Father and Son Banquet Held Monday

Featured on the program at the "Father and Son" banquet, held in the United Church Sunday School hall on Monday evening, under the auspices of the local Trail Rangers' Group, was an address by Judge J. F. McKinley, of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, Ottawa.

Introduced by F. M. Cass, M. A., leader of the Trail Rangers, Judge McKinley delivered an address which was very timely and appropriate for such an occasion as a gathering of fathers and sons. His topic was the "Relationship of Father and Sons," and he pointed out that the ideal relationship should be a partnership between them—not necessarily in business, but in the little things of life. Each should confide in the other, discuss their troubles and good fortunes; play each other's games; appreciate the companionship of one with the other, and go the limit in trying to arrive at a mutual understanding.

Judge J. F. McKinley, of the Juvenile ond Domestic Relations Court, Ottawa, who delivered an interesting address at the "Father and Son Banquet," on Monday evening.

This relationship, he said, would bring the father and son closer together, and the younger generation of boys would soon realize that they could rely on their parents for wise counsel when they were faced with the problems that often prove to be the turning point in a boy's life.

Excellent Advice

In his remarks to the sons, he offered some excellent advice, when he said, that fathers had a right to expect of them: First, upright character; second, courage, both moral and physical; third, honesty; fourth, obedience; fifth, ambition; sixth, perseverance. He urged upon them, the necessity of sticking to a job until it was completed—no matter how small or how large. Even if you do not like the job you have been given to do, stick to it until it is finished. In that way you will become master of your own mind, he said.

Continuing his remarks to the boys, he pointed out that many sons had the idea that their fathers were slow and old-fashioned. On the contrary, the speaker said, during our fathers' generation we were given the telephone, the automobile, the radio, the aeroplane and many other modern devices. Your generation will be just as progressive and you will accomplish just as much because your dads have given you the opportunity to develop their achievements.

In conclusion, he urged the boys to start life right, keep their thoughts clean and give their bodies a chance to develop.

Fine Toast List

Following the sumptuous repast, which was provided by members of the C. G. I. T., under the direction of Mrs. W. S. Atchison, the following toast-list was given, with Mr. F. M. Cass acting as toastmaster:

The King, Fred Miller; the Church, proposed by Leslie Summers and responded to by Rev. W. S. Atchison; Our Fathers, George Carlyle and Mr. Bertram Smith; Our Sons, Mr. W. J. L. Boyd and Reginald Workman; C. S. E. T., Robert Stewart and Willis Robinson; the Local Camp, Roy Hastings, of Hallville, member of the Older Boys' Parliament for Dundas County; and Edwin Boyd; Our Officers, Frankie Kellogg and Stirling Dawley; the Ladies, John Wilkins and Mrs. W. S. Atchison; Our Guests, Raymond Annable and Judge J. F. McKinley.

The toasts were interspersed with guitar, vocal and novelty numbers by Ryamond Annable, Stirling Dawley, Norbert Hutt, Frankie Kellogg, Douglas Fitsman, Ray Lannin and Fred Miller. The accompanist for the evening was Miss Luella Allison, while Mr. W. A. Rowat led in community singing.

Leader Praised

During their addresses, the fathers paid a well-deserved tribute to Mr. Cass for the efficient leadership he has offered in the training of the members of the Trail Rangers, and expressed their appreciation to him for the kindly interest he has taken in boys' work during the past year.

Other speakers during the evening were: Rev. R. D. Smith, of Morrisburg, who gave an outline of the program to be undertaken at Broder Island Boys' Camp this summer; and Reeve T. O. Keyes, who welcomed Judge McKinley to Winchester, on behalf of the citizens, and also presented medals to the following members of the Trail Rangers: Geo. Carlyle, Leslie Summers, Don. Wilkins and Edwin Boyd.

Russell Citizen Passes Suddenly

One of the best known figures in horse breeding and racing circles in Eastern Canada, Charles Eccles McCaffrey, prominent business man of Russell, died on Friday at the Ottawa Civic Hospital following an illness of two weeks' duration. Mr. McCaffrey was in his 53rd year. He was managing director of the Williams' Chemical Company, Limited, of Russell.

Widely known as a starter for harness racing events and a director of the Canadian National Trotting Association, Mr. McCaffrey's passing will be widely mourned. To all identified with racing in the Ottawa district news of his death will be a severe shock, and a great loss to the Central Canada Exhibition Association and the Lansdowne Park Driving Club which sponsored the resumption of ice harness racing in Ottawa last winter.

At one time owner of Ruth Harvester, champion standard bred mare for the Dominion, Mr. McCaffrey was widely known for his ability as a breeder and judge of horses in circles associated with the Canadian National Exhibition and the Central Canada Exhibition, as well as well as the Royal Winter Fair and the Ottawa Winter Fair.

An Anglican, Mr. McCaffrey was a prominent member of St. Mary's parish at Russell and represented the parish on the synod of the Ottawa diocese.

While his particular hobby was the breeding and showing of horses, Mr. McCaffrey found time to devote to community activities. For the last three years he was a member of Russell public school board and last year held the office of chairman of the board. For several years he was a director of the Russell Agricultural Society. He acted as starter at the Central Canada Exhibition and his advice to the directors in matters pertaining to horses was also valued.

Born At Manotick

Mr. McCaffrey was a native of Carleton county. Born at Manotick, he was a son of the late James McCaffrey and his wife, Matilda Bradley. When he was but a child the family moved to Kenmore and for the last 35 years he made his home at Russell.

His first business enterprise was traveller for Thomas Brothers, hardware firm of St. Thomas, Ont., which position he held for five years. Later he held a similar position with Walter Woods Company of Hamilton. In his capacity as a traveller he became widely known in Eastern Ontario. The Williams Chemical Co. Limited, was established by Mr. McCaffrey 27 years ago and at the time of his death he held the position of managing director of this firm.

Mr. McCaffrey's last appearance in connection with his favorite pastime, horse racing, was at the harness ice racing events in the Capital last winter. Arthur Blade, who was instrumental in promoting the event, was deeply moved when news of Mr. McCaffrey's passing reached him. "He was one of the best sportsmen it has ever been my pleasure to meet," said Mr. Blade, "and was the first man to contribute $25 towards the expenses of the meet."

Surviving besides his widow, the former Mabel Young, are one son, George, and one daughter, Helen Emily, all residing in Russell. He also leaves two sisters, Miss Olive McCaffrey and Miss Lucinda McCaffrey, both of Russell, and two brothers, Irwin of Russell and Rockliffe of Edmonton, Alta.

The funeral was held on Sunday and was widely attended by citizens from throughout Eastern Ontario. At 3 p.m. the remains were conveyed from his late residence to St. Mary's Anglican church, where the rector, Rev. R. J. H. Turley conducted a most impressive service. Interment was made in the parish cemetery.

Many Fined In Local Magistrate's Court

Cases disposed of by Magistrate John McCormick in local Police Court Monday, were as follows: Lawrence Hummel, of Chesterville, charged with driving a tractor on the public highway, the noise of which frightened a horse, fined $5.00 and costs of $4.60; Norman E. Carter, of Ottawa, for failing to produce an operator's permit, fined $1.00 and costs of $3.50; Kenneth Stacey, of Brockville, two charges, not having a driver's permit and driving a car on the highway without sufficient lights, fined $10.00 and costs on the first charge and $1.00 and costs on the second; Carroll Masseau, of Ottawa, speeding at 70 miles per hour, fined $10.00 and $2.50 costs; Frank I. Pratt, of Toronto, obtaining money under false pretences, fined $1.00 and $66.00 costs. Pratt, who is a man of 70 years of age, solicited orders for Masonic Library Books from Adam Froats, of Williamsburg, who paid him $21.00. That was several months ago, and the only book the buyer received was one valued at $3.00. When taking the order Pratt displayed his sales book with the Masonic ensignia, and Mr. Froats thought he was a genuine representative of the Masonic Publishing House. After writing to him regarding the order and receiving no reply, Mr. Froats notified the police. Pratt was arrested in Toronto and brought here for trial. He was confined to Cornwall jail until he received the money from friends in Toronto to pay the fine.

Ray James, of Morewood, pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated in a public place and was fined $10.00 and costs. William Moore, of Morewood, paid a fine of $10.00 and costs on a reckless driving charge.

Service will be held in St. Peter's Church, South Mountain, next Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m.

Horticultural District Meeting Held Here

Representatives from four Horticultural Societies in this district met with the Winchester Society on Monday afternoon last in the Town Hall to hear Mr. John F. Clark, the Provincial Representative, and to discuss problems in horticulture. The meeting was presided over by the District Director, Mr. J. D. Stewart.

Membership fees, garden competitions, home and rural school beautification contests and maintaining interest in the work of the Society, were some of the subjects discussed. At the suggestion of Dr. S. Merkley, a commitee was named to draft a resolution to petition our Provincial Government for prizes for this beautification scheme.

Public meetings held at frequent intervals were advocated as a means of creating and maintaining interest. For these meetings a variety of beautiful lantern slides can be obtained free. The use of local talent in these meetings was urged.

Announcement was made of the Summer District meeting on June 17th, at the Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Mr. Wm. Dickson, one of Winchester's successful gardeners, remarked the change in the appearance of the flower gardens here in the past 40 years, and he also spoke of the increase in the number of insects that destroy plants of all kinds. Mr. Clark gave a remedy for cutworms. Mr. Elliott was present to represent the King products.

Juvenile work was stressed and the sending of seeds to the North Country. Mr. Clark was thanked for his visit. Those present from Brinston, South Mountain, Chesterville and Russell entered into the discussions, making the meeting both interesting and profitable.

Light refreshments were served by members of the local Society and a social time enjoyed. A vote of thanks was given by the visitors.

NEW IMPROVED "CERESAN"

A low cost disinfectant made by Canadian Industries Limited to control smut of Wheat, Barley and Oats—and, according to those who have used it in other years "Ceresan" does practically a 100 per cent. job.

"Ceresan" has no harmful effects upon the germination of the seed but rather improves it. Nor does it affect the flow of grain in the drill or injure the drill in any way.

"Ceresan" is a dry powder, put up in 1 lb. and 5 lb. tins. This dry powder is mixed with the grain at the rate of a half ounce to a bushel of seed—a 1 lb. tin sells for $1.00 and will treat 32 bushels of seed—the 5 lb. tin sells for $3.90 and will treat 160 bushels of seed. The cost is about 2½ to 3 cents per bushel.

Grain should be treated at least 24 hours before sowing and may be treated two or three weeks ahead if desired.

American Eagle Captured At Ormond

Suspecting that a henhawk was worrying his chickens, James E. MacGregor, a farmer near Ormond, decided to set a trap in an effort to catch the bird of prey. On Friday morning last Mr. McGregor's children, while playing near the spot where the trap was located, noticed that a large bird was caught in it and rushed into the house to tell their father that the henhawk was captured.

Mr. McGregor, upon going out to investigate, was surprised to find that what the children thought to be the henhawk was really a large American eagle. The bird, which was still alive, had a wingspread of over five feet. It's claws had curved spurs, one and a half inches long, and it appeared to be quite vicious.

The presence of an eagle in this part of Canada is rare and Mr. McGregor has not yet decided what he will do with the specimen. The huge bird is at present confined to a hen-coop on the McGrgor farm.

ABOUT GREY OWL

During the past few weeks a striking controversy has arisen in many quarters over the nationality of Grey Owl, famous naturalist, whose death occurred recently, following an extended lecture tour. Some claim him to have been an Englishman, other come forward with supposed proof that he was a half-breed, while still others say that he was an Indian.

We are at a loss to understand the sense of such a controversy. Grey Owl was primarily a real man, regardless of parentage or birthplace. He devoted his life to the work of teaching other less observant individuals, the habits, characteristics and interesting mannerisms of Canadian wild life. What further need be said?

Whether or not Grey Owl was a full-blooded Indian, a half-breed or an eccentric Englishman matters little. Suffice it to say, he was a good citizen and a lover of God's great outdoors, and Canada would be a better place in which to live if we had more men just like him. Those individuals who are now ranting about the nationality of Grey Owl would be employed to much better advantage if they (in plain language) minded their own business, and allowed Canadians at large to frame their own conceptions of the famous naturalist.

A POINTED SUGGESTION

Winchester has gained the reputation of being a very attractive town. Citizens generally take a real pride in beautifying their surroundings and devote much time and energy to the development of fine lawns, shrubbery and flower beds. The local Horticultural Society lends invaluable aid in beautifying the public buildings and the result is most gratifying to citizens and visitors alike.

At the present time, however, there are a few properties that detract much from the appearanc of the town. Rubbish and debris are allowed to accumulate or remain on vacant lots and little or no effort is being made to have such unsightly material removed. There is no incentive for the progressive citizen to improve his or her property, if the adjoining lot is allowed to remain in a state of absolute and downright neglect.

We have no intention of being so unethical as to mention names in these columns, but we have in mind as we write, several properties and vacant lots that are a disgrace to this town—to say nothing of their owners. We trust that they may see fit, or be made to do something about it, that the whole town may benefit.

We appreciate the fact that some of the property owners may not be in a position to make the necessary improvements. In such cases it would be almost worth the while of the Municipal Council to have the work undertaken as a local measure for the benefit of all citizens. Such a course would, we believe, meet with general approval.

TIME TO BUCKLE DOWN!

Now that the Easter holidays are a thing of the past, students in our local schools should be getting down to the serious business of studying for the final examinations that loom but two months ahead.

In this day, too much emphasis cannot be laid on the necessity of obtaining a sound education. The recession of business in general during the past decade has placed reponsible jobs at a premium, and only those with real qualifications have much chance of forging ahead. Competition is keen and the young man or woman, standing on the threshold of a business or professional career is soon to learn that modern economy is relentless; that the slogan of the present commercial and industrial world is "fight, and may the best man win!"

Far too often the student in our schools looks upon life as a happy situation where thoughtfulness and consideration of the other fellow's interests is predominant. The student has been given great opportunities by his or her parents throughout the years. They have shouldered a minimum of worry and responsibility which is as it should be, but such a happy state will not last, once the young man or woman faces the intensely practical world. Bitter rivalry is found to exist. Every position has a swarm of applicants—and it is at this point that education plays a major role. The employer almost invariably selects a man or woman for a position according to his or her qualifications, and the only real standard at his disposal is the education or training of the various applicants.

The next two months are very important ones in the lives of local school students. We trust that parents impress that fact very firmly in the minds of their children, and that, in turn, the boys and girls realize the need for real concentration on the matters at hand. Let us have no failures in our schools this year.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"The Japanese continue to suffer heavy losses"—now isn't that just too bad.

The scourge of house-cleaning has once more descended upon the countryside—and man's life will be one of misery until "Her Ladyship" has finished with dust mop and broom.

The Daylight Saving curse is once more upon us. When are the provincial authorities going to step in and either abolish the practice entirely or enact legislation making it universal throughout the whole of Ontario?

We would advise the lady of the household not to become too enthused when she notices her husband digging lustily in the garden. His mind is far from such matters as fresh peas, corn or tomatoes—he's goin' fishin'!

Wednesday, May 4th, has been set aside locally as Clean-up Day, and citizens are urged to give their homes and surroundings a thorough "overhauling" prior to that date. During the winter months, rubbish and debris accumulates at a great rate and subsequently the dangers of fire. See to it that all inflammable material is removed from cellars, garages, attics and sheds and that tin cans and other refuse is placed in bags, boxes or other receptacles for removal next Wednesday.

Advocates of sweepstakes might study to advantage a comment of the Vancouver Sun. It puts it this way:—

There were 1,774 winners in the Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes of the Grand National. But wait, before you rush out to buy a ticket on the next race. There were 5,490,230 losers. If that takes your breath away, you can get it back with the comforting thought that total receipts were $13,730,010, and that $8,057,600 was paid out in prizes. After all, you might have won. Let's see, 1,774 into 5,492,004 goes—Oh shucks, you do it. Decimals give us a headache. But you might pin these figures up on the wall as a reminder for next tme.

MAKING THE BOUNDARY BETWEEN COUNTRIES

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

Along the German boundary France has built the most elaborate underground defense system the world ever heard of. An artist's drawing shows his conception of one section—a seven-story fortress buried under cultivated fields containing all the necessary equipment for an armed forcen engaged in war and for accommodation in time of fear and anticipation. There are subways for trains, underground garages, hospitals and stores. It is air-conditioned, provided with elevators to carry ammunition from the lowest cellar to the surface. From 80,000 to 150,000 soldiers are on constant duty in this subterranean stronghold awaiting possible attack from across the Rhine. Distributed at various stations back of the line are 300,000 other trained men ready to move forward at a moment's notice, with a mobilization possibility of 8,000,000 more.

The entire frontier contains a submerged camp prepared for immediate action in case of invasion. Beyond it is the threat from thirteen army corps, thirty-six divisions of infantry, three divisions with 650 tanks of fifteen tons each, 1,000,000 men trained and armed and 13,000,000 on call.

Such is the 200-mile boundary between France and Germany, where there is only fear, where trust is unknown.

We of the Western Hemisphere find it hard to understand. For more than a century we have presented the example of a boundary 4,000 miles long without a gun, a battleship, or a company of militia, and without a dispute that could not be settled around the conference table.

Perhaps to some European nations the peoples of Canada and the United States are living in a fool's paradise. It is true, not in the sense that they have any reason to fear each other, but to the extent that they are not making the unarmed invisible boundary line the symbol of strength it should be against the menace of potential enemies. The Western Hemisphere cannot trust the aggressor nations more than their immediate neighbors.

For this reason we welcome the suggestion of the New York Daily News that Canada and the United States should demonstrate to the world the importance of their friendship. It is in line with a proposal made in this paper a few weeks ago that the British Empire and the States unite in a formal declaration of defense policy.

The News would have the two countries enter into an agreement whereby each would assist the other in case of attack, laying down terms of co-operation, The division of responsibility would be unequal, because, as the News points out, Canada has only a handful of small naval vessels. We could at least contribute in proportion to population. We might prove valuable, indeed in guarding the outer door of the continent against the enemy. Inasmuch as Canada is vulnerable, a pooling of defense would ensure the most effective protection for both countries.

The character of the coastline would probably make it necessary to co-operate in any event. The Alaska panhandle overlaps half of British Columbia. While the broad St. Lawrence is in Canadian territory it leads to the United States shore. The latter is more likely to be attacked through this country than directly.

Apart from this, however, the knowledge that a mutual defense treaty existed would be effective in preventing an assault on either country.

There remains the moral of the unarmed boundary. If Europe doesn't get its meaning a treaty of co-operation should help to bring the lesson home. France has spent a large part of its $12,000,000,000 defense appropriations on the Maginot line and its auxiliaries. In this continent we spend nothing on boundary defense and might well, in the words of the News, drive some rivets into our friendship as further proof that the boundary is safe, and both nations are committed to the preservation of peace.

REVIVAL OF A PARTY

(Collingwood Enterprise-Bulletin)

Mr. J. R. Hale, of the Orillia Packet-Times, attended the Rowe banquet in Barrie and on going home, in a two column article, asks, What is the matter with the Liberal-Conservative party? Frankly, we do not know. Neither, apparently, does Mr. Hale, yet he believes that through an exhaustive investigation he has unearthed some of the causes for its present unsatisfactory position. He finds a departure from the old time "follow the leader" practice on the part of the masses with which, however, he does not quarrel. He also sees a tendency on the part of leaders to "angle for the radical element amongst the voters and to try to get some catchy policy which tickle the electorate" which, he says, is forgetting the principles on which the party is based. He finds that "there is a feeling that the leadership is flavored too much with the Toronto viewpoint and atmosphere" which goes for all parties. Further, he finds that the practice of always being opposed to the government is erroneous and detrimental to the best interest of a political party. In this connection he cites the Conservative provincial leader's attitude toward the C. I. O. in respect to which he adds that he knows Mr. Rowe was plainly told he was "in dutch."

In concluding his interesting analysis, Mr. Hale says there must be more co-operation between leaders and party, and the avoidance of rifts such as followed the adoption by the leaders of government control, which, he says, caused thousands of Conservatives to swing away and not come back, the approval of sweepstakes by the House leader which shocked more thousands of real Conservatives and finally, the attempt of the present provincial leader to continue a dual role, which he says, has so "shaken the invincible position he has held in his riding" as to give rise to doubt in the mind of "faithful stalwart Conservatives in his riding who question if he could hold the constituency if the tide in the Dominion was not flowing hard towards the Conservatives."

Being a Conservative, who has been on the "inside" for years, Mr. Hale's deductions cannot but be worthy of consideration by party heads. While he does not give an out and out solution of the problem he points in no uncertain manner to the weaknesses of the past and present, which will have to be overcome ere the Conservative party is so revived as to again take its place in the government of Canada. "Catchy policies," he states, are of doubtful value in winning the mind of the electorate. Once in awhile they may win, but the odds are greatly against their adoption as a general practice.

A trio of dogs and nine cats which the late Mrs. Kathleen Voight of Los Angeles said "never tired" of her, were remembered when she bequeathed $1,200 maintenance money. Mrs. Voight's will was filed for probate, disposing of an $18,500 estate. Mrs. Voight wrote of her pets in the document: "They have been my faithful friends in my lonely hours."

Paper money of large denominations is gradually disappearing, says Washington. Some people must be hoarding $1,000 bills, Treasury officials said. Most denominations of currency declined in circulation last year, but the "grands" increased $23,000,000 worth to $288,000,000. That's a $1,000 bill for every 450 persons in the country. The $20 bill suffered the worst slump in usage—a drop of $26,000,000—although there were $1,475,000,000 worth still around.

"MAY COMES, DAY COMES, ONE WHO WAS AWAY COMES"

Long the year and long the year, but winter now has passed again
With his snows and with his storms, with his frost and cold.
The melting of his icy heart was slow, but now at last again
Spring has come, and oh, she is as lovely as of old!

May comes, and earth is glad again. Early comes the morning,
Slopping up above the hills with laughter in her face.
All the yellow dandelions are gems for her adorning;
Windflowers and buttercups are jewels for her grace.

Day comes and scatters golden light; larks break a-singing;
Earth is green with grass blades; heaven is blue with wings;
Every child is dancing about the merry Maypole
With feet that twinkle in the grass and a heart that sings.

One was away that comes! The spring-time! The spring-time!
Send a little prayer aloft just to say we're glad.
When the misty veils of spring are on the lilac bushes
And crocuses are bubbling up, could any heart be sad?

Think you that spring has come again to our meadows only?
Nay, to all the world she comes, clothed in pure delight.
Dew she wears at rosy dawn, and golden bees o'mornings,
Butterflies at noontime, and stars she wears at night.

She comes to Asia, Africa; to Europe and America;
Not one she misses, to all her gifts she brings.
The world is girdled with the feet of children in the springtime
Dancing in the meadows to the song the lark sings.

Children in the springtime
Dancing, dancing;
Happy is their laughter, merry is their play.
Round the pole, in and out,
Twisting, turning round about,
Listen to their joyous shout—
One who was away comes!
Darling month o' May!

—Helen Coale Crew.

DRIVING AT NIGHT

(By Molly Bevan, in The Blue Bell)

Starlit dusk and a winding road before us,
Ebony trees against a primrose sky;
Glint of water and glimpse of swaying blossom
Swiftly caught by the headlight's avid eye;
Singing winds awakened from clovery-meadows,
Whispering round us faintly sweet and cool,
And over all the sounds of night insistent
Rival cricket and frog from field and pool.

Sudden, as though to the evening's mood responding,
Voices raised in the lilting songs of old;
So did the ancient roads inspire the music
Of roaming troubadours in the Age of Gold.
Gone are the sandalled feet of the chanting pilgrims,
The leisurely caravans have vanished long,
Yet for our questing wheels remains their wisdom,
"Roads be brief when ye follow them with a song!"

VITAL STATISTICS RAISE INTERESTING QUESTIONS

Why does the death rate from one disease go up in one province and go down in another? This question will lead many other questions when one begins to analyse the vital statistics of the whole Dominion. The report of the third quarter of 1937, covering the first nine months of the year, has just been issued by Hon. W. D. Euler's Department and the figures give conclusive proof to the need of a wider knowledge of public health.

Typhoid fever is the first disease on the list with 180 deaths during the first nine months, equal to 240 for the year. That means a practical standstill for in 1936, the number was 243. The natural question here is why so many deaths when typhoid fever is supposed to be a vanishing pestilence. As contamined water and milk are the chief causes of infection, lack of sanitation and absence of milk pasteurization must have been responsible, so that it should have been possible to prevent most of these deaths. The next question that arises is why should Quebec show half of all the deaths in Canada rom typhoid fever.

Possibly the reason is that Quebec's health protection, from the standpoint of water and milk, is behind that of other provinces. This would seem to be confirmed by the mortality figures for enteritis, which carried off 3,301 persons in Canada, of whom 2,042 were in Quebec, as compared to 415 in Ontario. Of the 3,301 deaths from interitis during the first nine months, 2,425 were in the summer and of this number 1,675 were among infants under one year.

Of the diseases confined almost exclusively to children, the figures for the first nine months were measles, 643; scarlet fever, 191; whooping cough, 561; diphtheria, 211. In all of these communicable diseases Quebec's figures are again out of proportion. Why should that province lose 198 children from measles as against Ontario's 25? Why should there be 95 deaths from scarlet fever in Quebec and only 37 in Ontario; 156 from diphtheria in Quebec and only 18 in Ontario; 310 from whooping cough in Quebec and only 85 in Ontario? One reason is that Quebec's proportion of children is so much larger than that of other provinces. As to measles, Saskatchewan was worse than Quebec, per capita, having had 190 deaths. Alberta and British Columbia also had over 100 each. On the other hand, that non-preventable disease, infantile paralysis, claimed 104 victims in Ontario as against only 17 in Quebec during the first nine months of 1937.

Why should Quebec have more than twice as many tuberculosis deaths than Ontario—2,227 as against 1,040 out of a total Canadian mortality of 5,227? On the other hand, among certain adult diseases, Ontario had much the worse showing. Of 8,866 deaths from cancer in Canada, 3,374 were in Ontario, 2,260 in Quebec, 776 in British Columbia, 537 in Manitoba, 521 in Saskatchewan, 516 in Nova Sotia, 436 in Alberta, 343 in New Brunswick, and 103 in Prince Edward Island.

Why should Ontario have had nearly 45 per cent. of all the cardiac deaths in Canada? For the same reason that Quebec leads in children's diseases, Ontario has more deaths from cancer and heart diseases, having a larger proportion of the population in the advanced age section. Ontario had 8,743 deaths from diseases of the heart and arteries as against 5,237 in Quebec. Vital statistics, indeed present a wide range of problems to those interested in the progress of the race.

HINTS FOR THE FARMER

GETTING READY FOR THE LAMB CROP

Lambing time is the shepherd's harvest. It is also the time requiring the most exacting care. Everything must be in readiness for the coming of the new crop. Three or four weeks before lambing the pregnant ewe should receive better feeds in order to insure a good flow of milk for the young lambs. Alfalfa, red clover and other legumes make the best hays for breeding ewes; they are almost essential at lambing time. If they are not available, mixed hay which contains a fair amount of legume should be fed. Succulent feeds such as turnips or corn silage makes a welcome addition to the ration, but not more than one pound a day should be given as larger amounts are known to produce big, soft, labby lambs which generally die soon after birth. At this time the feeding of grain is essential. The amount necessary will vary according to size and condition of ewe. Half to three-quarters of a pound per day of a grain mixture made up of two parts oats and one part bran is generally sufficient. If mixed or non-legume hays are fed, the addition of half a part of oil meal will prove beneficial.

As lambing time approaches, and the ewes become heavy in lamb, they require more pen and feeding space. The ewes which are expected to lamb early should be separated from the main flock. This is easily done if the ram was marked at breeding time and records kept. The warmest and most comfortable pen, one receiving plenty of sunshine and free from draughts should be selected. The floor should be dry, level, and well bedded with clean straw. This lambing pen should be so equipped that individual pens can be easily made. For this purpose light, two-sided, folding hurdles four feet to the side and three feet high are very useful. By starting in the warmest corner and placing the hurdle at right angles, a complete pen is constructed with each hurdle. In this way the ewe is kept quiet and is less likely to disown her lambs. There is no danger of one lamb going astray and getting trampled on by other sheep, and special attention can be given to the ewe without disturbing the whole flock.

PREPARE FOR BEE SEASON

In the apiary the active season usually comes along with a rush, and before the beekeeper realizes it his time is fully taken up with the care of his colonies. It is too late then to remember some of the things that should have been done earlier while the bees were still dormant in their hives. Nothing can be more disappointing to the beekeeper that a heavy honey flow with too few supers for his bees to store it in. or swarms absconding for want of hives to house them. Those who are intending to import package bees this spring should have all the necessary equipment on hand and ready to house and feed the bees upon their arrival. Those who are planning to increase their colonies this summer should also prepare the necessary number of hives to take care of this increase.

It is impossible to forecast with any degree of accuracy just what the honey crop will be, but it is far safer to be prepared for a bumper crop than otherwise, in order to avoid possible disappointments later on. For every producing colony, at least the equivalent of three or even four full depth supers should be prepared. Now is the time to do this, the summer-time is too late. This preparation requires that all equipment be overhauled and put into working shape and any shortage taken care of by ordering new supplies at once. With all the equipment taken care of and no danger of shortage, the beekeeper can then devote his full time to his bees when they require it, and it time is the most critical time in the life will not be long before they do. Springof a bee colony, it is the time when the bees are called upon to make their greatest effort in brood production. The food supply is usually inadequate at this time. A little judicious feeding during the first bright warm days of spring may save many colonies from death through starvation, and at the same time enable them to build up much faster and to greater strength for the main honey flow.

If your hands cannot be usefully employed, cultivate your mind.

SWEEPSTAKES ARGUMENTS ARE NOT CONVINCING

"It is high time that the Christian people of Canada awoke to their responsibility for the moral tone of our national life," declares the leading editorial in the current issue of the New Outlook, organ of the United Church of Canada.

"Our crusading instincts have slumbered and iniquity has gone stalking through the land. There is now an attempt to match the appalling evils of the liquor trade with the even greater demoralization of an orgy of gambling sanctioned by the government. The responsibility is ours and we cannot evade it."

The economic argument for sweepstakes is not convincing, the editorial states. "Sweepstakes are a costly and ineffective method of raising money. It is much more serious to notice the thinly disguised selfishness which underlies these arguments. We will keep Canadian money from flowing to Ireland, but perhaps we can start American money flowing into Canada. It is obvious, of course, that in business—especially in the business of lotteries—no one does as he would be done by, but it is significant that even the most plausible economic arguments for sweepstakes are shot through with selfish and disreputagle motives.

"The plea of charitable intention is quoted so often that we are apparently expected to detect some unselfish purpose in the whole sheme. We would only gamble from the highest motives and solely for the benefit of the State. It will be a bad day for charity when it is linked in partnership with sweepstakes. People will no longer give to charity from any pure or single motive. They will gamble and then soothe their conscience with the comforting thought that evil is justifiable in a righteous cause. We already know what happens when groups like service clubs finance their work by such devices as tickets on a car. It will be the same with sweepstakes; every cause which depends for support on charity will face a serious situation. When the dual sanction of government supervision and hospital support is given to the unholy impulse to get something for nothing, the foundations of spontaneous giving are fatally undermined. If sweepstakes become a part of our national life, the moral tone of this country will seriously suffer.

DOMINION IS PLANNING DRUNK-DRIVING CURB

Dominion law officers are now preparing a measure to stiffen the criminal law in its application to reckless and drunken drivers. It will likely be introduced in Parliament after the Easter recess. Recent deaths caused by hit-and-run drivers in Ontario recalled the statement made in the House by Justice Minister Lapointe when T. L. Church (Con. for Toronto-Broadview,) introduced a bill containing drastic provisions. Mr. Lapointe said he poposed to bring in a Government measure and denounced drunken driving in particular.

The Church bill proposed a person who had caused death while in charge of a motor car should not be allowed to drive for two years; that no person under 18 should be permitted to drive and that cars might be impounded for dangerous or reckless driving. Doubts were expressed at the time as to whether some of these proposals would conflict with Provincial laws governing highway traffic and the issue of drivers' licenses but in any case Mr. Lapointe said amendments to the Criminal Code on the subject would be introduced.

CANADA QUITE SATISFIED

(London Free Press)

The New York Daily News proposes that Canada and the United States should enter into a treaty for mutual defence. Friendliness with our neighbouring republic is Canada's only foreign policy. It is essential and vital. But Canadians will not enthuse particularly over the signing of any treaty to build up a joint system of defence on this continent. Economically we are too dependent now upon the United States; if we proceed to carry out a common policy of defence then Canada as the smaller unit would become simply an appendage of the Republic.

The best possible answer to the proposal of The Daily News is given by Dr. James T. Shotwell, distinguished native son of Strathroy, and today recognized as one of the world's greatest authorities on international problems. Dr. Shotwell is a director of the Carnegie Endowment and in his annual report says that peace between Canada and the United States has been "preserved more by the tempering solvent of common sense than by legal precautions of an institutional nature." He adds that Europe has not been able, with a "vast network of treaties," to keep peace as well as have the two American countries with no such monumental mechanisms.

A treaty for mutual defence might easily prove more embarrassing to both countries than the present arrangement. Canada has every confidence in the good sense of her neighbor and wants to work in peace and harmony with her. Our interests are common and neither country cold afford to see a foreign invasion of the other. But Europe is not America and Canadians are quite satisfied with the present situation, even if from a military strategist's standpoint it would seem better to have a mutual plan worked out on paper.

Fox hunting has been stopped in foot and mouth disease areas of England and farmers in East Dorset and adjoining counties are shooting foxes on sight to do avoid a possible plague. One man shot seven in one day. In West Dorset foxes can be seen daily lurking round villages. So bold have they become in their raids on poultry and sheep that shepherds and farm-workers are keeping all-night watches.

"CANADA-1938"

Walter Bowles, Roving Reporter for "Canada 1938" will speak from Montreal on Friday evening April 29th.

The voice of the Roving Radio Reporter has been heard throughout Canada from twenty odd points in Canada during the past six months, thus "Canada 1938" has been playing an important role in focussing Canadian attention on the achievements and ambitions of Canada and Canadians.

Mr. Bowles' visit to Montreal is of general interest, in that he will speak for the first time from the studio in Montreal where "Canada 1938" originates. It will be the first time he has had opportunity to see this studio, to learn just how the complicated system of hook-ups is controlled and he will meet for the first time most of the people who have shared the program with him since last Autumn.

Another outstanding feature of this program has been the opportunity "Canada 1938" has given Canadian composers of popular songs an opportunity to have their works performed before a national audience. On nearly every broadcast an original composition by a Canadian composer has been chosen from the large numbr submitted weekly and has been specially arranged for performance by the "Canada 1938" orchestra, choir and soloists. No other program has ever followed this policy consistently just as no other program has ever featured Canada through a Roving Reporter.

L. S. B. Shapiro will again be heard from the NBC Studios in New York with his news and reviews of the films and plays on Broadway of interest to Canadians. The orchestra and choir and the soloists, Richard Manning, Russ Titus, and Emilia will complete the program with specially arranged popular music, including an original Canadian composition.

Hungry robber entered the home of Mrs. Hilda Welstead when she was alone in her house in Manor-road, St. Albans, (Herts.) The masked man brushed past her and said: "You scream and I'll shoot." She barricaded herself in the sitting-room as he went from room to room. He missed some money and finally took two newly baked cakes from the larder.

The good colored minister had been talking to his congregation about free salvation, and then asked Brother Jackson to take up the collection. A member of the congregation protested.—Parson, I thought you said salvation is free—free as the water we drink.

Minister—Salvation is free, brother. It's free and water is free, but when we pipes it to you, you have to pay for the piping.

WEDDINGS

CONLIN—DOCKSTEADER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Docksteader, Harmony, was the scene of one of the season's most fashionable weddings on Wednesday, when their second daughter, Hazel Isobel, was united in marriage to Mr. Morley A. Conlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Conlin, of Metcalfe.

An arch of evergreens, from which hung white wedding bells and streamers, made an ideal setting for the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. L. H. Vail, pastor of Vernon Baptist Church.

Given in marriage by her brother, Ellwood Docksteader, the bride was charming in an Empire model of white chiffon, fitted with a frilled Bolero jacket and skirt which was fashioned on long graceful lines, ending in a slight train. Her silk net veil, in cap effect, was held in place by a coronet of Orange blossoms, and she carried an arm bouquet of pink sweet peas and maiden-hair fern.

Miss Ethel Docksteader, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and was gowned in a blue chiffon model, made on lines similar to that of the bride's. She carried a bouquet of snapdragon, intermingled with ferns.

Mr. Hubert Conlin, brother of the bridegroom, performed the duties of best man.

As the bridal party entered the drawing room, Lohengrin's Wedding March was played by Mr. Ellis Kinnaird, and during the signing of the register, Mr. Kinnaird and Mrs. Conlin, mother of the groom, sang as a duet, "I Love You Truly."

Following the ceremony, dinner was served to thirty guests. Mrs. Docksteader and Mrs. Acres poured tea, while Miss Mildred McCaul and Miss Orma Campbell assisted in serving.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Conlin left on a motor trip to Toronto, Windsor and other Western points, the bride travelling in a knitted ensemble of Yellow Crepe De-Lane, yellow hat and brown accessories. On their return they will reside at Russell, where Mr. Conlin is a prominent agriculturalist.

ROWAT—GILES

A pretty and interesting wedding took place on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock at St. George's Anglican church, Clayton, Ont., of Pearl Charlotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Giles, of Almonte, to Dr. John McKenzie Rowat, of Ottawa, son of Mr and Mrs. W. A. Rowat, of Winchester. Rev. Mr. Meakin officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister, Miss Edith Giles, of Almonte. Mr. Lloyd A. Rowat, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A dainty costume of pale blue lace over taffeta was worn by the bride. Her Juliet hat matched her costume, and she wore a shoulder knot of roses.

The bridesmaid was in peach shade with matching hat, and wore carnations and roses.

The mother of the bride was in blue with matching accessories, and the mother of the bridegroom wore navy blue in a tailored suit effect with a blue straw hat, and wore roses.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents in Almonte. Later Dr. and Mrs. Rowat left by motor for New York. They will take up residence in Ottawa on Cooper street. The bride travelled in a brown tailored suit with a hat to match, brown accessories and silver fox furs, the gift of the bridegroom.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Rev. G. A. and Mrs. Brunet, of Perth, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Vitaline Sarah, to Cyril Alleryn, elder son of Mrs. Eva Weary, of Ottawa, and the late Rev. W. S. Weary. The wedding will take place quietly at the end of May.

LAWN MOWER

Need Tuning Up?

If it is dull and out of adjustment, bring it to me and I will put in first-class condition—as good as new. In order to sharpen the knives on a lawn-mower properly, it is necessary to have the proper equipment. I have installed a motor-driven lawn-mower sharpener, that automatically tunes up the knives as it sharpens, something that cannot be done with a file, emery paste or grinding compound. Have your mower sharpened on this "Ideal Sharpener," and you will notice how easily it will cut the grass on your lawn, the first time you use it. Our work is guaranteed. No need to buy a new mower, our machine will make your old one as good as new.

This machine has been highly recommended by three of the leading lawn-mower manufacturers.

A reading was given by Mrs. Lorne Carkner on the Story of the Hymn "Nearer my God to Thee," which was then sung and illustrated by three girls dressed in white. A one-act play "The Christian Trail," was very much enjoyed. Those taking part then sang "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind." The meeting closed with the singing of a hymn and prayer by J. C. McGregor.

WINCHESTER 100 CLUB HEARS OTTAWA SPEAKER

The town hall was filled to capacity on Friday evening last, when the local 100 Club entertained the farmers from Winchester and district. Centurian Harold Lannin, president of the club, presided.

During the program, music was rendered by Centurian Fred Johnston, while Centurian Chester Timmins led in community singing.

The guest speaker for the occasion was Mr. Nelson Young of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. He was introduced to the farmers by Centurian W. A. Rowat.

Choosing as his topic "Good Relationship," Mr. Young took the 100 Club farmer gathering as an example of the kind of relationship needed between urban and rural municipalities to foster a better understanding between the city and country folk.

A vote of appreciation was extended to the speaker for his very interesting address by the club president.

At the conclusion of the program luncheon was served by the United Church Mission Circle, under the direction of Mrs. (Dr.) W. A. Sherwood. She was assisted by Mesdames Carl Rice, Sid. Lindsay, J. W. Ault, Ken. Carlyle, J. J. Gray, Harry Flora and the Misses Florence and Hazel Gordon.

UNITED CHURCH

The central theme of the messages of Rev. W. S. Atchison throughout the day was the relationship of father and sons. In the morning he spoke of Paul and Timothy as father and son in the gospel. the text being II Tim. 1:6, "Stir up the gift that is in thee." Paul wrote this to a Christian young man, Timothy, to encourage him when he was confronting opposition, urging him to stir up the gift not only for self, but for the sake of others. The choir sang "Some Bright Morning," and in the evening Mr. S. Lindsay contributed a pleasing solo.

Mr. Fred Cass, M.A., presided during the first part of the evening service and read the Scriptures II Sam., 18:24-33. He was assisted by Raymond Annable, who recited Psalm 23; Hartley Allison who gave the Apostles' Creed; Edwin Boyd, the Beatitudes; Max Boyd, the promise, and Leslie Summers, the Code. Mr. Cass is to be congratulated on the good work he is doing with the boys, who respond nobly in return.

Rev. W. S. Atchison spoke from the passage read: "Would God I had died for Thee," words of David regarding his son, Absalom. The life of David was briefly sketched showing his success and failure. It was a touching message. David failed because he shifted the father's responsibility upon the mother. This is too often the case to-day. We need to live for our children and to win their hearts and their confidence. What a son Jesus was—about His Father's business, and how the Father honored Him—this is my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased.

He had the care of doctors and nurses in hospital for five weeks. He was the last brother of the family of 12. Three sisters survive him. His wife, Charlotte Evens, predeceased him five years ago.

EASTER THANK-OFFERING SERVICE

The Women's Missionary Society of the Winchester United Church held its Easter Thank-Offering service last night with the president, Mrs. F. F. Davidson, in charge. It was an open meeting, a Family Party for everyone, and was a delightful event in which a number took part.

After the opening hymn, with Mr. Johnson at the organ, Rev. W. S. Atchison led in prayer. A paper on special objects for which the Baby Band works was prepared by the Leader, Mrs. E. Fennell, and read by Mrs. S. Lindsay. She told particularly of the Chissamba Kindergarten.

Mrs. Floyd Armstrong introduced the Mission Band. Doris Armstrong told of the good work our Band is doing, and a theme song was well sung by eight Band girls, with Mrs. Mabel Allison accompanying them on the pano. Some good facts about our work among the Indians were given by Melvin Johnston in a very pleasing manner. Betty Stewart read a missionary story about Bungo's gift. Mrs. Davidson gave a brief history of the beginning and growth of our Church in Canada.

The work of our C. G. I. T. group was ably demonstrated by a number of the girls in costumes representing the countries of which they spoke. They were led by Edrie Boyd. In concluding this, the congregation joined the group in singing, O Canada, with Mr. Johnson at the organ.

The Mission Circle presented a playette entitled "A Beloved Physician." The introduction to this was given by Mrs. J. W. Ault. Mrs. Faye Scott told of Missions in the Maritimes. The influence of the Women's Christian Colleges in Japan and Korea was described by Mrs. Earle.

A solo "Leave It With Him" was contributed by Mrs. W. S. Atchison with Mr. Johnson as accompanist.

Mrs. Davidson thanked all who had assisted in the programme after which the choir sang The Lords Prayer in closing.
