Greenfield family left homeless by Saturday blaze

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Roger Daoust and Suzanne Raymond watched as the place they called home for the past seven years was reduced to a pile of ashes.

A late night blaze consumed the couple's home located in Greenfield, 15 kilometres northwest of Alexandria, on Saturday night.

"It's been really hard. Both mentally and physically," says Suzanne.

"We don't know what our next step is going to be. Our 10-year-old boy (Jacques) panicked when he saw the house and even the baby (two-year-old Daniel) hasn't been sleeping well."

Kenyon Township firefighters were dispatched to the house, located just north of the tiny hamlet, around 11:10 p.m.

They arrived about seven to 10 minutes later but the fire progressed so far that "there was little we could do," said Don MacCulloch, Kenyon's fire chief.

The house was engulfed by a spectacular blaze which Suzanne said lit the night sky and produced so much smoke that it could be seen at least two or three kilometres away from the site.

MacCulloch said that the cause has not been determined but isn't suspicious in nature.

The family of four will stay somewhere near or in Greenfield so that Suzanne can continue working at Maxville Manor, a retirement home where she's employed as a dietary aid. The insurance company is already trying to line up suitable accommodations.

The loss was especially disheartening to the couple because they had invested so much money and time into the home.

"It was an old A-frame, two-storey house that we renovated. Downstairs we put in new floors and upstairs we redid the bathroom. It was totally new upstairs," said Suzanne.

They left the house to visit Suzanne's cousin. They arrived home at 11:15 p.m. and called the fire department from the home of Alan Raymond, Suzanne's brother.

The longtime Greenfield resident added that she's grateful to people who have come to their aid by dropping off clothing at Alan's house.

Hostile roads: 'Unregistered' drivers target of new Quebec law

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Quebec has become a hostile province for drivers of Ontario trucks. Just ask Pat St. Pierre of Lancaster.

St. Pierre recently had his tow truck impounded while going to pick up a car for a customer in Quebec.

By the time he was back in Ontario, the trip had cost him $941, including seatbelt fines, which he insists were being worn but were not seen by the official who pulled him over.

What is even more frustrating is that when he called the Ontario transportation ministry prior to his trip to see if he had to be properly licenced and registered to go into Quebec, he was told not to worry.

He had made the call just three weeks previous to confirm if rumors he had heard about incidents of Ontario drivers being fined and having their vehicles impounded in Quebec were true.

St. Pierre is just one of an increasing number of area businessman with trucks that have incurred the full brunt of a blitz on commercial vehicles doing business in Quebec which are not registered with the province.

The drivers are losing their vehicles and being fined under a ministry of revenue legislation enacted September, 1991 which requires people operating commercial vehicles in

This sticker must be displayed by registered Ontario carriers doing business in Quebec.

Quebec to acquire a permit and pay tax according to the number of miles travelled.

"I found out the hard way," said St. Pierre, who still must go to court to contest the charge, said Monday.

He pleaded and begged for the leniency, but found no sympathy from the enforcement officials.

"It definitely gives you a bad taste. It was just dirty, just plain dirty," he said.

Ron McLaughlin of McLaughlin Antiques in Lancaster, although not as unfortunate as St. Pierre, is feeling the effects of the restrictions.

He is still waiting for his sticker to allow him to travel into the province, meaning he is unable stock up on furniture, much of which he purchases in Montreal.

"I don't want to take a chance because I don't want to pay a fine," he said.

He can't even take his truck to go visit his children in the province because he may have his truck impounded.

Fortunately for McLaughlin, his business is generally closed from November to March, so he still have time to acquire stock before it is reopened.

"It's a good thing (its closed), because I'd be losing a lot of money," he said.

He knows of several people — including his nephew Larry McLaughlin, who he says had to dish out $1,100 after having his truck impounded — who have become victims of the crackdown.

He made his sticker application before Christmas after checking into the new regulations and finding out what is required.

What bothers McLaughlin is that Quebec drivers are not receiving the same treatment in Ontario.

Andre Viau, a Lancaster trucker, said the costs caused by the regulations may force him to give up doing business in Quebec.

It cost him $600 in accounting fees just to figure out the amount of road tax he had to pay the Quebec government for 1991-92.

Noble Villeneuve, MPP for Stormont, Dundas Glengarry and East Grenville, who has received complaints about the legislation, has had a difficult himself getting answers.

What Villeneuve does know is that if you have a vehicle weighing over 3,000 kilograms, you must pay the fuel tax in Quebec.

He has been able to find out little else and will be making the issue his top priority at an Interprovincial Relations Committee meeting next month.

"I will be speaking as loudly as I possibly can," he said Thursday.

He said the way regulations have been imposed has done little to foster good relations between Ontario and Quebec.

"It's an irritant, a major irritant."

St. Pierre has no problem with the requirement to pay tax based on the amount of business done in the province. The extra cost can simply be passed on to the customer.

What upsets him is the manner in which it is being done.

"I see nothing wrong with it (the tax, but) tell us before," he said.

Attempts by The News to get through to the Quebec government hotline for comment proved unsuccessful.

Bainsville will retain Canada Post office

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Bainsville residents can rest easy.

After a fire destroyed Sangster's Sons Merchants Monday, Jan. 4, many residents were concerned that Canada Post would close down the post office, which was located at the back of the store, in favor of superboxes.

Those concerns should be quelled now that a Canada Post spokesman says that their Bainsville operation will re-open once Charlie Sangster rebuilds the village's only general store.

Laszlo Szabo, the communications manager at the Rideau Division of Canada Post, says "Our objective is to maintain service there. The post office will be located in the general store (once it reopoens).

"If he doesn't want to re-build then we'll have to re-evaluate the situation at that time."

Charlie said just after the fire that he intended to rebuild the general store, including the post office which has been in operation since 1884.

In a telephone interview Monday morning, he said that the store was going to be rebuilt.

"For sure. They're going to start tomorrow (Tuesday) morning. It's hard to say when it'll be finished but I'm hoping for a month."

The traditional pigeonholes made of solid oak and glass covers that featured hand painted numbers will be replaced by new materials. But the spirit of the store will remain the same as Charlie, the storekeeper/postmaster, will continue to hand out the mail.

In the meantime, Bainsville residents can pick up their mail at Charlie's residence, located three houses down the street from the old general store.

Crime Stoppers is catching on

Officials expect Glengarry will respond more to anti-crime program as it continues

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

So far, so good.

That's the early report which Dave McDonald, coordinator of Seaway Valley Crime Stoppers, gives the four-month-old program.

"This is something that we see continuing to grow. Not day by day but we can see an increase," says the Long Sault OPP sergeant.

"The older we get, the better we get."

The program, which brought together 11 Canadian and 16 United States law enforcement agencies, can be pronounced an early success.

McDonald says that the dividends of the program can be found in the numbers.

To date, 44 calls have been logged, 12 arrests made and 11 cases solved. About $30,000 worth of narcotics have been seized and $3,000 in stolen property has been recovered.

Most of that success has been in Dundas but McDonald hopes Glengarry will catch on. By next September those numbers will be "astounding," says McDonald.

The cases which have been solved aren't necessarily the same ones which appear in newspapers or broadcast over radio stations once a week. Instead, some are other crimes which people have knowledge about and decide to report.

Break and enter, thefts and collaring drug smugglers are the most common cases cracked, says McDonald.

The information gathered through the other phone calls is forwarded on to the proper agencies and investigations or future arrests may be made thanks to the public's tips.

McDonald says that he would have liked to have seen Crime Stoppers "kick into high gear a month ago" but the program can be given a thumbs up. And the best thing, McDonald says, is the program will likely improve as time goes by.

The first Crime Stoppers program began in New Mexico in 1976 and the first in Canada started up in 1982. Since then, the 1,000-plus Crime Stoppers programs in Canada and the U.S. have all enjoyed great success.

"We're doing everything right. It's just a matter of time before it really catches on," says McDonald.

Alexandria Police Chief Paul Deveau concedes that the program hasn't been a resounding success but stresses that it will take time to develop.

"The success of Crime Stoppers relies on that old cliche of 'No honor among thieves.' If one thief invades another's territory one will call in on the other."

"We received a tip on somebody who was breaking and entering but we didn't have sufficient evidence to lay charges. We received other information which helped lead to his arrest."

"Anything new takes time. People have heard of Crime Stoppers but many probably don't realize that it's right here."

Farley Windows loaned $200,000 by government

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

The new year has ushered in some good news for one of Alexandria's industries.

It has been announced that Farley Windows Inc. will receive a $200,000 loan from the province to allow the firm to create new business expected to create five new jobs over the next year.

And it is expected the plant, which already provides 100 jobs for Alexandria and area residents, will end up with 30 more jobs over the next five years.

Owner Patricia Farley and the company vice-president were out of the country and unavailable for comment.

Mark Fleisler of Farley Windows, Canada's largest manufacturer of vinyl replacement windows, said Tuesday the news is "excellent".

"I'm sure they will take that as very strong news," he said.

He added, more information will likely be released next week on the job creation.

The loan, announced Monday, was provided through the Eastern Ontario Development Corporation by the Ontario Ministry of Industry, Trade and Technology.

The loan was announced Monday by Minister Ed Philips, who cited it as "a good example of the province working with industry in Eastern Ontario to help counter the recession."

Farley Windows makes casement, awning, tilt and slider windows in addition to aluminum and vinyl patio doors. Customers include home renovation and building supply contractors across Canada.

Principals of the firm also plan to launch three new products in 1993, including triple-glazed windows, curved glass windows and a new, patented window lock mechanism.

Most of the plastic and scrap generated at the plant is recycled.

The EODC is a crown agency of the Ministry of Industry, Trade and Technology which encourages economic development and employment growth through the provision of loans and loan guarantees to Ontario-based manufacturers, exporters and tourist operators.

The MacCulloch Dancers can add Puerto Rico to the list of various places they have demonstrated their art form.

The dancers arrived in Puerto Rico Jan. 9 on the invitation of the International Folklore Festival of Puerto Rico.

The dancers, who will be in Puerto Rico until Saturday, were selected to represent Ontario and Canada by Folkloric Canada International.

They also will host the annual Burns Night at the Bonnie Glen near Alexandria on Jan. 23 and are scheduled to perform at the opening ceremonies of the 1993 Winter Games.

Corrections

An article on the front page of the Jan. 6 edition of The Glengarry News incorrectly named James A. Sangster's partner operating the Bainsville general store when it first opened in 1884. Sangster's was D. D. McCuaig. McCuaig operated the post office and Sangster operated the general store at the operation's beginning, according to area resident Albert Sibly, who was given his first refrigeration job by the partners.

A photo caption on page 7 of the Dec. 9 edition of The News immediately above the 1992 year in review incorrectly named the provincial government member in the photo. The person in the photo is Lyn McLeod, leader of the Ontario provincial Liberal party.

Seniors get a kick out of line dancing

Golden Glens get their members up and moving with a popular pastime

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

As the hour-long lesson progressed, the dancers' legs turned to stone. Their muscles were burning and their co-ordination had long since left their aching feet.

Still, this was fun.

No, really.

Approximately 24 people, mostly seniors, attended a line dancing class Monday morning at the Legion.

The dancing procession, which was made up of four rows of high-stepping and toe-tapping feet went through the fundamentals of line dancing.

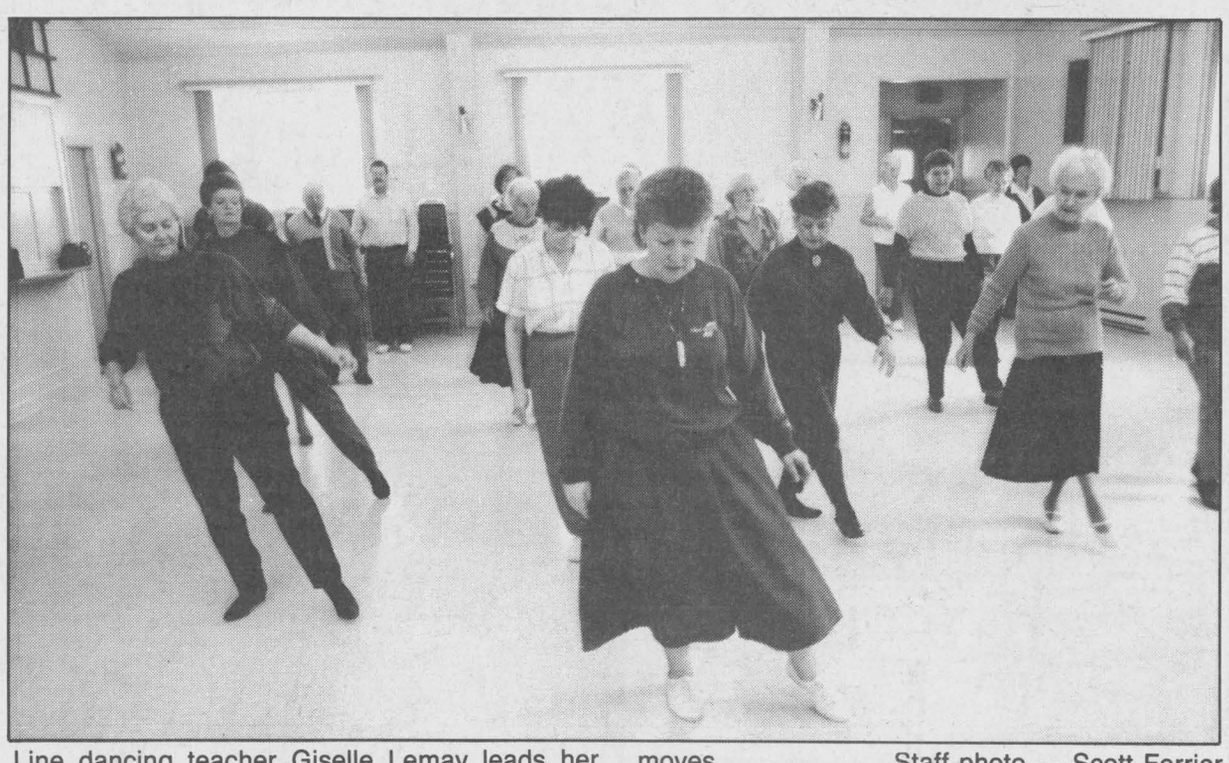
Teacher Giselle Lemay gave them a few helpful hints, a lot of encouragement and played some vinyl records on a tiny turntable located in the corner of the room.

"You have to please nobody but yourself," Lemay told her attentive audience.

"This is good for the seniors. They use their hands and their minds but they don't always use the rest of their body," the energetic teacher from Cornwall says as she wiggles her hips.

Dorris Seeley, a member of the Golden Glens (the group which organized the lesson) and a devoted aerobics participant in the group's Tuesday and Thursday classes, says that line dancing is numero uno in her health-conscious heart.

"I think this is just great. I would rather do something on my feet to keep fit. I feel much better physically and mentally (after I exercise).



Line dancing teacher Giselle Lemay leads her talented troupe of dancers through some nifty moves.

> — Giselle Lemay, line dance instructor

"It's improved my ability to do things that at my age I may have not been able to do if I weren't doing something like this," says the white haired Seeley.

Lemay, a self taught line dancing instructor, always enjoyed dancing. Tap, clogging and square dancing were just a few of the dance steps which the Cornwall resident has learned.

In a lot of ways, line dancing is similar to square dancing. Rows of people line up and, ideally, they dance in unison. They tap, turn, shuffle or move forward in perfect harmony.

And near the end of their first session, this dancing troupe looked like it was in synchronization. Look out Rockettes!

Lemay says that many of the seniors line danced in their younger days and with the resurgence of the dance, thanks to Billy Ray Cyrus' Achy Breaky Heart, they have begun their trip down memory lane, albeit an active one.

Lessons will be taught at the Legion every Monday for a small fee. They're organized by the Golden Glens,

Show looks at Glengarrians' young love

The most telling statement of director Raymond Charette's focus on young love through the eyes of Glengarry youths happened before filming even started.

In the six-month lapse between when research was done for the French television segment and when filming actually began, two of the four couples interviewed had broken up.

The unexpected break-ups threw off the focus of Les Productions Concep segment, the fourth in a 13-part series on French youth, and left Charette scrambling for a new direction.

It also showed Charette that, although youths take their love interests seriously, their relationships can often be tenuous at best.

Four Glengarry youths will be featured in the segment on boyfriends and girlfriends, entitled Mon Chum, Ma Blonde which airs on TV Ontario's La Chaine Jan. 29 at 7 p.m.

While "there are no great revelations" from the youths — just "run of the mill, ordinary teachers", Charette especially encourages parents to watch the program.

For parents of teenagers who often have a difficult time communicating and staying in tune with their child — "you need all the information you can get," says Charette — the program offers a little insight into where "l'amour" ranks with youths.

It is something which should also be treated seriously by parents, according to Charette.

"When you're 16 and you're in love, that's all you think about. It takes up all your waking hours," says Charette, who bristles at the term "puppy love" often used for teenagers.

"Never say it's only puppy love," he said in a recent phone interview.

Charette learned during his work on the segment that gossip, peer pressure, and the forming of reputations for those who fall out of favor — "They're already marked, sort of — play large roles in the lives of youths.

He also found that while youths first relationships "just sort of happened". "It's whoever happens to be there to strike your fancy."

But as they matured, it became more of a controlled process, with more thought given to who they want to be with, he said.

And the relationships are often seasonal — almost marriages of convenience — broken off during the summer and picked up with the resumption of classes in the fall.

Charette also said he was surprised to see that although French and English youths go to high school together here, "they don't mix," and that "a lot of guys tend to drink more than they should."

He also said that irresponsible behavior by excessive drinkers is excused by female youths because "the guy was drunk."

He said that while one girl interviewed from a broken home was very open during the segment, the others were much more controlled and reluctant to reveal personal details.

There was also a reluctance to talk even to parents about "affairs of the heart", he said. One girl Charette talked to said while she would talk to her parents about some things, she would not discuss everything.

Charette believes the reason love relationships are so sought after by youths is because it gives them something their parents cannot control, something they have complete ownership over.

And the importance of such relationships cannot be underestimated.

"It's one of the great moments of life," said Charette.

Toasting public speaking

New club to help people become more confident, assertive

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Area residents will have a chance to hone their public speaking skills through the formation of a new club in Glengarry.

Glengarry Toastmasters will hold its first open house Jan. 21 at the Priest's Mill restaurant in Alexandria, to demonstrate to county residents what the club is about.

The open house, which includes a complete Toastmasters club meeting, with prepared speaking, impromptu speaking and speech evaluations, will feature two high-ranking guest speakers from Toastmasters.

One of the people behind the new club, Derek Parkinson of Alexandria, is hoping to get about 12 more members to help launch the club which uses a variety of methods to help people improve public speaking skills.

Parkinson, with his wife Margaret and a group of enthusiasts, decided to form a permanent club after realizing during a recent eight-week speechcraft course held in Alexandria, that there is high interest in public speaking.

"We believe the community will enjoy seeing how the club's communication and leadership development program helps prepare members for higher pay and greater personal recognition," said Club President Margaret Parkinson.

Her husband says the course is a morale booster to help people assert themselves.

"It's to give people confidence in themselves," he said. "It's to get people so they overcome their fear of public speaking."

Improving one's public speaking can lead to numerous dividends, even improving a person's chance at landing a job through better performance in job interviews.

"Every time you go looking for a job, it's how you present yourself," Parkinson said. "It's your first impression that counts."

One of the key points of the program is positive reinforcement; club members are not "knocked down" in critiques of their speeches.

And with the gradual nature of the program — it starts just with a simple presentation about one's self and then progresses to more involved speeches — even the most introverted have been converted, Parkinson said.

Toastmasters, with over 7,000 clubs in 50 countries, was started in 1924 by Dr. Ralph Smedley to help people gain self confidence to communicate, feel comfortable in a group and effectively participate in and run meetings.

Meetings are the backbone of the organization with the emphasis on friendly, structured, educational, fun meetings which provide members the opportunity to develop and test their public speaking skills.

According to a club press release, if the word speech puts terror in your heart, if you would rather die than stand up to talk to a group of people, a Toastmasters Club may just be what you need.

Anyone aged 18 or over who would like to improve their self-confidence and communications skills or just want to learn how to feel more confident in a group setting is encouraged to attend next Thursday's meeting.

Anyone interested in more information about the Toastmasters can call Derek Parkinson at 525-3717 or Dave Bradley at 932-6193.

Readers must take the coupons into the store advertised on the coupon and deposit them in the specially-marked boxes. Coupons will also be available for those customers wishing to enter at point of purchase.

After the winners are drawn from each of the 25 businesses, they select one of the three destination options above and make their arrangements.

Glengarry News advertising manager Lindsay Cameron said the promotion is an exciting one since "the business wins because the promotion will generate traffic, readers have lots of chances to win a free trip and of course, the draw winners get four free days at a hotel in the sunny south or in Nashville."

It's the first time the newspaper has run such a promotion, and it's expected to generate much excitement.

For more information about how to participate in the sweepstakes, call the advertising department at 525-2020 and ask for a representative.

Court Report

The following are among the cases dealt with by Judge Rommel Masse in Alexandria provincial court on Jan. 7.

Cornwall man found guilty

A 59-year-old Cornwall man was found guilty of impaired driving following a trial on Thursday.

Arlen Waldorf was arrested by Lancaster OPP on July 18 at a RIDE roadblock.

The arresting officer detected the smell of alcohol and observed Waldorf to be unsteady on his feet as he got out of the car and again later in the evening when he entered the OPP station.

The officer also testified that Waldorf was verbally abusive while being transported.

Judge Rommel Masse threw out the charge of driving with an alcohol level over the legal limit because the officer who conducted the breathalyser tests rode with Waldorf and the arresting officer to the station.

Waldorf's lawyer had argued the officer may have been prejudiced by his observations of Waldorf while on the way to the station.

He said the test should have been administered by an officer not at the RIDE checkpoint where Waldorf was arrested.

But Masse ruled that there was enough evidence to show that Waldorf's ability to drive was impaired and found the defendant guilty on that count.

Waldorf was fined $500 and had his licence suspended for one year.

Tobacco runners fined

Two Quebec men were fined after a quantity of smuggled tobacco was found in their possession by the RCMP on Dec. 9.

Christian Aubin, 29, of Laval and Stephane Trudeau, 31, of St-Amance, were arrested after police conducted surveillance on a Charlottenburgh Township property.

The two men each had the tobacco in cars which were being prepared for transport.

Aubin was fined $2,825, twice the evaded duty value of the tobacco in his vehicle, while Trudeau was fined $3,300 for his quantity.

Young Americans fined

A pair of 16-year-old Hogansburg, N.Y. youths were fined $500 apiece after pleading guilty to having transported smuggled tobacco through Glengarry County.

The youths' car was stopped by Lancaster OPP on Dec. 19 and the RCMP was called in when the duo admitted to having smuggled cans of tobacco in the vehicle.

Suspended sentence for gift-giver

A 21-year-old Cornwall man who stole a video cassette recorder in March has been given a suspended sentence and has been ordered to perform 50 hours of community service.

Michel Gaucher stole the VCR, minus its remote control, from a rural Charlottenburgh Township home and gave the machine to his girlfriend as a gift.

The community service was one of the terms of a 12-month probation period imposed on Gaucher.

Drunk driver jailed

A Cornwall man who was arrested on Aug. 2 for drunk driving has been sentenced to 50 days in jail.

Tim Lapierre, 29, was given 30 days for the drunk driving charge and another 20 days for driving while suspended from doing so by the courts.

He was in the midst of a two-year suspension when he was stopped by a Lancaster OPP roadside check program.

Lapierre, whose blood alcohol level was found to be more than four times the legal limit, was prohibited from driving for another two-and-a-half years.

Unlicensed driver fined

A 30-year-old Lancaster woman has been fined $350 after pleading guilty to drunk driving.

Sandra St. Denis was arrested on Dec. 30 and breathalyser showed her blood-alcohol level to be over the legal limit.

St. Denis had been previously fined $253 for the incident because she was driving without a licence.

Lancaster Township

Council Briefs

The following items were discussed by Lancaster Township council members during a public meeting Jan. 6 at the municipality's hall.

Polls aplenty

Lancaster Township council will look into expanding the number of polling stations in the municipality before the next election.

Clerk-treasurer Mike Samson brought up the matter at council's regular meeting and said that it's been a concern for years which cannot be kept on the backburner any longer.

The Election Act stipulates that each polling station can only accommodate 500 people. However, a few of Lancaster's polls are well above the maximum (the highest being 1,036).

Although all eligible voters don't come out to cast their ballot, Samson was afraid that an election day which would decide the makeup of several organizations such as council or the education board could spell pandemonium because it would attract an above-average turnout.

Reeve Charlie Sangster said that overtaxing the polls was a sure-fire recipe for disaster. He suggested setting up two polls at the same site rather than just one.

Samson will contact the assessment office to investigate the matter further.

Penny for your thoughts and 911

Lancaster Council unanimously endorsed a resolution from the County of Essex supporting the implementation of the 911 emergency call system.

The system — which will be setup, maintained and operated by Bell Canada — will cost each household with a phone between 30 to 40 cents, roughly a penny a day.

"It was just a matter of time before we got this service," said Clerk-Treasurer Mike Samson.

Council has bandied the idea around the table for the past couple of years but the biggest stumbling block was cost. The startup and maintenance costs were out of reach of their budget. But Bell will simply add this service to the basic phone bill.

Sign of the times

Lancaster Township council gave its okay to order approximately 1,675 roadside signs which will help point firefighters, ambulance drivers and delivery trucks in the right direction.

"People come in here (Lancaster's municipal office) and ask me where the heck is this?" said Clerk-Treasurer Mike Samson.

Purchasing the signs will cost the township approximately $50,000.

The signs will likely be distributed to residents who will install them. Council hoped that the signs will be installed sometime this summer.

Friday of enlightenment

Members of Lancaster Township council will travel to Cornwall on Friday, January 29 to attend a day-long information session which is being hosted by United Counties Council.

The session, which will feature guest speakers and a question and answer period for the nine subjects which small municipal councils must deal with, will help guide council through some tricky waters.

Some of the topics include Ministry of Environment land use guidelines, the development charges act bylaw and a panel discussion on the scattered rural severance.

Are kids getting the education they need?

The most recent issue of Maclean's magazine is a written knell for every parent in Ontario. It confirms a fear a number of them have suspected for some time; that today's school children may not have the necessary skills to work in an increasingly competitive and demanding world.

Ontario and local school boards are quickly moving to a less academically standardized and structured classroom, in an attempt to make their systems more accessible for students, and to encourage them to stay in school. To accomplish that goal, the Rae government has embarked on a mission of ''destreaming'' grades seven, eight and nine by next September. Destreaming groups together students of varying abilities instead of ''streaming'' them into basic, general and advanced classes.

At the same time, the ministry and now the school boards in SDG which are forced to adopt the ministry standards, new report cards have been introduced. Out are the ''As, Bs and Cs'' which used to grade a student's level of achievement in meeting specific academic goals. In are report cards which determine students ''levels of development,'' but no standardized examinations.

Critics rightly maintain that this method of grading, combined with destreaming, will lead to a lowering of academic standards; the government is promoting the graduation of an increasingly high number of well-developed, well-adjusted and happy illiterates who cannot add the columns in their chequebooks.

Concern about this — and the problems with the existing education system — is reflected in the Maclean's reports. ''Across Canada, thousands of parents are banding together angrily in many organizations, demanding changes in the provincially run school systems.''

''The disillusionment is deepening among parents, largely over drastic departures from the traditional methods of teaching reading and writing. A Gallup poll released in September showed that 56 per cent of Canadians were dissatisfied with the way schools were teaching their children. Discontent was highest in British Columbia (63 per cent) and Ontario (61 per cent).

Maclean's statistics showed Canada's ranking was ninth out of 15 countries which participated in a comprehensive international survey involving 3,000 students in each country. Ahead of the country was Israel, Italy and Hungary in both science and math. South Korea and Taiwan, where school years are longer and education systems more structured, placed first and second respectively.

And there have been a credible array of domestic statistics too. Statistics Canada in 1989 produced a survey that proved 29 per cent of all Canadians between 16 and 24 lacked the basic skills necessary to read a newspaper. The Economic Council of Canada has reported that more than one million functionally illiterate young people will emerge from the nation's schools during the next 10 years.

Glengarry students are not excluded from these realities. But S.D.&G. school boards do not collect and release post secondary statistics of their students, or make public comparisons of academic ratings between schools. Parents have little to go on to determine whether their child would benefit by public or separate education, or other important reference points which rate standards once they adopt a system.

Too often decisions are made based on vague assumptions and a tremendous amount of trust in the current system, the same one that is coming up short in its responsibilities to deliver the education the workforce needs.

If serious change is to come, it will take parents and political will to push for demonstrable systems that will prepare today's youth for the working world of tomorrow. This, after all, is the end goal of education.

A loss that can never be replaced

It's always a sad moment whenever a piece of history is lost forever. That's not only because it can never be replaced, but because its admirers lose visual reminders of the way life once was.

So it was with the destruction of Sangster's store in Bainsville last week. A tangible piece of the Sangster family heritage tragically went up in smoke. That's the human side of the loss. But for the patrons who frequented it over its 109 year-old life, they lost an old friend, a piece of commercial property where they could expect to receive a truly rural experience, genuine Canadiana at its best; personal service and the kind of merchandise that only a country store carries.

Our sympathies go to the Sangster family, and to the special family of patrons who have graced the threshold of that venerable old store since 1887.

Ad mail: it's still junkmail

After Thoughts
by Joe Banks

It's not up there with the abortion crusades or capital punishment or right-to-die campaigns. But for those of us who toil in the industry of the printed word , the subject of junkmail stirs the ink running in our veins in ways others could hardly understand. I can feel the three hairs on my head, in fact, standing on end.

A recent debate came in the form of three letters, two from publishers of community newspapers, and one from John Caines, manager of National Media Relations of Canada Post Corporation. You can guess two of the letters had a dim view of junkmail, while one shot back a defence.

In the Caines letter — and I regret there is no space here to print each in their entirety — true ignorance is revealed in the first few lines, ignorance of what community newspapers are, what they promote and why they exist. I lack surprise.

Caines, angered by a suggestion from one of the publishers that Canada Post customers bundle up all their unsolicited junk mail and send it to the federal cabinet minister responsible for Canada Post (it's free), takes liberties with facts and makes lightweight arguments to the point of absurdity.

But I think what burns us most is that (in the case of The Glengarry News for instance) we're turning over $15,000 a year (double next year) for delivery of our product while being chiselled by a Crown corporation which frequently offers massive volume discounts for flyer delivery we can't compete against. We don't mind being beaten to the punch by a fair competitor, but a competitor who also happens to be your distributor just puts a small jam in our craw.

Still, apparently dismissing that reality, the Canada Post letter writer says it's ''disturbing that when a product is promoted in a newspaper it is called advertising, but when the same item is in the mail it's called 'junkmail'.''

Feeble try, Mr. Caines. The tag ''junk'' derives from the fact that the flyers are distributed in an unsolicited manner, often unwanted by the people who receive it. In a newspaper, advertising is purchased (if the newspaper has ''paid'' circulation which admittedly is not always the case) both by the advertiser and by the reader. Each week, for instance, 7,800 readers of this newspaper pay or have paid to receive a package of news and advertisements they want in their house — and kept, at least until next week's issue comes out. At the same time, any customer of any local post office can verify the relative value of flyers distributed by the post office, judging by the overflowing waste baskets in the lockbox lobby every day.

Caines blathers on, and if you'd like to read the rest of the letter, let me know. But he conveniently overlooks the fact that newspapers, community newspapers in particular, serve the community in ways Canada Post does not, cannot and does not have to; they distribute information to people who want to know what's going on where they live, and to find out where they can spend consumer dollars most effectively. They can do it in one tidy package which combines an array of information. Canada Post, wittingly or unwittingly, undermines that by soliciting advertising in which the often unwilling receiver has advertising shoved at them without the added societal benefit of editorial substance. And they do it by offering cheap rates based on volume on national scales.

Imagine a world in which the only source of local reading is via your stuffed mail box full of flyers. Left without checks, it's a Canada Post world.

The year of trucking dangerously

News to me
by Greg Kielec

A strange calamity is spreading over Glengarry county.

It involves people with pickup trucks and a fear of driving over the Quebec border.

In all cases, people have a scary premonition that as they drive into La Belle Province, some zealous official from a branch of Quebec's revenue ministry will stop them, seize their vehicle and demand a ransom before returning it.

Sound farfetched? It could happen to you.

In fact, so great is the fear of Quebec transportation police that one person contacted by The News refused to divulge her name when talking to a reporter about the issue.

Two other people asked by The News refused to have their picture taken for a story on the issue, out of fear of repercussions from across the border in one, possibly both cases.

Why this type of behavoir from honest, law-abiding citizens?

It is all because of the sudden enforcement of a Quebec-government regulation, on the books since 1991, which forces drivers of commercial vehicles be registered with and pay fuel tax to the revenue ministry.

Already a number of Glengarry business people have been hit with stiff fines — the minimum is $600 — and had their vehicles impounded.

And there is worry among even owners of non-commercial pickup trucks that they may become victims to recent enforcement of the regulation.

The problem could easily have been avoided had the Ontario government been properly informed about the new rules and their enforcement, and had commercial drivers in Glengarry and across the province been notified.

Instead, Glengarrians, and people from all over are finding out the hard way — through fines and the impounding of their vehicles.

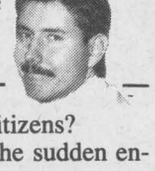
In a continent where there is already free trade between Canada and the United States, and Mexico soon to follow, it is strange that free passage of goods and people among provinces still has not been achieved here.

If the politicians that so eagerly spouted rhetoric about the need for Canada to pull together before last year's constitutional referendum were truly interested in unity, it is inequities like this that they would tackle.

As one of the victims of the seemingly mean-spirited enforcement of the legislation, Lancaster garage owner Pat St. Pierre said: ''It definitely gives you a bad taste.''

A hair-razing experience Mousse vs Moos

That's Life
by Lesley Cadham



Cut hair?

Sure, I can do that.

I've been cutting hair for years. True, most of my customers were relatives who, because of a shared biology, had an obligation to unconditionally love me no matter what they looked like when I put down the scissors.

And most of them were little people who sat in chairs or on stools and exuded the delicate scent of an herbal shampoo. All I had to do to get them to stop moving around was remind them of what they'd look like with only one earlobe; youngsters would rather be strapped to a corn stalk during a locust swarm than go to school looking different from the rest of the crowd.

I never went home with more than a ruffled ego.

It worked out well.

Recently I traded in my one oz. scissors for shears that could well have balanced the scales with a small automobile. My clients were chained to a metal railing, weighed in at an average of 1,500 lbs. and weren't fazed by threats of missing body parts or asymmetrical hairdos. They exuded an odor, but herbal shampoo had nothing to do with it.

They didn't care whether they ended up looking a bit like Bart Simpson's mother, Phyllis Diller, or Sinead O'Connor. They moved when told not to, stood like stone statues when asked to move and showed discontentment not by gasping audibly, but by kicking hard enough to send the shears into the next dimension.

They, of course, were not human but Holstein, the variety of customer that sends you home with several thousand tiny reminders that won't come out of clothing — at least until you're leaning over a plate of food.

A stranger came into the barn one day, eyed me curiously and, after hiding a smirk behind the sleeve of his enviably clean coveralls, asked, ''You do this for a living?''

Every cloud has a silver lining. You'll never hear a request for a little more off around the ears. No one will ever throw herself on the floor and vow to wear a hat until her hair once again becomes suitable for public viewing.

Best of all, no one can run for cover the next time you appear carrying anything that resembles a haircutting tool.

1924 letter

Highland Paths
by Ken McKenna

The Oban Times is the Western Highlands equivalent of The Glengarry News. It is the ''paper of record'' for that area of Scotland from whence most of the original settlers came who first took up land here over 200 years ago. One of its most prolific writers on the history of the area for many years was a self-taught road-worker who used the pen-name ''North Argyll.'' He was a Cameron from the area south of Loch Eil, not far from the historic site of the raising of the Royal Standard at Glenfinnan in 1745 by Bonnie Prince Charlie. In a letter to the Oban Times dated February 18, 1924, titled ''Where the Heart is Still Highland,'' he wrote: ''In September, 1786, there arrived at Quebec the ship MacDonald, carrying a complement of five hundred and forty passengers, all Highlanders from Western Inverness-shire, who were driven — to seek new homes among the wooded dales of Eastern Canada. Headed by Angus Ban MacDonald (MacDonnel), 'Aonghais Ban na Mhuinneal', they lost no time in Quebec, but pressed eagerly forward towards the wilderness of Glengarry, which had been set aside for them by the Government. By little-frequented paths — they marched, eager to form new homes for themselves, where usurpation and tyranny were unknown. It must be remembered that at that time Highlanders were being relentlessly persecuted for their devotion to Prince Charlie.

''They spent the winter on the face of Glengarry, the name they gave to their new settlement in memory of the old. There, in a rude log cabin, Farquhar MacRae's wife, a daughter of Angus Ban, gave birth to the first addition to their number in the New World. When the spring advanced, they moved a little further inland and commenced locating their farms. Farquhar MacRae chose four hundred acres, and on the same ground his lineal descendants still live and sing the Gaelic songs which their ancestors brought over with them.

''Angus Ban had a large family, most of whom were born before he left Scotland. Two of his sons made names for themselves. One of them, Big John, entered the service of the Hudson's Bay Company and became factor of Fort Alexander on the shores of Lake Winnipeg. He assisted, in 1822 and 1825, Sir John Franklin in his efforts to locate the North-West Passage. The stone which marks his grave in the cemetery at Newmarket, Ontario, was erected by Lady Franklin in recognition of the services he had rendered her husband. The other son, Finnan, accompanied David Thompson, the explorer, in his venture across the Rockies in 1808. He remained in the vicinity of the Rockies for 18 years. When coming home with a party of scientists who had continued Thompson's explorations, he had an encounter with a buffalo, which won for him the title 'Big Finnan of the Buffalo'. According to the writings of David Douglas, botanist, who was an eye-witness of the struggle, the party encountered, near Carlton, Saskatchewan, a herd of buffaloes. Being in need of fresh meat, Big Finnan and a companion approached the herd. Selecting a fine bull, they fired. Finnan's companion hit the bull, wounding him slightly, but Finnan's lock missed. The bull, to the consternation of all, charged. Making no effort to escape, Finnan calmly waited the buffalo's rush. When in the act of striking, he seized the enraged animal by one of its horns and the forelock of hair that falls between the horns. Then began a terrific struggle for mastery, which, it is stated, lasted for three hours, till finally, long after darkness had come, Finnan and the bull lay down exhausted side by side. While endeavoring to sneak in and kill the animal, one of the party's guns accidentally went off. The shot roused the bull and he escaped. Big Finnan died in 1851, and is buried along with his wife, the daughter of an Indian chief, at St. Raphael's, where stands the oldest Catholic church in Ontario. Other sons of Angus Ban were Malcolm, Donald, James and Archibald, whose lineal descendants still occupy homesteads in Glengarry County.''

Letters to the editor

Nothing has changed after referendum

To the editor:

The referendum of Canada's future is over. The House of Commons is back in session. Nothing has changed. The Tories are going to tackle the country's economic problems . . . the same ones they couldn't attack until Canada was once again a united nation.

The Tory caucus and cabinet are fully behind their battered leader. Obviously none of them had renewed mortgages or loans two per cent higher than they should have been for the time between lyin' Brian's outburst on Canada's impending split backed by the Royal Bank report and the Oct. 26 vote. The Liberals supporting big business, B.Q. supporting Quebec, Reform supporting the west and the NDP federally supporting no one are all itching for an election. A great many Canadians don't trust any of them.

Millions of enemies of Canada (not too-well educated, less than a university degree) voted no. Many of these votes could have been changed with a public pension that pays $60,000 per year for life as soon as one has 15 years service as exists for our MPs. It certainly appears that a great deal of our federal and provincial politicians put their own self interest ahead of their country.

Joe Clark hang in there, you're the only one we trust.

Brian Mulroney and the rest of his family can join son Benjamin in the U.S. The Bank of America recently laid off 3,200 people there. This bank owes Mulroney a favor . . . he pulled strings to get American Express special permission to set up here in Canada.

Canadian taxpayers are fed up paying pension plans to B.Q. members working to break up Canada. A 36-year-old B.Q. member recently retired after eight years service with a $30,000 a year pension. The speaker of the house also gives the B.Q. far more time allotted during question period than they are entitled. Until they have 12 members gaining official party status they are as independants and should get practically no recognition in the Commons or the media.

Perhaps it's time to resurrect the Rhinoceros party. Our federal MPs and provincial leaders are not soaring with eagles . . . they are roosting like turkeys and dining like hogs at the public trough.

Yours truly,
Glen Runions,
RR2 Cornwall.

Bishop disappointed in condom machine decision

To the editor:

Open letter to trustees Micheline Ouellette, Daniel Morin and Joe Gunn:

As you are aware, I have been following your debate (in fact, I contributed a letter to your consultation — copy enclosed) on the advisability of responding to a group of parents' request that condom vending machines be installed in General Vanier Secondary School.

Now that you have posited a public act by voting in favor of such a recommendation, as your bishop I must remind you of the fact that you have publicly gone against an authoritative teaching of your church in a very serious matter.

As trustees you are responsible for the education of our youth. What type of moral education does your vote support? You are saying to the youth of the public secondary schools (of whom some 50 per cent are Catholics) that you do not believe they can (or should) be chaste, that fornication, homosexual acts, contraception (''mutual masturbation'' is George Bernard Shaw's blunt term) and abortion (which flows quasi automatically from a contraceptive mentality) are to be tolerated, if not promoted.

I urge you and the parents who have made this recommendation to read Paul's letter to the Galatians (5:13-24) where ''fornication, gross indecency and sexual irresponsibility'' are said to exclude from the kingdom of heaven; whereas sexual self-control out of love (chastity) is a sign of the active presence of the Holy Spirit within the disciple of Jesus, the Christ.

Religion is a personal matter, certainly, but it also has social consequences. By your vote you have publicly supported a policy which can only lead young men and women into trivializing their own sexuality; into habits which empty sacramental marriage of its true meaning; into thinking that they can now have safe sex, which we know from reliable sources is rather ''sexual Russian roulette'' where at least 3 out of 10 will be infected with the AID's virus and a much higher percentage will be infected with life-long venereal diseases (and as a consequence the board might well be charged in court with public mischief and irresponsibility).

Finally, I must express to you my great disappointment in your Christian leadership and publicly admonish you for the scandal your vote has caused.

More international exchange desired with Canada

To the editor:

Last Autumn, 1992, a group of Irish-Scottish young adult folk dancers, accompanied by their adult leaders and chaperones, appeared in an outdoor pavillion in our Bountiful Park, Bountiful, Utah. They were among a representation of cultural exchange areas internationally, and I felt exercised to prepare this write-up to let you know what a great show they put on, a performance you have every right to be justly very proud of.

The writer is originally from Alberta and one time when we were visiting in Calgary during Stampede week, we observed some Irish dancers putting on a fabulous display of their dancing arts. Their parents were consulted with and we arranged to have them come to this area to brighten our lives with their Celtic folk footwork. They also performed at one of the schools.

Your dancers were every bit as skilled and professional looking.

It has been some time since your address was secured but it was misplaced and just today was found among some papers. It is found impossible to rest until this short article is prepared and mailed to you, hoping you will see fit to publish it as a public service, and to promote goodwill, and encourage further, worthwhile other exchanges.

There is a giant white arch with terminals on either side of the International border at White Rock, British Columbia and Blaine, Washington, with large gold letters with the inscription, ''Children of a Common Mother,'' which indeed we are.

I have found, since being in the United States, that Canada has a certain richness in heritage, customs, and mores, not too different from the United States. We cannot but prosper in culture, friendliness, industry, and agriculture, not to mention mining, and forest products which both countries need so urgently in the paper use community, not to speak of a cooperation in North American defence.

May we have more of this very desirable international interchange.

Don't leave infants in car unattended

To the editor:

I was at Canadian Tire on Saturday afternoon, sitting in the car in the parking lot, waiting while my husband went into the store.

A lady pulled up beside me and left her car running — and her infant in a car seat in the front seat — while she ran in the store to buy a few things. She was gone five minutes.

I lived in Toronto for 10 years and read about cars being stolen with children in the car — every day. Well let me tell you just because you live in a small town does not mean this will not happen!

Only last week in our police report, a car was stolen in front of a Lancaster store. The lady left her car running while she ran in to get a few groceries. Her car was found two days later. This could have just as easily happened at Canadian Tire.

How would you feel to come out of the store — no kids — no car? Please think about it. Never leave your kids in the car unattended. It's too late after the fact to say you're sorry.

Man hospitalized after crashing into trees

Police Briefs

A Vankleek Hill man who was injured when he drove into a thicket of trees is in good condition at Ottawa General Hospital.

William Clark, 64, was driving eastbound on Highway 417, three kilometres east of Highway 34, around 4 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 10. Clark passed a tractor trailer and when he changed to the right lane, drove on to the south shoulder and began to fishtail.

He then crossed both lanes, over the median and crashed into some trees. Maxville OPP say that the roads weren't icy and visibility was good at the time of the accident.

Clark was rushed to the hospital in Hawkesbury and was transferred to Ottawa General where he is in good condition. The passenger in the car at the time of the accident wasn't injured.

Unscheduled meeting

A pair of drivers who were involved in a head on collision both walked away from the accident although their cars sustained heavy damage.

On Saturday, Jan. 8, Gayle MacLennan, 42, a resident of Apple Hill was driving her 1989 Pontiac eastbound along Highway 43. Maxville OPP say that she lost control of her vehicle because of the snowy conditions, crossed the median and collided with a 1984 Plymouth driven by 66-year-old Archie McDougall of Alexandria.

Unwelcome lesson

A school bus, which usually transports young scholars to area schools, taught a Hawkesbury driver an unwelcome lesson on the weekend.

William Stringer, 30, stopped at the corner of Highway 34 and Concession Road five waiting to continue eastbound along the concession road. Twenty-one- year-old Randy Richer of Alexandria, who drove a GMC school bus, stopped behind Stringer.

But the traction of the wheels wasn't strong enough to keep the bus in place as it slid forward and struck Stringer's 1985 Plymouth, say Maxville OPP.

Stringer's car had light damage and both men were uninjured.

Early morning flip

A 16-year-old Dalkeith resident lost control of her 1989 Ford Escort and rolled it into a ditch, said Maxville OPP.

Tabatha Smith was eastbound along Lochinvar Road, just east of Highway 34, on Sunday, Jan. 9 around 12:45 a.m. when she hit a patch of ice and lost control of the car. It veered and flipped into the north ditch.

Smith was uninjured although the car was severely damaged.

Fender benders

Alexandria police answered four separate calls reporting small fender benders during the weekend. The accidents were attributed to icy road conditions.

A similar scenario played out for Lancaster OPP. Lots of cars were trapped in ditches but fortunately there were no serious accidents.

Another break-in

Another week has come and gone and it wouldn't be complete without a break, enter and theft case.

Sometime between 8 p.m. and midnight on Saturday Jan. 9, a thief broke into a private residence located on St. George Street East and made off with a black Emerson videocassette player.

The value of the player is $200. Alexandria police are investigating.

Charred Topaz

A brand new Mercury Topaz car was found burned and abandoned on County Road Four in Lancaster at 7:45 a.m. Tuesday, report Lancaster OPP.

The car was stolen from Poirier Auto, a dealership located in Valleyfield, Quebec, Monday at 9 p.m.

Lancaster OPP are investigating.

B&E at Kalrim Cycles

Crime Stoppers needs the public's help in solving a break, enter and theft case at Kalrim Cycles and Sports on Jan. 11.

The theft occurred at 4:30 a.m. at the Boundary Road store. Five Burton Snow Boards (Air Series), five black Burton bindings, roller blades, Ise and Oakley sunglasses and other miscellaneous sporting equipment was taken.

Anyone with information on this or any other crime may be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000. Police don't want your name, they want your information.

Call Crime Stoppers at 534-8477 or, when calling long distance, 1-800-265-8477.

Ways to avoid becoming a victim of crime

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

A car is left running and unattended for a few minutes so that it will be toasty warm when its' driver comes out of the grocery store with a loaf of bread.

A car door is left unlocked because it's parked in the safety of the owners private driveway.

Or a home owner neglects to lock the front door before venturing out to run a few quick errands.

If you have any of these above mentioned habits, area police detachments say you're inviting trouble.

Reports of criminal activity continue to soar while police departments are expected to do more with less. Nowadays, the police can't be expected to be everywhere at once.

"The number of occurrences (in Alexandria) reported over the past two years has doubled but police resources aren't keeping pace. The public has to take on more responsibility of looking after itself," says Alexandria Police Chief Paul Deveau.

Obviously, Deveau doesn't want to see swarms of vigilante groups form that will protect their neighborhood by any means possible. Instead, he would like to see more teamwork between neighbors.

"It all comes down to the golden rule," he says of being a good neighbor. Whether that neighborly relationship develops into an informal neighborhood watch or just looking out for one another doesn't matter. The important thing is to have somebody keeping an eye on your place while it's left unattended.

Area police detachments recommend several things to do so that the chances of becoming a thief's victim will be significantly reduced.

On the homefront, leave your home as little as possible, says Deveau. But if you do have to go out, create the illusion that somebody is there. Leave a few lights on or purchase a machine which will randomly turn lights on and off throughout the house.

If you live in a residential area, go next door and ask your neighbor to keep an eye peeled for any suspicious characters lurking around your home. And if you spot any, says Deveau, record the licence plate of the car that they're driving and write a description of them.

The best buy in warding off would-be thieves, which work while it's dark outside, are some relatively inexpensive motion lights, says Maxville OPP Constable Don Dell.

"If there's anyone moving around in your backyard, they'll flood it with light. An area that's well lit cuts down on the number of people skulking around trying to break in."

Gilles Ruest, a senior constable with the Lancaster OPP, says that most thieves who break into houses don't even have to break in and it's often during the day.

"People living in the country or people with an easygoing mentality, may leave their house (unattended) without locking the front door. That's a prime target," says Ruest.

Rural homes have been hit by a few different scams, Ruest says. Somebody will knock on your door and ask for directions and keep you preoccupied while his accomplice breaks in through the back and pilfers jewelry and other valuables from the bedroom.

Another scenario, which Ruest says thieves have successfully used, is a pair of people come to your front door. One of them asks to go to the bathroom and the other strikes up a friendly conversation.

While the two of you are chatting away, the thief's partner isn't using the loo but rummaging through your personal belongings looking for things to steal.

Ruest says that if somebody comes knocking at your front door and you don't know them, don't take any chances. Close the door and call the police just to be on the safe side.

Another golden egg for thieves to scoop up is your car or what's in the car. The safest bet is to lock all the doors, keep it parked in a well lit area and remove any valuables inside of it so that "the temptation to break into the car," is removed, says Ruest.

These suggestions, all three police officers say, cost little or no money. But following these tips will cut down on your chances of becoming a victim.

No dollars

Alexandria council was told in a round-about way that there will be no new agreement between the Ontario Ministry of Environment and the Ontario Multi Media Recycling Institute to provide funding for Alexandria's recycling plant — at least not yet.

Drew Blackwell of the MOE, in a letter to council, did not promise funding to council, but said the ministry is working on a discussion paper to come up with ways to fund recycling programs.

"It will look for the best ways to improve the financial stability of municipal waste management with the goal of making it financially self-sustaining," he said.

Canadian Bible Society canvass raises $350

St. Elmo
by W. MacKinnon
527-2348

Pete Addison has returned home this past weekend following a stay of 10 days in the Ottawa General Hospital and is feeling somewhat better than he was.

* * *

Sympathy is extended to Pete and Donna Addison and their family in the loss by death of his father, Richmond Hill, Ont., on Sat., Jan. 9, following a prolonged illness.

Velma Franklin who has been a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Cornwall, has been making good progress healthwise and is expected to return home this week. Best wishes Velma for good health in 1993.

Congratulations and best wishes to Paul Villeneuve and Kelly Morris who were married in St. Finnan's Cathedral, Alexandria, on Sat., Dec. 26. The Rev. Monsignor Rejean Lebrun officiated at the marriage ceremony. The wedding reception was held in the Maxville Sports Complex followed by a 7-day honeymoon holiday at Montego Bay, Jamaica.

Paul and Kelly will reside in their home on the farm of his parents André and Mary Ellen Villeneuve. Paul, a graduate of the Kemptville Agricultural College, will work with his father in the operation of the Villeneuve Holstein Dairy farm at Athol. Best wishes for much happiness, Paul and Kelly, through the years ahead.

With appreciation for the work of the canvassers and a very hearty "thank you" for the generosity of all who have contributed with their donations to the support of the Canadian Bible Society, I am very happy to report very good success in the annual campaign which was held in November and December. Total donations received for the St. Elmo unit of the Maxville-St. Elmo Branch amounted to $349.25. The canvassers were Agnes Campbell, Hugh Fisher, Douglas McLennan and Wallace MacKinnon.

Optimists "gignolée" was enjoyed

North Lancaster
By Bernadette Campeau 347-2572

Are you the type that hates to leave the party and the world of leisure or are you very grateful to get back to routine? Sometimes I wonder what it would be like to keep this holiday pace for most of the year.

Anyway, it's nice to get back to work, to school or whatever your activities are. I do hope you enjoyed this time off and I wish the new year is very good to you.

While meeting with friends and relatives throughout the holidays I learned some good and some bad news. First, the good.

Theo and Carol Oetelaar are the proud parents of a 7 lb. 6 oz. girl who will be called Theka. They live in Glen Robertson but Carol's parents, Gilles and Betty Glaude are from our hamlet. Congratulations and best wishes.

Get well wishes go out to Guy Besner who was hospitalized shortly before Christmas after having a heart attack. May he return to his healthy self and enjoy the new year.

Those who participated in the optimist "gignolée" (making the rounds) would like to thank their hosts: Gilles and Betty Glaude, J.P. & Kathy Gauthier, Bruce and Sylvie Chisholm, Alain and Suzanne Beaupré, Yvon Renaud, André and Fleurette Théoret, Roch Rozon, Micheline and Rosaire Samson. It was a lot of fun. Thanks also to Ed's Place for a delicious supper and to Paul Campeau, the organizer of it all.

Help needed for school days play

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

All right: The holiday is over; the tree and its debris have vanished; the turkey has been consumed in every conceivable fashion; and we are ready for fresh adventures.

On Tuesday, Jan. 26, at 7:30 p.m., in the Char-Lan High School library, an exciting community adventure is about to begin. As you may have heard, the school's Heritage Committee is presenting the play, Scenes from Glengarry School Days, on April 23, 24 and 25. Two of these performances, (Saturday evening and Sunday matinee), will follow a dinner, which is included in the price of the ticket.

Preliminary planning for this event has been completed and a good number of local citizens have already volunteered their services. But given the scope of this project, more workers and cast are needed. This is your chance to do something for the community, while at the same time being rewarded with good fun and fellowship. A special welcome is extended to any newcomers in the area — here is your chance to get to know your neighbors.

A cast of 32 players of all ages is required, including several non-speaking parts for the dumbfounded among you. Males, especially those of the older teen and mid-life crisis ages are particularly needed. Scripts for those interested may be picked up at Char-Lan, in the office, beginning Jan. 20.

Darcy Gordon, whose extensive experience in all aspects of the theatre is well-known to Williamstowners, will be the advising director of the production, the proceeds of which will go toward Char-Lan's big reunion in 1994.

Darcy's parents, Grace and Ralph Gordon, have recently returned from an exciting three month stint in Indonesia, where Ralph was working on a CESO assignment (Canadian Executive Service Organization).

Ralph's project was at the Agricultural University of Bogor, a small city of 300,000, famous for its botanical tropical garden. Bogor is located about 50 miles south of Jakarta on the island of Java. Ralph's assignment was to prepare a report that the university could use to justify acquiring the buildings and equipment needed for teaching and research in pulp and paper at the undergraduate and M.Sc. levels.

While Ralph was at work, Grace spent her days tackling the Indonesian language at the small guest house the couple was assigned, and pining for some good English reading material!

As Grace says, "A CESO assignment is very interesting and full of remarkable and delightful people with novel customs, but it's no holiday."

I may have to change this column to the "Glen Gordon" news, but I thought readers might be interested to know that Cynthia Gordon, who graduated from Char-Lan in or about 1980, has recently completed work toward a masters degree in statistics, having taken courses at both McGill and the University of Toronto, from which she will be graduated.

* * *

The grapevine has also informed me that Todd Rozon has now completed his degree in geography at Bishop's University.

Congratulations, Todd!

The community's sympathy is offered to Bob and Kenny Goudie on the passing of a dear wife and mother, Marvell Goudie, who died on Jan. 8.

Williamstown has a new minister! At a special meeting of the congregations of St. Andrew's United churches, held after the service in Martintown on Sunday, the decision was made to welcome Rev. Caroline Turner, of Kingston, to the Williamstown-Martintown charge.

Rev. Turner, whose husband teaches at Queen's University, is the mother of three grown children, and has five grandchildren living in Ottawa.

Prior to entering the ministry, Rev. Turner was an occupational/physiotherapist. She quips, "Now I rehabilitate souls instead of bodies."

We welcome the Turners to the manse in Williamstown and look forward to meeting them when they arrive at the end of January.

Cupid let more arrows fly at Christmas than mentioned last week. Adam Kubelka and Shannon Aubin, who have been going out for five years, are also officially engaged, with their wedding set for August in Cornwall. Adam and Shannon are both students at the University of Ottawa.

Congratulations to you both!

There aren't many surprises these days in the world of obstetrics. Parents often know whether to prepare the nursery in shades of blue or pink long before the big event, and multiple births are usually determined by things which come out of a bottle.

So when a couple is preparing for a third child and receives a fourth one too (at no extra cost!), it is quite a shock.

Congratulations, then, to Stephen and MaryAnn MacDougall on the birth of their new son and daughter.

The Friendly Neighbors will be holding a soup luncheon tomorrow, Thursday, at St. Mary's Centre, at 12 noon. Certainly is the weather for it!

While on the subject of food, the Green Tums, I mean Thumbs of course, will be holding their annual Bring and Share supper at St. Mary's Centre on Monday, Jan. 25 at 6 p.m.

Because of a shortage of tables, members and visitors are asked to bring just "fork food" as the dining will be done lap style. You are also asked to bring your own dishes so that the dining will not be done literally lap style. And if bringing a casserole, please also bring a serving spoon (so that the serving will not be done handstyle!)

Sorry, Green Thumbsers, I only tease because I know you can take it!

Memberships will be taken at the meeting, and you are all welcome to attend.

I haven't smelled it myself, but reports are that a skunk-like odor seems to be emanating from an area of town.

For the first time in four years, I'm told, a certain L. J. got "skunked" in a euchre game held locally. But that is not all. I also hear there was quite a merry-go-round run, afterwards — a chase, as a matter of fact.

All this behind closed doors. And in Williamstown! You just never know, do you?

Talk about being in the wrong place at the wrong time! Last Thursday there were two female red-wing blackbirds at Martin Bowman's feeder. Has anyone else had such unusual visitors these days?

Last week I mentioned to you about our local businesses. Today I am featuring what is perhaps Williamstown's newest venture. "Alter-Ations," located in the heart of the village, next to Ernie Larocque's Service Station, is run by Alan and Terry Rose.

This new business offers complete renovations, painting, and decorating contracting services. Alan, who has many years experience in costing, will be happy to give you a free estimate. Call 347-1725 for more information.

A hearty welcome in the Glen to Ronnie McCarthey and Manon Seguin who have moved in their brand new home on Dalhousie Street since New Year's eve. St. Andrews United Churches

This new year seems to have started off right with such a great gathering in Martintown, where the two charges (Williamstown and Martintown) with more than 200 attending the service, to hear and vote on a potential candidate for the position of "Our New Minister."

Rev. Caroline Turner of Kingston has answered a call to fill our vacancy and we have accepted her. Her starting date is Feb. 1.

Rev. Turner and her husband Ron hope to live in the manse in Williamstown. Mr. Turner is a professor at Queen's and they have two sons and a daughter and five grandchildren.

It sure was a nice and warm place to be Sunday. The two choirs certainly added to the occasion. Marland Murray and his grandson Devon on the violins, and Alison Murray on the organ, were a nice musical closing to the worship service.

I have a correction in Rev. Norma Baumet's address, sorry about that: it should read Box 17, Yellow Grass, Sask. S0G 5J0. Phone 306-465-2256.

Bridge games are held Monday afternoons at 12:30, and euchre every second and fourth Thursday afternoon at 1:30.

New beginner bridge lessons are to start again, if there are enough interested in taking them. The instructor will be Bert Mosher, and they will be at the community centre. What day they will be, will be determined by those that are wanting these lessons. So anyone interested, (and they are great) please call Penny McLeod at 528-4440.

Martintown Optimist Club

The library is coming along extremely well, and the grand opening is planned for Sunday, Jan. 31 from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Refreshments will be served and I hope there will be a good turnout and a warm welcome to our community.

The library committee has been working very hard to get this ready for us. Margaret Cooper is the chairperson, Maureen Bignell is library co-ordinator, Janet Clark is volunteer co-ordinator and book collector, and Valerie Groleau is secretary. Other volunteers are Pat and Watkyn Williams, Marion and Charlie Thompson, Elizabeth and John Peters, and Betty and Serge Dreimanis.

Things they could still use are more volunteers, children's furniture, bookcases, and French and children's books. The contact person for these items is Janet Clark at 528-4033.

The hours of operation as a library so far (with the number of volunteers they have) are as follows: (and they won't start until after the Grand Opening of Sunday, Jan. 31).

Mondays, 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. — 7:30 to 9 p.m.; Thursdays, 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. — 7:30 to 9 p.m.; Sundays, 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Some activities the Optimists are planning are the Barrel Sinking in the River Contest, manning some "Hot Food" concessions at the Raisin River Canoe Races, a bus trip to a hockey game, Say No To Drugs sessions at the school, continuing the teen dances monthly, a second strawberry and art social.

And working with the community and township they are hoping to get lighting at the ball park and parking lot.

The Optimists are always looking for new members, with more persons involved the more things can be achieved. Meetings are held every 1st and 3rd Thursdays, at the community centre at 7:30 p.m. and visitors are always welcome to attend.

* * *

The New Year's Dance was a busy place at the community centre with nearly 200 in attendance. The music with a d.j. had the dance floor a moving and a grooving all night long. Mrs. Prieur prepared and served a most delicious hot and cold buffet.

VON CANADA Caring for Life By Dr. George McKiel

Chronic Fatique Syndrome (CFS)

Brian Fillion, one of our GDHS teachers, has had CFS for 9 yrs and this fits in with the interesting higher incidence in the nursing and teaching professions. Epidemiologically, this suggests there is, perhaps, a compromise of the immune system from exposure to viruses transmitted by human contact. Dr. Behan, a researcher in Scotland, is confident the cause of CFS is one of the enteroviruses (polio-like). In any event, CFS is difficult to diagnose — it took Brian Fillion six months to get a confirmation.

Symptoms of "Total Body Injury" or Chronic Fatigue Syndrome
Profound fatigue exacerbated by exercise & forgetfulness

Loss of concentration ability + lowgrade fever
Sleep disturbance (severe) + sore throat
Depression & confusion + vision problems

Dr. Byson Hyde, Chairman of the Ottawa-based Nightingale Research Foundation, which promotes CFS research, believes CFS begins with ANY virus that affects nerves, brain, spinal cord so includes the virus that causes polio, measles, German measles, and hepatitis. Hyde says the disease is probably contagious in its early stages. Despite the confusion in diagnosis of CFS (seems like flu) epidemiologists guess that half a million Canadians have been stricken. The search for objective clinical signs of CFS have bifurcated into a brain scan in which the CFS patients show abnormally low blood flow to one of the two temporal lobes and the hippocampus (plays a role in memory). The other investigative area is looking at blood profiles to find a substance unique to CFS and this becomes highly sophisticated as it means looking at certain classes of immune system cells and the "killer" substances they secrete against foreign intruders such as viruses.

Current treatment of CFS is an experimental drug, Ampligen, which interrupts the reproduction of viruses in the body cells, and it is now available in Canada under a special release but costs $25-30,000 a year per patient. Nightingale Foundation hopes to begin soon, a Canada-wide trial involving 2-300 patients. You can also get help from the Nightingale Foundation in finding a physician who specializes in this branch of medicine or from a national organization called M.E. * Canada. Both are in Ottawa.

NIGHTINGALE FOUNDATION (613) 728-9643
M.E. * CANADA (613) 563-1565

* Myalgic Encephalomyelitis is another medical name for CFS.

Recent work published in Britain's prestigious Lancet (Mar. 91) relates a study in which all CFS patients tested showed a lower magnesium level in their blood. This does make sense for magnesium is essential for neuromuscular integration and a deficiency leads to convulsions and an increase in neuromuscular irritability while too much magnesium produces paralysis and sedation of the neuromuscular. Magnesium also activates many enzyme reactions, notably in carbohydrate phosphorus. Dr. Gantz, specialist in infectious diseases and a CFS researcher, was involved in treating 32 CFS'ers with intramuscular injections of magnesium sulfate (Epsom's Salts) every week for 6 weeks OR a placebo. Result: 12 of the 15 on enhanced magnesium had better energy and emotional level, their pain was reduced and sleep patterns improved. In contrast, only 3 of the 17 on placebos felt better. Magnesium is usually present in abundance in a normal diet but rich sources are nuts, soyabeans, cocoa, seafoods and whole grains.

Glen Sandfield loses a longtime friend

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

Losing a good friend is a hard thing to face and Glen Sandfield lost one recently. Janet MacMillan had currently been living at Maxville Manor, but had spent many years here. She was here when her husband died and where she had friends and family to comfort her. Only fitting one might say, for she was always ready to comfort, help or care for any suffering soul. Such a lady was kindness personified to children, to the sick or handicapped. Her warmth and sympathy was reassuring to all who knew her. If there were dishes needing attention at the hall or church do's, she was right there. At 39'ers, she used to say that she had nothing to contribute, but would often be found right there at the sink 'washing up.' She furnished hundreds of cookies, squares and sandwiches over the years for card parties, teas, bazaars and meetings. Her home was often offered for the winter annual church meetings to save heating the church. The UCW met at her home, many times. Mrs. MacMillan was one of those great people who didn't complain. She used to say that "Everyone has enough on their plate, without me adding to it." However, she was always ready to listen if you needed a willing ear, or a shoulder to cry on. Never a loud or boistrous person, she filled up a very large niche in Glen Sandfield and one that will never be filled quite like Janet MacMillan was able to do. We often mention her with love. It is pretty hard to forget a friend as nice as she was. Her funeral was held in Glen Sandfield on the day before Christmas, in the church she loved and where her many friends gathered to bid her a last sad goodbye. But we all will be forever grateful for having had her touch our lives with her gentleness.

On a happier note, this reporter was in Montreal on Friday evening Jan. 8th where daughter Bonnie met my train. After dinner with Nancy, son-in-law Michel and Bonnie we drove to Place des Arts for the evening performance of the Phantom of the Opera. They had give me this ticket as a Mother's Day gift in May. It was well worth the wait. The sets were fabulous, the special effects were spectacular and the singing and score were breathtaking, as were the gorgeous costumes. Watching the stage grow from a dingy cavern beneath the stage to a brilliantly lit gilded operatic scene was truly remarkable. I had a tape of the music and it was very nice, but hearing it again after the performance brought it all back, and the music is simply wonderful. It stars Jeff Hyslop, as the Phantom. Have you ever watched Today's Special? It's a kid's TV show on TVO. On it there is a manekin with a magic cap. With it on, he can dance and sing, without it, he is just a store dummy. He cavorts, sings little pretty songs and talks to Muffie, a mouse puppet and Jodie. Imagine my surprise when he shows up as the Phantom of the Opera. I thought 'Him?' Was I ever fooled! He is superb, and what a voice! I would give it 5 stars, folks; if you get the chance, do go and see it, it's splendid, really — just splendid!

One of the three open churches will be having an afternoon or night service for one month on a rotation basis, and Glen Sandfield United will have their next three services in January at 8 p.m. every Sunday evening. Rev. Rumbolt will be preaching throughout the charge beginning on Jan. 17 for two morning services and one evening service (or afternoon) every Sunday until April.

Char-Lan centreman Marc Bellemare keeps the puck away from Athens defenceman Peter Davis as Cory Maxam (far left) looks on. The Aeros defeated the Rebels 8-4 to end Char-Lan's five-game winning streak.

Hot Rebels cool off in Athens

The Athens Aeros put an end to the Char-Lan Rebels' five-game winning streak with an 8-4 win at Centre 76 in Athens on Sunday night.

Despite the loss, the Rebels still compiled their best record of the season in the fifth of the seven segments set up by the management at the beginning of the season.

''The season is 42 games long so we divided the season into seven six-game segments,'' said Char-Lan coach Philip Brown. ''We went 5-1 in the last six games and that's the best we've done in any segment so far.

''We'd be pretty happy if we could do the same thing in our last two segments.''

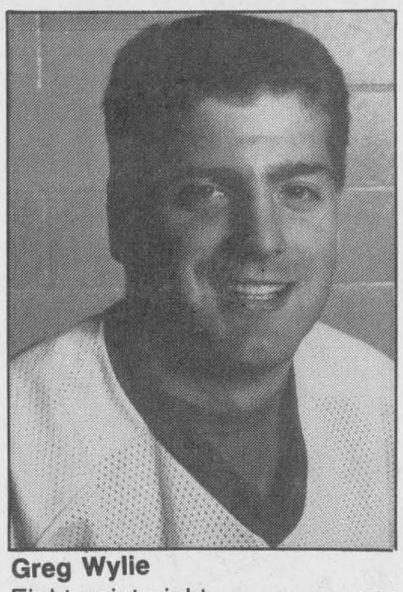
But Brown still isn't completely satisfied with his team's performance in certain areas.

''We have to learn how to hit,'' he commented. ''We probably hit less than any other team in the league and that's something we'll have to correct.''

Besides ending Char-Lan's winning streak, Sunday's loss continued the Rebels' frustration against the top teams in the league.

Char-Lan is now 19-3 against teams that are in third place or lower in either the Rideau or St.Lawrence Divisions but have yet to win in eight tries against Morrisburg, Athens and Westport - the top clubs in the conference.

Ed Palmer scored twice to lead the Aeros on Sunday while singles went to Bill Dixie, Pete Cunningham, Mike Sargent, Dave Jones, Mike Henley and Karl Herbison.



Greg Wylie
Eight point night

Marc Bellemare, Lyle Sproul, Bobby Bowles and Cory Maxam replied for Char- Lan, who were badly outshot but remained in the contest until the third, where Athens outscored the Rebels 4-1.

Brett Thompson was sharp in goal to keep Char-Lan in the game until the final 20 minutes.

Thompson is one of two goalies still with the Rebels (the other is Trevor McMillan) after the team cut Michel Blanchard at practice last Tuesday.

''We definitely had to do something with our goaltending because with three there was always one guy sitting out who didn't feel a part of the team.

''It was a tough decision and it's just too bad that we had to let one of them go but we absolutely had to get down to two goaltenders.''

Char-Lan 16 Kemptville 3

Speaking of goalies, it was a bad night for Kemptville netminder Dominic Cuglietta on Saturday as Char-Lan scored 10 power play goals in a 16-3 Rebels win.

The shortstaffed 73's had only 12 skaters, and just two regular defencemen, and fatigue showed in the late stages of the game as Char-Lan scored six goals in the second period and eight in the third.

Special teams were a major factor all night (referee Craig Suitor handed out a total of 32 minor penalties) and Char-Lan had three shorthanded markers to go with their 10 man-advantage goals.

Greg Wylie had his second four-goal game of the season, scoring three on the power play and adding a shorthanded tally. Wylie also had four power-play assists for an eight-point night.

Terry O'Farrell, Marc Bellemare, Dan Desjardins, Adam Morris and John Edgerton each added two goals while Lyle Sproul and Cory Maxam had singles.

All 11 forwards picked up at least one point for Char-Lan and five (Bellemare, Maxam, Wylie, Edgerton and Desjardins) had at least four.

Dan Vajcovec, Mike Speziale and Brent Rodger scored for Kemptville.

Trevor McMillan made 36 of 39 stops in goal for the Rebs.

Rebel Yells: Char-Lan lost the services of Criag Gabri last week as the big defenceman has signed on with the Tier II Hawkesbury Hawks of the Central Junior Hockey League. The loss of Gabri, who had six goals and nine assists with the Rebels, has renewed the team's search for help on defence...Mario Guibeault, the former Seaway Valey midget, was one possible blue-line option but the Cornwall native has hooked up with a Toronto-area team instead...Char-Lan midget defenceman Kyle MacDonell suited up with the Rebels for all three games on the weekend. Richard Bazinet dressed on Friday in Alexandria...Terry O'Farrell, who is still only 17 even though he is in his second season with the Rebels, has been signed to a midget card and is now an affiliated player. The move doesn't change his status with the team but does free up another card...Char-Lan will host the Glens on Saturday and will try to beat Morrisburg for the first time in five tries this season on Sunday. The Rebels will return to Morrisburg the following Wednesday (Jan. 20) to make up a game that was cancelled earlier in the season.

Lions dominate all-star team

Four Rebels, two Glens get nod

Eight members of the division-leading Morrisburg Lions were named to the St.Lawrence Division all-star team at a league meeting in Prescott on Monday night.

The All-Star Game between the St.Lawrence and Rideau Divisions will be played in Morrisburg on Jan. 23.

The Char-Lan Rebels and the Kemptville 73's each saw four of their players get voted on to the squad, while the team was rounded out by three Winchester Hawks and two Alexandria Glens.

Eight players, including Denis St. Jean and Bobby Bowles of the Rebels and Stephan Nadeau of the Glens, will be making return trips to the mid-season classic after being chosen for the game in Winchester last season.

Three of the division's top 10 point-getters and two of the top five snipers were among the most glaring omissions from the list of players selected by league officials on Monday night.

Char-Lan left-winger John Edgerton and Kemptville centreman Dennis Dodd, recently acquired from the Winchester Hawks, have each potted 30 goals so far this year but neither made the St. Lawrence squad.

Morrisburg's Mike McAllister, sixth in division scoring with 55 points, and Char-Lan defenceman Chris Petry, who arguably has been the Rebels' best at the position all season long, were also left off the team.

Doug Casselman and Philip Brown, coaches of the Lions and second-place Rebels respectively, will be behind the bench for the St.Lawrence team while Doug McNairn and Lynd McDonald will manage the club.

Goalies: Paul Seguin-Alex, Dennis Villeneuve-Mor, Dale Wilson-Win.

Defence: Bob Bowles-C-L, Stephan Nadeau-Alex, Sean Audet-Kempt, Mark Donnelly-Mor, Shawn Hummell-Mor, Scott Barkley-Win.

Centre: Marc Bellemare-C-L, Doug Armstrong-Win, Yvon Besner-Mor, Dan Vajcovec-Kempt.

Jr. B Notebook

The Winchester Hawks have traded Dennis Dodd to the Kemptville 73's for Kirk Tallman in a deal that invloves centremen who had been the top scorers on their respective teams.

Tallman quit the 73's almost two weeks ago and has been rumored to be on his way to the Hawks ever since.

In an unusual move, both players were in the Hawks lineup for Sunday's 8-5 victory over Westport.

Dodd, who scored a goal and three assists in the game, was officially told of the completion of the deal after the game.

Tallman notched three assists in his Winchester debut.

Former Cornwall Royals' assistant Paul Fixter, who almost joined the Rebels as an assistant coach earlier this season, was interviewed for the head coaching position in Winchester last Friday in the wake of Peter DeRooy's resignation.

Hawks GM Bill Wammes said that Fixter could be signed on as an assistant in time for tonight's game against Alexandria.

Ex-Glens boss DeRooy quits as Hawks coach

Team taken over by assistant Casselman

Former Alexandria Glens head coach Peter DeRooy is out of a job.

The Chesterville native resigned as head coach of the Winchester Hawks last Tuesday after a long series of events culminated in a confrontation between DeRooy and Winchester general manager Bill Wammes and president Dave Bryan.

DeRooy will be replaced by assistant coach Dennis Casselman.

Winchester was in first place through much of November, but had struggled in recent weeks, dropping into a tie for third place at the time last week's events transpired.

DeRooy says the first indication he had that something was wrong came last Sunday when he talked to disgruntled Kemptville centreman Kirk Tallman.

''He just called me to say he was interested in coming to Winchester and then all of a sudden he says 'Maybe I shouldn't be talking to you because I've heard you're going to be fired','' said DeRooy last Friday.

The following Tuesday night, DeRooy found out that the Hawks coaching committee - made up of three executive members - was planning to hold a meeting with the players the next day.

DeRooy felt he should have been allowed to attend the meeting and decided to resign when he was not permitted to do so. He phoned Wammes to inform him of his decision late Tuesday night.

In the process of talking to Wammes, DeRooy admits he made some derogatory comments about Hawks president Dave Bryan, who DeRooy later discovered was listening on another line when he was speaking to Wammes.

''That was the icing on the cake for me. I admit I said some things in the heat of the moment about Dave Bryan, but listening in on a phone conversation is a pretty low tactic.

''I don't consider myself a quitter but I felt that I had to resign because I don't think I could have been very effective as a coach with a knife in my back.''

Wammes denies that there was anything sinister about management's decision to have the coaching committee meet with the players.

''Things weren't going very well lately so we just wanted to have a meeting to listen to the players and to see what was going on,'' said Wammes, adding that the meeting was not called with the intent to find ammunition to fire DeRooy.

''We planned to have a meeting with the coaches after talking to the players. We didn't go into this with the idea of getting rid of Pete.''

DeRooy says several of his players called him to express support after learning of his resignation and DeRooy feels that the support was representative of the entire team with one possible exception.

''I know (goaltender) Dale Wilson thought I picked on him and I admit I'm a disciplinarian,'' said DeRooy, who coached Alexandria to three division championships in four years in the Hub.

Peter DeRooy
Coached Hawks to division final

''But there was a game recently that he knew he was supposed to start but he stayed up until four or five in the morning the night before and he wasn't able to play. I think that pretty well takes care of any complaint he might have.''

The man they call Skip says he doesn't have anything to be embarrassed about.

''We were playing without Scott Barkley (who is injured), Ken Corp and John Hamel, so that helps explain how we've been playing lately.

''I've said all along that we didn't have a powerhouse offensive team and that we had to play disciplined to beat teams like Char-Lan and Morrisburg. That (discipline) has been a big problem for us.''

DeRooy's long record of success means he likely will not be out of a job for long and in fact he says he's already been offered another Jr. B coaching position, although he wouldn't say where.

His short-term plans may include helping out Kirk Anderson, one of his former assistants in Alexandria, who's currently coaching the Jr. C North Stormont Express.

Ironically, the two had a running feud last year when Anderson was coaching the Glens.

Players return but losing continues

The Alexandria Glens welcomed back a pair of familiar faces on the weekend and the result was a pair of close games but two more losses for the St.Lawrence Division cellar-dwellers.

Centreman Pascal Joanette, who left the team earlier in the season to join the Central League's Cornwall Colts, returned to the Glens in time for Sunday's game in Morrisburg while left-winger Serge Bellefeuille was in the lineup on Friday when Alexandria hosted Char-Lan.

Bellefeuille had quit the team three weeks ago because of differences with Alexandria coach Robert Boisvenue but the four-year veteran says those differences have been settled.

''I talked to Bob before last Friday's game, I apologized to him and everything is okay now,'' said Bellefeuille.

''We said some things (in the media) that shouldn't have been said because those comments did us more harm than good. I just want to put this behind and get on with the season.''

Bellefeuille brought his scoring touch with him on his return to the Glens as he scored three times in his first two games.

Alexandria still lost both games, 6-4 to Char-Lan on Friday night and 5-4 to Morrisburg on Sunday.

Earlier in the week, the Glens dropped an 8-2 decision in Brockville.

Glens give Lions scare

Alexandria gave Morrisburg all they could handle on Sunday, and the Glens actually held a 4-3 lead with 12:24 remaining in the game.

Mark Donnelly tied the game for the Lions with 8:12 left in the third and Rob Domanko scored the game-winner with 2:30 remaining.

Andrew McEwen, Shawn Hummell and Yvon Besner score the other Morrisburg goals.

Serge Bellefeuille and Ray Jock each netted a pair of tallies for Alexandria.

On Friday at the Glengarry Sports Palace, six different Rebels fired in goals as Char-Lan downed the Glens 6-4.

Denis St.Jean, Marc Bellemare, Greg Wylie, Chris Petry, Terry O'Farrell and Cory Maxam each hit the scoresheet once for Char-Lan.

Maxam and Bellemare each added three assists.

Scoring for Alexandria was Patrick Campeau, Patrick Ravary, Martin Boisvenue and Serge Bellefeuille.

Boisvenue and Ray Jock each had two helpers.

Char-Lan outshot Alexandria 40-28 in the contest.

Tikis romp on Wednesday

Ray Jock and Jamie Nelson had the only Alexandria goals on Wednesday as the Glens were whipped 8-2 in Brockville by the Tikis.

Brayland Ovitt and Mark Millward each scored two goals for Brockville while singles were added by Brian Brynes, Mike Daoust, Wade Mooney and Tom Darby.

The Tikis had a 54-44 advantage in shots on goal.

Glenformation: Pascal Joanette, who's wearing number 20 in this, his third go-around with the Glens, picked up an assist in his first game back...Alexandria will face the DeRooy-less Hawks in Winchester tonight. The Glens will be in Alexandria on Friday to host Kemptville and will conclude the week by playing in Williamstown on Saturday.

Alexandria Glens' defenceman John Krailler chases Char-Lan right-winger Cory Maxam around the net during the fifth meeting of the season between the Junior B rivals at the Billy Gebbie Arena on Friday night. The Rebels won the game 6-4 and have yet to lose to the Glens this season. The teams meet again on Saturday.

Balanced attack key to Ernie's win

Four players scored twice each as Ernie's Cement Works downed Glengarry Windows and Doors 9-3 in Alexandria and District Industrial Hockey League action in Maxville on Saturday afternoon.

Ernest Bernique, Mike Lapensee, Gerry Blanchette and J.P. Claude each notched two goals as Ernie's won for the sixth time this season.

Brent Farrell added a single goal while Claude Gallant provided solid goaltending.

J.C. Ranger had two goals for W and D while Paul St.Denis rounded out the scoring.

Legion holds Dick's to tie

Dick's Paving Stones, the league's first place team, had to settle for a 4- 4 tie in their game with the Legion.

Alain Giroux, Steve MacMaster, Warren MacKinnon and Mike Campeau connected for the Legionnaires while Junior MacDonald led Dick's with a pair of goals.

Wendel Lafave and Robert MacDougall also scored for Dick's, who still lead second-place Ernie's by six points.

In the other Saturday contest, Decoste Welding hammered a pickup team 10-3.

Joel Doiron paced the winners with four goals while Steve Stewart added a hat trick.

Sylvain Levert, with two goals, and Gilles Pilon also scored for Decoste, which now moves to within a point of Glengarry Windows and Doors for fourth place with the victory.

Expansion Warriors earn first-ever point by crossing up Stars

The Avonmore Warriors picked an unlikely opponent to steal their first ever point from as the league's newest entry held the defending league champion Glengarry Stars to a 1-1 tie in Char-Lan Indoor Soccer League action on Monday night.

The Stars just did escape with the tie as Alain Decoste scored in the final minute to ruin Richard St.Denis' shutout bid and to deprive the Warriors of their first win.

Rod MacKillican scored for Avonmore.

The game was marred by a first-half collision that resulted in a broken leg for Stars' rookie Malcolm MacPherson.

MacPherson was playing in only his third game of the season.

F.I.S.T. closes in

Cornwall F.I.S.T. took advantage of the Stars' lost point by defeating Rudi Payer Sport, who had been tied with Glengarry for first place heading into the week's play, by a score of 4-3.

Chico Teodoro and Tim Snyder put F.I.S.T. in control of the game right off the bat by scoring goals in the first two minutes of the contest.

Junior Blanchette did all he could do to get Rudi's back into the game by scoring three goals but Snyder scored his second of the game and Guy Carriere netted the eventual game-winner to move Cornwall to within a point of top spot.

In Monday's other game, Roger Poitras recorded his second shutout of the season and his brother Phil scored two goals as the Char-Lan U2's blanked the SDG Nomads 3-0.

Garry Benson opened the scoring for the U2's in the first half.

The Nomads, meanwhile, have now been shut out in three of their last four games and have managed only six goals in nine games this season.

The league's three top goalscorers (Guy Carriere, Andy McCuaig and Greg Deschamps) have more goals individually than the entire Nomads team.

Lancaster and District Curling Club has been busy since the new season began. The opening bonspiel was very successful and was won by Keith McKay, Marlane McDonald, Kevin Wereley and Ian Fraser.

The ladies of the club have also been active. For instance, a team skipped by Joan MacDonald played in the Centennial in Ottawa and Bev Sparey entered a team in the Stanley Gauthier competition for curlers with five years and under experience.

Joan MacDonald also took another team to the Ladies Challenge event in Vankleek Hill. In the men's division, recently a senior men's team won the Beauchateau Senior Invitational Bonspiel held at Beauchateau, Quebec. The team consisted of skip Larry Lebrun and members Peter Leslie, Hugh Blair and Marv Sparey.

Winners at the annual turkey bonspiel were Tony Wetering, Shirley Picard, Bev Sparey and Chuck Beaudette.

Bainsville Women's Institute members gathered at Knox Church in Lancaster recently for their January meeting. Stand up, speak out and be proud to be a member of W.I. were the words spoken by the provincial president.

The ladies were greeted with a display of various W.I. items for sale and an array of pictures taken at the December meeting.

From the reports of committee heads, members learned of the effects of free trade on the agriculture community and also that the parks committee is working on further improvements to Bainsville W.I. Park.

Plans were made for the annual birthday party for the residents of Chateau Gardens Nursing Facility in Lancaster. It will be held on Friday, Jan. 22 and members will supply gifts, food and entertainment.

Gillian Williams and Connie Hicks agreed to organize the 1993 group entry for the McArthur trophy at the Williamstown Fair in August. The theme — A child's first day at school — will give participants a wide scope for their talents.

District P.R.O. Sheila Urquhart presented a program which provided a most interesting and stimulating way for members to refresh their memories with the history, the purpose and the meeting procedures of the W.I. An open-book set of questions and a fun quiz made members aware of all the information in the organization's handbook.

The program ended with the singing of a delightful song about W.I., the words of which had been written by Lorna Chapman, McCrimmon Branch. After a delicious lunch, prepared by Connie Hicks, Joanna Peters and Gillian Williams, the meeting closed with An Institute Prayer which had been written by Ella Smith, Picnic Grove Branch.

UCFO opposed to serial killer board game

Green Valley
Margo Pepin
525-3581

U.C.F.O. members held their regular meeting on Jan. 6 with 20 members present.

President Jocelyne Overbury welcomed everyone and hoped that the holidays hadn't been too tiring on everyone.

The ladies are all preparing articles for the exposition that is held in March at Alfred and also a card party is being organized for February.

Birthdays for January were Therese Valade, Violaine Lauzon, Irene Menard and Diana Giroux, for December — Monique Yates, Florence Montpetit, Jeanine Campeau and Pauline Roussin. Craft winner was Lucie Dumouchel and door prizes were won by Violette Lacombe and Thérèse Valade.

Lucie Dumouchel showed the ladies how to make a little box with old Christmas cards. An enjoyable evening was had by all.

During the meeting President Jocelyne Overbury showed a petition she received asking anyone who wished to sign it. It concerns a game called Serial Killer Board Game 1st Edition, by Tobias Allen of Seattle, U.S.A. The point of the game is to "commit murder". The game comes with a body bag, 25 babies and four serial killer figurines and the person with the highest body count is the winner.

I'm sure everyone agreed that the game is very, very dangerous and is not in the best interest of young children or any child.

There are petitions which can be signed and they will be sent to the government so as not to allow the game into Canada.

There will be a petition at the Glengarry News, at the local churches, the more names received, the more residents will be heard.

The Optimist Club will hold a zone meeting in Dalkeith at the Optimist Hall on Wednesday, Jan. 13 at 8 p.m.

The Green Valley Optimist Club will hold its regular meeting Sunday, Jan. 17 at the Green Valley Barbecue, with breakfast at 9 a.m. and the meeting starting around 9:30 a.m.

The Knights of Columbus and the Green Valley Optimist Club will hold a St. Valentine's dance on Saturday, Feb. 13 at the Sacred Heart Parish Hall in Alexandria. Ticketes are now on sale from members of both groups at $10 each.

Outgoing president Marcel Brunet believes the community has a right to know how the money raised locally was spent.

The club has a list of donations made during the last fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1992.

Anyone wishing to have a copy, just ask Marcel or president Henri Jeaurond and they will gladly provide one.

All activities were geared toward youths; local merchants were encouraged as much as possible. The "Afgan" made by Mrs. Josephine Séguin and donated to the parish was won by Mr. Jean-Paul Diotte.

Colette, Julie and the girls of Viau Ladies Wear voted their youngest coworker Marie Josée Bergevin employee for the year 1992; a plaque was given to a very surprised and shy Marie Josée.

Happy birthday to Raymond Legault, Jan. 11, Irene Ménard, Eric Lavigne, Jan. 15; Eric Larocque, Jan. 17. Have a safe week and God bless.

To the one we loved so well.

There's so much we want to share
But we know you walk beside us,
We know you're always there.

TAKING THE HEAT OFF OHIP

This past year, the Ministry of Health took a long, hard look at our health care system to find ways of taking the heat off an already overburdened plan. It discovered that taxpayers were incorrectly paying for as much as $20 million for third-party services.

WHAT ARE THIRD-PARTY SERVICES?

Third-party services are those not required by a patient for treatment of illness or health promotion, but are requested by someone else.
These services include physical examinations for insurance forms, school and camp registrations, driver and pilot certifications and medical notes to give employees time off work.
Physicians are being reminded not to bill OHIP for third-party services. Instead, they will request direct payment for these services.

WHEN IT REALLY COUNTS

Services required to receive health or social assistance benefits remain insured. For example, medical certificates for wheelchairs or other medical devices provided through the Assistive Devices Program will be covered. There will be no charge for certificates for Northern Health Travel Grants or access to nursing homes.
Nothing that affects the basic principles of medicare has changed. You will not be asked to pay for direct medical care and some of the heat will be taken off OHIP.
For further information on how this may affect you call the Ministry of Health toll-free Infoline.

Lions Club raising $35,000 for Maxville Manor project

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

Our local Lions Club has pledged $35,000 to the rebuilding project at the Manor. One of its fundraising projects is a calendar draw which has been sold out and which commenced on Jan. 1 with a $500 prize. It was won by Jane Anderson of Cornwall.

The other winners up to and including Jan. 9 have been Linda Dale, Smith's Falls, Warren Brown, Ingleside, George Villeneuve Sr., Moose Creek, Doris Carter, Cornwall, Barbara Aubin, Moose Creek, Patricia Gallinger, Cornwall and Shirley Tyo, Apple Hill. All these lucky people received $20 prizes, the cost of the draw which runs for the entire year.

There have been other holiday visitors. Edna Holland spent six days in Ottawa with her daughter, Lucy Stritch, and family. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Phillips were in London, Ont. for a few days with relatives and his mother. Jean Murray spent Christmas day with Winston Murray and family near Cornwall.

Nellie Wensink spent a very happy season with very special guests: With her were her niece Gon and Dirk Verwvert from Holland who enjoyed a Canadian Christmas that was somewhat a typical, weather wise.

Then Mrs. Wensink's son John, a former player with the National Hockey League was here with his family, wife Rhonda, daughters, Katie and Jackie and Rhonda's parents, Shirley and Ken Back, all from the St-Louis area.

* * *

We extend sympathy to the Rev. Janet Staniforth and her family in the sudden death of her father, Haig Staniforth, Ottawa. A number of the members of Mr. Staniforth's Anglican congregation called at the funeral home last Friday evening. Also, Margaret and Keith Jack were called to Kelowna, B.C., for the funeral of her brother, Lloyd Green. Condolences are extended to this family as well.

We extend best wishes to Stella (Mrs. J.N.) Fitzgerald on the occasion of her 91st birthday. Mrs. Fitzgerald is well and keeps active while living in her own home.

At the same time, we are sorry that Mrs. Fitzgerald's daughter, Velma Franklin, a former Maxville correspondent for the Glengarry News, has been hospitalized and she is wished the very best for a complete return to good health.

* * *

We welcome to the village, two sisters who have been rural residents for many years. Miss Sarah Lacroix and her sister, Catherine (Mrs. Maitland) Scott have moved from Dominionville to a village apartment.

Fred Currier, Hawkesbury, died Sunday, unexpectedly and sincere sympathy is expressed to his family and to his only sister, Edna Rolland who happens to be the eldest in the Currier family. Known locally as Freddie, this retired Bell Telephone employee was predeceased by a sister, Donalda, Mrs. Harvey Scott and by three brothers, Lawrence, Joe and Arthur. At this time, we are also thinking of his good friend, Ann MacRae, Vankleek Hill and of his niece and nephew here, Donna McEwen and Richard Scott.

One who is aware of passenger traffic at our local C.N.R. station has noted that there seems to be very few people using the train service. We miss the water when the well runs dry and some will miss this service when and if the trains will no longer stop.

It has come to our attention that something could be done with the station. Apparently, the C.N.R. is anxious to give up ownership and it would be great if a group or organization could see its way to take hold and develop this historic building on the site.

Your correspondent visited a former, well-known Manor resident who is presently a Civic Hospital patient but who is waiting to become a resident in St-Vincent Hospital in Ottawa. He is Tony Poulin whose health conditions remain as usual and who appreciates visits from his many friends in this area. The room number is A632.

A few issues ago, this correspondent referred to the Rev. Thomas Johnstone coming here 80 years ago as minister of the Presbyterian Church and that he had a son Tom in Ottawa. Dave Brown's column in the Ottawa Citizen carried the following last week. "Tom Johnstone has roots in Nova Scotia's Pictoric County and is a descendant of a long line of miners. The 83-year-old retired advertising executive heard there were at least 35 children under 12 who lost their fathers in the Westray mine explosion in May... when a quick count showed the large number of fatherless, he needed help." Forty-five members of the Ottawa Kiwanis Club each donated $25 to a fund organized by Mr. Jonstone and through the Kiwanis Club in Dartmouth, 45 children received gifts at Christmas time. Mr. Johnstone left here about 65 years ago with his two brothers and widowed mother to live in Ottawa.

The Jim Graham family in Dunvegan is very pleased to be feeding a pair of cardinals in their backyard. The male we had only appeared once in our back yard as far as we know.

We have 20 morning doves enjoying a cracked corn mixture, I am spreading under the pine tree. They are also coming closer to the house but seem to appreciate the protection provided by this pine tree.

These birds don't seem quite so timid this year. Other years they would sometimes sit in a neighboring tree all day before coming down to feed at dusk. This year they fly in readily.

I have always wished that there could be one bird that I could identify. This year there is a mourning dove with white tail feathers so I know when it is here.

Earlier, I referred to a bird count I was doing every two weeks. The finches are creating a real problem because there are so many of them and because the house and gold are a bit difficult to distinguish as they feed together. I estimate that we have 40 of each species. Readers who have a niger seed feeder will appreciate how quickly the levels fall in ours.

Lorna has been keeping a diary for over 10 years. I propose to use two of them to refer to village events 20 and 20 years ago.

Firstly, the present hardware store was being rebuilt after an August fire and Richard Burton Sr. was in the process of buying it from William R. MacEwen. Fraser Campbell was elected chairman of the S.D.&G. County Board of Education. On Jan. 10, '73 "fire this morning swept through one of the largest and longest established piggeries in the district. Owned by William R. MacEwen, the building stood immediately east of the village, near the fair ground."

Well-known farmer and community worker, Keith Franklin, died on Jan. 11, 1983. Members of the village council with Reeve George Currier were Bill Campbell, Bill Wright, Donald Benton and Michael Villeneuve. Romeo Cuillerier was hired to collect the garbage at $575 per month for 1983.
