Truckers strike creates local headaches

Five-day transport halt forces businesses to scramble

By Anne Kukhta
News* reporter

"The first day was funny. But it's not funny anymore," Ed Colden, one of the owners of MacLennan Saw Mill, said May 24.

The mill was one of many Glengarry businesses caught in a stranglehold by the Quebec truckers' strike last week. It couldn't get any trees from the United States and only about 40 per cent of its outgoing shipments made it through the line of truckers that blocked major highways from Monday to Friday.

"They're doing a fairly good job of stopping the economy," Glengarry Transport Ltd. terminal manager Richard Sabourin said last Thursday of the truckers.

And that economy included a number of Glengarry businesses — Lanthier Bakery, GTL, Carnation, Lancaster Inn and the IGA — that depend on Quebec trade.

Employees at the Alexandria bakery, for example, found themselves involved in nighttime clandestine manoeuvres reminiscent of war time. Marc Lanthier, who is the sales director and owner Claude's son, said his delivery trucks passed through the barricades, "sneaking in one way, sneaking out the other.

"Right now, we've got a routine down pat. It's business as usual," he said May 24. "So far, all of our products have been delivered to all concessions, which is better than a lot of our competition."

Lanthier explained how they kept one step ahead of the strike. A car was sent out each night to scout back roads joining Quebec to Glengarry. When its driver found a passage unguarded by the striking truckers, delivery trucks followed; Lanthier buns made in town were shipped into Quebec this way, and bread made in Quebec shipped to Ontario.

To minimize the potential problems of this secretive system, Lanthier said border crossings made by these 18-wheel delivery trucks were reduced from the usual five to two.

The strike not only forced the bakery to alter its shipping program but also caused suppliers to send base ingredients to Alexandria via a different route.

"We have a lot of ingredient suppliers in Montreal. So what they have had to do is piggyback — so they call it — their supplies to Toronto and back to Alexandria," Lanthier said. Luckily, the suppliers absorbed the additional shipping expenses.

Carnation in Alexandria had the same shipment problems as the bakery. However, it's story is sadder. While the plant's outgoing shipments to Brockville were unimpeded, plant manager Ken Brown explained May 24 shipments of items such as glass jars and skim milk from Quebec were scarce because of the strike.

However, he said Carnation had a supply of these products stored in the factory to fall back on.

Lancaster Inn found a different way of dealing with the shipment problems. Its owners found alternate suppliers.

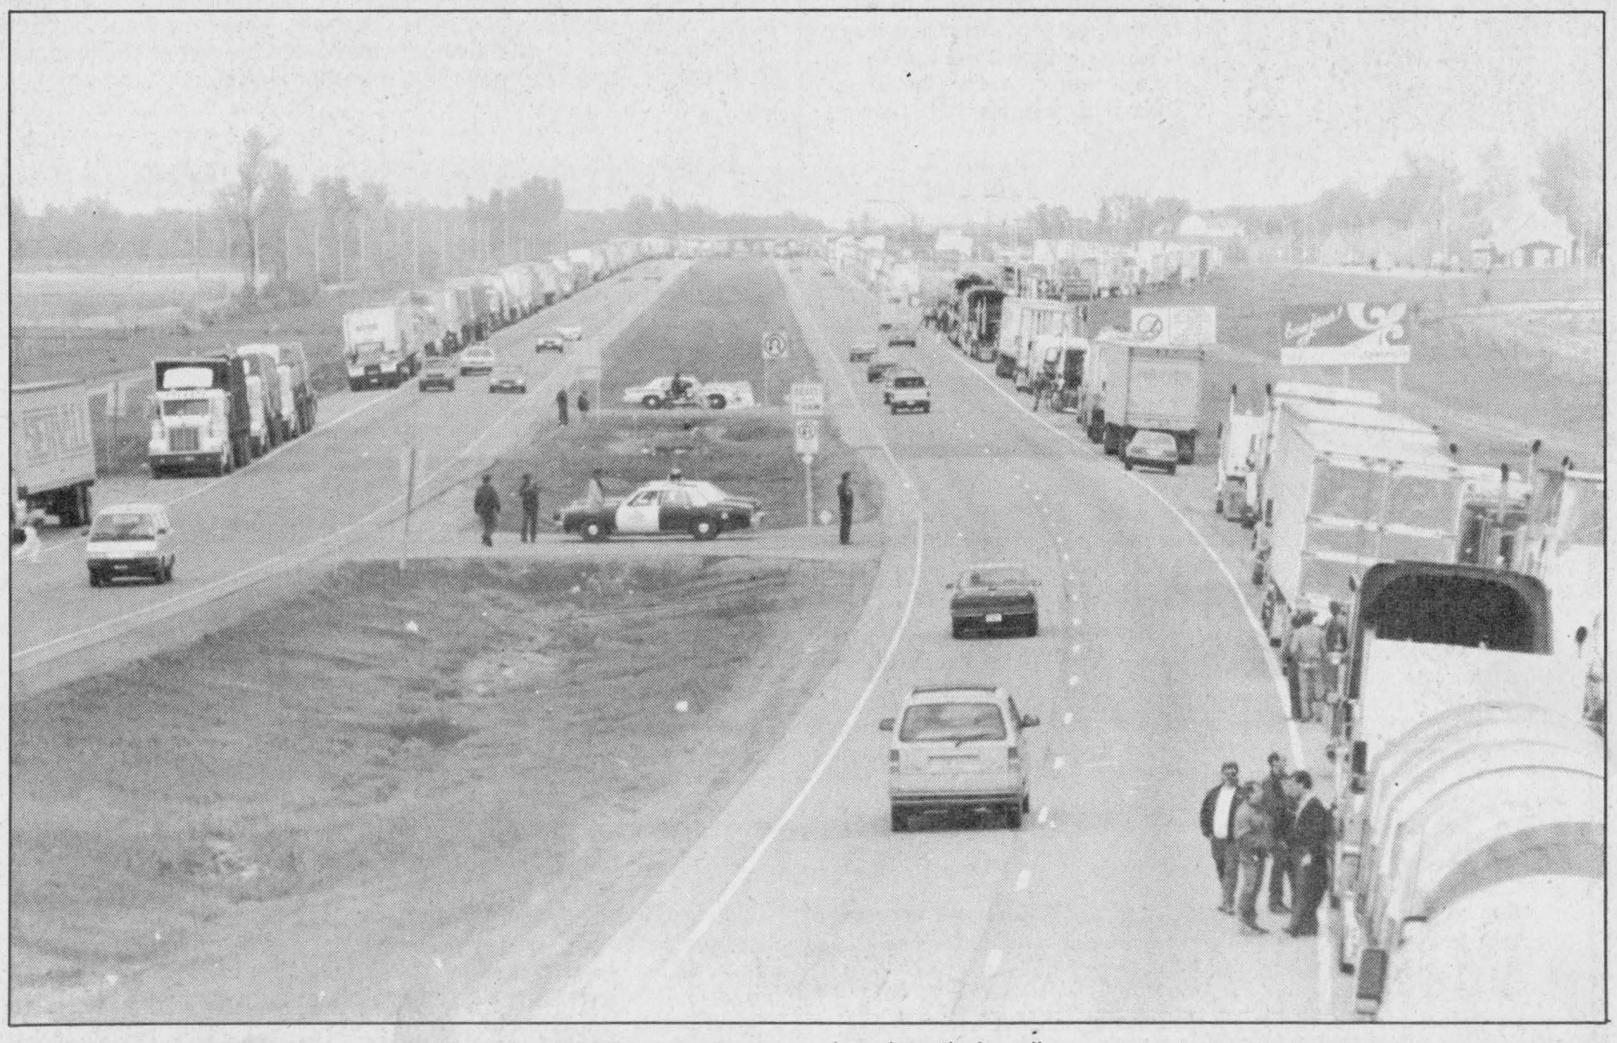
"Indirectly, we are being affected because the people who deliver to us receive their products from Quebec," owner Rose Good said the day before the strike ended.

But by what she called improvising, Good said the inn didn't suffer.

The effect of the strike on IGA was similarly mild. IGA owner Michel Ouellet said May 24 just a few bakery products — in particular, fresh donuts and a few bread varieties — hadn't been delivered because of the strike.

The suppliers have had their own problems. As GTL's Sabourin said, drivers that weren't affiliated with the strikers were hassled over the CB and when they stopped at restaurants.

As a result, "Everything's been backlogged. A lot of industries are waiting for raw materials," he said last Thursday.



For as far as the eye could see, trucks lined Hwy. 401/40 at the Quebec border at Curry Hill last Wednesday. The Quebec truckers were two days into their strike.

Little 'trucker' profits amidst highway chaos

By Anne Kukhta
News* reporter

Last week, parts of Hwy. 401 looked like a transport truck Nirvana.

Tractor trailers lined the highway, blocked the highway and waited in a seemingly endless line to pass on the highway.

And in the middle of all the giants scooted Little Chef — a pickup carrying a barbecue, a young couple and a dog.

Led by flashing lights signalling hungry drivers, the Curry Hill entrepreneurs scooted from vehicle to vehicle, offering a mixed fare of potato chips, coffee, cigarettes, hot dogs or hamburgers.

For two days the partners capitalized on the Quebec truckers strike that blocked Hwy. 401 last week. In the first day alone, they sold 80 hamburgers to truckers and police.

And, best of all, "We were talking on the CB with the truckers. It was great. It was a lot of fun," one of them enthused last Wednesday.

While Little Chef went out of its way to head toward the barricades, a number of trucks did the opposite. This meant increased traffic on Glengarry backroads as truckers sought to evade the road blocks as they travelled to and from Quebec.

Traffic on Laggan Road in particular increased last week, the co-owner of the general store in Dalkeith noted.

"There were quite a few more big trucks than usual that passed through here," Yvette Goulet said May 29. "And some even stopped at the store and said they were

Alexandria taxes rise 10 and 14 per cent

By Michael O'Dwyer
News* editor

The Alexandria budget was passed Tuesday night, and property owners in town will have to dig deeper to cover their 1990-91 municipal tax bill.

Residential taxes for the average home owner have jumped between 10 and 14 percent depending on which schoolboard payers have chosen to support.

Average homeowners with a residential assessment of $3,500 who support the public school board will pay an additional $114.34, raising last year's tax figure of $1,208.06 to a new height of $1208.06. This represents an increase of 10.45 per cent.

Separate school supporters, however, will face a greater jump in municipal levies.

The new figures for the same average value local home will be $1,190.17, a $146.58 boost from last year's $1,043.59 figure. This is a 14.05 per cent hike in rates.

The commercial rates for the town as applied to our retail stores large industry alike, have also jumped accordingly.

The commercial public school supporters face an overall tax hike this year of exactly 10 per cent. Separate school supporters will be faced with 14.05 per cent more taxes.

While municipal taxes are paid to the Town of Alexandria, by far the largest share of the financial burden is forwarded to the local school system.

Almost 60 per cent of local tax dollars ($591 of every $1,000 collected) makes its way into education. By contrast, only 31.1 per cent supports the municipality and 9.79 per cent is deposited into the coffers of the United Counties Council.

Largely, the tax hike reflects some dramatic leaps in various mill rates governing the tithes taken by the schools, town and county.

The largest of these is the general mill rate for the town. This year the rate vaulted almost 22 per cent, bringing last year's figure of $88.14 to $107.37. This is the municipality's price for every $1,000 of their property assessment.

Top cops prepare for run

Alexandria's finest are trading their uniforms for sweatsuits this Sunday in aid of the Ontario Special Olympics.

Starting today, police and municipal officials across the country are making a 4,000 km trek from Petawawa to the Skydome in Toronto.

And on June 3, it's Alexandria's turn. Eight runners are already laced up: representing the police are constables Leo Lemieux, Bob Latreille, Jamie MacMaster, Roger Lemieux and summer replacement Brent McDougall, and representing the town council are clerk/treasurer Leo Poirier, building inspector Terry Hart and PUC employee Robert Boisvenue.

The group will make the trek from the north of the railroad tracks in town to the Glen Roy road at the base of Green Valley at 8 a.m. They'll be toting the Olympic torch which gives its name to the annual event.

People who wish to sponsor the runners can contact the police at 525-1954. Or, they can donate at the time of the race by approaching a mobile home which will be following the runners. The vehicle is provided by the Ottawa police for the comfort of a group of police who run the race from beginning to end.

This is the fourth year the Alexandria officials have participated in the torch run. Last year, they raised about $11,000.

Industrial wastes going into Charlottenburgh landfill site

By Sue Harrington
News* correspondent

Charlottenburgh Township Council members found "garbage soup" on the menu at their regular meeting held May 28 in Williamstown.

A container of the "soup" — dark brown leachate seepage obtained from the township's North Landfill Site — was shown to council during a presentation by Mike Beaudin. Mr. Beaudin was representing a group of Charlottenburgh citizens concerned about the present situation at the dump, located on part of Lot 21, Conc. 7.

The township has applied to the Ministry of the Environment (MOE) for an extension of its certificate of approval to operate the site until such time as the Stormont-Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan is implemented. The current certificate will expire on Nov. 30 of this year.

Mr. Beaudin told council he was not dealing with the landfill site extension proposal, but rather with the way the dump was being operated at the present time.

Lack of township control over the operations and maintenance of the site was one of Mr. Beaudin's major concerns. He told of visits of large trucks into the site late at night and said that driving the back roads to escape road blocks.''

These drivers then asked for directions to Hwy. 401, Goulet said.

As well as the discreet back roads, many truckers made use of the busier Alexandria Main Street over the last week.

While Jean-Guy Levert of Alexandria's Public Utilities Commission said May 29 these transports caused no damage to the road, on occasion they complicate driving in town.

''Sometimes there would be a little bit of traffic congestion at Kenyon and Main,'' Levert explained.

Highlanders took breather

Some members of the SD&G Glengarry Highlanders took a breather from their involvement in the Akwesasne tensions and entertained about 300 people on the weekend.

For the past few weeks, the Highlanders have been busy guarding the armories in Cornwall as their part in the united effort to quash the conflicts on the Indian reserve. But on Saturday, about 50 men took time off to supervise an annual open house, Highlanders' adjutant Capt. Chris Bertrand says.

The reservists explained to their guests the role of the Highlanders. They did so through tactical demonstrations and an exhibition of vehicles such as a helicopter and a mobile kitchen. Although still guarded by about two-thirds of the Highland regiment, the armories were opened for the event.

The open house was followed by a parade by the Highlanders to St. Columban's church and a recruit drive to fulfill 50 regiment positions available to students this summer.

CHILD ABUSE:

Workshop to bring to light 'real problem' in Glengarry

An estimated one of every three girls and one in six boys is sexually abused by the time they reach 18 years of age.

These findings show that child sexual abuse is widespread within our society, and it occurs in all segments of our culture. It involves people from all races, all religions, all economic levels, and all walks of life. And Glengarry has not escaped the problem.

''The numbers of children who are reporting abuse now, and the numbers of adults who are realizing they were abused as children and are seeking help indicates this is a real problem in the area,'' says Jane Isaacs-Doyle who will conduct a local workshop for adult survivors of childhood sexual abuse.

Because of the nature of sexual abuse, many victims hesitate to come forward for treatment and because of this, an accurate reflection of the problem in Glengarry county is not available.

Child sexual abuse occurs when an older, more powerful person — usually an adult — uses a child for sexual gratification. Adults use their power and authority to involve the child in sexual activity, exploiting the child's innocence, vulnerability, and dependancy.

In by far the majority of these cases, the perpetrators are not faceless assailants. They are people the child has grown to trust.

''Between 75 and 85 per cent of all cases, the abuser is someone the child knows and trusts — very often the father or another male relative,'' says Isaacs-Doyle, a registered nurse who is herself a victim of child sexual abuse.

She explains that while women have also been known to sexually abuse children, 90 per cent of the abusers are men.

Until recently, the extent of this problem has largely been hidden, and the damaging effects on the victims/survivors have been minimized or denied. Slowly this is changing, Isaacs-Doyle says.

''Child sexual abuse is finally being acknowledged as a devastating reality, and children who are being traumatized today have a much better chance of being believed, supported, and helped to heal from the emotional and psychological wounds inflicted by the abuse.''

She says millions of adults in Canada, women and men, have endured the childhood horror in silence and isolation. They continue to receive messages to deny their pain such as: Forget about it and get on with your life; It was only once; He didn't penetrate you; etc.

In order to get on with life, however, an adult survivor of sexual abuse must first heal the wounds. Pain that is ignored or denied cannot be healed.

More and more adult survivors find the courage to break their silence, share their experience and heal their wounds. So too are the general public, health care professionals and the government beginning to respond to the problem.

The Ontario Women's Directorate has provided funding to present a local workshop for women adult survivors of childhood sexual abuse as part of a province-wide initiative to educate people about the issues surrounding sexual assault/abuse.

This workshop will be held on June 12, and will consist of a presentation on childhood sexual abuse and incest by the Ottawa Rape Crisis Centre, and a presentation on the fundamentals of self-help groups.

Adult survivors of childhood sexual abuse are welcome to attend the workshop. Further information is available by calling Jane at 931-3147.

''Remember, you are not to blame, and you are not alone. I too am a survivor,'' Isaacs-Doyle said.

Alexandria budget overshoots revenue

The Town of Alexandria has a $1,856,201 shopping list this year, and an income of just under half that, according to the 1990-91 budget statements released Tuesday.

This year's municipal taxes from property owners, businesses and industry will amount to $930,961 to keep the town on an even keel — $188,000 more than last year.

Apart from standard yearly cost of operation increases, much of the increase in the new budget may be accounted for in new initiatives and programs in town.

In the general government of town, the budget has been set at $81,226, more than $14,000 above last year's budget. This hike covers salaries on council and payment for committee meetings and $6,126 in general expenses which were not included in the last budget. The budget for the town administration, including salaries, rents, fuel, and service fees is up just over five per cent to $188,167.

The town's financial situation took a beating in the budget because of soaring interest rates on temporary loans. Financial expenditures rose more than 15 per cent in the budget to $325,526.

While the recreation budget has remained largely stable, up a few percentage points over last year's slate, a $4,000 athletic program in the park for local children and a $5,500 increase in the town's contributions to the Sports Palace have slightly raised current budget figures.

The town's transportation services has seen one of the largest increases in the budget. Jumping from last year's allotment of $377,839 to $430,694 (14 per cent) the most dramatic increases have been incurred through new street lighting, a larger share in general expenses (because provincial funding is not increasing with expenses) and higher snow removal costs — largely determined by the severity of the season.

Both the town's fire and police services have become considerably more expensive for taxpayers this year because of new additions in equipment and staff.

Almost $28,000 has been set aside this year to pay for the new fire truck, and wages for the men have jumped $11,000 to $65,000 in the budget. These expenses are major contributors to a total hike of $49,165 to $163,858.93.

Alexandria's new police chief, Paul Deveau, and an enlarged police commission have largely been responsible for an extra $76,495 in this year's budget figure of $366,437.

Environmental services are another major draw in the 1990 budget. This has been marked by a $49,800 Needs Study through the Ministry of the Environment which will be largely reimbursed by the government. Hence, the budget has been upped $48,400 to accomodate the additional strain.

Another expensive environmental consideration this year has been land expropriated from Loch Garry property owners for the Raisin Region Conservation Authority — almost $50,000 worth. This year, the town will pay the authority $91,325, up from the $40,502 figure of the last plan.

To partially counteract some vaulting expenditures, the revenues in 1990 have also been budgeted for an increase.

The municipality has budgeted for an increase of more than $20,000 in provincial grants to cover the Loch Garry expropriation. The town will also receive $32,917 in federal compensation for the Needs Study and $108,637 to cover increased work on the connecting links — the railway crossing north of town and road maintenance and construction.

Other budgeted revenues include $77,000 from neighboring municipalities for fire services from the Alexandria department, waste disposal, recreation fees, licences and permits issued to Alexandria residents.

Amendments aborted

MP Don Boudria struck out at the House of Commons.

On May 23, the Commons rejected each of six amendments the pro-life Liberal MP suggested be made to the government's abortion bill, Bill C-43.

Boudria could not be reached for comment but a spokesman explained the MP had suggested changes that would more narrowly define the reasons acceptable for an abortion and then ensure the imposition of stiffer penalties on doctors involved in abortions without having just reason.

However, the Glengarry, Prescott, Russell representative was not the only amendment seeker to be disappointed. Every other amendment was rejected, including the one pro-choice amendment that had been advanced.

A vote on sending the bill for third reading was scheduled for yesterday afternoon. If it passes, the bill will be sent for Senate consideration.

Monster Bingo to raise money for Hall of Fame

Are you a gambler? Would you risk $100 for the chance at $10,000?

If the answer is yes, July 1 is your day. A monster bingo will be held at the Glengarry Sports Palace in aid of the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame.

Twenty-five games will be played with a top prize of $10,000 awarded to three winners. Another $35,000 in prizes will be broken down over 22 games in increments of $1,000, $2,000 and $5,000.

The entry fee is $100 and buys 15 cards for each game.

This is the largest bingo that has come to Alexandria in about five years, organizer Duncan Macdonell said. He remembers one sporting $75,000 in prizes.

The hall is currently under construction adjacent to the Maxville Fair grounds and is slated for completion in September.

For more information on the bingo, call 525-3600.

Waste going into Charlottenburgh landfill site

it was his understanding that keys to the dump had been provided to a number of people. The lock on the gate has recently been changed, but Mr. Beaudin said that it took some 27 months to resolve the matter.

''There have been numerous complaints about access to the site after hours, and until very recently, these complaints have more or less fallen on deaf ears,'' he told council.

The site is operated by Gadbois Grader Service, and although there is a dump attendant present, Mr. Beaudin fears he has few guidelines as to his responsibilities.

''Is he responsible for access?'' Mr. Beaudin asked.

Industrial waste material resulting from the crushing of cars, and believed to have come from Toronto, has been dumped at the landfill site. In another instance, a substantial quantity of rubber based industrial waste was found at the site.

''Is the landfill site becoming an alternative dumping location for wastes from Toronto? It begs the question as to what undiscovered wastes remain buried at this site.''

The dumping of waste materials directly into the watershed ''every day'' was another major concern for Mr. Beaudin and his group. A stream to the northeast of the site is a tributary of the Raisin River. Mr. Beaudin asked what the reaction would be if someone were found to be dumping waste material in the Cooper Marsh.

''I can assure you that people would be outraged, and it would certainly be the subject of media attention to say the least.''

Mr. Beaudin said that a 1986 report from Totten, Sims and Hubicki, the consultants retained by the township, says that surface and ground water monitoring programs are to be developed by the municipality in conjunction with the MOE.

According to Mr. Beaudin groundwater monitoring wells were provided in 1987 for the purpose of testing the water, but tests were taken only twice, during three years of operations. The tests were done in 1989 and the results have not yet been announced.

Mr. Beaudin also told council that there is ''no contractual agreement between the township and the dump operator,'' although the consultants' report provided a ''well laid out operations and maintenance plan for the on-going operation of the landfill site.''

Throughout his presentation, Mr. Beaudin repeatedly asked whether the township was in compliance with certain requirements of the Certificate of Approval.

''Here we are with a waste disposal site which does not appear to have operated as per these conditions,'' he said.

Lack of information from the consultants has also raised suspicions, according to Mr. Beaudin. ''A senior township official instructs us that all requests for information are to be channelled through him... Is there something we should not know?

Stressing that the time for action is now, and that his group wanted to work together as a team with council. Mr. Beaudin asked that certain recommendations be followed: an operations and maintenance plan be implemented immediately; that the township assume direct control of the landfill site with their own employees and equipment immediately, the water and soil samples be taken; and that the Kingston office of the MOE be requested to investigate past and present operations of the site.

Ron Robertson of the Cornwall office of the MOE, who was present at the meeting, reported that the ''whole file was under review'' and that there now was an investigator out of Kingston.

Reeve Carol-Ann Ross thanked Mr. Beaudin, complimenting him on the ''excellent job'' he had done on the presentation and saying that staff would look into the answers to some of his questions in time for the next regular meeting of council, scheduled for June 12.

Councillor Bob Roth urged expediency.

''Something or someone hasn't moved fast enough on this,'' said Mr. Roth, adding, ''Nothing speaks more eloquently than that bottle of soup.''

Activity program planned for park

An enthusiastic physical education major has a summer project to keep the kids busy and make use of Alexandria's assets.

''There's so few things (organized for kids) but so many things to offer. We have tennis courts at the high school, tennis courts at the park, and two big fields at the park no one uses,'' Dianne Lefebvre says.

But this summer, they're going to be used.

With the approval of the town's recreation committee and the loan of the park and arena, Lefebvre is starting organized activities at Alexandria Island Park early in July.

She plans to hold three consecutive sessions, each 10 days long for about 25 children between the ages of eight and 10.

During the day, the children will be involved in events such as friendship and co-operation games that are engineered to get them to know each other better, Lefebvre says. As well, she is considering community awareness jaunts to places such as the police station and fire hall.

Furthermore, they will have an opportunity to enjoy a variety of sports, Lefebvre promises, such as badminton and bicycle tours.

''The program won't cost very much because we have the facilities. I have the park, I have the arena, and I have the upstairs of the arena for rainy days,'' Lefebvre says.

A nominal fee will be charged, although Mike Deprato of the recreation committee says it will not cover the complete cost of the program. He estimates $4,500 in expenses, $1,520 of which will be deferred with the help of a federal grant.

MPP's leadership uncontested for seventh consecutive year

Noble Villeneuve gets another shot at the brass ring title of MPP.

A nomination meeting was scheduled for tonight for the Progressive Conservative leadership of the Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry and East Grenville riding. Villeneuve was the first to enter his name for the position, and the last.

By the nomination deadline of Sunday, no one else had entered the race.

''I'm pleased that the supporters of the party saw fit to return me without challenge as their candidate in the next provincial election, whenever it is,'' Villeneuve said yesterday.

''I will certainly continue to see that the government looks after Eastern Ontario and the agricultural community across the province, which is going through a troubled time.''

Even though a leadership election has been struck from the agenda, the meeting will continue as scheduled at Tagwi High School. The focus will be on it as the PC annual meeting and PC party leader Mike Harris will be a guest speaker.

Fall call certain

It has been largely overshadowed by the Meech Lake crisis, but the handwriting on the wall is unmistakable — Ontarians will be going to the polls in 1990.

Locally, the signs couldn't be flashing any brighter. Cognizant of Premier David Peterson's popularity and the near-loss in 1987 to the Liberal's Gerry Rosenquist, the riding's Progressive Conservative Association is quickly reaffirming Noble Villeneuve as their standard-bearer in the next election tonight (May 30) during a nomination meeting.

While the Liberals and the NDP have yet to come up with their own candidates, Moose Creek resident Carson E. Payne has stepped forward to announce his interest in the Grit nomination. The party will be picking its choice on July 20.

And who can overlook David Peterson's visit to Cornwall early this month, where he announced the city would get a $30 million government building? A crafty politician doesn't announce projects like that in his first year in power. Nor does he pass the kind of budget Robert Nixon did this year which managed to offend no-one's pocketbook after previous years of tax increases.

The premier's pro-Meech declarations and his defence of francophone rights in the province has won him friends in the bilingual and francophone areas of Eastern Ontario.

The message is loud and clear. The Queen's Park Liberals have signalled to their regional associations to pick their people this summer, in time for a likely mid to late Fall election.

Of course, the election is quite unnecessary. But the reality of politics is that the government in power must choose its election dates carefully. David Peterson has shown himself to be a premier who takes few chances, and by stalling an election until the spring or summer of 1991, he is taking risks. The first major one is that Mike Harris, the new leader of the provincial PCs, will have the winter to mount an effective campaign against the government in the legislature, thereby increasing his stature in the public's eyes. The second is that the federal Goods and Services Tax (GST) is to become law after January of 1991. Taxpayers can be expected to be in a generally foul mood throughout much of the year, and a new mandate would allow the government to pull off a new tax trick everybody is fearing — piggybacking a provincial sales tax on the GST.

The new no-fault insurance bill, expected to be passed in late June, is a potential land-mine for the Liberals, but any ill-effects motorists are likely to face may not appear until well after the new government is elected.

In short, the provincial government has got virtually everything going its way — the ideal conditions when politicians ponder elections.

Stick around. The Fall is likely to be a very colorful time here and across Ontario, leaves aside.

Trust a trucker

The spectacular sight of hundreds of transport tractors and trailers lined up end to end on the 401 near Bainsville last week apparently was enough to end last week's truckers' strike in short order. If only all labor disputes could be handled with such immediacy.

The threat of food shortages and serious business failures spurred the government to meet with the truckers association and recognize their plight. The public has also, possibly for the first time, got a good look at the conditions with which truckers must operate in a de-regulated industry. It's not a pretty sight.

Clearly, they've got a case and presented it in dramatic and effective fashion.

Trust a trucker to get things moving.

A matter of time

The furor over the closure of the Dalkeith Post Office is beginning to fade, but we're still receiving reminders that all is not perfect with area rural delivery.

Consider the advertisement this newspaper received from Maxville Manor on May 22. It sought an insertion in The Glengarry News in order to advertise its annual meeting May 29 (last night). That may not shock many people, except that it was mailed from the Manor on May 16! The ad arrived too late to be included in the May 23 paper.

Now in fairness, this doesn't happen every day. The majority of our mail from Maxville arrives in a timely fashion. But the corporation should know that incidents like this and others will drive its rural customers, many of whom have a growing sense of distrust of Canada Post in light of its post office closures, toward alternatives. Those include fax machines and courier services.

Just ask the people of Dalkeith. If they haven't thought about those alternatives already, it's just a matter of time.

National unity: remember the youth

After Thoughts

Joe Banks

Like many Canadians these days, I'm spending a large amount of time thinking about my country and all of the things that make it unique. With each passing day and each bleak headline, I feel sadder, less comfortable with my view of national unity.

But I think this sinking feeling has more to do with my kids than the words I'm hearing from the first ministers.

They, after all, will be tomorrow's citizens. And they'll be shaping their views of the country in a few short years, exactly the time when the cataclysm of a national break-up will take place. As a parent who wants them to know the benefits of national unity and multiculturalism, who wants them to speak both official languages, who wants them to take pride in both their anglo and francophone ancestral roots, the job appears daunting in the least.

How can those of us with youngsters explain the break-up of a country that had so much going for it? They would be right to assume the French and English simply hated each other and couldn't live in one country together. Never mind the calming words of today's politicians trying to save the portent of national unity — their words will be little more than footnotes in the Parliamentary Library. The signals we as a divisive nation are sending to youth is simply this: co-operation is a must in the school yard, but it's impossible when it comes to saving a country.

And so I cannot help but feel a sense of anger at those who would give up on Quebec so easily, especially those citizens whose offspring have long since grown up, and have had the option of forming their opinions and living their blessed lives in a unified Canada. Fortunately, they do not speak for the majority of their generation, the people who fought and worked for and forged the basis of a growing and vibrant nation. But they should all look to their grandchildren.

Nor am I happy with the "activitists" who pretend to speak for the multitudes, when they only speak for the benefit of their own, narrow little gains. I am shocked and disgusted when I see film of people at a southern Ontario train station wiping their feet on the Quebec flag. And I am angry and frustrated when I hear about gangs of Quebec youths vandalizing anglophone businesses which dare to defy a grossly discriminating sign law.

Who have we become? Have we relegated ourselves to a history of such mutual disrespect and mistreatment? I like to think the above are isolated incidents, but as I see groups like the Alliance for the Preservation of English in Canada grow and hear the empty-headed musings of "let them go" or "that's a Frenchman for you," I wonder.

Yes, there's a high note buried in this column, and it's this. For the first time, I believe, we're looking seriously at how we relate to each other. And for the most part, I believe we feel Canada is something pretty great — and worth preserving.

Maybe it's taken a constitutional crisis to make us see what we'd be without Quebec in the nation's fold. But as we peer precariously over the precipice to find the character we've been seeking so long, we have got to remember there are children in our arms.

Strike was a symptom, not a problem

Pen Thoughts

Michael O'Dwyer

The Quebec truckers strike which recently ground interprovincial commercial transportation to a halt on Hwy. 401 was indeed a nuisance.

The least of the problem was congested — and at times impassable — motorways. Some manufacturing businesses were threatened with closure because of short supplies, supermarkets faced empty store shelves, and the rest of the world that relied on those trucks was forced to do without.

But it was, I believe, more than just a single example of discontented workers.

One trucker leaning on his rig in the blockade last week said he wasn't striking for more money; he was striking for equality and wage standardization. And not only equality among his Canadian peers, but equality with the U.S. haulers who are gleaning more and more of the Canadian market share.

The Canadian and American truckers are playing the game by different rules. And to fight the problem, other provincial trucking unions are sure to take their grievances to the street. If they don't, they will simply lose their business.

And the carrier industry is far from the only victim of trade inequality. Dairy producers across the country will readily attest to that.

The General Agreement on Tarrifs and Trade has been a thorn in the side of dairy producers since its inception, with unfair regulation so blatant as to be almost ridiculous.

Canadian farmers may soon be left with the same situation as the truckers last week — fight or lose their business.

While American dairy marketers are gladly focusing on the northern territory. Canadians buy up American dairy products — items such as yogourt and ice milk — from the grocers' shelves while Canadian producers are barred from exporting such goods south. Such is the nature of the GATT. It should be a major priority of our government to lift this embargo, but it isn't.

When the Mulroney government introduced the FTA, he sold it (to those who bought it) on the notion of fair and unimpeded trade. To appease the disbelievers, he assured financial aid for the victims of the agreement.

Not only, it appears, is the trade not free and fair, none of this promised aid (examined by the blue-ribbon de Grandpre Committee) has seen the light of day.

It seems that some fall-out from the agreement was inevitable, but had it been a fair agreement Canadian business might have survived and even flourished. Presently they are playing against a stacked deck.

Unless the discrepancies in our trade legislation are quickly ironed out, Canadians can anticipate more grievances from business. As citizens we can hardly complain about the inevitable inconvenience. These actions will be death throes — a last ditch effort to squeeze some equality from the government.

As serious as the international trade situation has become to those involved, it can be quickly resolved. All it will take is for the government to support our country and not somebody else's.

Chain letters for money are illegal

That's Life

Lesley Cadham

Going back to last week's snippet about chain letters: According to the Ontario Provincial Police anti-rackets branch, there is nothing in the Criminal Code that prohibits writing and mailing chain letters such as the one I mentioned in my column about four weeks ago.

From what I understand, it's not illegal to send letters telling people they could die if they don't mail multiple copies of the chain letter out within three days.

However, chain letters become illegal when they ask the recipient to send "money or valuable security" to another party, reports OPP anti-rackets branch Sgt. Det. Andy Durno.

the matter is covered under section 206 of the Criminal Code, a section that involves lotteries and games of chance. Violating the law could get the offender up to two years in jail.

For example, the OPP warn against following through with a chain letter deal called "Lucky 13." Apparently it costs something like $5 to participate and though the letter states that the scheme is legal, it is not. Dunro also said that the "promises" made in the letter — each participant in the "pyramid" is supposed to receive $40,000 — cannot be upheld.

"It is a mathematical impossibility," he said, adding that a pyramid beginning with 15 people should, by simple arithmetic, grow to 268 million people within 24 days. That is, if no one breaks the chain. The people who start the pyramid are the only ones who make money, he said.

Incidentally, I was disappointed to find out that the chain letters requesting that children's books be sent out, are also illegal. But because the youngsters' names are used it's a little more difficult to lay charges. "Who are you going to charge? A three-year-old kid?" said Durno.

Canada Post Official Laszlo Szabo says the post office has no mandate to judge the contents of a piece of mail." The sanctity of mail is of primary importance in Canada," he said. If letters and parcels are property addressed and stamped, Canada Post has a mandate to deliver them. Naturally, he adds, there are exceptions. However, this is not something I'm going to delve into.

More to come on chain letters.

National concensus is in on Maxville Fair

In the Glens

Angus McDonell

On my way to the Maxville Fair last Friday I mused about a special drive from our Ottawa home to the KAS with the roadster class judge and our neighbor Al Jackson about 45 years ago.

He was a popular, knowledgeable reinsman beginning in Kemptville long before Howard Ferguson became premier of Ontario; when he was a country Doctor, attending to sick calls by horse and buggy.

My association with Judge Jackson brought me in contact with other Ottawa Valley horsemen like Frank (CFRA) Ryan, originally from Arnprior, McMahoms in Renfrew and Hector Aubry from Ottawa. The friendship was enhanced by my Glengarry background that was the home of among Toronto Royal celebrities, Gordon McNeil and Roy Calder.

Dr. Don Gamble, that hustling young promoter of KAS progress, just before the launching of the Glengarry Highland Games, had booked judge Jackson and of course I was delighted to be the driver as Jackson could drive a horse but not a car.

The Roy Calder and Gordie McNeil horses were the main contenders in the ring. After the judging socializing began. Unlike now, the only watering troughs then were for the horses and cattle. But Gordie McNeil assured that Glengarry hospitality would prevail by frisking a couple of flasks from under the buggy seat.

I realized it was now 1990, not '45, as I walked from my parked car to the former site of the KAS show cattle barn, a golf chip shot south of the Arches gateway to the fairgrounds, and peered down with pride at the basement concrete footings of the long awaited Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame.

On to the show cattle barn in its new location, about 50 feet north side of arena east door, seeking opinions of the exhibitors.

The first was a MacDonald, a herdsman from Vernon in the Winchester-Metcalfe area. Quote, "There are no fair facilities anywhere to compare with Maxville," he said. "We are all close together, one big family of breeders and show people. Moving this barn here so close to the arena show ring was a plus in every way and I understand in the deal the village got a ball park and the Hall of Fame an ideal building site."

That was the general consensus of exhibitors I chatted with from P.E.I., N.B., U.S., Quebec and Ontario. I enjoyed a chuckle with three French Canadian herdsmen near the Luc Chabot and Sons cattle stall from St. Patrie, Cte. Lotbiniere, Que. I inquired, "If Quebec separates will you come back here?" Answer with a wide grin, "Bien oui, we will come back to Glengarry and Maxville and bring lots more Frenchmen." What more need be added, folks?

Except that the Laird from Dunvegan-Skye-Caledonia, "Little Willie" MacLeod garnered a half dozen red ribbons in the seeds competition. The ideal weather was best summed up by gateman Sandy MacRae, "Last year I got drenched, this year a suntan." The squire from Christie's Pitt, Dave Findlay estimated the attendance on a par with last year.

The Highland Lounge upheld Glengarry's long standing tradition of hospitality and friendship following the Holstein Show. KAS President, Catherine (Mrs. Bill) Kippen was an ideal hostess and was surrounded by guests.

Out on the balcony, Murray Howes of the Holstein Breeders Association hierarchy was entertaining guests from as far away as the farmlands of Saint John River Valley, N.B. Also in the balcony group was that veteran of Ag. Rep. veterans Jim Humphries. No bus in Jim's Renfrew high school days. Sometimes it was even via horseback from beyond MacKenzie Hill down where the Bonchere and Ottawa Rivers meet.

Community aids fire victims

To the editor:

Our family moved to the Glengarry area last fall. We recently had a fire in our home which could have been very serious.

Fortunately, it wasn't. No one was hurt and there is fairly minor damage to our house thanks to the efforts of the Lancaster Volunteer Fire Department and some wonderful neighbors.

We are very grateful to them and would especially like to thank Jackie and Pat Welcher who opened their home to us in the middle of a cold, miserable night and Jim and Diane Bowles and sons David, Trevor and Bob who were there for us from beginning to end, helping to fight the fire, providing us with a place to sleep and a hot breakfast the next morning and helping to clean up the mess all day. We couldn't ask for better in-laws.

All of these people helped make it a much less traumatic ordeal for us and we greatly appreciate it.

Yours truly,
Dave and Linda Anderson
and family

Editor's note:

To refresh our readers' memories, the fire to which Mrs. Anderson refers took place on May 21 at about 1:30 a.m.

Lancaster fire fighters responded to the call at the Curry Hill home. They discovered a fire that owner David Anderson had lit earlier that day to warm the house had spread to the wall behind the fireplace. Anderson's son Brett had woken and alerted his sleeping parents.

The east side of the house has suffered damages. And a portion of the wall behind the fireplace had been cut out by the firemen to access the blaze.

Credit for ag victory goes to APEC

To the editor:

I found your recent editorial expressing satisfaction that the appointment of the local Agricultural Representative was, in the end, made on the basis of competency first, and only secondarily on French language facility, very satisfying.

You obviously express the general feeling of the majority of this region's farmers. Clearly we narrowly avoided appointing a person with the wrong skills for the wrong reasons. I'm sure I reflect the feeling of most Glengarry farmers when I say that often these days ordinary citizens feel left out of the process when governments do as they please without reference to the people who elect them to govern.

While I'm sure we're all satisfied with the result, we should remember that individually we don't pull much weight with governments. Collective action is necessary to get our points and concerns across to our elected representatives.

We should not forget that it was a much-maligned organization, APEC, that mounted an extensive advertising campaign alerting farmers to what was going on, resulting in a delegation going to Toronto to meet with our two MPPs. APEC lobbied for us and supported us and deserves to share in the credit for the final result.

Another point is that this shows APEC stands for fairness and reasonableness, as they claim, and gives the lie to the charges of bigotry which have been levelled against them. This is the knee jerk reaction of those who hold views about the promotion of French language services which are neither fair nor reasonable. The principle seems to be if you can't counter their arguments with logic and reason, just call them bigots and refuse to discuss the issues. Surely this is childish behavior.

My hope is that in the future reason will continue to prevail in matters of language in these United Counties.

Ray Howes,
Martintown.

Hold out for a better Canada

To the editor:

What a difference a few months makes.

Before the last election, Mulroney bragged that the economy was in good shape and that things in Canada were booming. However after the election he quoted another set of figures that Canada's outlook was not in good shape, actually it was in dire circumstances.

So the call came loud and clear that everybody, except the government had to tighten their belts. The feds could spend as much money as they wanted to and that's nothing new. Think of the expense of "Ram the GST down the Canadians throats" campaign but it still has not convinced the public.

Then the Meech Lake Accord Committee that travelled all over Canada to end up in Ottawa by having Jean Charest confess his committee cannot solve this problem, only the Premiers can do that. As most people know by now, the Committee made a motion to the government to ratify the Accord by accepting it as is along with the parallel Accord. That's really no answer because if ever a committee was stacked in favor of the government it was Charest's committee.

He interviewed the people he wanted to and most of the ones he talked to were, shall we say, real friendly to the government. The result was a foregone conclusion; no surprises there.

Again I insist that it's Quebec who is causing all the trouble, because they want their cake and eat it too. Instead of Mulroney bullying the strong opponents of Meech Lake why doesn't he get down on his knees and plead with Bourassa for a little understanding and respect for the rest of Canada.

If according to the Quebec Premier the five concessions that Quebec wants, won't help them in any way re Veto, Distinct Society, etc., then why in Hell can't they be altered? It's not what they are saying above board that worries me, it's Quebec's hidden agenda of Meech Lake that's frightening. Both Mulroney and Bourassa have already proven that they are not above lying and cheating to get their own way, such as Quebec using the notwithstanding clause and Mulroney saying, with that stupid smirk on his face, Bourassa should not have done that. That's the time he should have proven he was a real Prime Minister and not a weak-bellied two-bit politician.

Hopefully we will never know the bad side of the Accord.

Meech Lake is like a medication that causes side effects which are worse than the disease. By signing Meech Lake, Canada would be opening a "Pandora's Box." I pray that the three Premiers who are classified as holdouts do just that, hold out for a better Canada.

Respectfully yours,
Fred Upton,

Sultry weather heats up latest Maxville Fair

By Anne Kukhta
News* reporter

The latest edition of the Maxville Fair was made to order. The sultry weather dished out sun tans, animals in the petting zoo warmed the hearts of adults and children alike and the Eagles clone band upheld the fair's reputation for quality entertainment.

An estimated 7,000 people took advantage of this bonanza and flooded the fairgrounds. But even still, attendance was down by about 2,000 over last year, when the sponsoring Kenyon Agricultural Society turned the fair into a 100th birthday extravaganza.

After giving this attendance estimation, KAS secretary Janice Blaney offered an explanation for the smaller turnout. The wonderful weather may have enticed some farmers into their fields and away from the fair, she said.

Numbers were down not only in relation to spectators but also with regards to attractions. Blaney said fewer rides comprised the midway this year, fewer exhibits filled the Maxville Sports Complex show hall and fewer concessions offered food, games and parapharnelia.

Nevertheless, the fair still entertained its audience with its traditional draws — the celebrated Holstein show, the highland dancing competition and the demolition derby. As well, a few other new events were added this year to please, including a baby contest and a magic show.

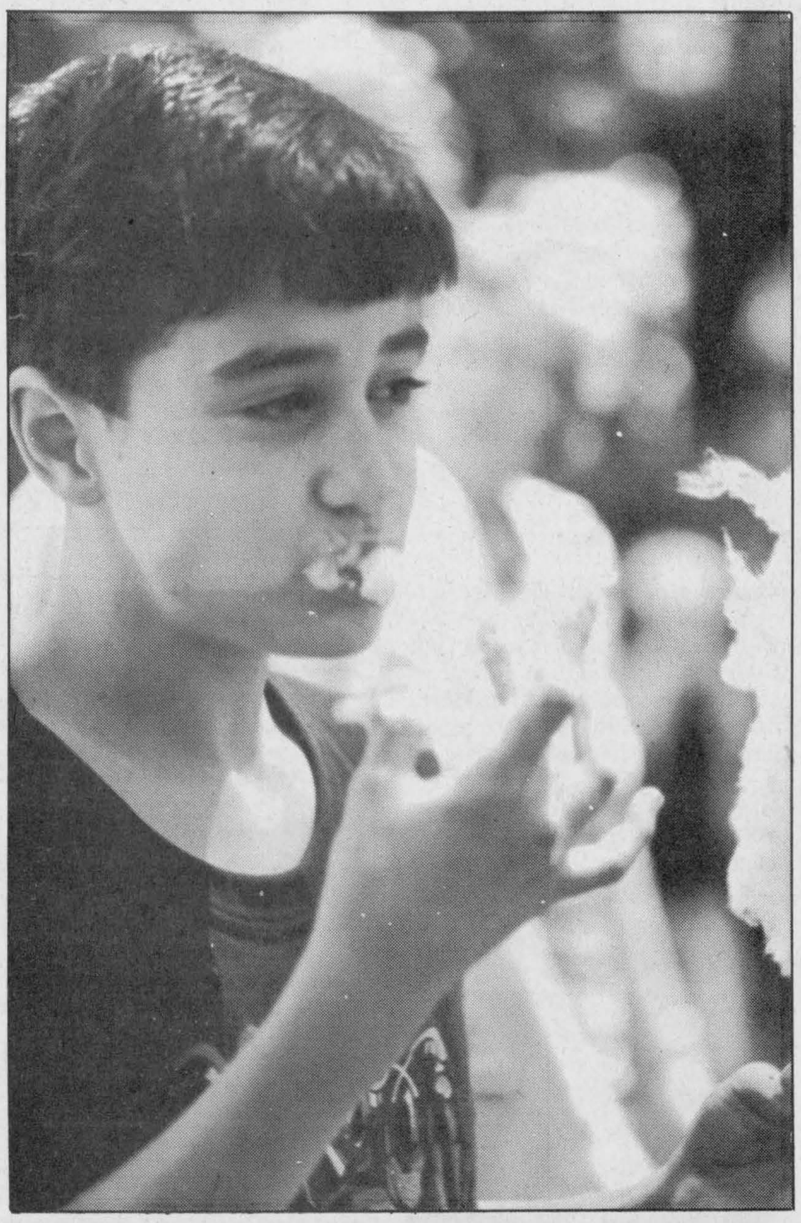
The Holstein show that draws entrants from across Canada and the United States kicked off the weekend with judging spanning most of Friday. On the local scale, Martintown residents swept the competition with two of the village's resident farmers taking top honors.

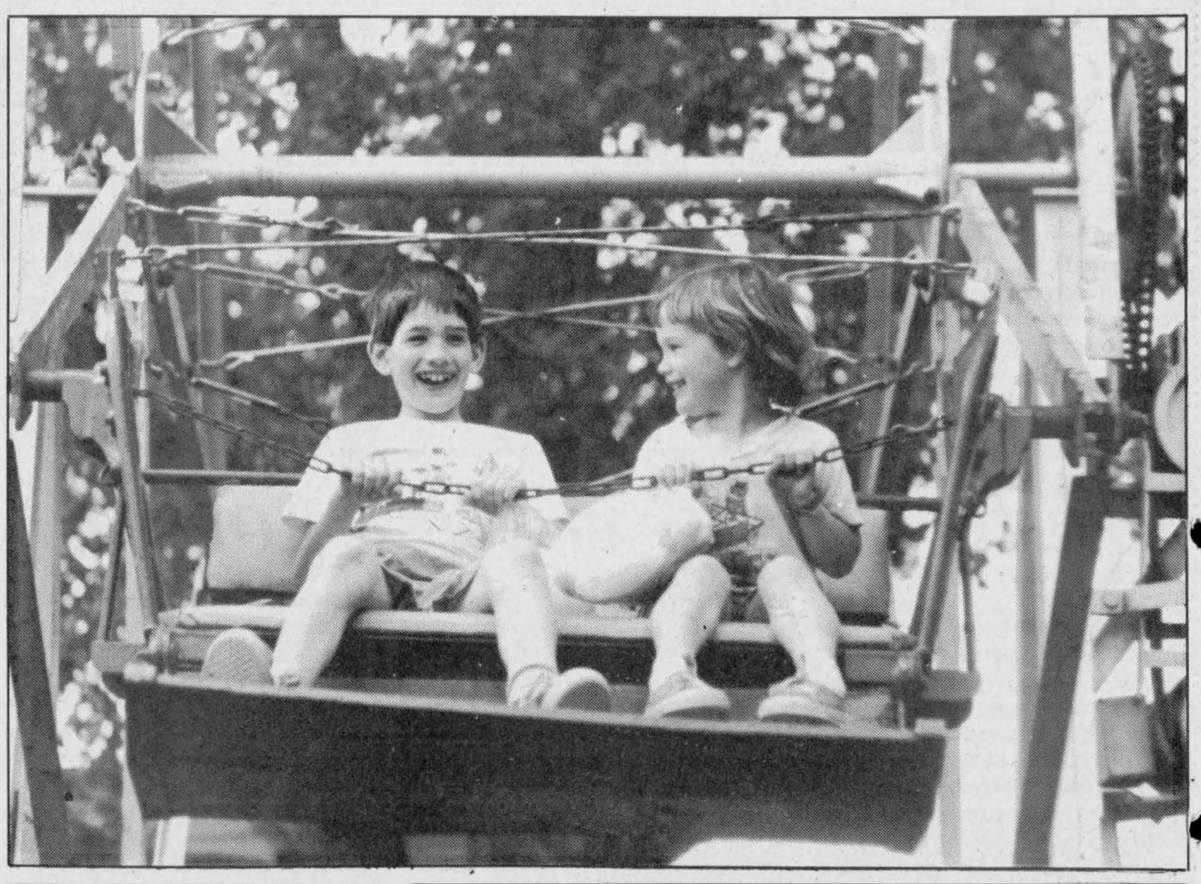
Campbell Murray's Murrayholm Astro Sandy earned the first place award for an intermediate female yearling. Murray owns Murrayholm Farms in Martintown. Meanwhile neighbor Ray Howes of Cherry Crest Holsteins had a winner in Cherry Crest Crimson. She took third in the three year-old class.

Dalkeith's Robert MacDonald also walked away with a ribbon. His Bricon Counselor Johan took second to Murray's Holstein in the intermediate yearling class.

After the Holstein's had been returned to their grazing, the annual highland dancing competition graced a portable stage in front of the bandstand. Trophy winners were as follows.

Sarah Ann Johnson of Cornwall beat out the competition in the nine years of age and under class. Kimberly Rowe of Lunenburg won the 10 years and under. Carolyn Seguin of Avonmore won the novice intermediate for 11 years and under while Kathryn Stewart of Cornwall won the novice intermediate for 12 years and under. Katie McIntosh of Martintown did herself proud in the advanced intermediate. Leslie Noble of Ingleside won the open 11 years and under. Heather MacLeod of Maxville wowed the crowd for the open 13 years and under. Colleen Murray of Apple Hill swept the open 15 years and under. And Sally Stevens of Williamsburg won the open 16 years and over.





All's fair at fair

Starting at the top left and moving clockwise, Michael Libbos, 11, of Maxville finds the fair—and the cotton candy—to his taste. Michael is the son of Bruce and Carolyn; Iain MacLellan, 7, and sister Emily, 4, give it a whirl on the ferris wheel. Shelly and Colin are the duo's parents; Allison Levac of Strathmore and Lindsay Leroux of Martintown share a giggle. Lindsay is the daughter of Glenda and Gaye. Allison's mom is Cathy; while Elizabeth Emily Fraser treats the crowd to some fancy footwork and a radiant smile at the Highland Dancing competition. Jacqueline and Stanley Fraser are the parents of the five-year-old Alexandria resident; Dana Munroe, 3, of Maxville horses around, enjoying the company of the animals at the petting zoo. Dana is the daughter of Bill and Diane.

Art gallery and framing shop open in Lancaster

A new art gallery and custom framing shop has opened in Lancaster, and so has a unique new opportunity for quality local artists.

Kathy's Custom Framing and Gallery opened its doors to customers and Canadian art enthusiasts May 1. Owner Kathy Howes is no stranger to custom framing — she has operated a framing shop in town for more than five years.

But with a bright new shop on 113 Military Road, she has launched into the art business and plans to feature not only the great Canadian painters but talented local artists as well.

Howes presently features popular limited edition prints by renowned artists Robert Bateman and Carl Brenders. But Howes assures the shop has all price ranges in stock.

"We're new at it. We're just putting out feelers to see what people want," said Howes who runs the shop with the help of manager Fran Robbers, husband Harold Howes, and Louise MacDonald.

Much of the displayed artwork in the store is Canadian, and soon there should also be a place for featured artists from the community.

"We'll be getting into local artists and art shows hopefully by the fall," said Howes.

Kathy has geared her business to art lovers of all kinds. She offers $10 posters, $500 limited edition prints, and every thing in between. She explained some of her art is also a secure financial investment.

"I think there is a lot of people buying art for investment. The limited edition prints go up in price," she said.

And much the same as the range in art, the shop offers custom framing to suit every taste and price range. Among these, explains Robbers, are conservation framing using acid-free materials to protect the art from deteriorating with age. There is also dry mounting, laminating and needle point stretching.

And for those who produce the art, Kathy sells graphic art supplies.

Although the shop is open to serve customers, the official opening, complete with refreshments, will be held June 7 from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Kathy Howes, left, extols the virtues of some of the paintings displayed in her gallery.

Charlottenburgh to see 7.71 per cent tax hike

By Sue Harrington
News* correspondent

Taxpayers in Charlottenburgh Township will see a 7.71 per cent increase in the mill rate for 1990, following acceptance of a revised budget Monday night.

Administrative staff had originally pegged the increase at 7.56 per cent in a proposed budget presented to council at a special meeting held May 24. After concerns expressed by Councillor Bob Roth over the condition of the Chapel Road, the document was sent back for revision.

Chief Administrative Officer, Merlin Dewing, told council that he had attempted to maintain existing levels of service where possible; "however in various instances utilized zero accounting principals to question the basic need of allocating money to specific historical expenditure sources."

According to Mr. Dewing, "The generally increasing reserve position of the corporation places the township in a healthier financial position, which decreases the need to borrow while generating income from funds on deposit, which serves to decrease the sum to be raised by taxation."

One of the major increases in the budget came from the recreation department, with a 16.10 per cent hike over last year. Recreation Director, Brent Daigle, blamed the jump on two major areas - a $30,000 net revenue decrease resulting from the closure of the arena during this year's labor dispute and a $25,000 buyout of the township's contractual agreement with Enershare.

"All other sections have actually decreased," Mr. Daigle told council. "This budget has already been dragged through discussions at the committee level — anymore cuts would affect services."

Mr. Daigle said there would be no increase in minor sports participation fees this year; however, there would be a $5 per hour increase in ice rental fees to $75 per hour.

The recreation director was concerned that no money was being put aside for future repairs to the St. Raphael's Ruins. Saying he had noted deterioration between last year and this.

"We should be planning for the future on this, possibly putting $5,000 into our reserves. The next phase of stabilizing the ruins was estimated at $250,000 and that was several years ago."

Reeve Carol-Ann Ross told Mr. Daigle, "The way the economy is now, we can't afford it."

Another major increase in funds will go to the township's fire departments for the purchase of bunker suits. Some $40,000 will be spent this year in order to provide the new uniforms which, under provincial law, will be mandatory by 1995.

"It's unfortunate these regulations come in and we have no choice but to obey them," said Mrs. Ross.

Deputy-Reeve Ewen McDonald said he felt some of these regulations should be challenged, to avoid the ever-increasing burdens the province is placing on the municipalities.

The location of the Cooper Marsh in Charlottenburgh Township has meant an increase in the municipality's share to the Raisin Region Conservation Authority. Some $70,854 will go to the Authority, up from 56,660 last year.

A first time request from the Lan-Char Medical Centre for $6,000 for roof repairs is an expense without precedent.

It was the roads dept. budget which generted the most discussion, as Councillor Bob Roth attacked the way roads were being repaired "piecemeal".

"We should continue with the roads we start. If we're not going to finish it we shouldn't start it," insisted Mr. Roth.

Citing the Chapel Road as an example, Mr. Roth said abandoning roads already started," really gets people going. It's really a frustration; it's a half-assed way of doing things.

The councillor suggested that money be taken from the land acquisitions budget to finish paving the Chapel Road.

Reeve Ross agreed, instructing Mr. Dewing to "find the cost to pave to the little "7th", then look for savings. If none, then we'll have to increase."

At Monday's regular meeting of council, Mr. Dewing announced that the acquisition budget had been trimmed, as well as money from the Island Road project with Cornwall Township in order to come up with the funds for the paving.

An additional $2,000 was also added to the budget to accommodate the newly formed LACAC committee, bringing the increase up to 7.71 per cent.

Mrs. Ross said she was pleased that the increase had been kept in that range, reminding council that less than 30 per cent of the revenues raised in the township stays there.

Valley peaceful after successful days

Green Valley
Helene Quesnel
525-3303

Another Green Valley Days has come and gone. The town seems very peaceful this week after all the commotion of the past weekend. Many people participated in the activities and came to shop at Green Valley businesses.

This year's fishing derby was a great success. A total of 61 children participated in the derby at the Beaudette River just south of town.

Kevin Quesnel and Julien Borris won the first prize for the biggest fish. They each caught a catfish that weighed 18 ounces and split the $30 prize and received engraved Optimist medals.

François and Simon Bourdon both caught the smallest catfish that weighed four ounces — they shared the second prize of $20 and also received Optimist medals.

The youngest fisherman was Martin Delorme, 3, who won $15 and a medal.

Five Green Valley hats were won by fishermen who's names were chosen through a draw, they are Philippe Menard, Richard Leblanc, Roch Lavigne, Julien Borris and Daniel Brunet.

On Saturday afternoon children came to the church yard to ride the miniature train and to play games. Over 100 small gifts were won. The gifts were donated by the Optimist club and the Knights of Columbus. A large stuffed bear was won by Diane Goulet and another smaller bear was won by Gilles Touzin.

Two clowns ''clowned around'' Green Valley giving out balloons and candy to children. They also greeted the Green Valley Glass Bear who made a popular appearance at the church yard.

The $600 worth of coupons was won by Pearl McRae of RR2, Alexandria, who filled out her ballot at the Lucky Dollar store. Denis Legault of Dalkeith won the $100 prize, he also filled out his ballot at the Lucky Dollar store and Reo Charlebois of RR3 Alexandria won the other $100 prize by filling his ballot out at Menard Farm Supplies.

Yvan Viau won $100 of groceries in an in-store draw at Lucky Dollar store. There were many other draws held at the store throughout the day.

We thank Roger Constant for furnishing chips and drinks to Ste. Marie's students on Friday.

Bernie's Auto Service held three draws for 50 litres of gas. The tickets drawn were numbers 19437, 19313 and 19433 — if you have a ticket, now's the time to check it!

Again thanks go out to Green Valley merchants and participating service clubs for making Green Valley Days 1990 a great success.

Optimist Club

The Optimist Club will be organizing its first annual bicycle rodeo next Saturday. Details of the activity will be given to children through Ste. Marie's school.

The club accepted registration for its 3-pitch ball league for children from ages 7-14. A practice was held last Saturday with over 80 participants. Teams will be made up this week and play will start in the coming week.

Vehicle damaged during Maxville Fair

A 1985 Chevrolet owned by Pierre Laframboise of St. Isidore sustained $800 in damages Friday night in Maxville. Maxville detachment OPP say the vehicle was parked at the fairgrounds when it had a rock thrown through the windshield.

The top of the vehicle was also scratched.

Also on Friday, Maxville detachment OPP report that two drivers were charged with impaired driving on Highway 43.

Disturbance

Maxville detachment OPP report a disturbance at the fairgrounds on Saturday night. Three people were charged with causing a disturbance and one person was charged with assaulting a police officer.

While police were attending to the matter, they were assaulted by several people in the stands attending the demolition derby.

Staff Sergeant Gerry Brunet says the investigation is continuing, with the possibility that more charges will be laid at a later date.

Police briefs

Car fire

Alexandria police say a car fire Monday evening resulted in extensive damages to a 1985 Mercury.

Police say the owner of the vehicle — Helen Laverdure of Victoria Street near Main Street — looked out of a window at her residence and saw smoke emanating from the vehicle.

The Alexandria Fire Department was called in to extinguish the blaze.

Break and Enter

Alexandria police say someone broke into an apartment on Main Street North Monday, sometime between 1 p.m. and 7:45 p.m.

A tote bag, two bathing suits and several crystal unicorns were taken. The investigation is continuing.

Extensive damages

Maxville detachment OPP say a 1989 Chevrolet Spirit sustained severe damages when it overturned late Monday afternoon on County Road 24 just west of Highway 34.

Police say the vehicle, being driven by George Theoret, 25, of Lochiel, was eastbound when it skidded into the ditch and rolled onto its roof.

The driver was not injured.

Chainsaw stolen

Alexandria police say a Jonsared model chain saw owned by Kenneth Piche of 30 Bishop Street North in Alexandria was stolen from his truck sometime Thursday.

The truck was parked outside his residence when the chain saw was taken.

The value of the chain saw is estimated to be $500.

The investigation of the incident is continuing.

Exams begin June 15

GDHS News
Sean Burgess

It's been a hectic couple of weeks here at GDHS. Let me give you a couple of the highlights.

If you happened to pass GDHS last Saturday night, you likely saw guys in their tuxedos and the girls in their gowns. Saturday night was prom night, the gala event of the year for the graduating students. There was a lot of planning put into this event by both students and teachers, most notably Mrs. Menard.

Barbara's Men's Wear was certainly busy renting tuxes to the young men and the car wash had a lot of business on Saturday as everything was made perfect for the event. However, we all know that the best part is the party afterward! Unfortunately this is the last real social event for the year as exams begin June 15. Let me repeat that again, June 15!

The junior girls are Eastern Ontario soccer champions. At the EOSSA tournament held at GDHS last Thursday the junior girls won all three of their games. Their first game against South Grenville was a tie, but the girls won in penalty kicks. They won their second game against Holy Cross as well. In a repeat performance, the Gaels played against South Grenville for the title and won. Congratulations to the team and coaches!

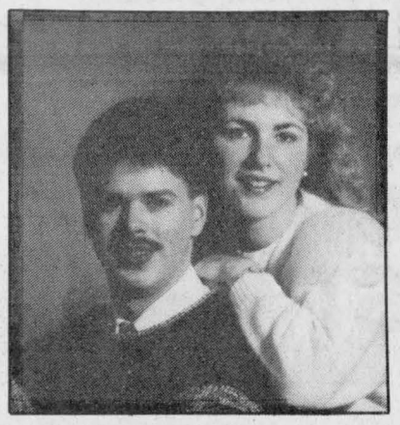
Candidates for next year's student council presidents were announced last week. There are two positions for co-president up for grabs and there are two candidates running. They are, drum roll please, Lynn McCuaig and Tara Smith. As you can see there isn't much competition for the co-president positions next year. Congratulations Lynn and Tara!

* * *

Congratulations as well to Scott McPherson, Suzanne Glaude, Michel Jeaurond, Danielle Morin and Norman Decoste for competing in the OFSAA Regional Competition for track and field last Friday. Unfortunately, I was unable to find how they did by press time. I am congratulating them anyway because it is an honor to even make it that far into track and field competition.



To be wed

Roger and Brenda Giroux of Hawkesbury are pleased to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter Tammy, to Mike, son of Raymond and Linda Marcil of Cornwall.

The couple will be married at St. Columban's Parish, Cornwall, June 2, 1990 at 2 p.m.

Stricter access bylaw now in effect

Access to a "public road" upon which property abuts is a common-law right. In rural areas such access is usually across a roadside ditch. The Counties' Roads Department maintains over 10,000 piped entranceways (at an annual cost of over $100,000).

New, relocated or altered (including change of use) entranceways onto any SD&G County road require a permit from the Counties' Roads Department. Approximately 100 permits per year are issued; however, 90 per cent of the entranceways that are installed contravene the provisions of the permit.

The Counties' Roads Committee (recognizing that maintaining improperly installed entrances costs time, effort and money that could be better used improving the road system) has successfully sponsored a stricter bylaw with standards and specifications. The Roads Department now has these new provisions in place and ready for immediate implementation.

The major changes in the procedure for obtaining permission and for installing, altering, or changing an entrance onto a County road are:

(a) location can now be stipulated by the Roads Department to prevent hazardous access points;

(b) commercial entrances will now also have to conform to provincially prepared access standards;

(c) a permit fee of $100 (to defray inspection costs) must now be paid;

(d) there shall be advance warning signs placed to alert the road user of potential hazard during installation;

(e) entranceways that are installed without meeting all the Counties' requirements will be taken out by the Counties and costs will be recovered from the offending landowner.

Council, while considering the problem, insisted that the landowner be allowed to retain the contractor who is to install the entranceway. They, however, were in strong agreement that work not installed according to the approved requirements should not be accepted by the Counties for maintenance.

The Roads Department will be enforcing the bylaw and its specifications. Compliance with the bylaw by all involved will go a long way in improving the quality of roadside drainage.

Glengarry breeders have a new choice

Glengarry's dairy and beef cattle producers now have another alternative when the time comes for breeding their cows.

Neil Fraser of Ste.-Anne-de-Prescott was selected last week as regional sales representative for American Breeders Service (ABS). The United States-based breeding company has been gradually moving north into the Canadian market, and is now serving farmers in every province.

ABS is just starting to make a toehold in Ontario, said Fraser, and that his company is hoping to make its mark in the area.

"I think what we're going to do is offer an alternative," he added.

Fraser will be serving all of Eastern Ontario with both breeding supplies as well as actual insemination services.

In preparation for his job, he spent a week in training in Wisconsin last February.

ABS has been in the breeding service in the U.S. for about 40 years. It has been servicing Canadians since 1958.

That's why all five 8500 Series Case IH Rectangular Balers give you center line design. Your hay moves in a straight line from the time it's picked up until it leaves the baler as a tight, uniform bale.

Center line means there are no corners to turn to get crop into the bale chamber as with conventional balers. Nutritious leaves go into the bale, not on the ground. And with the baler directly behind the tractor, it's easy to transport through narrow bridges and gates.

Case IH Rectangular Balers also give you:
- Wide, low-profile pickups collect full, heavy windrows with leaf-saving gentleness because the crop is not lifted as high to get it into the baler
- Prepacker chamber compresses hay into uniform flakes
- Flake size, density and bale size are more uniform
- High-speed, short-stroke plunger to pack bales tighter
- Optional hydraulic density control to regulate chamber pressure for tighter, square-shouldered bales for easier stacking

Produce tighter, more uniform bales — on schedule.

Almost every time I drive past the old limestone kiln on the north side of Hwy. 43 near the Diversion Road corner, I think something should be done to maintain it in its state of decay, at least. A sign to indicate what it is would help establish the nature of this relic. Any takers?

The humming birds are back and are enjoying the sugar solution we are providing them at our feeder. Once these tiny birds become acquainted with this food source, it is no longer necessary to color the solution.

We can count on it annually. The male Baltimore oriole makes his appearance each year just when the blossoms are opening on our crab apple tree. We wish the pair would stay for the summer. Apart from providing a tall elm tree for the nest, does anyone know how to induce these colorful birds to nest nearby?

I am enjoying the sounds of the bobolinks in the field behind us. These black and white birds with a trace of yellow always sound so happy.

At the time of writing several cedar waxwings are feeding in the neighbors' apple trees. They are very quiet, not easily disturbed and attractive with their long crest, brownish coloration and yellow tail fringe

Keys locked away while promsters party

Dunvegan
Marion Loewen
527-2284

On Saturday night after the high school prom, Sean and Keri Cooke hosted a party in the barnyard, attended by 150 to 200 young people who enjoyed the music of a live band — Jack and the Trippers. The weatherman favored them with cool (no bugs) but clear weather, and they danced the night away until about 7 a.m.

When they arrived they were met by Keri and Sean's parents, who collected the keys of all the cars and held them until morning. Many of the young people came to Mr. and Mrs. Cooke and expressed their gratitude that all the keys were held so that no one could take the notion to drive. Mrs. Cooke was very pleased at the responsible way in which they acted, making it possible for all to have a good time. In the morning many of the guests made their way up the road to John and Mary MacLeod's home for breakfast.

Wedding Congratulations

On Saturday, May 11, Dunvegan Presbyterian Church was the scene of the wedding of Glenda MacInnes, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold MacInnes and Douglas Sutherland of Ottawa.

The reception was held at the Holiday Inn at Cornwall, with many guests there to share their special day. There was an aunt and uncle from England, and guests from Toronto, Mississauga, Oakville, Port Dover, Kitchener, Stoney Creek, Ottawa and Cornwall, and Bryson and Ile Perrot, Que. We wish the happy couple many years of wedded bliss.

The passing of an era!

The Montreal stockyards will close the end of May. Owner Don Donovan described the closure as the passing of a tradition of 60 years in Montreal.

It is also the passing of a tradition for the farmers in Glengarry who, for going on 50 years, sent their livestock to the Montreal yards with Dunvegan drover Jimmy Campbell, and in the last years his son Robert who accompanied him, and took over when Jimmy could not go himself. Next year it would have been 50 years that Jimmy drove the cattle to Montreal, and now he and Robert will have to decide on another destination. The CNR owns the buildings and land, but progress has forced the change, and the land will be sold for redevelopment.

While visiting in the Caledon Hills area last week, the Canada Geese were very obvious. Each pond seemed to be supporting a family and homeowners are beginning to consider them a real nuisance. I sometimes wonder why we do not have resident pairs.

Keith Jack found a starling's nest at the bottom of a hollow post. Mr. Jack can hardly believe that the parents can fly straight up or down about four feet.

Eighty years ago there seemed to be a considerable shift among the medical doctors. Dr. Howard Munro was reported moving to Alexandria but if he did so, I believe it was for a short period only.

Dr. Duncan McEwen had been practising in Dunvegan and he moved to Maxville where he carried on a practice until his death. His son, Dr. Bennett McEwen was associated with him and practised here until World War II. He now lives in retirement in British Columbia.

Dr. Charles Stewart, a native of Stewarts' Glen took over Dr. McEwen's practice in Dunvegan. Dr. Stewart spent most of his professional life in Cornwall.

Thirty years ago, Fraser Cumming, a high school teacher in Ottawa graduated from Queen's University. The son of John D. and Lizzie Cumming of Dyer, Fraser is now married to Beverly, the daughter of Muriel of Ottawa and the late John W. Campbell of Athol.

A euchre queen has been declared. With two firsts and a second this season, Gloria Rolland holds this title among the players at our local Young-at-Heart Seniors' Group. Two other local ladies, Bertha Lalonde and bronze medal holder, Margaret Michaud, had top scores for the ladies.

Adelard Sauvé of Alexandria led the gentlemen with Dan MacRae earning second prize and Morrisburg's Howard Eamon taking third place.

Marie O'Brien won the door prize and the 50/50 draw winners were Mr. Eamon, Mr. Sauvé, Mrs. Lalonde, Gladys Barton from Vankleek Hill, twice, Norman and Kenneth MacLeod, Dunvegan, Bill MacMillan, Apple Hill, Sarah Presley, Finch and Mac O'Byrne.

The next euchre will be on June 4, same time and place.

Learning convenience at alternative choice

The learning opportunities are endless, the time is flexible and the price is right at T.R. Leger School for Alternative Studies.

The Alexandria school has spent the past eight months developing a menu of free courses that run from September to June. Day and night selections include lessons on computers, business studies, high school academic programs, adult education and farm finance courses.

"The opportunity is here if you want to learn. Our school is presently set up with 14 typewriters and 25 IBM compatible computers. All we need is the interest," Carol McIntyre, day-time teacher of business studies says.

Such interest could be rewarded with a summer session, co-ordinator Kim Becker says. As well, this fall, it could mean expansion of the courses offered to include conversational French, a seniors' developmental course and an introduction to computers for rural women.

The alternative school was developed as a satellite campus to the Cornwall Collegiate and Vocational School in Cornwall. Sister schools have also been established in Morrisburg and Winchester, with all sharing the common goal to offer educational opportunities in smaller communities.

Glengarry Sportsweek

Junior Gaels capture EOSSAA title

By Todd Hambleton
Sports editor

By the time the Berlin Wall began to crumble last fall, the Glengarry Gaels boys soccer teams dynasty had already been toppled.

Then just last week, there was another collapse, maybe not of Romanov proportions, but certainly surprising: the Glengarry senior girls team — SD&G winners for what seemed like eons — fell to the enemy.

But before the next edition of 20th Century World History goes to the printers, mark this down and make it more than a footnote: There is a soccer dynasty that's alive and well at GDHS-ESRG.

For the seventh time in the past eight years, the Glengarry Gaels junior girls are Eastern Ontario champions.

They won the title on home turf, and they won it, according to their coach Hugh Wilson, because of a stingy and disciplined defensive unit.

"By the end of the year our defence was playing so well we knew if we scored a goal, we had it," Wilson said matter-of-factly.

Well, in the EOSSAA championship game against South Grenville late Thursday afternoon under blazing skies, Gaels got their goal in the dying moments of the first half. It came when Stasia MacDonald got behind a defender and lofted a high, arcing shot that lodged in the top corner of the net just above the outstretched hands of the South Grenville goaler.

That's not to say that South Grenville squad knuckled under: in the evenly played final they had their second half chances to draw even, but the Glengarry defence stood its ground and kept those opportunities to a minimum.

Glengarry put the game away with 10 minutes left in regulation. Alyson Graham was hauled down in the penalty area then stepped to the line and put Gaels ahead 2-0 with a well-placed shot to the corner.

Glengarry defenders head off a south Grenville forward at the EOSSAA tourney Thursday in Alexandria. Gaels won the final 1-0.

Glengarry goaltender Mimi Seguin wasn't overworked but she made the saves when she had to and posted the shutout.

Glengarry had met South Grenville (from Prescott) about eight hours earlier in the first-game of the four-team tournament, and it went into overtime before locals posted a 2-1 shootout win.

Isabelle Seguin scored Gaels' goal in the 1-1 regulation draw. Glengarry got overtime penalty shot markers from Louise Villeneuve, Jenny Lowe and Kirsten Jones.

Gaels' strong defensive play was evident in their 1-0 sudden-death semifinal win over Holy Cross (Kingston), the Frontenac County representatives.

The lone goal of the game came 10 minutes in when Stasia MacDonald converted Jenny Lowe's centering pass.

South Grenville bounced back from its preliminary round loss and advanced to the final by edging La Citadelle 3-2.

La Citadelle had beaten Holy Cross 3-2 in the other opening round contest.

"It came together for us late in the season," said Wilson, in his second year at the helm. "We started out slowly giving up a few goals early in the year but we got everything straightened out."

Drillers record first GSL win

The defending Glengarry Soccer League senior men's division champs took the show on the road to record their first win of the young season.

Alexandria Drillers — 4-0 losers to Glengarry Stars in their season opener a week ago — got goals from Scott McDougall and Glen MacMillan in a 2-1 win at Greenfield last Wednesday (May 23) night.

Benedict Phillips connected for the lone Greenfield marker.

The Greenfield-Alexandria tilt was the lone senior men's division game on the schedule.

Senior ladies results

The first battle for Alexandria goes to the A's, 1-0 winners over B's last Monday (May 21).

Dianne Lefebvre scored the only goal; Jocelyne Roman notched the shutout.

Alexandria C's turned in a respectable showing Tuesday (May 22) at their home opener, going up against perennial powers Laggan and dropping a 5-0 decision.

Sondra Barton, with a pair of goals, Lorna Howes, Bonnie MacLeod and Sue MacIntosh all scored in support of Colleen Kennedy's shutout netminding.

Glen Sandfield got past Alexandria A 2-1 on Thursday. The winners got a goal each from Judithe Doiron and Marnie McRae.

Jenny MacDonald connected for Alexandria A.

Alexandria B's dropped their second game of the week Friday, suffering a 2-1 loss to Greenfield.

Sue Lalonde and Kelly Conroy tallied for Greenfield; Carolyn Cameron notched the lone Alexandria B goal.

Also on Friday, Dunvegan snafued Maxville 6-0. Alyson Graham scored the deuce for Dunvegan. Singles were notched by Bonnie MacLeod, Tracey McNicholl, Laurie McDonell and Cheryl McDougall.

Kenda Allen picked up the shutout.

Joanette goes to Cornwall Royals in 13th round at annual OHL draft

By Todd Hambleton
Sports editor

Somehow, you figure a pretty big deal like being drafted into the Ontario Hockey League would be more official.

Pascal Joanette of Glen Robertson became Cornwall Royals property when his name was called in the 13th round (202nd overall) at the OHL annual midget entry draft Saturday afternoon in Toronto.

But nobody called him. "I just happened to hear about it from a friend Sunday night," said Joanette, 17, who played left wing for the Alexandria Jr. B Glens this past season. "I was pretty happy — and a little bit surprised."

But just a little surprised because a couple of weeks ago, Joanette received overtures from the OHL franchise in Owen Sound indicating they'd be interested in drafting him.

However, Joanette, an 80 per cent Grade 11 student at Ecole Secondaire Regionale Glengarry, is looking to continue his education in French and indicated he wasn't interested in playing at the western Ontario outpost.

A year ago Joanette was drafted by Hawkesbury of the Central Junior Hockey League but didn't make the team and ended up playing in Alexandria. "Every boy dreams of playing for the Glens so he wasn't too disappointed," said his father Gilles. "But this is his year — he's committed himself to working very hard over the summer."

Joanette will attend the Royals camp in September. If he doesn't make the team he'll attempt to earn a spot in the Hawkesbury Hawks lineup, the CJHL team he's been protected by.

Joanette intends to stay in tip top shape this summer with a steady diet of weights, ball hockey, and softball. In July he'll be attending a summer hockey development camp in Beaconsfield.

Baribeau Tire Service challenges for top spot

Is Baribeau Tire Service ready to challenge for top spot in the Alexandria Men's Ball Hockey League? It sure looks that way early in the campaign.

Baribeau rallied from an early 3-0 deficit last Tuesday (May 22) tying defending league champs Dalhousie Chez Paul 5-5. Three weeks ago, Baribeau played perennial league powerhouse Roy's Express to a draw.

Julien Boisvenue scored twice for Baribeau Tire Service (third place, 2-1-3) Tuesday. Singles went to Alain Boisvenue, Stephane Lavigne and Serge Bellefeuille.

Dalhousie (second place, 4-1-1) got a pair of goals from Todd Hambleton and singles from Daryl Menard, Blake Hambleton and Andy Meth.

Roy's Express holds down sole possesion of first place (5-0-1) after a 5-2 win over struggling Mike Gibbs (seventh place, 1-3-2). Leo Seguin, with a pair, Marc Sauve, Leonard Seguin and Luc Sabourin scored for Roy's, which needed three third period goals to snap a 2-2 tie. Sandy MacLennan and Jeff McDonell replied for Mike Gibbs.

Team Seven has found a sponsor (they're now Chev-Olds Titley) but they still can't locate the win column, dropping their sixth straight game, 6-1 to fourth-place Greenfield (3-3-0). Larry Smith and Albert Derouchie each fired a pair for Wings, with singles notched by Lee MacDonald and Mario Dumont. Trevor Bowles scored the lone Chev-Olds Titley goal.

25th Lions Club dinner is June 11

The 25th annual Alexandria Lions Club Sports Awards Dinner will be held this year on Monday, June 11, at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Awards chairman Gaetan Ravary confirmed this week that former Montreal Canadiens hockey club star Steve Shutt will be among the special guests on hand for the anniversary dinner.

Bob Hartley, coach of the Central Junior Hockey League champions Hawkesbury Hawks, is the other confirmed special guest.

Labelle easy slo-pitch league winners

The Labelle bats have yet to cool off. Labelle — 23-4 winners last week — was at it again this week routing Bakers Pride 20-4 in one of three Glengarry Slo-Pitch League games played Sunday at Alexandria park.

Mike Gauthier, Pascal Lefebvre and Marc Hurtubise keyed the assault each scoring four runs. Robert Quesnel and Sylvain Elie each scored twice, with single runs scored by Eugene Daviou, Frank St. Pierre, Mario Elie and Stephane Lavigne.

Decton Williams crossed home twice for Bakers Pride. Denis Decoste and A.J. MacDonald also scored.

BMR Lumber and Mazda played to a 12-12 draw. Mike Seguin's three runs paced the Mazda attack. Ron Merpaw scored twice, with single runs counted by Rodney Marleau, Steve MacDonald, Mario Dumont, Pete Marion, Andrew Willard, Stewart Antoine and Sandy MacLeod.

BMR Lumber got two-run performances from Mario Quenneville, Bill Wiley, David MacKinnon and Claude Cleroux. Scoring once each was Lionel Quenneville, Eddy McDonald, Marc Duval and Bill MacLean.

M&D Sports piles up the runs in win over Alexandria Legion

M&D Sport put on an impressive power display in Alexandria Men's Softball League action Monday night.

M&D Sport batters slugged six home runs in a 20-12 win over Alexandria Legion. Marc Sauve led the assault depositing a pair of round trippers. Luc Sabourin, Eddie McDonald, Roger Carriere and Robert Quesnel also homered.

Rejean Beriault had three runs batted in for the winners. McDonald, Sauve and Sabourin each collected two RBI's.

Collecting RBI's for Alexandria Legion was Rick Chabot, with three, Albert Derocher and Bert Lalonde, with two each

Crusaders, Gaels, Warrior compete at regionals

By Todd Hambleton
Sports editor

Ah, the thrill of being part of a team. The camaraderie, the hijinks . . .

No such luck for Maxville's Rod MacKillican, the 16-year-old junior high jumper who is Tagwi's lone warrior.

MacKillican was one of four Tagwi athletes to go to the EOSSAA (Eastern Ontarios) track and field meet a couple of weeks ago, but he was the only Warrior to make the cut and qualify for last Friday's regionals.

So on Friday, MacKillican, who just recently got his license, drove himself to the Terry Fox Athletic Facility in Ottawa, and, with little fanfare, finished third in the junior division, earning the right to compete at OFFSAA (the provincials) this weekend in Sudbury.

What do you do at a track meet (the interminable beasts that they can be) waiting for your event to come up? "I just watched all the other events and races, and went shopping," said MacKillican, who leaped 1.85 metres.

The top four in each division earned the right to compete at the provincials.

To crack the top 10 at OFFSAA — which is his goal — MacKillican figures he'll need to jump "probably about 1.90 metres," which will require a personal best effort.

MacKillican isn't sure what arrangements will be made to get him up to Sudbury, but he expects he'll be accompanied by one of the school's track and field team coaches.

Three Gaels advance

Three Glengarry Gaels have advanced to the provincials, and one of them has been there before.

Suzanne Glaude, a provincial gymnastics gold medalist, will compete at the track and field version in two events.

Glaude, a junior, was first in long jump at the regionals with a 4.99 metre leap.

Glaude walked away with silver in the discus event, with a 32.06 metre toss.

Junior discus thrower Normand Decoste placed second with a 38.94 metre heave.

Scott McPherson, competing in the midget division, qualified in the triple jump. He came in fourth at 11.70 metres.

However, McPherson has other committments Saturday and won't be making the trip.

The two Gaels that will be going should fare well, according to their coach. "They should be looking to finish in the top 10," Jean-Yves Jeaurond said. "That's a very respectable finish at the provincials."

Two Glengarry athletes made it to the finals in their respective events. Michel Jeaurond, looking to make a return trip to the provincials, had to settle for sixth place in the junior 110 metre hurdles final.

Danielle Morin, a senior, was seventh in the 100 metre hurdles final.

Crusaders results

A couple of Char-Lan High School records fell by the wayside Friday in Ottawa.

Senior field event specialist Laura Lang set two new school marks, placing second in discus with a 31.4 metre heave, and second in shotput, with an 11.6 metre effort.

The distances allow her to compete in the Junior National Track and Field Meet in New Brunswick later this summer.

However, Lang won't be making the trip to Sudbury. Both of her events are scheduled for Saturday and Lang, a member of The World Free Church, will be unable to compete.

"It's too bad the events are on Saturday because when you're second at the regionals, you're looking at a pretty good chance of getting a medal at the provincials," said Char-Lan coach Irv Francis.

Crusaders were represented by two other athletes Friday. Senior distance runner Laurie MacDonald turned in a personal best time in the 800 metre final, but had to settle for fifth place.

Karen Arnott, a junior, made it to the round of eight in the long jump and triple jump events.

Char-Lan junior Karen Arnott was one of several local athletes competing Friday at the regional track and field meet in Ottawa.

Glens season officially ends

By Angus H. McDonell

One of the most successful hockey seasons in the annals of Alexandria sport history was brought to a fitting close last Saturday night in the Sports Palace when the executive members, players, their families and friends gathered at the festive table and paid a deserving verbal and tangible tribute to the Glens Junior "B" hockey club.

For the second time in three years the young Glens won the championship of their St. Lawrence Division, Rideau-St. Lawrence playoffs and in the ODHA finals losing to Renfrew.

Manager Don Campbell officiated at the dinner program with a professional flair and welcomed those in attendance with words of gratitude for their loyalty all year as well as the hundreds of fans who attended the games. He then introduced the head table guests who were: President Archie Stewart, Coach Peter DeRooy, guest speaker Brian Smith, emcee Don Campbell himself and their wives.

Guest speaker Brian Smith, CJOH TV sports director and a former member of the L.A. Kings, added prestige to the occasion. He congratulated the executive and players for their season's accomplishments that brought the team to the finals with the tough Upper Ottawa Valley champions from Renfrew.

The speaker recalled several interesting and humorous experiences in his professional career. Brian was very modest in his entertaining discourse not mentioning that he was a son of the late Des Smith, one of the NHL great defence players with the Boston Bruins and for many years the radio voice of Ottawa-Carleton Raceway.

Chairman Don then asked this writer to tell how the team was named "Glens." That was no problem, as I recall the circumstances as clearly as in 1964. Alexandria peewees had gained favorable publicity in their series with Thurso and Guy Lafleur. This brought an invitation from Lake Placid, N.Y., to play in their International tournament; bring a few pipers and drummers and have your captain head the opening parade carrying the Canadian flag.

We reinforced the team by adding the Haramis brothers and Don Blaney from Maxville. In essence this would be a Glengarry representation not Alexandria. With the approval of coach Howard Morris and manager Omer Poirier we shortened the term Glengarrians to "The Glens."

A table to the right of the dinner guests was laden with trophies and flanked by a rack of jackets suitably crested. Gerald Simpson assisted chairman Don in presenting the awards.

Coach Peter DeRooy expressed gratitude to the players and executive for their loyalty during the season and wished all would be on hand at this fall's training camp. Manager Don Campbell spoke in a similar way. Captain Glen Campbell and assistant captain Luc Decoeur with Gerry Simpson presented president Archie Stewart and manager Don Campbell with enlarged, framed, colored team photos with trophies a mark of gratitude for their club leadership. In acknowledgement it was obvious that those gifts will be lifetime cherished remembrances of the 1989-90 season in the Stewart and Campbell homes.

Glens hand out year-end awards at banquet

A total of 11 trophies were handed out at the Alexandria Glens year-end banquet, held Saturday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Team captain Glen Campbell was the recipient of three of them, winning the President's Trophy (most valuable player for the season) — presented by Archie Stewart — and the Coaches Award Trophy, presented by Peter DeRooy.

The Alexandria-Lochiel-Lancaster Leadership Trophy was shared by Campbell and defenceman Luc Decoeur. Catherine Stewart presented the award.

The Manager's Trophy, presented to the team's top scorer, went to Marc Sauve. Sauve's 113 points (47 goals, 66 assists) led the St. Lawrence Division. Team manager Don Campbell made the presentation.

Guest speaker Brian Smith made the Pizzeria Restaurant Trophy presentation to the club's top playoff performer. This year's recipient is Scott Barnes.

The Best Defenceman Trophy — presented by assistant coach Ron Ferguson — went to veteran rearguard Luc Decoeur.

The 1989-90 rookie-of-the-year award will be shared. Winners of the Glengarry Sport Shop Trophy are forward Pascal Joanette and netminder Shawn Fougere. Gerry Simpson presented the trophy.

The Glens Team Trophy to the club's most improved player goes to Andrew Sauve. Angus H. McDonell made the presentation.

Russell Raymond Trophy, going to the most gentlemanly player, was won by Trevor Clark. Sheila Campbell made the presentation.

Peter DeRooy presented the Affiliated Player Trophy to Martin Hughes.

The St. Lawrence Division Outstanding Goaltender Award goes to the tandem of Shawn Fougere and Mike Shipticki.

Frog Hollow Fun Run on Sunday

With the Frog Hollow Fun Run rapidly approaching (Sunday, June 3, 10 a.m.), race director Margie Laferriere noted that as of Monday, 53 runners had registered.

"We're pleased with the response the race has received," Laferriere said. "We've received a lot of entries, as well as great support from the local sponsors."

The Green Valley, Glen Robertson and North Lancaster Optimist Clubs, and the Seaway Valley Runners Association, are sponsoring the eight-kilometre endurance test for runners of all ages.

The course, from Green Valley to Glen Roy, includes a two-kilometre loop for runners 14 and under.

Race logo t-shirts will be handed out to the first 40 who registered. There will be awards for the top finishers, participation certificates to all finishers and a variety of prizes. A luncheon will be held at the Jean Paul and Cathy Claude residence following the race.

Players from Glen Nevis and Glengarry Stars go up for a head ball in tournament action Sunday. Stars won the game 3-2 and went on to win the tournament.

Stars, Dunvegan win Maxville tournies

It's a new season but Dunvegan senior ladies soccer team is still on a role.

The defending Glengarry Soccer League playoff champs and MacLachlan Cup winners have served early notice they'll be making another strong bid for the crowns by winning the Maxville Fair Soccer Tournament Sunday afternoon.

The last time Dunvegan didn't win a championship was at the Maxville Fair last spring when Laggan took top honors.

Laggan was around for this year's final, but they fell behind early when Dunvegan's Traci Morris connected five minutes into the contest.

Laggan pressed for the equalizer in the second half and had several good opportunities but Dunvegan goaltender Kenda Allen made all the stops in recording the 1-0 shutout win.

Allen was selected as the top goalie in the tournament.

Dunvegan's Lori MacMaster was named the "A" division most valuable player; Alexandria B's Bridget Cameron was accorded similar honors in the consolation division.

Dunvegan advanced to the final with a win over Glen Sandfield. They topped Alexandria C 4-1 in a first round contest.

Laggan elimininated Greenfield with a 2-0 semifinal win. Laggan edged Alexandria A 2-1 in their first round game.

Alexandria B took the consolation final by default over Alexandria A.

In the senior men's final, first half goal by Lyndon MacNaughton held up as the game-winner in Glengarry Stars 2-0 decision over Glen Sandfield.

Herbie Maley added an insurance goal in the second half scoring on a penalty shot.

Andre Chenier was in nets for Stars and recorded the shutout. He was selected top goalie in the tournament.

Stars' Pierre Theoret was named men's division MVP.

Consolation MVP was Kevin Villeneuve of the Avonmore Pacers.

Stars advanced to the championship final by beating defending tourney winners Glen Nevis, 3-2.

Stars got past Avonmore Pacers 4-1 in their first round tilt.

Frontenac captures senior tourney

Wilson received coaching assistance from Hans Shultz — a first-year teacher at ESRG — and former Glengarry student Ann Ferguson, who played varsity soccer at Trent University this past season.

Gaels went 11-0-2 over the year yielding just five goals. They won the SD&G crown last week with a 2-0 win against La Citadelle.

Gaels end their season on a winning note: there is no provincial tournament at the junior level.

Senior results

Eastern Ontario senior girls champ is Frontenac High School from the Kingston area. Frontenac topped McKenzie High School (Deep River) 2-1 in Thursday afternoon's final, played at the arena field in Alexandria.

Both clubs advanced to the final with 2-0 records after preliminary round play in the six-team tournament.

Frotenac recorded wins over La Citadelle, 1-0, and Vankleek Hill Collegiate Institute, 3-1.

McKenzie beat Rideau High School 3-1, and Almonte, by a 5-0 count.

In other preliminary round results, Almonte edged Rideau 1-0 and La Citadelle and VCI played to a 2-2 draw.

Ladouceur starts fast at Cornwall Speedway

All in all, it was a pretty fine start for Alexandria's Laurent Ladouceur at the Cornwall Motor Speedway's opening night of race action Sunday.

Ladouceur, the 1989 Mr. D.I.R.T. (Drivers' Independent Race Tracks) champion who's taking aim at a Cornwall Speedway track title this season, took the checkered flag in one of Sunday's 20-lap Modified features and finished second in the other.

The first feature was won by Kingston's Pat O'Brien. The Cornwall Motor Speedway track champion two seasons ago started from the pole position and didn't look back. O'Brien didn't relinquish his lead during the race, holding off Ladouceur who came in second.

Keith Dingwall, of Prescott, placed third. Hawkesbury's Jean Larocque was fourth and Ron Valade of Glen Robertson was fifth.

May was an exciting and rewarding month for the residents at the Kirk Hill United Church Manse. Early in the month, Mark was ordained at Centralia, Ont. by the London Conference, which is his home conference.

Later in May, the Rev. Mark Giuliano graduated with a Master of Sacred Theology from McGill University, Montreal. He also received a diploma in Ministry from the United Theological College. He won the preaching and homiletics award. Congratulations.

He, his wife Beth and children Dylan and Daryl will be leaving Kirk Hill the end of June for a settlement in Wawa, Ont.

Recently Mansel Hay, Brodie, visited his sister Ruby Hay in New York City. They ate one of their dinners in a restaurant of Donald Trump — and who passed quite close to them but Mr. Trump himself!

In the early 1800's Mr. and Mrs. Peter MacLaren emigrated from Craignavie, District of Breadalbane, County of Perthshire, Scotland and settled in Breadalbane, Ontario on their farm, Craignavie.

Down through the years the MacLarens purchased more land and most of the following generations scattered across the country. The last remaining property was owned by Stuart MacLaurin, who recently sold the farm to Phyllis and Howard Noble.

So — goodbye MacLaurins, come back to visit. We have fond memories of your activities in the community.

Phyllis and Howard and Brenda have lived in the area and we are glad to know that you will stay.

The Optimist Club report that the Mother's Day dance was a success. Rita Davidson won the "Mother of the Year" award.

At the last meeting, Mr. Blair and five students from Laggan school came to visit. They thanked the club for the donation given to them for the "Say No To Drugs" campaign.

On June 3, following the 1 p.m. meeting, the club will sponsor a bicycle rodeo for children from 5 to 14 years. It will be followed by a ball competition sponsored by Les Trois Etoiles — the youth branch of the Optimists. The activities should start about 2 p.m.

Many thanks go to the following: Margaret MacMillan, Catherine Fraser, Bobbi-Jo MacLeod, Iris Morrison, Bernadette Ladouceur, Joanne Robinson-Taillon, Barbara Howes, Marion MacGillivray, Helen and Alex MacLeod, Karen and Harold MacLeod and Cheryl Clingen. They collected a total of $1,325. Every area in Lochiel had an increase over last year!

Mary McKenzie organized a trip to Montreal to see the Expos play. Three buses of parents and children all enjoyed the trip and the game (unfortunately the Expos lost).

The junior kindergarten students went to the deer farm of Alfred Vogel in Williamstown. It was certainly an experience for them. That's all I heard about from Addison.

Good day to all of you. Are you busy fighting off the mosquitos while getting your garden ready for planting? Here in South Lancaster they're little but they're lethal — I've got the marks to prove it! Pass the calamine, Wilfrid.

July 1 Canada Day celebrations are coming up sooner than you think. This is a special reminder to all public school students in our area of Lancaster to be ready with costumes for the Young People's Parade. The parade theme this year is 'Canada — Show Your Pride' and this organizer is hoping that many children will make the effort to participate. There are lots of prizes for all age groups and categories. You can even decorate your bike and enter! Dress up your leashed cat or dog and come along. More details will be in local schools in the near future and sign-up sheets will be at The Big Dipper in Lancaster. You could call me at 347-7464 for more info.

Jolly 50's Seniors Club in Lancaster held their May birthday party recently. The birthday cake was made by Luella Montroy. Birthday celebrants were Anna Krol, Germaine Lepage, Dorothy Seguin and Beatrice MacDonald.

Prizes for cards were awarded to the following people: ladies' high — Dorothy Roy; low — Edna Edmunds. Gents' high — Emery Brodeur; low — Bill Edmunds. Lone hands — Alice Portant and A. Leroux. The door prize was won by Mario Kraska and the 50/50 winners were K. McDonald, Estelle Brazeau, Olive Fitzhugh, Helen Kelsey, A. Leroux, Rick Wettering, Viola Lauzon and Ileen Latreille.

Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame director Jim Hill clutches a cheque worth $2,000 from the Lancaster Legion. Branch 544 Legion president Betsy Robinson presented the cheque on behalf of the legion to help sports hall organizers reach their $213,000 goal. Many hall inductees are also members of the Lancaster Legion.

Sympathy is sent to the family of deceased member, Martin Van Sleeuwen.

The group also held their open euchre on May 21. Ladies' winners were Beatrice Labelle, Florida Legroulx and Edna Edmunds. Gents' winners were Jim Fourney, Charlie Heath and Bill Edmunds. The door prize was won by Lyal Gibson and share the wealth winners were Janet Johnson, Leopold Seguin, Cecile Legroulx, Dorina Theoret, Doreen Leroux and Bill Johnston.

A pot luck lunch will be held on Tuesday (June 12) at noon.

The next open euchre will be on Monday (June 18) at 8:15 p.m. Everyone is welcome to these events which are held at Smithsfield Hall in Lancaster.

Royal Canadian Legion Branch 544 in Lancaster presented a cheque in the amount of $2,000 to the Glengarry Sports Hall of Fame toward the construction of a building which will be opened in mid-September on the grounds of the Highland Games in Maxville. The cheque was presented by Legion President Betsy Robinson to Sports Hall of Fame Director Jim Hill. It might be interesting to everyone in the area to note that two of the inductees into the Hall of Fame are Legion Past Presidents Pete Bonneville and John Sandilands. Also, one of the two female inductees is Terry (Hebert) Forsyth, formerly of South Lancaster.

The monthly meeting of the St. Lawrence Women's Institute was held at the home of Beatrice Labelle on Monday (May 21). Ten members answered to the roll call of my favorite flower. Motto: "Old gardeners never die — they just throw in their trowel."

At a discussion some people said they use rainwater to moisten their flowers. An equal mixture of borax and sugar poured on an anthill destroys the nest. On May 5 two members attended the 6 F's W.I. Workshop at Kemptville for a very informative day. Pennies for friendship were gathered and lunch was enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be at the home of Dorothy Sharp on June 18 at noon for a fish fry.

On May 17, the first of what could become a series of daytime bus tours leaving from Lancaster was held. Elsa Hore was delighted and felt privileged to serve the community and to witness the response of local seniors, members of the Bainsville WI and neighboring communities. It may have been a soggy day in Ottawa but it did not dampen the spirits of those viewing the array of tulips of every color adorning the parklands along the canal. Crab apple, apple trees, lilacs and flowering almonds brightened the day at Dow's Lake. The Festival of Spring was indeed being celebrated at its best — blooms along walkways, squares and parkways.

Heavy downpours at noon discouraged all but a couple of brave souls from venturing too far into the Byward Market — they triumphantly returned with their treasures while the rest of the group gathered in a family restaurant. The National Art Gallery was visited and most viewed 'Voice of Fire'. Others took in the G. Blair Laing Collection — 'A Gift to the Nation' of paintings by James Wilson Morrice. Most viewed and preferred the paintings by the Group of Seven. All in all, the day was a satisfying venture into a new service.

MacCUAIG — In loving memory of my dear dad, Dan MacCuaig, who passed away June 2, 1951.

RICHER — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Albert, who passed away May 30, 1983.
Dear Dad, seven years have passed us by since God called you from amongst us to your eternal rest.
The ones we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind.
You will always be cherished in our hearts
You left us beautiful memories behind.
Before you closed your eyes and we saw your last smile on your face, we somehow knew it was our last farewell.
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone,
A part of us went with you dear Dad;
Love and remembrance remain forever.
—Your daughter Rita, son-in-law Hector Doré and family. 22-1p

MacLEOD—In loving memory of a dear father, grandfather and great grandfather, Neil B. MacLeod, who passed away May 16, 1989.

Lottery profits help hospitals.

On the night of the car accident, Bruce was not expected to live. Fortunately, a specially equipped and staffed trauma unit was ready and standing by at a nearby hospital. This special facility helped Bruce beat the odds and he has returned to work.

Helping hospitals is just one way lottery profits are used.

Lottery profits are also used to provide grants in other areas such as helping people with disabilities.

They also help fund sports and recreation, arts and culture, and province-wide charities.

This is how Lottery funds are working for you in your area.

There's music everywhere

Williamstown
Sue Harrington
347-2279

There was music in the air this week.

Workers were whistling in the sunshine, birds were holding daily sing-alongs and mummy was humming as she hanged out the wash. Later that starry, starry night, up river a bit in Cornwall's Aultsville Hall, the students in the Char-Lan Band were entertaining the area's musical creme de la creme.

It was the culmination of the Kinsmen's 36th annual Music Festival — a recognition evening encapsulating the highlights of the two-week event. It was an evening for the stars to glow, and readers, our youths did us proud.

The band was stationed in the ''pit'' from wheer they played a number of tunes while the audience was filtering into the hall. After playing ''O Canada,'' the Char-Lan students followed with two of their festival pieces, ''The Castlebay Overture,'' and ''Newcastle March.''

Because of its success in the festival, the band was awarded the CFLG cash award for the best intermediate band.

Congratulations and thanks to band director Dave Irwin for his many hours of work with our students and for proving what we have always suspected: good things do come out of small packages if an enthusiastic person is opening them up!

* * *

The band has had a busy schedule lately. Back from a visit to Toronto where the students were able to see a performance of Phantom of the Opera, tour of the Pantages Theatre, visit the zoo, see a live stage performance of ''Love and Anger,'' their next appearance is today when they will be entertaining the downtown Cornwall crowd at the Pitt Street Mall.

* * *

The St. Lawrence High School Band was also performing at the concert of the stars and also won honors, for the best senior band. Williamstown's Gary Bryan is the man behind the baton for this band and is also to be congratulated.

It seems no time ago at all that the first of these 36 music festivals was being held in Cornwall. One of the prime movers and organizers of the first Kinsman Festival was Jim Hamilton, father of Williamstown's John Hamilton.

I don't know whether John was in that first festival or not, but I know I was, and I also know that the winner in my class was none other than Jane McDonell (Gowsell). Not only did Jane take home the gold medal, she was also wearing the outfit that I had desperately wanted: a black velveteen (or maybe courduroy) jumper with pink butterflies appliqued on it, and a matching pink blouse! Was I ever jealous!

Jane went on to win in many festivals, but my musical (and fashion) careers ended shortly after!

* * *

John and Pat Hamilton continue with their music, however. As members of the St. Andrew's United Church Choir, the Hamiltons participated in a musical service performed on Sunday under the direction of Rev. Norma Baumet.

Graham Greer's musical career is on the way up, following a very successful debut of his band The Wallflowers. The revues were so favorable, in fact, that the group will be performing at the Fireman's Street Dance in Williamstown on June 30, and will be returning to Berrigan's for a series of engagements, June 8 and 9, July 6 and 7 and July 20 and 21.

Heather Pasco, sister of the bride, was the soloist on May 19 when Allison Pasco and Claude Emard were married in a small family wedding at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in South Lancaster. Rev. Ian MacMillan officiated.

Members from both the bride's and groom's families took part in the service. George Pasco played the traditional role and gave his daughter in marriage and Janis Prevost read the scripture, as did the groom's sister. But in Tommy Pasco's case, it was role reversal in its finest. For Tommy was the maid of honor! Standing beside Allison, Tommy did all the things an attentive maid does on the big day, including holding the bouquet!

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Lancaster Inn before the couple left on a honeymoon to the Maritimes.

Upon their return, an open reception will be held for their many friends at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre, June 2.

Prior to the wedding, Allison was entertained at a number of showers given in her honor.

Annette Huizinga hosted a Jack and Jill party with Allison's old high school friends, presenting the couple with a bunch of cleaning things. In order to ensure that Claude's meals contain not only variety, but surprises as well, Allison was given a supply of canned goods — with the labels removed!

Joan McAteer entertained at a party in Cornwall for Emard family and friends, and Allison's new friends and co-workers in Toronto took her out for dinner.

Wendy Rozon and Tish Humphries and their daughters hosted a large shower for some 70 friends and neighbors of Allison's and at a dinner party given by the McCuaig and MacLachlan families, the bride was presented with a Kierstead print.

And finally Rosetta McRae, Elizabeth McRae and Leslie Ann MacDonald had a shower for Allison's nursing friends from St. Lawrence College.

Singing has also brought honors to a local lady. Julie Lapierre of the Gore Road, now living in London, Ont. where she attends Fanshawe College, made use of her lovely voice to win the title of Miss Canadian Western Hemisphere at a pageant held recently at the Skyline Hotel in Toronto.

Julie placed first in the talent portion of the contest, first in the Miss talent photogenic, first in the best outfit category, and third in the beauty, to take overall first place and the coveted title.

On Aug. 12, Julie will travel to Miami to compete with girls from all over this side of the globe for the Miss Western Hemisphere crown.

We congratulate Julie on her victory and wish her all the best in the upcoming contest.

Three of our local residents were taken to hospital last week and we all hope and pray their time there will prove short. Donald MacLennan and Clark McDonell were admitted with heart problems, while Rita Page is suffering from a viral infection.

Audrey Blair and Dawson Pratt were first in Bridge Club play this week, followed by Hanz Schulz and Garry O'Connell, with Lila Mogelon and Suzanne Hazlett and Ernie and Daisy Pelley finishing in a third place tie.

A few children of St. William's Parish will be taking part in a holy celebration this weekend. They will be receiving the Sacrament of the Eucharist. This is an important part in their Catholic lives, just as important as their baptism and their marriage. They will receive the Body of Christ for the first time. They have prepared for this special celebration all year. I do not have the list of all the names, therefore it would not be fair to only mention a few. Congratulations to all the children and may your lives be filled with the Holy Spirit.

WI News

Members of Martintown Women's Institute met in the Seniors' Room of the Martintown Recreation Centre for their May meeting. In the absence of Secretary Joan Mackenzie, Eileen Johnston recorded the proceedings. Roll call was An old-time weather prediction.''

Alison Murray was pleased to present Carla Wood a gift from the branch as she has completed 24 4-H projects, the final one being 'Putting your best foot forward'. Carla also won the FWIO 60th anniversary award and she is at present attending Ontario Agricultural College. Congratulations Carla — quite an achievement! Alison also expressed the branch's thanks to the leaders, Shirley Baudin and Sandra Wood for their continued interest in young people and 4-H work.

An invitation has been extended to our branch to attend the 75th anniversary of McCrimmon WI, June 16, 2 p.m., at the Laggan Public School.

Jan Buckland, on behalf of the branch, will present dictionaries to the Grade 8 students of the Martintown Public School.

A committee was formed to draw up plans for the forthcoming celebration of our own 80th anniversary; this will take place June 21 in the evening, at the Martintown Community Centre.

Beverley Runions, convenor, was pleased to introduce our guests Sharon Villeneuve and Betty Morrow. Both are members of a non-profit organization titled Appearance Concepts Foundation of Canada, to help people deal with the physical and emotional changes that come part and parcel of cancer. Sharon displayed not only special make-up that could be used to cover blemishes incurred by the medication, but also special headgear to cover loss of hair, also the use of scarves. Charlotte Sansom volunteered to be a ''patient'' and the makeup application was expertly demonstrated by Sharon. Our guests were thanked by Beverley. The meeting then closed with a social hour and luncheon served by the hostesses.

Our next meeting will be Thursday evening, June 21.

It certainly is nice to see the trees green up as they have, and summer seems to be actually on its way.

However, there is to be several inches of snow in the upper regions of Northern California, how about that? I learned today that there are parts of California reaching farther north than southern Ontario, and I didn't realize that. One always tends to think of the U.S.A. as "south."

Anyway, folks are having a fine time getting the gardens planted during this good weather. It's always an exciting time waiting for the first shoots to appear, anticipating the first tasty garden produce, crisp new radishes, and the wonderful unbeatable flavor of the first garden ripened tomatoes. Mmmm makes it all worthwhile somehow! By the way, we have rhubarb to spare, any takers?

A reminder to women about the June UCW meeting in Glen Sandfield that the guest speaker will be Sheila Snelling of Montreal Ottawa Presbytery. Her topic will be The Future of Women in the Church and there will be a video presentation. The meeting is called for 2 p.m. on June 6 at Glen Sandfield United Church.

Richard Fraser has returned to his home in Kincardine after a week's visit with his mother Sara MacMillan.

On the evening of May 27, the East Hawkesbury United Church congregation enjoyed some wonderful musical presentations by the 4 Laddies of Chateauguay, Que. and Rev. Gould who used to be the pastor at Kirk Hill United Church. Mrs. Gould accompanied them on the old pedal organ.

After the service, she played for a hymn sing, and when she got tired, Stella Fraser, the church organist, took her place for more old favorites. Folks left about 10:45 p.m.

There will be another evening one Sunday soon, and I hope to be able to let folks know about it in this column.

News of John D. MacMillan is very encouraging, his family report that they are seeing a definite improvement in his health. May we just add our wishes for continued progress, and we hope that he will be well in the not too distant future.

Mildred and Ewen MacPhee and family have been visiting friends and family members in the area recently. They have now returned to their home in Toronto.

Just a reminder about the WI District annual meeting at Martintown United Church on June 30. They hope all who can attend will come out to the meeting. Picnic Grove WI will be the hosts.

McCrimmon WI Branch met on May 17 at the Township Hall in Lochiel. The roll call was: my first memories of an historical event, and a surprising number of the group mentioned the visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth when they visited Alexandria on their way elsewhere. This was the Tweedsmuir meeting, and the books were on display for the day. The delegates to attend the annual meeting were selected and are President Marguerite McGillis, Past-president Bertha Fraser and Treasurer Helen MacLeod. There will be one member's name for the memorial service then, Mrs. Archie McRae.

The branch is involved with the WI project called women feed the world, and a monthly draw with tickets takes place, with proceeds going to the project. This month's winner was Marguerite McGillis. Betty McDonald had the motto which was a most interesting reading from one of the Tweedsmuir History Books. Fun time was presented by Nan Campbell. She had the group get involved in a skit by choosing people for the roles. She provided several props, and the narration for her playlet called Rindercella. It was just hilarious, and the topper was when she produced the "slass gipper" and it was a man's big rubber, for Chince Parming to try on the feet of the Sasty Nisters and the Mugly Uther.

Lunch, and a time to examine the history books was enjoyed at the close of the meeting.
