Alexandria seeks input

Zoning by-law meeting called

A public meeting has been called to discuss Alexandria's proposed zoning by-law.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m., November 1st, at the provincial court, 90 Main Street South.

This is the town's first zoning by-law and it restricts land use in the municipality under six major zones—residential, commercial, industrial, institutional, open space and hazard. There is also a "holding" zone, which allows the town to control future development in certain areas.

The residential zoning contains six sub-zones allowing different densities of development.

The commercial zone is broken down into five sub-headings, including general commercial and highway commercial.

A copy of the proposed by-law and the map showing the zones may be viewed at the town hall during office hours.

Clerk-Treasurer Don Collin is urging citizens to attend the public meeting and air any concerns they may have prior to council passing the by-law.

Under the proposed zoning, mobile homes and sectional homes would be restricted to mobile home parks.

The by-law also contains the same section on home occupations contained in Lochiel Township's by-law, where concern has been expressed that home uses are being too restricted.

The section states that "instructions in or business involving music, religion, dancing, arts and crafts, (including weaving, painting, sculpturing), sewing, hairdressing or academics, shall be permitted provided that where instruction is carried on, there will be not more than eight pupils at any one time."

The by-law provides zones for such housing as single-family dwellings, duplex dwellings, rooming and boarding houses, and row housing.

SHADES OF DAYS GONE BY—Alexandria spent a few minutes in the past Saturday morning when a steam locomotive stopped over to take on water supplied by the Alexandria Fire Department. The train was a special CN excursion to Ottawa. The locomotive, number 6060 is an oil fired, rather than coal fired engine built originally for the prairie provinces where coal was harder to come by. The engine was built at the Montreal Locomotive Works in 1944 and was retired to Jasper, Alberta in 1962 where it stood on display. It was brought back to service in 1973 for excursions such as this one. It was one of a series numbered 6060 to 6079, the last steam locomotives built in this country. —Staff photo.

GFA members reject corn market board

The Glengarry Federation of Agriculture says it is opposed to the creation of a corn marketing board.

At a special meeting recently, about 30 members voted unanimously against such a board, a GFA press release says.

The meeting also rejected the concept of Ontario establishing a Farm Implements Act which would require all implement dealers to be licensed.

Federation directors Donald Thomson and Gerard Massie will carry these messages to an upcoming meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture in Toronto.

"Due to our proximity to the importing province of Quebec, the local corn grain growers of the county did not feel the need for a marketing board at this time," the release says.

The OFA's research department has stated that "a corn marketing board with powers to buy and sell or with pricing is not the practical solution to current difficulties.

"About 40 per cent of Ontario grain corn is fed on Ontario farms, much of it without entering commercial channels. With so many kinds of buyers and so many individual buyers and sellers, it appears that an agency to handle all corn sales is out of the question for the foreseeable future.

"An agency would be constrained to set prices in direct relation to the Chicago corn price, in any case."

The OFA grains committee suggests "that a negotiating marketing board with low-level functions is what is suitable under present conditions."

Such a negotiating board of producers "could lobby for needs RICHER BY FAR—Kathleen Levert of the First Concession, Kenyon Township, displays the winning ticket number, 2269016, that won her $100,000 in the October 9 Loto Canada draw. Mrs. Levert purchased the ticket at the Royal Bank in Alexandria. "I didn't sleep from Sunday to Tuesday," she said, "as I had no way of checking out the numbers which we recorded as the draw was being made. Monday was a holiday and we had to wait until Tuesday's paper came out. All in all, it was very hectic,'

A winner

Giant weed found stalking corn fields, Humphries says

Glengarry Agricultural Representative Jim Humphries is asking area farmers to be on the lookout for a new weed known as "velvetleaf."

The weed was discovered recently growing in a local corn field and because of its size Humphries feels it could cause considerable damage to crops. A sample on display in his office was more than nine feet tall.

The weed looks like a maple sapling with small yellow flowers. Its growth is determined by the host crop. For example, if it were growing in a field of oats it could reach three feet. But in a corn field it often reaches nine and 10 feet.

"It appears to have the ability to grow one or two feet taller than the crop it is growing in," states a brochure from the Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Velvetleaf originated in India. Now it has become well adapted to most of the United States and part of southern Ontario, particularly in Essex, Kent, Lambton, Middlesex and Elgin Counties and more recently Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

Velvetleaf is a very difficult weed to control. It very often escapes most weed control programs, particularly as the growing season progresses and the activity of herbicides is reduced.

For most herbicides results are very erratic. Conditions during a particular season have a strong influence on the performance of a herbicide. Rainfall soon after application is very necessary for satisfactory results with pre-emergency herbicides.

"The best method of control is to pull the weed," Humphries said.

Lochiel's by-law gets 39 comments

Lochiel Township has received 39 official comments on its proposed zoning by-law, clerk Elmer McNaughton reports.

Four people have asked for different zonings, eight have expressed support for the by-law and the remainder have objected.

Some objectors have not indicated the sections of the by-law to which they are opposed, the clerk said.

He speculates that many people have filed the written protests to ensure they have the right to speak at the public hearing.

He added that many people are objecting to the restrictive section on home uses which says "instructions in or business involving music, religion, dancing, arts and crafts, (including weaving, painting, sculpturing), sewing or academics, shall be permitted provided that where instruction is carried on, there will be not more than eight people at any one time."

One person has asked that property in the Seventh Concession east of Dalkeith be zoned "mobile home park" and two property owners in Glen Robertson have asked that their land be zoned for mobiles.

Another objector has asked that his land be down-zoned from industrial to rural.

The Ontario Municipal Board will hold a public hearing in the future and all those filing comments will be notified and have the right to speak.

The meeting will be open to the general public.

MP gets post back

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau has announced the re-appointment of Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Denis Ethier as assistant deputy speaker for the House of Commons for the coming session.

St. Andrew's honored in Lancaster

Church has 190th birthday

To commemorate 190 years of service in the community, the congregation of historic St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, South Lancaster, was deeply involved in a series of special events last weekend.

Joined by many friends from neighboring congregations and by former members, the Lancaster folk were happy to have as their special guests at the service on Sunday evening, two of their own former members, Rev. Lloyd Fourney, Moose Jaw, Sask., and his brother, Rev. Robert Fourney, Summerside, P.E.I., the sons of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fourney, Lancaster. These young men were invited by the Kirk Session to share in the leadership of the evening service of worship.

Rev. Lloyd Fourney conducted the service and Rev. Robert Fourney preached the sermon on the theme, "A Vision for Tomorrow."

Rev. D. Ross MacDonald, minister of the church, welcomed the large congregations at both the morning and evening services. He extended thanks to all those who had contributed in any way to the success of the weekend's program and to the ladies who provided the turkey dinner Saturday night.

Warmly welcomed as guest speaker to the morning service of worship was Rev. Dr. W. L. MacLellan, minister of Knox Presbyterian Church, Morrisburg, and for many years minister of St. John's Church, Cornwall.

The theme of Dr. MacLellan's sermon was "Our Present Help."

Soloist at the morning service was Carol Meyer. In the evening there was a vocal duet by Heather MacRae and Mrs. D. Ross MacDonald. The choir rendered the anthem, "How Great Thou Art," with James Rayside singing the solo. Organist was Malcolm Cumming.

At the morning service a beautiful St. Andrew's flag was presented by 1st Lancaster Boy Scouts to St. Andrew's Church,

Local schools a low priority

Alexandria schools are still at the bottom of the list in this year's long-range capital expenditure forecast for the SD&G Roman Catholic Separate School Board.

The forecast, presented at Tuesday's board meeting, calls for expenditures totalling $3.8 million over the next five years.

Proposed additions to The Alexander School and Ecole du Perpetuel-Secours are not scheduled to be started until September, 1980.

The board staff proposal calls for three building ventures during 1978—a new school in the north of Cornwall, and additions to St. Peter School in Cornwall and St. Andrew's School in St. Andrew's.

At St. Andrew's, the addition for one kindergarten, two classrooms and a library resource centre would cost $265,600, and be ready by September, 1979. The report notes:

"Five classrooms are presently being utilized from the former St. Andrew's private high school now owned by the board.

"It appears that the people of the St. Andrew's school area are against senior schools and would prefer to be accommodated in their own home village instead of having their children transported to Cornwall on account of the distance.

"The Ministry of Education will not allow the use of the St. Andrew's former private high school facilities as permanent accommodation."

The new school would be built in Cornwall's Hill Island subdivision or vicinity and house Kindergarten to Grade 8.

The staff report says "This project of a completely new school will eventually incorporate the demolition of the old section of Sacred Heart School and the building of an addition to the same school.

"If this project is approved, the old section of Sacred Heart School would then be demolished and replaced by a Resource Centre and a staff room for a complete

To serve Moose Creek area

Separate Board opens La Source

La Source, the newest addition to the SD&G Roman Catholic Separate School Board was officially opened Sunday in Moose Creek.

Cutting the customary ribbon to open the school were Richard Lawton, chief architect for the Ontario Ministry of Education and Trustee Gilles Metivier, former RCSS board chairman.

Also taking part in the ceremony were Bishop Eugene LaRocque, who officiated at the blessing of the building, school principal Mrs. Anita Barque, and Osie Villeneuve, MPP for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

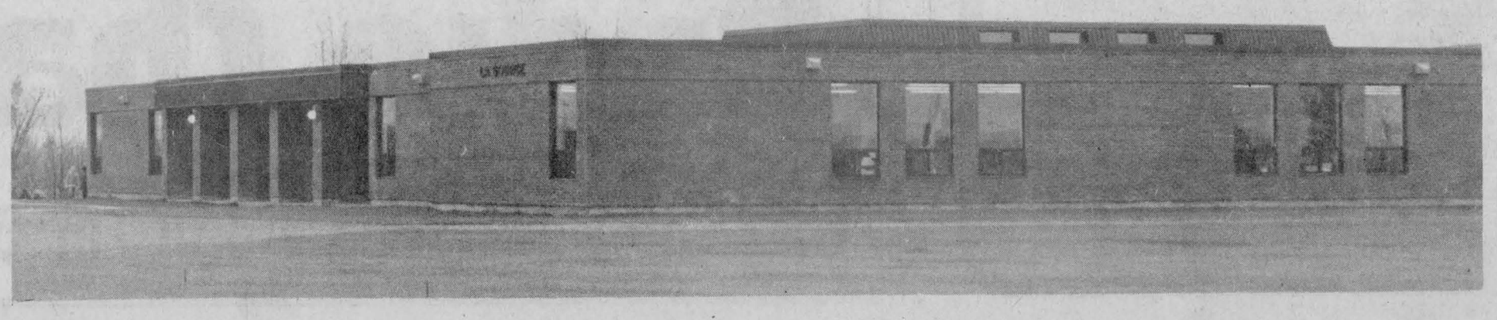
The school includes grades one to eight as well as kindergarten. The class rooms are constructed in such a way that each one faces the library, located in the centre of the building.

The library itself has an added feature in the form of a reading pit. It consists of a carpeted half circular staircase leading into a pit. The person giving a reading simply sits in the bottom of the pit while the students sit around on the carpeted stairway.

The school also boasts a completely equipped gym and stage.

As new as the school is, it is already too small for the number of students attending and three portable classrooms have had to be installed to accommodate the overflow.

The new building replaces the brick building known as Our Lady of Angels School.



Black cat brings woman bad luck

Even though legend has it that black cats bring bad luck, Alexandria resident Nicole Trudel got more than her fair share last Wednesday.

The woman was involved in a freak automobile accident in front of 121 St. George Street when a black cat jumped into her car and frightened her.

Mrs. Trudel had stopped her car to let passenger Claudette Larocque out when the cat jumped in through the open door.

Mrs. Trudel was so startled she jumped out of her car, which was still in gear.

The car continued without its driver, striking a curb in front of 85 St. George, continuing across to the south side of the road to the Lionel Glaude residence at 36 St. George where it flattened three steel posts and drove over a blue spruce.

The vehicle then crossed over to Sinclair Street West where it struck a post and guy wire, pulling out the wire, before coming to rest against a swimming pool fence.

Damage to the car is estimated at $1,000 with property damage totalling about $500, Alexandria Police Chief Sylvio Cleroux reports.

Local exhibitors placed well at Ottawa Winter Fair

Glengarry had its share of contestants in the Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec Championship Calf Show at the Ottawa Winter Fair.

Competing in the junior Holstein heifer class was Sharon MacRae in Division Two. In Division Three were Perry Tyner, Bonnie Smits, Donna Lee Thompson and Barbara Ann Van Loon.

Walter Brokx was the only local contestant with an entry in the senior Holstein heifers division, class one. In division two, were Gordon Howes; Sandra MacLeod and Heather MacRae. Gordon was the winner of the division reserve championship.

Alma Smits won the division reserve championship in class three.

Two locals had entries in the junior Ayrshire heifer competition; Joan Lothian and Mary McCrimmon. Senior Ayrshire contestant was Louis Groetelaars.

Glengarry County as a whole, was the winner of the reserve champion, group three, junior Holstein heifers. It is an inter-county 4-H calf competition with one entry per county in each class.

Sandra MacLeod represented Glengarry in the cattle showmanship competition.

In other competition John Van Loon was champion exhibitor in the seed and farm produce section; Donald McCrimmon was the reserve champion and Anthony Vogel also gave a fine showing in that same category.

In the 4-H crops entries John Van Loon once again came away a winner with the grand champion ear corn in the cob corn class. Winner of the reserve grand champion ear corn was Lenny Van Loon. Robbie Sova also competed in this category.

Sandra MacPherson won second prize in the 4-H leaf collection and Norma MacPherson placed sixth.

Mrs. Ubald Poirier died in 53rd year

Well known in the Alexandria area where she was active in many organizations, Mrs. Ubald Poirier died on Thursday, October 13th in Ottawa General. She was 52, and had been in failing health for the past few years.

The former Cecile Levac, she was the daughter of the late Wilfred Levac and his wife, Rose Delima Diotte.

In addition to her husband, she leaves to mourn her loss one son, Denis and two grandchildren, Anik and Melanie.

She also leaves two sisters and four brothers: Eva, Mrs. Arcade Lauzon; Exile, Mrs. Jean Trottier; Arcidas and Victor Levac all of Alexandria; Rosaire Levac, Verdun and Bruno Levac, St. Catharines.

She was a Past Regent of the Daughters of Isabella; Past President of the Ladies of Ste. Anne in Sacred Heart Parish; a member of La Federation des Femmes Canadienne Francaises, Le Cercle des Fermieres and Glengarry Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

The funeral was held in Sacred Heart Church on Monday, Oct. 17th where mass was offered by Rev. Raymond Dumoulin. Burial was in Sacred Heart Cemetery.

Pallbearers were six nephews: Rejean Poirier, Jean Marc Leduc, Jacques Trottier, Bertrand Brunet, Michel Lauzon and Robert Levac.

Junior Kindergarten to Grade Six school.

"Grades Seven and Eight pupils of the Sacred Heart School area would attend the new school instead of Bishop Macdonell Senior School, thus relieving the high enrolment."

Total cost of the project is estimated at about one million and the English-language school is expected to be ready by September 1979.

An increase in the number of pupils in Junior Kindergarten and Kindergarten at Perpetuel-Secours will necessitate the eventual construction of two classrooms and one library resource centre, a board staff report says. Cost would be $220,000.

Two classrooms and a resource centre, costing $220,000 in total, are proposed for The Alexander School. The staff report notes:

"1. There are four portable classrooms at this school.

"2. The portables are used for the older children which means that they are crowded and hard to control with regard to temperature.

"3. A resource centre, a Junior Kindergarten class, and an Oral French teaching classroom are new needs.

"4. Enrolment in the community has been stable."

as to terminal storage space, transportation subsidies, tariff and trade equity, and research for cheaper drying," the committee suggests.

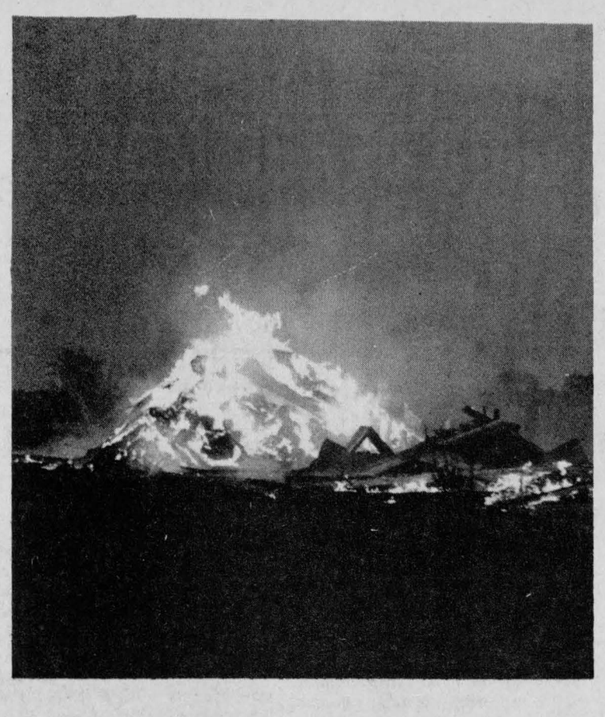
According to the GFA release, the local group rejected the idea of a Farm Implement Act because "the majority ruled that this new legislation would create more red tape and further increase the price of farm equipment."

Four provinces have enacted similar statutes which require dealers to meet certain standards such as making repair parts available for a period of 10 years from the date of sale of the implement.

Most of these provinces require a small licensing fee from dealers, but Manitoba can also ask for a $10,000 bond.

Manitoba also has a more extensive warranty plan which requires dealers to guarantee their equipment against defects in materials and workmanship.

Tractors, for example, are guaranteed for two years or 1,500 hours of use.



Early morning blaze

Fire destroyed the barn of Mrs. Jennie Cameron, Glen Robertson Road, yesterday. No livestock were being kept in the building. However, several hundreds bales of hay and a baler were lost to the flames. Mrs. Cameron is now without runnig water as the pump supplying the house was located in the barn. The cause of the fire is not know. The Alexandria Fire Department responded to the call at 6:15 that morning. A neighbor, Evariste Jeaurond phoned in the alarm. It's a matter of good luck turning to bad as it was only last Thursday that Mrs. Cameron won $1,000 in a Wintario draw.

Jr. B Glens defeat Metcalfe in opener

If the rest of the Alexandria Junior B Glens season is anything like the first two minutes and 54 seconds of their home opener they will be a shoo-in for the league championship this year.

The Glens hosted the Metcalfe Jets Friday night at the Sports Palace and in less than three minutes from the opening face-off they scored four classic goals.

With only one minute and 43 seconds gone on the clock Ray Bourdon flipped in an unassisted goal. Then 21 seconds later Leo Seguin slapped one in with an assist from his brother Paul and Terry Grant.

Paul and Leo then traded places 24 seconds later when the older Seguin put one past the goaltender with an assist from brother Leo and Yvan Desautels.

The fourth of the flurry came 24 seconds later with only two minutes and 54 seconds played, and once again the Seguin brothers teamed up to put it past the Jets goaltender. Leo took a pass from Paul and made no mistake with a little flip over and in the net after drawing the goalie well out of his crease.

The Glens left Metcalfe skating around in circles for several more minutes. However, that was the only scoring that was to be done in the first period.

Metcalfe regained their cool and started to play a better brand of hockey than they had done in the first few minutes.

The Jets were first on the scoreboard in the second period when Dale Carson put one past Glens goaltender Stephen MacDonell. However, the Glens came right back with a breakaway goal from Mike Beauclair. Mike did a beautiful job of stealing the puck at his own blueline, beating everyone up the ice. He let it fly from about 25 feet in front of the net. The goaltender never had a chance.

The entire second period was a very entertaining brand of hokcey with good fast end-to-end play. The last goal of the game was scored with only five minutes remaining in that period. Glen MacDonell intercepted a Metcalfe pass and flipped it over to Yvan Desautels who only had to touch it with his stick to poke it into the net.

Final score. Glens 6, Metcalfe 1.

The entire game was penalty ridden with a large portion resulting from fights. Metcalfe drew 14 individual penalties with 25 being given the Glens.

Glens winger, Scott Grant drew seven penalties alone, including three roughing and two game misconducts. Harvey Primeau of the Glens was also assessed a game misconduct.

Chris Bradford, number three from Metcalfe was assessed six penalties, including a game misconduct.

The first period saw the Glens receive 10 penalties. Five more in the second period and 10 in the third.

In all both the Jets and the Glens spent as much time fighting during the third period as they did playing hockey.

Metcalfe is not the strongest team in the league. But they were strong enough competition to give the Glens new goaltender, Stephen MacDonell a testing.

If Friday night is a sample of what he can do then the Glens have found themselves an extra fine net minder.

Stephen fended off all but one Metcalfe shot with a cool seldom seen in Junior B hockey. Most goaltenders appear to be overworked in this league due to their lack of ability. But Stephen never appeared to be trying hard. No one could do as fine a job of fending off shots without first having the ability and MacDonell certainly has that ability. Not forgetting the Glens defensive play.

Then there are the Seguin brothers, Paul the older and Leo. Between the two of them they counted for three goals and three assists. Leo scored twice, both of which were assisted by brother Paul and Paul scored once with assistance from brother Leo.

The Glens will once again have the services of Luc Poirier starting next week when they visit St. Isidore.

Luc had played the past two seasons on defence for the Glens, but was called up this season by the Junior A Brockville Braves.

However, schooling became a problem and Luc has returned to Alexandria.

Luc had transferred to a Brockville high school but found it difficult to make his grades. "Had I stayed in Brockville I wouldn't have completed my high school this year," said Luc. "So I felt it would be best if I returned to Alexandria."

Luc will be released by the Braves for this season and will probably return to the Braves camp next winter. His release allows him to play only Junior B hockey and will not permit him to go to any other Junior A club.

When Glens Coach Joe Kelly was asked if Luc would be playing his usual position of defence he replied, "Probably, but first he will have to make the team."

Over 400 people attended the opening game.

A new twist was added to the time slot between the first and second periods. Two numbers are drawn from the 50-50 draw and the holders of these numbers are given a chance to shoot the puck into the net from centre ice. If they make it on one of their two chances they win $5. If not the pot is increased to $10 for the next home game and so on to $15 and $20. However there is a catch. A board is placed in front of the net with the only opening measuring approximately six inches wide.

The 50-50 draw was not claimed Friday. The winning number was "pink 2602".

The Glens next home game is Sunday, Oct. 30th, when they host the Navan Grads.

GLENS GRAB SEASON OPENER—The Alexandria Junior B Glens defeated the Metcalfe Jets 6 to 1 Friday night here and their victory was mostly due to that extra bit of hustle. Glen MacDonell, right, let the Jets know he wasn't going to give up the possession of the puck without an effort in this shoving match behind Glens goaltender Stephen MacDonell.

House league coaches named

The ADMHA executive and directors met with the house league coaches on Thursday, Oct. 13th to draw up the teams for the coming season.

Coaching the novice division this year are Glen Smith, Dr. Andre Cuerrier, Denis Vaillancourt and Gerald Sauve.

Atom division coaches are Gilles Joannette, Jean Lous Lefebvre, Arthur Cadieux, and Paul Roy.

Coaching the peewee division are Alex Spooner, Andre Boisvenue, Gerald Flaro and Doug Gallinger.

Bantam coaches are Rupert Epp, Ray McDonald, Claude Ranger, Luc Seguin and Ron Allison.

Leo Poirier and Glen Murray will coach the midgets. However, the ADMHA needs one more coach for this category.

All players will be contacted by their coach as to when their next ice time is scheduled.

Jr. B Glens have signed agreement with Jr. A Hawks

The Junior "B" Glens have come to an agreement with the Hawkesbury Junior "A" Hawks in that the Hawks may use as many as three Glens Players and viceversa.

A junior "A" team can only hold cards for five 20 year old players. However because of a terminology in league regulations they can borrow as many as three junior age players from another team.

It is for this season that the Glens have signed an affiliation with the Hawks. "All it ammounts to is that we are doing the Hawkesbury team a favour", said Glens Assistant Manager Billy Gebbie.

The possibility of player borrowing will end on January 10. This is because the Glens can no longer protect more than 19 players after that date.

The Glens have the same affiliation with the newly formed Alexandria Junior C team.

The Junior C team will be for junior age players only who are not of a caliber to play junior B hockey. ODHA regulations also state that "no midget player may take part in a Junior C team."

Included in the Junior C league are the Char-Lan Rebels, Maxville, Chesterville, Finch, Osnabruck Township, Alexandria and Embrun who played in the same league as the junior B Glens last season.

CCVS alone in first place in high school football

by Angus H. McDonell

As a result of last Friday's triple header of the SD&G high school football schedule, it appears now that our two Glengarry school teams are to play for the fourth place play-off rung.

Both Char-Lan Crusaders and GDHS Gaels lost their respective games on Friday. Tagwi Warriors inched by Char-Lan in a 20-18 Williamstown cliff-hanger. In Cornwall, St. Lawrence blanked the Gaels 26-0. Please note, a youthful gutty Gaels team lost—they were not humiliated as reported in the Standard-Freeholder.

CCVS won their third straight, 16-7, over Vanier. Hence the Golden Raiders kept one stride ahead of St. Lawrence and Tagwi who are tied for second.

The St. Lawrence high school athletic field must rate as one of the finest in Ontario. And their current football team measures up to their campus rating by being one of the teams that could be in the championship final.

Gaels held the Saints to a tough scoreless first quarter. Then the early season predicted St. Lawrence backfield power began to take its toll on the younger, lighter Gaels. By midway time St. Lawrence held a commanding 13-0 lead. Then doubled the score in the last half.

The Saints kicked off and had Gaels back on their 15 to start their first sequence. Gaels racked up two impressive first downs before Scott Hay was called on to punt.

St. Lawrence took over on their 40 and making little headway gambled on third down. Gaels line didn't yield an inch and the ball was theirs. Forced to punt, Scott Hay unloaded a lofty spiral driving the Saints back to their 10. The home offence still couldn't pierce Gaels' defence. They had to give up the ball. But not in the usual way. Gaels' Roy MacMaster broke through and sacked Saints' Mike Piche before he could get the kick away. Gaels took over on Saints' five. Slight gain on first down. On second, Wally Martin grabbed a qb handoff and hit for the south-east goal line corner flag. Martin's fine burst of speed took him into the end zone for a Gaels' td. But it was all for naught. Gaels were tagged for clipping. On second down, after the penalty yards were tagged on, Saints broke through and grounded Gaels' pilot Chenier for another big yardage loss. Hay's punt was short and Saints started the second quarter in good field position.

Gaels recovered the ball on a Saints' fumble. Then on the very next play GDHS gave the ball right back on a similar line play fumble.

St. Lawrence made no more mistakes. They moved the ball all the way on ground plays to Gaels' 20. From here, Rick McCullough galloped around the right side and it was all daylight into Gaels' end zone. The convert failed.

Gaels were again hemmed in their own end by a lofty Piche kickoff. Failing to move the sticks, Gaels' Scott Hay had to punt from 10 yards deep in his own end zone. Saints kept up their momentum and backed GDHS to their five. Saints' qb, Lalonde, sent the flow to his left, then handed off to running back Champagne going right and pivoting, like an old time lacrosse forward, right over the goal line for six more. The convert was on target and at half time it was Saints 13, Gaels 0.

The game was practically all St. Lawrence in the second half. Rick McCullough from a back slot lit the fuse that sparked an 85-yard run to score the St. Lawrence third major. McAllister came right back to add the final points to the Saints' total.

In the last quarter Gaels' "rookie" Sandy Maclaren experienced the ambition of every first year player—come up with a big play. Saints' bulldozer back, Daniel Champagne, fumbled the handoff and Sandy Maclaren pounced on the ball like a hawk, recovering for GDHS. Time was running out so with this take-over by Gaels, Andre Chenier, like all quarterbacks at this stage and score of a game, went to the air with desperation passes. There was some success, however, no points were posted so the final was St. Lawrence 26, Glengarry District 0.

In Williamstown, the Crusaders almost recorded the upset of the campaign as they dropped a climax thriller to Tagwi Warriors, 20-18. Allan MacDonell filled the hero role as he scored the slim margin of victory in the last play of the game.

Char-Lan broke from the opening kickoff and churned the turf for enough yardage to get the Crusaders within field goal range. Warriors threw up a touchdown road block but they had to yield to a Char-Lan placement kick that split the cedars and the home squad was ahead 3-0 in the early minutes.

In the second quarter Crusaders came up with another fruitful drive. They were not stopped this time and Bruce Dubeau scored a major that was converted and Williamstown was ahead 10-0 at half time.

During the rest period, Tagwi coach, Don Bond, must have made adjustments to both his offence and defence units. In the third quarter, quarterback Peter Wensink lugged the mail over himself for a td. Then Wensink polished off this scoring thrust with a two-point conversion pass. Before the final change of ends, Rick McPhail gave Warriors the lead for the first time by a td tally. The convert try failed. Score now entering the final fifteen, Warriors 14, Crusaders 10.

As so frequently happens in close scoring games, whether they are school level or CFL, for the next 12 minutes it was all trench warfare as the defence refused to yield on either side. Then, again as so frequently happens—the thrilling climax. The three-minute whistle had sounded. Char-Lan had the ball. And Bruce Dubeau did the rest as he scored his second major that gave Char-Lan the lead, with the convert, 17-14. Crusaders boomed the after td kickoff into the Warrior end zone. Now Warriors have the ball on their 25. The final minute flag is unfurled. Three plays left. Peter Wensink threw a short pass over the line to Allan MacDonell for 12 yards and move the sticks. Then Wensink pulled the trigger again and this time hit Rick MacGillis on the numbers and at centre field. Last play. Warriors break huddle and line up in an obvious pass pattern. This time Peter Wensink went to Warriors' bread-and-butter guy, Allan MacDonell. Once again, as he has done so often in the past, the St. Andrew's hurricane latched on to the ball, turned on the jets and he was gone. Game over, Tagwi 20, Char-Lan 18.

In the CCVS-Vanier game, Raiders couldn't come up with the winning points until the final quarter. Steve O'Reilly gave CCVS the final margin to win 17-7.

This Friday Gaels host Tagwi, CCVS are in Williamstown, St. Lawrence meet Vanier.

Cathy's Tavern in football finals

By Doug Dumouchel

Cathy's Tavern earned their way to the touch football finals by defeating Williamstown two games to one in the semi-finals. The final game of that series was played on Saturday at GDHS.

Cathy's scored early in the first quarter as QB Rick Schneider combined with wide receiver Jean Paul Claude in the end zone for the first major of the game. The convert attempt was unsuccessful.

Jean Paul was used both ways in that game. Defensively he had the rushing chores replacing Yvon Bellefeuille who sufferred a shoulder separation. Jean Paul, later in the quarter, tagged Williamstown QB Kenny MacDonald in the end zone for a safety touch.

Cathy's struck again early in the second quarter, as Phil Dumouchel, also assigned to double duty, intercepted an attempted Williamstown pass and scampered twenty yards for six points.

Cathy's improved their margin when Rick Schneider rambled in himself for the TD after spearheading a successful 70-yd drive to the Williamstown 10-yd line where he took the ball in himself. Danny O'Brien completed the conversion.

Williamstown took possession of the ball in the third quarter deep in their zone and Kenny's final pass of the march went to Gordie MacDonald for the touchdown. However, that drive used up fifteen minutes of the quarter, and Williamstown needing 15 more points to tie the game would have to strike fast.

Cathy's put the game away in the last quarter as Rick Schneider delivered a perfect TD pass to Herb Malcomson who was left unattended in the end zone.

Another nail was put in the coffin on a 75 yd TD pass and run play. Rick to Paul Masson who made a superb catch, and turned on the speed for the rest of the way. Jim McCormick converted.

On the final play of the game Kenny threw a TD pass to Clare Crawford. Ian MacKay converted. Final score, Cathy's Tavern 34 Williamstown 13.

Cathy's defense played an oustanding game all day giving the offence good field position numerous times thanks to seven interceptions. Danny O'Brien playing both ways had three, and one each going to Claude Godard, John, Phil and Doug Dumouchel.

Awards night Nov. 5th at the Sports Palace.

High school cheer-leading to be held on Saturday

The GDHS cheer leaders will be trying to win back their title in the upcoming championship competition at St. Lawrence College.

They are practising hard under the direction of Mrs. Therese Whelan with help from Miss Lynn Whitham and senior student Terry Gagnon.

The competition will be held at St. Lawrence College and is sponsored by a major softdrink manufacturer.

If they win this preliminary competition open to the 10 area schools, they will go on to the CFRA championships which they won two years ago. At that time they put on an exhibition at the half time show in an Ottawa Rough Riders game.

In competition they must do a prescribed routine and one of their own choosing. They must include athletic movement, an entrance and an exit cheer in a total six-minute display.

GDHS cheer leaders are: Valerie McLachlan, Louise Secours, Lyse Belanger, Lucie Legault, Dawn Petrie, Lucie Poirier, Lynn Hurtubise, Debbie and Jo-Ann O'Connor and Beverley Lemieux.

MacDONALD—DECOEUR

St. Martin of Tours Church, Glen Robertson, was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday, September 24th at 4 p.m. when Lucille Decoeur became the bride of Allen MacDonald. Rev. Bruno Pilon officiated at the ceremony and Christine Legault was organist and soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Decoeur, Glen Robertson and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard MacDonald, Glen Nevis.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white poly-chiffon. Lace applique trimmed the sheer bodice, high neckline and full bishop sleeves. A full-length skirt, flounced at hem, led to an attached chapel train. Her crown-shaped headpiece, covered with lace, secured her chapel-length veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses, baby's breath and fern.

She was attended by her sister, Ginette, as maid of honor and a friend, Francine Titley as bridesmaid. Suzanne den Otter, niece of the bride, was flower girl. They wore identical gowns of pink floral chiffon.

The groom was attended by his brother, Ronald MacDonald as best man and Yvon Delorme was usher.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the Bonnie Glen, after which the couple left for a trip to Wildwood, New Jersey. The bride wore a navy blue suit with cream colored blouse.

They will reside in Glen Nevis.

Hobby is model railways

"My family has a background in railways" said Stuart Upton when he was asked what got him interested in model railways.

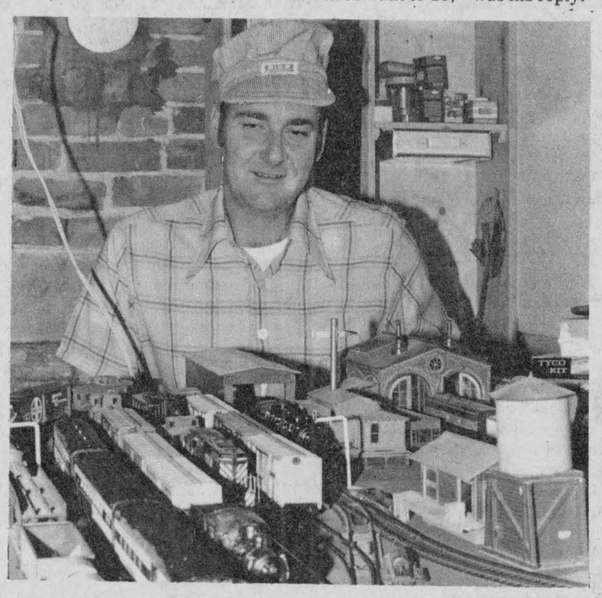
"Our home farm in Lancaster was only three acres from the railway tracks which may have been a contributing factor to my interest in locomotives. As a matter of fact, my mother tells me that when I was put to bed as a boy, the first train to come by would always lull me to sleep."

Stuart has carried his interest for the railway through to this day. An example of it can be seen in his basement model railway layout.

This is a scale model of a typical shunting yard during the middle of this century. It incorporates an automatic engine turntable for a round house, shop and repair buildings, switching yards and what ever else would have been needed in such an operation.

The whole operation got started when he purchased his home on Bishop Street. His wife Helen advised that he should have a hobby.

"If that's the case, I know just what I want to do," was his reply.



Stuart's first cousin was the regular fireman on number 6218, the Montreal to Toronto fast train which was an added factor in what was to be a life-long study in steam.

Stuart had hopes, as many boys do, of becoming a locomotive engineer. But times were changing and along came the diesel locomotive and out went both his chances and some of his affection for the railway.

The hobby started seven years ago and includes photos and statistics of almost every steam locomotive that ever ran in Canada. "It's a winter-time hobby," he said, "and it is the type of pastime that is never quite complete."

However, costs have changed considerably in the past seven years. "What once cost $10, now costs in the vicinity of $35."

Included in his collection are six engines, four diesels and two steam, each of which is a scale model of the original.

When the outfit goes into operation Stuart and his two children, Ray and Tina don their engineer's hats and coveralls and they are all off to work at their make believe railway jobs.

Stuart is a stationary engineer at Carnation and his collection of railway cars includes one painted with the usual Carnation advertising. "I had to search high and low to find that one," he said.

The collection also includes a small steam operated tractor. But his latest hobby is CB radio. And what would his handle be? None other than "Casey Jones."

Devilishly good!

Deviled eggs can be packed easily in lunch bags. Halve hard-cooked eggs, scoop out yolks and mash with mayonnaise, salad dressing, or chili-sauce, plus a dash of salt and pepper. Other seasonings may be added, such as mustard, finely chopped celery, green pepper, olives, cooked bacon, onion, pickle, or nuts. Refill the whites, press halves together, and wrap in plastic wrap, ready for carrying.

Solar heating widespread in 25 years

Federal Environment Minister Len Marchand has released a report which predicts that solar home heating will become widespread in Canada within 25 years.

The report entitled, Solar Home Heating in Canada: Problems and Perspectives, was sponsored by the Advanced Concepts Centre of the Department of the Environment, and was prepared by Drs. Harold S. Foster and W. R. Derrick Sewell of the Department of Geography, University of Victoria. It reflects the attitudes of 14 different socio-economic groups which in some way could sway public opinion in favor of solar heating.

Included in those polled were inventors, equipment manufacturers, architects, builders, media personalities, bankers, labor leaders, realtors and officials of utilities and various levels of government.

Most Canadian manufacturers expect 40 per cent of Canadian housing to be solar heated by the year 2001 whereas provincial government and utility officials anticipate that only 10 per cent of all homes will be solar heated by the same date. However, all groups indicated that they expected solar heating to inevitably increase.

To date in Canada there are less than 100 solar heated homes. Drs. Foster and Sewell identified a series of reasons for the lack of solar heating in Canada.

—the high initial cost of solar systems;

—the problem of installing solar heating in older homes;

—the lack of tangible federal incentives;

—public apathy to environmental deterioration associated with fossil fuel usage;

—conservatism on the part of mortgage granting institutions and the building trades.

To rectify the situation, the authors have made the following recommendations:

—the establishment of a consortium of government and private interests to manufacture and install solar equipment;

—the setting up of a series of "catalyst areas" or "solar zones" where special incentives would be offered;

—that Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation furnish lower mortgage rate mortgages to purchasers of solar homes;

—that mortgage payments be deductible from pre-tax income;

—that Canadians should be able to take part in special tours of hotels, motels and other buildings that have installed subsidized solar heating. Those persons interested would be able to address enquiries about costs, design and installation to a proposed National Solar Energy Information Centre, using a widely publicized Zenith number.

Copies of the report are available from the Office of the Science Advisor, Fisheries and Environment Canada, Ottawa, K1A 0H3.

Council solicits the co-operation and support of the citizens of the Corporation in its efforts to protect property and would appreciate any assistance that can be rendered to alleviate acts of mischief and vandalism.

SAVE THOSE FATS

A smart homemaker saves by reducing the amounts of processed fats and oils needed, by switching from deep-frying to pan-broiling; by roasting meats on a rack and collecting drippings for later use. One pound of strip bacon, for example, yields ¾ to 1 cup of drippings which can be used to fry other foods, to make cookies, muffins, meat pie crusta etc.
When you trim meats, save the fat for rendering. Rendering is easily done by placing the fat on a cold dry skillet and melting over medium heat. Strain through cheesecloth (or j-Cloth) to remove any solids. Store the rendered fat and drippings in a jar or tiny crock - they'll keep for several weeks.

EDITORIAL

IT'S OUR OPINION

Inflation hitting Glengarry hard

For decades, residents here have been trying to convince economic planners at Queen's Park that more development, particularly commercial and industrial development, is needed in this part of the province.

We have received many promises.

Now Revenue Canada tells us that Glengarry County is one of the poorest areas in the entire country.

Using income tax returns, the federal agency has compiled statistics showing that average 1975 salaries in the county actually dropped from the year before—a distinction shared by few other areas in the nation.

Cornwall and the other two counties in our United Counties system fared better, but they, too, failed to keep pace with provincial and national averages.

The taxation figures show that Cornwall is the poorest of Canada's 100 largest urban centres. Residents of the city reported an average income of $7,390 in 1975.

In Stormont, average income was $7,508 and in Dundas, $6,969. Both counties were up $850 and $602 respectively. Glengarry dropped $137 to $6,409.

The figures not only show that promised prosperity for our area has failed to materialize, but that we are, in fact, sinking even further into the quagmire of economic decline.

This is the third consecutive year in which Cornwall has fallen in the average income standings. In 1971, the city was holding down spot number 72. The following year it climbed to 67. In 1973, it dropped back to 68 and in 1974 plummeted to 96.

Combining all figures for the city and United Counties, area income rose considerably less than the Ontario average in 1975, indicating that we have yet to share fairly in the economic growth of the province.

Where is all the money going?

At the top of Revenue Canada's list we find Oakville, an affluent western suburb of Toronto. Oakville residents' average income was $11,714. Second on the list is another community in the "Golden Horseshoe" around Lake Ontario, Burlington, with an average income of $11,527.

We will be the first to admit that the cost of living in the Toronto area is much higher than here, particularly when it comes to accommodation.

Perhaps it is fitting that Toronto area incomes be a little better to compensate for these higher costs. But costs have increased in this part of the province, too. Ontario Hydro increases have cut into us just as deeply as they have into Toronto residents. Likewise, we have been equally affected by oil and gasoline price hikes.

We can understand a somewhat lower average salary in this part of the province to compensate for cost of living differences, but we cannot accept a decline in income. Many commodities have increased in price significantly over the past few years and a decrease in income can only mean that families here are experiencing a drastic drop in their standard of living compared to other parts of the province.

You can't eat promises and you can't heat your home with them. It's about time Queen's Park realized that decentralization means more than setting up OHIP offices in Kingston. There's a lot of territory between that city and the Quebec border. Just because we're the last county in that geographic line, doesn't mean we should be forgotten.

Penalty should fit the crime

The inadequacies of our laws outlawing pollution were highlighted again recently when Reed Paper Limited was fined for violating the Ontario Environmental Protection Act.

The company was convicted on five counts of water pollution in connection with effluents emitted from its plant near Dryden, Ontario. Reed was fined a meagre $1,000 on each count.

Such fines to a company the size of Reed are little more than a nuisance. The yearly profits the company made while polluting our waterways more than offset the fine imposed.

Until we permit the legal system to hit big corporations with fines more in keeping with the crime, pollution will continue to be a way of life. It it's profitable to pollute, many big companies will continue to do so.

It is also of significance that Reed is the company that was in the news not so long ago concerning behind-the-scenes negotiations with Ontario government officials with regard to securing more lumber rights in Northern Ontario.

If the government is genuinely concerned about pollution in this province, it would be well-advised to make a company's pollution record a prime consideration when awarding such rights. It makes little sense to impose $1,000 fines with one hand, while handing out million-dollar contracts with the other. Pollution is no joke, even if our environmental protection laws are.

by Anna Margaret

"Bob-a-job" they used to call it in England, Guide Commissioner Mary Lambert tells me. "Bob" in England is no ordinary male of course, but an amount of money.

And so her brownies are going to go bob-a-jobbing here. They have to raise money to support their activities and they will be calling at different houses offering to do little jobs in exchange for a little money.

What could be more delightful than the sound of someone offering to do some work around the house, even for money. I've been making a list.

I do hope some of them have long arms because my upstairs windows need washing and I wouldn't want them to fall off a ladder.

There must be some of them with strong backs. I have been trying to get my piano moved for two years and none of the males around my house want to put it where I want it, where it will be close enough to drown out the stereo.

Then there's crab apples to pick. The best ones are way up in the top of the tree where I can look at them enviously from the second storey windows.

But, seriously, before I scare them all off, I think this is an absolutely terrific idea.

Imagine this if you will, some kid offering to work for the goodies!

My softball playing young'un was supposed to go in a rock-a-thon last summer to raise money for the club jackets and end-of-season supper. "You have to pledge so much an hour for me to rock," informed Number Six Son.

It is this young lad's misfortune that he has such a miserable mother.

"I'll pledge the money," I agreed. "But there is work to be done here on Saturday and you will get it for that. You can turn in the same amount."

Of course this was entirely unacceptable, I was informed by the organizer. The boys had to rock. And since my son was not among the rest of the team who had worked so hard rocking all day, the boys had decided he did not qualify for a jacket.

Well he bought his own. He earned it doing very ungentlemanly jobs around the house like vacuuming and sweeping and washing windows. Not willingly, mind you, but his protests that the rest of the fellows were having a ball together at the rock-a-thon fell on deaf ears. There are times when his mother can be heartless.

The brownies had better beware. They may just have started something, like having to work for donations. This should serve more than one purpose. Getting to know their neighbors for instance, and neighbors having the enjoyment of little helpful girls around the house, dusting books, washing dishes, peeling apples, rolling pie-dough, filling salt-shakers, folding towels, etc. etc. It's the best news I've heard in a long time.

It could stretch so much further. Like having the kids who sell chocolate bars to make everyone fatter, do a dollar's worth of work instead.

And the rest of the suggestions can come from my beloved readers.

Perspective

by Bob Roth

The mobile home dilemma

A significant measure being introduced to parts of Glengarry is a restriction on mobile homes. Both Lochiel and Lancaster Townships have severely limited the growth of this housing form under proposed zoning by-laws.

One reason planners say they are wary of the mobiles is because they depreciate in value much more rapidly than conventionally-built homes.

Even manufacturers recognize this depreciation quality. A couple of years ago the Canadian Mobile Homes Association presented a brief to the province which included a depreciation chart for mobiles built to Z 240 standards—the standards being adopted by municipalities. The brief suggested that such mobiles would lose about 50 per cent of their value in about 10 years.

The province has indicated that it would recognize such depreciation when doing periodic reassessments of property for tax purposes. Herein lies the problem for municipalities.

A municipality has to rely on assessment for its tax revenue. The greater the assessment, the lower the mill rate. If assessment drops, the mill rate rises.

Consequently, if a municipality is over-built with mobile homes, it could place a future strain on conventional homeowners, the planners warn. If the mobiles depreciate faster, the general mill rate will have to be raised and taxes on the conventional home, which has not depreciated to the same extent, would jump.

Unfortunately, the mobile home is very quickly becoming the only type of housing many people can afford.

Proponents argue that rising housing costs will soon reverse the depreciative nature of mobiles. As housing becomes more and more expensive, a person will be able to get a better price for his mobile.

In fact, research has shown that mobile home properties have increased in value in certain cases, although much of the increase has been attributed to an increase in the value of the land on which the mobile is situated.

Other homes that are coming under new restrictions are prefabricated structures known under a variety of names such as "sectional home" and "modular home."

Like mobiles, these homes are moved on wheels to a site. The sections are then fastened together. Such buildings, however, usually meet national building code standards and do not depreciate like mobiles. They also cost a bit more than the average mobile.

Clearly, there has not been sufficient research into alternative housing forms in this country. As a result, new restrictions on mobiles and sectionals will likely be greeted as callous by some members of the community.

However, the need to protect the integrity of municipal assessment bases cannot be denied. At the same time, though, we have to admit that the price of conventionally-built homes is far exceeding the financial grasp of most people.

By restricting existing forms of low-cost housing without providing acceptable alternatives, we are fast making home ownership a preserve of the rich. In a nation with as much land as ours, that situation is simply scandalous.

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

With reference to a recent donation to the Glengarry Historical Society, by two of its members, of a metal seal stamp, and eleven officers' insignia badges referring to the fraternal organization of Temple Maccabee, also a recently acquired seal stamp of the Independent Order of Foresters, I would like to ask the co-operation of your readers in supplying me with any information re the meetings at the Laggan Hall, of the foregoing organizations.

Both the metal stamp seals (possibly used on members' cards and the charters?) have the words "Laggan, Ont." under the name of the respective organization. I have been given several names of early members of the Temple Maccabee group but would like more background information, such as date of formation, date of dissolution, reasons for forming the two groups (was it for the obtaining of group insurance coverage, as one of my informants has suggested?). Are the charters for these two Laggan-based organizations still in Glengarry? Does anyone have photographs of the charter members?

We, in the Society, are most interested in having this information, which could then be placed in our Society's archives up at Dunvegan, in the Pioneer Museum, along with seals and the insignia. Information, by letter or telephone, could be given to me, R.R. 3, Dalkeith, Ont., 525-3448.

Thank you for the assistance of your paper.

Yours sincerely,
Marjorie Crowley.

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

Family Counselling Centre has started a regular feature called "Counselling Corner." Included is a typical case history of a couple who requested and benefitted from marriage counselling.

Persons with any type of family problem are invited to write to Family Counselling Centre at 4 Third St. West, Cornwall. Answers will be published in this newspaper, or will be mailed to their home address, if this is requested.

Thank you,

Donne Levac,
Publicity Chairman,
Family Counselling Centre
of Cornwall and United Counties

Frequently, the staff of Family Counselling Centre are asked "Why would a couple seek marriage counselling from your Agency, rather than their family physician or clergyman?" Why? Pride. Nine times out of 10, the family physician or pastor is the last person to know the couple are experiencing problems.

The A.'s are an average family living in a comfortable home enjoying a good standard of living. Mr. A. has a good work record; Mrs. A. is an excellent housekeeper and mother, and the children are involved in sports. The A.'s are on speaking terms with relatives and neighbors, but seem to have little social life. Friends and neighbors speak of them as a close family. Are they?

Eventually, Mrs. A. came to Family Counselling Centre to discuss the marital relationship. She was nicely dressed, well-groomed and able to relate well, but very emotional. She stated she could not tolerate the home situation any longer and recognized her need for professional counselling. She immediately enquired about confidentiality, stating she did not want to embarrass her husband or children by having anyone know about their problems. She was reassured services are strictly confidential.

The A.'s have been married for fifteen years, and Mrs. A. related they had a good marriage in the beginning but the last five years, she and her husband have little communication. "He is a good man and provides well—but does not see any other needs," was her comment. It was obvious Mrs. A. had many unmet emotional needs and began to relax when the marriage counsellor told her she and her husband had stopped investing into their relationship but there was hope to build the relationship into a stronger bond. At first, Mrs. A. questioned whether her husband would come to Family Counselling Centre. He was the type of man who felt it was a weakness to take problems outside the family. The counsellor suggested that Mrs. A. emphasize the confidentiality and objectivity of the counsellors with her husband. She was also told Mr. A. is probably feeling lonely and isolated, too. She agreed to ask her husband to accompany her for the next appointment.

Mr. A. accompanied his wife and was tense, but not defensive. The counsellor took time to explain the process of marriage counselling and Mrs. A. was amazed when her husband commented—"We should have been here five years ago."

The counsellor was interested both Mr. and Mrs. A. felt the marriage problem started at the same time. Why? The couple bought their house and Mr. A. began working overtime—Mrs. A. devoted all her time to the house and children. The A.'s were pleased to know they could relate their feelings to each other with the counsellor interjecting only to show them the strengths and weaknesses in their relationship.

The A.'s came to the Agency for six interviews. At the end, both Mr. and Mrs. A. expressed appreciation of the counselling. They had really become a close family. Mr. A. stated, "We'll never wait five years again."

Next time—separation counselling.

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

Bishop Emmett Carter, in the closing paragraph of his article entitled "Matters of life and death" (Catholic Register, Sept. 17th issue) makes an interesting observation and offers some sound advice:

Quote: "Our success-oriented society is beginning not to care about PEOPLE. We have experienced the social systems like Nazism that made people ciphers in a vast organization of efficiency. We rejected them. But now we seem to be heading that way under our own sail. Perhaps it is time we all had a look at the compass." (End of quote.)

Good advice for local governments proposing changes, and for citizens who are asked to accept them.

Stop, look, study, weigh, revise; all with a keen eye on the compass.

Appreciate firemen

Williamstown, Ontario

The editor,
The Glengarry News:

We would like to take this opportunity to emphasize the great work done by volunteer fire departments whose members give up their time, often endangering their lives to help others.

This was brought home to us recently during a fire that partially damaged our house.

Not only did Williamstown Volunteer Fire Department arrive in short order, but they efficiently extinguished the fire, making sure not to pour on any more water than was necessary.

Afterwards the clean-up crews swept away the larger pools of water. They did not leave until they were quite sure there was no more danger. Our thanks to a great group of men.

Brian and Carol Nice.

The Glengarry News:

We wish to thank you for running our fact list in the October 12th edition of the Glengarry News. It is encouraging to know that we have your co-operation.

However, it has been brought to our attention that there was an error in the facts that we gave you. Apparently the 1st Lancaster Wolfcubs meet at St. Andrew's Church Hall on Tuesday nights at 6:45 p.m. and not on Wednesday nights as we had indicated.

It would be greatly appreciated if you could correct this error for us in your next edition.

Again, "many thanks" for your co-operation.

EIGHTY YEARS AGO
Friday, October 22nd, 1897

The new hot water system installed in St. Finnan's Cathedral, this fall, was tested on Sunday last and gave evident satisfaction. Two new furnaces have been placed in position with the necessary radiators and piping, and a huge chimney has been especially erected.—At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of Alexandria Public School, Miss Bella M. McCrimmon was engaged as assistant teacher instead of Miss Munro, who resigned last week.—D. A. Loney's new butter factory at Williamstown, will be ready for operation on the 1st of November.—On Wednesday of this week, John D. McMaster, who has for several years conducted a most successful business as harness-maker, here, sold out to E. Leger, also of this place, who will hereafter carry on business at Mr. McMaster's old stand.

Rain causes problems across the country

Prolonged rains across the country have frustrated fruit and vegetable growers hoping to harvest their crops. With the exception of those in British Columbia, farmers right across the country were plagued with rain almost every day in September, writes Catherine Harris in The Financial Post. Unable to use their mechanical harvesters and with knee-deep mud impeding hand picking, farmers have waited—fearing damage to their crops from over-exposure to moisture and the possibility of an early frost. The situation, however, is not without its brighter side. The much-maligned July heatwave has helped with many crops. Early maturity has meant that many fruits and vegetables were harvested before the rains hit. An added blessing has been a continuous string of frost-free nights right across the country.

Kenneth Hunter of Agriculture Canada's Fruit and Vegetable Division says the farm year isn't a disaster yet. "We could have an average year if we get a week to 10 days frost free and rain free," he told The Financial Post. British Columbia wasn't hit by rain and has a good crop, Hunter says. But earlier hail storms reduced an excellent crop to the average crop B.C. farmers harvested. On the Prairies, rain did more damage to grain than to root vegetables. Ten days free from frost and rain would enable farmers to harvest a good crop. Ontario and Quebec were the hardest hit by rain, with Ontario suffering more because of both the greater variety and greater size of the fruit and vegetable crops. In the Maritimes, New Brunswick has suffered more than Prince Edward Island with potatoes. But both have had trouble getting the crop off due to mud and rain.

Dancers no amateurs

Ray MacCulloch had been invited to enter her dancers in the competition held at the Lansdowne Park Civic Centre on Thursday, Oct. 6th as part of the Ottawa Winter Fair festivities.

The judges at the Ottawa Winter Fair Talent Show decided that the nine MacCulloch dancers in the competition had too much experience to be considered amateurs. As a result they established a special category in which the dancers promptly won first prize.

The dancers included Patsy Campbell, Marilyn MacMillan, Donna Kemp, Laurie Condie, Deborah MacCulloch, Cheryl MacLeod, Lori MacGregor, Janice MacKenzie and Brenda Kippen.

They were accompanied by Pipe Major John MacKenzie and on piano by Clara MacLeod.

There were 37 acts with groups and individuals included in the original competition.

The MacCulloch dancers will be performing this evening at GDHS in "A Breath of Scotland," the All-Star Scottish Variety Show.

Crafts coming to library

On October 20th at 7:30 p.m. at the Alexandria Public Library there will be Crafts for Senior Citizens with Phyllis Sturgeon and Phoebe Heise or Marian Allen.

Phyllis Sturgeon is a textile technologist at the National Resources Centre. She specializes in off-weaving, rug hooking and colors.

The program will consist of demonstrations and displays including several of the following: braiding and lacing of reversible rugs, quilts—puffed, padded and crazy, granny squares and other crocheting, macrame, woven hangings, stuffed toys and hooking craft ideas.

On October 21st at 7:30 p.m., a program on foliage and flowering plants for indoors will be taught by Fred Prescod of the Royal Botanical Gardens, Hamilton.

The program consists of a talk, demonstration and showing of slides to give a survey of selected foliage and flowering plants and their cultural requirements. This is a two-hour program.

All interested are invited to attend these free lectures at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, October 20th and 21st in Alexandria library.

Report suggests merge

A task force has recommended that Cornwall's hospital boards be amalgamated.

The task force was set up jointly by the board of the Cornwall General Hospital and the board of the Hotel Dieu Hospital/Macdonell Memorial Hospital in December, 1975, to study hospital services in Cornwall and to advise both boards on ways and means to rationalize these services.

The report recommends that "the two boards now providing services at the Cornwall General Hospital, the Hotel Dieu Hospital and the Macdonell Memorial Hospital be amalgamated under a new Public Hospital Corporation and that the task force be authorized to prepare for the approval of the existing corporations, detailed plans and an agreement which would establish the new corporation and provide for the dissolution of the two existing corporations."

The report goes on to say that "it is recognized that the two corporations have been considered to serve separate constituents and derived their original support from, in many cases, separate constituents. However, with the present government funding of capital projects and operating budgets of the local hospitals and the need by the province to restrain the growth in the provision of these funds, these traditional services must become more and more integrated.

"Each hospital can no longer provide all services to a particular constituency. This trend will continue and the task force has concluded that in order to provide for the most effective use of the funds available to Cornwall's hospitals, a single board dealing with the ministry and operating all the facilities will be much more effective than two separate boards.

"This is a very significant and far-reaching change in the community and should only be taken with strong support from the existing boards to whom the people of Cornwall have entrusted the operation of the hospitals.

"Both boards must be convinced of its soundness and express their conviction throughout the change if it is to be successful. It is therefore important that the boards give this careful consideration and all members discuss their views on the task force proposals."

In the first phase of its deliberations, the task force recommended the amalgamation of obstetrical and paediatric services. When these were subsequently moved to Hotel Dieu Hospital in July, 1976, an annual continued saving of $558,000 was generated.

Iona news

by Andy McRae

Recently in our school, we had an election to form a Student Council. There were three leaders and each leader represented a party. Nicole Poirier headed the Comets; Neil MacDonell, the Zodiaks and Julie Tessier, the Galatians. There were nine seats on the council. When the ballots were counted, the Galatians had captured the most class reps. Julie Tessier became president of our student council. Good luck Julie!

We have three new teachers on the Iona staff. Our new principal is friendly and efficient. She is Mrs. LaRosa. The new Grade 7 teacher is Mrs. Karen McDonald. A new French teacher was added to the staff. She teaches French to the kindergarten and primary students. Her name is Miss Josee Campeau. They have had a good start. Welcome to Iona.

The students of Grades Seven and Eight ventured out to Joyceville for the popular International Plowing Match. Everyone had a good time. We were lucky to go on the only day when it didn't rain. Even so, it was extremely muddy. 76 students, three teachers and 10 parent monitors made the trip.

The students of Grade Five visited St. Finnan's Cathedral and the Precious Blood Monastery on October 6th. They were preparing for their new theme in religion, "We Walk with the Lord."

Doing well in show biz

The Trottier Sisters of Dunvegan have completed a highly successful summer of competitions. They are daughters of Rene and Sherril Trottier.

After receiving trophies and prizes at such places at Perth, Bobcaygeon, Spencerville and Pembroke, the girls finished among the top at their final contest for the season. It was held at St. Hyacinthe on Thanksgiving weekend.

There were only two divisions, 15-and-under and an open. Eight-year-old Traci came first in the 15-and-under, with 11-year-old Kelli a close second. Twelve-year-old Lori placed second in the open class. The girls now have a total of 21 trophies at home.

Just for a change, the girls competed in the vocal division of the Talent Contest held at the Winter Fair. They placed third in the class and were shown on TV that evening on CJOH 11 p.m. news.

In Memoriam

KIRKEY—In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, G. E. Kirkey, who passed away Oct. 19th, 1976.
In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched you fade away.
Our hearts were almost broken,
You fought so hard to stay.
But when we saw you sleeping,
So peacefully free from pain,
We could not wish you back,
To suffer that again.
—Sadly missed by wife Gabrielle, daughter and grandchildren. 42-1p

LALONDE—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, George Lalonde, who passed away Oct. 18, 1950.
Although you're gone and sadly missed,
Our love remains and still exists.
We miss you and love you with each passing day,
With much more feelings than words can say,
We think of the days of longing we've had
And the distance we'll travel to be with you "Dad."
—Sadly missed by daughter, son-in-law and children, Rosabel and Marcel Menard. 42-1p

MacLEAN—In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away Oct. 19, 1951, Mrs. Alex MacLean, (Mama), of Maxville, Ont.

A-camping we did go

by Beverley Lemieux and Bonnie Maclaren

On Saturday, October 8th, 1977, 11 grade thirteen students from GDHS, under the supervision of phys. ed. instructor Miss Tina Cairncross and her brother Scott, headed out for a weekend camping trip in the Adirondacks. Here is a day-by-day summary of the events of this trip:

At 7:15 Saturday morning we all grouped together at the high school with high hopes, full of enthusiasm for the long weekend ahead. Last-minute packing, arranging and loading of trucks and canoes took place before we departed for our first stop in Malone for refueling and food. However, we did not quite make it. Just after our turn-off at the Cornwall exit, we spotted a wobbly wheel on our canoe trailer. Upon close inspection we noticed three bolts missing from the left wheel. Little did we know that this was only the first in a series of events which made this trip a "comical" success.

While waiting for the return of two group members from Cornwall with extra bolts, we managed to polish off two bags of cookies and a half dozen apples which were supposed to be our dessert for the first night on Eagle Island, New York.

Fortunately, all went well from there on and aside from a short stop in Malone for supplies, we arrived in Saranac Lake where we loaded our canoes and began our two-mile canoe trip to Eagle Island. This we did by miracle alone, for our one and only compass forgot which way north was.

Due to grumbling stomachs and a threat of rain, we ate our first supper which consisted of sandy, semi-raw hamburgers at 4:00 p.m. Hailstones began to bounce off the rocks just before dessert was had.

While sitting around the campfire, thinking we were the only ones on this desolate island, we were informed by a few group members that there were six American Air Force boys camping in a rock lean-to on the hill of our island, one hundred yards away. Learning this, three courageous female members of the group went up to visit the other inhabitants of this Island. After some discussion and much confusion the Air Force boys decided to take a picture. Instead of a traditional "cheese," they let loose with "Y'all smile now, and say Beaver Tail!" This saying is still among the favorites of our trip.

Later on that night we formed the Eagle Island choir, led by one of our Yankee friends in a short recital of "Frog Pond." In this song our bass singers sang "Fried Bacon," our tenors sang "Potatoes" and the altos followed up with a repitition of "Tomatoes." These words were repeated endlessly in unison to create the sound of a frog pond.

Naturally the girls were first to rise the following morning with aching limbs from sleeping either on roots, rocks or each other. They lit the fire, started breakfast and packed up knap-sacks and sleeping bags, thinking we were moving on to part two of our journey. Inclement weather prevented this. So after the poor starving boys were fed, and the girls cleaned up after them, we split up in two groups. One group of six began a poker game in one four-man tent and the remaining seven had a comedy session going on in the other, with a few sporadic attempts at yoga thrown in.

After a few hours of laughing and losing money, the sky cleared and four brave young girls went for a swim in the sub-zero lake water. The next few minutes were spent thawing out by the campfire. After supper we prepared ourselves for bed. This was a lengthy process for here is what we wore. One pair of long johns (from neck to ankles) followed by a warm turtleneck and then a sweat shirt, topped off with a wool sweater, sweat pants, mitts, a toque and three pairs of socks—unbelievable, but true.

On Monday, which was Columbus Day in the United States and Thanksgiving Day in Canada, we loaded the canoes and started a journey to our cars and trucks. The water was rough and presented an ideal opportunity to practice the canoeing skills we had learned in class.

As we had planned earlier, we set off for the Ampersand Mountain for a hike. Well, it turned out to be quite a challenge and not one of your everyday leisurely walks. For two and a half hours we plowed through mud, water and wet leaves up to our ankles to reach its 3,800-foot peak. (A 1500-ft. vertical rise.) This feat was accomplished on sheer determination and ambition. We were all sure that this was the closest we would ever get to Heaven. Well as the old saying goes "What goes up must come down," we back-tracked down the mountain. A good deal of this was done on our backsides since the trail was little better than a spring mudslide.

We literally slipped into something dry and started for home. Our second last stop was McDonald's in Cornwall, where we ate our Thanksgiving dinner. This was followed by our drive to GDHS where as we had gathered, we now departed with memories of our adventure-packed weekend in the wilderness.

Leaders needed

There is still a need for leaders in the scout movement in Alexandria informs Bill Buss, chairman of the group committee.

Leaders John MacDonald, Andre Lefebvre, Claremont Roy, Guy Poliquin and Claude Ouellette are far beyond their quota of six boys each in the cubs and Alex Spooner and Gerd Stellar are also overworked in the scout division.

Chris Bowles has expressed an interest in leading a group of venturers if boys from 15 to 18 years of age wish to join. This program allows for a great deal of flexibility and if boys interested in camping, etc. are interested a group could be formed.

The scouts who have been meeting at Rouleau School can no longer be accommodated there so are now meeting at the Legion clubrooms.

Apple Day netted $160 on Saturday and now the boys are selling the scout calendars.

Premier Breeder and Exhibitor Rivington also exhibited the first place bull calf, Glennholme Fury Prince, sired by A Dutch-Croft Fury Lad.

A previous winner at many shows, including Maxville Spring Show, was the first prize senior yearling. Crestlea Rocket Scarlet-Red, sired by Mooreville Rocket Kemp and shown by Gordon Kettles, Ramsayville, was an outstanding winner, being large, upstanding and stylish. The Reserve Junior Champion chosen by Judge Kilgour was the second prize senior yearling sired by 'Fury Lad'. Riverdown Angie was shown by R. J. Hipkin, Manotick. Hipkin also exhibited the first prize junior yearling, Terrdale R Hinette, sired by Wenron Baronet and the first prize 'Fury Lad' calf, Ricrodreg Lucy.

Winning the two-year-old class for Davidson and Eastman, Metcalfe, was their No-Na-Me Fond Matt daughter, Riverdown Fond Martha. The first prize ribbon in the three-year-old class went to a 'Senator' daughter, Sandy Crest Rock Nelly, entered by Sandy Crest Farm, Arnprior.

The number of animals exhibited in each class are as follows:

IT WON'T BE LONG NOW—The Maxville and District Arena is well on its way to completion. All the walls are up and the roof is all but covered. Soon the services will be ready and the pipes installed for the ice-making equipment. Ice is expected by Christmas. —Staff photo.

Public comments sought on flood plain lands

The provincial government is seeking comments from the public on the issue of flood plain development.

The issue became controversial in this area recently when the Raisin Region Conservation Authority argued the need to restrict development on areas prone to flooding.

In a press release, Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources Minister Frank Miller said the time has come for a review of the existing provincial standards that restrict development on lands bordering flood-prone rivers.

"Should development be allowed on the outer fringes of Ontario's flood plains?" the minister asked.

"Should the criteria for a flood plain be the area affected by the worst flood in 100 years, the worst regional flood on record, or the greater of the two?"

Releasing a summary report entitled, A Discussion Paper on Flood Plain Management Alternatives in Ontario, Miller said it was a condensation of a comprehensive report by the consulting firm of M. M. Dillon and James F. MacLaren Ltd. for the Ministries of Housing and Natural Resources.

"From this technical paper, a steering committee made up of senior staff of the two ministeries and J. S. Bauer, chairman of the Grand River Conservation Authority, has made a series of recommendations on which we would like to have the comments of the interested public," Miller said.

The recommendations include a suggestion that individual municipalities be allowed more scope in permitting use of the land in the fringe areas of their flood plains, provided certain conditions are met.

It was recommended that such land use be supported by an official plan and zoning by-laws and that it would require the approval of the local conservation authority and the Ministry of Natural Resources to make certain other municipalities in the watershed would not be adversely affected.

The recommendations distinguished between the "floodway" where development would be restricted and the "flood fringe" where the municipality could decide on potential use.

The discussion paper has been distributed to all conservation authorities, all municipalities affected, and various interested organizations and associations. Copies of the paper are available at the Ontario Government Book Store, 880 Bay Street, Toronto, at a price of $1.

Miller invited all interested persons to send in their comments and suggestions by December 15th, 1977.

Plans announced for stabilization program

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan has announced details of the 1976-77 stabilization programs for corn, oats and barley. He also outlined ground rules for the 1977-78 corn stabilization plan.

1976-77 GRAIN CORN STABILIZATION

"There will be a deficiency payment to corn producers of six cents a bushel ($2.36 a tonne) on grain corn crop sold between September 1st, 1976, and August 31st, 1977," Mr. Whelan said. "That payment is based on dry, shelled corn, basis 15.5 per cent moisture. Sales of cob corn and shelled corn at higher moisture levels will be converted to the dry, shelled basis."

The support level for the 1976 corn crop under the Agricultural Stabilization Act was announced in April at $2.18 per bushel ($85.82 per tonne). The national weighted average price during the crop year was $2.12 per bushel ($83.46 per tonne). The difference between the support price and the average market price is the amount of the stabilization payment.

"Corn producers should apply to the Agricultural Stabilization Board in Ottawa for their stabilization payment," Mr. Whelan said. "Claim forms will be available from federal and provincial district agricultural offices by about mid-October."

Stabilization payments will be made on all legitimate sales of grain corn through the normal commercial system—sales to elevators, feedmills, grain dealers and commercial and users such as starch companies, distillers, feedlots and other livestock and poultry feeding operations. Sales of seed corn and silage are not eligible for support.

Producers must submit satisfactory documentation of their corn sales, showing the names of the buyer and seller, date of sale, date and location of delivery, quantity sold, moisture content and price. In determining the date of sale, the Stabilization Board will consider both the date of delivery and when title to the grain actually changed hands.

Individual producers may claim stabilization payment on up to 39,000 bushels (about 1,000 tonnes) of corn sales, with the first 400 bushels (about 10 tonnes) being deducted from each claim. As in other stabilization programs, legitimate partnerships may be able to claim for additional eligibility if the individual partners can show separate and distinct investment, labor, management and profit-sharing in their joint operation.

"This year, farmers will record their sales in bushels on the application form, while next year, in keeping with metric conversion, the records will be on a tonne basis," Mr. Whelan said.

1976-77 STABILIZATION FOR OATS AND BARLEY

"There will be no stabilization payments for the 1976-77 crops of oats and barley grown outside the Canadian Wheat Board designated area," Mr. Whelan said. "Support prices for the two crops have been calculated at $1.39 per bushel ($90.13 per tonne) for oats and $1.85 per bushel ($84.97 per tonne) for barley. However, the average market prices for the two crops were above the support levels during the crop year (August 1st, 1976, to July 31, 1977)."

As with the corn stabilization program, the support levels for oats and barley grown outside the Wheat Board area are based on 90 per cent of the average market price in the past five years. To this base is added the difference between cash production costs in the current crop year and the average cash costs of the past five years.

1977-78 CORN STABILIZATION PLAN

Mr. Whelan noted that he was not yet prepared to release the 1977-78 support price for grain corn and that this would be done in early 1978.

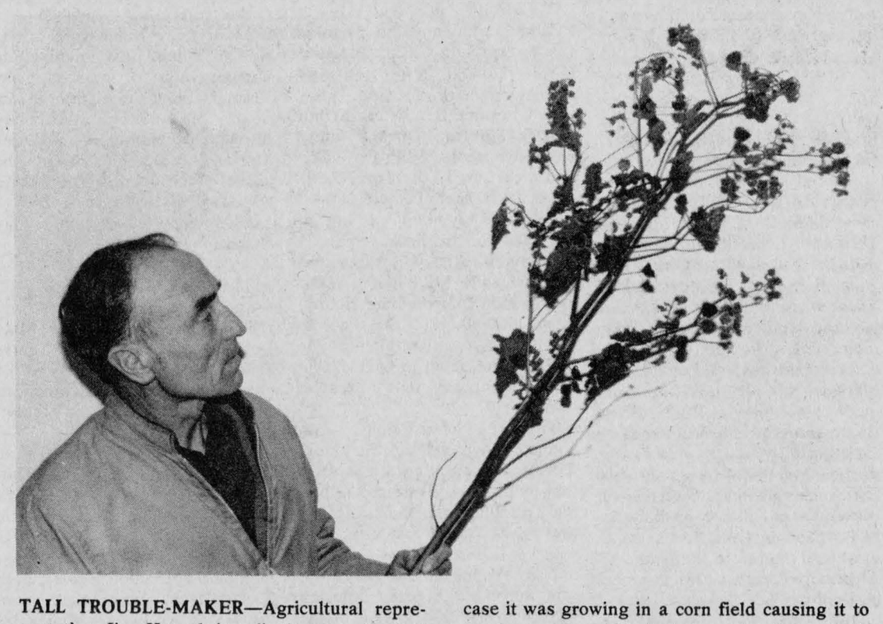
"However, with corn prices at their current low level, many producers are concerned about marketing alternatives for their 1977 crop. I think it will be helpful to them to outline some of the ground rules for the 1977-78 stabilization plan for grain corn.

"We don't want the stabilization program to disrupt the normal marketplace by encouraging farmers to sell grain corn and buy back other feed for their livestock. To avoid creating this substitution effect, we are basing the stabilization plan for the 1977 crop on a net sales concept.

"This net sales concept is being used in Ontario for that province's 1977 corn stabilization plan. The Agricultural Stabilization Board is prepared to work closely with Ontario officials so that producers with eligible sales will not have to duplicate their sales documentation to receive payment under both programs.

"With 93 per cent of total Canadian grain corn production in Ontario, this co-ordination will benefit most producers. The net sales concept for the 1977 crop will, however, apply to producers in all provinces.

"The maximum and minimum for eligibility will be the same as for the 1976 program. That is, producers will each be able to claim on up to 1,000 metric tonnes if there is a payment next year. The first 10 tonnes of an individual's sales would be deducted from each claim."



TALL TROUBLE-MAKER—Agricultural representative Jim Humphries displays a nine-foot trouble-maker. It's a weed known as "Velvet-leaf" and it has been found in the area recently. It grows taller than the crop it is hosted by. In this case it was growing in a corn field causing it to reach more than nine feet. Spraying is not much help in its control. Farmers are encouraged to pull the weed rather than spray. —Staff photo.

SPORTS in the GLENS

by ANGUS H. McDONELL

That was a recent ironic coincidence when death ended, within a few days, the lengthy and wholesome life span of two noted Glengarry distinguished athletes and exemplary sportsmen.

Dr. Archie MacPhee, D.D.S., died in a Barrys Bay hospital two weeks ago. His demise was followed on October 9th, in a Cornwall hospital, by the not unexpected passing of Williamstown's Johnson Raymond. Both were beyond the four score age bracket.

"Archie" MacPhee, as he was known in his Alexandria youth, was the last surviving member of what is rated as Glengarry's all-time great lacrosse team. The Ottawa Valley champions of 1913.

Their coach was a grand seminary student about to be ordained to the priesthood—Charlie Gauthier (Father Gauthier). In goal was internationally known football and hockey promoter, Alexandria born Jimmy McCaffrey (Ottawa). McCaffrey commuted by train to play. Another commuter, by horse and buggy, was Greenfield's Johnny McIntosh, (brother of the late Dr. McIntosh, Alexandria). There were two burly defencemen (point and cover point) Edgar MacRae and Neil McCormick. Edgar MacRae was the recently appointed Agricultural Representative. Neil McCormick became Father McCormick and was an uncle of Miss Mildred Dever and the "Dakota" Dunc MacDonalds, among the next of kin. Those were the days of 12-man lacrosse and among the fleet footed young fielders were, Gordon (Donald Roy) McDonald, Joe Marcoux, John ("Bun" Dan Kenneth) MacDonald, Hugh Allan Gauthier and Archie MacPhee.

Following World War One, Dr. Archie MacPhee hung up his D.D.S. shingle in that noted Irish settlement of Killaloe, at the west end of Golden Lake. In our road days that took us to the fringe of Algonquin Park; we always called on Dr. MacPhee. "Archie" was a kindly soul and devoted his professional life to the dental welfare of his beloved country folk. Although his grass roots had been transplanted from Alexandria to Killaloe, a sportsman's paradise, he delighted in reminiscing of Glengarry lacrosse in general and Alexandria in particular. An hour or two spent in Killaloe with Dr. Archie MacPhee was always cheerful and enlightening.

Johnson Raymond was just about the last member of that great Williamstown aggregation of athletic luminaries—three score years ago. In hockey and lacrosse, Williamstown succeeded the Alexandria Valley champions of 1912-13-14.

In our books Johnson Raymond played with one of the four all-time great Glengarry hockey clubs, in our sport history to date. "Tab" Larocque was in the Williamstown nets. He could have played pro but had no desire to travel farther than Martintown and Alexandria. At point was Johnson Raymond. He played about a stick length to the right front of Larocque. There were few rushing defencemen in those days and Johnson wasn't one of them. Robust Clarence Cattanach and "Welly" Barrett alternated at cover point (defence). In-coming forwards had to first get by either Cattanach or Barrett. Then Johnson Raymond, never lured out of position, would stop or deflect right side shots due to his position in front of the net. It was not unusual to hear that Williamstown played with two goal keepers, Johnson Raymond and "Tab" Larocque.

Up front, at centre, was "Paddy" Sullivan who went all the way to the Big Leagues. Bernie Sullivan alternated and carried on in this position after Paddy became Dr. James Arthur Patrick Sullivan. On the wings were two more Sullivans, Ellis and Alex, later of the Royal Bank, Montreal Bankers League.

Johnson Raymond was one of the pillars of this hockey team, a team that is rated with Alexandria 1913, Maxville Millionaires, Eastern Canada Intermediate champions, 1939-40, and the Peewee Glens, two-year champions at the international meet in Lake Placid as Glengarry's four greatest to-date.

To meet, occasionally, with Johnson Raymond and the like of "Pat" Sullivan in an atmosphere that helps to motivate the telling and retelling of their athletic highlights was a privilege this writer will always cherish.

Last Wednesday in a chilly, rain sprinkled breeze, Johnson Raymond was laid to rest in the gentle slope of St. Andrew's cemetery. Like a head stone, stands a rugged tall pine and a maple that shows no sign of yielding to the elements. A head stone by Divine Providence, not man. One with invisible lettering that spells out to a younger generation the significant calibre and dedication of the Johnson Raymonds and Archie MacPhees who contributed so much to our treasured Glengarry sport history of yester years. Our life has been enriched by knowing Dr. Archie MacPhee and Johnson Raymond.

A MASTERPIECE

We are among those who were fortunate enough to see a preview of a painting by an adopted son of Glengarry, Douglas A. Fales, Westmount, of Lloyd Kennedy holding a caber about to be tossed at the Highland Games. The work is a masterpiece of art.

We understand the painting is on its way to the museum in Dunvegan. An added exhibit that will be unique and a very popular attraction.

We trust that some day, in Glengarry, we will have a Sports Hall of Fame. Just imagine the historic value of paintings, by "Doug" Fales, depicting in action "Big" Rory MacLennan throwing the hammer, "Big Alex McIsaac" MacDonald tossing the caber, "Joe" Corbett breaking the tape in the sprints and of course a copy of our modern day champion Lloyd Kennedy.

DOUBLE BEST WISHES

Sport fans in the Glens extend felicitations to Mr. and Mrs. Mike Depratto. "Mike" did the centre aisle two-step last Saturday with a chic lassie, Kathy MacKinnon, in St. Margaret of Scotland church, Glen Nevis.

And belated best wishes to "Mike's" grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Depratto who did the centre aisle two-step in Greenfield, 50 years ago. Albert was an associate member of a Sacred Heart parish hockey team away back more years than we like to admit. But Albert wasn't a player.

Father Dulin was instrumental not only in building an open air rink across Main Street from Sacred Heart church; he also led the way to have his parish team play in a Glengarry-Soulanges league.

On Sunday, with a team of horses and a wood-sleigh, Albert Depratto would drive the Sacred Heart team to St. Justine or St. Polycarpe. "Brebant" Lauzon should fill you in with a lot more detail.

WE WONDER

We wondered just how many young sport fans in the Glens made note of the three prominent sport personalities chatting briefly with Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip just before the football game last Saturday in Ottawa.

There was CFL Commissioner Jake Gaudaur, Terry Evanshen-TiCats and Gerry Organ-Rough Riders. All three, at one time or another, were Lions Club Sportsmen's Dinner guests in Ourtown.

Pipe band to hold annual a ball

The Glengarry Pipe Band will hold its annual St. Andrew's Ball on November 26th at the Bonnie Glen with the Clansmen providing the music.

This gala event proved so popular last year with a record attendance, that after considerable discussion the committee reluctantly decided that the numbers would have to be curtailed. All tickets will be advance sale only at the usual outlets, and a limited number of tickets for the dance, commencing at nine o'clock, will be available at Danskin's Scottish Gift Shop, Maxville.

If you plan to attend this enjoyable occasion, please buy your tickets before November 19th to avoid disappointment.

The Glengarry Pipe Band committee would like to take this opportunity to thank all supporters of their endeavors to provide this county and surrounding area with the best in Piping and Drumming, thereby preserving our Scottish heritage.
