Shoe imports cost town at least 140 jobs, says Boudria

OTTAWA — The federal government's decision to abolish import quotas on foreign shoes one year ago has already cost 1,000 Canadians their jobs, including 140 or more in Alexandria, according to local MP Don Boudria.

Alexandria Footwear, which primarily manufactures athletic shoes under contract to Adidas, has been forced to cut its former staff of 200 by two-thirds because of competition from lower priced imported footwear, Mr. Boudria said Monday. Similar figures are not available from Alexandria's second shoe manufacturers, Brown Shoe.

Imports of men's shoes have increased almost 50 per cent in the past year, he said, with footwear from southeast Asia alone soaring from 63,000 pairs the previous years to a new high of 213,000, or 238 per cent.

"The government predicted savings to the Canadian consumer of half a billion dollars," said Mr. Boudria. "Instead, the cost of shoes went up 12 per cent in the past year. The government predicted a moderate, temporary lull in employment, but a year later, 1,000 jobs are gone."

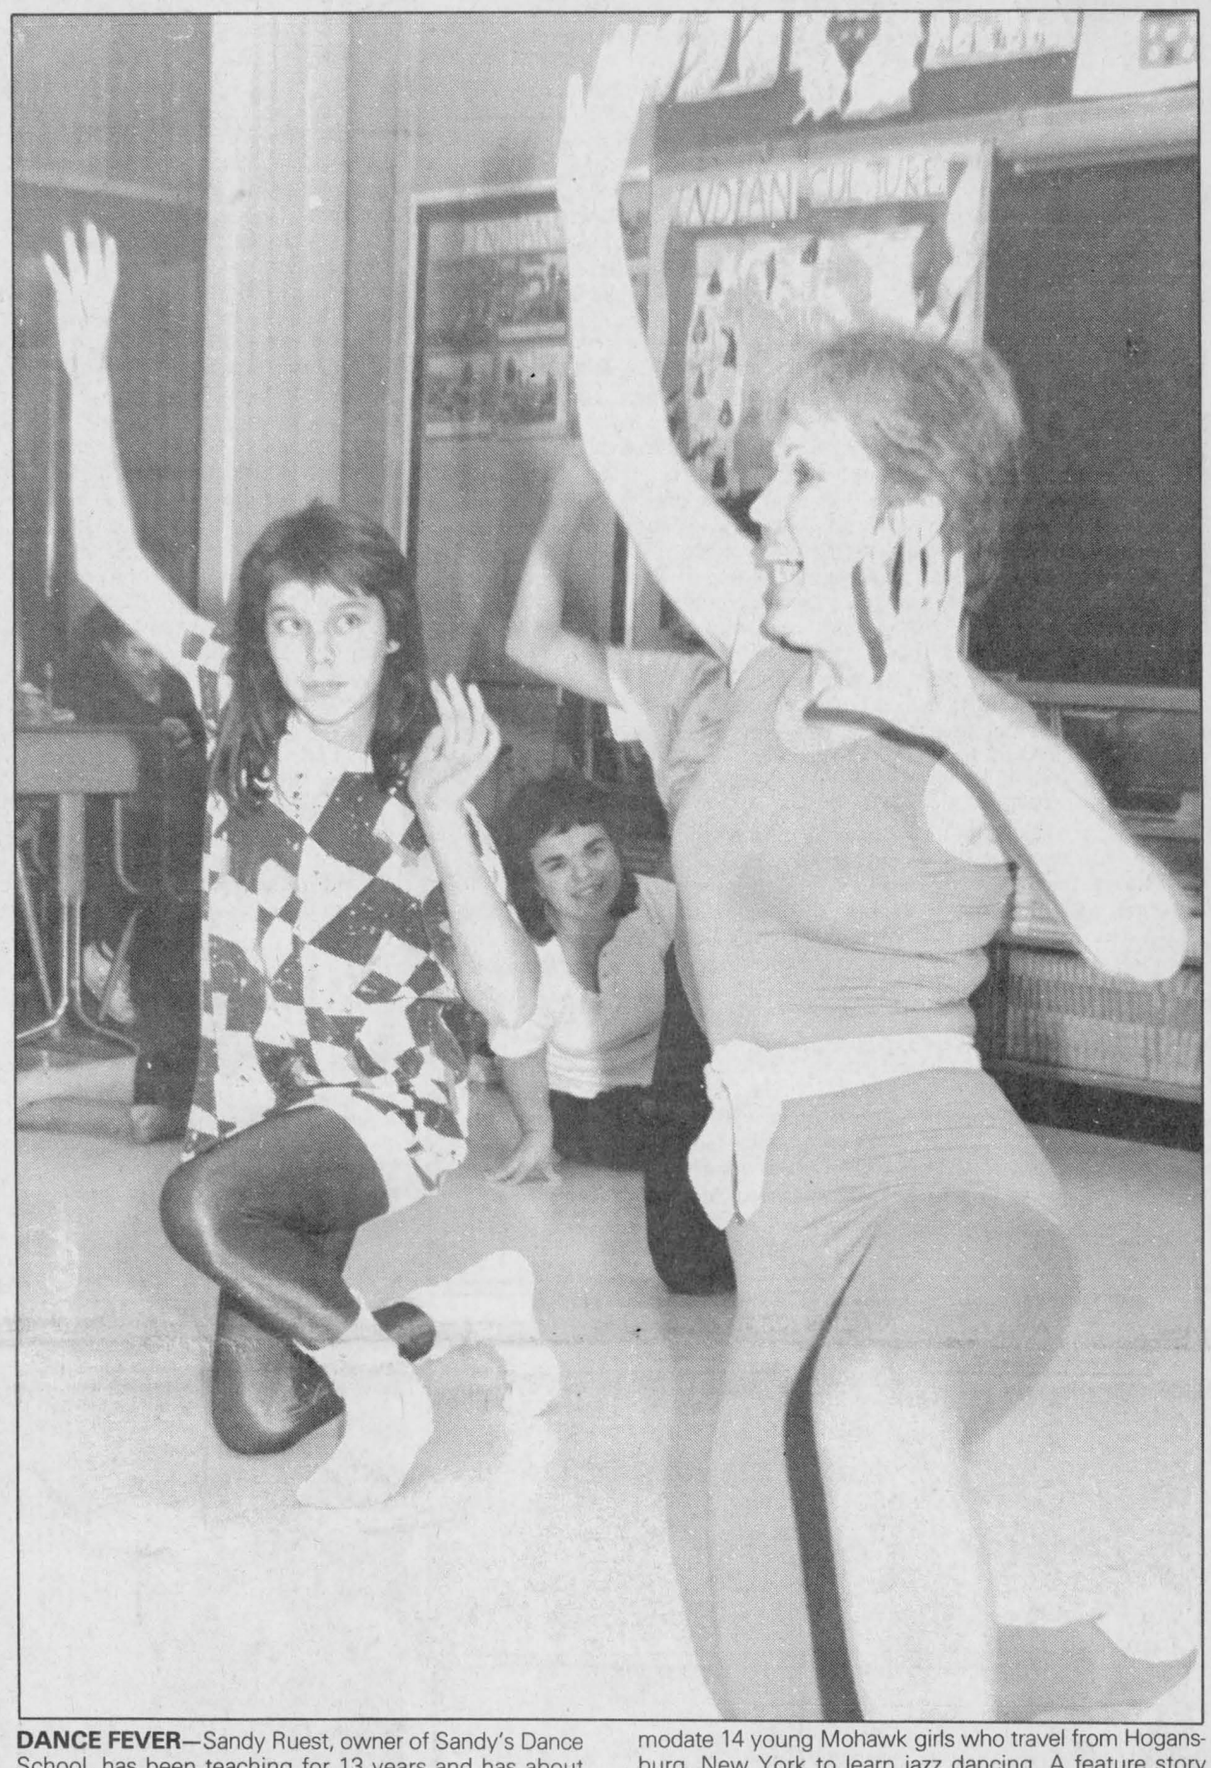
The Canadian Shoe Manufacturers Association (CSMA) has tried four times to meet with the government to discuss the impact of increased imports.

"They sent two letters and two telegrams to Pat Carney, the minister of international trade, and she has refused four times since July to meet with them," said Mr. Boudria. "She says she's too busy. She's too busy to protect Canadian jobs."

Mr. Boudria has raised the issue in the House of Commons and called on Miss Carney to meet with the manufacturers association. The association is convinced, if the minister will meet with its representatives for a half-hour to an hour, it can clearly demonstrate serious injury to the industry and convince her that the government should order the federal Import Tribunal to launch an inquiry, he said.

The tribunal can only recommend action to the government, unless it finds imports have been unfairly subsidized, in which case it can impose a countervailing tariff, said the MP.

"The government has to order an inquiry, but it's not listening," said Mr. Boudria. "It's refusing to help. I'm calling on the minister to meet with the association and not to wait until we've lost all the jobs."



DANCE FEVER—Sandy Ruest, owner of Sandy's Dance School, has been teaching for 13 years and has about 400 students. She recently took on a new class at the Akwesasne Mohawk School in Cornwall Island to accommodate 14 young Mohawk girls who travel from Hogansburg, New York to learn jazz dancing. A feature story on Mrs. Ruest and her dance school appears on Page 11 of today's Glengarry News.

Twp. hopes to start repairs to St. Raphael's Ruins in spring

WILLIAMSTOWN — Charlottenburgh Township may be ready to begin major restoration of the St. Raphael's Church ruins by spring, following a "productive" meeting with Ontario Government officials in Toronto, Friday.

Deteriorating mortar and other water-related problems have rendered the building unsafe, posing the possibility of the popular historic site being closed to the public, while the township, which legally owns the property, and the province haggle over funding.

During Friday's meeting officials from the Ontario Heritage Foundation, the Ontario Ministry of Culture and Recreation and Charlottenburgh "arrived at a consensus" on priorities for the restoration process, the township's administrator, Jay Currier, said Monday.

The township will prepare new documentation over the next two weeks in support of its request for additional provincial funding, he said, adding the officials at Friday's meeting are expected "to co-operate in expediting" the application.

An engineering study estimated full restoration would cost about $450,000, "for a very complete project, but we can live with something less," said Mr. Currier.

Arguing it was premature to provide specific figures, the administrator said the township would likely push for $200,000 to $300,000 in repairs initially.

The township is hoping to get funding approval by the end of February, in time to tender and award a contract for construction to begin in the spring.

Mr. Currier said the meeting left him "confident the funding needed will come. There was an upbeat atmosphere in the room. The officials were very supportive."

He stressed the final decision remains with the cabinet minister responsible, however, and not with the officials who attended the meeting.

Township council will likely review plans for the project during its next meeting, said Mr. Currier. Council previously committed $60,000 to the restoration and will later have to decide whether that amount remains "appropriate" or more is needed, he said.

Mr. Currier said the first priority for restoration will be capping the stone walls and resetting the top courses of masonry, at a projected cost of $123,000. Currently, there is some fear loose stones could fall from the tops of the walls and snow fences have been erected to keep the public well back from any potential danger.

Second on the priority list, according to the administrator, is reconstruction of the window sills, at a cost of $31,000, followed by repointing and capping foundation walls and pillar bases, at $39,500.

Fourth on the list would be a $69,400 expense for repairing and repointing the top sections of the interior walls, with repairs to the remainder of the walls placing fifth.

"We hope we'll be able to get to work on the first three or four priorities at the start," said Mr. Currier. "We may have to rearrange the priorities somewhat to maximize use of the funds."

Mr. Currier was accompanied on his trip to Toronto by Deputy-reeve Bob Roth.

Santa Claus parades here Saturday, Sunday

Old St. Nick will be flying into Alexandria and Lancaster to star in the two Santa Claus parades, this weekend.

Alexandria's parade will leave the IGA at 11:30 a.m. Sunday, proceed down Main Street and turn up Kincardine. It will finish at the Glengarry Sports Palace, where the Richelieu Club will be hosting a party for children.

There will be candies and balloons for children along the route.

According to parade chairman Pierre Aubry six floats have been scheduled to participate: Lanthier Bakery, the Richelieu Club, Lally-Blanchard, Glengarry District High School, the Air Cadets and Alexandria firemen. The parade is sponsored by the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce.

Lancaster residents can enjoy the Santa Claus parade which will leave the Medical Centre at 1 p.m., Saturday. Santa Claus will greet the children at the Lancaster Fire Hall following the parade and will also make an appearance at The Talk of the Town Gift Shop on Main Street.

New postmaster loves job

Hubert Dubois remembers his first day on the job at the Alexandria post office. He was nervous but sure he had made the right career move. Monday, he celebrated 31 years with Canada Post and was proud to have completed it under his new title of Postmaster.

Mr. Dubois was promoted from his position of assistant postmaster Oct. 7.

When he joined the post office in 1956, he knew he was setting the foundation for a lifetime career.

"I've really enjoyed my work," he says.

At that time, the post office was located in the building which now houses the Alexandria Police Force. There was no air conditioning and everyone broiled during the summer, says Mr. Dubois. In 1970, the employees moved into the modern new building on Catherine Street.

Mr. Dubois couldn't ask for a better staff.

"I've always gotten along with the employees. Communication is really important. Sometimes employees use their sense of humor to pep everyone up," he says.

When he was offered a supervisory position in Cornwall recently, he turned it down. He had been in Alexandria all his life and knew the people.

Canada Post was slow to appoint him as postmaster due to structural changes in personnel taking place throughout the province. Several acting postmasters supervised the Alexandria office before officials decided the best man for the job was already here.

Mr. Dubois and his wife, Marie Claire have three sons, Michel, 24, Denis, 23 and Daniel, 20.

Thieves take $1,800 in cigarettes from store

Thieves stole more than $1,800 worth of cigarettes from the Meloche and Sabourin store in Alexandria early Sunday morning.

Alexandria police report someone apparently entered the store through a side window to steal the cigarettes but didn't get everything he was after.

There was a bag of items left in the store which the thief apparently abandoned when an alarm at a neighboring store was set off.

The alarm at Pidgeon Jewellers sounded early Sunday morning when a window at the side of the store was broken.

Police believe the incidents are related.

Acting police chief may soon leave Alexandria

by Dann Rogers

O.P.P. Cpl. Don Eastop is a low-key guy in a high-profile position.

The man who assumed the duties of Alexandria police chief 13 months ago, says the biggest adjustment has been dealing with the public relations responsibilities that go along with the job.

"When I was in Long Sault , the sergeant looked after all those sort of things. It takes a little getting used to," he says.

And the 22-year veteran says he will be returning to Long Sault, where he has spent the majority of his career.

"I was asked to spend a year in Alexandria and that was up Nov. 4. There was an agreement that I would stay six months past that time if it was required, but it is quite likely that I will return to Long Sault shortly," he says.

Cpl. Eastop, a native of Scotland, joined the OPP in 1965 and was promoted to the rank of corporal in January 1984. Aside from his one year on the Alexandria municipal force, he has served with the Long Sault detachment all of his career.

He is an employee counsellor who helps auxiliary and regular officers, their families and civilian employees deal with a wide variety of problems and gets them the proper help. He is also liason officer with the OPP Auxiliary and spent four years as the OPP liason officer with the St. Regis Police Department.

"I felt accepted and well-treated by the people of Alexandria and I only wish I could've found a solution to the parking problem on Main Street," he says.

"That was probably the major problem I had to contend with during the past year. You can't make the street any wider and you can't forbid people from parking on it. And if anyone proposed re-routing Hwy. 34 around town, well, let's say the merchants wouldn't be too pleased with that idea."

Two other issues he had to deal with during the past year are 24 hour service and the attempt to form a Neighbourhood Watch.

"The Neighbourhood Watch program is viable, proven to work and I think as many people as possible should involve themselves in it.

"I'm not sure why it hasn't caught on in Alexandria. Some people have suggested that maybe citizens see Neighbourhood Watch as some sort of vigilante group. It obviously isn't that. People are just asked to watch and see what happens and then report it to their block leader," says Cpl. Eastop.

The most recent call for the formation of a Neighbourhood Watch came last summer after a Main Street store burglary and an unanswered alarm in the industrial park.

This also resulted in the Police Commission ordering 24-hour police duty instead of the 20-hour days which were the norm.

"I don't think the 24-hour thing is worthwhile," says Cpl. Eastop.

"Statistics show there is little happening between 4 and 8 a.m. and, given the town's limited resources, it was easier to manage the staff when we had 20-hour days."

Management of his political masters has apparently been much easier. Despite the stormy weather at town council meetings, Cpl. Eastop maintains there has been no political interference in his job.

He is also pleased with the acquisition of a new police cruiser, which is painted bright yellow.

"The previous cruiser was painted blue and I've been told that when the force first received it, people thought that was strange," he says.

He deems it imprudent to comment on whether or not the OPP should assume the policing duties in Alexandria.

Blowing snow

Public Works and the Alexandria police are teaming up to put the squeeze on anyone who throws snow back into the road after the town so thoughtfully places in your driveway.

Section 157 of the Hwy. Traffic Act says if you throw snow or ice on the road, the Alexandria Police Department will fine you $53.75. It doesn't say it in quite those words, but you probably understand.

Police Chief Don Eastop says pushing snow back on the roads makes them dangerous and costs taxpayers money, since the trucks have to go around twice.

He also says people are responsible for the removal of the snow from their driveways and no, they can't dump it on town council.

Our friends at the post office say the last day for mailing out of town Christmas mail is Dec. 12 and Dec. 17 for in-county delivery.

The Christmas cook book supplement this week is a tremendous success. The response was overwhelming and I only wish you'd write us more letters to cook up some controversy. Anyways, we didn't manage to get every recipe in, but don't despair.

Those recipes that didn't make it in this issue will be included in our Christmas issue. The names of everyone who submitted a recipe will be included in the draw.

The Sports Palace is changing one of its operating policies. It has decided to strike back at its detractors and will organize council meetings on the rink. Councillors will have to cool their heels by running around the rink barefoot until they have exhausted all their hot air.

Seriously, groups that want events catered at the Sports Palace can hire any caterer they want as long as the person serving the meals can prove he has liability insurance.

Catering used to be provided by Marcel Lanthier exclusively, but the arena board had a lot of demands for other caterers and they decided to reverse the policy.

The Sports Palace used to get 10 per cent of the caterers take but now they will get $1 per meal served.

Couple will mark 60th

by Lesley Cadham

DOMINIONVILLE — Grace MacLeod laughs and says when she married her husband, William, she was obeying the commandment to love thy neighbor as thyself. William and Grace MacLeod, who will be celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary Dec. 11, grew up on opposite sides of the 16th of Kenyon.

They are not sure how their relationship came about. They went to school together and remember meeting at dances, but exactly when they fell in love, they're unsure of.

Mr. MacLeod does remember one special dress his wife wore to a dance.

"You sewed it yourself," he says.

"I did? What dress was that?" she asks, and her eyes light up at memory.

The couple married in Ottawa, a small wedding, nothing fancy, and following the ceremony they returned to Dominionville.

Mr. MacLeod's father, John Angus died that year and the couple took over his dairy farm. In 1933, during the years of the depression, Mr. MacLeod took his family to Cornwall, where he worked at the CIL plant. They didn't return until 1945, when they assumed responsibility for Macleview Farm, owned by Mrs. MacLeod's parents, Duncan and Belle Campbell.

Six children were born to the couple; Melba and Alma, who are married and living in Toronto and Shirley, Ian and Campbell who live in the Maxville area. A sixth son, Billy, died of leukemia in 1964. He was 26.

Billy's death was a blow to the family, but Mrs. MacLeod retained a positive outlook.

"That was the biggest shock. You've got to take the ups and downs and there's always a silver lining (in every cloud). Sometimes it clouds up in the dark," she says.

Mrs. MacLeod doesn't understand why families would fall apart at a time of crisis. She believes a married couple should stay together in good times as well as in bad and wonders why there are so many divorces tday.

"I don't think they take it (marriage) as seriously as we did years ago. We're supposed to live together for life and we take the oath before God. It should be kept. I don't think people realize what oath they are taking," she says.

Her recipe for a successful marriage is for both partners to have "lots of patience and a sense of humor." They must also learn to share.

"Charity begins at home. You have to follow the good book (bible). I can't see why people don't get along. We get along. If people dont't have enough love in the beginning, they won't have enough love to last through the years ahead and they shouldn't have gotten married to begin with."

At 87, Mr. MacLeod still does some plowing on the farm, which has been taken over by his son Campbell and wife, Lois. He also drives his 1980 pick-up truck. He mentions he shoudl quit smoking and puts down his pipe. Twenty years ago, doctors found he had emphysema and he has undergone radiation treatments to control it.

"I'm walking around yet. The Lord must have been with me," he says.

Mrs. MacLeod is 85. Her daughter, Shirley (now Ferguson) says her mother loves to shop until the stores close. She jokes about the 24-hour Dominion store which has opened in Cornwall, saying she hopes her mother will never want to stay until that one closes.

"Your're as old as you feel and I don't feel I'm getting older. You have to keep active. Don't sit down and get lazy. I'm active, though I can't go as fast as I used to," she says.

"You're a going concern," says Mr. MacLeod of his wife.

Mrs. MacLeod believes the young people in their house helps them to stay young. The couple lives with Campbell and Lois and their children, Heather, 10, Bobby, 14 and Billy, 18. There are seven other grandchildren, from age nine to 26.

The family will be holding a party in honor of their parents on Dec. 13 at Macleview Farm.

Mrs. MacLeod smiles and remembers the years when company poured into the house for the Glengarry Highland Games. "There was always room for one more," she recalls.

Boudria "ecstatic" over Turner win

OTTAWA — The strong vote of support given Liberal leader John Turner during his party's convention in Ottawa on Sunday has left local MP Don Boudria "ecstatic."

Mr. Boudria, MP for Glengarry-Prescott-Russell, supported Quebec's Jean Chretien to succeed former Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau during the Liberals' leadership campaign two years, but has been loyal to Mr. Turner ever since.

Liberal delegates voted 76.3 per cent against a leadership review.

"John Turner needed a strong majority and he got it," said Mr. Boudria Monday. "What's more important, he deserved the support he got, and that pleases me even more. The people recognized what he has contributed over the past two years and the potential the man has.

"He has worked hard and he has probably travelled more in the past two years than any other Canadian. He has led us back form the ashes of only two years ago, to the point that we are now ahead of the government.

Despite their lead in the public opinion polls, the federal Liberals can't afford to sit back and take the next election for granted, said Mr. Boudria.

"Liberals have no God-given right to rule," he said. "We have to earn the respect of the Canadian people. That's what Mr. Turner has said all along. At the convention we showed a united, solid front of competent people and that went a long way toward convincing the public. We can't start gloating and telling ourselves we've already won. We have to continue to be aggressive, like we have been the last two years. People will want to give us their confidence again."

Mr. Boudria has joined his leader in calling upon anti-Turner Liberals to rally around Mr. Turner now for the sake of the party and the country.

He said Mr. Chretien, who left politics in favor of a law career, but allowed supporters to promote his name as a potential new leader in the event Mr. Turner lost his vote, must now make a clear statement on where he stands.

"He can't be ambivalent any more," said Mr. Boudria. "He either has to distance himself from politics or clearly state his support for the leader. The leadership issue is over. I'd welcome a statement from him now. I hope he'll work hard in the next election, either as a candidate or an organizer. Many people put their faith in him in the past. It's now more than in order for him to make a statement.

"I hope he will return to support the leader. I would like to see him back as a parliamentarian."

Meeting held in Glen to protest closure

GLEN ROBERTSON A meeting of Glen Robertson residents to discuss the status of their post office was scheduled for Tuesday evening (Dec. 2).

Organizer Manon Charbonneau called the meeting after discussions with John Stante who said the post office might be permanently closed if not enough public support is shown.

The post office was closed without notice Sept. 5 and the former postmistress was charged and sentenced for stealing mail.

At that time, Canada Post officials said the post office might never be reopened. Green community mail boxes were set up in Glen Robertson but residents complained so loudly through Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boundria, Canada Post backed off and allowed the post office to re-open.

Miss Charbonneau said the meeting was called to give support to Mr. Stante as Glen Robertson's spokesman in dealing with Canada Post.

Mr. Stante is a Glen Robertson resident who works in the office of Michel Cote, the minister responsible for Canada Post.

He said he had nothing to do with organizing the meeting and was called upon to use his influence with the minister.

EDITORIALS/OPINION

Life saver

Alexandria's fire department will benefit from new rescue equipment, including a new vehicle purchased by the United Counties, following town council's decision two weeks ago to join a new rescue service recently established for SD&G.

The volunteer brigade has been equipped with specialized tools for extricating injured people from automobiles for some time and its members have successfully completed extensive rescue training. They are also well trained in first aid treatment and routinely take further training. Clearly, Alexandria's volunteer firefighters are prepared to do much more than fight fires.

Now, thanks to the foresight of county council, the department will be better equipped than ever.

An existing vehicle will be sold and the proceeds, along with a recent $1,000 grant, will be used to purchase still more rescue equipment.

The public should also recognize, in addition to devoting much time and effort to training, the volunteers have contributed a lot of money towards equipment purchases over the years. There can be little doubt that they will continue the practice.

The Alexandria area has been blessed with a well-trained and dedicated volunteer fire department. Their firefighting skills have saved lives and substantially reduced fire losses. It's comforting to know the same level of skill and dedication will be applied to rescue service.

More lives will be saved simply because these men were ready and others had the foresight to support them.

Destructive council

With last week's resignation of veteran councillor Archie McDougall it became more obvious than ever that Alexandria's town council is starting to come apart at the seams.

There were reports that at least one other councillor was on the verge of submitting his resignation, while still more are considering the same option.

It's easy to understand. Town council meetings have degenerated into shameful embarrassing exercises, with every word and action treated with derision and suspicion. The best interests of the town and its citizens have become secondary to vindictive mud slinging and name calling.

It's surprising that any progress can be made in such an atmosphere and in the face of hastily erected roadblocks at every turn.

Effectively, every member of town council, some town employees, every member of the Glengarry Sports Palace Board of Directors, arena staff, and, by inference, members of Lochiel and Lancaster township councils have been called thieves and liars. The idea is preposterous.

Sports Palace employees have indicated the continued public attacks and direct harassment from some members of town council prompted their decision to join a union. They felt threatened and decided they needed the strength of a union to protect themselves. That's not hard to understand.

How long will it take for other municipal employees to fall under the shadow of attacks from Coun. Fern Séguin's gang of four?

It's impossible to measure the damage these people have caused Alexandria, but that damage is obvious. The town has begun to lose capable municipal leaders, others, who might otherwise have been interested in serving their community through municipal council, have sworn to never go near the town hall. Council and the town as a whole have become the butt of jokes throughout Glengarry and beyond.

At least one new industrialist, with plans for a 20,000 square foot expansion and 50 new jobs, found himself caught in the crossfire at council. Would any potential industry consider moving to Alexandria if there was a possibility of being drawn into the middle of needless, childish fights at town council? Most would prefer some other town, where basic common sense and civility still govern municipal-industrial relations, instead of personal vendettas.

So far, most of the mud has been coming from one side only. It's surprising there has not been more retaliation. We hope it can be avoided a while longer. When both sides wallow in mud, they both come up dirty. Nothing would be accomplished.

Instead of name calling, the councillors should be working together for the advancement of the town. They clearly are not at this point.

If this council can't work together for the betterment of Alexandria, it might well be better if everyone resigned and the voters were given a chance to start it all over again with a clean slate. Whatever the result, it could be not worse than the destructive council that now holds office.

Christmas is definitely not just around the corner

A FEW THOUGHTS
Joanne Stevenson

Christmas, a wonderful time of year to be sure, is not fast approaching. Christmas cards do not have to be completed yet and Yuletide baking does not have to begin.

The first week of December can be declared a week of rest in anticipation of the hectic three weeks ahead.

Many sound and logical reasons abound for leaving last minute preparations to the last minute.

How can one sincerely sign Christmas cards, bestowing genuine wishes of holiday cheer when football fans are still recovering from the morning after the Grey Cup game? What happens if cards are duly signed, sealed, and the post office willing, delivered early in December and a feud erupts before Christmas with someone on the list? It is then too late to burn the greeting card sent to this new-found enemy.

On the other hand, if the task of mailing holiday wishes is delayed until the appropriate hour, cards are sent only to friends and relatives who have toughed it out with you until Christmas!

Premature baking can be even more disastrous. Being an organized person, I traditionally reserve one day a year for Yuletide baking, namely, Dec. 24.

This guarantees the consumer that, no matter what the pastries taste like, well, as least they're fresh.

Can anything compare to the humiliation of a hostess who, after proudly proclaiming the desserts were made the second week in December, is mauled by choking guests rushing madly for coffee to ease the dry, stale "goodies" down their unfortunate throats?

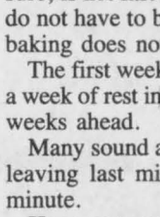
To enjoy Christmas shopping with its entire complexity, one must scurry in crowded malls, after squeezing a midsize car into a compact parking spot, march forward, credit card in hand, and, as quickly as possible purchase everything on the list, presuming you thought ahead enough to compose a list, rush home, get out the gift wrapping paraphnalia, only to discover you neglected to buy Scotch tape.

Now that's Christmas shopping—a whirlwind of confusion, excitment, greed and generosity.

If in fact, everything is wrapped, sealed and hidden by mid-December, wouldn't one be bored?

Let us remember part of the Christmas message, be it with or without the religious aspect, promotes understanding and good will towards men. it is, therefore, only proper, at this time of year, to tolerate all different shades of behaviour. When someone greets you with a hearty "Merry Christmas" return the good wishes . . .even though it is only the first week in December.

Don't condemn post office, it's only trying to help us



SECOND LOOK
Phil Rutherford

How long have we been complaining about postal service in this country? Twenty years? Longer? Post office bashing has become a national pastime and is probably the only subject that will rival the Grey Cup this week in coffee club and beer hall commentary.

After bad weather, there is nothing Canadians gripe about more. It's got to the point that tax collectors, bankers, dog catchers, major oil companies and (GASP!) even journalists rank higher in popularity than managers and labor leaders at Canada Post (less).

Hating the post office is probably the most unifying sentiment to hit Canada since Confederation. It's a major part of our cultural identity, ranking right up there with boring CBC documentaries and rusting cars.

Recently, I've had a revelation, however. I finally understand what the folks at the post office have been trying to do for us all along. Canada Post has been in the vanguard of an economic revolution that can lead to immeasurable wealth for all of us. All we have to do is follow the postal lead.

You have already witnessed major battles in the revolution. What other corporation can you name that can steadily reduce the quality of its service, raise its prices in leaps and bounds, maintain an impregnable monopoly in the market and hit the taxpayer for hundreds of millions of dollars in subsidies every year?

Astounding, isn't it? But for Canada Post it's more than theory. It's been working exceptionally well for years.

It's time we all started to pay close attention. Maybe we can pick up a few good ideas. If private enterprise followed the same path, the potential for corporate wealth would be limited only by the capacity of the bank note company's printing presses.

And there's more to come. Postal officials have already abolished door-to-door delivery to new urban subdivisions. The rural route delivery system country residents are accustomed to may soon be nearly eliminated.

Instead, there will be more "community" boxes at street corners and country intersecitons. The ugly green boxes are to be replaced by "Super Boxes." The postal corporation is spending a fortune on a multi-media advertising campaign to convince us that the new red and silver boxes, which can be pried open with a flick of the wrist, represent a substantial improvement in service. They have unvarnished testimonials from people who say they find the new service much better than what they had been accustomed to. Mind you, the advertising copywriters neglect to note that the same people had no service at all previously.

At the same time Canada Post wants to raise the price of mailing a first class letter another five cents, to a new high of 39 cents. We can expect the rate to be in the 45 cent range within three years.

That's about the time Canada Post will likely resurrect a previous idea to reduce service to every second day. Many will say that would be an improvement. By then, door-to-door delivery may have been abolished everywhere.

If all this works, with yet higher rates, there may be no end to the postal genius. Having become accustomed to hitch-hiking to the nearest Super Box, we may be judged ready to haul the bags of mail from the central post offices ourselves. Of course, most of the post offices will be closed by then, and we might have to haul our bags all the way from Cornwall. And for all this, only a nickel more.

With our backs and shoulders in good shape from hauling the bags, we may all be called into the nearest "Super Post Office," somewhere between Toronto and Montreal, for manual dexterity tests. Those judged nimble enough to sort mail will be allowed to come in once every second week or so to pick through the piles in search of their own. Those who just can't handle it, well, it's unfortunate, but, if Canada Post is going to have any hope of eliminating its deficit by 2005, some service will simply have to be curtailed.

Eventually, stamps will pass the dollar mark, but the service will be the best in 40 years or more. We'll be doing it all ourselves. Canada Post will still have a big deficit and CUPW's inside workers will be on strike.

It's a wrap

LOOK OUT
Dann Rogers

You've probably noticed that Christmas is three weeks away. Unfortunately, all the necessary gifts, cards and refreshments have been bought and the only thing remaining is wrapping gifts.

This year, no one will have to spend Christmas Eve rooting through drawers for tags and tape and wind up using The Glengarry News as wrapping paper.

Everything will roll along smoothly and you'll have gifts under the tree before 2 a.m. Christmas morning.

How can this be, you may ask? Life is but a series of crises and Christmas is the ultimate commercial one. But the harassment of the holidays can be avoided if you indulge the Christmas spirits and dreamily follow this guide to great gift wrapping.

Be organized. You read it here first. Organization is the key to enjoyment when it comes to cloaking your gifts in mystery and magic.

Save boxes, paper towel rolls, scraps of material, buttons, cotton batting and other possible gift-disguisers together in a box.

Keep all the necessities—scissors, tape, glue stick, ribbon bows, paper, tags, cord and cognac in one place. It should be out of reach of dogs, children and extroverted adults.

Scrooging is in. One of the most common giftwrapping problems is finding you have too much paper to do the job neatly. The rule of thumb (besides never hitchhiking with a scotch pine over your shoulder) is to cut paper which exceeds the meeting point around a package by about one-half inch.

To eliminate messy package ends, cut paper so that when folded it is slightly greater than half the end's height.

Tapes, what tapes? Go lightly with the tape. Only doctors setting casts and hot air broadcasters need lots of tape.

Fold the edge of a cut piece of giftwrap in, so that a folded edge and not a cut one shows. This is a very nimble task requiring concentration, commitment and the cognac.

When technique fails, use imagination. Use the bits of scrap you've been saving around the house to dress up a package.

Wrap some flannel around a record album to create a pillow shape. Cover that with country gift wrap, stitch yarn around the outside, add tassels to the corners and you have a pillow to lean a stuffed toy on. I'll never say where I stole that idea from, so you don't have to either.

Empty paper towels are great containers for silk scarves, ties, socks and even little vials of cognac. Put a paper collar and some buttons on a rectangular box and it will look like a shirt.

If you've got no money for a gift, let alone wrapping paper, just lie under a bare lamp with a glass of cognac and someone will appreciate you.

Teenage trauma

THAT'S LIFE
Lesley Cadham

Teenagers seem to have cornered the market on sensitivity, self-centeredness and worry. Not that this is a news-flash, but I thought I'd bring it up.

It's actually incredible so many people make it through those seven years during which character and personal style are being formed. Those years of hard learning can be cruel and traumatizing and it takes an understanding parent to make them bearable.

There is a tremendous pressure to conform to the accepted modes of behavior and dress and failure to do so can lead to a very lonely adolescence. I know. I almost missed my first high school dance because my mother wouldn't let me out of the house wearing jeans.

She dug into the back of my closet and extracted the most horrible double-knit pants I'd ever set eyes on, and triumphantly announced I wasn't going anywhere until I put those on.

I'd rather catch the plague and die, I muttered. I'd carefully hidden those darned things in hopes the moths would turn them into shreds of polyester and I want the record to show, I don't buy double-knit anything.

I waited until she fell asleep, stuffed my favorite jeans in a bag and went to the dance.

She just didn't understand my dilemma. My friends, although loyal in most circumstances, wouldn't have socialized with me had I arrived looking like a "goody-goody."

She eventually grew tired of badgering me about my attire and resigned herself to the fact that I would always dress like a "hippie" as she called it. I clearly remember an evening out on the town with my mother, shortly after I'd turned 18. I was wearing my oldest jeans and jean-jacket bearing a multitude of patches and my mom, after scanning me in despair, said, "Thank God people know we're not poor."

One thing that bugs me; guys still won't admit to having a fashion conscience. My 16-year-old cousin swears he doesn't care what he wears, but try to get him into anything besides jeans and football shirts. No go.

If guys didn't care what they put on in the morning, we'd probably see them running around in $12 Woolco-brand double-knit plaids. Instead of $35-$55 Lee's or Levis, and I'm not even going to broach the expense of the Don Johnson look.

With winter upon us, I've been noticing it still isn't cool to wear hats, boots or gloves even in sub-zero temperatures.

Better to let your ears freeze and fall off than to admit you were cold. I was a constant concern to my mom, who always chased me around the house with my scarf just like my aunt does to my cousin.

I heard her sigh the other day as she watched him tread delicately through 11 inches of fresh snow with his feet clad in nothing but running shoes. But you can't tell a Heinz pickle nothin'.

Glengarry District High celebrates St. Andrew's Day

Glengarry District High School celebrates St. Andrew's Day with bagpipes, highland dancers and a good old-fashioned Scottish concert Nov. 26.

The purpose of the "Scottish Day" was to make students more aware of their culture. Scottish shortbread was served and before lunch, some of the more brawny students braved the rain to take part in the caber toss, hammer and discus throw.

A concert held in the cafeteria and attended by 500 students, was kicked off by the Glengarry Pipe Band led by Major John T. MacKenzie, followed by a short welcome in Gaelic and English by Mary Jane Macdonald.

Members of the pipe band who are not students at GDHS and Tagwi were not present.

Following the MacCulloch Dancers, who danced a fine highland fling, fiddlers played several Scottish tunes. Step dancers Traci Trottier and Allison McIlwain entertained fellow students and the GDHS senior band struck a note while playing The Thornbirds and Mooreside March.

Anna Margaret MacDonald was a guest at the school to lead the students in a sing-along. She serenaded the audience with Loch Lomond (I'll take the high road) but the shy youths were hesitant to join in.

The events were arranged by biology teacher Bernice Barlow who says she only began organizing a month ago. She says she's pleased everything worked out so well because all acts were rehearsed separately making the concert rather impromptu.

There were prizes for students wearing tartan and the winners were Anne Boekeff, who received a book of Canadian photographs and Jody Murray, who won a highland brooch.

Last year, GDHS recognized St. Nicholas Day and Mrs. Barlow says next year she hopes to introduce some West Indian culture.

Domaine Maria Goretti opened

by Lesley Cadham

The official opening of Domaine Maria Goretti was marked by an open-house Sunday.

Mayor J.P. Touchette attended to welcome new owners Richard and Diane Chenier of Hammond. The couple took ownership of the former Alexandria Residence Nov. 1 and still have not decided whether to call it a retirement home because they will be accepting residents as young as age 40. It is not a nursing home and they will not accept chronic care patients.

"This home is for people who are alone and want company. A home away from home is what we call it," says Mr. Chenier.

Residents will have their own keys and will be free to come and go as they please.

Mayor Touchette says, "The town needs places like Domaine Maria Goretti." He added the new name was appropriate because the people most likely to live in the home, used to know it as the Maria Goretti school.

The Cheniers made minor renovations and though they have made a few plans for further changes, say it is too early to determine exactly what will be needed.

Only 10 of the 27 beds are currently occupied. When the balance are filled, Mr. Chenier plans to build a recreation room and bring in a hairdresser.

Long-term plans include building washrooms in residents' rooms and renovating a small adjacent building, which now houses the Child Care Centre, to contain more rooms. They hope to bring the number of beds to 60.

Mr. Chenier is also thinking of building apartments to allow clients to live independently while haveing access to home's services. A chapel is also being considered.

Mr. Chenier currently lives at the home 24 hours a day. Eventually a qualified live-in worker will be hired. Domaine Maria Goretti now employs a nurse's aid as well as several kitchen staff.

The couple recently sold the Vars Residence, a home for psychiatric care, which they owned for two years.

"We're trying to make pleasant surroundings for the elderly," says Mr. Chenier.

SD&G boards elect new chairmen

The SD&G County Board of Education elected a new Chairman of the Board, Monday night.

Joe Gunn, was nominated chairman at the board's inaugural meeting and replaced Bill Fleming, who held the post for one year.

Trustees of the SD&G Roman Catholic Separate School Board were to gather Tuesday evening to elect a new chairman and vice chairman. They will replace Pierre Landry and Ronald Eamer who have been in office for one year.

Happy Hour seniors held euchre party

APPLE HILL
Aline Gormley
527-5692

Happy Hour seniors made up 21 tables of euchre on Nov. 18. The following were winners: Jessie Renwick, Lilias Presley and Alice Sloan among women, Howard Eamon, John MacMaster and Cameron McLeod among men.

The 50-50 draw winners were Martin O'Brien, Alice Sloan, Marie O'Brien, Gloria Rolland, Omer Campeau and Bert Whittaker.

Dorothy McDougald won the door prize.

On Nov. 25, some 60 to 65 players met at St. Anthony's church hall. It seems the crowd is increasing somewhat.

Euchre winners were Dorothy McCormick, Cecile Massia and Rita Seguin for the women and Alfred Perras , Winston Van Putten and Mac O'Byrne for the men.

Matt Maloney, Mary Couture (twice), Norma Filion, Mary Tracey and Donald Wood each won an equal share of the 50-50 draw.

The door prize winner was Mary Tracey and Aline Gormley won the dinner for two at Mr. Poppin's.

The next and last euchre of the series is next Tuesday, so come along and join the fun.

Now you know the candy cane Christmas Tea and Bazaar is fast approaching at St. Anthony's. Workers are as busy as bees with calls and decorating the hall.

Friends everywhere will want to drop by and what a pleasant surprise it will be. Father Sylvester who is more or less running the whole show discovered in himself a very creative mind out of which fantastic plans emerged.

Under the guidance of Isobel Fraser's artistic talent and Blanche Gauthier's genius in arrangements; a whole decorating crew was set in motion. Remi Chartrand's ability in wood working was even called upon to complete the effect.

It could be said about this outburst of activity that every parishioner has such pride in their new hall that everyone is lending a hand anticipating a great get together.

So do come by on Sunday December 7th anytime after 2 p.m. on and share in the yuletide festivities.

Old friends reunited at the till

GLEN NORMAN
Mary Lacelle
525-1372

If you were particularly observant last week, you would have noticed that my column had been given a Maxville number. I am sorry for the inconvenience it caused a first-time caller.

Two ladies from the area who had not seen each other since school days in Montreal, many moons ago, were reunited (so to speak). Sharon Carriere a cashier at I.G.A. recognized Eileen James, a new comer to Glen Norman, as she passed through her cash. Quite a compliment I'd say, realizing that they were only teenagers when they last saw each other and now have adult children of their own.
They chatted just as long as the grocery list would allow and found out they only lived one concession away from each other.

Donna Quesnel, a niece from Williamstown, has just returned from a month-long tour of the United Kingdom.

Mr. and Mrs. George Crawford, a couple who enjoy travelling, took a trip to Toronto recently to take in the winter fair.

Everyone is busy at this time of year house cleaning, decorating and baking. What you really need ladies, is time for yourselves. Looking good makes you feel good, so here's a few beauty tips taken from the "Victorian Women", Aven book(1837-1901).

You may like to try some of the following, or all, if it pleases you. Almond meal used in washing helps to whiten the neck and hands (I guess that's before tans were beautiful).

You should not wash your hair too often. If it is healthy, once a month is sufficient.

The reason for gray hair is perhaps you are using too hot irons for curling. Frizzetta a simple and harmless fluid will do quite well with irons.

Elder flower-water makes a refreshing wash for the face. Glycerine diluted with rose water is also good when the skin is rough and chapped. As for face powder, white starch pounded very finely would be the most harmless one.

For a height of 5' 5" you should weigh 10 stones 2 lbs(142 pds); if you are over this perhaps you are eating too much bread and starchy foods.

Round shoulders can be a problem for older people but if you are still growing you may want to try wearing a face-board stick in your belt when writing to keep up your head and chin and at the same time a back-board should be used when not requiring to use your hands (personally I would not recommend this latter tip to anyone).

* * *

Happy birthday to Julie Samson and if you spot a big partially bald fellow, nearing senior-citizenship by the name of Len, wish him Happy birthday too.

DRA to hold meeting

DUNVEGAN
Marion Loewen
527-2284

The Christmas season with its rush is upon us. This year I'm determined to be more organized and get all my cards sent and gifts bought early. How successful I'll be, well, I'm not promising, but maybe if I practice hard, one of these Christmases I'll get it right.

Don't forget, if you are looking for Christmas music, 'Christmas in the Valley' can be purchased at Mac's Milk. No, I'm not an advertisement for Mac's Milk, but the tape is being sponsored by the company and the money realized from its sale, over and above expenses, will go to support the Eastern Ontario Children's Hospital, which is a very worthwhile cause and you get some nice music besides.

Now I have a puzzle to solve, and maybe someone can help me. We had a bird come to the tree out front and I can't figure out what kind it was. It didn't come to the feeder. It sat there for a couple of minutes and flew away.

I thought it came to case the bird-feeders and would be back, but I haven't seen it since. Maybe that accounts for its svelte figure. it was about the same length as the grosbeaks, but very slender, and with feathers sticking out from the top of his head, not up, but out the back.

In other words, not a tuft like the blue jays, but straight out the back. Color, you say? I couldn't tell. They are shadowed in the tree and when you don't know the bird, your mind has no suggestions and before I could come up with a clue, he flew away. My husband saw it too, so it wasn't my imagination.

We are glad to note that Dan MacLeod is home from hospital. Take care Dan, we miss you when you aren't here. Arthur Campbell is back at the Manor after his stay in hospital. Stay well Arthur. We hope Tekla Guindon will soon be feeling better and can come home again too. She is in the Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

Ian and Mary Lundy are home after spending a lazy two weeks basking in the sun at Melbourne, Florida. What a lovely way to spend a holiday.

The DRA will be holding a meeting on Sunday at 8 p.m. at the home of Jack Fraser. It will be the annual meeting, so come out and choose the position you would like to fill, otherwise you might end up with one you would rather not have.

Another important item on the agenda is the carnival. If it's to be a success, it must be planned ahead and it can't be left to one or two. It takes everyone to make a good time. Come out and do your bit.

The Dunvegan Debutantes attended the 4-H Achievement night and two of the girls received their sixth achievement award, for attending six clubs. Susan Arkinstal and Valerie Stewart were the two girls so honored and this is a county award, which is a pin. Congratulations girls. The club put on a skit entitled "The Perfect Hostess," which went over very well.

On Sunday at the 11 a.m. service, the Sacrament of Holy Baptism will be administered by the Rev. Gordon Fresque, with four babies being presented at the Baptismal Font. The choir will sing under the direction of the organist, Angus MacQueen. Don't forget your white gifts to the Presbyterian Tyndale-St. George House in Montreal.

The Christmas Tree concert will be held Dec. 13 in the W.I. Hall.

Don't forget to let me know of the goings-on in the area. Monday is the day I need the information. Tuesday morning I take it in to the office, so it must be typed up by Monday night. I can't put it in the paper, if you don't let me know about it.

THE YOUNG AT HEART EUCHRE PARTY

With the approach of the stormy and cold weather, some of the avid euchre players are finding themselves not so young at heart and only enough showed up to fill eight tables at the last party of the season.

However, those keen ladies from the north country were out. Nina Ryan from Riceville took the first prize for the ladies with Jessie Renwick and Jean Smith from Vankleek Hill coming in with the second and third highest points.

The MacLeods from Dunvegan, Norman and Kenneth, were first and second for the men with Rannie MacPherson from Alexandria placing third.

Norman MacLeod had good cause to beam again when he won the door prize while the 50-50 draw winners were the other two Vankleek Hill ladies, Gladys Barton and Edith Howes (actually from Kirk Hill), Gloria Rolland, Dave Valley from Moose Creek, twice, Eldon Cutt, Riceville, Bertha Lalonde, Ann Michaud, Ethel MacKinnon and Dorothy McDougall of R.R.1 Maxville.

Since this was the last euchre season, a special prize was donated and was won by Kenneth MacLeod of Dunvegan. The notes supplied your correspondent do not say what it was but he is wondering if it was King Euchre's crown.

MAXVILLE MANOR EUCHRE

Players turned out better for this party, in spite of the rainy weather, and there were 12 tables on Nov. 26. This too, was the last Manor euchre until the spring.

The lady winners were Ann Michaud, Dorothy McCormick of Alexandria and Peggy Cline. The gentlemen winners were Clifford Locey of Long Sault, Elden Cutt of Riceville and Peter McDougall of R.R.1 Maxville.

The door prize was won by Cecil McRae of Dunvegan and the 50-50 draw winners were Dorothy Cutt of Riceville, Oliver Clark of Maxville Manor, twice, Rita Seguin, Ann Stewart of Dunvegan, Alice Richer, Herbie O'Byrne and Peggy Cline.

Jean Chisholm, convenor of these euchres for the Manor Auxiliary wishes to thank all those who helped her with the euchres and who supplied the baking for the good lunches. A vote of thanks also goes to Mrs. Chisholm for supplying the notes on the euchre very promptly so that all the readers of this column can keep up with the results.

The euchre parties at the Manor will resume in the spring.

Firemen's Christmas dance a red-hot affair

WILLIAMSTOWN
Sue Harrington
347-2279

Those first harbingers of Christmas, outdoor lights, began appearing last week in the village. I'm not sure just who was first up with the decorations, but a certain paper route attendant tells me that Myrtle and Chuck Larocque were strong contenders for the honors.

On a cursory stroll yesterday,, I noticed Isobel and Paul Rozon's and Eddie and Theresa Bridson's were also lit up. Bruce and Linda McDonell's imported outdoor tree was in place, as were its lights.

I apologize to those villagers on the other side of the river for not walking up your way, but it was just a little too nippy for such a long stroll.

People who strolled were likely much better off on Saturday than those who brought cars to the auction sale at St. Mary's. Parking in Metro Williamstown was tricky indeed, and unless you were the winning bidder on an oriental rug or a dining room set, you were much better off stuffing your Royal Doulton figurines in your pockets and hiking it.

An extra large crowd turned up for the auction of Hugh Douglas' effects and were rewarded with some fine furnishings and unusual curios collected over the years by Mr. Douglas and his late wife.

The ladies of St. Mary's certainly had their work cut out for them this weekend. On Saturday they sold an estimated 20 loaves of sandwiches to those auction bidders famished by all that vigorous nodding and index finger raising. Makes me wonder how many glasses of water auctioneer Flora Dumouchel went through!

If you think 20 loaves of sandwiches is nothing, let me remind you that the St. Mary's ladies had been busy the night before catering to the supper before the fire department's annual Christmas dance.

The supper, for the volunteer firemen and their wives, was a little thank you to our ladies who often man the phone system and so frequently have to adjust the family's plans to fit in a chimney, grass or dryer fire. The ladies were surprised when they were presented with corsages before the supper.

A special presentation was made to Roy Quenneville and his wife Marjorie, to honor him on his retirement from the fire department after 22 years of service.

The dance which followed drew a large crowd and all reports indicated a successful evening garnished with music by the Police Band.

Cathy Lunan was the winner of the antique lantern donated by the ladies ball team, while Fred Klazinga also won one of the many donated prizes.

By the way, as a result of the evening's proceeds, Santa will be able to make it to the fire hall on Dec. 14. Keep posted next week for his E.T.A.

Sympathy goes out this week to Alva and Bev Grant and family, South Branch Rd., on the death of Alva's father, Clarence Tupper Grant, formerly of the Branch, lately of Long Sault.

Condolances, too, to Bill and Norma Cattanach and family on the passing of Helen CAttanach MacNaughton of Bainsville, Bill's aunt.

Also to Hugh and Joan Cook of Williamstown on the unexpected death of Hugh's mother last week in Kitchener, Ont.

On Nov. 29 the Green Thumbs met at St. Mary's Hall to elect a new slate of officers for 1987. Those who will form the executive are: Ernle Chatfield, past-president; Lyall Hargrave, president; Carmen Hunting, 1st vice-president; Elaine Pye, secretary and Elizabeth Chatfield, treasurer.

One year directors include: Anna May Wightman, Carmen Hunting, Sally Blacker, Esther Bryan and Eileen McDonell.

Those who will serve as two year directors are: Vivian Trudel, Susan Henssen, Evelyn Maloney, Doris Tessier, and Wendy Rozon.

The auditors will be Jack Hunting and Douglas Hargrave.

Following the meeting, Carolyn Cooper led the members in a sing-song, while hostesses Kay McDonald, Wendy Rozon, Eleanor Gibson, Lillian Toczyski and Daphne MacDonald prepared a very festive luncheon.

Marian McCuaig and Charlotte Samson were first again this week in Williamstown bridge action. Mary and Angus McDonell were second, while Hubert McDonell and Ken MacDonald were third.

In the bits and pieces category, little Patrick Sloan is home after a trip to Brockville where he had his tonsils removed. Hurry up and get better so you won't miss any pre-Christmas events, Patrick!

* * *

Charlie and Reta Heath have moved into the village, into Keith Stewart's old place. Not so much driving now for this extremely active couple!

Good crowds seem to be the thing at Williamstown activities these days. At the Friendly Neighbors open euchre on Nov. 27, there were 13 tables playing.

From all the competition, Rita Séguin, Annette Chretien and Edith McPhail were the ladies champs. Edith was also the skunk.

Harold Lauzon, Hector Leblanc and Oliver Legroulx were men's winners, while the skunk went to Arthur Franklin.

Maurice Chretien went home with the door prize, while Margaret Michaud, Ed O'Brien, Arthur Franklin, Howard Eamon and alda Major shared the 50-50 draw.

The club was pleased to see the visitors from Apple Hill, Lancaster, and other areas who attended.

If you tried to get me for two straight days last week and were met with an incessant busy signal, rest assured the problem has been solved (I cut off my son's tongue!) Actually a wet telephone cable was to blame, but all is now well.

Club 65 Christmas party to be held Saturday

GLEN ROBERTSON
Kathy McGrath
874-2758

Club 65 recently held its regular card party with the following winners: Gisele Titley, Clara Decoeur, Alexina Goulet, Solange Prieur, Leonard Sabourin, Omer Campeau, Adrienne Menard, Maurice Montpetit and Lucille Faubert. The skunk prize was won by Viola Hope and the door prize by Wilfred Cuerrier.

Winners of the draws were Marie Ann Roussin, Beatrice Lalonde and Fernand Carriere. The birthday of the month was won by Gisele Titley. Their next card party will be held on Dec. 19.

Members are looking forward to their Christmas party and dance coming up this Saturday. Refreshments will be provided and good music is promised. A warm welcome is extended to all.

The drawing for the winner of the quilt will take place at the dance. The quilt was made by Clara Decoeur, with help from some of the club members and is on display at Chartrand's store. Tickets are still available and can be purchased at the store or from club members.

Members and friends recently enjoyed a bus trip to Blue Bonnets race track in Montreal. Cocktails and dinner were all part of the package and the president, Pearl Sabourin and vice-president, Lily Rozon had the privilege of presenting a prize to the rider of one of the winning horses.

The thoughts and prayers of her many friends in this area are with Leona Decoste who is a patient at Montfort hospital in Ottawa.

Glen Robertson Girl Guides are busy making small gifts for the residents of The Group Home and also of the Ol' Presbytery; as well as Christmas tray favours for patients at Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

Paul and John Harden recently returned from a trip to Yorkshire, England where they attended the christening of Paula's nephew and visited with other family members.

Visitors over the weekend with Lily and Fern Rozon were Elphege and Aline Depratto of St. Scholastique and Maurice and Jackie LeDuc of Cornwall.

Kathy McGrath has returned from Halifax, N.S. where she visited her brother and his family.

Health unit allocation increased

TORONTO — Provincial spending for operating costs of Ontario hospitals will increase overall by 7.4 per cent, while funding for the 43 public health units across the province will rise by 6.8 per cent for 1987-88, Health Minister Murray Elston announced recently in a press release.

All Ontario hospitals will receive a four per cent increase, promised in 1986. In addition, the budget increase allotted to the ministry will give a further 3.4 per cent for growth in hospital programs.

These increases, amounting to $345 million, will bring total ministry spending on hospitals to approximately $5 billion.

"This announcement demonstrates the commitment of the government not only to maintain the basic elements of our health care system," Mr. Elston said, "but also to reflect new priorities for growth and enhancements in the system, recognize increased workload pressures in hospitals and acknowledge the population increase in some areas of Ontario."

The additional 3.4 per cent will provide for: new programs to be started in the next fiscal year; ministry-approved programs started or expanded in 1986-87; growth in life-support programs in designated teaching hospitals and other major hospitals (these include renal dialysis, cardiovascular surgery, chemotherapy, total parenteral nutrition, intraocular implants and perinatal health); workload increases due to hospitals treating more patients; an additional one per cent for hospitals with fewer than 50 beds; and assistance with the introduction of non-ionic contrast media.

Non-ionic contrast media are new dyes used in x-rays for diagnostic purposes. They considerably lower the level of side effects and discomfort that can occur with the traditional ionic media but are also more expensive than traditional media. The ministry has requested a meeting with the Ontario Hospital Association and Ontario Council of Administrators of Teaching Hospitals to develop a method to allocate funds to help hospitals deal with additional costs.

"The ministry has been authorized to approve funding for new programs to be started in the next fiscal year. When fully operational, the cost of these programs is projected to total some $100 million," Mr. Elston said.

The $130.5 million in funding to the health units also includes a four per cent basic allocation increase as well as additional funds to continue implementation of core programs—programs which have been made mandatory to all health units across the province under the Health Protection and Promotion Act

Dance teacher has determination

by Lesley Cadham

LANCASTER — When she began teaching dance to the young Mohawk girls in St. Regis, they worried she would only last a few weeks and then give up on them. That was three years ago and she still makes the weekly trip to Quebec. Those girls didn't know Sandy Ruest.

This Lancaster woman, owner of Sandy's Dance School, has spent most of her 34 years determined to make a career of moving her feet to music.

She remembers when she was little and people asked, "What are you going to be when you grow up." She'd always reply, "A dance teacher."

Aching feet and long hours didn't deter her and even a broken ankle seven years ago couldn't keep Mrs. Ruest down.

It happened when she was pregnant with her second child, Megan. Having danced through her first pregnancy with her doctor's approval, Mrs. Ruest planned to continue teaching through her second. But a fall down some stairs forced her to quit for three months and the doctor said due to the severity of the break, she probably wouldn't teach again.

Two weeks afer Megan was born, she set out to prove him wrong.

"If people tell me I can't, I have to prove I can. Nothing is going to stop me from dancing," she says.

Mrs. Ruest was two years old when she first slipped her tiny feet into tap dancing shoes.

"My driving force was my father's family. They were very musical. My aunts tap danced and they would put me up on the table to dance. There was always such a fuss made of it," she recalls.

Their enthusiasm gave her the drive and before long, she had become devoted to dance and was tapping her way toward a career.

"I was a very active child and I'm still happiest when I'm doing something," says Mrs. Ruest who has 400 students and teaches 25 hours a week.

In addition to time in the classroom, there are hours of travelling, working on dance routines, practicing and paperwork. It's not a nine to five job and much of the teaching is done in the evening. She also opened a boutique that sells dance wear three months ago.

The classes are held in Lancster, Cornwall, Cornwall Island and St. Regis and while she and sister Sharon Tyo teach tap, step, jazz and aerobic dancing and baton twirling, Mrs. Ruest has hired two teachers to lead classes in karate and gymnastics.

When she and husband, Gilles met, she didn't have much time for socializing. She remembers him waiting outside dance classes for her and his persistence won out. In 1972, the couple was married.

Mr. Ruest has accepted and supported her devotion to dancing.

"Gilles has been a big help. He's encouraged me to keep going and study more. He tapes music and organizes things when I'm busy.

"He doesn't know me without the dancing," she says.

In 1973, the Ruests moved from Cornwall to Lancaster and Mrs. Ruest decided opening a dance school would help her to meet the community. She also knew she wanted to teach children.

"I had to have a job where I was with children. I could have gone professional with a dance troop, but with children you get love all the time, you see progress and that means more to me than going up on stage."

When she teaches the three and four-year-olds in St. Regis, she has to tear herself away. The children want to hug and kiss her before she leaves and there is always a little one hanging onto her leg, trying to stop her from going.

Teaching the youngsters to dance is done by acting out things they can relate to. Mrs. Ruest tells them to pretend they're hugging Michael Jackson or throwing toys out to the audience and she says people still watch in awe when the little ones peform.

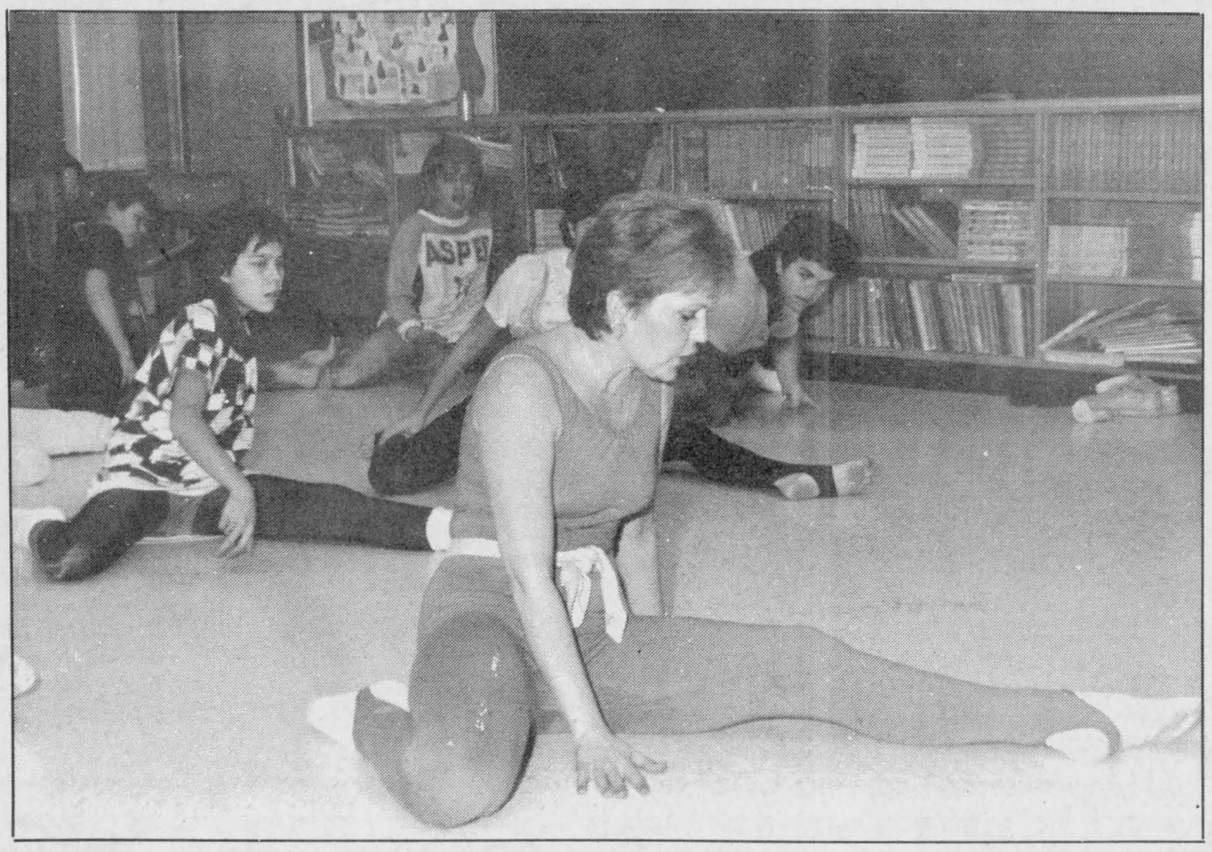
"It took a lot of hard work, Even then, I knew it was going to go well," she says.

She persevered and believes continuous activity has helped maintain her excellent health. Her diet consists of "lots of fruit and spaghetti three or four times a week." She adds, she needs the carbohydrates in pasta to keep her energy level high and she seldom eats desert.

When aerobic dance hit in 1980, she decided to open a school in Cornwall. She advertised "dancercise" classes in the newspaper and drove into town expecting to find a few people waiting to sign up. Instead, registrants lined the block. Mrs. Ruest drove to the nearest phone booth to call her sister Sharon Tyo, to help out. Mrs. Tyo now teaches several classes.

She also introduced aerobic dance to Alexandria, but later closed the school to concentrate on classes in Lancaster and Cornwall.

Another new endeavor involves teaching 12 and 13-year-old Mohawk girls jazz dancing at the Akwesasne Mohawk School on Cornwall Island. Mrs. Ruest hopes to open up another class at the Mohawk school in Hogansburg, New York in the near future.



DANCIN' TO THE BEAT—Sandy Ruest, Owner of Sandy's Dance School in Lancaster, rehearses a dance with her young Mohawk students at the Akwesasne School on Cornwall Island. Mrs. Ruest and the girls perfected a dance routine and were to perform at a McDonald's restaurant Christmas party, Saturday.

Lancaster Fire Department holds dance

Several major changes in the Lancaster Fire Department have been announced following their November meeting last week. The changes including the naming of a new chief, came into effect Monday. Chief Roger Menard is stepping down due mainly to pressure of business and will be replaced by Gene Picard who moves up from the rank of Captain. The other officers include Deputy Chief Richard Leger, Captain Gerald Maurice, Lieutenants Richard Anderson and Terry Leroux.

The firemen are busy preparing for the banquet which they hold every three years. It is to be held Saturday at the Lancaster Inn at 6 p.m.

The annual dance will follow at 9 p.m., St. Joseph's Hall and all friends of the firemen are welcome.

Keeping attends St. Andrew's dance

by Angus H. McDonell

"The message I leave you is one of commendation for the admirable manner you Glengarrians have nutured the heritage roots embedded here by your ancestors some 200 years ago" was the keynote of an address by guest speaker Ottawa's Max Keeping, news anchorman of CJOH, last Saturday night in Maxville before a St. Andrew's Ball record crowd.

The dinner-dance was sponsored by the Glengarry Pipe Band and attracted distant guests from Ottawa, Cornwall and a representation from Montreal's St. Andrew's Society.

"The founders of Glengarry, as well as Stormont and Dundas, the speaker emphasized, "emmigrated from their birth place to these parts, cleared the land, built pioneer homes and communities in order to get away from wars and the threat of wars that include the 'boiling pot' of America at the time of the revolution."

Among other interesting remarks by the guest were reference to the St. Andrew's anniversary mottos and Glengarry Pipe Band hall decorations that created an atmosphere befitting a truly Scottish entertainment. In conclusion the guest expressed gratitude for this return invitation to Maxville and said he would be looking forward to a renewal of acquaintenances.

Walter Stewart, president of the Glengarry Pipe Band, was master of ceremonies. After extending greetings he called on a few of the younger band members to officiate.

The blessing was recited by Kathy Arkinstall, a toast to her Majesty the Queen by Steve Douglas and to the ladies by Ewen Campbell.

The Ode to the Haggis ritual was carried out by Art Buckland in his usual articulate way and with a mini-sword wielding that caused Max Keeping, standing next, to duck behind Mrs. Robert MacDonell for protection.

Bearers of the Haggis to the head table were Steven Douglas and Barry Werely, while the pipers were Bruce Blaney and Kent Campbell.

Following the dinner the program resumed with the introduction of the head table guests by Robbie MacRae. They were: Mr. and Mrs. Ernie MacMillan, Mrs. Robert MacDonell, Max Keeping, Art Buckland, Robert MacDonell, Mrs. Art Buckland and Walter Stewart.

Ron Graham introduced the guest speaker, words of thanks were expressed by Ernie MacMillan and Art Buckland presented the guest with a sweater bearing a piper crest and a Newfoundland Tartan scarf. The guest returned to the "mike" and after expressing thanks for the gifts he related a couple of "Newfie" stories that wer amusing.

The head table part of the program concluded with a brief, interesting report of a successful season by the Glengarry Pipe Band by band manager Robert MacDonell. The band won top awards in its class at the Highland Games in Windsor and Almonte. Band members were received enthusiastically at all engagements and manager MacDonell thanked all who assisted the band in any way during the past season.

Following the dinner, the band assembled on the dance floor, led by Pipe-Major John T. MacKenzie and Pipe-Sergeant Ewen (Innis) Campbell. They played several appropriate numbers and were then joined by the MacCulloch Dancers who entertained with various dances directed by Rae MacCulloch. The Brigadoons played for the dance.

New president wants to reach grassroots

TORONTO — Brigid Pyke, a dairy farmer and high profile farm leader from Wolfe Island, near Kingston, was elected president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture during the farm group's 50th annual convention in Toronto, Nov. 25.

Mrs. Pyke is the first woman to be elected head of a provincial farm organization in Canada.

Calling for grassroots revitalization of the federation, Mrs. Pyke said, "We have to mount a defense of the family farm on many issues, and I will be asking for strong support from all county federations of agriculture across the province. We need to present our positions more persistently and more aggressively to government and to the public."

Mrs. Pyke included among her major priorities a move to ensure the effectiveness of the Ontario Debt Review Board and its responsiveness to the needs of farmers facing bankruptcy.

She also promised a quick follow through on resolutions passed by the 1986 OFA convention, particularly Resolution #9 calling for a referendum free vote, commodity by commodity, in the red meat sector, on the producers' choice of marketing methods.

Finally, she pledged an increase in OFA membership, securing a strong financial base for the federation's operations and projects.

The Ontario Federation of Agriculture is the largest general farm organization in the province, with 24,000 farm family members and 26 allied marketing boards, commodity associations, co-operatives, educational institutions and rural service groups.

MacCulloch Dancers in marathon

MARTINTOWN — The MacCulloch Dancers will be travelling to Montreal this weekend for their performance in the 24 hour Telethon of Stars.

This will be the 10th annual appearance on this telethon for the dancers. Auditions were held in Montreal for the first Telethon in 1977, the MacCulloch dancers were selected from 600 acts and have been invited back each year since that time.

During the last 10 years, the dancers have been accompanied by several area musicians, violinist Darrel MacLeod, members of the Clansmen, Brigadoons and the Glengarry Pipe Band.

The telethon in aid of 'Research into Children's Diseases' at the Montreal Children's and Ste. Justine Hospitals will be telecast live by CFCF Channel 12, Montreal from the Claude Robillard Arena.

The dancers, accompanied by Brigadoons Rob Taylor, Paddy Kelly and Jackie Smith will make their appearance around 9:30 a.m., Sunday.

This performance will include both Highland and Step dancing, depicting the traditional music and dances of Glengarry County.

Fined for assault

An Alexandria man was fined $150 Thursday in Alexandria Provincial Court after he was found guilty of assault.

Richard Massia, 27, was charged April 4 in Kenyon Township. At an earlier court appearance, he pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Court was told during a trial that Mr. Massia followed the victim to his home by car. The victim, 20, had left Glengarry District High School by bus.

When the man arrived at his Kenyon Township home, Mr. Massia struck him and shoved him backwards. The accused struck the victim three times.

Mr. Massia told the court he had consumed alcohol prior to the incident. He was given three months to pay the fine.

Sandanista government big improvement over Somoza

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

In response to the letter entitled "Supports freedom fighters" in the Nov. 19 issue of The Glengarry News, we do have to agree that the Nicaraguan church is divided.

There exist today the traditional, hierarchical church and the popular church. The traditional church is made up of conservative and elitist priests and bishops such as Bishop Bando y Bravo and Bishop Vega.

The popular church is made up of many priests, nuns, delegates of the word and basic Christian communities. The basic communities are so poor that they can not afford to pay for a priest to come and live in their communities.

As an alternative, they elect a spiritual leader among their peers. We must remember that Nicaragua is mainly a rural and agricultural nation where most of the people live in the countryside.

As to the allegation that the Cubans are invading Nicaragua, we indeed acknowledge the Cuban presence in Nicaragua, however there are also many other "internationals" (Dutch, German, Swiss, American, Canadian) who have gone to stay and show their solidarity with this struggling nation.

After the triumph of 1979, dictator Somoza's family and friends fled, mostly to the U.S., leaving a huge void in many technical sectors such as the telephone system. The Somocistas were the privileged few who had the education and the training to perform such jobs.

Yes, almost all material goods are rationed and in short supply in Nicaragua which is a sad reality. This nation has been at war since 1979 and earlier. Because of the continuous attacks by the Contras and the economic embargo imposed by the U.S. government, the whole nation is suffering.

The Sandanista government has to spend too much of the national income on the military and defense budget instead of providing goods and services to their people.

In conclusion, we must say that the Sandanista government is not perfect and correct in everything it does, however it is a big improvement over the corrupt Somoza regime. The Nicaraguan insurrection did not come about to endow, to enrich the ruling Somocista elite. The Sandinistas represent the majority of the people who are peasants, small farmers and the slum dwellers. In the redistribution of resources and services, it is the bourgeoisie and the elite that have to yield to a more just society.

Drug bill fair to everyone

NORM WARNER
MP, Stormont-Dundas

During the past two weeks there has been ongoing debate in the House of Commons over the Bill introduced on Nov. 7, regarding the pharmaceutical industry.

The Bill, in the form of amendments to the Patent Act has three principal objectives: to stimulate research and development in the pharmaceutical industry, to protect the interests of consumers, and to harmonize our patent regime with that of other industrialized countries.

Under the present law an innovative pharmaceutical company has no certainty about the period of protection it can expect for discovering or developing a new drug. Once an innovator has developed a successful product with a large market potential, it may see this product copied by a generic producer with no adequate compensation for the risk of magnitude of investment it has made to develop it.

The proposed Bill, by providing investors with patent protection for up to 10 years will result in a significant increase in research and development funding. It is estimated that there will be an additional $1.4 billion spent by private industry on research over the next 10 years. More research will lead to new and better drugs, some 3,000 new job opportunities for our researchers and scientists, and ultimately better health for Canadians.

Our new pharmaceutical policy does not overlook the interests of consumers. This policy will not cause drug prices to rise. All generic drugs now on the market will remain on the market, with no price increase.

The introduction of generic drugs to the market tends to reduce over time, the cost of the new drugs. Statistics show that generic drugs take an average of 11.5 years to be introduced in the absence of any patent protection. We will allow generic products to enter the market after 10 years or after 7 years if the generic product is manufactured in Canada.

The price for new drugs will continue to be determined by the same factors that presently control price in the market place. In addition, all existing and new innovative drugs will be subject to an immediate review by the Drug Price Review Board, to ensure fair priced drugs for Canadians.

Laggan puts heat on St. Raphael's squad

by Sue Sloan

The Border Hockey League has now seen 10 weeks of hockey action, with St. Raphael's holding top spot unchallenged.

As of Nov. 30, St. Raphael's had an impressive winning streak of 13, against two losses, with 26 points.

Its challenger, Laggan, now sits dangerously close, with 23 points and an 11-2-1 record. The two teams will meet Sunday in Alexandria at 1 p.m.

Glen Nevis, following a recent losing slump, now has 11 points and a 5-9-1 record.

Further down in the standings, Alexandria has moved from fifth to fourth, with its seven-point, 3-10-1 record.

Rounding out the pack in fifth is Lancaster, with a 2-11-1 record, for five points. The battle for the fourth playoff spot will see fifth position change hands several times throughout the season.

Four more games changed the team standings in the past week in the Border League.

Off the top of the list, last Tuesday in Alexandria, St. Raphael's skated off with a 7-1 win over Lancaster.

Frank St. Pierre scored for St. Raphael's with reinforcement coming in the form of two from Leo Seguin, and a single from Barry MacDonald.

Lancaster's single tally came off the stick of Sandy McLennan.

Glen Nevis faced off against Alexandria Thursday night in Williamstown, taking its second straight win 12-7.

Gilles Parisien outskated the pack to score four goals, assisted with a hat trick from teammate Bert MacDonald. Jim Baker, Findley McLeod, Joey McRae, Chris MacDonald and Darrell Hay all popped singles.

Alexandria's scoring effort came in the form of doubles for Doug Brown and Yvan Desautels. Jean-Luc Desautels, Richard Cholette and Michel Cholette rounded out the scoring.

Laggan pulled itself out of the basement, Sunday. When the first period ended, Laggan was down 2-0 to Lancaster, but came back in the second and third to fisish the game with a 9-3 win.

Billy deWit, Mark Titley and Murray MacDonald set the pace for Laggan with a pair of goals each, while Eddie deWit, Dwayne Spink and Neil Sandilands tallied singles.

Lancaster's three goal effort was knocked in by Chris Emond, Serge Picard and Vance McLaughlin.

Game 2, on Sunday, again saw St. Raphael's in the winner's bench, downing Alexandria 13-5.

Leo Seguin led the way with five goals and, close on his skates, was George Lunan with four.

On the rebound for Alexandria was Richard Cholette with two, and Alain Giroux, Frank Paquin and Jean-Luc Desautels with one each.

In short, Laggan will be facing a double challenge this week when it meets the first opponent Thursday night in Williamstown. Should Laggan win, it will be a viable contender for the top spot, Sunday, against St. Raphael's at 1 p.m. in Alexandria. Game 2 on Sunday features Glen Nevis and Lancaster.

Tuesday night, at 10:20, Alexandria plays host to Laggan at the Sports Palace.

Junior Glens lose

Alexandria Junior B Glens are finding out it takes more than 20 minutes of hockey to win games.

Friday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace, the Glens didn't show up until the third period and dropped a 4-3 decision to the Navan Grads.

Put this one in the book as a sleeper. Both the Glens and Navan were listless the first two periods. The Glens, suffering their fourth setback in a row, slipped into last place, one point behind third-place Winchester. The Glens sport a 5-9-1 mark.

The Glens host second-place Char-Lan Rebels Thursday night, at 8 p.m. Friday night, the Glens travel to Metcalfe to face the Jets.

Navan jumped out to a 1-0 lead after one period and increased the margin to 3-0 after 40 minutes of play. Glen Campbell paced the attack with a hat trick, while Andrew Meth and Andrew McCormick picked up two assists each.

Rob Taite tallied twice for Navan, while Tom Wardle and Don Gauthier added singles.

Thursday night at Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott Arena, the Glens dropped a 12-7 decision to the Ottawa West Golden Knights.

The Glens trailed 4-0 and 8-5 at the period intermissions. Leonard Seguin tallied four times for the Glens in a losing effort, while Stephane Gareau and Andrew Meth chipped in with one each.

Ottawa West's attack was paced by Andy Thompson with three goals and three assists. Peter Imeson had two goals and two assists, while Tony Lopez also had a pair and one assist.

Local Bantams lose to North-Glen-Stor

Alexandria Lions Club Bantams dropped a 3-2 squeaker to North-Glen-Stor Friday night at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Alexandria's goals came off the sticks of Serge Bellefeuille and Denis MacDonald. It was the local club's first loss of the season.

Casselman beats Junior C's

CASSELMAN — Since taking over as coach of the Alexandria Junior C's, Charlie Giroux has never had a full roster for a game.

Sunday, for the first time, he had the luxury of a full squad against Casselman on the road. But, by game's end, there was only a handful of players left on the bench.

Alexandria took a 13-2 thumping at the hands of Casselman. The loss came on the heels of Thursday night's 9-1 loss against rival St. Isidore at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

It wasn't so much the loss that upset Giroux in Sunday's game, but the dying moments when the contest's outcome had been decided.

Alexandria's Jacques Massie was tossed out for fighting. After leaving the ice surface, on his way to the dressingroom, a Casselman fan kicked the Alexandria player. Massie began fighting with the fan and other spectators became involved.

While the off-ice altercation was happening, the referee tossed four Alexandria players out of the game because they didn't go to a neutral area on the ice.

"We played short-handed most of the third period and we have to settle down and start playing hockey," says Giroux. "I was upset when our players got thrown out because none of the Casselman players were in a neutral area and they didn't lose anyone."

While Giroux isn't sure if Massie will be suspended for his off-ice incident, Pierre Levac will miss the next three games. Levac was assessed a major penalty for spearing and with it comes an automatic three-game suspension.

Alexandria's goals came off the sticks of Sylvain Levert and Jean Lauzon.

Giroux didn't blame Massie for the off-ice incident, saying it was the Casselman fan who instigated the fight. But, he says the club still needs more on-ice discipline.

"We took too many penalties in the third period and we'll have to talk to the players about it. We can't keep taking penalties," said Giroux.

Peewees lose and tie in league action

Alexandria Lalonde's General Store Peewees have had all kinds of trouble this season against Cornwall in the Lower St. Lawrence Hockey League.

The local club has lost three times to Cornwall. Sunday night on home ice, however, Alexandria skated to a 3-3 tie with the rival squad.

Randy Gebbie led the attack with a pair of goals, while Luc Sabourin completed the scoring. Stephane Pilon and Steve Poirier had assists, while Daniel Dumont handled the goaltending duties.

Cornwall's goals came off the sticks of Lyle Sproul, Serge Viau and Marc Bellemare.

Alexandria was blanked 4-0 against North-Glen-Stor Saturday at Finch.

Jason Foster sparked the winners attack with two goals, while Chris Leroux and Paul Jackson added singles.

Players must share the blame, not just coach

SPORTS

Peter Conway

These are not happy days for the Alexandria Junior B Glens. For Coach Roch Lajoie and Manager Claude Roy, all of a sudden, hockey isn't fun anymore.

The Glens have dropped four in a row and things don't look brighter this weekend with games against Char-Lan and Metcalfe.

Winchester has crept up on the Glens and taken over sole possession of third place in the Alex English Division.

That may not be much concern for a lot of people, but for Roch and Claude, the season has been discouraging at this point, to say the least.

A 4-3 setback to Navan Friday night might not sound all that bad, but the Glens were fortunate to be that close. It was a terrible outing by both clubs. A vendor selling coffee in the stands trying to keep the fans awake would have made a fortune.

Coach Lajoie was upset with his club's performance after one period Friday and rightly so. Manager Claude Roy was not impressed.

The coach gave his troops a tongue-lashing after 20 minutes of play. The players didn't show much life in the middle stanza, but they played a stronger third period.

While a tongue-lashing usually has a positive affect on a squad, much more was needed on this night. I can't recall when Coach Lajoie has looked down his bench this season to find a full roster.

It was the same old story last Friday night. Contrary to what some hockey fans in the area might think, it isn't just management's fault for the club's dismal play of late.

It's one thing to tell the coach you'll be at the game. It's another thing to show up. There have been far too many occasions in the young season when players have said they'd be at the rink, but weren't.

Sure, as manager, Claude Roy is responsible for signing the players. Once a player signs, management expects that player to make a commitment for the season. This hasn't happened. One player has quit, while another has probably quit, after having played only in a couple of games.

The Glens' roster isn't made up of a talented group of individuals. For the club to be successful, they have to play together as a unit.

It isn't just the players who are feeling the heat from the losses. For one of the rare times this season, both Lajoie and Roy were bitterly disappointed with the club's performance.

On Thursday night, the Glens scored seven goals in a 12-7 loss to Ottawa West in the nation's capital. One night later at home, they can only manage three against a weaker Navan squad.

Some may not agree, but Lajoie and Roy have put in the time and effort with hopes of icing a competitive squad. It hasn't been easy. Finding talent is one thing. Getting the talent to Alexandria is another.

The Glens play out of a beautiful building and they are fortunate to have a solid base of shareholders to help pay the bills.

But, it is getting more difficult attracting talent for junior B hockey clubs to communities such as Alexandria. Winchester had the same problem during its training camp. Char-Lan Rebels are fortunate. They have a pipeline in to Cornwall for the minor hockey graduates.

If the Glens would ice a full roster each game, the club would be competitive against the likes of Metcalfe, Char-Lan, Ottawa West and South Ottawa.

Some players miss practice as well. It's difficult to generate any cohesion if individuals don't show up for practices.

There is plenty of hockey left in the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League season. The Glens will have to be satisfied fighting it out with Winchester for third place. Unless the club can put together a string of wins soon, they can forget finishing any higher than fourth.

The Glens have dominated Winchester to date, but the Hawks played better of late, tying Navan and beating Ottawa West recently.

If the Glens have any character, now's the time to show it.

NO ROOM—Lancaster's goaler hugs the post to stop a scoring chance during a Border Hockey League contest Sunday at the Glengarry Sports Palace. With the win, Laggan continues to put heat on league-leading St. Raphael's in the battle for top spot. The two clubs meet Sunday in an important contest.

Seguin's hat trick lifts Hope's in win

LONG SAULT—Joel Séguin's hat trick sparked Hope's Auto Parts to a 6-6 draw against South Stormont Sunday, in a Lower St. Lawrence Bantam House League game at Long Sault.

Also scoring for the Alexandria squad were Steve Maisonneuve, Maurice Paquette and Daniel Brunet.

K. MacCormick tallied four times for South Stormont.

Hope's blanked Char-Lan 4-0 Saturday at the Glengarry Sports Palace. Alain Larocque paced the winners with a pair of markers, while singles went to Allen Kennedy and Steve Maisonneuve.

Four games were played in the Atom Division. Picher skated to a 7-3 win over Deguire Plumbing.

Jean-Eric Gibeau, Joey Ladouceur and Marc Deguire tallied for Deguire Plumbing.

Mathiew Steich scored three times as OPP nipped Stewart Plumbing 3-2. Eric Lobb scored both markers for Stewart's.

Luc Titley's hat trick sparked Deguire Plumbing to a 3-0 win over OPP.

Sylvain Lavigne's five goals lifted Stewart Plumbing to an easy 7-3 win over Picher. Kevin McKinnon and Alain Borris rounded out the scoring.

Darcy MacDonell led Picher with two goals, while Sylvain Lortie chipped in with a single.

In a Peewee House League game Monday night, South Stormont nipped Alexandria Top Valu 2-1. Alexandria's lone goal was scored by Andre Leroux.

Lauzon tallies three times

WILLIAMSTOWN — Tommy Lauzon fired three goals and added a pair of assists to lift C&R Farm Services to a 6-1 triumph over Munro Feeds, in a junior contest Sunday in the Char-Lan Minor Broomball League.

Michael Henstock scored a pair and added an assist, while Melissa McDonald completed the scoring for the winners. John Ferguson scored for Munro Feeds.

In a Peewee game, Brent Lauzon scored for Lafave Auto and Dominique Jalbert for Columbia Finishing Mills in a 1-1 draw.

Two games were played last Tuesday night. In the Junior outing, Michael Henstock and Tommy Lauzon tallied goals as C&R Farm Services blanked Munro Feeds 2-0.

In the Peewee game, Columbia Finishing Mills nipped Lafave Auto 2-1. Marty Lariviere scored both goals for the winners. Cathy Grant replied for Lafave Auto.

Novice squad nips Char-Lan

The Alexandria Knights of Columbus Novice squad ran its league record to an impressive 9-1 mark, following a 2-0 win Saturday against Char-Lan.

Scoring for Alexandria were Karl Hehn and Martin Boisvenue, while assists went to Eric Hagen, Joel Menard and Jean-Joel Trottier.

Alexandria plays a home-and-home series this weekend with Char-Lan.

Late goal sinks Char-Lan Rebels

WILLIAMSTOWN — Char-Lan Rebels have enjoyed success this season in interlocking contests with Metro Division clubs in the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League.

After beating South Ottawa Canadians in their own rink a few weeks ago, the Canadians returned the favor Saturday night at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre.

Mark Hennigar's second goal of the game with 1:44 left in the third period provided the Canadians with an 8-7 victory over the Rebels. The loss leaves the Rebels with an 8-7 mark and four points back of Alex English Division—leading Metcalfe Jets.

The clubs were tied 3-3 and 5-5 after two periods of play. Ken Smith and Ben McIntosh also contributed a pair of goals for South Ottawa, while Andre Ouellette and Don MacDonald chipped in with singles. McIntosh, MacDonald and Ouellette also had two assists each.

The loss overshadowed the scoring performance of winger Kevin Poapst. Poapst tallied four times for the Rebels, while Mike Lapensee, Bruce Bergeron and Chris Villeneuve added one goal each. Lapensee and Mike Jodoin had three assists each.

The Rebels travel to Alexandria Thursday night to face rival Alexandria Glens. Winchester Hawks pay a visit to the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre Saturday night at 7:45 p.m.

The Rebels and Metcalfe Jets are waging a battle for the best goals-against mark in the Alex English Division. The Rebels have given up 86 goals, one less than the Jets.

Rebels' winger Kevin Poapst continues to lead the scoring parade. He holds a one-point lead over Winchester sniper Mark Smith.

Wensink scores

Robert Wensink scored a pair of goals as Greenfield Wings posted a 5-1 decision over Nadon's Saturday night in an Alexandria Foot Hockey League game at the Glengarry Sports Palace.

Also scoring for the winners were Denis Verville, Lyndon Lewis and Benny Phillips. Steve Molinaro scored for Nadon's.

In another contest, Pierre Dubeau earned the shutout in Ottawa Hotel's 4-0 win over Consoltex. Chico Gareau paced the winners with a pair of goals, while Bob Chabot and Luc Richer added singles.

Duncan McDonald was rated an all-time sportsman

by Angus H. McDonell

The selection last Wednesday of Steven Douglas to pipe a Scottish interment lament at the graveside of his uncle, Duncan McDonald, was indeed appropriate. And it was equally fitting the number Steven played was his uncle's favorite, "The House of MacDonald."

Duncan McDonald admired this particular bagpipe tune because it reflected similar significant traits in real life the house of the McDonalds (paternal) and MacDonalds (maternal). As a member of the third generation Duncan upheld the noted family heritage in such a distinguished way that his legions of friends rated him among Glengarry's all-time sportsmen.

In order to write a tribute to the late Duncan McDonald we must begin by relating some of the family characteristics he inherited from his pioneer generation in the 1800s.

Some News readers may ask why was Duncan McDonald popularly known thoughout his life as "Duncan Angus Katie"? The answer goes back, folks, to the day his grandfather and grandmother were married in Alexandria. Two old cronies met at the post office and one asked the other, "Who got married today"? Reply. "Two McDonalds, Angus and Katherine." "Well", the dialogue continued, "We can shorten that to Angus and Katie." In due course the and was dropped, hence knick name, "The Angus Katie McDonalds."

In his youth Duncan Angus Katie had a flair for the pipes. His grandfather was a piper and his father was Pipe-Major Angus D. McDonald. Duncan followed in line for a while but his preference over the chanter was his love for the outdoor life, a gun and the family fox hounds, Banner and Jack. His grandfather, his father and uncles, Donald Alex and Jimmy, were all noted Glengarry sportsmen hunters. On his mother's side there was his granduncle Angus Donald Ban (Angus the gun) MacDonald, where the Bonnie Glen is located and his uncle Donald William MacDonald down Glen Nevis way.

During the depression when a dollar was hard to come by, Duncan and his brother Hughie many a Saturday treked along Al Malcomson's lane to the area west of where the new Alexandria water tank stands; the hound would pick up a fox scent and the chase was on across the bushland and open spaces sometimes to the Greenfield side road or along Loch Garry shoreline. Back tracking the wily fox would invariably make the mistake of running out in the open within shot range. That meant walking home with a pelt that bought a new hockey stick and the rest to his mother.

When not hunting it was hockey. Duncan Angus Katie and his brother Hughie led the town's west end lads playing hockey on the "Pond" rink, (Alexandria Lake), where the rear lawn of Adelard Sauve's residence abutts the shoreline. Dunc's mother, a caring, lovable soul, turned over the kitchen for a dressing room. There was neither money nor the privilege of playing on the town rink. What a contrast to today's Sports Palace on a weekend! Among the players of that era were the Brunets, Wilfred, Paul, Sam, Louis and Ernie, Norman Laperle, the Plumadores, McDougalds, the "Hughie Williams", Angus, Francis and Bernie, George "Plug" Taillefer and Clark DaPrato. Scores of Canada's top hockey players developed under similar circumstances. Duncan Angus Katie fitted that mold with his skilled stick handling and shooting a sometimes wooden puck with speed and accuracy.

World War Two and Glengarry Gardens ended "Pond" hockey that was part of the Angus Katie and Alexandria sport history since day one.

When Duncan was granted his first army leave in England, as you would expect, he headed for Scotland. In Glasgow he called at a Scottish Craftsman's shop to buy bagpipe reeds for his father. The conversation with the manager obviously was relative to the pipes. Learning that Duncan's grandfather and father were Glengarry pipers the manager handed Duncan a chanter saying, "Play a scale or two and I'll present you with the reeds." Duncan accepted the challenge. He fingered the scales and added a few notes of Scottish Soldier. He upheld the Angus Katie piping heritage and the delighted store manager mailed fully paid a package of reeds to Alexandria.

Following army discharge and back to electrical work and active in the realm of sport, for the first time, Alexandria Maroons, 1948, Duncan Angus Katie had the opportunity to play hockey with senior class players. Duncan 's crafty puck handling coupled with his Gordie Howe-like wrist shot motivated this writer (manager-coach) to draft a plan with captain Bill L'Hereux to capitalize on Duncan's scoring potential.

Playing on a line with left winger Max Pope and center Bill Murphy, Duncan (not as a skater) was aided in back checking. On a clearing rush Duncan at our blue line had a couple of strides to keep pace. Over the blue line his play was to manoeuvre for a pass as he could pick an opening on either side of the net like a pro. He finished the season among the scoring leaders.

Duncan had the same canny scoring ability in lacrosse as in hockey. One night he scored the winning goal in a Gardens' Maroons' game. Coach Matt Anthony, one of Canada's great lacrosse and football players, quipped, "That McDonald is an opportunist, he never wastes a shot." What more need be added.

Duncan retired from lacrosse and hockey to his frist love, the outdoors and hunting. Learning of his accuracy with a rifle plus his sportsmanship personality, captain Albert Dancause invited Duncan to join their Apple hill deer hunting club. Like a first-year pro hockey youngster on a game scoring spree and to the amazement of Albert Dancause, Duncan shot three deer. As we say in sport jargon, from that fall day he never looked back.

Among the Glengarry sportsmen attesting to the above assertion based on their many pleasant local hunts with Duncan and in deer camp groups were: Mervyn Daniels, Charlie and Vincent MacDonell, Runions brothers, Donnie MacDonald, Lloyd, Bill, Howard and Austin Kennedy, Ernie Brunet, "Snookey" Bradley, Archie and Hughie Stewart, Adrien Filion, Leonard Hill, Angus MacRae and Johnny Carpenter.

Those who were able to attend Duncan's funeral last Wednesday afternoon joined the thinning old guard in sorrow with members of the family and many friends bidding farewell to a beloved Glengarry sportsman.

It is fitting to close by quoting the famed actor Will Rogers who said, "You must judge a man's greatness by how much he will be missed."

And we add, "May the sod rest lightly on "Duncan Angus Katie".

THROWING FOR DISTANCE—Willie Lang, of the Glengarry Cabers Club, gets set to throw the 56-pound weight for distance during a heavy events demonstration last Wednesday at Glengarry District High School. The demonstration was part of Scottish Day celebrations.

Corkie Robinson had one goal and one assist for Gareau's, while Debbie Robinson had the other. Lorraine Currier had one assist.

The evening's final game saw Sealtest down Torque 4-0. Jackie Prieur on an unassisted goal, gave Sealtest a 1-0 first period lead and the score remained that way until three goals late in the second period. In Memoriam

DESJARDINS—In loving memory of a dear mother, mother-in-law and grandmother, Alice, who passed away two years ago Dec. 2, 1984.
What I would give if I could say
Hello Mom in the same old way.
You never said goodbye to us
Perhaps it's just as well,
For we never would have said goodbye
To the one we loved so well.
Our hearts still ache with sadness
And tears still fall,
What it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
—Lovingly remembered by daughter May, son-in-law Marcel, granddaughters Dominik and Anik. 49-1p

SWEENEY, Stella—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother who passed away December 1, 1985.
It's already a year to the day
That the Lord took her away.
We miss her so, we always will,
Her memory lives deep in us still.
Her loving ways, her honesty,
She always loved so openly.
The Lord is lucky, she's with him now,
We'll see her again, we must somehow.
—Loved and missed dearly by her husband René, her daughter Ann and her grandson little Daniel Joseph. 49-1p

O'CONNOR—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Clement, who passed away Dec. 6, 1985.
You left many a happy memory,
And a sorrow too great to be told,
But to us who loved and lost you,
Your memory will never grow old.
—Lovingly remembered by wife Angela and son Burns. 49-1p

DESJARDINS—In loving memory of a dear mother and mother-in-law, Alice, who passed away Dec. 2, 1984.
Two years have passed, dear Mom
Since you were called away.
How we wish that we could say
"We'll go see Mom today."
How well do we remember
That sad and weary day,
We cried and prayed that you dear life
Would not be taken away.
—Sadly missed by daughter Joyce and son-in-law Jean-Guy. 49-1p

IN memory of a dear brother, Ray, who passed away Nov. 26, 1982.
Thank you God
For the happy times we shared together,
And for the memories that will last forever.
—Lovingly remembered by sister Lucienne, and brother-in-law Albert O'Connell. 49-1p

DESJARDINS—In loving memory of Mrs. Wellington Desjardins, who died Dec. 2, 1984.
From the hospital bed to heavenly rest,
God took you home to be his guest
Two sad and lonely years ago.
It broke my heart to lose you, Alice,
But you did not go alone dear,
For a part of me went with you
The day God called you home.
—Lovingly remembered by husband Wellington. 49-1p

DESJARDINS—In loving memory of a dear mother, grandmother and mother-in-law, Alice, who passed away two years ago, Dec. 2, 1984.
God saw you were getting tired
A cure was not to be
So He wrapped you in His loving arms
And whispered, "Come with Me."
You suffered much in silence,
You faced your pain with courage
Until the very end.
—Always loved and remembered by son Wellington Jr., daughter-in-law Noël-Ange and granddaughter Tanya. 49-1p

DUMOUCHEL—In loving memory of a dear wife, Stella, who passed away Dec. 16, 1983.
Three years have passed since that sad day,
The one I loved was called away;
God took her home, it was His will,
But in my heart she liveth still.
—Always remembered by husband Euclide. 49-1p

In Memoriam

DESJARDINS—In loving memory of a dear mother, grandmother and mother-in-law, Alice, who passed away two years ago December 2, 1984.
If tears could build a stairway
And memories build a lane
I'd walk all the way to heaven
To bring you back again.
So many times I missed you,
So many times I've cried,
If love alone could have saved you,
You never would have left us.
So you who have a mother
Love her while you may
You'll never know her value,
Till she's gone away.
—Always loved and remembered by daughter Alice, son-in-law Marcel, and grandsons Nicko and Yanik. 49-1p

Alexandria's foremost businessman will lead the Liberal forces of Glengarry in the provincial elections which will be held on December 11th. Hugh Munro will be the party standard bearer.—Alexandria's expert shots carried off the honors on Tuesday, when a shooting match was held at Vankleek Hill, the final team standing being: Alexandria, 450; Vankleek Hill, 444, and Hawkesbury, 432. The Alexandria contingent was made up of Dr. J. T. Hope, F. V. Massey, G. Bradley, E. I. Tarlton, T. J. Gormley and W. Ashton.—Arsene Carriere's house, on St. James Street, was totally destroyed by fire on Sunday afternoon.

NINETY YEARS AGO

We understand that one of the branches of the Traders Bank is in communication with some of Maxville's most prominent citizens, with a view to opening a branch in that town.—Last week a motor car, running between London and Brighton, attained the speed of 30 miles an hour.—One day last week Messrs. O. Taillefer and J. Goulet, of the blacksmithing department of Munro & McIntosh carriage manufacturing establishment, here, broke the record by soldering 37 sets of steel rail axles half round in 10 hours, a remarkably good day's work.—Among the list of successful candidates at the final examinations for professional nurses in the General Hospital, Montreal, we notice the name of Miss Lizzie Munro, daughter of D. T. Munro, Maxville.

OLD POST OFFICE—The Alexandria post office was gutted by fire in 1921. Later rebuilt on the same site, it gave way to a new post office on Catherine Street and now houses the police office.
