Captured fugitive wanted for series of area break-ins

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Police got more than they bargained for when they apprehended a man accused of robbing a Summerstown businessowner of his wallet and car at gunpoint.

They discovered after the standoff ended that the man was also wanted for a rash of break, enter and thefts in Glengarry County over the past six weeks.

The suspect was recognized by Staff Sgt. Jim McWade of Lancaster OPP when, using tear gas, police smoked him out of a shed he had barricaded himself in during an 11-hour standoff.

Police were unaware the man was wanted for other break and enters until McWade recognized the suspect.

The man was wanted for numerous break-ins and thefts that have taken place over the past six weeks.

The crimes were recently featured in the Crime Stoppers Crime of the Week in The Glengarry News. A man driving a motorcycle wearing a black leather jacket with tassles was wanted in connection with four break, enter and thefts in Cornwall and Charlottenburgh Townships.

McWade said that police received a tip through Crime Stoppers a few days after a Neighborhood Watch meeting was held in Williamstown.

A little over a week ago, police spotted the suspect but he dumped the motorcycle and escaped in a crowd of people in the Riverdale area in Cornwall.

Events leading up to the standoff began Wednesday at 5 p.m. when the wallet and car were stolen from the business owner. Half an hour later, police spotted the stolen car westbound on Highway 2 in the Summerstown area and tracked it to the Cornwall Golf and Country Club.

The car was found abandoned after it was stuck in the soft ground, the man drove it over the first two fairways but fled on foot to the nearby bush. Both Cornwall Police and Lancaster OPP began patrolling the area.

Police received a phone call from a Purcell Street resident shortly after the suspect fled the golf course. The resident spotted a man matching the suspect's description sneaking into his shed. He and his family were evacuated from the house as a safety precaution.

A tactical squad team was called in from Belleville as well as canine units from OPP District Headquarters in Long Sault and Ottawa. About 20 police officers were at the scene of standoff which ended at 3:30 a.m. Thursday morning.

Attempts to establish the lines of communication by using a loudspeaker and a robot proved to be futile.

Scott Best, 22, has been charged with armed robbery and 10 counts of break, enter and theft.

The handgun has not been found.

Tiny bubbles — not

Claude Mallette, the principal of Ecole St. Marie in Green Valley, had to make huge bubbles atop the school's roof while all 153 students and faculty stood below and watched Friday morning. As part of National Book Week, the personable principal challenged the students to read a total of 1,000 books from 9 a.m. on Monday, April 26 to noon on Friday, April 30. Mallette was surprised that the students accomplished the literary feat and had to make bubbles on the roof as a payoff to his dare. Staff photo — Scott Ferrier

OMAF paves way for paintball war games operation

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

The splats will live to see another day.

A rezoning application made by the owners of General Splatters Paintball War Games won't be opposed by the Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

But the ministry imposed a condition that no buildings will be erected.

The five-acre paintball operation is located on agriculturally-zoned land and the business doesn't conform to the zoning designation.

Owners applied to have the land, located about one kilometre east of Lancaster Village, rezoned and it appears the Ministry of Agriculture and Food's response to the issue has cleared the way.

At their regular meeting, held Wednesday, May 5, Lancaster Township Council members passed a resolution approving of the rezoning application. The matter will be forwarded on to the county planner.

In past discussions, council has raised concerns over the proximity of a railway crossing adjacent to the business.

Clerk-Treasurer Mike Samson says the crossing, which has no barrier or lights but a stop sign, is a disaster-in-the-making.

A bullet train travels the Toronto to Montreal corridor and passes through Lancaster Township quickly. Area residents are cautious when they cross the tracks but if the business takes off and attracts people from far away, then Canadian National is asking for trouble, Samson says.

David Sutherland, the coordinator of regulatory matters, wrote a letter responding to the township's concerns. He mentioned a past suggestion which would push Ross side road farther north and join an east-west road. The crossing could then be closed.

But Sutherland offered no new suggestions in the letter which contained questions about the traffic, the types of vehicles crossing and the posted speed limit. He wants more information before CN will take action.

"We wrote to them and they're not looking at this with concern," says Samson. "If this place takes off and strangers to the area come here, CN is just looking for trouble if they do nothing."

In the letter, Sutherland also wrote that any upgrading of the crossing protection would be eligible for the standard 80 per cent funding from the Ministry of Transportation. The remaining 20 per cent would come from the road authority (12.5) and CN (7.5).

Green Valley woman dies from injuries

The passenger in a car which rear-ended a tractor trailer 10 days ago near Alexandria has died in an Ottawa hospital.

Manon Poirier of Green Valley died Saturday and Andre Garreau of Alexandria remains in serious condition at Ottawa General Hospital as a result of a serious car accident on Sunday, May 2.

Garreau was southbound on Highway 34, just south of Alexandria, when the Trans-Am he was driving struck the rear end of a tractor trailer that was also southbound.

The truck, driven by Joseph Lafrance of Waterloo, Quebec, stopped to turn east.

Both Poirier and Garreau were rushed to Ottawa General Hospital.

Poirier's two sons, Julien and Phillipe, were also passengers in the car. Julien was taken to the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario and was released Friday, May 7. Phillipe escaped with only minor injuries.

An article in last week's edition of The News erroneously reported that Poirier was driving the Trans-Am. In fact, Garreau was the driver but his name was accidentally omitted from the article.

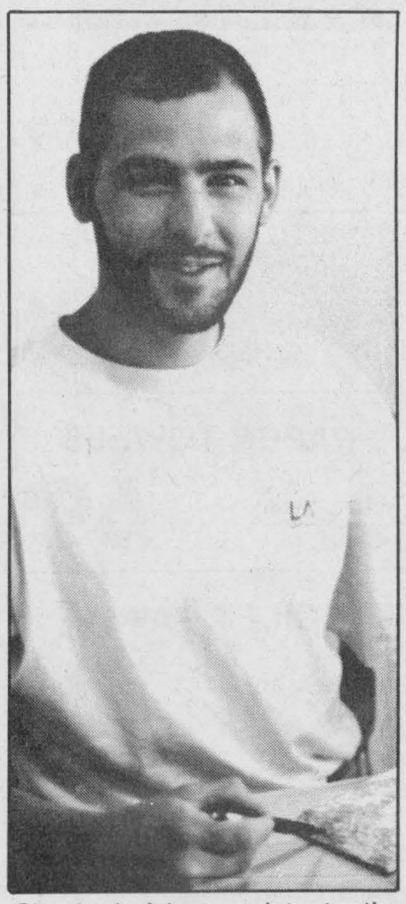
Alexandria native heading to war-torn Bosnia with military



Claude Lefebvre points to the area of Bosnia he'll be heading to soon.

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Claude Lefebvre's eyes are fixated on the television set watching CBC Newsworld.

When breaking news about Bosnia comes on, Lefebvre sits in an easy chair with his eyes glued to the screen.

"When you hear stuff like that it's kind of scary," Lefebvre, the son of Jean Louis and Mariette, says just after a report of intense fighting between Muslim and Croatian forces wraps up.

"You don't know what's really going on over there and you don't know whether the U.S. is coming in."

The 24-year-old Alexandria-native has good reason to worry. On Friday, Lefebvre will leave Quebec City to travel overseas and begin a six-month tour of duty with the 12th Batallion of the RBC in Bosnia.

He's known about the mission since late last year but the worries and doubts still linger in his mind.

He'll be stationed just west of Sarajevo, about halfway to the Adriatic Sea, working various shifts operating radio equipment. Lefebvre will act as the eyes and ears to the other regular forces soldiers and militia soldiers in the field.

"If I receive information I'll pass it on. If somebody calls in saying that they're being shot at I'll have to get somebody to guide them through it," Lefebvre says.

Stationed in an eerie three-storey building which was once used to smelt steel, he'll be relatively comfortable. The mechanics and car pool are located on the first floor. On the second floor, there's sleeping quarters and radio equipment and on the third floor there's a gymnasium.

"The third floor is there to take any shelling we may come under," he says.

The Serbians, Croats and Muslims have been mostly fighting east of Sarajevo but as Lefebvre points out that could change without notice. There's an element of the unknown which both scares and intrigues Lefebvre.

"I'm curious. I know what to expect but things could change. I'll just have to take it as it comes," he says.

Lefebvre, who's served with RBC for the past four years, missed out on a chance to serve in Cyprus about three years ago. He wants to find out what it's like to serve overseas and says the oath he swore to obligates him to serve.

Jean Louis says he's worried about his son's safety but he supports Claude's decision.

Lefebvre, who's sporting a gruff-looking beard, says he'll write to his parents and his 2½-year-old son, Jean. He'll also be able to call home for five minutes once a week.

"I'll take some cassettes over so I can record my voice on a machine and send a message to my son so that he won't forget me during the next six months," he says.

And everytime friends and family read a newspaper article or watch a telelvision report on Bosnia their thoughts will be thousands of miles away.

Kenyon Township boy helpless against rare medical disorder

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Sometimes, the body rebels.

Sharon Thibeault always believed that her son Matthieu was an energetic, happy, healthy little boy. And on the surface he was.

"He caught a lot of colds when he was an infant but a lot of kids are like that.

"He had trouble walking when he was 1½ because he kept losing his balance and would fall over. We (Sharon and her husband Yves) just thought Matthieu would be a late walker.

"Matthieu was our second child and we never had any reason to believe that anything was wrong with him," Sharon says.

The family had no idea that a progressives neurological and/or metabolic disorder was ravaging his young body.

It was a deeply covert rebellion of which Matthieu and his parents remained unaware of until Nov. 18, 1991 — a day that Sharon would give anything to forget but can't.

When he was 3½, the usually energetic boy became inexplicably weak. The color in his face had nearly vanished and he complained about abdominal pains. Matthieu began vomiting, a total of six times before it was brought under control, after — what Sharon now refers to as — the "first episode" had ended.

Matthieu was rushed to Glengarry Memorial Hospital and transferred by ambulance to Montreal Children's Hospital. He was kept under observation for nearly a month.

He underwent a battery of tests including blood work, muscle biopsies, Cat-Scans and Magnetic Resonance Imaging. But the test results were inconclusive.

The doctors were baffled by the uprising that took place in Matthieu's body. They found no cause and couldn't plan any treatment to quell the rebellion.

Matthieu was sent home when his strength returned and things settled down in the Thibeault household.

There had been a few warning signs that something was wrong but Sharon and Yves never realized the problem would be so serious.

When Matthieu was 2½, he was tested by a neurologist who tried to find out why he was having so much trouble walking. Matthieu had poor balance and often had to flex his knees because his abdominal muscles were very weak.

Matthieu Thibeault looks like any other healthy five-year-old boy who loves cartoons, video games and Lucky, his Sheepdog.

Roughly four months before the first episode, Matthieu curled up into the fetal position and was exhausted. He complained about a sore stomach and couldn't move his legs. The only way he could move was by rolling or crawling on the floor.

On June 17, 1992, about six months after the first episode, Matthieu began yawning for three hours and complained of abdominal pains in his stomach while at Alexander School. Once again, he

Choked up residents want action taken against dust problem

Sitting on the front porch or leaving the house windows open for fresh air is a memory to a small group of Lancaster Township residents who complained that speeding trucks are choking them by raising dust.

A delegation comprised of eight residents who live on Concession Road Seven, just east of Highway 34, in Lancaster Township spoke at the township's last regular meeting — held Wednesday, May 5.

A spokeswoman for the delegation told council that trucks from Glengarry Aggregate and Concrete speed along their road and raise a lot of dust. Most of the houses are located less then 300 feet away from the road and are often within reach of the dust.

''We can't have fresh air. Instead

Correction

A photo caption that appeared with a group shot of seniors who made two quilts in the April 28 edition of The Glengarry News incorrectly spelled Jean McKiel's name and Margje Ooosting's name was accidentally left out.

Clarification

A story on Charlottenburgh Township wage rollbacks in the April 28 News stated that the rollback is two per cent a year for three years. According to Clerk Marcel Lapierre, the rollback for the third year is 30 cents an hour, which for some employees will amount to more than two per cent. Also, the rollback applies to nursery school employers, not nursing school.

Mohawks bring traditions to Maxville PS

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Students at Maxville Public School exposed to Francophone and Scottish culture on a regular basis, yet many may possess outdated stereotypes of Indians.

As part of Education Week, a trio of Mohawks visited the elementary school on Thursday to talk to the students and display some of their traditional items such as Hiowatha Belts or Tworow Wampum Belts.

''We hope that this will help get rid of stereotypes. We want to promote who we are, promote peace and promote unity,'' said Tahawisoren, one of three Mohawks from the Akwasasne reserve who delivered their message through the North American Indian Travelling College.

At Maxville Public School, their theme for Education Week centred around the environment. The Mohawks, said Tahawisoren, base their entire culture on the environment.

The two seemed to be a perfect match.

Tahawisoren, Ahawenrathe and Sosakete (who works at the Awkwesasne Museum) each spoke to 30 or 40 students at a time in one of three locations. They talked about their dances, legends, told a few stories and took a brief break at noon to plant a tree at the front of the school.

The trio made a prayer in English and then in their native tongue before planting the young tree. Students surrounded the visitors and were awestruck by the new language which many heard for the first time.

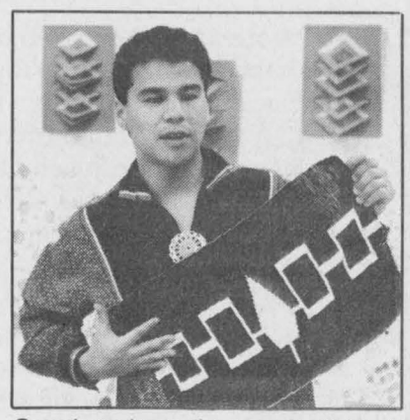
After the Mohawks began shovelling soil into the hole where the tree was planted, the students gathered around and helped Mother Earth a little by scooping up a handful of soil and depositing it around the tree.

''You have to keep things short and interesting,'' said Sosakete. ''They're good listeners but I don't know how much they remember.''

''The key,'' Tahawisoren said, ''is to talk to them while they're young and don't have any of these stereotypes. We educate them through song and dance and talking to them. Everything is boiled down to a simple level that they can understand.

''People don't have a firm concept about appreciating what they have and working to keep it. They don't look out for the future. Everything has to be respected.''

Ahawenrathe, a Mohawk who works for the North American Travelling Indian College, led Maxville Public School students through a prayer during a tree dedication ceremony held Thursday. Pictured to his right are Sosakete and Tahawisoren who spoke to students about their culture, legends and games as part of Education Week.



Sosakete brought a territorial belt and other Indian objects to Maxville Public School Thursday to help keep the students' interest and teach them about Indian culuture.

RARE PAL: Novel program getting students on track

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

A RARE learning experience is turning troubled teens into model students in Alexandria.

The students are part of a special T.R. Leger School program designed to help students who are faltering in the normal classroom study regain their footing.

And the program, using Alexandria's recycling plant as a classroom, is making inroads with 10 Glengarry District High School students that in the past was not believed possible.

''I feel we've accomplished something that a lot of teachers dream about,'' says Rene Jeaurond, Recyclage Alexandria Recycling Equipe plant manager

He says the program which combines a half day work training and a half day of classroom academics offers new inspiration for students not cutting it in the normal school setting.

''They see hope at the end of the tunnel. They're not going to just quit school because they're bored.''

Called the PAL Program, it puts students in a completely different learning environment, combining informal classroom teaching with the responsibility of an actual job.

The recycling plant itself is one huge classroom of practical, on-the-job learning.

The other classroom is up on the mezzanine level of the recycling plant, not far from the school in distance, but in many ways worlds apart.

Posters of performance cars line the walls, heavy metal resonates somewhat softly from a ghetto blaster on a cluttered rectangular table.

There is the occasional banter of conversation as students work through their day's lessons with the helpful instruction of teacher Dale Dulmange and assistant Mark Willcock.

Brian Boisvert, who has been in the program at RARE since its start in March, has nothing but praise for it.

''You don't feel like a computer number. You feel like an individual.''

He cites the personal learning environment, as well as practicality of on- -the-job learning as the main advantages of the program.

''I'll be learning the stuff I'd be losing in high school,'' he says, talking to a reporter during an informal in-class interview.

''There's always something to learn in this place.''

He will have the well-rounded training and references later when he is out seeking a job; he will be, he hopes, an all-round better person.

''It's a chance of a lifetime,'' he explains, as students and regular plant workers busily picked recyclables off a conveyor in the sorting area.

And in many cases it is exactly what is needed to get the students back on track and install the confidence in them necessary to succeed.

''I've seen changes already in some of the kids,'' he says.

They also have learned that there is a lot more involved to holding a job than first imagined.

''We're all partners here,'' Jeaurond explains. The operation is one ''big chain'' and the students have learned that they are each an essential link.

If they falter, the whole chain breaks down. ''It affects all of us.''

Many of the kids come from disadvantaged families and suffer from low self esteem.

''It's definitely meeting a need for these young students,'' says Kim Becker, manager of Alexandria's T.R. Leger School campus which adminsters the local program.

They have regained ''that confidence that they came in not having,'' she says.

''It's gratifying because they can see themselves in the large picture.''

And she hopes they can use that positive energy to succeed in the regular classroom, or the workplace if they choose, after finishing their stint in the PAL program.

What is the PAL program?

The PAL program is designed for students, under the age of sixteen, who are either not attending school or not achieving well in their studies. This program combines in-school learning with an out-of-school work component. The opportunity of acquiring a duality of skills enables students to return to the traditional school setting or to make a transition to the work world.

Upon their referral to the program by an attendance counsellor, students will be interviewed to determine their suitability for the academic studies and the on-site work assignment at the Recyclage Alexandria Recycling Equipe facility. Much depends upon a student's commitment and willingness to follow directions. In addition, the student's school records will be reviewed and his/her needs will be determined. Course material may be delivered at either a grade 9 or a grade 10 level, depending on students' needs. Students who are transferred from a grade 9 transitions program will fulfil their course requirements, at that grade level, on a non-credit basis.

The curriculum emphasises the relationship between the in-class instruction and on-the-job work assignments. Skills learned in mathematics and English will be focused within the context of resource management and recycling. Approximately half of the students' class assignments will be related to their assigned work within the plant. In addition, they will study the following life management units: career planning, decision making, human relations, and resource management. The study of resource management is meant to focus the necessity of recycling and emphasize to students their role as responsible consumers.

Combining in-class learning with on-the-job work experience provides students with the perspective which will enable them to begin planning their futures. Some will opt to make a transition to the work world, and a significant number will decide to continue their education. The major purpose of the PAL program is to assist students in gaining enough confidence and responsibility to make the best possible decision.

Wade Barkley, 16, was struggling academically prior to enrolling in the PAL program.

He now boasts a 97 per cent average and has received a 100 per cent mark on three consecutive assignments.

He couldn't stand the normal classroom setting, but the combination of work and informal classroom teaching has given him a new zest for learning.

''It's great. (You) get to work half the day,'' he explained as the main bonus of the program.

Jeaurond says there is more to the program than just its unique learning atmosphere.

''There's a feeling of belonging to this program,'' he says with a smile. ''It's good to belong to a good team.''

Township residents choking over dust

we have to close our windows and cover our cars or else everything in sight will be covered with dust. We have problems going outside to walk or bicycle.

''We were choking all last summer and it was wet so just imagine how it's going to be this year if the weather is dry,'' the spokeswoman read from a prepared statement to council.

Clerk-Treasurer Mike Samson told the delegation that the township can't do anything about speeding vehicles, that's up to Lancaster OPP.

''Unless there's a cop sitting at the corner to make sure drivers are doing the speed limit nothing can be done. You're living there, you see it and you should complain (about speeders),'' Samson said.

Another resident asked if the stretch of road could be designated as a hamlet so the posted speed limit could be lowered but Samson said that's impossible because there would be dozens of hamlets springing up throughout Lancaster Township.

As for the dust, council agreed to have road crews spray liquid calcium on the road not once but twice in an effort to control the dust.

Council will speak to the proper authorities at Glengarry Aggregate in an effort to discourage speeding and asked the residents to call the township in one month if the problem persists.

The delegation also complained of huge potholes that wreak havoc on the transmission systems of their cars. They blamed the road conditions on the trucks which gear down, jerk their wheels and ruin the work done by road crews.

Court Report

The following are among the cases dealt with by Judge Rommel Masse in Alexandria provincial court on May 6.

Man must repay defrauded clients

A man who sold advertising for a phone directory that was never published has been ordered to repay over $3,000 to 22 clients.

William J. Cavanaugh, 55, sold the advertisements between October of 1991 to October of 1992 with the understanding that a telephone directory would be published within 180 days.

The court ruled that Cavanaugh continued to sell the ads even though he knew that he would be unable to ever get the directory published.

Cavanaugh, who was also placed on probation for one year, solicited advertising from clients in Alexandria, Maxville, Cornwall and Long Sault for the project.

Cigarette smugglers fined

Two more persons were given heavy fines after being arrested for cigarette smuggling in Glengarry County.

Jacques Senecal, 48, was at the wheel of a van stopped by federal police forces near Curry Hill last Oct. 13. Twelve cases of smuggled cigarettes were found in the back of the van.

Senecal was fined $7,050 and was given two years to pay. A four month jail term was given in the event of default of payment.

Meanwhile, Jean St.Jacques was slapped with a $33,500 after a van he was driving in Charlottenburgh Township in March was found to contain over $137,000 worth of smuggled cigarettes.

St.Jacques was also given two years to pay but he'll serve 12 months in jail if he fails to pay the fine.

Both men are residents of the province of Quebec.

Alexandria man jailed

An Alexandria man convicted of a variety of offences has been sentenced to 135 days in jail.

Gilbert Lacombe, 19, pleaded guilty to one count of break and enter, one count drug possession for the purpose of trafficking and four counts of failing to comply with bail conditions.

Lacombe received 45 days for the drug trafficking count alone after he tried to sell 10 grams of marijuana to an undercover police officer.

The rest of the sentence is broken down into 30 days for the break and enter and 15 days for each bail violation, most of which involved breaking curfew.

Councils are looking at the wrong solution

Suddenly, as if the notion has just become an inspired idea, there is again serious discussion behind the idea of cutting the size of our governing municipal and counties councils. And before the stampede of enthusiasm for those cuts proceeds, thinking people should ask themselves this: if this is such a great idea, why hasn't it been done sooner?

The answer partly stems from a recent push by Kenyon Township Council calling for counties council to downsize. And that came by concern, mostly by Councillor Blair Williams, of the cost of maintaining small government — especially in these times.

Indeed, Alexandria Councillor Jacques Lajoie has asked that the size of his council be cut in order to save taxpayer's money. He previously tried, unsuccessfully, to have council agree to pay cuts of 10 per cent.

To its credit, however, counties council has already gone through the process of looking at eliminating deputy reeves as far back as 1990. After waffling on the issue, it finally came to a vote in March of 1991. The motion to downsize was defeated, after much debate about fears of under-representation of smaller areas and increased workload for remaining councillors. Counties did, however, agree to cut the number of meetings.

This at least, acknowledged that the expenses of the individual councillors — not necessarily the size of council — is the most palatable way to cut costs. There is no representation erosion and no power concentration by a fewer number of councillors.

This is the message councils need to hear. The elimination of deputy reeves from counties council is not a bad idea, but it cannot overshadow the need for cuts in pay and benefits each councillor should responsibly accept in these times of high unemployment, frozen wages and big government cuts.

More than saving taxpayers money, these cuts would send the right kind of signal to their recession-battered constituents: We will help you absorb the pain.

Too little, too late

The anger and frustration expressed by a delegation of tax and ratepayers upset about Alexandria's new sewer charges is completely understandable, but very late. The town's council has no choice, thanks to more than a decade of irresponsible and negligent dithering and whistling in the dark.

The chickens are now coming home to roost, as ratepayers are beginning to wake up to the fact that they now have to begin paying for that horrendous lack of foresight and planning on the part of the incumbent ''old guard'' from previous councils. That guard — Mayor J.P. Touchette, Reeve Bruno Massie, Deputy Reeve Jacques Joly and Councillor Roger Lemieux, coincidentally the same people who hold the chief lever of the municipality's power — the finance committee. Archie McDougall, too, was around when the decision to upgrade and expand the town's services could've been made at much less direct liability to the local taxpayer.

Back then, the province was paying municipalities as much as 80 per cent of the cost of carrying out such work.

At the same time, however, ratepayers themselves settled into a general apathy and infrequently involved themselves directly with council, even when the Ministry of Environment continued to turn up the volume on its warnings about the town's future development and what it will need to grow, and protect the environment.

Proactive involvement by the business, industrial and residential communities could have gone a long way in pushing the inattentive councils of the 80s into action.

Now, the current council, half of which can bear no direct responsibility for today's mess, is reduced to mere tinkering in its efforts to fund the work. Whether it's $5 a month less for commercial businesses, or $10 a month more for Lochiel ratepayers using Alexandria services, the fact is the money has to come from somebody. The province is not putting a single dime into this work. That means the entire responsibility of paying for these improvements is squarely on the shoulders of the people who can afford it least — the ratepayers.

Brickbats to the mayor for telling them that the user charge was necessary and was forced on the town by the MOE, which he said would have ''shut Alexandria down'' if council couldn't comply with the needed changes.

The fact is, the mayor and his council did have a choice — for at least 10 years — that he chose to ignore. The MOE merely carried out its mandate council either would not or could not heed, and that is to protect the well-being of the town's citizens and the natural environment.

For now, however, and looking ahead, ratepayers have little option other than to take a lesson in involvement, and remember come election time who got them into this mess.

Mansel Hay and auction day

Faces 'N Places

by Joe Banks

When Mansel Hay was a young lad, there were few things he loved more than to follow his dad to a local auction. The patter of the auctioneer and the price the items brought, especially livestock, left him fascinated with the art of auctioneering.

But it wasn't until he labored in heavy construction years later on the St. Lawrence Seaway project that the possibility of actually becoming an auctioneer began to sink in.

''One night I climbed down off a big machine and it was cold and I thought, there's got to be a better way of making a living,'' Mansel says with that trademark grin.

After that — and a two-week course at the world-famous Reisch Auction School in Mason City, Iowa — Mansel entered the auction business in March of 1958.

And he hasn't stopped calling auctions since.

The well-known, recognizable Glengarrian — a native of Lot 2, Conc. 5 of Lochiel Township — is happy to talk about his 35th anniversary in the local auction business. And on this snowy April day, he is particularly relaxed around anybody who wants to know about him and his trade.

Leaning back, his arm cocked over the back of an old armchair in his Brodie Road home, the light flickers in Mansel's eye as he revels in recalling that first auction, staged at the Vankleek Hill Co-op in '58.

''They were selling things they couldn't sell themselves, I guess,'' such as leftover stock and odds and ends, things like lumber and cans of spray. He claims he did ''not too bad'' in the commission department, but most importantly, he was now on the road to becoming a successful, personable and generally well-received auctioneer.

It didn't happen overnight. The Reisch school in Iowa was short, but intensive. School founder Joe Reisch was a tough cookie, and Mansel delights in telling a story he heard about him when long hair was in fashion in the 60s.

''Joe'd get all the boys together and tell them, 'there's two buses. One's going to the barber shop, the other to the airport. You can get on either one of them'.'' A story like that is often followed by another Mansel trademark — that laugh. ''Heeeeeeee,'' and another tale follows closely behind.

And there are many. There's the one about the lady in Vankleek Hill who told him, he might as well sell her television antenna because it's ''as good as new. I don't watch much TV.'' She thought that as long as the set wasn't on, the antenna wasn't being used.

''Another fella said to me, 'I want a good day for the auciton,' and went to get the Farmer' s Almanac to obtain a reliable forecast. He couldn't find it. So he said, 'we'll just use last year's'!''

It's not that Mansel didn't know what kind of personalities he'd be dealing with. An area mechanic once told him, early in his auctioneering career, '' 'You know that television show, People Are Funny? Well, you'll find out how funny they are!' ''

True words, says Mansel.

''But I must say that 99 out of 100 people are trouble free. The thing is, they all go looking for a bargain and most of them end up paying more than it's worth.'' He's quick to add, however, ''you never know'' what bargains lurk in even the most modest of country auctions.

Mansel has found the best deals are usually found at auctions featuring antiques, tables, fridges and stoves.

The worst buys in his memory didn't take him long to recall.

''Some people overpay for appliances that date back 20 years,'' and proceeds to tell about a lady who insisted on owning a used fridge that was worth a fifth of what she paid for it.

Mansel Hay at his home on Brodie Road

''She just had to have that fridge,'' says Mansel, shaking his head. ''And she paid for it.''

Despite the personal quirks, Mansel says he has seen ''very little'' negative behavior at his auctions over the years.

That comes from a stern rule — ''be honest with the crowd.''

Even so, in the heat of a rolling auction, Mansel admits to a quirk that is common among the best auctioneers.

''If I sold an item and if you asked me a quarter of a second after, I wouldn't remember what it sold for.''

Even so, the veteran auctioneer has seen firsthand the dramatic increases in prices over the years.

''Where an old pine cupboard sold for $15 one day 25 years ago, today it'll go for $1,500 to $2,000.'' The veteran auctioneer also remembers selling a china cabinet for $39 — and then 20 years later sold the ''exact same cabinet for $1,760.''

But certainly, Mansel has noticed there is not nearly the number of sales there used to be during the heyday of sales barns in Vankleek Hill, Lachute, Alexandria and Lancaster. Yet, he doesn't think they'll ever go out of vogue, either.

''People just love to go to auctions, especially younger people.''

And as long as there's that kind of interest, Mansel expects to keep on running them with that distinguishable patter of his.

In fact, it's rare of him to take a break, unless it's a fiddle contest or another auction.

''I did go to a fiddle contest in Bobcaygeon once,'' he says with a grin. ''But the weekend I was away, there was the biggest auction in the area I turned down because I wanted to go. I suppose there was a $2,000 commission earned by the auctioneer.''

Since then, Mansel sticks pretty close to home turf.

And even though he's reluctant to talk about his age, retirement does, from time to time, cross his mind. But only cross.

''Oh, I don't go looking (for auctions) very hard but if people want me then I'll go. If the sale's too long I'll work with another auctioneer.''

But that's about as complicated as life gets for this lifelong bachelor. After 35 years of keeping things moving crisply along at the sales on the front lawns, back and barn yards of Glengarry County, the man whose motto is ''Action by Auction'' sums it all up with a simple observation.

''I enjoyed every auction, and I never had one I didn't enjoy and I always — always — looked forward to the next one.''

The MacIntyres

Highland Paths

by Ken McKenna

On one of our first trips to Scotland, some 40 years ago, we were told by friends in Glasgow not to miss ''the best shop for tweeds'' when passing through Fort William. We were just learning Gaelic at the time and were unable to locate ''Mary MacIntyre's Tweed Shop'' at all, although we walked up and down the main street of the little town of Fort William many times searching for it. There WAS a very nice shop, with a beautiful display of woollens in the window, but the sign, in Celtic lettering, said ''Mairi-nic-an-t-Saoir.'' It finally dawned on us: MacIntyre in Gaelic is ''Mac-an-t-Saoir,'' the son of the carpenter, and son — mac — becomes nic — daughter — in the feminine. We were looking for the English spelling, the way my cousin in Glengarry, Mary MacIntyre, spells her name.

Because MacIntyre refers to a trade — a carpenter, joiner, or wright — the name was known in many areas of the Highlands, and was shared by many families who were not necessarily connected. The principal clan was closely allied with Clan Donald, but others of the name were a sept, or branch, of the Campbells of Craignish in Argyll. Another family was connected to the Stewart Lords of Lorn, and another was a sept of the MacIntoshes. The hereditary pipers to the MacDonalds of Clanranald were MacIntyres, just as the MacCrimmons were pipers to the MacLeods of Dunvegan.

But the most famous person to bear the name MacIntyre, at least to Gaelic-speaking Scots, was the poet Duncan Bàn Macintyre, ''Donnchadh Bàn'' (pronounced something like ''Donn-ach-ah Bahn''). He was born in 1724 and died in 1812, so that many of the early settlers from Scotland to Glengarry, Nova Scotia, and other parts of Canada would have been familiar with some of his poetry. The first edition of his poems was published in 1768 and no doubt was carried to the New World by Highland Immigrants.

Although Duncan Ban could not read or write (few Gaelic-speakers could in his day), he was heir to the ancient Bardic tradition of Gaeldom which stretches back before recorded history. His poetry covers many subjects from songs of praise for his Campbell chief — he was born in Glenorchy, in Campbell country — to songs describing the beauty of his native glen and the wild creatures that he saw there. He was particularly fond of the Red Deer that abounded on the slopes of the Highland Hills and his lines depicting a sleeping fawn are among the most delicate and touching in Gaelic poetry. He made several poems in praise of Gaelic and the bagpipes for the Highland Society of London from 1781 to 1789. That Society was the one on which The Highland Society of Canada was based when it was formed in 1818 and is now known as The Glengarry Highland Society.

Duncan Ban's most famous work is a long narrative poem called ''In Praise of Ben Dorain.'' Ben Dorain is a mountain in Breadalbane which the poet saw every day during the many years that he lived in Glenorchy. It is set to a beautiful melody and is on the list to be learned by The Glengarry Gaelic Choir next year.

Because Duncan Ban lived in Campbell country, he fought against the Jacobites at Culloden, but like many Highlanders of his day, he had little choice. His later poems show strong Jacobite sympathies and he was among the first to decry the depopulation of the Highlands due to sheep farming. He led a long and adventurous life after leaving his native glen, serving in the Edinbourgh City Guard, the forerunner of the modern police force, and in the Breadalbane Fencibles. He is buried in Greyfriars Churchyard in Edinburgh. As the late Duke of Argyll once said ''Burns is undoubtedly a great poet, but we Gaels have our own and Duncan Ban MacIntyre is his name.''

Flower peddling is booming in Alexandria

To the editor:

On Easter Sunday this year, we were surprised to discover that a truck was parked at the side of the road in a heavy traffic area inside of the town's limits and that the occupants of this truck were peddling flowers. Dutiful citizens that we are, (along with being careful business people) we immediately notified the local authorities. Our surprise turned to distress when we learned that a permit had been sold to these people by the town which allowed them to be where they were, do what they were doing and to return whenever they pleased for the entire year.

We all agree that free enterprise is a wonderful thing, but unfortunately we just can't afford to play this type of hard-ball. As florists, we have to depend on four holidays throughout the year (which amounts to approximately 14 days out of a possible 365) to determine whether or not we are able to stay open. We have our permanent locations, but the overhead that would allow us to set up on every street corner just isn't there.

With Mother's Day past, we have lost most of our pre-holiday optimism. This time when we have usually spent weeks preparing for the big day and praying for nice weather, we are this year forced to face a stumbling block that makes us petrified to look at our books. Will we break even this year? Will we have to say goodbye to one or all of us?

In the long run, we believe that it will be the town that will lose. After all, we are here all the time and we contribute to the community on a daily basis. If even one of us goes under it will mean tht about five local people will be forced to join the packed ranks of the unemployed. Co-op and Futures programs will be affected also, as we keep our doors open in an attempt to support these programs.

Aren't there enough empty windows staring blankly onto Main Street? Perhaps something should be done to make it a little harder for this type of "fly-by-night" business to set up inside the town limits. Maybe even a guarantee that full or part-time employees will be hired or even a request for a fixed business address within the town would be sufficient.

To other businesses, we advise caution. Any day now there could be someone lingering in the shadows outside, stepping out occasionally to accost your customers with, "Psst . . . Wanna buy a -----, I have a permit."

Executive director explains French health centre mandate

To the editor:

During the last few weeks, your newspaper has been publishing different letters and articles regarding the Centre de santé communautaire de l'Estrie. Having well understood the expectations of the Cornwall population, and not presuming to bring judgment on the intentions of the people who have written these letters or articles, it is important that we give the population supplementary information to their basic knowledge of the functions of a Community Health Centre.

Community Health Centres have existed in Canada since 1927, and in Ontario since 1963. These Community Health Centres are not medical clinics as many seem to believe. Community Health Centres are centres which respond to a specific mission and are intended for a specific clientele. Presently, there exists 49 Community Health Centres in Ontario.

Before a Community Health Centre can exist, a feasibility study on the needs of a specific clientele must be done. In addition,, this study must be led by a group in the community, which, in our case was achieved in 1989. This feasibility study demonstrated the special needs of the francophone population for physical, mental, and community health care services.

This study was presented to the District Health Council of Eastern Ontario and the Ministry of Health in September of 1989 and on November 17, 1989, the minister, the Honorable Elinor Caplan, officially announced the approval of a Community Health Centre in Cornwall with a branch office in Alexandria to respond to the specific needs of the francophone population of the three United Counties. Our mandate then is to offer physical, mental, and community primary health care services to the francophone population of the three United Counties as is done by the Community Health Centre in Toronto and the one in Sudbury. Each Community Health Centre responds to a well established need in the community demonstrated by the feasibility study. There exists Community Health Centres who respond to the special needs of natives (one on Cornwall Island and one in Toronto), women, adolescents, the elderly, immigrants, etc.

The objectives of the Community Health Centres' program, as described by the Ministry of Health of Ontario are:

1) Improve equity in access to health services.

2) Strengthen the role and responsibility of the individual and community in health and health care delivery.

3) Develop co-ordinated primary health services which make the most appropriate and efficient use of health care providers and health resources.

4) Promote health and prevent illness to enhance the health status of the individuals and communities served.

Our mandate, having been established, we can now speak of what we practice. We offer physical health care services with 2.5 physicians, one nutritionist, two registered nurses; mental health care services with one physician specialized in psychiatric services, one psychologist, and one social worker. As for community health care services, we promote and educate about health care in groups or with the assistance of the other agencies already in existence in the community.

It is understood that our services are offered in French but we work in collaboration with all the other agencies in the community. We participate on at least 24 committees in the community.

The fact that our professionals mention to the clients that the language in which the services are offered is French is our mandate and our responsibility. And the subtlety that we must bring forth is the fact that we do not close the door to one or another group in the community.

Our services do not exclude anyone, anglophones, francophones, Germans, Greeks, Italians, natives, etc. if they can understand and communicate in French.

I hope that these points of information will suffice to clarify our mandate and our role in the community. If in fact there are real needs for services which do not exist in the anglophone community, we would be happy to collaborate with them in order to begin a feasibility study for a Community Health Centre which will respond to the needs of this community.

Roland Beaulieu,
Executive Director,

Kudos to area residents and The Glengarry News

To the editor:

Once again, on behalf of the Glengarry Chapter of the Heart and Stroke Foundation, I would like to thank you for the whole hearted support that The Glengarry News gave to our annual "door to door" fund raising activities during the month of February.

Your editor, Greg Kielec, was most helpful, attending and writing up our campaign opening ceremonies at a Glens hockey game, and assisting our cause on a number of occasions with his writing skills.

As a result of your help, the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and the generosity of the residents of Glengarry County, we have exceeded our goal of $37,500 by several thousand dollars during the campaign. These funds will be used to fund research into heart disease and to inform our citizens about "heart smart" life styles. This outcome demonstrates the wonderful support the Heart and Stroke Foundation receives from Glengarrians.

Yours Sincerely,
Bruce Burgess

Police recover stolen scaffolding and lay charges

Police Briefs

Jewelery, VCRs and television sets are items which are attractive to thieves because they can be resold. But an Alexandria man is accused of stealing scaffolding from GTL.

The theft took place at 2 a.m. on Friday. Witnesses observed someone loading scaffolding, worth $1,500, into the back of a pickup truck. They were able to identify the thief which led to the arrest.

Paul Lauzon has been charged with theft over $1,000.

Too close

A Bois Des Fillions, Quebec resident has been charged with following another car too closely after a Friday afternoon accident.

The mishap took place at 3:15 p.m. on Highway 34 near County Road 24 (Dunvegan Road). Michelle Brabant of St. Isidore was northbound on Highway 34 and stopped to turn west on to Dunvegan Road. Another three cars had stopped behind her.

Maxville OPP report that Fortin didn't have enough time to stop and tried to pass the four cars. Fortin's vehicle struck the passenger side of the vehicle being driven by Brabant as she attempted to turn west.

Brabant was taken to Glengarry Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released. Fortin was uninjured but both cars sustained major damage.

Bad sign

Andrzey Bialkowski of Verdun, Quebec has been charged with failing to stop at a stop sign after his car was struck by another vehicle which had the right of way.

Mary MacPhee of Dalkeith was southbound on Highway 34 at 4:10 p.m. on Sunday. Bialkowski was on the off ramp from Highway 417 and crossed the stop line a little too far.

Neither driver was injured but both vehicles sustained heavy damage.

Tools taken

Maxville OPP are investigating the theft of over $1,500 worth of tools that were swiped from a Lochiel Township business located on Sandfield Road.

Thieves broke into the business sometime overnight on Saturday. They stole a Makita polisher, Makita drill, Makita sander and an assortment of Mastercraft tools and a ratchet set.

Toying around

Stooping to new depths, a thief stole a variety of toys from the front porch of an RR 1 Dalkeith residence sometime between 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. on Saturday.

The thief made off with the toys while nobody was home.

Smashing vandalism

A Kenyon Street East resident's garage was aired out by a vandal Thursday night.

At 10 p.m., the resident's daughter heard a loud noise, went outside to investigate but found nothing. The following morning, they discovered a pair of small windows in the garage which were apparently smashed by rocks, which were found on the inside of the garage.

The estimated damage amounted to $50.

Write stuff

Three Ecole Regionale Secondaire Glengarry students won in the regional competition for the Caisse Populaire contest Concours International Des Jeunes Desjardins. Shown front to back are writing winners Denise Lajoie, Grade 11; Melissa Mallette, Grade 10; Marie Andre Ouimet, Grade 9. The other regional winner, not shown, was Laura St. Pierre of Ecole St. Joseph, Lancaster for her drawing. The four were honored for their work at a banquet at Ecole Secondaire La Citadelle in Cornwall on May 10. The Alexandria Caisse Populaire sponsored eight schools from Maxville to Lancaster in the contest.

GMH Auxiliary shows appreciation for volunteers

The volunteer appreciation celebration of Glengarry Memorial Hospital was held in conjunction with the Auxiliary's April 28 general meeting. A capacity crowd attended.

During the short business meeting the members were reminded to purchase their tickets for the draw to be held at this year's ''Strawberry Tea'' on June 12.

The prizes will be: first, $500; second, a beautiful handmade afghan. A Pastoral Care course will be scheduled for October if enough members desire it.

Committee chairmen were reminded to prepare their annual reports for the next meeting which will be held on May 26.

Mr. Jerry Adams, hospital administrator expressed appreciation on behalf of himself, the board, the staff and especially the patients for the work of the Auxiliary during the past year.

A highlight of the evening was the tribute and awards presented to this year's ''Special Volunteers'' by president Sandra Lawson.

To the outstanding Gift Shop Trio, Lise B. Campeau, Elaine and John Seguin went this distinction, earned for several years of excellence and dedication.

In the president's words: ''All of us know the countless weekend and after-closing hours these three people have donated to the hospital community.''

Special guest Janice Simms, proprietor of Watsims Chocolates made a delightful presentation and demonstration of candy making techniques. Several auxiliary members enjoyed their participation in the activity.

Several donations of goodies, including many packages of Cappacino coffee from Carnation were shared by the members.

The evening closed with refreshments. The centrepiece of this was a beautifully decorated cake made by the cafeteria staff in appreciation to the Auxiliary.

SD&G composter update

Close to 900 composters will soon begin their stay in SD&G backyards.

Bill de Witt, Cornwall's waste reduction co-ordinator, and Anne MacGillivray, SD&G Waste Study co-ordinator have a tally of 895 composters ordered as of April 28 in the co-operative composter distribution program between the city and the SD&G Waste Study.

''Both Anne and I have received a lot of calls about composting since the co-operative distribution program was announced,'' says de Wit. ''It's great to see there is so much interest.''

Says MacGillivray, ''SD&G municipal clerks have told me there's been a good response to the co-operative composter distribution program.

''I'm glad we could do it this way — it's a lot cheaper and faster than everybody having to work it out on their own.''

And backyard composting itself is about the cheapest way to get rid of almost a third of a household's garbage — about $23.18 per tonne according to the Recycling Council of Ontario.

MacGillivray has also received inquiries from SD&G residents who want to build their own composters, and can provide the information to anyone who's interested.

She also notes that just because someone doesn't have a composter in their backyard doesn't mean they're not composting.

''Lots of our rural residents knew about composting a long time ago,'' she says.

''Those piles of vegetable peelings, grass and leaves in the backyard near the gardens have been doing the trick for a long time, pretty sensibly too.''

''Some have pointed out to me that a composter just makes it a bit neater for those who may not have as much space.''

For information on composter pickup day residents are asked to check with their local municipal office. Municipalities have also been supplied with information sheets on the ''do's hand don'ts'' of composting.

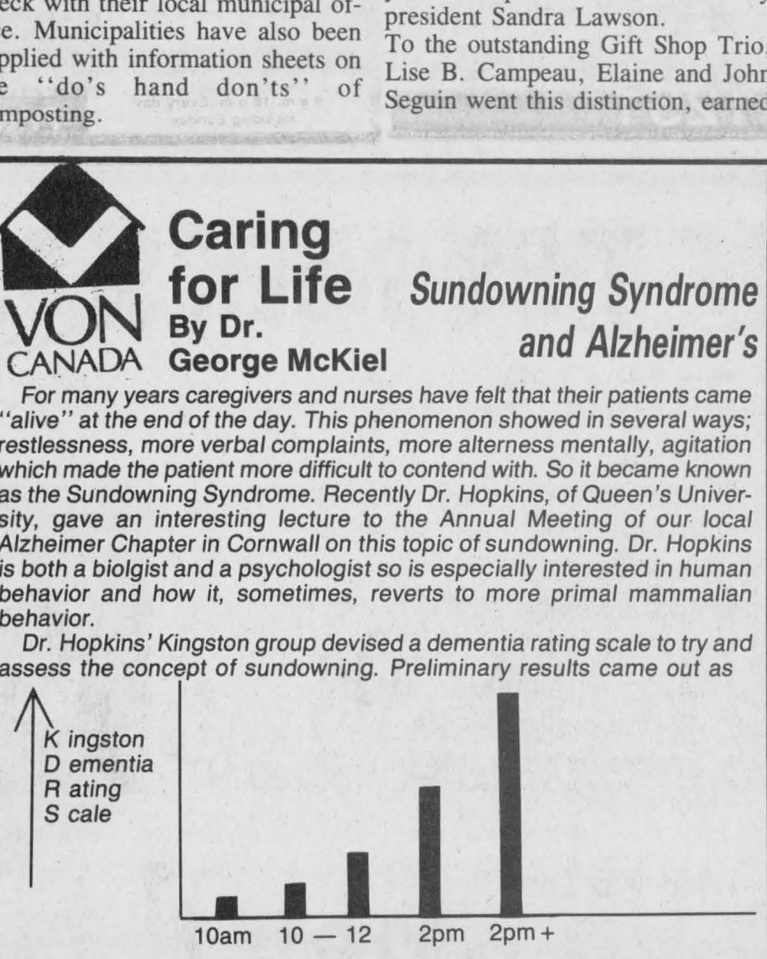
Caring for Life

By Dr. George McKiel

Sundowning Syndrome and Alzheimer's

For many years caregivers and nurses have felt that their patients came ''alive'' at the end of the day. This phenomenon showed in several ways; restlessness, more verbal complaints, more alterness mentally, agitation which made the patient more difficult to contend with. So it became known as the Sundowning Syndrome. Recently Dr. Hopkins, of Queen's University, gave an interesting lecture to the Annual Meeting of our local Alzheimer Chapter in Cornwall on this topic of sundowning. Dr. Hopkins is both a biolgist and a psychologist so is especially interested in human behavior and how it, sometimes, reverts to more primal mammalian behavior.

Dr. Hopkins' Kingston group devised a dementia rating scale to try and assess the concept of sundowning. Preliminary results came out as



This, 10 years back, was probably the first indication in scientific literature that a pattern of sundowning syndrome was indicated. However, further testing utilizing graduate students to assist, produced an inconclusive finding, a maybe. Some of the devices employed included a pedometer such as joggers use, attached to the patient's clothing and their restlessless was clocked to as much as 9 miles per hr. Another technique was measuring body movement by means of a photocell which transferred the motion counts into a portable monitor, an electronic storage box. This, in turn, passed the data into a computer for analysis and showed that there is an increase in activity in the late afternoon in some dementia. Activity peaks were not found in patients who were in the early phase of the disease. Further, the activity peaks disappear in latter stage patients. The cause of activity peaks in the patient is not known.

One surprising finding of the study was that sundowners cannot be readily identified by nursing staff. The study also demonstrated that sundowning appears to ''wander'' through the different phases of the disease. Dr. Hopkins (his biology peeking out) says what may be happening is corpuscular behavior (like the lions of Africa), a tendency to be most active in the late day or early morning.

Thus, Dr. Hopkins suggsests sundowning may perhaps be a remnant of corpuscular behavior. Activity peaks at certain periods of the day are really fragmentations of patterns. For any caregiver of an Alzheimer patient, this translates into getting up in the middle of the night, dressing and thinking it is sometime during the day by the patient. The fragmentation explains the disturbed sleep patterns of Alzheimer patients.

In a sense babies are similar to Alzheimer victims as their brain center in the hypothalamus is not developed (in the late Alzheimer stage clearly in autopsies of Alzheimer). As the years pass with Alzheimer's the usual and normal long blocks of rest/activity begin to break up so fragmentation continues along with the disease until no discernible, normal, diurnal activity is detectable. To be more specific, the causes of the unpredictable Alzheimer behavior may lie in the destruction of the suprachiasmatic nucleus of the hypothalamus. Nowadays this fragmentation is called, clinically ''day/night reversal''.

Dr. Hopkins pointed out that in studying and researching human behavior, the science called ethology, you tend to raise more questions than answers. Or, put another way, we are learning more and more about Alzheimer's but its a highly complex disease so there are no sudden breakthroughs expected, or found, for a new and successful treatment.

Kenyon boy suffering from rare medical disorder

vomited about six times.

Like clockwork, the third episode took place about six months later — on Nov. 18, 1992 — exactly one year after the first episode.

During both episodes, Matthieu was rushed from the school to the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario in Ottawa where he was put through more tests and rested.

"He was so tired that he couldn't lift his head off the pillow. He had no appetite and was as white as a bedsheet," Sharon says.

"It seems like we take him to the hospital where he recovers, bring him home and take him back to the hospital again. It's a vicious cycle."

The maddening thing about Matthieu's problem is nobody knows what's causing it. That's why the doctors have taken extra caution when prescribing any medication for fear that it could have an adverse effect.

The doctors confirmed their suspicions after the third episode. Matthieu does have a rare progressive neurological and/or metabolical disorder.

Since New Year's Day, there have been another three episodes — which now occur about every six weeks. Matthieu is taking medication that will delay the episodes.

Sharon is concerned that when the six weeks are up her son will go through another episode.

"Yeah, I think about it. I'm scared to send him off to school. I want to keep him in (school) and give him as normal an outlook on life as any five-year-old should have."

He continues to watch his favorite cartoon television shows, play Nintendo video games and play with his two sisters — Melissa, 8, and Valerie, 22 months.

Family outings are regulated by how well Matthieu feels. A walk in the park or a dip in a swimming pool can tire him out very quickly. His appetite remains very low and Sharon is glad to feed him cakes or cookies so Matthieu's blood-sugar level will be almost normal.

With each episode, doctors say, Matthieu's legs are damaged more and more. The spasticity, the control his brain has over the muscles in his legs, has been reduced. As a result, Matthieu walks in a jerky motion. Both his right arm and leg are pointed out.

On a good day, Matthieu is the same as his classmates and friends. Sharon has noticed that he'll try to fight the fatigue and move even faster.

"He'll be playing with his friends, running all over the place and then he falls down. He keeps getting back up to play. He's a very determined little boy," Sharon says.

The mind is the great counter-revolutionary to the rebellion. Go, the mind says. Play through it. But the body rebels and sometime Matthieu loses and grudgingly surrenders.

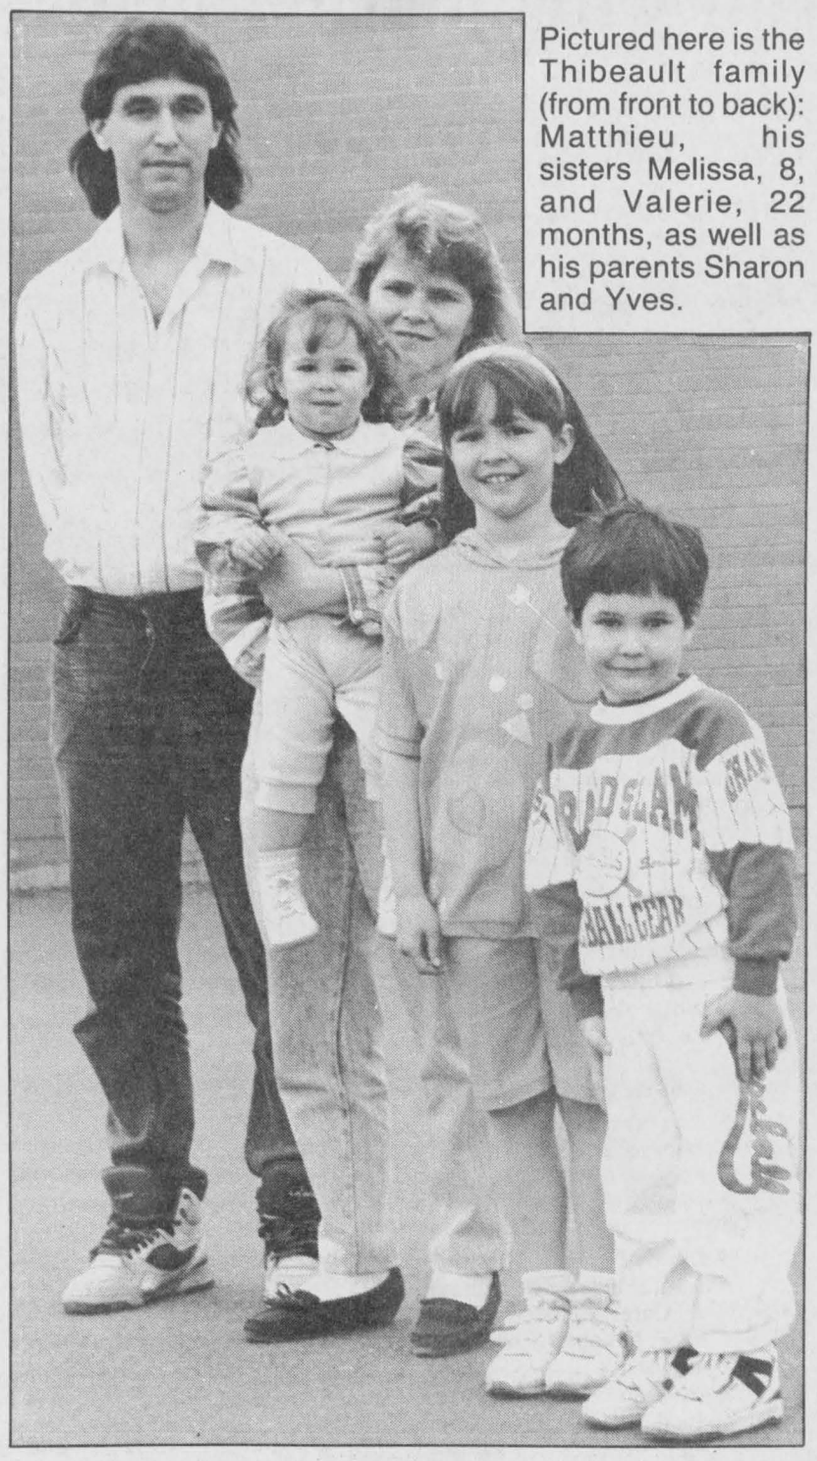
The playground at Alexander School is one of his favorite hangouts. Matthieu runs straight for the monkeybars where he shows off his climbing prowess. It's hard to believe that the same boy who climbs bars, goes down the slide and runs around the playground has suffered so much.

A series of tests at a Toronto hospital ruled out a possible brain lesion or Cerebral Palsy as the possible causes. The neurologists are still puzzled. The next step for the Thibeaults is a journey to the Albert Einstein Clinic in New York City which will solve this medical mystery.

"New York is our last hope to find out what this is and how to cure it," Sharon says as her eyes become watery and her voice cracks slightly.

OHIP will pay only part of the bill, the Thibeaults will have to make up for the rest. The ongoing travelling expenses and other costs with Matthieu's hospital stays have drained family finances.

The Alexandria Lions Club has set up a trust fund to help offset the expenses. Anyone who would like to make a donation, no matter what amount, can go to the Bank of Montreal in Alexandria and fill out a cheque or donate money to the "Lions Club in trust to Matthieu Thibeault" fund.



Pictured here is the Thibeault family (from front to back): Matthieu, his sisters Melissa, 8, and Valerie, 22 months, as well as his parents Sharon and Yves.

Creg Quay forging ahead with marina plans

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Upwards of $1 million will be spent this year as Creg Quay Marina Inc. continues with its harbor development on the St. Lawrence River east of Lancaster.

The main project this year is the construction of a 9,000-square-foot permanent restaurant facility and gift shop to replace a temporary tent used to house festivities last year.

The building will house a restaurant and pub as well as a convenience store, marine accesories, clothing boutique and gift shop, and showers for water travels making use of the harbor.

The restaurant will be open seven days a week from around noon to midnight and will be open to the general public, not just Creg Quay residents.

"We want it to be used by everyone," said Harry Thomas of Creg Quay Marina Inc. during a recent on-site open house.

A target completion date of June 15 has been set for the building construction and marina officials hope to have it ready for a program of activities beginning June 24.

There will be a number of entertainment events from the restaurant opening until July 4, including a poker run competition sponsored by two sailing magazines.

There also will be entertainment on weekends throughout the whole summer.

A temporary service building and boat ramp will be also be built at the west landing of the marina this summer for use until the permanent service building and ramp is completed.

The permanent building, to be constructed at the east landing, will feature full boat and motor repairs, boat sales and winter storage.

Officials with Creg Quay Marina Inc. look over architect plans for a permanent restaurant building and gift shop to be built at the marina site on the St. Lawrence east of Lancaster this summer. There also will eventually be an inn and conference centre on site, although no immediate date has been set.

Also new this year at the marina is sailor courses for both beginners and more experienced boaters and a power boat operators course.

"We just want to generate some interest in sailing and participation," Thomas said.

Unique canopied aquacycles will also be rented and also for sale at the marina.

The marina, named The Landings, was opened last year after about eight years of work and millions of dollars in expenditures.

The marina, contained in a 15-acre basin at Creg Quay, has berthing for 100 boats and will be adding and additional 25 slips this year. The total will eventually rise to 450.

The marina project was initially started in 1984, but was abandoned when the project developer died in 1988.

Preliminary work on the basin was carried out by Small Craft Harbors branch of the Department of Fisheries and Oceans, which will be reimbursed for its work.

One of the highlights of the marina is its special floating dock system which uses advanced marine engineering and industrial design technology and has internal electricity and water hookups.

The facility provides docking and will also have fuel and pump-out services, storage and mechanical repairs.

University and college students home for summer

North Lancaster
By Bernadette Campeau 347-2572

Students of post-secondary studies are being seen a little more recently since the deadlines for projects and the writing of exams are all behind for another year. It's nice to see Dominique Roy helping her dad and mom or just enjoying her free time on the four-wheeler after first year university. Luc Vaillancourt is back on the store clerk job with two more years of study left. Richard Campeau seems to be spending a little more time visiting home after completing his third year college.

Education week at Ecole Ste. Therese kept the children busy with outings and special guests at the school. On Monday there was a trip to Montreal at the Biodome for Grades 1 to 8 sponsored by "Foyer-école." Kindergarten and Pre-K had a play written by Louise Lalonde of Ste. Barbe, Que., who is an author of children's books. Another author, Daniel Marchildon gave an animated workshop explaining the making of a novel from conception to retail sale.

Francine Chenier and Andre Ravary who are ambulance attendants, gave an interesting workshop on health and security for Grades 2 to 8.

On Thursday, an officer from CN informed students about railway crossing safety.

GMH board members complain about lack of French service

A hospital board member complained to fellow members April 29 about the hospital's French-language services.

Wally Hope said a unilingual French-speaking resident was rushed to the hospital emergency department recently, "and not one staff member could be dug up to discuss this person's problem in French."

Hope said the person "is not aggressive, does not wish to be identified and does not want to create a problem, but we are supposed to be a bilingual hospital set up to serve patients in both French and English."

Nicki Trudel, nursing administrator, explained that since the hospital has been accredited a bilingual service, "we try to have staff who speak both languages on every shift."

She said the night "that person came to emergency, staff may have been extra busy and not able to seek out someone to interpret."

Board Chairman Sam Sultan apologized to the unidentified patient and vowed that the hospital will "do everything possible to provide bilingual services in the future.

"This is very bad for our public image," Kent MacSweyn fumed, "we've got to make sure we are covered for both languages at all times."

Discussion closed with Chief Executive Officer Jerry Adams reading letters congratulating the hospital on earning its official bilingual accreditation.

"This is kind of embarrassing," Adams admitted.

UCW introduced to women shelter's work

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

The monthly meeting on May 5 of the Glen Sandfield UCW was held at the church. Lorna Chapman welcomed and led in a short prayer before turning the meeting over to Bessie MacLennan for the devotional portion.

She took one of her Bible readings from Acts 7, and the story of Stephen being stoned by the mob. Oddly, and without her knowledge, the lectionary Bible study group in Alexandria had addressed that very same theme in the morning in Alexandria.

Nancy Campbell and Christina MacLachlan read A Good Wife from the Hymns for the Family of God, which extended the theme from the book of Proverbs.

Mrs. MacLennan said " healthy families are the key to justice and justice is the key to healthy families. The Bible promises shelter in both physical and spiritual senses.

"A family is where one should be able to feel safest and most secure, but in so many cases, it is the family which is the source of dreadful child abuse." She concluded by saying that "the government, and all citizens should make the nurture of children a national goal."

Mrs. Chapman introduced Mrs. Proulx from Montée d'Elle, the shelter house for abused women and children in Alexandria. It is a home serving SD&G, and will keep a person for up to six weeks, if necessary.

Often the children who come in feel that they are to blame for the family troubles, and need counselling. There is a full-time counsellor at all times during the day. Children are encouraged to draw, and their pictures reveal much more about them than they can express in words.

Women are aided in many ways; in finding a new home, with decisions about going back to school, or job training. Clothing is given them, as often they leave in the middle of the night with only what they are wearing.

If it is deemed truly necessary the home applies to the government for an extension of the six-week stay in extreme cases. Sometimes the women are transferred to another facility for their protection, so that the abuser can't find them. At the home in Alexandria, there is an alarm system that is connected to the police station and calls have been answered in minutes. It is a secure residence.

Help is offered the victim often before she decides to leave the situation. If she phones for help, there is a 24-hour call-in service. She is encouraged to come in for her own and the children's protection as soon as possible, and get out of her dangerous situation.

Often she will have a very low self-esteem after having been told for years that she is useless, stupid and worthless. Often she was the product of an abusive family.

Many times they have jumped at marriage with the first one who asks to get out of the family. The victim often feels that she is the cause of the abuse because of a failing in herself.

It can go on for years until the abuser attacks the children, and then she will make a move to get out of the house to save them. Sometimes, once out, they will return home, assured that things will change and only too soon find out that nothing really has changed. Then when they go, it is usually for good.

The women often feel that they have had their lives taken away from them, but Montée d'Elle and like facilities show them that they aren't worthless and give them back their self-esteem. Many say that they have never been so happy as they are at the hostel, and that they feel very safe behind the bulletproof screens on the windows.

Some of them have left home under threats that they will be killed, so this is a very real fear for them.

Children, growing up in homes where the wife is battered often think that all families are like this. One little girl went to stay at a friend's house overnight, and she was amazed to see the father playing ball with the children and laughing, then reading them a story before bed. When she went home she told her mother, and she was the one who called the hostel about her home situation because she wanted to live like her friend.

Since they never see anything else but brutality they come to believe that this is the way to solve everything, and TV doesn't help either! Even after the women leave Montée d'Elle, counselling may continue for them, and it is free. They learn that they aren't alone, that there are many who are faced with cruelty and have found the courage to get out of that situation to safety. There is someone who understands what she is going through, and who has some helpful suggestions to offer.

No persuasion or pressure is ever used by the hostel but they offer help when asked and suggesteions when advice is requested. Encouragement and a listening ear is always available. The group was surprised to learn that one in five women are abused daily, and that one in every five men is an abuser, not only physically but mentally and verbally. Insults, curses, put-downs, sneering, abasing and demeaning comments, continually, constitute abuse too.

It can shatter a person spiritually and mentally to be told every day, over and over, that you are nothing, worthless, useless and stupid or crazy. If you are told you are good for nothing often enough you just come to believe it, and that you probably deserve what you are getting. Sixty-five per cent of women who attempt suicide are victims of violence.

One mom who came to the centre with a three-year-old refused him another cookie, and he began to pound on his mother with his fists to get his own way. Since Daddy did it, it must be that is how one gets things to work. By the time they left the hostel, he was asking, please, to his mother; he saw other children, and the way they acted with their mothers. This was something new for him.

Physical violence leaves marks that one can see, but mental violence leaves unseen scars that take a long time to heal. An abuser can play with the mind, and really does take away the life of the victim.

It was a shocking talk she gave that evening, but overall there was the hope that something can be done for those who will apply, that help is at hand, and that no one must put up with any kind of abuse. She advised that professional help is available for free, for the asking; that a safe haven is available and if they have no room, they will find another facility to receive a victim.

The assurance that she will be able to come home to her own town when space permits is welcome, and that it is a safe and secure environment. Margo MacRae thanked the speaker, and helped her to gather up the donations of pyjamas and sleepers for the hostel. Light refreshments and a brief business meeting ended the evening's activities.

Craft show down, bake sale up on weekend

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

It's Jack-in-the-Beanstalk weather, no doubt about it. Here in Williamstown, garden greens have been doing the "growing before our very eyes" thing for the past few sunny days. Especially the grass!

The weekend's weather was so fine that most people preferred to spend it outdoors, toasting winter-white appendages and generally puttering around. As a result most scheduled events suffered from scanty attendance. Not that I'd know. I was too busy puttering around!

The crowd was certainly down at the craft show held at St. Mary's Centre, according to some vendors. Optimists remained cheerful, however, and look forward to a return to Williamstown in the fall.

Over at the museum, a loyal group of volunteers and followers ensured the success of the Nor'Westers & Loyalist bake sale and Saturday-morning coffee event. And those who missed the sale certainly wishes otherwise when they finally came in out of the great outdoors and found there was nothing good to eat!

Fairy tales aside, what Canadian spring vegetable can grow six inches per day in good weather?

I'll bet that question has never been on a Canada Quiz before, but there aren't too many others that Williamstown Public School coaches Penny Cavell and Lynn Larkin haven't dug up.

The duo and their junior team have been practising for a couple of months now for the big Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry tournament which takes place today (Wed.) in Cornwall.

Members of the junior team include Sarah McDonald, Frank Hodgson, Willie Larkin; alternates Nara Anderson, Andy Knox and Michael O'Farrell; spares Ashley Bergeron and Grace Rawnsley.

The school's Grade 7 and 8 team is coached by Ainar Smiltnieks and includes members Valerie Winn, Bucky Ross, Simon Harrington and Kevin Maurice.

And the answer is ???

Get your child off to a winning start by enrolling him in our own Charlottenburgh Nursery School!

Teachers Jane Grant and Wendy Bougie will be available to meet with prospective parents for the Class of '94, at the school's open house and family night being held next Wednesday evening, May 19, from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Everyone in the community is invited to attend this social evening and registration forms will be available for those who are interested.

Now that all you parents of young children are reading right along with me, here is another item which may interest you.

Two of our young ladies, Tara McDonell and Wanda Gareau have decided to offer babysitting services at Wanda's home beginning immediately.

These young entrepreneurs are highly qualified — Tara has just completed her fourth year in Education at Trent University, while Wanda has an Early Childhood Education certificate from St. Lawrence College in Kingston. They stress that they are not running a day-camp, but rather will look after children up to the age of 12.

For more information, call Wanda at 347-3863, or Tara at 347-3949.

When all you youngsters have attended as many editions of the Williamstown Fair as Mr. Osborne has, you will no doubt be able to sit under some cool shade trees and tell your grandchildren about the day that, armed with a plastic pail and a shovel, you planted seedlings at the fairgrounds in the pouring rain.

The planting parade last week was rather comical. Memories of the Battle of St. Eustache came to mind with the inappropriateness of some of the garden tools (weapons) which some of the youngsters were carrying. One young gentleman was actually toting a huge plastic snow shovel!

Deserving a rest under some of those cool shady trees this week is Norman Lalonde. Norman, who is the father of Betty MacDonald and Elaine Robertson, celebrated his 91st birthday on Monday. Hope you had a great day!

* * *

Bring your bear and bring your buddy. The fourth and final story hour in the present series takes place this Saturday morning, May 15, at the Williamstown Public Library. You guessed it! The theme is "Bears." All 3 to 6 year olds are invited to attend.

* * *

Coming our way next Tuesday, May 18, is something rather exciting. On that evening at 7:30 at the Cooper Marsh Education Centre, the Catherine Traill Naturalist Club will be meeting.

The club normally meets at Macdonald College but perhaps because it has some Glengarry members, it will visit the centre instead.

Guest speaker will be Eric Schmidt, who teaches biology at John Abbott College. Eric will speak on DNA and Genetic engineering.

Admission is $3 and you are advised to phone for reservations (347-1332) as space is limited.

The answer to last week's "who-bought" riddle is... the Danahers! We will welcome them in true Williamstown fashion when the time comes.

Angler survey planned for Lake St. Francis

Anglers on the St. Lawrence River from the Cornwall Dam east to the Qubec border (Lake St. Francis) can expect to take part in the 1993 on water creel, or angling survey.

The purpose of a creel census (which originally counted the fish in a creel basket) is to use angling success as a barometer for the health of the local fishery.

"The latest creel census done on this area was in 1988," states Anne Hendrick, St. Lawrence River Fisheries Management Unit Biologist. "With this new creel, we will be able to compare results and determine the relative health of the fishery and the amount of fishing pressure of the fish population."

This information will aid fisheries managers in making choices for the future. "It is our intent to ensure that we have a fishery that will provide opportunities for all users," says Hendrick.

The field crew will be roving the entire area from ice out until Sept. 28, 1993. During a brief interview, anglers will be asked to provide information on the durationof their current trip, wht they are fishing for, and what success has been achieved. The crew may also request to weigh, measure and examine the angler's catch.

In addition, anglers may catch walleye (pickerel) that have a metal numbered tag in their mounths. Please record this number, and give it to the field crew, along with the date and location of the catch. Anglers can call in to the MNR office in Cornwall with this information. The number is 933-1774.

"These fish were tagged and released in the Raisin River," says Hendrick. "The information collected will help us determine where the walleye are moving to after they spawn, and if they are spawning in other locations," states Hendrick. A crest will be given to anglers who report this information.

According to Hendrick, "it is unlikely that we will be able to contact every angler using this section of the St. Lawrence, but we will be able to collect enough information to make a valid comparison with the data collected in 1988."

Anglers are kindly requested to participate fully in this census, so that the information collected is valid and useable. Anyone requiring more information is invited to contact Anne Hendrick, St. Lawrence River Fisheries Management Unit Biologist, at (613) 342-8524.

Casting off

Barry Clark, 12, of Martintown casts off while his friend Joshua Menard, 12, from Green Valley patiently waits to reel in a fish. The pair of youngsters were competing in the Martintown Optimist Club Fishing Derby held Saturday.

Kids line up catches in derby

Martintown
by Lillian Rouleau

Twenty-five youngsters, ranging in age from three to 17, took part in the fishing derby sponsored by the Optimist Club of Martintown, Saturday afternoon, May 8.

The weather was beautiful as youths and small children accompanied by parents enjoyed a quiet time of fishing along the Raisin River bank at the park.

Tackle boxes were awarded as prizes for the winners: Billy Goudie for the most; Brian Goudie for the smallest, and Amanda Fox for the biggest fish. There were also several other small prizes raffled off as attendance prizes.

Optimist Colin Bold added much fun and humor to the awards presentation when he offered a prize to the young fisherman/woman with the longest worm. The winner for this unexpected category was Candace Wilson, with a 10-inch long worm.

The Optimist Club members wish to thank all those who contributed to making their second annual fishing derby a success.

Tree planting

Bob Evans, Martintown private citizen interested in the improvement and preservation of the environment, some time ago made a proposal to the Ministry, and was granted 1,000 small trees to be planted at the north Charlottenburgh landfill site.

This is a community project supported by the Optimist Club and other groups, and everyone is invited to participate in the tree planting which is scheduled for this Saturday, May 15. The meeting time is 9 a.m. at the landfill site road. Please bring your own shovel/spade, pail and wear appropriate footgear.

Environmental project

Another environmental project sponsored by the Optimist Club of Martintown, for the first time this year, will be the ditch cleaning along the King's Road, from the Kinloch Road to McCuaig's Corner.

Litter will be retrieved from the ditches and sorted for recycling. Workers will be in groups of three or four and youths will be supervised by

School Open House

Martintown Public School held its open house during Education Week, and parents and visitors had an enjoyable evening of music, theatre and viewing exhibits of science fair projects and artworks by students, as well as the Grade 7/8 art gallery by Ms. Seguin's students.

Under the direction of Mrs. McEwan, and accompanied by Dave Irwin at the piano, the choirs performed their songs from the Kinsmen Music Festival. Martintown Public did very well in the festival, and I hope to have the names and awards of all the school's participants in next week's column.

The Enrichment Class, under the guidance of their teacher, Mr. Kennedy, performed an original play of their own creation, entitled The Diamond in the Castle.

In his closing remarks to the parents, Principal Dave Irwin listed his three main concerns for the students this year, and asked for the parents' co-operation in making sure that the children come to school well rested, with a good nutritious breakfast and a good lunch as well.

With the budget cuts to be expected, he stressed the need for each and everyone to be involved in the life and activities of the school, so that parents and staff can work together for the benefit of the children.

Also as part of Education Week activities, a small group went to the Brookdale Mall and demonstrated sketching on Thursday afternoon. The students were Julie Ann Clark, Rory Blackadder and Terry James, who were accompanied by their teacher Ms. Seguin.

A visit to the Domtar Forest (Apple Hill) has been scheduled for Tuesday, May 18, for students in Grade 3 to 6.

There will be a dance workshop for students in Grades 4, 5 and 6, Wednesday, May 12, under the leadership of a professional dancer.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church

Rev. Ian MacMIllan led the morning service on Sunday, Mother's Day, May 9, with special music provided by Danielle and Michelle James, who dedicated their song to mothers. The sermon was entitled One in Christ, from the Scripture lesson in Ephesians 2: v. 11-22.

The meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held on Tuesday, May 11 at 2 p.m. at the home of Emily MacInnes. The roll call word was beauty.

Horticulture Society

The Jr. Horticulture Society has registered 15 youths for this year, and they held their third meeting at the home of leader Karen Kinloch, Saturday, May 8. They received their seeds and each family received a small mimosa plant.

The group is divided into three age categories with the Tiny Tots for 5-6 year olds; the Juniors for 7-10 years of age and the Seniors for the older ones. There are five children in each group. The tentative date for the next meeting is June 5.

The Horticulture Society held its Mother's Day bake sale on Saturday afternoon, May 8, at the community centre. There will be a plant sale at the home of John and Elizabeth Peters on Monday evening, May 17.

Babysitting course

The Babysitting Course has been scheduled and will be held at the Martintown Public School, from 7 to 8 p.m. on the following dates: Mondays and Tuesdays May 31, June 1, June 7 and 8 and June 14 and 15.

Merited award

Trudy Flemming and her late husband Dick posthumously, were honored with an Ontario Square and Round Dance Federation Trillium Merit Award for their dedication and outstanding achievement in the advancement of square dancing at a recent ceremony in Williamstown. Picture l-r with Trudy (centre) presenting the award are John Sellers, Eastern square dance board representative, son and daughter Cathy and Roger Flemming, and Doug Lyons, president of Eastern Ontario Square and Round Dance Association. Shown in the background doing some spins are members of the Wheeling Glens Square Dance Association, founded by the Flemmings in 1979.

Cost cuts hinted by hospital CEO

Jerry Adams, chief executive officer of Glengarry Memorial hospital, looked into the future for board members last week and did not like what he saw.

The province will claw back $100 million of the $149 million they promised for future health care, he reported.

This means one day a month of unpaid leave for staff to cut costs, Adams explained.

"But for the life of me when it comes to nurses I can't see how this will save money because we will have to hire a replacement nurse for that day — and that will probably cost as much or more than we save," he pointed out.

He said cost reductions will mean salary steps will be cancelled for three years and early retirement encouraged.

The new cost reduction guidelines also dictate that nurses starting out in the profession be hired at five per cent below the current salary scale.

Neighborhood Watch to be unveiled

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

Is the Neighborhood Watch Program coming to Maxville? The answer to this question depends on you. A meeting has been called for May 17 at 7 p.m. in the upstairs room at the village office. A flyer went out to all residents from the local OPP office explaining the program and that it is being initiated for the protection of homes and property.

This is a nation-wide program and participants will receive instructions on what to do and how to go about doing it. It is designed to create a safe environment, it is on a voluntary basis without expense to you and its rewards will be a safer community for all of us.

Do consider this challenge and try to attend this meeting.

Another thing you can do one of these days is to enjoy the beauty of Terry Leduc's rock garden. Mrs. Leduc is an authority on rock gardens and spends endless hours in hers at the south end of the village. She started with a hole in the ground and over the years a rare garden has been created.

Lynn (Mrs. Jean-Marc) Leduc, Stewarts' Glen, phoned to tell us that their two daughters, Melissa Anne and Melanie, ages 11 and 12, are singing on May 14 at 9 a.m. on Radio Canada, Channel 9. It is a French program coming live from Sherbrooke. The Leduc girls will be joined by Bridget Sabourin, Moose Creek, who is a daughter of Gilles, a former teacher at St. Bernard School and Sarah El Gazzar, Monkland.

The girls will be singing on a program known as Les Anges de Matin.

Bev and Don Gormley have returned from Cape Coral, Florida, where they spent an enjoyable month and soaked up plenty of sunshine as evidenced by their tans. Now gardening will be occupying all their spare hours.

Carole Williams along with daughters, Julie and Heather, and her sister, Dawn Thomson, Toronto, enjoyed a week's vacation in Hiltonhead, South Carolina.

Her friends are happy to have Alma Umphrey home from Glengarry Memorial Hospital where she spent two weeks and wish her a speedy recovery to her former good health.

* * *

Mrs. O. F. Villeneuve enjoyed a visit from her son Ronald and his wife Lynne along with Lynne's sister, Mrs. Heinz Ebner of Boulder, Colorado, last week. Ronald and Lynne have been out there since last November and were on their way home to Dalhousie, N.B., when they called here. Unfortunately, they were involved in a motor accident last November and part of the winter was spent recovering from their injuries. Lynne was more seriously injured but is much better now.

Mrs. Villeneuve also had a visit from her son F. B. and his wife, Joan, on Saturday.

Eileen Scott spent the Mother's Day weekend in Amherstview with her daughter Gwen and Stew Hamilton.

Jean Harrison along with her daughter Anne and Anne's two young daughters were home for Florence McNaughton's 95th birthday on Sunday.

We extend best wishes to Marilyn Guindon and Walther Nagy whose marriage takes place Friday evening.

Hockey fans of this area were very interested in seeing John Wensink being interviewed Sunday afternoon by Ron McLean during an intermission of the hockey telecast. John lives in the St. Louis area now but grew up here and played for the Cornwall Royals before joining the professional ranks. He is a son of Nellie and the late George Wensink and was proud to recognize Maxville as his home town.

The Montreal Canadiens fans are smiling broadly these days with their team's four straight wins. Supporters of the Maple Leafs are not having it as easy but outwardly are displaying 100 per cent confidence in their team in spite of the danger that it will tire.

Georgie Duff, a Manor resident, is as staunch a Maple Leaf fan as any of the young fellows around town and if that victory parade ever takes place, Mrs. Duff would be thrilled to lead it.

During the service in the United Church on Sunday morning, the two-month-old daughter of Shelley and Jack Honi from Thousand Oaks, California was baptized. She was given the names Jessica Lee. Mrs. Hone is the daughter of Edythe and John Coleman who entertained at a family luncheon afterwards. Among the out of town guests were Dr. Roy and Norma Coleman, Ottawa and Ethel Hughes Coleman from Valleyfield.

Ninety-five-year-old Bill Williamson at the Manor was honored on April 30 in Kingston when he received a plaque from the commander of all the reserve forces for dedicated service. Mr. Williamson, a veteran of Vimy Ridge in World War I who was wounded three times, took the salute on the march pass at the ceremony. His friend, Fred Wyate, Dalkeith, provided transportation to Kingston and back.

Cathy Clay has had her son, Peter, home from Indiana, for some time and now she is enjoying a visit from her niece, Judith England from England who will be here for two weeks. Mrs. Clay's youngest grandson, Steven Clay, from Ottawwa, has also been here.

The May meeting of the Horticultural Society is next Wednesday, May 19 in the United Church Hall starting at 6:30 p.m. with a pot luck supper.

This meeting will feature the always popular plant auction sale when members have an outlet for surplus materials and others may purchase them at reasonable prices. A good evening is assured with plenty of laughs.

Membership fees may also be paid at this time.

Howard Umphrey has related an interesting bluebird story to me. He knew a CPR freight conductor whose trip was between Moose Jaw and Brandon. This gentleman, who was a noted amateur ornithologist and who had made a presentation to the Audobon Society of New York City, noticed around 1945 that there was a decline in the bluebird population in his area.

He finally came to the conclusion that this decline began when combines started taking over from binders. Many readers will remember that the binders had a round box for the binder twine with a hole just large enough for bluebirds. These binders were left outside along fences and the bluebirds had suitable nesting accommodations.

The gentleman started a project in having retirees constructing bluebird boxes and boy scouts installing them between Moose Jaw and Brandon. Gradually the population of these attractive birds was brought back and then another conductor friend was conscripted to continue the project from Brandon to Winnipeg. Mr. Umphrey said that the normal bluebird population has almost reached the outskirts of Winnipeg now.

The St. Bernard School reporters, Candace Hebert and Michell Filiol, have written about a visit from Tom Swift of the Standard Freeholder on April 28. Mr. Swift, a retired teacher, came to the school to teach the students and teachers how they can improve their skills and interest in reading by using the newspaper.

Mr. Swift divided the students into five groups of four, the students were each given a newspaper and asked to cut out a photograph. These were mixed up and passed around. Then the groups were asked to make up a story for each photograph.

The students found the exercise very interesting and hope that Mr. Swift returns soon again.

Melanie Lavigne (left), 8, and another unidentified singer from St. Joseph's School Gaelic Choir were hitting all the right notes during the group's performance at the Ceilidh, an informal Scottish concert, held Saturday night at the Maxville Sports Complex. Hosted by the Clan Donald Society of Glengarry and Stormont, other performers included the MacCulloch Dancers, the Glengarry Gaelic Choir and the Glengarry Strathspey and Reel Society.

Neighbor Watch coming to Maxville?

Monsignor Lebrun introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Lepage, director and pioneer of the Agapé Centre at 301-C McConnell Avenue in Cornwall. Jean-Paul Lepage, manager of the soup kitchen, accompanied his mother. Mrs. Lepage's very direct and informative talk included facts and figures since the Centre's inception — certainly an eye opener for everyone attending. Many questions followed. Donations to the Agapé Centre from St. James Parish and from the CWL were presented to Mrs. Lepage.

The next CWL meeting will be held in the Sacristy of St. James Church at 8 p.m. preceded by mass at 7:30 p.m., Monday, May 10.

The annual recital presented by the pupils and their instructors of the Glengarry School of Piping and Drumming will be held Tuesday, May 18, at the Maxville District Complex at 8 p.m.

All students will take part, and trophies and prizes will be awarded. Everyone is invited to come and show interest and support for the young people of Glengarry and surrounding area who have devoted much time and effort to learning to play bagpipes and drums during the fall and winter terms. This has been a busy and productive year with excellent teachers giving time and expert instruction to their pupils.

The Glengarry Pipe Bands are preparing now for a busy season of competitions and parades. This summer two Grade Four bands will be competing at the Games. A new Grade Four "B" band will be marching on to the competition field for the first time under the leadership of Pipe Major David MacPherson. Grade four "A" band will again be in the charge of Pipe Major Bruce McCuaig. The executive of the piping and drumming school is proud to note that both pipe majors are Glengarry boys who have progressed through the classes at the school and the ranks of the Glengarry Pipe Band. The Grade Two band is still active under the direction of P/M Ed Bush.

The last class in this spring term is Saturday, May 29, however the bands will continue practice every week. Their first engagement is at Georgetown Games on June 12 and we wish their members and solo competitors much success.

Your correspondent was very much interested in having a tour of phase one of the building project at the Manor last week. Neil McCormick, the supervisor of the environment at the Manor gave the tour.

With a July 1st opening date anticipated, there is still work to be done but the preview of the facilities-to-come for the residents was extremely promising. The rooms are spacious and the accompanying facilities are very well planned for the residents' benefits. Perhaps it can all be summed up by reporting that prospects for the happiness of residents are exciting and for the expanded programs for seniors who will continue to live at home most encouraging.

Phyllis Burtenshaw, co-ordinator of Seniors Outreach Services has reported that about 1,000 more meals-on-wheels were served during the last fiscal year and that demands for transportation services were up considerably. Mrs. Burtenshaw's duties also include those of a go-between for people at home who require assistance in all facets of home maintenance.

At the Young-at-Heart Seniors euchre party last week, there were some double winners. Martin O'Brien, Monkland, won a 50-50 draw prize and the third prize for the men, Mac O'Byrne won two draw prizes. Fern Brabant, Apple Hill won the door prize and Marie Brabant a draw prize. Gloria Michaud and Fraser MacMillan, Moose Creek, were the other draw winners.

Sarah Presley, Finch, had top lady's score followed by Arlene Munro, Apple Hill and Catherine (Dan) MacRae. Chester Valley, Moose Creek, topped the men, with Bill MacMillan, Apple Hill coming second.

The next euchre, as all regular players expect, will be on May 17 at 8 p.m. in the Anglican Church Hall.

Waste master plan reports are available

Residents interested in learning more about the details of the SD&G Waste Management Master Plan can obtain copies of the Final Stage 1 Report and the Diversion Strategy Report through the SD&G County Library system and from the Simon Fraser branch of the Cornwall Library system.

The Master Plan is a co-operative planning strategy to find ways to deal with SD&G waste in the long-term. SD&G's 20 municipalities are participating in the plan. The City of Cornwall is not a participant.

The Master Plan Stage 1 Report outlines the needs, the opportunities, the current systems, technologies now accepted by the Ministry of Environment and Energy in Ontario to handle waste, as well as other information.

The Diversion System Report, which was the subject of open house information nights in each county recently, outlines the waste diversion proposals put forth by the consultants for the study.

Written comments on both reports will be accepted until July 8, 1993. Comments can be sent to: Anne MacGillivray, Study Co-ordinator, SD&G Waste Management Master Plan, P.O. Box 240, St. Andrews West, Ont. K0C 2A0

Glengarry's Julie Vander Byl and Rachel Denner look to get the junior Gaels' offence moving during a match-up with the St. Joseph's Panthers in Cornwall last Monday. Glengarry won both of their games on Monday and have a good shot to host the SDG playoffs next Friday.

Mc-Mac Tents get early jump in men's ball hockey season

The Mc-Mac Tents sit alone in first place after the first week of action in the 1993 Men's Ball Hockey League season.

The Tents kicked off the season last Tuesday night at the Billy Gebbie Arena by trouncing Jake at Work 10-4, and then followed up with a 10-1 rout over Frenchie's on Wednesday.

Phil Poitras scored a hat trick to lead Mc-Mac in the win over Jake's while Jeff McDonell had two goals and an assist.

George Carriere had a deuce for Jake's while Blake Hambleton and Joel D'Amour had singles.

Against Frenchie's on Wednesday, Jeff McDonell and Dave McDonald turned in five-point nights in an easy Tents win. McDonell had four goals and an assist while McDonald had two markers and three helpers.

Phil Poitras had a deuce for Mc-Mac to run his season total to five goals and Matt Gray and Shane McDonell had solo markers.

Trevor Bowles fired in the only Frenchie's goal.

Other Wednesday games

Jake's recovered from the opening night loss to post a 8-4 victory over the Brodie Bombers on Wednesday.

The insertion of Roddy McKenzie into the line-up was a big plus for Jake's as the former junior B star scored three times and assisted on a fourth Jake's marker.

George Carriere had his second consecutive two-goal night for Jake's and also recorded two assists. Roch Sabourin, Joel Trottier and Norm Decoste added a goal each.

Albert Derouchie, Mario Dumont, Andrew Chisholm and Richard Deschamps scored for the Bombers.

After having Tuesday off, the Baribeau Sharks opened their schedule with a 4-1 victory over Titley Chev-Olds.

Mario Bertrand was involved in all four Baribeau goals, finishing with two goals and two assists. Gilles Sarault and Yves Fredette also scored for the Sharks.

Julien Boisvenue scored the only goal for Titley.

Denis Lalonde scored three goals and an assist to lead Alexandria Auto Glass to a 5-1 victory over the Dalhousie Bruins.

Richard Daniels and Roger Carriere had the other Auto Glass goals while Joel Menard scored his fifth of the season for the Bruins.

Opening night recap

The expansion Dalhousie Bruins made a successful debut their first ever game on Tuesday night as the B's thumped Frenchie's 7-0.

Joel Menard was the offensive star with four goals and an assist while Julien Van dan Oetelaar recorded the shutout.

Karl Hehn, Kevin MacKinnon and Lee McDonell had the other Dalhousie goals.

Defending champions Marc's Canteen posted the highest goal total of the first week of play as they whipped Titley 11-1.

Luc Sabourin had four goals and an assist while Marc Sauve had two goals and set up two others.

Frank St.Pierre, Leo Seguin, Mark Titley, Jean Lauzon and newcomer Kennedy MacDonald had the other goals for Marc's. Alain Boisvenue connected for Titley's.

In the other Tuesday game, the Brodie Bombers and Alexandria Auto Glass played to a 3-3 tie.

Mario Dumont scored two goals for the Bombers and Albert Derouchie had a single.

Mike Daniels, Paul Vincent and Roger Carriere scored for Auto Glass.

Of the 63 competitors going to Avonmore tomorrow, 22 will be competing in the maximum of three individual events.

Vicky Peacey and Sylvia Bryan will be the busiest Crusaders as they are each entered into three events and will also run in the 4x100m and 4x400m relays.

Here is a complete list of athletes and events:

A tradition of excellence

Junior championship a rite of spring at Glengarry

GLENGARRY

By J.L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

If the only certainties of the ''real world'' are death and taxes, then the only sure things in high school life would be exams and a goshawful zit on prom night.

For the folks who attend high school in Alexandria, however, there is one other happening that has become so routine, you could set your calendar by it.

For every May in the past dozen years, a team from Ecole Secondaire Regionale Glengarry District High School has won the United Counties junior girls high school soccer championship.

That's a mindboggling feat when you consider how difficult it usually is to repeat as a champion and how slim the margin of error is in high school soccer, where a single mistake in one game can bring a premature end to your season.

How tough is it to win back-to-back?

Well, the National Football League hasn't had the same team win the Super Bowl two years in a row since the Pittsburgh Steelers did it in 1979 and 1980.

Major League Baseball's last repeat winners were the New York Yankees of 1977-78.

Back-to-back champions have been much more prevalent in hockey and basketball, the tough part seems to be winning more than twice in a row.

The Pittsburgh Penguins are currently trying to become the first NHL team to three-peat since the New York Islanders turned the trick a decade ago while the NBA hasn't had anyone win three successive titles since the Boston Celtics of the 1960's.

Meanwhile, Glengarry's junior gals are going for crown number 13.

There's a lot of heat on all Gael soccer teams to win every year but imagine the pressure of trying to avoid being the first edition of your club to not win the league trophy since Pierre Trudeau was prime minister.

Minor soccer a boost to Gaels

There are several theories as to why the ESRG-GDHS junior girls are so dominant in the high school league, not the least of which is the existence of the Glengarry Soccer League's minor program.

While some Grade 9 students at Cornwall schools have to be introduced to a soccer ball, most Glengarrians have been playing since they were toddlers and the basics of the sport are second nature by the time they reach high school.

''There's no doubt that there's a tremendous advantage to having these girls play in the park leagues during the summertime,'' said coach Hugh

The Glengarry Gaels have had a firm grip on the junior championship for the past dozen years, and the SDG trophy has become as permanent a part of the school as the huge boulders in the courtyard. Rookie Meghan MacPherson (far left) and holdovers Julie Aube, Laura Urquhart and Jessica MacLeod will be key figures in the Gaels' attempt to try and extend Glengarry's streak of junior dominance to 13 years.

Gaels set five new records at intramural athletics competition

François Viau established two new school records at ESRG-GDHS' track and field competition last week.

Viau was clocked at 11.63 seconds in the 100-metre dash to establish a new junior boys record and also erased the 200-metre standard by running that race at 24 seconds flat.

Roch Jeaurond also broke a junior boys record when he completed the 300m hurdles in a time of 46.5 seconds.

The other record-setters were Roch Decoste in the midget boys discus (39.75 metres) and Patrick Cadieux in the senior boys javelin (47.21 m).

The overall points winners in each category at the event were Carl Winter (senior boys), Karin Hagen (senior girls), Francois Viau (junior boys), Natalie Jeaurond (junior girls), Roch Decoste (midget boys) and Wanda McDonell (midget girls).

The Glengarry meet is a warm-up to the SDG competition tomorrow at Tagwi high school.

Here is a complete list of the -- Gaels who will be representing Glengarry at the tri-county championships:

Senior girls: Tara MacDonald, Karin Hagen, Shane Tuppert and Sarah Denner.

Junior Gaels sweep opening day contests

By J.L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

The Glengarry junior girls soccer team is off on the right foot in defence of their Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry league title as the Gaels won both of their games on Monday at La Citadelle.

The Glengarry juniors, who have 10 players returning from last year's squad, defeated the St.Joseph's Panthers 3-1 in their first game.

Julie Aube, Jessica MacLeod and Cheryl MacDougall connected on offence for the Gaels.

The juniors blanked La Citadelle 3-0 in their other game as Becky Howes, Wendy MacLeod and Julie Aube each scored once. Laura Urquhart recorded the shutout.

Like their senior counterparts, the junior Gaels are now in excellent position to clinch homefield advantage for the SDG playoffs.

Both of the team's final two games of the season (Glengarry will only play four games because North Dundas and Cornwall Collegiate did not enter junior teams this year) will be played in Alexandria next Monday.

General Vanier and St.Lawrence will provide the opposition.

Gaels notes: The start of the season was delayed twice because of poor weather and unplayable fields, and even by Monday the playing grounds were in less than ideal conditions. For example, the goal areas at the La Citadelle field are sunk in about three inches lower than the rest of the field. The creases were also heavily sanded, but it was no day at the beach for goalkeepers who had sand to contend with funny hops and mini-sandstorms all day...The final junior roster features seven Grade 9 rookies - Aiden Burgess, Sarah Dalby, Rachel Denner, Roseann Kerr, Wendy MacLeod, Meghan MacPherson and Tricia Steele...Returning players are Julie Aube, Melanie Bowen, Becky Howes, Cheryl MacDougall, Jessica MacLeod, Janna Palmer, Roxanne Sarault, Laura Urquhart, Julie Vander Byl and Jennifer Williamson...The other Gaels on the 19-player roster are Sarah Viau and Char-Lan transfer student Tania McClements...Ricky Latreille and Bridget Cameron are assisting head coach Hugh Wilson.

Glengarry seniors come out flying in season-opening soccer tournament

The Glengarry senior girls soccer team went three-for-three on the first day of action in the 1993 SDG high school season.

At the season-opening tournament at two sites in Cornwall on Monday, the Gaels downed North Dundas, St.Lawrence and St.Joseph's in succession to estbalish Glengarry as the favorite to host the playoff tournament on May 21.

Glengarry opened the day by defeating the North Dundas Devils 2-0 in a game played at La Citadelle.

Wendi Lawson headed the ball into the net in the first half and Lisa Poirier fired in a shot from 20 feet in the second half to account for the Glengarry scoring.

Sophie Seguin notched the shutout in goal.

The seniors then moved to St.Lawrence High School for their other two games where they shut out two more opponents including the host Saints 1-0.

First-year player Margaret Fraser scored the game's only goal.

The easiest game of the day for Marc Sauve's Gaels came against St.Joseph's as Glengarry bombed their way to a 6-0 win.

Carol MacLeod booted two goals for Glengarry while singles were added by Lisa Poirier, Louise Villeneuve, Wendi Lawson and Isabel Seguin.

The Gaels are now in the driver's seat as far as the ''AA'' senior standings are concerned.

Glengarry will be at home for their final three games of the season as the Gaels host a tournament next Monday.

Glengarry's opponents that day will be General Vanier, La Citadelle and Cornwall Collegiate.

Senior notes: For the second year in a row, senior boys team members Victor Denobriga and Kalidas Cappuccino are serving as assistants to coach Marc Sauve...A total of 11 players are returning from the senior club that went to the all-Ontario championships last spring. The list of veterans includes Alyson Graham, Wendi Lawson, Isabel Seguin, Carol MacLeod, Louise Villeneuve, Jennifer Wilson, Kirsten Jones, Kathleen McBean, Nancy MacLeod, Lisa MacDonald and Sophie Seguin...The senior roster also includes four graduates from the junior ranks - Christine Villeneuve, Lisa Poirier, Julie Horvath and Margaret Fraser...Team members who didn't play last year are Jenny Lowe, Trina MacMillan and Donna Flaro.

Cornwall race season underway

CORNWALL MOTOR SPEEDWAY

Gentlemen, start your engines.

The Cornwall Motor Speedway gets its 1993 racing schedule moving this Sunday with a special event featuring sprint cars.

The regular modified racing series, featuring defending champion Laurent Ladouceur of Alexandria, will kick off the following Sunday (May 23).

An added feature for modified racing this summer is the availability of $20,000 in prize money for the overall points race. The last time the track offered cash for the points leaders was in 1990.

Here comes the son

From a local viewpoint, the other thing to watch out for in 1993 is the debut of Joel Doiron in the sportsman class of the Cornwall racing program.

Doiron is the son of Alexandria racing legend Ovide Doiron, who made occasional appearances at the Speedway last summer.

Char-Lan teams set kicks off

The Char-Lan soccer teams will get their 1993 high school seasons underway today as the Crusaders travel to Iroquois for a tournament of ''A'' schools.

The Char-Lan seniors and juniors will play all three of their divisional rivals at the tourney, namely Tagwi, Seaway and Rothwell-Osnabruck.

The same four schools will get together for another tournament at Tagwi next Wednesday to complete the regular season.

Regardless of the order in which the schools finish, Char-Lan will host the SDG playoff tournament on Tuesday, May 25.

Jr. Gaels' winning tradition

GSL soccer a key factor

Wilson, who has been at the Glengarry helm for the last third of the Gaels' 12-year title run.

"Some of them play indoor soccer, too, and that keeps them well conditioned."

Predictably, Glengarry starts the SDG season as the heavy favorite, not only because they're defending champs but also because a strong crop of rookies has arrived on the scene to support a returning contingent of 10 players.

The end result is a very talented group of players that needs only a little time together to become a dominating and cohesive side.

"They've only had one practice together because of all the rainouts and snowouts we've had," said Wilson.

"You can tell they're not used to playing together because they're a little hesitant out there."

Glengarry's preparation efforts were further hampered by the fact that Wilson missed some of the team's indoor workouts because of illness.

As a result, the coach relied on the input of student assistants Rick Latreille and Bridget Cameron to make selections from a group of 35 hopefuls.

The resulting roster looks like a solid bet to sprint through the four-game mini-regular season and take a shot at Glengarry's 13th straight tri-counties title later this month.

Junior coach Hugh Wilson, who is entering his fifth season as Glengarry's bench boss, gives his troops instructions during the halftime break of the Gaels' season-opener on Monday. Wilson credits the county's minor soccer programs for the success of the juniors.

Cellar-dwellers earn first points of season

M&D Sports and Glengarry Pharmacy picked up their first points of the Ladies' Ball Hockey League season on Monday by playing to a 1-1 tie at the Billy Gebbie Arena in Alexandria.

The teams were scoreless through two periods and then with 6:13 left in the third frame, Nathalie Seguin gave M&D a 1-0 lead on a feed from Rachel Patenaude.

Less than two minutes later, Pharmacy's Judith Doiron converted a Lori Oma pass into the game-tying goal.

The teams remain tied for fifth place with 0-4-1 records.

Meanwhile, the Seaway Express continue their two-season long domination as they have broken out of the gate at 5-0 in 1993. The Express has now won 26 games in a row dating back to the beginning of 1992.

On Monday, Seaway downed Maxville 3-0 as Sue Villeneuve extended her streak of shutout games to five.

Kelly Conroy, Lise Durocher and Cathy Grant took care of the offence with a goal apiece.

In the other Monday night contest, Chez Bob shaded Tapis Richard 2-1.

Julie Bissonnette and Chantal Legault potted goals for Bob's while Janine MacDuff responded for Tapis, who have now dropped back-to-back games.

Last Thursday at the Gebbie Arena, the league's two undefeated teams went head-to-head with the Seaway Express emerging victorious over Tapis Richard Ranger by a score of 2-0.

Both of Seaway's goals, scored by Gino Lalonde and Donna MacGregor, came in the second period.

Maxville won for the second time this season as Louise Villeneuve scored both of her team's goals in a 2-0 decision. Kathy Wensink recorded the shutout.

Finally, Haley Flaro assisted on both goals by Wendi Lawson as Chez Bob shut out M&D Sports 2-0. Gillian Chaddock was in nets for the winners.

Area clergy travels to convocation

St. Elmo
by W. MacKinnon
527-2348

The Rev. Dr. Donald N. MacMillan of Finch and Dr. Wallace MacKinnon were in Montreal on Thursday, May 6 for the 126th Convocation of the Presbyterian College, Montreal, which was held that evening in Knox Crescent-Kensington Church, N.D.G., Montreal.

The Principal of Presbyterian College gave a special welcome to Dr. Donald N. MacMillan who graduated from the Presbyterian College 60 years ago. Dr. Klempa expressed appreciation for the continued good support of the Presbyterian Churches of the area of Montreal, Ottawa and Glengarry of the theological college in its work and in the student-candidates for the ministry.

Among the prizes and scholarships received by the theological students were the H. Keith Markell prize in Canadian Church History by Donald Shephard and the Evelyn MacKinnon scholarship for Excellence in the B.TH2/M.Div.I. by Elizabeth Graham. (The birthplace of the late Dr. H. Keith Markell, a professor for many years at the Presbyterian College, was Wales, Ont., now with the Ingleside community where his brohter, Glenn, lives.)

In Memoriam

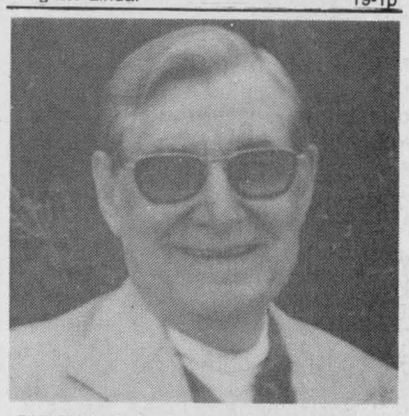
MICHAUD — In memory of John Louis Michaud who passed away May 5, 1975.
We do not need a special day
To bring you to our mind,
For the days we do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were ours to give,
We'd give it, yes and more,
To hear your voice, and see your face
Come smiling through the door.
—Always remembered by Archie and Anita and family. 19-1p

BENTON — In loving memory of a dear father, Donald, who passed away suddenly May 13, 1983.
The years we were together seem so few,
I do not know what pain he bore,
For I did not see him die.
I only know he passed away
Without saying goodbye.
So those who have a father,
Cherish him with care,
For you will never know the loss you feel
Till you see his empty chair.
—Sadly missed, always remembered by your daughter Linda. 19-1p



DUBEAU, Rodolphe —
Four years ago in May
You went away,
To a better place to stay.
It's not easy to part
But you remain in our heart
The only Husband and Dad
We truly loved and had
We miss you terribly
But do know you're happy
We miss you truly,
From all of your family.
Mom, children and grandchildren

'Exceptional' Optimist Aubin honored by club

Green Valley
Margo Pepin

Over the weekend nine Green Valley Optimist Club members attended the third reunion of District East Ontario in Aylmer, Quebec. Workshops were of special interest to all members who had registered.

Present were Henri and Gisele Jeaurond, Andre and Fernande Menard, Paul and Diane Mongeon, Ronald and Ginette Aubin, and also Marcel Brunet.

On Saturday evening a sumptuous meal was served while special guests from Optimist International sat at the head table in the persons of President John Reel and his wife Carolyn of Plainfield's Indiana.

Many a laugh was had by all. But a serious mement came about when special presentations were made by President John Reel to honor each club's "Exceptional Optimist Member." This award is presented to an Optimist member who has accomplished or participated exceptionally well within his club.

The long held secret of who the Green Valley Optimist Club winner was finally known when Ronald Aubin was asked to come forward for his presentation.

To get him to attend, Ronald was told that someone else had won the award. Had he known, he probably would not have registered to attend this reunion.

International President John Reel presented him with a very special plaque. Ronald, all your endeavors and goodwill will never be forgotten. Congratulations and keep up the good work.

Notice to all club members: a zone meeting will be held Wednesday, May 12 at 8 p.m. at Ecole Ste.-Thérèse in North Lancaster.

The A La P.A.G.E. classes, which were held in the Optimist Hall have finished for the season. They had a closing dinner party with their instructor, Diane Boisvenue and her husband at Linda's Place.

Education Week at Laggan Public School

Four Grade Eight students from Laggan Public School enjoyed a wonderful opportunity May 3 to May 7. Tammy MacSweyn, Martha MacGillivray, Lauren MacPherson and Ewen MacKinnon attended mini-courses at Ottawa University and at Carleton University offered through the SD&G Board of Education. Over 1,000 students from all over Eastern Ontario attended a course of their choice from the 45 courses offered.

Tammy and Martha attended at Ottawa University at a course entitled "Starting Your Own Business." Lauren was at Carleton taking "Tradition and Culture: Seeing with the Native Eye." Ewen was also at Carleton attending "Aspects of Chemistry." The students were bused from GDHS at 7 a.m. and returned at 5 p.m. each day.

During the week a profitable book fair and sale was held and as a result many new books can be purchased for the library. The lower grades enjoyed a Science Olympics. Murielle Poulin spoke to Grade VI and told of her experiences in Peru when she lived there. Grade V enjoyed their visit to Pleasant Corners School, Vankleek Hill and participated in "The Nature Trail Hike."

On Thursday a group was invited to read to the various grades. I had the pleasure of reading to Grade I, Shelley Willock's class. Friday the Rag and Bone Puppet theatre presented a version of "A Promise is a Promise."

It was an exciting week for the students and all of us who participated with them in the various events.

Many homes have bright spring flowers blooming. The road crew have cleaned the winter debris from the street. A new garbage contractor is picking up garbage and now we also use the recycling blue boxes.

The regular monthly meeting of the Community Congregational Church Ladies was held at the home of Mrs. D. Readman. The ladies expressed their delight at the success of the community flea market held on May 1 and agreed, once more, that it was a great way to meet people.

Some of the vendors have become part of the church family by visiting on special occasions. One visitor to the bake table remarked that she could not remember having seen such a variety of goodies anywhere else!

But, nothing can be a success without the support of friends, neighbors and Mr. and Mrs. General Public. An excellent video ''A Man Called Norman'' brought home to the 10 ladies gathered the true meaning of ''Love Thy Neighbor.''

Sylvia Pilkington led the devotional period as each member selected a scripture verse containing the word ''love'' . . . interestingly enough there was only one duplication. There was a hushed silence and a tear in the eye when the video finished and it was realized that everyone had had a ''Norman'' in their life at some time or other . . . maybe even now.

The June meeting will be hosted by Sylvia Pilkington and Mary Taylor at which time plans for the June birthday party at Chateau Gardens will be finalized.

The winner of ''Altar boy of the month'' at St. Joseph Church in Lancaster for the month of March was Bernard St. Pierre, sonof Madeleine and Patrice St. Pierre. Congratulations go out to Altar Boy Robert Bedard, son of Deborah and Robert Bedard, who on Saturday night graduated to Knight of the Altar. Last Sunday the altar boys were invited to an afternoon of activities at the school gymnasium for their participation at the church.

The 78th annual meeting of the Glengarry District Women's Institute took place on Saturday, May 1 at the Kenyon Presbyterian Church in Dunvegan. The theme for the day was ''Dare to the Different'' . . . and this was the first time an annual meeting was held on a Saturday.

Although there were several other organizational functions being held within the district, almost 60 members and guests were present and as the meeting progressed under the leadership of President, Mrs. William (Eileen) Johnston of Martintown, it was evident from the various reports that the five branches had been busy and productive.

Another ''difference'' was a bazaar table which had been stocked with various items which were sold during the lunch hour. This proved to be a successful way of raising more than $200 which will be sent to Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario to assist in the setting up of the new provincial headquarters in Guelph, ''Parkway House.''

The new provincial board director for Sub-Division I, Mrs. Vivian Fawcett of Winchester, was on hand to bring greetings and news from headquarters and conduct the installation of officers for the coming year: Past President — Mrs. Wm. (Peggi) Calder; President — Mrs. Wm. (Eileen) Johnston; 1st Vice-President — Mrs. G. E. (Sheila) Urquhart; Secretary-Treasurer — Mrs. Ian (Ina) Byatte; Curator — Mrs. D. (Joan) MacKenzie; Public Relations Officer — Mrs. G. E. (Sheila) Urquhart; Resolutions — Mrs. Alex (Helen) McLeod and Auditors — Mrs. Rene (Pearl) Rozon and Mrs. Eleanor Gibson. It was with regret that the resignation of Mrs. D. (Sheila) Wilcock as 2nd vice-president had been received and no replacement was forthcoming at this time.

Mrs. D. (Peggy) McLeod, president of Eastern Ontario area, was made welcome and she encouraged attendance at the area convention to be held in Renfrew on October 18. A beautiful and interesting day was had by all and McCrimmon Branch extended the invitation for next year's meeting.

A baptism was held on Sunday, May 2 at St. Joseph's Church in Lancaster for Mariette Diane Catharine Glaude, infant daughter of Diane (DeGrasse) and Richard Glaude. Godparents were Jean and Carole Decoeur.
