Smoke inhalation kills Lancaster man

Best friend attempted rescue

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

A man died when a fire erupted in his kitchen last week on County Road 17 near Lancaster village, despite rescue efforts by his neighbor.

Anthony Kehoe, 24, died of smoke inhalation after an overheated pot on a stove erupted into flames. His girlfriend, Debra O'Reilly, and her seven-year-old daughter Nicole managed to escape the blaze.

Kehoe was cooking a late-night snack at around 2:30 a.m. Jan. 29. He apparently had fallen asleep when the fire started.

Fire spread quickly to the cupboards, emitting clouds of thick smoke all oyer the basement apartment.

The fire was first detected by O'Reilly, who woke up smelling the smoke.

She and her daughter escaped through the bedroom window and sought help from the neighbors.

''Nicole and Debra were yelling through the window 'The house is on fire and Tony is inside!' '' recalled neighbor Louise Lavigne.

Firefighters were called and arrived within minutes.

Before they arrived, Kehoe's best friend, Lavigne's husband Dale O'Byrne, tried to get Kehoe out of the burning house.

O'Byrne opened the door and heard Kehoe struggling to get out.

''I went in twice,'' O'Byrne said. ''The first time, I was yelling and he answered me.''

But the smoke was so dense that O'Byrne had to turn back to get out for fresh air.

''I couldn't handle the smoke.''

When he went back inside the house the second time, Kehoe stopped answering O'Byrne's yells.

''I knew he was dead,'' O'Byrne said.

Firefighters from Lancaster Joint Fire Department and the Charlottenburgh Fire Departments arrived and extinguished the fire in about 10 minutes.

They found Kehoe's body lying near a window.

Two killed in 401 head-on collision

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

A head-on collision on Hwy. 401 Friday killed two people and injured three others, including a baby and her mother.

David Morella, 28 of Etobicoke, and a passenger, Ruth Castellon Ramirez, 39, of Montreal died in the crash.

Passenger Paz Castellon, 17, of Etobicoke was injured and sent to the Ottawa General Hospital. Her 11-day-old baby Manuella was also injured and sent to the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario.

Hospital officials in Ottawa refused to release any information regarding the two crash victims.

The driver of the second vehicle Michel Duval, 48 of St. Laurent, Que. who was alone in the car, was sent to Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall for serious internal and leg injuries.

Hospital officials say he is stable and recovering.

The accident occurred when Morella, driving east at around 3:20 p.m. Friday, lost control of the car, crossed over the median, and collided with a westbound Ford, driven by Duval.

The crash may have killed Duval if his car did not have air bag mechanism, police say.

''The man's life was saved because he had an air bag,'' said Ontario Provincial Police Staff Sgt. Jim McWade of the Lancaster detachment.

''He had compound injuries to his legs, but he is still alive.''

County chambers seek joint solution

Glengarry county's three chambers of commerce are banding together to stem the flow of cross-border shopping.

Reprentatives of chambers from Alexandria, Lancaster and Maxville were to meet this (Wednesday) morning with Mike Metcalfe, official spokesman for the Cornwall Border Zone Advisory Committee, to discuss the issue of cross-border shopping.

Kenyon files $50,000 counter-claim against former hall architect

Kenyon Township has filed a counter-claim to a Manotick architect's $35,000 suit against the municipality.

Council filed a counterclaim on Jan. 8 for $50,000 for damages and over- payment against the architect Walter Scott, hired by the township in the fall of 1987 to design final plans to enlarge Kenyon's township hall.

Scott, who has already received $84,000 in fees, is suing for $26,000 for work he alleges was done before his dismissal in February 1990, and for $10,000 in special damages.

Kenyon Township, says however in its counter-claim, that it does not owe Scott money, and that the architect agreed in October, 1989 to accept payment of $86,000 for work under the agreement, and for any extra services needed to complete the project.

The township also says: ''The architect failed to provide professional services in a timely fashion and the architect charged excessive fees and disbursements for the services rendered.''

According to the counter-claim, Scott was to deliver the working drawings for phase 1 of the project by the end of January, 1989.

''We never did get those final drawings,'' said Kenyon Township Clerk Mary McCuaig. ''So we overpaid for services rendered.''

Kenyon's lawyer, Allan O'Brien, would not elaborate on the counter-claim.

In his claim against the township, Scott maintains he ''diligently performed the services under the agreement and that any delays which may have occurred were due to the actions of the defendant (Kenyon township) itself.''

He says in the suit that the termination of the agreement was prompted by complaints by Kenyon township residents about the cost of the project, and the way the issue was handled, generated ''extensive publicity in the local media and within the business community.''

''As a result of the termination of the agreement, the plaintiff has suffered damages by way of loss of profits which he would have earned had the contract not been terminated.''

''Furthermore, as a result of the high-handed manner in which the agreement was terminated by the defendant, the plaintiff has suffered by way of injury to his business reputation,'' the suit states.

The Glengarry News kicks off a centennial

It was a night for memories.

Former and present staff and correspondents of The Glengarry News, dignitaries and their spouses and guests came together at the Glengarry Sports Palace Saturday night to mark the official commencement of the newspaper's 100th year in business.

The hall, decorated in black and white balloons and tablecloths with a hint of ''read (red),'' attracted about 200 invited guests. It was an elegant kick-off to the newspaper's 100th year, and one that was full of nostalgic talk about the ''good old days,'' laughter and some tearful moments.

One of the most emotional came when Angus H. McDonell, who insisted on attending despite illness, was presented with a framed front page of the first issue he wrote for — from Jan. 6, 1922, making this his 70th year as contributor to the News.

The proud Glengarrian received two standing ovations, one when he was first introduced by emcee Joe Banks and one after his short speech. As chairman of the Glengarry Highland Games for 25 years, he said, he'd introduced prime ministers, governors general, provincial premiers and the U.S. ambassador to Canada.

But despite all of that, he said, ''The greatest honor of my career is being associated with The Glengarry News for 70 years'' and the opportunity to know and work with founder Col. A. G. F. Macdonald and his son Eugene.

The moment was preceded by speeches by Alexandria Mayor J. P. Touchette who added his congratulations on the newspaper having reached its 100th year.

And Noble Villeneuve noted in his speech of congratulations that he always goes to The News first when reviewing his pile of newspapers from the riding; ''It's the best paper around,'' and added he hoped it would be in business ''for a long time to come.'' Mr. Villeneuve presented certificates of recognition from the premier, Bob Rae, and the Lt. Gov. of Ontario, Henry N. R. Jackman. Accepting those on behalf of the News was company president Kevin Macdonald.

MP Don Boudria spoke of the pride News staff should feel, that the founder of the News started the paper to support the Liberal movement in the area. He thanked the paper for its coverage of events; ''Let us all say, Glengarry News forever.'' Garth Macdonald, eldest son of the Eugene Macdonald family, accepted a letter of congratulations forwarded by Mr. Boudria from Prime Minister Brian Mulroney.

Leader of the Opposition, Jean Chretien, noted in his letter presented by Mr. Boudria, that upon the newspaper's founding in 1892, it ''provided a voice for the Glengarry Liberals and the policies advocated by the Honorable Sir Wilfred Laurier. Today, along with covering politics, it continues to reflect the pride, the history and the culture of the people who have made the Glengarry area their home.''

Other words of congratulations came from Harry Stemp, executive director of the Ontario Community Newspapers Association and representing the Canadian Community Newspapers Association. Mr. Stemp noted that he'd known Eugene Macdonald since his youth and related humorous memories of conventions and the enjoyable times he'd had with the publisher/editor.

Lorne Eedy, president of the Ontario Community Newspapers Association, added his voice to those honoring the paper, calling it ''one of the best in Ontario.''

But the keynote address was delivered by Kevin Macdonald, second youngest son of Eugene, who seemed to best sum up what the News has meant to the people of Glengarry, both for those who have read it and those who have put it together for 100 years.

He noted how ''difficult to imagine'' it was to assemble the News in the days before electricity; Alexandria did not have hydro until 1921. There were no paved roads and telephones were still in their infancy. In 1893, the town council voted to remove hitching posts, a mystery considering the first automobile didn't arrive in the town until 1910. Even then, Maxville was a two-hour ride away.

He outlined the other problems of ''The News has been blessed''

News named third

The Glengarry News was last week named the third best community newspaper in Ontario for 1991 in its circulation class by the Ontario Community Newspapers Association.

Competing in the ''General Excellence'' competitions which judges all aspects of the newspaper including front page, editorial page, content, photography, advertising, typography and layout and composition, the News placed behind the Eganville Leader which was first and the Fort Frances Times which was second, in the 6,001 to 8,000 circulation category.

In addition to doing well in the general excellence competitions, a column by News publisher Joe Banks won an honorable mention in the best general interest column category of the premier awards competition.

In this competition, the News' entry is judged against columns submitted by community newspapers from all circulation classes including from suburban newspapers in Mississauga, Brampton, Thunder Bay, and other, much larger papers.

The column submitted detailed how disunity has affected family relations between French and English sides of Banks' relatives.

The awards will be presented at the OCNA's annual convention in Toronto on Feb. 29.

gathering news, advertising and delivery — ''all this for a subscription rate of $1 per year . . . and if it was not paid before April 1, subscribers were on the hook for $1.25.''

Mr. Macdonald brought his audience through the various eras of the newspaper, beginning with the first edition of the newspaper on Feb. 4, 1892 when F. J. Jewell, an experienced newspaperman from Toronto, got the paper up and running and three months later resigned, to be replaced by A. G. F. Macdonald. He continued for 52 years until his retirement in 1944.

Eugene Macdonald started at the paper in 1929, and continued for 40 years, eventually taking over the paper from his father until the late 1970s when he semi-retired for health reasons. But he remained involved on an almost daily basis as proofreader and obituary writer until his death in July 1988.

He added: ''I know that everyone here could recount stories of extra hours or the snowstorm they drove through or the sacrifices their families made in order to get those 5,000 issues together and out to our readers. The News has been blessed throughout its existence with capable, dedicated and loyal people and I'm glad so many could join us tonight to celebrate our past and allow us to acknowledge our indebtedness.''

He extended that to include the paper's present staff, noting that the extra hours the centennial committee have put in, naming especially Lucy Theoret, Barb McCormick and Lindsay Cameron who have sat on the committee.

He also noted the booklet entitled, ''Memories,'' a keepsake originally conceived by Lucy and Barb. In it, over 70 former and present employees and correspondents relate their favorite memories of the News and the late Eugene Macdonald. The booklets, printed by Ernie Gallant of Gallant Press in Alexandria who was a linotype operator at the News, were distributed at the banquet.

Another singled out by Mr. Macdonald was Gil Sauve, ''who will embark on his 40th year at the News'' in June of this year. He noted Mr. Sauve's heroics during the fire that threatened our historic files 26 years ago — rescuing them from certain water and fire damage.

He also mentioned the paper's crew of correspondents, past and present — ''these are the people who inject such a strong sense of community in a community newspaper; I don't know where we'd be without them.''

Former publisher Emile Hurtubise, who sat at the Macdonald table, and former editor Anna Margaret MacDonald, both of whom were present, were also lauded, stepping ''into some pretty big shoes'' after illness forced Eugene Macdonald to give up the day-to-day reins of the business in the 70s.

He also mentioned Phil Rutherford, with the paper for four years as publisher, who left to run his own paper in Westport, Ross Greer who temporarily ran the paper between publishers and current publisher Joe Banks who has overseen the News since 1987.

''Under the stewardship of these people and with the efforts of a consistently excellent staff, the News has continued to be a prize-winning paper in all of its departments and we are confident that the future holds more of the same.''

He finally paid tribute to Angus Hoey — ''a man renowned for his love of Glengarry and I hope you know how much that feeling is reciprocated. I know that The Glengarry News has never had and will nver have a better friend.''

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. Macdonald unveiled three items — an enlarged photo of the staff of the paper standing in front of the News office in the early 1900s, a framed print and Col. A. G. F. Macdonald at an age when the News began, and a handsome oil painting of Eugene Macdonald, all of which will adorn the main office walls at the News.

Officials gather with research beneficiaries at campaign kick- off.

Campaign going strong

The annual fundraising campaign of Glengarry chapter of the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario is well under way.

There has been a blitz with rose-like lapel pins and door-to-door canvas by a large group of volunteers as the chapter strives to meet its $58,000 target.

The next fundraising event planned by the Heart and Stroke chapter is a Bonspiel for Hearts at Alexandria Curling Club.

The bonspiel, which begins at 9 a.m. Feb. 13, will comprise two six-end games of curling and costs $10 a person, including lunch.

Anyone who wants to join the fundraising bonspiel can call Phoebe Hay at 525-1716 by the end of this week.

The Heart and Stroke chapter kicked off its campaign Jan. 24 with a puck-dropping ceremony before a Alexandria Glens-Winchester Hawks game involving two local residents who have benefitted from heart research.

Since the kick-off, the chapter has also held a Darts for Hearts contest at the Alexandria branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, which raised $200. The total was then upped to $700 by the Legion branch.

And other Darts for Hearts contests are being held on Wednesdays and Fridays at the Lancaster branch.

Flea market fiasco being solved

By Andre Perrella
News* reporter

Dialogue dominated over hostility at a meeting last week as municipal officials agreed to work together to address Kenyon residents' concerns about the flea market in neighoring South Plantagenet Township.

About 50 Kenyon residents, who live on a gravel road bordering Kenyon and South Plantagenet townships, were at the Kenyon council meeting to demand a solution to the overwhelming traffic leading to nearby Flea Market 417.

Since the flea market is in South Plantagenet, the situation could have been explosive: business interests in one township against residential and agricultural interests in another, with a pot-holed muddy dirt road as the front.

But peace reigned at the Jan. 28 meeting as owners of the flea market, Kenyon residents, and councillors from Kenyon and South Plantagenet agreed to form a small committee to solve the problem.

The committee is not yet set, but will consist of one or two council members of both townships, two representatives of the flea market, and at least two residents.

A meeting date has not yet been set.

The residents have complained that ever since the flea market opened last October, the large volume of traffic deteriorated the road and raised pollution levels.

Also, the traffic congestion made driving combines and tractors on the road nearly impossible for farmers.

Resident Rolf Rupp, speaking to The News after the meeting, said the problems began before the market opened, when trucks were dumping gravel to build the market's large parking lot.

''First the big trucks hauled the gravel, and dust clouds shot up,'' he said. ''And then there was traffic (customers). There was more traffic than the highway.''

South Plantagenet's reeve, Claude Gravel, who attended the meeting, urged everyone to express their interests through dialogue.

''I think it's by meeting and by speaking that we can arrive at an arrangement,'' he said.

He said ideas should be discussed when the ad hoc committee members meet.

''We are 50 people here. We cannot come to an agreement.''

NISA deadline approaching

Glengarry county farmers are being reminded to enroll in the new Net Income Stabilization Account program shortly to take advantage of available federal funding.

In Ontario, producers must enrol in NISA by Feb. 12 to receive part of the $800 million federal Farm Support and Adjustment Measures II special assistance.

A total of $92 million is allocated to the grains and oilseeds sector in the province and $26 million is allocated to the horticulture sector.

Farmers who produce grains, oilseeds, special crops, qualifying edible horticulture crops or grain grown to feed their own farm animals, may be eligible to participate in NISA and receive special assistance as well.

Most producers need only complete the NISA deposit/withdrawal form and schedule A of the NISA form in order to enroll.

Schedule A determines farmers' eligible sales, which are gross sales less the purchases of all eligible agricultural commodities, including seed, feed and grain.

The NISA deposit/withdrawal form is used to open a NISA account to make a deposit in that account for withdrawal. Farmers who have not received a NISA forms package can call the NISA toll-free line at 1-800-665-NISA

For service in French, farmers can call 1-800-665-CSRN.

Council briefs

The following are among the items discussed at an Alexandria council meeting held on Tuesday, Jan. 21, 1992.

Minding meetings

At the request of Councillor John Hope council members put on hold plans to institute its new meeting schedule, which would see council meetings held the second and fourth Tuesday of each month.

Hope said that because of other commitments he will be unable to attend some meetings and asked that for now, council maintain its schedule of one meeting every two weeks.

Reeve Bruno Massie had made the proposal that council move back to its original meeting practice, saying it would save council two meetings a year.

''There's a possibility of saving at least $2,000,'' he told council.

Subdivision circumstances

Engineers to the Ottawanne Subdivision have asked for the town's acceptance of work on Hope Street and Trottier Crescent, as well as the asphalt base course pavement on Hope Street.

No decision was made on the request.

Holding out

Alexandria Clerk Leo Poirier is refusing the remaining $5,000 it owes on what has been a problem-riddled office computer system purchased from a Nepean business.

Poirier notified the company by letter in December that the town will not pay the remaining $5,000 it owes for the system.

''I regret that we have to take this action, but with all the inadequacies in the system, which has caused a great amount of stress and frustration, not to mention the excess work load for office staff, we feel this action is justified,'' Poirier said in the letter.

The company, which acknowledges in a Jan. 6 letter that there have been ''some unfortunate delays with the completion of the system, is asking the town to pay $2,500 of the balance now and pay the remaining $2,500 later this year.

Tartan Day

Alexandria council has declared April 6 Tartan Day at the request of Grey County MPP Bill Murdoch, municipal affairs critic for the provincial Conservatives.

The MPP has asked April 6 be desiginated Tartan Day to recognize the contributions made by the Scottish community to Ontario.

The day April 6 is significant to Scots because it marks the anniversary of their independence from England in 1320.

Promising dollars

The chance of the town receiving Ontario Ministry of Environment funding to extend water to East Boundary Road residents who have been plagued with contaminated wells looks promising.

The news came in a Jan. 10 letter from ministry official F. R. Sanders confirming that the proposal to extend a water line so the residents can have town water is eligible for ministry funding.

But the funding is not 100 per cent guaranteed. In order to fully assess whether the ministry can fund the project, a detailed submission must be prepared by MOE district office staff and submitted to the ministry's Project Priority Evaluation Committee.

Belt tightening urged

David Cooke, Ontario Minister of Municipal Affairs, is urging municipal councillors to follow Ontario's lead and take measures to keep costs down this year.

Cooke is asking that municipal council members tighten their belts and impose a freeze on honorariums paid to members and salaries of senior staff at 1991 levels.

''I am pleased to note that some of you have already announced your intentions to do so and encourage all municipal governments and public utility commissions to follow this leadership.

''As leaders in the public sector, we must demonstrate our willingness to do our part if we are to manage Ontario's fiscal challenge while reforming and protecting public services and supporting economic renewal,'' he said.

Police officer assaulted in Apple Hill

Ontario Provincial Police Const. Ray McNicol of the Maxville detachment was assaulted by Pierre Ouellette, 28, of Apple Hill while investigating a disturbance at the King Edward Hotel.

When police arrived, Pierre Ouellette, 28, of Apple Hill said that he had beaten up his roommate, Roch Richer, 29, who was in the apartment.

The police officers decided to investigate.

''Before they entered the residence, Ouellette became belligerent and ordered the police off the property,'' OPP Const. Mike Greenwood said.

Refusing to do so, McNicol was assaulted, but not injured.

Ouellette was arrested and charged with assaulting a police officer.

Court report

The following are among the cases heard by Judge Rommel Masse in Alexandria Provincial Court on Jan. 30.

Man receives heavy fine

A 19-year-old man arrested in Maxville for drunk driving on Jan. 18 has been fined $800.

Kenneth Wensink attracted the attention of police when he was blowing the horn of his vehicle.

Wensink was taken to the local detachment where breathalyser tests showed a reading of 220 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood, almost three times the legal limit.

Wensink's driving licence was suspended for 12 months.

Good Samaritan fined

A 21-year-old Lancaster Township man whom defence counsel called ''a good Samaritan'' has been fined $325 and has lost driving privileges for one year after pleading guilty to drunk driving.

The defence said Scott Anderson was driving a friend's car only because the other person was obviously in no condition to drive and because Anderson believed he himself was not impaired.

Breathalyser tests showed a reading of 100 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood.

Because of the low readings and the fact that there was no indication of erratic driving on Anderson's part, Judge Rommel Masse imposed a fine on the lower end of the range for drunk driving.

Chambers work together

ping is not a problem just restricted to Cornwall, it also is a problem in Glengarry.

''It certainly is, for some merchants, quite a big problem,'' Kaswurm said Monday.

The chamber must convince people who shop in the United States that there are not real bargains across the border, especially for those who shop U.S. for groceries.

''These are things we have to address,'' he said.

The effect cross-border shopping has on Canadian business and industry must also be stressed to consumers, he said.

''If you save $2 today (shopping U.S.), you may not have a job tomorrow.''

Metcalfe, who also works for Cornwall's economic development department, said he does not know if cross-border shopping is even a problem in Glengarry.

It may be that shoppers are going to other Canadian destinations, such as Montreal and Ottawa, he said.

''I haven't the foggiest notion,'' he replied, when asked if cross-border shopping is exclusively a Cornwall problem.

He said the county may want to investigate before joining the program to ensure cross-border shopping is a problem.

According to statistics, in 1988, 560,000 Canadians made day trips to the U.S. across the Seaway International Bridge in Cornwall. In 1991, the figure ballooned to 1.3 million.

He doesn't expect the meeting will result in any specific proposals about cross-border shopping. It will more likely just be an information session about the November government program.

Editorials/Opinion

Here's to another 100 years of service

In its congratulatory editorial after the publication of the first edition of The Glengarry News in early February of 1892, the Northumberland Enterprise outlined the political intentions of the new newspaper: "The Mission of the paper is more specifically to give effect to the Liberal policy as advocated by the Hon. W. Laurier in the House of Commons, and the Hon. O. Mowat in the Legislative Assembly.'-' And then, added almost as an afterthought, "Local and other news will have due share of attention."

How times change.

Some 100 years later, here we are still, bearing little philosophic and physical resemblance to the brainchild of that group of prominent Alexandria businessmen who formed the Glengarry Reformer Newspaper Company Ltd. and who were determined to offset the voice of the Tory paper, The Glengarry Review and Eastern Ontario Advertiser.

Our "Mission" today is practically the inverse of those of our founding fathers, and Col. A. G. F. Macdonald. We seek today to emphasize "local and other news" and tend to shy away from taking political stances that pegs our opinion to party doctrine.

It's that simple.

Other newspapers since their founding have continued to follow party lines, and some of the larger dailies routinely are accused of doing so to the detriment of their journalistic integrity. And it's also easy at times to lose sight of who we are and what we're supposed to be doing when the world outside of our sphere of influence is changing so rapidly.

But the focus remains. It must. In a world where economics demands that companies concentrate on "niche" goods, our strength will ultimately depend on continuing to publish an informative, top quality community newspaper about and for the people of Glengarry.

Beyond the raw economics, we are merely continuing a tradition and pattern first started by A. G. F. Macdonald and then bolstered and improved by his son, Eugene Macdonald. Again, that is to emphasize local news and names and all of the events that to the outside world would seem trite or mundane. Editorially, our way is clear. This is what our readers tell us they want, and this is what we will continue to deliver.

It's also what our advertisers expect.

They, after all, ensure our future survival. The vast majority of our revenues are derived from advertising, and to them, we owe the responsibility of ensuring their message gets out to as many people as possible, and in the most graphically pleasing and attractive way possible. This is perhaps a message that is lost when we think of the great moral and social standards the editorial page is charged with upholding. But we at the News are proud of the advertising standards we have set and our staff protects. The continuing support of the businesses who seek our services ensures that our strength as this community's newspaper will never diminish even during such precarious economic times.

It's no easy task.

Scarcely a week goes by when we are not faced with a new and often unforseen challenge to that strength. The most notable one was the decision by the federal government to terminate funds paid for a readership subsidy paid to Canada Post, to keep mailing rates for community newspapers at reasonable levels. Effective this March 1, they'll be dropped, increasing our out-of-area mailing costs by 680 per cent. Eventually, it will mean Glengarrians who have moved away will find it less able to afford the high cost of receiving their "letter from home."

Then there are the cutbacks facing local government and related institutions which affect policy with regards to advertising. Just last week, the SDG Public School Board said it may stop buying ads for tendering capital projects in weekly district newspapers, in an effort to cut down on advertising expenditures. Combine this with pending business law reforms, and it's easy to see that the ability to publish a community newspaper is becoming more difficult.

Yet, this newspaper is no stranger to hurdles. Getting through the depression was a feat in itself, and the legendary story of the great county power outage of 1943 relates how the production staff turned out the paper by hand, since there was no electricity to power the press. And then there are the countless moments of equipment failure, car trouble, and innumerable other delays, and other hold-ups that have given staff here headaches over the years.

Indeed, as much as these events have thrust impediments to getting out the News every week, they have created a record of dedication among the newspaper's staffs. In that tradition, we continue here today, attempting in our imperfect way to frame the week's events and information in this historic county.

May we have the good fortune to continue to do so for you for another 100 years.

Great history, great people, great party

After Thoughts

Joe Banks

So. We're now officially 100.

We couldn't say that last week, just shy as we were of the enchanting date of Feb. 4, 1992. Exactly 100 years ago that day, the first issue of The Glengarry News rolled off the newly-acquired press, then owned by the Glengarry Reformer Newspaper Company Limited. A Liberal organ owned by a group of local shareholders, its humble beginnings were hatched in the south half of a building on the corner of Main and Kenyon streets, led by editor F. J. Jewell. He'd told his employers at the second meeting of the directors of the fledgling company on Jan. 19, 1892 that it would cost $1,712 for the plant, press and expenses for three months. Eventually, Jewell left and into the breech stepped the Colonel himself, A. G. F. Macdonald.

That kind of history was not far from the minds of the celebrants who gathered at the Glengarry Sports Palace last Saturday night. News president Kevin Macdonald fondly highlighted the Golden Years of the News, the magnitude of the tasks of the pioneering News staff and his own memories as a kid literally living in his father's considerable shadow.

His speech and an inspiring appearance by an ailing Angus H. McDonell draped the evening in a spirit of remembrance — and joyful reunion. There were few people there who could accurately describe the heartwarming feeling in the hall that evening. It resulted in being, I think, a celebration of the ability of people who toil and have toiled over the years here and the camaraderie they develop, as well as the marking of an historic event.

And it was simply an extremely enjoyable party, bracketed by a beautifully decorated hall by Ruth Hiscock, a wonderful meal by Jim Gillissie and nostalgic music of the Carm Aube Band, a 14-piece orchestra that waltzed some of our more senior guests down memory lane, and our younger ones onto the dance floor.

Good times. It was something Eugene Macdonald knew a little about, and always relished other people sharing those times. As one who shied away from the limelight, recognition or any hint of special treatment we think he would've approved of the evening minus a formal head table.

There we go again. His name keeps coming up; it seemed impossible to talk about The News without talking about Eugene; he was for many years after the death of his father, the embodiment of The Glengarry News. His name now echoes in the ears of the people who knew and loved him, much in the way a legend is spun. Except this legend was continually lauded this night for the kind of person he was, as much as the considerable ability he possessed.

So it was quite a night. And for those of you we couldn't invite, fear not. The date may be past us, but the party goes on. We'll be celebrating throughout 1992 with other events and we hope you'll be a part of them.

I suppose, after all, in these times of increasing illiteracy and sagging lineage, we're a bit like the 100 year-old man, who was talking to a newspaperman on the occasion of his birthday. "I suppose you'll be celebrating this special time today," the scribe yelled to the man.

"Heck," he replied, "At my age, you celebrate every day you wake up without a tag on your foot!"

Winter: Let it snow, let it snow, let it snow

News to me

Greg Kielec

The weather outside is frightful. To you, that may not seem insightful.

But to me, as far as winters go, let it snow, let it snow, let it — well, you know the rest.

If we are going to have winter, I figure we might as well get everything that comes with it, the full package, the whole kit and kaboodle — mainly, lots of snow.

There is something about mounds of snow that make winters a little more bearable. Snow takes the bite out of the cold and brightens an otherwise gloomy time of year by covering an otherwise dull, grey landscape.

And snow gives you so many more options for extra-curricular activities that it's difficult for even the most dedicated couch potato to resist the temptation to frolic in the white stuff.

Certainly, too much snow can make driving difficult, cause hardship (e.g. shovelling out driveways), and costs mounds of money to remove from streets and roads.

But still, it has a certain quality, a certain freshness and pureness about it that makes it difficult to hate.

There is a general peacefulness when snow falls. Life slows down a notch or two. People reminisce about historic snowstorms of their past and compare them to the storm at hand.

Is it the hypnotic effect of soft, while flakes floating to the ground which puts people more at ease or simply the fact we are forced to slow down to given into nature which has created the conditions beyond our control?

Snow conjures up images of winter sleigh rides with laughing children and hot apple cider and hot chocolate. It's ski vacations at some mountain peak in Quebec.

Snow means alternate modes of transportation for the winter outdoors person who wants to have some exercise in the cool fresh air of the season.

There is cross country skiing, snowshoeing, snowmobiling, and outdoor hockey, which wouldn't be quite the same without a thin layer of white stuff protecting the natural ice surface under it and hiding it from view.

There are just too many good things that come with snow for kids and adults alike. And while it is here, I will make the most of it.

If there is any reason at all to get excited by sub-zero temperatures, frost-bitten fingers, and hard-starting cars, it is that fluffy white stuff that can — although not often in recent years — come with it.

I'll take the snow any day. Nothing else can turn one of the most difficult and often depressing times of year into a winter wonderland.

Let it snow, let it snow, let it snow.

High interest rate policy built on faulty logic

Letters

To the editor:

John Crow, the man who made this recession much worse that it needed to be by false doctrine of controlling inflation by high interest rates, now tells us to be patient. The truth is that high interest rates create inflation rather than control it.

This was proven in the 1980-84 high interest rate scam, when Gerald Bouey, then Governor of the Bank of Canada, with John Crow as assistant, created the recession of that time. Graphs of interest and inflation rates proved this.

The theory of high interest rates controlling inflation, is not only false, it is the exact opposite of the truth as represented by the results recorded on two occasions, as well as the simple common sense that any cost increase fuels inflation.

When John Crow embarked on his infamous high interest program in 1989, I wrote to Brian Mulroney with copy to Michael Wilson on January 4th, 1990 pointing out that high interest rates being perpetrated by John Crow increase inflation and the deficit, decrease the balance of trade, stagnate the economy, causing unemployment and bankruptcies and do nothing to curb inflation until the economy is completely ruined. You will note that since interest rates have been lowered, the inflation rate has dropped back into the 4% range where it was for the years 1984 to 1989 indicating that there was no reason to attack inflation in 1989 any more than there was in 1985. It was clearly evident that John Crow was creating a paper tiger to attack as cover-up for the real sinister purpose of pushing up interest rates and simultaneously the value of the dollar, which was to the disadvantage of our trade balance in favor of competing nations, particularly the United States.

Having received no intelligent reply to my January 4th letter, I recorded and graphed the 1980 to 1984 interest rate disaster showing clearly that as interest rates were pushed up so went the inflation rate and when the interest rates were allowed to drop in late 1981 and early 1982, the inflation rate followed them down. Inflation rates had been pushed up to 11.2% in 1981 — 1982, dropped to 7.9% in 1983, 4.9% in 1984 and levelled at 4 to 4.1% from 1985 to 1989. I sent copies of these graphs and relevant data to John Crow with copy to Michael Wilson, challenging them to disprove my facts. They ignored the challenge and instead wrote very paternalistic letters going on to great length about the evils of inflation, including copies of their ridiculous speeches on the subject.

I forwarded copies of the graphs and covering letters to several senior officials of banks, trust companies and other relevant organizations with general acceptance and no disagreement: The Economic Council and several financial columists, including the Financial Post came to the same conclusion. One produced graphs of interest and inflation rates, showing similar results for 1990-91.

As anticipated and as in 1981-82, but worse, the economy has stagnated, many qualified people are unemployed, many have gone bankrupt, interest payments on the national debt have increased, our trade balance has declined, manufacturing operations have been moved to United States or elsewhere and the country is steadily being sold out. Some recession could probably not be avoided under present world conditions but it has been deliberately and knowingly made worse than necessary by the Bank of Canada, permitted and abetted by the Mulroney Government. They try to blame it on global economy and the necessity of taking unpopular decisions in the country's interest, but the facts as presented indicate that there is no truth in these statements and they had plenty of information to know in advance where their policies were leading. In short it was deliberate.

Furthermore, the act that created the Bank of Canada is severely flawed, when it allows a hired official, not responsible to the people to dictate financial policy and mismanage the economy with cruel results for the population. The only possibility of the government to control the situation may be to fire the governor of the Bank of Canada and having failed to do this they have committed a crime against the people of Canada for which they should be punished by complete and total defeat at the next election. The new government should be firmly committed to reduce czarist control of the governor of the Bank of Canada and take responsibility for the welfare of the country and it's people.

As it now stands the governor of the Bank of Canada can advise his associates and friends, including those in government of his intentions, so they can invest their money at highest rates in longest term certificates available and reap a harvest of money at the country's expense in money and hardship.

The Mulroney government is digging its political grave wider and deeper and it is the duty of every loyal Canadian to see that they are totally removed from office and politically buried at the next election. No party member should be allowed to escape since they have failed in their duty to control the party in caucus as they should under our democratic system. The generous compensations and magnificent pension scheme have successfully demotivated them from taking corrective action.

What Canada needs is a massive infusion of honesty and integrity. We must select our candidates carefully and politically destroy those who do not live up to acceptable standards. This is our challenge and our duty.

The immediate action required is to kick-start the economy by firing John Crow and pegging the dollar down where it favors Canada rather than the United States.

No room for honest politicians

To the editor:

Two days after Finance Minister Don Mazinkowski's return from a meeting of the G-7 finance ministers, he made a public commitment that Canadian government spending had to be controlled and that we could expect spending cuts to some federal programs. Just as Michael Wilson's

Politicians should keep hands off recycling

To the editor:

As I said many times before, politics and garbage don't mix very well; they are too-closely related. They both smell to a degree depending how much they are shaken. Because I have to relate to the facts as they are, my concerns are certainly not meant to sound negative. My promise was to keep informed and especially watch over environmental issues and I'm doing just that. I must be the only politician trying to keep his promises even after not being elected.

Garbage and recycling were no doubt the main issues of the last election. The whole concept of it being based on public participation makes it dangerously vulnerable in the eyes of the public. Some people with very little knowledge and understanding of the issues at hand, thrived on the idea of using every negative point possible in order to get themselves elected. We are talking here of one of our local industries with a million-dollar grant to get it going. The foundation of the whole project was erected on new and positive ideas, with team work from a bunch of great guys and with the constant support of council. A great amount of praise goes to the people I have worked with, and it is with pride that we are able to show the accomplishment of our efforts.

When I found myself recycled after the last election, I offered my help to the new committee of environment since nobody on the old one remained. I was prepared to share my experience and give my assistance without remuneration for the sake of the project, and the best interest of the people of Alexandria. The new council high command apparently turned it down, without even taking the matter to council for their consideration, discussion and voting. It is inconceivable that the heads of this council in this town would nourish personal and political grudges to the extent of putting the best interest of people on the line or in jeopardy. We will let you be the judge!

At this time, I would like to extend my best wishes to the new chairman of environment. He has tackled a man-size job. An old practice common under his past chairmanships has surfaced again; the one of fooling around with tenders this time for construction and machinery contracts at the recycling plant. The explanation or the lack of it has created quite a bit of confusion around the council table.

Only half the job was done as far as garbage collection and pick up of recyclables. We urgently need an ICI (industrial-commercial-institutional) pick up program to be set in place. The committee or council has no control over the enormous amount of cardboard still going to the landfill site. This should be incorporated in next July 1 tender for garbage and recyclable pickup, but because of some of our politicians bad habits, and maybe also because of some serious promises made to individuals during the last election, we are patiently awaiting the result of that tender.

The future and survival of the recycling industry in Alexandria will only be secured if it is taken out of the hands of politicians. The magnitude of this project has gone beyond the mandate of a committee of council. It should be managed by a non-profit board, chosen amongst local people, representing different sectors of our community, people without any political affiliation. This would be a more-realistic version of what the ministry of environment is recommending as one of the conditions of the grant.

Keep recycling.

Sincerely,
Fern Seguin,
Alexandria.

Ottawa playing favorites in recent health scare

To the editor:

Twelve months ago in Glengarry, two teenagers died from meningitis. These tragic deaths attracted little press attention outside of our immediate area and, consequently, local health officials were able to sweep the incident under the table.

On a per capita basis, last year's outbreak in our area represented .095 deaths per one thousand population. If this frequency of occurrence were applied to the Ottawa-Carleton and West Quebec region, it would be the equivalent of approximately 78 deaths. And yet, parents in our region were left to suffer and worry with little official support and no plan of action.

In contrast, this year's outbreak in the Ottawa/Hull area has sparked an immediate media response and a government-sponsored mass immunization program. Could it be that, in the eyes of our public health officials, the children of politicians and civil servants are worth more than those of rural families in Eastern Ontario?

Actions speak louder than words, and the message is once again coming through loud and clear: namely, the residents of rural Ontario, east of Ottawa, are second class citizens! The government has no hesitation in spending our tax dollars to protect the blue-eyed, golden-haired offspring of public officials. Yet, when it comes to teenagers in this area (who are in frequent contact with those in the neighboring Ottawa/Hull and West Quebec regions), we are on our own.

To make matters worse, we are unable to obtain vaccine on a private patient basis as all stocks have been commandeered by the government in order to ensure that "the chosen few" are protected first.

It would appear that, in our democracy, the old adage "some are more equal than others" still applies.

Apology from Kenyon in order

To the editor:

Gossip. Politics. Respect, reprimands. Senior Roads Superintendent John H. MacDonald. Possible lawsuit at Kenyon taxpayers expense?

Did Kenyon Township council ever obtain written, signed and witnessed affidavits from these complainants, who verbalized before a municipal election, against Mr. MacDonald's lack of respect, in the performance of his duties as a senior roads superintendent, for over 14 years? Since council saw fit to reprimand and freeze Mr. MacDonald's salary would the complainants come forth now to sign affidavits?

This confidential personnel matter is quite beyond belief. A man who has sold his services and run a roads department for 14 years surely does now have to feel benevolent or grateful for his job. He sells his services/his services are bought; simply put, a contract. He is proven after 14 years.

In support and respect for Mr. MacDonald I would sign an affidavit. I have found him co-operative and courteous at all times during the past six years when discussing roads business with him.

As a taxpayer here in Kenyon, I can only hope that a costly lawsuit does not ensue. It is not nice to see a man destroyed through immature political blunder.

Having read headlines in the Freeholder, Glengarry News, Ottawa Citizen, it is only fair that Mr. MacDonald's legal counsel demands "apology" headlines in quotes. May the taxpayer be saved from a lawsuit, if we are lucky!

No honesty

budget of 1991 was laid out by foreign governments, so too is Tory economic policy. Michael Wilson recently extended patent protection to twenty years for multinational drug companies operating in Canada — they hadn't even asked for it.

Mr. Mazinkowski claims the federal deficit will be higher than projected due to the high cost of the unemployment insurance program and welfare costs. Last year transfer payments to provinces for health and welfare programs were frozen for the "have" provinces and limited for the balance. In 1984 when the unemployment rate stood at about 12.5 per cent my premiums were $9.78. Today the UIC rate is over 2 per cent lower and my weekly premium is 218 per cent higher at $21.30. Figures tell us what politicians want them to.

With a former truck driver as prime minister, and a used car salesman as finance minister, it's not hard to see how multinational corporate lawyers and chartered accountants have pulled the wool over our government's eyes. The shrewdest move that "Lyin Brian" ever made was the appointment of Ed Broadbent to the Canadian Human Rights Commission. There is no room in parliament for an honest politician.

Ag society held 103 meeting

Maxville
Gordon Winter
527-2888

The 103rd annual meeting of the Kenyon Agricultural Society was held on Jan. 24, 1992 at the Maxville Curling Club. There were 54 people present for dinner. The guest speaker for the evening was Fran Laflamme from Ingleside, a retired school teacher, member of the Lost Villages Historical Society and new councillor for Osnabruck Township. Miss Laflamme gave a very interesting and informative talk on the school fairs of the past.

The annual meeting was held following the meal. There were 41 members present. President Catherine Kippen listed some of the fair board's many accomplishments over the past year, including renovations to the Angus Gray Hall, the installation of the new gates at the entranceway to the grounds, and obtaining a permanent liquor licence for the Angus Gray Hall. Catherine thanked everyone involved for their support and help throughout the year.

At the end of the evening, outgoing president Catherine was presented with a beautiful quilt, handmade by Thelma Bender, for her hard work and dedication during her term as president.

Now into February with Groundhog Day over, area residents are being reminded that this month is Heart Month and that canvassers will be calling on them for donations. Their support for the work of the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario will be appreciated by those who benefit from the Foundation. If, by the end of the month, there are some who have not been canvassed, this correspondent should be contacted.

Pretty well everyone in the village knows affable John Simpson and although they do not know his Toronto parents, they have probably seen the Simpsons on TV. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson may be seen in the commercial for Anacin which is shown frequently and they and their family were featured in a documentary recently. The parents of 23 adopted children from other countries, the Simpsons are doing great work with the children, many of whom are handicapped.

At one time while living in Montreal, Sandra Simpson was associated with Bonnie Cappuccino in the Families for Children organization.

Maxville Ecumenical Event

In keeping the ecumenical spirit of Centennial Year alive, an exciting event is planned on Feb. 19 at 8 p.m. in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The theme is "Undivided in Christ" and the special guest speaker will be Jeannie Buchanan from Kanata. Jeannie has spoken widely in Eastern Canada for Women Alive and Christian Women's Club and is a warm and touching speaker. This event is planned by all village churches and everyone is invited to come and enjoy an inspiring speaker, wonderful music and fellowship. The theme of Jeannie's message is unity in essentials, charity in non-essentials, and to glorify Christ in all things. A light lunch will be served following the program. You will be glad you gave yourself that extra "nudge" to put on your winter coat and boots and attend!

All members of the local Horticultural Society are advised that an outing is being planned for the evening of February 15. Two weeks ago, I missed the name of Keith McEwen who was mentioned in the 50 years ago column of Auld Lang Syne. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. ("Ernie Peter") McEwen and after the war was a member of the RCMP for many years. He died a few years ago in the West. His sister, Miss Edna, a retired nurse, lives in Kingston while his other sister, Evelyn Johnson, a highly respected retired teacher in the Kingston area, died last year.

Ninety years ago, Farquhar McRae was injured while working in the bush on his farm northeast of the village. Mr. McRae was Russell Dewar's mother's father and the father of the late "Duncie Farquhar" McRae, a long time resident.

Seventy years ago, our post office was moved from the historic building that used to stand on the site of the present laundromat to the McKay block across the street. Merydie Fjarlie now conducts her business in the space once occupied by the post office.

Sixty years ago Rod "Rory" Cameron visited a brother in California. Mr. Cameron was a leading contractor in the village who had built many of the larger village buildings — the original Continuation (High) School in 1914 and the original Borden plant in 1915, to name two. His youngest daughter, Jean, lives in Toronto while Sadie and Gertrude have died.

The birds are beginning to come back to our feeders. However there are no evening grosbeaks yet and they should be around.

While passing Robert MacIntosh's farm last week, I was interested in seeing a hawk trying to capture one of the many wild pigeons that frequent this barnyard. I don't expect the MacIntoshs mind feeding this predator in this way and I hope it stays away from our feeders.

A friend back at St. Bernardin told me about a flock of Hungarian partridges which is frequenting his farm. These little birds date back to imported ones years ago and seem to prefer open farmland. They will spend a night in a circle formation with their heads facing in and nestled down in the snow. Heavy sleet over night may entrap the birds in the crust covering them.

Hilda Campbell phoned from Dunvegan to report that she and Jimmy have two pair of cardinals at their feeder. We don't envy these Dunvegan residents who have the cardinals, yet, but we do admire them in being able to attract these scarlet birds to their feeders.

A chickadee announced one day that spring was coming. On a nice sunny day last week, I heard the summer call of a chickadee rather than the customary sound that they usually make these days.

I expect there was at least a little music, maybe "Happy Birthday to You," at the Glengarry Community Club's January party in honor of Alice Portant and Bill Edmunds. There certainly was a cake — Clarice MacPherson saw to that.

Birthday girl Alice also won the door prize, while 50/50 winners included Cecile Leblanc, Anna Verkuylen, Margaret McLellan, Alda Major, and Rita Poirier.

Florida Legroulx, Ileen Latreille, and Donald MacGregor were the winners at cards, while Joyce Irvine and Donald MacGregor claimed the fours.

Belated congratulations to Don Derry on being named Cornwall's Citizen of the Year, recently. Don, as you know, lives on the South Branch Road with his wife, Darlene (nee Bonhower), and has extended his good works into Charlottenburgh, sponsoring many minor hockey players over the years.

And speaking of sponsors, the Lancaster Optimists must be lauded once again for their amazing support of community programs for our youth. Principal Doug Wereley of Williamstown Public, tells me that one of the club's projects, the Skating Program for Grades 1 & 2 students, is in its 4th of 10 weeks at the Charlottenburgh Arena. In addition, Grades 3 & 4 will be receiving ice time as part of their physical education course.

On Feb. 12, students in Grade 5 will travel to the Holiday Inn in Cornwall, for the start of a 15 session swimming program, following the Red Cross lessons, and qualifying the children for badges at varying levels.

Thanks to the members of a service club like this, it's easy to be optimistic about the future of our youth!

* * *

Meanwhile at Williamstown Public, plans are continuing for next Tuesday's Heritage Day. Parents of female students are busy making mob caps out of old sheets or pillow cases, while Brenda Lauzon hunts down parents to help her distribute the free lunch which will be served to the students.

Local artisans, dancers, and musicians have volunteered their services, promising quite a show indeed.

* * *

Parents of Char-Lan High School students are invited to the school from Feb. 10 to Feb. 12 inclusive, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. to pick up their students' report cards.

The Char-Lan School Committee will meet on Feb. 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the school library. A videotape on co-operative learning will be shown, the autoskills program will be explained, and an important announcement regarding technical services at the school will be made.

Members and adherents of St. Andrew's United Church are advised that this Sunday, church services will be held at 11 a.m. instead of at the usual hour of 9:30. Following the service, a pot-luck lunch will be held in Irvine Hall at noon, with the congregation's Annual Meeting beginning at 1 p.m. in the church. Activities will be provided for children while their parents attend.

It's good to report that Mac Grant, who broke his hip in a fall during the icy weather which plagued us, is recuperating nicely.

Gone international, she has. Well-known local potter, Janet Keefe, has had two of her works accepted at a juried show in Massena, New York. And to top it off, Janet was awarded the prize (cash!) as well.

Congratulations, Janet!

* * *

According to Janet, Charlottenburgh will be well represented this term on the Seaway Valley Arts Council. In addition to Janet, its members will include Lorna Foreman and Bob Evans, all of whom were recently elected. Now if only we could get an arts rep on Charlottenburgh's Recreation Committee!

It's official. That list of new rules and regulations applying to branches of the SD&G County Libraries was passed by its board on Jan. 28. As a result, the lifestyles of some of you will be premanently altered!

Effective immediately, all borrowers in the system must present a library card in order to take out books. A lost card will result in a $.50 charge for a replacement. Now before you decide the end of the world has definitely come, listen up. Branches will keep a box of members' cards on file so that if you are a chronic loser (of library cards, that is), you may avail yourself of this service.

The proposed rash scratching of one of our most convenient services — telephone renewals — has been modified. Borrowers in good standing will be able to renew books ONCE over the telephone.

Delinquent borrowers take note. After books are overdue for one week, you will be called by the librarian. If after two weeks, you still have not performed the big round-up, you will be sent a postcard advertising the fact. And, woe is you if you reach the three week mark without returning your materials! For at that time your name will be sent in to library headquarters for billing and the inexorable, should you not respond, march toward the dreaded collection agency will begin.

County Librarian Kathleen Hay stresses that these decisions were made by the library board in an attempt to cut down on the costs associated with book loss in the system. She asks that patrons co-operate by following the above rules, adding that the operation is not quite as cold-blooded or inhumane as it may seem. Exceptions will be made in the cases of serious illness, family tragedy, or house-burning, etc.

* * *

Do you know that your librarians wear enough different hats to be a serious threat to Bartholomew Cubbins? Over the years letters have been addressed to Williamstown Library's: Audio-Visual Librarian, French Book Dept. Head, Acquisitions Librarian (Ha!), Director of Programmes, Periodicals Librarian, Phys. Ed. Librarian, Video Librarian, Public Relations Co-ordinator, Head Librarian, and, of course, Reference Librarian.

Just a reminder that on Sun., Feb. 9, there will be a curling bonspiel held at the Maxville Curling Club. This is put together by some relentless workers of the Apple Hill Recreation committee.

There will be a dance held by the Knights of Columbus, Council 9780, at St. Anthony's hall on Friday, Feb. 14. This is a St. Valentine dance, so if you have nothing special in mind, feel free to purchase tickets to attend. If you need tickets contact me, Vincent Marleau at home.

Weather doesn't deter WI

Hi! With Valentine's Day almost here, I thought I would share with you a gift idea I've found in a newsletter that I subscribe to. This newsletter is called "The Tightwad Gazette" (don't laugh) and it is published monthly by Amy Dacyczyn (please, don't ask me to pronounce this). She is a full-time homemaker, and mother of six children all under 10 years, the youngest being twins born in May 1991. She and her husband and children were guests last year on the Phil Donahue Show (my children swear that everything I know, I learned on the Donahue show). they were promoting "thrift as a viable alternative lifestyle." She publishes the newsletter from her home-office on a home computer, and, as the name implies, it is full of ideas and well-researched methods for saving money by living thriftily.

One suggestion is to give handmade, from-the-heart gifts, instead of expensive items. The following is a "Kiss Gift." Cut a cardboard circle larger than the gift. Place tissue around the base to give it body, then wrap the gift in tissue paper also. Place the wrapped gift on the cardboard circle, then wrap the whole thing in aluminum foil so that it looks like a Hershey's kiss. Run a piece of paper out of the top for a name tag, and tape securely. I'm sure anyone would be delighted to receive such a lovely gift.

Women's Institute News

Bitter cold weather did not deter members of Martintown Women's Institute from attending the January meeting held in the Presbyterian church hall.

Jo Van Loon, president, read a letter received from her grandson, a most appealing one, as she welcomed all those present. Roll call was, name a craft using natural products.

Secretary Marion Thompson read many thank you cards for the Christmas baskets delivered to our shut-ins — it is quite apparent that visits by friends to the shut-ins were every bit, if not more appreciated than the gifts themselves, something to bear in mind in the days ahead.

Members of the district executive are asked to attend a district meeting on Sat., Feb. 22 at the OMAF in Alexandria, 10 a.m. to noon, to plan for the district annual meeting which is to take place on April 30 at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Martintown.

Jan Buckland, convenor for cultural activities, presented us with a most interesting program — all of her own making. She had brought along a host of quilted articles, made from recycled bits and pieces — appliqué quilting on sweatshirts, crazy quilts, placemats — Jan says she keeps scraps of anything and everything as eventually good use is made of them all, even old trousers and linings are used! Thank you Jan, your display was most appreciated and thoroughly enjoyed.

Feb. 20, at 1:30 p.m. our next meeting will take place in the Presbyterian church hall. Roll call will be My worst purchasing mistake and an article for the secret auction. Convenor for the afternoon is Sylvia Thomson and she is asking everyone to please attend, men and women of the district, as our guest speaker is to be police officer Richard Trew, and he will be speaking on Protection in the home and abroad. Everyone is welcome to come and hear about this important issue, so please bear the date, Feb. 20, in mind.

Onagh Ross, director, concluded the meeting by reading several articles, after which luncheon was served by the hostesses.

St. Andrew's United Church

Please note that on Sun., Feb. 9, the church service will be at 9:30 a.m. instead of the usual 11 o'clock. Annual reports will be issued at this time. Thurs., Feb. 6, the official board meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the choir room. Those who should be attending are: all managers, all elders, and a representative from trustees, Sunday School, UCW, and choir.

We express our condolences to the family of Lucien Desjardins, who passed away at Bestview Health Care Centre in Cornwall, Saturday, Jan.

Optimist Club News

George Rouleau, president of the Optimist Club of Martintown, attended the zone meeting held on Sunday, Jan. 26 in Finch, where he represented the club and gave a short report of the activities held here in the last quarter.

He also visited the Lancaster Optimist Club at its meeting in the Smithsfield Hall, on Wed., Jan. 29, where he gave a puppet presentation of the BABES program. BABES stands for Beginning Alcohol and Addictions Basic Education Studies, and is of special interest for the children in the junior grades.

Optimist members are reminded that the next club meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., Thurs., Feb. 6, in the Community Centre. Please bring your coffee mug.

Martintown Public School News

On Wed., Jan. 29, Grade 7 students Julie Anne Clark and Rory Blackadder attended an all-day workshop on Water Colors held at Tagwi Secondary School. On Thursday, Grade 5's Cathy Robidoux and Grade 6's Terry James, gave their French speech before a panel composed of Ms. Seguin, Mme. Legault and Mme. MacDonell. Terry's speech was entitled "Moi, J'aime l'Ecole," and Cathy's topic was "On Being a Dog." Cathy was chosen to represent Martintown Public at the French Oral Competition at a later date.

The Floor Hockey Tournaments will have been held by press time. The girls teams will be hosted by Martintown, and the boys will be at Iona. For the results, please read this column next week.

The skating program ending this week was very successful, and thanks go out to the Lancaster Optimist Club which purchased ice time at the arena, enabling our students to take advantage of this learning and enjoyable experience.

The swimming program is beginning on Fri., Feb. 7, for grades 3-4 and 4-5 students who will be attending five sessions, ending March 27, at the Kinsmen Pool in Cornwall, from 11 a.m.-noon. Each student is asked to contribute $5 towards the cost of this program. Reminders will be issued to each student taking part in the next sessions, beginning April 3 for grades 1-2 and 5-6, and on May 1st for JK-SK and 7-8.

The next exciting date to look forward to is the school's winter carnival, Wed., Feb. 12, at the Char-Lan arena, from 1-3 p.m. Students will have their lunch prior to leaving the school. The canteen will be open at the arena, and parents are welcome to join the school there.

Ms. Sharon Huizinga, co-op student (OAC) from Char-Lan, completed her placement at Martintown Public on Thursday, Jan. 30. Her responsibilities included being a teacher's aide and working with students on the "Autoskills Computer Reading Program." But closest to her heart was coaching the seniors for the basketball team, and teaching them plays that she knows from experience are successful.

Sharon is greatly admired by the kids for her talent at playing basketball. She recently received a letter from basketball coach Peter Ennis, of Laurentian University in Sudbury, inviting her to visit the campus and to play on the Univesity team. Sharon will accept this invitation, and hopes to visit with coach Ennis during the March break. She plans on attending Laurentian University in the fall, and major in law and justice. For the next two weeks, she will coach the basketball team at Martintown Public, on Mondays and Wednesdays, after regular school hours, and also in the basketball tournament to be held on Feb. 17.

* * *

In closing, I would like to say that as parents, we often, if not constantly, worry about peer pressure, and the bad influence other young people can have on our children. In the above item, we have in the person of Ms. Sharon Huizinga, a young lady who grew up right here in Martintown and attended Martintown Public School, who has successfully completed high school, earned honors in sports, and returned to share of her experience with younger peers, a wonderful positive role model . . . a real-live person (not a far-away celebrity), whom our children have come to know and admire. Thank you Sharon, and best wishes in your future endeavors.

The wonderful thing is that Sharon is not the only one. There are many other Char-Lan alumni and ex-Martintown Public students who have gone on ahead to make a success of their studies and careers. Let's acknowledge them to our children at every opportunity.

Until next week, God bless.

Congratulations to The Glengarry News as it begins to print into its second century. As a present correspondent and long-time reader of the paper, I am happy and proud to be sharing your future as well as remembering your past. May the News continue to flourish and serve the many readers for many more years.

* * *

Speaking of anniversaries, we have one in Dalkeith too. Seventy years ago Mr. and Mrs. Louis Goulet bought the butcher shop from Honore Theoret. Through the years the business has grown and now the Dalkeith Market is run by Yvette and Gerard Goulet (son of Virginie and Louis).

* * *

The groundhog could surely see his shadow in Dalkeith on Sunday. But if the next six weeks are as pleasant as it was on Sunday we shouldn't be too badly off.

* * *

Inez and Willie MacGillivray, Kirk Hill, received word of the death on Jan. 26, of her brother, R. H. MacIntosh of Brockville and Largo, Florida.

Tracy Lush, Kitchener, spent some days last week with her sister Cheryl, and Keith Rigby and daughters.

* * *

Elaine and Bruce MacNaughton are proud parents of a son, Brandon Clifford Howard, born on Jan. 29th.

* * *

Services at Kirk Hill are being held at St. Columba church at 11 a.m. for the month of February.

Sunday's Ottawa Citizen carried an article in the Arts Section about Joan MacLeod, Toronto — one of Canada's most successful writers after only three plays. In 1991 she received a Governor-General's Literary Award for "Amigo's Blue Guitar," and recently visited Ottawa. She is the daughter of Muriel (MacMillan) and the late Fred MacLeod, North Vancouver, but former Glengarrians. Isn't it thrilling to read of these success stories?

On Feb. 1, the big winners at the Dalkeith Optimist bingo were Gisele Ladouceur, Mrs. Boishew, and Mrs. Clarence Lacroix, $400 each. Carole Deguire won $350. Congratulations.

Plan wedding gowns well in advance

Planning ahead is the key when ordering wedding dresses.

Wedding dresses should be ordered at least four months before the wedding day.

First of all, it takes about three months to make a dress after it's ordered. Alterations may take another month.

There is a financial benefit to ordering well ahead of time as well.

"The further ahead they order, the more they can spread out their payments," said Tanya Currier of Salon Alliance in Moose Creek.

Prices for most wedding dresses range from $500 to $1,200. Prices for the more expensive ones can reach $3,000.

Prices are determined according to fabric, sizes, whether there are pearls or not, whether the material is laced, whether the dress has an open or closed back, and other features.

Fabrics should be selected according to the season. Brocades are heavier and more appropriate for winter. Taffeta is more appropriate for spring and summer. Organza for fall. And satin is an all-year-round fabric.

Each bride-to-be should take into consideration her height and size in order to be fitted with the most comfortable and photogenic dress.

For instance, tall women with long necks will look even taller with a low cut necklines. Petite women, on the other hand, should wear dresses with shorter sleeves and hems, to make them look a little taller.

Among the numerous styles available, the most popular is still a traditional, simple, dress with a veil and a detachable train.

Crinolines, which make dresses appear fuller and more eye-catching, are a popular accessory. They are sold from $80 to $120, or rented for about $40.

Alterations should be included in the price. This could be where disasters begin.

If there are manufacturing or design errors, the store should be able to have alterations completed in time for the wedding.

In today's economy, there also is a risk that a store may close down before the wedding. The bride-to-be will have a dress, but it may be impossible to have alterations done in time.

The year 1992 is the 25th anniversary of Mariette (nee Lortie) and Jean-Louis Lefevre, who were married at St-Marie's parish in Green Valley on Sept. 2, 1967.

Expert advice for modern dilemmas

Can there be such a thing as a man of honor at a wedding? What are the ground rules for an interfaith ceremony? Is it okay to invite some coworkers to the wedding . . . and not others?

According to Bride's magazine, wedding dilemmas have changed — dramatically — in the last decade.

Bride's and some of the country's leading authorities on social graces offer these new views on wedding rules:

Question: My best friend is male. Is it all right for him to be my "man of honor"?

Judith Martin (Miss Manners) responds: Absolutely! It's also fine for a groom to select a female "best person." A man of honor wears the same attire as the ushers; a female best person wears a dress compatible with the bridesmaids' dresses.

Question: Is it common for the groom's family to share wedding costs? How can we tell them we'd appreciate contributions?

Abigail Van Buren (Dear Abby) responds: If the groom's family can afford to contribute, the sensitive thing is for them to make the offer.

Question: My fiance and I are planning to pay for our own wedding. Should my parents' names be on the invitation?

Barbara Tober (Editor-in-Chief, Bride's magazine) responds: Having your parents' names on the wedding invitation not only honors them, it reflects their approval for your marriage. It is also acceptable for engaged couples to issue the invitations in their own names, especially if they have been independent for many years.

"Today's etiquette is designed to help smooth the way through contemporary wedding dilemmas," says Barbara Tober. "Doing things 'right' is no longer the main issue; what counts is being thoughtful, kind, and courteous."

Engaging ways: Then and now

You're engaged, and suddenly everyone's got advice for you — your mother, his mother, friends and relatives, perhaps even grandparents. They all mean well, but as a bride of the nineties, you have the freedom to do things your way. Engaged couples of just a generation ago followed a much stricter code of wedding "rules" than do brides and grooms right now. Today, you can choose to follow the traditions that mean most to you, and tailor the rules to suit your style.

The proposal

Then: The groom asked the bride's father for her hand.

Now: The couple decides to marry, and the proposal may be dramatic — a diamond in a champagne glass, the words, "Will you marry me?" flashed across a stadium scoreboard. News of the engagement is FAXed to family and friends.

The invitations

Then: Invitations were formal, engraved, and issued by the bride's parents.

Now: Invitations reflect the spirit of the celebration. They may be etched on glass, printed on hand-painted cards, collaged from memorabilia of the couple's courtship, lettered on scrolls.

The bride

Then: The bride's full-time job was to work on wedding details with her mother.

Now: Career-minded brides don't let wedding planning disrupt their jobs. Weekends and lunch hours are prime planning time, and an increasing number of professional brides-to-be hire a wedding consultant to handle the specifics.

The groom

Then: All that was expected of him was to show up on the wedding day.

Now: He takes part in planning his wedding, interviewing photographers, screening bands and helping select the wedding menu.

The shower

Then: The women gathered for an afternoon to shower the bride with household items, linen, lingerie.

Now: Showers may be coed — and at night — and with gift themes that revolve around the couple's interests.

The site

Then: Couples planned to marry in a church, synagogue, hotel or at home.

Now: The trend is toward ceremonial sites which evoke a sense of history or have a special appeal — an elegant Victorian mansion, a museum, or a spacious loft, for example.

The cake

Then: The bride's cake was a white, tiered confection with white frosting, and a plastic bride and groom on top.

Now: Cakes are creative works, decorated expressly to complement the wedding theme. Flavors are for sophisticated palates — spice, carrot, cheesecake, lemon, orange, chocolate mocha, and sometimes all of them at once.

To top it off, couples choose something special; a pair of crystal swans, a miniature flower basket, Mickey and Minnie figurines, or a custom-made bride and groom painted to resemble themselves.

Stacey Lajoie, daughter of Garnet and Jean Lajoie (nee MacLeod), and Benoit Veilleux, son of Gilles and Denise Veilleux, were married on August 17, 1991 in Varennes, Quebec. Benoit, a recent graduate of Sherbrooke University, is employed in Cornwall and the happy couple are now residing in South Lancaster.

Plan photography by professional

One of the toughest decisions for couples when planning their wedding is who to choose for a photographer.

According to Gayl Thompson of Thompson Photographers in Alexandria, there are two main things couples should follow when hiring a photographer.

Couples should hire a professional, and they should be certain that the professional will take the pictures they want, not just the ones he or she wants.

"You should hire one that is going to work definitely for you," says Thompson.

By hiring an experienced professional, couples can rest assured they will have pictures of their wedding and that the pictures will be top quality.

Wedding packages at Thompson Photographers range from $400 to $1,000, which include pictures at the bride and groom's home, at the church and at the reception.

When looking over a photographer's pictures, couples should check the sharpness of the photographs and the colors. If the bride's dress or the flowers are blue or off-color, the photos are not of good quality.

Traditional rings are most popular

The choices of wedding rings are infinite. But couples tend to stick to the traditional.

"I think the most popular is the plain gold band," said Rae Spooner of Desrosiers and Hope Jewellers in Alexandria.

But the number of alternatives are mind boggling. Rings can contain any combination of precious stones, can differ in thickness, weight, grade of metal, and designs.

Prices range from $100 for a plain 10 karat gold ring, to a $6,500 14 karat gold ring with three three-quarter-karat rubies and five one-karat diamonds.

Therefore, it's a good idea to shop around for about a year before deciding on what to order.

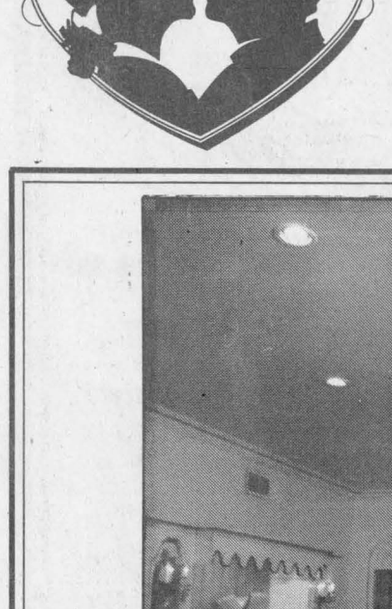
"If you see a lot of them in several months, then you can pin-point what you want," said Liane Guttadauria of Fraser Jewellers in Cornwall.

She said many couples order the "solitaire," a single diamond on a simple band.

For women, the average price for a set, a solitaire wedding band and an engagement ring with a large centre stone, is from $2,000 to $3,000.

Men often purchase the wedding band only for about $400.

It may take about two weeks to receive the rings after ordering them. Some stores have equipment to make quick alterations if needed.



David and Joanne Stevenson of Curry Hill, were wed September 27, 1980 at St. Peter's Church in Dartmouth, N.S.

Avoid honeymoon pitfalls

Terry, a bride-to-be from Cincinnati, had always dreamed of a Caribbean honeymoon spent strolling along romantic beaches and shopping in open-air markets. Her fiance, Eric, had set his sights on the roulette wheels and heartshaped hot tubs in Las Vegas. So, to "be nice," Terry agreed to take a gamble. Big mistake. She got trumped instead of suntanned — and she blamed Eric.

A honeymoon should be the trip of a lifetime, for both partners. But so many expectations and emotions are build into the experience that, without a few precautions, it can become a minefield of disappointments.

To avoid the most common honeymoon pitfalls:

1. Be honest with each other. If you go along with your mate's choice to appease him or her, it can lead to quarrels and resentment later on. Instead, work together to find an agreeable compromise. A honeymoon in Aruba, Puerto Rico, or St. Maarten would have let Eric try his luck while Terry sunned and shopped.

2. Don't expect non-stop romance. Since it will take time to wind down from all the wedding excitement, make intimacy and fun a priority.

3. Don't forget your sense of humor. Honeymoons take place in the real world, where waiters spill soup and luggage can go astray. Laughing through the bumps will get your marriage off on the right foot.

4. Don't try to do too much. Five Hawaiian islands in one week is madness. A better idea is to spend the first few days relaxing and rediscovering each other, then explore nearby sites and cities.

5. Feel free to spend some time away from your partner. Scout out the local cafes or collect shells along the beach while your partner naps or scuba dives.

6. Don't under-budget. Even if you're heading for an all-inclusive resort, put together a contingency fund — you don't want to arrive at the airport short the $10 departure tax you need to get home.

7. Check with a travel agent or tourist bureau to find out which official papers (visas, passport, birth certificate) are required for your destination well before your departure. And be sure that all travel documents, including your tickets, are accurate, up to date, and in hand at least one week before you leave.

8. Let hotel staff know that you're honeymooners. They may offer champagne, invite you to a newlyweds' cocktail party, or even upgrade your room to a suite. No need to shy away from socializing, either — other honeymooners might key you in on hidden treasures, such as a local nightclub or secluded cove not mentioned in the tourist manuals.

9. Be prepared for on-site expenses. If you've used credit cards to cover pre-wedding costs, be sure you're well enough under your credit limit to pay for honeymoon purchases. Also, don't overlook small expenses — such as international phone calls, gift-shop items, and laundry service — which can ambush your budget.

Ensure you have a dream wedding

It's all about saving money — even the wealthy are careful not to splurge outrageously in these trying times.

Of course, there are certain occasions in which money, and a lot of it, is necessary in order to make a lasting, memorable, and forever treasured impression.

Birthdays, holidays, promotions — all are very special and important, but also occur more than once in a lifetime.

The singular glorious ceremony that is celebrated and treasured forever, is your wedding. And, although the wedding day is a precious one, and perfection is the ultimate goal, spending thousands of dollars and running yourself ragged is not the answer; it will only result in post-marital blues.

Saving, not skimping

It is nice to have a wedding with traditional touches, but this does not mean stretching your budget out of bounds just because you have a preconceived idea of how a wedding "should be." Don't be afraid to go against the laws of etiquette and invent your own ideas for your wedding in order to reduce the impact on your already slim wallet, your valuable time and, most importantly, your sanity.

If you gather all of your family and friends (and somehow get them to cooperate) you may be able to come up with some money-saving ideas for your wedding. For example, outside weddings or receptions are absolutely beautiful, and if someone close to you has a large backyard or piece of land, it can be decorated lavishly enough to be compared to a garden, park or private grounds that some people spend big money to rent.

How about an evening wedding? By holding your ceremony at dusk, a romantic, elegant and memorable atmosphere is created.

Claire (Secours) and Bobby Rickerd's wedding took place at Ste. Marie's Church, Green Valley, October 15th, 1966.

Roger Sauve and Darlene Johnson were married on June 10, 1967 at St. Raphael's parish.

Tie and tails

When it comes to tuxedos, style is everything.

It's the ties, shirts, lapels, tails, cummerbunds, jewellery that make one tuxedo different from another.

Rentals range from around $80 to $140 a day. The more expensive, the more features, be it tails, cummerbunds, studs, cufflinks, shawls, or bow ties.

"The basic black is the most popular," said Deana Barbara's of Barbara Men's Wear in Alexandria.

"It's quite average in price and it looks sharp in the first place."

White tuxedos are popular too, and may be preferable for hot summer weddings.

A tuxedo with tails can cost another $10, top hats another $25, and another $5 for a walking stick.

"And you put the designer's name on it and it's even more expensive," said John Hope, who rents out tuxedos through Paddy's Casual Attire in Alexandria.

Tuxedos should be ready two to three weeks after being ordered.

On July 20, 1991 at Ste-Marie de l'Assomption Church in Green Valley, Nancy Lapierre and Jean-Pierre Charbonneau exchanged wedding vows. Nancy is the daughter of Bud and Jeanne Lapierre of Alexandria and Jean-Pierre is the son of Paul-Emile and Hortense Charbonneau of Green Valley. The newlyweds are residing in Maxville.

The Glengarry News

Wednesday, February 5, 1992 – Page 15

Three Alexandria Glens including Luke Murray (28) and Eric Hamelin (12) surround a couple of Massena players in midget tournament action from the Billy Gebbie Arena on Sunday. The Glens beat Massena in OT and went on to win the "B" title at the event.

Rebels beat Glens to the punch in rivalry finale

In the great scheme of things, last Saturday's Junior B hockey game between the Char-Lan Rebels and the Alexandria Glens didn't mean very much.

The Rebs were officially eliminated from the playoffs a week ago and the Glens already knew that they would be starting a first-round playoff series in either Winchester or Morrisburg.

The only thing on the line was the same thing that's always at issue when these two rivals meet; bragging rights for Glengarry county.

Unfortunately, what is usually a pretty entertaining battle between two game clubs turned into a personal settling of accounts.

A melee erupted prior to the start of the second period which would eventually see 151 minutes in penalties called and gave early showers to nine players, including five Rebels and four Glens.

The trouble apparently started in the first period (which ironically saw only a single minor penalty for hooking) when the Alexandria bench made some comments directed at Rebel winger Randy Gebbie, an Alexandria native.

The comments would have come mainly from injured defenceman Benoit Frappier, who was in uniform and on the bench but did not play.

Rebels' coach Randy Larocque said he kept both Gebbie and Pat Carriere on the bench for the remianing minutes of the opening period because of how incensed they were about the comments.

The real trouble started at the beginning of the second period when the teams came out onto the ice and before the officials had made their entrance.

The first physical contact was between Frappier and Char-Lan goalie Trevor McMillan and soon developed into a free-for-all on and near the Alexandria bench.

When it was all over, Jason Boyer, Marc Sauve, Patrick Ravary, Ryan MacDonald and Alexandria assistant coach Al Stewart were all given the heave- ho while Char-Lan lost Carriere, Dan Brisson, Greg Wylie, Pete St-Jean and Shane McDonell.

Gebbie got punched in the face and had to leave the game with cuts and blackened eyes.

Naturally, both sides blamed the other for the incident, with some members of the Glens insinuating that the brawl was premeditated on the part of the Rebels.

Larocque maintains that the player who made the comments in the first place is to blame.

"The kind of personal remarks that were made to Randy are pretty low-class. All I can say is that that player can't have very much pride and he must have a pretty low opinion of himself," said Larocque.

The Char-Lan coach denies sending his players out to fight, saying that half of his team was still in the dressing room when the original skirmish started while Alexandria had their entire team on the ice.

Needless to say the league will be looking into the incident.

Rebels take season series

Oh yeah, they also played a little hockey on Saturday too.

The Rebels got three goals from Cory Maxam, an affiliated player from the Seaway Valley midgets, to take a 5-3 victory from a listless Alexandria team.

Luca Tessari scored the winning goal 3:45 into the third period. Craig Gabri, another product from Seaway Valley and the son of former Cornwall Royal Larry Gabri, added an empty-netter.

Char-Lan outshot the Glens 44-25.

The win allows the Rebels to take the season series from Alexandria. Both clubs won three of the six games played (all on home ice) but because one of Char-Lan's losses in Alexandria came in overtime (for which teams receive one point), the Rebels can lay claim to having taken seven points from Alexandria compared to six by the Glens.

With both teams playing with a short bench, Larocque says his club's physical fitness paid off in the end.

"We've been skating them hard all year and tonight it paid off. This team is in very good shape and you have to thank the assistant coach (Terry Hart) for that," he remarked.

"All year long we've been talking about the (positive) attitude of this team and tonight was a perfect example. There aren't any quitters in that room," he said, indicating the Rebels dressing room.

Larocque said he was pleased with his team's effort on Friday, a 7-5 loss to Winchester, a game in which the Rebels had four separate one-goal leads before the Hawks took control.

Jeff Seguin scored twice for Winchester with singles going to Steve Johnston, Doug Armstrong, Derek Brannen, Dominic Menard and Scott Barkley.

Randy Gebbie notched a hat trick for Char-Lan with Safford Hazen and Craig Gabri picking up singles. Pete St-Jean had three assists.

Rebel Yells: Dan Desjardins missed both weekend games as he served two-thirds of his three-game suspension . . . Todd Cameron has left the team, becoming the fourth Rebel, after Ray Jock, Derek Duchesne and Danik Roy, to do so this year . . . Italian import Gianluca Schivo scored a TKO over Winchester's Chris Soper on Friday. Word is that Soper will be in need of some dental repair . . . There were three St-Hubert game stars on Saturday; Cory Maxam, Trevor McMillan (for his goaltending presumably) and Luca Tessari . . . Saturday's game against Kemptville is a 3:15 start. The Rebels will host the annual awards banquet at St.Mary's hall that evening.

Glens good as can "B"

The Hope's Auto Parts midget Glens got two goals from Liam Kemp on Sunday to help defeat Cornwall 5-2 and give Alexandria the "B" championship at the eight-team tournament hosted by the Glens.

Brad McDonald, Patrick Sauve and Marc Boisvenue scored the other goals for Alexandria in the final.

Alexandria reached that stage of the tournament with a dramatic 5-4 overtime win in the semi-final over Massena. Luke Murray's second goal of the game 1:49 into the OT period won the game for the Glens.

Norm Jeaurond, Sylvain Lavigne and Jamie Nelson also scored. Michel Jeaurond had three assists.

Rebels lose in semis

Alexandria was knocked into the "B" side of the tournament bracket after losing 2-1 to Char-Lan in the preliminary round.

David McDonald's goal with only 26 seconds remaining in the five-minute overtime gave the game to the Rebels after Brian Deschamps and Liam Kemp had traded goals in regulation.

Char-Lan's tournament ended in the semi-final as the Rebels lost 6-3 to St- Isidore despite goals by Terry O'Farrell, David McDonald and Ben Pye.

SDG teams sweat it out

There was plenty of drama on Sunday as the SDG No-contact Broomball League playoffs got underway.

In the "A" semi-finals, Monkland's Steve Norman scored in overtime to give the Kings a 2-1 win over Maxville Farm Machinery. Monkland leads the best of three tilt 1-0.

Greg Cooper scored in regulation for Monkland while Robert Waldorf tallied for MFM.

In the other semi-final, Fontaine Construction stormed back from a 3-1 deficit with three goals in the last 1:35 of the game to take a 4-3 victory from Bar Cottage.

Ray Lepine scored all three goals in that stretch, including the game-winner with only 18 seconds left. Rick Filion also scored.

For Bar Cottage it was Denis Fournier with two and Stephane Ranger with one.

B Division

Things were equally tense in the "B" division of the playoffs as Allan Crites Excavation and King's Whitewashing claimed one goal wins.

Crites got a third period goal from Dave Coir, his second of the game to beat Glengarry Insulation 4-3. Daryl Dumouchel also scored twice for Crites.

Glengarry's scorers were Michel Decoeur, George Carriere and Sylvain Elie.

Jeff MacLean had the other Whitewashing goal while David Chaddock replied for Besner.

C Division

In the best-of-five "C" final, Ingleside Lanes whipped BMR 6-2.

Tim Legue, Rejean Duperron, Bill Jarvo, John Hopmans, Lyle Dingwall all had goals for Ingleside while Glen Patterson and Mario Quenneville scored for BMR.

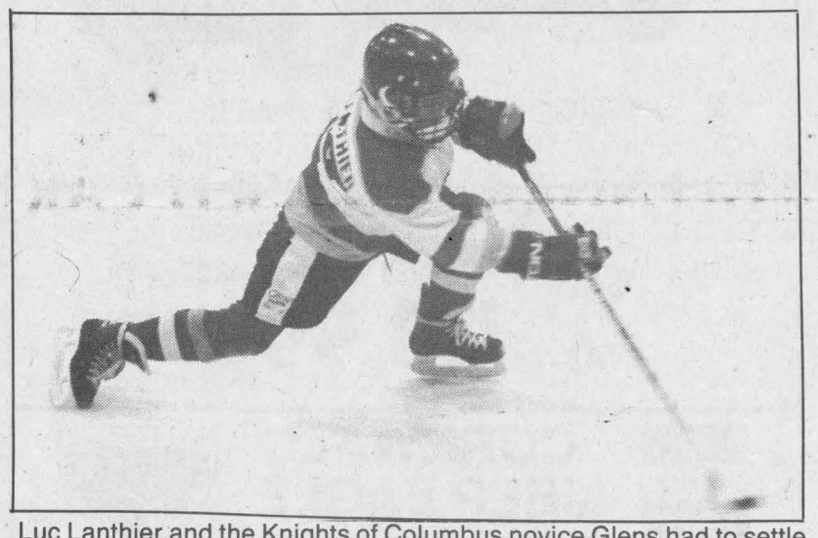
Staff photo — J. L. Lefebvre



Luc Lanthier and the Knights of Columbus novice Glens had to settle for one win at their own tournament in Alexandria on Saturday.

Visitors foil novices

The Knights of Columbus novice Glens hosted a minor hockey tournament on the weekend, with the team finishing as runner-up in the "B" division.

Alexandria lost 4-1 in the "B" final to Cumberland, as Jason Vickers scored late in the third period for Alexandria's only goal.

The Glens' sole victory came 6-3 in the semi-final as they defeated St-Isidore. Joel Quesnel paced the offence with three goals and an assist.

Other scorers were Jason Vickers, Jean-Francois Menard and Dominic Decoeur.

The novices were relegated to the "B" division when they lost 4-1 to Char-Lan in their first game as Eric Nielsen had the only goal.

* * *

Clarence recently defeated the Sultan Drugs bantams in the final of a tournament in Hawkesbury, so it was sweet revenge for Alexandria when the Glens went into Clarence on Sunday and claimed a 6-3 victory.

Martin Boisvenue's hat trick led the Alexandria attack while Dominic Laferriere, Christian Leblanc and Michel Lortie all chipped in with single goals.

Roch Jeaurond picked up two assists.

* * *

The last time the peewee girls RCAFA Hurricanes challenged the atom Glens, the clubs played to a 4-4 tie but things weren't nearly as close on Monday at the Billy Gebbie Arena as the Glens won 4-0.

Glens goalie Jason Larocque kept the 'Canes off the scoresheet while Eric Leroux, Gyslain Valade, Kurt MacSweyn and Cameron Lajoie tallied for Alexandria.

* * *

The ADMHA recently announced its winners for the Dec. 21 draw. They are Marlene Larocque (first) and Claude Levac (second).

Stars see red after loss

The Glengarry Stars were forced to forfeit their Char-Lan Indoor Soccer League game against Cornwall F.I.S.T. on Monday when two players were ejected after being given red cards.

The expulsions left only three players on the floor, one less than the minimum required by league rules.

Doubly frustrating for the Stars is the fact that they were leading the contest 5-3 at the time with five minutes left to play. Instead, the game goes into the books as a 2-0 F.I.S.T. win.

Robbie Starkauskas was the first Stars player ejected when he took a run at a Cornwall player. Five minutes later, the game came to an end when referee Doug Grey tossed out Steve Cameron after he had stiff-armed a Cornwall player.

The forfeit loss allows Rudi Payer Sport to extend their lead in the standings as RPS edged the Ingleside Strikers 4-3.

Bruce Mitton scored his second of the game midway through the second half to give Rudi's a 4-2 lead and then RPS hung on as Yvon Besner cut the lead in half and the Strikers pressed for the equalizer.

Andrew McEwan and David Colebrook also scored for Ingleside while Greg Deschamps and Pierre Seguin added goals for Rudi's.

In a battle of cellar-dwellers, the Char-Lan U2's received outstanding goaltending from Phil Poitras and Kirk Wallace in blanking the SDG Nomads 3-0.

Poitras, who was in nets in the first half, did the job on the other end of the floor too, scoring a pair of second-half goals. Ed Swerdfeger had the third U2 tally.

Rudi's Sports sinks Mr. Sub

Rudi's Sport blitzed Mr.Sub's for 15 goals on Sunday en route to an easy 15-1 victory in the men's division of the Cornwall Indoor Soccer League.

Greg Deschamps headed the parade of scorers with a five-goal performance. Ben Pye added a hat trick while doubles went to Roy MacDonell, Les Bradshaw and Chris Armstrong.

Bruce Tessier rounded out the scoring.

In another high-scoring game, Kieran Kennedy netted six goals as the Lancaster Rovers topped Glengarry Power 10-6.

Eric Brown, Paul Owen, Collin Dawson and Dave Dawson had the othe Rover goals.

For the Power, Mike Lavigueur had a hat trick, Robin Basara notched two goals and Jay Major had one.

Scott McDougall and Gordon MacPherson each scored twice as Priest's Mill played to a 4-4 tie with Filion Trophies.

Hearts win Battle of Glengarry

In the ladies' division, Glengarry's two clubs went head to head with the MacMillan and Howes Hearts coming up with a 4-1 triumph over Kirk Hill.

The win moves the Hearts to within two points of Kirk Hill for top spot in the league.

Melissa McPhee netted a deuce for the Hearts with Bonnie MacLeod and Heather Campbell adding one goal each.

Lisa Poirier had the only Kirk Hill marker.

Glens stumbling along

The Alexandria Glens have won the St.Lawrence Division playoff championship four of the last five years, but judging from last weekend's pair of contests, it wouldn't be a great idea to bet the mortgage on them to win again this year.

The Glens looked lifeless and confused in losing 9-5 to Morrisburg at home on Friday and 5-3 to Char-Lan in Williamstown on Sunday.

Scorers for Alexandria in the Morrisburg game were Serge Bellefeuille, Marc Sauve, Travis Duhaime, Stephan Nadeau and Andrew Sauve.

Alexandria was outshot 41-20 by the Lions and 44-25 by the Rebels.

"We didn't want the puck at all this weekend," said Alexandria coach Kirk Anderson, who had some choice syllables with his team following Friday's loss.

"We didn't chase the puck, we didn't hit, we didn't do anything.

"What I hope happened is that the fellows are just waiting for the playoffs to start and that they're just coming to the arena to kill three hours."

What makes the team's poor play on the weekend especially exasperating is the fact that even though they were completely outplayed, the Glens weren't that far off from winning both contests.

Andrew Sauve's goal early in the third on Friday tied the game at 4-4 before some serious running around in their own zone on the part of the Glens provided the Lions with five goals in the final 13 minutes and the victory.

Similarly, Alexandria came from behind to tie the Rebels at 3-3 with a goal 3:19 into the final period on Saturday before Luca Tessari's tally won the game for Char-Lan.

"The fellows worked hard in practice and if they'd worked half as hard during either of the two games, the result would have been different," he said.

"We practiced for an hour-and-a-half on Wednesday and we skated for about 20 minutes and the rest of the time we worked on breakouts. For the next practice maybe I'll just bring pizza and Pepsi because it obviously didn't do any good."

Anderson is hoping to see some more positive signs from his club this weekend, when they'll play in Winchester (Friday) and Kemptville (Sunday).

"I'd like for the team to finish strong and have some momentum going for the playoffs. We have two excellent preparation-type games on the weekend especially since we could be playing Winchester in the playoffs."

Glenformation: While he says that he would be more than willing to accept any help he could get, Anderson says he's not actively seeking to add players for a playoff run even though he has two cards left. Captain Kirk says the current Glens' roster has the elements necessary to win, assuming they get their act together of course . . . Speaking of adding players, former Glens goalie Marc Juneau has resurfaced with the Winchester Hawks . . . Marc Sauve was held pointless for only the second time this year on Saturday after getting a game misconduct during the intermission fiasco . . . Alexandria ended its regular season home schedule last Friday and turned in a 12-5 record.

First place an Art-form

Art Benton wrapped up first place in the Alexandria Ladies Sponge Puck League last Wednesday with a 1-0 victory over Tapis Richard, the loop's second place club.

Clara Juliao set up Barb Benton for the game's only marker with 6:46 left in the second period. Nathalie Theoret recorded the shutout for Art Benton, who have allowed 12 goals in 17 games this season.

LC Electric, on the other hand, have allowed 101 goals and remained winless last week as they were shut out 3-0 by Cathy Wensink of MacMillan Insurance.

MacMillan's goals were scored by Annie St-Denis, Line Gareau and Lisa Poirier.

SunLife was also a shutout winner last week as Sue Villeneuve kept M and D Sports off the scoresheet in a 3-0 win. SunLife got their offence from Julie Bissonette, Lise Durocher and Sylvie Menard.

Local skiers capture gold

Alexandria businessman Maurice Sauve took top honors in the over-50 class of a 25-km cross-country ski event in Montebello on Saturday.

Sauve took first in a time of one hour and 43 minutes. Williamstown's Bruno Major finished fourth, only 10 seconds behind the bronze medal winner.

A week ago in Montebello, Alexandria's Maurice Deguire won an 18-km event in the 40's class while Bruno Major won gold in the over-50 category. Sauve finished in second spot behind Major.

These skiers plus many others will be competing in the Alexandria loppet this Sunday starting at 1 p.m.

Industrial bonspiel a success

A large field of 36 teams, with a total of 144 participants, made the Industrial Bonspiel at the Alexandria Curling Club on Jan. 24 and 25 a huge success.

The rinks, which represented local businesses and associations, consisted of two curlers and two non-curlers.

The event was won by the Mac Girls team of John MacLeod (skip), Kristie MacLeod, Bonnie MacLeod and Nancy MacLeod. The runner-up rink was Carnation, which included Richard Bellefeuille (skip), Tanya Kalada, George Goulet and Peter Kalada.

Paul Sauve Construction took one game high honors with a team comprised of skip Paul Sauve, Marc Sauve, Gisele Sauve and Mary Lynn Sauve.

Rapids not quite good enough

The Seaway Valley minor bantam Rapids took part in the Cornwall Invitational Bantam Tournament over the weekend, and although the team did not advance beyond the preliminary round, they made a good account of themselves.

Competing in the "AAA" bracket (Seaway Valley is "AA"), the Rapids won two of their three games.

They were defeated 4-1 in their first game by Detroit Little Ceaser's as Joel Menard scored Seaway's only goal.

The Rapids bounced back to double Kingston 4-2 in their next game as Troy Brownell netted a pair. Chad Duguay and Joel Trottier also scored as Seaway Valley rallied from a 2-0 deficit with four consecutive goals in the third period.

In their final game the Rapids used a strong first period to overwhelm its opponent, scoring three times in the first for a 3-1 victory over Cumberland.

Chad Duguay, John Fisher and Evan Thompson tallied for the winners.

Seaway Valley's goaltending, with only seven goals allowed in three games, was the key to its success in the tournament.

The Rapids will be playing in Alexandria on Friday. Game time is 7 p.m.

Champions goaltender Dan Menard makes a save on Rebels' Joey McRae (right) as Roch Carriere (left) comes in to clear the rebound.

Border goalies shine

They say playoffs are a whole new season, and the Border League got proof of that last Thursday.

In the opening game of their five-point semi-final series, the Rebels and Champions played defensive hockey in battling to a 1-1 tie.

Claude Gallant and Dan Menard, goalies for the Rebs and Champs respectively, were easily the best players on the ice on this night.

Leo Seguin scored Champions' only goal while a Ron Lefebvre second-period tally tied the game for good for the Rebels.

Meanwhile, there's a lot of uncertainty surrounding the other semi-final between Tri-County Windows and the Kinsmen.

Tri-County won the game 5-4, but may or may not get credit for the win because TCW was using an illegal player, i.e. one that had not paid his registration fee.

In the game itself, Gerry Blanchette scored twice while Scott Fourney, Mike Lapensee and Marc Ouimet added singles.

Sheldon MacDougall tallied twice for Kinsmen with Findley McLeod and Mark Titley adding one each.

Bantams declare wins

The bantam Rebels left the Stars and Stripes black and blue on Saturday when they won a tournament in North Franklin, N.Y. with easy wins over three American clubs.

Char-Lan demolished Vermont 10-2 in the final to take top honors as Marty McDonell, Marc Menard and Jeff Proctor scored two goals each.

Steve Gareau, Ryan Flaro, Jason Corput and Scott Giroux also scored.

The Rebels' other two wins were by shutouts, 8-0 over Massena with Ryan Andre in nets and 9-0 against North Franklin with Roger Poitras between the pipes.

The novices played in the Alexandria tournament on Saturday and wound up as runners-up in the ''A'' division, losing 5-1 to Nepean in the final as Daniel Desnoyers scored the only goal.

The Rebels recorded 4-1 victories over Alexandria and Cornwall to reach the final.

Scorers against the Glens were Nicolas Dube with two, Graham Charbonneau, and Darren Meloche. Dube, Matthew Verdone, Danny Lafave and Chris Knight fired goals against the Royals.

On Sunday, the novices got by Casselman 5-1 thanks in part to two goals by Danny Lafave and singles by Drew Thomson, Darren Meloche and Matthew Verdone.

* * *

Shawn McClements picked up a shutout as the midget Rebels defeated Cumberland 2-0. Ian MacDonell and Brian Deschamps scored for Char-Lan.

* * *

Dean Fraser, Paul Dawson, Derek Wereley, Chris Corput and Lee Klazinga all hit the scoresheet for the Rebels.

Corput and Blake Sicard scored on Sunday as Char-Lan tied Hawkesbury 2-2.

* * *

Gerry Goulet had a shutout and Mike Rankin, Kevin O'Farrell and Darryl Knight scored as the peewee Rebs defeated Vankleek Hill 3-0.

House league results

Two Char-Lan tyke teams were participating in a tournament in Finch on Saturday.

The White Rebels won the ''B'' championship with a 6-1 win over Casselman as Devin Bancroft scored four goals.

Scott Waldroff and Kurtis Thomson added single markers.

The White Rebs lost their first-round game 5-4 to Vankleek Hill in double overtime. Kurtis Thomson scored twice and Bradley Flipsen and Devin Bancroft once each.

They also defeated the Blue Rebels 5-2 on the strength of a four-goal performance by Kurtis Thomson. Devin Bancroft had the fifth White goal.

Garret Hurrell scored both goals for the Blue team.

The Blue Rebels lost their other game 7-0 to Rockland.

The Bainsville Women's Institute provided gifts, dancing, music and frolicking fun to the January birthday bash at Chateau Gardens. Cowboy Big Mac (Sheila Urquhart) introduced the Glengarry County dancers featuring performers from around the world. Ruby Lee Presley (Liette Butrym, the piano player, led the troupe followed by Bubbles (Marguerite MacLeod), the jitterbug queen, Anastasia (Reina Troost) from Siberia and Fazia (Diana Macaulay) the whirling Egyptian. Glengarry's own Wee Jeannie MacPherson (Sue Robertson) was resplendent in kilt and driving gear; accompanying her were Chiquita Banana Marguerite (Elsa Hore) of Spain, Madame Butterfly (Mary Hopley) and Tootsie (Faith Burgess), the Charleston cutie. Each dancer performed a specialty number. Highlights included Wee Jeannie's expert execution of a sword dance wearing flippers. Centennial Year has started for The Glengarry News and what a great start it was with a dinner and dance for all those who have been connected with the paper over the years. I was seated with former Glen Robertson correspondents Cathy McGrath and Collette Sauve and both recalled the late Paul Louis Lacombe who would have enjoyed the evening. The black and white theme was brightened by quite a few kilts as well as the colorful ladies' gowns.

In Memoriam

CHOLETTE, Real — In loving memory of a dear husband who passed away Feb. 2, 1989.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Sadly missed by your wife Aline, children and grandchildren. 6-1p

CHOLETTE, Real — In loving memory of a dear father who passed away Feb. 2, 1989.
Gone, dear father, gone forever;
How we miss your smiling face.
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed—
How sweet the memory still—
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by your daughter Francine, son-in-law Bruno, and grandchildren Marcel, Claude and Sylvie. 6-1p

DUPUIS, Lawrence — In loving memory of a dear father, father-in-law, grandfather and great grandfather who passed away February 2, 1991.
We watched you suffer, we heard you sigh,
And all we could do was just stand by.
For when the time came, we suffered too,
For you never deserved what you went through
God took your hand, He eased your pain,
But your love will always remain.
—Sadly missed day by day, your daughter Betty and Philippe and grandchildren. 6-1p

The News* throws a party

Margo MacRae, Arnold MacRae, Doris Spencer, Lorna Chapman were among the 200 guests at the Glengarry Sports Palace on Saturday evening, Feb. 1 for a splendid Glengarry News 100th anniversary banquet and dance. After the dinner Joe Banks served as emcee and introduced members of the Macdonald family who warmly thanked all of the past and present employees for their earnest dedication to the paper over many long years. Other papers have come and gone, editors and workers have changed but the spirit has remained of co-operation and closeness that makes for a well functioning team. It was said also that the correspondents are a vital part of a local paper, and we believe that is true. Eugene Macdonald said often to me when we would sit and chat when I brought in my columns, "Names! Names make the columns interesting. People like to see their own name in the paper, those of their friends and families are very important to the readers, so make great use of names." Anna Margaret was editor then, and she too stressed the use of names. The highlight of the evening the presentation to the News office of two framed, enlarged pictures of Col. A. G. F. Macdonald as a military man, and Eugene Macdonald when he was active with the paper.

I took personal pleasure in the "big band sound" of the orchestra, Carm Aube, and really enjoyed their rendition of a lot of Glen Miller favorites. It sure brought memories. Each guest was presented with a copy of a Memories booklet, full of photographs and short bios of present and past staff, employees and correspondents. It will make a nice souvenir! Little 100th anniversary key holders were at each place also, with "sharing your future, remembering your past" engraved on the back, and we hope the News will do just that for many years to come, forever even! Don't you agree?

Some CWC omissions

Due to shortage of space the last week's column was lopped in half. There's just a few more of the missing details; the singer was Linda Carmichael from Vankleek Hill. She accompanied herself on a guitar, and she wrote the two lovely songs that she sang. She has a bright happy smile for everyone, and the whole group enjoyed hearing her clear true voice. Rosalind Nugent from Fassifern was the special program-feature speaker and she brought along her very first sampler quilt, done in greens, with white quilting stitching on the hunter green strapping and edges. She had many blocks assembled on display, and a raft of tricks to make the work easier. Everyone really admired her strip quilted vest. She will be giving classes for would-be quilters, why not give her a call if you are interested? Wendy Machnik of Rigaud was the main speaker. She was a former professional dancer with Les Fous Follets and travelled all over Canada, the U.S.A. and Europe with the troupe. Now she is a vivacious young mother. She gave a really challenging and thought provoking talk, Mrs. Machnik still has her dancer's poise and ease before an audience, and made everyone feel really part of her presentation. Mon., Jan. 13 is the next CWC meeting, at Ville Mont Joie in Lachute. Time 1 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

THE NEWS

GLENGARRY WINS.

The athletic tournaments under the auspices of the Ottawa Valley Journal took place in Ottawa on Saturday, Oct. 17th, the competitors including the athletes who were successful in the sporting events held at the several County Fairs in the Ottawa Valley.

McDonald, of Williamstown, who succeeded in winning four firsts, out of a possible five, and two seconds—a total of 16 points out of a possible 30; not so bad for the men from Glengarry, who were accompanied by Mr. J.A. Cameron, of the Grand Union, who has always taken a keen interest in sports.

The grounds were in a very poor shape owing to the continued downpour. In the different events the points allotted were 3 for first, 2 for second and 1 for third, and the result was a tie between three men who consented to draw out of a hat for positions and A. Laurin turned up as the lucky man.

Unusual Document.

Through the courtesy of our old friend, Mr. J. A. McLaughlin, of Livingston, Montana, we are in receipt of an invitation to attend a function, which, fortunately, is a rare occurrence—the execution of a murderer.

The pass, or invitation, a copy of which we append, is signed by the Sheriff of Park County, and is addressed to the Editor of the News.

Martin Zidmair, the unfortune victim, cheated the gallows by hanging himself in his cell on the night of Sept. 2nd. The execution was to have taken place on Sept. 4th.

Chamber honors local citizens

The first annual Citizen of the Year awards banquet was held on Sat., Feb. 1, at the Heritage Golf Club with 85 persons present. Lancaster and District Chamber of Commerce President Roger Menard welcomed everyone and introduced the head table.

At the head table were past warden of SD&G Counties Ron MacDonell and his wife, Monique; Lancaster Township Reeve Charles Sangster and his wife, Flo; Lancaster Village Reeve Jennifer Charbonneau and her husband, Paul, as well as Mr. Menard and his wife, Diane.

Milton MacDonald, past reeve of Lancaster village, said the grace. An excellent dinner, catered by the Hurtubise family of Heritage Golf Club, was enjoyed by all present.

After the dinner, President Menard gave greetings to all from the chamber of commerce to those attending this first annual event and hoped they would enjoy themselves. He mentioned that Pattingale Bus Lines had offered their services to those wishing a free bus ride home afterwards.

Arriving after the dinner, Don Boudria, MP, was asked to draw the name of the first door prize winner who was Jocelyn O'Byrne.

President Menard then announced the winner of the 1991 Best Decorated Home. The winners were Michel and Lucette Bourdeau who were presented with a trophy and keeper plaque. The runners-up were Maurice and Loretta Derouchie.

The winner of the 1991 Best Decorated Business award was Diana Macaulay who was also presented with a trophy and keeper plaque. Runnerup was Auld Kirktown in South Lancaster.

The past president's award was presented to Barry Millett by Mr. Menard.

Mr. Millet then brought forth a wrapped award entitled the Many Hats award which was presented to Roger Menard with the promise that at the next awards night he must provide the same award to another person equally deserving.

The final door prizes were then drawn and the winners were Margaret Millett, Sheila Olson, Jacques Leblanc, Cathy Picard and Audrey Viau. The winner of the table centrepiece was Ron MacDonell.

The big moment finally arrived when the name of the 1991 Citizen of the Year was announced by Mr. Menard. He described the work of winner, Richard Leger, over the years in the community and in many local service groups. Flowers were presented to his wife, Claire.

Reeve Charbonneau stated there could not have been a better candidate. She also mentioned some of his co-workers over the years, Janette Abbey, Gene Picard and Roger Menard as well as one of the new members of council, Bruce Millward.

She commented that she was very impressed with the evening as well as the fact that most of the local businesses in the village and area were represented.

Reeve Sangster thanked the chamber for his invitation to the festivities and said that Mr. Leger was a most deserving candidate. He encouraged the chamber of commerce to "keep up the good work."

Past warden MacDonell was then introduced by Mr. Menard by his more locally known name of "Ronnie Johnnie Peter" MacDonell. Mr. MacDonell thanked the chamber for the invitation and congratulated Mr. Leger on behalf of the SD&G Counties. He said Lancaster and area had a lot to offer and to keep up the good work as everyone was "doing a great job."

President Menard then introduced Don Boudria, MP who presented Mr. Leger with a scroll from the House of Commons. Mr. Boudria apologized to the chamber for being a late arrival and stated that "it was not that the Glengarry News banquet was more important, but they had invited him first." He went on to state "they say we measure the degree of civility in a community by how much community service there is in that area. If this is so, then our area is very civilized. Volunteers give a community a sense of purpose and this is what we are celebrating tonight. Richard Leger is the finest in the community."

Richard Leger was then asked to say a few words. He mentioned "other persons in the community — for instance Milton MacDonald — who would be equally deserving." He stated that "he only works for the community to help someone. When you see a child smile and cry to see Santa Claus come with food and toys, that you never forget it." This is the incentive Mr. Leger lives by.

Mr. Leger stated he "loves all children" and this love is the driving force in his life. He also mentioned that as fire marshall, "sometimes people feel I am expensive and tough on them. So be it! Whatever I do in this capacity is for the best and that good judgment and explanations of the fire laws may save someone's life. From the bottom of my heart, I thank you.

President Menard then took the floor and presented Mr. Leger with the guest book with signatures of those present as another memento of the evening. Mr. Menard mentioned that ten nominations from all walks of life and many groups had been submitted for this award. The selection was and is open to anyone who wishes to pick up a nomination paper. The candidate may also be from outside of Lancaster Village, i.e. — South Lancaster, Bainsville, north and west of the village. Positive and negative comments to Lancaster and District Chamber of Commerce are welcome. He hoped that everyone felt the evening was a worthwhile effort.

New members to the Chamber are always welcome — those in the group who were not already members were invited to join. He also mentioned again the free bus ride home offered by Pattingale Bus Lines.

Those present then enjoyed themselves for a few hours dancing to live music.
