Auditor's report causes concerns over drinking water

by Shelley Cumberland
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The provincial auditor's report, issued last week, has caused some concern to residents in rural communities when it targeted aging water and sewage treatment plants. An Ottawa newspaper said that up to one million people could be drinking unsafe water, and that one in 10 Ontario residents is served by a water treatment plant that doesn't meet provincial standards. A further article revealed that Iroquois and Morrisburg were on the list.

District Manager of the Ministry of Environment & Energy, Bob Helliar, of the Cornwall Branch, stated that the problem was not unique to Iroquois or Morrisburg. The dirt-taste and odour that residents have noticed coming out of their taps is associated with algae. Mr. Helliar explained that once the temperature drops, algae dies and seems to affect the taste and odour of the water.

For the past four or five years, he says that the summers have been considerably warmer, therefore increasing the levels of algae. The temperature drop usually returns the levels back to normal for the time of the year, however the warm fall experienced this year may have something to do with the problem lingering on.

Mr. Helliar explained that the auditor's report usually picks on some regulatory body. "In this case it is verifying that the municipalities are delivering clean, safe water to it's residents." Inspections are completed every two years to ensure that municipalities are in legal compliance with the certificate of approval. Iroquois is one of those plants inspected, he said.

Also, he feels that the report does not adequately reflect the current situation, considering the information used by the auditor in making his report was up to four years old, from 1990 to 1992. They have looked only at what has happened in the past, stated Mr. Helliar. He feels the report is not totally accurate because many of the problems found from two to four years ago have already been corrected.

He went on to say that it takes very little to be out of compliance with Ministry guidelines. According to the MOEE, if municipalities are drawing their drinking water from any surface source, such as the St. Lawrence River and Lake Ontario, they should have a filtration plant. This, said Mr. Helliar, is not quite realistic in a lot of cases. "There are quite a few dollars between this policy and an actual plant."

Not every municipality in the province without a filtration plant could just up and start building, explained Mr. Helliar. "There is the installation of equipment and budgets to deal with," and funding is dispensed on a needs-priority basis through water or sewage treatment upgrade programs.

"Iroquois and similar communities may get some funding," commented Mr. Helliar, depending on their needs, "But likely, they would have to bear the cost entirely themselves." One similar example is Long Sault. "They are not getting high priority because most of the time they are generally just above Ministry requirements."

The District Manager also confirmed that such projects could qualify under the federal-provincial infrastructure funding.

Generally, the small communities along the St. Lawrence River do not provide filtration to water that comes into their treatment centres. "The natural waters from the St. Lawrence are just barely above provincial guidelines." Generally, as a source, Mr. Helliar said the St. Lawrence is good in comparison to other sources.

"There are other places in the province that are filtered that have higher turbidity that Iroquois, whose water is coming right out of the St. Lawrence," he stated. A good example of this he feels are South Nation River communities such as Casselman. Turbidity is the measure of small dirt particles, etc., in the water that causes it to be murky, and all plants must conform to regulatory unit measures.

Although Mr. Helliar stated that filtration usually gives better water, that tests are completed on a weekly basis to detect bad water. He stresses the water in Iroquois is safe. All tests, that are used to detect disease carrying bacteria, are mandatorily followed up. The water is also chlorinated.

Hustler laneway still not closed after a year of negotiations

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

A laneway north of Hustler Crescent is still not closed after a year of negotiations between Iroquois Council and the laneway's abutting landowner Ernest Farlinger.

Iroquois Council passed a bylaw in July stopping up and closing the portion of the laneway behind Hustler Apartments. The road closure, and intent to sell to Farlinger, was to be advertised for four consecutive weeks, according to the Municipal Act.

However, the advertising has not yet occured, and as a result the road is not officially closed.

Due to complications with negotiations between council and Farlinger, the advertisements were not carried through. Upon the request of council, the matter has been left in the hands of solicitors.

The laneway issue came up at Iroquois' regular council meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 8. Council received a letter from its solicitors McInnis, MacEwen stating the matter would now be left to the new council.

"In view of the fact that we are nearing the end of term of the present council, he (Farlinger's lawyer Mr. Laushway) did not propose to respond at the present time and will take the matter up with the new council after it is elected," the letter states.

"I (C.F. McInnis) think he felt that, regardless of what solution was worked out in this matter, there was not sufficient time in the life of the present council to complete it and we would probably, therefore, be better advised to wait."

Village clerk Betty Marlin gave council an update about the issue at the meeting.

"The road has not been closed because his lawyer...was questioning our publication of just closing a portion of it (the laneway)," she said. "You said leave it to the solicitors and now they are handling it."

Initially, a bylaw was passed and advertised closing the laneway, but excluded its sale. The sale was not included because council had not yet considered that option.

Once council decided to offer the land for sale, a new bylaw had to be passed and publicized again, but this time including the sale of the property.

According to Marlin, the village has not been able to publicize the closure and sale of the laneway because Farlinger has been stalling, and has not agreed on a sale price for the laneway.

Council is asking $2200 for 156.82 ft of the laneway. In July, Farlinger offered council $1500 for the piece of property. According to Marlin, Farlinger also wanted an additional 30 ft, so his tennants could use the space to turn their Santa Claus is coming to town!

The time is just about here.. less than 33 days left until everyone's favourite guy makes his late night appearance in homes around the world. But, do not fear, he shall be arriving in Iroquois a little earlier this year, to make sure he gets his list straight. So make sure to take the kids to the Iroquois Civic Centre on Saturday, December 3, 1994!

Starting at 2 pm., children's entertainer John Winskell will be on hand to thrill young ones as they anticipate the visit from the guest of honour. With a special Christmas program filled with lots of Christmas music, he is sure to please. Many will remember that John played the Iroquois Summer Festival this summer, delighting all who attended. This man captivates his audiences, and the adults will chuckle along too!

As John winds down his performance, about 2:45 pm., Santa Claus will make his entrance into the Civic Centre to greet his fans. Helping him will be members of the Iroquois Fire Department, who have donated their time once again to help him stuff the bags for the good little boys and girls in Iroquois. This event is sponsored by the Iroquois Summer Festival Committee.

Iroquois man slashed in motel

Prescott Ontario Provincial Police are investigating an incident that occurred at 8:30 pm., last Friday night, that sent an Iroquois man to hospital in Brockville. The incident occurred at the Isle of Rest Motel on Highway 2, near Prescott, when the accused, Ronald Shane, 36, of Cornwall entered a hotel room occupied by Graham Thompson, 40, of Iroquois, and a woman.

Shane entered room 2 of the motel and violently attacked Thompson, slashing his throat and scrotum with a broken beer bottle. The OPP were called and an ambulance arrived at the scene shortly thereafter. Thompson is recuperating still in hospital and is expected to recover completely.

Police believe that the vicious attack was instigated by a love triangle, and Shane has been charged with attempted murder. He is presently in custody in the Brockville jail and appeared yesterday, Tuesday, November 22 in Brockville Court as The Chieftain went to press.

The female occupant of the room was not injured.

Provincial Constable Jeff McConnell of the Prescott detachment is the investigating officer.

A two car motor vehicle accident that occurred on Highway 16 is still under investigation. Approximately 1.6 kilometres north of Highway 401, in Edwardsburgh Township, a 1977 Ford LTD driven by Theresa Gagnon, 65, of Clementine Blvd, Ottawa, crossed into the path of a 1994 Ford Taurus station wagon, resulting in a head-on collision. There were no passengers in either vehicle.

The driver of the Taurus wagon was Malcolm C. MacPherson, aged 46, of Brampton, Ontario.

Carraway apartments 40-54 could be sold as condo's

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

At a meeting of the Morrisburg Council, Wednesday November 2nd, Council passed by-law 27-94, to rezone approximately 1,550 square metres of land containing 8 rowhouse units.

The by-law changed the zoning from "Multiple Family Residential" to "Special Multiple Residential".

This precedent setting zoning amendment for the Village of Morrisburg allows each rowhouse unit to be sold meaning, that the units could eventually become owner occupied.

The fate of the families who presently reside in the rowhouses will lie in the hands of the property owner, Mr. Gordon Carvell, but Mr. Carvell says he has no intentions of evicting any tenants.

"Certainly no people will be evicted," said Mr. Carvell. "At a future date if the tenant wanted to purchase the unit, we could talk it over, but no existing tenants will be evicted."

He continued by adding that if one of the apartments became vacant, that the sale of that apartment could become an option he would look at.

An official at the S.D.and G. County Planning Office could not comment on whether or not the passage of this by-law was in fact precedent setting, but hypothetically speaking, if one owner was granted re-zoning of this type in a specifically zoned area, other owners wishing to re-zone their property in the immediate area could potentially be favourably looked upon.

And if they were not, could possibly have a better chance at an appeal.

Anyone who has objections to the passing of this by-law may appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board through the Clerk's Office at the Civic Centre in Morrisburg.

However the appeal, along with the reasons why you oppose the severance of the individual units must be handed in to the Clerk's Office by November 29th.

Biba has the latest...

The latest in fashion was on the runway at Seaway District High School last Thursday evening. The fashion show organized by S.D.H.S. student Shelly Richer was a success and over $200 was raised for the High School and local Snowsuit Fund. Shelly had hoped more people from the community would have come to the event, but was pleased with the over 60 who did show up.

Firefighters to blitz Cardinal

by Shelley Cumberland
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Members of the Cardinal Fire Department will have a station set up in the Village Square Mall, this Saturday, as their smoke alarm campaign winds down. Fire safety officer Robin Yandeau warned that this will be the last time they will be offered at the special price of $10.

So far, 170 people have taken advantage of the savings, and the opportunity to warn family members of impending fire danger within their residences and businesses. Mr. Yandeau says this means that either people are adding more alarms to their homes, or they are replacing those that have worn out.

"People are taking a look at what they are doing," stated Mr. Yandeau.

The Canadian Tire Mastercraft Smoke Alarms offer a pause feature and with batteries included, are priced to sell at $10 each, including taxes. The initiative behind the involvement of individual departments across the province stems not only from the $1.66 from each detector purchased that is donated to the Learn Not To Burn Program, but from the sheer fact that smoke detectors save lives.

The alarms are approved by the Underwriter's laboratories of Canada and will detect fires in their earliest stages. Each is equipped with a ten minute pause feature that helps prevent nuisance alarms from cooking and other non-emergencies, a battery removal indicator, low battery warning and sensitivity test button.

One smoke alarm in your home is not enough, and firefighters suggest that one be installed in every room, or at least one on every level of the dwelling.

This campaign was of particular use, because alarms installed ten years ago or prior, should be replaced now. They do not last forever, and it was in this time frame that it became popular to install them.

If you're in the market, this great deal won't last forever, and firefighters will be in the mall from 9 am. until 3 pm.

Winchester District Hospital Auxiliary November report

President Joan Farlinger thanked hospital-administrator, Mr. Don Smith, for the excellent tour of the hospital's new equipment and improvements enjoyed by fifteen auxilians from Chesterville and Winchester. Another tour will be held sometime in March or April possibly in connection with Volunteer Week which occurs around the 23rd of April. It was passed that attractive pins featuring the provincial flowers would be purchased by the auxiliary for all volunteers.

Treasurer, Graham Barkley, submitted his final tally for the annual bazaar - much to the joy of us all! More folks enjoyed the Tea Room this year, and admissions at the door were also up. The Dutch Ladies Booth doubled their receipts over last year! The Men's Celebrity Cake Auction was a great success and brought in $211.00. All together the total was $8,340.00!!!

Roll Call: Chesterville 11; Winchester 8; Morewood 1; Golden Valley 1; and Summers-Cass Bridge-Maple Ridge 7. Margaret Johnstone Unit Director of Summers-Cass Bridge-Maple Ridge reported that their annual canvas was carried out early in October. In their rural area a member from each road calls on their neighbour. At this time, we also ask for baking and crafts for the bazaar. We find this to have very positive results as it keeps the community and hospital in closer touch. A very grateful "thank-you" to all canvassers and donors - our total given was $1,150.00!!

Also a special thank-you from Unit Director, Marion Carkner to Mrs. Pearl Easton for the beautiful tapestry donated to the bazaar.

Mr. Smith in his report stated that the computer software is being updated and all systems will be fully integrated. The Helipad is now ready for 24-hour operation - the helicopter takes 8 minutes to get from here from Ottawa and this service is fully funded by the government. The Birthing Suite Project is underway and will include a jacuzzi and many state-of-the-art inclusions. Mr. Smith attended the Ontario Hospital Association Convention in Toronto this past week and found the newest e-quipment amazing.

Lil Lancaster reported 225 hours worked in the Gift Shop. If you need mitts or toques - Alisa Appleby has a great display in the gift shop as well as many excellent items for Christmas giving.

Lee Wenz reported 18 hours for the In Memorium Fund for October, with all our "snowbirds" flying south - spares are needed - so please let us know if you can spare an hour or so a week.

Ethelwyn Carkner reported on Sunshine Circle auxiliary activities made special mention of a recent concert by Marleen Fawcett stating that our entertainers are the component that make the Sunshine Circle program flourish. Thirty-two hours were given in October and Santa will be visiting 2East with Jim Wicks for patients and relatives and friends. Evelyn Cowas, Social and Special Events Co-chair will be convening the lunch for that occasion on the 13th of December.

The auxiliary Christmas Party will be held at the Park Lane Villa in Williamsburg at 12 noon on Thursday, December 8th. A super turkey dinner for $5.00. The draw for the carved loon donated by wildlife artist, Ken Scott, will be made by the artist himself. The Loon Carving is on view in the Gift Shop and tickets are available there and from auxiliary members.

Ethelwyn Carkner reported that all items voted for by the auxiliary have been approved by the hospital Board of Directors.

Rita Bray reported on the Hospital Auxiliaries Association of Ontario's Fall Convention held at St. Elias' Centre just opposite Mooney's Bay in Ottawa. She singled out the luncheon speaker, Director of Pathology, the Ottawa General Hospital, Dr. Meikell as being the best and most informative of the conference. We really knew the step-by-step role of a pathologist as it relates to patient care.

President, Joan Farlinger, gave an important as well as humorous report on street-wise security for women - a workshop she attended at the Ontario Hospital Associations Convention in Toronto this past week.

Carol Allan reported on three workshops she attended at the same convention - the most interesting one of which was on medical ethics with Dr. Striener, McMaster University. He focused on many of the moral dilemmas facing medical teams today. The keynote speaker on the wind-up day was Mr. Harry Kingston - his topic "Welcome to Tomorrow". He focused on the problems facing auxiliaries in the area of recruiting specifically. He had many excellent ideas. Along those lines, our provincial representatives have prepared a video explaining the work of hospital volunteers. Someone from the auxiliary will be available to come to speak to your group in the near future. Attendance at the convention was 840 men, women and young people. It was gratifying and reassuring to note that there were 161 junior volunteers who attended this convention.

Catholic churches celebrate anniversaries in new year

The parishioners of St. Mary's in Morrisburg will celebrate their 150th Anniversary in 1995, together with the parishioners in Iroquois who will celebrate their 110th Anniversary in 1995.

Father Timothy Shea, who serves both parishes said: "There will be special celebration events throughout the year with the high light taking place in September, 1995."

A special Anniversary Mass is planned for September 15, with Arch Bishop Francis Spence officiating, as well as former pastors of the parish, Father Francis O'Connor and Father James McGillivray. An Anniversary Dinner will follow.

On Saturday September 16, 1995 there will be a Holy Hour, followed by Tea and Social afternoon in Iroquois and a Wine and Cheese Party in the evening in Morrisburg, as well as a Variety Show, featuring among other local talent, Sister Leonard and the Belles of St. Mary's.

On September 17, there will be a special Mass of Thanksgiving, followed by a closing reception for the whole community.

A special Anniversary logo has been designed for the Anniversary year. The circle form represents the ongoing life of the parishes. The motto "SHARE THE JOY" offers encouragement to share with others what God has given us, the Cross is a symbol of our Christian faith, the two small circles represent the Eucharist and the two communities in this Parish. The water at the bottom of the logo represents the Seaway Parish in the Kingston Diocese.

The Anniversary year will start off with an Opening Mass on January 1, 1995, a spiritual celebration, and a Pot Luck Supper on January 22, a social celebration.

A number of displays will celebrate the history of the Parish and will be available all year.

Bird Notes

by E. G. AVERY

The birds are busy these days, spending most of their time eating; as the weather cools they need more food to keep warm. On a chilly day the Sparrows seem to be twice their size when they fluff their feathers, equivalent to a snow-suit.

Two Blue Jays have been coming around to pick up seeds under the feeders. Efforts to cling to the feeder are usually in vain, although very amusing for bird-watchers. Our Mourning Dove returned after a long absence, and the Chickadees usually come in the morning.

Irena residents have had a few Purple Finches, Tree Sparrows, and a female Cardinal. Woodpeckers are coming now, as the suet is provided.

An interesting story in the Kenora Daily Miner was handed to us by a friend, and we just had to share it! Apparently a young Bald Eagle was found during a survey on Bald Eagle populations. The bird had a broken leg which had become twisted during healing, and was quite useless, so, several specialists from the local Natural Resources Ministry decided to try to restore the leg, for the bird would not survive in its present condition.

A local veterinarian agreed to try to re-set the leg, and this was done while the bird was under anaesthetic. A rod was placed, which would be a permanent fixture. Several operations later, it was decided that a cast would be needed for the final phase of recovery, and a local Dentist offered to devise an acrylic cast which would help the muscles to adjust. This was done, and the device can be removed and replaced, in order to check progress. The little Eagle is growing, and at the time of the story, she weighed nine pounds. The plan is to keep her over the winter and release her to the wild in Southern Ontario where there will be a large population of Eagles of her age-group. We hope to hear further news as this amazing story develops.

Library party and tea

The Iroquois Public Library is hosting its second annual party and tea at the Iroquois Civic Centre on Thursday, Dec. 8 at 2 p.m.

The theme will be based on Christmas and the winter season. Poetry, prose, a festive atmosphere and treats will lend themselves to that theme.

Several local citizens have been invited to share their favorite poems and the general public is invited to come and listen. Or if anyone wishes they may entertain guests with a special favorite poem of their own choice.

Come out and enjoy the spirit of Christmas - sharing!

Robertson wins Ontario Colleges math contest

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Being a single parent does not have to be a handicap, and that is a message that Joanna Robertson wants to let single parents everywhere know.

Attending St. Lawrence College in Brockville, Joanna, a third year Business Administration student in Accounting, was recruited by Lori-Ann Hutchcroft last spring to be part of the College's Marketing Math Team.

Each year 16 colleges from across the province send students to compete in the annual event and teams can range anywhere from 8 to 25 people.

Although she is not a marketing student, favourable comments from all of her teachers led Brockville's Marketing Math Team Captain Lori-Ann to Jo, and the rest as they say is history.

"I was nervous," said Joanna describing the scene as she walked into the competition with their teammates Barb McRae and Sue Dawson.

"They only give you an hour to complete the test and when I walked in and looked around and saw all of these people in their 30's, and wearing business suits, I thought we didn't have a chance."

But following the exam, Jo's feelings had changed. "There were only a couple of questions I wasn't sure about so when we left, I felt pretty good."

And her intuition was right!

Out of the 48 people that competed in the Marketing Math event, Joanna's team had the highest average in the province.

In preparing for the exam Joanna spent upwards of a good 50 hours going through textbooks on merchandising math which her teacher had provided for her.

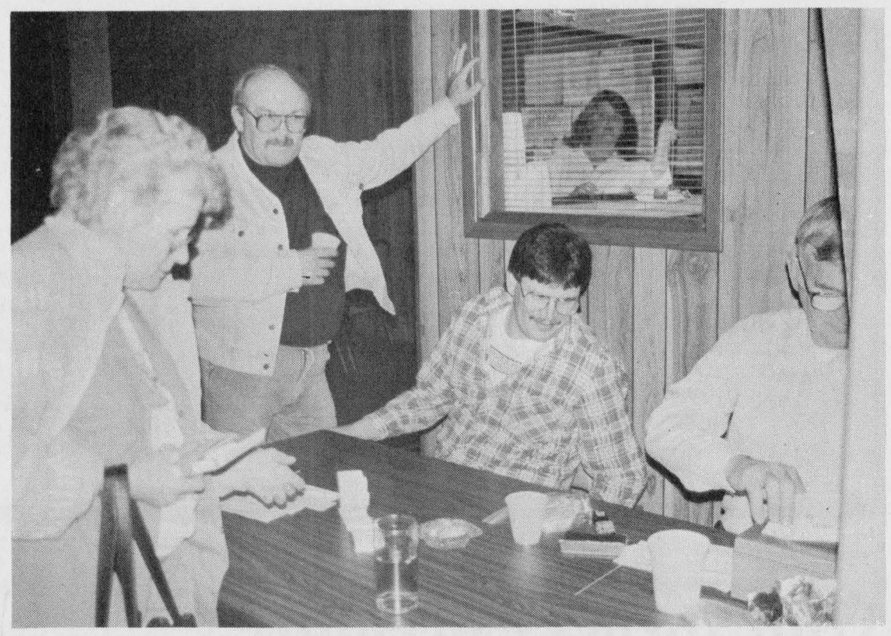
"I had the books but I also had to figure it out on my own," said Jo.

But the hard work paid off and to reward her efforts she received a trophy from the sponsor of the event, the Accounting Firm of Price Waterhouse.

She gave special thanks to her family and friends who have helped her attain her goals.

"I really want to thank my family," said Jo, "they babysit for me and lend me the car to go to school and without them I couldn't have went to this competition."

"And I also want people to know that being a single parent doesn't have to be a handicap to achievement."



Hunter's ball

There really didn't seem to be a lot of people out for the Cardinal Fish and Game Club's Annual Hunter's Ball, but those that did show had a heck of a time. The annual ball gives the guys and gals a chance to get together after the deer hunting season and tell the tales of the bush. FROM THE FRONT vehicles around. The matter is still up in the air.

History

The action by council to close the road started over a year ago when council received a letter from nine of Farlinger's tenants regarding their parking situation. The tenants said they had "no decent place to park." They had been using the laneway for parking, as well as the grass.

The tenants also mentioned the road's deteriorating condition because the town would "no longer grade it or have snow removed."

"Our landlords Ernest and Marge Farlinger say they will not provide decent parking for us until the town agrees to fix and maintain this road. What are we supposed to do?" they wrote.

Council responded to the letter by deciding to close the road. However, Farlinger protested its closure and presented council with a petition of 33 names of those people against the laneway closure.

Council considered fixing the laneway but decided it would cost too much to bring it up to ministry standards.

In a letter dated last December, the village's solicitors recommended two solutions, one of which was to close the laneway because of its poor condition, under the provisions of the Municipal Act. The other suggestion was to leave it open to pedestrian traffic only.

Since then, the solicitors also suggested closing and then selling or leasing the laneway. Council choose this latter option.

The outcome of these decisions is left to be determined by a new council and both solicitors.

Iroquois man

The coroner, Dr. Paul O'Connor pronounced the death of both drivers at the scene.

Extrication of the bodies was provided by the Edwardsburgh and Prescott Fire Departments, using the jaws of life.

The Prescott OPP were assisted in their investigation by a technical traffic investigator, Sgt. Ed Hickey of Gananoque OPP, and the OPP Identification Unit from No. 10 District Headquarters in Perth.

The road was bare and dry at the time, and weather was not a factor. The cause is still under investigation, by Provincial Constable Rob Powers.

Apartments

If you would like to view the by-law which rezones the property on Carraway Crescent, you can visit the office at the Civic Centre during regular business hours.

St. Lawrence

He would encourage municipalities to upgrade to filtration systems but it is a costly venture, and feels that they should be included in the long term planning initiatives of each municipality. Most of the newer plants are filtered systems.

All municipalities should make applications for upgrade funding just so they know where they stand, said the District Manager. To date, a water system optimization oblique water efficiency study, and a sewer system optimization study are being completed in Iroquois. The Village is hoping the studies will be available sometime in the new year.

One point of interest pointed out by the MOEE official, is that Lake Ontario is basically a settling basin for fine suspended solids, dirt and other organic material. He said that theoretically, if a drop of water entered the system at Niagara Falls, it would take eight years for it to reach the mouth of the St. Lawrence River. Once it reaches Kingston, however, the rate is much quicker, and it would take about eight days for the tiny drop to reach Cornwall, causing the turbidity to be lower.

Unfortunately, he said "It tastes like an old chunk of leaf," right now until the temperature becomes lower. It is not particularly harmful, it just imparts that off-taste. "I'm quite comfortable that the municipality is delivering safe, safe water."

Town foreman Bill Ewing, said that it takes very little to be out of compliance with the guidelines. "All you have to do is miss one sample once a year," he stated. Also putting the municipality out of compliance could be lack of a washroom on the premises and lack of a turbidity meter, said Mr. Ewing.

"If there was a problem with the quality of the water, the Eastern Ontario Health Unit would have an order to boil on to the public," said the foreman. He advised to run the water cold before drinking it to get rid of some of the taste, or keep a jug in the fridge for drinking.

Radio operators to hold classes

The Iroquois Amateur Radio Group will be sponsoring a (basic) "ham" radio course beginning January 11, 1995.

Anyone wishing to become a licensed amateur radio operator and enter the wonderful world of "ham" radio, are invited to submit their application as soon as possible.

This course will be given in Iroquois at the Seaway District High School, every Wednesday evening from 7 to 10 p.m. until the end of March. The fee is $75 and includes the Radio Amateurs of Canada (RAC) Study Guide, a one-year membership to RAC, and a one-year membership with the Iroquois Amateur Radio Group.

Amateur radio or ham radio is a hobby that literally opens up the world to you by radio. Most people think of ham radio operators in times of crises or natural disasters.

Hams keep the lines of communication open when conventional methods fail, but that is only one segment of this multi-faceted hobby. Amateurs enjoy contesting, searching for those elusive distant (DX) stations, and plain old "rag-chewing" - conversation on any topics.

Originally conceived as an experimental service to further knowledge related to radio, ham radio has blossomed into a hobby that preserves its heritage as well as providing public service, emergency communications, education and fun!

Amateur radio now encompasses everything from morse code (CW), to the latest in digital communications. "Packets" of digital information are sent around the world by linking radios with computers. Color pictures are transmitted between amateurs utilizing slow scan TV, the blending of radio, video and computers.

Frontiers abound as hams experiment with the latest in satellite technology and the more exotic moon bounce and meteor scatter.

Whatever your interest, ham radio has something for you! From tapping out morse code to the tapping into data banks, chatting with someone half-way around the world, or keeping in touch with home from your car, amateur radio has it all.

The added bonus is that you will meet the most friendly, helpful men and women in the ham family. Whether it's a technical problem or just someone to talk to, there is always someone to lend a hand.

To apply for the January 11, 1995 course or for more information write: Iroquois Amateur Radio Group, P.O. Box 388, Iroquois, Ontario, K0E 1K0.

To speak to someone directly call one of the following members: J.P. Bernier at 652-2014 or 652-4821; Ray Smollett at 652-4573; Keith Beaupre at 652-4340; Brian Hanes at 652-1247; Gord Knights at 657-3640 (Cardinal area); Len Brewster at 448-1341 (Chesterville area); or John Baynham at 543-2721 (Morrisburg-Ingleside area).

Heart saver course Saturday

The Heart and Stroke Foundation has adopted November as CPR Awareness Month. This annual campaign aims to heighten the importance of learning CPR especially for those who have family members with heart disease.

This Saturday, November 26th, 1994, the Heart and Stroke Foundation will host a four hour course at the Morrisburg Operating Engineers Training Institute between 9:00 a.m. and 1:00 p.m.

Everyone is welcome and the cost is only a $5.00 donation to the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario.

Early CPR has been proven to provide a victim of cardiac arrest with a vital chance of recovery. CPR is an emergency procedure used when a person is not breathing and their heart stops beating.

The purpose of CPR is to keep the victim's brain and heart supplied with blood and oxygen until emergency medical help arrives.

The research data is clear and convincing; it is a matter of minutes that determines almost half of heart attack deaths. While prevention of heart disease is the ultimate solution, greater awareness now of the signals and wider implementation of the actions already proven to be effective could help save thousands of lives!

Crushing chest pain, sweating, shortness of breath, nausea and overwhelming fatigue - for many thousands of Canadians each year these are signals of a heart attack. A blocked artery is usually the cause, decreasing the flow of blood and oxygen to the heart, damaging the tissue and perhaps interrupting the heart's rhythm.

For those who recognize the signs and act quickly, the prognosis is extremely good.

Improved communication between emergency services and hospitals, as well as advances in emergency medical therapies, has made new treatments more widely available, more quickly.

When treatment is accessed within an hour or two of the onset of symptoms, odds improve dramatically for a healthy recovery. The longer the delay, the greater the injury to the heart and perhaps death for the victim.

The community is the ultimate coronary care unit - but to be effective, more training of the signals of a heart attack and the appropriate actions to take is necessary.

Actions include taking charge as a rescuer, calling 911 or the local emergency number and performing CPR should the victim suffer heart failure.

Essay Winner

Justine Forsythe of R.R.#4, Prescott, recently placed first in the Annual Essay Writing Contest sponsored by the Edwardsburgh Public Library. The contest was open to all senior students within Edwardsburgh Township. Justine's creative and well written essay entitled "The Cat Came Back" was judged to be the best entry. The Eleanor Smith Award for the best essay was presented to Justine by Maureen Bradley (Principal of South Edwardsburgh Public School). The librarians, board members and patrons of the Edwardsburgh Public Library wish to extend their congratulations to Justine.

THANK YOU,

To the voters of Matilda Township thank you for your support in the past election.

I will endeavor to do the best possible.

It's that time of year when local residents have a plethora of fall bazaars and craft shows to attend. Many raffles and draws are part of these annual events. St. John's Anglican Church put on a bazaar at the Iroquois Civic Centre on Nov. 12. Raffle winning tickets were drawn at the event. A first prize quilt went to Gillian Keene of Gloucester. A second prize afghan went to Peggy Bolster of Ottawa, and a third prize hodge podge craft went to John Trayner of Iroquois. Congratulations to all the winners!

MORRISBURG

A contemporary carol service

St. James Anglican Church in Morrisburg is planning a contemporary carol service for Sunday, Dec. 11, at 7 p.m. The junior and senior choirs of St. James are busy these days rehearsing for the annual Christmas service that will be held at St. James. This year the emphasis will be on contemporary seasonal music accompanied by modern translations of the readings for Advent and Christmas. Peter Cazaly, organist and choir director, stresses that modern music and liturgy are important to the worship of the congregation and it seems appropriate to present a contemporary approach to the traditional lessons and carols of Christmas. The congregational singing will still focus on the old favorite carols but the choir will sing contemporary music, accompanied by a few instruments not usually heard in some churches. Everyone is invited to attend St. James on Sunday, Dec. 11 for a joyous evening of Christmas music.

DUNDAS COUNTY

Manure applications conference

Farmers, extension agents, consultants and equipment suppliers may be interested in a "liquid manure application systems" conference on Dec. 1 and 2 at the Rochester, New York Marriott Thruway Hotel. Twenty-five experts will introduce the principals of planning, designing and managing liquid manure systems for large volumes of manure and other residents. An optional tour to two dairy farms with unique manure management systems is planned for Dec. 3. The fee is $175, United States funds.

Take advantage of capital gains exemption

Those who own capital property on February 22, 1994 and who have not used all of the $100,000 capital gains exemption will have an opportunity to make a special election when filing their 1994 income tax.

The election will work in the following manner. When you file an election, it will be treated as if you sold your property and immediately reacquired the property. This will allow you to report the accrued capital gain to claim the capital gains exemption on your 1994 income tax return.

Fill out a form listing the fair market value of the capital property, minus the price you paid (adjusted cost base). Revenue Canada will treat it as if you sold the asset which will reduce the amount of tax that will be paid when the property is actually sold.

The adjusted cost base of capital property is the original cost including expenses you paid to purchase the property such as commissions and legal fees, plus costs of non-depreciable improvements.

The fair market value of capital property is the highest dollar value that your property would bring in an open market between a willing buyer and a willing seller who are acting independently of one another.

Using this capital gain election will not be without complications so it is advisable to begin now.

First, list all your capital property such as real estate, rental property, quota, partnership interest, shares of a small business corporation, stocks, bonds, securities, cottage and personal property, such as antiques, cars, jewellery and art.

Next you would calculate the adjusted cost base of the capital property and the market value of the capital property owned on February 22, 1994.

Once you have made the various calculations and decide to use the capital gain exemption you should be aware that claiming the capital gain exemption will not increase your taxable income but will increase your net income.

Since government benefits are determined by net income, you may have your old age security clawed back by a considerable amount. Also, other benefits such as the child tax credit could be lost if you elect to use the capital gain exemption.

Remember also that if you decide to take the capital gain exemption, you could trigger alternative minimum tax.

It is recommended that you begin thinking about this matter now. Don't leave this until your accountant is busy filing income tax. Contact your accountant now for more information.

For more indepth information on this topic, plan to attend a series of afternoon and evening meetings, sponsored by the Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs (OMAFRA).

Meetings started Tuesday night at the OMAFRA boardroom in Winchester. They continue on January 11, 1995 at the OMAFRA boardroom from 1 to 3 p.m. Please phone 774-2313 or 1-800-267-7603 to register.

Gun owners organize

Gun owners across this country are, to borrow the famous quote from the movie Network, "mad as hell and are not going to take it anymore."

The legitimate owners of rifles, shotguns and handguns are getting sick and tired of being portrayed as red-necked, beer swilling advocates of violence and mayhem and the source of all gun related crime in the country.

They are tired of politicians trying to make points in the politically correct world by passing legislation aimed at the legitimate, law-abiding gun owners. Current legislation being proposed by the federal government would not only make it difficult if not impossible to pursue sports such as target shooting, skeet shooting and hunting, it would give the federal government the right to confiscate pistols and rifles which are perfectly legal under the present laws. The government does not propose to compensate anyone for the property which is confiscated. How this differs from out and out theft is difficult to determine.

The rally held on Parliament Hill drew some 15,000 people on a week-day afternoon yet, to raise their voices up against the government's plans. Mr. Rock, if you remember, was kind enough to be present and address the protesters but he made it clear that he would carry on his agenda regardless of the feelings of those most affected by it.

Gun associations across the country are beginning to band together in order to present a clear message to politicians everywhere that while everyone supports tougher laws and sentences for those who commit crimes with guns, attacking the legitimate, law-abiding, tax-paying members of the shooting community is not the way to go about it.

The government would do well to heed this protest. Not only because the protesters are right, but because if they don't, the pro-gun lobby is simply going to get bigger.

The most powerful gun lobby in the world is the National Rifle Association in the United States: so powerful that it can and does work for the defeat of any politician who votes in favour of stricter gun control. And with considerable success.

Canada already has gun controls. Tough gun controls. Continually attacking the innocent is not going to compel the guilty to mend their ways. The message that needs to be sent is that if a person is going to use a gun in the commission of a crime, they are going to go to jail for a long, long time.

The laws are already in place. Politicians need to quit listening to the politically correct nervous nellies and develop the will to apply the law.

For whom the road tolls

It must be a slow news week. With the Prime Minister and five hundred of his closest friends touring the far East practising their dollar diplomacy, those left behind seem to be having trouble finding something to squabble about so they trotted out the old Highway 416 argument and gave it another thorough thrashing.

A long time ago, it seems now, Jim Jordan announced that, since the provincial government was having trouble coming up with the estimated $180 Million for the southern portion of the roadway, the federal government would kick in $60 Million to help out.

You'd think that people would have been happy with this gift. But no. Norm Stirling immediately got up and told the feds where they could put their money; this was a provincial project and the province could handle it without federal interference, thank you very much.

Since then, the two levels of government have used each other as the perfect excuse to do nothing. The NDP want to see the colour of the fed's sixty mil, and the feds want to see something concrete in the way of construction to make sure their money isn't used for something other than the highway, piano lessons for Bob Rae for example.

The latest dust-up is over the proposed use of tolls. Tolls could help pay for the road, say Rae's Raiders. If you use tolls, you don't need our money, say the feds. And off they go; finger pointing, scuffing the dirt, tugging their forelocks and trying to look righteous in front of the tv cameras.

The show's getting old. We've seen it all before; we've heard it all before. The politicians ought to be told that if they can't say something new, they shouldn't say anything at all. They should realize that those of us who drive the road, those of us who have had family and friends killed and maimed on the road, don't give a tinker's tutu about their in-fighting, we just want the thing built before more people die.

The northern portion of the road is nearing completion; without tolls. It has been built without question because of the political power of the Regional Municipality of Ottawa Carleton. The near lack of NDP representation notwithstanding, the regional government has some pretty powerful cannons in its political inventory. The individual rural municipalities south of the Rideau River have peashooters by comparison.

The NDP are stalling. And the reason they are stalling is a Toronto by-pass called Highway 407. It is being built with private funds and will have tolls in order to let the investors reap a reasonable profit from their investment. If this experiment is a success, it will be the harbinger of how all provincial roads will be built in the future for the simple reason that it will allow the province to have roads built whenever and wherever they want at no expense to the public purse.

It seems certain that no meaningful work will be done on the southern portion of the Highway until the NDP see at least the preliminary figures from the 407 project, and that will take a couple of years at best. Meanwhile, we lack the political power to move them from this track. We can, however, remove them altogether at the next provincial election which is due to be called soon. No doubt the Liberals and the Conservatives will promise immediate action. And they wouldn't lie to us, would they?

Community policing committee promotes Drug Awareness Week

focus

by Shelley Cumberland
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Last week, the Cardinal Community Policing Committee manned a display in the Village Square Mall as they take an active approach to stomping out drug abuse in their town. During Drug Awareness Week, the committee along with Prescott OPP Community Service Officer, Constable Mike Ostrander, and Constable Larry Fitzpatrick were on hand to answer questions, regardless of which side of the standpoint the resident happened to be on.

Community Resource Worker of the CDRC, Nancy Waldroff, also sits on the committee and says they are taking a new direction with this campaign. Always an advocate for speaking against drug abuse, Nancy says that although the problem is not always visible, it still exists. "You don't see it readily, but after talking to people you hear lots of stories," she states.

"You can find out in a hurry where you can get your hands on stuff," she says, even on the streets of a small town like Cardinal.

Drug problems seem to emerge at the age of 13 or 14, Nancy warns, when kids begin to battle peer pressure. They are at an impressionable age and trying to fit in, and some of them will fall through the cracks.

There are a number of agencies to turn to for help, and she has access to plenty of good literature, if parents would like some reading material. It doesn't hurt to be informed.

The controversial drug, "alcohol," which some generations still do not consider a drug is another target area of awareness. "It's fine to have a couple of drinks," she feels, "but responsibility is the name of the game."

The committee is also promoting other issues affiliated with drug abuse, but on a more positive note. For example, no drinking and driving, safe use of medications, safe storage of medications, doing family activities. Drug abuse does not necessarily mean that illegal drugs are involved.

The Block Parent Program will be resurfacing in the community, and volunteers are being sought for this as well.

It is common knowledge that the drug of choice for those who can afford it, is Cocaine, and many people, from experience, have issued words of warning.. don't try it, you'll like it too much. But the thing about Cocaine that normally keeps it out of the range of high school kids, is the exorbitant price. If kids do Coke, they usually commit crimes to finance the habit, and they'll get picked up for other things before they will be arrested for possession.

"The young ones would have to steal," says, Constable Mike Ostrander of the Prescott OPP. "The younger ones stand out more and are involved with crime to support their habit."

Constable Ostrander, who is always a wealth of information when you need it, brought along confiscated out-of-circulation illegal drug paraphernalia. The items, that included a colourful assortment of hash pipes and roach clips, draw a lot of attention. They are real, and some kids will never be exposed to the workings behind illegal drugs, said the police officer. The display is especially helpful in showing these children what to look out for and what to avoid. The officer also had on hand a small bag of weed, that has obviously been well used, pardon the pun. Discoloured and now odourless, the kids can at least visualize what smoke, or marijuana, looks like.

What kind of stuff is on the streets of Smalltown, Ontario? Well Constable Ostrander said that with the 401 running so close to Cardinal and area, you're liable to find anything. With local resident users, however, the typical narcotics he feels are being used are smoke, hash, marijuana and occasionally Cocaine.

"Drugs are not as young oriented as you would think," he states, adding that the average age of illegal drugs is in their 20's. This is attributed to the affordability standpoint, he feels.

Because the older illegal drug users are either employed or have a source of income, usually they will only be charged with possession and/or using.. unless the user has a $200 a day habit, then other areas of their life can visibly fall apart. For instance, loss of income could lead to crime.

But on the average, Constable Ostrander said the majority of drug users will be hit with smaller charges unless there happens to be a raid, as a result of an informant ratting.

Is it getting better? "We would like to feel that it is," commented the officer, but says that the whole drug business has become so hi-tech and complicated it is hard to keep up with new trends.

"The whole business has become more sophisticated. It has moved away from small time home users to big business," he says.

Rumours had been heard that there was Crack in the area, but Constable Ostrander had not heard of any, but does not rule out the possibility. Anything is possible.

How are illegal drugs making their way into small communities like Cardinal, Iroquois and Morrisburg? It is a profitable business and where there is a will, a way will certainly follow shortly behind. The gateway from the Pacific has been primarily Los Angeles, and more recently the Port of Vancouver, in sunny British Columbia, Canada. This beautiful coastal city has attracted more than tourists in the last few years. It has become increasingly dangerous with the undesirables that follow the wave. As security and law

Say thank you, please

Peter Hessel

The words "please" and "thank you" were probably among the first dozen words we taught our children. Ever since they were old enough to sit straight, we have asked them and told them many times a day, every day, for many years, to say "please" and "thank you".

All the kids have become quite eloquent, and we are pleased how their vocabulary is steadily increasing. They have learned big words, from "abandonment" to "zoology". They can handle fairly complicated concepts, from basic algebra to cryptic crossword puzzles. But they do not know how to say "please" and "thank you" unless we prompt them: "Say after me: please", or "What do you say? Thank you."

I have come to the conclusion that for the present generation, those little words are the most difficult in the English language. I used to think that there was something wrong with our kids because they could not remember those simple words, until I noticed that I was never thanked by other people's children, and that they, too, forgot to say "please" in all the right places.

It has come to the point where children who say "please" and "thank you" without an adult whispering in their ear or threatening them are regarded as a little strange and affected.

In fact, if you have children who say "please" and "thank you" without being blackmailed or bludgeoned, beware! This may be symptomatic for deep-rooted feelings of repression. Take them to your family shrink immediately and have them checked for Bimbaum's pathoplasty.

On the other hand, you can be reassured if you have the following type of dialogue with your kid (this applies to ages from 2 to 22):

"Can I have a dollar?"
"Say it properly!"
"O.K., may I have a dollar?"
"Still not satisfactory."
"May I have a dollar, please, Sir? (or please, Madam)"
"There you go. There's a dollar."
"...(silence)".
"What do you say?"
"What can I ,say?"
"How about `thank you'?"
"How about it?"

This normal response indicates that the kid is going to make it in this strange new world.

As in so many other instances, it could be the parents who have to relearn. Maybe we're too uptight about this thing. Just because our parents made us feel guilty when we forgot to say "the magic word" doesn't mean that we have to heap the same load of guilt on our kids.

Maybe if we tried to understand our chidlren a little better, we would learn that they always mean "please" and "thank you", even when they're not saying it. Maybe they're really not the ungrateful little brats we make them out to be. Perhaps it's just an ounce of shyness mixed with a dram of forgetfulness and even a spoonful of resentment (about our pushiness) that buttons up their ever-loving mouths. Maybe if we lay off for a while, say nothing and do nothing, they'll come around by themselves.

I'm going to give it a try. For a month. And if they don't voluntarily say "please" and "thank you" by Christmas, I'm going to take all their presents back for a refund.

the bottom line

THE CHIEFTAIN MET THE ADVANCE AT ANDREA'S WEDDING! It really was a nice party back at Matilda Hall, Saturday night, after Andrea Zandbergen was married. Andrea was the advertising lady at the Kemptville Advance, our sister paper, and so her reception was an excellent excuse to get together too! Rod and two of the Heathers came out. We had already met one, but we finally got to see Heather McDougall, a lady that answers the phone so sweetly each time we call. Rod is as crazy as ever, and it was nice to meet Trudy. Heather P's other half is as crazy as she is, if that is possible!! Wow gang, we'll have to do this again some time! Also, we wish Andrea the best as she moves on to a new job in Cobourg. Don't be a stranger!

IT WAS A PLEASURE TO TALK TO MIKE O. AGAIN AT THE CARDINAL MALL when the Cardinal Community Policing group had their display set up for Drug Awareness Week. Mike and his partner in crime (pardon the pun) Constable Larry Fitzpatrick, are involved with the community, and arrived on the scene with their little collection of sorts. C'mon guys, you really do know how it's done right? Anyways Mike, it's always a pleasure, especially now that we're getting police reports regularily from Prescott. Thanks much and keep in touch. Say hi to that nice lady that answers the phone, Emily, while you're at it.

THE AUDITOR'S REPORT HAS PRETTY WELL THROWN A SCARE INTO everyone, after it released a report on water treatment plants across the province and how many are in non-compliance with Ministry of the Environment & Energy standards. Mr. Helliar, the District Manager of MOEE out of Cornwall, stressed there is not a safety issue in Iroquois and Morrisburg. But we have it on good authority from a neighbouring municipality that was not listed in the worst top ten, that the trick's all in the additives! Who needs Chlorine, alcohol (drinking not rubbing) will purify it! And the whole town is happy? Really?! (Names were with held in this little item because it is meant only to be funny, and we didn't want any misconceptions. They really aren't pouring booze into the water! With the comments we receive each week, there always seems to be someone who complains and fails to see the humour in some of our light hearted drivel. Drivel, that's all it is)

MY FAVORITE LATE FIREFIGHTER.. NO ACTUALLY HE'S STILL AMONG US.. Robin called from Cardinal. I just have to call him that because he was extremely late for a photograph one day (a long time ago and I haven't let him forget...you know...lest we forget..) and there I was waiting for him among a bunch of people I didn't even know. Well anyways it gets rubbed in everytime we talk, and he's not usually late, especially when it's important; I just like to bug him. It's my nature, I guess. Boy that statement left the field wide open didn't it?! Before I forget.. the Cardinal Fire Department is holding a blitz this Saturday in the mall. It will be the last time they will be offering smoke detectors at the wonderful special price of $10.

IT'S ONLY 11 DAYS LEFT UNTIL THE BIG PARTY AND COUNTING! It looks as if everything is pretty well done and we've heard some of the M.C.'s spiel and it's pretty good, just get ready to duck! Lorraine and Melora are putting the touches on the centre pieces, and we'd like to thank some of the people who have donated door prizes, out of the goodness of their hearts. We had relied on people to offer in this category because with the economy today, we know businesses get bombarded from every side all year long. We did not mean for the party to be a burden, or for businesses to feel obligated; we want people to have some fun and have a wonderful Christmas!

Shaw asks for council's support

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The last regular meeting of the old Morrisburg Council, before the swearing in of the new Morrisburg Council, was held last Monday night.

In attendance at the meeting, Susan Shaw addressed Council on behalf of the Morrisburg Business Improvement Association.

Ms. Shaw told the Council that plans for the Village Christmas Party which will be held on the 17th of December, were coming together, but that the committee was looking for the Village to sponsor an event.

"It's not really a B.I.A. Christmas party, It's a Village Christmas party and I would like to know which event Council would sponsor?" questioned Ms. Shaw.

Addressing the question, Reeve McGregor told Ms. Shaw that as Council's representative on the B.I.A., he had indicated that rather than sponsor one specific event, that in his opinion, it might be better for council to offer a donation to the association to do with as they pleased.

Seeming to misconstrue the Reeve's answer as an indication that council's only support to the event would be financial, Ms. Shaw asked, "does the village not feel it has a role in the Christmas Party?"

Understanding the misunderstanding Councillor Schnurr entered the conversation and explained that council would be attending the event, "but if you're asking us to wear our council hats, maybe we could host an open house here at the Civic Centre and serve hot malt cider in the auditorium."

Reeve McGregor quickly pointed out that for the last three years he and Sam Laurin had been in charge of serving the hot malt cider at the celebration in the mall, but that it might be a nice way for the council to support the party.

Council agreed that the purchase, preparation and serving of the cider would be a nice event to sponsor, so, council as a group, will be in charge of the cider booth.

The Operating Engineers have agreed to provide hay rides around the Village once again and the Chamber of Commerce will be providing carol sheets for a sing-a-long.

A number of other local community groups are on board and working together to make this one of the best Village Christmas Parties ever, so make sure to keep Saturday, December 17th, open for the celebration.

Canvassing starts for Friendship/Memory tree

by Shelley Cumberland
Chieftain Staff Reporter

For the person who has everything, and as a gift of beauty to the entire community, the Home Support people from the Cardinal District Resource Centre will be hitting the streets this week and next, selling lights on the Friendship/Memory Tree.

Inspired by a volunteer quite a few years ago, the trees at the cenotaph, welcome people into town from Highway Two after they're lit with the gift of life, and gifts of remembrance. Many bulbs are purchased for different reasons. It could be a way of recognizing someone in the community that you feel has given above and beyond the call of duty; or a beacon of light in memory of a loved one not with you this festive season; or generally a gift for someone that will inevitably be enjoyed by all.

Inflation has not caught up with this gift idea, and they remain $5 each. Canvassers began their door to door campaign on Monday, November 21 and will continue until December 2nd. Afterward, light bulbs will be available at the CDRC until December 7, 1994.

The group is still a couple of volunteers short, so if interested call Susan Smith at the CDRC, 675-4455.

Many thanks to those who lend a hand, bringing the gift of light to others each Christmas: Flo McAllister, Thelma & Garnet Armstrong, Jim Arthurs, Ada Baldwin, Jennie & Ed Clifford, Dorie Coons, Blanche Daw, Debbie Jessome, Dee Dee Kavanaugh, Ray Laming, Ralph & Dorothy Merkley, Kelly Patterson, Shirley Perry, Ginny Rylands, Cherie Scott, Marie Simpson, Charles Taylor, Lorna Toupin and Cathy Whyte.

Trailer issue addressed by Edwardsburgh Council

by Jeff Brownlee
Chieftain Staff Reporter

In its last function of its term, Edwardsburgh municipal council has quashed an amendment to the zoning by-law dealing with trailers.

After giving the zoning by-law amendment two of the required three readings, council deferred its passage until a few sections can be changed.

Under the proposed amendment - a Limited Services Residential Special Exception One zoning- three trailers on the Empire Hannah Road would be allowed to stay in their current location on the shore of the St. Lawrence River.

However, these trailers could only stay between April 1 and September 30 inclusive; acquire health unit approval each year; have no permanent structures attached; be equipped with valid licence plates an be roadworthy at all times.

But the by-law was greeted with some opposition.

"I don't believe this by-law is good planning," said outgoing Coun. George Dick.

"I see a special exception as a need," said Coun. Burchell. "I don't see the situation of these three trailers as a need, I see it as a want."

Burchell also disagreed with the length of the season. "It (the season) is too long. Nobody takes off with their trailer for the whole summer," she said.

Council deferred the by-law on Nov. 21.

At the last council meeting on Nov. 7, council deferred another re-zoning by-law also dealing with the trailer issue.

Now it appears that the new council will start at square one.

This has been an ongoing issue in the municipality that has pitted homeowners and trailer owners in that area against each other.

The homeowners do not want trailers moving in beside their $250,000 homes, while the trailer owners want to use their structures during the summer months.

Currently, there is a no trailer policy in the municipality.

But council has been trying to accommodate three trailer owners into the law and it is not having much luck.

Reeve David Dobbie said that all of the parties involved will have to come to a planning meeting on Dec. 12, so this issue can be resolved.

The final decision on this issue will not please both parties. From homeowner George Mallett's point of view: "We're paying the big tax dollar while the trailer owners pay nothing. This has got to stop."

Trailer owner Bob Arnott has a conflicting view of the situation. "The trailers didn't come in where the houses are. The houses came in where the trailers are."

Playhouse auction raises thousands

The first Christmas gift auction at the Upper Canada Playhouse raised over $9000 for the Morrisburg theatre. The money was raised through a silent and live auction. An autographed baseball, signed by Toronto Blue Jay's pitcher Jack Morris, sold for $90. The baseball was only one of over 70 items auctioned off at the gala evening event. About 165 people came out to enjoy the special music of Seaway District High School students, and the comical antics of artistic director Marshall Button and former artistic director Mark Morton. Special weekend packages to Quebec City or Ottawa were sold for over $250.

One Year Later

This year's second annual auction raised over $10,000 for the Playhouse. Between 180 and 200 people attended the event on Nov. 12, 1994. A gourmet meal prepared by Button sold for a staggering $275 and the sweater knit by Playhouse veteran Donnie Bowes sold for $150.

- let's talk - Integrity

with Reverend Elton

"Admitted to God and another human being the exact nature of our wrong."

Most of us at one time or anther, admitted to lying or gossiping or other, let's call it "error of thinking," rather than sin. These are really headings to get to the real reason of why we lied, cheated, stole or did character assassination. At the very core of our being we would find fear. The main reason for aggression between people and nations is fear of losing something or fear of not getting something. Fear is the other side of Faith. Fear can be overcome.

In order to do this, we can admit this to God, but when we bring it out into the world by admitting to another human being, it now becomes reality and we can face up to our fear. This is a difficult step to take, to expose ourselves to another human being, to bare our soul, to allow someone else to see us as we really are. We can only build on solid ground. To share ourselves with another human being is to lessen the load we carry.

Every person in this world faces honesty, purity, unselfishness and love at one time or another. We are all for the most part, the same. We are born, live and die to this world. I believe the world is our school, and many of us fall in different situations, but I also believe we get chances throughout our life to face the same issues. It is truly sad to see politicians and leaders full of ego, thinking they are really somebody, not realizing that a leader is but a trusted servant.

We only have so much time here to do good, to serve, to love and we are so important that we do not realize that in God's eyes, we are all equal. The sun does not shine only on the good people, but on everyone. We must work out every situation in our life by what is right, not who is right. God loves us all. Did He did not send His only Son to give us a chance?

God bless.

MP pleased with meeting results

Bob Kilger, Member of Parliament for Stormont-Dundas stated his satisfaction today with a series of meetings held during the week of November 7-10, 1994 with constituents on the proposed Social Security Reforms.

"The meetings were held at various locations within the riding and over 150 people attended," said Mr. Kilger. "What is more important is that they participated in group discussions or with me, one on one, expressing their specific concerns with regards to the Social Security Reforms."

Participants at the meetings ranged from professionals, trade workers, and students.

Mr. Kilger went on to say, "as a result of the meetings a large number of documents on Social Security Reforms were handed out, the most important book dispensed was the questionnaire workbook with over 200 put into circulation."

Constituents have been encouraged by Mr. Kilger to fill out the questionnaire and mail it to the Hon. Lloyd Axworthy, Minister of Human Resource Development. The completed questionnaires will serve as a submission to the committee examining Social Security Reforms.

"Three clear messages were delivered as a result of the hearings," stated Mr. Kilger. "Constituents do not want unemployment insurance tampered with, unemployment insurance should be enhanced on the employees behalf and the government should cut down on the amount of abuse and abusers of the social security system."

"I want to thank all those who participated in this process and encourage others who want to have a say in the Social Security Reform to call 1-800-735-3551 to order documents to find out more about this important government initiative," said Mr. Kilger.

Junior's win

Seaway's Junior Girl's Basketball team defeated Rothwell-Osnabruck last week, earning the right to compete at the Eastern Ontario Secondary School Association Basketball Championships this coming Friday. A change in the team's offensive and defensive strategy helped the team win.

Lions take Rebels at home Sunday

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Alain Quenneville opened the scoring in Morrisburg Sunday, when he hammered a shot past Ben Honagan on a pass from Jeff "Sure Shot" Hyndman and Dave "Plarp" Waddell.

But two minutes later the Rebels Bore Kilbourne tied the game at one forcing Deny "Wildcat" Villeneuve to bare down in the pipes.

However, with less than four minutes to play in the first, and the Lions on a power-play, a bad pass gave the Rebels the break they needed and Kilbourne scored a short-handed counter giving the visitors the lead.

Needing a big goal to get back in the game, "Finesse" McAllister hovered in the slot while "Big Time" Casselman and "Sure Shot" Hyndman played tag with the puck before rocketing a pass to the Lions star centre.

With the rubber in front of the net, McAllister picked the corner and the Lions went to room six tied at two.

Hitting the ice in the second, Morrisburg struggled a bit in the early going, but a slow start from the Rebels helped and at the half, the Lions put the show in overdrive.

McAllister and Dugay combined to set up Hyndman at 9:42, and then combined again at 6:01 to set up Gowsell.

With a two goal cushion, the "Wildcat" ripped up the crease in the Lions end allowing Morrisburg to head to the dressingroom up by two after two.

Dugay picked up his first of the game with 16:51 remaining and at 12:56, McAllister added his second.

Fighting to get back in the game the Rebels added two more, but the Lions were successful in fending off the visitors and with 1:26 left in the game, "Plarp" thundered a shot into the mesh.

"We won 7-4 Sunday," said Coach Notman, "but we're still taking stupid penalties and they (the Rebels,) should have never had a chance to even be, in-the-game."

Sunday's game was an important win for the club after losing to the Hawks Friday, and the win kept the Lions in third, half a game back of the tied second place Hawks and 73's.

"I still believe we're a lot better team than we've shown," said the Coach. "The only game we've played three periods of hockey in was the Westport one, and if we could play like that we wouldn't have a problem."

Penalties really hurt the club back in the Nest, Friday night. It wasn't really that the Lions took a great number of penalties, but rather, took them at extremely bad times.

Heading into the third, the Lions were only down by one in a three, two game, but Winchester scored early, and then added two more before Morrisburg could retaliate.

"Loyer played a super game," said Notman. "Goaltending hasn't been our problem this year. Both Dennis and Patrick have been playing well; we're getting outshot every game, but they're keeping us in them."

This weekend is a make or break weekend for the club, hosting the second place 73's on Friday, and then travelling to Alexandria to meet the first place Glens on Sunday.

With two wins this weekend, the Lions could potentially move to within two and half games of first before the end of November.

However, it'll be tough, because the Lions haven't been able to beat the 73's at all this year and assistant coach of the second place team Derek Brannan, knows it!

Lions need the win

The Lions are going to have to play some solid hockey this weekend if they want to remain in contention for the Division Title.

Morrisburg has yet to beat the Kemptville 73's this season and Friday night the mighty cats are hosting the Kemptville squad.

"We can beat them (73's)," said Coach Notman, "We just need to have three periods of hockey from everyone on the bench."

In fact, the only team in the division that has not beat the Kemptville boys, has been the Lions.

Even Char Lan has managed a win against the 73's!

On Sunday the Lions travel to Alexandria to meet the first place Glens.

A tough loss

Consistency has been a problem for the Senior Spartans all year long and last Monday it proved so again. Behind by 13 points at the half, the Seniors battled back to come within a basket of tying the match late in the fourth quarter. However, Seaway's energy dwindled and the Spartans ended up losing 37-32.

Jr. Spartans storm Lancer gates

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

It took a change in their defensive strategy, a move to faster offence, but it paid off and last Wednesday, the Junior Girls Basketball team took the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Championship.

At home in front of a huge crowd of spectators, the 6-2-0 Junior Spartans defeated the 5-3-0 Char Lan Rebels to advance to the Eastern Ontario Secondary School Association Championships.

"Megan Gilmer had a super game," said Coach Scott Corden. "She really controlled the defence and was right in there for the rebounds."

A young team, Corden was hesitant to predict an easter Ontario championship for Seaway, but did say that the tournament in Ingleside would give the girls some much needed experience at that level of competition, "and most of the same girls will be back on the team next year."

Seaway got off to a bit of a slow start against the Rebels, but after the first quarter jitters subsided, the Spartans got down to business and at the half, Seaway was leading 27-16.

The only team to beat them this year, Corden changed his team's strategy and had the defence pushing, to keep the Rebels as far out of the zone as possible.

As well, a change of offence which saw the guards dishing the ball to forward Shanna Dawley paid off keeping the pace of the game at a high tempo for a complete four quarters.

"Jen (Banford), Shanna (Dawley), and Angie (Thompson), all played really well, combining for 33 points," said the Coach. "I think the girls got off to a bit of a slow start because they were a little nervous, but after we got rolling they couldn't be stopped."

Seaway also did a great job in shutting down Char Lan's top point getters. Kara MacDonald was held to a mere 8 points as was Shirley Bergeron.

Seaway's remaining fourteen points were picked up by, Megan Gilmer (4), Jen Morrow (3), Marla Duvall (3), Nadine Easter (2), and Rachel Brooks (2).

The EOSSA tournament will be played in Ingleside at the Rothwell/Osnabruck Lancers Community Centre. Their first game will be sometime in the morning.

Relive the thrill!

Thanks to the Ottawa and District Minor Hockey Association, the National Capital will relive the thrill of last May's dramatic overtime SHOOT-OUT victory by Canada's National Hockey Team over Team Sweden.

On the evening of Thursday, December 22, 1994 at the Ottawa Civic Centre the two finalists in the 1994 World Hockey Championship face each other as they did when Canada brought home the Gold Medal.

Game time is 7:30.

Ren and Stimpy jump two spots

Ren Perry and Stimpy Strader jumped two notches in the Shooters Open Doubles Dart League, moving from sixth place to fourth, only three games back of third.

With nine wins last Sunday evening, six by Ren and three by Stimpy, the Perry-Strader combination is on the move. Perry picked up six high scores, 4x100, 120 and a 180. Strader picked up two high's, 2x120.

But the real domination of the league continues by Prime Time.

Bobby Jack Hart had high's of 121, 131, 2x100, 125, 140, 129, 133, 127, 101, 120, and 124. Add to that teammate Kris Scott's 3x100's and a 101, and you have a total of 13 wins on the evening and sole possession of first place.

Shooter's "Sal" Beckstead and "Bun" Devaul kept pace with Prime Time hammering out eleven wins to remain five back of the first place team.

In third, The Bear took advantage of a shaky performance by the Super B's and with nine wins moved up the scoreboard.

Sunday's action left a three-way tie for fifth. Tied with 17 wins apiece, the Super B's, Hawaiian Punch and D "2".

In basement, Ski Doo went winless Sunday.

Swenssons Pee Wee Lions down Rebels

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Wayne Garlough scored the winner half way through the first and Nick Hart held the Rebels at bay for the remainder of the game as the Morrisburg Swenssons Pee Wee A Lions downed the Char Lan Rebels 2-0.

"We played a fair game," said Head Coach Barry VanAllen, explaining that with Matt Collins missing for a while the team has had to juggle some lines. "But the boys are doing their best and that's all a coach can ask for."

Greg Millard and Brad Casselman set up Garlough's winner and at 8:42 of the third, Jason Denio added an insurance goal with the assists going to Nick Hall and Joey Dufrense.

Travelling to Long Sault last Thursday, the Lions seemed to be a little slow out of the gate. However, with twenty-eight seconds left in the game, trailing by one, Greg Millard blasted a rocket past the South Stormont Selects goaltender to tie the game.

Joel Adams put the Lions on the board in the first, but kept scoreless in the second, the Lions soon found themselves trailing.

With a little over half the final frame gone, Corey French went in alone to bring the team to within one and then on the last play of the game, Joey Dufrense set up Millard for the tying goal.

"We were lucky to tie," said the Head Coach. "I think the guys are starting to realize what I mean by "Respect every team you play," weak or strong."

Midget Girls go all the way

Seaway District High School's Midget Girls went all the way last Wednesday.

Finishing first in their division with a record of 6-2-0, for twelve points, the Midgets defeated Rothwell/Osnabrook in the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Championship Finals hosted at S.D.H.S.

Shannon Hamilton scored 18 points for the Spartans and Stephanie Devries also showed prominently in the win.

"Linda O'Brien had one of her best games of the year," said Coach Corden.

With the win last Wednesday the girl's season is now over, but basketball fans can still catch some action if they travel to Ingleside this Friday.

The Junior Girls will be playing in the EOSSA Championship.

Midget Champs

Seaway's Midget Girl's Basketball team went all the way this year capturing the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Championship last week. Pictured above the team included, (f-r) Crystal Johnston, Ashley Cooper, Stephanie DeVries, Amy Hodgson, Stacey Munro and Amber Sager. (M-r) Amanda Dillabough, Rebecca Cooper, Amber Mooney, Amanda Strader and Jo-Ann Martin. Seaway senior boys look for return to EOSSA

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

They went last year, and although the season has not yet begun, the Senior Boys Basketball team is already anticipating a return to the Eastern Ontario Secondary School Association Basketball Championships.

For the last month the team has been meeting on their own, hitting the weights and doing laps around the school at night.

"Scott's Senior team should be absolutely phenomenal," said Coach Francis. "As well as hitting the weights and running, these kids want to win!"

"They're in really good shape," said Coach Scott Corden. "They've got the experience and the drive and they want to return to EOSSA."

Up front Corden will be looking to veteran players like 6"5 centre Jamie Helmer and 6"2 forward Clinton Blok.

"Clinton's really a versatile player and he'll also be in the guard position from time to time."

The senior boys also lucked out with new comer David Peck.

"David moved here from Waterloo with his family, and at 6"7 he'll be sharing the centre position with Jamie," said the Coach. "And he's (David,) not just big, he's quick and he has the skill."

But the big advantage for the Spartans is, that the team is comprised of not just one or two marquis players, but 11 guys who are all very solid.

The Seaway Dream Team will undoubtedly be if not the best, one of the best, and you can catch some of their pre-season action with a trip to Cornwall this weekend.

"We're playing in a pre-season tournament at St. Joe's in Cornwall and our first game is set for 3:00 p.m."

To get to St. Joe's, take the number 2 Highway east to Cornwall. Follow it until you hit the Brookedale Avenue stop lights. You should be able to see McDonalds straight ahead and to your left. Continue straight through the light, and at the second set of lights on this street, hang a left. St. Joe's should be about three blocks up the road on the right.

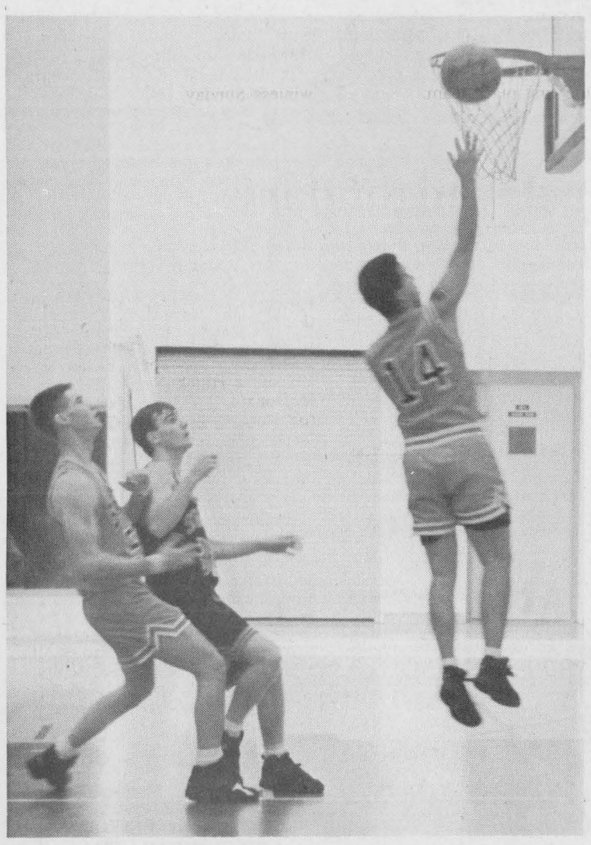
Junior Boys

Coach Corden has also been impressed by the junior boys. After a great season last year, all of the boys are back out with a number of rookies vying for spots at the camp.

"The competition is going to be tough," said the Coach. "Just because you played last year, doesn't necessarily mean you'll be on the team again this year."

The Coach agreed it was unfortunate that the Juniors will not be able to carry all of the players who came out for the camp, but felt that it bode well for the sport in general.

As for the midget boys, there really isn't any way to tell whether or not they'll be contenders, "but we've really got some good athletic grade nine kids and a lot of kids trying out.



Boys basketball starts

Seaway's Senior and Junior Boys' held an exhibition match for the school last Thursday afternoon. Coach Corden and Coach Francis believe that the Senior Boys have a shot at the Eastern Ontario Championship. Chieftain photo by M.C. Bailey.

Midget B Lions take the "A" title in a close game

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The Morrisburg Midget B Lions captured the A Championship in a close game against Osgoode last Sunday in Char Lan.

After defeating Cumberland in the opening game of the tournament, by a comfortable margin of four goals, the Lions went on to face Stittsville.

Darryl Kirkwood opened the scoring for the Lions late in the first when he capitalized on a pass from Rob Darling and Jason Rice.

The Lions held that lead until half way through the second when Stittsville's Scott Gibson beat Mike Adlington to tie it up.

With the momentum on their side, Stittsville pressed hard and less than two minutes later, Tyler Provost gave his team the go ahead.

Working hard at centre, to get the draw, with less than two remaining in the second, Darling took the face-off, and dropped it back to Jamie Scott.

Scott found Lions rightwinger Jon Domanko cutting up the side and hit him with a picture perfect pass. Domanko, catching Darling out of the corner of his eye hit him and Rob, blasted it past Dan Jessiman to tie the game at two.

Mike Adlington was phenomenal in the net for the Lions during the third, as was his counterpart at the other end of the arena, and after three the game remained tied at two.

Heading into the over-time, the Lions came out strong, but found themselves being shut-out by Jessiman.

Chances by Stittsville were quickly stopped by Adlington and with only minutes left to play in the sudden death O.T., it looked like the game might go to the shoot out format.

But with 3:27 left, Jamie Barkley found Jason Rice in the open and Rice nailed one into the mesh to give the Lions the overtime win.

With the home ice advantage, the Lions met Osgoode in the A final.

A strong first period for the Lions gave them a 2-1 lead heading into the second, and after a scoreless middle frame, Rob Darling, on a pass from Domanko gave the Morrisburg team what would eventually become the winner.

With 47 seconds left in regulation Daryl Acres beat Adlington to bring Osgoode to within one, but it wasn't enough and the Lions held on for the championship.

Goals in the first game went to Jason Rice, Chris Markell, Rob Darling and Rick Hess. Goals in game two went to Darryl Kirkwood, Rob Darling and Jason Rice.

Monday night at home in Morrisburg the Midget B Lions hosted the Char Lan Rebels and defeated Char Lan 4-0.

Around the League

A battle for last place in the Rideau Division is taking place with the Brockville Tikis looking up from the basement.

In exhibition play the Rangers had shown promise but in regular season action are just a mere two points better than the Tikis.

Gananoque helped the Athens Aeros hold on to second place in the Division with a win over Westport, and only a game separates third from first.

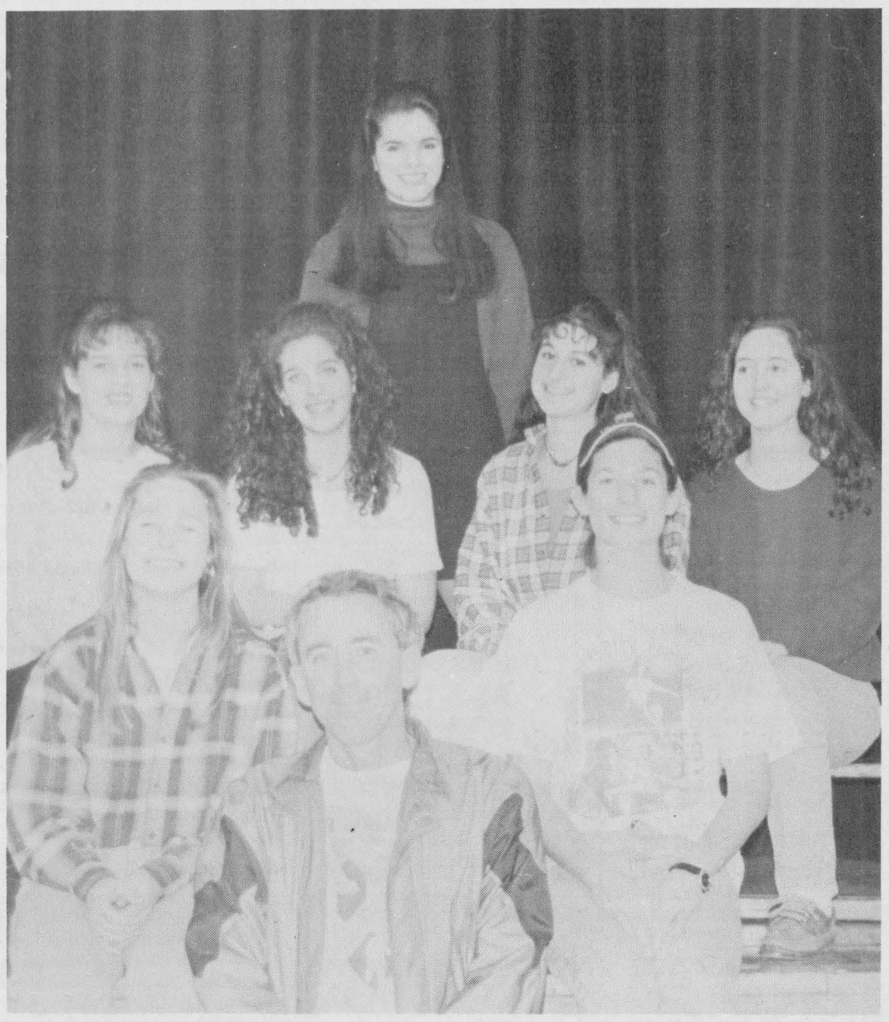
Back at home in the St. Lawrence Division, Alexandria continues it's strangle hold on the other teams, four games ahead of the second place 73's and Hawks.

With Kemptville defeating Winchester Sunday, the Lions remain in third, half a game back of second.

On Sunday the Rebels were in town and lost to the mighty Lions in a 7-4 shoot out at the Cow Palace.

This Friday the 73's visit Morrisburg in what should prove to be an exciting match up.

The Lions have yet to beat Derrick Brannan's 73's, so let's get out and cheer on the team.



S.D.&G. finalists

Hospice holds draw for Christmas dinner basket

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The Dundas County Hospice (DCH) is holding a Christmas draw that will provide a lucky winner with "Christmas dinner in a basket" worth at least $150.

Instead of promoting the "light up a tree" campaign as in the past, Hospice members decided to try a new Christmas fundraiser.

A full wicker hamper with a frozen turkey, cranberries, pickles, wine and goblets, candles, plum pudding and many more goodies will provide a scrumptious meal for at least four people.

The draw will take place Dec. 15 at the NorDun Seniors Support Centre in Winchester following the graduation of the fall class of Hospice volunteers.

"It's a great fundraiser and easy for us to do," Training coordinator Wendy Byvelds says.

All the gift basket items will be donated by local grocery stores and businesses.

This Christmas draw is part of a fundraising effort by Hospice staff and volunteers to raise money for the non-profit, charitable organization.

Hospice is a service-oriented organization which supports terminally ill patients and their families. One of its main focuses is to support those who wish to stay in their homes during their illness, instead of in a hospital.

Formed three years ago, DCH staff and volunteers are continually coming up with alternative ways to raise funds.

For the past few years, the "light up a tree" campaign was held during December to raise money. People could donate money to Hospice and have a Christmas tree light turned on in the memory of a loved one.

However due to a number of factors, the DCH decided to go a different direction this year.

Having to stand outside in cold weather was a drawback to that fundraising campaign.

"Some people liked it but...the (cold) weather was always a factor," Byvelds said. "To get people to stand out for an hour was a problem."

"If we had an indoor mall (in the area) it (the light up a tree campaign) might be different."

DCH executive director Alison Tucker voices the same reasons to explain the change in fundraising strategy this year. She says the "light up a tree" campaign was successful - raising hundreds of dollars for Hospice - but the organization wanted to see a change.

"We were pleased with that campaign," she says. "But we thought we would try something different this year."

Tickets for "Christmas dinner in a basket" are a dollar each or three for two dollars. They are available through Hospice members, local pharmacies, or at the Hospice office.

For more information call the DCH office in Williamsburg at 535-2215.

Ideas for doing your family tree

by R. Martin

If you are tracing your ancestors (and according to the National Archives they have had a 40% increase in the last 10 years requesting help) you are not alone.

You will be glad to learn there is a lot of basic information on where to look at the Iroquois Public Library. Just ask one of the friendly and efficient librarians to see the genealogy file. There is a booklet (available in English or French) titled Tracing Your Ancestors in Canada from the National Archives of Canada. There is also a 62 page booklet from the National Library of Canada listing sources of information from various governments and organizations across Canada. Also included in the file are sample genealogical charts you would use as you find information.

The library also has a list of several people in the Morrisburg, Iroquois and Matilda area that have extensive files on specific families.

A few hints: When asking someone or some organization for help ask specific questions and only after you have exhausted all your own resources.

Local sources you can use: (surprise!) your Public Library, newspaper files, relatives, tombstones, school records to name just a few.

Records available at The National Archives include passenger lists of some immigrant ships, mostly from Great Britain and Europe.

As you begin tracing your ancestors you will find it will take a short time or a very long time depending on how far you wish to go. Two or three generations may be relatively easy but the farther you go the harder it gets. In any case you will find it will prove to be very rewarding.

Outgoing council

Iroquois Council members recently took time during one of their council meetings to pose for a final picture with their colleagues. Only one of the five will be returning to sit on the new council over the next three years. Seated are Reeve John McAllister and Deputy Reeve E.P. Thompson, and standing are councillors Ron Miller, Clare Brown and Wilf Gibbons.

OBITUARIES

Sterling Flegg

Sterling Howard Flegg of Brinston, 64, on Nov. 16, 1994 at his residence.

He was born in Winchester Township on Dec. 1, 1929 to the late Charlie Flegg and the late Bessie Baxter.

A member of the Wesleyan Church, he is mourned by wife Shirley Rose Baynham and daughters Diana Keeler (Troy) and Ivy Halcro (Bryan). He will be sadly missed by granddaughters Amanda and Megan Keeler and mother-in-law Rose Boyd.

He was the brother of Jean Larmour, Leila Helmer, Norma McMillan, Grace Hess, Doris Wylie, Bill Flegg, Edna Anderson, Rae Flegg, Merla Geneau and Fern Thompson.

He was predeceased by Lee, Bert, Wayne Flegg and Minnie Henderson.

The funeral service was held at Byers Funeral Chapel on Nov. 18 at 11 a.m., with Rev. Jim Worrington officiating. Interment followed at New Dublin Cemetery. Pallbearers were Garry Smith, Jimmy Smith, Walter Lawrence, Steven McMillan, Troy Keeler and Wayne Patterson.

Irene Burns

On November 17, 1994, at Winchester District Hospital, Irene Daisy Burns, of 665 Helen Street, Cardinal. She was in her 73rd year.

A homemaker, Irene spent the past 45 years in the Cardinal area, before which she lived in Guelph, Ontario. She was born on August 19, 1922, in Toronto, to Arthur Jesson and Daisy Taylor, both now deceased.

Irene was a member of the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church in Cardinal, and also the Catholic Women's League. An Air Force veteran of World War II, Irene was also a member of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 105 Cardinal Ladies Auxiliary.

In 1944 at Guelph, Ontario she married her loving husband John Burns, who predeceased her.

Surviving the loss are two sons, Tom and his wife Sandra of Iroquois, and David and his wife Heather of Kemptville. Sadly missed by a daughter Cathy and her husband Jamie Copeland of St. Catharines, Ontario, as well as five grandchildren and one great grandson.

Donations to Winchester District Memorial Hospital or the Alzheimer's Society would be gratefully acknowledged by the family.

Friends called at Marsden & McLaughlin Funeral Home, Cardinal on Friday from 2-4 and 7-9 pm. The funeral service was held at the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, Cardinal, on Saturday, November 19, 1994 at 2 pm. Father William Powell presided.

Interment followed at Sacred Heart Cemetery, Cardinal. Pallbearers included Jody and Dennis Burns, Ray Hunter, Victor Brooks, Gerard O'Brien and Ed Laushway.

The Print Measurement Bureau has found that you are one of 55.9% of all Canadians that read community newspapers. Be sure that you get yours each and every week!

OBITUARIES

Milton Barkley

Milton Tracy Barkley, 92, on Nov. 16, 1994 at Woodland Villa in Long Sault, Ontario after a lengthy illness.

He was born on August 22, 1902 to the late Adam Alexander Barkley and the late Orpha M. Cougler in Williamsburg Township.

A retired farmer, he was married to Lillie Pearl McMillan in Williamsburg Township on June 29, 1932. He previously lived in Dundela for 41 years and Morrisburg for 15 years.

Educated at local schools and Kemptville Agricultural College, he was serving on the High School Board of Education at the time Seaway District High School was built.

A brother to Brock Barkley of Elma, he was the dear father of Francis Barkley of Williamsburg, Dale Barkley and his wife Hilda of Morrisburg, and Gwen (Mrs. John Reeve) of Cornwall.

He was predeceased by a son Carl; brothers Raymond, Bruce, Ward, Dwight, Harold, Hugh, Broder and Morton; and sisters Arvilla, Annetta and Luella (Mrs. George McCaslin). He is also survived by 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Family and friends were received at the Fairbairn Funeral Home Limited in Morrisburg for visitations on Thursday, Nov. 17, 1994. Funeral services were held in the funeral home on Friday, Nov. 18, 1994 at 11 a.m., with Rev. Don Smith officiating.

Interment of cremated remains will be at the United Church Cemetery in Dundela.

Ida Johnston

A resident of 8 Maple Street, Iroquois, Ida Florence Johnston, on November 14, 1994 at Winchester District Memorial Hospital. She was 78 years of age.

A homemaker who spent her entire lifetime in the Iroquois area, Ida was born in Matilda Township, on January 27, 1916 to George English and Maggie Sloan, both now deceased.

She was a member of the Iroquois United Church as well as a member of the United Church Women.

In 1949, she married her beloved husband Lorne Johnston at Iroquois, Ontario, who survives the loss.

She is also sadly missed by a son, Gordon; a brother John and his wife Florence English of RR2, Iroquois; and a sister, Jean and her husband Clifford Scott, of RR 5, Spencerville. Fondly remembered by nieces and nephews.

Ida was predeceased by two sisters, Hilda Newton and Frances McLean, and three brothers, James, Albert and William.

Donations to the charity of your choice would be gratefully acknowledged by the family.

Friends called at the Marsden & McLaughlin Funeral Home, Iroquois, on Wednesday from 2-4 and 7-9 pm. Funeral service was held there on Thursday, November 17, 1994 at 2 pm. Reverends Mansell Atkinson and Eric Barr officiated.

Interment followed at Iroquois Point Cemetery. Pallbearers included Alton Cassidy, Jack Fetterly, Ambert Brown, Dwight Harper, Ed Robertson and Harry Norton.

Fashion show a hit

The fashion show sponsored by Biba and held at Seaway District High School last Thursday was a huge success. The idea originated when Shelly Richer decided she wanted to do something new for the school and the community. Pictured above, Sarah Trude models some of the latest in fashion. Chieftain photo by M.C. Bailey.

Biba fashions modelled on the stage at Seaway

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

When she decided to host a fashion show for Seaway District High School and the community, she had hoped for at least a couple of hundred in the audience, but despite the fact that a smaller number of people showed up last Thursday night, Michelle Richer was extremely happy with the outcome.

"I was actually surprised at how well the show went," said Michelle from her home in South Mountain last Tuesday. "The week before the show we had some people drop out and it seemed like everything was going wrong, but it all came together in the end."

A couple of days before the show was scheduled to take place, Michelle's biggest hurdle came when her M/C decided to call it quits.

However, with determination not found in many her age, she asked around and found a replacement in the form of Mike Brunt.

A model for the last two years with the Barrett-Palmer Agency in Ottawa, the idea for the fashion show came to Michelle earlier this year and when she approached Seaway's Principal Doug Murray, he thought the idea was a good one.

"When we were looking for models from the school, I found out that Sarah Tibben and Morgan Allen, were also models for the same agency I go to, and they helped choreograph the show," explained Michelle.

With the plan set in motion, Michelle contacted Biba in Morrisburg and found that Ginette Smith was more than willing to help with the show.

"I can't thank her and the girls from Biba enough," said Michelle, "They were absolutely amazing."

According to Michelle, the night the group did the fittings was nothing short of chaotic, but Ginette, Rhonda (Barkey) and Cathy (Lortie,) did an outstanding job catering to the needs of the many models.

"I thought the show went really well," said Ginette. "Michelle and the girls from Seaway really worked hard with the models and we were very pleased."

The show consisted of mainly casual wear with a lot of denim thrown in, and the different styles were extremely eye catching.

The money raised from the show will be split evenly between the High School and the local Snowsuit Fund.

If you didn't get a chance to catch the fashion show, you can always drop by any of the Biba locations and check it out for yourself.

Matilda Womens' Institute

Our November meeting was dedicated to the war veterans beginning with a minute's silence. Our president represented our branch at the laying on of wreaths at Matilda Hall on Nov. 11th. She reflected that even though Canada is not involved in any major war at this time and considered "at peace" - there is so much crime and violence in our own country.

Grace Kolff, convenor for the program introduced the guest speaker Wytze Douma, war veteran and member of the Iroquois Legion. Mr. Douma shared the horrible stories of war he experienced in his community in the Netherlands but his story had a happy ending - the liberation of Holland and meeting his wife through shared work for the underground. He and 7 other men will be participating in the festivities celebrating the 50th anniversary of the liberation of Holland next April when they travel to Holland. Agatha Beltman thanked Wytze and presented him with a gift. Alberta Smit read "Just a Common Soldier" and Grace read Governor General, Ranon Hnatyshyn's thoughts on the International Year of the Family. Mr. Hnatyshyn feels the bonds which exist among family members help us become wiser and more generous people for they provide us with an unequalled source of stability and encouragement.

Reports were given on the area convention in Greely, the planning meeting for mini-craft and life skills in March and the next meeting which is our Christmas dinner at Captain's Cove in Williamsburg. Members are asked to please let Evelyn Whittaker know by Dec. 9 if they will be attending. Bring a wrapped Christmas ornament for our exchange. The evening ended with refreshments. Well done, girls!

Dundas Hospice starts Christmas card fundraiser

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

If you're having a problem coming up with the perfect Christmas gift for a friend or family member, the Dundas County Hospice (DCH) might have the answer.

Hospice staff and volunteers are encouraging people to send a donation to Hospice and in return, Hospice members will send Christmas cards to friends or family listed by the donator.

Hospice is a non-profit organization which supports terminally ill patients and their families. Presently, the DCH has about 10 clients and over 50 volunteer and staff members who care for the clients, and take care of related matters.

DCH executive director Alison Tucker says sending the cards through Hospice is a great gift idea for people who are hard to buy for.

"You give a donation in her (family member or friend) name as a Christmas gift," she says. "It's a way of sending someone something who has everything."

If you want to pursue this option of gift giving, send a donation to Hospice in the name of family members and/or friends. Christmas cards will then be sent to people on your lists, informing them a gift has been made on their behalf.

There is no minimum limit as to how much you can donate, according to Tucker.

This fundraiser is an example of alternative ways Hospice members are trying to raise money for the charitable organization that started up three years ago.

The main focus of Hospice is to support those who wish to stay in their homes during their illness, instead of in a hospital. Volunteers visit clients, offering support and understanding, while at the same time allowing family caregivers to have a rest.

This Christmas cards-donations fundraiser is one of many ways Hospice is trying to maintain its service, while encouraging the growth and awareness of this special care.

This is the first time DCH has carried out a fundraiser of this nature.

"It's a cost effect fundraiser," Tucker notes. "It takes some time and a few boxes of nice cards."

"We'll give it (Christmas cards-donations) a try and see what happens."

The donations and lists of recipients can be sent to Dundas County Hospice, Box 228, Park Drive Villa, Williamsburg, Ontario, K0C 2H0. Tax receipts will be given.

Seaway Valley Singers prepare for concert

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The Seaway Valley Singers' second annual Christmas concert is just around the corner.

The two-year-old choir has been working hard over the past few months preparing for its concert on Friday, Dec. 9. Once again the Singers promise to bring another delightful evening of entertainment, as it has done in the past.

Choir director Michael Goodwin of Williamsburg has conducted this 35-40 member choir ever since its inception in January, 1993.

He says this year's concert will provide a mixture of music, including folk songs from Britain and Canada, and a variety of Christmas music.

According to Goodwin, the Singers have been working hard and will undoubtedly be ready for the concert to be held at Lakeshore Drive United Church starting at 8 p.m.

Admission to the concert is $6 per ticket plus a can of food which will be donated to the South Dundas Christmas Exchange. People won't get into the concert without a non-perishable item.

The Singers decided to donate food to the Exchange instead of making a financial donation from the proceeds of the event. In the past, the choir has made donations to such organizations as the Dundas County Hospice.

Choir member Pat Remillard says this is just one way the choir can make a contribution to the community.

"We like to link up to some sort of charitable organization," she explains. "And we didn't want to increase the ticket price."

"We thought it (food donation) was a good cause and a good idea."

The choir has been practising for the concert every Wednesday evening at the church, since the beginning of September. According to Goodwin, a few people have dropped out of the choir since the spring, but the choir still has a good number of people.

"It's been going fine, although we dropped a couple of very important people," he says.

Goodwin encourages anyone who wants to join the choir after Christmas to come out to the Wednesday night practises. New singers are always welcome, especially tenor and bass voices.

Remillard says she enjoys singing and is really looking forward to the Christmas concert.

"It's a fun group and a nice group of people," she says. "And it's a really nice hobby to have in a small community."

Remillard not only sings with the Singers but also with the Renaissance Voyces - a group which performs sacred and secular music from the 16th and 17th centuries. The Voyces will also perform a number of pieces at the Dec. 9 concert.

One of the biggest appeals for joining the choir goes beyond just a love for singing. She says Goodwin has made a big impact on her decision to sing.

"I like to sing in the choir Michael directs," she says. "He is a really fine individual."

"We're lucky to have someone like him here."

Born in London, England, Goodwin received his musical training at the Guildhall School of Music. For many years, he held a position as horn player in the BBC, England's London Symphony and Ottawa's National Arts Centre orchestra. In the last few years, he has spent much of his time as a pianist, organist, conductor and choir director.

The idea for this community choir was conceived two years ago at the annual Legion Christmas Carol Sing, at which all the Morrisburg church choirs were invited to participate. As people began talking, the idea for the choir came forth and a list of people wanting to join was drawn up that evening. Goodwin was then invited to direct the choir.

The Singers first publicly performed in May 1993 as the opening act at an Upper Canada Playhouse fundraiser. Since then, the choir has held a Christmas and a spring concert.

The community choir is made up of people from Morrisburg, Iroquois, Williamsburg and the surrounding area.

Once the Christmas concert is over, the Seaway Valley Singers will get busy practising for their spring concert. Goodwin says the concert will consist of sacred music from Schubert to Vivaldi's Gloria. But in the meantime, the choir continues to fine-tune its pieces for Christmas.

Tickets for the Singers' Christmas concert can be purchased from any choir member, at Berry's Pet Food store, or at Pier 31 in Morrisburg.

Seaway Valley Singers

The Seaway Valley Singers are busy preparing for their second annual Christmas concert which will be held on Friday, Dec. 9 at 8 p.m. at the Lakeshore Drive United Church in Morrisburg. Tickets are $6 each plus at least one can of food. The non-perishable food items, to be brought as part of the entrance fee, will be donated to the South Dundas Christmas Exchange.

Color-me-Christmas contest kicks off soon

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

It's that time of year and once again the Cardinal Business Association (CBA) is sponsoring the village's home decorating contest.

Cardinal's "Color Me Christmas" contest was announced this week, and organizers are excited about this year's event.

Like last year, local residents will choose the winners of the contest by ballot. Ballots will be sent out between Dec. 7 and 9, and returns will be counted on Dec. 17.

Every home in the 657 area will be eligible to be voted on, according to CBA secretary Sheila Lawrence.

She says the purpose of the contest is to boost everyone's spirits in Cardinal.

"It (the contest) is to beautify Cardinal," she says. "And to get everyone in the spirit of Christmas."

There is no specific criteria to choose the winners. People just pick their favorite home decorations and put a brief description and address on the ballot. Residents don't even have to say why they picked the homes they did.

The top winner of the contest will receive a $100 gift certificate to be used at any of the member-businesses of the CBA. Six runners-up prizes of $50 each will also be given out.

The general gift certificates can be redeemed at any CBA member. The ballots will be counted a week prior to Christmas so the winners have a chance to shop locally for Christmas gifts.

"We want to give people a week to shop before Christmas," Lawrence says.

Ballots are being mailed only 10 days before the deadline, so they won't lie around in homes, and won't be misplaced or lost.

Approximately 1000 ballots were mailed out last year. The CBA received over 200 ballot-responses.

"We felt we had such a good response last year and we wanted to do it again this year," Lawrence says.

Shanly Road Home Supplies' employee John Houle says he thinks the contest is great for the community.

"It (the contest) is to show a sense of community during the festive season," he says.

Once residents receive their ballots and fill them out, they can drop the ballots off at Shanly Road Home Supplies, the Cardinal Mall, or at Van Camp's Freshmart.

Don't forget the deadline is Saturday, Dec. 17. So get busy, start decorating and choose your winner!

Adopt-a-book program revived

The Adopt-a-book program is again being offered at the Iroquois Public Library. The concept of the program is for individuals and/or groups to sponsor the purchase of a book for the library. The library currently has on hand a selection of titles awaiting "adoption."

The purpose of this program is to increase the collection of books, but also to seek greater community involvement within the library, while also allowing the staff to recognize gaps in the collection.

Donations will be acknowledged. Library staff will place a book plate bearing the donor's name, in the book of your choice, from the selection. Any support is greatly appreciated. It is a unique way to "stock your library", and promote library stewardship.

For more information, please contact Eleanor Pietersma or Brenda Loucks at the library by calling 652-4377. A receipt for income tax purposes is available upon request.

The following books are currently available for sponsorship: James Herriott's Cat Stories, $22.99; The New Fit or Fat by Covert Bailey, $12.95; Crossing the Threshold of Hope, John Paul II, $25.00; June Collwood's National Treasures, $16.95; 100 Years of Cowboy Stories, $14.95; Creating a Beautiful Home, Alexandra Stoddard, $15.00; Martha Stewart's Christmas, $20; and The Royal Year 1994, $19.95.

The children's selection includes: Barnyard Banter, $13.36; In Between Stories of Leaving Childhood, $15.99; After the Flood, $19.13; Grandfather's Love Song $14.24; Christmas Crafts, $5.50; Stencil It - Kid's Projects, $8.26; Signing for Kids, $9.71; Copy Cat by Ruth Brown, $12.76; and Me First - Helen Lester, $15.71.
