Plan to save train station is stalled on the tracks

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News reporter

Maxville council may not be on board with the village's heritage committee when it comes to saving the town's vintage train station.

The Maxville Heritage Committee presented council with a proposal to save the station on Sept. 15, but council has postponed making a decision on the matter until a special meeting to be held on Sept. 24.

"I personally think the efforts are commendable and I think everyone wants to see the station saved," said Maxville Reeve Jim McEwen.

"But I don't think anyone wants to pay for it."

At the regular meeting, council members were concerned with what the station building will be used for, who will be ultimately responsible for its operation and how the renovations will be paid.

The plan outlined by the heritage committee begins with having the village of Maxville apply for government grants through the infrastructure program.

Through the program, the provincial and federal government will each match the amount spent at the municipal level towards roads, renovations or new construction.

The heritage committee has proposed it will raise $35,000, if Maxville council will apply for $70,000 from the program.

The total figure for the project is $105,000 which is $45,000 higher than the committee's original estimates made in July.

"The proposal has been sent through the channels of the infrastructure program to see if it was feasible," said committee spokesperson Michael Cowley-Owen.

And the response received from MP Don Boudria's office was favorable, said Cowley-Owen.

The committee plans to raise its $35,000-share of the renovation fund through the issuance of shares in the station building, public donations and other fundraising ventures.

"Shares are an integral part of the plan," said Cowley-Owen.

The $100-shares would only be redeemable upon the sale of the building and Cowley-Owen said shares are the best way the committee sees to reach investors outside of Maxville.

But Councillor Ewen MacDonald said that with only $300 raised during the last two months, "in the present I don't see the support for the project" inside Maxville to warrant continuing.

"I thought I was clear that closer to the closing date I wanted to see more of a financial commitment," said MacDonald.

"This is just words, I want to see a bank account."

But Michael Cowley-Owen said the committee won't begin fundraising until there is support from council and any efforts made before

Star-crossed at Soccerfest

The goalkeeper for the Pointe-Claire men's soccer team leaps up to snag the ball in front of a rushing Glen Campbell during playoff action at this weekend's Char-Lan Soccerfest tournament in Williamstown. Pointe-Claire edged Campbell's Glengarry Stars 1-0 in a quarterfinal game. The men's division of the event was won by Char-Lan United while a team from Belleville won the women's crown. Lancaster's reeve calls it quits after 12 years on council

By Brenda-Jane Kerr
News* reporter

A long-time familiar face on Lancaster Village Council will be missing after the November municipal elections this year.

Jennifer Charbonneau, who has served two terms as a councillor and two terms as reeve during the last 12 years, will not be running in the race for office.

"I'm not saying I won't be back," said Charbonneau. "I just need to concentrate on my teaching for awhile."

Charbonneau recently earned a Bachelor of Arts in Education and is beginning to teach on a full-time basis at the Children's Development Centre and Gladstone Public School.

"I wouldn't be able to get the time off to go to county council," said Charbonneau.

With no deputy reeve on the village council, there would be no representation and Charbonneau said "that's not fair to the people."

Charbonneau also cites family-life as putting demands on her time, helping her decide not to run again.

With three children, one heading into high school, "there's more travelling and more chauffeuring to do."

"My husband has been great but he needs his time too," said Charbonneau.

Charbonneau said her time with council has been "quite good" and lists several accomplishments including the extension of the water and sewer system, changing the street lighting in the village, the repairs of the infiltration system and low tax increases.

While on council, Charbonneau has also served as chair of Outreach and before becoming a councillor she served as a member at large for the village recreation committee.

To date, no candidates have filed to run for the reeve's position for the village.

Alexandria woman freed from car with jaws of life

An Alexandria woman was seriously injured in a one-car accident on Hwy. 34 near McCrimmon early Sunday morning.

Janice MacDonald, 25, of Bishop Street suffered a broken neck after being pinned in a car that flipped over along the highway.

The jaws of life were used by the Kenyon Township Fire Department to free MacDonald from the vehicle.

MacDonald was driving a 1992 Chevrolet Cavalier at 5:15 a.m. Sept. 18 when the car went out of control and left the road.

MacDonald was brought to Hawkesbury General Hospital and later transferred to the Ottawa General where she is reported to be in fair condition.

A relative said she is in traction and the extent of her injuries and whether or not she will require surgery is not yet known.

Archbishop of Glasgow visiting county

A distinguished Scot will conduct services at St. Finnan's Cathedral this weekend.

Thomas Winning, Archbishop of Glasgow, is visiting Glengarry Sept. 23-24.

He will be celebrating a special mass on Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. at St. Finnan's, at which The Glengarry Gaelic Choir will sing, as well as St. Finnan's Choir.

There will be a reception after the mass in the Bishop MacDonell Room at the cathedral. All are invited to join with the parishioners of St. Finnan's to extend a Glengarry welcome to this distinguished visitor from across the sea.

Archbishop Winning will also be visiting St. Raphael's, but final arrangements have not yet been announced. He is particularly interested in the history of

River clean up report gets RAP-ped by river-front reeves

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

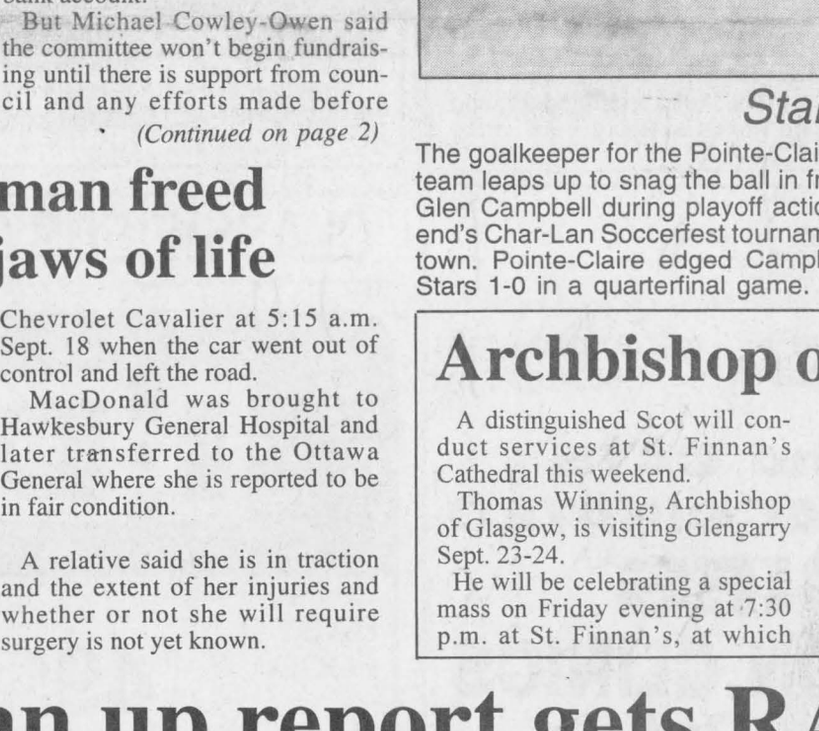
A report of options to help clean up the St. Lawrence River has not exactly been welcomed with open arms by the reeves of Glengarry's two river-front municipalities.

The 85-page Options Discussion Paper, entitled Choices for Cleanup: Deciding the Future of a Great River, was prepared and recently released by St. Lawrence Remedial Action Plan Team.

The report makes 79 recommendations, many of which will have a direct impact on river shoreline residents in Glengarry, farmers and people living in communities along the shoreline.

Recommendations pertaining to agriculture include controlling surface runoff from agricultural areas and inspecting milk waste and manure piles and restricting livestock access to rivers and streams.

Along the shoreline the report recommends the acquisition of private wetlands, stabilization of shoreline properties, inspection and installation of proper septic systems for shoreline properties, sewage treatment plants for river communities.



The report suggests steps to deal with industrial pollution, the stop excessive growth of nuisance aquatic plants, and the regulation and promotion of residential water conservation.

Lancaster Township Reeve Charlie Sangster said he understands the need for environmental protection.

"I think in general...it goes along with what they're trying to do," Sangster said.

But some of the recommendations he says may be problem-causing. especially the recommendations regarding wetlands.

"In our opinion, that's going to cause more problems than it is going to solve."

Sangster said the township has 10,000 feet of shoreline along Lake St. Francis. If all of the property is converted to wetlands, the township will not earn any residential assessment taxes off it.

It also won't be good for property owners, said Sangster.

People owning land in wetlands areas are supposed to be paid whatever their property is worth, which if it is classed as a wetland, may not be worth anything.

And Sangster called "a pipe dream" the report's proposal that artificial reefs be built out in the St. Lawrence to restore shallow water reef habitat at Bainsville Bay-Pointe Mouille and the Cornwall waterfront.

The RAP committee took six years to draft the report. Now it wants the public and municipal officials to give their comments, but are only giving them three weeks to do so, Sangster said.

"It's kind of hard to fathom."

And he wonders just how much of what the public has to say will be listened to during public consultations planned for the report.

The township gave input of its own through their representative on RAP, Councillor Janet MacDonald. But none of the input she had turned up in the report, Sangster said.

"If that's what happened, it's certainly not a good process. We certainly didn't expect to see a document like this."

He does agree that sewage treatment systems are needed for Bainsville and South Lancaster to prevent septic waste from polluting the river.

But he added:"It's going to cost. It's going to cost money."

And he is not all that optimistic the public will join the township in its concern about the report.

"It doesn't really affect anybody until it affects them personally. Unless it affects them personally, they really don't take an interest in it."

He is optimistic that — noting this is not "the end all" — some type of consensus will be reached to benefit everybody.

"I think it will work out in the end, but it's just going to take time."

Charlottenburgh Reeve Dave MacDonald also sees some headaches for township ratepayers, and possibly township officials, if the report recommendations are implemented.

"It will definitely impact Charlottenburgh," he said Monday.

Preventing farm chemicals from running off into municipal drains and tributaries, as well as preventing farm animals from accessing them could be a problem, he said.

Have your say on cleaning up the river on Sept. 28

The public is invited to voice their opinions on how to clean up the St. Lawrence River, a process that should begin next year.

Having invited the public to a series of information sessions, the Public Advisory Committee for the St. Lawrence Remedial Action Plan will hold an input session on Sept. 28 in Cornwall.

"We are inviting the people who had a look at the document we produced," said Elaine Kennedy, chair of the Public Advisory Committee.

"And we're hoping they will tell us what they think."

The floor will be opened to interested parties and concerned citizens to make five minute presentations remarking on the RAP discussion paper - Choices for Cleanup: Deciding the Future of a Great River.

The public advisory committee is looking for both positive and negative feedback on the proposed plan as well as constructive criticism, said Kennedy.

Kennedy added the response to the plan "has been quite positive," in general after the information sessions.

"Some haven't agreed totally with our plan," said Kennedy. "But after explaining our decisions they haven't totally disagreed."

Two groups that take exception with part of the plan are Lancaster Township council and a residents' group of people who own wetland property.

"It's a great idea, everybody wants to clean up the river," said Lancaster Reeve Charles Sangster.

"Some of the ideas don't have much to do with cleaning up the river though."

"I think we have some better ideas on what to do down there than they do."

The council and property owners group will be making a presentation at the public input session regarding the treatment of wetland areas.

In general terms, the property owners group and council don't feel this plan should deal with wetland issues.

Once the comments have been gathered at the public session, a sub committee will be formed to review the input, said Kennedy.

"If in the submissions there is something that adds to ours," then it will be included, said Kennedy.

Opposing views that committee cannot accept will become "an appendix to our document so all points of view will be there," said Kennedy.

Kennedy added she doesn't know when the plan will go into full effect.

"It's going to sort of evolve rather than have a definite 'Stage Three: The Clean Up' headline," said Kennedy.

RAP report knocked by river-front reeves

"That's going to be a heck of a burden to fence or monitor."

Another recommendation, pertaining to the Glen Walter sewage treatment plant, could be a burden financially.

The report recommends upgrades to cut phosphorus emissions to one milligram per litre to reduce the growth of algae in Lake St. Francis.

MacDonald said it may be a worthwhile goal, but if it costs $500,000 to upgrade the plant, will it really be worth it?

"It's easy to see all the things that should be fixed — but at what cost?"

"It's probably a wish list of how it should go," he said of the report. Recommendations that are not economically feasible simply won't go ahead, he surmised.

There is also the question of whose responsibility all these changes and upgrades will be.

"It will be a good question whenever it comes time — who pays?"

MacDonald thinks a partnership will likely be sought including all three levels of government — federal, provincial and municipal — to implement recommendations.

He thinks that industry should also pay a share. "I think industry has to play an important role."

The river has suffered from years of pollution by industry in the Cornwall area.

The water is crystal clear west of Cornwall, at Gannanoque, MacDonald said. "Down here, it looks like mud."

The RAP Team says in the introduction of the report that the St. Lawrence River is suffering from decades of abuse and needs attention now.

"Not only does it receive pollutants flowing out of Lake Ontario, but many industries have located along its shores to take advantage of the huge volume of freshwater flowing by and convenient access to international shipping routes.

"Environmental quality in some sections of the river has been seriously degraded by the activities of clusters of industries and human population."

Two open houses were held in Glengarry last week to discuss the report.

An open house was held at Creg Quay Sept. 13 for members of the public to discuss the report and at Cooper Marsh on Sept. 14.

One open house was also held in Cornwall. It was held Sept. 15 at the Cornwall Civic Complex.

Plan to save station derailed?

gaining council's support would be futile.

"Without the infrastructure (grants), the project is finished," said Cowley-Owen.

Cowley-Owen said the deadline to apply for infrastructure funding is the end of September and there would be no commitment for council to apply.

"I don't believe at this point, it commits the village to any risk," said Cowley-Owen.

He added that if for any reason it should later be decided the project is not viable, then the funds can be returned.

"All I'm asking is that council keep the opportunity open," by applying for the money, said Cowley-Owen.

"On the longshot that this could turn into something that could be good for the village."

Once the building is renovated the committee is suggesting the station can be used for both a youth centre and a seniors' club.

But council is not convinced there is a need for such facilities in Maxville.

"We were looking for a more viable use," said MacDonald.

"There doesn't seem to be any shortage of facilities between the manor, curling club, arena and so on," said McEwen.

"Other facilities are not being used," said MacDonald. "And this one would be competing with them."

Council is also concerned with how the estimated $10,000 per month in operating expenses will be generated.

Cowley-Owen said the expenses would be paid through a user-fee system.

But McEwen said he is concerned that if interest in the building falters in time then council will be left with the bills.

"I'm looking at the long term on the part of the village and the liabilities," said McEwen.

The hour-long discussion ended with council promising to discuss the matter further and let the committee know when a decision will be made.

The Maxville Heritage committee was formed in July, after Canadian National Railway announced its intention to demolish the station that was erected in Maxville in 1904.

The committee convinced the railway company to divert its decision to bring in the wrecking ball on Sept. 1, while the committee came up with a scheme to save the building.

To date, CN has agreed to sell the building to the heritage committee for $1 and lease the land for five years with a five-year option.

The grandfather of a nine-year old Dalkeith girl was seriously injured when the two were hit by a pick-up truck in front of the Dairy Queen on Sept. 2.

Fredrick Steane of Barrie suffered a broken pelvis and his granddaughter, Amanda St. James suffered minor scrapes in the accident and was released from hospital.

Steane was struck on the hip by the truck and when he fell over, he knocked his granddaughter down.

Daniel Godard, 30, of Alexandria was charged with failing to yield to a pedestrian.

A number of items were incorrect in a story detailing the accident in the Sept. 7 Glengarry News. The News apologizes for the errors.

In Kenyon Township council briefs, page 17, Glengarry News Sept. 14, it was stated: Building Official Ken Robbers "inspected a local kennel and found it conformed to kennel bylaws.He ordered a veterinary inspection."

Robbers wishes to clarify that, "no kennel license has been issued to the kennel mentioned."

Robbers said a license will be issued to the kennel only under the following conditions: a positive veterinary report is received, the kennel satisfies all aspects of the Kenyon animal control bylaw, and after the license application has been approved by a vote at Kenyon council.

Glengarry's MacCulloch Dancers go to China

Twenty young area dancers were invited to represent Canada among 15 countries in two international festivals

The story began when representatives of the China Federation of Literary & Arts Circles saw the MacCulloch Dancers perform at Cornwall's Worldfest/Festimonde in July 1993. An official invitation was received from Mr. Shang Zhao, Deputy Director, External Liaison Department for the MacCulloch Dancers to represent Canada and join 15 other countries on tour in the China International Folk Art Festival and the Haicheng Festival this summer in China.

Under the direction of Rae MacCulloch and her daughters, Heather Forbes and Deborah Wheeler, the group began the year-long preparations and funding efforts required for such an exciting Tour.

Now, one year later, at 6 a.m. on Aug. 12, 1994, we are gathered at Ottawa's Macdonald-Cartier International Airport where farewells are being said between those who will be left behind and those who won't. There are tears in the eyes of some parents, hastily brushed away, as they send their children off on an unknown adventure. There are expressions of excitement and fearlessness in the eyes of their children, mixed with momentary doubt and the sense of missing, already, the familiarity of parents, home, security and a tomorrow similiar to today. It flickers briefly but then the sense of adventure rises and prevails.

With one last look and wave, the group departs and one's heart goes out to the parents who must leave the airport with a mixture of pride and worry for their daughters.

There are 20 dancers and one piper between the ages of 15 and 19 who come from Glengarry County, Navan, Orleans, Martintown, Moose Creek, Alexandria, Vankleek Hill, Avonmore, Maxville, Harrington Quebec and Ottawa. The group is rounded out to 30 with the addition of a doctor, nurse, writer and three chaperones.

These girls are already seasoned performers and each have been members of the MacCulloch Dancers for the past 12 to 14 years. Nor is this their first international trip. They have represented Canada across our country, the United States, Scotland and Puerto Rico - delighting audiences everywhere they go with their exuberant performances of the traditional dances of the early Canadian settlers of Scottish, French and Irish backgrounds.

The wheeze of the bagpipes break the silence aboard Canadian Airlines flight 951 as Piper, Maggie Bush, shares a little of the MacCulloch spirit with passengers and crew.

Twenty-six hours after departure and over 12,000 miles across Canada, the Pacific Ocean and Japan - the DC 10 lands in the Capital City of Beijing in the People's Republic of China.

We are deposited in a city teeming with 12 million souls - half the entire population of Canada in one city! Over 95% are of Han descent and all are cycling, sidestepping, swimming around each other in a teeming mass of humanity. This is Beijing. We join the swim.

The hot, heavy air of Beijing envelopes us and we are aware of a strong and unfamiliar smell. It is 12 hours later in Beijing than in Ottawa and dusk has begun to settle.

The first person we meet is Mrs. Zhang Jiamei, representative of the China Federation of Literary and Arts Circles and our guide for the three-week duration of this Tour. She introduces herself, explaining that Zhang is her surname and her first name is last, while shepherding us and our luggage into a waiting bus and van. There are lots of helpers loading us in and the speed of the transaction is impressive.

Our driver, Sam, takes off and seems to take a mischievous delight in almost killing man and beast in our race to the hotel amidst shrieks from the dancers.

We learn that the city limits of Beijing municipality extend some 80 km including the urban, suburban and nine counties under its administration with a total area of 16,800 square km - roughly the size of Belgium. We pass bicycles of every shape and description carrying a multitude of objects from entire families to live poultry; from a pyramid of television sets to live eels. We see one man attempting to strap a refrigerator to his bike.

Cyclists jostle for space among buses and taxis and the fact that there are so many accidents is not surprising. They take their lives in their hands every time they enter an intersection. There are an estimated three million plus bicycles in Beijing and many serve the purpose of family vehicle and worker's truck. Apart from crowded buses, these are the only means of transportation for most Beijingers and are used through winter's ice and the winds and yellow dust of the Gobi Desert in Springtime.

There is construction everywhere but we see little or no equipment or machines - just manpower, wheelbarrows and hand tools. We see one crane in all of the sites we pass but it is not operating. There are no safety boots, hard hats or safety goggles and the work appears to goon for all hours until yet another highrise, which is constructed with a bamboo framework, is complete. There are many workers but we never noticed anyone who appears to be in a supervisory position.

We arrive at Huang Yuan Hotel where, over the entrance, a large red banner reads "Warmly welcome folk art troupes of various countries".

Even within this hotel, construction goes on at all hours as the lobby and a number of floors are revamped. A beautifully carved wooden scroll depicting the life and history of China encircles the lobby from overhead. It will all be quite lovely when complete but right now it is very loud and we trip over the uneven flooring.

Rooms are quickly assigned on the 8th floor and luggage delivered. We traipse back through the lobby to the main dining room that has been reserved for the delegations of our 16 countries. The odor of sesame oil greets our nostrils as we survey long tables of delicacies. It is all quite different from the Chinese food found in Canada. Having eaten our way across Canada and the Pacific Ocean, none of us have much appetite. Already the challenges of China are presented through the hotel rooms, the constant noise, trying to place overseas calls and the adjustment to food and water. There are many questions in those first hours of arrival but everything is taken in stride.

Colleen O'Brien of Navan and Jenny Wood of Avonmore sit with two dancers from Dalian, a province of China.

We use our bottled water for brushing teeth and drinking. Souvenir stands are set up in the lobby and we discover we can buy bottled water and canned coke and sprite there as well. The person who takes our money uses the traditional abacus which we will see in use throughout our travels. We stand in line to change our Canadian dollars into Chinese Yuan and try to understand the exchange rates we are charged.

Amidst the bustle and constant banging and clanking of the hotel, a vivacious gentleman sporting a full moustache lovingly curled up at each long end and wearing a red RCMP T-shirt fairly dances across the lobby eager to meet this Canadian. He is from the Russian delegation and has seen the MacCulloch Dancers perform at Worldfest in Cornwall last year.

We introduce other members of our groups beneath the Beijing sky and he tells us that they have travelled five days across Russia and China by train to get here. He attaches a Russian pin to my shirt and says with enthusiasm and delight, "I love Canada!" Then, as though to prove it, he displays his remembrance of the MacCulloch Dancers by demonstrating his version of Canadian stepdancing blended in with a few Russian spins for good measure. One can't help but smile and applaud such exuberance. We are joined by the young and very sparkling members of the Indian troupe and everyone decides there should be a party this very evening.

This sets the tone for the interaction among the countries and the warm and enthusiastic welcome accorded Canada by everyone.

One evening, shortly after our arrival, the Germans discover it is dancer, Cindy Gillette's 18th birthday. Counting down the moments until midnight, all the countries join in to sing her Happy Birthday in their own language. Later in the tour, Kim McKay also celebrates her birthday. She is ushered in to a pyramid of champagne glasses and that most universal of all songs - Happy Birthday is once again sung in all languages including Chinese. Kim is treated to a dizzying array of bumps and dances and the French live up to their reputation by forming unending lines for kisses.

One of the most memorable experiences occurs following a performance when the Korean drummers match rhythms with the Canadian Stepdancers in an impromptu tattoo.

Communication is no problem and music proves to be the universal language - able to go where politics fears to tread.

During the scheduled rehearsal for the opening ceremonies in Beijing, some of the countries incorrectly assume the rehearsal to be for their benefit and take longer than the Chinese organizers had in mind.

"Very quickly, very quickly! Off the stage!", they demanded for the rehearsal was for their benefit to check timing, sound volumes and lighting for television cameras.

The Canadians take to the stage with full professional elan, run through their numbers with exuberance and perfection and exit promptly.

"Good Canada! Good Canada!", beams the Chinese officials. The Canadian flag crackled proudly that night. Once again, Canada measures up to China's expectations.

An important link in the relations between China and Canada was forged in the person of Dr. Norman Bethune who provided medical services to the Chinese Army during their war with Japan until his death in 1939. Mao Zedong wrote "In Memory of Norman Bethune" and this tribute became one of the three most commonly read articles in China during the Cultural Revolution of the late 60's. Consequently, Bethune has become one of the best known non-Chinese historical figures in China today and Canada is widely known there as the birthplace of Dr. Bethune.

The Communists, under the leadership of Mao Zedong, achieved victory over the Kuomintang government in January 1949. The Kuomintang Party Leaders fled to Taiwan which they control to this day. The People's Liberation Army entered Beijing and on October 1st 1949, Mao proclaimed the People's Republic of China to an audience of some 500,000 in Tiananmen Square.

Canada was one of the first countries to recognize the People's Republic of China under Pierre Trudeau in 1970 in an initiative undertaken by Canada to establish diplomatic relations with China and to strengthen relations with the countries of Asia. The formula created by Canada has been adopted since 1970 by many of the countries which followed Canada's lead in establishing relations with Beijing.

Thus, China views Canada with great warmth and friendship and our welcome in China was indicative of that high regard.

It wasn't until 1979 that China "opened up" and Westerners were able to enter. Beijing saw many changes during the 80's. Private business, once banned by the Communists, was now permitted and repair work began on the temples, monuments and buildings that had been

Prove Glengarry has some great kids

Each and every one of us has, at one time or another, been touched and inspired by the kindness, compassion, or courage shown by a young person. Many of Glengarry County's kids in particular possess a tremendous capacity for facing challenges, overcoming obstacles, inspiring their peers and serving their communities.

Unfortunately, they are rarely given credit for possessing such qualities. Too often, they are unfairly labelled as disrespectful and irreverent troublemakers.

Since their introduction in 1981, the Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year Awards, sponsored by this and 300 other community newspapers across the province, have sought to dispel this image. Since then, 156 individuals have been given the unique award, which is presented to individuals and groups of young people, aged 6 to 18, who have overcome various physical or psychological difficulties, contributed to their community in a voluntary or leadership role, performed an act of heroism, or exemplified the qualities and characteristics of a "good kid.'

As many as 12 individuals and one group are chosen each year as Ontario Junior Citizens. Recipients and their family members are each year the guests of honor at the Junior Citizens luncheon, which takes place next spring during the convention of the Ontario Community Newspapers Association (OCNA). They will visit Queen's Park and have a family portrait taken with the Lieutenant Governor, as well as receiving a Junior Citizens pin, a $200 cash award and a plaque to recognize their accomplishment.

There is no reason why a boy from Charlottenburgh or a girl from Lochiel could not be a part of the Junior Citizens' dozen. All it takes is a nomination supported by letters or clippings about why the individual should be a Junior Citizen. Each and every nominee is presented with a certificate that they were nominated for the prestigious award.

Nominations will be accepted until Oct. 31. Nomination forms and further information about the Junior Citizens program can be obtained from this newspaper or by contacting OCNA at 905-844-0184.

Drop by and pick up a form. All it takes on your part is a little time and effort. In return, you'll be helping ensure that our youth will get the credit they deserve for being a "good kid."

Step forward and help your community

The municipal elections are now less than two months away, and slowly but surely, announcements are being made and the battle lines are being drawn up. It is this newspaper's fervent wish that more — many more — will soon be made.

There has been a relative trickle of announcements so far, though intriguing they may be. Francine Richer's decision to vie for the reeve's chair in Alexandria against the incumbent Bruno Massie, and John Hope's intent to chase deputy reeve Jacques Joly, signals an attempt by first-term incumbents to shake up the old guard in the town and seek change.

The next natural question becomes: Who will take on the mayor? He was acclaimed in 1991 because no-one had the courage to face him. Yet J.P. Touchette deserves competition. He and his allies consistently expressed little concern over the decay and aesthetics of the Main Street north business community, while working to cobble together development deals that have helped suppress commercial property values in the town (the Brown Shoe deal) and put into doubt the town's ability to ever make an intelligent zoning decision again (the Macdonald Blvd. re-zoning from Industrial to Residential). This has been going on at the expense of Alexandria's other developers who have had to jump through the necessary hoops to get their properties developed.

There are other reasons why the mayor should be contested, and we hope that an opponent will surface to publicly challenge him with them, not the least of which it is simply time for a change of leadership, a fresh vision of what Alexandria should be and how it should develop.

Other jurisdictions of Glengarry also warrant challenges, but so far, Charlottenburgh appears to be the only municipality where the battle for reeve will take place, a result of the decision by Dave Macdonald not to run. That will be an interesting contest because the challengers are both incumbent councillors with competent records.

And in Lancaster Village, the departure of Jennifer Charbonneau has thrown the chair up in the air.

Elsewhere, in Kenyon, Lochiel, and Lancaster townships, and the village of Maxville, announcements of candidature have yet to be made.

And there is no word yet on possible candidates for the school board and public utilities commissions.

So the political community in Glengarry remains relatively quiet. But we hope Glengarrians with both the courage to try, win or fail step forward in the weeks to come.

The witching hour gas gamble

After Thoughts

by Joe Banks

The world is a different place at 4 o'clock in the morning.

Farmers, graveyard shifters and late-night partiers who are still lucid at that time know it. At that hour, life is about as silent as it can be. Silent, that is, without being boring.

Four is a bizarre time, because it is before even the earliest risers awake, and after the most stubborn of insomniacs have fallen asleep. How often have you awoke in the middle of the night and the clock read 4 a.m.? Perhaps 3 a.m. or 5 a.m., but rarely 4 a.m.

The exception descended on me Sunday. Four in the morning, was the hour I arose, to get in a car in the middle reaches of a remote campground on the western flank of Algonquin Park, to drive home, better than five hours to the east. The fact was, I was inexplicably wide awake at that hour. Actually it wasn't that inexplicable. The guy in the trailer's lower bunk, who shall remain nameless to protect his reputation as my father, possessed a snore of such resounding force, the bunk shuddered with each inhale. It seemed, I could see (or hear), that I come by the affliction honestly.

With nary a cotton ball in sight and with the thought of missing the daytime Sunday traffic dancing through my head, I resolved to get on the road. With bags packed and loaded, I bade my half-awake dad farewell, then realized that my car contained but a quarter of a tank of gas. Oh.

Anybody who has ever travelled in remote country will know all-night gas stations, or even those that open at 6 a.m. for the commuters, are not in astounding abundance. Still, I reasoned, a quarter of a tank would get me a fair distance away, perhaps within range of a town with an open gas station.

We sounded like a couple of punch-drunk generals planning some flanking movement, hoping beyond hope that the supply lines would hold out.

"I know there's one open at 6 south of Gooderham at Buckhorn," says he.

"Yeah, but that road heads slightly west and south. Wrong direction," says I.

I decided Bancroft was the destination, roughly an hour and a quarter drive away. I knew I could make it to that town, which had gas stations aplenty. If I felt the need, I could always camp out at one and wait until it opens.

I left again, this time for real, weaving through a tangle of trees casting eerie shadows from my bobbing headlights. Before long, I was out on the main road heading for Haliburton, feeling very awake and ready to put some miles under my trusty steed.

Not far along, though, it became apparent to me why normal people do not drive at this hour. This was nature's shift, when all of those nocturnal beasts rise from their lairs and wander in search of things to eat, like each other. Unfortunately, this night, all of them chose to look for carcasses of their cousins on the ribbon of pavement between home and I.

I can with some relief tell you that the family of six raccoons, the fox, the skunk, the two deer and the largest porcupine I have ever seen, were all spared the fate of road kill. It was as if the entire cast of The Lion King was out there, playing chicken with this madman driving at an ungodly hour. Luckily for them, since I wasn't driving in traffic, I took liberties with my brakes and steering that would have blanched Steve McQueen. Don't try this at home, kids.

They did slow me down considerably, as at any moment I waited for a moose or a bear to appear around the next curve.

At the same time, I kept an eye on the gas gauge, wondering just how long that orange needle would hover over the little "E." The dark landscape sailed by and despite the gamesmanship of my furry friends, I was making pretty good time and mileage. I resolved I could at least reach Bancroft.

And I did. I cruised around the silent streets of the little tourist town, looking for signs of life behind the shuttered store and shop windows. I must've looked like a thief casing the joint. The catch was that no station opened earlier than 8:30 a.m., when they normally would open at 6 a.m.. It was Sunday. I had two hours to kill in lifeless Bancroft, or I could drive south, out of my way, but nearer to highways 7 and 401 where I knew gas relief awaited.

I gambled.

I know, I know. My mother told me the same thing about 20 years ago when I went on a bicycling trip overnight. But what the hey. Sometimes you gotta go for it...

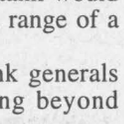
Heading south on Highway 62, I could see the first breaks of light. It was a calendar picture, a landscape that warranted admiration. But the needle was creeping ever closer to the end. I saw myself hitchhiking at 6:30 a.m., unshaven and on a faraway stretch of road, at a time when about three cars an hour were passing by. My imagination began to drift. I could see any type of shady characters offering me a ride...I could see...

I could see a gas station up ahead, lights blazing, crowded with big camouflaged pickups with expensive boats behind them. Eureka! I was saved by the business instinct of a secondary highway entrepreneur who knew there were fools out there. And fishermen; a flock of Pennsylvanians had descended on this tiny out-of-the-way gas station/restaurant that opened at 6 a.m. every day, 365 days of the year.

I thanked that clever fellow for being open out there, but he could only shrug. "Been doin' it for years, since the wife and I bought it. There's quite a few people heading back or going fishing. We do a good business Sunday mornings."

Marlin Perkins, take note.

Don't by shy, grab your nomination



News to me

by Greg Kielec

It is time to put your money where your mouth is.

Anyone who has whined, complained, criticized or ostracized members of their municipal council or school board over the past year for one reason or another, your opportunity is here.

This fall comes the opportunity to put yourself in their shoes and see if what you can do is compatible with what you have been saying.

The opportunity comes in the form of the 1994 municipal election in mid-November. It will provide a chance to become a member of your municipal council, where you can get a firsthand look at how local government is run.

You may find it is not quite as easy as it looks — trying to please everyone all the time while at the same time, keeping spending under control for fear of a taxpayer revolt when the tax bills are sent out.

You may find it is right up your alley — that you like being close to where the action is and where the power is concentrated locally, where different ideologies sometimes clash, sometimes work to compromise.

You most certainly find that everything is not black and white, right or wrong, good or bad as it is common-

There will be many shades of grey in each issue you tackle and running as a subplot underneath each issue is the politics of the particular council.

There is the reality of cliques, sub-groups which vote en-bloc at the council table. If your allegiance is to one of these cliques, you may vote for something you oppose rather than risk your allegiance to your clique.

And there are reasons other than the basic test of whether a proposal is good for the municipality — and the entire municipality — that enter into the decision-making process.

A proposal may become popular, not because it is a sound decision based on principle, but because it will be popular with certain power brokers in the community.

A proposal may be heralded for the opposite reason as well, not because it pleases the power brokers, but pleases the majority of the general public even though it is not a sound decision.

Such a scenario could involve municipal tax rates. The municipality needs to raise taxes to get some money in the bank, but tax raises are unpopular and there is an election coming up.

So what do the politicians decide? Keep the taxes down to win votes and worry about the financial shortfall later?

It is a Catch-22, because if you stand on principle and raise the taxes, you may not be voted back in to carry

Glasgow

Highland Paths

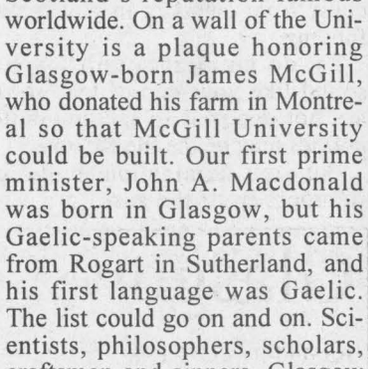
by Ken McKenna

The Archbishop of Glasgow's visit to Glengarry this coming Friday, September 23, brings memories flooding back to both my wife Anne and myself,because many of our ancestors came from areas either in the city itself or nearby. Anne's grandfather Sandy Tait worked as a young man in John Brown's Shipyards on the Clyde, near Glasgow, to which he would walk the seven miles from his home (and back) in Barrhead every day. My grandfather McGrory was a steel -puddler at the Blochearn Steel Works in Glasgow. Sandy Tait became a shipwright and, when he came to Canada early in this century, worked for the rest of his life at Vicker's, in east-end Montreal. My grandfather married a Glasgow girl and moved to Rothesay on the Isle of Bute where he operated a pub called The Grapes and Vines until his death. He is buried in Old St. Peter's graveyard in Dalbeath, Glasgow.

It is easy to understand what a shipwright does -- he builds ships, the splendid ships that made Glasgow and the Clyde famous throughout the world. What a steel-puddler did requires a little more explanation. Before modern automation, most jobs depended on human muscle, whether on the land or in industry. A steel-puddler stood next to the molten iron in a foundry and stirred it with a long metal pole, an important step in the process of making steel. The heat was almost unbearable and men had to take frequent breaks to survive. Every steel-puddler was allowed a bucket of beer and as much water as he could drink so that he wouldn't become dehydrated. Even so, after years of such awful work, many men found that their sweat glands had dried up, and had to seek other employment or die. It must have been a happy day when my grandparents moved to the lovely Isle of Bute. On that island, by the way, is a prominent rise called Canada Hill. That was where the people would gather to wave a last farewell to the ships that were carrying their loved-ones away during the Highland Clearances.

Glasgow, the "Second City of Empire" in Victorian times, was the centre of the world for the Clydeside people. Enormous fortunes were made by Glaswegians in the shipping, manufacturing, and tobacco trades. Glasgow University, founded in 1451, produced scholars who made Scotland's reputation famous worldwide. On a wall of the University is a plaque honoring Glasgow-born James McGill, who donated his farm in Montreal so that McGill University could be built. Our first prime minister, John A. Macdonald was born in Glasgow, but his Gaelic-speaking parents came from Rogart in Sutherland, and his first language was Gaelic. The list could go on and on. Scientists, philosophers, scholars, craftsmen and sinners, Glasgow produced its share. Although many flourished, Glasgow also had some of the worst slums in Britain.

Glasgow began when St. Mungo (or Kentigern, as he is also known) established a religious centre there in the 6th century. From that humble beginning eventually emerged the great city that we know today



The coat-of-arms of Glasgow shows the ancient symbols of the city, sometimes referred to as "the bell that never rang, the fish that never swam, the tree that never grew, and the bird that never flew," and there, on the very top, St. Mungo himself, first bishop of Glasgow and predecessor of the man who visits us this week, Archbishop Thomas Winning.

Kenyon Township

Council Briefs

The following were among the items discussed by Kenyon Township Council at its regular bi-monthly meeting at Kenyon Township Hall, Greenfield, on Tuesday, September 13, 1994.

Township insurance

Council accepted the revised insurance coverage proposed by Lloyd Rozon of Rozon Insurance, Lancaster, including a total premium of $27,394.68.

The biggest single item was property insurance, with a premium of $7,672, for coverage of municipal buildings including the township hall, municipal garage, Apple Hill Recreation Hall and Dunvegan Museum.

Environmental issues

Council discussed several environmental issues recently arisen in the township, and decided to refer them to appropriate environmental authorities.

It will wait and see how the Raisin River Conservation Authority reacts to the construction of a road in a wetland area west of Concession Two and Kenyon Dam Road.

It asked the Ontario Ministry of the Environment to investigate the discovery of a quantity of broken asphalt at the gravel pit on Highway 34 at Laggan.

And it recommended to the Ministry of Natural Resources that rehabilitation of the gravel pit be completed by 1995, not 1998 as previously discussed.

Five-day week

Council decided to have township roads employees return to a five-day work week as of this month.

Road workers had been on a four-day, 10 hours-per-day work week through the summer.

Land deals

Among land transactions, council accepted a tender of $5,700 from Stephen Rand for a parcel of land on Lot 30, Concession Three. It was the highest of three offers received.

Council also decided it had no objection to the Village of Maxville proceeding with a proposal to annex a small piece of Kenyon land in the Foxhill Subdivision, Maxville, "as long as there is no cost to Kenyon."

And among the severances approved was one sought by Herbert Schroeter on a five-acre portion of Lot 12, Concession Two, for the construction of a place of worship.

Paving news

Council approved a proposal from Roads Superintendent Allister Baggs to pave certain areas at the municipal garage.

But it deferred, at Councillor Blair Williams' suggestion, a decision on paving the township hall parking lot.

"It's a lovely spot with those big trees," Councillor Williams observed.

"Rather than just pave it, we could make it more of a focal point for the community."

Election

Township Clerk-Treasurer Mary J. McCuaig noted that municipal elections are scheduled for Nov. 14, and added that among present council members, Reeve Wilfred Vallance, Deputy Reeve Donald Besner and Councillor Gwen Morris had all registered for re-election.

Boudria named new chief government whip

Prime Minister Jean Chrétien has announced the appointment of Don Boudria, M.P.(Glengarry-Prescott-Russell to the position of chief government whip.

Boudria has served as deputy opposition whip and deputy government whip.

He was elected to the House of Commons in 1984, and re-elected in 1988 and 1993.

Boudria served as an M.P.P. in the Legislative Assembly of Ontario from 1981 to 1984.

Boudria, on Thursday, expressed his profound gratitude to the Right Honorable Jean Chrétien, Prime Minister of Canada for the appointment.

Said Boudria: "I am both humble and grateful to the prime minister for the confidence he has shown in naming me to the important position of chief government whip.

"I wish to pay tribute to my colleague Alfonso Gagliano, M.P. (St-Léonard), who has held the position of Liberal Whip in opposition and in government for the past three years."

The duties of the whip are to coordinate the activities of the National Caucus which include: supervising the attendance of MPs; appointing members of parliamentary committees; authorizing travels by members of Parliament; assigning a duty roster for the House of Commons; reporting to caucus; and taking votes in the House.

Boudria held the position of deputy government whip since Nov. 5, 1993.

Lancaster Township dragging feet on recycling, says resident

To the editor:

As a resident of Lancaster Township, I am concerned that we do not as yet have a recycling program in effect. A notice of proposal to do so was published in The Glengarry News and a request for written responses from residents interested in such a service before Oct. 10 was printed.

Anyone interested in seeing recycling started in Lancaster Township can write to Mike Samson, Clerk, Lancaster Township, RR1 North Lancaster, K0C-1Z0.

Despite Michel Samson's statement in last weeks News, that he has found difficulty obtaining the necessary information concerning the recycling program being proposed, I feel he has been dragging his feet on this issue, hoping it will be forgotten or put off until after the elections.

If you are interested in a recycling program in our township now, write the township and plan to attend a council meeting tonight, Wednesday, Sept. 21 at the township hall in North Lancaster, when recycling will be on the agenda.

out the second part of your plan, which is what you will do with those reserve funds now that you finally have them.

A new phenomenon municipal councils also must deal with are special interest groups. Councils are being increasingly hounded by special interest groups that day by day seem to get more aggressive in their demands for their chosen few.

If the municipality does not support these groups, it is labelled as cold-hearted, unsympathetic. But if it does support these groups, it is criticized for throwing away hard-earned tax dollars on groups that do not represent the majority of ratepayers.

And to top it all off, municipalities are still forced to provide the same, or more services to their ratepayers even though they are hurting financially from cutbacks in government funding.

So, do municipal politics still sound like your cup of tea? If you are not deterred so far, municipal politics may be the life for you.

Put your nomination in and put democracy to the test.

GLENGARRY AGRICULTURE WALL OF FAME
3rd Annual Induction Night
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 24 - 7 p.m.
Angus Gray Hall, Maxville

Inductees are:

LLOYD HOWES (1911 -)

LLOYD HOWES came to Glengarry in March of 1941. From a very humble beginning,he built a very productive farm, a top Holstein herd and raised a family of eleven. Six of his sons work in agriculture; five with farms and Holstein herds.

He contributed greatly to agriculture in Glengarry through experimentation. Lloyd was very innovative,he was one of the first to feed grass silage. The crop was harvested and stored in many different ways before the days of cement silos and forage harvesters. He recognized the value of soyabeans in cattle feed and clover for the benefit to the soil structure. He enrolled in the DHIA program when the program was initiated. Mr. Howes has also been known as a great horseman. Quiet a number of his hackney crossed horses have been sold to Upper Canada Village,where they pull the stage coach and work around the farm. He still raises and trains colts.

Farm and family were demanding, but Lloyd still found time to serve as school Trustee, Director of the Holstein club, Director of the Vankleek Hill Fair Board and active in the Ontario Farm Forum. He received the Eastern Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Award of Merit.

Lloyd's example of hard work, good management and progressive agricultural practices,have proven to be extremely successful and helpful in the community.

WILLIAM J. MAJOR (1896 - 1966)

WILLIAM J. MAJOR was the eldest son of Napoleon Major born on April 12, 1896. After completing his schooling in North Lancaster,he furthered his education at the International Business College where he graduated on June 11, 1914. William then proceeded to law school but was called to the Canadian Armed Forces after his first year.

After the war, William married Gabrielle Besner, and together they started a mixed farm. He improved his dairy herd a great deal by using registered sires for breeding; including Montvic Rag Apple Master from the herd of Gordon McKillican of Maxville. In 1925 Mr. Major started breeding and hatching Plymouth Barred Rock hens.

William was very active in politics; both municipal and federal. He served as Counselor from 1931 to 1934, Deputy Reeve from 1935 to 1938 and Reeve from 1939 to 1947 for the municipality of Lancaster. William was elected the Liberal member of parliament representing Glengarry County in 1949.

In 1945, his son Laurent joined him on the farm and continued to concentrate solely on poultry,particularly on the Record of Performance of breeding stocks. In the 1950's , he formed Major Poultry Farms and Hatchery and was President of this company until his death in 1966. the company is still successfully run today by his family in North Lancaster.

EDGAR L. McNAUGHTON (1887 - 1965)

EDGAR LORNE (E.L.) McNAUGHTON was born and raised on the fourth concession of Lancaster Township. After graduating from Cornwall Commercial College, Edgar took over the family farm from his father, Alexander (Sandy) McNaughton in 1911.

In 1915, purebred Holsteins were introduced to the farm. E.L. was one of the first registered Holstein breeders in the township. The Holstein Breeders Association of Canada awarded him with his forty year Veteran Breeders' pin in 1958. In July of 1947, artificial insemination was tried for the first time with the opening of the Eastern Ontario Cattle Breeding Assoc. Edgar promptly enrolled the dairy herd in the newly organized Glengarry Dairy Herd Improvement Association in June of 1949.

Being a progressive crops person, Mr. McNaughton grew pedigreed cereals along with an ample supply of clover seed to sell each spring.

Edgar was a Director of the St. Lawrence Valley Agricultural Society and the Glengarry Holstein Club. He was a Trustee on both the public and high school boards. E.L. continued to serve the community by representing the policy holders of Lancaster Township on the Glengarry Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co. Edgar served for over thirty years at Glengarry Farmers' as both a Director and on a number of occasions, as President.

Court Report

The following items were dealt with recently in Alexandria provincial court.

Drunk driver jailed

A 31-year-old man has been sentenced to 14 days in jail following a second conviction for drunk driving.

Brian Archambault was arrested on May 28 after his car was discovered in a ditch by Lancaster OPP. Breathalyser tests taken on the night of the arrest showed readings of 143 and 150 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood. The legal limit is 80.

In addition to the jail term, Archambault - whose first impaired driving conviction dates back to February of 1991 - was placed on probation for nine months and prohibited from driving for two years.

Man fined for break and enter

A 41-year-old Bainsville man was fined $500 for breaking into a rural Williamstown residence.

Michel Lacombe and an accomplice forced their way into the house last March and removed two rifles. The guns were recovered in a nearby snowbank on the day of the arrest.

The court ordered that Lacombe pay $75 in restitution to repair a door damaged during the break-in.

Smuggler gets two-month term

A Fabreville-Lavale, Que. man will serve two months in jail after being caught with 800 cases of smuggled cigarettes.

Sacha Nastasi, 23, was the driver of a van containing the cigarettes as well as 31.5 litres of smuggled alcohol.

In addition to the jail term, Nastasi was fined a total of $19,916.74.

Cornwall man pleads guilty

A 29-year-old Cornwall man was fined the minimum $300 after pleading guilty to drunk driving.

Donald Stewart was arrested on Jan. 1, 1991 after being stopped at a RIDE checkstop on County Road 19 in Charlottenburgh Township. Breathalyser tests showed readings of 112 and 113 milligrams of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood.

Stewart was prohibited from driving for one year.

Mayor urges popular revolt against bad government

By Greg Kielec
News editor

Hazel McCallion doesn't have much patience for government "rigamarole".

And she is not afraid to say so either, in terms to make even the most hardened career politician cringe.

Government bungling, red tape and interference was the focus during her speech to more than 100 people at the annual United Counties wardens banquet Sept 10.

McCallion has adopted a "pay-as-you-go philosophy" to government, as has not had to borrow money to run the city of Mississauga since 1978,

"The time is here to stand up and be counted," she challenged politicians at the banquet.

And she urged municipal leaders and their citizenry to lead a revolt to force government change.

"What we need today is reform in the way in which government is structured," she said.

But she can see why some may want to keep the system as is.

"Maybe politicians don't want to change the way that government is structured because they like to keep people confused."

She also can see why politicians are experiencing their lowest popularity ever.

And in the case of municipal politicians, it is their federal and provincial counterparts that are generally to blame.

She said it is difficult for municipal politicians to live up to their promises because of continual changes imposed by upper government that negatively affect municipalities.

Often the changes are made after municipalities have passed their budgets, and if the changes happen to deal with funding cuts, or new charges levied against municipalities, they are left with a financial shortfall.

She cited as an example a change in assessment approved by the province that will leave her city administration $2.8 million out-of-pocket this year.

In another case, the municipality had to spend $350,000 in studies to get approval to locate a garden on a riverbank.

Municipalities are supposed to be "children of the province." But according to McCallion, that philosophy no longer applies.

"We have grown up. We are no longer children of the province."

She urged the counties politicians to challenge all three parties in the next provincial election on what they will do to improve government.

"We have to change the system. The system's not working."

And they should not settle for general platitudes about what their government will look at, but what it will actually change.

"If we don't change the system, we're going to go on paying through the nose."

And it will stop the economic development of the municipalities, the province and the country.

Government needs to be innovative and get better value for people's tax dollar, she said.

"Let's get on and show others how it should be done.

And she urged that citizens form groups to let politicians know they want change.

She has a simple proposal to combat all the stifling regulations and red tape that is hindering and frustrating Ontario municipalities.

"You know what I would say to Toronto — cut out all your subsidies and stop interfering," she told the audience.

Home broken into at point

Police Briefs

A Westley's Point residence was broken in sometime between Sept. 14 and 18 and several items were stolen.

Several bottles of liquor, a Nintendo set, a mini stereo, a quantity of compact disks, a set of men's golf clubs and a fly rod was taken.

Total value of the property is $2,400.

Two thefts

Chainsaws were stolen from two different private residence garages in Lochiel Township last week.

During the night of Sept. 15, thieves walked into an open garage near Glen Robertson and walked out with a $600 chainsaw.

Not far away, on Sept. 12, a garage with an unfastened padlock invited thieves to come in during the day and take a chainsaw, battery charger and fishing rod, valuing $1,200.

Open house at Iona this week

St. Raphael's
Cathie MacDonald
525-1174

This Thursday is open house at Iona. Students take their parents on a tour of the school between 7and 8 p.m. At 8 p.m. there is a brief meeting in the gymnasium.

Brown House Circle

The monthly meeting was held on Sept. 7. A nominating committee was placed in the capable hands of Betty McDonald.

The members were reminded that flu shots would be available at the health centre on Sept. 29, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

After discussing the choices for future events, everyone enjoyed a delightful lunch.

All enjoyed a talk from the guest speaker Diane Legault-Gravell, a program manager from Lifeline. Seniors in particular, should be aware of the benefits of "Lifeline."

One of the members, Julie Lefebvre, is moving to Cornwall and all wished her well.

The next meeting will be on Oct. 5 when there will be a membership night.

MacCulloch Dancers perform at festivals in China

wrecked during the Cultural Revolution.

But the changes came more quickly than some Chinese could adapt to and too slow for others.

In June 1989, PLA troops brutally suppressed a student-led pro-democracy protest as the world watched the proceedings from Tiananmen Square. As a result, China found itself shunned by most of the countries of the world and it is only in the past couple of years that Beijing and China have again become a destination for travel and investment. One Chinese government official with whom I spoke, referred to those events as "the unfortunate incident of 1989".

Perhaps this International Folk Art Festival is one way Beijing has of bringing the world back to China. Many initiatives are being developed and multi-national companys have entered China in droves. "All of Asia is under construction," one well-placed official told me. "Cities and zones are building up overnight."

There is a tremendous sense that China is in the midst of great change; a giant machine that is just warming up and that, soon, the rest of the world will notice the power and volume of that machine.

The Canadians visit Tiananmen Square where they are photographed before the Gate of Heavenly Peace where only the Emperor could use the central door and bridge and which today is still dominated by a gigantic portrait of Mao. We see the Monument to the People's Heroes and the huge S-shaped line-ups of Chinese waiting to enter the Mao Mausoleum which houses Mao's body.

This is the heart of Beijing and Beijing is the heart and pulse of all China. Tiananmen Square is the gathering place, the location of government in Imperial Days, the home of emperors, the site of major rallies during the Cultural Revolution and the seat of today's National People's Congress. It is where a million people jammed the square to pay their last respects to Mao in 1976. And, in 1989, it is here that army tanks and soldiers cutdown the pro-democracy student demonstrators.

We enter the Forbidden City and feel the power and almost 600 year old history of our surroundings. It is so named because, until 1949, entry was forbidden to all but the inner circle.

That evening is the opening ceremonies of the International Festival. Amid the thunder of disciplined Chinese drummers, a flag bearer and six representatives from each country run onto the stage in a flurry and swirl of brightly flying colors.

A circle of flags and national costumes unfurl to the persistent drumbeat until all performers are arrayed across the stage beneath the stylized symbol of the Festival hanging from high in the rafters of Ditan Gymnasium and surrounded by the flags of each participating country.

While the speeches are being said, my eyes, like everyone else's, go to the stage. There in the front row, right beside China, is Canada. Is it my imagination or are their faces glowing and shining and smiling more than the rest? No, it is not imagination. Their professionalism is outshone only by their smiles this night and none shine brighter than they.

Each country provides a five-minute program and it is a delight to see the calibre and variety presented by each. Along with Canada are performances by Romania, Japan, New Zealand (a favourite of all with their Maori beat and wind song melodies), USA, Mexico, Latvia, Israel, Austria, Argentina, India, Korea, France, Germany, Russia and the acrobatic genius of China themselves...a total of 16 countries from four continents in this major event in the cultural life of the Chinese people.

The smiles and applause for Canada from the Chinese guests and other countries is warm and enthusiastic. The evening comes to an end and, in what appears to be typically Chinese fashion following a banquet or event, everyone leaves...quickly, quickly. We notice that everything is always done quickly, efficiently and in regimented and disciplined fashion. We are expected to follow and obey just as quickly whether during a rehearsal, performance or while visiting various sites. There is no leisurely "hanging out" or time given to take but a quick glance as we rush past, through and beyond to the next.

Over the next several days, are memorable performances in the Worker's Cultural Palace in the Forbidden City as well as visits to the Pandas and Peking Zoo, Beijing Art Galleries to view the most wonderful paintings, brush paintings, sculpture and artifacts, museums, the Summer Palace, Temple of Heaven and to the Great Wall of China which curls and twists 2,000 miles across China like a giant stone serpent. Legends and history abound and we Canadians are spellbound in the midst of the ancient past and the bustling present which are both entwined into this one moment in time - like being caught in a time warp.

We tasted noodles and rice, bean curd and jiaozi (dumplings), snake and little birds, sea cucumbers and fungi but the dancers favourite stops were at MacDonalds and Hard Rock Cafe.

Jim provided our wake up calls by playing the bagpipes in the hotel hallway each morning (unless he had been up too late the night before).

We took photos of China and China took photos of us. It was interesting to be standing apart and find yourself in a cluster of Chinese with one of their number taking a photo of their family with the oddity that was you.

We saw a bus breakdown on a thoroughfare and all the men inside get out to push. Late one night, we saw three men ride their bikes to a construction site where they sat on a pile of dirt reading their books - for the construction site was well-lit and their homes were not.

Another night, we saw a group of men sitting on a sidewalk peering through an open doorway watching the television within.

We left Beijing with a great deal of respect for its hard-working people and we discovered how fortunate we are to be Canadian and live in a democracy.

The group then travelled on to Dalian in North Eastern China and a reasonably new Economic Development Zone. Dalian sits on a peninsula across from North Korea and is reported to be "the cleanest city in China".

The Festival in Dalian combined the International Folk Art Festival with the International Fashion Festival with designers and models coming from around the world.

The Dalian Festival was a most professional and spectacular extravaganza, on a par with the Los Angeles Olympic Games. It was attended by 40,000 at the dress rehearsal and another 40,000 to the main event which was held in a large stadium. No expense was spared to stage this elaborate and impressive production ablaze with brilliant costumes, laser light show, fireworks, colorful dragon floats, national artists and 1,000 Chinese dancers filling a field surrounding a large central stage where the main acts appeared.

With flags flying and lights flashing everywhere throughout the stadium, the Canadian stepdancers provided a rhythm with their feet that was followed by the Highland dancers, while the 1,000 Chinese performers in brilliant costumes followed the Chinese background music with their own choreography. It was a unique adaptation by the Canadians and skillfully handled. They danced in perfect unison and with tremendous energy and the crowds loved them!

No words can adequately describe the scope of this production which was broadcast to a television audience of 800 million across China! Rae MacCulloch had the opportunity, not once but twice, to address the people of China on national television bringing greetings from our government and the people of Canada.

There were a total of 19 performances by the MacCulloch Dancers while in China with a combined viewing audience of over 360,000 at the live performances in addition to the television audience of 800 million. But the highlight for each of the Canadians was yet to come and occurred in the final days during the Haicheng Festival in a parade with colourful dragons, floats, musicians and dancers from around the globe. Another 250,000 Chinese viewed the parade that gave the Canadians the wonderful opportunity to interact directly with the people.

Shaking hands and pinning Canadian flags to their shirts; drawing the children forward to dance in the streets - the Canadians reached out with joy and friendship and the response from the Chinese was overwhelming. None who saw those faces will ever forget the experience.

Said Rae MacCulloch, "The mothers gave me their babies to hold. There was such love on the parents faces as you took their children to hold or join in the dance that it would melt your heart. The performances throughout China were outstanding but the communication and warmth shared with the Chinese people was the most rewarding and uplifting of all. Holding their babies and looking into their smiling faces, I knew this is why we had come."

There were constant and large crowds around the Canadians and every minute of every hour, they were surrounded by photographers and television cameras everywhere they went. Police escorts and security guards were provided to help navigate through the large crowds that seemed to gather wherever they were - even shopping.

But the crowds were not abusive nor intrusive - just large. "In fact," said Rae, " they are such a gentle people, always so polite and gracious. They asked for so little - only a smile and a handshake."

There was always a crowd outside the hotel waiting for the Canadians. One free evening, Jim Forbes played the bagpipes and a ceilidh was performed for and with the crowds. This provided another sensational memory for the Canadians who displayed what I can only call the MacCulloch spirit. It is high energy and professionalism combined with great warmth, respect and kindness. Their faces and expressions say it all as they reach out to the people of China and are touched in return.

"It was so rewarding," said Rae.

Lochiel Township

Council Briefs

The following are some of the items discussed by Lochiel Township Council Sept. 13, at their regular monthly meeting in township hall.

Severance tussle

Lochiel council members decided further discussion is needed to solve the problem of severing a lot from Alan DaPrato's farm on part of lot 33, Con. 3, running along Power Dam Rd., north of Alexandria.

"We would really like to see you get this severance," Reeve Ron MacDonell said, "but it goes against our Official Plan."

The problem is that the DaPrato farm is zoned agricultural resource land, from which only one farm-related severance can be granted, according to Lochiel Official Plan.

One lot has already been severed from the DaPrato farm, making it impossible for Lochiel council to sanction another severance, unless they disregard the township Official Plan.

"If we let this go through there will be a lot of other guys wanting a second severance on agriculture resource land," Reeve MacDonell sighed.

But Zoning Administrator Dorothy Irvine wondered how long the DaPrato farm could be considered agricultural resource land, with a big housing and commercial subdivision planned right across Power Dam Road, from the farm, in north Alexandria.

Lochiel council was sent plans for the 180 home subdivision to be built in the Power Dam and Highway 34 area, by Alexandria council. The new subdivision is still in the planning stage and has not been approved by Alexandria yet.

Lochiel council did not object to a lot severance from Lorne Whelan, part of lot 38, Con. 3. The land is zoned rural marginal where several severances are possible. The severance allows more setback land to be added to an existing lot so that it can be used for building.

An amendment in lot size from an earlier severance was not objected to by council for Gordie Fraser, on part of lot 28, Con. 9.

The severance, to settle a will, was revised from a six-acre parcel to a 2.3 acre lot for residential use.

First round barn

The first round barn in Lochiel will be built on the Glen Road, two miles east of Alexandria, by organic farmer Robert Lindeman.

Building Administrator Dorothy Irvine reported the barn's estimated value at $5,000 in her August building report.

"The economy must be getting better. Local farmers applied for $553,650 worth of new buildings or addition during August," Irvine said.

Huge development planned for north end of Alexandria

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

A huge residential and commercial development is being proposed for the north end of Alexandria.

The development is planned for a 55-acre parcel of land owned by John Hoisak and John Plaskon, known as the former Aulenback property, at the north end of town across the railway tracks, east of Highway 34.

The development will include 172 lots for single-family residences, 16 semi-detached units, and 24 townhouse units as well as highway commercial space at the northwestern edge of the development.

The development plan was presented by Chris Brouwer, of McNeely-Tunnock consulting engineers and planners at an Aug. 26 Alexandria planning committee meeting, and was presented to full council last Tuesday.

The proposal was brought to council for information only, as the proponents attempt to get as many people involved in the process for input before it proceeds

"This is very preliminary and a great presentation from those who were there (at the planning meeting)," Hart said.

"It's still a long way away."

One of the main concerns for the development is whether the town has adequate water supply to serve the number of homes and businesses it will have.

Hart said Andy Code of the Raisin Region Conservation Authority is concerned that the town's water reservoir in Loch Garry may not have the capacity to handle the extra development.

Water supply has been a concern in previous summers, with the reservoir running low and measures imposed by the town to conserve water.

Ponies invited to meet

The local branch of the Canadian Pony Club invites the public to spend a day in the country at Rocking Horse Stable in Wendover, Ont., to enjoy the outdoors, and watch horses and their riders participate in an exciting riding competition.

The Rocking Horse Trials is an equestrian competition that tests the "all around" skills of both the horse and rider. Similar to the Modern Pentathlon, a Horse Trials is made up of three distinct phases, each one testing different qualities of the horse and rider.

Rocking Horse Stable is located at 882 Rollin Road which runs south off Highway 17 -- about 10 minutes east of the town of Rockland.

Students welcomed back

North Lancaster
Bernadette Campeau
347-2572

By this time, the third week of school, routine has probably set in with students, parents, teachers, bus drivers, etc. It's sort of a rest to get back to school.

In our Ste. Therese school, Principal Jeanne Scott, in the name of all the teaching staff, welcomes everyone and wishes them an enjoyable return or (for some) beginning.,

For Pre-Kindergarten and Kindergarten, Denise Lambert will be their teacher and guardian.

Chantal Leger will take care of Grades 1 and 2, while Nicole Gravelle puts her abilities to work in Grades 3 and 4.

Grades 5 and 6 will be under the supervision of Gilbert Seguin while Marc Brunet will be teaching Grade 7 and preparing the graduates of Grade 8.

The secretary at the school is Ginette Viau and if you need to call the number is 347-2728.

Again this year, milk will be available for lunch at the price of 50 cents and every Wednesday, hot dogs will be sold if parents can be found to volunteer their help for the preparation of same. If interested, please call the school or Diane Glaude at 347-1851.

On Sept. 27 at 7:30 p.m., there will be a general meeting for all parents where the new PTA (comite foyer-ecole) will be elected. Parents will have a chance to meet the teachers and learn about the year's program.

You are invited to the home of Gisele (Guy) Besner on Sept. 24-25 as she is having an open house to show and sell her many crafts. For further information, please call 347-3292.

A get-well wish is going to Colby McDonell (Betty Glaude's father) who had heart surgery last week. Also to David Renaud, son of Jacques and Celyne who also had surgery in Cornwall. We hope you are both feeling better very soon.

Last Tuesday, Sept. 13, the ladies of UCFO had their first meeting of the '94-'95 season.

Seventeen members were present and Fleurette Major welcomed everyone after the opening prayer.

This year, the club will visit Cornwall while the Wendover ladies will come to our town on dates to be announced later.

There will be a craft demonstration on Wednesday, Oct. 5 when Stella Legros will teach the members how to make a decorative paper fan.

The winners of the 50/50 draw were Lucille Glaude and Florence Claude.

The door prize went to Angeline Poirier while the craft prize was given to Lucille Campeau.

The evening ended with a light lunch and conversation after the long summer break.

Happy birthday this week to Cecile Campeau on Sept. 21 and happy anniversary to Pierre and Therese Bourbonnais on Sept. 24. Best wishes.

Optimists celebrate gavel transfer

Green Valley
Margo Pepin
525-3581

The Green Valley Optimist Club celebrated its transfer of power on Saturday, Sept. 10, 1994 at the St. Raphael's Community Centre.

The new executive committee members for '94-'95 are: President, Paul Mongeon, Secretary, Ronald Aubin, Treasurer, Gilles Therriault, who were all accompanied by their wives, and vice-presidents are Carole Lefebvre and Fernande Menard.

Directors are Lorraine Beriault, Richard Leger, Carole Brunet and Ginette Aubin.

Past president Andre Menard passed on the bell and gavel to the new president, Paul Mongeon, in front of about 40 guests.

I heard that Andre has not had the pleasure of using his bell and gavel all year but Paul has definite intentions of doing so.

Master of ceremonies for the occasion was Lieut.-Governor elect for 1994-95 Henri Jeaurond and his wife Gisele, special guests were Lorraine Lanthier who is district secretary for 1994-'95; Father Marcel Larouche, parish priest and 1993-'94 Lieutenant-Governor Robert Henri and his wife Margaret.

A sumptuous supper was served by Nuance Catering and then everyone danced to the music of Station to Station.

The Optimists would like to thank Andre for a successful year filled with good memories and all the best to Paul for 1994-'95.

They strongly encouraged all members to support and participate in the club's coming events. Our children and community stand to gain from all their efforts.

A special reminder to all club members, a lunch will be held on Sunday, Sept. 25th at 9 a.m. in Ste. Marie's School. Cost is adults $4, children free.

After the brunch the regular general meeting will be held as this will be Andre's last meeting as president, so please plan to attend.

The Lancaster parish supper was a great success. I heard that around 1,100 people enjoyed their deliciously-prepared meal.

While waiting our turn to eat, we enjoyed along with many others, beautiful music played by local talent.

There were violin players, accordian, guitar, singers. It was just great. And the meal, super right down to the coconut pie.

I do believe a big congratulations should go out to the ladies, gentlemen and teenagers who helped prepare, serve and all who helped in any way.

Mary Lambert would like to remind all young girls who are interested in joining the Brownies, that she will be at Ste. Marie's School on Thursday, Sept. 22 at 3:30 p.m.

Let's keep this movement going. Also get well wishes going out to Mary Lambert who fell and broke her right arm.

On September 5 Josephine Seguin celebrated her 96th birthday. She enjoys baking bread and crocheting; on Sept. 7 Irene Lalonde was 85 years young and she enjoys walking.

Both are residents of La Residence Ste. Croix where a party in their honor was held on Tuesday, Sept. 6.

Attending were some of their children and friends, Helene Allard, Dolphus St.Germain and Eva Desjardins. To entertain them music was played by Jean Lajoie, Claude Brisson and Robert Tessier. They enjoyed dancing and being served coffee and cake.

Irene's son Eugene recorded this beautiful afternoon on video.

Congratulations go out to Leo and Marie Rose Massie on their 10th wedding anniversary on August 31.

Birthday wishes going out to Derek and Vanessa Constant on Sept. 23; Paul Brunet, Sept. 25; Celine Charbonneau, Daniel Beriault, Sept. 27; Phillipe Bourgon, Sept. 28.

Let's not forget the Apples and Art Seaway Studio and Heritage Tour that takes place at Margot Bentley's home on the 7th concession of Lancaster this weekend Sept. 24 and 25. She will be exhibiting her unique work in pen and ink and watercolors. Images depicting barns, country scenery and flowers will be on display outside her country studio weather permitting, if not inside. These paintings are also for sale. Coffee, tea, juices and some desserts will be served.

God bless and have a safe week.

Over 600 show up for parish fete

Glen Walter
by Ron Holla
931-2658

The weather was on "our side" helping to make the annual Precious Blood parish's harvest supper a great success, Rev. Denis Vaillancourt, parish priest, said.

Held Sept 18, 648 people came from as far away as Montreal, Dalkeith, Alexandria and Cornwall to the supper, Vaillancourt said.

"The weather was cool yet the sun was shining," he said.

"Just the kind of weather when we do well."

Those who came sat down to enjoy a turkey or ham dinner with all the stuffings and it was obvious from this reporter's observation that preparations had been long underway since the early afternoon for the event.

Marlene Roy, one of the supper organizers, said that the turnout was excellent and the workers were tremendous.

"We had lots of good compliments on the food and many of the people who came to help did everything from parking to serving dinner to the garage crew out back," she said.

Those who helped put on the supper came from both the Catholic Women's League of the parish and the Knights of Columbus.

"There's not much more you can say about a supper than that," Roy said.

The harvest supper featured some draws for participants. Winners of the parish draw were announced by Rev. Vaillancourt and first prize for the cellular phone went to Howard McEvoy, RR 1, Cornwall.

The second prize of the needlepoint went to Dominic Turenne of Summerstown and the third prize of $100 went to Earl Amell of St. Andrews West.

Oil Painting

Also featured during the harvest supper was the annual fundraising draw for the Precious Blood parish CWL. First prize for the oil painting went to Maureen Taurangeau of Glen Walter.

Second prize for the bedspread went to Kim Lortie of Cornwall and Nancy Poirier of Martintown rounded out the winners with the third prize of $100.

Auction time, and the bidding is easy

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

Picture the scene. A woman wends her way through a crowded room. She is carrying something which looks old and valuable -- a tarnished silver and cranberry-glass combo. "Nice piece," remarks one of the men as she brushes by. (He is referring, of course, to the object she holds in her hand.) "Nice price," she replies, (also referring to the object). "I know," says the man. "I was the one who was bidding against you!"

Yes, it's auction time again in Williamstown, and over at St. Mary's the people come and go, dreaming not of Michelangelo, but maybe, just maybe, of finding a treasure in the trove.

"It's a disease," admits one lady who has just won the rights to a Victorian silk quilt. She tells me she got a similar quilt -- same colors and all -- at another auction in the spring and her room has twin beds.

A disease? If these people are sick, they seem mighty thrilled about it.

"Sold! Sick-ity-five to number sick-ity-four," proclaims Flora in her own unique style.

Ahh . . . Maybe that's what she means.

Saturday's auction was from the estate of the late Edith Grant. If you missed that one, plan to attend the unusual toy auction sale coming up this weekend at St. Mary's Centre. It's a three day affair, beginning Friday at 4 p.m.

Children on your Christmas shopping list? The sale includes old toys of every description, including 500 dolls! I can't wait to hear what our auctioneer says about them. Hope she has a good thesaurus!

A former area resident returns to Williamstown on Monday evening, Sept. 26. Marilyn Light, daughter of Gordon and the late Mrs. Light of the King's Road, will be the guest speaker at this month's Green Thumb Horticultural Society meeting.

Marilyn, whose talk is entitled, "Orchids from A to Z," is eminently qualified to speak on the subject. She began growing orchids some 25 years ago while she was teaching in Barbados; she has over 1,000 plants of her own, including four registered hybrids, and she is the author of the soon-to-be released book, "Growing orchids in the Caribbean."

Some of you may remember Marilyn from the three years when she served as curator of the Nor'Westers and Loyalist Museum here in Williamstown.

Monday evening's meeting takes place at St. Mary's Centre at 8 p.m. and everyone is welcome to attend. You may wish to bring along some coin: orchids will be available for sale (in the $8-$25 price range) for those interested.

In the afternoon of Monday, Sept. 26, is the Gala Card Party (bridge and euchre), sponsored by the museum. The event does not take place there, however. It is being held upstairs at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre (elevator available), beginning at 1 p.m.

You are asked to arrange your own foursome. Cost is $5 and dessert and coffee will be served.

For more information, please contact Joan P. MacDonald at 347-2217.

Parents, siblings and other family members of Grade 9 students are invited to an open house at Char-Lan High School on Wed., Sept. 28, beginning at 7 p.m.

This is your chance to meet with new Principal Mary Mayer, and to put the faces to the names your children have been bringing home. You will also learn some tips to ensure your student's time at the school is as pleasant and productive as possible.

Sometimes I can't believe the things I write. Last week's item about Char-Lan excelling in the maths and sciences was about as diplomatic as an invasion of a certain island might have been.

While what I said was entirely correct, what I didn't say about the excellence of the English and remaining Humanities Departments was awful!

I plead guilty to thinking with my feet and I deserve a fitting sentence: burial alive under the tomes of the Oxford English Dictionary!

The ice is in at the arena and teams are gearing up for a new season. Ladies broomball has started, and more players would be welcomed. If you are interested, please contact Brenda Lauzon at 931-1190. Games are held each Sunday at 11 a.m. or 12 noon.

Also kicking off a new season at the high school are the Char-Lan Wednesday Night Players. This group meets each Wednesday in the Music Room at Char-Lan from 7:30 to approximately 9 p.m.

Anyone in the area who plays an instrument is welcome to join in the fun and camaraderie of this group. Age is immaterial.

Leaders Dave Irwin and Robert Goodbun are anxious to make this an exciting and musical year. For information, please call Mr. Irwin at 528-4423 or 528-4532.

So what do you think? Haven't they been wasting their talents all these years? Models, Inc. has nothing they haven't got!

I'm referring, of course, to the back page ad in a local weekly supplement, featuring models Les, Wendy and Wimpy. It is Wimpy, isn't it? Wimpy Wolochatiuk?

What a hoot!

Although it's his first serious season of competition, Raymond Bougie has already tasted success. Raymond and partner, Yvon Ranger of Alexandria, placed first in the Men's Recreational Open Class of the Saranac-Adirondack Classic canoe race, held on Sept. 8, 9, and 10.

The duo posted a time of 12 hrs., 35 min., and 49 secs. in the 90-mile event, starting at 8 a.m each morning and camping out every night. Raymond says it was a great race. "They take very good care of you," he told me.

The champ also paid tribute to Bruno Major, whom he said has helped him a lot this year. Like Bruno, Ray has now started making his own canoes. In fact it was one of his own cedar strip creations which won the race. . . with a little help from the paddlers, of course!

Those of you worrying that there might not be a Fall Supper at St. Andrew's Church, following the demise earlier this year of the UCW, can put such notions aside.

There will indeed be a supper this year, on Nov. 5 as a matter of fact. More details will be available later.

Please take note that there will be no church service at St. Andrew's in Williamstown on Oct. 2. On that Sunday, members of the congregation are invited to St. Andrew's United in Martintown on the occasion of that church's anniversary. Rev. Clifford Evans will preach at the 11 a.m. service.

Williamstowners wishing to support the efforts of the Friends of St.Raphael's Ruins are invited to attend a fundraising dance this Saturday night, Sept. 24 at the Bonnie Glen.

United Church to mark 190th anniversary

Martintown
by Lillian Rouleau

St. Andrew's United Church will be a centre of activities, as the congregation is gearing up for the 190th anniversary of the building of the first church in Martintown.

On Saturday, Sept. 17, the ladies of the United Church hosted a delicious luncheon of chicken pot pie served with salads, complete with desserts of homemade gingerbreads and home pies. Following the luncheon, ladies were treated to fashions of yesteryears and today.

Local models looked exquisite, both in the fashions of the past and in the new fall line from Irene Hill. Musical accompaniment was provided by Penny Stokes. Everyone agreed they had a most enjoyable afternoon.

Sunday, Sept. 25 at 11 a.m. will be the Canadian Bible Society service, with Rev. Harry Vibe, from Montreal as guest speaker. A meeting of the bible society will follow.

On Saturday, Oct. 1st, and Sunday, Oct. 2, the community will celebrate the 190th anniversary of the building of the first church in Martintown.

In 1804, a wooden frame church was built on the River Road, a bit north of the present United Church, under the direction of Rev. James Reid, who was a licensed preacher and school teacher. This church was to serve the Protestants in the area. Rev. John Bethune had ministered to the people of the area prior to this, as he established churches in Williamstown, Lancaster and Cornwall.

In 1811, the frame church was sold to a newly-organized Presbyterian congregation. The present United Church building was rebuilt in 1910, after the previous dome church had been partially destroyed by fire in 1906.

Everyone is invited to come and help celebrate the building of the first church in Martintown. Our forefathers' loyalty and dedication to their faith has been a positive influence on our society throughout the years. Come celebrate this heritage with St. Andrew's United Church congregation!

On Saturday, Oct. 1, at 6:30 p.m., there will be a Congregational pot luck supper and social evening in the church hall. Each family is asked to bring either a salad or a dessert, and their own place settings. The main course of ham and scalloped potatoes will be provided.

On Sunday, Oct. 2, the anniversary church service will be at 11 a.m. with guest speaker, Rev. Clifford Evans. A special musical program with pipes and violins is planned. This will be followed by light refreshments and a social hour in the church basement. The refreshments will be pot luck sandwiches and squares.

Please mark your calendars for the UCW Fall Tea and Bazaar, "190th Anniversary Tartan Tea," Saturday, October 29, from 1 to 3 p.m. in the church hall. Note that the anniversary cookbooks will be available throughout these events, and to obtain a copy, contact any member of the UCW executive.

Forest fest at McKinnon Interpretative Centre

On Wednesday, Sept. 28, dignitaries, press and friends of McKinnon Forestry Interpretative Centre will gather for the official opening ceremony of the new conference building, as well as launching of year long programs.

On October 1, the centre will host "Forest Fest," a family fun-filled day, celebrating our Canadian heritage and the forest with games, food, entertainment and more.

On Oct. 16 and Nov. 6, there will be one-hour fun sessions dealing with nut bearing trees, nuts and wildlife entitled "Nuts to You!"

On Oct. 23, the centre will host "Wonderful World of Woodheat," from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Steve Derochie will present a brief overview on types of stoves, choosing type of wood, operation and maintenance of woodheat, providing the ins and outs of heating your home with wood.

The cost is $5 per person, and anyone interested, please pre-register as there is a limit to the group. For further information on workshops, family events or school/organization programs, please phone 938-4664.

RESO C-E

McCrimmon W.I. enjoys Child Haven slides

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

The members of McCrimmon WI met at the Lochiel Township hall on Sept. 15 for their regular monthly meeting, with Gretta MacDonald in the chair, replacing recovering President Margaret MacPherson.

Autumn's Glory was the opening poem read by Mrs. MacDonald. Bessie MacLennan took her place at the piano for the singing of the Ode.

The roll call was "Why does Canada attract people from other countries?" and there were some interesting responses.

One lady said that it was easy to gain entry in to Canada, others mentioned that the medicare program is very attractive to people everywhere. There is lots of land and space.

In some countries space is at a premium, with 10 and 12 people crowded into one room. People feel safe here from the threat of war. There is food here, and potable water (for the most part).

There is a pension plan for the elderly, help for destitute families and incoming people always comment on how clean Canadian cities are.

There are always slums and rundown areas of course, but for the most part the garbage is collected, streets are hosed down, washed and swept regularly.

It really is one of the best countries in which to live, no wonder people want to come and live in Canada, the land of plenty; as it must certainly seem so to outsiders.

Those who live in hovels, tents or in refugee camps. We know that all is not perfect in "paradise," but would we want to live anywhere else?

Betty McDonald continued with the reading of the minutes of the last meeting and the recent executive planning meeting.

The financial report, given by the treasurer Christine Urquhart included the most encouraging results of the quilt draw and the August concert. It seems that the branch will be well able to fulfill its financial projects again this year.

The correspondence included the mention of the upcoming conference at Greely on Tuesday, Oct. 18. Each branch is asked to donate a bazaar item of a $5 value for the bazaar table. Attendees are requested to bring a bag lunch.

A letter concerning the Donna Russet Fund was read and the branch agreed to send a donation to the fund, to go towards a gift for the retiring president.

The resolutions were read and all were discussed. Numbers one, two and three were accepted but number four needs to be simplified before it can be voted upon, however the membership did agree that it is well worthy of submission.

A newsletter from the Glengarry Memorial Hospital Auxiliary was read and several interesting items caught the group's attention.

At the Oct. 22 meeting the guest speaker will be Mr. Aubry of Alexandria who will speak on Living Wills, and the Power of Attorney, two very important topics.

But their first meeting of the season will be held on Sept. 28 with a pot luck supper at 6:30 p.m. and the meeting will follow the meal.

The branch members showed interest in the Upper Canada Village quilt show that will be taking place on Sept; 24 and 25. Several cars will go on the 24th in all probability.

The Adelaide Hoodless Rose registration papers were passed around and those members desiring to obtain a rose in the spring were asked to sign; many did sign. October 1st is the deadline for these orders.

Prizes were requested for next months' meeting to which the Dunvegan WI has been invited. Helen MacLeod gave a most interesting comment on the motto "Canada is like a patchwork quilt." Each block is different in such a quilt, as each person is different in Canada's quilt.

Many colors are represented, each giving its own special flavor to the overall pattern. Canada has many nations represented, in all their diversity, in her national "quilt," and each race has their own distinct personality and traditions.

What a wonderful blend we have, what a marvelous opportunity to get to know and understand our neighbors, who are of a different religion, a different race or a different color.

Peace among all of our people is the best way to achieve a colorful harmony in our national "quilt," well stitched together so as to be strong and complete.

We have much to learn from each other and we have the opportunity to discover the charm of another culture's music, stories and dances. Special crafts come with each new group. They have their own special recipes.

How wonderful to begin a meal with a Chinese soup perhaps, followed by a Greek salad, an Italian main course and some Swiss cheese with fruit for dessert; or Canadian food, or Jewish fare. You name it and much of it is here. It came over with our new Canadians and isn't it great?

We have much to offer but so have our new arrivals and we are free to share, without fear. No wonder people want to come to Canada.

Mrs. MacLeod introduced two speakers who were familiar to many of us, Bonnie and Fred Cappuccino. Fred showed slides of their homes in India and Nepal, there are four all together.

The children range from wee babes to teenagers. Some have left and gone on to college. The children were clean, cheerful and well fed.

He talked about their "soya cows" which were machines that produce milk from soya beans, and the children love it. He explained the process by which the milk is obtained (not a quick one either) every day.

The children help each other as brothers and sisters would, attend village schools and help at the homes. They are cared for by volunteers, who pay their own way over, and get no wages for the time they spend with the children.

You can see that the children are loved and give love in return by their eyes, their smiles and the way they cling to the workers.

It is sometimes hard to have a worker go home and there are sometimes tears on both sides. Some do return after a while and the children are beside themselves with joy when the familiar volunteer gets back to the home again.

At times children are returned to their own homes when the parents find that they can keep them all fed. If the father finds a paying job, he might come and reclaim his little ones.

Many times single mothers give up their children because there is no food, some large families are divided too, as there is just no way to feed everybody.

It is hard to hear about these situations, but they do exist. The Cappuccinos felt for these children and have tried to help.

In fact they have made a very great difference in the lives of many of the children who have come into the care of the homes. They have 20 chosen children of their own, and two natural children.

They are recognized worldwide for their selflessness in working to better the lives of orphaned children.

Both of them answered many, many questions for their listeners about the homes, about the living conditions in India, about diet and many facets of their organization.

The women were fascinated by the beautifully colored silk sari Mrs. Cappuccino wore; the intricate wrapping is a mystery to most Canadian women.

They were the most interesting speakers the group had heard and certainly they were the most unique. PRO Lorna Chapman thanked them both warmly at the end of their program and presented them with an envelope. They both enjoyed light refreshments before departing.

The business meeting resumed. The quilt committee for the area /95 quilt will be Sadie MacMillan and Betty McDonald.

The delegate to the convention on Oct. 18 will be Enid MacDougall and the alternate is Margaret MacPherson.

Gretta MacDonald donated an item for the convention bazaar table.

The meeting closed with the singing of O Canada, again accompanied by Bessie MacLennan.

The bazaar table was presided over by Sadie MacMillan and Doris Spencer and the variety of baking items was most impressive.

Happy birthday wishes go out to Bessie MacLennan for her recent special day. The family took her out to dinner for the occasion to the Hub to celebrate. The Glen Sandfield congregation sang her Happy Birthday last Sunday to her surprise and delight.

The CWC Club members met on Sept. 12 for their regular monthly meeting, with 95 women present. Linda Ferguson sang The Rose and Spread His Love Around the World.

After the group had visited the bazaar tables, the speaker Ethel Wright spoke of the Roses in her life (and the thorns as well).

She was delightful, with a bright smile, lively demeanor and ready wit. She told her story while placing a rose in a bouquet for each event, helped by Lise Martel.

The delicious dessert was much appreciated and had been made by Sybil Plummer.

The new slate of officers had been inducted and the names follow. Everyone wishes them success in their new positions.

Chairman -- Edith Clark, Project Advisor -- Lise Martel, Book Assistant -- Grace McAndrew, FBC Coordinator -- Sheila Paterson, Decorations Assistant -- prayer favors -- Verda Morrow, Hostess and Progress Chairman -- Margaret Berry, Assistant Hostess -- Carmen Castonguay, Name Tag Chairman -- Marion Deacon, Nursery Chairman -- Ruth Leishman, (and tablecloths).

Special Features Chairman -- Agnes Morrison, Telephone Chairman -- Jill Morrison, Telephone Assistants -- Flo Maitland, Nancy Campbell, Wanda Hay; Ticket Chairman -- Jane Chambers-Hebert; Ticket Assistant -- Isabel Smith; Treasurer -- Donna Clark; Treasurer Assistant -- Carol McVicar; Food Chairman -- Barbara McAlpine; Music -- Sharon Bouchard.

The next meeting will be a fashion show but will be held in the evening at 7:30. Adrienne Berard will be the humorous speaker and the music guest will be Ken Roach. Please note the change of day, Thursday, October 13 at 7:30 p.m. at Villa Mont Joie.

Fire department takes home trophies from banquet

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

The dedicated Maxville Fire Fighters were well rewarded last Saturday evening at the Mutual Aid banquet in Chesterville. Thirteen members and spouses attended and Ubald Cardinal, who is treasurer of the Mutual Aid Association was a head table guest.

Our contingent were thrilled to be awarded the Point Trophy as well as the Fire Prevention Trophy.

This week, on the 22nd and 23rd, the students of the kindergarten classes in both schools will be visiting the fire hall with Martial Brabant serving as host firefighter.

Enclosures have or will be going out with hydro bills to give information on the use and checking of fire alarms and to remind all householders that Fire Prevention Week is Oct. 9-15. Do give serious consideration to this literature and observe fire prevention practices all year long.

A very happy birthday and very best wishes are extended to a special lady of the village in the person of Isabel (Mrs. Harold) Cameron. On Sept. 23, Mrs. Cameron will celebrate her 95th birthday with family members, including son Roy from Edmonton. Mrs. Cameron is well and a most gracious lady when visited. Her memories reach way back to her childhood spent on her Dewar parents' farm west of Dominionville and when Dominionville was a busy commercial centre.

Our local barber, Yvon Leblanc was featured on a CBC program but unfortunately the scheduled showing time was cancelled and few viewers were able to see it. The TV crew was at the Manor where Mr. Leblanc services residents, went back to his Main Street shop and then back to his home place of business in Dunvegan. Several "locals" at the three locations were shown. The tape may be televised again and if not will be sent to the Manor and shown there.

Sister Phyllis Guindon, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Phil Guindon grew up here and then joined a religious order. After many years of nursing service in at least Toronto and Ottawa, Sister Phyllis has reached that age of retirement but is going on to a new career, that of Pastoral Care co-ordinator at the Mary Crest Home for the Aged in Peterborough.

On Sept. 9 there was a birthday and going away party for her at Mary Lascelle's home in Manotick when all the local sisters got together. From here they were Shirley Villeneuve, Martine McDonald-Hill and Sylvia Douglas. We wish Sister Phyllis a very rewarding retirement as she assumes her new duties and thank her on behalf of all her relatives and friends for fulfilling her religious duties.

Pat and Omer Derouchie from Picton have been visiting with his relatives here after an interesting tour of Western Ontario.

Congratulations and best wishes are extended to Ross Munro, son of Janice and Craig, and to Beth Dalimore on the occasion of their marriage last Saturday in St. James Church.

Dr. Royce MacGillivray, Waterloo University, was in the village last weekend to call on his aunt, Flora Anne MacGillivray at the Manor and other friends.

Dorothy Stewart was a native of Stewarts' Glen and died on Sept. 7 in Niagara Falls after spending over eight years at the Greater Niagara General Hospital. She was 94 years old and the last surviving member of family of 10. Two sisters-in-law by previous marriages live in the area. Vera Reid of Cornwall and Monkland was married to the late Roddie Stewart and Geraldine Atwood, Glen Garden Village Apts. to the late Alex Stewart.

The annual meeting of District One of the Ontario Horticulture Association was hosted by the Morrisburg and District Society last Saturday. Fifteen members of the local society were in attendance: President Eileen Colbourne, vice-president Bob and Shirley Humble, secretary Mabel Guindon, Isabel McDonald, Alexandria, Evelyn McColl, Verna MacGregor, Betty Cousineau, Shirley Villeneuve, Dorothea and Ross Conners, Ann Kerr, Fourneir and Lorna and Gordon Winter. Two of the speakers were Bonnie Warner, OHA secretary and Trevor Cole from the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Angus MacQueen died suddenly on Monday. Although he had been a Manor resident, his health appeared excellent but a fractured hip necessitated an operation on Saturday and his death occurred shortly afterwards. Sympathy is extended to his brothers Murray and Beverly and their families.

Donald Cumming is smiling these days with the birth of his first granddaughter after five grandsons. Son Wallace and his wife of Moose Creek are the parents and best wishes go to them.

Approximately 1,200 letters have been mailed out from the village office with a questionnaire and letter concerning non-profit housing. It is essential that all those who received the letters fill in the questionnaire and return them in the envelopes provided. If there is sufficient interest in this project, the application must go in by Oct. 14.

The park at the north end of the village has been maintained in excellent condition but the bush area beyond it has become very untidy and overgrown with weeds, trees and vines. To remedy the situation, the village will receive a grant of $11,300, part of which will be spent on the above mentioned area and the rest on organizing and updating the village archives.

Around 1938, five acres of land was purchased by the province from the late Wilfred McEwen to establish a reforestation area. In those days Main Street was named Marlborough Street and it did not extend northward as Main Street does now. When the new street was built through the reforestation area, the province handed the land over to the village. Now we have a well-situated park and a wooded area soon to be made more attractive.

Grant MacGillivray organized his 12th Scotch concert at the Manor last Wednesday, three days after his 88th birthday. Fiona Fraser, a vocalist from Dalkeith highlighted the program along with Clara MacLeod, Laggan and Sharon MacRae, piper. Much to the delight of their proud grandmother, resident Eileen Wheeler, Mary-Jo, Tara Lynn and Ann Marie Wheeler from St. Andrews West also entertained with their dances.

All residents who are able, were out to the Town Square for this concert and much appreciation is extended to Mr. MacGillivray for organizing and chairing this event. He has been doing it over a period of about 15 years and has become very well qualified for providing this popular form of entertainment for the residents.

The year book published by the Glengarry Historical Society has been distributed and the lead article is entitled Munroe's Mills by Marian MacRae of Toronto. Miss MacRae attended high school here, and her younger brother Ken has kept in touch with the village as well. Oldtimers will remember Miss MacRae's older brother, Carlyle who died while a young man.

Their mother, Hazel Carlyle MacRae grew up in Munroe's Mills and so the author of this informative article is well versed on this community of bygone years.

Retired from Toronto's Ontario College of Art, Miss MacRae has authored four books and assisted with Upper Canada Village projects. Her parents will be remembered as residents of Catherine Street and earlier, from 1935-40, John D. MacRae served as the member for Glengarry in a liberal government in Ottawa.

Joan O'Hara has received a letter of acknowledgement from the Ontario Veterinary College for the class of 1908 composite photo and a notebook she donated to the College. The enrolment of the public school stands at 338 students now and represents a significant increase. Readers may be interested in knowing that volunteers are being sought, a school advisory committee is being formed, monthly assemblies are held, Cheryl McCrory is in charge of the Scholastic Book Club, pizza days are held, Marie Campbell gives piano lessons at the school, Bob Nickerson directs a chess club, parents have a school calendar and meet the teacher night is Sept. 27.

This is the final announcement for the commencement of lessons provided by the Glengarry School of Piping and Drumming at the Public School this Saturday. Lessons for beginners begin at 9 a.m. Changes this year include more classes with few students who will be taught by a well qualified group of instructors.

Adults are cordially invited to come as beginners if they have an interest in either the pipes or drums.

When students become sufficiently proficient, they are invited to join one of the bands. This summer the Grades IV and II bands enjoyed a trip to Scotland and competed at the greatest piping and drumming event in the world in Glasgow. This was the fifth time the organization sponsored the trip.

So do come out on Saturday and if you are a beginner you will be warmly welcomed, especially if you remember that a chanter or drum sticks are required.

Your correspondent was one of 14 who enjoyed two hours of bowling at the St. Isidore lanes last Friday.Times have changed and a computer now keeps score and keeps the play organized. Ninety-two-year-old Duncan Bethune thoroughly enjoyed himself and there were no complaints or concerns expressed by the others until the next day when joints and muscles indicated that they had seen more use than they had for a long time and indicated as might be expected by a bit of rebellion.

Spares and regular players may still sign up by phoning the Manor at 527-2170 and touch toning extension 228 or 237.

The Diners Club this week is on Thursday at 12:30 with a speaker from the Canadian Hearing Society. You must reserve before today (Wednesday) at 3 p.m.

There will be a euchre party at the Manor on Sept. 28 at 1:30 p.m. and the exercise class meets at 11 a.m. each Tuesday. Also dancing lessons will be given if there is sufficient interest.

All of the above come under the Seniors' Outreach Services Program at the Manor.

A gray coyote has been reported crossing the fields just southeast of the village. This is not the first time the resident has seen one of these animals. Also deer and moose have been observed over the last year.

Does it seem quiet to you outside these evenings? I haven't heard one katydid this year and miss this distinctive sound. Even the crickets are quieter this year and to me, they seem slower at maturing. When I mow the lawn, there are lots of small ones but few mature ones who provide the mating calls.

The St. James Church Parish supper is this Sunday from 4-7:30 p.m. at the Maxville Sports Complex. A warm welcome will be extended to you by the new priest, Father Piche and members of the church and as usual, a delicious meal will be served.

If you reserve dates on your calendar, mark Oct. 15 for the annual United Church supper from 4:30-7:30 p.m. in the church hall.

VOLUNTEER OF THE WEEK

When I asked George McKiel if I could interview him for this column, he made a couple of conditions. One was that I should write a column on myself and the other that I should tell readers that I am a "Bluenoser"; that, for the uninitiated means that I was "born and bred" in Nova Scotia. So here goes.

Ruth Stanton

I grew up in rural Nova Scotia and then attended Acadia University to become a teacher. I taught for two years in Yukon and then traveled a bit, going to England via the Orient and the Middle East. I met my husband, Trevor, when I returned to Canada and was teaching in Montreal. Gabrielle, our elder daughter, was born in Germany where Trevor was stationed with the RCAF. Monique, our second daughter, was born in Peterboro, where Trevor worked as a radio announcer and I worked part time as a free lance journalist and a supply teacher.

We lived in Ottawa for a time and then moved to Montreal where Trevor worked for Canadair and I returned to university to obtain my Master of Education degree. In 1984, I began teaching a writing course at McGill and am still doing that. With both daughters away at University, we decided to move out of the city to the country and engaged Eddie Oetelaar to build us a house in Kenyon Township, opposite George and Jean McKiel. When George told me about this column, I volunteered to write it. In a nutshell, that's it.

A Festival of soccer

Becky Howes of the Brodie Bombers (above) kicks a ball past the Kingston goalkeeper to score a goal during a Soccerfest preliminary round game on Saturday. The Bombers were undefeated in three round-robin games but lost in a semifinal shootout. Meanwhile, Innes Fraser (left) and his Char-Lan United teammates won six games in a row to claim the men's division championship. The win at Soccerfest was Char-Lan's first since 1984. See page 16 for full story.

Char-Lan, Morrisburg split pre-season openers

In the absence of big guns Denis St.Jean, Marc Bellemare and Pete St.Jean, there were serious question marks about offence in the Char-Lan Rebels' line-up.

Back in Williamstown to try and answer some of those questions is left-winger Lyle Sproul.

Sproul - who scored 17 goals for the Rebels two years ago - had a goal and two assists on Saturday to lead the Rebels to a 6-2 win over the visiting Morrisburg Lions in Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League exhibition action.

Pierre Rozon, Melvin Pyke, Robert Curran, Derek Durocher and Dan Carriere also scored for the Rebels while Shawn Paitras and Alain Quenneville replied for the Lions.

The win gave Char-Lan a split in the two-game weekend exhibition series against Morrisburg, as the Lions won 7-2 on home ice Friday night.

Tim Casselman paced the Leos with two goals while Francis Briere, Shawn Hummell, Mike McAllister, Dave Waddell and John Saunders each scored once.

Brent Lauzon and Paul Rozon connected for Char-Lan.

The Rebels capped off the weekend by withstanding their annual beating in the Grad Game.

The ex-Rebels pounded the current edition of the club 23-6 on Sunday afternoon in Williamstown.

Busy week off-ice too

As if three games in a span of 48 hours wasn't enough, the Rebels were kept busy with a flurry of off-ice developments.

Start with the return of Sproul, who is back with the Rebels after being out of junior hockey for a year.

While the 17 goals Sproul scored during the 1992-93 campaign don't sound like a lot, it's worth mentioning that the Cornwall native started the season by potting 11 goals in his first 14 games.

Sproul's production and premium ice-time disappeared when Marc Bellemare, Denis St.Jean and Cory Maxam blossomed into one of the most productive units in EOJBHL history while Greg Wylie, John Edgerton and Terry O'Farrell developed into a strong two-way unit.

Also reporting last week was rugged defenceman Dan Carriere.

With Daniel Methot's decision to not report and Chris Petry's AWOL status, Carriere and Paul Rozon were the only incumbent defencemen in camp.

Methot said last week he wants out of Williamstown and has requested his release.

The Rebels have declined to cut the St-Zotique resident, but manager Randy Larocque says he's willing to listen to trade offers.

The Alexandria Glens might be interested and Methot has made no secret of his desire to play in the Hub.

Meanwhile, the Rebels had not yet heard from four-year veteran Petry as of Monday.

A serious candidate for one of the Rebels' two overage spots heading into training camp, Petry now risks losing his position to one of the 21-year-olds that will soon be available when the other St.Lawrence Division teams sign their overage players.

Of particular interest is the situation in Morrisburg, where the Lions appear ready to sign centreman Mike McAllister and defenceman Tim Casselman. That would leave blueliners Jonathan Hunter and Ken MacLeod available to other clubs.

Rebels to sign a dozen

The Rebels were scheduled to sign 12 players yesterday, including overage pivot Rob Curran and veterans Ian Laplante, Terry O'Farrell, Dan Carriere, Paul Rozon and D.J. Zaluski.

Lyle Sproul was also to be carded, along with rookies Dan Bero, Melvin Pyke, David Campbell, Brent Lauzon and Tim Corput.

Char-Lan management has about eight more cuts to make, and D-Day for several players on the bubble could come this Saturday when the Rebels will host a tournament.

The Rebels will be in a pool with cross-divisional rivals South Grenville and Athens.

Alexandria, Morrisburg and Kemptville will be in the other pool.

Each pool will have a round-robin, with the top team in each group meeting in the championship game at 7:30 p.m.

All games will be played at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre in Williamstown.

Pierre Julien (black jersey) makes a diving attempt to get the puck away from Derek Hall during Friday's scrimmage at the Alexandria Glens' training camp. The Glens still have 33 players on the roster heading into tonight's training session.

M and D bats pound Tapis as wild men's final continues

Take me out to the ball game. Take me out to the rout...

As far as finals go, they don't get much stranger than this.

M and D Sports has a 2-1 series lead in the best-of-five Alexandria Men's Softball League final after pounding Tapis Richard Ranger Carpet 21-5 on Monday night.

Game Three was the third consecutive rout in the series.

M and D opened the series with a 19-7 victory in Game One while Tapis evened the series with a 24-10 win last Thursday.

Humenick slams Tapis

Bob Humenick slammed a pair of home runs, including a second-inning grand slam, to lead M and D to victory on Monday.

Humenick added a two-run shot in the sixth inning and finished the night with seven RBIs and three runs scored.

Robert Quesnel homered and had five RBIs while Patrick Menard and Marc-Andre Prieur each scored four times.

Michel Cuerrier and Kevin Rooney each had two runs batted in.

Yves Thibault had two RBIs for Tapis while Eric Hurtubise hit a solo homer.

M and D pitcher Andre Larocque scattered 10 hits over seven innings to pick up the win.

M and D buried Tapis early, scoring four times in the first inning, five times in the second and six times in the third.

Eight of M and D's 20 hits went for extra bases.

Tapis on a roll in Game Two

If the Tapis bats were relatively quiet in Game Three, they were thunderously loud in Game Two last Thursday.

Tapis hitters pounded out 23 hits in crushing M and D 24-10.

This game was actually close in the late going as Tapis led only 12-10 going into the seventh inning.

A 12-run explosion by Tapis in the top of the seventh inning put the game out of reach.

Tapis' offensive arsenal included a pair of home runs by Charlie Giroux and one longball off the bat of Patrick Paiement.

Remi Cardinal - who hit a pair of triples - led Tapis in the RBI department with five, followed by Robert Lobb with four and Charlie Giroux and Andre Lauzon with three apiece.

Bob Humenick had a home run and two RBIs for M and D while Marc-Andre Prieur scored three and drove in three.

The Kings of Hearts

Glen Nevis won the Glengarry Soccer League Hearts old-timers' division championship last Thursday by edging Glengarry 1-0 in the final. Luc Poirier scored with approximately five minutes left in the game to give Glen Nevis its first-ever playoff championship in the three-year-old loop. Team members are (front row, left to right) Lothar Schareina, Peter McLeod, Mike Cooney, Carter MacDonald, Randy McDonell, Barry MacDonald, Richard Glaude, (back row) Luc Poirier, Rob Lancaster, Mark Franklin, Brian Libbos, Andy Hughes, Kennedy MacDonald, David McKay, Ewen McLeod, Mallory Franklin, Jim McDonell, Donnie McRae and Cameron McLeod. Absent were Andre Cholet, David McDonell and Steve MacDonald.

Crowded crease a pleasant problem for Junior B Glens

Junior B hockey can be a funny game.

Throughout most of the 1993-94 season, the Alexandria Glens management was unhappy with the work of the team's goaltenders.

On more than one occasion last winter, coach Robert Boisvenue discussed the possibility of bringing in another goalie to challenge incumbents Paul Seguin and Jean-Francois Boyer.

Due primarily to the shortage of quality puckblockers, the mid-season goaltending audition never materialized. The Glens ultimately finished the season as first-round playoff casualties as four Alexandria netminders gave up 58 goals in six post-season games.

After three training camp sessions this year, it appears that goaltending will again be a problem for the Glens, but a positive one this time.

With Boyer and Seguin out of the picture, the door was wide open for anyone to come in to camp and grab the job.

Pascal Gasse - the Alexandria midget netminder who played several games as an affiliate last season - and four newcomers - Andrew Allen of the Vankleek Hill Jr. C's, Pascal Lalande of Hawkesbury, Kevin Lemire of Valleyfield, and Jean Voltalina of Cornwall - are trying to do just that.

Together, the quintet represent the net survivors of the Glens' first weekend of scrimmaging.

"They're all having good camps," said Boisvenue. "Even some of the goalies that we've already cut had good camps."

Goaltenders released by the Glens after the weekend included Julien Oetelaar, Jessika Audet and Ryan Derry. Oetelaar - an Alexandria native - could get a look at the camp of the Char-Lan Rebels this week.

Boisvenue plans to make one more cut after tonight's training session and give the remaining four goalies half a game of work at this Saturday's tournament at Char-Lan.

Glens loaded with youth

Boisvenue also has plenty of decisions to make in trying to cut down to 18 skaters, especially in the forward ranks where the Glens still have 20 players vying for 12 jobs..

Returning veterans still in camp are Carl Bougie, Adam Nicholson and Richard Hutt. Alexandria midget product Darcy MacDonell, who appeared as an affiliate the past two years, also remains on the training camp roster.

Chancy Lajoie, Scott Nielson and Karl Hehn are the local midget-aged forwards still in the fold.

Meanwhile, the team has released overage candidate Norm Decoste, leaving Bougie as the only 21-year-old in camp.

On defence, the Glens are currently carrying eight players, including four - Jason Murree, Nygel Pelletier, Alain Decoste and Michel Jeaurond - with previous junior B experience.

Marc Menard, Eric A. Fournier, Tim Graham and Hamish Cunning are the other blue-line candidates.

Patrick Cadieux, who is attending school in Ottawa this year, was expected in camp but travel problems have prevented him from reporting.

Coach pleased with youngsters

A lot can happen between now and the start of the regular season on Sept. 30, but it's already obvious that the 1994-95 Glens will be vastly different from the squad that wore the red and black last winter.

Of the 20 players on Alexandria cards at the end of last year, only four are still on the Glens' pre-season roster.

Despite the lack of experience, Boisvenue is pleased with the early camp results.

"There's a lot of talent here. I just can't wait to see some of these guys in a real game," he said.

"I've really been impressed by a lot of players, especially when you consider how young they are."

A dream season

Quest for Soccerfest title caps great year for Char-Lan United men's team

Char-Lan United won the men's title at the Char-Lan Umbro Soccerfest tournament in Williamstown on Sunday by defeating Cornwall City I 2-0 in the championship game.

In addition to becoming the first local men's champion since the Glengarry Stars won Soccerfest in 1989, Char-Lan also puts an exclamation point on an incredible season of soccer.

Char-Lan won a second consecutive Cornwall and District Soccer League championship last month with a final series victory over - coincidentally - Cornwall City I. The Char-Lan men also won the regular-season championship in the CDSL as well as the league's Knockout Cup tournament.

Throw in the Cornwall indoor league championship won last spring by Rudi Payer Sport - a team made up largely Char-Lan United players - and you have yourself a True Blue banner season.

Undefeated and unscored upon

Char-Lan was absolutely dominant on the weekend in winning its first Soccerfest championship in 10 years.

The hosts won six consecutive games while outscoring their opponents 20-0.

The Burke brothers were very much in evidence as Randy notched six consecutive shutout wins while Pat notched both goals in a semifinal win over Pointe-Claire and was named the tournament's most valuable player.

Pat Clarke and Phil Poitras scored for Char-Lan in the championship game.

Belleville spoils locals' party

A club from Belleville left several local teams in its wake while winning the women's championship on Sunday.

In addition to beating Char-Lan 1-0 in the final, Belleville eliminated the Brodie Bombers in a semifinal that was determined by a shootout and was one of the teams responsible for the Heart of Glengarry missing the playoff round.

To add insult to injury, three of Belleville's players - Christie Howes, Brenda MacMaster and Josie MacLennan - are Glengarrians.

On the local front, it was a strong tournament for all three women's teams, despite the lack of success against Belleville.

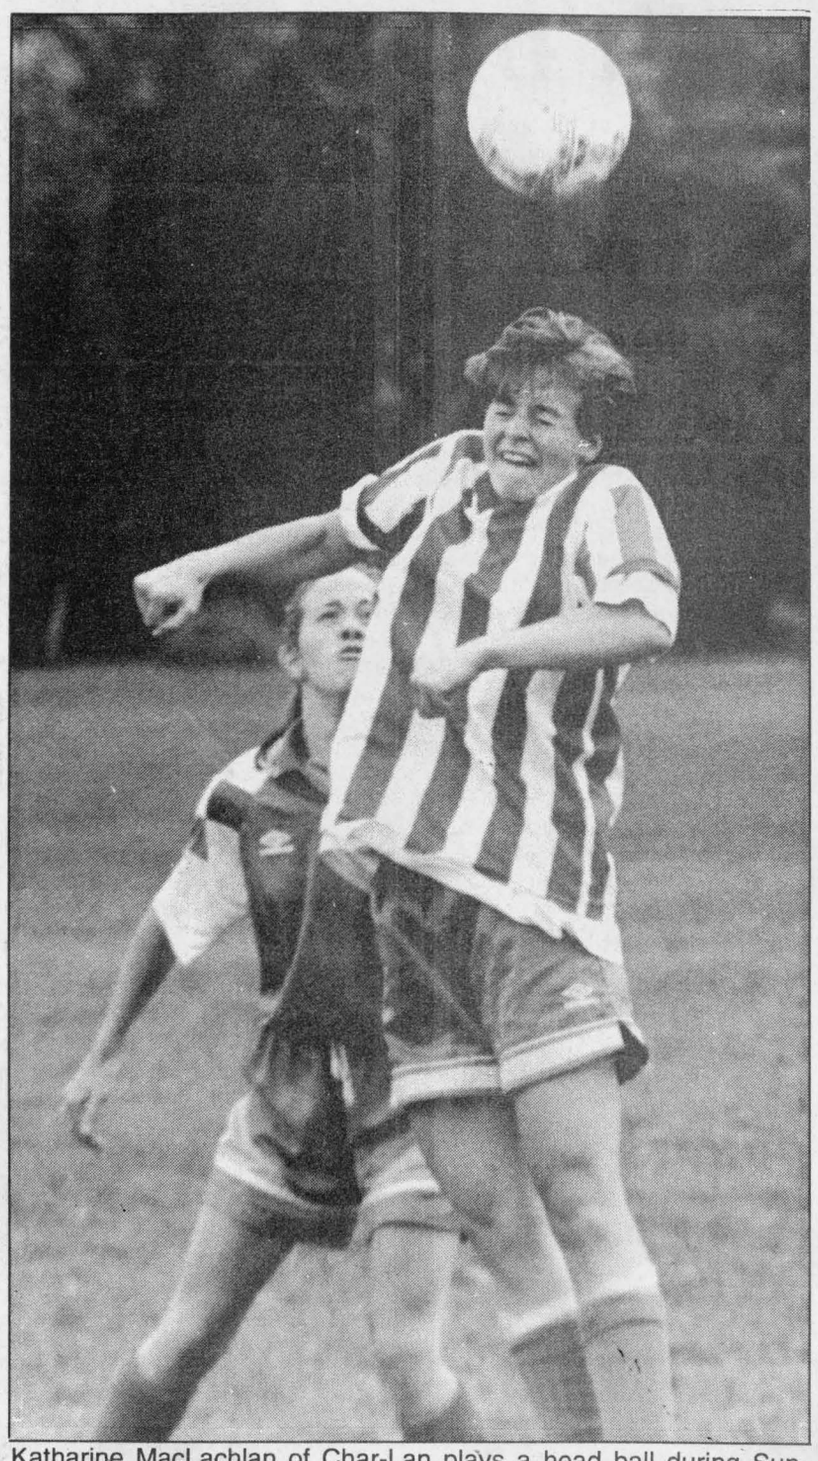
Char-Lan and the Bombers finished tied for first place in Pool "A" with a 2-0-1 record.

The defending tournament champion Hearts were undefeated in three Pool "B" games with a win and two ties, but failed to qualify for the semifinals because they finished third in their grouping behind Belleville and the Ottawa Royals. Both Belleville and Ottawa were 2-0-1.

In the men's division, the Glengarry Stars bowed out in the quarterfinal round, losing a 1-0 heartbreaker to Pointe-Claire.

The Stars had been undefeated with a 2-0-1 record in the preliminary round.

The Char-Lan U2's and Rudi Payer Sport were both 0-3 in the tournament.



Katharine MacLachlan of Char-Lan plays a head ball during Sunday's women's division final. Char-Lan lost 1-0 to Belleville.

Ranger, Bougie paddle way to first at Adirondack race

Yvon Ranger of Alexandria and Raymond Bougie of Williamstown teamed up to finish first in the men's C2 open recreation class at the three-day Adirondack Classic canoe competition on Sept 8-10.

The event marked a successful debut for Bougie, who was competing in his first-ever long-distance race.

Earlier this month, Ranger wrapped up the Maurice Sauve Nor-Am Trophy in the men's solo 40-49 year-old class.

The trophy goes to the canoeist who turns in the best combined result at the 100-mile Classique Internationale de Canots, held in early September in Shawinigan, and the 70-mile Cooperstown race, held in eastern New York State this past May.

Ranger won the same award in the 30-39 age class two years ago.

Former Charlottenburgh Township resident Corey Van Loon and partner Michel Beauchesne finished seventh over the 125-mile course in the Classique Internationale doubles.

The father-daughter duo of Maurice and Denise Sauve also competed in and completed the race.

United they stand

Extra-inning magic works again for Roy's

Thanks to a second consecutive display of extra-inning heroics, Roy's Pontiac-Buick Cadillac was in a position to win the 1994 Alexandria Women's Softball League championship last night.

Roy's defeated BMR-Menard Lumber 11-10 in Game Two of the best-of-five championship final last Wednesday night at Alexandria Island Park to take a 2-0 series lead.

As was the case in Game One, Roy's needed an extra inning to dispose of BMR.

Glenys Bartlett came in to score the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning after the BMR defence booted Janice MacLennan's sacrifice attempt.

Roy's got most of the remainder of its offence in the fourth inning, pushing across seven runs to turn a 8-3 deficit into a 10-8 lead.

BMR forced extra innings by scoring two runs in the top of the fifth frame.

Janice MacLennan had two runs batted in for Roy's while Glenys Bartlett, Connie Smith, Diane Riley, Jackie Prieur and Peggy Lafave had single RBIs.

Bartlett, Riley and Prieur each scored a pair of runs.

Chantal Legault, Sylvette Decoste and Gino Lalonde each knocked in two runs for BMR. Elaine Oetelaar, Linda Lanthier, Chris Leclair and Melissa Malette also had RBIs.

Roadhouse is "B" champs

The consolation final came to an end last Wednesday as Champions Roadhouse defeated M and D Sports 21-9.

Champions wins the best-of-three series in two straight.

Christina Janaska knocked in five runs for the new "B" champions while Bonnie Loney and Sandra Cadieux each had three runs batted in.

Manon Carriere and Francine Fitzsimmons chipped in with two RBIS apiece.

Therese Marion and Linda Van den Oetelaar each drove in two runs for M and D.

One four the Road...house

Women's twilight league holds banquet

Masson Insurance was officially recognized as the 1994 champion of the Glengarry Golf and Country Club's women's twilight league at the year-end banquet last Tuesday.

The members of the winning team were captain Phoebe Hay, Barbara Boulanger, Germaine Lalonde, Monique Gallant, Joan Burwash, Millie Harvey, Huguette Ranger, Carol MacIntyre and Ruth MacMillan.

Roy's Pontiac-Buick-Cadillac, which was captained by Marie-Laure Noseworthy, and Caisse Populaire, led by captain Elianne Benoit, finished tied for second place.

Individual trophies for the 1994 women's golfing season went to Joan Burwash (Mary MacNulty Trophy), Stephanie Chopp and Nicole Viau (co-winners of the Laurette Vachon Trophy) and Lorraine Lanthier (CLGA Pin Round and the Handicap Trophy).

The Ringer Board winners were Julie Rouette Hope, Nicole Tourangeau, Irene Corbiere, Barbara Boulanger, Jenny Burns, Lorraine Lanthier, Elianne Benoit, Marion MacGillivray and Marilyn Lasalle.

Char-Lan seniors drop high school soccer opener

The Char-Lan senior boys' soccer team dropped a 3-2 decision to the St.Joseph's Panthers as the 1994 Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry high school season got under way in Williamstown on Monday afternoon.

The Crusaders twice rallied from one-goal deficits to tie the game, but St.Joe's went ahead for good with about 15 minutes left in the second half.

Garry Benson and Jeff Proctor scored for Char-Lan.

Juniors earn split

The junior Crusaders had a win and a loss on Monday to kick off their season.

Char-Lan edged St.Joseph's 1-0 as Kevin O'Farrell scored the only goal and Kent McDonell recorded the shutout.

The Crusaders dropped a 2-1 decision to the Cornwall Collegiate Raiders in their other game on Monday. Derek Abrams scored for Char-Lan.

In the other junior contest played on Monday, the Raiders blanked St.Joseph's 1-0.

Soccer notes: The Glengarry Gaels kick off their season schedule at home today as La Citadelle and General Vanier provide the opposition.

Next Monday, the Gaels will host the Crusaders in a renewal of the Battle of Glengarry County. North Dundas will also be in Alexandria on that day.

Jiu Jitsu instructor Norm Beauchamp.

Dunvegan Rec association offering course in jiu-jitsu

It builds confidence, boosts self-esteem and provides practical self-defence techniques...and it has arrived in Dunvegan.

Jiu Jitsu, the ancient martial art which deals with close-quarter confrontations, is being offered by the Therrien Jiu Jitsu Dunvegan to men, women and children.

Starting at the white-belt level which emphasizes respect, self-confidence and co-ordination and moving up to the physical training and self-defence, the course is headed by Norm Beauchamp of Chesterville.

Beauchamp, who was just awarded a fifth degree Dan, is in his third teaching session in Dunvegan. Bitten by the martial arts bug 22 years ago, Beauchamp has taught Jiu Jitsu throughout much of North America and Europe and he has headed the Canadian Jiu Jitsu team for the past five years.

"The course provides a good release," says Beauchamp. "All of the aggressions are used out on the mat. The students are taught right from the start that this is not something you can use on the street unless it's for self-defence purposes."

The weekly classes started on Sept. 10 and run until April. Cost is $25 per month, based on a three-month course. For more information, call Michelle Hartrick at 527-3475 or Beauchamp at 448-1233.

Births

VEGTER -- Conrad and Brenda (nee MacMillan) of Picture Butte, Alberta, are proud to announce the arrival of their beautiful daughter, Kamile Ayrn, born Tuesday, July 26, 1994 weighing 8 lbs. Proud grandparents are Gordon and Grace MacMillan of Alexandria and Tony and Florence Vegter of Turin, Alberta.

O'NEILL -- Sandra (nee Campbell) and Terry are thrilled to announce the arrival of their daughter, Shannon Patricia, on Friday, September 9, 1994 at the Lennox and Addington Hospital in Napanee. Shannon weighed 9 lbs. 10 ozs. A little sister for Patrick. A new granddaughter for James and Jean Campbell of Maxville and Barbara O'Neill of Erinsville.

CLARK-GREENE -- Donna and Wayne are pleased to announce the arrival of a son, Chad Allen, Sunday, Sept. 11, 1994, weighing 6 lbs. 6 ozs, at hospital in Grande Prairie, Alberta. Proud grandparents are Leslie Clark and the late Jean Clark of Dunvegan and Mr. and Mrs. Greene of Kingston.

Cards Of Thanks

MR. and Mrs. Alex Cardinal would like to thank all the people who helped us during our very sad time in the accidental death of Marlene Sauve, our beautiful granddaughter we love and miss so much. And a special thanks to Judy Poulin and Allan Poulin who helped me so much. I sure appreciate that. Thanks to all.
-- Cassie and Alex Cardinal (grandparents). 38-n/c

LAVIGNE -- We wish to express our sincere thanks to relatives, friends and neighbors for many acts of kindness and sympathy, mass offerings and floral arrangements at the time of our recent bereavement in the loss of a beloved wife, mother, grandmother and great grandmother, Della Lavigne. Special thanks to Glengarry Memorial Hospital, VON nurses, Munro Funeral Home Dr. Varma and Father Cameron, and Father Luc Bouchard.
-- Arthur Lavigne and family. 38-1p

SEGUIN -- We the family of the late Aldege Seguin wish to thank the people who were so kind and understanding to us during the three months of his illness and at the time of his death, wake and funeral. To our wonderful family, neighbors and friends for the food sent to the house for the words of encouragement and for letting us know they were standing by if needed. To a very special friend Pat Carpenter for coming in to set things up while we were at the funeral and for always being there when needed, to her daughter Stephanie for all her help in so many areas; to Al's brothers and sisters and their families for their help and understanding; to Ron Munro and staff at Munro and Morris Funeral Home for so expertly and caringly guiding us through this time; to Pere Luc Bouchard at Sacre Coeur who was so kind and understanding. To the K of C council 1919 for their honor guard and prayer ceremony; to J. P. Touchette for his most inspiring renditions of such appropriate music at the mass and to Debbie Decoeur for the wonderful organ music. For all of the prayers and novenas on his behalf, for the masses, spiritual bouquets, enrolments, generous donations to the Canadian Cancer Society, flowers and messages of sympathy. To the VON whose many home visits made it possible for him to be home throughout most of his illness; to Home Care who did such an excellent job of co-ordinating all of the services needed. To the Canadian Red Cross Society (Homemaker service) staff, at the Cornwall office for their support and understanding. To the doctors and nurses at Hotel Dieu, Cornwall, Ottawa Civic and Glengarry Memorial, especially to our family doctor, Dr. Ajay Varma, for his care and compassion for Aldege and his support and understanding for the family. For all of these gestures we are profoundly grateful. All of your support will long be remembered.
-- Sincerely, Mary Seguin and family; the courage and quiet dignity with which he faced his final illness will inspire us forever.

ARCHIE and Mary O'Connor wish to thank everyone who made the 45th wedding anniversary a memorable occasion. Many thanks to those who travelled from a distance, for gifts, cards, food and good wishes. A special thank you to the family for organizing this event.

Cards Of Thanks

WE would like to sincerely thank all of our family members, friends and the whole community of North Lancaster for their donations, the help they have given us and also their many acts of kindness they have shown us during the recent loss of our home by fire. A very special thank you to Ermile and Florence for organizing a benefit dance in our honor. These wonderful and charitable acts of kindness shall never be forgotten. God bless.
--The Legroulx family, North Lancaster.

MacDONELL -- I would like to thank all my friends and relatives for their thoughtfulness to me, while I was a patient at the Ottawa Civic hospital. Your prayers, spiritual bouquets, get-well cards and many visits were appreciated. Thank you the the K of C Council No. 11123 for the generous basket of fruit, also St. Mary's Parish for the plant arrangement.
-- Archibald MacDonell.,
Willimstown,

In Memoriam

OUIMET -- In loving memory of Marcel who passed away September 26, 1992.
Often I stand by your grave
A silent tear and in pain
I ask God why
He whispers, he's not dead
He's only sleeping.
Oh how I miss you Marcel
Some day when God calls me
I know you will be there
To guide me with your smile
My love for you will never die
-- Always remembered and loved by Della.

VINCENT, GEORGE -- In loving memory of a dear father who passed away on Sept. 24, 1985.
Dear Dad: We never shall forget you,
Sweet memories cling around your name,
True hearts that in life always loved you
Will love you in death just the same.
-- Sadly missed by John and Nicole.

GOLDEN, Charlie and wife Gretta -- In loving memory of a dear brother and sister-in-law who passed away, Sept. 25/64 and Sept. 21/64.
Thirty years have passed away
Like falling leaves the years slip by
But loving memories never die.
-- Always in our hearts, sisters Shirley, Elizabeth, Corinne and families. 38-1p

CAMPBELL, Ruth -- In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother who passed away Sept. 26, 1988.
A mother's memory is more than gold
And a mother's worth can never be told,
A loving mother, good and kind,
A beautiful memory left behind.
-- Sadly missed and always remembered by Dawn, Bob, Casey, and Kieran Godfrey. 38-1p

DEREPENTIGNY -- In loving memory of my dear husband, Rolland, father, grandfather, who passed away Sept. 20, 1994.
One year has passed since that sad day,
When God came and took you away.
-- Always loved and remembered by wife Leota, children and grandchildren. 38-1p

DEREPENTIGNY -- In loving memory of a dear son, brother and uncle, Guy, who passed away Oct. 6, 1977.
No one knows the sorrow I share when the family meets and you're not there.
-- Sadly missed by Mom and family.

LALONDE, THERESE - In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother who was called from this life, Sept. 18, 1993,
Remembering you is easy
We do it every day
Missing you is a heartache
That never goes away
You had a smile for everyone
You had a heart of gold
You left the sweetest memories
This world could ever hold
To us you were someone special
What more is there to say
Except to wish with all our hearts
That you were here today.
Sadly missed by husband George, Georgette and Arthur Willard (Lee and Chris) 38-1p

NOTICE OF THE PASSING OF A ZONING BYLAW

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Town of Alexandria passed bylaw No. Z-38-94 on the 13th day of September, 1994 under Section 34 of the Planning Act.
AND TAKE NOTICE that any person or agency may appeal to the Ontario Municipal board in respect of the bylaw by filing with the Clerk of the Corporation of the Town of Alexandria not later than the 10th day of October, 1994, a notice of appeal setting out the objections to the bylaw and the reasons in support of the objections.
THE PURPOSE of this bylaw is to amend comprehensive bylaw No. 2046 by rezoning the lands described as being part of Lot 5, Plan 33, in the Town of Alexandria, county of Glengarry, from "Highway Commercial C2" to "Highway Commercial - special Exception C21". This amendment will permit the currently developed property (automobile service station) to include the establishment of a convenience store as a permitted use within the Highway commercial use.
The key map showing the location of the lands to which the bylaw applies, is attached. The complete bylaw is available for inspection in the Town Office during regular office hours.
DATED at the Town of Alexandria this 21st day of September, 1994.
Subject property being part of lot 5, plan 323, Alexandria.

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Town of Alexandria passed bylaw No. Z-37-94 on the 13th day of September, 1994 under Section 34 of the Planning Act.
AND TAKE NOTICE that any person or agency may appeal to the Ontario Municipal board in respect of the bylaw by filing with the Clerk of the Corporation of the Town of Alexandria not later than the 10th day of October, 1994, a notice of appeal setting out the objections to the bylaw and the reasons in support of the objections.
THE PURPOSE of this bylaw is to amend comprehensive bylaw No. 2046 by rezoning the lands described as being part of Lots 85, 86 and 87, Plan 2 (293-299 Chisholm Street), in the Town of Alexandria, County of Glengarry, from "Residential First Density-Special Exception R1" to "Residential First Density - Special Exception R1-2". This amendment will permit the currently developed property (2 single residential homes on same property) to be severed into two separate titles, permitting less than required lot frontage, front and side yard setbacks. The key map showing the location of the lands to which the bylaw applies, is attached. The complete bylaw is available for inspection in the Town Office during regular office hours.
DATED at the town of Alexandria this 21st day of September, 1994.
Subject property being part of lot 85, 86 and 87, plan 2, Alexandria.

Service groups in the Lancaster area have now been given copies of a commemorative project from the National Capital Commission entitled "The Tulip Tribute: Shore to Shore." Simply explained, for every tulip bulb planted. between Sept. 29 and Oct. 2 by any group or individual, the NCC will also plant one in Ottawa.

This is to commemorate the world wars and the persons, not only service personnel, who served at home during that time. They could be farmers, factory workers, bandage rollers or sock knitters -- all are to be recognized and for every participant joining, a certificate will be sent to them by the government. For more information, please call Janice Montreuil at 347-2420.

Best wishes are sent to Pam and Dave Bristow of Lancaster on the opening of their new business, P & D Pastimes. They carry all kinds of games, dart supplies and candy.

It's that time again! Put away the golf clubs and get out the brooms. The Lancaster and District Curling Club begins its 1994-95 season with a wine and cheese party on Saturday, Oct. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

All are most welcome. The cost is $7.50 per person so come and enjoy the festivities. The group is looking forward to meeting new members so if you are interested in joining, please call Shirley Picard at 931-2776.

They will be holding a Curling Clinic and Registration day on Sunday, Oct. 18 from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Anyone wishing to learn the game or simply "brush-up" on their skills is welcome.

An open house and curling clinic will also be held during the week of Oct. 17 to 21 at 7:30 each evening at a minimal cost of $5 per person. Again, anyone interested in the game or members who want to learn to play like the pros are welcome.

The opening bonspiel will be held the week of Oct. 25 to 29. There is no charge to curl in this event and prospective members are welcome to join in this fun bonspiel.

A steak barbecue on the night of Oct. 29 will be held at a cost of $10 per person and all are welcome also. Moving into November, the annual Businessmen's Bonspiel will be held on Friday, Nov. 4 and Saturday, Nov. 5 with a chicken barbecue on Saturday night.

All businesses in the are are urged to get their teams together soon and contact Ray at 931-2776. This is one of the club's most successful events and fills up quickly, so don't hesitate.

Anyone having club news they wish to have published is asked to call Cathy Fougere at 525-1368.

Finally, the club bids a fond farewell to Hugh and Audrey Blair who are leaving the area for the wildlife in Pembroke. Take care and don't forget your many friends in Lancaster. Hugh will be missed at the curling club.

Mercedes Houle, a former resident of Lancaster village, was one of the several people remembered in the Palliative Care Memorial Service held in the chapel of the Cornwall General Hospital last Wednesday morning.

This quarterly Memorial Service is conducted by hospital chaplain Rev. Peter Praamsma and Barbara-Ann Zummach, RN and gives an opportunity for caregivers and family members to meet again, sometimes cry again, but always to share with each other the pain of losing a dear one by death.

A light lunch served by PC volunteers gives a further opportunity for conversation.

Mrs. Susan MacDonald, RN, Palliative Care Program Co-ordinator with the Victorian Order of Nurses, was the guest speaker at the afternoon meeting of volunteers.

She outlined the plans which are now being formulated to have Palliative Care extend into the community where trained volunteers, in collaboration with medical and social teams already in existence, will work with patient and family in the home environment.

These community services are planned for Cornwall as well as Stormont and Glengarry Counties -- Dundas already having such a service in action.

Any man or woman who may be interested in learning more about the work of a Palliative Care volunteer or the proposed community services, are invited to call either of the aforementioned organizations.

Or, perhaps you would feel more comfortable in talking to a local person . . . Faith Burgess, Inge Baxter,Dona Girling, Elsa Hore.

An open house was held at Lancaster Public School on Thursday evening, Sept. 15 and Huntly McDonell, principal, introduced the staff to all present.

Staff members remain the same except for the arrival of Mrs. Judy Wereley, a teacher assistant, who replaces Mrs. Helen Blanchard, and Mrs. Nancy Cumming who will replace Mrs. Sandilands each Wednesday.

Parents and friends enjoyed coffee and a visit to their child's classroom.

School enrolment has grown to reach 215 students and Mr. McDonell encouraged everyone to come and see the new playground equipment now in place for these students.

On Sept. 21, students will travel to Laggan (Sr. team) and Williamstown (Jr. team) for soccer tournaments.

Swimming will once again be offered to the students at the Transport Canada Training Institute on the following dates: Oct 4, Gr. 4, 5, 6 p.m.; Jan. 18, Gr. 4, 5, 6 p.m., Oct. 3, Gr. 7, 8 p.m., Feb. 7, Gr. 7, 8 p.m., Nov. 1, Gr. 1, 2, 3 p.m. and Nov. 18, Gr. 1, 2, 3 a.m.

Caring for Life

By Dr. George McKiel

VON CANADA

Home Poisons & Medications

Of all home accidents in Glengarry, almost 20% involve poisoning. So it makes good sense and shows responsibility to yourself and those in your home, to take time to do an inventory of potential hazards and then try to reduce the risks. Let's begin with the medicine cabinet in the bathroom. This should be cleaned out once a month to get rid of old or expired prescriptions. Throw away prescription medicines after its purpose has been served by flushing liquid medications down the drain (and rinse containers thoroughly before discarding). Solid medications, like pills, capsules or ointments, can be returned to your drugstore pharmacist - don't send them to the local dump or your favorite cat may eat the poisoned rat that got your prescription. If you have a medication that has changed color, formed a residue at the bottom of the bottle, or is more than 2-years-old, it should be discarded safely. If your aspirins emit a vinegar odor or have gone crumbly, don't use them, throw them away. Sshould your hydrogen peroxide (used for antiseptic or hair bleach) no longer bubble vigorously when used,get rid of it. Eyewash or eye drops, despite being isotonic (salt buffered to the same salinity as body liquids), can with age support a fungus so do not keep after you've cured your eye problem.

Protect your children and others who may be visiting by LOCKING up drugs, laxatives, astringents, mouthwash, antiseptics, rubbing alcohol,sleeping pills,boric acid, iodine and mercurochrome. Children can also get into trouble with shampoo, nail polisher remover, beauty preparations, even though they do not carry warning labels. Don't tell children that flavored aspirin are "candy" in order to get them to take their medication. Children's aspirin is normally only 1/4 the strength of ordinary aspirin, but if enough is swallowed, it could prove fatal.

Often when children visit grandparents or relatives who are regularly on medication, they may be tempted to go through grandmother's purse or her medicine cabinet.

When using a cleaner on the toilet bowl or bathtub, don't mix different cleaners as they may interact and give off harmful gases. Aerosols are a problem as they are flammable so do not use when around a wood stove or fire source. In fact, aerosols are very damaging to the environment (the propellant rises to the ozone layer and is destroying the planet's protection from ultraviolet radiation) so it's best to avoid buying them. Never dump empty aerosols into trash cans that go to the incinerator, trash compactors. Avoid inhaling hair sprays, deodorants and disinfectants...an aerosol carpet cleaner killed a lady I knew in Ont.. when her liver was destroyed by inhaling the fumes.

Finally, to prevent accidental ingestion of poison, store medications, first aid and household remedies in a totally different place from cleaners, insecticides. Keep them all out of reach of toddlers and children.

It seems obvious but don't drink out of a medicine bottle if a spoon is not handy. Certainly don't take medicine unless you are CERTAIN what it is. If the medication comes in a child-resistant container make sure you recap it securely after each use.

CORRECTION - ARTICLE ON FOOD POISONING...
Dr. Bourdeau, medical director of EOHU, brought to my attention a misleading description on electrolyte imbalance and a consequence of diarrhea. I had cited calcium as one of the important body fluids components lost, it should have read "POTASSIUM".

Group of ten visits historical plaques

St. Elmo
by W. MacKinnon
527-2348

Brian and Jan Fisher of Orleans, Ont., visited with his uncle, Hugh Fisher of Athol and his father Clifford Fisher of the Maxville Manor this past Sunday.

Dorothea Watson of California and her sister Helen Kalfas of Youngstown, Ohio, daughters of the late Hugh K. Gilmour and Mrs. Gilmour, visited with friends in Maxville and St. Elmo for a few days last week. Rev. Hugh K. Gilmour was the minister of Gordon Church 1939-44 and his daughters were students at Maxville High School at that time.

From Auld Lang Syne 1914 (Glengarry News, Sept. 14) Ralph Connor, (Rev. Dr.Charles W. Gordon) of Winnipeg , was to be the guest preacher at Gordon Church on Oct. 1 for the celebration of 50 years since the Gordon Church was open for worship in 1864.

A group of 10 people from Ottawa, Alta Vista; Woodroffe and Merivale Road, accompanied by Velma Franklin of St. Elmo, visited St. Elmo this past Sunday afternoon and were interested in the three historical plaques and the Old Congregational Church building and Gordon Presbyterian Church. Dr. Wallace MacKinnon welcomed the visitors and showed them the inside of each church building and provided information about St. Elmo and the history of the buildings pointing out to them the birthplace of Sir Edward Peacock and of Ralph Connor.

The group accompanied by Velma Franklin went on to Dunvegan to visit the pioneer museum and to other places of historical interest.

Knox Presbyterian Church, Moose Creek, celebrated the 156th anniversary of the congregation with a special service of Divine Worship this past Sunday evening at 8 p.m. The guest preacher, Rev. Dr. Stephen Hayes, minister of Knox Presbyterian Church, Ottawa, was the guest preacher and gave a message on the influence of Presbyterianism in the Protestant reformation of the Christian Church in the 16th century.

To a congregation which filled the church sanctuary Dr. Hayes spoke of three areas of influence the Presbyterians, Re-formation of the Church, the Bible as the Word of God and the strong faith of Christian believers.

Maryanne Kampouris, the soloist , sang "Bless this House" and "The Holy City" accompanied by the organist Lorna MacGregor.

A fellowship hour with refreshments in the church hall was held after worship.

Twins celebrate their 80th birthday

Dalkeith
by Jean MacLennan
874-2385

Saturday, Sept. 17 was a special day for Benoit Duchesne and his twin sister Monique Huot. They celebrated their eightieth birthday. A family dinner was held at Chelsea, Que. where Monique lives and was attended by Genevieve, Benoit's wife, their brother and their sisters, as well as their own children. Happy birthday to both and may you continue to enjoy good health and happiness.

On Sunday, Sept. 11th, Verna MacDonald of Ottawa attended the Memorial Service at East Hawkesbury United Church. She then stayed for a few days with Kenneth and Rhoda MacDonald and visited other relatives and friends in the local area, as well as in Alexandria and Vankleek Hill. She also attended the UCW meeting at the home of Thomas and Isabel Fraser, her own former home.

The 10th Pumpkin Festival and Musical Gala is to be held at Ste. Anne de Prescott on Oct. 1. Your big pumpkins are to be at the centre between 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. If you plan to participate in the Gala you are asked to register by Sept. 26. Songs, instrumental music or step dancing are among the afternoon and evening "gala" events.

After a summer break, the Community Policing Committee will resume meetings again. This time the meeting will be held in the Optimist Hall, Dalkeith at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 27. An OPP officer is expected to address the audience and the public is urged to attend.

Laggan students began selling lunch cards for their noon program which offers a few items to supplement student lunches. Five and $10 lunch cards are sold which allow students to buy fruit drinks, chocolate milk and cheese sticks on a daily basis, pizza on Tuesdays and hot dogs on Wednesdays.

The weekly swim program at Hawkesbury Pool starts this week. Every Tuesday, two classes will travel to the pool in the afternoon for a swim. This will be replaced with skating at the arena in Alexandria, during the winter and will resume after the March break. These outings are part of the physical education program.

Wednesday is the day for inter school soccer tournaments. The Junior Co-ed Tournament is held at Laggan and the Senior Girls and Senior boys travel to Williamstown for their tournament. We wish them good luck.

Helen Howes from Vankleek Hill will be returning to give piano and violin lessons to any interested students.

The Great Owl Book Fair starts on Friday and will run all next week. Students will be taking home a flyer which describes a sampling of the books from which they may select.

Residents want town mess cleaned up

By Pauline Ashton
News* correspondent

A delegation of Glen Robertson residents told Lochiel council Sept. 13, they're fed up with the slow removal of debris from a recently burned-out store, plus old cars and junk littering Main Street.

Glen resident Ed Zachau tabled a 150-name petition asking council to draw up a property standards bylaw with teeth and time limits, so "we can be proud of our main street again."

Reeve Ron MacDonell suggested setting up a standards committee. "We can't force people to clean up without one."

Bylaw Enforcement Officer Dorothy Irvine reminded council, "five or six years ago Lochiel proposed property standards but it was defeated because people didn't like the idea that neighbors could complain about them."

Irvine suggested residents work with council drafting the bylaw.

"This worked well in Kenyon last year, and it gives residents input, making them feel they are not being pushed around by government.

Reeve MacDonell asked councillors to search out names of residents interested in serving on a property standards committee.

But he warned it could take up to six months to get the bylaw on the books and enforceable.

Glen Robertson resident Carol Zachau said the Glen store was burned June29, and debris left becomes "a health hazard attracting rats and little children," until the township sent in a clean-up crew last week.

"Two months is too long to leave a mess like that blowing dust around and polluting our main street," Mrs. Zachau said.

"We're getting to be a laughing stock, who would want to live here?"

Reeve MacDonell said the store owner was difficult to locate after the fire, and promised again and again to clean up. "We had to send a township crew to do the job."

Deputy Reeve Maurice Montpetit, who lives in the Glen, called in a Ministry of Health inspector in an attempt to force the store owner to remove debris.

Montpetit said the township's hands were tied because there is no property standards bylaw forcing a clean-up.

"The owner didn't have $3,000 for cleanup so the township did the job and the cost will be added to taxes on the property," Montpetit reported.

Glen restaurant owner Pierre Felx, along with other residents, complained about several properties on the main street littered with old cars and junk which is never removed.

"One place has goldenrod in the front yard, a Manitoba maple growing up through the porch, and old fridges and stoves in the driveway," one man reported.

"We look like a dump and it's spreading, I saw someone come to one of the junky yards and dump his trash. It's easier now that the (township) dump down the road is open only a few times a year," another resident reported.

Michel Boucher said "if we allow our streets to deteriorate like this we will just have junky people move in. It's going to spread, more people get careless and no one is doing anything about it."

"For those of us who are proud property owners, it's very bad," Mrs. Zachau said.

1994 ...It's our year

Small shop with a great future

Wood heat without chopping wood seems like a miracle, but that's what you get with the new wood pellet-burning stoves that began to revolutionize home heating a few years ago. The manufacturers of Whitfield pellet stoves introduced the world's first home pellet stove in 1984, and they are still the leaders in the field. And the local dealer for Whitfield pellet stoves is Future Energy Products, located on Highway 2 about 1.5 kilometers east of Glen Walter.

"Wood pellet stoves are a step above the wood stove, even modern air-tight models," says manager Jody Watson. "They are easy to install and operate, clean, efficient and environmentally advanced."

Pellet stoves require no expensive chimney systems (though a conventional chimney may be used). Rather, burning as cleanly as they do, they are simply vented through the wall like a common home clothes drier. A conventional wood stove produces about 60 grams of particulate emissions per hour. The Whitfield Renaissance pellet stove, the world's cleanest burning, releases only 0.4 grams per hour. The result? No visible smoke and no creosote. And Whitfield pellet stoves are approved for masonry and zero-clearance fireplaces.

Best of all, they are super-simple to operate. They feed themselves automatically, and rarely require, even in the coldest Glengarry winter, more than one filling a day. The Whitfield line monitors room temperature, adding more fuel when extra heat is required and temporarily shutting down when the desired room temperature is reached. A thermostat option allows Whitfield stoves to operate via wall or digital wall thermostats.

The pellets that pellet stoves burn are made from sawdust, lumber industry byproducts that would otherwise be wasted in landfills. This waste sawdust is dried, pelletized, and packed in 18-kilogram bags. A year's supply of about 150 bags takes up as much in the woodshed as two cords of wood. And, of course, there is no chopping, splitting, hauling or piling firewood!

"But you can still see the fire," notes Future Energy Products' Jody Watson. "There are glass doors, just like an air-tight stove. It's very cosy."

Future Energy Products sells three models of Whitfield pellet stoves, as well as Whitfield propane and natural gas stoves. They also represent and stock Jamestown pellet and gas stoves, as well as Canadian-made Envirofire pellet stoves, a total of 16 models in all. Stove prices range from $1700 to $2700, which clearly makes them competitive with conventional air-tight stoves. There are also pellet furnaces in the $3000 range.

"We started selling pellet stoves last October," says Watson, "and I must say the first year has been tremendous. In some ways, the pellet stove has taken over from the corn-burning stove. The corn stove is a lot dirtier than the pellet stove, and of course, when you're storing a lot of corn at home, mice can be a problem. We used a pellet stove at home last winter, and we were completely satisfied."

Jody, along with his parents, Ray and Ann, have operated a craft store, the Country Cob Craft Shop, at their site just east of Glen Walter for the past five years. The shop specializes in dolls, ceramics and other mostly locally-produced crafts. A restaurant on the same site is leased out. The craft shop and the Future Energy Products stove store are open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.
