Morrisburg was just one of 18 schools in SD&G to honor the memory of Smith. This event was spearheaded by former Morrisburg Pubic school principal, Wyman Barton, as he collaborated with all the other SD&G principals to find an appropriate way to remember the fallen sportscaster.

Residents fight for boat launch

STEPHANIE WOLFE
Leader Staff

BRINSTON—About a year ago, a handful of Lakeshore Drive residents appeared at a Matilda Township council meeting to vehemently oppose a proposal to build a boat ramp east of the Findlay Road.

A year later, the opposite has happened.

At a regular council meeting Thursday, another 20 Lakeshore Drive residents encouraged council to establish a boat launch on property presently owned by Ontario Hydro, between OPP Constable Morgan Hill's house and Ron Renaud's property.

The situation is complex, to say the least. Council wants to purchase some of the land to access the water so the fire department's water truck can fill up; 20 or more residents clearly want a boat launch; other residents, including Hill, Renaud and Irving Shaw — who lives about 50 yards north of the land in question — don't want a boat launch near their properties; and Ontario Hydro doesn't want to sell the land before it knows what purpose it will be used for and is assured it will be relieved from all flooding and erosion claims.

"Here we are all these people and we can't seem to get in the river"
—Lakeshore Drive resident Garry Murphy

Last year, council tried to acquire 30 feet of the Hydro property but decided against it when Hydro demanded $12,500.

"For the small portion of land we wanted, it was quite expensive," Township Reeve Charles Barkley explained.

"But I'd still like to get 26 feet to make a 66 foot roadway," he added.

Township clerk Bill Horner explained that the roadway could be used by the fire department's water truck.

"Council is looking for access to the water for fire protection so the truck could back into there and the tanker could fill up," he said.

Horner added that council never intended for the land to be used as a boat launch.

Garry Murphy, who spoke on behalf of the residents at Thursday's council meeting, says Lakeshore Drive residents should have their own boat launch instead of having to use the facilities in Morrisburg, Iroquois and Cardinal.

"Here we are all these people and we can't seem to get in the river," Murphy said. "A lot of people don't even know this area exists."

Barkley reminded the residents that the land could only be used to launch small boats but would not be good for large crafts. At last year's council meeting, residents expressed their concern that the site doesn't provide enough room for either a properly-sheltered launch pad or for adequate parking for cars and trailers.

Ontario Hydro senior real estate administrator Peter Fodor denied a recent rumor that any part of the 195-foot property had been sold to Ron Renaud.

"We are investigating at this time," Fodor said. "We also know council is trying to acquire some lands. We don't have a clear picture yet...we want to know what the property will be used for."

Fodor says it could be another two to four months before a decision is made.

"We are also concerned with the flooding and erosion of low lying areas. Hydro wants to be relieved from all claims."

In the meantime, residents have a long battle ahead of them before they can launch their boats in their own 'backyard'.

Consultant checks plaza

Underground tanks must be removed

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—The private sector has been quick to respond to the possible presence of underground fuel tanks at the rear of the plaza.

The issue was brought to public attention when a simple water break uncovered the presence of an underground tank, behind Seaway Dry Cleaners. Tests showed contamination of soil, which had to be removed.

As well as repairing the water break, Lloyd McMillan Construction Ltd. undertook removal of the tank, clean-up of contaminated soil and fill-in with clean soil. The Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations governs storage of fuel tanks while the Ministry of Environment and Energy is called in for cases of possible soil contamination, to oversee pumping of the tank, and removal of the soil.

Ministry of Environment representative Jeff Columbus inspected the removal, clean-up and fill-in and declared the work to be satisfactory.

But MOEE is still waiting for information from the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations on the presence of additional underground tanks in the plaza. Information would include a list of all the owners of buildings where a tank may be located.

In some cases tanks may have already been removed, but the pipes clearly remain jutting out of the pavement behind many shops in the rear parking lot. "If the owner can prove the tanks are gone, it won't go any further. But some one may have pulled the fill pipes out without pulling out the tank underground," Columbus said.

If tests determine the presence of contaminated soil, "we'll go through the same scenario as at the dry cleaners," he said.

When the issue of underground tanks came to public attention, local Bank of Nova Scotia branch manager Peter Krug reported the situation to Head Office. "The Bank of Nova Scotia is pro-active on environmental issues," he said.

Responding to the Bank of Nova Scotia's request, Dean Tremblay, a consultant with the Ottawa firm Zenix Engineering Ltd. was called to the plaza Monday, to examine the property for the existence of underground tanks.

"We wanted to look at it from our own perspective. There was also a question whether there were 18 or so similar tanks in the plaza, and of costs involved," Krug said.

"We thought it would be beneficial for landowners to get together to see if there could be a savings in a joint undertaking."

The Bank of Nova Scotia takes several bids from contractors before awarding work, Krug said. Other than having a consultant look at the situation, the bank has "not committed or anthorized anything," he added.

Krug stated he had not contacted other landowners, and the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations had not contacted him to date. "We figured the ministry would contact us," he said.

Tremblay also contacted other property owners in the plaza, inquiring whether they were aware of the presence of underground heating fuel tanks on their land. "Those with underground storage tanks associated with their property will have to remove them," Tremblay said.

Tremblay said the pipes will have to be removed "immediately" to prevent the possibility of fuel tanks pumping into a pipe not attached to an underground tank, and polluting the ground.

According to an excerpt from the Energy Act Fuel Oil Code, owners of tanks which have not been used for two years are required to remove any product from the tank and connected piping. They must also remove the tank from the ground, and remove the piping from the ground or permanently seal the ends of the piping by plugging or capping.

In addition, they are responsible for removing contaminated soil around the tank, and filling cavities caused by the removal with clean soil.

Bowers honored at annual Chamber dinner

MORRISBURG—The new Board of Directors of the Morrisburg and District Chamber of Commerce was introduced at its annual meeting Saturday.

But more importantly, each of the new members made a special point of thanking past-president Linda Bowers for her invaluable contribution to the organization during the past 10 years.

"Her work largely goes unrecognized," said Earl Baker, one of the board's eight directors. "For 10 years Linda has been here as secretary and president. She has put in over and beyond the call of duty."

Chesterville's Chick Bidgood, who will be taking over as president, was also very appreciative.

"It's true we have a lot of challenges ahead but I think this should be Linda Bowers' night."

Bowers explained her work experience has been invaluable and expressed hope for the organization's future.

"I think we have managed to use the money to promote the community well," she said. "The Chamber has always been a cyclical organization but I'm sure you can increase the membership."

The annual dinner meeting featured a delicious meal prepared by Plaza Deli's Esther and Blake Noon.

Parks Commission reduces "work force" impact to 44

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—Last Friday the St. Lawrence Parks Commission started to downsize its work force, in response to a reduced transfer payment from the provincial government.

With the intent to sustain tourism services at all the parks and attractions operated in 1995, a number of difficult business decisions were made regarding the work force. It was originally estimated that 60 employees would be affected. However, a news release Friday stated that the Commission was able to reduce the impact through careful planning from 60 to 44 employees, including 14 classified and 30 seasonal.

Nine employees from Fort Henry, 27 from Crysler Park, one from Long Sault Parkway, and seven from Corporate Services were issued non-recall or surplus notices. Information about the impact on specific departments will not be available for a couple of weeks.

However, Diane Rennie, manager of Marketing and Communications, has put to rest one rumour: namely, the library would close in response to the downsizing.

"The library will be open, and there will be more details in the next few weeks," she said speaking on behalf of managers for the UCV area.

Lynne Cook, a genealogist for the United Empire Loyalists had expressed a concern over what would happen to the historical and genealogy materials if the library should close.

Information about workforce impacts on other departments will be available over the next few weeks.

A redeployment team and the Human Resources Department will assist surplus and non-recalled staff in considering their options for the future. The Commission will continue to give priority consideration to seasonal staff for comparable vacancies.

The MCBO Business Group Inc. has been engaged to assist in job search training and counselling for employees during the transition period.

In the next few days, senior managers and supervisors will be holding Division staff meetings to discuss organizational and operational changes for 1996. The Commission is concentrating on marketing tourism operations within the four destination areas of Fort Henry at Kingston, 1000 Islands Parkway, Crysler Park including Upper Canada Village, and Long Sault Parkway.

On April 16, the Commission announced its provincial funding of $6.7 million for 1996/7 was 23 per cent lower than the previous year's $8.7 million. In addition to the transfer payment, the Commission will use revenue generation, organizational change and operational efficiency, to support a corporate budget of $13 million for its attraction operations, business development and capital programs.

Olympics shouldn't affect local tourism

STEPHANIE WOLFE
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—Although Canada saw a 5.6 per cent increase in tourism last year, things may not be so promising this year with the Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta.

Anthony Pollard, president of the Hotel Association of Canada, says about 17 million international visitors came to Canada last year, 13 million of whom were Americans.

"The Olympic Games will be our biggest danger this year," he said. "Our hotels are suffering already."

Pollard was the special guest speaker at the Cornwall and Seaway Valley Tourism's (CSVT) annual meeting here last week.

Locally, the Olympic Games should not have a dramatic affect upon the number of tourists visiting Upper Canada Village, says Diane Renie, manager of marketing and communications for the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

Renie says that 80-85 per cent of visitors to the UCV in the past three years have been from Ontario.

The number of visitors has fluctuated over the past five years, from approximately 192,000 in 1993 to 196,500 in 1994 and 189,000 last year.

"We had consultants doing studies and historical attractions are at a static level or on a decline," Renie explained. "If there is an entertainment, interactive role or educational approach, it seems to be the draw."

At the CSVT meeting, WEBtech owner Peter Gault, who created a Web page on the Internet for the CSVT, says several interested tourists have visited the site and and would like more information about this area.

The CSVT was formed last November to combine the tourism efforts of the City of Cornwall and the United Counties of SD and G.

Beware of raccoon rabies

A strain of raccoon rabies is spreading rapidly through the north-eastern United States. Unless it is stopped, the rabies will enter Ontario.

Should raccoon rabies arrive in this area, a Contingency Plan has been developed by the Ministry of Natural Resources to contain the problem as quickly as possible.

In an effort to create a protective buffer, the MNR has been trapping and vaccinating raccoons in susceptible areas for the past two years. Last year, the MNR conducted a trap-vaccinate-release program along the St. Lawrence River, targeting areas with international bridges at Ivy Lea, Johnstown, Iroquois and Cornwall.

In the town of Lyme, 10 kilometres south of the U.S. border, a rabid raccoon was captured just last month. A young boy was recently treated for exposure to rabies near Watertown.

Researchers are presently trying to develop a way to deliver an oral vaccine to raccoons by air. For several years, the MNR has been using airplanes to spread a vaccine to red foxes through the countryside.

According to the Ministry of Health, only 40 per cent of dogs and 15 per cent of cats in Ontario are immunized against rabies. You can now be fined $90 if you do not have your dog or cat vaccinated annually after three months of age.

May is rabies awareness month. It is our responsibility to vaccinate our pets before the situation potentially gets worse. We must also remind young children to avoid contact with stray and wild animals.

Rabies has been a serious problem in Ontario since the 1950's. More than four thousand people were treated for exposure to rabies in 1986. Southern Ontario has the highest concentration of animal rabies in North America.

The virus is transmitted through a rabid animal's saliva by a bite or contact with a cut or sore, or the eyes, nose or mouth of another animal or person. The disease has an incubation period of 10 days to one year, during which time no symptoms are apparent.

It costs about $400 per vaccine to treat a person suspected of being exposed to rabies. Treatment consists of five injections over a one-month period.

If you suspect an animal is rabid, or have had any contact with a potentially rabid animal, call the Eastern Ontario Health Unit at (613) 933-1375. -S.W.

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles by Laurie Day

1986

Public school supporters in Iroquois with a residential assessment of $4,000 were to pay $34 more than the previous year on their 1986 tax bill. Clerk Betty Marlin tabled her 1986 budget at a special meeting and recommended to council it be accepted at the next month's regular meeting.

Police at area OPP detachments agreed the scare over drinking and driving was wearing off. The number of charges laid following breathalizer tests administered at the Morrisburg detachment to April 21 had climbed to 20. This was already one more charge than recorded the previous year from January 1 to April 30. At Long Sault, which covers the whole of Stormont County, reported its drinking and driving charges were up significantly for the first four months.

Parents of children attending Morrisburg Public School weren't to worry that the growing popularity of Iroquois Public's French immersion program was going to eventually force triple grading. At least, that was what Ken MacLennan, an education superintendent with the SD&G County Board of Education said. "Based on past experience, Morrisburg is not at risk (for triple grading) for some time."

1976

Slightly under 2,000 fans jammed their way through the doors of Morrisburg Arena Sunday, May 2nd, and were entertained to one of the fastest, most brilliant games of shinny ever played on local ice. The Morrisburg Lions, after losing the sixth game in the best-of-seven series to Hawkesbury the previous Friday evening by a 5-3 margin, stepped onto their home ice and broke into a 6-0 lead during the first 10 minutes. The Lions, much to the delight of their fans who sat for over an hour awaiting the start of the game, had come to play hockey. Morrisburg closed out their season with a game that every player, coach, manager, trainer could be nothing but very proud of. In winning this game, the 1975-76 Lions became the first Morrisburg contingent to ever win the ODHA Junior B Championship. A few of the big play makers included Don and Doug McNairn, Hugh Gillard, Ernie Duval, Jeff Cassell, Bill Veley and Brian Moran.They were coached by Ken Morrow.

An electrical fire claimed the lives of Marilyn Markell, 22 and her six-year-old son Kevin, near Hulbert Monday, May 3rd. Also injured in the blaze were Charles Markell, 29, Calvin Markell, 5, and a guest of the family, Tansy Chapman, 14. The three were treated at WDMH.

On Wednesday, April 28th, a tragic fire at Cardinal destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Greg Laushway and took the life of their son Paul. Greg and his wife Betty and their other two sons, Steve and Robbie, were all hospitalized at Brockville with critical injuries. Greg and Steve were later taken to the Burn Centre at Hotel Dieu in Kingston. Since then, the doctors were pleased with their improved condition. It was expected that Betty and Robbie would remain at the hospital for two to three weeks, while Greg and Steve were going to be hospitalized for one to two months. Friends in the area had set up a trust fund for the family at the Bank of Nova Scotia.

The April 29th issue if The Leader reported that the Canadian National Electric Company, having obtained large contracts for the production of nuclear energy was beginning research on large sections of the St. Lawrence Lake and River. The Morrisburg Industrial Committee had presented an application and volunteered to provide any information required. The company was attempting to locate water of sufficient density to provide the heavy water needed in energy production. Not all water was suitable for providing heavy water.

Miss Mary McGillis, a spry little lady at Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge, celebrated her 95th birthday.

(Part 2 of 3)

Friendships have played an important role in my life, including a rather unusual relationship with Juliette, a Jamaican whom I met for the first time when I was 19 after 10 years as faithful pen-pals.

We finally met during my first major trip away on my own — a short vacation in Montego Bay, which I had planned with the express purpose of meeting Juliette. Tragically, our friendship ended abruptly after our seven days together.

Three days after I returned to Canada, she seemed to have disappeared from the face of the earth. I called her, wrote to her and even tried faxing her at work. Juliette never responded.

When I first met Juliette, I didn't recognize her from the five year old photograph she had sent me. After searching frantically for her at the airport for five minutes, she calmly strolled up to me. I had difficulty even understanding her at first because of her English accent; she also sometimes spoke the Jamaican 'Creole patois', a mixture of Elizabethan English and West African languages.

During our long correspondence since Grade 5, Juliette was very inquisitive and interested in learning about Canada. She always dreamed of visiting Canada yet, during our vacation together, she seemed to have lost all interest in my country. Perhaps this was because she was reserved and shy although we did enjoy each other's company during her visit as my guest at my resort hotel in Montego Bay.

We visited the Dunn River waterfalls in Ochos Rios, went dancing at popular reggae bars, enjoyed the Jamaican speciality, 'jerk chicken', and Paw Paw (an exotic fruit), drank Red Stripe beer and flirted with the local boys.

Juliette taught me popular Jamaican expressions such as "Ya Mon", "Jammin", "Irie", "be free" and "peace" which are often used as friendly greetings. Despite our vast differences in background, our years of writing had given us a special connection that enabled us to transcend most barriers.

Although poverty is relative, I discovered Juliette was not as poor as many other Jamaicans. She lived in a small home with several brothers and sisters in the country's capital city, Kingston. Like many Jamaicans, from a young age she helped her mother by picking fruit to make extra money at the local markets.

However, only a five-minute walk from our resort, I saw hundreds of tin shacks in the countryside where large families lived. Many young children from these families crowded desperately around the front gates of our resort to sell cheap watches, jewellery, beads and rings to tourists. It is one thing to read about poverty in other parts of the world; it is quite another to confront it up close as a young woman from a middle-class Canadian family.

Although Juliette was much more reserved in person than in her letters, she enhanced my life by giving me personal insight into Third World poverty; she taught me how fortunate I was to have been born into my family in a wealthy, democratic country like Canada; she helped me to understand that our Fate is often determined by a simple accident of birth.

Her mysterious disappearance shortly after I returned home left me fearful and frustrated. I worried that she and her family might have been killed in a major hurricane that whipped through Kingston three days after I left.

Of course, the reasons for Juliette's 'disappearance' may not be so dramatic. After a 10-year 'fantasy' relationship by mail, she may have been disappointed by the personal reality of our short visit and decided to end our friendship because we lived in such different worlds.

Whatever the reason, tragic or mundane, I cherish our friendship of 10 years and seven days. Juliette gave me my first real taste of what the world is like for the vast majority of people. Through her, I learned how blessed I was and I will never forget her.

(In next week's column: When I met Michele, Teresa and Kelli 15 years ago, I never imagined we would remain best friends for so long or that they would have such a dramatic impact on my life).

Headlines in the May 4th issue of The Leader read: When is a town hall not a town hall? Ontario Hydro showed two plans for what they termed a town hall at a joint meeting of the Planning Board and Morrisburg council. Some disapproval was expressed because they did not include a public meeting place of an appreciable size, as had been requested. The plans showed a one-storey brick building which would house a courtroom, council chamber, library, clerk's office and fire hall. Connected to the main building was another with a police garage and works department.

John R. Bradfield, a native of Morrisburg, was appointed president of Noranda Mines.

Lorne Brown at the Schell Service Station was selling new Scott-Atwater 3.6 H.P. outboard motors for $110.

H.E. Biccum, Winchester, had a centrally located three-bedroom brick home in Winchester with modern kitchen and bathroom, forced air oil heating and air conditioning, selling for $7,000.

1946

It was reported in the May 3rd issue of The Leader that in spite of poor co-operation from the weather man, necessitating layoffs for a few days, work on the new factory of Pyramid Paper Products was progressing favorably. The new industry, located on Main St. East, was to have a first factory building employing between 30 and 40 people. In the meantime another smaller industry was locating here, with the decision of Mr. Wallace Guay, formerly of Morrisburg, to build a plant to manufacture cement building blocks, tile and other concrete products. Mr. Guay's establishment was to be located on Maple Street and employ a maximum of eight workers. Another small industry with a future building up in Morrisburg was the cold storage and freezing lockers being constructed by Chelsey Cougler, Williamsburg, on Main Street. Mr. Cougler planned to install 200 lockers with a capacity for 200 more.

1936

The May 1st edition of The Leader reported Mr. and Mrs. H. Roy Schell of Williamsburg Township had observed their silver wedding anniversary.

Mr. M.J. Casselman, native of Matilda Township, an outstanding citizen of Morrisburg and one of the best-known men in the United Counties, died at home at the age of 88. He was the son of the late John W. Casselman and his wife, Nancy Garlough, of the United Empire Loyalist descent, who was among the earliest settlers in the township. Interested in local politics, he was first elected to Counties Council in 1899 representing Williamsburg Township, and in 1903 he was chosen Warden. After several years of farming, he took up residence in Morrisburg where he became engaged in the hardware and grocery business under the firm name of Hunter and Casselman. Shortly after becoming a resident of Morrisburg he was elected Reeve.

Mr. J.J. McDonald, former manager of Locksley Hall, Williamsburg, announced he had leased the Regent Grill on Main St. West. "The best coffee in town" was featured on the menu.

Same Agulnik and Son, better knows as "the Old Reliable", were making preparations to move into their new premises, recently occupied by Mullin Brothers and centrally located on Main Street. The premises had been completely renovated.

Officials of Locketon Lodge, Williamsburg Hotel, must have thought they had the cow that jumped over the moon when they discovered a cow occupying an upstairs parlor. Apparently, the cow had escaped from Stanley Casselman as he was taking it through the village and made its way into the hotel and up the stairs to the second storey.

At Barkley's Meat Market seedless grapefruit were six for 25 cents and radishes were six bunches for 25 cents.

Letter to the Editor

Editor, Morrisburg Leader
Morrisburg, Ontario

Dear Editor - Having come to the end of another fiscal year at Dundas County Hospice, the Board would like to extend thanks to the residents of Morrisburg and the surrounding area for ongoing support of our agency.

Hospice works to provide support to individuals facing life threatening illnesses, and to their families. Without the dedication and commitment of the in-home volunteers, the volunteer directors and the staff, the work would not be done. Without the financial and moral support of you, the community, the volunteers and staff could not do the work.

We look forward to continuing serving our community together.

Village may control rabies with by-law

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS—The Village of Iroquois is looking at putting some "teeth" into its dog licensing law, to help protect residents from the dangerous bite of rabies.

Last Tuesday, Clothilde Howieson, from the Eastern Ontario Health Unit, presented facts and figures to convince Council there was a strong case for reinforcing the current law which makes pet vaccination against rabies compulsory.

Since 1987, pet owners in the jurisdiction covered by the EOHU (five United Counties of SD & G and Prescott Russell) must vaccinate their animals against rabies .

While there have been no cases in 1996, and very few in 1995 of the most common strain of rabies (Arctic Fox) in the area covered by the EOHU, the raccoon strain of rabies poses a threat to Canada. According to an April 13 article in the Watertown Daily Times, a youth is now undergoing treatment for possible exposure to raccoon rabies and two cases were reported in March. There have been 68 confirmed rabies cases in Jefferson County since September 1994.

Last summer, through a joint effort of the Ministry of Natural Resources, Health Unit, OPP, and Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, a contingency plan was acted on to prevent the spread of raccoon rabies to Canada. A trap, vaccinate and release program was set up at border communities, and in the case of Iroquois within two kilometers of the dam.

The program is to be reinstated again this June to November. Raccoon rabies poses a threat because of the tendency of the animal to hitchhike rides on vehicles, travelling long distances. In this way, the strain of rabies could enter Canada via border crossings, and spread throughout the raccoon population-here.

This strain is seen as especially dangerous because of the proximity of raccoons to humans. There is a greater danger that domestic animals like dogs and cats may contract the disease, spreading it to humans, than there is with fox rabies.

"Dogs and cats are responsible for 10 per cent of rabies, and 60 per cent of the post-rabies exposure vaccine, so if raccoon rabies gets into Ontario and dogs or cats are in contact with coons, the incidence with humans will really be increased," Howieson said.

Post-exposure vaccination consists of five injections in the arm within 28 days, and the treatment costs between $500-$600.

Rabies vaccination clinics for pets are set up throughout the area in September, and at $11 a shot, prevention is far cheaper than treating victims with post-rabies exposure vaccine.

"It's cheaper to vaccinate the animals to start with, plus the pain, anxiety and suffering caused," she said.

Howieson presented examples of by-laws, which include a clause requiring dog owners to prove their pet has been innoculated within the 12 months preceding the application for a dog license.

As a result of the presentation, the clerk is preparing an amendment for council's consideration at the next meeting.

Iroquois defeats motion to raise chip wagon fee

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS—Iroquois Council defeated a resolution to raise the fee for chip wagons from $300 to $500 at last Tuesday's meeting.

It had been suggested at an earlier meeting that the fee be raised, to help protect local restaurant and store owners from competition by merchants who don't not pay village business taxes.

Although there was no mover or seconder, Council roundly defeated the motion. Councillors Audrey Rooney, Art Roberts and Jane Ewin voted unanimously against. Deputy reeve Wilf Gibbons who had brought the matter for council's consideration previously was not present.

On behalf of the Night Patrol program, Walter Reid inquired whether the Village could set up a reserve fund for money donated to the program, handle expenditures and book work. Council will check into the feasibility of having the clerk's office look after the finances.

The program has attracted donations and is doing well, Reid said, There are 36 volunteers at present, but 15 additional ones would spread the workload among many.

The Village has given the go ahead to foreman Bill Ewing to purchase a variable frequency drive for the sewage treatment plant. The variable frequency drive regulates the speed of pumps, and will replace obsolete equipment. Council agreed to purchase the equipment from Westinghouse Canada at a price of $26,842 plus tax, rather than equipment from the Cardinal-based company Iroquois Electric and Plumbing at $29,300.

An amount has already been set aside in the budget for this expense. While Council favors purchasing locally, the Westinghouse tender was almost three thousand dollars cheaper, reeve Peter Swank noted.

Council is postponing a request from Ascom Canada Ltd. to upgrade their mechanical postage meter equipment to an electronic refill meter.

The new refill meter will cost the Village approximately $1,000 more annually than the previous system, and Council wished to delay the purchase for the time being.

The Village lease with the supplier is up for renewal but will be renewed in a one-year, instead of a five year contract. There are 150 mechanical meters in operation in Canada today supplied by Ascom. Ascom is working with Canada Post to replace these with electronic refill meters, to help eliminate fraud in the system. Eventually, municipalities will have to install the electronic systems.

Lucky CHEZ 106 listener

Patti Lemaire of Iroquois was surprised by Brian and Janice of the CHEZ 106 radio station on Monday at 3 p.m. Patti, who entered a contest run by the station to win a pair of tickets to see the Eagles in concert on June 29th at the Corel Centre, had no idea she'd be the lucky winner.

She and a guest are invited to a CHEZ 106 winners' party in Ottawa next month, and she will have a chance to get upgraded seats to front row as well as a chance to see the Eagles play in London.

Her husband Mike didn't believe Patti's good luck until she showed her this picture of her and Janice Dean. "Believe it Mike," she said.

Champions after 12-year drought

STEPHANIE WOLFE
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS—Success is sweet, especially when it comes after 12 years.

For its first time since 1984, Iroquois Public School won the Intermediate 1 championships at the Canada Quiz finals last Wednesday.

Grade 8 students Michael Kirkwood, Andrew Jacques, Becky King, Emily Moss and Grade 7 student Kyle Gervais defeated Maple Ridge in the finals after securing four wins in the semifinals.

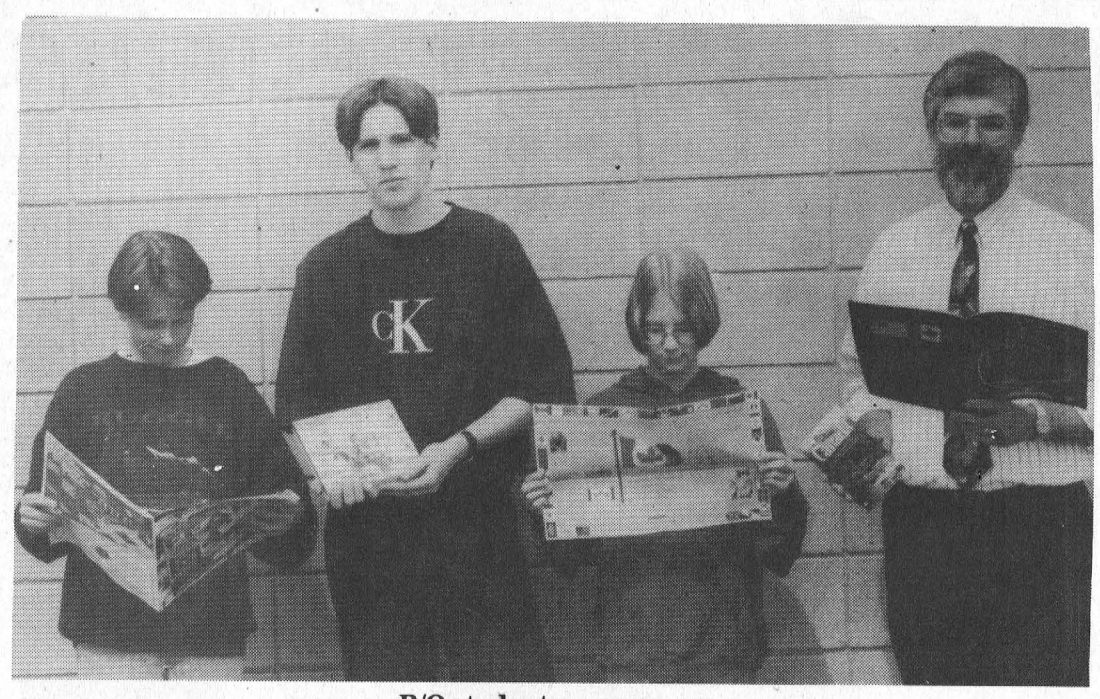
"They trained for six weeks, practicing everyday and did a lot of studying at night," said coach and vice-principal Anne Presley. "We gave them two pizza parties to celebrate."

Most of the Iroquois students have participated in the contest for four years.

During the competition, the students were asked questions about Canadian and local history, current affairs, arts, sports and geography.

Canada Quiz is organized by the SD & G Public School Board. About 300 students from Grades 4 to OAC participated in the competition this year.

Coincidentally, all Dundas County schools were champions at the competition. Winchester Public School won the junior division and North Dundas High School won both the intermediate II and senior divisions.



R/O students runners-up
Rothwell/Osnabruck's Canada Quiz team couldn't defeat North Dundas at the championships last Wednesday. Although North Dundas was only leading by a point at half time, the team gained 10 points to defeat R/O 51-41. Haner wins bronze medal at skills competition

STEPHANIE WOLFE
Leader Staff

WILLIAMSBURG—William Haner's dedication and eagerness to learn landed him a bronze medal at the Ontario Skills Competitions in Hamilton on April 18th.

At least that's what his auto mechanics teacher at St. Lawrence College, Arthur Gale, thinks.

Williamsburg's 34-year-old Haner was chosen to compete in the contest after maintaining an above 90 per cent average in the college's Modified Apprentice Program (MAP) 32.

The 32-week intensive automotive mechanics program is sponsored by the provincial government's Ontario Training and Adjustment Board (OTAB). The board pays $2,000 per student for his/her schooling and students are required to find their own placements at the end of the 32 weeks, where they can fulfill their required 9,000 hours of on the job training.

Haner, who worked as a farm equipment mechanic for seven years, competed against 13 other college students at the Skills Competition.

"It was really interesting to see the different competitions all day," he said. "We had to name parts, check brake lines, do some precise measurements...there was a lot of electrical, hands on and written work."

The Ontario Skills Competitions attracted more than 500 students from high schools and colleges across the province who competed in over 32 trade and technological contests. The contest is sponsored by OTAB and Skills Canada.

Haner, who is presently working at Grant Chrysler in Cornwall, is pleased with his achievement and believes more high school students in the area should get involved in the contest. Only two high schools in Ottawa competed this year.

That could be a problem for now though since the MAP 32 program has temporarily been cancelled due to budget cuts.

The next euchre will be held on Wednesday, May 8th, and everyone is welcome.

Mothers' Day

On April 14th, the Valley Writers' Guild will honor Mothers' Day with an early celebration by hosting a very special guest speaker, Ottawa writer Claire Harrison.

Ms. Harrison first established herself as an author many years ago by penning several romance novels, but has since then successfully branched out into more mainstream writing, from which she has achieved critical acclaim, both in Canada and the U.S. Her three mainstream novels (so far) all deal with varying aspects of motherhood.

The first, Somebody's Baby (Doubleday), deals with the topic of teen pregnancy and how it affects a middle class family. Her second, A Mothers' Song (Pocket Books, 1994), tells the story of a teenager who finds her birth mother by poignantly focusing on the effect that this discovery has on both her birth and adoptive mothers, as well as herself. Her most recent novel In A Mother's Heart (Pocket Books, 1995) is set in a small community, and deals with several issues, the prominent one being the disappearance of a local popular teenage girl, the suspicion which falls on some of the local boys, and how all the families deal with their respective tragedies.

A very busy lady, and a mother herself, Claire will discuss the process of writing such universally heartfelt stories, as well as telling us about her present freelancing and other forthcoming efforts. Some of her books will be Mothers' Day gifts for your own mother, or perhaps even yourself.

Don't miss what promises to be a very uplifting and informative talk by a wonderful author.

The meeting is Sunday, April 14th, from 2-4 p.m. at St. John's United Church, Prescott St., in Kemptville. Non members are welcome and pay $4 at the door.

J.J. Clarke entertains Williamsburg Seniors

Thank you, J.J.
CJOH weather announcer J.J. Clarke entertained the Williamsburg seniors and their friends at Volunteer Appreciation last Wednesday. Member of the Board of Directors for Williamsburg Non-Profit Housing Betty Locke thanked him with a shirt from the Center, and Isobel Williams presented him with three look-alike dolls, one each for J.J., Max Keeping and Carol Anne Meehan.

WILLIAMSBURG—Approximately 160 volunteers were thanked for their contribution to the community of seniors at the Park Lane Senior Support Center here last Wednesday.

CJOH weather announcer J.J. Clarke had some kind words for volunteers in general, and especially those who had helped at the Center.

"Every volunteer should get an award. Volunteers are great people, happy people, and have a positive outlook on life," he said.

Clarke kept the crowd in stitches with jokes and described a fitting reward for the volunteer who has waited on others throughout his or her life. "There's a space for every volunteer in heaven. When you go up there, relax and take it easy. You'll be waited on by the people you helped as volunteers."

During 1995, 163 volunteers for various programs helped 1,200 clients at the Center.

Sixty-two clients were served 2,434 meals on clients, and 527 diners enjoyed 4,801 meals. There were 263 who travelled on 2,704 trips.

The Adult Day Program provided half days service for 34 clients, and 267 contacts were made through Friendly Visiting.

Social and recreational activities had 277 participants, and 43 clients received foot care.

Many volunteer hours benefitting all clients were given by the Board of Director, the Advisory Committee, Thursday Crafters, the Newsletter Team.

"All in all, the volunteers at Park Lane Seniors Support Center have been committed to helping those in need living in their community," director of the Support Center Janet Levere said.

A draw for a "Hole in the Barn Door" quilt made by the crafters was won by Williamsburg clerk Mike Waddell. Board member of Williamsburg Non-Profit Housing Betty Locke presented a T-shirt to Clarke in appreciation.

Horticultural Society holds plant sale Sunday

MORRISBURG—The Morrisburg and District Horticultural Society and the Dundas County Master Gardeners will be selling a variety of freshly dug perennials, shrubs, houseplants and seedlings this Sunday, May 5th from 1-4:00 p.m. at 1 Stewart Drive (at Lakeshore), west of Morrisburg.

All monies will be divided between the two sponsors to fund flowers for three seniors' apartments and resource materials for the Master Gardeners.

Prices will be modest in an effort to sell all plants in a three hour time frame. Purchasers can be helpful by bringing lots of quarters and loonies. While some plastic bags will be provided, car owners would benefit from having cardboard boxes to contain the soil as well as protect the plants in transit.

Donations of plants would be welcome. Either deliver them to 1 Steward Drive on Saturday, May 4th so they may be priced and sorted in advance OR call 543-3308 for pickup during the days prior to the sale. Purchasers appreciate identification of plants by name, colour and height.

RAIN or SHINE, the sale will take place. Come and build up your own garden with fresh, locally hardy plants, at a low cost.

Membership in the Horticultural Society will be available for $5.00 during the sale. In addition, the Secretary will be taking orders for the OHA Commemorative Tulip ($5 for a bag of 10).

MORRISBURG GOLF CLUB

From the Club House Deck

By Hook & Slice

Another week has passed and we are still waiting for some warm and dry weather, so there is nothing to report from the fairways.

The big event of the week was the Annual Meeting which was very well attended. There were over 50 members present. The financial statement for 1995 showed a decrease in the fund balance of $6,500 mainly because of capital improvements to the kitchen. The budget for 1996 is much the same as last year, but with reduced capital expenditures, was approved as presented and projects an increase of $8,000 to the fund balance by year's end.

Various options and costs of installing a watering system on the course were outlined. However, before a decision to proceed with the project can be made, it will first have to be decided what the club can afford. That will be better known this fall and in the meantime, the pencils will be sharpened and more accurate estimates of the different systems obtained. In any case, proposals for funding such a project will also be worked on and members will have to consider whether or not the system is really needed and wanted. The way the weather has been this year, one can't work up much enthusiasm for adding more water to the course.

Next Sunday, the 5th of May, is "Meet and Greet" day at the club. Rain or shine, a buffet will be served at 6 p.m. so why not plan to come out and enjoy a social afternoon and evening. The cost is $10 per person. There is no scheduled play, so make up your own groups and plan your own "T" times. If you plan to attend, please sign up for the meal before Saturday.

Members are reminded that they can purchase, up until the 1st of June, "Green Fee Passes" for their guests at a special rate. Details are posted at the bar.

Another bit of news, it seems someone liked the club's two-wheeled trailer so well they took it home. Maybe they just borrowed it. We will let you know next week if it just strayed or was stolen.

Cedar Glen expands to 18 hole course

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

WILLIAMSBURG—Finally, after all these years, Dennis and Kathryn Casselman and John Morrow are about to realize their dream.

The owners of the Cedar Glen Golf Course, presently situated on 60 acres east of Williamsburg, say they've wanted to expand their golf course to 18 holes for about 15 years now.

"We anticipate starting construction on the new nine as early as June," Dennis Casselman said Thursday morning while in the middle of spring cleaning at the club house.

That depends on government approvals for such things as land usage and severance, but he doesn't anticipate any problems.

The new nine will be constructed north of the existing holes, on 50 acres of land purchased from Ethel and the late Stuart Saddlemire.

"There are some really nice existing features on the property...bush area, and a mature stand of firs which will work well in the design," Casselman said. "There are different elevation areas and spring-fed locations that we intend to incorporate into the design for new water hazards and sand traps."

The designer for the project, is Boyd Barr of Barr Designs, who has offices in both British Columbia and Kingston. Barr has been in the architectural business for 14 years.

This week, Casselman says they have to decide on which of the three designs will work the best for the project.

"The course will definitely challenge all levels of golfers, but one advantage is that we will be able to get away from the shortness of the existing course. With the extra yardage gained, the holes will play longer."

Presently, the course is 5,600 yards on the double nine. The new nine will bring the total yardage up to 6,400, gaining 800 yards.

Because golfing has become very popular for all ages, developing an 18-hole course was a way to draw more members to the club, as well as the travelling golfer.

"We have already got a strong membership here, and their response has been great. They've shown us great support and are looking forward to getting our goal realized."

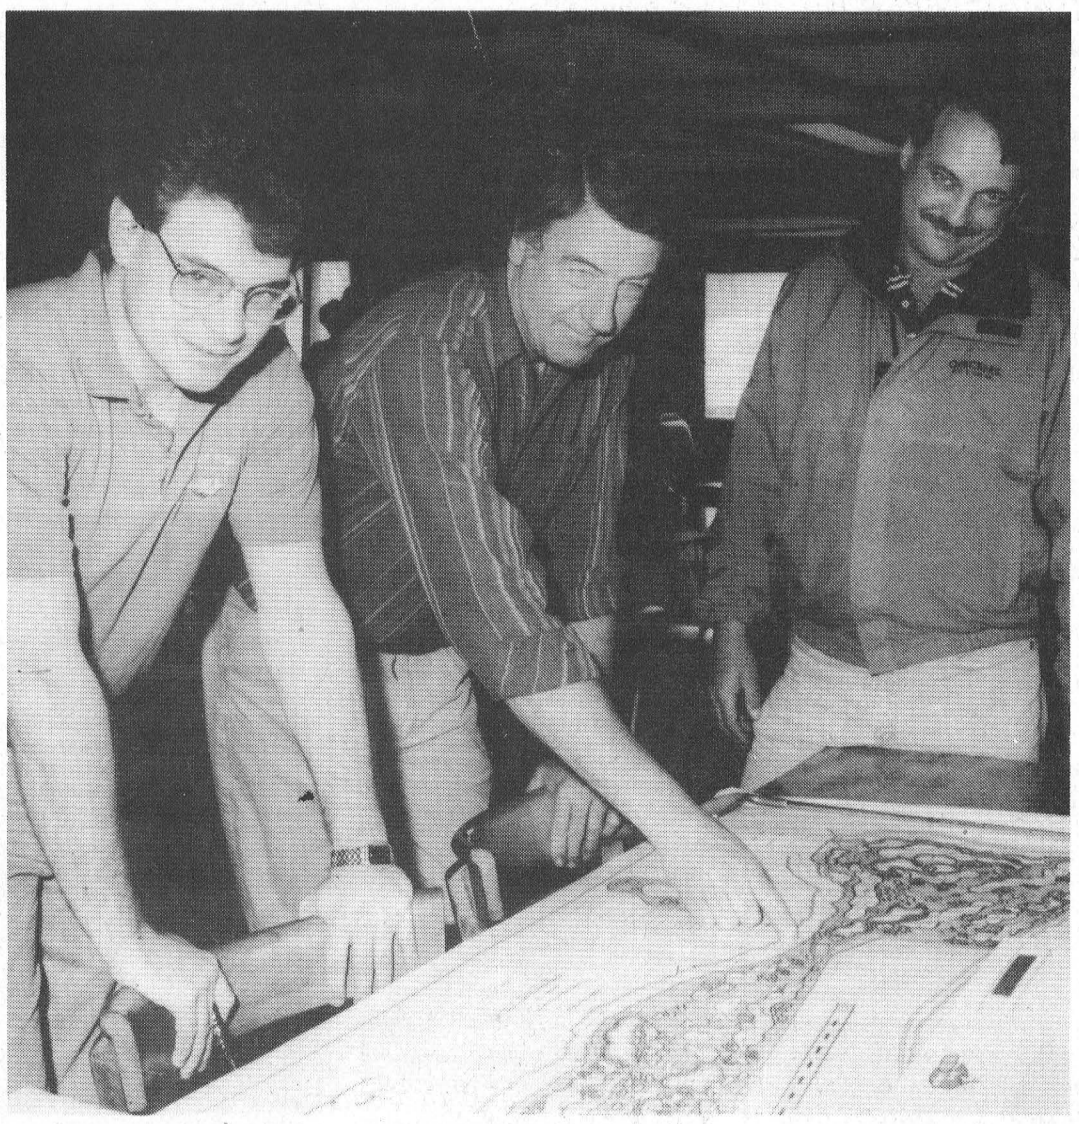
Prices for the 18-hole game are still being chipped around, but Casselman says that the prices at Cedar Glen are very competitive right now, and he doesn't expect the cost to increase dramatically.

"We'll keep it competitive. Somewhere in the low $20's for a round," he said.

Casselman stresses that construction on the new nine will not interfere with play on the present nine.

"Depending on the clearances, we hope to get on the new nine by late next year," adding that it would be a great way to celebrate their 25th anniversary.

However, he says, a more probable date will be a spring opening in 1998.



At the drawing board

John Morrow, Dennis Casselman and architect Boyd Barr look over the golf course plans for Cedar Glen. The course in Williamsburg will be expanding to 18 holes, and the owners are hoping to be on the new nine by late next year. —Day photo

Andre LeBlanc: Iroquois' new golf professional

IROQUOIS—Golf courses in the area had the same thing in common last week: wet, wet, wet conditions, and not a soul in sight.

That was including Iroquois, where club pro, Andre LeBlanc was reporting four to five inches of water on the course last Thursday.

"It's wild," he said. "The season is already two weeks late starting."

LeBlanc is new to the Iroquois Golf Course this season, and he will be commuting from his home in Ottawa for now.

He has been a golf professional for seven years, with his latest two-year stint as the pro at Carleton Golf and Yacht Club at Manotic.

"In the winters I also teach golf indoors at the Complete Golf School, as well as the Golf-o-Max in Nepean," he said. "I've been doing that about five years now."

Prior to working at Manotic, LeBlanc spent six years at a military course in Ottawa at the 36-hole Hylands Golf Course.

In 1987 LeBlanc was at the Canadian Golf and Country Club in Ottawa where he spent the first year of his career as the assistant pro.

"This is my first year as head pro," he stated. "And I'm looking forward to spending a lot of time teaching as well as golfing."

Leblanc will be offering private one-on-one lessons, at a cost of $65 for three half-hour sessions. Group rates are $75 per person for five one-hour sessions. But there is a limit of five persons per group.

The pro shop will be offering a full line of clothing and equipment, from golf balls, shoes, gloves, and clubs, to shirts, pants and other gear, as well as custom made clubs, more specifically, those manufactured by Swing Sync®.

Have you been tested? That's one question you will have to answer if you want LeBlanc to suit you with a set of clubs.

Have you ever wondered why you and most golfers, have one or two favorite clubs in your golf bag? Simple logic suggests that your favorite club more closely matches your swing, than do the other clubs in your set.

The truth is, all other frequency matching systems produce golf clubs that give you 13 different frequencies or flexes. To use these clubs effectively, you need 13 different swings or setups.

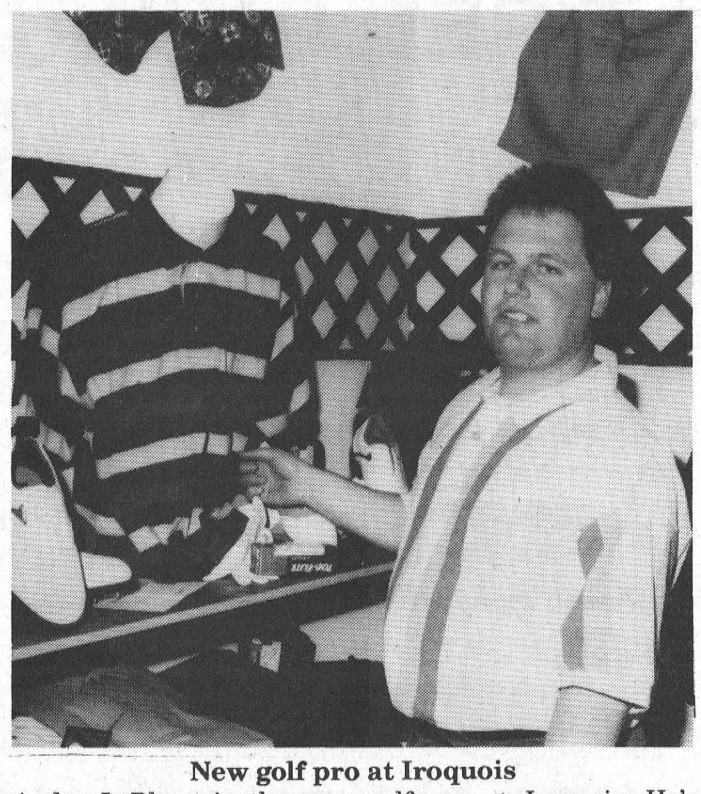
That one consistent repeating golf swing that we all strive for can only produce consistent results if the equipment we use is precisely matched to that one swing.

The Swing Sync® system matches the irons in a set to a single predetermined frequency and the woods in a set to a different but related single frequency so that all clubs in a set are precisely matched to a golfer's normal swing. With these matched clubs, one consistent repeating swing produces more consistent results than are possible with normal mismatched clubs made by conventaionsl manufacturing methods.

If you would like to "take the test," or require more information on these clubs give the pro shop a call.

Tentatively, the season will be getting under way on May 8th when the Ladies' Twilight will tee off, and on May 16th, the Men's Twilight will begin.

For more information, call 654-4367.



New golf pro at Iroquois

Andre LeBlanc is the new golf pro at Iroquois. He's looking forward to the new season, if it will ever get here. Presently, he's in the middle of redecorating the pro shop which will be stocked with all the golf lover's favorites. LeBlanc is also into custom club designing.

Chamber drops two summer activities

Village picnic and Tubie parade in jepordy

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—Those who enjoy the Village Picnic and the Tubie Parade may be in for a bit of a shock this year, when neither one will be taking place.

The Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce, organizer of both of these events, is bowing out.

"At this point in time, there just isn't enough manpower," said Linda Bowers, of the chamber.

Last year was the first year for the Chamber of Commerce to take over the Village Picnic. Since its inception in 1990, Sam Laurin was the organizer of the event.

The July 1st picnic has become a $12,000 event—complete with kids' games, a pet show, cake walks, volleyball, balloon tosses, barbecues and fireworks—and Bowers feels that those businesses and individuals who help with sponsorship can no longer be as generous with their support.

"It's a huge commitment for volunteers to try and solicit funds from local businesses, and there just isn't the money any more...$25 here, $30 there...how much more can they give?"

Bowers said there was lots of support during the planning stages of the picnic last year, but as July 1st grew closer, interest was lost. When it came to 'show time', only three volunteers were on site—not including her own family members.

"It's really unfortunate, but I think it's a sign of the times," she added. "When there are so many other groups soliciting funds, like hockey, schools and service clubs, it's no wonder there isn't enough money to go around."

Many of those people who help with the picnic are into other things as well, noted Bowers. "A lot of the regular volunteers are with other groups too, so their time is split. Most have families of their own. I can understand that they're wanting to spend more time with their families, but we need the manpower (if this picnic is going to carry on the tradition).

"The same goes with the Tubie Parade," added Bowers. "The Chamber had to drop that as well."

However, all is not lost, as the newly formed Morrisburg Recreation Committee has agreed to take over the reigns for the picnic.

At Thursday's meeting of the rec committee members, it was decided that they would try to oversee the day's events, but they too will be needing volunteers.

They are meeting on Thursday, May 2nd and if there is anyone out there who would like to help in anyway, please drop by the Civic Building at 7:00 p.m.

As for the Tubie Parade, the recreation committee will table this idea on Thursday.

Upper Canada Golf Course now offers custom club design

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—One of the stipulations of becoming a professional golfer - besides playing ability - is working with a golf pro.

That was drove 23-year-old Jordan Nathan to the Upper Canada Golf Course this spring.

"I needed to work with a club professional for a while before I can turn pro," he said.

Nathan, who joined the Upper Canada Golf Course staff as the back shop manager, will not only be working on his game, but on custom clubs as well.

This is the first time that anyone has been on site at Upper Canada who can custom design clubs for golfers.

"We felt there was a demand for a custom club designer," said John Cotrill, UCGC manager.

Nathan developed his custom club designing skills by working as a technical representative in production for King Cobra Canada, in Montreal, where he was born and raised.

Last summer, he travelled to different golf courses and offered customers a chance to try out some of the clubs he made.

The custom club components compare favorably to name brand products for almost half the price, and Nathan can make a set in a day or so.

"There's really not much to it," he said.

Gluing the heads on the shafts take about 10 minutes, but Nathan says they should set for a while to solidify.

You can mix and match any number of components including the heads, shafts and grips. There are different weights, sizes and even colors.

"It's really what the customer wants. Then I try to make him a set that will work best for him."

"I'm really looking forward to working here at Upper Canada. This course is one of the best I've played on and it's beautiful."

Nathan will be working alongside golf pros Joe Doyle and Steve Martineau.

Doyle, a Brockville resident, has been a pro for eight years. Last year, he was the pro shop manager at Upper Canada and worked with club professional Gord Lay.

For the first five years of his professional career, Doyle worked at the Toronto Hunt Club, and at the Oakdale Golf Club—a prestigious 27-hole course.

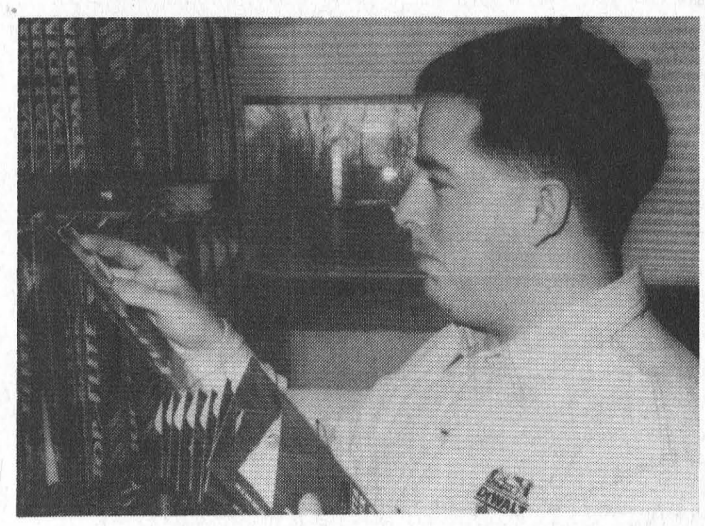
Martineau is this year's associate pro. He's been a golf professional for seven years.

Martineau is looking forward to working with Doyle, and the two will be offering lessons this summer for $25 per hour, or $100 for five lessons. There will be varying prices or groups.

Another prospect in the future will be the possibility of running some golf schools this summer.

To check on the course conditions, or book a tee time, call the club at 543-2003.

Custom Club designs
Joe Doyle (left) head pro at the UCGC, and Jordan Nathan, back shop manager, check out some of the custom club designs which are now being made at Upper Canada. As the manager of the shop, Nathan will be the one to call with your questions about repairing or designing your clubs. Doyle, and assistant pro Steve Martineau, will be offering golf lessons this year. Special group rates will also apply.



Par for the course
Because of the wet, rainy weather, Steve Martineau, assistant golf pro at Upper Canada helps get the pro shop ready by stocking the shelves.

Just Another Day...

Laurie Day

In my book, there's nothing any worse than trying to lose weight. Or having to deal with any vice that takes a hold of your senses and beats you to a pulp.

Last Tuesday night, I went to an open house held by the Morrisburg chapter of TOPS—Take Off Pounds Sensibly.

Sensibly that's the key word here. At least from what I've learned over the weight loss years is that taking off weight is easy...it's keeping it off that's the hard part.

But if you take it off sensibly you shouldn't have a problem keeping it off.

I've been there...done that. And because I may not have done it quite so sensibly, I found that I have signed myself back up as a TOPS member.

But they tell me that it's nothing to be ashamed of. After all, keeping off pounds sensibly (KOPS) is also what TOPS is all about.

"Just because you've been successful at taking off weight, doesn't mean that it will stay off if you quit the group, Laurie," I was scolded.

Yes, I was a TOPS member for two years. Prior to joining the group I had lost about 25 pounds. After joining I lost about 70 more.

And yes, I was feeling rather proud of myself, so instead of sticking around, I flew the coop—I reasoned that it was to try my new wings. I could do just fine on my own.

In October last year, I attended my last meeting, and told myself that I could live without the weekly meetings that were taking up way too much of my time. Besides, I was still going to see the dietitian, so I really didn't need TOPS.

Boy, what a mistake that was. Pretty poor reasoning.

When the TOPS open house appeared on our assignment board here at the office, I cringed. Please don't ask me to cover that, even though I know I should be the one to do it. Please, please, please...

I took a long look at my attitude, and wondered about my reasoning. I had hoped that if I closed my eyes, not only would the assignment vanish, but also the weight I had gained since October.

Presto. Eyes open. Nope, both were still there.

I swallowed the lump in my throat I thought was pride and said I would do the open house assignment.

As I walked up the steps to the TOPS meeting room last Tuesday night, I felt like I was taking that final walk down death row to the gas chamber. My hands were sweating, my head was spinning, and I felt like turning on my heels and getting to hell out of there.

Somehow, I made it to the door, and as soon as I saw all those cheery, smiling faces, I knew this assignment would turn out to be my life saver.

"Hey, Laurie, great to see you. It's just like old home week."

I smiled. They really weren't there to judge me. I seemed to be the only one doing that. I suddenly got a warm fuzzy feeling inside, and I knew this "family" was one I wanted to belong to for a very long time.

We joked and laughed a lot—just like when I was there before. Nothing had changed. Only me. I had a new attitude. Or I had found my old one. Either way, it was ATTITUDE.

"We missed you Laurie, are you coming back?"

Yes, I'm coming back. And you can bet I won't fly too far away from the nest again.

Just like Larry's great aunt Martha says: patience and perseverance will enable you to carry water in a sieve.

Losing weight is much easier with a group like TOPS

LAURIE DAY
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—When you're trying to lose weight, the last thing you need is someone telling you that "you can't do it, so why bother trying?"

The first thing you need, though, is a support system, one that will help you prove those 'nay' sayers wrong.

That's where TOPS comes in.

Last Tuesday night the local chapter of TOPS, (Take Off Pounds Sensibly), held an open house to help entice new members to join the nation-wide weight loss support club.

"There's no miracle cure. No pills, no gimmicks. We're here because we all have the same problem, and we try and give each other support," said group leader, Betty Pataki.

From fun and incentive games and competitions, to heart-felt discussions, and awe-inspiring stories, the members of the Morrisburg club—as well as the 300,000 other members across the nation—are truly a unique clique.

Not only will you make new friends, but you can get as involved as you like.

There are weekly weigh-ins, which keep you on track, lively meetings, and an abundance of materials to keep you headed in the right direction.

There are even motivational rallies, workshops and special retreats.

Because TOPS is a weight loss support group, there is an overall understanding about the challenges of losing weight.

You'll find a warm, caring group of people in every meeting—all ages, and all sizes.

And when you're seeking that extra support between meetings, all you have to do is pick up the phone.

However, if you are considering joining this group, you will need to consult your physician for a food plan and weight loss goal suited for your needs. TOPS does however, have a personal monogram with food choices and recipes you can also follow.

"You'll discover how a positive attitude can help change your life," says Pataki.

"You'll learn about nutrition and exercise. We invite special guests to talk about different aspects of weight loss. But most importantly, we'll honor your successes and provide encouragement when the struggle seems impossible."

TOPS was founded in 1948, and is a nonprofit weight loss support group with over 300,000 members in 11,700 chapters worldwide. Men, women and children over the age of seven are welcome. Yearly memberships are just $20, with weekly dues of $1.10.

Start today by letting go of yesterday. Visualize your goal and remember that TOPS can help you reach it.

If you would like more information about TOPS in Morrisburg, call Betty at 543-3602 or join the group on Tuesday evenings at 6:30 p.m. on the second floor of the old Morrisburg high school.

New members welcome
George Govan is pictured signing up as a new member of the Morrisburg chapter of TOPS at their open house last week. Also pictured is club treasurer, Anna Mae Keeler.

Midway Sports Atom AAA Mustangs helped by locals

Displaying a lot of heart in the pre-tournament season, the Mustangs chalked up a pair of victories over Seaway and the Ottawa 67's recently to run their unbeaten record to four.

The Morrisburg connection of Justin Elliott, Robbie Waddell and Richard Banford were too hot for Seaway to handle as they compiled nine points in the game. Elliott opened the scoring with a pair of goals and later added an assist, while the stick skating Banford had a goal and three helpers. Waddell fired a goal and picked up one assist.

The Mustangs scored four late goals for the 6-2 win against Seaway.

Against the Ottawa 67's, the Mustangs nabbed the 6-5 win regardless of their 5-2 deficit late in the second period.

Matt Dillabough and Shawn Workman picked up assists in the game. Although Travis Baldwin didn't figure in on the scoring, he still continues to provide the team with toughness and protection.

In other action, Waddell fired up a hat trick in a recent 11-1 blowout over Alexandria

ROYAL CANADIAN LEGION
BRANCH #48
MORRISBURG, ONTARIO

NEWSLETTER

The big news is the upcoming elections and installations which will take place at the general meeting of the branch on May 15th. The nominating committee hope to have the slate of proposed candidates on the bulletin board at the branch this weekend. The holdup is our search for a treasurer, don't be afraid to volunteer. There will also be a chance for members to nominate a candidate for any office on the night of the elections. It is not necessary for a candidate to be in attendance at the elections as long as they provide a written statement that they are willing to undertake the office if elected.

There will be one more open euchre and one more open cribbage this year on Sunday, May 5th and May 12th respectively.

Unfortunately our euchre team did not advance to the provincial finals. Bob and Ross did manage to win a couple of games, although I have to admit one of those was against an 89 year old member of Montgomery Branch who informed us that he would be married to the same lady for 65 years in two weeks time. He also wished they would speed up the games as he had to attend a sports dinner at his branch that evening. He said that this made it a long day for him.

Our teams did not place in the Seniors cribbage tournament at Long Sault, but may try again this Friday at Cornwall.

Now for the good news of a few winners. Evelyn Schwerdtfeger took first prize at the cribbage tournament on the 21st of April, 2nd Ross Hummell, 3rd Gerry Duchesneau and 4th Terry Laurin. Bob Henophy may not have placed in the cribbage tournament but he went home a winner as he won the draw for the prime rib roast.

Coming Events – on May 8th we will be observing the 51st anniversary of V.E. Day. After last year's 50th celebrations anything we could do would be anti-climatic, but there will be a brief ceremony at the Civic Centre at 11 a.m. Everyone is invited to attend to show our thanks for the victors.

On Friday, May 10th we will be serving Frank Oake's famous home made Clam Chowder beginning at 5 p.m. It's only $2.00 for a bowl of chowder with crackers or garlic bread, so come on out and enjoy it.

Sunday's meat draw for porterhouse steaks was won by Frank Mariner.

Police Blotter

Phone scam alert

Dundas County and area residents are being warned of a possible phone scam following a recent complaint from an Iroquois woman.

A man, claiming to be a Home Care employee, called the woman and asked her a variety of questions about her shopping habits and living arrangements. The woman then alerted the health unit.

"No one from Home Care or the health unit would be making such a call, or request that type of information," said Patti Gauley of the health unit's Dundas office.

"This caller evidently wanted this information for his own purposes. People should be aware of the possible risks involved in revealing any type of personal details over the phone—especially to a stranger."

A press release from the local Ontario Provincial Police is also warning of a few incidents in the area. The pitch, they say, usually involves the promise of a large cash or prize award, sometimes including the promise of a new van or car.

The potential victims are being asked to provide a cheque or money order in a substantial amount to be forwarded to the caller's "company".

Sometimes these parties will make repeated calls to the intended victim and can be very persuasive. They may also provide numbers where you can call them back. Calls may also have a time limit in which a response must be made to put additional pressure on the call receiver.

Any of the calls reported in Dundas County have been made from out of province companies. If you receive a similar call, please notify your local police and please do not send money. If you did not originate the call, and are not dealing with a company you recognize, telephone transactions can be a risky business.

Protecting the unborn child

Because studies have shown that the most frequent cause of death in car crashes for the unborn child is the death of the mother, the best way to protect the child is to protect the mother. Pregnant women should always wear the lap and shoulder belt when riding in a car.

It's important that the belt be worm low so that it pulls downward over the pelvic bones and not against the abdomen. It should be as snug as possible without being uncomfortable.

Car destroyed by fire

Richer Martel, 21, of R.R. 2 Brinston, was charged with careless driving last Sunday, April 21, as the car he was driving left the roadway west of Brinston approximately 7:30 a.m.

The car left the shoulder and was airborne before coming to rest and bursting into flames.

Morrisburg OPP said Richer allegedly fell asleep at the wheel. He was taken to Winchester Hospital and later transferred to Ottawa.

Far East has opportunities for farmers

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

WINCHESTER—Ontario has a tremendous potential to feed the world, SD & G and East Grenville MPP Noble Villeneuve told the annual meeting of the provincial PC riding association here Friday.

Villeneuve had recently returned from a trade trip as Agriculture minister to the Pacific Rim, visiting Tokyo Japan, and Seoul in Korea.

As an island country, Japan has only 25 per cent land for farming, and the Japanese are very dependent on imported food. Most of the imports come from Europe and Australia, as they are closer than Ontario. However, East Asians are major importers of Ontario soybeans, tobacco, pork and beef.

Koreans sometimes combine Ontario beans with imported beans from China and the United States, but prefer Ontario beans. Villeneuve said these clients are willing to pay "a little more but not that much more" for Ontario beans, because of their quality.

"When you're dealing with human consumption, three things ore of major importance, quality, quality and quality," he stressed.

The beans are converted to products for human consumption-soy milk, bean curd, miso and tofu. Villenueve is promoting a plan to bring a soya bean processing plant to eastern Ontario, as part of a plan to double Ontario's agricultural exports from $4.6 million to $10 million.

Ontario also has a tremendous opportunity for its food producers in pork and beef, especially now with the fear of European beef generated by the mad cow disease in Britain. In four Asian countries, McDonalds Restaurants has AUSTRALIAN BEEF in bold letters to stress the fact they buy no European beef, Villneuve stated.

East Asian businessmen like to meet face to face the people they do business with, and were very impressed that ministers of the crown Ralph Goodale, federal Agricultural minister, and provincial ministers from Ontario, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island attended the trade mission.

Villeneuve concluded the agricultural part of his talk by stressing "the tremendous potential we have as food producers and the massive land we take for granted."

Even though Singapore has no land base and no livestock operations, they have 10 per cent increase in economic activity annually, and $11 billion in a reserve, Villeneuve said.

"The potential we have to feed the world is unbelievable. Our grain producers are smiling these days, although they've had some years where the going has been real tough."

Soybeans, corn and other grain are at historically high prices, Villeneuve said, but they may drop, and that will happen again. We must not forget the safety nets we have in place for our farm producers."

Just as safety nets are guarantees for farm producers, the Mike Harris government has a reputation for keeping its promises if nothing else. Top priority on the Progressive Conservative agenda is to eliminate Ontario's "crushing debt."

Although Ontario's $100 billion debt is still growing, "we're bringing the deficit down to $9.3 billion this year, and that's still a mountain of additional debt, but it would have been well over $11 million had we not cut when we did," Villeneuve said.

"If we don't curtail it it will go well beyond the $100 billion, and that doesn't cover the portion we owe in Ottawa, where we're 43 per cent of the economy. We will have lost control of the economy, and some one else will be calling the shots," Villeneuve said.

Villeneuve added he has been given a message to return to Mike Harris from people who are not supporters: "I didn't vote for Mr. Harris and may never vote for him, but tell him he's doing the right thing," he said.

According to Villeneuve, other agriculture ministers from provinces such as Nova Scotia say Ontario is going through the same process of cost-cutting as they did in 1989-90 in order to balance their budgets. "Seven out of ten provinces in Canada now have balanced budgets and Ontario will be one of these before we go back to the polls in the year 2000 A.D." he added.

Not only the province suffers from debt, but according to its president Peter Van Loan, the Ontario PC riding association had a significant debt of $4 million after the election loss in 1985. "This was brought to $7 million at its peak. We were still $3 million in debt in 1995. Now it's a case of a break even year."

But public and business support, including a $500 to $700 a plate dinner with the Premier which raised revenues of $1.2 million, is helping the Association reach the bottom line. The Ontario PC party now hopes to break even before the end of 1996.

Elected to the executive were president Wyman Barton, first vice-president Floyd Dingwall, second vice-president D.d. McPherson, third vice-president Jean Somerville, and fourth vice-president David Guy.

Basil Dawley is in charge of Public Relations, and Pat Rae is secretary, while the treasurer is Robert Craig. Directors at large for Dundas County are Earl Baker, Claude Cousineau, Gerry Boyce.

Directors for Stormont County are Marion Byers, Terry Ouderkirk, and Alan Bain. Glengarry directors are Sandra Pattingale, Lilian Howes, and Glen A. Campbell.

East Grenville directors are Ethel Moffitt, Joan Charlebois, and Robert Marcellus.

Eastern Star celebrates 75th birthday

MORRISBURG—On April 20th, the Morrisburg Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star celebrated its 75th birthday with a reception and dinner at the Morrisburg Civic Centre.

The guests of honour were the Grand Chapter officers of the Order of the Eastern Star in Ontario. It was just 75 years to the day when two Grand Chapter officers arrived in Morrisburg to initiate the Morrisburg Chapter.

Eleven Grand Chapter officers and the District Deputy Grand Matron were present for this occasion, along with almost 200 members from Morrisburg and district chapters, friends and family members.

After a social hour and the presentation of the flags, the head table guests were piped in by Piper Mr. John Yourt, as the theme for this year has been the Spirit of the Highlands.

The master of ceremonies was Associate Patron Ross Hummell, due to the illness of the Worthy Patron Mr. David W. Hough. The guests were welcomed by Mrs. Margaret (Peggy) Thompson, the Worthy Matron of the Morrisburg Chapter.

After the dinner, the distinguished guests were introduced by Worthy Grand Patron, Mr. John Thompson.

Miss Tracey McMillan of Winchester sang a few Scottish songs accompanied by Mr. John McMillan, Past Patron. A tribute to Grand Chapter was given by Natalie Robinson and the response by Mrs. Morag O'hara, Worthy Grand Matron. Mrs. Phyllis Mongor of Morrisburg was presented with a 50 year pin by Mrs. Morag O'hara. Mrs. Mongor had been initiated by her mother Mrs. Florence Deeks, who was the Worthy Matron in 1946. Mrs. Edith Capstick was to have been presented with a 60 year pin but due to ill health was unable to attend.

A tribute to the Morrisburg Chapter was given by Mrs. Pat Loop, Grand Chapter Committee Member with the response by Mrs. Madeline Malone, Past Matron.

A brief history of the Morrisburg Chapter was given by Mrs. Pearl Durant, covering the ups and downs of the chapter: its initiation, the granting of its charter, the first Worthy Matron, Miss Isabel Farlinger and 1st Worthy Patron Dr. W.C. Davy, the depression years, the 2nd World War, the Seaway and the contribution to the building fund of the Masonic Temple.

A special mention was made of Mr. Wilfred Foss P.P. who had made most of the furniture used in the ceremonies, and of Mrs. Lyda Hummell P.M. who had served as secretary for 21 years.

The Matilda Trio of Bill Horner, Bob Thompson and John Cooper entertained the guests as the final act before all who had taken part in the evening were thanked by Mr. Edwin Thompson, Past Patron, the members of the Morrisburg United Church who had catered the dinner, Miss Tracey McMillan and the Matilda trio and the committee members responsible for the evening.

Morrisburg Chapter #83 of the O.E.S. is just one of 14 chapters in district 14, which is one of 21 districts in Ontario with over 200 chapters across the province. So indeed it was quite an honour to receive the Grand Chapter family to help celebrate the 75th birthday.

The Order of the Eastern Star is a co-ed organization and has been for over 75 years. Its purpose is to do good deeds both for its members and the communities where they live.

Associate Patron Ross Hummell says he is proud to be a member of an organization that has been in Morrisburg and district for over 70 years and likes to boast that he had two aunts who were Worthy Matrons and two uncles who were Worthy Patrons, Mr. Richard Winnet and Mr. Herman Hummell.
