Charlottenburgh set to talk, says union stalling negotiations

WILLIAMSTOWN—Charlottenburgh Township and its unionized employees would likely have reached agreement on their first collective agreement by now if union negotiators had returned to the bargaining table, says the township's administrator.

In a letter to the editor of The Glengarry News this week, Chief Administrative Officer James Currier disputes statements attributed to Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) National Representative Steve Backs. Specifically, Mr. Currier says the union's demand during the last bargaining session amounted to a 13.75 per cent salary increase for full-time clerical staff in the first year, not simply five per cent, plus a "catch-up factor" stated by Mr. Backs. The township offered 4.79 per cent over one year.

"We are left wondering why that offer was summarily rejected by the union without any indication that further discussion would be in order," wrote Mr. Currier. "In addition, management offered to set up a joint committee to review all of the clerical wage scales to determine if adjustments were, in fact, needed. That offer was also rejected out-of-hand."

Mr. Currier went on to say management did not understand why Mr. Backs stated the $125 uniform allowance for recreation staff was inadequate, when the amount was exactly what the union had asked for.

The administrator also denied the union's claim that the township had threatened to discontinue supplying roads workers with coveralls. "No such statements were ever made by members of the management bargaining committee," he said.

In an interview Tuesday, Mr. Currier said the township had no knowledge of a strike threat, other than what was reported in The Glengarry News. "The subject was never raised by the union," he said. "We're still extremely hopeful of getting back to the negotiating table."

He said the township did not have specific contingency plans for a strike, but added, "Essential services would have to be maintained by management staff."

Management (non-union) employees include Mr. Currier, Clerk-treasurer Marcel Lapierre, Mr. Currier's secretary, the roads superintendent, the recreation director, the township planner and the secretary to the committee of adjustment.

This is the slow time of the year for the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, said Mr. Currier. The upstairs hall could still be used, since catering is always contracted out, but building maintenance would suffer. Parks would not likely be affected, he added, since grass cutting is normally done by students hired for the summer. Management staff would have to assume essential office functions, such as preparing tax certificates for estates and real estate transactions.

But the administrator insists the township does not expect a strike and is not preparing for one. He noted having a unionized staff has not adversely affected the township's operations.

"Having a union has caused no interruption in normal routine," he said. "There is still a high degree of co-operation between management and staff."

Management and union negotiators last met April 2, with a conciliator. At that time the township submitted its most recent proposal for a collective agreement, which included "some significant moves," said Mr. Currier.

Union officials rejected the offer. "There was no comment from them. We don't know why. It was rejected without a response. We're still waiting for a response."

Mr. Currier said the township is prepared to resume negotiations at any time and is simply waiting for word from the union.

"Management's position remains that nothing will get resolved until the union becomes interested in resuming its seat at the bargaining table and coming forth with proposals in response to those which were last submitted by management," Mr. Currier stated in his letter.

If Mr. Backs would devote his scarce time to negotiations with the employer instead of thrust and parry through the media, there would probably be a collective agreement in place by now."

Separate school budget up 25% local tax share jumps 6.35%

CORNWALL — It's a confusing year for school board budgets in Ontario. The SD&G Roman Catholic Separate School Board approved a $40.3 million budget April 21, calling for a whopping 25 per cent increase in spending, but this translates into a local tax increase of 6.35 per cent.

The "typical" separate school supporter, with a property assessment of $4,000, will see the schools' portion of his tax bill increase about $31, board spokesman Roy Julian said Tuesday.

Bill 30, the provincial legislation that extended equal government funding to Roman Catholic high schools, has resulted in significant financial changes for both public and separate school boards, making comparisons with the spending of previous years difficult and confusing, said Mr. Julian.

For example, the separate board must pay $4.29 million, nearly all of it to the SD&G County Board of Education, as transfer payments for the children of separate school supporters attending Grades 10, 11, 12 and 13 in public high schools. Nearly $3 million must also be paid to the public board to cover tuition fees for more than 630 similar students attending Grade 9 in public high schools.

Effective Jan. 1 of this year, the separate board began receiving the full education tax assessment from separate school supporters. Previously, the separate board received only the elementary portion, with the secondary share going to the public system.

But the lion's share of the new revenue is given to the public board, which actually has the expense of educationg most Roman Catholic high school students. Separate boards assumed Grade 9 this year and will take on one more grade each year until a full system is developed and transfer payments to the public boards come to an end.

So for, the local separate board has only one high school, St. Joseph's in Cornwall.

The SD&G separate board's 1987 budget includes $23.4 million, 58 per cent of the total, for instruction; $5.2 million, 13 per cent, for transportation; $5.3 million, 13.1 per cent, for tuition fees; $3.8 million, 9.5 per cent, for the operation and maintenance of school buildings; $1.5 million, 3.8 per cent, for administration and about $1 million for other expenses, including capital costs and interest payments.

Grants from the Ontario Ministry of Education will cover 82.2 per cent of the budget, for a total of $33.1 million, leaving $6.3 million, 15.7 per cent, to be raised through local taxes. Another $850,000, 5.1 per cent, is received through other forms of revenue, such as tutition fees, rentals and interest.

Last week the public school board approved a budget totalling $67.35 million, a 5.5 per cent increase over 1986.

Charlottenburgh pledges $10,000 hall of fame nears $40,000 goal

by Sue Harrington

WILLIAMSTOWN—A delegation from the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame got less than it asked for Monday night as Charlottenburgh Township Council decided to donate $5,000 per year for two years towards the erection of a permanent building in Maxville.

Members of the delegation had requested $1 per capita per year for the two year period, which, based upon Charlottenburgh's approximate population of 7,000, would have resulted in a total contribution of $14,000.

In making its request, three members of the delegation spoke to council. Angus H. McDonell gave the historical background of the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame which was initiated some nine or 10 years ago. Mr. McDonell said that though the decision had been made to locate the proposed building at the site of the Highland Games, "Charlottenburgh has never been ignored." Mr. McDonell went on to mention some of the 25 per cent of inductees in the hall who came from Charlottenburgh.

Archibald MacDonell explained the purpose of the delegation. "We're here looking for funds to build the sports hall of fame," said Mr. MacDonell, one of the directors of the board. Fellow director Bill Campbell explained how, of the $343,000 needed to build the facility, board members were hoping that $40,000 could be collected from towns and municipalities.

In addition, donations from individuals were targeted at $61,000, and from families of inductees at $20,000. Major funding to the tune of $150,000 would come from the provincial government, while it was hoped that companies would contribute $30,000 and service clubs and organizations, $42,000.

The chief reason for the Maxville location, explained Mr. Campbell, was to cover anticipated yearly operating costs of $10,000. This revenue would come from admission charges to the hall, and directors felt that sharing the site with the Highland Games would result in a great spin-off crowd from the Games each August.

When questioned by council members as to whether or not he felt the board would be able to raise the additional money from private donations, Mr. Campbell replied, "I'm a

Deschamps jailed 18 months for sexually assaulting children

One of three Dunvegan-area men charged last fall with sexually assaulting children was sentenced to 18 months in jail in Alexandria Provincial Court Thursday.

Keith Deschamps, 33, was also placed on probation for three years and ordered to undergo counselling and treatment while in custody and following his release.

Mr. Deschamps pleaded guilty to two counts of sexual assault in February. The assaults took place between September 1983 and August 1986 and between April 1985 to February 1986 in the Dunvegan area. The children involved were seven and 11 years old at the time.

A pre-sentence report said the man needed psychiatric help for a sexual disorder, but an aggravating factor was his refusal to get help in the past. The report also concluded Mr. Deschamps was unlikely to seek assistance because of a poor attitude.

Although Defense Counsel Hal Sherwood didn't question his client's jail term, he told the court the most important factor in the sentencing was for Mr. Deschamps to receive psychiatric help.

"It would not be inappropriate to have a lengthy probation following a period of reformatory incarceration, but the protection of society won't be gained by locking up this man for a long time, but to see he gets the psychiatric help he needs."

Prosecutor Barbara Kothe quickly pointed out the accused had a record of two similar convictions and that "a high range of reformatory incarceration was a must and it would be the only way to protect the public."

Mr. Deschamps' 71-year-old father, Peter, was fined $1,000 and placed on probation for three years in provincial court last month. He pleaded guilty to one count of sexual assault in the Dunvegan area inthe spring of 1984, while babysitting a child.

A third Dunvegan man, Donald Clark, 39, was charged last fall with three counts of sexual assault. He has pleaded guilty and is presently attending the Royal Ottawa Hospital for psychiatric treatment. He will be sentenced May 14.

While Mr. Clark's charges are similar, they involve other children during separate incidents between April 1985 and February 1986.

Judge Reginald Levesque placed a publication ban on any information that might identify the victims.

The charges were laid last summer, following a two-month investigation by Maxville OPP.

Conc. 2 residents fuming over road

by Janet Clermont

Steps will be taken to upgrade road conditions on Con. 2 in Kenyon Township, in an effort to eliminate dust caused by heavy trucks using the road as a bypass.

Township councillors and landowners met on site, April 21, after residents began complaining about the dust and poor road conditions.

Kenyon Reeve Wilfred Vallance said the township had already applied to the Ministry of Transportation and Communications (MTC) for funding, but no response had been received.

However, he said, "The better we fix the road, the more traffic we will have."

Trucks carrying heavy loads are turning off Hwy. 34 onto the dirt road, then back onto Hwy. 43, in an effort to avoid street lights and traffic.

He said a request to lower the speed limit to 50 km will be discussed at the next township meeting tonight (Wed.). This will hopefully slow down the traffic and eliminate the dust, he said.

An MTC officer will monitor the roads more closely and stop heavy trucks carrying more than half loads, said Mr. Vallance.

"I don't think we (the township) should carry the burden," he added.

The township applied to counties' council last year to take over the issue, but has received no response.

"We are not sure what is going to happen, but we are trying hard and fully understand their (the landowners) situation," Councillor Gerald Trottier said Thursday.

However, landowner Len Jaeck said Friday residents have been complaining for more than 15 years and nothing has been done to solve the problem yet. "Hopefully the politi-

Councillors anxious to see septic lagoon opened in township

by Sue Harrington

WILLIAMSTOWN—Charlottenburgh Township Councillor Paul Rozon who claimed he was "up to his ears in this septic thing" urged the township Monday to settle things once and for all by building its own lagoon for septic waste "as soon as possible."

Mr. Rozon's request comes on the heels of a decision by the City of Cornwall to cut off privileges granted to private haulers from the township who are now able to dispose of their septic waste into the city's sewage treatment facility.

In a report to council, administrator Jay Currier claimed he felt "city council might be prepared to consider a further extension on the premise that the township had taken decisions with respect to the disposal of septic wastes, and requires a reasonable period of time in order to implement those actions."

Councillor Larry Gordon asked whether council could find out if a former landfill site recently closed would be a suitable location for a township-owned lagoon. "We've got to do something to indicate to the city that we are pursuing certain avenues," said Mr. Gordon. "That way perhaps we can buy more time from Cornwall."

Reeve Morgan Major once again mentioned the private operator who has said he was willing to establish his own lagoon. Councillors said they were tired of waiting for the operator to take action and instructed township staff to issue him an ultimatum as of this Wednesday, by which time they expected him to initiate the official plan and zoning bylaw amendments necessary for him to establish a lagoon site.

Also at the meeting, Carol-Ann Ross urged fellow councillors to spend the money slated for repairs to the River Road this year on reconstruction of the "worst" part of the Glen Roy Road instead.

Miss MacMillan, who has protested the publicity since being named citizen of the year said, "I hope this will be the end of it (recognition)." Mr. Villeneuve made the presentation at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital Ladies Auxiliary gift shop, where Miss MacMillan works as a volunteer.

Man seriously injured

MAXVILLE—An Alexandria man is in serious condition in Ottawa General Hospital after the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car, Sunday night.

Rejean Latulippe, 23, was eastbound on Hwy. 43, near Dornie Road, at 8:30 p.m., when he collided with a car driven by Cornwall resident Ernest Wattie, 41. Mr. Wattie's 1983 Mercury stagionwagon was westbound on the highway.

According to Maxville OPP, Mr. Latulippe was rushed by ambulance to Ottawa, suffering from serious injuries. Mr. Wattie was taken to Glengarry Memorial Hospital with minor injuries, but two passengers in his car were unharmed.

Mr. Latulippe's 1982 Honda motorcycle sustained $3,000 damage while Mr. Wattie's vehicle is estimated to have $2,500 damage.

very positive individual. We will get it." He then went on to say that an unsolicited donation of $25,000 had already been received.

In the discussion which followed, Councillors Paul Rozon and Larry Gordon were initially in favor of granting the $1 per capita request. Councillor Carol-Ann Ross pointed out that Charlottenburgh, with the largest population of any town or municipality in Glengarry, would end up contributing twice as much money to a facility which was not even located in its own township.

Deputy-reeve Bob Roth questioned the source of funding for such an endeavor. "I'm not saying it's not a good project," said Mr. Roth. "I just don't see how we can justify it out of property taxes when we can't fix the roads people are complaining about."

On a motion by Councillor Ross, Charlottenburgh decided to shave its contribution by donating $5,000 each year in 1987 and 1988.

This latest contribution means hall of fame directors have almost reached their goal of $40,000.

"We're very pleased with Charlottenburgh's commitment. This $10,000 in addition to the previous commitments makes approximately $40,000. The Ministry of Citizenship and Culture requested commitments from our municipalities, to show good faith on the part of Glengarry," said Board Chairman Angus H. McDonell, Tuesday.

In addition to the municipal share, a grant from the ministry will raise funds to $190,000, more than half of the $350,000 hall of fame price tag.

Charlottenburgh approves $5.63 million budget after marathon, 7½-hour meeting

WILLIAMSTOWN—Charlottenburgh Township council approved a $5.63 million budget at the close of a marathon, 7 1/2-hour meeting April 22. The new budget is more than double the township's 1986 expenditure of $2.74 million, but includes unusual capital expenditures of $3.28 million.

Provincial grants and other revenues will contribute more than $3 million (93 per cent) toward the capital projects, leaving township taxpayers with a net cost of about $275,000.

The projects include $2.5 million for installation of water and sewage services in the Purcell Subdivision, $200,000 for the first phase of road reconstruction in the Glendale Subdivision and $250,000 for half the cost of rebuilding Boundary Road between Charlottenburgh and the City of Cornwall.

The provincial government will provide grants amounting to 85 per cent of the Purcell project, as well as $225,000 for Boundary Road and nearly $57,000 for Glendale.

The township will be increasing taxes for its own expenditures by only 3.31 per cent, the lowest in more than 10 years, administrator James Currier said Tuesday. The "typical" Charlottenburgh homeowner, with an assessment of $4,000, will see the township's share of his property taxes increase $11, he said.

The township will not be able to set the mill rate and advise taxpayers of the total bill until calculations are finalized for levies from the two area school boards and the United Counties of SD&G. Combined, they usually account for two-thirds of tax bills in the township.

The township's budget also includes (last year's actual expenditures appear in brackets): $447,700 ($370,200) for general government; $241,700 ($177,000) for protection of people and property, primarily fire protection; $1.08 million ($829,000) for roads; $161,800 ($184,700) for environmental services, including garbage collection, sanitary landfill operation and water services; $16,000 ($34,700) as the township's share of nursery school operating costs; $406,000 ($396,900) for recreation and $249,000 ($70,598) for planning and development.

Some of the apparent increases were the result of accounting charges, Mr. Currier explained. For example, planning and development includes $173,000 for tile drainage loans. Last year a similar figure was included in general government.

The budget was approved after only one special meeting, instead of the five meetings used last year, said Mr. Currier. He said this was largely because councillors were better prepared with a 160-page document detailing the budget to study in advance.

Public school board expected to drop plans to remodel school

by Lesley Cadham

CORNWALL—The SD&G Board of Education trustees were to have considered a recommendation by the board's finance commiteee that the 1987 budget not include the cost of renovating Maxville Senior School, last night (Tues.)

The matter was to have been raised at the board's regular English-language meeting. According to chairman Joe Gunn, the finance and operations committee does not have the power to decide whether funds will be allocated to the school's upgrading.

At the March 24 meeting, the board tabled a four-part recommendation, outlined by the facilities committee which would prevent Maxville Senior School from closing. One section suggested funds be allocated in the 1987 budget and in budgets for years to come, to renovate some areas of the school and demolish others.

The school has been on the chopping block for several years. Parts of the school, built in 1914, fell into disrepair and have been condemned by the fire marshall in the past.

Every year, board administrators review the situation to determine whether it should remain open. This year, they proposed closure, effective June 1988, suggesting the approximately 80 students be transferred to Maxville Public School.

According to Board Chairman Joe Gunn, keeping the senior school open would mean spending $650,000 on renovations and the demolition of condemned portions.

About $250,000 would be needed to prepare the public school for the new students.

In the minutes of the April 21 meeting, it is written, "The finance and operations committee also reported to the board of education that no funds were being provided in the 1987 budget in regard to a renovation and demolition plan relative to this particular school (Maxville Senior School.)"

The committee supported three remaining sections of the recommendations, particularly, that the school would be removed from the closure line on June 30. The recommendation also stated, the board, subject to ministry approval, would initiate procedures to sever five acres of the school grounds to offer for sale and the two schools would operate as one for administrative purposes.

Damage totals $16,000 in weekend auto accidents

LANCASTER—Several accidents causing almost $16,000 damage occurred in Glengarry during the weekend.

Friday afternoon, 35-year-old Pierre Gatien of Chicago, Illinois was driving east on Tyotown Road near Boundary Road in Charlottenburgh Township. He drove his 1984 Ferrara coupe off the roadway to avoid pedestrians and struck a parked 1979 GMC pickup truck.

Damage to the Ferrara is estimated at $5,000, while the pickup truck sustained about $2,000 damage. Mr. Gatien was uninjured. According to reports, a Ferrara is a larger vehicle manufactured by the same company producing Ferraris.

Just before midnight, Friday, a vehicle driven by North Lancaster resident Claude Sauvé, 23, collided with another vehicle driven by 25-year-old Jean Marc Lavoie of Wawa. Mr. Sauvé was driving south on Curry Hill Road when Mr. Lavoie's 1978 Pontiac coupe pulled out of a Hwy. 401 exit ramp and collided with Mr. Sauvé's 1980 Buick sedan, say police.

Mr. Lavoie has been charged with failing to yield and his vehicle sustained an estimated $350 damage. Damage to Mr. Sauvé's vehicle is estimated at $1,800. No one was injured.

Shelley Gilliland, 20, of Cornwall was uninjured when she rolled her 1978 Ford pickup truck. Ms. Gilliland was driving east on the Glen Road of the third concession of Charlottenburgh Township, four kms. west of Summerstown Road, when she lost control of her vehicle. Damage is estimated at $1,800.

Cornwall resident Anne McKinnon, 37, was charged with careless driving, late Sunday night, after she lost control of her 1986 Ford sedan and struck a tree. She was driving east on South Branch Road, a half mile east of Cornwall. Damage to the vehicle is estimated at $4,500 and Ms. McKinnon suffered minor injuries.

EDITORIALS/OPINION

Elect Senate

The Canadian Senate, as it exists, must be abolished. As a respository for political organizers and bagmen, along with a generous assortment of has-been elected politicians, its continued existence is an insult to democracy.

Far from being the forum for sober second it was meant to be 120 years ago, the Senate, populated by members appointed by a defeated government, can thwart the will of the Canadian people by stalling legislation approved by a democratically elected House of Commons.

Senators draw impressive salaries and expense allowances, have staff at their disposal and can draw on numerous taxpayer supplied benefits without even coming near Parliament Hill most of the year. At age 75 they are forced to retire with generous pensions.

True, the Senate is not entirely bereft of benefits to Canadians. Senate committees have often done an admirable job in committee study of legislation, at times initiating worthwhile improvements. But with new rules in the House of Commons, committees of elected MPs have largely taken over that role, with impressive results.

To a large degree, the Senate was intended to serve as guardian of provincial interests in Ottawa. That purpose can be better served by Senators who have faced the electorate and know they will be accountable for their actions on the next polling day.

The prime minister could be required to appoint his cabinet from both the Commons and the Senate, making ministers accountable more frequently.

And, with an elected Senate, the worst example of rampant political patronage will be destroyed. That's a worthwhile end in itself.

Western provinces are pushing for a elected Senate. Ontario Premier David Peterson says his government finds the idea interesting. They might find most Canadians agree.

Wealth vs. poverty

Around the world hundreds of millions of people are forced to live in abject poverty. Millions are dying of starvation and from the lack of adequate housing, safe water or medical care.

We all sympathize. Many of us donate a few dollars each year through our churches or secular charities to help alleviate the suffering. It's a means of salving our conscience for enjoying great wealth in the shadow of humiliating poverty. We've grown fat and comfortable sympathizing with the less fortunate.

All we have done, even the massive effort to save millions starving in Ethiopia, amounted to no more than tossing pennies to beggars in the street. We have done next to nothing to address the root cause of extreme poverty; nothing to share our wealth.

In Canada and other nations farmers can't sell all that they produce. Some countries, including the United States, actually pay farmers to take fertile land out of production. There can be few greater sins than to refuse to grow food when so many are starving.

A three-year study by the World Commission on Environment and Development has determined, among other things, that poverty is a primary cause of much of the environmental damage that rages unchecked in the developing world. Industries that rely most heavily on environmental resources, the most polluting industries of all, are growing most rapidly in the poorest countries, where people will work for subsistence wages and governments can't afford the ''luxury'' of environmental regulations.

The commission, with representatives of 21 countries, chaired by Norwegian Prime Minister Gro Harlem Brundtland, concludes more people suffer from famine every year, while vast areas of forests and fertile land are destroyed, the ozone layer gets thinner, the gap between rich and poor widens and more money is spent on arms.

The commission, striking a positive stance, insists there is the possibility of a new era of economic growth, based on policies to sustain and expand the world's environmental resource base. Growth is essential to relieve the great poverty that is deepening in much of the developing world.

All the commission is basically asking for is co-operation, fair play and commonsense. Unfortunately, in a greedy, suspicious world, that's a tall order. If our collective conscience can't spur us to action, our sense of self-preservation should. Not many years ago, then prime minister Pierre Trudeau warned, if too little was done to alleviate the suffering of people in the southern hemispheres of Planet Earth, they would eventually rise against us and fight for their fair share of the wealth. How do you fight people fighting for their survival?

Empty rhetoric describes Reagan's acid rain move

RAMBLING REPORTER
Eugene Macdonald

If acid rain is toxic enough to kill Canada's lakes and its trees what must it be doing to mortal man and his habitations? If those killer clouds are capable of defoliating the hardy maple and stopping its growth surely that toxic rain is having a negative effect on the human animal as well.

Such thoughts come frequently when one owns a black car; as often as overnight showers can be counted on to speckle in dirty grey what had been a gleaming clean car cowling.

That evidence of pollution in our rain clouds makes a case in our eyes for Canada's charges that the reduction of acid rain coming over our border from the United States is long overdue.

And yet the Reagan administration refuses to admit the problem even exists.

On his recent visit to Ottawa, President Reagan made a very brief reference to acid rain. ''The prime minister and I agreed to consider the prime minister's proposal for a bilateral accord on acid rain,'' Mr. Reagan declared; and probably most Canadians took it with a grain of salt, as did your Rambling Reporter.

Confirmation came last week in a report from Washington covering a Senate environment subcommittee. One Lee Thomas, head of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, made an appearance at the hearing and declared he won't recommend a new controls program to reduce the cross-border pollution. There is still no scientific evidence to support an acid-rain controls program that Canada has been seeking for years, said this member of Reagan's cabinet.

Mr. Thomas testified that he had recommended that President Reagan not make that statement at Ottawa. He said there is no need for Congress to pass legislation to reduce acid rain.

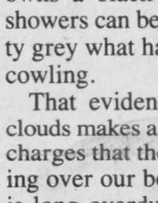
Another U.S. government official said in an interview that Reagan decided just seven minutes before his speech to Parliament to add on his brief reference to an acid-rain accord. Some senators said Reagan's promise was just empty rhetoric aimed at boosting Prime Minister Mulroney's political esteem at home.

Empty rhetoric is how we would describe the president's reference, too. If he only agreed to consider the Mulroney proposal for a bilateral accord, the president was hardly committing himself to any action. He has a long history of forgetting to remember.

It seems clear no progress has been made on acid rain and none is to be expected as long as Reagan rules the White House roost. Perhaps it's time we considered other tactics, a lighter touch, ridicule maybe.

Might we start calling that killer of our maples ''Reagan's rain'' or ''Product of Ohio,'' or something else that would be a reminder of the generosity of our American cousins. After all they are quick to acknowledge the fresh air and snow we send their way every winter.

No one knows how well we're teaching our kids



SECOND LOOK
Phil Rutherford

Are our children receiving the education they need and deserve to survive in an increasing competitive society? Are our educational standards equal to what they were a generation ago? How do they compare to other provinces, other countries?

There is only one answer to all these questions—we really don't know. Many people complain about Ontario's education system, but, other than personal observations of high school graduates who can't spell or handle relatively simple arithmetic, like making change in a store, none of us really knows if today's educational system is good, bad or indifferent.

One of the reasons why we don't know is there is no uniform, outside testing of high school students. They did exist until 20 years ago, when they were abolished in keeping with the more ''enlightened'' and liberal view of education embodied in the Hall-Dennis Report on education. You remember, that's the same report that endorsed the ''open'' classroom concept and the abolition of most compulsory subjects in high school.

It took the Ministry of Education and Ontario's school boards most of a generation to erect walls to separate those classrooms and to re-introduce some compulsory subjects in an effort to ''return to the basics.'' But we still haven't brought back the standardized testing to find out where we stand now.

Ontario spent about $7.3 billion on education last year, more than all other provinces combined, excluding Quebec. There are 95,000 educators in the field. But nobody knows how well we're doing.

There are hints. An Ontario Ministry of Education study has shown our students lag behind the western provinces in science. In an international mathematics study, Ontario's Grade 8 pupils scored slightly ahead of the United States and Great Britain, but behind British Columbia, Hungary and France, and way behind Japan.

Another study, conducted by the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education (OISE), determined public satisfaction with Ontario schools has fallen to 42 per cent, the lowest level in 10 years.

There is another indicator. In 1965, when standardized external examinations were still required for Grade 13 graduates, only 5.1 per cent, a small elite, scored 80 per cent or more, earning them Ontario Scholarships. By 1985 that percentage had soared to 26.9 per cent. One in 20 graduates were Ontario Scholars in 1965. Twenty years later they numbered one in four!

Do these numbers mean the efficiency of our education system has increased more than fivefold in the passing of a generation, or do they mean standards have fallen dramatically?

A recent survey conducted by Goldfarb Consultants for The Toronto Star showed that 96 per cent of teachers agree that standards vary from school to school and from school board to school board. Forty-five per cent agreed standards varied greatly. Employers and university and college faculty members complain about the lack of dependable standards.

For the sake of the students and to preserve Ontario's future in a competitive world, the province must reinstate standardized tests. Only then can students be compared to each other from one end of Ontario to the other. Only then will we be able to compare schools, teachers and the system as a whole, note our weaknesses and take intelligent action to improve.

Travel time

LOOKOUT
Dann Rogers

One of the exciting aspects of travelling is running through airports to catch connecting flights, or after you've missed the plane, to sit in the lounge and watch all the different people coming and going.

There is a satisfying sense of timelessness when you are in transit. Moving in a plane, train, boat or bus displaces you from the routine of life and provides a sense of freedom that can only be described as a warm and fluffy feeling.

No one involved in your normal life can contact you when you are on the road. The people you meet never heard of your dreams or failures before, so you can create new ones.

Travel bestows the opportunity for a spiritual renaissance, which, if taken advantage of, can recharge your cells for another 50 weeks of the regular grind.

But the problem is this two-week holiday nonsense. As you've probably surmised, I just completed a 15-day tour that took me from Amsterdam to Athens and the islands of the Aegean Sea beyond.

This sort of itinerary implies a lot of travel and it took aobut a week before my mindset was in relax mode. As described above, the actual travel time was therapeutic, but I did want to party on the beaches also.

Please bear with the column as I try to fill it with extracts from my travel log.

Amsterdam, as you're probably aware, is the second most decadent spot in the world, I got to the most decadent place a few days later.

Windowshopping in the red light district of the Dutch city takes on a whole new meaning. Prostitution is legal and local police say 80 per cent of the working ladies pay taxes and are subject to regular hygiene tests.

The authorities also say rape is virtually non-existent because the ladies enjoy their work so much.

The sale and consumption of soft drugs is tolerated by police and can be purchased in almost any café. The street talk is that Amsterdam's youth don't smoke the stuff. They say the biggest abusers are conservative tourists from Germany, Switzerland and Austria.

The next stop was Mykonos Island which has become a sort of gay mecca over the years. The big joke was that when homosexuals leave their home for Mykonos, they don't say ''I'll be travelling,'' but rather, ''I'll be abroad.'' Watch out for Adams Apples on female-looking types and you'll be okay.

That island was a little too decadent even for me, so I hopped a boat for Thinos which is about 35 minutes away. Thinos has 10,000 inhabitants and 1,500 churches.

When God gets around to unleashing his fury on Mykonos, the good people of Thinos want to make sure he doesn't confuse the two islands.

Holocaust

THAT'S LIFE
Lesley Cadham

The possibility of nuclear war scares me to death.

The concept of a world defenseless against such a potent, unmerciful weapon, is frightening. Billions of people would die and those with refuge from the primary effects of the nuclear attacks, would only subsist on a deadened planet.

I might prefer to fight against a living enemy, someone with a gun in his hand, someone I could see, than to be victim of a world-wide holocaust.

On the weekend, members of 230 anti-nuclear activist groups marched in Vancouver in memory of the world's worst industrial nuclear accident. A year ago, a nuclear reactor in the Soviet Ukraine exploded, spreading radiation around the world, killing 31 plant workers, injuring countless more and rendering the area within a 10 km. radius uninhabitable

A nearby town had to be evacuated and inhabitants may not be able to return for several decades.

According to news sources, women in countries surrounding Russia are bearing a high number of children with Downe's Syndrome and some men have become sterile since the incident. But Russian officials are sloughing off any responsibility for the aftereffects.

While the Chernobyl incident is hardly a nuclear war, it is an accurate example of the effects of such a disaster.

We're playing with fire.

Perhaps more distressing are the results of a study of young high school students, published four or five years ago in a Canadian magazine. Sorry, no authors or magazine titles come to mind. What's important is that an incredibly high number of students, about 70 per cent of those questioned, I think, said they did not expect to live out their normal lifespan. They believed nuclear war would get them long before old age set in.

Life, through the ages, has always been such a risk. We're never sure what's around the next bend, when our lives will end and we take a lot of gambles to make our time on earth worthwhile.

And among all that instability, we need a good solid foundation, a belief to cling to, no matter what goes wrong in our lives. Until recently, whether we're conscious of it or not, most probably accepted the earth as one of life's perennials.

But we don't even have that anymore.

Charlottenburg Twp. ready to negotiate

Williamstown, Ont.

The Editor,
The Glengarry News

Reference is made to the article in your April 22, 1987 edition entitled "No strike date in sight for Charlottenburgh employees."

While it has been the steadfast position of management for the township that the proper place to negotiate collective agreements is at the bargaining table, we reluctantly must respond to various statements reported to have been made by C.U.P.E. National Representative Steve Backs in order to clarify certain issues. They are:

(1.) It was reported that the union is now demanding a five per cent increase for all employees, plus a "catch up factor" for clerical staff. In fact, the last position taken by the union at the bargaining table on the issue of wages would see what amounts to a 13.75 per cent increase for full-time clerical staff over the course of one year. For full-time roads and recreation workers, management's last offer was for a 4.79 per cent increase over one year. We are left wondering why that offer was summarily rejected by the union without any indication that further discussion would be in order.

In addition, management offered to set up a joint committee to review all of the clerical wage scales to determine if adjustments were in fact needed. That offer was also rejected out-of-hand.

(2.) Mr. Backs was reported to have said that the $125 the township now pays recreation workers as a uniform allowance is not enough. At the same time, it is interesting to point out that that is exactly what the union asked for, and what management has already agreed to.

(3.) Mr. Backs was reported to have said that the township is threatening to discontinue supplying the roads workers with coveralls. No such statements were ever made by members of the management bargaining committee.

Management's position remains that nothing will get solved until the union becomes interested in resuming its seat at the bargaining table and coming forth with proposals in response to those which were last submitted by management.

If Mr. Backs would devote his scarce time to negotiations with the employer instead of thrust and parry through the media, there would probably be a collective agreement in place by now.

Let's be vocal, ensure representation

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

I am writing to you concerning the question of capital punishment in Canada.

While one must view with concern and horror the deaths by violence that do occur in our country, particularly to those whose task it is to enforce the law, one must also note quite clearly that in the years since capital punishment was abolished in Canada, murders and killings of police officers have remained about the same as they were in proportion to population.

There is widespread acceptance that the death penalty does not have a deterrent effect for those who commit murders or kill during the commission of violent crimes.

Canada is a peaceful country in which, mercifully, there are few killings and most of these involve people who know one another—unfortunate acts of emotion that nothing will deter.

Canadians pride themselves on being tolerant people for whom the Christian virtues of mercy and charity are important. In our country there is no place for the kind of retribution involved in capital punishment.

It is a punishment of complete finality: no one can go back to make up to another a mistake in this matter and, in the most perfect systems of justice mistakes do occur, as we have seen. It is a punishment barbarous and horrible in its execution and we must remember that. If we support or condone capital punishment, we are parties to this judicial killing of another human being as much as if we had done it ourselves.

In no developed country of the western world other than the United States, is capital punishment a part of the law and it is disturbing to see some Canadians consider setting themselves apart from civilized opinion in this way.

The punishments that we permit say something about who we are. Let us declare firmly that we will have nothing to do with capital punishment, however much we regret the violence that we see around us. Let us say that, for Canadians, the proper answer to violence is not violence.

It is significant that the prime minister, like the leaders of the other two principle parties, is not in favor of the return of capital punishment. Members of Parliament, when they vote on the issue, must of course look to their own consciences to their sense of whether they can with impunity judge that the life of another should be taken.

However, when they vote, they must also bear in mind the opinions of those they represent and must consider how strongly those opinions are held. This matter should not be decided on the basis of opinion polls and I would like to urge all readers to make their personal opinions known by writing to their local member of parliament. A brief letter addressed to him at The House of Commons, Ottawa (no stamp is required) can do this important thing.

Be kind to your hauler

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

There is so much lately in the newspaper about the involvement of the MOE (Ministry of Environment) concerning waste site disposals. There is concern about placement in retrospect of joining properties and better ways of disposing of garbage, but there is one other important aspect to this story.

The garbage man or hauler! He's the person who is seen faithfully passing through, stopping at roadside gates or street driveways picking up your weekly supply of refuse.

All too often he is taken for granted, but let him not show up one week and right away questions start to arise like, "How come the garbage wasn't picked up last week," or "Did you forget my garbage last week?" Therefore people are looking upon this as a service that is being rendered by an individual, which is what this is.

So why is it that some of these same people will regard these servicemen as someone who is dirty and not deserving of their respect? Is that the way they treat the TV repairman, electrician, or the man who takes the application for a loan at the bank?

These are still people serving people. It's people who give jobs to people. If we wouldn't make garbage, we wouldn't have to dispose of it.

To the person or persons who tend to look down their noses at the man hauling your garbage, remember, he'll still be working full-time next winter when a lot of you might be stoking the fire at home in your white collar shirt drawing your unemployments insurance benefits.

Seeks family history

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

I am attempting to obtain information concerning my great great grandfather Donald McGillivray, who occupied the west half of Lot 37, Concession 8, Lochiel, starting around 1835, with his wife, Mary McLean. I am particularly interested in identifying his parents, who immigrated from Scotland.

He had a large family, and while many family members moved to the United States, he may yet have some descendants living in Glengarry. If you would be so kind as to print this letter in your "Letters to the Editor" column (if you have one), I might obtain a helpful response.

Thank you for your consideration of this request.

Busy beavers needed for work bee at Martintown Community Centre

MARTINTOWN
Lorne MacDonald
528-4378

The Martintown Community Centre was packed to capacity last Saturday evening for the mixed party in honor of Sandra Lullwitz and Dave Russell. It was a great show of support by family and friends and a good time was had by all.

On Friday night we attended the Lancaster Lodge Ladies Night at the Williamstown arena. It was a very enjoyable evening. Mike Gibbs and The Blue Jeans out-did themselves when it came to dance music. I would like to thank the good people of Lancaster Lodge for their warmth and hospitality.

While at the Lancaster party I ran into some old friends who passed along this bit of news to me. On Easter Sunday, D.A. Fraser entertained a huge gathering at his home on the 2nd Conc. They came from far and wide and stayed well into the night to enjoy a huge bonfire. Catherine, Phil, Chris, and Lyanne Poirier from Cornwall; Davide Lise, Scott and James Fraser from Orleans; Doug and Keitha Fraser, Dean, Kaylee, Catherine and Kelly from Tree Haven, Susan, Gerald, Ryan, and Steven Andre from (I believe) Lancaster; Mary, Bobby, David, Bradley Periard, Laurie Ann, Heather Hodges and Nick from Martintown; Alan, Myrna, Kyle and Michael Fraser from Martintown; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Poirier from Cornwall; Charlotte Samson from Martintown; and Aunt Kit Gourley from Williamstown. I even hear through the grapevine that Myrna did a jog but I've yet to receive confirmation on this!

And from the when whill I ever learn not to try and match wits with a six year old department: On Saturday afternoon I was teasing Jason and Jordan Flaro about life in general. I asked Jordan "when are you going to move into your new house?" He smugly replied, "when it's ready!"

The Martintown Community Centre would like to say a big thank you to Piper John T. MacKenzie and the pipers and Rae MacCulloch and her dancers for providing entertainment the day of the canoe races. Also to the conservation authority for its help and support, and to Remi Aubin for the use of his property.

This Saturday there is a work-bee at the community centre starting at 9 a.m. Bring yourselves along with an old paint brush or hammer. We need all the help we can get. This bee is the only means we have of getting these much needed repairs done, as we do not have the funds. Let's get out and support our community centre and make it something we can all be proud of.

This is Education Week in Ontario. Martintown Public School has several events planned. Today the Canadian Book Fair will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and an open house will run from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. On Saturday, the Martintown Community garage sale in the school parking lot will be held. In case of rain it will be in the gym. For information on this, please phone 528-4423 or 528-4343.

Easter visitors with Catherine Flaro were Mr. and Mrs. Steve McDonell from Metcalfe, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Simpson and family from Ottawa, Naomie Downey and Sharon McDonald from Verdun and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Flaro and family of Alexandria.

LONG SAULT—OPP are warning local businesses to be on the lookout for N.S.F. (Non-sufficient funds) cheques.

According to Long Sault OPP, several cheques, payable to Shawn M. Foss and drawn on account of the bankrupted Chimney Chums Ltd., have turned up in Alexandria, Cornwall, Rockland and Hawkesbury. The bank accounts for that firm are closed.

Police are asking anyone who may have accepted cheques or may have information regarding these incidents, to contact the nearest OPP detachment.

Is your child safe?

Each year thousands of children become victims of accidents in and around the home. You can reduce your child's risk of injury by ensuring a safe environment.

The federal government passed stringent new safety standards for cribs last fall. Make sure you select a crib that meets all safety standards, and keep it in good condition.

Remember that children's sleepwear and clothing can burn easily and that your child should not play near fireplaces, stoves or heaters. Polo-style pyjamas are safer than loose fitting nightgowns.

Provide close supervision if your child uses a walker, especially near stoves and electric cords, and ensure that stairways are closed off.

For more information on how you can protect your child, please contact the nearest office of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada.

With daffodils and tulips sprouting all over and the sun rays prodigiously favoring us, we've found out there's no need of having to go south in order to live it up.

In spite of the turmoil that surrounds us, this outstanding weather gives a sense of security and appreciation right at our doorsteps for the simple things of life, so to speak; such as turning the soil over, seeding, setting up pools and even weeding can help us feel quite content. A little bit of outdoor work helps to remove the kinks of winter.

Congratulations to Wilfrid and Doreen who were married on Saturday at St. John the Apostle in Ottawa.

The reception was held in Green Valley. We look forward to a lively association with the newlyweds upon return from their trip.

We regret having given the wrong information in regard to the party for Sharon Kennedy and Ronald Dupuis.

It will be held at the Glengarry Sports Palace instead of the Bonnie Glen on May 9. You are still all invited and hope you can make it!

The net amount received for the sale of Blanche Gauthier's property has been reverted to St. Anthony's parish as so required in her will.

The new occupants are a young couple, formerly from Cornwall; David and Linda Valade. We bid them welcome and hope they will thoroughly enjoy their stay in the village.

On Monday we pulled the bird feeders. There were very few birds coming to the feeders anymore. A few grosbeaks, a pair of goldfinches, a nuthatch, a hairy woodpecker, and a few days ago a purple finch. A few of the smaller birds occasionally, but mostly it is the starlings and blackbirds that visit and chase the others away.

Caroline Deneault spotted a meadowlark at her place a couple of weeks ago. The birds must be nesting, because there are not too many females showing up this last while.

Talking about spring, I never heard from a single person who had a pleasant memory of Glengarry in springtime. Springtime in Glengarry has been a pleasant experience for me since coming here more than 20 years ago and I thought that it might be for others, but I don't know?

Stanley MacCaskill has been busy this past week travelling to Ottawa for the filming of "Mackenzie King." He plays the part of one of the MPs and you might also catch a glimpse of him in some of the crowd scenes.

He says he enjoyed joking with Sean McCann, the star of the production, as well as seeing how much work goes into making a movie.

NUTRITION

Last week I attended the Nutrition Class at Ecole Elda-Rouleau in Alexandria. The two ladies conducting this class have taken the initiative to present the facts of nutrition without funding from other sources and they really deserve a lot of support.

However, only five people turned out to the first class Wednesday night. They explained Canada's food guide and had us evaluate our diet. They told us why we should eat certain foods and what they do for us, why we should avoid too much of some others and how fiber helps to keep us healthy.

This week the session will be one hour, but the next two weeks they will be two hours long, because with such a small number participating, the $25 will not cover the six weeks, so it will be only a total of four. If you can come out, you will certainly learn a lot, and after all, you are what you eat. It is our health that will be the winner.

On Thursday the bookmobile will be in the village from 1 p.m. until 1:25.

Next week the District Annual Convention of the Women's Institute will meet at the Presbyterian Church, South Lancaster, on May 7. The St. Lawrence Branch will host the convention, and hope to see you there at 9 a.m.

Most of the donated blood will be used for transfusions and research. The clinic was sponsored by the Knights of Columbus and Daughters of Isabella of Alexandria.

DRIVE A DIESEL OVER YOUR LAWN.

It looks like a mower. It cuts grass like a mower. But the Kubota G is much more. It's the first lawn and garden tractor of such remarkably small size to have a diesel engine.

There are four different G tractor models, including the G3200 you see here. It has a strong, 10 horsepower 2-cylinder diesel engine and a live front PTO shaft drive to the mower.

See the Kubota G tractors for yourself and you'll want to get behind the wheel of a diesel.

West German musicians like wolf yelping

WILLIAMSTOWN
Sue Harrington
347-2279

It was another one of those weekends when several simultaneous events brought the hordes out to see our picturesque little village. Cars whizzed in and out of the arena parking lot bearing indoor soccer addicts, while the business section bulged with bargain hunters attending Giroux's auction sale at the hardware store.

Meanwhile up at the museum, those with an eye for the arts were busy browsing through the crafts made by members of the Glengarry Crafts Association.

All in all, things were certainly a'hummin' in Williamstown on the weekend, causing me to repeat my comments of a similar weekend last year: it's nice to see them come, but it's nice to see them go, too!

Not that that includes Lesley Cadham of The News who has recently moved to Williamstown. We welcome her in the good old Williamstown way and promise to behave in a fashion sure to keep her camera in the bag!

While the strangers were busy milling, an esoteric event was taking place at St. Andrew's United Church on Saturday. A pre-bicentennial church supper for members of the congregation was held. Everyone attending brought food and at the conclusion of the meal, leftovers were auctioned off by Clifford Hope. A very good time was had by all and reports indicate that church members are full of enthusiasm for the upcoming celebrations.

I'm disappointed that my phone didn't ring much this week with news of all your Easter visitors, but then you no doubt knew that I spent most of the past seven days perched on a ladder with a paint brush in my hair and were too polite to disturb me.

The reason for the big clean-up is the impending visit of Ken and Robert Harrington of London, England this weekend. Ken will be seeing some of his grandchildren for the first time, while "Uncle Robert" will be seeing Canada for the first time ever.

As a result, the only people whom I know for sure were in Williamstown for the holiday were David Martin, now of Ajax, who was visiting his parents Don and Marjorie, and Tierney Rose home to see Thelma and Les.

MOWATS LEAVING

A big change in the fabric of Williamstown will occur shortly as the Mowat family departs to take up residence in Cornwall. Ruth Mowat Sr. will be moving into an apartment building on Gloucester Street at the end of this month, while Ruth, Bill, and David leave June 1 for their bungalow in Riverdale.

It will certainly seem strange in Williamstown without the Mowats whose history in the area goes back a long stretch. Ruth, as you all know was for many years secretary-treasurer of the Williamstown Fair, as well as being a local author of renown and as good a neighbor as they come.

We will all miss them and hope they return often for a visit to tell us about life in the big city. Who knows? When it comes time to update Cornwall's history, perhaps Ruth will be right in there. We wish them luck.

It was a week for music in Williamstown recently. First of all, an extremely good band concert was given at Char-Lan High School by members of the Blasorchester from the Ludwig-Marum-Gymnasium, which, in case you just didn't happen to know, is located in the town of Pfinztal in West Germany.

The arrival of the German students who were billetted locally with members of the Char-Lan Band, was arranged through contacts made by Char-Lan Principal Rick Forrester when he was working in Germany a couple of years ago, and it is hoped that our students will be able to pay a return call next year.

The visiting band, under the direction of Herr Thomas Steigleder, played a repertoire of classical and popular music which delighted the audience.

Trumpeter Manfred Weit was given a rousing accolade for his solo number, while flutists Alexandra Gassner and Bettina Geber were moved to remark that the Char-Lan audience was a great one.

"They go with the music," said Alexandra, seemingly overwhelmed by the local custom of "wolf yelping" at the end of each number.

The band, made up of 16 boys and seven girls, presented a plaque to Char-Lan for the hospitality. In return, Shelley Hall of Char-Lan made a presentation to Herr Steigleder on behalf of Williamstown.

While in the area, the students visited Upper Canada Village, which they found "fascinating," and took a day trip to Ottawa. All agreed the visit had been a great one.

PIANO RECITAL

On Friday night at Char-Lan High School, the students of Mary Cumming entertained families and friends with their third annual piano recital. The event, held earlier than usual so as not to interfere with the impending arrival of a brand new Cumming in May, attracted a good audience.

Those whose fingers tripped along the keys included both youngsters and old-timers who showed us all that it's never too late. Performing were Mark Dupuis, Rene Marsh, Andrea Pilon, Patricia Robertson, Marcus Rumke, Robbie Prevost, Jane Peskey, Wendy Woollven, Elaine Robertson, Jana Hallberg, Caroline Blacker, Shona Fraser, Debra Galarneau, Cathy Kinloch, Nancy Hallberg, Tara Roulston, Christina Rogers, Innes Fraser, Alex Kinloch, Matthias Meièr, Jane McCuaig, Rahel Meier and Donna Sturkenboom.

Mary said that all of the above performed but that she had five other students, "some of whom were chicken and some of whom had chicken pox."

Awards were given to Wendy Woollven as the most advanced beginner, to Innes Fraser and Kathryn Blair as the most improved and to Caroline Blacker and Christina Rogers as the most outstanding students. Congratulations to all.

While on the subject of the arts, local artist Esther Bryan has a new exhibit at the moment. Entitled "New Horizons," Esther's exhibition of watercolors can be seen at the Cornwall Regional Art Gallery located on the Pitt Street Mall in Cornwall until May 18.

The official opening reception of the exhibit will be held Thursday, from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Esther is also planning to offer a six-week course in watercolor and outdoor painting at her studio in Williamstown in May and June. She stresses beginners are most welcome and would like to see those of you who have always been itching to play around with paints but who have never had the time, opportunity or courage to do so before.

If interested, please give her a call at 347-3662 for more information.

Lots of activity this week at Williamstown Public School during Education Week. Plan to attend the open house to be held tonight from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Visit the classrooms, listen to the choir, and see the amazing variety of science fair projects. Your child will be pleased you did.

Theresa and Bruno Carriere have returned home after a vacation in Palm Beach, Florida. While there the Carrieres must have got in piles of practice playing bridge, as on their return north, they managed to take first place in Williamstown Bridge action. Isobel Larocque and Alpheda Major were second and Mary and Angus Mcdonell came third.

Baldwin House gets $2,900 to promote awareness of violence

by Sybil Carello

CORNWALL—The Ontario Women's Directorate (OWD) has awarded a $2,900 grant to Baldwin House in Cornwall to sponsor local projects coinciding with Family Violence Prevention Month, April 15 to May 16.

A total of $120,000 in grants, mostly of $1,500 each, have been awarded around the province to mark the occasion, Attorney General Ian Scott, Minister Responsible for Women's Issues, announced recently.

"We want to stress that family violence offends society as a whole and is criminal behavior that will not be tolerated," Mr. Scott said. "The grants will allow community groups who may not otherwise have been able to afford participating in the public education effort."

Marie Lanthier, family violence health line co-ordinator for Baldwin House, told The News, between now and May 15, information sessions will be held in high schools throughout SD&G.

"We are requesting ideas and slogans for posters on family violence from the communities," she said, adding these posters will be displayed on May 9 during "Meet the Public Day" at Cornwall Square. Throughout the day videos and plays will be shown. Volunteers will also distribute pamphlets.

On May 15, an Open House will be held at Baldwin House between 1 and 4 p.m.

Many artisans take part in successful Spring Sales Fair

by Lesley Cadham

WILLIAMSTOWN—If you'd been searching for just the right homespun crafts to adorn your home, you may have netted some real treasures in Williamstown on the weekend.

The Glengarry Arts and Crafts Association held its sixth annual Spring Sales Fair at the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum, featuring the work of 28 artisans.

The museum was brimming with flowery wreaths, hand-woven rainbow baskets, hand-carved wooden puzzles, earthen pottery and pretty dresses for little girls, just to mention a few of the items.

Sales were up about 15 per cent over last year, according to association president Gordon Lindsey.

Several artisans accepted into the association in March displayed their goods and among them were Martintown's Terri Reid, Williamstown's Marilyn Cooke and Marlene Leggett of Glen Robertson.

JUST DUCKY

Mrs. Reid owns "Just Ducky," a business she started in January 1986.

She began making clothes for Cabbage Patch dolls, moved to quilted calendar holders and telephone book covers and eventually branched out into stuffed fabric geese and ducks and quilted items, such as placemats.

Mrs. Reid's display was conspicuous with what she calls "Mother Goose doorstops"; life-size replicas of the fairytale character. In the corner were several "patio-door security bars," one of Mrs. Reid's creations. The bars are constructed of strong wood, covered in delicately flowered fabrics and adorned with four or five stuffed ducks or sheep.

They are wedged between sliding doors to keep the doors from being opened.

Mrs. Reid also displayed her lifelike Canada Geese. She also sells sweaters, with knitted sleeves and backs and quilted fronts. Most of her creations are unique. She tries not to duplicate other artisans' crafts. If she copies someone else's idea, she sells the item in another county.

The Williamstown native studied home economics at Kemptville College. With two children, Brendan, 11, and Bradley, 8, Mrs. Reid wanted to work at home. She had been in the work force, but found she had to miss a lot of her sons' school activities because of her job.

Mr. Reid helps out by stuffing the creations and sometimes cuts patterns. The boys also contribute with stuffing and clean the house when a show is fast approaching and there is little extra time for domestic duties.

Just Ducky crafts also include "T.V. Ducks" to hold your remote control television guide, "Hannah the Hare," a decorated stuffed animal and napkin crates.

CREATIVE ACCENTS

Mrs. Cooke exhibited grapevine wreaths, decorated with tiny flowers and ribbons, kitchen witches, decorative spring hats and barrel lids converted to welcome signs.

This artisan, new to Williamstown, says she has always enjoyed working with her hands. She taught sewing in a Quebec high school and worked in a craft shop for several years. With four children, she felt she was needed at home and opened Creative Accents in her summer kitchen, April 4.

Getting the shop ready was a family affair; children Jim, 17, Nancy, 16, Michael 13 and Lisa, 8, helped out.

Mrs. Cooke is open to suggestions and accepts custom orders. Some craft supplies are available in Creative Accents and she expects to expand the line.

THE HEN'S NEST

Mrs. Leggett combines tole painting and sewing to create unique crafts. In her corner of the museum, she hung little hand-painted muffin tins containing tiny stuffed fabric chickens.

These items, perfect to decorate a kitchen, are very popular, she says.

Mrs. Leggett has always been interested in sewing and became involved in tole painting two years ago as therapy to overcome a family tragedy.

At the time, she and her husband were new to the area and her involvement in arts and crafts provided the opportunity to get out of the house and meet people.

This artisan studied tole painting in Montreal and later took classes from a South Lancaster painter. Mr. Leggett cuts out any wooden shapes needed for the crafts and children Christopher, 9, and Steven, 5, help sand the pieces.

Mrs. Leggett's love for hens and roosters is what prompted her to name her little business "The Hen's Nest."

The Fall Sales Fair will be held Oct. 17 and 18.

Last week's news was phoned in to the News office. They were, no doubt, really too busy, after the Easter weekend, and some was left out. An apology is in order. With lots of help we'll do better. Especially if the written news can be delivered to the office on Mondays. Phone 874-2265, preferably on Sunday or Monday morning, at the latest, for weekend events.

Long-time resident of the Glen Robertson area, Henri Paquette died in hospital last week. We offer a sincere sympathy to his wife, Gilberte, and to his brothers and sisters.

Many are disappointed with the poor street-cleaning job done last week by a machine which the township engaged for the work. It was much better when done 'by hand' with stable brooms and shovels by unemployed youths hired by council. On the other hand, Alexandria has the type of machine (a roller) that could do a good clean-up, sidewalks included.

It was revealed last year that the Hawkesbury Townships had a great reluctance to part with their topsoil. The rich black ground was being sold to gardeners outside the area of its origin. We see many, many truckloads of our township soil shipped to the east of here, no doubt to Quebec gardeners. Since it is irreplaceable, does Lochiel Township Council approve of the selling of our topsoil?

Eleven pupils of Ecole Laurier Carriere made their first communion at the Sunday Mass in St. Martin of Tours Church. Father Denis Vaillancourt, pastor of St. Paul and St. Martin parishes, performed the happy rite for Jeff Hagen, Nancy McCallum, Laura Johnson, Sylvie Lacombe, Jonathan Wylie, Andrea Lauzon, Richard Mallet, Stephane Ricard, Richard Proulx, Chantal van den Oetelaar and Kevin van den Oetelaar. Principal Francine Richer and teacher Francoise Brunet assisted.

It is Education Week, the theme being 'Come Learn With Me.' Among the many activities will be a concert Thursday at which certificates will be given to 'Pupils of the Month,' and winners in the science quiz contest. Gifts will be distributed to pupils who participated in the Caisse Populaire contest. We shall have the winners' names next week.

On Friday, Expo-Jeunesse from Ste. Eustache will be at the school for a book display at which time parents can make a purchase for their children.

Mrs. Richer wishes to thank Kathy McGrath who was very faithful to report the news from the school. Her service was much appreciated.

$6,000 in damage

MAXVILLE—No one was injured in two, two-car collisions in Maxville which caused about $6,000 damage on the weekend.

Bainsville resident Kathy Boesch, 30, was driving south on Main Street in Maxville when her 1984 Chevrolet stationwagon collided with a dump truck hauling a flatbed trailer, Friday afternoon.

The 1986 International dump truck, driven by Allan Crites, 41, of Maxville, was stopped at the sixth concession road and pulled out onto Main Street, colliding with Miss Boesch's vehicle, say OPP.

Damage to the stationwagon is estimated at $2,000, while Mr. Crites' truck sustained about $400 damage.

On Saturday evening, Embrun resident Michel Villeneuve, 17, was driving his 1981 Honda coupe west on Hwy. 43 just west of Hwy. 34, followed by Debbie Poulin, 16, of Alexandria. As Mr. Villeneuve turned left into a driveway, his vehicle collided with Miss Poulin's 1986 Ford sedan. Miss Poulin was passing Mr. Villeneuve's vehicle, say OPP.

Damage to the Ford is estimated at $2,000, while the Honda is estimated to have sustained $1,500 damage.

Two men fined for impaired driving

Two men received fines totalling $1,300 for impaired driving in provincial court Thursday.

Andre Séguin, 31, of Brockville pleaded not guilty in January, to charges of care and control of a motor vehicle while consuming alcohol and failing to comply to a breath test, Dec. 30 in Alexandria. He was fined $800.

Court was told two OPP officers were investigating an occurance outside the Ottawa Hotel when they saw the man stagger towards the police cruiser. Mr. Séguin approached the officers and asked them what they were doing, left and then returned a few minutes later.

The officers left and drove around the block. When they returned, Mr. Séguin was getting into his vehicle. When an officer approached the vehicle, it was running and Mr. Séguin was sitting behind the wheel.

While walking from his car to the police cruiser, the accused was unsteady on his feet and his speech was slurred.

Mr. Séguin was taken to Long Sault OPP for a breathalyzer test. He could not provide a suitable breath sample on three occasions.

"There was a strong alcoholic odor from the man, his speech was slurred and he was staggering when he approached the officers," said Judge Reginald Levesque in finding Mr. Séguin guilty.

"The combination of all these things brings the court to the conclusion beyond a reasonable doubt the accused was impaired at the time."

Mr. Séguin's license was suspended for one year and he was given three months to pay the fine.

Guy Charles Gratton, 39, of Cornwall, was charged Dec. 11 in Kenyon Township. He pleaded guilty before Judge Levesque Thursday.

The accused was stopped by OPP officers during a spot check on Hwy. 34, south of Alexandria. He was taken to Lancaster OPP for a breathalyzer test and his readings were 170 mgs. of alcohol in 100 mls of blood.

Mr. Gratton was fined $500 and his license was suspended for one year. He was given two months to pay the fine.

Golf club opens

The Glengarry Golf and Country Club officially teed off with a wine and cheese party, Sunday afternoon.

While avid golfers stayed on the green, about 200 people enjoyed refreshments in the clubhouse during the course of the afternoon. The club actually opened April 4.

Alexandria Mayor J. P. Touchette, SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve and Club President Wayne Crack officiated and Lochiel Township Reeve Ron MacDonell and Maxville Reeve George Currier were seen mingling with the crowd. Afterward, course superintendent Grant Crack hosted a tour of the course expansion.

Construction to add 12 new holes to the green began last year and is expected to be completed in August 1988. The new area will cover about 75 acres.

Fined $50 for breach

An Alexandria man was fined $50 in provincial court Thursday after pleading guilty to breach of probation.

Serge Deguire of 198 Bishop St. was charged Jan. 31 in Alexandria.

Mr. Deguire appeared in Cornwall Provincial Court in February 1986, when he pleaded guilty to mischief and was placed on probation and ordered to make restitution in the amount of $500 before Sept. 30.

At a later date, Mr. Deguire was granted an extension until Jan. 31. The accused again failed to make restitution and was charged by the police.

Mr. Deguire paid the full amount in court Thursday and was given three months to pay his fine.

NOT FOOL'S GOLD—The gold lettering on Sauvé Real Estate's new sign is the real thing; all 23 carats of it. Craftsman Ross Greer carved and painted the new sign and warns predators, it actually contains very little of the precious metal. Mr. Greer owns The Donnybrook Elves and lives in Kenyon Township just west of Fassifern.

There's gold in them signs !

by Lesley Cadham

All that glitter on Sauvé Real Estate's new sign is really gold. Twenty-three carat gold, to be exact.

The craftsman is The Donnybrook Elves owner Ross Greer, who produces a variety of rustic signs for all occasions. Mr. Greer decided to expand his service and studied gold-leaf painting in the U.S. last fall. The Alexandria realtor is his first customer, but Mr. Greer hopes the sign will be the forerunner of many in the area.

He uses leaves of gold, 250,000ths of an inch thick. Though there isn't a lot of gold on the lettering, it gleams in the sunlight.

Golf-leaf painting is not a new art. It has existed since time immemorial. Gold, resistant to decay, has always been a sought after metal and a symbol of power.

Meeting held to discuss subdivision

by Lesley Cadham

Three Alexandria residents attended a public meeting to express concerns about a proposed subdivision in the northeastern section of town, April 14.

Former Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Denis Ethier plans to develop about 32 acres of land he bought with sons Marc and Carl 1½ years ago. The land lies east of the Carnation plant and is bordered by the Lochiel Township line to the east, Kenyon Street to the south and Kincardine Street to the north.

On March 4, town council approved in principle the developer's plans to build 32 townhouses and divide 25 acres into about 75 lots, to be sold for construction of single family homes.

Another quarter acre of land would be the site of a convenience store, barber shop or other small store.

Kincardine and Elgin streets would be extended east of Bishop for vehicle access to the subdivision.

On hand to answer questions were consultant Larry Cotton, of the Winchester firm Larry D. Cotton and Associates, and Carl Ethier.

Bishop Street resident Stuart Upton was concerned about garbage accumulation at the proposed convenience store. He said other local store properties are littered with papers and refuse and he asked for council's reassurance that the area would be "cleaned up."

Councillor Archie McDougall, also chairman of the planning committee, defended plans for the store, calling it an "excellent service."

He said the garbage problem was not the stores' fault, but occurred because laws prohibiting littering were not enforced.

Then Mr. Upton asked what type of housing would go into the subdivision, adding, he didn't like the word "townhouses."

Mr. Cotton told him, the townhouses would be sold, not rented. Mayor J. P. Touchette said, a selling price had not been established, but could be $10,000 below market price.

"We can't say how much they'll cost. There is the greatest need for housing; this is the greatest move for Alexandria," he said.

John Proulx, who also lives on Bishop Street, said he was concerned the new homes would mean heavier traffic on his street. He said he believed Sandfield Street should be extended to provide another access into the subdivision.

"You'll get opposition (to the plan) if you leave that road (Sandfield Street) closed," he said.

The mayor responded, "This can all be negotiated. We needed this input so the developers know what to do."

Council agreed to amend the town's official plan to include a portion of Mr. Ethier's property, formerly in the Township of Lochiel.

In addition, about 25 acres were rezoned R-1 to accommodate single family dwellings and another small section, to be the site of the convenience store, was rezoned commercial. About 1½ acres, zoned residential holding was designated R-3 and will accommodate the townhouses.

Council postponed rezoning an additional portion of the property, to be used for apartment buildings, and is expected to discuss it April 28.

Walleye-Watch helps nudge the balance

by Nick M-Wolochatiuk

WILLIAMSTOWN — The Raisin River's rapids, upstream from Williamstown, are an important walleye spawning bed. It's long been the favored spring gathering place for local fishermen and game wardens, too.

It's a tradition as hallowed as the habit of Glengarry young people going ''Down-East'' for a Saturday night.

Shortly after ice break-up, the walleye ascend the turbid waters of the Raisin River to spawn. According to Rick Hollingsworth of the MNR (Ministry of Natural Resources) pike are the first to start their run. There's still ice, but they're moving up. Then come the walleye. Suckers are usually the last, but they mix in with the others too.

''It's all triggered by the water conditions being just right. The temperature has to be between six and eight degrees Celsius, and the water must be just deep enough to allow the fish to linger over the stoney beds of the rapids.

''This year the walleye, also known as pickerel, yellow pike-perch, walleyed pike, and dore, finished their run a bit early, about April 15. Lack of recent rain and warm temperatures have reduced the spring run-off to a trickle.''

There are two rival factions of the fishermen clan who haunt the banks. One is the secretive poacher who bags his catch before it's had a chance to spawn. The other is the sportsman with sufficient self-control to contain himself until the pickerel season opens on the second Saturday of May.

Jack Diguer of Alexandria Optical is one of those sportsmen.

''I was tired of seeing all the poaching that was going on, so I approached the MNR people to see what we could do. That's how the idea of the Walleye-Watch was hatched,'' he says.

Marc Gringas, president of the South Lancaster Fish and Game Club, and more than 30 club members keep a nightly watch over the potential poaching areas on the Raisin River.

''We deter poaching by our presence,'' he says, ''our activities are coordinated by Rick Hollingsworth, the MNR's conservation officer. Anything suspicious is called in. We do not actually get involved with poachers, as we are now law enforcement officers. We are strictly observers.''

Mr. Hollingsworth and Bert Van Wout are likely to correct you if you call them game wardens.

''We and the MNR prefer the title of conservation officer, as it more closely reflects the variety of activities we undertake.

''At this time of year we're really busy,'' adds Mr. Van Wout. ''Fortunately, we now have a lot of the local sportsmen assisting us through the Walleye-Watch program. There are the fellows of the Glendale Fish and Game Club of Summerstown, the Eastern Anglers of Cornwall, and even the Lunkers who are doing a great job at Hoople Creek. Their presence enables us to do a more effective job of deterring, detecting, apprehending and prosecuting game violations. Each group has a CB to report in to us, and we are hooked into the OPP's communication system.''

The ministry can train and appoint deputy conservation officers to assist in the management and enforcement of programs. The Canada geese that are dropping in to rest on their migration northward also have to be watched and protected from poachers.

''At times like this, we can be really spread thin,'' said Mr. Van Wout.

The Walleye-Watch is another outgrowth of CFIP, the MNR's Community Fishing Involvement Program. The Spawning Bed Rehabilitation Project, three kilometres upstream from Williamstown, is another example of an ambitious and successful program. It was started in 1983.

The circle of South Lancaster Fish and Game Club members who were gathered around the bonfire were eager to tell of it. As they kept their vigil, details of the project were told.

''We gathered truckloads of hand-picked stones from Paul Valade's old fence line, along the King's Road, just west of St. Raphael's. Each one had to be just the right size, about the size of a softball,'' said Bob Fraser, this year's Walleye-Watch Club Co-ordinator.

''The Lancaster Fire Department used pumps and hoses to flush out all the silt that had accumulated in the river bed,'' piped in Maurice Parisien. ''The eggs have to be able to adhere to the rocks, and the fry that hatch find places to hide between the rocks. We had to pull out a lot of weeds by hand. It was hard, dirty work.''

Remi Parisien added more details. ''I remember Clarence MacDonald provided a backhoe. Rigid Equipment kicked in with a hi-hoe on tracks and a lot of hardworking people. That's really community involvement. Of course, the MNR provided start-up funds.''

Mike Ekersley, an MNR biologist, provides the club with yearly feedback as to the success of their various conservation efforts, such as the bed-enhancement program and the Walleye-Watch. The results are encouraging.

The free discussion that came from around the glimmering embers of the dying bonfire aired a variety of other conservation ideas. Some prompted lively discussions between club members as the moon climbed higher and higher into the starry sky.

Others argued the Raisin should be closed to fishing when perch are spawning, to preserve the resource for their children.

Another voice from the shadows added, ''Last night they caught three guys at Hoople's Creek. I wonder if the public is going to find out what it'll cost them in court? Law enforcement has to get some heavy publicity if it's ever going to act as a deterrent. Otherwise, we're all wasting our time.''

''What we really need if poachers are going to pay any attention is some Page 1 coverage of convictions. If a guy is reminded that somebody had to pay $300 for having 68 trout in his trunk, he'd think twice about spearing, cage-catching, snagging, or angling out of season.''

Mr. Van Wout seems to be somewhat optimistic about the future. ''I've been watching this area for 11 years now. The younger generation seems to be acting more responsibly toward fish conservation. Perhaps they're better educated in basic concepts of resource management. I still get called things you can't print by some of the die-hard poachers. Some of them must be doing it just for thrills. Generally speaking, though, it's been pretty quiet this year.''

Quack grass remains main weed problem in county

AG REPORT
Glen J. Smith
525-1046

As I write this article the snow is falling which brings us back to reality for April weather conditions. We have had a very early spring; 10 days to two weeks earlier than normal. A large acreage of spring grain has been planted in this county and throughout the province of Ontario. Most farmers are now waiting to plant the corn.

The early spring has allowed an opportunity to clean up some of the plowing which was left undone last fall and most farmers will have a chance to clean out their manure storages and make good use of this natural fertilizer. The good winter conditions have left the hay fields in excellent shape. There is very little evidence of winter-kill and hopefully, the frost this past week will not have any effect on the new seedlings.

Although the maple syrup season was a disaster in this area, we look forward to an exceptionally good crop year. Unfortunately the markets have not responded to strengthen our enthusiasm. There is no more important time than now to make good use of your resources. With the returns as low as they are with most cash crops, it is important to make good use of your management skills to ensure optimum yields at the least cost.

Weed control and fertility are extremely important in achieving a profitable yield. Producers should have both programs finalized prior to the planting season. Fertilizer programs should be based on soil requirements and weed control programs should be based on the crop being planted and the weeds which existed in the field during 1986.

We have had a flush of exotic weed problems in the past five years which in most cases have been controlled by spray programs and cultivation. Quack grass continues to be our number one weed problem. There are methods to control quack but timing and spraying practices are most important. Split applications are much superior to one application and the use of regular corn oil in the post application spray is superior to other surfactants.

Assistance is available from this office, and your farm supply dealer, to help you establish your weed control program. Herbicides, in most cases, are specific and must be app;lied at the right rate to be effective. Maintenace and calibration of sprayers is extremely important for successful weed control.

FARM SHOW RESULTS

Exhibitors from S.D.&G. took most of the top awards at the Ottawa Valley Seed and Forage Show. To be eligible to show in Ottawa the exhibitor must have placed first or second at our local S.D.&G. Seed and Forage Show held at Crysler.

The Raymond H. Kemp Memorial Award for the grand champion show person in the Ottawa Valley Championship Seed, Feed and Forage Championship Show was presented to Bert Beaudette of Maxville. Bert also received the J.W. Mackay Memoral Trophy which is awarded to the exhibitor gaining the most number of points in forage seed classes; the Nutrite Inc. Trophy for the championship exhibit in the open and 4-H classes of ear corn and the Embrun Agricultural Co-op Trophy for the champion exhibit of shelled corn.

William E. Johnston of Martintown was presented with the Barclay Dick Challenge Trophy for the best entry of red clover. Other Glengarry winners were: Iggie Peters, Lancaster, second place canola; Willliam E. Johnston, Martintown, first place red clover; Donald McCrimmon, Dalkeith, third place first cut, other legume and Carl MacIntosh, Dunvegan, second place 4-H grain corn.

Not enjoyable

SPORTS

Peter Conway

Somehow, I just can't get myself wrapped up in the National Hockey League playoffs. It's the end of April, and a lot of us are still glued to the tube every night.

A few years ago, I looked forward to each playoff series in the spring. My, have times changed. I don't know why I don't get excited anymore.

Maybe it's because the game has changed in recent years. Every team now has a designated goon. A lot of them have trouble stickhandling alone with the puck. Back in the '50's, Detroit Red Wings had a tough nut in a guy named Ted Lindsay. Lindsay loved to drop the gloves. But Lindsay could also put the puck in the net. I can only remember Lindsay at the end of his career and he still wouldn't shy away from the fisticuffs.

When John Ferguson skated for Les Canadiens, he scored goals as well as acting as the club's on-ice policeman.

A number of the so-called policemen today, would have a difficult task wearing Ferguson's skates.

Guys like Chris Nilan, Jay Miller and Basil McRae play the tough-guy role. Perhaps one of the reasons why I'm losing interest is when I see a guy like McRae start a fight with an opponent before the puck is dropped at the start of a game.

Contrary to what some people may think, officials in the National Hockey League do a respectable job with the whistle. The only qualm I have is that there are too many referees that refuse to decide the outcome of the contest by calling an infraction in the third period. When is a penalty not a penalty?

Officials call it tight in the first two periods, but every infraction in the book can take place in the third period.

National Hockey League people tell the public that if all the penalties were called, the games would stretch from three to four hours in length. Well, they're long enough right now.

It's no wonder the games are dragged out with all the clutch-and-grab done by the players. Maybe I'm wrong. But I cant recall watching hockey in the early '60's and seeing a Bobby Hull, Dave Keon or Jean Beliveau being hooked or grabbed from one end of the ice to the other. Another popular ploy these days is for a player to ride his opponent into the boards with his stick.

Personally, I haven't enjoyed these National Hockey League playoffs, particularly the Montreal-Quebec series. The media in La Belle Province builds the series as The Battle of Quebec. They're absolutely right.

I'm tired of watching Basil McRae take a run at Chris Nilan. All of the so-called hit men should ride the pine. Let the Michel Goulets and Bob Gaineys share the spotlight, rather than the less-talented skaters.

It shouldn't be guys like Basil McRae, Chris Nilan or a Jay Miller playing important roles in playoff series. Until their respective coaches realize this, we can't expect entertaining hockey each spring.

Benton wins match

by Bruce Howells

Ladies sponge puck play on April 20 saw Sealtest win the A final with a 1-0 victory over Tapis Richard.

Both goalers continued their outstanding efforts from the previous game, shutting down their opponents.

The third period started with the teams tied 0-0, extending the scoreless string to five periods for both teams.

Halfway through the final period, Sue McIntosh beat a Tapis Richard defender at the blueline, and raced down the boards creating a two-one-one situation and fed a perfect pass to Barbara Benton.

She fired home her third consecutive game winner to give Sealtest its third one goal victory. Sue McIntosh was selected as the MVP for the playoffs, with Sue Borris the runner-up.

The evening's second game saw GTL take a 2-1 lead in the B series with a 2-1 victory over Glen Nevis. Cheryl Wightman, assisted by Beth Lancaster opened the scoring for the Glen Nevis in the first period.

But Lori Trottier, assisted by Donna Clark on the second period, and then Margie Laferriere assisted by Lori Trottier, gave GTL its come-from-behind victory.

Season ends

The Alexandria Ladies' Soft Puck Hockey League wrapped up its season with an awards night last Wednesday evening at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Ray's Sealtest captured the A championship, while the B title went to Chez Paul. Ray's defeated Tapis Richard in a hard-fought series, while Chex Paul ousted GTL in a close affair as well.

Sue McIntosh was named the most valuable player in post-season play, while Louise St. Pierre was the top scorer in the regular season. The best goaler award went to Mary Ann Laframboise, while Louise Laferriere was chosen the rookie-of-the-year in the loop.

The most valuable player during the regular season was Sharon Hope, the best defenceman was Marie Bellemare. Debbie Robinson was selected as the most sportsmanlike player.

Morrisburg's Rosenquist seeks Liberal nomination for SD&G

MORRISBURG—Dr. Gerry Rosenquist, a Morrisburg family physician, will seek the Liberal nomination in the provincial riding of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry. Currently serving as president of the riding, he has announced his resignation to take effect at the S. D. & G. annual meeting in Chesterville, Thursday.

A Liberal activitist in both federal and provincial organizations throughout his 24 years in the riding, Dr. Rosenquist says he decided to "throw my hat in the ring after much thought. Interest in the Liberals has never been greater," he said. "Our polls continue to show us far ahead in voter preference. The opportunity for political change is very exciting."

Dr. Rosenquist is making his second bid for election. He was an unsuccessful Liberal candidate in 1981, but he also directed David Peterson's leadership campaign in three Eastern Ontario ridings. As councillor for the village of Morrisburg and a former trustee with the S. D. & G. County Board of Education, he is involved in a wide variety of community enterprises, ranging from the Upper Canada Playhouse to Naomi House in Winchester, and various medical, church and welfare organizations.

David Whetter, a dairy farmer from Finch, previously declared his intention to enter the contest and several others are also expected to run.

Guest speaker for the annual meeting of the Stormont, Dundas & Glengarry Provincial Liberals Association will be Gilles Morin, MPP and deputy speaker of the Ontario Legislature, captured Carleton East riding for the Liberals in 1985. The meeting will be held in the Chesterville Community Hall at 8 p.m.

The riding's annual meeting will also hear from declared candidates.

Dr. Rosenquist, Morrisburg, Ralph Raina, mayor of Kemptville, and Ken MacLennan, Dalkeith, were appointed at a recent executive meeting held in Monkland, to recruit members to serve in various executive positions in readiness for the association's annual election of officers.

Dr. Gerry Rosenquist

Besides reports from the current executive, the Liberals at the Chesterville meeting will hear briefly from delegates who attended the recent annual meeting of the Ontario Liberal Party in Toronto. These were: Bruce Meyers, Alexandria; David Whetter, Finch; Patrick Beavers, Morrisburg; Lorne Strader, Brinston; Leona McIntosh, Iroquois and Ken MacLennan, Dalkeith.

Teens attend Carleton

More than 100 local high school students will be attending university in Ottawa from May 11 to 15.

Enrichment mini-courses are being offered at Carleton University and the University of Ottawa to prepare students for the transition to post-secondary education.

Ninety students from the SD&G County Board of Education and 12 from the separate school board will attend this year's sessions.

A wide variety of courses, from the arts to engineering and science will be available to challenge the bright students.

Each student has selected one of the 89 courses offered and will spend a week immersed in subjects as diverse as Women's Studies to Mechanical Engineering.

Twp. hires new officer

WILLIAMSTOWN — Malcolm Leitch, R.R. 1, Williamstown, will assume duties as animal control officer for Charlottenburgh Township effective Friday, council decided at its regular meeting Monday. Mr. Leitch succeeds Mr. Olaf Rumke who has held the position for a number of years.

There were three tenders submitted for the position which will be for a one year period: Mr. Rumke at $18,600 per annum, Mr. Leitch at $17,500, and Mr. Marcel Dorie at $15,330.

In order that council be certain that all applicants realized the requirements involved in fulfilling the duties of animal control officer, Sheila A. Slater-Pratt, Inspector of the Animal Care Program of the Animal Industry Branch of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food, Kemptville, interviewed the applicants prior to council's decision.

Mrs. Slater-Pratt found Mr. Leitch to be "a man of strong character."

Driver charged following crash

LANCASTER—An Ottawa man was charged with impaired driving after he lost control of his vehicle and struck some trees, early Sunday morning.

David Latreille, 25, was driving his 1985 Nissan coupe north on County Road 20 just north of Martintown when the car left the road, says Lancaster OPP Const. Gilles Ruest.

Mr. Latreille suffered minor injuries. His vehicle sustained $8,000 damage.

Maxville OPP report, of 52 vehicles stopped as part of the RIDE (Reduce Impaired Drivers Everywhere) program from April 20 to 26, two people were charged with impaired driving. Another three drivers were issued a 12-hour suspension for blood-alcohol levels of .05 to .08 and one more was charged with an alcohol-related offence.

In Memoriam

URQUHART—In loving memory of a dear brother and uncle, John, who passed away May 3, 1986.
He suffered much, he earned his rest;
The Lord took him for He knew best;
A greater gain from sacrifice.
—Always remembered by brother Alex, Hazel and family. 17-1p

MacGREGOR—In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother, Wilma, who passed away April 28, 1987.
Though her smile has gone forever
And her hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories
Of the one we loved so much;
Her memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part;
God has her in His keeping,
We have her in our hearts.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by Cameron and family. 17-1p

RIGBY—In loving memory of a dear son Donald, who passed away April 29, 1983.
Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just in all his days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind
Beautiful memories he left behind.
—Lovingly remembered by Mom and Dad. 17-1p

ROBINSON—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, John, who passed away one year ago, April 29, 1986.
His weary hours and days of pain,
His troubled nights are past;
And in our aching hearts we know
He has found sweet rest at last.
—Always remembered by wife Lily and family. 17-1p

ROBINSON—In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Gerald, who passed away two years ago, April 23, 1985.
Today recalls sad memories
Of our dear son and brother gone to rest,
And the ones who think of him today
Are the ones who loved him best.
—Always remembered by mother and family. 17-1p

Students learn about township

by Patricia MacGillis

LOCHIEL — Lochiel Township Council had a variety of activities planned for Local Government Week (April 13-17).

On April 14 Grades 7 and 8 students from Laggan Public School and Grade 8 students from Ecole Elda Rouleau were invited to the township garage.

At 9:30 the entire council was present, as well as Clerk Treasurer Rheal Charbonneau, Deputy Clerk Eileen Lobb, Building and Zoning Administrator Dave Dumouchel and Drainage Superintendent Manson Barton. Also in attendance were Road Superintendent Gilles Chenier and the township road crew, as well as the committee of adjustment.

There followed a tour of the garage and a look at road maintenance equipment.

At 10:30 a.m. Constable Gilles Ruest of the Lancaster Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) spoke to the students on safety. He talked about three-wheelers and snowmobiles and the laws one has to know to operate these vehicles.

At 11:15 the Raisin Region Conservation Authority, represented by Andy Code and Roger Hood, showed a film on municipal involvement with regard to water sheds, marsh preservation and so forth.

Mr. Code gave a short talk explaining the corporate structure of the authority, as well as its mandate and programs.

There was a lunch break for one hour during which the 84 students enjoyed hot dogs, coleslaw, donuts and a variety of beverages.

Following lunch the buses were boarded for the drive to the Municipal office.

At 1 p.m. Warden Keith Fawcett of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry counties talked to the students, advising them it was important to get involved in local government.

Raymond Lapointe, county administrator, explained the functions of a county government.

This was followed by a tour of the office.

At 1:30 p.m. council held a meeting, with an explanation of the local government process.

Two students took turns acting as presiding reeve, Steven Robinson from Laggan Public School and Anand Janack from Ecole Elda Rouleau.

At 2:30 p.m. the students boarded the buses to return to their respective schools.

"The children enjoyed the day," said township clerk Rheal Charbonneau.

On Wednesday at 1 p.m. the general public was invited to go to the garage and view the facilities. Councillors and staff were again on hand.

At 2 p.m. Constable Ruest showed a film on farm safety and farm equipment on the roads. He gave out literature on the interpretation of the Highway Traffic Act.

Included in his talk were a few alarming statistics. Forty per cent of all farm fatalities in Ontario can be directly or indirectly linked to tractors. Seventy per cent of all machinery deaths are a result of tractor accidents.

"The tractor is a real killer," said Const. Ruest.
