Here and There

by Kay Kay

Those snowmobile buffs should n't have a thing to complain about now that those five inches of snow have arrived. Tuesday afternoon saw many people scurrying for home along the highways but some of them didn't get there as fast as they wished. One man took close to five hours to come from Kingston. A few trucks and cars took to the ditch and everybody had a hard time getting traction.

And most of us, of course, didn't have our snow tires on!

Every Tuesday and Thursday night there will be badminton played at Seaway District High School. Anyone in the area who wishes, may play. There are probably dozens of former badminton players in the district and remembering our days of famous play, we think of the day after the first night's play — oh those aching muscles! Anyway, come along either night and enjoy yourselves.

Schools all over Eastern Ontario were closed on Wednesday, with bus transportation at a standstill. Schools in Iroquois and Matilda were all closed and no doubt most of the students spent their time shovelling out the driveways? Or studying?

RECEPTION

On the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Ben Johnstone will receive friends and neighbours in the Community Hall, Brinston from 2 to 4 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 in the evening on November 23rd, 1968 — No gifts please

BOR N

Bill and Elaine Horner, wish to announce the birth at Brockville General Hospital on November 9th, 1968 of Steven Victor, 9 lbs. 4 ozs. A brother for Eldon.

Mrs. Marion Mould of St. Catharines, Ontario, was a guest this past week of Mr. and Mrs. Allen McIntosh and accompanied them to Boston, Mass., to visit their son Stanley and his wife, also callers at their home on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marschke of Avon, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Parry Flett of Cardinal, Ont.

THE SPREAD OF THE GOSPEL

This week, associates of the Iroquois Branch of the Bible Society will visit the homes in Iroquois to ask for assistance with the work of Canadian Bible Society.

The work of the Bible Society is to bring the Scriptures of the Christian faith into the hands of all the peoples of the world, and in their own language. The cost of translation and production requires continued help, and your support is next best to your personally placing a copy of Scripture in someone's hands.

However, is it part of the strange double standards of life that already has us in such real problems, that causes us to want to give generously so that others may read a Bible that we in practice do not read greatly or study seriously?

Somehow we know that the Christian Faith is vitally important, and that its Scriptures are essential to our understanding of God, his relationship to man and vice versa.

So when the canvasser comes to our door, we will remember things we live by or that we still hold true; and we will give what we can. It may be my contribution that puts into the hands of someone the first book that he has ever owned; fresh information that he can read in his own language about the Christian Faith; and thereby he gains for himself purpose and strength for the journey of everyday living.

Yes, I will give again, and glady for the work of the Canadian Bible Society.

Nominations November 18 Bringing New School Setup

There seems to be some confusion over the forthcoming nominations in the area for school trustees and in the following article we hope to dispel some of the misconceptions and explain just what the new school reorganization will mean to the people on the local level and how the organization will be set up as of January 1st, 1969.

Earlier this year the Ontario Government came forth with Bill 44, a bill to reorganize all the 1600 public (elementary) and secondary school boards in Ontario into a smaller group of only 100 boards. The government then anounced the boundaries of the new school districts, over which only one board would serve. In our case, the new board will cover the three counties of Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry and including the City of Cornwall.

Throughout this three-county area there were divisions set up for the election of trustees. For example, Iroquois Village, Matilda Township and Mountain Township will elect one man to represent all three municipalities on the new board. Morrisburg Village, Williamsburg Township and Finch Township will elect one man from among their municipalities, and Winchester Village, Chesterville Village and Winchester Township will elect one man. The system holds true throughout the counties. These boundaries were set up by the County Clerk on instructions under the new act.

To help cut down on some of the problems, the largest municipality in each zone was chosen as the place to hold nominations. Our area will see nominations in Memorial Hall, Brinston, November 18th, from 7 to8 p.m. The same date for nominations for school purposes applies throughout Ontario.

As it happens, Iroquois Village and Mountain Township do not have a municipal election this year, so the only thing these two are concerned with are school board elections.

Anyone wishing to run for election to the new board must attend the nomination meeting in Matilda Township to be nominated. If more than one qualify then an election will be held on Monday, December 2nd. If there is an election the voters of Iroquois will vote in Iroquois, Matilda residents in Matilda's polling stations, and Mountain voters in Mountain polling stations.

The new regional board of education will be composed of 16 members, as follows: six will be elected from the counties of Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry; three will be from the City of Cornwall. The remaining seven will be elected by Separate School supporters in the three United Counties (3) and the City of Cornwall (4) and will sit on the new school board for secondary school purposes only. (They will be unable to discuss or vote any subject related to the public school system).

The present school boards will cease to exist officially as of January 1st, 1969, but the new board may if it so desires, ask them to stay on as advisers for a period no later than June of 1969

During the past year a group has been formed called the "Interim School Organization Committee" and charged with the responsibilities of gathering information and recommending procedures and policy for the board to be elected on December 2nd. The ISOC group have no powers to make decisions or to hire any personnel; they were set up under instructions of the Ontario Government to help get the new school administration system organized. Each school board has a representative on this ISOC Group. This group was split into five committees as follows:

Board Policies and Procedures: Chairman R. Flath.

Programs, Services, Pupils: Eric Casselman.

Personnel Lists and Payroll: J. W. Wallace.

Accommodations: J. Martin.

Transportation and Finance: B. Comrie.

The Chairman of the ISOC group is Ken Kirkby, Iroquois.

A complete resume of the voting zones:

No. 1 Mountain Township, Matilda Township and Iroquois village.

No. 2: Winchester Township, Winchester Village and Chesterville Village.

No. 3: Williamsburg Township, Morrisburg Village, Finch Township and Finch Village.

No. 4: Osnabruck Township and Cornwall Township.

No. 5: Roxborough Township, Kenyon Township, Lochiel Township, Maxville Village and Alexandria Town.

No. 6: Charlottenburg Township, Lancaster Township and Lancaster Village.

City of Cornwall will elect three members to the new board as public school supporters, and the Separate Schools will elect three from the United Counties and four from the City of Cornwall.

Municipal Election Year in Matilda

Nominations for Reeve, Deputy Reeve and three Councillors for Matilda Township will be held Monday, November 18th in the Memorial Hall, Brinston, between the hours of 7 and 8. While the odd rumor has been passed around about possible candidates for the office no one has come out and made a definite statement of his or her intentions.

Those who do find a seat on the municipal council will be in for the years 1969 and 1970. Those who are nominated on Monday night have until 9 o'clock the next night to qualify with the clerk of the township.

Should there be an election, it will be held on Monday, December 2nd, at the 11 polling stations in the township.

Public Library Open House November 20

Mark Wednesday, November 20th on your calendar — you have an invitation to the Open House at the Iroquois Public Library (at the Iroquois Civic Centre). Open House will be from 2:00 to 4:30 in the afternoon and from 7:00 to 9:30 in the evening and refreshments will be provided.

Besides getting a look at the library and what it has to offer, you will be able to meet and talk to the librarians and the Board members. Even if you have been in before, this will give you an opportunity to look over the latest books that have arrived.

A special invitation is extended to newcomers in town or any who have not yet seen our (and your) library. Be sure to drop into the library during Open House and see what is available. One of the things you will notice of course, is the wide selection of books available — for pre-school children, public and high school students. A wide selection is also available at the adult level — besides a wide range of fiction, there is an excellent selection of biographies and other non fiction. The magazine rack contains many items not readily available and these are of interest to all readers regardless of age. Sets of encyclopedias are on hand along with other reference books and these may be consulted at the library.

Regular open hours for Iroquois Public Library are Tuesdays and Fridays from 2:00 to 4:30 and 7:00 to 9:00 when librarian Mrs. Jas. Brouse is on hand, and Saturdays from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. when Miss C. McGahey is there to assist you. And of some importance — all the library services are available free of charge to residents of Iroquois and Matilda Township.

So plan on seeing your library during Open House on November 20th, meet your friends and neighbours and see what books are on hand for those long winter evenings coming up.

Let Us Make It The Best

Coming before the electorate of the three United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry (including the City of Cornwall) is one of the most important decisions they will have to make in some years. This area will, after January 1, 1969, have one school board to handle the administration now being governed by 27 school boards at the public and secondary school level. On November 18th nominations will be held and on December 2nd the elections will take place. A front page story gives the mechanics of the electoral processes.

The most important element now before us is in getting the most qualified people we can obtain to seek this office.

Reflecting by to the earlier part of this year when the decision to amalgamate the schools was taken by the provincial government there was an immediate and strong resentment based on the fact that this new system was being forced on us. The provincial government was accused of taking a dictatorial attitude and several sectors of these three United Counties expressed their desire to refrain from such a large area. Representations to Toronto were useless.

The Interim School Organization Committee (ISOC) was formed, made by of a representative from every board in the Counties and these people were in the months to follow, take the initiative to gather all the data and ideas it could muster so that the new board, when elected, would have a sound foundation to work with and from. This group has no powers to make decisions or commitments—only to gather facts and make proposals and recommendations. As of this date most of the work has been completed and will be ready for presenation when the new board first meets on December 9th.

Our present school system, and especially in the rural area has at times had to operate under rather unique conditions. The Schools Administration Act clearly points out that no person may sit on a board and sell to that board. In many rural communities, however, where there may only be one plumber, one electrician and so on, this legal technicality has had to be overlooked. And we would agree with this right into court if we had to. Now, however, we are faced with a situation that will prevent these same people from sitting on the new board, if they wish to continue doing business with any school in the jurisdiction of the new board. A good number of present trustees could not afford to give up this present or future potential business and so, will not seek election. In the past, for instance, a wife might own a school bus and have a contract with Board A, while he rhusband might have been a trustee on Board B. As of January 1st if such was the case, the trustee could be challenged and have to vacate his seat on the board.

There are many other situations which could prevent a taxpayer from serving, where there is a conflict of interest.

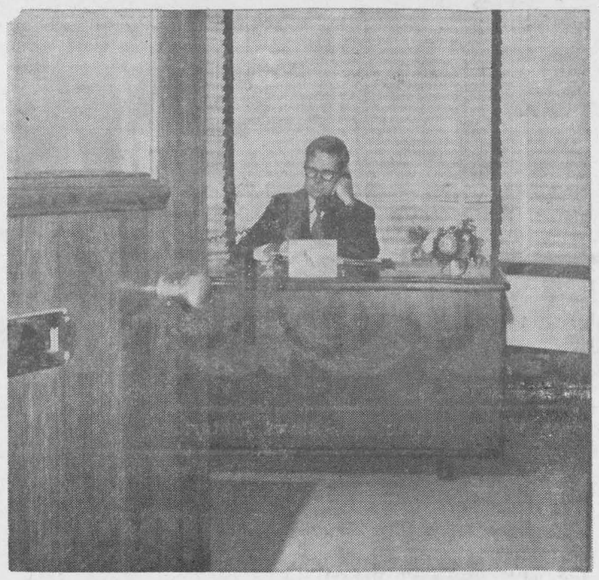

It is unfortunate that perhaps some of the most interested and qualified people will not be able to seek a seat on the new board of education. What may have been done in the past for convenience and practical purposes, will not hold true in the future.

Having had close connection with the formation of ideas and suggestions on all phases undertaken by the ISOC group, we can readily point out that the trustees' tasks on the new regional board are going to be demanding and exhausting upon his time and his energies in its early formative stages. Faced with entirely new circumstance he or she will have to make vital decisions on both educational and financial matters which will affect us all. Our educational system cannot possibly cost us less but we can hope that the advantages that may be derived will sustain our every efforts. Equal opportunity is the ultimate goal; but do not expect it overnight. A smooth running and efficient administrative and educational structure is the ultimate aim; but don't expect it either in the first months before the new board. The system will have its problems but it can work.

As Canadian citizens we are fast losing our local autonomy and with the apparent advent of regional government in a few years, we will lose most of what we have left. Some say it is a good thing; others decry it as stripping us of the final vestige of our rights. Time alone will give us the complete answer.

We have endeavoured to cover these few important facts about a momentous decision in our lives: First of all, if you are thinking of seeking a seat on the board be certain that you can qualify; secondly, bear in mind the aims of Bill 44 to bring an equal opportunity to all children under the board's jurisdiction, and perhaps most of all, we as citizens must maintain an unswerving and undaunted interest not only in the members elected but in the decisions they may take.

Choose the trustees wisely not only for your monetary interest in the costs of education but for the ultimate aims and objectives of education itself—to make better citizens for the sake of the future of Canada and Canadians.

GORDON BLAIR, M.P., REPORTS

Makes First Major Speech In House

SPEECH ON THE BUDGET

by Gordon Blair, M.P.
(Grenville - Carleton)
(delivered Tuesday, November 5th, 1968)

The constituency of Grenville-Carleton, like many others, is one newly created by redistribution. It embraces the western suburbs of Ottawa and extends south to the St. Lawrence River. It includes all of Grenville County and a large part of Carleton County, and half of Dundas County. The prevailing political tone in these three historic Counties has been rather blue in almost all the years since Confederation. While the voters in this election chase a livlier colour and a new Party, I have found that they are accustomed to excellent representation in this House by my distinguished predecessors, Mrs. Jean Wadds and the Honourable Dick Bell. As I embark on my first term in this House I am conscious that I have a high standard of representation to maintain.

The budget which we are now discussing is one, in my opinion, which the Canadian people expected. With far greater insight than many optimistic political leaders, the people generally realized that rapid extension of government spending and the continual accumulation of deficits at all levels of government could not continue indefinitely. In the recent election the people resisted the blandishments of those who promised new and costly programmes of expenditure. They responded to the appeal of this Party, which was for proper national stock-taking, stabilization of government spending and revenue, and in no sense at all based on the promise that somehow governments could increase their expenditures and their good works without cost to the taxpayers.

Everyone elected to this parliament must have known that it did not face an easy task. Apart from the major decisions it will have to make towards the reshaping of this country for the future, one of its major concerns will be to stabilize Canada's finances. Although increased taxes will never be greeted with enthusiasm, it is my belief that this budget will be accepted by the Canadian people as an obvious and essential first step in our country's march forward in the next four years.

It is but the first step. The restoring of financial stability and balance is necessary to lay the basis for the necessary and important tax reform, based on the recommendations of the Carter Royal Commission, which the gov ernment intends to place before this House early in the new year. In a new context of stabilized gov ernment finance, which inevitably will have to be paralleled by similar action by provincial governments — who with the municipalities, now account for far the greater proportion of total government expenditure in Canada — the nation and this parliament can address itself to the important issue of tax reform. The aim of this reform must be, as stated by the Carter Report, to achieve greater equity in Canada's taxation systems.

In a much broader sense this budget will provide the stable base required to ensure the expansion and continued growth of the Canadian economy. It is only through the growth of our capacity to produce goods that we can enjoy a greater prosperity. Through this growth the present level of government expenditures in all jurisdictions can more easily be absorbed, and as our economy expands new and necessary programmes can be undertaken. This budget, therefore, provides the essential foundation for the nation's expansion during the life of this parliament.

It is about the opening future of the nation that I wish to speak My constituency, in many respects, is like a miniature Canada. It presents the challenges and the problems which are faced by many areas across this country. It includes the rapidly expanding suburbs of Ottawa, industrial towns on the St. Lawrence — such as Prescott, Maitland, Iroquois and Cardinal — and the farming areas in between. Tonight I can speak only of a few of the concerns of my constituency as they relate to the major problems faced by this nation and this parliament.

A recent special report in an Ottawa paper indicated that the Ottawa area was the most rapidly expanding urban area in Canada. It is expected that its population will exceed one million people in 1985. A very large part of this expansion will occur in Nepean Township, which forms part of my riding.

Urban expansion in any part of Canada presents a major problem, but in this area it presents particular problems which must be the special concern of this parliament. The federal government is the largest land-owner and by far the largest employer in the metropolitan Ottawa area. It must be involved in the proper development of the area. Honourable Members will be aware of the controversy which is now taking place about the planning of the development of downtown Ottawa, concerning building heights regulations.

What this problem clearly indicates is that there is an overall defect in the planning and governmental structure in the capital area. The emergence of new Regional Government in this area on January 1, 1969, is a forward step. But it is not enough.

The Prime Minister of Ontario speaking recently in Ottawa pointed out that the structure of the new Regional Government permitted participation by the federal government in the planning and development of the Ottawa area. Officials of the three governments of Canada, Ontario

SUGAR AND SPICE by Bill Smiley

Good old Skinny Wyonch

It's deer-hunting time again, and though I've never been known as The Deerslayer, I have been under attack. The worst deer hunter in the whole entire world has come out in print charging that I am the worst deer hunter in the world. I'll go for second worst, but I'll not be slandered like that.

All I can say is that "Skinny Wyonch must have the gout again." As I've pointed out before, this was the greatest one-line filler ever used in the newspaper business.

A filler is a little item used in newspapers to plug a hole. They can run up to ten lines, but they can't be any shorter than one. When we were desperate for a one-liner to fill a hole on the front page one time, we stuck it in. "Skinny Wyonch has the gout." And he did. He couldn't even sue us. Next time we were frantic for a one-liner, we inserted, "Skin Wyonch has the gout. Again." And he did.

Now, probably suffering from gout, he has written a scurrilous article in which he beats around every conceivable bush, including the mulberry, (and I wouldn't be surprised if he'd been into the mulberry, which would give him the gout) trying to suggest that I am a worse deer hunter than he.

This is not only like the pot calling the kettle black. It is like one politician claiming that his opponent is a bigger liar than he is.

Skinny now sits in my old editorial chair, once occupied by the second worst deer hunter in the world, now by the worst. In a recent article, gout-inspired obviously, he recalled the time we'd gone hunting together.

As far as it was in his nature, he told the truth about me. He said I had no sense of direction in the bush. Well, any damn fool can get lost in the bush, and thousands do every year. That proves nothing.

He said I didn't know how to chop wood. So what? I didn't hire on as a wood-chopper. He said I fell in the lake every time we climbed into the skiff to cross the bight to the island. Some of those pansies along were afraid to get their feet wet, just because it was November.

And he suggested that I put 3.55 rifle shells in John Desjardins 32 rifle. That's a lie. It was Teemy Wright's 30.30.

But it's incredible how feeble his memory has become (possibly gout-induced) about the important things. He didn't mention that he never once fired his gun at a moving target. He shot at a tree once and very nearly hit it. But I actually fired twice at a deer, about 40 seconds after he had disappeared into the cedars. I think it was a deer.

It has not seeped back into his consciousness how I solved the food problem. We were stormbound for four extra days on a desert island. The others, eating like hogs, wanted to cook that last roast of beef. But I was in charge of food rationing. When I finally decided to unwrap it, it turned out to be five pounds of cheese rather than beef, but nobody starved. Some of us have foresight; some hindsight.

And he's completely forgotten that trip home from the island, after ten days of 40-mile-an-hour wind and snow. "My wife'll kill me." was the plaintive whimper. I knew it was too late for that. I knew mine would boil me in oil.

But at their urging, these manly hunters, we took off into the pitch-dark, in a snowstorm, 12-foot waves, a leaking boat, five deer on the top deck, and the electric pump on the bummer.

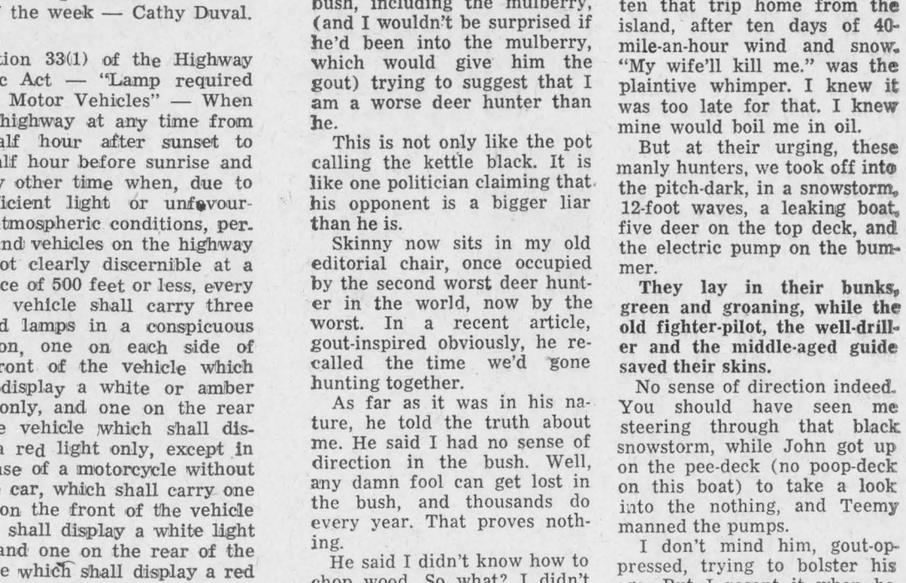

They lay in their bunks, green and groaning, while the old fighter-pilot, the well-driller and the middle-aged guide saved their skins.

No sense of direction indeed. You should have seen me steering through that black snowstorm, while John got up on the pee-deck (no poop-deck on this boat) to take a look into the nothing, and Teemy manned the pumps.

I don't mind him, gout-oppressed, trying to bolster his ego. But I resent it when he shows no gratitude for the people who saved his life.

SHORT OF A MIRACLE

Rome's Coliseum, partly tumbled into ruin, is considered one of the wonders of the world. It was built in 80 A. D.—and that is a long time ago, to be sure. Yet it is but a second when measured against the ages that have passed since God created the world.

The Coliseum—wonder that it is—is also visible proof of the limit of man's accomplishments. We consider it nothing short of a miracle that something built by man has endured that long. Yet those things created by God remain endless and eternal.

God's works should, indeed, fill even the wisest of us with wonder, with awe, and with gratitude. We tend to take them all too much for granted. We tend, at times, to forget them—and even to forget Him—entirely.

Discover God again, in the church of your choice and in the process, rediscover yourself.

and Quebec are now studying in detail the cooperative action which must be taken to govern and develop the capital area in the future. A proposal made in the last parliament for the creation of a special parliamentary committee to study the operations of the National Capital Commission is also an important step and I hope that this special committee will be appointed and commence its work at an early date.

The final result of all of these deliberations, in my judgement, should be creation of an effective — but not domineering — federal presence in the governmental structure in the Ottawa area. This will enable the federal government to play a positive role in planning and development. This role should not be limited, as it has been in the past, mainly to the creation of great national assets, buildings, parks and driveways, but should be positively directed towards the improvement of the quality of life of all residents. The task should be undertaken not to create a national capital as a great national monument, but a metropolitan area which will stand forth as an example to all of Canada, will enhance the pleasure of life here for people for whom the federal government should have a special concern — its own employees. In my opinion, we have a magnificent opportunity in the capital area to develop all that is best in new concepts of urban living —and the reassessment of the concept of the Greenbelt for the use and benefit of all of the people in the region.

An essential part of the planning and development in which the federal government must become involved is that of urban transportation. The lack of a fully integrated urban transportation system in the suburbs I represent is not only a great inconvenience to the people living there but a positive hindrance to their life and livelihood. Recently, a lady living in one of the suburban developments in my constituency was disqualified by the local Unemployment Insurance Commission because of the fact that her area of work was restricted through the lack of transportation to an area where there were reasonable opportunities of obtaining employment. This is a condition which should not and cannot prevail. The solution of the urban and suburban transportation problem in the metropolitan Ottawa area is beyond the present capacity of the local municipalities. It can only be undertaken with strong leadership and financial support by the senior governments. Everyone recognizes that the solution of the problems of urban transportation is one of the great challenges of our time and this government has committed itself to make a positive contribution to this solution, including, among other things, the institution of pilot projects. There is no place where these solutions can be attempted to greater effect and no place which would benefit more from such a pilot project than the metropolitan Ottawa area, which is within the constant view of the federal government.

On other occasions, I intend to speak about the concerns of the people living in my constituency and particularly the public servants, who constitute a large part of the population of suburban Ottawa. By the nature of their employment they are denied the same voice in public affairs which is the privilege of other citizens, and this the more so in relation to the activities and decisions of the federal government, which is their employer. The position of the Public Service is one of great importance. We who are Members of this House bear a special responsibility, if not a trust, to protect and forward the interests of public servants.

However, in my opinion, the position of one important group requires special comment tonight and early attention by this parliament. I speak of retired public servants. Because of inflation, many retired civil servants have been deprived of the dignity and security in old age which they believed during all their years of service to the public would be theirs. In terms of simple justice and equity the case of retired public servants cries out for relief — and that relief should come immediately. Most honourable Members will know that the Joint Committee of the Senate and the House of Commons on the Public Service of Canada, recommended, in its final report on May 8, 1967, that "the government should do what it reasonably can to protect and preserve, or failing that, to restore in some measure the original purchasing power of the contributary pensions which, under the Public Service Superannuation Act, and similar enactments, it has provided for its retired employees".

The conditions which existed when this report was made almost a year and a half ago have worsened from the standpoint of retired civil servants. Although I appreciate all the claims and stringencies which press on the government at this time, I believe that the highest priority should be given to the implementation of this recommendation of the Joint Committee, that consideration of the relief of the position of retired public servants should be given with the least possible delay.

In my opinion, the future of this country and of my constituency cannot be adequately realized without greater effort at thinking and planning that we have seen heretofore. The industrial towns along the St. Lawrence have not experienced growth and development comparable to that which has occurred in the great metropolitan centres of this province. Their development has been retarded, notwithstanding the fact that they are located along the St. Lawrence Seaway and connected by rail and highway with all the main centres of this province. They are progressive communities, well-developed and able to absorb new industrial activity and larger populations. While not experiencing the great boom and prosperity of other centres, they are by no means depressed, and it is my view that communities such as these — and they are found in many parts of this country — should become a special concern of this parliament.

All of us have to recognize that there are at present two major trends in national development and planning. On the one hand, there is an obvious rush by industry and commerce to the large centres, creating major problems of urban living. If this trend continues some experts estimate that at the end of this century the great bulk of Canada's population will be concentrated in a few large ur-

Lands & Forests Report

NURSERY STOCK
by H. H. deVries,
Superintendent, G. Howard Ferguson Forest Station.

The production of nursery stock at the Provincial Forest Station, owned and managed by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, consists of 3 broad classes of stock, namely Standard Reforestation Stock identified by the initials STR; Ontario Landscape Stock or OLA and Special Reforestation Stock or SPR.

We will discuss in each class of stock, the species available, the selling price and to whom they are available.

Standard Reforestation Stock (STR)

This class consists of 25 species the majority of which are native to the Province of Ontario. The principle species groups are Pine (4 varieties), Spruce (4 varieties), Cedars (2 species) European Larch, Tamarack, Hemlock and Hardwood or Deciduous trees (12 species, e.g. White Ash, Silver Maple, Red Oak, Carolina Poplar, etc.). Stock furnished in this class is mainly seedling Stock ranging in height from 5" — 15" depending on the species and age — the average being 2 years.

The cost of the Stock is $10.00 per thousand trees for all species except Scotch Pine which is $14.00 per thousand, F.O.B. the Nursery.

S.T.R. STOCK is available to private landowners in the Province of Ontario and is supplied on appilcation. One must own a minimum of 2 acres excluding area occupied by structures. The minimum order is 25 trees of any one species. This stock is also supplied for private reforestation projects under the newly enacted Woodlands Improvement Act whereby a minimum area of 5 acres is required.

This class of STOCK may be used for any of the following purposes —

(a) Christmas tree production, (b) Pulpwood or sawlog production, (c) Erosion control, (d) Watershed protection, (e) Wildlife habitat (f) Recreation, (g) Crop Protection, (h) Building Protection. It is not available for decorative planting nor is it available for resale or gift-giving.

About 30 per cent of the production of STR stock is furnished in respect of private land and 70 per cent is furnished for the extensive reforestation projects on Crownland and municipality owned forest land that is under agreement with the Minister of Lands and Forests for total management.

Ontario Landscape Stock (OLA)

There are 30 to 35 species under production in this class of stock. As the name suggests it is used in a variety of ways to beautifying the landscape. A partial list of the species includes — Austrian and Mugho Pine, Maples (4 varieties), European White Birch, European Mountain Ash, Willow (3 varieties), Linden, Caragana, Honeysuckle, etc.

This class consists of different kinds of stock form. There is the coniferous "B and B" stock, meaning, well developed root ball individually wrapped in burlap and having a height range of 18" to 24".

Then we have the hardwood or deciduous "STANDARD" having a height range of 5 feet to 8 feet consisting of 1/3 round-shaped crown and 2/3 clear bole or trunk, and the "Shrub" kind having a height range of 18" to 24".

This OLA Class Stock is not available for sale to the private landowner. It is produced for the Departments of Government for decorative planting such as in the Provincial Parks, along the Highways, and around provincial buildings and institutions Also they may be purchased, for specific purposes, by Conservation Authorities and Counties and/or Township municipalities at a charge of $1.00 per trees F.O.B. Nursery for all coniferous B and B Stock and all hardwood "standards", and 10c per shrub F.O.B. Nursery for all shrub stock.

Special Reforestation Stock (SPR)

From time to time some Departmental programs require the supply of certain species of trees and shrubs for specific and special purposes. This stock is produced under the class S.P.R. — Special Reforestation. In this class we are producing 14 species for Wildlife food and habitat improvement such as Dogwood, Cranberry, Russian Olive, Autumn Olive, Multiflora Rose, Mountain Ash, Korean Crabapple, to name a few.

These species, grown as shrub seedling stock will be available for the approved projects at 2 or 3 years of age. Presently the production is designated for "government use only" with possible future release by the Minister for extensive use on private land to improve the habitat and hunting.

Landowners interested in reforestation should contact their local office of the Department of Lands and Forests for further information.

IROQUOIS BANTAMS OPENED SEASON WITH EXHIBITION GAME

The Iroquois Bantams commenced the 1968-69 Hockey Season with an exhibition game in Morrisburg against the Morrisburg Bantams on Tuesday, Nov. 5th in Morrisburg Community Centre.

The game was a see-saw battle throughout, as Morrisburg topped Iroquois 4-2.

Iroquois drew first blood on a goal by Alan Hare assisted by Stewart Valcour. Only to have Morrisburg come back and even the score 1-1, on a goal by Hugh Gilard.

Alan Hare darted back to once again give Iroquois a 2-1 lead as he scored his second goal of the game. Steve Peacock drew an assist on Hare's second goal.

The second period was a big one for Morrisburg as they bounced back for three unanswered goals and thus skated off with a 4-2 decision in a very exciting game.

The Iroquois Bantams had many fine scoring opportunities but just could not bulge the twine behind the homesters goal tender.

Iroquois Bantams used a Pee-Wee goal keeper in young Trian Tepes who played an outstanding game.

The Bantams' Coach Carl Rines, was quite satisfied with his team's initial game and pointed out that the club is in for a successful season after a few more workouts.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

On behalf of many of our community, who no doubt viewed the CTV Television programme W5 on Sunday evening, November 10th, along with myself, I would like to express a sincere "WELL DONE" to members of Grades 12 and 13 of our Seaway District High School, and for their forthright and refreshingly-open comments and opinions on the question of "international dialogue or conflict to answer the problems of co-existence among the nations of the world"?

The television station pulled a surprise on many of us, when we saw a high school classroom in session, and realized, upon a closer look, that we were watching hearing "our own" young people expressing their feelings about part of the programmes central theme on Remembrance Day Eve — that of WAR.

As one viewer, but I'm sure among many, again I would highly commend those students of the classroom shown, who contributed worthily their sincere and unreserved convictions about a very taxing subject, that of "human conflict, or not, in the international relationships of men and nations of men", and for facing-up-to all the realities that are involved in speaking to such a question — both the "easy" and the "hard" things that have to be said on the subject.

Again, you were all a credit, not only to Seaway, as the high school chosen for this interview, but to yourselves, for the serious and diligent manner in which you expressed yourselves on the matter placed before you.

CONGRATULATIONS — such contributions to the questions of man and his society are yours to offer in our day, and may you always be ready to so share, anywhere, and with anyone, in both your academic and personal preparation for the shouldering of responsibilities that come "only too soon" to each one of us, and through which we are hopeful for both the present and the future direction of our world society.

(Rev.) John J. Hibbs

$3,050 From Walk

The Young People's Society of Williamsburg's Christian Reformed Church set out on their walk on October 19 with high hopes in spite of the rain. The walk had been organized by this society to raise money to give some support in the building of the new Timothy Christian School. The elected committee to organize the walk and count the proceeds were: Anne DeJong, Jeannie Douma, John Vanginhoven, Sharlene Oosterman, Heine Vander Veen, and Linda Van't Foort.

Sixty-six walkers gathered at 8:30 and began the 30-mile hike. The first walker, 16 year old John DeJong, of Chesterville was the winner who first completed the walk. John was in at 2:00 p.m. and the rest straggled in until 6:30. Out of the sixty-six walkers, forty-nine walked the entire 30-mile route. The age range of walkers was 9-36. The total proceeds from the walk came to $3,050.00. The highest collector, Mrs. Harold Tibben, walked the thirty miles and handed in $200 from sponsors.

The Young Peoples Society would like to express a sincere thanks to the Police who kept an eye on us all day, the bus-drivers who supplied us with refreshments, the sponsors, the donors, the Ladies Society who prepared the refreshments, the walkers and the committee. Thank you to everyone who helped make this walk a great success.

Prizes for the first one to come in, and for the highest collector were presented on Saturday, November 9. A cheque was presented to Mr. H. Geurkink, representative of the school board. After coffee and cookies we all went skating in Morrisburg.

Wed In Ceremony At St. Cecilia's

CROTEAU—FISHER

St. Cecelia Catholic Church was the scene of a pretty Fall wedding on Saturday, October 12th, at 3 p.m. when Carol Elizabeth Fisher, second and youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Fisher of Iroquois, and Jean Pierre Croteau 1st son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Croteau also of Iroquois, were united in marriage. Rev. D.W. MacDonald, of this parish, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Bouquets of bronze and gold commercial mums adorned the altar for this double ring ceremony. The guests were ushered by Roger Coulter, brother-in-law of the groom, and Robert Fisher, brother of the bride. The best man was Guy Croteau, brother of the groom. Bridal attendants were Miss Shirley Empey, of Iroquois, maid of honour; Mrs. Judy Link of Brockville and Mrs. Anne Riddell of Spencerville as bridesmaids. The organist was Mrs. Gordon Thomas of Roxboro, P.Q., sister of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked beautiful in an A-line floor length gown of white velvet with long petal point sleeves and a straight neckline across the front leading to a V-neckline at the back Falling from two bows on the shoulders was a train made of chantilly lace. The gown was made by the bride's mother. The shoulder length veil was held in place by a cluster of orchid buds. She carried a bouquet of orange Delight roses.

The bride's attendants wore gowns of velvet with matching head pieces and matching bouquets of gold and bronze commercial mums arranged in sheaves. The maid of honour wore a dark autumn gold and the bridesmaids were wearing a dark autumn green.

The bride's mother wore a coral suit with black hat and gloves, black suede accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations. The groom's mother wore a dark gold dress with a gold checked cape with matching hat and gloves and brown accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Following the reception held in the Civic Centre, Mr. and Mrs Croteau left on a honeymoon to Cape Vincent, N.Y. The bride travelled in a grey tweed suit with black hat and gloves and red accessories. The corsage was a white cymbidium orchid. On their return they will reside in St. Catharines.

Guests were present from Brockville, Morrisburg, Winnipeg, St. Catharines, and Montreal.

Prior to the wedding Miss Shirley Empey and Mrs. Roger Coulter held a shower for her at the home of Shirley Empey.

The bride and groom were presented with a purse of money from the friends and neighbours of the groom.

Cards of Thanks

I wish to thank my relatives, neighbours and friends for the cards, gifts and good wishes that were tendered to me on my 80th birthday.

Sincerely Mrs. P. Sisty

Thank you to members of Knox and St. Andrew's and community friends for the get well cards and remembrances during my recent illness.

1968 ANNUAL CANVASS

November 17-23

IROQUOIS BRANCH

Dear Canvasser:

Thank you for taking on the responsibility of going out to people's homes to promote the spread of the Gospel. Remember you are, in a very real way, an Evangelist; and it may be the first time for a good while that people have been visited not just for charity but for the spread of the Gospel. Good luck, in the name of the Lord!

Both by our Church Bulletins and through the Iroquois Post, the way will be prepared for you. Please call at every home whose front door opens on your allocated street; and this applies especially to corner houses.

Give a receipt for all contributions. If there are two receipt books in your folder, please finish the one before you start the fresh one. When you have completed your mission, please return the folder, cheques and cash to Mrs. Carl VanCamp at the Bank of Montreal who is the treasurer of the Iroquois Branch of the Canadian Bible Society.

Last year, our proceeds were $625.00, broken down as follows: collection, $370.00; and individual donations during the year, $2255.00. We hope for a good collection again this year. When you have made your own generous pledge or gift first, you have begun your canvass in the best possible way, even before you have left your own home. The work that you are about to undertake is in a very real way the Lord's Business. Go forth in His name.

On behalf of the Executive,

Allan Rogers, Spence Perry and

ban complexes. On the other hand areas which have not been fortunate enough to develop economically, or which have become depressed because of industrial movements and changes, have become the special concern of all governments and major efforts are being made with the support of all of us to restore hope and vitality and life into these communities.

There is a great gap in public thinking and in public policy regarding the future of this country. We appear to stand aside almost mesmerized as great urban complexes grow larger and larger. We do what we can to alleviate obvious cases of area distress but until now, we must recognize, that governments whether provincial or federal, have not established solid goals for future planning, and certainly have in no way developed effective techniques to divert and direct the development of industry to many pleasant and admirably situated smaller places and towns in Canada.

The failure to properly address ourselves now to this problem will have the gravest possible consequences for our future. No one can view with complacency the rush of population and industry to great centres. All of us must be alarmed at the relative de-population of smaller places which has occurred and will continue unless positive steps are taken to counteract it. All must be concerned about the effect on the quality of life and living in Canada if smaller centres, such as the towns along the St. Lawrence, are not encouraged to grow and develop.

I began by describing this budget as part of a great national stock - taking provision of a sound basis for future growth and expansion. We must be concerned not only with growth and expansion for its own sake, but for the better welfare of all Canadians. To accomplish this there must be much more thought given to what this country will be like twenty-five or fifty years from now. There must be a greater cooperation and coordination of effort between all levels of government to ensure that this nation not only continues to prosper, but to do so in an environment which will be pleasant and agreeable for all its citizens.

Human Relations Laboratory

One of the discoveries in business and Church circles is the vital importance of sending their members away from time to time for further study, conferences and work shops.

The "Human Relations Laboratory" is being used considerably by selective choosing of various people to go apart from the usual business of the day for a period of ten days or two weeks just to think and decide about some important issues. Major industries are finding this a great investment both for the company and for the employee.

For some time the church has been practising this same sort of drawing apart to think, review and plan. One of the important fields is the training of her leaders to be more responsive and aware of the people to whom they minister. Real emphasis is placed on insight into human understanding and communication.

The United Church of Canada and the Anglican Church of Canada are conducting a human relations lab at Pakenham for ten days beginning November 15th. Applications have been received from both congregations, both from clergy and laity, male and female. The Conference will be held at Stewart House, Pakenham, the United Church Conference Centre.

The Rector of the Mission of Iroquois, the Reverend Allan Rogers is one of the Anglicans who have been selected to attend the Human Relations Laboratory. Our community might remember Mr. Rogers and the members of the group, as they undertake together a very important research.

Hyndman

HYNDMAN COUPLE HONOURED ON SILVER ANNIVERSARY

A pleasant surprise party was held at the Orange Hall, Groveton on Saturday, November 2nd, 1968 to honour Mr. and Mrs. Chester Gilmour of Hyndman on their 25th wedding anniversary. As they entered the hall her nephew, Harold Tompkins played "Here comes the Bride". A corsage of pink roses and a white carnation were pinned on the guests by Mrs. Glenn Gilmer.

The hall was prettily decorated with candles and pink and white streamers for the occasion.

Forty members of the family greeted the happy couple and a bountiful turkey dinner was enjoyed by all. A pink and white wedding cake centred the table. An address was read by Harold Gilmer, brother of the groom.

They received some lovely gifts. Douglas and Eleanor, Dalton Sharron and Sherri presented their parents with a set of pole lights; a clock was presented on behalf of the groom's family; a chest of silver on behalf of the bride's family. They also got a car rug, silver butter dish and the bride's gift to the groom was a ring and his gift to her was a watch.

The groom, very fittingly replied and thanked everyone for the lovely gifts. All joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows". The remainder of the afternoon was spent playing cards and a sing-song. They were presented with a bride's book and everyone signed their name in it.

We join in wishing them more years of happy wedded life.

Mrs. George Norton and daughter Mrs. Chester Gilmer were callers in Kemptville, Wednesday.

Mrs. Dalton Gilmer and Sherri of South Mountain spent Tuesday with Mrs. Chester Gilmer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Norton received word on Tuesday that Miss Laura Slumkofske had passed away in a Kitchener Hospital after being a patient there since March.

Trying Prevent Abuses

The Unemployment Insurance Commission of Canada today announced plans aimed at cutting losses to the P. I. Fund from fraud and other abuse by $3,000,000 before March 31, 1969, when the current financial year ends.

Since last February, when Chief Commissioner Jacques M. DesRoches announced that the program against fraud and illegal benefit claims would be stepped up, a pilot scheme has been in operation.

In the light of its results it has been decided to apply more widely the new techniques and methods which have been under study

Whereas in the last fiscal year the number of claims submitted to close scrutiny amounted to 120,000, or about 10 per cent of total claims, the target for the year ending March 31, 1969, has been set at 400,000 claims, or about 30 per cent of the heavier claim load.

New criteria are being applied to concentrate investigations in the areas and groups where the incidence of abuse is highest.

In the past, many interviews were arranged at the claimants' homes. In future there will be a concentration of interviews at UIC offices, and at other central points. This will enable benefit control staff to increase substantially their investigations. It will also greatly reduce the cost of the average investigation.

At the same time the benefit control force framework across Canada will be increased gradually from 140 to a planned 260. In the framework of the current reorganization program of the Commission, this will be undertaken by means of a reallocation of the existing staff and duties.

Although the Commission is placing every greater emphasis on the control of abuse and fraud there will be no diminution of service to claimants. The recent program of reorganization has provided a greater efficiency without reducing the standards of service.

Against the outlay involved in the extended benefits control program, a saving to the fund of 2½ times the cost of the extended operation is expected.

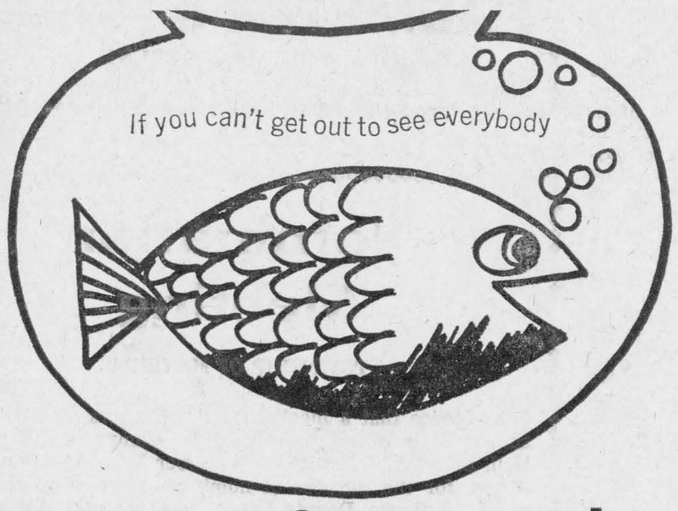

While it may eventually be possible to make a close examination of 100 per cent of claims, the immediate concentration on the areas where fraud is known to be most pronounced will in the meantime provide the maximum proportional return. Post-audit checks, a later review of payments to claims, will continue to be made.

Close study will also be made of local job opportunity situations in order to assess the legitimacy of claims. Because more false and improper claims will be brought to light at an earlier stage than in the past, the amount of overpayment in the average case detected will be reduced substantially.

Average overpayments detected have been running in the neighborhood of $55, with the amounts paid out on unjustified claims, before abuse was discovered, ranging between the usual limits of $25 and $500. The highest recovery of overpayment recorded in a single case is of $1,800. Last year the UIC turned up more than 25,000 cases of fraud or abuse.

Of 2,500 prosecutions before criminal courts, the most severe course undertaken by the UIC, there was in the past 12 months a record of more than 99 per cent of convictions as against prosecutions.

In the remaining 22,500 cases, disqualifications, with a penalty were imposed. All were required to repay what they had wrongfully or improperly obtained, a total exceeding $2,000,000.

Canada Starch Looking To Future

By the year 1975 it is the company's aim to increase capacity and production by more than 60 per cent, M. E. Fee, president of The Canada Starch Company Limited, said at the company's 10th annual long-service awards dinner in Cardinal, Ontario, on Thursday night. "Our success in reaching these objectives will depend to a large extent on our ability to compete with products coming into Canada which in the past two years have achieved an all time high in volume."

"During the last few months millions of pounds of corn starch from the United States and from South Africa, in addition to topoca starch from the Far East have taken over a significant share of the market at prices with which it is uneconomical for us to compete," Mr. Fee said.

"Our future growth opportunities depend on our regaining this market but in order to do so we must be able to purchase our basic raw material, corn, at competitive prices."

"The action of the Canadian Government last week in establishing a floor price on Canadian corn could have a significant effect on our being competitive with imported products," Mr. Fee continued. "It is difficult to see where the Canadian corn grower will benefit by destroying the potential market which the corn processor provides for a substantial part of the corn to be grown in Eastern Canada. Government action may result in decreased Canadian production of starch and corn sweeteners and will certainly result in a reluctance on the part of the whole industry to invest substantially to provide increased capacity for future growth".

"We are confident, however, that in the years to come Canada Starch will be allowed to purchase its basic raw material at competitive prices which will allow us to compete with our international processors."

Mr. Fee stated that: "Our 60 per cent increase in production forecast is a realistic one based on anticipated economic growth, population increases, new trends in consumer spending and new trends in consumer spending and new market opportunities for both our consumer and industrial products.

"We know that consumer requirements for grocery items in particular are changing towards more sophisticated items — the easy to prepare and ready to use. By 1975 we expect that new items will double the number of products now being manufactured at Cardinal. New opportunities in the industrial products division will have a greater impact on the corn grinding operation. This will require new facilities, additional capacity and considerable capital spending. In order to justify spending additional large sums over the next five years, we must have faith in the future," Mr. Fee added.

In presenting the awards, Mr. Fee said: "The company is now celebrating its 110th birthday and on this occasion it is particularly gratifying to welcome 11 new members into the group of Canada Starch people who have served more than 25 years with the company."

Of the eleven employees who received watches from the president, five were women. Those who were honoured by the 175 people at the celebration were: Ilah Brennan, Edna Preston, Ruth O'Brian, Lois Gladstone, Bernard Patrick, Carl Riddell, Joseph Lapierre, Floyd Workman Howard Graham and Harold Hurlbert, all of Cardinal; and Esther MacNabb of Montreal.

bling that information into a resume to be presented to the new board. There have been dozens of committee meetings held during the past few months but because the committees were just gathering information, there was little of a constructive nature to report to the public. Facts on the number of rooms in each school, the number of buses, routes and costs, numbers of students, teachers, caretakers, etc., salaries, budgets, maintenance problems, board policies and procedures, were among the very few subjects that have been covered. Each school has different characteristics, different ways of doing business, of paying teachers and caretakers; there are numerous things which have to be accumulated but which would take days to read. One small instance is that the 1967 costs of administering the schools in the new enlarged area, with 27 school boards at present, had to be gathered, as well as information on the current year. A proposed budget for the entire area must be prepared for the new board's consideration. Since this committee has been dealing in over $11 million one can easly see what work is being and has been done

But it must be remembered that this ISOC group have no powers to force the new board to do anything. Each school board named a representative to the ISOC group and each county has one man on each of the five committees. The chairman of ISOC sits on all committees, as well as the general meetings.

The coordination of the ISOC group in ou rarea has been a tremendous amount of work due to the size of th earea, being about 70 miles from one end to the other. Committee and general meetings have been held in various points around the counties to help accommodate the school board's representative. The meetings have not all run smoothly and while many recommendations have been formulated and agreed upon, there are tsill some very serious matters to discuss and solutions found before the new board is elected and takes office. Each representative has had every opportunity to express his opinion at these meetings, not on behalf of his own area but on the overall area as the decisions might affect both students and ratepayers.

Major changes will be made in the administrative organization under the new board, of this there is no doubt. Equally certain is the fact that the role of the school trustee on the new board will change drastically from its present form. There are going to be major decisions to be made concerning the area as a whole and a host of problems will confront the new board as soon as it takes office. Those now involved in helping organize for the new system can forsee untold hours and problems that will be dumped in their lap should they be in office after January 1st, 1969. In the interest not only of education but of the ratepayers as well, it is to be hoped that the men who are eleced are those with a deep con cern for both educational and money matters and a certain ded ication for serving their area.

The new members of the board will not be expected to look after the everyday running of the schools but will need their best judgment in seeing that the policies and procedures of administration, on all its many levels in both finance and education, are carried out with the overall interest of the area uppermost in their minds.

There has been little public interest in education and the school boards in the past in many of our areas, but before us is the most drastic change in educational administration that has come forth in a century. Our society is gradually heading for regionalization on all levels and it appears the time may also be short when municipal councils will disappear in the name of progress. The school board reorganization has come first; let us go into this new development with all earnestness and dedication, so that we may be proud of the educational standards and administrative processes that we are undertaking. While we did not directly ask for reorganization, it is upon us. Let us make the best of it—it can be done, and will be done if we have the proper spirit and will to succeed and dedicated people to carry it through.
