McCooeye leads Council polls

Langabeer/Rosenquist tied

Recount called in Morrisburg vote

MORRISBURG — It was a shoo-in for political newcomer Peter McCooeye who, with a 100-point spread over his nearest opponent, led the polls in yesterday's municipal elections here. But in a surprising turn of events, a judicial recount will be needed to see who takes possession of the third and final Morrisburg council seat.

McCooeye managed to grab 789 of the village's 1,950 eligible votes, well ahead of incumbent councillor Al Belanger's 688 tally.

However voters here won't know for at least a few more days who will occupy the coveted third seat.

In what must be viewed as a startling upset rookie politician Jim Langabeer, who tried unsuccessfully for a council sea in 1982, has tied former vilage councillor Gerry Rosenquist. Each chocked up 631 votes and a judicial recount will be required to determine the final outcome. A date should be known within the week.

Lorraine Fader

Well behind with 371 votes was Bill Dillabough Jr., considered by many a long-shot for council. Acclaimed to council last month was reeve Bill Dillabough and deputy-reeve Bill Shearing. About 69 per cent of eligible voters turned out at the three polls. In 1982, 71 per cent of voters cast ballots.

In neighboring Iroquois women candidates dominated the polls, managing to grab three of the four hotly-contested council seats.

Businesswoman Lorraine Fader led the polls with 450 votes, just ahead of Joyce Fader, who grabbed 413 of the votes cast .

Coming in third, with 383 votes, was seven-year council veteran Joan Saver. Storeowner John Haldane, with 345 votes, will occupy the fourth and final council seat.

Ousted after a somewhat stormy three-year term was Rick Leroy, who trailed well behind the frontrunners with only 325 votes. Leading council for the next three years will be longtime reeve Frank Rooney, in by acclamation.

About 64 per cent of Iroquois' 981 eligible voters turned out at the village's three polls. In 1982, 60 per cent of voters cast ballots.

The winds of change also swept through Williamsburg Township with yesterday's dethroning of popular deputy-reeve Rowdy Gillard. Glen Cunningham, a nine-year veteran of township council, handily beat Gillard — deputy-reeve of Williamsburg Twp. for the past seven years — racking up 799 votes to Gillard's 493.

Joining Cunningham and reeve Johnny Whitteker, acclaimed last month, will be incumbent councillors Lyle Van Allen and Gordon McNairn. The two garnered 1,007 and 840 votes respectively.

Former township councillor Graham Hess, ousted in his bid for deputy-reeve in 1982, will also be back on council this time round. He managed to grab third spot with a 708 vote count, well ahead of low-man Trevor Tolley with 591.

In what turned out to be a tight race for Williamsburg Township/Morrisburg public school board trustee, newcomer Susan Adams, of Williamsburg, grabbed the big win. She narrowly edged out seasoned municipal politician C. F. (Mike) McInnis, of Morrisburg, taking 1,183 votes to the latter's 1,059.

In all, some 51.3 per cent of the township's 2,620 eligible voters cast votes in the township's five polls, down significantly from the 61 per cent turnout three years ago.

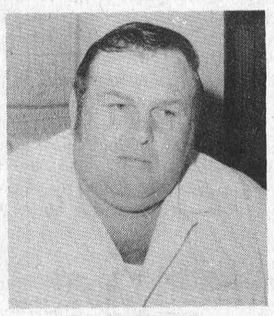
It was in Osnabruck and Matilda Townships where some of the biggest battles of the night took place.

In Matilda, incumbent reeve Lorne Strader could not maintain the confidence of the voters, going down to a crashing defeat against deputy-reeve Lorne Mellan. Mellan collected 1,072 votes to Strader's 599.

The contest for deputy-reeve was won convincingly by five-year council veteran Charles Barkley. He achieved 1,066 votes, a considerable advantage over his opponent, former councillor Sandra Johnston, who managed only 599 votes.

Emerging from the roster of eight candidates vying for three council seats is top man Peter Swank, former councillor for Iroquois village, with 699 votes.

Norm Tinkler, a 44-year-old



Charles Barkley

farmer has stepped in a close second with 663 votes in his favor. Mike Ault, a one-time township councillor returns to round things out, after he nipped at Tinkler with his 662 votes.

Garry Murphy received 613 votes, Harvey Plante, 423, Bill Zandbergen and Lorna Seibert were tied for sixth spot with 394 votes, and Doug Irvine brought up the rear with 360 votes.

There were 2,660 voters eligible to vote in the township's 12 polls. Exact numbers of voters who cast ballots were unavailable at press time. In the 1982 municipal election 49.6 per cent went out to the polls.

In Osnabruck Township, reeve Stewart Hart narrowly hung on to his job by a 50-vote margin over one-time deputy-reeve Garnet Ezard. Hart managed 843 votes to Ezard's 790.

Jim Bancroft will take his first place on Osnabruck Township council garnering 953 votes. Joining him will be Carson Elliott, who returns after a one term absence. He netted 736 votes.

The youngest councillor ever to sit on township council, 29-year-old Donald McElheran nabbed the remaining council seat with 607 votes.

Unsuccessful candidates this time around were former councillor George Hehir with 513 votes, Michael Dunn, 445 votes, Wayne Summers, 380 votes, and Susan Doucett, who managed a tally of 249.

The final percentage of the eligible voters attending the township's seven polls were not available.

Village stalls on decision over sidewalks

Louanne Tindal
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS — Merchats here failed to gain ground on plans to upgrade the shopping centre after a poorly attended meeting forced village council to stall its decision to take over the sidewalk.

The recently appointed board of management for the business improvement area (BIA) wants council to take over the mall's canopies and sidewalk — for funding purposes only.

Under the provincial Commercial Area Improvement Program (CAIP) — which provides up to 50 per cent of eligible costs — improvements can only be carried out on municipal property. Less costly beautification and promotion projects, like the placing of park benches and flower beds on the mall, can be undertaken by the board anywhere in the designated improvement area.

Following last Tuesday's information meeting, attended by only five of the mall's 24 businesses, council decided to defer what could be a very controversial decision until more village merchants are heard from. Fearful of the cost the takeover would impose on taxpayers, council has refused to commit itself. It will wait until it sees the concept plan of proposed changes to the mall, being prepared for the board of management, which should be ready Dec. 15.

Reeve Frank Rooney told the meeting should council agree to the takeover, it will not be responsible for the costs of drawing up the 20 deeds needed for the severances of the 20 sidewalks. The $5,000 to $7,000 in legal and survey costs, he said, will be the responsibility of the individual merchants.

"The storeowners should also keep in mind that once you give up the sidewalks and council sees fit, the village could prohibit you from putting anything on those sidewalks," he warned.

Jim Styles of Styles and McIntosh, stated if the village was unwilling to take over the sidewalks, as it appeared wont to, "we might as well forget the whole thing right now."

Councillor Peter Swank said he was not against the proposed takeover, providing the merchants pick up the maintenance and legal costs.

"But I am disappointed because there are 23-24 storeowners in the village and only four or five show up," he said.

Councillor Rick Leroy asked those in attendance — all members of the board of management advocating the project — if the low turnout meant everyone favored the takeover. "Or is it that they just don't care. The whole point of the meeting was to get a feeling from the storeowners whether they want us to take this step."

Joyce Fader, chairman of the board of management, admitted the general feeling among merchants is they want the improvements to go ahead.

"We just want to find a way of fixing up the plaza that is the cheapest and the best. If it means the municipality taking over the sidewalks, we'll do that. But we've got to find a way."

Minimal spending

Fader added the village should be made look after the shopping centre, considered Iroquois' main street, the way other municipalities look after their main streets.

"I don't think you've spent a cent on that core area in 30 years..."

Rooney countered the village cleans the sidewalks, picks up snow, supplies lighting for the canopies and changes the lights "from time to time."

"But we're in a different position here than in other municipalities. You people own the sidewalks and canopies..."

He added that as a taxpayer, he was not in favor of paying out of his pocket to fix up merchants' storefronts.

Although under CAIP 50 per cent of costs are subsidized, to be matched by the municipality, no more than one third of that subsidy is in the form of a grant. The remaining two-thirds is a loan, he said, to be split among the taxpayers and the province.

Rooney warned that before council can make a decision, it wants to hear from the ministry of municipal affairs one last time. A suggestion by one merchant present to lease the sidewalks, rather than take them over outright, is worth exploring, he said.

Fader stressed council must make a decision as soon as possible. The board's budget and concept plan must be in the ministry's hands by Dec. 31 in order to get funding approval for renovations to be carried out in 1986. A public meeting to discuss amending the village's official plan to incorporate community improvement policies must also be held before the new year.

Morrisburg honors war dead

"They shall grow not old as we that are left grow old;
Age shall not weary them nor the years condemn,
At the going down of the sun, and in the morning
We will remember them".

MORRISBURG — The children fidgeted and whispered as the adults spoke on the need to remember the fallen and the sacrifices they had made so willingly, during Remembrance Day ceremonies here Monday.

They fidgeted quietly as the names of those men and women who had not returned here from two World Wars or the Korean War were read out.

Names like Prunner, Meikle, Pinkus, Casselman, and Van Allen echoed in the Civic Centre, familiar to these fortunate children unblemished by war only as names of family or playmates.

But it was the 200 grown-ups in the audience, bearing poppies in their lapels and dressed in Royal Canadian Legion uniforms, who would, for now, remember for them. And it was the grown-ups who prayed the children be kept safe from witnessing a world gone mad once again.

Dom-Tex hopes "sludge" proves pollution answer

Louanne Tindal
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS—Dominion Textile's beleaguered Caldwell plant here is hoping sludge will be the ticket out of its longstanding pollution problems.

Recent laboratory tests have shown that adding septic tank waste to the Caldwell holding tanks will generate high bacterial growth there. The sludge helps decompose the chemical sulphites in the waste that have been the bane of Caldwell's problems.

The tests, being carried out by W.A. Belschner and Associates of Montreal, have also shown that placing two additional aerators to the two now located in the holding tanks will increase the amount of oxygen being circulated throughout the tanks, again speeding up the decomposition process.

Ontario's environment ministry recently fingered the linen mill as the principal source of waste and odor problems at the village's muncipal treatment plant.

The plant's discharge into the St. Lawrence River surpasses the phosporous concentrations permitted under a Canadian-American agreement on Great Lakes water quality. Last month MOE ordered Caldwell to undertake better pre-treatment of the waste it sends to the municipal plant.

Alec Hay, Caldwell's director of manufacturing, says lab trials prove the process could possibly be successful on a small scale. But he won't know how successful the plan is until full plant trials are carried out.

MOE has given the mill the go ahead to begin large-scale tests. Last week the first truckload of septic waste was delivered to the mill by Boyd Brothers of Mountain. Results should be known within the month.

Hay says the new scheme, if successful, would be considerably cheaper than Belschner's previous plan. This involved enlarging the holding tanks and increasing the time the waste is held there.

"Other than the two new aerators, there'd be no expansion of plant facilities," says Hay.

MOE environmental officer Rick Eamon says there is no guarantee the increased pre-treatment will work. Because Caldwell's dying processes vary so frequently, the makeup of the waste itself changes daily, exacerating the problem.

"So far it's been impossible to devise a successful treatment plan that consistently meets our criteria," says Eamon. "But we don't care how they do it though, as long as they accomplish what we want."

Eamon says the ministry is willing to be flexible on when changes to the mill are to be made, but hopes to see them partially in place by next year.

Village council has been working closely with the company, which with 406 fulltime employees, is the major employer here. Council has been reluctant to pass a sewer-use bylaw, as suggested by MOE, to control the waste entering the four-year-municipal plant for fear company may pull up stake locate elsewhere.

The Bayne house- legacy or liability

Alexis Mantell
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG — Who bought it? Why is it for sale again? How much are they asking for it?

Such are the questions anyone who knows a little of the history of the Bayne house, on the corner of First and St. Lawrence streets, must be asking.

Once owned and beautifully maintained by Gladys Bayne until her death in 1984, the house was sold last fall during the settlement of the estate. But recently a "for sale" sign has reappeared on the aging Victorian mansion.

The Leader now steps in to set the record straight, to separate rumor from fiction.

When the property was purchased last fall, it was rumored the new owner was an artist from Montreal. Robert Prefontaine, 36, does work as a photographer for a company in that city, and he admits restoration of old homes is a favorite hobby.

He made several visits to the house last summer, even though neighbors and passers-by watched the grass grow higher than the weather-worn wrought-iron fence.

He has since decided to sell the house because, he said, he's changed his mind about living in Morrisburg for personal reasons. "When I bought it I fell in love with it. Now it's like having to sell my dream. It's too far from Montreal," he said in a telephone interview last week.

Village "monument"

Prefontaine justifiably praised the building's architectural qualities, dubbing it a "momument" in the heart of the village.

In its heyday, the house stood as testimony to solid Victorian tastes. Erected in 1870 by Morrisburg's first medical doctor, Dr. Sherman, the house features an impressive entrance hall highlighted by a staircase of black walnut.

During Miss Bayne's years there, the formal dining and drawing rooms offered floor-to-ceiling windows. Walls were textured with arches and pillars painted charcoal grey and white. Ceilings were decorated with green and gold medallions.

Above the marble fireplace hung a painting by Horace Vernet (1789-1863). Originally owned by James Bailey, of Barnum and Bailey fame, the painting was purchased for the house by Miss Bayne's uncle and a former owner of the house, Chauncey D. MacElroy, at Bailey's estate auction in New York State.

Today, however, the house looks more like a page from a children's ghost story, complete with bats and peeling paint, than one of the most stately homes in the village.

Prefontaine admitted people are not banging down his door to bid on the house. A few nibbles from Ottawa, Montreal, Iroquois and Brockville perhaps, but no one seems to have the money needed to restore the house. Or to meet his asking price.

It will take a cool $175,000 to make this handyman special your very own. An this is after Prefontaine was forced to knock down his asking price.

According to Gordon Thom, of Thom Real Estate here, the agent in the estate sale, Prefontaine bought the house last year for $75,000.

"He's going to have to come down a lot more than that ($175,000) before he'll sell it," commented Thom.

He noted the house is not insulated, and has no heating system. The plaster on the walls has to be replaced, and a new roof fashioned, at the expense of the period red-diamond shingling. Renovations, estimates Thom, worth at least $75,000.

If the house is in such a state of neglect, and it appears no one will ride up to the front steps with enough cash to rescue this damsel in distress, what is to become of Morrisburg's grand matron of architecture?

"I'd like to see the town turn it into a summer museum. I think it would work very well. But I don't think anyone will agree with me," says Thom.

Single objection sends zoning change to OMB

INGLESIDE—Despite the public outcry, only one Osnabruck Township resident has registered objections with the clerk's office over the proposed zoning changes to the development lands north of Ingleside.

Spruce Street resident Rick Eamon filed a five-point objection to the passage of township bylaw 75-54, only three days before the end of the month-long appeal period. The bylaw would amend the township's comprehensive zoning bylaw, readying a 278-acre municipal land block for tiered residential, commercial, recreational and industrial development.

The objection will now be forwarded to the Ontario Municipal Board (OMB), which will decide if the objections merit a public hearing.

"I was very surprised that I was the only one (to file an objection). I'd talked to neighbors who had the same concerns," he said.

In his letter to the clerk, Eamon commended the municipality for its intentions, but objected to a "lack of planning" he feels could result in environmental and traffic hazards.

Eamon accused the township of acting "no differently than any other developer" in purchasing the land first, and putting the planning in place second. He said the township should have assessed what kind of development was needed, then looked for the most suitable location.

He said noise and odor complaints could be a problem for township council when industry locates in the 158-acres at the north end of the land block. He said 30 per cent of prevailing winds come from the northwest. This means noise or odors created in the industrial area would waft down across the village — especially unpleasant during the warmer months when household windows are open.

Eamon said a little forethought would have seen the development lands located somewhere to the east of the village, still an adequate distance from Long Sault.

"The township is not going to have that much control over who comes in (to the industrial park). All municipalities want industry. I think if an industry was ready to come in, council would close its eyes to this fact," he said.

Despite council's expressed intentions to confine the heavy industry traffic to Dickinson Drive, Eamon said workers and residents in the new development area are going to use the ment area are going to use the most convenient route — Farran Drive. This will create safety hazards for the hundreds of school children who cross Farran Drive each day to the playground entrance of Rothwell-Osnabruck

Eamon fears a form of strip development could result from the suggested tiers of land zoned for single, double and multiple unit housing.

Buyers may leave untouched, rows of single family or duplex housing if they know a small apartment house could be built behind them. Or, Eamon adds, a developer may be reluctant to buy land parcels knowing these areas will be harder to sell to homeowners, leaving vacant strips between developments.

Finally, in what he admits is a selfish objection, Eamon opposes the elimination of a five-acre Spruce Street park to make way for single family development. With the proposed development of the 20-acre recreational land block five-to-10 years away, Eamon feels the park is a prime resource.

"My kids have already gone without recreation for eight years. Before any development comes along, my kids will be gone. Now they want to take away what little they have," he said.

As an employee of the Cornwall office of the ministry of environment, Eamon said he was careful not to touch on the most contentious issue, that of the cost of providing water and sewer service to the development lands. He did not want to color his objections with information his job might give him access to, he said.

Eamon doubts his solitary appeal will carry much weight with the OMB, adding the board's decision to set a hearing is often based on the number of complaints.

System not perfect

MORRISBURG — One person, one vote. But in a world where nothing is perfect, the municipal election system is open to potential abuse from residents who own properties in one or more municipalities.

Because a person owns or rents property in the municipality, or is the spouse of someone who does, he or she is entitled to vote in municipal elections. If that person owns more than one property, his name will appear more than once on the preliminary voters' list. To take advantage of the double listing, and cast more than one ballot, is to break the law.

But unless the municipal clerk knows each voter individually, it is very difficult to be sure the names do not actually represent two different people, explains Yvon Forget, spokesman for the provincial ministry of municipal affairs.

"No system is perfect, but the law is clear. It is illegal to vote for the same candidate twice. The onus is on the elector to decline the second vote," said Forget.

Neither the municipal clerk nor the deputy returning officer has a responsibility to crosscheck the names of property owners to make sure they represent different individuals, said Forget.

Similarly, if a person owns property in two municipalities, for example, a house in WilliamsburgTownship, and a rental building in Morrisburg, he or she is entitled to vote in each municipality.

The moral dilemma arises when, as in yesterday's election, residents in both municipalities were casting ballots for the same slate of public school board trustees.

"It's up to the integrity of the voter," reiterates Williamsburg Township clerk Mike Waddell. "There's just no way the returning officer in Williamsburg can pick up the phone each time someone comes in to vote, and call Morrisburg to see if he's already voted for a trustee," he added.

"It's not a big enough problem to lose sleep over. Sure one vote can make a difference. But there's no way around it when two municipalities are combined for an election," he said.

He added that the polling officer who suspects a person of having already cast a ballot for the trusteeship in the other municipality, can only object, but cannot refuse, to give them a second ballot, said Waddell.

Administrator resigns

MORRISBURG — After only 10 months in the job of administrator for the Dundas County Association for the Mentally Retarded, Shane Wray handed in his resignation, effective Oct. 31.

Wray was the first to take on the position since it was scaled down in responsibility from the previous title "executive director" last year.

Board of directors' treasurer Dirk Seeleman said the strong wording of Wray's letter of resignation left the board little choice but to accept it. He said he believed Wray could no longer work for the association because he felt uncomfortable acting as the arm of the board of directors. "Shane (Wray) may have had some difficulty with the term 'administrator'. He may have felt he was an executive director."

Wray declined to comment.

"Perhaps he was too overqualified for the job," Seeleman said. Wray, 30, had accepted the administrator's post following his position as the regional administrator for the Alberta Rehabilitation council for the Disabled.

He said board members will fill in for Wray as needed, with the program managers reporting to them regularly, until a new administrator can be found.

Wray said the accomplishments the associaton had achieved during his time there included the formation of procedural manuals for all programs, increased communication between the Dundas association and other associations for the mentally retarded, improved financial control mechanisms within the associations budget, and a greater sense of responsibility given to the program managers.

Vivienne MacKenzie, organizer of Morrisburg's PAID [People Against Impaired Drivers], right, and Leona McIntosh of the Iroquois area's Neighborhood Watch program, were recently awarded the Ontario Crime Prevention Award for their group's contribution to the community. The award was presented to the two women Nov. 4 by Ontario's Solicitor General Ken Keyes in Cornwall. —Mantell photo

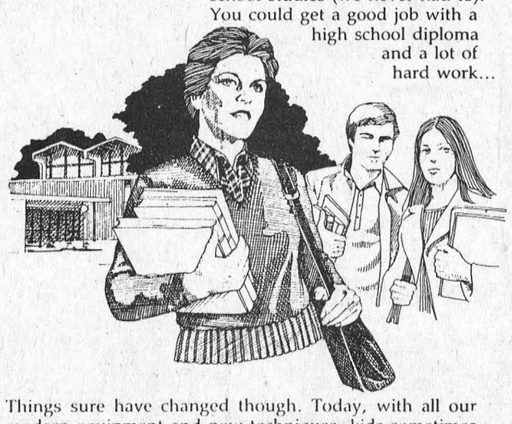
I REMEMBER
WHEN I FINISHED HIGH SCHOOL...

Times were different then.
Most people never went on past high school studies (we never had to).
You could get a good job with a high school diploma and a lot of hard work...



Things sure have changed though. Today, with all our modern equipment and new techniques, kids sometimes need more than a good high school education to get started in their career.

That's why it's a good thing we have colleges. By giving young people and old an advanced, modern education, colleges are giving people a better chance at the kind of tomorrow they deserve.

Nowadays, continuing your education at a college just makes good sense.

New leader for Tories

Ontario Progressive Conservatives will choose a new leader this week end, one whom they hope will lead them back to the promised land of majority government of the nation's most populous province.

The three well-known Tories who will be in the contest to succeed the ill-fated Frank Miller are right now all claiming to have the race sewn up tightly. Any one of the three contenders can, and readily will, explain to anyone who cares to listen, the process by which the delegates' (even the already-committed delegates') votes will accrue to him, bringing victory and the leadership on a second ballot.

Most experienced politicians who have ventured an opinion, say that Grossman should win, that Timbrell probably will win, and that Pope's chances are exactly nil.

Experience though, is supposed to teach many things, and among them this one has a prominent spot: don't bet on elections or horse races. Flaunting that wisdom which is popularly supposed to come with the years, we are going out on a limb to predict that Larry Grossman will become the new leader of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Party.

A message of hope

The Lung Association's Christmas Seal Campaign, which began on November 1st, will reflect through its bright and colorful Christmas Seals a message of hope, happiness and health.

Ontario's goal for this year is $4.3 million, and the target for Eastern Ontario is $50,000. "We know the community will support us as generously this year as they have over the years", said Allan C. Vallance, the campaign chairman. Each year there is an increasing demand for health education programs, and the success of the Christmas Seal Campaign, the major fund-raising event, for the year, is crucial to the ability of the Association to serve the community.

Lung Associations in Ontario report that more families are seeking help and guidance from Family Asthma Programs.

School programs focussing on smoking prevention and health education are the key to convincing children not to start smoking. The program presently used by Eastern Ontario counties is being constantly updated.

More children than ever attended special camps for children with asthma, where they enjoyed the out-of-doors in a supervised environment.

With emphysema increasing at a rapid rate, the Lung Association is in the forefront of the battle against this disease. One in every five Canadians has a chronic respiratory problem. Respiratory diseases are among the leading causes of death and disability in Canada. Emphysema and chronic bronchitis affect more than half a million Canadians, and more cases are diagnosed each year. Your Lung Association supports world-class research through funds administered by the Ontario Thoracic Society (the medical division). These are just a few of the ways your Christmas Seal dollars help so many Canadians to hope, health and happiness.

Since 1927, donations to Christmas Seals have been helping Canadians to breathe easier. Use Christmas Seals as a sign of your support, on mail and parcels during the festive season. Don't forget — "Before you send it, SEAL it" with a Christmas Seal.

Important role for library

Far from being outdated by the influx of electronic communications and home computers, the printed word continues to gain steadily in its importance and influence. Newspapers and magazines are enjoying circulation booms far in excess of pre-television times, despite the fact that some periodicals have ceased publication and that subscription prices have been forced steadily upward by inflation of wages and other costs.

One might logically expect that patronage of public libraries would have been in sharp decline during the past few decades, but the hard fact of the matter is that just the opposite is the case; libraries are increasing in number, improving immensely in their quality and in facilities offered, and the number of younger readers too, is steadily increasing.

It was of course, the invention of the printing press which released mankind from the long darkness of the Middle Ages. The printed pages told of the vast, interesting world beyond the confines of the country villages, and the poverty-stricken, vermin-infested cities of those times.

The Mechanics' Institutes, among the earliest organizations in this country to provide accessible reading material, opened the doors of learning to people who could not afford to purchase their own books. Many years ago, there was a Mechanics' Institute in Morrisburg.

Today's public libraries not only make the wide selection of books on their shelves available for a tiny fee. They have gone even further in establishing story hours, films and other attractions for children, often with the help of volunteers; many libraries too, have films available for public viewing. There are soft cover books for loan to readers. In short, the libraries have now become active participants in the complete education of the population. In our own area, the tri-counties library and the Eastern Ontario Library have made immense contributions to the information and the learning freely available to every resident of the district.

Radio and television are certainly valuable lines of communication in our modern society, but the percentage of total time which these media devote to cultural and informative programming is not too impressive. Our public libraries have an important role to fill by making available those great works which have formed the basis of our language, our culture, our society.

There are millions of reasons to send UNICEF cards... and all of them are children.

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles by Bonnie McNairn

1965

It was reported in the November 19th, 1965 issue of The Leader that 16-year-old Mary Pearl Smith of Riverside Heights was in Winchester Hospital, suffering from a cracked pelvis and other injuries sustained in an accident Friday when she was struck by a car driven by John Boulerice of Gallingertown.

Thorald Lane was re-elected president of the Seaway Valley Travel Council at the annual meeting held at the Pioneer Hotel, Williamsburg.

Morrisburg Combines had a powerhouse team this year and had thus far set about proving it to the rest of the league. They had won three games straight to move into first place early in the season.

At Brinston's Allied Food Market McIntosh apples were three pounds for 39 cents and pork roasts were 45 cents a pound.

Mrs. Annie McKoy, representing mothers whose sons had fallen, laid the Provincial wreath at the Cenotaph, Morrisburg following the Morrisburg Legion Remembrance Services.

Headlines in the November 18th, 1955 issue of The Leader read Reveal Plan for Parks — Cottage Sites. Flooding of the Long Sault Area was to create about 20 new islands, of which it was intended to connect about 12 by means of a road, causeway and a bridge. The Ontario-St. Lawrence Development Commission had prepared preliminary plans for the construction of this scenic drive which was to be approximately seven miles long. A good deal of discussion had taken place regarding the Crysler Farm Battlefield Memorial Park, located in the centre of the rehabilitated area. It was expected to cover 1500 acres. Several hundred summer cottages were to be dislocated due to the St. Lawrence development. Two or three of the new islands in the Long Sault Driveway had been selected as suitable for cottage locations.

A former warden of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, Mr. Oscar Beckstead and Mrs. Beckstead were preparing to observe the 50th anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Beckstead were married in the Presbyterian Manse at Aultsville by the Rev. Mr. Waddell.

Featured in the Saver's sellout sale, at their Morrisburg store, were men's quilted, lined heavy khaki duck covering parkas for $13.95 and boys' jackets for $2.95.

The November 16th, 1945 issue of The Leader reported a farewell party was held by the patrons of the East Matilda Cheese Factory and their families to honor their cheese makers Roy Cassell and Mrs. Cassell previous to their departure.

Gary Cooper and Loretta Young were starring in Along Came Jones at the Cameo Theatre and the Picadilly at Williamsburg was showing Here Come the Co-Eds with the hit comedy team Abbott and Costello.

The interest rate on a personal loan at the Bank of Montreal was six per cent per annum.

Tag Day for the Poppy Fund in Morrisburg was again a great success. Donald Moore led the taggers in money collected turning in $34.64, Jimmy Coligan was second with $28.32 and Joey Magee collected $15.

Jean Hummell had the unusual experience of picking a bouquet of pansies at her home.

A proposed bylaw that required the asset of ratepayers in Morrisburg was printed in The Leader. The purpose of the bylaw was to authorize the borrowing of money by way of debentures to build a Community Memorial Hall that could also be used for Municipal purposes. The debt to be created was $40,000.

1935

It was reported in the November 15th, 1935 issue of The Leader that an evening of outstanding pleasure was enjoyed by the congregation of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Riverside, when the parish hall was opened. It was formerly the old parsonage which had stood beside St. John's Church for about 100 years. The building had been entirely renovated and prettily decorated.

Mae Hill of Williamsburg, with her talk on Pioneer Life in Dundas, was winner of the oratorical contest sponsored by the Williamsburg Women's Institute.

Charles W. Norval, one of the best known residents of this area and a cheese maker, whose product earned for him the reputation of being one of the outstanding makers in Ontario, passed away at his home in Williamsburg.

The greatest little actress in the world, Shirley Temple, was starring in her very best picture, Curly Top, at the Cameo Theatre.

At Barkley's Meat Market fresh sausage was 12 cents a pound and salt herring was seven cents a pound.

1925

The November 13th, 1925 issue of The Leader reported a very interesting event took place at Williamsburg, Sunday, November 8th when the two churches, the former Methodist and concurring Presbyterian Church were united in marriage as one congregation in the United Church of Canada. The former Presbyterian church was chosen as being the larger church. The centre pews were reserved for the former Methodist Congregation which promptly at 7:30 marched in, in a body led by their pastor Rev. H. Hurst, Elma. Rev. E. Smith, Williamsburg produced the church roll, secretary treasurer's book and the key of the church presenting them to the former Methodist church as the books of the United Church. Rev. Hurst presented his church roll, the key and everything belonging to the former Methodist church to the United Church of Canada.

the Kitchen Garden

V.A. Hughes

The chilly nights grow still, no frog songs, the Nightjar's buzz has ceased, crickets are silent, only the occasional comment from geese settling for the night and then we're alone with the stars. Clear cold nights are superb for sky-watching. One of the lovely things about living where the land is flat is the great expanse of uninterrupted sky; no forested hills to obscure your view, no towers of light from skyscrapers dimming your screen or smokestacks sending up clouds of steam or smoke — just the greal bowl of the sky.

We started star-gazing one fall when we were old enough to join the Girl Guides, one of the first hikes planned was an evening outing up above the train tracks. We did not know our destination, we were Tenderfoots following a carefully laid trail of Woodcraft signs. GONE HOME is the first sign that comes to mind if we try an install recall today — but the trail was not designed to confuse beginners. We arrived at the site, an open field beside the golf-course. We lit a fire on our Buddy-Burners (large flat coffee cans that had been prepared by pouring melted wax over a tight coil of corrugated cardboard that filled the can, the cardboard acted as a wick), first scraping an area clear of dry grass and leaves.

While we waited for the water to boil we looked skyward for the constellations that we had come to find. Most of us knew the Big Dipper, the Little Dipper and the all important North Star were harder (still have trouble with the North Star). The prize one for us was the constellatin Orion the Hunter with the Dog Star, Sirius, at his heels, we can still find him, worth a mental pat on the back. Years later, star-gazing with Eskimo children on Baffin we stood and clapped our hands to make the Aurora change colors, there, the air seemed to crack as the sky exploded in sheets of color.

After exploring the night sky, we made mugs of hot Bovril with the water we'd boiled, very comforting to the inner spaces. Funnily those "survival" skills that we learned as young Guides seem more permanent than many others, can still 'whip' a rope, do square-lashing, but have a heck of a time doing more than elementary math and spelling? Hopeless!

The next few weeks are the darkest time of the year, before the first fall of light-giving snow. Enjoy the deep dark sky and like Friendly Giant used to say "Look up, way...up". Every night on the radio Joel Block's discusses Astronomy on "Stardate" it's good listening at 7:30 on WSLU 89.5 on the FM band. "The Night Sky Book" by Jamie Jobb and Linda Bennett, is a good place to start reading about Astronomy, we find the Peterson "Field Guide to Stars & Planets" a little intimidating, and Carl Sagan on Black Holes — no thanks. The Night Sky Book ends with, "Sleep well under the sky's blanket. May the stars watch over you and wish you well."

If you would like to try a Buddy Burner — look for a paste wax tin, or other low flat tins that have a lid. Cut a strip of corrugated cardboard to coil inside approx. 2 ½ inches by 3 feet, roll the cardboard tightly fitting the roll inside the tin if there are gaps cut more cardboard and fit it in. Pour melted wax into the tiny tubes formed by the corrugated cardboard. When the tin is almost full — stop, you should leave ½ inch headroom. Let the wax harden, you may need to add a little more as the cardboard soaks it up. With the lid on this a convenient little stove to carry in a backpack — the lid also lets you extinguish the fire quickly.

From the 1st Dixie Guide Company, Lachine, Quebec. October 1948.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Morrisburg Leader,

Dear Mr. Editor:

We ask for some space in your paper to report the results of the Morrisburg and district Hallowe'en drive for U.N.I.C.E.F. After two excellent years in 1983 and 1984, we have to report far fewer boxes in use, and an enormous drop in our total receipts. We received $277.15 compared with $763 last year.

The committee is trying to discover what went wrong, and we would like to hear from school principals, teachers and parents. Is there less door-to-door calling, as many householders will tell you? Are children less responsive to the needs of suffering children around the world, and if so, why? Is this loss of interest general — maybe U.N.I.C.E.F. reports from elsewhere will help us. Is it lack of knowledge on the part of the children, or motivation, or enthusiasm? We do know that something went wrong this year, and that some new approaches must be found.

However, we want to thank the school teachers of Morrisburg and Riverside Heights Schools, the children who took part, and those who responded to the appeal.

Can anything be done now? Yes. We could augment our slender returns if 33 donors, or groups, say in churches, service clubs, fraternities, people in the work place, or individual people, would give us $10 each. That would raise our total to $500. That extra $330 would provide vaccines for many sick children, who could die without medical help, or provide a pump to pure water for a village contaminated water.

Morrisburg people do no by on the other side. Read not say that it is a good id get out your wallet or c book and mail the sugg amount, for which you receive a receipt, to our act treasurer, Claire Dunn, Box 5 Morrisburg. What you do wi gladden the heart of a child, and may save the life of some little one.

On behalf of the Morrisburg U.N.I.C.E.F. Committee,
William Stewart (chairman),
Claire Dunn, Kurt and Cory Polak, Winifred Stewart

New map for an old village

Alexis Mantell
Leader Staff

INGLESIDE — Village residents and strangers alike will soon have a better idea of where they're going. Osnabruck Township council last Tuesday approved the rough draft of a new village map, updated for the first time since the village was created by Ontario Hydro in 1957.

Until now residents, visitors, real estate agents and firemen all had to make do with a map that was outdated and plainly inaccurate. On it were registered lots that had long since been changed and several streets built and not recorded on the map. Absent were all lot severances made in the last quarter century, as well as recent subdivisions.

The result of more than two months work by Dalton Gadbois of Glengarry Technical Services, the map features 60 registered lot plan changes. Destined to carry Ingleside into the next century, the map covers an area far larger than the village's present development.

It extends west to Farran Point Road, the trailer park to the east, south beyond Hwy. 2, and north to Hwy. 401.

The general outline of the development lands and its road easements are included, and can be altered easily as future development arrives, said Gadbois.

The map includes obvious "landmarks" of the village, such as the water tower, the church square, and the Lakeside Inn, as means of orientation, explained Bart Whitton, township water and sewer superintendent.

Uses for the new map are "immeasurable" said Gadbois, noting the village's fire department and ambulance service have requested an accurate map to help them pinpoint emergencies quickly for sometime. Unlike the present map, the new one not only identifies residences by lot plan numbers, but includes actual house numbers. Numbers are even provided for houses not yet built.

"The only thing not in this map is (the shape of the) actual houses," he said.

Gadbois said the map will be a boon to local real estate agents in promoting the village as a good community for a home buyer to settle in. The township will find it handy when it begins to market the development lands to potential industries.

He suggested council consider updating all existing map files to show water and sewer mains, gas and telephone lines, and fire hydrants. Each of these services could be laid out on separate translucent sheets, to be superimposed over the map to give a very accurate picture of existing services.

"Then in the middle of winter you could locate exactly where that broken water main is," commented Whitton.

The cost to prepare the map, including an initial printing of several copies, will be around $2,500, he said.

OBITUARIES

William Joseph Lemaire

Many friends in Morrisburg, Prescott, and throughout the area, learned with regret of the death of William Joseph Lemaire, which occurred at Winchester District Memorial Hospital, on Tuesday, November 5th, following an illness of two months. He was 76 years of age.

A sailor, and retired supply officer for the Canadian Coastguard ships Simcoe and Grenville, he had resided in Morrisburg for the past eleven years. A keen sports fan, he had, in earlier years, been involved with minor sports in both Prescott and Morrisburg.

Born at Prescott, September 3, 1909, he was a son of the late John Lemaire and his wife, Lurinda Annable. He was educated at St. Mark's Separate School and Prescott High School, and spent the first 56 years of his life in the Fort Town. On February 5th, 1940, he was married at St. Mark's Church to Helen Marguerite Blair, who survives.

Other survivors are three daughters: Mary (Mrs. John Melady) of Brighton, Lurinda (Mrs. Leonard Beckstead) of Morrisburg and Alberta (Mrs. Gordon McNairn) of Morrisburg; and four sons: William Jr. of Athens, Charles of Johnstown, Pat of Vankleek Hill and Michael of Iroquois. He is also survived by thirteen grandchildren.

Mr. Lemaire served with the Canadian Coastguard for twenty-five years before his retirement. A devout Catholic, he was a member of St. Mark's Church in Prescott, and of St. Mary's since moving to Morrisburg. He held a life membership in the Canadian Legion, was Past President of the Senior Veterans of Morrisburg, and a Charter Member of the Morrisburg-Iroquois Council Knights of Columbus.

Friends were received at the Fairbairn Funeral Home, Morrisburg, from where the funeral cortege proceeded to St. Mary's Church, and the funeral Mass was celebrated by Father James MacGillivray on Friday, November 8th at 10 a.m. Interment followed in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Pall bearers were: Paul Melady, Mark Melady, Tim Melady, Joe Bourrette, John Rice, Lyal Schwerdtfeger.

Helen Mary Hedrick

Following a lengthy illness the death of Helen Mary Hedrick, a native of Morrisburg and former resident of Toronto, occurred on Thursday, October 31st, at Bestview Nursing Home, Cornwall, where she had resided for the past five years. Mrs. Hendrick was 93 years of age.

Born at Morrisburg, June 14, 1892, she was a daughter of the late James T. Jarvis and his wife Clara Merkley. She was educated at the local schools, and in 1920, at St. James Church here, she was married to Daniel Presho, who predeceased her in 1940. In 1944, also at St. James, she was married to Earle Hedrick, who predeceased her in 1971.

She is survived by many nieces and nephews.

While she resided in Morrisburg, she was a member of St. James Church, and a private graveside service was held on Friday, November 8th at Mount Pleasant Cemetery, with the rector, Rev. David Crawley officiating.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Fairbairn Funeral Home Limited, Morrisburg.

Is your house showing any of these symptoms?

- Your TV picture shrinks when the dryer starts.
- Your wiring can't handle any more new appliances, like the air conditioner you've been saving for.
- Fuses keep popping.
- Your house is plagued with extension cords and too many plugs with too few outlets.

If so, your house may be showing its electrical age. Older homes with only 60 or even 100 amp service simply won't handle all the modern electrical appliances that have become part of our family living.

And these symptoms are not only inconvenient, they're downright unsafe.

Modernize your home. Upgrade your electrical system and wiring... and enjoy a comfortable and safe electrical future.

IN MEMORIAM

CROWDER — In loving memory of Hazel who passed away November 13, 1981.
Time rolls on, memories stay
As near and dear as yesterday,
There will always be a heartache,
And often silent tears
But always precious memories,
Of the days when you were here
Those we love don't go away
They walk beside us every day.
Always remembered by son and daughter-in-law

St. Lawrence College

Faculty celebrates 20 years

When the business department of St. Lawrence College Saint-Laurent opened its doors twenty years ago, it was to welcome 60 students enrolled in four programs. Today over 1,200 full and part-time students are enrolled in 16 business, secretarial, and graphic design programs.

Some of the newest developments in the business department include the addition of 18 new microcomputers at the existing microcomputer banks, a new microcomputer lab to be installed in January, and a new course in the use of microcomputers, open to all business students.

The business faculty is also in the process of developing a series of learning modules which will allow the public to learn on the college's microcomputers.

The business department has developed a new secretarial arts program which it hopes to introduce next September. Dubbed "Executive Secretary", the program will be more general in nature to offer more employment opportunities to its graduates. It has been broadened to replace the medical secretary program, as more medical graduates are finding work in non-medical positions.

The most important development for the business department this year is the extension of the cooperative education options for four more business programs. This year, along with the business administration-management program, students in data processing, finance, accounting and business can benefit from a cooperative education. This approach allows the student to alternate terms of study with practical work in his or her chosen field.

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

by
Noble Villeneuve
M.P.P.

On Wednesday, October 30th, I attended the Ministry of Agriculture and Food's "Look Ahead" conference held at the Ramada Renaissance in Toronto. This meeting was well attended and certainly made the point that agriculture is in some economic difficulty and that both governments and the public have to realize that both food and food producers cannot be taken for granted.

Elaine and I attended the Annual Nor' Westers' Beaver Club of Glengarry Fall Dinner and wintering preparations at Williamstown on Friday, November 1st. This was, as always, a most enjoyable and colorful dinner and wintering ceremonies. Congratulations to all of those who came dressed in their Nor' Westers' Regalia.

Congratulations also to the Glengarry Holstein Club who recently celebrated its 50th anniversary. Also, congratulations to all of those who received Special Production Awards at the Annual Holstein Banquet.

Remembrance Day ceremonies were held throughout the riding. We take our freedom for granted! Let us not forget those who paid the supreme sacrifice to ensure the freedom we all enjoy.

Tax increases and changes in government book-keeping are the highlights of the Peterson government's first budget.

The message the budget contains is quite simple, and says much about the new government's capability to manage. Last year, with an economy still emerging from the recession, and with no tax increases, the former PC government reduced the deficit by $648 million. The new government, with a 700 million dollar tax increase for next year, will increase the deficit by 511 million dollars in 1985-86.

We will have to bear the burden of these increased taxes in many ways.

While low-income Ontarians will not pay more in taxes, their chances of earning more money will be reduced. Increases in corporate income tax will mean that employers will have less money for salaries, marketing or capital improvements. According to the government's own figures, 152,000 new jobs in Ontario for 195 will drop to only 108,000 new jobs for the province in 1986.

The new government has failed to learn the lessons of previous Liberal administrations in Ottawa and, in fact, seems to be repeating mistakes.

The Liberal budget forecasts real economic growth of only 2.4 per cent for next year (compared to 6.5 per cent last year under the former government). As already mentioned, the Liberals say growth in new jobs will also be down. Given these conditions, common sense would indicate that the worst action a government could take would be to raise personal and corporate income taxes. These tax increases will mean less money to spend on goods and therefore less money for our businesses and factories.

Those same factories will not need new people and will find it harder to increase pay. Higher corporate taxes simply may the situation worse.

Tile drainage debentures are essentially unchanged over previous years.

Virtually the entire increase in the agriculture budget is taken up by the already-announced Ontario Family Farm Interest Rate Reduction Program ($50 million) and Ontario's share of the National Tripartite Stabilization Program ($20 million) which was a commitment of the former PC government.

The only new program for agriculture was a $6 million fund to pay farmers to leave agriculture, virtually an admission on the government's part that it has no new ideas.

But there is an interesting puzzle. Spending for agriculture, according to budget figures, is up $70 million. The three programs announced in the budget total $6 million. Clearly then, it means that some six million dollars, at least, will be lost from existing programs.

The actual amount will likely be more. The cost of programs such as the Farm Tax Rebate increases with other forms of taxation; therefore, each year the program requires more. To keep up programs such as this, other program budgets will have to be sacrificed to cover these cost increases. The budget failed to mention what would be cut.

Under the new government, agricultural programs have already been cut. Earlier this summer the BILD program which provided $11.6 million dollars per year to agriculture was cancelled putting an end to storage and processing grants to the food industry.

It now seems the budget will see other programs out or diminished.

The bottom line of this budget is that all Ontarians will pay more. What is not clear is what we'll get in return.

Osnabruck twp. council talks of tax arrears, street lights, gas

OSNABRUCK CENTRE—Osnabruck Township has recovered $10,551 worth of tax arrears on six properties, township clerk Warren Bethune told council last Tuesday.

Late last month the township got tough with tardy property taxpayers, registering debts of $163,147 against 29 properties, including three business properties with tax arrears of $76,482.

The outstanding business taxes and an undisclosed amount of municipal drain debts will be tackled by the clerk's office in upcoming months, said Bethune.

A natural gas company that didn't do its homework may have to convert the heating system of the township's east end sewage plant for one-sixth of actual costs. This fall, Northern and Central Gas Corp. Ltd. signed an agreement with township council to convert the station to natural gas from oil, for $2,186.

At a council meeting last Tuesday, water and sewer superintendent Bart Whitton said the company now believes it will cost around $12,000 to do the work, because of the difficulties in taking the gas pipeline underneath Hwy. 2 to the station.

"There's a lot of fine print in our agreement, but I think they'll have to come through," said Whitton last week. "The $12,000 is their worry. But it won't break our heart if it falls through," he said.

The decision to convert the plant to gas was made after Northern and Central Gas representatives promised heating cost savings of 30 per cent a year.

Following up on complaints from residents, reeve Stewart Hart questioned the recent practice by Newington fire department chief Ab Evans of repairing the department's equipment at his own home.

Hart brought it to the attention of councillor Peter Zeran, council's liasion with the fire department, that residents were concerned the work was no longer being offered to a township business.

It will be up to the newly elected council to settle the matter of establishing policy guidelines for such cases, said clerk Warren Bethune.

Acting on a request received in the spring, township council last Tuesday voted to install street lights at Hwy. 2 and the intersections of Vin Vista Drive and Eamon Road.

The contractor, Bona-Tremblay of Long Sault, is to install two lights at each of the intersections before winter sets in, at a cost of $14,000.

Young curlers whoop it up with rocks made "just for kids"

Terri Lewis sweeping the right way . . .

MORRISBURG—"I think someone must have forgot to tell them curling is a quiet game," said one adult curler as she watched 25 youngsters between the ages of eight and 12 whoop it up at the Morrisburg Curling club here Saturday.

But even this comment was given in the spirit of the outing as the antics of a newly-crowned eight-year-old skip brought a smile to the speaker's face.

The group was participating in the Family Fun Day sponsored by the Morrisburg Curling Club in an effort to get young people involved in the game. The number that showed up more than tripled what organizer Alan Brunt had been expecting.

"I thought we might get six or seven children," said Brunt. "This is really good. I'm pleased."

The children and their parents met in the club room at 9 a.m. where Brunt and assistant Gordon Johnston started them with some basics about the game. That was followed by on-ice instruction leading up to a game in which all 25 took part at once.

Parents were encouraged to join in on the fun and following a lunch supplied by the club they too participated in a couple of four-end games of fun curling. Each of the adult skips was handed envelopes which contained instructions pertaining to the end but which weren't to be opened until the end had been completed. These instructions varied from counting three points for each rock in the eight-foot ring to counting only those rocks not in the house.

Brunt had borrowed a set of child-size rocks for the day, and he's hoping now the Morrisburg club will be encouraged to work toward the purchase of such a set.

"I'd like to see some kind of fundraising set up to purchase a set of children's stones," said Brunt. "Then we'd be able to organize a junior-junior program as a step-up to the junior program now available."

Brunt says each rock costs $110 and there's a long waiting list of clubs wishing to purchase sets. "Children's curling has really taken off in Toronto and is now catching on in Ottawa, they're just not making enough sets to keep up with the demand."

To top the day an assortment of door prizes were handed out. These were supplied by Seagram Distillers Ltd., Ault Foods Ltd., Winchester Cheese Inc., Brown's Brushes, Fred Hill Insurance Ltd., the Ontario Curling Association, Odonto Corp Ltd., Nestle Ltd., Parisien Beverages, Canada Starch, Labatt's and Caldwell Linen Mills.

And how did the children like the game? "It was really something," said Brunt. "We couldn't even get them off the ice to eat their lunch."

WHAT DO YOU MEAN UPSIDE DOWN? — Terri Lewis, left, and Janet Brunt take a break during the Family Fun Day held at the Morrisburg Curling Club Saturday to discuss some of the technical skills they think would help the game along. Unfortunately it looks as if Terri isn't buying Janet's idea about the position of the broom for sweeping. Terri and Janet were just two of 25 children who showed up at the club with their parents to learn a little about the game and practice with the child-size rocks borrowed especially for the day. The event was organized by Morrisburg club member Alan Brunt and supported by several area businesses. —McNairn photo

Jr. B Lions weekend ends on sour note

KEMPTVILLE — What began looking like a promising weekend for the Morrisburg Lions finished on a sour note here Sunday when the Kemptville 73s posted a 17-14 victory, in Rideau-St. Lawrence Jr. B division play.

The Lions started strong Friday night on home ice with a 5-3 victory over the 73s but were unable to get the sticks working in game two against the Prescott Falcons Saturday and settled for a 4-2 loss.

Sunday night, in Kemptville, the bottom completely fell out of their game.

According to coach Steven Casselman who returned home from a week of deer hunting in time for Sunday's game there were a combination of factors involved with the lopsided loss.

The Lions were playing without the services of midget affiliates Lyle Schell, Johnny Morrow and Jim Bennis who had a scheduled midget game. Adding to the player shortage were injuries to Bob Deleavey and Mike Casselman which sidelined them during the game and the absence of Danny Foss, who signed with the team last week and saw action Friday and Saturday.

"We started the game with two forward lines and ended up playing with one," said Casselman. "To add to the problems it was the boys' sixth game in a little over a week and it caught up to them."

Casselman says it appears the player shortage will happen every time the midgets are scheduled to play in their own league. "It's not a good situatoin but unfortunately at this time we have no other choice. Because of the age change in minor hockey, which prevented any midgets from graduating, there's a shortage of players everywhere."

The bright spot of the week was the signing of defenceman Danny Foss who saw some action with the juniors last year. Casselman says Foss will be a definite help to the club.

Morrisburg 5 - Kemptville 3

The Lions probably came up with their best game of the season when they hosted the 73s here Friday night. The two played to a 1-1 first period tie and were still deadlocked 2-2 heading into the third.

The Lions pulled into a one goal lead at 9:30 of the third frame on an unassisted tally by Allen McNairn but two minutes later a 73 goal by James Ogilvie again evened it. Lyle Schell struck for the winner at 11:52 with John Morrow drawing the assist and the Lions put the finishing touches on the 5-3 victory with an empty net counter from Mike Branchaud with 37 seconds showing on the clock.

Schell led the Lions' attack with a two goal performance and Mike Casselman, McNairn and Branchaud added singles. Shaun Harkin counted twice for the 73s and Ogilvie supplied goal number three.

Fourteen minor penalties were assessed — the Lions taking six. Veteran goaltender David Black was between the pipes for Morrisburg an Monty Bengle handled the Kemptville loss.

Prescott 4 — Lions 2

The Lions treated their fans to a second contest in as many nights Saturday when they hosted the Prescott Falcons. This time, however, it was the Falcons who squeaked out the victory.

Morrisburg built a 2-1 first period lead tying the game with 4:47 left in the frame and moving ahead at 16:21. Falcon goaltender Kevin Devaney, shut out the Lions for the remaining two periods while his forward teammates added a pair of counters in the second and a single in the third.

Paul Heisel, Mike Michalicka, Bryan Brant and Mike Collison all counted for the Falcons and for the Lions it was Dan Foss and Todd Prieur.

Prescott handled 12 minor penalties and the Lions were assessed 10. David Black was in net for Morrisburg.

Kemptville 73s 17 — Lions 4

The 73s got their revenge against the Lions for Friday night's 5-3 victory with a lopsided 17-4 win Sunday. They led 4-3 after the first frame and 10-4 going into the third. Six of their goals were powerplay tallies.

It'll be a night not soon forgot by 73s centerman Shaun Harkin who struck for six goals and helped out on another two. Four of these were scored consecutively beginning at 4:09 of the second and the final coming at 17:08 of the third when the 73s were shorthanded.

Gavin Corbeil and Ron Sloan had three goal performances, Howie Thompson and Marty Begin contributed pairs and Ken Matura added a single.

Tim Patterson connected for a hattrick for the Lions and Kyle Zach had a single.

The Lions drew 15 minor penalties and a 10 minute misconduct to Scott Robinson and the 73s had eight minors. Monty Bengle was in net for the win and Darrin Mullin handled the Lions' loss.

The Lions host the Spencerville Bruins Sun., November 17 at 2 p.m.

Desperados out of Riverside basement

RIVERSIDE HEIGHTS — For the first time since the Riverside Mixed Dart League began play in early October the Desperatos are not holding the basement position.

Wednesday night, with a solid team effort, they struck for nine wins to move into sixth place, three points ahead of the Ramblers. Sandra Baker had a five-win performance, Keith Wereley threw three outs and Keith Johnston added two.

The Desperatos weren't the only team to steal the night's show from the league leaders. The Ratt Pack took a step upward, with a nine-win night, to land in fourth place overall. William Casselman and Terry Fawcett produced three wins each, Carl Schwerdtfeger had a pair and Darlene Lortie added a single.

As the bottom teams were putting together strong nights the league leaders — Sharp Darts, Awful Arrows and NFG all tied last week for first place — had to settle for what was left over.

NFG grabbed the biggest slice with eight wins to take over first place, the Sharp Darts managed five and the Awful Arrows came up with four.

Gail Robinson and Mike Lortie had three wins each for NFG and Sharon Wereley added a pair while Jim Scott struck for all of the Sharp Dart outs. Dick Kirchin, Gary Hart, Robert Casselman and Ron Bradford all struck once in the Awful Arrows cause.

The Ramblers picked up four points on a pair of winning throws from Ted Seymour and Brian McNairn (spare). Carl Robinson struck twice for the Left Overs and Dwayne Crump (spare) helped the cause with a single.

High scores were thrown by Jim Scott 140-121-100, Keith Wereley 140-100, Gary Hart 127, Brian McNairn 121, Sharon Wereley 120 and Guy Hart 119.

A perfect night in many ways

MORRISBURG — It was a perfect night in more ways than one at the Legion here Tuesday.

Sandra Julien of the Six Shooters team got it rolling when she struck for the league's first 180 of the season and The Outlaws team finished it off when they blanked the Lucky Ladies squad 7-0.

The seven game sweep allowed the Outlaws to move from last week's seventh place standing into fourth with 42 points just eight points back of the first place Daredevils. Bruce Armstrong, who was sparing for the Devils, did most of the damage against the Ladies striking for four wins. George Baker added to the effort with a pair of outs and Ruth Rice was good for a single.

Julien's 180 was the highlight of the night for the Six Shooters who lost to the Daredevils 6-1. Terry Laurin was all that stood between the Devils and their perfect night, Laurin hitting for a Shooter out in the second game of the match.

Alec Whittaker had a four-win performance for the Daredevils and Hartley Graham found the spot twice. The 12 point Devil win allowed them to move from third spot into sole possession of first, two points up on last week's leaders, The Misfits.

The Misfits slide was caused by tough competition from the Duds who managed three wins. Sarah Merkley, Alice Tinker and Bill Eady all struck for the Duds and Randy Markell had three wins for the Misfits with Lyndon Casselman adding a single.

Led by the three-win performance of Gerry Roberts the Hustlers picked up 10 points from the last place Sailors. Mary Ann Whittaker and Dorothy McBain backed Roberts with one out each and answering for the Sailors were Ted Jarvis and John Rice.

High scores were thrown by Julien with her 180, Robert Perrault 128, Bonnie Jarvis 119, Carl Schwerdtfeger 113-102, Gail Kelly 104-103, Gerry Roberts 101-100 and Bruce Armstrong 100.

S.D. & G. basketball

Spartans bedeviled at the Ridge

MAPLE RIDGE — Seaway High School's Spartans ran into a little more than they could handle when they visited the North Dundas Blue Devils for an S.D.&G. basketball league match up here Thursday.

Both the junior and senior Spartan teams lost their matches, the seniors by a 49-42 count and the juniors 43-24.

Senior action

Despite a 27-24 halftime lead the senior Spartans were unable to stay ahead. North Dundas got it rolling early in the third quarter, quickly moving out front and eventually reversing the situation to carry a 36-33 advantage into the final.

Neither team did much counting early in the last quarter but with three minutes left to play they both turned it on — the Devils counting eight points to the Spartans' six enroute to the 49-42 victory.

Tracey McVey struck for 20 points to lead the Devils to their fifth win of the season and Donna Koekkoek nabbed 14. Hali Adair topped the Spartans attack with 16 points and Nancy St. Pierre hit for six. Carey Boisoneau supplied five points and Kathryn Shaw, Vicki Hope and Karen Craig all had four.

The loss brought the Spartan record to 3-4 and North Dundas has a 5-2 stat.

Junior Devils strong

The Junior Spartans managed to take a slim 9-8 lead at the end of the first quarter before North Dundas finally turned it on demonstrating why they are undefeated in eight starts.

During the second quarter the Devils totalled 18 points while holding the Spartans from the scoreboard. They had a 32-18 lead going into the final enroute to the 43-24 win.

Kerry-Lynn Thompson supplied 15 Devil points and Connie Armstrong backed her with 12. Kim Bucking led the Spartans shooting with nine points and Lisa VanHoof added six. Krista Duncan, Debbie Cooper, Laura Dawley and Bea Patterson completed Seaway's scoring.

The Junior Spartans record now stands at 3-5.

Morrisburg students raise $3,700 in walk-a-thon

WORTH THE WALK — For the above Morrisburg Public School students the walk around the track during the school's first annual walk-a-thon may have been a little tiresome but the effort certainly proved worthwhile when they were rewarded as the top fundraisers in their respective classes at a school assembly Friday. The walk-a-thon raised $3,700 for the school. Pictured front, left to right are Doug Francis, Damien Whitteker, Becky Norton, Jeff Casselman, Jay Allinotte and Allan Potvin. Centre row Julie Wells, Kenneth Chang, Laura Barkley, Loretta Montroy, Nicole Lapier and Jennifer Baker. Back row Becky Pena, Rob Domanko, Toni Perkins, April Alguire, Tim Tyo and Doug Baker.

MORRISBURG — It was a time for celebrating and the students of Morrisburg Pulic School had plenty to cheer about when they assembled in the gymnasium here Friday to hear the results of their recent walk-a-thon.

It was their maiden attempt at a major fundraising project, which included the entire school population and the students surprised everyone, including themselves, by raising $3,700.

"We are extremely pleased" said French teacher Andre Charlebois, who organized the event.

"We were hoping for maybe half as much. We certainly weren't expecting this. A special thanks has to go to the parents and the community at large for their contributions.

"As a teacher it's certainly nice to know the school is supported," said Charlebois.

On organizing the walk-a-thon it was hoped that one major fundraising project would eliminate the need for each class to run its own venture. The $3,700 raised more than settles the issue.

The money is to be used for class trips and the purchase of new stage curtains. Friday, cheques for $100 were presented to Vicki VanAllen, representing the Morrisburg Minor Hockey Association, to help buy a community video camera and to Vic Harward of the Morrisburg and District Lions Club, which is involved with the C.N.I.B. Walk the Dog Project.

The two students raising the most money in each of the grades were also recognized for their efforts with gifts ranging from Care Bears to calculators.

"Basically the money is all coming back to the students," said Charlebois. "It's nice to know that because of the success of the walk-a-thon we won't be forever going back to the community selling things."

Town league hockey

Charlies, Flyers tied

MORRISBURG—Charlies Sport Shop and the Black and Brown Flyers met for a bid on first place in the Morrisburg town league play here Thursday night but neither team was ready to take the big step.

Charlies did jump to a 3-1 first period lead but the Flyers came battling back and the game ended in a 5-5 tie. The tie gave each of the teams one point and deadlocked them in the race for first place at three points.

In other action Morrisburg Music went to work on Hills carving up a lopsided 11-4 victory for their first two points of the season. Hills has now taken over the basement position with a two-loss record.

Jeff Cassell had a three-goal performance for Charlies and Tom Hodgson and Cam McLennan beat Flyers' goaltender Archie Mellan once. Charlies' goalie, Jeff Fowler, gave up a pair of counters to Barry Elliott and singles to Frank Hummell, Joe Roach and Doug Tupper.

Reg Gilmer, with four counters, led Morrisburg Music to the 11-4 victory over Hills. Jim Whelan backed Gilmer with three counters and singles came from the sticks of Dean Cassell, Gary McIntosh, Bill Morrow and Doug Nugent. Kevin Whitteker and Doug Byers had two goals each for Hills.

John VanAllen was between the pipes for the Music win and Jack Bjergso handled the loss.

Angels undefeated

MORRISBURG — It's shaping up to be one of the best years Charlies Angels senior girls hockey team has ever had.

After four starts the girls are boasting a 4-0 record, their latest victory coming Thursday night on home ice when they downed a visiting Spencerville club 8-1. That followed on the heels of a 6-1 win in Embrun Sunday.

In their four outings the Angels have struck for 29 counters and goaltender Brenda Thompson has allowed her opponents a mere four.

Thompson's shutout was spoiled Thursday with 2:30 remaining in the game when Linda Villeneuve set up Jan Pickard for Spencerville's lone tally. The Angels had taken a devastating 6-0 lead in the first frame and increased it to 7-0 in the second.

Camille McInnis led the Angels' attack with a four goal performance and a pair of assists and Tracey Ogilby, Jennifer Rice, Kathryn Houze and Carol Langa-

Seaway High News by Wendy Laurin

How does everyone like the snow? I'm not trying to be sarcastic. I really do love it.

Of course there are red and runny noses, and frostbitten toes and fingers. If we could just have the snow but still a minimum of 60° weather, it'd be great.

There was talk at the student council meeting Thursday of bringing back the house system. In this system you split the school into teams for competitions, sports, games. We could have pep rally's and various other activities.

Students are to make their opinions known. We like the idea. It'll boost school spirit.

Next on the agenda are congrats to several Seaway students who captured prizes in the Remembrance Day Poster Contest sponsored by the Legion. Missy Marsten and Jamie Jones walked away with first and second prizes respectively and an Honorable Mention was awarded to Karen Gowanlock.

Remembrance Day services were held at the school for the juniors and seniors Monday afternoon.

We have a new celebrity attending Seaway. She's Brockville's answer to Johnny Fever. We'll just call her "Jennifer Fever". Jennifer Gillard is going to be on CKSB, a Brockville radio station, every Monday between 6-8 to give her pals an update on what's happening at the big S. So all you folks who are dazed out in homeroom just tune in on Monday to check out what's been going on. By the way her commercial bucks are being done be Wendel from Kraft Cheese and Macaroni.

A note on sports. Floor hockey is getting underway for anyone in the school who wants to play. Volleyball tryouts for junior, senior and midget girls were held yesterday and today so everyone go for it.

Last Thursday the junior and senior girls basketball teams had games against North Dundas. Bad news though, they were both defeated. The juniors lost by a score of 42-26 and the seniors 49-42.

A soccer game is being organized for sometime in the near future (no definite date yet) between the teachers and the senior boys and girls soccer teams. Lots of surprises are being planned for the teachers especially Mr. Watson and Mr. Turpin.

No doubt they have a few surprises up their sleeves too. It should be a lot of fun.

I think that's about all I have to say, my hand and brain are getting sore, so's my gluteus maximus (Ha! Mr. Morrell) for that matter. So I guess it's salut mes amis, until next week. See ya!

Study to look at playhouse future

MORRISBURG — With two successful seasons under their belt the directors of the Upper Canada Playhouse find themselves at a crossroad. And they're hoping a $20,000 feasibility study now underway can tell them which way to go.

The nylon tent of the playhouse's roof has reached its life expectancy, making for leaky theatre on wet days. If the popularity of the area's only venue for live summer theatre continues to grow, the audience numbers will begin to push the theatre's 400-seat capacity, explains board of director chairman Doug Grenkie.

He said the study will look at all possible options, from renovating the existing building on Upper Canada Road, to constructing a new structure south of Hwy. 401 on land owned by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

"The study will look at the way we should go in the future — what is economical, if it would be worthwhile to stay or to move, and what the cost would be," he said.

Conducted by Arcop Associates of Toronto, the feasibility study is expected to be completed by the end of December. It is funded by a $15,000 joint federal and provincial grant under the tourism branch of the Eastern Ontario Subsidiary Agreement. If needed says Grenkie, an additional $5,000 will be contributed by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

Grenkie said the study will further determine if moving the playhouse to the other side of the highway, somewhere closer to Upper Canada Village, would in fact boost its profile with travelling tourists.

He said the board hopes the results of the study are available by the end of the year, before plans for the 1986 season are cemented.

"We'll have to know if we're going to do makeshift repairs to get through next season or if we'll be making a new start," he said.

The curtain rises on the playhouse's third season in late June.

WIN A GRADE A 10-12 LB. TURKEY
JUST BY COUNTING THE NUMBER OF
Mr. Grocer Logos in our advertisement every week from now till Christmas (Dec. 21, 1985). Limit one turkey per week. All you have to do is count the logos, put it down on a slip of paper with your name, address and phone number and drop it in the ballot box in the front of our store. Draw will be made at 4 p.m. every Saturday, until Dec. 21, by a customer. The first first name drawn with the correct number of logos wins a turkey. GOOD LUCK!

TURKEY WINNER

Winner of our first week's Turkey draw was Mrs. Ron Crowder of Morrisburg with the correct answer of 11 logos. Congratulations and try again this week
