HENRY'S Shorthand School Ottawa, Ont.

No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.

Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

The Late Charles Chambers

On Wednesday night, January 29, the Angel of Death claimed one of our old and esteemed residents, Charles Chambers, in his eighty-first year.

Having previously lived on his farm in Finch township, on retiring over twenty years ago, he, with his wife, came to reside in Chesterville.

The deceased was a member of the village council for a number of years, being reeve of the village in 1912 and was highly esteemed by his colleagues.

Of a retiring disposition, he was a man not easy to get acquainted with but when his reserve had been penetrated and his confidence and intimate friendship gained, it was something to be appreciated and remembered.

There remains to mourn his death his aged widow and one daughter, Mrs. Harrington, of Montreal.

The funeral took place Friday morning at St. Mary's church where requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Staley, after which interment was made in the Catholic cemetery.

Chesterville 7; Finch 2 Interesting Junior Game

Thursday evening last a scheduled game in the Junior series played on the local rink resulted in a victory for the home team by the lop-sided score of 7 to 2. Before the Finch boys got squared away in the first period Chesterville had popped in a couple of counters and for the rest of the period travelled at a fast clip, netting the puck for a total of five, while Finch beat Fyke for a single tally.

In the second period, having lost the game for good and keeps in the opener, Finch had nothing to worry about and settled down to play hockey, from which time until the end of the game was a nip and tuck struggle with the visitors having the edge on the play for the greater part of the time. Each added a counter during the period, to which Chesterville added another in the final session.

Berwick Y. P. S. Meet for Re-Organization

A large number of the Young People's Society of St. Paul's United church, Berwick, assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mills Foster on Thursday evening, January 30th, for the purpose of re-organization.

Rev. A. W. Stewart presided and after the singing of a hymn gave a short discourse on "Young People's attitude toward the work of the Church." Prayer followed and after the singing of hymn 329 the election of officers took place, the result being as follows:

President—Mills Foster
1st Vice Pres.—Myrtle Munro
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Chas. Thompson
Secretary—Willis Miller
Asst. Secretary—Velma Whitteker.
Treasurer—Mack Foster
Organist—Ruth MacIntosh
Asst. Organist—Mrs. Lorne Hutt.

After the refreshments were served, an enjoyable social hour was spent in community singing and games.

Grantley Girl Showered

On Saturday afternoon, Feb. 1st, a large number of friends and relatives gathered at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beckstead for a miscellaneous shower given in honor of Miss Wilda Beckstead, whose marriage to Mr. Dan Robillard is to take place shortly.

As the record "The Wedding of the Painted Doll," was played, little Doris McMillan making a dainty little bride in her white veil, and Master Clare McMillan as groom, pulled into the room a sleigh on which was a white box containing the gifts.

The gifts were unwrapped and admired, Miss Beckstead thanking all and inviting them to visit her in her new home. All joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow," after which refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Oysters For Winners

Tuesday afternoon a spirited curling contest took place at the rink between a couple of rinks with a treat of oysters for the winners at the expense of the losers. Fred Marshall skipped the winners with Harry Hummel on the short end.

Agricultural Short Courses Proving Very Helpful

Rotations and their suitability to Dundas conditions were discussed at length by Mr. Simpson on Tuesday morning as part of the course now being put on by the local department of agriculture. Mr. Simpson produced figures to show that the yields of grain crops in Dundas were not as high as those of other counties with no better—if as good—soils, and suggested some ways of remedy for this condition.

Of interest to stockmen was the work in the feeding of farm animals commenced Tuesday also. This course embraces the study of the composition of the main feeds and how to work out a balanced ration from home grown feeds.

Judging livestock, an important part of the work, was commenced with three classes of Holsteins on the premises of Mr. Thomas Allen. Great interest was shown by those present, and all young or old farmers who can possibly do so are cordially invited to attend the classes in the Town Hall.

Chesterville Blanks Russell For Second Time 3 to 0

Russell hockey club, on its crusade of cleaning up the league, came to town Tuesday night on their farewell visit of the season and were handed another goose egg to place along side the one left with them earlier in the season. The score was 3 to 0, which makes the total on the four games, ten for Chesterville and four for Russell.

The crowd did not receive Russell with open arms when they made their appearance on the ice but gave them an unmerciful "booing" for the part they had taken in an unsuccessful attempt to bolster the standing of the other clubs in the league race. The crowd seemed to be of the mind that Russell had used their best endeavors to place Cornwall in a commanding position in the league race. The race, as it stands at present, shows Chesterville with a clear lead of two points on a score of fourteen, with one game to play, that with Finch to-morrow night, which, if Chesterville wins, will place them beyond reach of Cornwall, who play Russell to-morrow also, and it is a foregone conclusion, will win. If both Finch and Cornwall win to-morrow, a three-cornered tie will be the result with a play-off necessary to produce a winner and a second-place team, who will again have to play off for league honors.

Russell, on their play Tuesday night, showed why they are in the cellar position, and, had not Carter been in goal to carry them along, the score might easily have been trebled. Martin, Christie and Beckstead played their heads off but were never very dangerous, while Ferguson played the brand that got him into the penalty box four times.

Plantz, Watt and Marshall did not bear down very heavy until near the end of each period when, with about four minutes to go, the rubber was slipped into the twine. Marshall did the trick in the first on an assist from Watt. In the second he did it alone and in the third gave the pass to Lynch for the counter.

Harper stopped every man who tried to make the grade on his side of the ice and came down with the puck, while Gamble, Watt, and Dagenais, together with Matt Flynn when he relieved Harper in the last few minutes, played games that kept Russell out of the defending area, while Hamilton handled the long-range sniping with ease. It was Chesterville all the way.

United Church Ladies Aid

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Chester Merkley with an attendance of forty-three members, four of the number being new members and five visitors.

After the devotional exercises, the usual business was transacted.

Reports were given by the different committes. A letter was received from Miss Matilda Wilson, in which she thanked the society for flowers sent her.

A very interesting program was given, consisting of a recitation and song by little Clarence Marshall, a reading by Mrs. James Smith, solo by Mrs. George Merkley, recitation by Shirley King, a reading by Miss Ella Harrison, and an instrumental piece by Miss Betty Bolster.

The roll call was answered by the name of a flower, the first letter of which corresponded with the first letter in one's name.

The meeting closed with the national anthem.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Merkley, assisted by Mrs. McElheran, Mrs. Jarvis, Mrs. Arthur Bailey and Mrs. Jas. Smith.

MUSIC AT THE SKATING RINK

For the balance of the skating season, the rink management has arranged for music on Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week. If a hockey match should occupy the ice on any Thursday night, music will be supplied for skating on Friday night.

Mrs. Christopher Walker, Mountain Township

In the death of Mrs. Walker on Thursday last, Jan. 30th, one of the oldest residents of this county passed away. Born in the Melvin Settlement eighty-four years and eight months ago, her maiden name was Maggie Earle, daughter of the late Simeon Earle, who was one of the pioneers of that section. Almost sixty years ago she married Christopher Walker of Mountain township, where they have resided ever since. Mr. Walker still survives, although in feeble health. There is also one son, Lloyd, at home, and one daughter, Mrs. Dukelow, of Winchester. Two brothers remain, one being Rev. David Earle of Michigan, and the other, Mr. Robert Earle, of New Westminster, B.C.

Rev. John A. Waddell, of Winchester United church, conducted the funeral at the family home on Saturday at one p.m. The large attendance of friends and neighbours was an evidence of the high esteem in which the late Mrs. Walker was held.

The funeral text was: "To die is gain," and a beautiful solo, "That City Foursquare," was sung by Mrs. P. Durant of Winchester, a niece of the departed.

Interment was made in Maple Ridge cemetery.

Finch Won Two Out of Three Played In Four Days

Finch got a hard break in the hockey race when the postponed game of January 2nd with Russell, was brought into line Saturday night and played, Finch winning 3 to 1, after Finch had come through successfully the night before against Cornwall with a 5 to 2 score, and another meeting with Cornwall, facing them on Monday night, which, after a hard fight, Finch lost 4 to 2. It requires a lot of reserve strength to win such strenuous games in a row.

Tomorrow night at Finch should see a battle royal when Chesterville goes over there in an attempt to gather the two points that will prevent a three-cornered tie ,and which will give Finch their only chance to remain in the picture by winning. Chesterville is likely to have their full line-up with Jarvis back at centre,

High School Hockeyists Win at Kemptville 2-1

In the E.O.S.S.A. Hockey competition Chesterville High school was drawn to play against Kemptville High school, which they did last Saturday afternoon on the latter's ice and defeated them 2 to 1, Jack McAvoy scoring both counters for Chesterville, one each in the second and third periods. Kemptville scored their only tally as the bell rung to end the game.

Chesterville's next game will be with a High school team of Kingston in Kingston at a date yet to be set. recovered from his injuries received in Russell.

Helps Children Grow Up Strong and Healthy

Growing children should be given Parke-Davis Standardized Cod-Liver Oil. Rickets (soft bones) will be prevented and the youngsters will grow up into strong, healthy men and women.

The value of Parke-Davis Standardized Cod-Liver Oil depends largely upon two substances. One is Vitamin A, which aids body growth and development, and increases resistance towards disease. The other is Vitamin D, which prevents and cures rickets, and aids in the development of sound teeth.

Parke-Davis Standardized Cod-Liver Oil is especially rich in vitamins. One teaspoonful represents the vitamin A content of the following food substances:

One pound of best creamery butter.
Eleven pints of pure, whole milk.
Nine fresh eggs.

Because of its bland taste, children will readily take Parke-Davis Standardized Cod-Liver Oil.

News and Information For the Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Canadian butter leaves room for improvement both in quality and quantity. This improvement, according to a prominent dairy authority, will be brought about by improving the quality of the raw material through paying a higher price to the producer.

Uniform Price and Quality

Prof. H. H. Dean of O.A.C. has some timely advice for distributors of milk and other dairy products. He declares that milk and milk products of good quality provided at a fair and uniform price throughout the year will satisfy the consuming public better than variations in quality and price. He suggests the following aids in this direction: Daylight and no "moonlight" delivery, the use of mono-service bottles for milk, cartons for pound print butter, sell varieties of cheese like cottage and thus use profitably the skim-milk, the "zone" system to save duplication of milk routes, and courteous consideration of customers by all drivers and salesmen.

Winter Care of Pigs

The main factors in the successful rearing of pigs during the winter months are:

1. Early litters. Pigs intended for winter feeding should be farrowed not later than the month of September. This gives them time for a good start before cold weather.
2. Clean yard. A good clover field or yard with clover sod is ideal for them to run in. Avoid all old yards and wallows.
3. Clean and dry sleeping quarters. These should be entirely free from draughts, but provided with ventilation.
4. Suitable rations. From weaning until four months of age, the following ration will be satisfactory: 200 pounds of finely ground oats, 200 pounds of middlings, 50 pounds of wheat bran, 50 pounds of barley or corn, 15 pounds each of linseed oil meal and tankage, 5 pounds of bone char and 3 pounds of salt. This should always be fed as a warm slop mixed with skim milk or buttermilk. As the pigs get older increase the proportion of barley or corn. Be very careful not to overfeed; every meal should be cleaned up quickly and more looked for. A supply of alfalfa or clover hay should be on hand at all times, and a few mangels or apples given daily. Keep all pens clean and supply drinking water each day.

The Scrub Bull

In a recent address on the scrub bull and its effect on the dairy industry, W. E. Thompson, president of the Ontario Cattle Breeders' Association, claimed that a scrub bull was a liability to a breeder.

The good purebred sire was the logical one to head a herd since, with a registered sire, there are greater chances of getting results in the way of building up the herd than when a grade or inferior breed is used. The purebred has a long line of descent of the one breed. Mr. Thompson declared that a cow must give at least 6,000 pounds of milk to pay for her keep. Better breeding and better feeding are necessary to profitable returns in his opinion.

The Export Market

W. A. Wilson, Agricultural Products Representative for Canada in Great Britain, who has been spending some months in Canada, addressing agricultural organizations and service clubs, emphasizes the importance of a steady volume of export in order to hold the market.

The limit of consumption has by no means been reached, he declares. Canada's position in the world is becoming increasingly dependent upon her abaility to hold her own in world competition. In reference to Canada's exports of agricultural produce, Mr. Wilson points out that these have shown a marked tendency to decrease in recent years. Unless Canada can maintain a policy of supply a reasonable volume for export to the British Isles, the inroads made by foreign competitors will become still more serious.

Ontario Makes Ready

Hon. John S. Martin is chairman of a committee just named to see that Ontario is represented at the World's Grain Show in Regina in 1932 by her outstanding grain producers. Special ribbons will be awarded at all fairs in the province for high-class exhibits and all exhibitors will be given every consideration. The committee will build up a list of men who have done well at leading shows in the past and add others who appear to have a chance in competition with the best of other countries. At the Chicago Show Ontario annexed 30 awards, and the Department will try to beat this record and bring home some of the $200,000 offered in prizes. A subcommittee has also been appointed to see that prospective exhibitors secure the very best seed available.

Canadians Milk Drinkers

Statistics have shown that Canadians eat more butter and eggs per capita than the people of any other country. A recent survey shows that one of the favorite beverages of the people of Canada is milk. To satisfy this demand for fresh milk alone, over 4,625,000 gallons per year, or about one pint per head of population per day is required. This should serve to give some idea of the prominence which dairying has attained. The total value of Canadian dairy products exceeds 250 millions annually.

Change Weed Act Regulations

The Hon. John S. Martin has announced changes in the regulation of the Ontario Weed Act to be effective this year.

Road superintendents or foremen will not be eligible for appointment as weed inspectors. The reason for this regulation is that the weed inspector must report on the enforcement of the Act with respect to roads.

To simplify enforcement of the act the following less important weeds in Ontario have been removed from the noxious list:

Cinquefoils (potentilla sp.), field peppergrass (lepidium campestre), stick seed (lappula echinata), Russian thistle (salsola kali), wild barley (hordeum jubatum).

Municipal councils are encouraged to appoint men capable of giving leadership in an educational way. Weed problems are not simple and the best men available are essential if progress is to be made. It is not sufficient for a council to appoint a man and instruct him to wait for complaints before taking action.

A Work of Value to Farmers

During 1929 an increasing interest was shown by experimenters in the work of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union. According to the secretary's report a total of 2,559 farmers received material for co-operative experiments. A steady increase in this regard has been recorded, the last five years showing an increase of thirty-nine per cent in the number of experimenters over the previous five years. Last year material was distributed for a total of forty-seven distinct co-operative experiments, including variety tests with field crops, dates and rates of seeding, methods of seeding, mixtures of grain for grain production, thinning plants at different distances apart in the rows, and fertilizer experiments. The Union has been a most potent factor in the improvement of field crops in the province for the past fifty years by supplying farmers with the very best of selected varieties and encouraging the distribution of this material to the farmers.

St. Andrew's W. M. S. and Ladies' Aid

A joint meeting of the W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid was held in the church on Thursday afternoon, January 23rd, Miss Jamieson presiding. The meeting was opened by singing the I Psalm, followed by prayer led by Miss Jamieson. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, and the roll call showed a fair attendance of members. The closing chapter of the "Royal Road" was very interestingly reviewed by Mrs. A. Black A. letter of New Year's greeting was read from Mrs. Johnston of Winchester, the sectional president. It was moved by Mrs. Black and seconded by Mrs. Barrie that a note of thanks be sent to Mrs. Johnston for her beautiful letter. The Bible study from the text, "Ask and ye shall receive," was taken by Mrs. L. Doering. After the discussion of business, the meeting was closed by singing the Doxology.

"Smith wants to borrow $100. Is he good for it?"

"Yes, with proper securities."

"What would you suggest?"

"A chain and padlock, a pair of handcuffs and a good watchdog."

Early History of Chesterville and District

Compiled and Written by Miss E. Harrison for the Women's Institute.

WHERE THE PIONEERS ARE BURIED

Cemeteries and cemetery boards were not in existence for some years. People buried their dead in different places, some times on their own farms. I will tell of a funeral of over eighty years ago from Frood Servage's farm which would be mostly all bush then. The pall bearers carried the coffin to the road through the bush and John Alford met them there with a wagon. They dove to the creek at Ingram Smith's farm, then carried it through to the point above the creek on Lawrence Markley's farm. Several were buried there.

There was a small burying ground opposite Young George Hummel's. George Sr. may have given the ground. Many buried there have been removed to the Ridge.

The cemetery we can see from the bridge was bought over seventy-five years ago by Joseph Hamilton from George Hummel, Sr., for forty or forty-five dollars and was owned by him until 1872. A number were buried there before tombstones came into use. The oldest stones are Mrs. Francis Sharkey's who died in 1854, and Mrs. George Hummel's, in 1856.

In 1872 a meeting was called to see about purchasing a cemetery. This is the agreement:

WHEREAS it is necessary to purchase as a Public Burying Ground, in or near the Village of Chesterville, We, the undersigned, agree to pay to Joseph Hamilton, or bearer, the sum opposite our respective names for the purpose of purchasing the piece of ground now occupied as such on Mr. John Hummel's farm on the south side of the Nation River; the same sums to be payable on or before the first day of November next.

Dated April the ninth, 1872.

It was to be laid out in lots one rod square to cost three dollars. one third at the east to be reserved for people who could not afford to buy a lot, who were to pay fifty cents for each burial. Several gave five dollars. other smaller amounts, and nearly all were paid.

The Women's Institute have had a lot of the brush cut out this winter, which was badly needed as it had grown into a wildnerness, but there is work still to be done. such as straightening stones, etc. We hope if any of the friends are here they will see to it. It can be made a beauty spot.

The Ridge cemetery was first used in 1865, and the first to be buried there was Minerva Thomas, daughter of Lorenzo and Maria Thomas. The ground, four acres, was bought from Ebenezer Smith. At the east end an acre was reserved for poor people but was never used as such as it was not needed. There was only one buried there as poor, a man from Nova Scotia, who died of smallpox at Rodney Annable's and who had no friends here. Later some friend put up a small stone. When passing, notice a granite monument with a large ball on top. Just there was the first school house on the Ridge, a log building.

The cemetery has been added to and is now ten acres, which is the limit. In 1902 W. N. Barrie gave five hundred dollars for a vault. There are some beautiful stones there, some on neglected plots and many of our former prominent citizens have no mark to their graves and no care given. Some think when they have an expensive funeral their duty ends there, but a little follow-up work is necessary. We have a caretaker, but there is work for two or three all summer if those having friends buried there would pay a small amount yearly for care, several do this and others look after their plots themselves. Some plots have expensive stones but little old slabs have been left standing which spoil everything.

The first high monument in the Ridge cemetery was Thomas Fulton's, he died July 4th, 1865. The corpse was buried on the farm but later removed to the cemetery.

The difference between the early days and now: then people were taken in a lumber wagon, now in a motor hearse. Now a funeral costs from one hundred and fifty dollars upwards. In the early days some handy neighbor made the coffin or Mr. Swarger, or Mr. Weaver, or later, Mr. Buist. They would go and take measurements and make one and, if we could see his books prices, he often did not get his pay. There were no undertakers, neighbors came and did that work. Elisha (Tanner) Smith and his sons, Lyman and James, were always willing to help. The women would go and make a shroud, or black clothes for the family. Mr. James Gilliespie was funeral director for years, he gave of his time when needed. Many remember him officiating.

The settlers had some queer customs and superstitions. The clock was always stopped until after the funeral, pictures in the rooms were covered with white. People never liked a funeral to pass the house it came out of, but everybody wore black, and were supposed to show respect by leading a quiet life. How different now, when people will go to places of amusement of one kind or another in less than a week. I heard of a woman from the country who came to Asa Beach's store to change a bright shawl she had for a black one. Mr. Beach was not anxious to change it, but by discounting it considerable he would. She said, "I'll take it and wear it, for I never liked him anyhow."

The following is a funeral bill in 1719. Spirits made 1719 funerals expensive as the undertaker's bill shows wine, rum and cider provided. In these days of elaborate funerals an undertaker's bill uncovered here recently may provide interest. The account was presented for the funeral of one John Middleton of London, on Jan. 5th. 1719. It follows, all spelling as in bill: six gallons of wine £6 2s 3d, Three gallons of rum 13s 6d, Quarter of a hundred of sugar and spice 15s, a barrel of cider 12s, butter and ches 17s, a Holand sheet £1 0 6d, the cofing and diging the grafe 19s 6d; which would be $4.68 of our money.

Now and then an applicant for a job will give an honest estimate of his worth.

A farmer, in great need of extra help at haying time, finally asked Si Warren, who was accounted the village fool, if he could help him out.

"What'll ye pay?" asked Si.

"I'll pay what you're worth," answered the farmer.

Si scratched his head a minute, then announced decisively: "I'll be darned if I'll work for that!"

Is Given Freedom On Bail of $2,000

Brockville.—Miss Freda May Turner, of Cardinal, was granted bail on the sum of $2,000 here to appear in police court on March 31 on a charge of bigamy following her arrest, at the request of Brockville police on Saturday night, at Prescott on her deportation for illegal entry into that country on January 6.

Miss Turner and Charles Sylvester Swerdfeger, of Morrisburg, who is said to have deserted his wife and child early in December, were married by Rev. W. E. Donelly here on December 17, and the elopement ended in their arrest at Ogdensburg.

She had been held in the counties jail at Canton, N.Y., since January 6, and Swerdfeger is still in custody there.

War on Insects

An intensive war on insect pests will be conducted by the Boy Scouts of America this year, according to an announcement from their national offices in New York City. When it is considered that the Boy Scouts can enroll a force of nearly 850,000 willing workers, and enlist them under adequate leadership for any good cause, the war on pests promises to be of real service to the nation.

The vanguard of the hosts fighting insect pests will be the Scouts of the Rural Scout division, boys living on farms and in the rural territory of America. They are spending the winter months in studying the habits of the pests which they are going to try and eliminate—the Japanese beetle, boll weevil, corn borer, coddling moth, and Medite[illegible]an fruit fly. Their purpose is to learn the habits of life of these harmful insects and then determine the best way to fight them.

In the cities, other Scouts will work with health authorities in the control of the mosquito and common housefly, by elimination of breeding places and wholesale killing of the pests.

It is a useful service that these boys are planning to do. It is a wonderful organization, this Boy Scout Movement, that can mobilize so many willing workers for a good cause. It is of inestimable value to the nation.

Referee Travels By Plane

The Trent Valley Hockey League may not be the most pretentious hockey organization in the province, but it certainly is the most modern. Tuesday night Len Jackson, Ontario Hockey Association Referee of Peterboro, chartered an airplane to convey him to the arena there, where he officiated at the game between Tweed and Frankford. After the game he returned to his home by plane.

Tweed won the game, three goals to one.

COLD, COLD ALASKA

From the Verstovian, published by the Sheldon Jackson School of Sitka, Alaska, issue of December, we take the following item and pass it along for due contemplation:

"The weather is still mild and summer-like. Up to December 3rd there had been no killing frost. The grass is as green as in mid-summer and vegetables have not been affected. The boys of the school are hoping for some ice for Christmas."

Put that in your pip and smoke it.

The Bees of Canada

The bees of Canada are not natives of Canada. Just when they made their entrance to this country, is not clear. The bee experts do not set any date but think it around 1760. They say bees were first introduced into America by the Spaniards.

There are about three chief races of bees in Canada—viz., Italian, Russian and Dutch. The Italian bee is generally admitted to be the predominating bee in numbers, and in both ability and desire to work. The Dutch black bee is not here in any numbers.

With reference to so-called wild bees, the honey of which is found in tree trunks and other places and the stores of which the early settlers made such good use, the bee experts tell us that these bees are not wild in the sense that an aboriginal animal is wild. The wild bees originally swarmed from somebody's apiary, and the numbers of wild bees were increased by swarms from swarms.

How many individual bees are there in Canada? This might appear like a question impossible to answer. Yet it may be answered after a fashion.

It was indicated yesterday that last year there were in Canada approximately between 275,000 and 300,000 hives.

As a hive holds from fifty to sixty thousands bees each, one may give an approximate hint as to the total number of bees.

Figuring the hives at 290,000 and the bees per hive at 55,000, one might suggest the bee population at the modest number of about sixteen billions. One might then however be about five millions on the short side, as many "built up" hives have a population of from 75,000 to 100,000.

The bee population is very unstable however owing to the short lives of the little fellows—an average in Summer of about six weeks.

Versatile J. Barleycorn

Buffalo Courier-Express. — Ten years ago it was reported that John Barleycorn was dead. Apparently, the report was greatly exaggerated. For it is none other than old John himself about whose versatility there is now a lot of talk in Washington.

It appears that Barleycorn is an ingenious fellow who can make the best of conditions. If his hand is interfered with in one place, he promptly turns it somewhere else.

Only a short time ago the prohibition bureau made a great ado about industrial alcohol as a source of Barleycorn's supply through fradulent permits. Well, the dry officials now seem satisfied that they have stopped some of the biggest leaks in that part of the dry wall. And what happens? For an answer we would quote Prohibionist Commissioner Doran:

"The use of corn sugar in the illicit production of alcohol is causing us grave concern. There seems to be a constant growth in this production in the most modern type of plants. The alcohol produced is of the highest type and as good as that manufactured legally."

Last year, in the northeastern states, according to Dr. Doran, the dry agents seized 3,864 stills, of which 3,430 were of the corn sugar type. The prohibition bureau is now devoting itself to the campaign against corn sugar alcohol more vigorously than ever. In 1922 the output of this maize sugar was only 152,000,000 pounds. But Barleycorn then was just beginning to get accustomed to the dry regime. The output of corn sugar last year was 960,000,000 pounds.

Canada Prepares for Next Poultry Congress

Preparation for the part Canada is to take in the World's Poultry Congress to be held in London in July of this year, are well advanced. Mr. F. C. Elford, Dominion Poultry Husbandman, and First Vice-President of the Congress, reports that the Canadian exhibits that will be put on by the federal and provincial Departments of Agriculture and business organizations will occupy about 9,000 square feet of floor space, which is now being put in order on an elaborate scale.

Mr. W. A. Brown, Chief of the Poultry Division of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, who is in charge of the Canadian educational exhibits, reports that many of the principal poultry flocks over the whole country are being visited with a view to securing the necessary birds that will be used in bringing the promotion policies of Canada in relation to the poultry industry to the attention of the delegates from adhering countries, and other visitors to the Congress.

Dr. F. N. Marcellus, Secretary of the Congress for Ontario, reports that the Ontario rabbit breeders have expressed a desire to make a display of pelts. If it is finally decided to do this, the display will be made within the commercial exhibits of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Marcellus also sugegsts the possibility of the Ontario exhibitors of birds arranging for a competition after arrival at Ottawa and prior to shipment. It is expected that prizes for this competition will be provided by the Department of Agriculture at Toronto.

What Becomes of a Lie?

First, somebody told it,
Then the room wouldn't hold it;
So the busy tongues rolled it
Till they got it outside.
Then the crowd came across it,
And never once lost it,
But tossed it and tossed it
Till it grew long and wide.

From a very small lie, sir,
It grew deep and high, sir,
Till it reached to the sky, sir,
And frightened the moon;
For she hid her sweet face, sir,
In a veil of cloud-lace, sir,
At the dreadful disgrace, sir,
That happened at noon.

That lie brought forth others,
Dark sisters and brothers,
And fathers and mothers—
A terrible crew;
And while headlong they hurried,
The people they flurried,
And troubled and worried,
As lies always do.

And so, evil-boded,
This monstrous lie goaded,
Till at last it exploded
In smoke and in shame,
While from mud and from mire
The pieces flew higher
And hit the sad liar
And killed his good name!

One boy to another: "Perhaps you don't know why chickens come out of eggs. It's because they're afraid they'll be boiled if they don't."

reverse the charges

If you want to reverse the charge on a long distance call you do not need to give the name of the person you are calling. It is enough now just to give the NUMBER you want.

You can now reverse the charge on an "anyone there" — or "station-to-station" — call and get a lower rate as well.

When you are away from home you can get your house or office more quickly and more cheaply in calling by NUMBER and you can still have the call charged to your bill at home.

Mrs. Carl Fetterly, Maple Ridge

In mid forenoon on February 1st the surrounding community was shocked to hear that Mrs. Carl Fetterly had been called to her reward. Although comparatively young, being in her thirty-fifth year, and at first not considered seriously ill, yet to loved ones in attendance she forewarned them that this was to be her last illness, then later complications developed and despite all that loving hands and especially good care could do, yet God's will must be obeyed, and this young mother was called.

Possessed of a warm, sunny disposition, she made many friends and endeared herself to her neighbors and her genial hospitality was known to all and her kindly acts will be long remembered.

Rev. Newman, her pastor, conducted the funeral service in the home on Sunday, Feb. 3rd, when his reading was from a chapter chosen by the deceased. His comforting words and thoughts were well delivered and offered helpful advice to all. Two hymns also chosen by Mrs. Fetterly, were rendered by the choir and Mr. O. L. King sang in his usual satisfactory manner.

The pall bearers were four neighbors, viz.. Stanley Fawcett, Sheldon Ball, Wellington Ball, Thos. Hamilton. The floral tributes were—wreath, Husband and Family: pillow, father. sisters and brother, Baldwins; beautiful spray from Maple Ridge pupils and teacher.

She leaves to cherish her memory a husband. five small children, her father and mother, two sisters and a loving brother.

Once more the Grim Reaper has entered,
A family and riven the chain;
A mother and family are parted
To be re-united in Heaven again.
To us it seemed she was needed:
But we bow to His sovereign power;
We fain would have kept her longer,
Yet He had ordered the hour
Of her release from this world of woe,
Her pain and all her care.
Willingly she answered His summons
In His Heavenly love to share,
Now tender memories will linger,
Kind thoughts in our hearts we'll keep
Of her, who just left her wee bairnies
In His arms, and fell to sleep.

Ernest Faulkner, Morewood

The community of Morewood was once again grief-stricken when the sad news of Mr. Ernest Faulkner's death reached the ears of his friends and neighbors.

He was the second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Faulkner, of Russell County, and was born one June 13th. 1882. At the age of twenty-seven years he married Miss Eliza Rainey on January 6th, 1909, taking up a farm adjoining that of his father. Here he resided the remainder of his life. During the last few weeks of Mr. Faulkner's life he had been assisting his brother, Mr. Emerson Faulkner, in the Faulkner & Carruthers timber limits. Having spent the week end of January 18 at his home, he, with other members of the staff returned to the limits. During a sleigh drive of six miles from Wakefield station to the limits, Mr. Faulkner expired very quietly, even unknown to his brother and friends.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his beloved wife and one daughter, Jean; also two brothers, George and Emerson, and one sister, Mrs. W. Johnston.

Interment was made in the family plot in Maple Ridge cemetery.

A Time For Prudence

Montreal Gazette.—It is becoming increasingly evident that American public opinion in relation to the St. Lawrence project is divided. Just as the eastern provinces in Canada are economically uninterestd, and the western provinces have their hopes set on the Hudson Bay outlet, so that great group of states south of the forty-second parallel is looking on with indifference New York state is north of that line, and yet it is there opposition has been conspicuously strong and articulate. The reasons for this attitude are almost identical with those which obtain in the Dominion, and cover the question of need, cost, and soundness. New York state, however, is very deeply concerned over the matter of water power, as are also the New England States, and an official statement issued recently by Governor Roosevelt makes an urgent appeal for the independent development of the power which is to be had on the American side of the St. Lawrence. No matter from what angle this appeal is viewed, it must be accepted as being opposed to the plans of those who favor international action

Governor Roosevelt has much to say at the outset about the play of politics which has thus far taken place, and he does not hestitate to change this to the greed of private interests concerned wholly in the power aspect. The immediate issue, as he sees it, is between public and corporate control, and he argues strongly in favor of the former. Even where the state regulation of privately-owned power utilities has been attempted, he declares, somewhat positively, that political influence has been strong enough to render such measures ineffective. In fact, this plea for a state of development is based directly on the assumption that no other method would keep out the sinister play of polictics. He seems to attach no particular value to the transportation aspect of the proposed undertaking, and makes all his arguments bear on the situation as to electrical power.

Unfortunately, Canada, in a large sense, stands between these rival American interests, and therefore the course of prudence is to move slowly. Outside of Toronto, it would be straining the truth to say there is anything in the nature of enthusiasm for the deepending projects, whereas there is in other parts of the country an attitude of positive opposition to it. This opposition is based on economic considerations, although back of that view is a strong feeling with regard to the whole question of international action. By delaying the final decision until the issue has been judicially weighed in all its bearings, nothing will be lost. The existing waterway is efficient and is capable of handling a much larger volume of traffic than has thus far been offered. Governor Roosevelt's appeal gives strength to the suspicion which has from the outsetset been felt that water power, and not transportation facilities, is the real aim of the propagandists; and Canada has many other sources before resorting to the costly St. Lawrence. Every instinct of prudence should lead us to avoid a large addition to capital liability at this juncture, and particulrly for a project which is not urgently needed.

A.: The long neck of a giraffe is absolutely essential, because the head is so far away from the animal's shoulders.

Counties Council Proceedings

The January session of the Counties' Council of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry opened at the Council Chamber, Court House, on Tuesday, January 28th, the meeting being adjourned from two p.m. on account of lack of quorum. The Clerk, Mr. A. K. MacMillan, welcomed both old and new members, some of whom were present for the first time, and he expressed pleasure at seeing so many of the former members returned, as it indicated their work both in the home and Counties' Councils were appreciated. To the new members he said if they desired information at any time the older members and himself would be glad to help them.

Mr. MacMillan then announced that he had received certificates from the various Clerks showing that the following had been elected, and all were present as follows:

Stormont

Cornwall Town—W. H. Gallinger, Reeve; R. J. Graveley, First Deputy Reeve; Rene Danis, Second Deputy Reeve.

Cornwall Township—Wm. A. Murray, Reeve; Fred Lefebvre, First Deputy; Hugh C. McDonald, Second Deputy.

Winchester Township — Howard Nesbitt and Roy E. Annable.

Mountain Township—John E. Crowder and Robert Bryan.

Matilda Township—Thos. Johnston and Sidney Thompson.

Morrisburg Village — Edward P. Foster.

Iroquois Village—Ed. Strader.

Winchester Village—J. H. Ross.

Chesterville Village—Wesley Hamilton.

Glengarry

Charlottenburgh Township—D. S. McIntosh and D. A. McRae.

Lancaster Township—John D. McDonald and Rod. A. McLeod.

Lochiel Township—J. A. McCrimmon and W. Irvine.

Kenyon Township—Fred. McLeod and M. A. Clark.

Alexandria Town—M. Fitzgerald.

Maxville Village — Dr. Howard Munro.

Lancaster Village—J. R. McLachlan.

The Clerk stated that the first duty of the Council was the election of a Warden, the honor going to Dundas County this year.

Messrs. Glenn A. Shaver and J. W. Connors moved that the election of a Warden be by open vote and in the manner laid down by rule 6 of the standing rules of Council. Carried.

Five minutes were allowed for the receiving of nominations.

Dr. J. Howard Munro, Reeve of Maxville, asked that the limit be not strictly adhered to, as he had a gentleman in view whom he wished to place in nomination and he would like to refer to his qualifications. Other members might have someone to propose as well. Dr. Munro congratulated the members on their election and hoped the relations would cement old and make new friendships which would result in harmony and benefit. This year the Wardenship went to Dundas County. There was a superabundance of good material in the Dundas representation, but unfortunately they could only select one man, and as the Village of Iroquois had only had the Wardenship once since 1863, he took great pleasure in nominating Mr. Ed. Strader, Reeve of that village. Mr. Strader, he said, possessed the dignity of a gentleman in a marked degree. His ability and energy was given practical evidence last year as chairman of the finance committee. His ability in his home town must also be recognized, as he came through the recent election when some of his own old Council fell by the wayside. With all these qualifications, Dr. Munro felt Mr. Strader would prove a fit and proper person to fill the Warden's chair, and he took great pleasure in nominating him.

Mr. J. E. Crowder, Reeve of Mountain Township, in seconding the nomination of Mr. Strader, stated that as Mr. Strader was now in his fourth year as Reeve of Iroquois, his experience as such made him equal to the duties of the Wardenship.

As there were no further names proposed, the Clerk declared Mr. Strader elected Warden by acclamation, and he was escorted to the chair by his mover and seconder, amid applause.

Warden Strader said he felt deeply grateful for the honor conferred on him and thanked the members on behalf of the people of Iroquois and himself. He had served under three distinguished Wardens, and he referred to the good fellowship, courtesy and absence of inter-county strife which had always existed among the members. There had been some spirited discussions and close divisions, but he could not recollect when differences were not forgotten, and that spirit of good will was what made members desire to come back. He only hoped that in a small way he would be able to measure up to his predecessors in office. He assured the members that if hard, earnest work on his part, with the assistance of the members, would make the 1930 Council as successful as previous ones, he would not be found lacking in his efforts. It was an honor to represent the people of these counties—the greatest union in the Province—and he knew of no section in the whole of Canada more desirable as a place of residence. Sons and daughters of these counties had made their mark in the world. The session was likely to be a heavy one and if the committees would get at their work as early as possible it would avoid crowding on the last day. Mr. Strader again heartily thanked the members for the honor conferred on him in his unanimous election to the Warden's chair.

The Council adjourned for five minutes to allow the Warden to take his declaration of office.

On resuming, Messrs. Hamilton and Nesbitt moved that the minutes of the last day of the October session, being printed and distributed, be taken as read, and signed by the Warden and Clerk. Carried.

The Clerk read a list of thirty-five communications received since the last session and, on motion of Messrs. D. S. McIntosh and D. A. McRae, these were referred to the committees to which they belong.

Messrs. Hamilton and Johnston moved that the Reeves be a special committee to strike the standing committees for the year and report to the Council at the present sitting.

Mr. Glenn. A Shaver read the report of the debenture committee, in which it was stated that the debentures of the counties were sold to Gairdner & Co. at 98.177. The report was adopted.

The report of last year's Board of Management of the House of Industry and Refuge was read by thte Clerk. The report went into detail as to the equipment of the buildings and farm, etc. Since the institution was opened, 355 inmates were cared for, there being at present 58 males and 36 females therein. The report was adopted.

Mr. W. H. Gallinger, Reeve of Cornwall, and Dr. J. Howard Munro, Reeve of Maxville, moved a resolution of condolence on the death of Sheriff Mack, a copy of which was ordered to be inscribed in the minutes and a copy forwarded to Mrs. Mack and family, expressing appreciation of the Sheriff's many fine qualities and deep sympathy with the bereaved. Resolution was carried by a standing vote.

On motion of Messrs. Bryan and Intosh, Council adjourned to the call of the chair to allow the special committee to meet and strike the standing committees for the year and report to Council.

When the committe completed its duties the report presented to Council gave the following as the standing committees for the year:

Education—Shaver, D. A. McIntosh, Nesbitt, Johnston, Foster, Ross, Hamilton, McLachlan, Fitzgerald, Munro, Graveley, H. D. McDonald, Blair, Nhcicols, VanAllen, Bryan, McRae, McLeod, Irvine, Clark. Chairman, D. A. McIntosh, Reeve of Finch Village.

Equalization of Assessment—Gallinger, Murray, Morrison, Nugent, Shaver, D. A. McIntosh, Beckstead, Nesbitt, Crowder, Johnston, Foster, Ross, Hamilton, D. S. McIntosh, J. D. McDonald, McCrimmon, F. McLeod, McLachlan, Fitzgerald, Munro, Chairman, Thomas Johnston, Reeve of Matilda Township.

Communications—Nesbitt, Crowder, Ross, Danis, H. D. McDonald, VanAllen, R. A. McLeod, Irvine, Clark. Chairman, Roderick A. McLeod, Deputy-Reeve of Lancaster Township.

Resolutions and Memorials—Shaver, Crowder, Ross, Hamilton, McCrimmon, Munro, Graveley, Danis, Lafebvre, Nichols, Annable. Chairman, John E. Crowder, Reeve of Mountain Township.

Messrs. Hamilton and Beckstead moved that the Council adjourn until eight p.m. on Wednesday. In support of this motion, Mr. Hamilton considered it advisable to hold at least one night sitting.

Other members objected to this course, stating that in past sessions the Council had got along without night sessions very nicely and business had not suffered. It was pointed out that the Clerk had to work until three and four o'clock in the morning following night sittings in order to keep up with his work and have it in shape for the next day.

Dr. Munro and D. A. McIntosh moved in amendment that five p.m. Wednesday be substituted for eight p.m. as the hour to which adjournment should be made.

A vote was taken on the amendment and it was carried by 26 to 9, the Warden not voting. Those who supported Mr. Hamilton's main motion were, Messrs. Beckstead, Foster, Hamilton, Irvine, Thompson, Johnston, McCrimmon, Fred McLeod, VanAllen, Opposed, the balance of Council.

The Council then adjourned until five p.m. on Wednesday.

M. O. H. at Session

At the Wednesday session, D. C. J. Hamilton, medical officer of health for Stormont, was invited to speak and presented an appeal for an isolation hospital for tubercular patients. In his brief talk, he referred to the large number of cases of tuberculosis in the district and the improper treatment they were receiving.

"It is my wish, at this time, to suggest that a building particularly for such patients be built. I am of the opinion that the council can help me considerably and would ask that at this or some succeeding meeting, they should draft a resolution to be placed before the provincial legislature, recommending the construction of such an institution.

No Free Sanitariums

"We have all heard of the so-called free sanitariums, but I can make the statement that there is no such thing. I have tried several times to procure places for patients in these institutions and have found that unless the patient is able to pay, one excuse or another is employed to refuse admittance."

Agricultural Committee

At the conclusion of Dr. Hamilton's speech, J. A. Simpson, district representative of the Department of Agricure, was given a hearing, when he presented an appeal for an agricultural committee to be appointed.

"I have come to ask for this appointment believing that the people in this district need it. In all the other counties of Ontario there are similar bodies which are aiding the work of the Department. The function of such body would give increased moral support. This is very necessary because at present the great difficulty which we as agricultural workers have to contend with, is indifference on the part of the farmers. We need the backing of such an advisory committee. The Committee would form a valuable aid as an advisory council. Our work would be more profitable if we had the advice of men who are familiar with conditions in the district. I think that a committee of about twelve men would be ideal. With such an organization we could work out an excellent development program and could possibly eliminate many mistakes.

Before adjournment, a motion was forwarded and carried, providing that these questions be taken up in committee of the whole, the following day.

THURSDAY'S SESSION.

Reports of several committees were received at the session of council Thursday afternoon and various recommendations of committees were acted upon.

In the report of the communications committee, a single matter was dealt with, that of Mr. Simpson's request regarding an agricultural council. The committee advised that action be taken on the matter.

Before the council adjourned for the day, Dr. J. Howard Munro moved a resolution of sympathy to Henry Williams, a former member of Council, who is seriously ill. The resolution which was adopted, was as follows: "That the Clerk be instructed to forward a letter to Henry Williams, an ex-member of the Council, who is at present in Cornwall General Hospital, expressing our sincere sympathy with him in his illness and expressing the wish that he may soon be restored to health and strength, and also that the Clerk forward flowers on behalf of the council."

FRIDAY SESSION.

Reports of committees and introduction and passing of by-laws occupied the majority of the time at Friday's session of Council. The first report of the county property committee was lengthy and dealt with many matters. The report was referred to the committee of the whole and then passel in open council without amendment.

According to this report, a subcommittee composed of W. H. Gallinger, chairman of the committee, and the Clerk was appointed to attend to repairs and improvements to buildings and grounds. Appropriation of an amount not to exceed $30 was granted to be used in connection with the jail and county buildings. The Clerk was instructed to call for tenders for coal, the same to be filed before the June session. Judge F. T. Costello applied for the position of sheriff. The application was filed. A motion was placed before the Council that the clerk's office be moved from the lower floor to the second floor and into the former sheriff's office in order that he might be near to the county superintendent of roads, J. G. Cameron, whose work falls along similar lines, and also that the Clerk might be accessible to the council-hall during county sessions. The caretaker was instructed to attend to the caretaking of the library of the Law Association. The committee recommended that the finance committee purchase a suit for each of the turnkeys and one for the jailer if desired.

Commission Chosen

The first and chief article on the report of the committee on roads and bridges dealt with the appointment of the commission for county bridges. Those appointed were H. C. Nugent—Connaungnt Bridge; Robert Bryan—Scots Bridge, Silver Creek Bridge and McCaul Bridge; Thomas Johnston—Black Creek, Sandy Creek, South Branch; Sidney Thompson — West Bridge; J. E. Crowder—McConnell and Bickford Bridge; James R. Blair—McRae's Bridge; W. A. Murray—Grants Bridge; J. E. Annable—Belisle Boundary Bridge at Marionville. Such commissioners are to have power to issue orders on the treasurer for repair bills in connection with any such bridge and which the treasurer is authorized to pay when properly certified.

In the report of the road superintendent it was pointed out that the county liability for the construction and maintenance of the provincial highways in these counties for 1929 was $74,206, being twenty per cent of the total cost. This amount, together with the necessary interest, will be levied next June.

The expenditures for county roads were classified as follows, according to the various sections: Quebec boundary to the Stormont-Glengarry boundary, $1,595 for construction and $24,284 for maintenance; between the boundaries ofstormont, $319,256 for construction and $6,430 for maintenance; across Williamsburg Township, $2,195 for construction and $5,481 for maintenance; across Matilda Township, an amount of $43,974 for construction was credited as a refund from the Dominion Government on the Canal Bank Roads in 1927, and maintenance $5,481; Morrisburg to Winchester Springs, $16,578 for construction and $9,205 for maintenance; Winchester Springs to Carleton County, $17,925 for construction and $10,406 for maintenance. The warden and clerk will form a board for auditing the accounts of the County Roads.

To finance the work on the county road system for this year until debentures are sold, the Warden and Clerk have been authorized to borrow against such debentures, direct levy and Government subsidy of $125,000 on a contemplated expenditure of $250,000, such sums required from time to time not exceeding in aggregate $200,000.

Crossing Protection

The committee endorsed the system of protection regarding the C. P. R. crossing at Apple Hill which was directed to the Department of Railway Commissioners.

The final item was the appointment of an advisory committe, composed of the Warden, Ed Strader; Fred McLeod and John Morrison, to assist in the work of the roads committee.

The last report received at the Friday session was that of the committee on resolutions and memorials. They suggested that the United Counties' Council co-operate with the Hastings County Council in a memorial to the provincial government requesting that all power and communication companies remove all poles interfering with the construction of the highways. A memorial will be addressed to Honorable George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, requesting that the Department bear ninety per cent of the mainteance and cost of the provincial highway and not the eighty per cent which has prevailed in the past.

The Board of Managers for the House of Refuge for the coming year will be: Warden Strader, D. A. McIntosh, and W. A. Murray.

Four by-laws were passed, three dealing with the appropriations for county roads, and the fourth installing the new members of the Board of Managers of the House of Refuge and Industry. The first by-law stated that the Warden and Treasurer of the United Counties should be given power to borrow $50,000 to pay the proportion of the cost of the construction of the Provincial Highways in the United Counties. The second dealt with the amount which should be appropriated for the expense of the county highways. Another authorized the Warden and Treasurer to borrow $200,000 for the counties' road systems.

Mr. Peaslee On Careless Charity

Hearing an unwonted barking and snarling in Caleb Peaslee's yard, Deacon Hyne made as much haste toward it as an elderly man with a rheumatic knee can make. He found Mr. Peaslee surrounded and harassed by a multitude of dogs—at least, to the deacon's peace-loving eyes it looked like a multitude. "What on airth, Caleb—"

"On account of the rats," Caleb interrupted him sharply. "It's got to the point where either we've got to move out or else the rats have. They are increasing like rabbits, seems to me, and traps don't thin 'em out any. So I advertised that I'd give five dollars for a rat-chatchin' dog. I stuck up a notice in the post office day before yes'day, and this is what comes of it!"

The deacon looked at the surging mass of dogs. "I don't see many amongst 'em I'd pick for ratters," he remarked disparagingly. "That brindled one looks big enough to pull down an ox; and that black-and-white one that jest run betwixt your legs and like to throwed you is near as big as a colt. Seems to me the folks that read your notice didn't show any great judgment in answerin' it. Those dogs are all too big for ratters."

Mr. Peaslee nodded ruefully. "But they showed as much judgment as I did," he admitted with a crestfallen air. "I'd ought to have known it would be like this if I advertised. The ordinary person thinks anything'll do when you advertise; you jest notice sometime."

"How many of 'em do you make the count to be?" asked the deacon.

"There's fourteen of 'em here in the yard," Caleb replied. "It looks more like forty. I know, but that's on account of their movin' 'round so lively. And there's another one tied in the barn; that makes fifteen."

"I'm as good at figgers as that myself," said the deacon.

"It kind of puts me in mind," said Caleb, ignoring the deacon's irony, "of one time the minister give out in church about a des'tute family over Bank's Holler way. They was a bedrid father and the mother and seven daughters, so the minister said, and, while they could make out to git 'nough to eat, they hadn't anything to wear and couldn't afford to buy.

"'Now,' says he, 'I'm makin' this appeal to the men members of the congregation; the women have been called upon often enough in the way of donation parties, and most of the work in charity falls on them anyway. Let the men come forward and do their best to relieve this needy family, bearing in mind that winter is approachin' and that they must be clothed in some way.'

"He talked along for a spell mighty movin' and told what he knew of the condition of the family, talkin' all the time to the men; and I'm free to say that I for one was about ready to give about everything I owned in the way of clothes, and that my wife didn't forbid me givin'. I figgered I'd pick up some few things what times I could ketch her out of the house, and say nothin' to her about it; there'd be less argument over what I could spare and what I couldn't.

"The minister had sot the comin' Thursday for us all to meet at the house in Bank's Holler and lay our offerin's out in the shed; so when I drove up to the back door I wa'n't surprised to see eight or ten hosses hitched 'round the place and about as many men gathered 'round the yard; and whilst I was makin' my hoss fast to a cherry tree I noticed that the gatherin' seemed consid'able tickled over somethin'. However, I thought nothin' much about it and went round to the tail of the wagon and began to haul out the truck I'd fetched. The first thing I got holt of was a heavy blue overcoat that I'd worn for mebbe five years; and when I hauled that out in sight, Cyrus Ladd, that was standin' right handy to me, snickered right out and turned to Salem Osgood. 'What'd I tell you, Salem?' he said. And Salem began to laugh, too, though I didn't see anything to laugh at yet.

"But when I got my arms full of clothes and got to the shed door I could see plain enough, and I was ready to laugh too. I didn't need what Cyrus had to say to make things plain to me. 'I venture to say,' says he, 'that you didn't consult your wife over what you should bring, now, did ye?' And I had to own up I hadn't.

"'Well,' he says, 'it was the same way with the rest of us, leavin' out Amos Baker; we all figgered this was a man's donation party, and we took no counsel, each comin' to the same conclusion sep'rate. And the net result,' he says, lookin' at a slip of paper he had in his hand, 'is that we've got twenty-five men's overcoats, fifteen pairs of overalls, thirty-four coats and about the same number of vests, and over forty pairs of pants, and one dress and one cloak, which Amos Baker fetched on 'count of his wife advisin' him to take somethin' a woman could wear. She pointed out with some degree of reason,' Cyrus went on to say, 'that a man bedfast wouldn't have any great use for an overcoat and that women wouldn't have any more use than he would. And if we'd all done as Amos did,' Cyrus says, lookin' stiddy at us and reddenin' up some, 'we'd have showed more sense.'

"Whilst Cyrus was talkin' I'd done some thinkin', and by the time he'd got through I'd got into my pocket and fetched out my calfskin and got out a five-dollar bill; and when the rest of 'em saw that in my hand there was a gen'ral pullin' out of wallets, and Cyrus pulled off his hat and went 'round the circle. And when he dumped the hat onto the shed floor there was risin' seventy dollars in the heap.

"'There!' says he, wipin' his face and gatherin' the money up. 'I'm willin' and thankful to pay my part of that to realize how little judgment I've got in some things and how much I'm dependent on my wife's sense.'

"'Now,' he says, 'we'll load these things back into our wagons and take 'em back home; and I'll hand this money to the minister and let him give it over to the women-folks of this fam'ly to buy women's clothes with—not men's.

"'But,' he says, kind of grinnin', 'before he tetches one cent of this he's got to answer me one question man fashion: whether he figgered out beforehand how we'd act in pickin' out fittin' things, and if he figgered we'd be willin' to pay money to have nothin' said about it!'

"And it turned out afterwards," said Caleb, "that the minister grinned and owned up handsome. He was an awful smart minister," Caleb added thoughtfully.

Winter Jellies And Marmalades

By Etta Bitta Pye

"How about some strawberry preserves, mother?"

"You ate the last bite yesterday, John!"

This is the season when the above dialogue, varied in a hundred different ways takes place in thousands of homes.

Even an immense stock of pickles, preserves, conserves, jellies, and marmalades, has an uncanny way or disappearing long before preserving time comes again. Gifts to sick friends, guests, and the constant demand of the family males that they be given "something to dip their spoons into," see to it that the preserve closet is depleted very early in the year.

The wise housewife decides promptly to restock the closet immediately. Naturally she does not have an opportunity to prepare many of the delicacies that are put up in August and September, but she still has the opportunity to put up many goodies—far more than you would imagine.

Marmalades may be made—for the citrus fruits are always obtainable. Apples may be turned into a dozen tasteful delicacies. Prunes and other dried fruits may also be called upon. Even the humble carrot may be turned into a marmalade that is extremely delicious and very unique.

Best of all, most of these winter fruits call for a considerable quantity of sugar, so that winter jellies and marmalades furnish an important source of energy and interior warmth during the cold winter months.

Here are several very simple recipes that may be tried without digging very deeply into a pocketbook that may have been strained during the holiday season that is not so far behind us. Try them and see how much more comfortable it is to preserve in cold weather than it is when the mercury is flirting with the top of the kitchen thermometer:

WINTER APPLE JELLY

Wash the apples, cut them up without peeling or removing the cores, cover them with cold water and cook until very soft. Strain juice through a cloth, without pressing, and cook very slowly for about 25 minutes—using 12 ounces of granulated sugar for each quart of juice. Pour into glasses, cool, and then place in refrigerator for several hours until it thickens.

When making apple pies or cooking apple sauce, the peels and cores may easily be turned into several glasses of this delicious jelly.

CARROT MARMALADE

A dozen raw carrots, four cups of sugar, three lemons and one teaspoon each of ground cloves, ground cinnamon and ground allspice will make this unusual winter dish. Grate carrots, add sugar and let stand one hour. Add lemon juice and spices. Cook slowly for one hour. Turn into sterilized jars and seal when cold.

ORANGE SWEET PICKLE

This calls for four oranges, two cups sugar, one and one-third cups vinegar, one teaspoon whole cloves and one teaspoon stick cinnamon. Peel oranges, removing all white membrane; cut into thick slices; steam until clear and tender. Boil sugar, vinegar and spices for 25 minutes. Add fruit and simmer slowly for one hour. Place in sterilized jars and seal.

1930 PRUNE JAM

This is very economical. Two cups prunes, four oranges, one cup sugar and half a cup of water are the only ingredients. Wash prunes and cut pulp from pits. Put pulp through a food chopper. Peel oranges and cut into small pieces. Cut rind of two oranges into small pieces. Mix all together, add sugar and water; cook slowly until thick. Turn into sterilized glasses and when cool cover with paraffin.

"And so Georgina is married, at last. Who is the happy man?"

"Her father."

One Good Recipe Makes A Cook Famous

and almost every housekeeper has a few jars of cranberries on hand to serve with fowl, when needed. Cranberries make an appetizing dish and yet the average housekeeper does not use them enough. Food experts say they contain numbers of vitamines, so they should be used as more than a garnish for fowl, or in pie.

Have you ever tried a cranberry souffle? If not, here is a splendid tested recipe:

CRANBERRY SOUFFLE

1 cupful milk
3 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon water
1 cupful sugar
1 cupful cooked, sieved cranberries
1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
3 egg whites

Combine the milk and one-half cupful of sugar and place in the top of a double boiler. When the milk is hot, add the egg-yolks, well beaten, together with one-half cupful of sugar and the salt. Cook until thick and then add the cranberry juice, lemon juice and gelatin, the latter having been softened in the water.

Continue cooking until the gelatin has dissolved and then turn out and cool. When cold, fold in the egg-whites, stiffly beaten. Pile in the serving dishes and serve cold. This recipe serves six.

PARALYSIS

Paralysis appears to be a disorder of the muscle, but it is, in reality, a condition which results from a disorder of the nerves or the nervous mechanism which controls the muscles. The disorder of the nervous control causes either a rigidity of the muscles or a relaxed state; in either case, complete or partial loss of control exists, and the muscles involved or the part served by the muscles, is said to be paralysed.

The disorder of the nervous control is caused by damage to the nervous tissue. If the spinal cord is injured, there is a loss of sensation below that point. The senses of touch, pain, and temperature are lost because the connection which carries these sensations in from the skin is broken at the point of injury. Paralysis does not occur as the result of infection, the action of bacteria or living disease germs. In certain communicable diseases, the spinal cord is selected for special attack. This is the case in infantile paralysis, in which disease, unfortunately, paralysis is one of the outstanding features. Injuries of the head may result in paralysis on account of the bone's pressing on certain centres in the brain which control the muscles.

The rupture of a blood vessel in the brain means pressue; depending upon the extent of the hemorrhage and its location, paralysis to a greater or less extent occurs. This condition is commonly called apoplexy or paralytic stroke. The blood contained in the blood vessels is under pressure. If the wall of the blood vessel becomes weakened, it may give way under this pressure and hemorrhage result. The blood vessels of the brain are particularly delicate and that is why they give way first. The weakening of the blood vessel walls occurs as a result of disease, particularly syphilis. In other cases, the break is not due to any particular weakening of the blood vessel walls, but to an increase in the blood pressure to a point that causes the blood to burst through the vessel walls.

The extent of the relief which may be given to the paralysed depends upon the cause of the condition. Many forms of the disease can be helped; some can be improved; for others, unfortunately, little or nothing can be done. Prevention is chiefly done through the control of infections.

Some Factors Which Influence the Hatch

The Breeding Stock. Experimental Farms Note.

The factor of primary importance in the determination of the quality of the hatch is the vitality and condition of the breeding stock. The importance of this factor should not be overlooked. Under present conditions of intensive breeding for egg production the vitality factor is continually being placed as of secondary importance to pedigree. Apart from native vitality of stock the breeders must be handled in such a way as to maintain body condition at its highest peak. It is usually wise to give them a rest prior to the breeding season. At any rate they should not be forced into rapid production before their eggs are needed for incubation purposes. During the past five years on the Experimental Farm system superior hatchability has been obtained from hens rather than from pullets, without exception. Livability of chicks, however, has been approximately equal from both classes. It is suggested that if pullets must be used for breeding purposes they should be early hatched, well matured and vigorous. An added consideration is the fact that culling of pullet hatched stock is usually severe since many of their dams fail to live up to expectations in making a suitable first year egg record, and

The proper feeding of breeders is important since either the egg or the bird's body will lack any element which is essential to reproduction but which has not been supplied in the feed. A properly balanced breeding ration should ordinarily contain scratch grain, mash, green feed, grit, shell, charcoal, and plenty of fresh water. Experiments over the farm system have shown that certain vitamin supplements improve hatchability. Among these, cod liver oil was most efficient and should be contained in the mash at the rate of two per cent by weight prior to and during the breeding season. Fresh green feeds should be fed when available, and of these cabbage is the best. Good quality alfalfa leaf meal makes an excellent substitute for fresh greed feed and may be mixed in the mash up to fifteen per cent by weight. Mangels make a good source of succulent feed as a supplement to alfalfa leaf meal. Other feeds of high fibre content such as oat and barley products and wheat bran, should be cut down in amount if present, to reduce fibre when alfalfa meal is fed.

"I'm the fastest man in the world," said the man who beats the drum. "Time flies, dosn't it? Well, I beat time.

Young Man—"How much do I pay for a marriage licence?"

Clerk—"Fife dollars down, and your entire salary each week for the rest of your life."

The many friends of the family were deeply grieved to hear of the death of Mrs. Shaver, wife of James E. Shaver, of Newington, at the home of her youngest son, Herman, of the Seventh Concession of Osnabruck on January 29th shortly after 12 o'clock. Junior League Leaders Here Monday Night

Monday night Winchester's fast Juniors will be here for their last scheduled game with our boys when a struggle worth seeing will be staged. Chesterville team have given the heavy Winchester boys the hardest games of the season, driving them into overtime for their wins and will be out Monday night to break the visitor's string of victories. The locals play a wonderfully good combination game but are considerably under the weight of the Winchester players who are not slow to take advantage of it to guard their citadel. The Juniors deserve a bumper house.

CARD OF THANKS

We, in our recent loss of a loving sister, wish to thank all friends and neighbors for their many kindly acts, for sympathy, for floral tributes and especially do we thank Miss Derby, her nurse, Rev. Newman, the choir, and also Mr. King. We very much appreciate all kindness shown to her and will cherish the memory of same acts. Father, sisters and brother.
