Hockey Picture Brighter First Game Here Tuesday

League Meeting Held Last Evening Anxious to Have Chesterville in St. Lawrence Circuit. — Grants Concessions to Local Club.

The hockey picture has a few rosier tints this morning. Other members of the St. Lawrence league now think everything might not be so rosy without a good contender in Chesterville, and have made concessions to the local club; in fact it is alleged they have gone so far as to be willing to return Chesterville's star home brews they enticed away earlier in the season. This proposition is said to have been made at a league meeting last night and declined by Chesterville, not because the players in question are not stand-outs in this league, but because they might not now be satised to have their plans for the season come to nothing.

The proposition now is that Chesterville be given permission to get players wherever obtainable and other concessions have been made for the benefit of the local club. This means we will have some good hockey after all the depression, with the first game next Tuesday night on Chesterville ice. There are plenty players of class who will be much tickled to play for the locals, whose addresses are well known and there will be no delay in rounding up a team that will be quite capable of giving Chesterville the brand of hockey it has been used to seeing for many years.

SANTA CLAUS COMING CHRISTMAS EVE.

SANTA CLAUS has again accepted the invitation of the 1st Chesterville Troop of Boy Scouts to make a brief stop here Christmas Eve and meet the children of town. A place of honour will be prepared for him at the Bank of Montreal entrance and the Scouts will form lanes so that each child may shake Santa's hand and receive a small gift from the jolly old chap.

He is scheduled to arrive at 7.30, and the Scouts are asked to meet at Headquarters at 7.00 sharp.

GOOD SHOW AT COMMUNITY THEATRE THIS WEEK END

The Community Theatre is presenting to its patrons this week end the screen version of that remarkable story "The Road Back," by Eric Remarque, a sequel to that other wonderful story by the same author, "All Quiet on the Western Front," with such well known screen stars as John King, Richard Cromwell, Slim Somerville, Andy Devine, Barbara Read and Louise Fazenda in the title rôle.

The New Year week end will have for the feature, Booth Tarkington's fascinating story, "Penrod and Sam."

Organization of Men Urged by Judge McKinley

Ottawa Juvenile Court Judge States He Believes Chesterville Badly in Need of Service Club in Order That Youngsters May Be Helped.

The possibility of a service club being formed in Chesterville has come as a result of a conference between Judge McKinley, of the Ottawa Juvenile Court, and a group of men who were seeking advice on how best to deal with the slot machine question. A meeting of men of town has been called for Tuesday evening in the Community Hall when Judge McKinley will have a speaker expain the aims of the Rotary club.

Dealing with slot machines, two of which are said to have remained in operation here in spite of a forbidding by-law passed by Council, Judge McKinley told how Ottawa had gotten rid of the nuisance. Slot machines, he said, were taking $50,000 out of the Capital every week, and when a license fee of $1,000 was upset by a recent judgment, the city fathers issued business licenses to each restaurant, poolroom, soda fountain or other place likely to harbour the machines, one of the conditions of these licenses being that slot machines must not be placed on the premises. Should one of these machines be put in operation the business license is automatically cancelled and the place not allowed to continue business in the city. This plan he advocated for Chesterville, and it will be brought before the 1938 council as soon as the members take office.

Previously His Honour had presided at a hearing of a local woman charged with keeping her children from school, and this, coupled with the slot machine question, prompted his suggestion of a service club to organize the men of Chesterville. There are too many hanging-out places for the youth here, he said, and not enough healthy recreation. The Boy Scouts, the band, the rink and other community organizations should have concrete backing of an organized group of men such as a service club could supply, said his honour. He promised he could secure speakers for the entire winter programme.

Two of the men present were asked to interview leading men and have a good attendance at the meeting on Tuesday evening at 8.00 p.m.

Special periods set aside for youngsters at the rink were recommended, preferably from 4 to 6 o'clock, with longer hours on Saturday. When Spring came, the kids should be organized into a softball league. Chesterville, said Judge McKinley, has wonderful machinery for developing its youth along the proper lines with the fine Community Hall, the best of any town in the district, and the hall should be used and used plenty.

Young Couple Honoured At Crysler Tuesday Evening

Miss Altha Baker and Mr. Albert Nichols Presented With Handsome Gifts By Their Friends.

A large crowd attended a party in Glasgow's Hall, Crysler, on Tuesday evening in honour of Miss Altha Baker and Mr. Albert Nichols, of Cornwall, who are to wed before the New Year. Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening, music being supplied by Flynn's orchestra, and an address of congratulation was read, followed by the presentation of a dinner set for 12 and a dozen cut glass water goblets. Mr. Nichols made reply, thanking their friends on behalf of his fiancé and himself.

The address follows:

Dear Altha and Abbie,—

As you have decided in the near future to launch your ship of dreams out upon the stream of life, we have gathered here to give you a loving send-off.

May your ship ever glide smoothly, but when shoals and snags in the stream do impede your progress, we hope the memory of this evening and this small token of remembrance will clear the clouds away and you will go on your way rejoicing.

As day by day through the use of these articles may you be reminded of the love and respect carried to you by those assembled here tonight.

Signed on behalf of your friends, Basil Baker, Ethel Johnstone, Mabel Baker, Charlie Johnstone.

Farmer Hangs Himself At Cahore on Tuesday

Wesley Servage, Cahore, Had Caused Anxiety to Family For Some Time Because of Ill Health. —Funeral at Mrewood Today.

Tuesday morning, the body of Wesley Servage, with life extinct, was found hanging in his barn at Cahore, about two miles west of Crysler, with no cause given for the rash act, which was apparently suicide. It is said the deceased, having been in rather poor health for some time, his actions had caused some concern to his friends.

Allan Smirle, his brother-in-law, had called Tuesday morning to inquire after Mr. Servage, and was directed to one of the farm buildings, but not finding him as expected, looked in the barn where the tragedy had occurred. The trip rope belonging to the hay fork had been tied to the hay fork track.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at Morewood Presbyterian church. The surviving family consists of the widow and one son, Burton.

A REMARKABLE CHRISTMAS MESSAGE.

IT is to be hoped all radios were tuned in an Amos 'n' Andy, Friday night. There will not be a finer Christmas message this season. Andy, as we all know, is the happy ne'er do weal; the King Fish has big schemes afoot; Amos always the plodding thrifty. Amos has been running into hard luck lately, the taxi cab is in the service station with charges of fifteen dollars to be paid before its release. Andy, with dreams of furnishing his office in keeping with his at last money-making business, has given the King Fish a big order for handsome office furniture, twenty-five dollars down and five a month, and, is he happy! The King Fish drops in to get the order signed and talks with Andy about Amos. They agree Amos must be hard up, out of a job and Christmas at hand. Amos joins them and maintains that everything is okay. After Andy tells the King Fish to return in a couple of hours and have his order signed while Andy thinks it over again. Andy turns to Amos and asks him if he is "getting by" all right, which Amos maintains he is, or will. But Andy, remembering the talk with the King Fish, tells Amos to stop trying to fool this one who knows him better than any other, and longer: tells him he is broke and he knows it, and pushes twenty-five dollars across to Amos. Amos, with tears in his voice, protests he does not need it but is eventually persuaded to accept when Andy shows him he has fifty dollars left. Exit Amos.

No sooner has the door slammed than Andy calls Lightning from the back office, hands him the fifty dollars, cautioning him not to lose it but to go to the post office and secure a money order in favour of the Christmas card company to whom Andy owes it, and, "By-the-way, Lightnin', if the King Fish calls, tell him that deal is off."

WHO'S WHO?

With Premier Hepburn saying "We will export power," and Premier W. L. MacK. King saying "You will not." there seems only room for a backdown by one or the other. It is simply just not done, exporting power; but why it should not be done is open to argument. A market is very welcome for any other commodity of which Canada has too much. When there is no surplus a commodity should not be exported to the detriment of Canadians but until that time arrives the million and a quarter dollars Mr. Hepburn hopes to reap from the sale of surplus power would be all to the good. The details, the proper wording of the sale agreement, should present no obstacles to Canada's legal fraternity.

MORE CONVENIENT HOURS FOR SCHOOL MEETINGS

AS may be noticed in our advertising columns, school meetings are being called for hours different from ten o'clock in the forenoon, in an endeavour to have better attendance of the ratepayers and a more lively interest aroused about school matters. For many years these meetings have been called at an hour not at all convenient for farmers, with the consequent result that all business is left for a few to shoulder the responsibility.

The annual meeting of the local Public School supporters is called for the noon hour, about as inconvenient an hour as could be used. There probably will not be more than a score in attendance and very little interest aroused. The local school boards are the largest spenders of our taxes and the ratepayers should take more heed.

COMIC OPERA TOUCH IN LOCAL MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

CHESTERVILLE'S municipal elections this year are said to be taking on several comic opera features and instead of aspiring to be Chief Magistrate for the village, the candidates see before them the honour of being master-of-ceremonies at the forthcoming Old Home Week when the hospitality of the village will be extended with an open hand to the throng expected and our "public building" pointed out with much bowing and scraping.

INSURANCE RATES TO GO UP.

ACCIDENT insurance underwriters are preparing their customers for the shock of an increase in automobile insurance rates early in the new year. Thirty per cent is the estimated raise which is remarkably reminiscent of the former speed limit. The boost in rates just about represents the hazard put into motoring by booze and unnecessary high speed. What should be done to take it out?

When a Western Ontario cleric remarked last week that a sparrow and a preacher could not hold the attention of a congregation at the same time, we did not hope to see it demonstrated so soon. The sparrow was a loser Sunday morning.

"Nay, nay, Pa-nay," as the Japs said to Uncle Sam when asked for an apology for sinking the latter's gunboat in the Yangtse river last week.

VALUE OF ONTARIO CROPS SHOWS INCREASE.

Production Up $7,000,000 Over Last Year.—Present Reaction In Prices Is Alarming.

The gross value of agricultural production in Ontario for the year 1938 is expected to be about $365,000,000 as compared with $358,000,000 last year and $248,000,000 in 1932, the low point of the depression. The value of field crop production shows a reduction of $16,000,000 as the 11 per cent gain in volume of production was not sufficient to offset the sharp decline in prices. Average prices since harvest this season are 19 per cent below the average of prices obtained for the 1936 field crops. The revenue obtained from livestock, dairy products, tobacco, poultry, fruits and other agricultural products is expected to reach $215,000,000 as compared with $192,000,000 in 1936. As the bulk of field crop production in Ontario is fed to livestock and marketed in this form, the improvement in total farm purchasing power for 1937 probably approximated $20,000,000. The outstanding feature of the agricultural situation this season is the recent sharp reaction in prices. Since June the farm price of oats has declined from 61 cents to 43 cents per bushel; barley from 83 cents to 59 cents; buckwheat from 90 to 59 cents, and fall wheat from $1.24 to $1.01. Hog prices have dropped from $10.52 per cwt. in September to $8.00 at the present time, and good steers, over 1050 pounds, from $8.55 to $7.35 per cwt. Unless prices of farm products show some advance from the present level, agricultural income during the first half of 1938 will be considerably lower than during the same period of 1937.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

DO YOU KNOW THIS WOMAN?

SHE lives in Canada. She is between 45 and 65 years of age. Several months ago, she noticed a lump in her breast. It was quite small, not painful to touch, and really gave her no trouble.

As weeks passed by, she observed that the lump was becoming a little larger. It seemed to be somewhat bound down in the breast tissue, but still not very troublesome. Her husband suggested that she see her doctor but that didn't seem necessary, especially as she was not feeling ill.

The lump, however, kept on swelling and spreading and a certain amount of tenderness was noticed. She began to go down hill physically; became tired and weary, appetite not so good, and rather restless in her sleep.

Why not see the doctor? Well, what could he do? Perhaps it was not serious and then again he might say it was cancer and that would mean an operation and — No, she would keep away from doctors and after a while all would be well.

You aren't this woman, are you? If you are, let us tell you as kindly but as frankly as we can, that you may be gambling with death.

You may have cancer of the breast. A few months ago, if you had gone to your doctor, he could have removed that small lump and given you a reasonable bill of health for the future. Now, if your life is to be spared you must not delay a day longer in placing yourself in the hands of a competent medical adviser. Your chances of a permanent cure have been greatly reduced by your delay. You face a grave problem but your only chance for life is to receive proper treatment. If you continue to ignore the condition it does mean certain death. How different the picture would be if treatment had been undertaken when you first noticed that lump. It was the beginning of cancer, but in an early stage when treatment is so much simpler than now and cure reasonably certain.

And, reader, you are not this woman, but could you be in a few months' time? Have you a small lump in the breast? Well, if you have see your doctor now. It may not be cancer at all but something much less serious. However, take no chances.

Last year 11,652 Canadians died with cancer, an increase of 496 over 1935. This appalling death rate can be cut down by early diagnosis and treatment.

HE ADVERTISED FROM THE START.

St. Thomas Times-Journal.

FIFTY years ago, Henry Charles Lytton established The Hub, men's clothing store, on State Street in Chicago. Today after a half-century of continuous business through good years and bad, the firm of Henry C. Lytton & Son has grown to four large establishments.

Back of the golden anniversary sales activity is a story of Henry Lytton, now 91, oldest living merchant on State Street and active head of the firm, and a life-long believer in consistent newspaper advertising. Out of $12,000 he had saved to start his Chicago store, he spent $3,500 in newspaper advertising before he opened the doors. He has continued to use newspaper advertising liberaly ever since He has always been a believer in frank copy, even going so far as to tell the public in his ads that there was doubt about truth of a manufacturer's guarantee. In fact, advertising has been Mr. Lytton's pet subject.

In an interview several years ago when he returned to active management of his business Mr. Lytton said:

"I tell my advertising boys that I know more about advertising than they do. They're young fellows and they just laugh quietly and say nothing, not wanting to offend the boss perhaps. They don't know that I planned and wrote all my own advertisements for 25 years."

"Pidd," roared the boss, "you seem to be ignoring our efficiency system altogether!"

"Yessir," returned Stew Pidd, the office cut-up, "but somebody's gotta get the work done!"

Young Golfer: "Please get a move on. Try to be a little quicker, if you won't let us through."

Elderly Player (teeing up): "Young man, we don't want any advice from you. I expect we were playing this game before you were born."

Young Player: "That's quite probable, but please try to finish before lunch."

THE CHILDREN'S TREE.

Interesting Facts About Our Dominion of Canada.

WHILE Dad hammers and fusses and Mother gives a helping hand, the youngsters rush about with starry eyes and flushed cheeks. It's the Christmas Tree. To every boy and girl it is the tree supreme.

Many years ago children did not have a Chistmas tree. On Christmas Eve a specially fine, big log was brought in and placed on the hearth. It was called the Yule Log. Its light was supposed to be sacramental; it was emblematic of Christ as the light of the world. Many things, including clothes and food, were spread out so that the beneficient rays might fall upon them. In later years, candles were lit from the Log on Christmas Eve and placed in the window.

We owe our use of the Christmas tree to Germany. A Strassburg chronicle of the year 1605 first makes mention of it. As the custom grew in popularity in other countries, the toys and ornaments with which to decorate it were ordered from Germany. In time Germany was supplying almost all the nurseries of the world with toys. Of course that is not the case now.

The cutting of Christmas trees does not constitute a serious drain on our forest resources. Small trees growing in the open, branching close to the ground are usually chosen and few of these would ever produce valuable timber.

In cutting spruce and balsom for pulpwood the tops of the trees are sometimes salvaged and sold as Christmas trees. What was otherwise waste has become a source of profit and a valuable silvicultural measure in reducing inflammable material left in the forests.

It is impossible to say how many Canadian trees are sold for Christmas but there is a great trade done with them in the United States. Last year the Canadian export was valued at $366,000.

Small Number Attend Milk Association Annual

The third annual meeting of the Chesterville Local of the Concentrated Milk Producers of Ontario was held in the Community Hall, Chesterville, on Friday. Due to partially blocked roads and the apparent disinterest of its members there were only about 100 members present.

After the secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and discussed, the important topic of the day was introduced, the proposed deduction of an additional one-half cent to provide for the maintaining of a permanent field man to work among the patrons. While the motion carried, the majority was so small that the executive is under the impression that it would be better to spend another year in attempting to increase the interest of the proposal among the members.

Erle Kitchen, provincial secretary-treasurer, was present and was of great assistance explaining the necessity of farmers taking the lead in their own interests by learning more concerning the butter fat test of their cattle and the mineral deficiencies in their soils.

The officers for 1938 are:

President—Hugh Smith,

Vice-Pres.—Allison Graham,

Sec.-Treas.—Eric Casselman,

Committee—Jas. McCadden, Frank Casselman, Sheldon Ball, Archie Smirle;

Auditors—Mac Curran, Carmen McIntosh.

Form Human Chain to Rescue Dog After Four Days' Struggle on Cliff

Geraldton, Ont.—Buster, 120-pound St. Bernard pup, spent six bitter cold days precariously perched on a ledge of a 300-foot cliff while men fought to rescue him. Pilot Nibbs Parker landed his 'plane here today with the story of the grim struggle to save Rube Broderick's valuable dog.

Buster tumbled 40 feet to the ledge while romping about Broderick's camp 93 miles from Geraldton in the rich mining country about 175 miles northeast of Fort William.

The men worked four days and studied ways of reaching the starving animal, whose whines could be heard through the whistling wind and snow storms. A 30-mile trip around the base of the hill failed to locate the dog. Daring men moved gingerly along the cliff, hanging to saplings, in efforts to find a path to Buster.

Food was lowered to the ledge but it toppled into the lake more than 200 feet below when the starving Buster reached for it.

Finally sufficient food was placed near him to keep him quiet until members of the rescue party dropped a rope.

A knot was tied every five feet in the 40-foot rope. An arm of each man hugged the rope at the knots. Along this human chain Buster's limp form wrapped in a canvas bag was passed to safety. s

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Irven and Family:

We have gathered here this evening to extend to you a warm and hearty welcome to our vicinity.

We know how very hard indeed it must have been for you to leave a home and true, dear friends of many years standing, and come east to an unknown part of the country and future.

We hope that you may never have cause to regret coming to our midst, and that the years which lie ahead of you may be filled with delightful new friendships and happiness and health and material success.

Is the wish we give today,
God's help to strengthen, His light to cheer,
And His love to guide your way."

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbours, Ernest McConnell, Russell Swerdfeger, William Hillis.

Mr .and Mrs. Irven thanked all in a very fitting manner and invited the friends to visit them in their new home.

Fine Joint Programme Given By Local Schools

Tuesday evening a departure was made in presenting school concerts when the pupils of St. Mary's Separate school and those of the Public school joined forces and presented an entertainment for the benefit of the special Community Hall fund, to pay off the last outstanding account, which was $47.78 owing on the piano recently purchased. Judge McKinley should have been present to note the practical application of the bonne entente.

The programme rendered was given 50-50 by the pupils of the schools and was most pleasing throughout, astonishing the audience with the versatility of the performers, the reflection of the painstaking training by the teachers of the Separate and Public schools. Tiny tots came on the stage like old timers, did their turns and marched off to the plaudits of the audience. The numbers consisted of choruses, playlets, monologues, instrumentals and dances, all with such finish that it was naturally asked of one's neighbour, "Who trained these children?" with the answer giving the utmost assurance that the school pupils of Chesterville are in very capable hands.

Occasion was taken to explain to the audience what men of the village might be expected to do if suggestions given earlier the same day by Judge McKinley were acted upon with enthusiasm and determination to provide after school hours activities for the youth of the village. It was suggested by his honour, that a service club, like Rotary, Lions, or some such should be formed to give backing to efforts put forth by those doing things for the youngsters, the Scouts, the Girl Guides and church organizations. Judge McKinley intimated that he would return to Chesterville the first week in January and give his assistance to the organization of any such club decided upon.

Reeve W. H. Casselman performed the duties of chairman in his usual brilliant manner.

Township's Oldest Resident Reaches 103rd Birthday

Mrs. Mary Jane Bogart, Morewood, Settled in Osnabruck Township 92 Years Ago From Ireland.

Mrs. Mary Jane Bogart, the oldest resident of Winchester township, and a pioneer spinner and weaver who for the past 31 years has lived at the home of Walter Loughridge, of Morewood, celebrated the 103rd anniversary of her birth, Tuesday.

Mrs. Bogart is probably one of the earlist and the only surviving pioneer of Osnabruck township where she first settled 92 years ago. She was born in County Femanagh, Ireland.

In 1868 the family moved to Cambridge Station, and after her marriage to Eli Bogart in 1884 she came to the family homestead near Cannamore in Winchester township, where she helped to clear the bush land, adding to the family income by weaving and spinning. After the death of her first husband, she married his brother Simo Bogart, of Morewood, who died in 1917.

She had one daughter, the late Mrs. Walter Loughridge, and there are two grandchildren, Myron and Mary Loughridge, both of Morewood. One sister, Mrs. George Bogart, of Morewood, and two brothers, Francis and James Coventry, both of Moose Jaw, are the other members of her family.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

- By -

MISS HELEN LACEY, B.H.Sc.

HOW OFTEN DO YOU SERVE RICE?

THERE ARE SO MANY DIFFERENT WAYS of serving rice, and so many different foods with which it combines to make tasty and interesting dishes, that it should take a very important place in our menus. Most of us are familiar with only one kind of rice—that. the white or polished rice. Rice is, however, eaten in many countries with the brown bran covering left on and is, of course, known as brown or unpolished rice. It was due to this difference that the discovery of Vitamin B was made possible. About fifty years ago in Japan the navy lived almost entirely on a diet of unpolished rice. For some reason or other polished rice was substituted for the brown rice. Many of the sailors became ill and died of a disease known as beri-beri. After a time it was suggested by a Japanese scientist that the cause of beri-beri was due to something lacking in the white rice that had been in the brown. This proved to be true and was the beginning of experiments which have resulted in all our present day knowledge of Vitamin B.

Of course this does not mean we should use only brown rice, because in our varied diets we get our supply of Vitamin B from other sources.

Ski-ing Across Canada

Pleasure and competitive skiing now rank high among the major winter sports throughout Canada. The keen sunshiny winter days call thousands to the trails, from the Maritime Provinces in the east to British Columbia in the west. The Canadian Pacific Railway is contributing in large measure to the development of ski areas, both in the east and in the west. From Montreal and eastern United States thousands travel on the "Ski Specials" to the Laurentians each week-end, and on the prairies and in British Columbia other thousands visit Banff, Sunshine Valley and other Canadian Pacific resorts for the winter season. Layout shows, upper left, the ski club on Grouse Mountain,Vancouver; upper right, skiers halting for a breather on a high pass above Sunshine Valley, Canadian Rockies; middle left is a group of Winnipeg enthusiasts on one of the ski trails south of that city, and lower left shows Laurentian Mountain enthusiasts preparing luncheon on the trail. Lower right are two ultra-enthusiasts-object, the famous Laurentian sun-tan.

THE SCOUT-GUIDE SANTA CLAUS

If Santa Claus misses any of the needy homes of Saskatchewan or elsewhere in Canada, it will not be the fault of the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides. For the 14th consecutive year a coast-to-coast chain of Scout-Guide toy repair shops, after working faithfully for weeks, are now completing arrangements for handing their good-as-new toys over to Santa. In many cases local distribution is made in co-operation with service clubs and other welfare bodies. Many rural families whose names have been received from the Toy Shop Secretary at Dominion Scout Headquarters, are remembered by mail. The special effort this year for the dried-out areas took the form of bulk shipments of gifts to the toy shop distribution centres of the eight top shop areas into which Saskatchewan was divided. Eastern toy shops which shipped west included those at New Glasgow, N.S., Fredericton, N.B.; Sherbrooke and Montreal. Que.; Ottawa, London, Hamilton, Toronto, Cardinal, Elora and Clinton, Ont., and in the west, Calgary.

The Chesterville Scout-Guide Toy Shop has sent packages to five western families, two in Saskatchewan and three in Manitoba, helping Santa to cheer up 18 youngsters. Two of these mothers are widows, one having a pair of twins, boy and girl, aged six, and the other twin girls aged two. These two families are in Manitoba and the other Manitoba family also possesses six-year-old twins, boy and girl.

The Women's Institute has helped greatly with gifts of new toys, and the members of Holy Trinity Guild donated a fine lot of clothing to the Scouts and Guides.

Courses Start in January For Rural Centre Girls

Over 100 rural young women in six Ontario counties will receive four weeks' training next month under the Dominion-Provincial training project, Miss Bess McDermand, Superintendent of the Women's Institute Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, stated today. Courses are scheduled for seven counties in February and fourteen in March, Miss McDermand said. Women's organizations all over Ontario are most enthusiastic about the courses and are lending hearty support, she declared. The courses are planned so that the girls will be able to earn their own living in a rural environment.

Four courses are available. They are catering for tourists; marketing of home-baked foods; simple dressmaking and remodelling and rug making. Dressmaking projects are now under way at Warkworth and Wyebridge and are proving most successful, officials state.

Courses in January are scheduled for Winchester on catering for tourists.

The course on catering for tourists will include preparation of breakfast; refreshments and box lunches, table setting and serving; fundamentals of hospitality and etiquette; requirements and care of the guest bedroom; booth displays and simple advertising.

The course in marketing of home-baked foods will include instruction and practice in making rolls, pies, cakes, cookies, etc.; practice in judging baked products ;organization of a home market and problems in selling.

The news reached the editor of the local paper and he acted promptly. "Send down two reporters,' he ordered; "one to touch the wire and the other to write up the story."
