Ian MacMillan's home. They left for a sightseeing trip to Ottawa and a PSW&D consultation on Central America in Toronto.

Bainsville Women's Institute members were treated to a tour of Cornwall Regional Airport which is located in Summerstown.

This publicly owned local business is not just a flying and social club.

It is the training centre for air traffic controllers, Air Inuit students and for local air cadets.

It also handles air ambulance transfers (medical flights) to surrounding hospitals.

WI member Kathy Small, who is the airport's manager, gave an enthusiastic and very knowledgeable walking tour of this 20-year-old facility.

Several members prepared and served lunch to 14 couples from the Netherlands who were touring Ontario farms.

VOLUNTEER OF THE WEEK

Jean Butler

Jean Butler — a name familiar to our readers: she writes the weekly news column for Martintown. Jean uses her column to serve her community in ways other than simply reporting local news. For example, when funding for a community library could not be found through the usual sources, Jean appealed to her readers for donations and volunteers. That library is now doing well.

Jean works for her community in other ways: she co-ordinates Meals on Wheels for her area, serves as president of St. Andrew's United Church Women, and is a member of both the Horticultural Society and the Optimist Club.

Since Jean's husband worked for the Department of Transport, Jean and her family have lived throughout Canada; their last move occurred eight years ago, from Cornwall to Martintown. Here, Jean lives with her husband (now retired), her daughter Valerie and her two grandsons.

In the past, Jean has worked as a secretary, at one time for Supply and Services in Ottawa and, more recently, for Grady Secretarial Services.

Jean's interests include curling, exercise classes, reading, travelling, and gardening. Jean's is a full life, dedicated to serving both her family and her community.

Robertson. The proceeds ($230) will go toward the "Headquarter Fund."

Twenty-one members met at the home of Guelda MacRae for their November meeting.

At that time they agreed to donate $50 to Char-Lan District High School's OSAID (Ontario Students Against Impaired Drivers) program.

This donation will be in memory of Jennifer Valade and in recognition of her demonstration of good citizenship.

Nov. 10 will find several members at Lancaster Public School. They will be dressed in costumes and will be assisting teachers and students with their Pioneer Days project. They will be showing how things were done the old fashioned way!

Businessman tuning into window sales market

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Have you ever walked into a store, wanted to purchase a product but there was no salesperson within earshot to help you?

That's happened plenty of times to Gus de Koning. And if the Ingleside resident had a loonie for every time he walked out of a store because of poor customer service, he would be sitting in the lap of luxury.

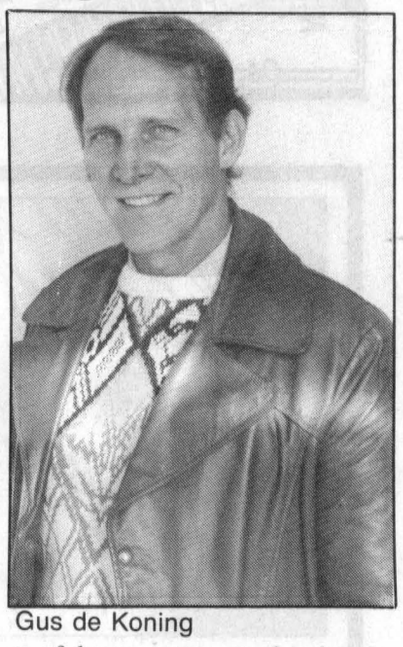
de Koning believes customer service is more than just a catchphrase. It represents a way of doing business in the 90s.

As the owner of the FM Windows and Siding franchise in the Alexandria and Winchester area, he's putting that theory into practice.

"There's no real reason to go shopping when we can bring the shop to your home. I have more time to look after my customers because I don't have to deal with shipping or book keeping," de Koning says.

Open since late August, de Koning owns one of 17 FM Windows and Siding franchises across the province.

The company specializes in selling and installing vinyl and some aluminium windows and a wide variety of doors - storm, steel and patio.



Gus de Koning

The company also sells and installs vinyl and aluminium siding.

The company's head office, which is based in Toronto, looks after shipping, book keeping and other business areas for all of their franchises. That leaves de Koning more time to spend with the customer.

"I don't go into their home, tell them here's what we got, make a sale and get out of there. I spend time with them getting to know what they're looking for and what's right for them," he says.

"The days of the tin men and people not really knowing what they're buying are gone.

"People are aware and if they're not we make them aware. You can't pull the wool over people's eyes. People are much more service minded."

Head office also looks after personnel training and all of its employees and franchise owners must have some experience in the industry, de Koning has been in it for 33 years, to ensure high quality.

The future looks bright for FM Windows and Siding, which was established 17 years ago. The company hopes to expand into Quebec, Alberta and Manitoba within the next couple of years.

de Koning says the company stands 100 per cent behind its products. They have a life-time warranty on all their products against cracking, fading, discolorations and chalking. The guarantee also covers sunlight and pollution.

Many hands make supper a success

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

There's something about a church supper, wouldn't you say? Maybe it's the pre-meal waiting, and socializing, and waiting — until you're so hungry you could eat almost anything and have it taste good. Or maybe it's because there's always a bitter nip to the dark air as you make your way to the church hall, and then you open the door and there is sudden warmth, and light, and good smells and people you know, talking and laughing.

That's the way it was on Saturday night, as St. Andrew's UCW hosted its annual turkey supper. And it wasn't really the waiting that made everything taste so good — it just did!

Many, many hands, some small and dainty, others red and gnarled, and still others thick and hairy, went into the production of this event. So many hands, in fact, that it would be impossible here to list all their owners! But I will tell you that the ''head'' hands this year belonged to convenors Penny Atchison and Nancy Woollven, and to them must go our praise — to be passed along the chain, of course!

There is also something about a local Remembrance Day service. The format changes little from year to year, just like the weather, just like the crowd.

But would we want to change? Somehow it is the tradition which is important; it is the tradition which means we will not be likely to forget.

Sunday's service at the Williamstown cenotaph by members of Branch 544 of the Royal Canadian Legion, the Lancaster Pipe Band, the Air Cadets, and members of the Char-Lan High School Band was traditional, and so was the bitter wind.

Of course each year the service plays against a unique back-drop. There were no panting milk trucks this year, but a couple of hussars happened by at the height of things. And just at the moment that the fire chief was called upon to lay the wreath on behalf of the fire department, the wail of a siren was heard. It was the fire engine rushing down John Street to respond to a call!

Two more of last week's Char-Lan Reunion names have been accounted for. One, which I'll repeat again this week, was not. Rather than ''Chester'' Kierstead, the name should have read ''Chesteret'' Kierstead. This lady was last heard of in the Sharbot Lake area, and with such an unusual name, should not be too difficult to trace.

This week's list is for missing people attending the school between 1950 and 1955.

From 1950-51: Gerald Lalonde, Alice Link, Norman Sharkey, Michael O'Malley and Barbara McLennan.

From 1951-52: Gabrielle Bergeron, Rita Brunet, Ronald Caron, Mabel Farlinger, James Fraser, Glen MacIntosh, Ken MacIntosh, Orville Sinnott and Warren Murray.

From 1952-53: Shirley Lafave, Margo MacRae, Ramsey McDonald, John Bourquardez, Rita Brunet, Billy Link (Where are those missing links?), Larry Leeson, Diana Major, Glenn Munro, Eugene Roberts, Gerald St. Pierre, Bill Thompson and Jimmy Wolfe.

From 1953-54: Estelle Saucier, Bobby Nicholson, Gertrude Farlinger and Verna Lagroix.

And from 1954-55: Charles Aitken, Jean Pierre Bergeron, Robert Deschamps, John Dufresne, Michael Lalonde, Donald MacDonald, Shirley Brodeur, Lorraine McDonald, Joan Cullen, Darlene Disotell, Aletha McDonald, Alice Merpaw, Bertha Paquette, Neillie Vari Voght, Michael Grimes, Charles Kitts, Bruce Palfrey, John Sawers, Daniel St. Pierre, Annelise Von Boetticher, Monique Bougie, Marcelle Chouinard and Claudette Ledoux.

Remember to call Jean Fraser at 931-1003, if you can supply addresses for any of the above.

The congregation of St. Andrew's Church was saddened by the passing of Einar Wahl, which took place on Nov. 1. Mr. Wahl was predeceased by his wife, Mary. Our sympathy is extended to the family.

In case you think the Green Thumbs have just been sitting back and twiddling them, I can tell you it isn't so. The group has been busy listening to the experts, gleaning information for use next season.

In September, Barbara Rochfort, who is a Master Gardener and gardening columnist, spoke to the group about the wonders of herbs. Mrs. Rochfort told not only of their medicinal properties, but of their culinary secrets as well. Recipes for making herbal vinegars and drinks were included on herb hint sheets handed out to those present.

October's speaker was John Watson, who works at the Morgan Aboretum at Macdonald College, and is also the proprietor of The Border Arborist, a tree surgery business in Bainsville.

John has been busy doing work on trees damaged during the big storm/little tornado which hit the Lancaster/Bainsville area in August, and is very knowledgeable in his field. Perhaps he harbors some family secrets, as his father was also an arborist at the same arboretum before him.

Estimates on what tree-doctoring should cost, and the ''dead-heading'' of our trees — why we're getting this and what to do about it — were some of the topics covered by the speaker, who, for those who missed him, may give further talks in the future.

It was a wedding-bell weekend for two couples. Congratulations to Melanie Arrowsmith, daughter of Velma and Phil Arrowsmith, and Jeff Prieur, son of Claire and Michael Prieur, who were married on Friday.

Also, congratulations are extended to Heather Periard, daughter of Alcide and Leona Periard, and Brian Buffet, son of Wilson and Georgie Buffet, who were wed on Saturday, with a reception following at St. Mary's Centre.

Just when is a boy a man and a girl a woman these days? It used to be simple — 21. Now, (for a little while, at least), it's 16 to drive and smoke; 18 to vote and buy cigarettes; and 19 to drink. By 21 it's a bit of a fizzle!

Hope you had a good one, anyway, Wendy!

Friends of Viola Pilon's, interested in what crafts she has been busy working away at all year, may see the fruits of her labor this Friday and Saturday, Nov. 12 and 13, at her home on Sand Road, Summerstown Station, beginning at 9 a.m. each day.

Bucking the trend of spring graduates are a couple of former Char-Lan students who have received their university degrees at fall convocations.

Todd Lapierre, son of Yvonne and Gerard Lapierre of Summerstown Station, graduated Oct. 31 from Wilfrid Laurier University, with a Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA).

Tiffany Stones, daughter of Barbara and David Stones of Williamstown, recently received the degree of Bachelor of Arts (BA) from McGill University. Tiffany will continue to live in Montreal, where she works for Dessins Inc.

Congratulations to you both!

There was a very interesting and fun evening workshop on ''Visioning'' with Rev. Roslyn Campbell with our sister church in Williamstown Tuesday, Nov. 2.

They were busy putting heads together (in small groups) focusing and writing down, what direction would be taken for future growth and interest.

Some of the top priorities heard of were developing interests for youth, a couples group, maybe a mens group, more visiting, forming a church council which takes in a representative from all church groups, i.e. Session, Managers, UCW, Choir, Sunday School and Worship Committee. Some expressed the desire for two congregations to meet together (socially and spiritually) more often, maybe four times a year.

Rev. Campbell took home the thoughts (on paper) and will get back to us Nov. 30.

Martintown Public School

Remembrance Day ceremonies will take place Nov. 11 in the gym of the school at 11 a.m. and anyone who would like to place a family wreath, please call the school at 528-4423.

On St. Andrew's Day, Tuesday, Nov. 30 students are encouraged to come to school in Celtic dress or family tartan. If the student dances or has a kilt they could come in festive dress.

The popular cheese sale, as a school committee fundraiser, will end Wednesday, Nov. 18. The delivery of the cheese will be Tuesday, Dec. 7.

The annual turkey dinner is coming up and will be Wednesday, Dec. 8 at the Martintown Community Centre at 12 noon. And the Christmas concert will be Wednesday, Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

The Twins have done it again

Congratulations a little late but better late than never. Michelle and Danielle James have won themselves a return visit to the Homegrown Cafe on CJOH and it was aired Sunday, Oct. 24. That has been their second appearance this season.

They will be entertaining the youth attending the ''Dating and Relating'' conference being held at General Vanier/St. Joseph High School, Nov. 12-13.

These busy little ladies are presently rehearsing for the Glen Production of ''Carousel'' and will be in ''Aladdin'' which will be produced by Down Memory Lane to be presented in early December.

Farmer sets land aside to help feed hungry Ethiopians

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

Another lady who has deep roots in Maxville, Cathy Munroe Mayberry, is in the news and was interviewed on TV. Cathy is the daughter of Margaret and the late "Doc" Munroe and lives on a farm near Ingersoll with her husband, David, and children.

David has always been interested in missionary work and has become a well received speaker to groups in his area. He has been involved with the Food Grains Bank and this year decided to set aside 17 acres of his farm near Highways 401 and 19 to produce corn for Ethiopia. It was then that Cathy and several of her farm lady friends became involved. All the labor on the corn fields was done by them — soil preparation, seeding, spraying and combining. Each played an important role in this project to feed the hungry of Ethiopia. We congratulate Cathy and David and all their friends for putting their good intentions into practice.

The big snowstorm last Monday was the event of the week. Fortunately for the children, it came a day after Halloween but for those who had to get out and shovel first, it was a real unseasonal nuisance. However, it is gone and we may not see more snow for a while. Yesterday was close to an Indian summer day.

It seems that decorating for Halloween is becoming very popular. We saw it in the States a few years ago but the custom has crept into this area with a flourish. Jeannette and Wayne McDermid are to be commended for their outdoor decorations for the October 31st day.

My information on Carma Williams' family was incomplete in last week's column. Her husband, Jim Stephenson and young son complete the circle in the Catherine St. home.

John Williams was in Guelph last weekend to visit with daughters Heather and Julie. Heather was celebrating her birthday and her father delivered the homemade birthday cake for the occasion.

Roger Guindon was a successful deer hunter last week when he brought down his deer. His cousin, Roger Rolland, claims he deserves a bit of credit for finding the animal during the local season.

Much as we appreciate these white tailed deer, I often wonder when they will be considered a real traffic hazard. Motorists never know when one is going to come out in front of the car and be hit. Up near Windsor, authorities have decided to reduce the deer population in Rondeau Park by 400. The deer from the area winter there and feed on the bark of trees when there is no other food. There are plenty of protectors against this kill but one has to wonder what is the alternative.

Appreciation Night booked for library committee and volunteers

Danielle and Michelle are presently attending CCVS in the program of the Arts, and are rehearsing with the SD&G Vocal Ensemble in a show that will travel to New Orleans and other U.S. cities in the spring.

To raise funds for this venture, the girls were taking orders for citrus fruit, as part of the fruit drive. Sorry but that is now finished. There will be more. So watch for an opportunity to support their fundraising efforts. Michelle and Danielle can be reached at 528-4972.

Martintown Optimist Club

Appreciation Night for the library committee and volunteers will be held in the form of a social evening at the next club meeting Thursday, Nov. 18.

There is a 28" color TV looking for a new home and it could possibly be yours if you buy a raffle ticket on this item. The Optimists are having this raffle as a fundraiser for youth and community activities, and these tickets are available at the local businesses and through Optimist members. The draw for the winner will be made at the regular meeting Thursday, Dec. 16.

Next teen dance will be Friday, Dec. 17 from 8 to 11 p.m.

Martintown's Christmas Parade

Yes it's coming fairly soon. Sunday, Dec. 19 the volunteer firemen will be having their annual Christmas parade, and it will start at 1 p.m. at the Laidlaw Garage and will end at the fire hall with Santa giving out treats. For further information call Doug Lafave at 528-4645.

Turning over a new leaf after the snowstorm

as their new businesses, Tracy's Corner Store and MacKay's Bake Shop and Cafe, were officially opened the last two Saturdays.

Because of last week's snowstorm, the leaf collection on Wednesday had to be carried over to today, Wednesday. It wasn't practical to have to pull the bags of leaves out of the snow and of course the loose ones couldn't be raked up.

I was pleased to see that our waste collection handling methods are away ahead of those in the City of London, Ont. We happened to be there on "garbage day." Householders are not limited to two bags per week and most of the leaves in this city noted for its trees go to landfill. The city will vacuum up leaves left at the curb but then the householder has to pay $30 for the service. Therefore, people take the cheaper route and send their leaves away in garbage bags.

Last week's winners in the Lions Club Calendar draw were Mrs. O. F. Villeneuve, Maxville, John McDermid, Moose Creek, Ryes Lortie, St. Bernardin, Earl McMaster, Alexandria, Kelly Currier, Maxville, and Francis Lalonde, Moose Creek.

There are a few Centennial books on hand yet. Copies of Maxville: Its Centennial Story 1991 may be obtained at Danskin's Scottish Shop, Tracy's Country Store or at the village office. It won't be long until they become collectors items.

Lorna and I were away last week visiting family in Grimsby, London and Tecumseh, near Windsor. For that reason, last week's column was written early. Therefore at the time of writing, the robins were still here but I hope they got away before the snowstorm hit. We took granddaughter, Keitha Fisher home for a visit by herself until her mother, Beverly comes on Friday.

There are still many Canada geese up there where it is milder. They stay around for the summer in many areas and are considered a nuisance. I am wondering when more drastic measures will have to be taken to keep them off golf courses, for example.

On the AM show, Mark Cullen said not to feed mixtures containing cracked corn to the birds. He said they attracted ground feeders which included mourning doves. I think most welcome these doves to feeders as their numbers are not great here yet.

Speaking of numbers, we saw huge flocks of grackles near Windsor. They were feeding in harvested corn and soybean fields and made the fields look very black. The usual crow flocks were about too.

Most of the land in the counties of Essex and Kent is cropped. The soybeans have all been harvested and the crop was a big one. The corn is being combined now and there is still a lot in the fields. A friend quoted the price he received of $2.92 per bushel which translates into $117 per tonne. The winter wheat fields are nice and green but in many fields the rows are still showing. Plowing is well under way on this flat land where it is good to see wind breaks being established in places.

The UCW of the United Church is holding its annual bazaar and luncheon this Saturday in the church hall. Doors open at 11 a.m. and after shopping and browsing are completed, or in between, the luncheon may be enjoyed. If you are not interested in the bazaar, come for the luncheon anyway.

The public school's newsletter reported that the Grade one students went to the Manor for the residents' Halloween party and sang for the residents. Teacher Marie Aubin is away on sick leave and Mme. Gravel is substituting for her. We wish Mme. Aubin a speedy recovery and return to work.

Students from Grade K to 3 from St. Bernard's school were invited to join their counterparts to enjoy a French production put on by Alexander the Clown one day last week.

Grades 5 to 8 are participating in a curling program at the Glengarry Curling Club next door.

Glenna Van Drunen is willing to offer a course of WordPerfect in the evenings in the school . Those interested are invited to contact Mrs. Van Drunen at 525-2574.

Ninety years ago, W. C. McKillican was president of the Athletic Association of the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph and won the hurdle race in good time. He was a brother of Gordon and Lyman and became a prominent civil servant in the agricultural field. His daughter, Mary, lives in Ottawa.

Young at Heart Euchre

In spite of the snowstorm that day, euchre players assembled from as far away as 28 miles to enjoy this social evening. Martintown residents led in the scoring with Eileen Johnson and Queen Euchre Onagh Ross earning first and second prizes for the ladies and Bill Johnson also from Martintown topping the male players. Rita Seguin received third prize and her brother, Omer Derouchie, all the way from Picton, took home second prize for the men. Regular winner, Mac O'Byrne received third prize.

Mrs. Johnson also claimed the door prize.

The 50-50 draw saw Mrs. Ross receive double money as did Grace Doth. Other winners were Ann Michaud, Catherine (Dan) MacRae and Mr. O'Byrne.

The next euchre will be on Nov. 15. The season is drawing to a close so enjoy these evenings while they last this fall.

The Maxville and District Horticultural pot luck supper will be held Wed., Nov. 17 at 6:30 p.m. Instead of a Christmas gift exchange, a donation of non-perishable food for the AGAPE Centre in Cornwall would be appreciated.

An article on the front page of last week's News regarding an animal hospital planned for Alexandria quoted a letter from Lucien and Blanche Leroux of Dominion Street.

The correspondence was actually a copy of a petition-letter signed by the Lerouxs, copies of which were also signed by about 25 other residents.

Four-year-old Natasha Larocque officially opened Ecole Ste. Marie's playground last Thursday with the ceremonial ribbon cutting which had to be moved indoors because of the rain. Ste. Marie kids had a big hand in building school playground

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

When students at Ecole Ste. Marie look at their new playground, many will be overcome with a sense of deja vu.

Students at the Green Valley school played a part in creating their picture-perfect playground, which was officially opened last Wednesday.

When the playground was still in the planning stages, the school's parent committee asked students to create drawings of what their dream playground would look like.

"Some of what they wanted was not realistic. But this isn't off the mark too much," says Diane Brunet, a member of the parent committee who spearheaded the fundraising drive for the playground.

"The biggest reward today is to see the school playground (officially opened) and see it serve the community on a daily basis."

The playground has been in the works for over three years. The dream began to take shape when the main playground structure, a wooden fort complete with slide, was assembled by Green Valley residents in June.

The playground will serve the needs of the students during school hours and, after school hours or when there's no school, adults and children in the community are welcome to use the facilities.

The playground, which is located at the back of the school, also includes a small soccer field, a t-ball field, two baseball fields — one new and the other was upgraded — new lights for the skating rink and a combination basketball/tennis court.

Half of the $60,000 required to build the playground, was raised through efforts by the parent committee.

The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Catholic School Board chipped in $11,000. Charlottenburgh and Lancaster township donated $5,600 and $3,700 respectively, donations from businesses and community organizations totalled $4,700 and the parent committee contributed $6,000.

The remaining half of the funds came from a jobsOntario grant.

Brunet, who was named the 1993 Parent of the Year by the parent committee, says swings have been ordered and the main play structure can accommodate further extensions.

"We have to get the children active during recess. If the child plays he'll develop interpersonal skills. He'll have a place to blow off steam if he's frustrated by the work and he'll be able to concentrate better," Brunet says.

"Besides, all the children who use this will be in better shape."

Old-time Christmas Concert

Christmas comes early this year and J. Audrey (Johnson) MacDonald has planned a craft show and bake sale which will take place at the Glen Social Centre on Saturday, Nov. 20 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

I understand she will have a "Christmas Corner," "Tartan Corner" and many other items of interest to young and old.

I am told that you should stay clear of "Grandma's Kitchen Corner" if you are on a diet.

Later, on that same day at 8 p.m., Audrey has organized an "Old-time Christmas Concert" geared primarily for children.

She tells me that she has a great show lined up with entertainers from Laggan, Lancaster, Glen Robertson, etc. I hope she remembers to bring along her marionettes!

Santa will be there to collect "Letters from Santa." So make sure that you pass on the word to all the little ones in and around your household to prepare their letters.

Light refreshments will be served at the end of the evening and the "Craft and Bake Sale Corner" will re-open while the kiddies visit with Santa.

MNR wants feedback on land use

Charlottenburgh council mixed on whether to provide it on recreational property

Leslie O'Shaughnessy has advised Charlottenburgh council that the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) is looking for public input into uses for provincially owned land located off the Summerstown Station Road.

The land is presently used for a number of recreational pursuits including cross-country skiing, nature trail walking, hunting and snowmobiling.

O'Shaughnessy said Oct. 26 he thought the township should submit a proposal to the ministry since Charlottenburgh had given a $1,000 grant last year to the local group "Friends of the Summerstown Ski Area."

But George Shoniker disagreed. "That was a one time grant," said Shoniker.

"I think it should be left up to the people to tell the ministry how they want the land used."

Councillor Don Kannon's suggestion of sending the idea to the recreation committee was accepted.

"We paid good dollars to have our parks and recreational facilities evaluated," said Kannon, referring to a study commissioned several years ago.

"This land is in our municipality — the recreation committee should have some say."

New column highlights business life

Business Beat

By Joe Banks, 525-2020

Glad you could join us here at Business Beat. The intent of this column will be to inform you of items of interest from the Glengarry business community.

It came from an awareness of a wealth of information spread around the county out there, that does not always meet the strict definition of news, but which nevertheless deserves attention and recognition.

Such items might include decisions taken at chamber of commerce meetings at Maxville, Lancaster or Alexandria, new owners of businesses, staff news from the industrial and retail business communities, expansions, reductions, and a myriad of other things we have yet to hear about. We'll also be making some general observations and a few opinions about what we see and hear.

We hope you enjoy it, and don't hesitate to call us with your news. Now, on with the show...

On the move

First off, let's make an observation. Have you noticed the amount of building going on in Alexandria? We'll see if we can come up with some stats for next week, but there are about a dozen houses in various stages of construction in the town's north end, along the Trottier Crescent, Hope and Macdonald Boulevard areas.

Gas service has just been added on Hope Street.

The Demaca subdivision at the east end of St. George is growing, too. The new Alexandria Stationary store is taking shape on Main Street south.

Who said there was a recession on?

Christmas plans advancing

The Alexandria and Lancaster chambers are flying ahead with Christmas promotion plans.

Lancaster is again offering its popular "Lucky Bucks" promotion again to encourage shopping at home. Participants get free tickets when shopping in local stores and winners names are drawn Dec. 10. Up to $1,000 in Lucky Bucks will be awarded. It begins Nov. 12 and runs to the day of the draw.

Alexandria chamber is spearheading a draw promotion running for five weeks, in which participating businesses run and coordinate their own draws, and have the option of becoming part of a collective series of advertisments promoting all of the draws together.

The idea is to encourage as many businesses as possible, chamber members and non-chamber members, to offer draws to strengthen "shop locally" marketing.

Alexandria chamber will also be sponsoring an "Adopt-a-Pole" contest with cash prizes where businesses and people are encouraged to decorate one of the telephone poles hugging Main Street.

As well, there will be painted windows offered again by the high school students this year, for $5 a window. Call Lisa MacDonald at 525-5758 to book your artist.

The group will also be sponsoring a "Light up the Tree" community caroling night again. More on this next week.

Big bucks for CHEO

Got a note here from the guys and gals at Champions expressing thanks for sponsoring a prize in Champions first ever golf tournament, held on Aug. 27. The tournament raised an impressive $3,135. Wow! Way to go gang, and we'll add our thanks to all of the other sponsors.

Lots of money around

Ron Poissant of Giant Tiger fame dropped in for a chat Monday. Ron tells us business is booming and he "may have to double my space by next year if business continues this way."

Ron says there seems to be lots of money around for retail purchases and he can't understand merchants who prefer to sit on their hands and wait for the customers to come through the door, without competitive pricing, guaranteed satisfaction policy and aggressive advertising.

"There's lots of money around. You just have to know how to go out and get it."

Ron admits volume has a lot to do with his ability to mark down merchandise five to seven per cent. But little things, like friendly service and a no-questions return policy, make a big difference, too.

Ron employs 35 employees at the Main Street south store in Alexandria.

Youth remembrance

The Alexandria branch of the Royal Canadian Legion honored winners of its Remembrance Day poster contest in a ceremony at the Legion Saturday. Shown front l-r are winners Brent Hagen, Matthew Bujacki; Marc Bourbonnais and Brett MacDonald. Back l-r with Beverly Fournier, Legion second vice-president for youth education, are Samantha Coombs-Kornfeld, Julie Dumouchel, Tanya Lynn Roddick, Rachel MacGillivray and Kaitlin MacPherson. Eight schools took part in the contest, sending more than 1,000 entries.

Historical society pushes for Gaelic signage

Glengarry hamlets with Highland names should have Gaelic road signs in addition to the signs now in place.

This resolution was adopted at the Nov. 4 meeting of the Glengarry Historical Society with unanimous approval of all 65 members present. The request was directed to local municipal councils with the hope that the townships, after deliberating the question, ask the United Counties to co-operate with the historical society and, in a project to upgrade the signage of hamlets on county roads, to include the Gaelic.

They would at first count include: Athol (2), Dalkeith (4), Dunvegan (4), Glen Robertson (4), Glen Norman (2), Glen Roy (2), Glen Sandfield (3), Greenfield (2), Lochiel (2), St. Andrews West (2), St. Raphael's (2). Names not included, being as they are on provincial highways, are: Laggan, Fassifern, Glen Gordon and Kirktown. Others are municipal.

At the same meeting President David G. Anderson, on behalf of the acquisitions committee of the society, received a presentation of 189 sketches of well-known Glengarry artist Stewart McCormick.

The packet of sketches, purchased in the 1970's by a Toronto collector, had been tracked down by Hugh P. MacMillan of Guelph, and carried here by him on behalf of the donor. In time, the Society will arrange for the display and publicity of the newly-acquired pieces.

Incoming president Alan MacKinnon of Kirk Hill gave a keynote address "Making History: the role of the Historical Society." MacKinnon announced his desire to see the society more active in preserving genealogical materials and supporting family history research.

The next meeting is the annual pot luck dinner for the first Thursday of February, 1994. Membership may be arranged by phoning Harriet MacKinnon at 525-1934 (afternoons and evenings).

Alexandria bantam Glens start season with pair of losses

After posting a 3-3-2 record in exhibition play, the Alexandria Bantam Glens have dropped two straight games to start off the 1993-94 minor hockey season.

Mark Laferriere was the lone goalscorer as the Glens lost 5-1 to the North Glengarry-Stormont Braves in their season-opener.

Then on home ice on Saturday, Alexandria dropped an 8-2 decision to the previously winless South Stormont Flyers. Marc Gauthier and Stephane Boisvenue accounted for the Glens' goals.

The next game for the bantams is this Friday when South Stormont returns to Alexandria.

Peewees

The Alexandria Pronto Store Peewee Glens continue to perform well in the early season going as Roger Ladouceur's club defeated North Dundas 7-2 in Winchester on Saturday.

Pascal Lavigne and Guillaume Ouimet each scored twice for Alexandria while Jamie Ladouceur, Gregory Lalonde and Ghislain Valade added single markers.

Valade, Nicholas Prieur, Jean-Francois Lafrance and Timothy Van Overbeek each assisted on two goals.

In an exhibition game at the Billy Gebbie Arena on Sunday, three different Alexandria players found the range in a 3-1 Glens win over Embrun.

Timothy Van Overbeek, Nicholas Prieur and Jamie Ladouceur accounted for Alexandria's scoring.

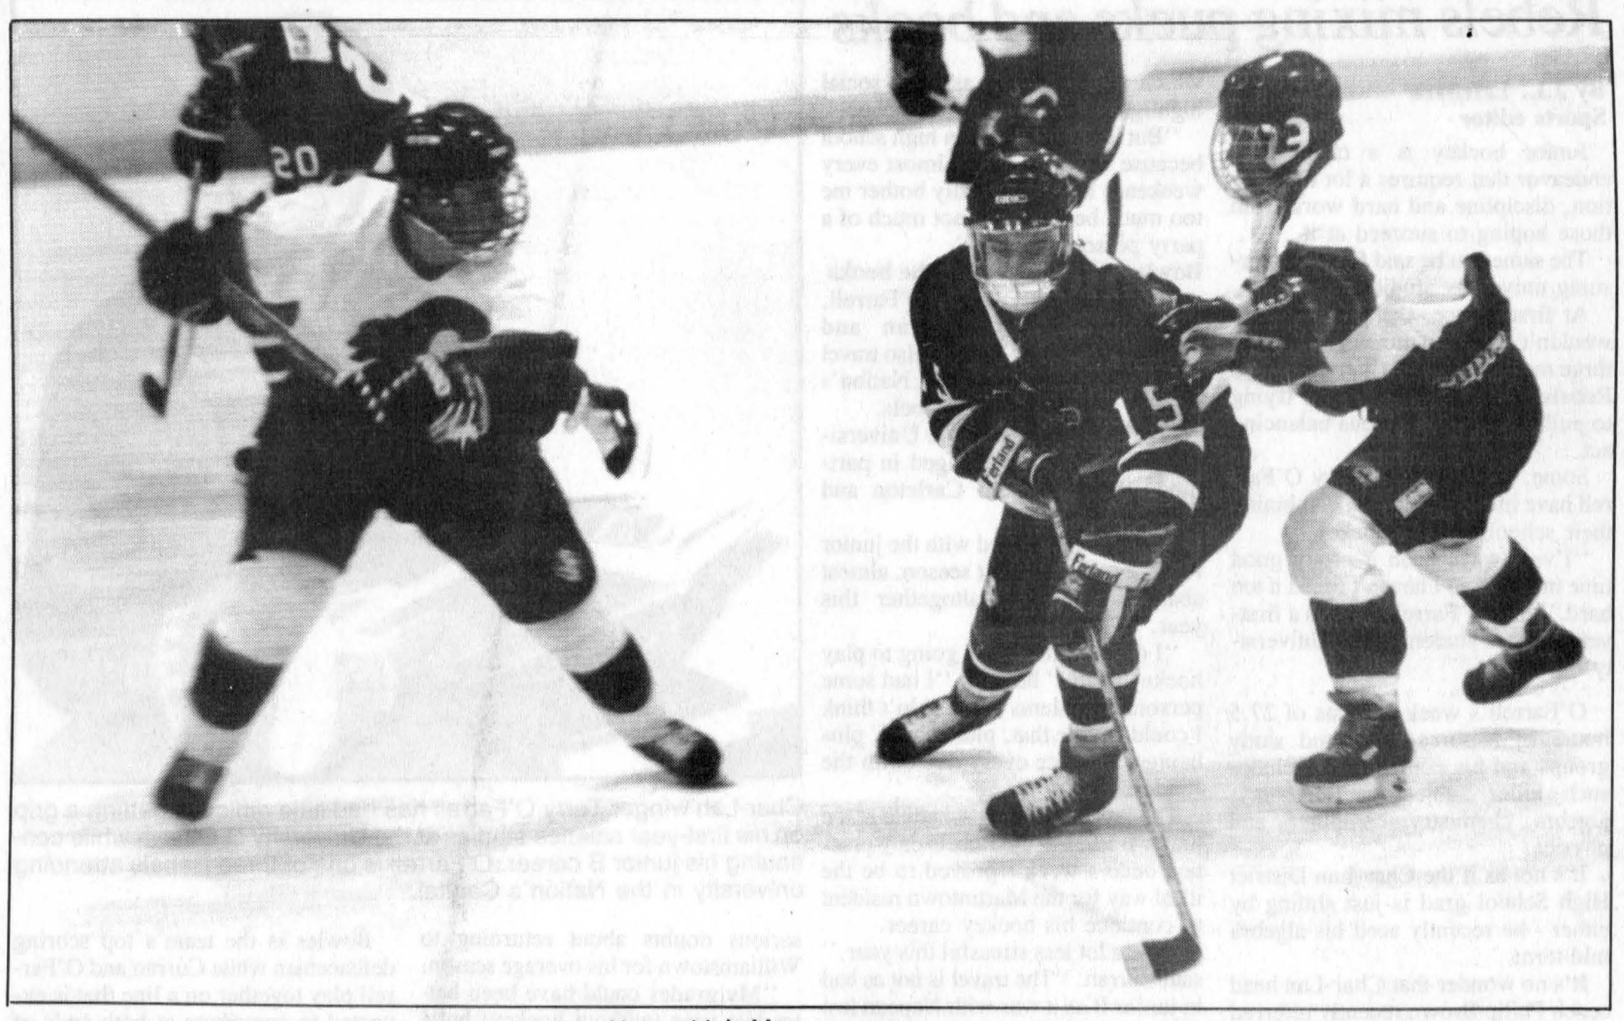
Midgets post shutouts

The Alexandria midgets chalked up a pair of shutout wins last week.

On Saturday, the Glens blanked South Grenville 3-0 as Pascal Gasse picked up the shutout and Dominic Laferriere, Darcy McDonell and Eric Hagen provided a goal each.

Alexandria beat Cornwall 7-0 on Sunday with Roch Lavigne between the pipes.

Alain Decoste and Alain Borris each scored twice while Darcy McDonell, Eric McCarthy and Karl Hehn fired in singles.



Gananoque's Randy Payne applies a cross-check to Alexandria's Martin Boisvenue back during action from last Friday's night at the Billy Gebbie Arena. Boisvenue was injured on the play and was forced to leave the game, but the Glens still managed to take an 11-9 victory.

Agromart peewees pick up two wins

Munro Agromart picked up a pair of wins in Char-Lan Minor Hockey peewee house league competition last week.

On Thursday, Roch Lavigne scored twice as Munro defeated Longevity Acrylics 4-2. Edward McCorkell and Tyson Currier completed the scoring for the winners while Darryl Major and Eric Vande Nieuwe Giessen replied for Longevity.

Munro came back for a 3-2 win over Kalrim Sports on Saturday as Marc Tremblay, Scott MacKenzie and Tyson Currier each scored once. Pat Alguire and Marc Miron connected for Kalrim.

Malyon Excavation also won twice last week, starting with a 6-5 decision over Longevity on Saturday. Chris Malyon led the winners with four goals while Rick Bosma and Jason Aikman also scored.

Willie Larkin had three goals in a losing cause while Darryl Major and Jular Sarda rounded out the Longevity scoring.

On Sunday, Malyon defeated Kalrim 6-4 as Chris Malyon led the way again with three goals. Jason Aikman, Brennan Shoniker and Shawn O'Berry also scored for Malyon.

Stephen Lefebvre had two goals for Kalrim with singles going to Pat Alguire and Philip Hadzocos.

In atom house league action, Edward Hadzocos scored twice as the Glengarry Kinsmen blanked MacDonald Grocery 3-0. Daniel Desnoyers added a single to complete the scoring.

Cornwall Aviation played to a 4-4 tie with McCuaig Plumbing as Matthew Gordon had a hat trick for Aviation. Chris Knight picked up the other Aviation goal while Leigh Thompson, Kyle Fraser, Mike Poirier and Sylvain Pilon scored for McCuaig.

MacDonald Groceries scored a 5-3 win over one of the South Stormont teams playing in the Char-Lan league while a new arena is constructed in Long Sault.

Scott Watson had two goals for MacDonald while Robbie Kinloch, Mike O'Farrell and Andy Knox had one each.

Rowdy fans spur Cardiac Kids to another comeback

Minutes after Alexandria's 11-9 victory over the Gananoque Islanders on Friday night, Glens coach Robert Boisvenue emerged from the dressing room with his hands in the air and a bemused smile on his face.

"I've got nothing to say," he blurted. "You saw the game and there's nothing I can add to that."

You'd think a coach who just saw his team rally from an 8-4 second intermission deficit to win a game would have plenty of choice comments to make, but don't forget we're talking about the Cardiac Kids here.

These guys have come back more often than Wayne Newton and Boisvenue is running out of ways to explain his team's roller-coaster performances.

So we'll let Boisvenue off the hook and give defenceman-turned-winger Mike Closs a shot at telling us what the deal is with this team.

"Our games are just like our practices." said Closs, who keyed the Glens' comeback with three third-period goals. "At practices, we start out slow and then we pick it up as we go along. That just seems to carry over into our games."

Okay, so it's not a great explanation but it's as good as anyone has been able to come up with so far.

For the second home game in a row, the Glens got off to a terrible start as Gananoque scored 13 seconds into the game and held a 3-0 lead with less than five minutes gone.

The Isles led 5-2 after 20 minutes and appeared to put the game away at the end of the second period with a shorthanded goal to go up 8-4.

But Alexandria's explosive offence came to the rescue again as the Glens netted seven goals in the third to steal another win.

Dennis Dodd started the comeback with his second and third goals of the night and then Patrick Collin scored his second of the night to get Alexandria to within one.

Mike Closs took over from that point on, tying the game at 8-8 and again at 9-9 after Gananoque retook the lead with another shorthanded goal. Closs then completed his hat trick with 1:04 left in regulation.

Marcus Horner closed the books on the contest with an empty-net goal. Patrick Sauve and Martin Boisvenue had scored in the first period for Alexandria.

Meanwhile, Kevin Drapeau's four-goal effort went to waste for Gananoque. Corey Campeau netted a pair while Alex Armstrong, J.P. Leblanc and Kevin Rose each scored once.

Crowd makes itself heard

The Glens had a little help on the comeback trail on Friday as a large group of young fans turned the normally docile Billy Gebbie Arena into the Madhouse on Macdonald Blvd.

"The one thing I want to talk about is that crowd," said Boisvenue. "If it wasn't for them, we wouldn't have been able to come back like we did. Those kids really kept the guys going."

Fatigue also played a large role in Alexandria's comeback as the Islanders played most of the game with only 11 skaters.

Islanders coach Wilf Johnston said his team - decimated by injuries and school commitments - didn't have much left by the end of the game.

"They played as well as I could have hoped," he said. "They just ran out of steam in the third period. With a break or two we could still have won this game, but give Alexandria credit. They sure can skate and they're a very well- disciplined

Glens great in late going

It should come as no surprise to anyone that the Alexandria Glens have a huge scoring advantage over their opponents in the third period of games this season.

The Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League's comeback specialists have outscored their opponents 44-21 after the second intermissions of their 14 games so far this year. The total includes one overtime and one shootout goal.

Of course, the Glens have been forced to come back because of consistently bad first periods.

Alexandria has been outscored 28-23 in the opening stanza and the Glens' offence has been held to one or zero first-period goals eight times.

The second period has been the busiest from a goalscoring standpoint in games involving the Glens this year.

There have been 77 second-period goals scored in Alexandria's 14 games - an average of 5.5 per contest. The Glens have a 40-37 edge in the middle frame.

Char-Lan win streak reaches eight games

Rebels cap successful week with OT victory over Hawks

The Char-Lan Rebels used a variety of methods to dispose of three Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League opponents, stretching their winning streak to eight games in the process.

The Rebels started their busy week of action by rallying from a 5-1 deficit to beat Brockville 8-5 on Wednesday. Char-Lan then played a solid game at both ends of the ice in downing Kemptville 7-1 at home on Saturday before finishing the week with a 5-4 overtime win in Winchester on Sunday.

Char-Lan remains atop the St.Lawrence Division standings with 25 points, three better than second-place Alexandria.

The Rebels' hold on first place is no fluke as Char-Lan leads the division in goals for (111) and fewest goals against (69).

The team faces an important week in an effort to lock up a spot in the Boxing Day Tournament as Char-Lan will play Morrisburg and Alexandria — the Rebels' closest pursuers - on back-to-back nights.

Big line shines in Brockville

It was another big night for the trio of Denis St.Jean, Pete St.Jean and Marc Bellemare in Brockville last Wednesday as each line member netted a pair of goals to lead Char-Lan to an 8-5 win over the Tikis.

Brockville had a 5-1 lead after 20 minutes but the Rebels sprung to life in the second period with four unanswered goals before adding three more tallies in the third.

Dan Desjardins and Rob Curran also scored for Char-Lan on the night.

Brandon Allan and John Hunt each scored twice for the Tikis with Jason Hawkins adding a single.

Goaltender Jeff Cicchini made his first start with the Rebels after signing the week before and earned the victory.

73's overwhelmed

In Williamstown on Saturday, the Rebels played a near-perfect game in defeating the last-place Kemptville 73's 7-1.

Char-Lan was dominant in a five-on-five situation and the margin of victory would have been much bigger had it not been for the excellent work of 73's netminder Dominic Cuglietta.

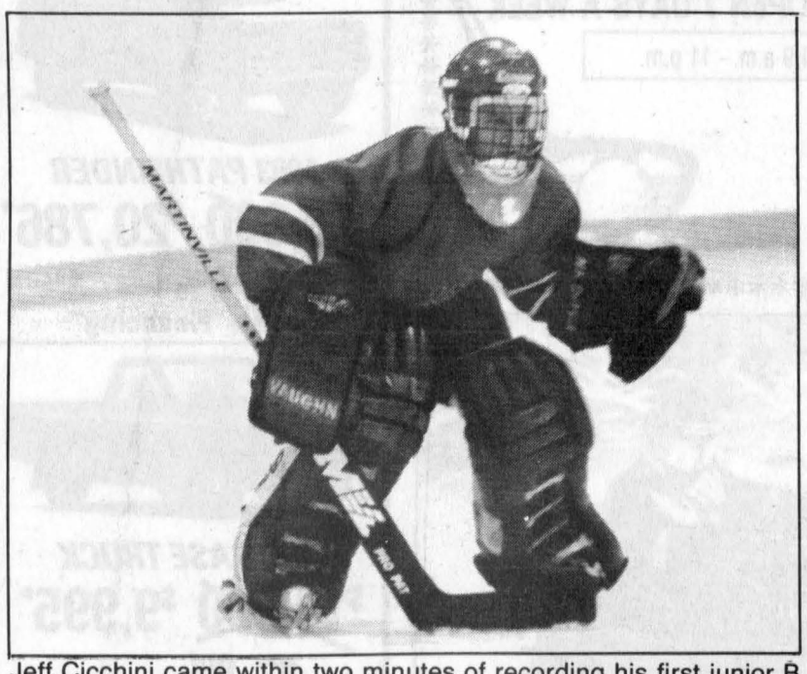
CHAR-LAN Rebels JR "B" HOCKEY CLUB

Both teams were brutal on the power play as the 73's were scoreless in nine opportunities while the Rebels whiffed on all 11 of their man-advantage chances.

Mads Pedersen scored twice to lead Char-Lan's offence while Marc Bellemare, Pete St.Jean, Dan Desjardins, Adam Morris and Rob Curran each added a single.

Rob Gavallicki scored with 1:52 to spoil Jeff Cicchini's bid for a shutout.

An interesting sidelight to Saturday's game was the matchup between Char- Lan head coach Philip Brown and older brother Allister, who recently signed on as an assistant to Kemptville bench boss Bill Holmes.



Jeff Cicchini came within two minutes of recording his first junior B shutout against Kemptville on Saturday.

Coaching obviously runs in the Brown family blood as another brother, Newell, is the pilot for the American Hockey League's Adirondack Red Wings while sister Trish - Philip's twin - is a high school basketball coach at Cornwall Collegiate.

Tight one in Winchester

It appeared that the Winchester Hawks and the Rebels would need a shootout to decide their Sunday meeting, but Marc Bellemare backhander beat Duane Hoey with six seconds left in overtime to give Char-Lan a 5-4 victory.

It was Bellemare's second goal of the game and his 18th of the season. Rob Curran scored once and has now connected in four consecutive games for Char- Lan. Dan Desjardins extended his goalscoring streak to three games while Denis St.Jean fired in his 26th of the year.

Scorers for the Hawks were Dereck Holmes, Bruce Cameron, Mike McCabe and Derek Brannen.

Brett Thompson made 36 stops in picking up the win in nets for Char-Lan.

Rebel Yells: St.Hubert players of the game on Saturday were Mads Pedersen and Jeff Cicchini. The Chumps Road Warrior in Winchester was defenceman Bobby Bowles...Adam Morris has left the Rebels to sign with the Cornwall Colts of the Central League, where he played briefly at the end of last season. Morris is the Rebels' fifth-leading goalscorer and point- getter...Chad Duguay has been released and will now suit up for the "AA" Seaway Valley midgets. Evan Thompson, a Cornwall Island resident who played with the Seaway Valley bantams last season, has been signed by the Rebs after being released by the Colts...Cory Maxam has been traded from the Colts to the Brockville Braves, ending speculation that he would rejoin the Rebels...Rebel grad and longtime captain Greg Wylie attended Saturday's game against the 73's...As mentioned, the Rebs are in Morrisburg on Friday and at home to Alexandria on Saturday.

Junior B school days

Rebels mixing pucks and books

By J.L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

Junior hockey is a challenging endeavor that requires a lot of devotion, discipline and hard work from those hoping to succeed at it.

The same can be said for those pursuing university studies.

At first glance, the two elements wouldn't appear to mix very well, but three members of the Char-Lan Jr. B Rebels are part of that group trying to pull off the treacherous balancing act.

Some, like forward Terry O'Farrell have little difficulty in combining their schooling with hockey.

"I've always been a pretty good time manager so I haven't found it too hard," said O'Farrell, who is a first-year science student at the University of Ottawa.

O'Farrell's week consists of 27.5 hours of lectures, labs and study groups and his course load includes such killer subjects as anatomy, algebra, chemistry, computers and physics.

It's not as if the Char-Lan District High School grad is just sliding by either - he recently aced his algebra mid-term.

It's no wonder that Char-Lan head coach Philip Brown recently referred to his winger as "the Randy Gregg of the Rebels." Gregg was a full-fledged medical doctor as well as a solid defenceman for the Edmonton Oilers during their dynasty years in the 1980's.

While hockey hasn't been a detriment to the educational portion of O'Farrell's life at Ottawa U., all those weekends spent in arenas around the Jr. B league do take their toll.

"You miss out on the social part of university life. For example, I wasn't able to go to the Panda Game this year," said O'Farrell, referring to the annual football grudge match between Ottawa and crosstown rival Carleton which also serves as the social highlight of the year for both schools.

"But it was the same in high school because we were away almost every weekend. It doesn't really bother me too much because I'm not much of a party person anyway."

Bowles, Curran also hit the books

In addition to "Doctor" O'Farrell, centreman Robert Curran and defenceman Bobby Bowles also travel back and forth from the Nation's Capital to play for the Rebels.

Bowles attends Carleton University while Curran is engaged in part-time studies at both Carleton and Ottawa.

Curran, who played with the junior A Nepean Raiders last season, almost abandoned hockey altogether this year.

"I didn't think I was going to play hockey at all," he said. "I had some personal problems and I didn't think I could handle that, plus school, plus being on the ice every day (with the Raiders)."

The less demanding schedule at the junior B level — the Rebels only practice once a week - proved to be the ideal way for the Martintown resident to continue his hockey career.

"It's a lot less stressful this year," said Curran. "The travel is not as bad in junior B as it was with Nepean last year. I remember coming back from Pembroke at two o'clock in the morning. I found it very hard to get up for my class the next day."

For his part, Bowles is juggling university and hockey for the second year in a row and he's finding the going much smoother this time around.

"Last year was tough. I barely went to practice because I had a late-afternoon class on our practice day," said the Bainsville native. "Also, I'd get back to Ottawa pretty late when the Rebels played on a Sunday and I had a class on Monday morning."

Despite the difficulties he encountered, Bowles never had any serious doubts about returning to Williamstown for his overage season.

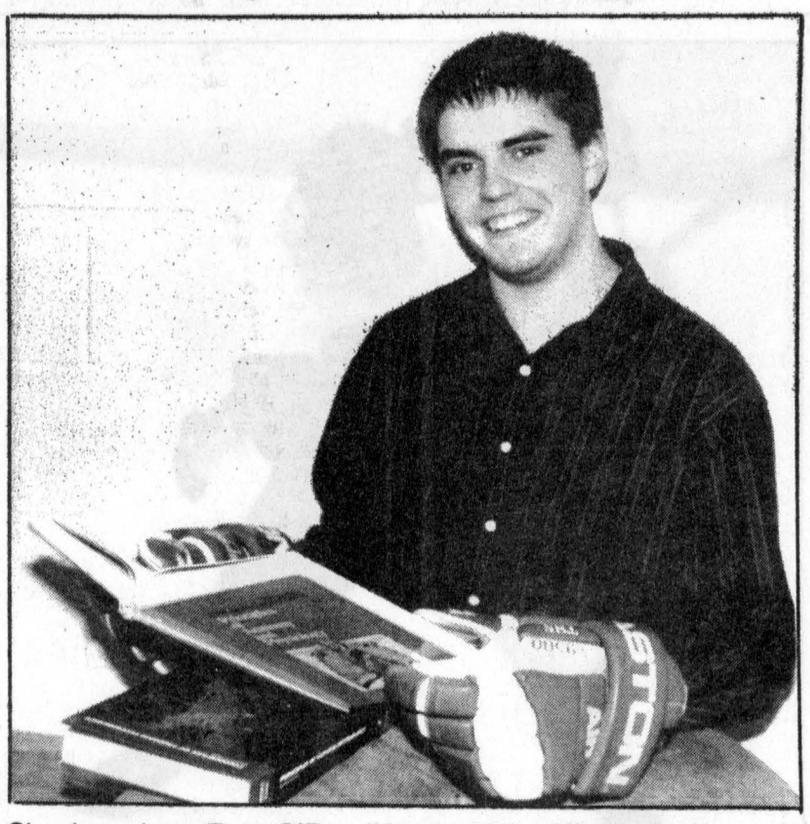
"My grades could have been better last year (without hockey) but I knew I was going to come back with the Rebels. Things are going a lot better this year."

For one thing, Bowles has a much friendlier schedule this year and he's able to attend practice on a regular basis. Not coincidentally, the Bainsville Bomber is enjoying what could be the best season of his career.

In fact, all three of Char-Lan's student-athletes are key members of a team that has earned straight A's so far in the 1993-94 season.

Bowles is the team's top scoring defenceman while Curran and O'Farrell play together on a line that is expected to contribute at both ends of the ice. Curran is fourth on the team in goals while Bowles and O'Farrell both serve as alternate captains.

The trio will have to continue to make big-time contributions if the Rebels hope to extend their season to the end of the university year in early April.



Char-Lan winger Terry O'Farrell has had little difficulty getting a grip on his first-year science studies at the University of Ottawa while continuing his junior B career. O'Farrell is one of three Rebels attending university in the Nation's Capital.

Stars sink C-L U2's

Alain Decoste, Brian Cameron and Steve Watt each scored three goals on Monday night as the Glengarry Stars trounced the Char-Lan U2's 13-1 in Williamstown on Monday during the opening night of the Char-Lan Indoor Soccer League regular season.

Victor Denobriga had two goals for the Stars while Scott McPherson and Daniel Steiche rounded out the scoring with singles.

Kirk Wallace replied for the U2's, who folded following the game.

Several U2 players will be joining the Avonmore Warriors, another undermanned club that suffered a lopsided loss on Monday.

The Warriors were drubbed 7-1 by Rudi Payer Sport as Greg Deschamps led the winners with a hat trick.

Pat Clarke and Bruce Mitton each netted a pair for Rudi's while Guy Carriere replied with the only score for Avonmore.

In the other opening night game, the SDG Nomads scored early in the second half to take a 2-1 lead over the Williamstown Thunder, but the league's newest club replied with four consecutive goals to take a 5-2 victory.

Brian Deschamps - Greg's younger brother - scored a hat trick for the Thunder while Garry Benson and Ben Pregent picked up singles.

Les Bradshaw and Cyril Dixon scored for the Nomads.

As a result of the reduction of teams in the CLISL from six to five, clubs will have to take turns playing twice on Monday nights.

Next week's slate of games now looks as follows: Williamstown vs. Avonmore (7 p.m.), Glengarry Stars vs. Williamstown (8 p.m.) and SDG Nomads vs. Rudi's (9 p.m.).

Minor Rebs beat up on Kemptville

It was a bad week for Kemptville hockey teams in action against Char-Lan this past week.

In addition to a loss by the Kemptville Jr. B 73's to the Rebels last Saturday, the minor league Royals lost games to Char-Lan at several different age levels.

The midgets, for example, handed Kemptville a 5-4 loss as Marty McDonell, Steve Gareau, Craig Hopkins, Jason Corput and Scott Giroux each scored once.

On the bantam level, Char-Lan came up with a 3-2 win over the Royals as Kent McDonell scored twice. James Nichol also scored for the winners.

The bantams also skated to an 8-8 tie against Cornwall as Jason Bacon notched four goals for the Rebels.

Johnny Primeau scored a pair while Brad Reid and Darryl Knight added singles.

Novices, peewees

The peewees notched a pair of victories, including a 2-1 decision over Kemptville.

Derek Wereley and Luc Lapierre scored for Char-Lan.

Wereley scored three times and Chuck Leclair added a pair as the peewees whipped South Stormont 8-2. Chris Reasbeck, Dean Fraser and Eric Dube also scored.

In novice play, Timothy Owens, Leo Dignard and Devin Bancroft each scored in Char-Lan's 3-1 win over Morrisburg.

Caley Campbell scored as the Rebels tied the Lions 1-1 in the first game of the home-and-home series with Morrisburg.

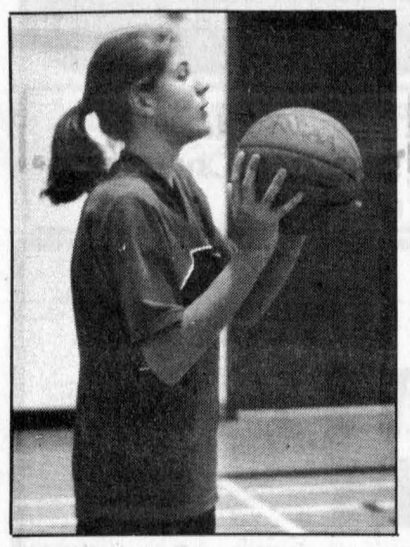
Midgets salvage Gaels pride at SLHS

The Glengarry girls midget team prevented a clean sweep by the host St.Lawrence Saints as the two schools clashed in SDG basketball competition last Wednesday.

The midget Gaels earned their sixth win in seven tries by dumping the Saints 24-9.

Tammy MacSweyn led Glengarry's attack with 10 points while Kathy Kennedy added four.

The Gaels have already clinched a playoff spot and will host a semi-final next Tuesday. Glengarry is the defending midget champion in the United Counties.



Wendi Lawson won her personal battle with Shannon Burke by outscoring the Saints' star 12-9.

Saints too strong

As expected, the undefeated St.Lawrence seniors had little trouble in disposing of their Glengarry counterparts as the Saints took a 69-30 decision.

Glengarry did a good job of containing the Saints' big stars Genevieve Lukenda and Shannon Burke - Wendi Lawson and Julie Aube were responsible for guarding the duo and the Gaels' twosome actually outscored their opponents 21- 19 - but the Saints' other players took up the slack.

Three of St.Lawrence's lesser-known players - Jennifer Fullerton, Andrea Wolfe and Bela Kovach - each reached double figures.

Despite the loss, the senior Gaels still have a shot at the playoffs but they'll need a win in North Dundas today.

On Saturday, the seniors travelled to Brockville where they took second place honors at the Brockville Collegiate Tournament.

The Gaels split their preliminary round games - losing to North Grenville and beating St.John's - before losing to North Grenville in the final.

Juniors lose

The Glengarry juniors missed out on an opportunity to clinch a playoff spot by losing 22-18 to St.Lawrence.

Jacinda Rudolph led Glengarry's scorers with six points while Rachel Denner had four.

On Monday, the junior Gaels were routed 43-7 in an exhibition game against the VCI Rebels. Elysa Keyes had three points for Glengarry.

Alexandria captain Randy Gebbie tries to beat Gananoque netminder Lee Green during second-period action of the Jr. B contest between the Glens and the Islanders last Friday. Gebbie didn't score here but he did pick up six assists in an 11-9 Alexandria win.

Glens win in Westport

Alexandria extended its winning streak to five games with a 7-3 victory in Westport on Sunday afternoon.

Although Westport did score the first goal of the game, the Glens didn't have to resort to one of their dramatic comebacks to pull this one out as Pascal Joanette scored twice as part of Alexandria's five-goal outburst in the second period.

Richard Hutt, Craig Villeneuve, Dennis Dodd, Carl Bougie and Mike Closs each scored once for Alexandria while Pascal Gasse made his debut between the pipes for Alexandria and picked up his first win of the season with a 31-save performance.

Mike Gray scored twice for the Rideaus while Mike Prevost added a single.

Glenformation: Randy Gebbie had six assists on Friday night and has collected 13 helpers in his last two home games...In only his second game back from a bruised shoulder, Martin Boisvenue went down again on Friday after getting cross-checked from behind. Boisvenue had to be taken off the ice on a stretcher and missed Sunday's game in Westport. Patrick Collin injured his ankle against Gananoque and he also sat out the Westport game...David Murree, Jason Murree and Patrick Cadieux were others not making the trip to Westport. Cadieux and Craig Villeneuve did not play Friday...Alexandria midget Jeff Gebbie suited up as an affiliated player in Cadieux's absence against the Islanders...Dagan Kay played his first game of the season on Sunday...Alexandria is in Williamstown on Saturday to play the Rebels while the Morrisburg Lions are in town on Sunday.

Seaway conquers Char-Lan hoopsters

The Seaway Spartans came into Williamstown for a girls' high school basketball triple-header aaginst the Char-Lan Crusaders last Thursday and the visitors made a clean sweep of the affair, winning the midget, junior and senior contests.

The senior matchup was a particularly interesting affair as longtime Char- Lan coach Irv Francis returned as the Seaway bench boss and helped guide the senior Spartans to a 33-26 win.

The Crusaders led 20-15 at halftime but the absence of Katharine MacLachlan - who is currently serving a school-imposed suspension - and foul trouble by Vicky Peacey took its toll in the second half as Seaway outscored Char-Lan 18- 6.

Joanne Legault led Char-Lan scorers with 10 points while Peacey and Kelly Lariviere each added six. Lisa Sloan's four points rounded out Char-Lan's scoring.

Spartans Spear juniors

Sharon Spear scored a dozen points as Seaway defeated Char-Lan 30-22 in the junior game.

Tracy Irven added seven points for the Spartans while Shonna Atchison and Michelle Owen each scored six to lead the Crusaders.

Seaway started the triple-header sweep by defeating Char-Lan in the midget contest.

UNIQUE PROPERTY COVERAGES FOR GLENGARRY'S 55-PLUS RESIDENTS

Masson Insurance Brokers Limited joins forces with Boreal, previously Laurentian General, in a bold initiative to launch the Blue Chip Property Policy, an insurance program designed for the 55-Plus clientele.

"Glengarry's mature consumers look for personalized service and a quality product. Like any other customer, they also want their money's worth," says Ron Masson of Masson Insurance. "Furthermore, these people are doers, travelling extensively and leading busy lives. They have long been looking for an insurance program that takes their active lifestyles into account. With the Blue Chip Program, an insurance company has finally answered these needs by offering benefits such as Preferred Vision Services membership and international travel assistance, at no extra cost."

The Blue Chip Insurance Program, distributed by Masson Insurance Brokers Limited, offers Boreal Insurance's regular property insurance policies with enhanced coverages and services, all for the same price. Blue Chip policyholders will have access to, among other things, broader coverages, a deductible waiver, and a 24-hours a day/7 days-a-week claims hotline. "It's the answer to Glengarry's smart insurance shopper's needs", concluded Masson.

Farmers look to milk free trade for a profit

The Glengarry Farmer
by Ian Cumming
347-2949

Ian Cumming will be writing this monthly column principally about people and issues involving the Glengarry agricultural scene. He owns a dairy farm at R.R. #2, Williamstown with his wife Dorothy. Ian invites readers to comment on his column, and to call him with ideas for future pieces.

The hot gossip surrounding Paul Meldrum cashing in his milk quota and moving his cows south of the border, sparked both outrage and joy among local dairymen this year. These diverse reactions however stemmed from the exact same dark subconscious knowledge, all dairymen share, about our industry's stagnant pathetic state. The Valley Farmer television host's business action, highlighted this dramatically.

In our house, Dorothy and I had neither of these reactions but rather a deep understanding with a twinge of sadness. Paul joined a growing list of talented dairy friends who have, and are about to, head south of the border taking advantage of laws in the Free Trade Agreement.

Meldrum and his family have moved their cows into a rented barn near Chateguay, N.Y., maintaining their Canadian farm for heifers and crops. They have taken advantage of the B-1 treaty investor program which allows them to own and manage the business in the U.S. but not to do the actual physical work. While that suits their situation, other farmers are owning and leasing (keeping their Canadian farms and benefits) through the E-2 Treaty Investor program in the Free Trade Agreement. This allows a dairyman and his family plus any present employees to work either side of the border. All applications are decided on an individual basis.

"It was strictly a business decision" Meldrum told me; and if one sits with a calculator and punches out figures you soon realize it's a great one. If one takes the hypothetical scenario of a small farmer with a $300,000 quota and a $200,000 debt cashing in their quota and setting up in the U.S., in a rented facility; the results are astounding!

They can pay off their debt and begin milking 125 cows south of the border, keeping their Canadian farm. Haylage costs delivered in the silo run $32 U.S. a ton and $20 a ton for corn silage without owning land or machinery. The costs of hay, high-moisture corn and top dress are similar to here.

Under this scenario putting the milk price at a doomsday $2.50 a hundred LESS than what Meldrum receives; one would get a monthly milk cheque of $23,000 U.S. with all feed delivered to milk cows costing $8,500.

The $300,000 tied up in quota this side of the border runs you a milk cheque of $8,500-$9,000 Cdn. with ALL bills still to pay. Oh yes, in Canada a debt to service of $7,500 a cow — U.S. possibly $300 per cow in an operating loan.

Just has the CAP program in Europe, with its bureaucracy and corruption perpetuated wealth to the established, and stymied the ambitious and talented — causing them to cash in and immigrate here — so the OMMB policies are doing the same to our rural community! We have warmly received and appreciated the positive influence of people immigrating to our farming community — thus we should not scorn the people emigrating for exactly the same reasons; but rather scorn the decision makers who created the problem.

"The hammer is dropping on the small dairy farm" Hastings ag rep Dave Little told me. "People with small operations have to realize that their milk cheques will only be part of their income; or they have to move to the United States to get an operation viable and large enough. Any New York county agents I've talked to," he said, "report that immigrant Canadian farmers are doing quite well and feel they've made the right decision."

The U.S. economist John Kenneth Galbraith's recent book Politics of The Contented aptly phrases what runs our dairy industry. Quota expansion at $13-$16,000 a cow is only possible to those who have money or are able to get money with a fortune in collateral. The young and talented need not apply.

If that was the case several years ago, not one of us under 40 who has started our own operations would be farming today. Before we all flee the stench shouldn't we grab the shovels and clean out the barn?

Glengarry District HS honors non-graduating students at annual awards evening Oct. 27

Glengarry District High School honored its top non-graduating students of 1992-93 at its annual awards evening on Oct. 27.

Guest speaker for the evening was Joe Banks, publisher of the Glengarry News. Mr. Banks told of some of his experiences as a student and how he entered the newspaper business. He explained that "the story of newspapers these days is the story of change. These changes have cost many jobs. Newspapers are having to find new ways to attract readers who have diverse need for information. In a few years newspapers will be expected to provide electronic versions of their publication because cheap computers in every home with modems will demand it."

Students with the top marks in each subject were presented with plaques.

Caring for Life
By Dr. George McKiel

V.O.N.

VON CANADA

The thing I like most about VON:

- The tradition — being part of something started in 1897.
- The charitable, non-profit aspect of VON.
- The volunteers — board members, service volunteers, and staff who volunteer their time and talents for community, projects, trade shows, etc.
- The flexibility of being part of non-government agency who can respond to community needs.

The thing I like most about community nursing:
"I have always enjoyed nursing people in their own environment, their homes. We are the guests (in hospitals it is medical professions turf!) and I believe it puts the clients in charge of their care, and their lives. I like it that way — we get more co-operation and more compliance".

New directions for VON

1. Visiting Nursing:
   RN's are getting into more "High tech" nursing in the home
   - IV or intravenous infusions
   - peritoneal dialysis
   - palliative care — clients choosing to die at home
   - tracheostomies
   - NG (Nasal-gastric) tubes feedings
   - infusion pumps including pain pumps
   - chemotherapy
   - MSA, (Multi Service Agency) the new body, to be in place by '95 providing a one-call service for all health care.
   - specialized footcare.

   The increased use of RNA's in the home so that the most appropriate person is doing the care.
2. Occupation Health Nursing. A new, exciting area for VON and this Branch.
3. Home Support program in Dundas (Winchester) offering transportation, friendly visiting, home maintenance, meals on wheels and other services to be developed once the Senior Centre is built (hopefully this summer).

In Memoriam

MacRAE (nee Gagnier) — In memory of a dear daughter and sister, Lucille, who left us November 15, 1989.
When family ties are broken,
And loved ones have to part,
It leaves a wound that never heals,
And also broken hearts.
She had a smile for all, a heart of gold,
Never selfish, always kind.
— We miss you Lucille, Mom and family.

BELLEFEUILLE, Marie-Louise — In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away a year ago November 11, 1993.
There comes a time in our lives
A time that makes us cry,
When someone we love so much
Must go away and die.
But there will come a day
When God will make us understand
Why our mother was called away
In that holy, happy land.
—Sadly missed and forever loved, the Bellefeuille family. 45-1p

LALONDE — In loving memory of Ambrose (Bid) Lalonde who passed away November 13, 1992.
Please Lord, forgive a silent tear,
A constant wish my Dad was here.
For I lost a father with a heart of gold
Who meant more to me than could be told.
His life was unselfish, for others he lived;
Not for what he received, but for what he coulc give.
Please God, give a message to my father,
Tell him how proud I am to be his daughter.
—Sadly missed by daughter, Bernyce.

LALONDE — In loving memory of a dear father and father-in-law, Ambrose Lalonde, who passed away Nov. 13, 1992.
Please God forgive a silent tear,
A constant wish our precious Dad was here,
For we lost a father with a heart of pure gold,
Who meant more to us than wealth untold.
His life was unselfish,
For others he lived,
Not for what he received,
But for what he could give.
And if red roses bloom in heaven,
Please pick a bouquet for us,
Place them in our father's arms,
And tell him they are from us.
Please God take a message
To our father in heaven above,
Tell him how much we miss him,
And God give him our love.
—Always remembered by Guy and Ruth.

LALONDE — In loving memory of my dear husband "Bid" who passed away on Nov. 13, 1992.
I remember the day I met you,
The day God made you mine,
I remember the day he took you,
I will 'til the end of time.
One thing makes me glad,
You chose me to share with you,
Those precious years we had.
Your smile is gone forever,
Your hands I cannot touch,
But I have many memories,
Of the one I loved so much.
These memories are my keepsake,
With which I never part,
God has you in his keeping,
And I have you in my heart.
—Sadly missed by wife Pearle.

KEMP Louis — In loving memory of a dear father, father-in-law and grandfather who passed away Nov. 16, 1990.
There's a family who misses you dearly,
In a home where you used to be,
There's a family who wanted to keep you,
But God willed it not to be.
You left many happy memories,
And a sorrow too great to be told,
But to us who loved and lost you,
Your memory will never grow old.
You could not say goodbye to us,
Perhaps it's just as well,
For we could never say goodbye,
To the one we loved so well.
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone,
For part of us went with you,
The day you were called home.
—Love you always, Susan, Donnie, Scott, Joanne, Tamara and Mike. 45-1p

BLANEY — In loving memory of Doris Blaney, who passed away November 13, 1988.
Softly the leaves of memory fall,
Gently we gather and treasure them all,
Unseen, unheard, you are always near,
So loved, so missed, so very dear.
Deep in our hearts your memory is kept,
We loved you too dearly to ever forget.
—Love always Charles, family and grandchildren. 45-1p

Clan MacLeod holds annual meeting and supper

The evening's program consisted of violin music by Ian and Darrel MacLeod and Pat Kelly. Step dancing by Ashley MacLeod, singing by Fiona Fraser, Brad and Ashley MacLeod, Kenton and Kayla McBean.

The children sang a Gaelic song "Chi Mi Na Mor-Bheanna" led by Fiona Fraser.

The Highland trophy competitions were held with judging by Carol MacLeod.

The winner of the senior, the Isabel MacLeod trophy, was won by Lauren MacPherson.

In the junior competition, the Farquhar MacLeod trophy was won by Shane Kelly and the runnerup Ashley MacLeod.

An exciting feature was the drawing for a Scotch Thistle quilt. The lucky winner was Ralph Olney of Carievale, Saskatchewan.

A short meeting was centred around plans for 1994, the 200th Pioneer anniversary, to be held in Maxville on July 21 to the 24.

REMEMBRANCE DAY
BYLAW 84-07

WHEREAS THE VILLAGE OF MAXVILLE has passed a resolution dated April 17, 1984 that would allow for the passing of a bylaw to provide "Three Hours to remember on every November 11, Remembrance Day."

AND THAT during these three hours from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. all places of business will close and that all commercial activity will cease in order to allow all residents the time to attend service at the cenotaph or to remember those who gave their lives in time of war, in any way they choose.

AND THAT the intent of this bylaw is not to create another holiday but to provide a very meaningful opportunity to pay respect.

AND THAT this Council invite our neighbouring Municipalities and all Municipal Councils to join us in a long overdue exercise that will ensure that a part of Remembrance Day is observed in a manner in which it was intended.

Father David departs Glen Nevis

North Lancaster
Bernadette Campeau
347-2572

Last weekend, the parishioners of St. Margaret of Scotland heard Father David Ostler say his goodbyes as he is being transferred to Long Sault and Ingleside area.

He said he was happy to have lived among Glen Nevis people and praised his parishioners for being very united. He noted how they capably took responsibility and that volunteer help was abundant for a small parish.

Diane Roy and Ian MacLeod read an address after mass telling the pastor how we were thankful to God for having known him although only a few short years. They offered good wishes of happiness, health and peace.

After mass on Saturday night everyone gathered at the presbytery where food and conversation was plentiful. We wish him well and will certainly miss him.

The North Lancaster Girl Guides participated in last week's blood donor clinic at Glengarry District High School. Each of the 11 guides took one donor (mom, dad, whoever) to the clinic which was a new experience for a few. A badge was earned by this good deed.

Brownies visit Dalkeith studio

Green Valley
Margo Pepin
525-3581

The UCFO held its monthly meeting on Nov. 3 and President Jocelyn Overbury welcomed everyone.

A review was given of Folies D'Automne and everyone was quite satisfied and are pleased with all merchants who donated gifts.

Two grocery baskets winners were Marguerite Lajoie and Thérèse Lortie. Our quilt draw winner was Rosa Beriault and second prize of $50 was Cher Lajoie of Hull, Quebec.

The evening continued with preparations for our next meeting which will be our Christmas supper party.

Lucie Dumouchel won the craft prize, prix gros lot was Rose Lajoie, door prizes were won by Rollande Decoeur and Margo Pepin.

Brownie News

The Green Valley Brownies had a very enjoyable visit on Saturday, Oct. 30 at the studio of Mr. Bush of Dalkeith.

They found it very interesting to watch him practising his art of glass blowing. They watched in awe as they saw vases, candy dishes and other articles being made.

On Thursday, Oct. 28 they had their Halloween party with all the usual fun and games.

They all looked very nice in their Halloween outfits, but they didn't forget others and made witch tray favors for their "meals on wheels" friends.

The Brownies next big event will be the enrolment of the new Brownies, then before we know it, it will be Christmas with more fun and games and good turns for those less fortunate than ourselves.

The blood donor clinic held on Thursday, Nov. 4 was quite a beehive of activity. I went around 6:30 p.m. and people were waiting in line to give blood even the girl guides took part helping out. This earned each of them badges.

With the Christmas holidays just around the corner usually more blood is needed because of accidents, but we all know car accidents happen anytime so please be careful, the life you save may be your own.

Birthday wishes going out to Stephane Yates, Darquise Deguire, Nov. 9; Darquise Menard, John Yates, Nov. 12; Simon A. Menard on Nov. 13.

Staff report review complaints about civic address system sent to committee

A staff report to review the present civic address system bylaw in Charlottenburgh will be sent to the municipality's fire committee for recommendations and/or concurrence.

The report states that since the bylaw's implementation in June, 1991, "the municipality has received comments about the appearance of the sign, the placement of the sign and how it affects the aesthetics of the resident's property."

Residents have also apparently requested an alternative to the present sign.

A list of eight clauses to be considered for inclusion in the proposed amended bylaw were listed in the staff report, prepared by Development Officer Dwane Crawford.

UCW told of Dutch love for Canadian soldiers

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

The regular monthly meeting of the Glen Sandfield UCW met at the home of Nancy Campbell on Nov. 3.

Eleanor Bickerstaff and Christina MacLachlan opened the devotional period with Remembrance in Full Flower, reading given by Mrs. Bickerstaff on the love that the people of Holland have for the Canadian servicemen who served in their country.

They hold special services throughout the year and for those who are buried on Dutch soil on D-Day.

The school children all take part every year, but never twice, so that they all get a chance to be part of the Remembrance Services. They often have a short service at each and every headstone, instead of just one at a large memorial statue.

Mrs. Bickerstaff was very moved by their devotion in keeping the graves beautifully tended, by their warmth and friendliness when they were there, a few years ago.

The Dutch people hold Canadian soldiers in high esteem as their saviors and rescuers during the war, and nothing is too good for a Canadian serviceman when he is there.

The hymn Faith of our Fathers was followed by A Trail of Poppies read by Margo MacRae.

Facts about the Canadian Legion included the information that there are 1760 branches. The drivers (called jumpers) deliver trays of poppies to schools, cadets, members, scouts and girl guides, stores and shops, etc.

The money realized by their sale goes towards the needy veterans, to help veterans' families. It is all used for the veterans in some way.

Notice was given of the upcoming in Cornwall of the AVEL Workshop. The Christmas shut-in list was read and revised, with members each having a shut-in partner.

It was decided by the group that White Gift Sunday gifts would go to Lazarus House, and the Christmas meeting would collect toilet articles for Montee D'Elle.

The treasurer's report had the group meeting all of their commitments, including several extra donations this year.

The annual meeting proceeded very quickly with reinstallation of the same slate of officers as last year. They are: President Lorna Chapman, Treasurer Margo MacRae, Secretary Nancy Campbell.

The next meeting will be at the home of Gail Kronwald on Dec. 6 at 1 p.m. This is the Christmas luncheon meeting, with each member bringing a favorite Christmas reading, or poem to share with the group.

Carols will fill up the rest of the afternoon as there will be no business that day.

McCrimmon WI will meet at the home of Mrs. Bessie Fraser on Thursday, Nov. 18 at 1 p.m.

Jamie Chapman returned home to Ville LaSalle after spending the weekend with his grandparents Bud and Lorna Chapman.

Apologies are offered to Perle Brunet and family for the error of last week in this column. Sympathy is extended on the recent passing of her brother Alcide de Bellefeuille in Valleyfield. Sorry for any inconvenience it may have caused.

It was a real thrill to be part of the choir that included many, many children from five different schools at the Highland Society's St. Andrew's concert on Friday, Nov. 5 at GDHS. The children have been learning several Gaelic songs separately, but it all came together beautifully when they got together to sing. They had never practised together either.

The program included songs by the Glengarry Gaelic Choir, solos, duets, a Wauking Song, a bit of Highland dancing, a piper, fiddlers, and several readings and funny stories in English. The program was varied and included English songs as well as Gaelic songs.

The crowd certainly seemed to enjoy the music if one goes by the enthusiastic applause at the end of each number.

Loch petition opposes yearly garbage recycling fee

A petition from Loch Garry cottagers opposes Kenyon council's decision last August to charge all residents a $36.30 yearly fee for garbage and recycling collection.

Cottagers point out they are summer residents and don't need the service for seven months of the year.

Council referred the petition to the Waste Management committee.

Councillor Gwen Morris reported, "a woman from Charlottenburgh asked me what people are upset about. She pays $167 for garbage pickup."
