Farmers need markets, federal subsidies end

Agricultural and Agri-Food Minister, Ralph Goodale is submitting a monthly column to the Press as a means of informing area residents how the federal government plans to meet upcoming challenges facing the agricultural industry. The minster welcomes readers' comments. You can write to him at Office 175-EB, House of Commons, Ottawa, K1A 0A6.

The Canadian government is moving to bring our domestic agricultural policies in line with a more open and independent world trading system — and to prepare ourselves to do better and better in that system.

We are ending certain subsidies that have their origins decades ago, even into the last century. As of August 1st, for example, subsidies under the Western Grain Transportation Act will come to an end.

That means two things. First, our economy will strengthen — with fewer distortions, higher valued crops and greater diversification, including livestock, more value-added processing and a more efficient transportation system. But second, Canada, in the grain and oilseed sector, will be out of the export subsidy business entirely.

We want that spirit and that example to be reflected in the conduct of our trading partners in the United States and the European Union. Canada has made its contribution, we expect the U.S. and Europe to make theirs. It's about time!

Looking to the future, Canada welcomes the expansion of NAFTA. We are working hard with our partners towards the accession of Chile next year and the export opportunities that will bring.

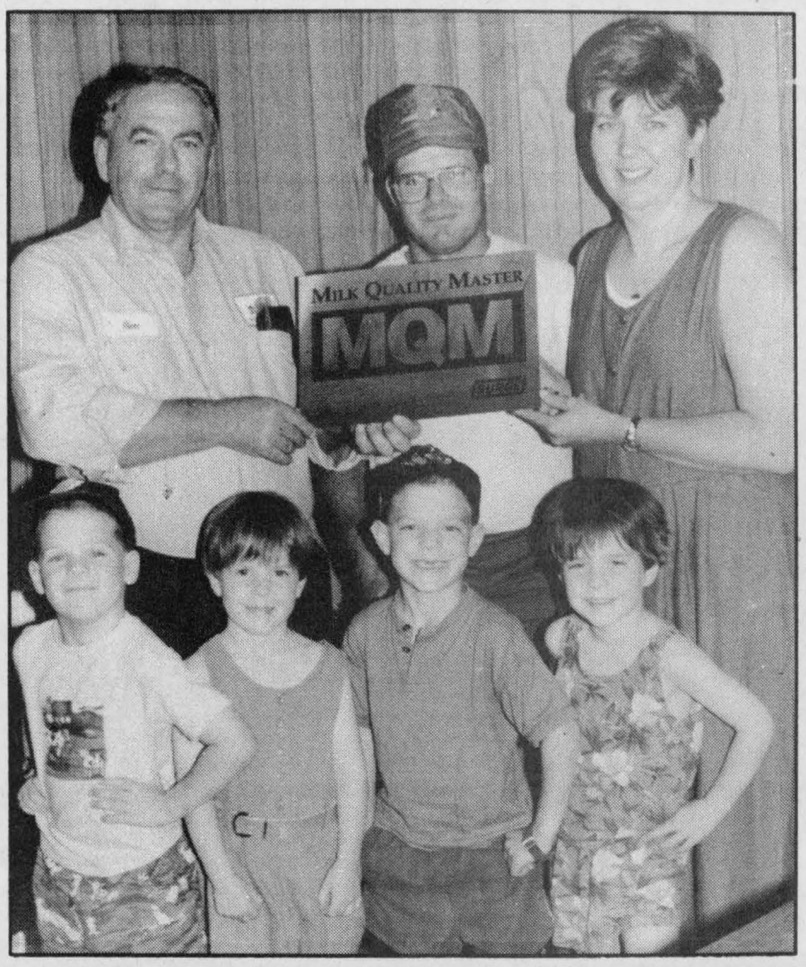

But better trade agreements are not an end in themselves. They are a means to achieve greater access, greater stability, greater predictability, greater fairness.

They are a way to increase the confidence and success of producers and processors, and to satisfy the demands of consumers for good, affordable products and reduced government deficits.

We are well launched down that road — bilaterally, regionally and multilaterally. However, that should not make us self-satisfied or complacent, but rather vigilant in preserving what we have — both in integrity and its potential.

We must work globally to finally put an end to the era of agricultural export sibsidies. And we must continue to build regional and multilateral trade frameworks that complement each other, that work together toward objectives we all share — financial security, economic growth and good jobs.

We all know the old saying — where there is a will, there is a way. Today, we generally know what the ways are. Now, it is a question of will, especially on the part of our biggest trading partners who are lagging behind the Canadian example.

Gronigers receive milk quality award

NORTH GOWER — Carleton County dairy producers Tim and Diane Groniger were recently recognized by Surge dealer Wayne McLaren as Milk Quality Masters (MQM).

The Gronigers, who farm in the Carlsbad Springs area, had an average somatic cell count of 78,100 and an average bacteria plate count of 2,700 on their dairy operation for the last 12 months.

The Milk Quality Master award program, developed by Babson Bros. Co. honors dairy producers across North America who, through outstanding and progressive management, have maintained an average somatic cell count of 100,000 or less and an average bacteria count of 5,000 or less.

The Gronigers milk 20 Holsteins and their attention to good production management, herd health, feeding, breeding, proper milking equipment and procedures led to receiving the Milk Master Quality award.

For their efforts, the Gronigers were presented the MQM stainless steel sign and a pewter lapel pin, specially designed by Babson Bros. Co. The award will be displayed on the family's farm.

The Mastering Milk Quality award is a tribute to dairy producers who practise good production management, herd health, proper maintenance and service of milking equipment, and proper milking procedures.

Milk... from moo to you!

by Anja Berends, Dundas Dairy Educator

In 1994 Dundas County dairy farmers which numbered 288 produced 84,879,358 litres of milk.

The most common breed of dairy cow in Canada is the Holstein which originated from northern Holland. You can recognize these cows by the large black or red patches on their white bodies. This breed produces the most milk of all and makes up 95 per cent of the dairy cows in Canada. There are about 1,200,000 Holsteins in Canada.

Pricing standing hay

Each summer I receive a number of calls on the subject of valuing standing hay for sale. These questions are among the most difficult to answer because there are many variables involved. The supply of hay varies with the amount of winter- kill and the weather conditions. However, for many years Grenville County has been a hay-surplus area.

The larger variables that should influence the price of hay include the legume content, the maturity of the stand, the condition of the fields and the quantity of hay being sold.

Grenville ag report
by Stuart Leyenaar, P.Ag., Grenville County Ag Rep.

More variables exist. Will that be hay or haylage? Regular shape bales or big round bales? Or, a combination of these alternatives?

Traditionally, hay has been harvested, measured and sold by the square bale. This usually complicates the valuation of standing hay, as the size and weight of a bale tends to change depending on whether the baling is done by a custom operator, the seller, or the buyer. While square bales usually weigh between 30 and 40 pounds when fed, their weights may range up to 60 to 70 pounds when the buyer is baling the hay he purchased standing in the field. Obviously, a fairer method of valuing hay would be to price it per ton. However, that approach depends on scales being available for weighing the loads of hay.

Another approach you should consider is to price the standing hay for sale on a per acre basis. This basis of pricing hay is especially useful early in the season, so that the harvesting schedule can be determined by the purchaser for his benefit. For example, if the buyer is looking for high quality legume hay or haylage he may aim to harvest two or three cuts, thus maximizing the quality and yield of protein. Share-cropping is another method available to owners who have suitable storage for their share, but lack the time and/or equipment needed to harvest the hay.

But, I still haven't answered your questions, "What's the price of hay?" Let's work with these assumptions. Average yields of hay would be three tons per acre for mixed legume/grass hay. Total yields could approach four or five tons per acre, given adequate moisture, fertility and timely harvesting in early June, mid-July and late August. If hay is worth $1.50 per 40 pound bale, or $75 per ton baled, the standing crop should be worth about $30-$35 per ton. This allows for harvesting costs of about $40 per ton, barely sufficient to cover the Ontario custom rates for swathing, raking and baling. At two tons per acre, this works out to $70 per acre for standing hay. Above average yields and quality should be worth a premium both to the buyer and seller.

One final point to consider: if you have hay for sale, or if you are in the market to buy hay, place your ads early and do your own market research. While prices may improve (in either direction) as the season progresses, the quality of hay is sure to decline as time goes on.

4-H update

Car wash huge success

by Kelly Fawcett

WINCHESTER — On June 24, the West Dundas Dairy Club held its first fundraising event — a car wash and bake sale.

By 10 am we had two cars, and after that, there were four lined up side by side and a line waiting. It was a great day and will benefit many 4-H events and tie stalls. At the end of the day, after the pizza feast, our profits totalled $332. Thanks to all the people who came out and supported our cause. It was greatly appreciated.

Thanks also goes to the following people who helped in some way to make our day a success: Willie Armstrong, Dianne Fetterly, Arnie Fowler, Mike Dean's, Rita Velthuis, Kemptville Co-op, Winchester IDA Pharmacy, Geggie's Home Hardware, Don Johnston, The Rainbow Company, Phyllis MacMaster, Neil Kittle, Keith Rook and all the parents and members.

Not only was it an enjoyable day, but an overall success. We hope to do this again next year.

Vernon Calf Club plans events

by David Conn

VERNON — The third meeting of the Vernon Calf Club was held at Breezehill Holsteins, the farm of Glenn and Brenda and Larry and Nancy McDonald.

We increased our judging skills in cows and soybeans.

The Vernon Club thanks Petric's Ford for the use of their garage and their facilities for our car wash held recently.

The date for our next meeting is still undecided because it is our mini-judging night. A trip to Schouten farms in North Gower might also take place in July.

Skit night is scheduled for July 20 at the Kars Recreation Centre.

Club discusses heat units

by Jankees Quist

WINCHESTER — The Dundas 4-H field crops club held its last meeting at 7:35 pm at the Quist farm.

After a short period of social recreation we recited the 4-H pledge to begin the meeting. Stephen Hardy took the roll call and read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Our vice-president Garett Doornwaard asked 4-H members to participate in the bike-a-thon on July 1.

Youth leader, Huib Quist talked about what people and plants need to grow properly and about soil samples. After Huib's presentation, our leader Grahame Hardy talked to the members about corn heat units (CHU).

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held on July 5 at Hardy's farm.

Safety-minded

The Dundas Farm Safety Association recently chose the winners of this year's farm safety poster competition. The top five included, back, left to right: Stephen Honders (second), Carl DeJong (fourth), Aaron Douma (fifth) with brother Thomas standing in, and front, Esther Biemond (first), Karen VanRyswyk (third). The competition is open to county Grade 6 students.

FCC lending rises

REGINA — Canadian farmers and agri-businesses borrowed $632 million dollars from Farm Credit Corp. (FCC) in 1994/95 — an increase of 23 per cent over the previous fiscal year.

The increased lending volume can be attributed to several factors, including a recovery in the farm sector during the past year.

Users to pay for weather information

OTTAWA — Environment Canada recently introduced two new 1-900 user-pay telephone weather services, WeatherPlus and WeatherLive to Eastern Ontario. Special forecasts, climate information and professional consultation services will be available to clients around the clock.

WeatherPlus provides a menu of recorded specialized weather forecasts for travellers, mariners and farmers. The cost is 95 cents per minute.

WeatherLive offers access to a weather professional for direct one-on-one consultation. Consultation costs are $3.95 for the first three minutes and $1.50 for each additional minute.

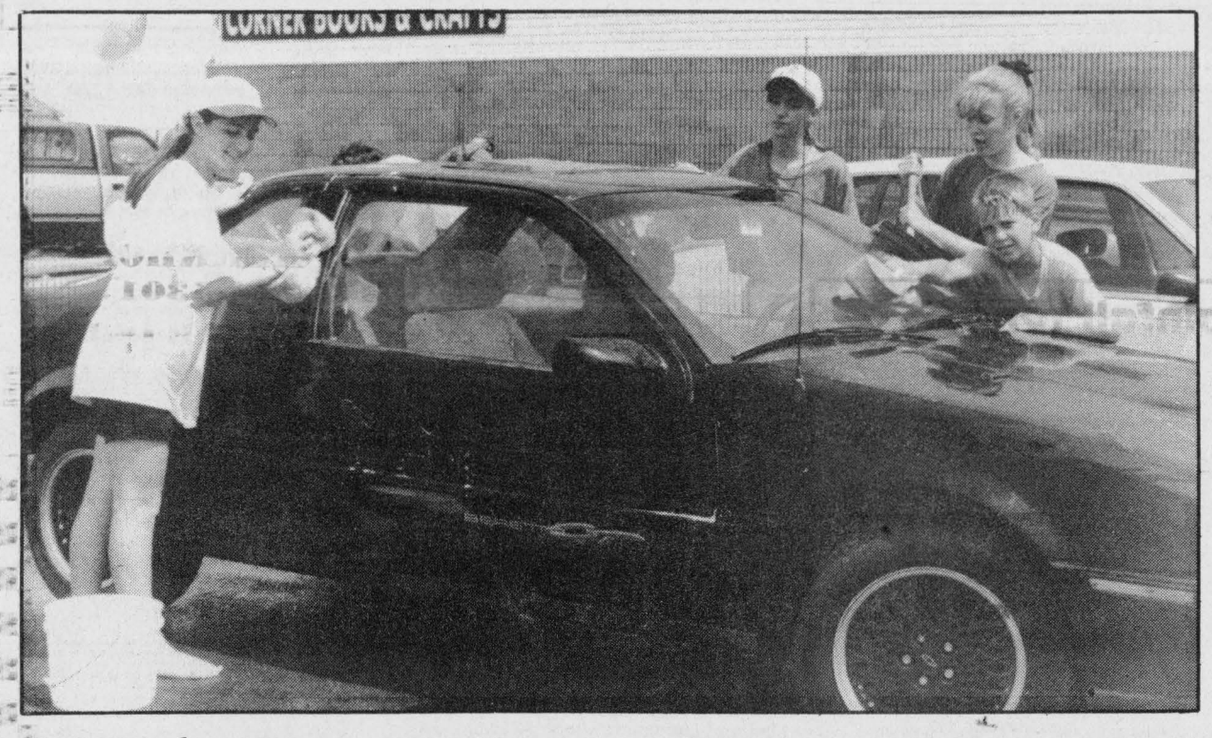

The new 1-900 service will not affect basic weather services — one to five-day public weather forecasts and weather watches and warnings will continue to be provided free of charge.

The 1-900 numbers have been introduced to reduce Environment Canada's dependence on the general tax base.

Thank You

Words cannot express the thanks I owe to so many people for their calls, both by telephone and in person, their cards and letters, the flowers they sent, and their prayers and expressions of concern when sudden illness struck me in Florida, and especially during the long period of treatment and convalescence back in Canada. The support, encouragement and assistance of my family throughout my illness made recovery easier - Christine and Archie came to Florida to see Howard and me through the transfer to Canada - and all family members helped with transportation, personal care, and above all, with friendly encouragement at all times.

My immediate concerns about the tour group whom I abandoned unceremoniously in Florida were needless; Jim Thompson flew to Florida to help, driver Scott Henderson took complete charge of tour details, Gwen and Lilias packed my suitcases, and all members co-operated to make an enjoyable and successful tour. My sincere thanks to all of you.

Here at home, I want to thank doctor and nurses of Winchester District Hospital for their care, the members of the Therapy Unit at WDMH whose skill and patience made those first steps possible, the friendly staff at Hartford House who were so kind and helpful, and finally, the members of the Rehab Unit at Cornwall General Hospital who helped with my near recovery from a crippling stroke.

Because of all of you, family, friends near and far, doctors, nurses, therapists and caregivers, nearly complete recovery has been achieved. For the rest of my life I will remember your many kindnesses, your patience and skill, and your concerns for my well-being.
