Emergency fund established for children in need

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

The Ministry of Community and Social Services came through for both area school boards with a $300,000 grant that will go towards establishing an emergency fund for the children of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

The announcement was made last Wednesday when directors of both the SDG Roman Catholic and public school boards met with Community and Social Services Minister Tony Silipio and Education Minister Dave Cooke.

In the initial proposal, the school boards wanted to use the $9 million, to be paid out over three years, to expand in-school feeding programs, hire more counsellors at social agencies and train teachers on what agencies children and their families could be directed to for assistance.

Children are feeling the effects of the recession and high unemployment throughout SDG, says Davidson. Many are attending school without eating breakfast while others are having emotional problems because parents are unemployed and arguing over finances.

Although the grant is well short of the proposed $9 million sought by both school boards, which put forward a joint proposal to four different provincial ministries last December, Roger Davidson, the director of education for the SDG Catholic School Board, says this grant shows the province acknowledges there's a serious problem and that it must be addressed.

"This was a tough sale because of the times we live in. But the unemployment levels are so high and social agencies are asked to do more so the government recognizes something must be done for our children.

"This money hasn't been borrowed. It's been redirected from other existing programs."

Jim Dilamarter, the director of education for the SDG Public School Board, says he was surprised by the grant.

"We were really pleased. We weren't expecting them to come through like this. I was really pleased to come away with anything," says Dilamarter.

Davidson says the money will go to the Visions Committee, a nine-member panel, the brainchild of the SDG Children Aid's Society, which specializes in programs for children.

The committee met late Tuesday afternoon to discuss where the money should go and how it should be spent.

Richard Abell, the director of the SDG Children Aid's Society who also chairs the committee, says the need for funding is immense and this first grant is just a band-aid.

He says the money will be used to possibly hire more staff for other social agencies which work with children.

Davidson says that there's an excellent chance that the Ministry of Municipal Affairs will come through with additional funding.

Using separate funding, the province also created 50 day care spaces, half francophone kids and half anglophone kids, for adolescent mothers who are attending or want to return to high school to pursue their academic diploma.

Dilamarter estimates that the daycare spaces are worth $50,000 to $100,000 and $55,000 grant was given to the sex abuse section of Hotel Dieu in Cornwall. The total is probably closer to $500,000.

Donald McDougall of Alexandria wished Mother Nature would have taken a tip from the street sign located at the corner of Bishop Street South and St. Paul Street in Alexandria Thursday morning. Old Man Winter blew into Alexandria one last time and deposited about 48 cm of wet snow on Glengarry streets and sidewalks making walking and driving an adventure.

Board racks up $440,000 deficit for '92

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Property owners may have to brace themselves for a hefty increase in the amount of school taxes they pay if that money is channelled into the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Catholic School Board.

The board recently reported that after 1992, it had an accumulated deficit of $439,000.

Board administrators including trustees and Gordon Greffe, the superintendent of business and the treasurer of the board, are meeting to decide what to do about the deficit.

One of the options being discussed is a tax hike.

On a house assessed for $100,000, the owner could be paying an extra $500 per year or $25 for property assessed at $5,000.

But Greffe says the board is also exploring two other options.

Legally, the Ministry of Education does not allow school boards to carry a deficit. But because so many boards across the province are in the red after 1992, the board could make a request to the ministries' regional office to work in the red during 1993.

The last option is to make some deep cuts at the schools but Greffe says that there's little fat to trim and it won't amount to a large amount.

A combination of these options could also be looked at but for now administrators are just talking.

"This may be a long process but we want to make a good decision," says Greffe.

The board drew up its 1992 budget and was prepared for a deficit around $888,000 but didn't take into account the pay equity grant paid by the Ministry of Education, which amounted to $388,000.

The remaining $70,000 of revenue came from increased enrolments and cut expenditures.

Glengarry golf club turns down share restructuring

Resolution failed to attract two-thirds majority required

By J. L. Lefebvre
Sports editor

A proposal to divide shares for the Glengarry Golf and Country Club was rejected at the club's annual shareholders' meeting last Friday evening.

The resolution which would have divided existing shares into 10 "new" shares received only 52 per cent approval in a balloting of shareholders, far short of the two-thirds majority which was needed.

Approximately 100 shareholders attended last Friday's meeting and, with proxy votes, 407 of the 1,000 active shares were represented in the balloting.

The final tally was 212 votes for and 195 against. In a vote of 407 shares, the resolution would have needed a "yes" response from stockholders controlling at least 272 shares to pass.

The club's board of directors had drafted the proposal in an effort to raise money to pay off the debt which was incurred when the course expanded from nine to 18 holes in 1989.

After determining that the 500 unsold shares, at almost $500 a pop, were out of most shareholders' price range, the directors proposed to create 5,000 shares from the existing 500 and sell them at $50 apiece.

If the proposal was approved, all active shares would have been multiplied by a factor of 10. Shareholders would then have the right to purchase more shares up to half their new total.

For example, a person holding one old share would now have 10 with the right to purchase five more at $50 each.

In an effort to ease concerns about a possible outside takeover, the board stated the new shares would be made available to existing shareholders only and the rights to those shares would be non-transferrable.

"(The resolution) would make it more difficult and expensive for any takeover attempt," club secretary David Graham assured the shareholders.

The club could have made a maximum of $250,000 if all the new shares had been scooped up.

But many of those who spoke out against the plan in the weeks leading up to the vote objected to the fact that those shareholders who would not or could not exercise their options on the new shares would see their relative voting power reduced by those who did.

The issue created hot discussion among shareholders in recent weeks as proponents of both sides waged a war of words through the media.

The size of Friday's turnout (approximately 100 people attended) was an indication of how strongly many felt about the resolution. Only 20 shareholders attended last year's annual meeting.

The evening didn't get off to a smooth start as there was some con-

Cigarette busts keeps OPP hopping

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Routine traffic stops by Lancaster OPP last week turned up over $109,000 worth of smuggled goods in three separate incidents throughout their coverage area.

A Kahnawake, Quebec resident was eastbound on Highway 401 on Friday around 8:20 pm. He was driving a 1993 Chevrolet Astrovan when he was pulled over for a routine traffic stop. A closer look revealed a cache of 26 cases of cigarettes, worth approximately $58,500, in the van.

Cornwall RCMP have charged Brennen Lazare with possession of smuggled goods.

The next largest seizure totalled $34,200, 38 cases of smuggled tobacco.

Lancaster OPP pulled over a driver for a traffic stop Saturday at 10:30 p.m., this time on Concession Road 2 near the Curry Hill turnoff, and a quick inspection revealed the booty.

Joseph Jacobs of Cornwall Island has been charged by Cornwall RCMP with possession of smuggled goods.

A smuggler led Lancaster OPP, Long Sault OPP and the Cornwall RCMP on a merry chase last Wednesday.

At 7:20 a.m., Lancaster OPP were manning a speed trap. They clocked a 1984 Dodge Caravan well above the legal limit and pursued. The driver continued to speed along County Road 18 (King's Road) before veering into the south ditch.

He fled on foot, abandoning the cargo worth $16,500 in liquor and cigarettes. The canine unit of Long Sault OPP was called in but the smuggler has not been caught.

Ralph Connor's old Glengarry comes to life on Char-Lan stage

By Pauline Ashton
News* correspondent

Dinner theatre came to Williamstown Saturday night as 150 residents loyally slapped down $20 a ticket, munched roast beef and broccoli at lamp-lit tables served by winsome women in Queen Victoria period costumes, and watched a lively production of Scenes from Glengarry School Days.

Held in Char-Lan high school, the production was the brain-child of Char-Lan Heritage Committee, which is fast turning into an amateur theatre group in an effort to bring local history alive.

Williamstown columnist/librarian Sue Harrington adapted scenes from Ralph Connor's famous novel, Glengarry School Days, into a fast-moving and eye-opening glance back to the 1870's in Glengarry.

The cast of 34, mostly youngsters, romped through spelling bees, examinations, harsh scenes of school discipline by the strap, culminating in a tipsy shinney match punctuated by the wail of bagpipes and rough advice shouted in Gaelic.

The audience loved it all.

Local school boy Bucky Ross played the part of Hughie Murray, the cheeky minister's son, with aplomb, bringing alive Hughie's adventures in the scrappy, pious Scots community of Glengarry.

And set designers Olga Grigoriev, Tony Durin and painter Ann Gibbs can take a bow for imaginative log school interior scenes and forest glade backdrops.

They even found a painting of fusty, forbidding Queen Victoria, lending authenticity to the period.

Local school trustee Art Buckland looked the part of the play's teacher John Craven, with his shock of fading red hair, and his baggy trousers. He sounded like the Scots master too, throwing in bits of Gaelic here and there.

Audrey MacLeod's playing of Hughie's serene mother, Mrs. Murray, was touching as she strove to keep peace between her son, the rigid Scots community, and her upright minister-husband played by Jay Woolven.

Students respond with glee after a team member gives a correct answer in a spelling bee. The scene is from Sunday's performance of Scenes of Glengarry School Days which was put on at Char-Lan high school. Staff photo — J.L. Lefebvre

Woolven didn't have many lines, but he looked properly tall and forbidding in his frock coat and two-foot beaver hat.

Women in the audience couldn't help but be impressed by the "lord and master" emphasis of the period. Women teachers were "slack" and quickly replaced in old Glengarry by men who would be an "example to the boys."

Women served the meals and disappeared to the kitchen while the men talked — the school board members were male.

Women soothed, gently gave advice, and tried softly to guide their explosive hot-tempered sons and husbands.

It was a valuable evening of theatre.

The scenes recalled a Glengarry where bilingualism meant Gaelic and English, where deep respect for education, religious revivalism and a pervading sense of sin guided daily lives, written by Ralph Connor, a minister's son born in Glengarry's Indian Lands.

Connor was the pen name for Charles Gordon who became a minister himself, served as Moderator of the Presbyterian Church, and authored two books about his youth in Glengarry, an area which shaped him and haunted him as a man.

The Heritage Committee delivered three performances last weekend, Friday, and Saturday evenings and a Sunday matinee, sold out to more than 800 people.

Director Sue Harrington hopes the committee will clear $14,000 to help finance next year's project which she says is still undecided.

fusion as to when the meeting should begin.

Outgoing board president John Plaskon, one of the leading proponents of the share-splitting proposal, tried to get things going shortly after 7:15 p.m. but one person objected, pointing out that the letter received by shareholders indicated a 7:30 p.m start.

Plaskon agreed to wait a while longer to begin the meeting and after several directors made reports, the resolution was tabled.

The president drew some grumbles when he announced that questions on the resolution would be entertained but that no speeches or statements, for or against, would be allowed.

"For the past half-hour we have been listening to politicking from every board member in favor of the proposal but the opposition has not been heard from," pointed out shareholder Maurice Lemieux, who has been openly critical of the plan.

Plaskon responded that he wanted to avoid further acrimony between the two sides.

"Let us be decent people and finish this once and for all," said the president by way of explanation for the ban on debate. "We don't want to divide the community any further."

But some shareholders weren't buying into that argument.

"With all due respect Mr. President, I think that is a cop-out," said Hugh Allan McDonald, one of the Glengarry club's founding members. "I would think that on an issue as important as this one, we should hear from all sides."

Despite the protests, the proposal went to vote without any further discussion, and after a one-hour voting and counting process, the results were announced.

After Plaskon told the shareholders that the proposal had been defeated, Lemieux stood up and addressed the head table.

"I commend the board on its effort to do what it thought was best for the club. Now let's put this behind us and get on with the business of working together and playing together," said Lemieux, drawing applause from the gathering.

Lemieux was later elected to the board of directors while returning board member Grant Crack was chosen as the new president.

Clarification

A story on page 3 of the April 14 edition of The Glengarry News about a wrecking yard operation located on agricultural land in the Bainsville area inaccurately stated that the rezoning proposal for the land was initiated by neighbors who complained to Lancaster Bylaw Enforcement Officer and Building Inspector Ian MacDonald last summer.

MacDonald said he received no complaints from neighbors.

Random testing coming

Some complaints about the gravel on township roads has lead Kenyon Township council to a decision to carry out spot checks on gravel quality this year.

Roads Superintendent Allister Baggs told council that when the township tested the gravel eight or nine years ago, the quality was better. Gravel is the township's single largest expense, last year costing about $115,000.

Reeve Wilfred Vallance said there's a concern that the gravel isn't being mixed well enough before being applied to the roads. The stones sometimes roll off the road surface because there isn't enough finer gravel to create adhesion. Sometimes, drivers feel like their vehicles are moving along on ball bearings.

Postcards from the edge: Glen Norman resident returns from peacekeeping mission in Croatia with a healthier respect for Canada

By Scott Ferrier
News reporter

Lindsay Cameron is back where he belongs — home.

But the Glen Norman resident is a changed man.

War has that effect on people.

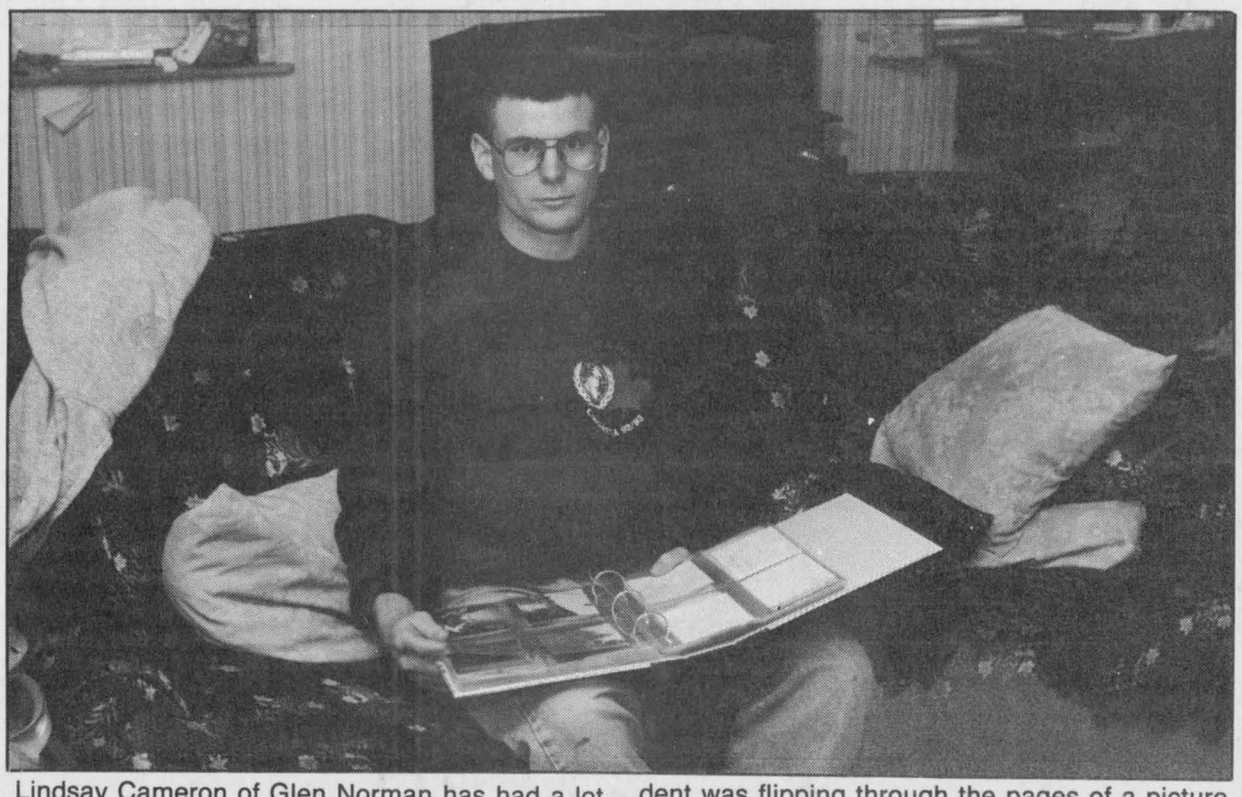
The lanky 19-year-old just returned from a peacekeeping mission in Croatia a few weeks ago.

For nearly six months, Cameron dodged bullets, confiscated weapons and helped keep the peace while developing a new outlook on life and his homeland.

"When you're young, older people tell you that 'Canada is the greatest country in the world.' And you say 'Yeah right.'

"After seeing what I've seen, I have a healthier respect for Canada. It is the greatest country in the world."

Casually dressed in deck shoes, his favorite blue jeans and a baggy sweatshirt, Cameron has the chance to do something he's had to wait months for - relax.



Lindsay Cameron of Glen Norman has had a lot more time on his hands since he returned from peacekeeping duty in the former Yugoslavia about two weeks ago. The 19-year-old Glen Norman resident was flipping through the pages of a picture scrapbook on his journey.

During his tour, the reservist served with the Third Batallion of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry but didn't have many chances to stay loose.

"Some nights we would go out on patrol and people were shooting at us. The bullets were zipping over our heads. It was meant to keep us on our toes and it worked," Cameron says.

The Canadian peacekeeping force, which was one of dozens dispatched from countries around the world that worked under the United Nations flag, was placed in some of the most turbulent areas.

"It was up to (all of) us to keep the Croats and Serbs from launching an all out war and killing one another. Canada's peacekeeping force is well-respected and second to none. That's why we went to the hot spots."

Before the airplane landed in Croatia, the small country looked like it was a picture from the history books to Cameron. Small villages were scattered everywhere, there were no large developments and the hilly terrain was the same as it was probably hundreds of years ago.

From 30,000 feet above, Croatia appeared to be untouched by war. But the reality of the bloody conflict would soon become evident to Cameron.

Cameron and the 1,200 other regulars and reservists of the Third Batallion of PPLI left military headquarters, located in Daruvar, and split up into 12 companies and each company was split into three platoons.

Cameron, the son of Lindsay senior and Dora, was part of a platoon that began patrolling a 20 km area just south of headquarters (he cannot reveal the location of the town where they were based).

At Daruvar, "They said 'Welcome to Croatia. This is where you're going. Here's your flackjacket. Have fun.'"

Flipping through a scrapbook filled with photos of his colleagues and the places they patrolled, Cameron says the devastation affected everyone and everything.

"There wasn't a building that wasn't destroyed or damaged."

Entire villages were turned into ghost towns almost overnight. Many fragile brick buildings were unable to withstand mortar attacks. Nothing was safe, hospitals and orphanages were reduced to mounds of rubble.

Both the Serbs and Croats rolled through these small towns two or three times firing mortars and leaving mines behind. The villagers were caught in the middle and many fled to areas where they felt safer.

"You hear all this talk in the media that the Serbs are the bad guys. Everyone gives the Croats the benefit of the doubt because they're a new country. But both sides are just as bad," Cameron comments.

"They adhere to the Russian credo of leaving mines when they leave. When I walked, I watched where I stepped."

Cameron patrolled the area just south of Daruvar for about three months. During the next three months the platoon he served with moved further south into Croatia and were based in Lipik.

He often stood guard in lonely solitude for 12, 24 or 36 hours straight. In Lipik, a Croatian woman or child would occassionally bring him food or coffee.

Cameron, who is still sporting the requisite military brushcut, says mortar attacks and machine gun fire would help keep him and the other platoons awake at night, especially in Lipik.

"I was 150 feet away from where a mortar landed. That'll wake you up in a hurry," he says. The night sky was often lit up by tracers and the steady beat of machine gun fire was common.

"I was excited," he says about being the only person from Glengarry County to go to the former Yugoslavia.

"It was really different getting shot at and watching this shooting from two miles or 150 metres away. At times, it was kind of unnerving."

Cameron's most used weapon of war wasn't a grenade or gun but rather a jackhammer. In the first few weeks, the soldiers had to repair damaged buildings and Cameron manned the jackhammer used to clear away the rubble. Their work to rebuild villages continued.

After three months of sleeping in a crowded tent and then a trailer, Cameron finally had a partial roof over his head. The platoon fixed up a bombed out townhouse, sections of the roof were destroyed.

Although the tents were cold and both the mud and rain seeped in, the comradarie among the 20-plus soldiers quickly developed regardless of who were regulars and who were reservists. Extensive training in Petawawa and in Victoria, B.C. prepared him to do his job and he was accepted.

If he knew then what he knows now, Cameron would still serve with the peacekeeping mission.

"When we first arrived in Lipik there were only 200 people. When we left there were over 1,000. They felt it was safe to come back so we must have been doing our job.

"I saw so much over there. Something like that changes you in a hurry."

A part of Cameron was sad to leave, but when he arrived in Victoria, on Good Friday the child in the man took over.

"Some guys and I ran through a park at midnight. Everybody probably thought we were crazy but it was the first time in months that we could move and didn't have to worry about landmines."

Court Report

The following are among items dealt with by Judge J.M. Bordeleau in Alexandria Provincial Court on Thursday, April 20.

Theft nets jail term

Stealing an all-terrain vehicle and failing to appear in court has netted a young Alexandria man two months in jail.

Steven McCarthy, 18, will serve 60 days for taking a Suzuki four-wheel drive ATV valued at $6,500 from a Lancaster Township home on Feb. 20. The ATV sustained $150 damage.

A 30-day concurrent jail sentence was also imposed on McCarthy for failing to appear in court.

Crown Attorney Bill Duncan requested that a curfew be placed on McCarthy as a condition of probation.

But Defence lawyer Robert Miller argued that he had never seen a curfew placed on an adult, that McCarthy "is a big boy and knows what's good for him."

However, Bordeleau later said to McCarthy, "Your council is telling me that he has never seen an adult on curfew, but I'm telling you, you'll get one.

"Wait until I'm finished. A curfew can be imposed in a town like Alexandria. They'll know where you are."

As conditions of two years of probation, McCarthy must seek and maintain employment or attend school, is not permitted contact with anyone who has a criminal or youth record, will not be allowed out of his house from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. unless accompanied by an adult who has been approved by the probation officer, and is prohibited from consuming or purchasing alcohol or drugs.

Area farmer nabbed for smuggling

Smuggling cigarettes and tobacco from the United States netted a Summerstown farmer a $14,228 fine.

Mohawk Police discovered a smuggling operation at Archibald McDonald's farm on Sept. 9, after seeing several cars bearing Quebec licence plates at the Summerstown property.

An investigation revealed 800 cartons of cigarettes in a shed on the property, 120 bottles of liquor in a van, and six more bottles in the house.

Total duty evaded was $7,890. McDonald was fined $11,871 for possessing tobacco not stamped and packaged in accordance with the Excise Act. He was also fined $2,356 for possessing liquor unlawfully brought in from the United States.

A large sum of money was also confiscated from the home of the accused. Judge J.M. Bordeleau allowed McDonald to pay his fine out of those funds.

A charge against a co-accused was dropped.

Accident foiled crime

A Gloucester man with double bad luck was fined $4,945 for smuggling cigarettes.

OPP apprehended Joseph Dagher, 53, after they found his vehicle in the ditch on in Charlottenburgh Township, Feb. 16.

Upon checking the accident scene, police found 450 cartons of cigarettes under a blanket in the back seat of the car.

Duty evaded was $2,472.

Avoided jail

A Alexandria man who plead guilty to assaulting his wife was given a suspended sentence but told that a breach of probation could get him up to five months in jail.

Serge Ouimet, 50, back in court Thursday after a pre-sentence report was completed, was told that traditionally spousal assault earns a jail term.

However, Judge J.M. Bordeleau said he was satisfied with a plea by defence lawyer Pat Rudden that the assault on Ouimet's wife had occurred because Ouimet had consumed too much alcohol, that he was drinking because of hardships in his life, and that he was taking steps to stop drinking.

Four "positive" letters of reference were also introduced as evidence.

Crown Attorney Bill Duncan asked that Ouimet be incarcerated. Duncan told the court that Ouimet had punched his wife in the face and head five times, without provocation. She sustained a black eye and required eight stitches to close a wound.

Ouimet will be on probation for 18 months and must complete 125 hours of community service work — to pay back a "strike against the community," said Bordeleau.

Claudine Nadeau will have Mackenzie's route on her mind as her departure date of May 17 draws nearer.

Teen to follow Mackenzie's track

Alexandria's Claudine Nadeau is participating in grueling 2,000 km trip to mark bicentennial of first recorded crossing of North America: she's confident she'll make it

By Greg Kielec
News editor

When Alexandria's Claudine Nadeau sets sail this summer, her ship will be a 25-foot-long, voyageur-style canoe.

Nadeau, a 20-year-old Lakehead University student, will be participating in the final leg Canada Sea-to-Sea Expeditions, a cross-Canada trip tracing the trail of Alexander Mackenzie.

She will be grinding it out in the grueling final leg of the journey, a two-month, 2,000 km trip by canoe and land from Peace River to Mackenzie Rock in British Columbia.

The trip will culminate a three-year, 5,000 km expedition celebrating the bicentenary of the first recorded crossing of North America by 18th century explorer Alexander Mackenzie, retracing the route of the famous explorer.

"I'm really excited. It's going to be a really good experience," said Nadeau in a telephone interview.

Nadeau, with 22 other modern day voyageurs will begin her trip May 17, and will arrive at Mackenzie's Rock at Bella Coola, B.C. on July 22, the exact day Mackenzie inscribed his arrival at the rock 200 years ago.

The final leg will involve 5 a.m. wakeup calls, with endless kilometres of paddling and a 350 km hike through the Rockies before setting their canoe in water again.

"Yeah, it's going to be tough," Nadeau concedes. "It's going to be hard at times, but it's going to pay off in the end."

"I get to cross Canada. I get to go go through B.C. — actually go through it.

"It's an experience of a life time. I'll never get this chance again."

The project is supported by the Minister of State for Youth, and the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission, and it embodies the spirit of teamwork, unity and multiculturalism that first built Canada, says a release detailing the project.

Students involved in the project do this by demonstrating the vital roles of native people, the European explorers and entrepreneurs and the French Canadian voyageurs.

Since 1989, similar groups of Lakehead students have paddled over 10,000 kilometres, from Fort McMurray, Alberta to Inuvik, Northwest Territories; from Montreal to Winnipeg and Winnipeg to Peace River.

Using historical and modern role models, and dancing, singing and telling stories, the teams will have visited thousands of school children, encouraging youth to follow through with their education, leaving doors open for future activities.

Nadeau heard about the expedition two years ago, but was unable to join because of a funding cutback. But she applied again, and after an interview, was given the nod for the final leg.

The team will be comprised of 11 men, 11 women and three leaders. And they will all be stuck in close quarters, under difficult conditions for two months straight.

"It's going to be physically challenging, but mentally too," Nadeau said.

That was evident in the first two legs where the stresses of such difficult conditions, combined with the lack of breathing space, did wear thin on some members.

That is why it is essential to get 25 people all with the same interests who can live with each other under close quarters for eight weeks straight: "We're all in the same boat together."

The trip is not only a tribute to Mackenzie, it is also being used to help convince kids the value of education and the need to stay in school.

"It's really neat because it's two different aspects," said Nadeau.

The "'voyageurs'" will visit schools along the route holding performances to enhance awareness of Canadian history.

And they will use MacKenzie — who successfully crossed Canada on his second try after returning to school to brush up on his geography and astronomy after a failed first trip — as an example to emphasize school's importance.

"Anything is possible — Mackenzie would never have achieved his goal had he not gone back to school," Nadeau said in a release detailing the project.

"Sure it is hard work — so is paddling — but look at the payoffs."

The payoffs are very evident to Nadeau. The one drawback with the training, the trip and other commitments, is that she may not be home to visit her family for quite a while.

"I might be coming home for Thanksgiving, hopefully."

Maz's budget not honest

Glengarry residents are always trying hard to find some semblance of good news that may be hidden in the acrimony surrounding the release of any government budget. On Monday, they found out that no news — no new taxes — is about as close to good news as they could find.

Unfortunately, that was tempered by the knowledge that this ''stand pat budget'' does nothing to reduce the country's annual deficit or national debt. The fact that the dollar dropped a half cent on Tuesday is evidence that the money markets felt the government did not go far enough in cutting spending.

With the little shred of relief from further tax hikes, though, and the admission by Don Mazankowski that he could've cut more, there is the knowledge that this was all politically calculated and oriented toward an election six months from now.

An honest budget would've meant serious cuts in the civil service and widespread spending cuts, and promises for more in the future — whatever the fallout. Mazankowski has walked a safe road by keeping mainstream Canadians relatively quiet without new tax increases, and the civil service at bay without new massive cuts to its ranks.

All the while, Canada has enhanced its image as a $30 billion-plus deficit-a-year nation with a federal debt of over $450 billion. It's not the kind of image the country can be proud of.

It appears as though this is the kind of price we have to pay to help ensure Kim Campbell and the Conservatives are re-elected. It would be wise to remember that when polling time arrives.

Back to taxes. If there is a modicum of sensibility to this budget, it is that it tells future and present governments — at least until the debt is under control and employment increases (which the government says won't be for at least five years) — continuous series of tax increases to people and companies can no longer be considered an option.

Canada is already one of the highest taxed nations in the 24-member Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development. Its citizens are showing severe tax fatigue at a time when ways should be found to stimulate economic growth without government spending.

Surely, governments can no longer expect to continue to penalize people and businesses twice through higher direct and indirect taxation, and by refusing to do anything meaningful about the country's mortgaged future.

There has to be an element of frankness from the federal politicians who want our vote next year. Fewer assumptions about economic performances, fewer pie-in-the-sky predictions about the anticipated size of the national deficit, and more hard and long-term decisions have to be made.

But they are also decisions that will have to come from within government. The people of Canada are already letting enough blood at all levels of government.

The question is, who, at election time, will stand up and honestly say what must be done?

Quebec protectionism

New Brunswick has taken the bold and provocative step of shutting out Quebec companies, products and workers from tendering on government work in response to that province's continuing protectionism.

It's a step Ontario should consider.

Anyone who toils in the construction trade in Glengarry knows the frustration of being shut out of working in Quebec when they reside and operate such businesses so close to the Quebec border.

Under Quebec's law, only construction workers with permits can work on Quebec sites. That excludes any Ontario construction worker and any Quebec worker who has not worked in a year and whose permit has lapsed. The Quebec Construction Association limits the number of permits held to about 120,000 a year.

And while Ontario workers are excluded from Quebec construction projects, Quebec workers can work at Ontario sites, unregulated. This has been a major sore point with construction companies here since Quebec's law was passed in the mid-1970s to end a major political confrontation over work on the James Bay hydro construction project.

But unless Quebec begins to show some willingness to free up those regulations — as it appears to be prepared to do with its sign law — Ontario should support New Brunswick's attempts to promote a dismantling of the barriers that separate all of Canada's provinces.

Indeed, it is absurd that it has taken longer to negotiate free trade between provinces than it has with the U.S.

The Confederation of Canada has always been built on the principles of equity. Quebec's punitive protectionism goes against that principle and Ontario and the other provinces have been patiently waiting for that to fade for nearly 20 years. Time is up.

Now that the stakes are so high for freer trade between provinces, there is no better time than now for Ontario to stand strong with New Brunswick.

Town council rejects pay rollback

Nothing's ever easy for government

Faces 'N Places

by Joe Banks

Hey anglers, have you seen what you have to do to get a fishing license this year?

Short of standing on your head, rubbing your tummy and humming ''Sudbury Saturday Night,'' Bob Rae wants us to fill in a form, mail in a serious cheque with it, and then wait four weeks to see a license in the form of a credit card (don't leave the dock without it).

Yes, most of us have had those forms for most of the winter. But as Opening Day draws nearer, as the ice leaves the lakes, those of us fair weather fishermen only now begin to think of such silly things, like paying for the privilege to do something we used to do for free, and definitely without the accompanying bureaucratese.

Resident fishing licenses have been mandatory now for a few years. But all it took to get one was to drop in at your local tackle store, plop down your fee, and go fishin'. This made it convenient for the angler, and generated much-needed traffic and a modest revenue for the tackle operator.

Most conservation-minded anglers didn't begrudge paying for the license, either — at least in the beginning. The province appeared sincere in using the money generated by licensing to hire more conservation officers, increase stocking activity and generally pay more attention to enhancing fisheries and improving conditions to favor them.

That was then.

It's not clear that the province is spending on fisheries what it brings in in license revenue (never mind all of the sales taxes it sucks up when we buy tackle and bait). The change in government has brought a new set of priorities. And with Floyd Laughren's get-tough budgeting, all bets are off. A friend who works out of the communicaitons department for natural resources in Queen's Park says his position is not long for this earth, so imagine the big cuts that are coming for traditional fisheries projects.

Ensuring the province's fishery remains intact may or may not mean much to you. If you haven't got a job or you're not sure you'll have one this time next year, fishing mightn't be at the top of your priority list.

But at a time when it's becoming more difficult to find time to get closer to nature, when an appreciation for the outdoors is competing with television and Nintendo among youth, and when the province is looking to streamline its bureaucracy, we are faced with another plastic card in our wallets.

It's an appropriate comment on how our collectively-mortgaged future has come home to roost.

And somehow, those things which were once so simple — dangling a line on a hot Saturday afternoon off an old dock — have been made artificially and unnecessarily complicated.

It's really not the card system itself that grates. It's what that card says about the pace of life as it relates to a wonderful pursuit where time, for a while at least, doesn't matter. Fishing licenses from your corner tackle dealer are no longer good enough; the 90s dictates we need a card from Queen's Park with a plastic magnetic strip on the back, holding God only knows what data.

In haste to grasp the high tech tools of the future, while combatting an economic crisis of growing proportions, government regulators have made something as simple as buying a fishing license as complicated as applying for a credit card.

The only thing missing is the mandatory credit check.

The allowance to admit a mistake

News to me

by Greg Kielec

The occasions are rare when politicians humbly acknowledge that they have been wrong, despite the outcry over decisions they make.

So it is worth noting when a political type essentially admits judgemental error by reversing their stance on an issue.

In Alexandria municipal politics, such a rare occasion did take place, involving council's environment committee head Jacques Joly.

The deputy reeve was given a $200 a month expense allowance last fall to cover the cost of his travels as head of the prestigious committee.

Almost as contentious as the allowance itself was the way that it was done. It was slid by council in the environment committee minutes without any opportunity for debate by members.

It was only when a council member learned of the allowance a few months after the fact and questioned it at the council table that the matter got into the public eye.

But after taking heat from some council members and from Alexandria ratepayers, Joly sheepishly announced at an April 13 council meeting that he would no longer accept the allowance.

He has now returned to his previous practice, also the norm for all other council members except for the mayor who has an expense allowance himself, of charging mileage and expenses.

Whether he is admitting the expense allowance is unnecessary or simply trying to stem off political fallout news of the $200-a-month plum is uncertain.

In the past two years and four months of Alexandria council, one can probably count on one hand the number of time members have actually come out and admitted they were wrong on an issue.

So it is a rare and gutsy move for any politician, including Joly, heeding public concerns, to reverse a stance on an issue. And as a political move, he certainly cannot lose.

It is unknown whether his decision to change back to the accepted system of billing for mileage and expenses will actually save money; next year's annual expense report will answer that question.

It may be that a $200-a-month allowance may be cheaper for the town. But any chance of convincing suspicious minds on council now on the benefit of allowance has all but disappeared.

And because there was no presention by the environment committee at all on the matter, even if there was a sound financial argument for having the allowance, it was never heard by council.

The allowance ordeal is a perfect example of reactionary politics on Alexandria council, the type of politics that it seemed — thanks to the influx of new, progressive minded members — had gone the way of the Dodo bird.

It is hard to part with the relics of the past, and until there is a complete effort from all of council to involve everybody in decision-making, there will continue to be situations like the expense allowance fiasco.

As the saying goes, it is hard to teach an old dog new tricks. Hopefully council's top dogs will have learned from this embarrassment and apply the lesson accordingly in the future.

Dr. Samuel Johnson revisited

Highland Paths

by Ken McKenna

I was visiting my friend Neil MacLeod recently in Maxville Manor when the subject of Dr. Johnson came up. When I got home, I dug out my dog-eared copy of ''Johnson's Journey to the Western Islands of Scotland'' and ''Boswell's Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides with Samuel Johnson, LL.D.,'' published together by Oxford University Press. Dr. Johnson, the most brilliant Englishman of the 18th century and his friend and biographer James Boswell, son of an artistocratic Lowland Scots family, had visited the Highlands in 1773, long before travelling in this remote area had become popular or even practical. There were few roads or inns, Dr. Johnson was old, corpulent, suffering from gout, and often bad-tempered, but he persevered. He and Boswell had planned their trip for many years.

When Boswell visited the French philosopher Voltaire in 1764, he told him of their plans to visit the Highlands. ''He looked at me as if I had talked of going to the North Pole, and said, 'You do not insist on my accompanying you?' — 'No sir.' 'Then I am very willing you should go'.''

As it happened, Johnson and Boswell visited those very areas of the Highlands — Kintail, Glenelg, Skye, Raasay and some of the Inner Hebrides, from which most of the early settlers to Glengarry were to come shortly after. Indeed, many of them were already making plans to leave for Canada and the Carolinas.

On the mainland near Skye Dr. Johnson and Boswell stayed with a man called McQueen. Johnson was impressed with the fact that McQueen had built a substantial house with his own hands and had a library. ''After dinner, Mr. McQueen sat by us a while, and talked with us.

''He said, all the Laird of Glenmoriston's people would bleed for him, if they were well used; but that 70 men had gone out of the Glen to America. That he himself intended to go next year; for that the rent of his farm, which 20 years ago was only five pounds, was now raised to 20 pounds.

''That he could pay 10 pounds, and live; but no more. — Dr. Johnson said, he wished McQueen laird of Glenmoriston, and the laird to go to America. McQueen very generously answered, he should be sorry for it; for the laird could not shift for himself in America as he could do.''

Dr. Johnson has often been accused of being anti-Scottish. As an English High-Church Tory he was not sympathetic to the Lowland Scots and enjoyed teasing his Lowland companion Boswell at every opportunity. But with the Highland Scots it was quite a different thing. He knew that there was something of great antiquity and beauty to be found among the people of the Highlands, and he was not disappointed. He first heard the Gaelic language in an inn at Nairn, near Inverness. ''Over the room where we sat, a girl was spinning wool with a great wheel, and singing an Erse (the incorrect 18th century word for Gaelic) song: ''I'll warrant you,'' said Dr. Johnson, ''one of the songs of Ossian.'' This incident was featured recently in the CBC radio program ''Ideas.'' Jo-Anne Meek, who sang Gaelic songs here in Glengarry as a child, played the part of the Highland girl.

Dr. Johnson did not like what had happened to the Highland people after Culloden. ''Were I a chief,'' he said, ''I would dress my servants better than myself, and knock a fellow down if he looked saucy to a MacDonald in rags; but I would not treat men as brutes.''

Mòd-Ontario-Glengarry comes to Iona Academy at St. Raphael's on Friday and Saturday, June 4 and 5. Competitions in Gaelic singing, recitations, harping and wind instruments will take place there from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. In the afternoon there will be nine workshops on the music and heritage of the Scottish Gael. For more information phone Anne or Kenneth McKenna at (613) 874-2861.

Packin' up and going to the big city

That's Life
by Lesley Cadham

I heard "the voice" the other night.
I and several thousand other people, that is; all of us hypnotized, mesmerized, enveloped in lyrics that at times weren't entirely discernible, but we didn't care.

The "voice" could have been belting out the words to Mary had a Little Lamb from inside Oscar's Sesame Street trash can and we would have been crowded closer than milk to a milk carton just to hear it.

But the voice wasn't singing children's rhymes. It was telling us about being a workin' man in his prime, cleaning windows. About Gloria, and about slippin' and slidin' with a brown-eyed girl. About Domino.

And last weekend, I was lucky enough to be one of several thousand people inside the darkened, galvanized Maple Leaf Gardens, who not only got to hear the voice but to see the man to whom it belongs: Van Morrison. A legend in rock. A legend I never dreamed I'd get to see.

Glengarry doesn't get a lot of rock legends, though we have been graced by the music of former members of April Wine, Santana and Offenbach.

But being in the stadium, sandwiched between thousands of people who later jostled and sang their way to public transportation depots made me realize how isolated we can be from the outside world, if we so choose.

Nestled in Glengarry, tending our cows and seeding our fields, we stand a good chance of forgetting how much more is out there, beyond the boundaries of agricultural Ontario.

For seven years, I chose to make this my retreat, a safe haven from the chill of the big cities. And I've loved almost every minute of the seven years I've been here.

Recently I questioned whether I'd been living in the country too long: I chose to walk 20 city blocks rather than puzzle out a subway route that could have reduced my trek from three-quarters of an hour, to two minutes. Hey, there were no subways to get us to the back fields where the cows waited to come home for evening milkings.

I know that in seven years, I've been transformed into a confirmed ruralite. A choice of five restaurants at which to dine is too confusing. Parking more than 40 feet from the entrance into a store is a major inconvenience.

And last week, I nodded sympatheticly at two women discussing the high price of food at a grocery store; they acknowledged my intrusion by looking at me like I'd suddenly grown antlers.

I know; a review of the wonderful, incomparable Van Morrison has turned into a column about city vs. country living, but that probably has come as no surprise to you. You know I thrive on parallels. Stay with me on this one.

It's wonderful how many of you feel you have gotten to know me through my writing, and I thank those of you who have taken the time over the years to call and tell me so.

In turn, I thank you for allowing me to have been a part of your lives. A special thanks goes to a very kind man who this week went well beyond the call of duty in an attempt to help me fulfill my goal of working on a farm.

Glengarry, I'll leave you with this: There are two things in life you should never do. Never say never. And never say goodbye.

So I'm not going to. I hate goodbyes as much as I hate packing and moving.

This is it Glengarry. I won't forget you.

Simply shocked

To the editor:

I was amazed to read in the Standard Freeholder recently that a non French-speaking patient in Cornwall was refused service at the French community clinic. A few days later a patient was refused service in a similar community clinic in Alexandria for the same reason.

I see many patients in all shapes, sizes, creeds, color, race and linguistic abilities. I consider it mandatory under my code of ethics to treat them regardless of the foregoing.

Communities over the years have been divided into Catholic and non-Catholic, white and non-white and now it appears we can add to that list French and non-French.

The actions of the doctors in the community clinics are at best divisive, at worst — racist.

I do not understand the need for the community clinic in the first place. It seems unusual to say the least, to establish expensive clinics with full time salaried individuals at a time when all hospitals in the area are being subjected to serious cuts in service. One can only presume that the whole thing is politically motivated.

Feds should kick in 50 per cent for ethanol plant

To the editor:

At a recent public meeting in Winchester, it was revealed that the Seaway Valley Farmers Energy Co-Operative proposed the construction of a $44 million ethanol plant. It appears that the demand exists for an addition like ethanol to be added to gasoline creating a more environmentally friendly source of fuel than fossil fuels that cause global warming. Many proponents of this project have been led to believe that our federal government is financially broke, thus unable to help get this project off the ground. The leader of this same government that is broke, recently wrote Russian president Yeltsin a cheque for $200 million. This same federal government that is broke has committed over $2.7 billion to develop fossil fuel production off Hibernia. All the oil from here is to go to the U.S. market. The government that is broke spent $100 million transferring the space agency from Ottawa to Montreal. It also allowed Olympia and York to buy out Gulf Oil from the U.S. in 1985 losing $508 million in taxes in the process. They also guaranteed an $85 million loan to Curragh Resources to develop Westray Mines in Nova Scotia. This mine produced very expensive coal, its burning is one of the leading causes of acid rain.

This ethanol plant should be a definite asset for Eastern Ontario. Not only will 56 jobs be created but a market for farmers growing corn will benefit them as well. Perhaps unused farmland that our forefathers worked so hard to clear will go back into production. The time has come to switch from excessively polluting non-renewable fossils fuels to cleaner, safer renewable natural resources. Fuel created at this plant won't be shipped in single-hulled freighters registered in 3rd world countries.

For too long the people of Eastern Ontario (Belleville to Pembroke & east) have been ignored by federal and provincial governments. If my grandchildren have to one day pay off our national deficit, I feel our federal government should fund this project the same 50 per cent that they funded Hibernia. Show us that we are as important as Americans and multinational corporations who can afford the mega-bucks required to pay lobbyists to get legislation passed that has paid handsome dividends for these corporations the past several decades.

If you feel this plant would benefit Eastern Ontario, call or write your MP's and insist that federal funds help establish this facility.

Yours in conservation

Returning home hazardous to area man's health

Rude reception

An Alexandria man returned to his Kenyon Street West home Friday night and received a rude reception in the driveway.

The resident returned home around 11:30 p.m. As he got out of his car, a pair of masked thugs ambushed him. One threw him to the pavement and held him down while his partner stole about $600 from the victim.

The pair escaped through the backyard. Alexandria Police picked up their footprints in the snow and tracked them to the parking lot at the Glengarry Memorial Hospital where they lost the trail.

Both bandits were wearing dark clothing and dark ski masks. One is described as five ft. seven weighing 130 lbs. while the other stood five ft. eight and weighed approximately 140 lbs.

Unwelcome meeting

Slushy road conditions are to blame in a pair of accidents which took place Thursday, according to Maxville OPP.

The most serious accident occurred on the Highland Road, approximately halfway between Dominionville and Highway 43.

Lina Dagenais of RR 2 Apple Hill was southbound on Highland Road at 4:20 p.m. when she hit a slippery patch and lost control of her vehicle, crossed over the centre line and struck the left front corner of a gasoline tanker.

The empty tanker, driven by Robert Evarall of RR 1 Long Sault sustained moderate damage. Dagenais' vehicle was demolished and came to a rest in the east ditch.

Evarall, who was wearing her seatbelt, was uninjured.

The other accident occurred at 7:15 a.m. on County Road 10, 2.8 km east of Highway 34. Petra Graham of RR 1 Maxville was eastbound on County Road 10 when she lost control of her vehicle.

It spun out, crossed the centre line and the back end struck a westbound vehicle being driven by Hector Rochon of Glen Robertson.

Both vehicles sustained moderate damage but both drivers were uninjured.

Mucking about

Lancaster OPP were kept busy during Thursday's snowstorm. There were 10 accidents which occurred throughout their district including Highway 401, 2 and County Road 18 (Kings Road).

One of those incidents led to Lancaster OPP charging an an RR2 Apple Hill man with failure to report an accident.

Michel Paquette was northbound on County Road 20 when he ran the stop sign and pulled into a private residence. He drove in a circle, on the lawn and drove on to County Road 18.

Alex Kinloch of Martintown was eastbound on County Road 18 in Charlottenburgh Township at 1:50 a.m. on Thursday. He turned left to pull into a private driveway but spotted Paquette pulling out in front of him and drove into the ditch.

Nobody was seriously injured in any of the 10 accidents.

Bogus bill

A Lancaster business received a counterfeit $50 bill sometime last weeked, but staff never realized it.

It was a duplicate of the old style denominations, including the RCMP riding brigade on the back. Bank staff spotted the bogus bill while making the deposit and alerted Lancaster OPP.

The copy was produced by using a color photocopier. The images on the bill were not tact sharp, the edges were not cut straight and there were no planchettes - tiny flicks of green paper on or in the currency.

Color photocopiers have become the latest weapon in the counterfeiter's arsenal. American money can't be reproduced because much of the detail is lost in the reproduction.

But the various colors and contrast found on Canadian currency make it an attractive target. The reflective gold seal located on the upper left side of recently-produced large bills negates that problem.

Area businesses should be on the lookout for more funny money turning up. The serial number of the old style $50 bill is EHN1712564.

Charges laid

Alexandria Police have charged Paule Dussault-Bezaine of Montreal with careless driving after a Wednesday mishap which took place just south of Titley Chevrolet Oldsmobile Inc. 4:26 p.m.

Dussault-Bezaine was driving south just behind a school bus. She crept into the north lane to pass but spotted Andre Decoste of North Lancaster northbound. She attempted to merge back into the southbound lane but lost control and collided into Decoste's 1978 Chevy.

Decoste suffered from a few bumps and bruises while Dussault-Bezaine was taken to Glengarry Memorial Hospital, treated and released the same day for minor injuries.

Decoste's car was demolished while the 1982 Volvo stationwagon being driven by Dussault-Bezaine was seriously damaged.

Wake-up call

A Deux Montagnes, Quebec resident was a little drowsy early Tuesday morning and learned that doesn't mix well with driving.

Reinhard Goerner was eastbound on Highway 417 near Skye Road when he fell asleep. The 1987 Dodge Omni he was driving corssed the median and collided into a tree.

Goerner was rushed to Glengarry Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released the same day for a few bumps and bruises. The front and left side of the Dodge was seriously damaged.

Bad turn

Lawrence Quesnel took a wrong turn at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday.

The RR 1 Dunvegan resident was westbound on County Road 24 and attempted to turn southbound on to Coutny Road 30. His car skidded and sustained moderate damage after it landed in the west ditch.

Stolen van went that a way

Crime Stoppers needs the public's help in solving the theft of a van from Roy's Pontiac, Buick, Cadillac dealership in Green Valley.

A white 1991 GMC star craft van with silver pinstriping was stolen from the dealership and was last seen southbound on Highway 34.

Anyone with information on this or any other crime may be eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000. Police don't want your name, they want your information.

Call Crime Stoppers at 534-8477 or, when calling long distance, 1-800-265-8477.

Boudria pans Tory federal budget

Glengarry-Prescott-Russell MP Don Boudria has panned Monday's federal budget for its lack of job creation proposals.

"The budget does not create one single job," Boudria said in a release yesterday.

Boudria also asserts that the government is misreading economic conditions, believing that Canada is coming out of a recession when in fact it is undergoing a "fundamental restructuring."

He criticized the government's decision to leave its controversial $5.8 billion helicopter program intact.

"The budget fails to cancel the $5.8 billion military helicopter program. Meanwhile the Tories are stealing from the poor by postponing the January GST rebate cheque."

He accused the government of "regional abandonment", citing figures that regional development will be cut by $90 million in 1993-94 and $100 million in 1995.

And he attacked the government for not helping the young in Canada. "Already facing dismal summer job prospects, there is nothing in this budget for Canada's youth."

Patriotic quilts

A pair of quilts, the one on the left made by the Sunshine Gang and the other made by the Fairweather group, celebrate Canada's 125th birthday. The Sunshine Gang's quilt, which features the various flowers of each province, hangs at the Lan-Char Seniors Support Centre and the Fairweather group's quilt, made up of distinctly Canadian symbols such as the Fleur-De-Lis and the beaver, is brought out at the community nursing home for regular meetings. Pictured are (back row, left to right): Francine Chorny, Edna McDonald, Eilleen McIntosh, Glengarry Prescott Russell MP Don Boudria, Arnold Wenger, Karen Paavila, Del Roulston; (middle row, left to right) Grace Acott, Delia Pearce, Alice Bellis, Joe Montpetit, Jim Bartlett, Kathleen Milner, Frances LaLonde; (front row, left to right) Joan Readman, Jean McKie, Vivian Shipley, Rochelle St. Louis and Lorraine Cameron.

Township comes to terms with employees

By Greg Kielec
News* editor

Charlottenbugh Township's unionized employees have agreed to a two per cent roll-back proposed by council.

The agreement, announced by Charlottenburgh Reeve Dave MacDonald in a press release last week, affects 20 part-time and fulltime unionized employees.

Those affected are the township's road crews, office and clerical staff, recreation employees and nursing school staff, but not management staff.

The new three-year deal, beginning at the end of April, provides for a two per cent rollback on salary increases awarded to employees after a 10-week strike in 1991.

The union still had one year left in its three year contract which would have given them a five per cent pay hike this year, but agreed to reopen the deal for negotiations when approached by the municipality.

Instead employees will get only a three per cent pay hike this contract year and the same for the following two contract years.

"The negotiations were held in an amicable, non-confrontational manner that saw revisions to the term, (and) salary adjustments in line with the economic times," said MacDonald.

He credits the success of the negotiations to an improved employer/employee relationship, which is demonstrated by the fact no employee grievances have been filed since the current council took office.

He added, that with a revised and extended contract, township residents will continue to benefit by the service they have come to expect "from an effective and efficient workforce."

The memorandum of agreement is subject to ratification by union membership and township council.

Momentum building to open French health centre to general public

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

A petition to open up the Centre De Sante Communautaire De L'Estrie in Alexandria to English speaking residents has been met with widespread support.

A petition to open up the exclusive French community health centre has garnered over 500 signatures. About 200 of the names are francophone.

"The petitions have been out for only 10 days. I'm really pleased with the response," says RR 4 Alexandria resident Fran Page who initiated the petition after she was turned away from the local centre about one month ago.

"I know there's a lot of francophone residents. I know there's a problem but two wrongs don't make a right. It shouldn't be a unilingual (health centre) in a bilingual community. Nobody should be turned away."

Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry and East Grenville MPP Noble Villeneuve met with Provincial Health Minister Ruth Greer to discuss the matter Monday, April 19.

"People in a small community are supposed to work together. This has created a feeling of isolation and animosity," says Villeneuve.

He's concerned that the issue will be come down to English versus French.

"That's not going to happen if I have anything to say about it. I want to make sure that this doesn't turn into a tempest in a teapot.

"I support clinics for all the public and not just select members."

The Cornwall centre has also come under fire because it served a resident in English twice but she was turned away the third time by a francophone doctor.

The petitions, most were located in Alexandria businesses as well as a few in Maxville and Lancaster, will be passed on by Villeneuve to the proper officials.

Roland Beaulie, the executive director of the Cornwall centre, was unavailable for comment at press time.

Limited access to crossing

By Lesley Cadham
News* correspondent

Fourth concession area residents won a small victory last week when Transport Canada agreed not to close a railway crossing to all traffic.

The crossing, located on an unimproved sideroad between the fourth and fifth concession roads, will be closed only to general traffic.

Gates will be erected on either side of the tracks to discourage through-traffic, but will be unlocked to allow local users to cross over.

About 10 area residents, three members of council, and Transport Canada official Frank Lalonde met at the site on April 19, to discuss the issue.

The meeting was held after protests by area residents at an April 6 public meeting who rely on the crossing.

In a telephone interview last Wednesday, Councillor Blair Williams said he believes it was "common sense solution" to the problem.

The two extremes--closing the crossing to all traffic, or leaving it as is and allowing people who aren't aware of the risks to cross and possibly get killed--were not acceptable.

Plans are to erect signs warning travellers that the crossing is only for farm use.

One farmer, John Akkermans, has land on either side of the tracks and uses the crossing to access property on the north side.

Some residents had also raised the concern that emergency vehicles could be stymied in attempts to reach homes on the fifth concession if access was blocked.

During the April 20 council meeting, council members remarked that they doubted any emergency vehicle would ever use the unimproved road.

Newly-ordained priest celebrates mass at St. Mary's

Williamstown
by Sue Harrington
347-2279

The members of St. Mary's Parish had a very busy weekend, and those who helped with the dinner theatre, doubly so. The ordination of Robert Lavoie in Cornwall on Saturday was very well attended and many Williamstowners were present. So were 50 priests! On Sunday, the newly ordained priest said mass at St. Mary's and afterwards a dinner was held at the Centre.

Best wishes to Father Lavoie in his future work.

Frank Lefebvre of Williamstown passed away Thursday after a brief illness. Our sympathy goes out to his wife, Ruth, and children, Gerald, Roy, Dale, Michael, Albert, Sheila and Myrna, and their families.

Lagging a bit in the spring-cleaning? Perhaps these items will spur you on. St. Mary's second annual Gala Garage Sale will be held on Sat., May 22 in Williamstown. Anyone interested in renting a table is asked to call Wendy Bougie at 347-3055. All proceeds from the sale will go towards the upkeep of St. Mary's Centre.

And if you think the junk you have unearthed during your cleaning would not be of interest to anyone, why then, put it at the curbside during ''Pitch-In'' week (May 3-9). A heavy pickup will be held on your regular garbage collection day, or, if you have a registered vehicle, you may take your waste to the landfill site without cost on May 1, 4, 6, and 8, provided the waste is non-hazardous and non-commercial.

When you have got all that waste disposed of, being the fallible humans you are, you will have the urge to go out and buy more things. And, just to accommodate your whims, the Glengarry Arts and Crafts Association's 24th annual Spring Craft Sale will be held May 8 and 9, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., at St. Mary's Centre.

On Sunday only, there will be a participatory ''Make it and take it'' booth, where you may create your own crafts. Among the exhibitors will be Thelma Nobbs with hand-painted porcelain, Donalda Galloway and her beeswax candles, Jim Fourney's woodworking, Brenda Levert's tole painting, Delande Anderson's stencilled T-shirts and boxers, and Janet Sims and her chocolate. And of course, much, much more!

The little hall at St. Mary's will be the setting for the Ladies' Guild's Spring Tea, this Saturday, May 1, from 2 to 4 p.m. Come and enjoy a relaxing social hour among friends!

And now another of those cryptic messages. This one goes out to Doris Ferguson on the occasion of her birthday, April 29, and it reads, not the usual ''Happy Birthday,'' but, ''Guess you're never too old to go shopping for lollipops!'' Williamstown Brownies have been having a grand time this year with a variety of activities to keep them hopping and skipping about.

In the past month or so, they visited a local orchard, where they were taken on a tour of the greenhouses by Diane Lunan. Diane explained the process involved in growing things, and each girl was given a little something to take home and grow for herself.

On another occasion, the Brownies visited an area sugar bush, which was re-activated this season, after many year's rest. Although the girls found the going a trifle muddy, they thoroughly enjoyed the taffy they made at the end of the outing.

At the gathering held in Alexandria on the weekend, a group of girls from the 1st Williamstown Brownies performed ''Happy Talk'' to the delight of family and friends.

And now, energies are being focused on ''Fly-up'' ceremonies, to be held at the end of May.

Late snowfalls and lingering birds . . . four Bohemian waxwings were spotted at Cooper Marsh a week ago Sunday, and on Monday four Bohemian waxwings appeared at Martin Bowman's. ''I've never seen them around so late before,'' said Martin, who added that the birds marked the 60th species to appear at his place since July.

The Friendly Neighbors open euchre was held on April 22, with Beatrice Labelle winning the ladies' high. Other winners were H. Wetering, Germaine White, and Cecile Leblanc (skunk). Gentlemen's high went to John Krol. Tony Wetering and Roger Pilon (skunk and low) also won.

The door prize winner was Rita Poirier, with 50/50 prizes going to H. Wetering, Rena Major, and three-time winner, Catherine Welcher.

At the Glengarry Community Club's birthday party held April 21, Catherine Welcher made the cake in honor of Dorothy Roy.

Card winners included Florida Legroulx, Catherine Gourlay, Donald MacGregor, Alex Lalonde and Cecile Legroulx.

Ethel Clark won the door prize, while Alda Major, Therese Bourdeau, Cecile Leblanc, Rena Major, Ileen Latreille, and Catherine Gourlay were 50/50 winners.

Raffle winners included Alex Lalonde, Alice Portant, and Joyce Irvine.

At the club's recent open euchre, winners were Lucy Shorey, Joyce Lalonde, Joyce Irvine, John Lapierre, James Fourney and Simon Fraser.

Rita Poirier claimed the door prize, while 50/50's went to Dorothy Seguin, Alex Lalonde, Rita Poirier, Onagh Ross, Margaret McMath, Carol Dubeau, and Clarice MacPherson.

Wishes for a speedy recovery go out to club president, Reta Heath, who has been suffering back problems of late.

How on earth do you thank about 800 individuals, businesses and organizations in the space of a column this size? Naming names would become a nightmare with omissions a certainty and mispelling a possibility. Nevertheless, a huge thank you goes out to all in the community who supported ''Scenes from Glengarry School Days'' in all the various ways: as audience, diners, actors, crew, advertisers, props lenders, advisors, music makers, decorators, dinner makers, servers, writers, photographers, schedulers, punch makers, grace sayers, etc., etc., etc.

I'm told the performances were successful from my storage room perspective, I saw an occasional limb if it ventured near enough to the apron of the stage, and heard most of the dialogue, but it was a little difficult to judge the over-all effect.

I can say, without a doubt, that the whole experience was a great one. Maybe we'll do it again some time...

Fishing derby postponed

Martintown
by Lillian Rouleau

Please note that because of the high water level and fast flow of the Raisin River, the second annual fishing derby scheduled for Saturday, May 1, is being postponed for one or two weeks.

Please check the posters in the village and this column for the rescheduled date.

Women's Institute

A lovely pot luck luncheon preceded the annual meeting of the Martintown WI Branch held recently in the Presbyterian church. Jo Van Loon, retiring president, opened the meeting with a special poem, followed by the usual business format. This year, fees have been increased, due to the lack of government funding.

Delegates appointed to act at the district annual meeting on May 1 are Joan MacKenzie, Jo Van Loon, Sylvia Thomson and Charlotte Sansom. The district annual is being held in Dunvegan — don't forget a bazaar item. ''Bring something, buy something'' will be the theme.

Helen MacMillan, program coordinator, presented a detailed report of the year's excellent programs, and the following reports once again proved we had enjoyed yet another great year.

Marion Schofield presented the nominating committee's report. The following officers were duly elected, with Margaret Kennedy conducting the installation.

Honorary President Mrs. Salem Thomson; Past President Mrs. Cornelius Van Loon; President Mrs. Don MacKenzie; 1st Vice-President Mrs. Campbell Murray; 2nd Vice-President Mrs. Cornelius Van Loon; Secretary Mrs. Charles Thompson; Assistant Secretary Mrs. William Johnston; Treasurer Mrs. Mona Street; District Director Mrs. Cornelius Van Loon; Alternate Director Mrs. George Kinloch; Public Relations Mrs. Finlay MacIntosh; Branch Co-ordiantor Mrs. Harvey MacMillan; directors Mrs. Earl Driscoll, Mrs. John Peters, Mrs. Arthur Buckland.

Convenors of Standing Committees are: Agriculture Mrs. William Johnston; Canadian Industries Mrs. Campbell Murray; Citizenship and Legislation Mrs. Douglas Murray; Cultural Activities Mrs. Arthur Buckland; Education Mrs. Mike Beaudin; Family and Consumer Affairs Mrs. Donald Thomson; International Affairs Mrs. Gordon Ross; Curator of Tweedsmuir Histories: Mrs. Leslie West; Resolutions Mrs. Edwin Sansom; Hostess Caller Mrs. Thomas Schofield; Secret Friend Coordinator Mrs. Thomas Schofield; flowers and cards Mrs. Cornelius Van Loon and Mrs. Edwin Sansom; auditors Mrs. John Peters and Mrs. James Pritchard.

An executive meeting is to be held on Wednesday, May 5 at the home of Sylvia Thomson, at 7:30 p.m.

Helen MacMillan thanked the retiring president for all the work she accomplished during her term of office.

The May meeting will take place on the 20th, at 8 p.m. Program is agriculture and the roll call is not a plane exchange, but a plant exchange. Convenor is Alison Murray.

Margaret Kennedy keeps the Tweedsmuir scrapbook up-to-date, and she brought it to the annual meeting for display. This book is really a work of art, as anyone who cuts out various clippings knows how they pile up, but not Margaret's clippings, all neatly pasted in the scrapbook. Do hope that the members found time to look through the book, a real ''timepiece'' for future years.

4-H South Glengarry Horse Club

The 4-H Horse Club registered 12 members at its first meeting held Monday, April 12. The club is about Housing and Tack this year, and the leaders are Carolyn Laing and Sandra Day. The youth leader is Christina Beaudin. The club elected its executive. Members are as follows: President Adèle St. Denis; Vice-President Tania Keefe; Secretary Tanya Day; Treasurer Lisa Knight.

There are tentative plans for visits to area barns and for a tour of the RCMP facilities for their musical ride horses. There will also be a showmanship clinic later this summer.

At the second meeting, held April 19, the group discussed housing and tack.

Goodtimers euchre results

The Martintown Goodtimers held their euchre party Thursday, April 22 and the following were winners. First ladies Yvonne Jarvo, Cornwall; second ladies Eileen Johnston, Martintown; third ladies Myrtle MacMillan, Apple Hill; first men Bill Johnston, Martintown; second men Simon Fraser, Cornwall; third men Bill MacMillan, Apple Hill; door prize Bill MacMillan, Apple Hill; 50/50 draw Onagh Ross, Martintown; Myrtle Christie, Apple Hill; Nancy Colbran, Apple Hill.

The next euchre will be held Thursday, May 13, at 1:30 p.m., in the Martintown Community Centre.

Pulpit Exchange at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church

Rev. Ian MacMillan led the morning service, April 25th, and his sermon was entitled Remember the Sabbath. There was a special ministry in music by choir members Hugh Gibson and George Harland accompanied by organist Anne Kanz.

Next Sunday, May 2, will be pulpit exchange, with Rev. Leslie Walker coming from St. Luke's-Knox Presbyterian Church in Finch.

Rev. MacMillan will be in St. Andrew's Presbyterian in Monkland and Avonmore.

Babysitting course

There are still a few openings available for the babysitting course for youths 10-15 years of age, under the leadership of OPP Const. Gilles Ruest. To pre-register, please phone 528-4972 and leave your name.

Jr. Horticulture

Approximately 12 young members of the Junior Horticulture Society and acocmpanying adults went for a visit to a local orchard Saturday, April 24.

As part of the tour, they were given a demonstration on how to transplant their tender plants into biodegradable planters which can go directly into the garden later in May. They were quizzed by Diane Loonen who was their tour guide, and they received seeds and bulbs.

This year, the young gardeners will grow four vegetables and four flowers, the best of which they will enter in the show in August.

Glengarry Outreach Services

Volunteers are needed as "Friendly Visitors," to drop in on seniors and spend some time in a friendly visit. This could be arranged at flexible, convenient times for all concerned.

Also needed are handymen and/or tradesmen willing to work for seniors at a discount rate, to perform heavy home maintenance, carpentry, grass-cutting and light repairs.

The Glengarry Outreach Services will act as a broker between the service providers and and the clients. To offer your services as a Friendly Visitor or to do maintenance, or if you are in need of either, please call Sharon Burnie-Gardiner at 347-1175.

Centennial Choir Spring Concert

Several area residents are singing with the Centennial Choir under the direction of David Irwin, and the theme of their spring concert is "Songs of Love."

The concert promises to be just as exciting as ever and a lovely evening of musical entertainment at Aultsville Hall, Saturday, May 8.

Condolences

Condolences are extended to Mrs. Grace Kinloch and her family on the passing of her sister, Dorothy (Farlinger) Craig, Sunday, April 25th. Funeral arrangements were not completed at press time.

Lochiel Township

Council Briefs

The following are some of the matters discussed by Lochiel Township council members at their regular monthly meeting April 13.

Garbage open house

Lochiel township council chambers are piled so high with 1,500 blue recycling boxes council members could hardly jam in for their council meeting Tuesday.

They also have three types of composters displayed in the hall in plastic, pine, and space-age plastic design for residents to buy at $16 each.

Lochiel is bracing itself for the big garbage and recycling open house set for today from 3 to 9 p.m. at the township hall where the new garbage collection routes will be explained, and videos shown on recycling and composting.

"We're going to have a blue recycling box filled with all the boxes and cans that can be recycled," Reeve Ron MacDonell explained, and warned all council members to be on deck.

Jean Larocque, the newly-hired garbage and recycling collector, will park his new collection truck right in front of the hall for inspection.

Larocque will help residents find their collection day on the color-coded map of township roads which has been mailed out to all residents.

By May 1 when garbage collection begins in the township, Glen Robertson dump site will be closed and tipping fees charged.

Fees for large items like furniture and appliances, $20; haulers of construction and other materials pay $35 to $50 a load; dump trucks pay $200 per load and tractor trailers $500.

Hamlet severances welcome

"We love severances in our hamlet villages," Bylaw Officer Dorothy Irvine gloated as Lochiel council approved severances of six lots in Glen Robertson and Dalkeith.

Council accepted severance of three lots belonging to Kimberly McIntee on the east side ot Dalhousie street in Glen Robertson, and three lots belonging to Ian MacLennan on the western outskirts of Dalkeith, pending application for a variance on the remaining farm acreage.

Ray and Doreen McDonald's application for a building lot for a retirement house from their farm on County Road #10, was approved by council subject to the sale of their farm.

Accolades for budding scientists

Josee Vaillancourt (back, left side) and Roxanne Campeau (front, left) brought home a bronze medal from the United Counties Science Fair held Saturday, April 3 for their project titled 'The Heart and Its Diseases.' Sophie Ranger (back, right) and Annick Paquette garnered an honorable mention for their project..

Happy "50th" Birthday to the old gal from the I.G.A.

Snow can't stop Laggan's green spirit

Oh, the weather outside was frightful. The planting conditions despiteful.

But as far as Earth Day goes: Let it snow, let it snow, let it snow.

The weather was not a deterrent to Laggan Public School students, who went ahead and planted 100 trees in their schoolyard Thursday to celebrate Earth Day.

Laggan was one of a number of schools to celebrate the environmental health of this planet by doing environment oriented activities.

Students from different classes at Laggan braved the large, wet, wind-driven flakes of snow throughout the day to carry out the task at hand and do their part for the environment.

With the expert advice of Grade 7 students, armed with a healthy dose of knowledge garnered through a course on forest management, they planted trees in shallow holes dug for them in various areas of the schoolyard.

A pair of students for each tree, the evergreens were placed in the holes, had the moist ground packed around them, and then were given a light smattering of health insurance in the form of compost generated from school waste.

Stakes were driven in the ground near each tree with the names of their adoptive parents and their grade enscribed to show one and all who is responsible for the safe upbringing of the young spruces.

The whole event was orchestrated by teacher Rob Brougham and his Grade 7 geography students who are taking forest and resource management in their course.

Brougham said the tree planting, and using the compost generated from waste, is a way of showing the students how they can give back what is taken from the earth.

The students will take care of the trees over the next couple months to help ensure them of a bright future. And the students that have not moved on will continue the responsibility next year.

Teacher Rob Brougham lends a hand to Laggan Public School students Elita Freier during an Earth Day tree planting at the school Thursday, while other students forge ahead on their own in the background. Students braved the snowy weather to plant 100 white spruces to do their part for the environment.

Apple Hill receives liquor licence

By Lesley Cadham
News* correspondent

The forecast will go from partly dry to very wet for the Apple Hill Recreation Centre, which last week finally received township approval to seek a permanent liquor licence.

Kenyon Township council had been considering the idea for several weeks, but were sold on it when chairman Elwyn Stirling faced council with the reasons why a liquor licence would be beneficial for the centre.

Stirling told council that it costs the centre $100 per day for a special occasion permit; the annual ball tournament in Apple Hill requires a three-day licence for $300.

In addition, the centre has been the site of a few receptions and parties, and more are scheduled, all of which will require special permits.

The centre could save money by buying a permanent licence for $1,200, which is renewable each year for only $240.

Also, some stress would be taken off organizers, because they would no longer have to apply for a permit for each event, go out and buy the liquor each time.

And the centre wouldn't have to absorb the cost of unused liquor. The Liquor Licence Board of Ontario does not allow returns on opened cases of liquor.

The community centre would hire a manager to oversee the bar, said Stirling.

"We're not taking this lightly and we realize the responsibility that comes with this permit," he told council.

Councillor Blair Williams said, "It's in our best interests to make this as viable an operation as we can."

If the centre is self-sufficient, township funds would not be required, he rationalized.

Court Report

off the road and a car had struck a pole on Oct. 6 in Charlottenburgh Township, and were told by occupants of the car that the woman had been driving when the accident occurred.

However, the occupants of the truck told police that a man had been sitting in the driver's seat.

Lincoln Strachan, 23, was found guilty of public mischief. The court was told that Strachan's licence had been under suspension because of loss of demerit points, at the time of the accident.

"Stupidest" crime nets jail

Causing $11,000 damage at the Alexandria Golf Club was the "stupidest" offence, a young Alexandria man was told before he was sentenced to four months in jail on several charges.

The accused, who cannot be identified according to the Young Offenders Act, was scolded by Judge J.M. Bordeleau, who said, "You have no respect whatsoever for the property of others...It's really bad. You should be really ashamed. It's bad."

Defence lawyer Robert Miller told the court that the youth was driven to his crimes by a dependency on drugs and alcohol.

The accused will serve 90 days in jail for wilful damage to golf carts, greens, and flags at the golf course last June. He was also sentenced to 30 days for stealing a $1,500 Bombardier snow machine on Jan. 10 and to a 30-day concurrent sentence for breaching probation.

Stranger in a strange land

Transplanted Californian says Glengarry is the best

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Charles Churchill doesn't own a surfboard.

And don't bother asking him if you can borrow a pair of Rollerblades or a jumbo tub of sunscreen lotion. And you'll never, ever, ever hear words such as 'knarly,' 'radical' or 'awesome' come from his mouth.

This middle-aged RR 2 Green Valley resident is a soft spoken, slightly rotund and loving family man. That image is the polar opposite to the stereotypical tofu munching California surfer with wavy blonde locks.

Believe it or not, Charles was born and raised in Long Beach, California.

This stranger in a strange land has resided in California, Italy and Austria. He seems to have done more globetrotting than an airplane pilot, yet he crows that Glengarry County is the tops.

For Charles, his wife Michelle and their four children, Glengarry is their own personal Garden of Eden - complete with a small school, video rental stores and green grass as far as the eye can see.

And even the garden's evil, the apple or in this instance the weather, is just another perk which helps make every day an adventure.

"I've never seen so much snow in my life," Charles says while looking at the expansive backyard which the kids use as a personal park during warmer weather.

"My wife never heard of freezing rain until we came here. This is great."

In California, there's only two seasons - hot and hot and smoggy, Charles says. Health officials constantly warn the public about the dangers of exercising or letting children play outside when smog levels are high (at least 200 days of the year).

"In California all you smell are exhaust fumes and rubber. Up here, you have fresh air, green grass and peace and quiet. Beats me why Canadians go to California for their vacation," says Charles.

Charles is a native of Long Beach, a relatively small community about the size of Ottawa, which is surrounded by Los Angeles. His most vivid memory of the place he called home is the public warning sirens.

In the 60s, these sirens were used to warn of any potential nuclear fallout from a Russian or Cuban missile attack. Nowadays they're used to warn people on the street of any drive-by shootings between rival gangs.

Long Beach is located almost next door to Compton, one of the most violent, gang infested neighborhoods in L.A. When the siren sounded, children and adults alike would drop to the ground and cover themselves as a precaution to getting caught in a hail of bullets.

That's no place to raise a family, says Charles who pulled up stakes and moved to Kirkland, Quebec in March, 1990. The Churchills moved to Green Valley in July, 1990 and have never looked back.

Charles worked for McDonnell Douglas, a gigantic company which manufactures airplanes, for approximately 10 years as a product support worker. But business nosedived in the late 80s and he kept an eye out for a better opportunity which might come knocking on his door.

His answer came in the form of Air Canada. The Montreal division was looking for a person with Charles' experience and qualifications, which included a degree from Northup University, a prestigious engineering school in L.A.

Unfortunately, the rough economy caught up with Charles north of the border. He was laid off from Air Canada but hopes to find work elsewhere in the area.

Working in product support, Charles' job was to maintain airplanes. Both his parents were doctors and that was the profession he considered but the competition was just too tight and cutthroat for his taste.

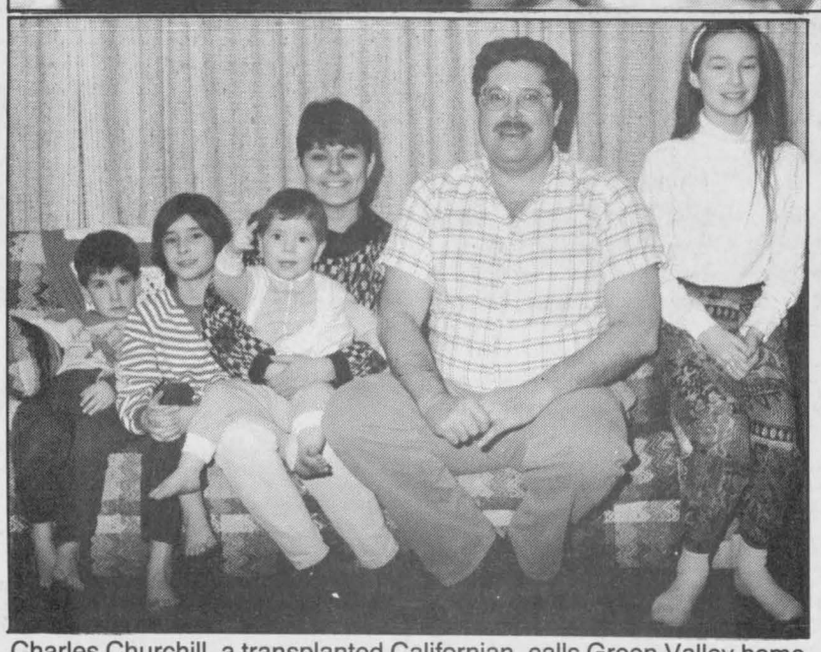
So instead of healing patients, he has healed airplanes.

There are other sights which area residents may take for granted that the Churchills still marvel in at times.

Michelle enjoys the leaves changing colors in fall, the different shades of green found in trees or grass and the smaller schools which can pay more attention to the children. All of these things are foreign to California residents.

Making the move to Canada was no big deal for Charles who hunted in Northern British Columbia with his father during his adoloscence.

But Charles grins that one of the best thing about living in Canada is... "Montreal style pizza."



Charles Churchill, a transplanted Californian, calls Green Valley home. He's surrounded by his wife Michelle and two daughters and two sons James, 5; Samantha, 9; Thomas, 2; Felicity, 11. Shown above, Churchill indulges in some family fun with a rare commodity in California — snow.

It's the time of her life

Dairy Princess tells Alexandria audiences about her adventures

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Time stands still for no one, but that hasn't stopped Becky Bearinger from trying.

"I've had to put my life on hold for one year," says the 1992-1993 Ontario dairy princess.

"I've had to recognize that this job is my life. It comes before my schooling, my friends and my family.

"I can return to high school and earn my diploma, my true friends will be there for me and my family will always be there. But this is a once in a lifetime opportunity."

For the past seven months, Bearinger has lived the life of a drifter. She's on the road travelling to a new destination nearly every day. She's billetted at the homes of her loyal subjects, county dairy princesses in this instance, throughout the farmlands of Ontario.

"It's incredible. I'm never homesick. I adopt the family I'm staying with as my surrogate family. That makes things a whole lot easier for me," says Bearinger, who celebrated her 19th birthday April 14.

The good natured and ever-smiling woman has made countless public appearances and speeches at banquets, fairs and was at the Community Nursing Home in Alexandria last Wednesday.

Her term will end in five months but Bearinger remains as enthusiastic about the job as she was on day one. Ironically, she reluctantly entered the Ontario Dairy Princess competition.

About two weeks before the entry deadline, a close friend told Bearinger that if she didn't try it might be a decision she would regret for the rest of her life. She entered and she won.

Since that time, Bearinger says, she's had the time of her life.

"This has shown me what the real world is like.

"I've learned about the mentality of both the consumer and the dairy producer and tried to answer their questions. I was raised and worked a lot in a rural setting but I took my lifestyle for granted.

"The agriculture industry isn't a Canadian or North American industry - it's global. Canadian dairy farmers are apprehensive about world trade because in the United States or in other countries such as Australia, it's commonplace for a farmer to milk 400 cows. We can't keep up," Bearinger told the 20 seniors in attendance.

The onetime Highland dance teacher now has ambitions of devoting herself to the Canadian dairy industry to ensure its survival.

Bearinger will also be remembered as the last Ontario dairy princess. Next year, the title will be changed to Ontario dairy educator and people of all ages and both genders can compete at both the county and, in 1994, the provincial level.

"People say to me 'You must be really honored to be the last (Ontario) princess.' This is a privelege no matter what. And anybody who has the opportunity to compete for the title should."

Only county dairy princesses may compete for the provincial title. Meagan Robertson of Bainsville, the Glengarry dairy princess, could make the history books by becoming the first Ontario dairy educator later on this year.

But during the next five months, Bearinger will continue to try her darnedest to dispel any misconceptions or falsehoods about the dairy industry.

And throughout her reign, she'll meet a lot of different people and have fun while working.

1992-1993 Ontario Dairy Princess Becky Bearinger poses for a picture with Francine Chorny, a resident at the Community Nursing Home in Alexandria, while Karen Paavila gets ready to capture the moment. Bearinger made an appearance at the nursing home Wednesday, April 14 to tell the seniors that adults still need their dairy products.

Caring for Life

VON CANADA

By Dr. George McKiel

Lady Aberdeen
Lady with a Vision

This is based on a fascinating book: Ishbel and the Empire, a biography of Lady Aberdeen, Doris French, Toronto and Oxford Dundurn Press, 1988.

The following was the itinerary for His Excellency and Lady Aberdeen Sept. 8 — Oct. 2, 1896: Toronto, St. Thomas, Windsor, Chatham, Sarnia, London, Peterborough, Stratford, Goderich, Brantford, Woodstock, Port Hope, Lindsay, Brockville, Picton, Amerstburg, etc., Markham!

Ishbel's journal

"It is a weary grind, this process of being received by Mayor and Alderman & perhaps a guard of honor, then a solemn drive around the town."

Poor Ishbel, they visited hundreds of communities, mostly very small, mostly lacking amenities. When she talked with women it was the lack of help to call on in emergencies when a husband's arm was caught in machinery and severed. One died, or one lived, maimed and crippled. The obvious solution which Ishbel saw was to provide a local nurse to go out among the people. So Ishbel turned promptly into organizing "district" nurses, patterned after the British Institute of Queen's nurses established 10 years earlier to honor Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee.

But it wasn't easy, it needed government support through a million dollar grant. Ishbel spoke with prime minister Laurier, Montreal's leading doctors, and nurses. But the medical fraternity were not keen, the nurses created problems, the doctors felt threatened. In spite of the opposition the VON began after agreeing that only trained nurses would be employed at a salary of $300/yr. The VON could only charge 25¢ an hour or a fraction of that for the poor! The government would not fund the organization, appeals for funds brought in small amounts. It must have seemed most discouraging. But Ishbel was off on a Maritime tour where she was a big hit with Alexander Graham Bell's wife, Mabel. In Saint John, the "Globe" noted she'd come particularly to advance a philanthropic scheme in which she is the principal mover in Canada, and the furtherance of "which she has displayed zeal, earnestness and great business ability."

The tide was finally turned when the Aberdeen's went to Boston and Ishbel was the speaker, describing her plan for the VON. The outcome was a friendship with Dr. Alfred Worcester who later came to Ottawa and Toronto obtaining the endorsement of the medical profession, mostly through his "agile good humor."

So Charlotte MacLeod started as the first Lady Superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses in November, 1897 with 12 nurses. The idea caught on with local Councils of communities providing guarantees for salaries and nurse's uniforms.

By May 1898, a Royal Charter, signed by Queen Victoria, was issued and, even more cherished, was a personal letter from the now old and ailing Florence Nightingale:

"There is little fear but that any dissentient medical men will quickly learn from actual experience to appreciate the value to them of the District Nurse as an intelligent handmaid and not an interferring interloper. Heartily do we wish success to the Victorian Nurses and to all Canadian Workers in this good cause. Again and again, I give you joy of your beneficient work, and I am overflowingly your servant, Florence Nightingale."

So, here we are, almost 100 years later, still appreciating the contributions to our communities by the VON. What is significant to us locally, is that our E. Counties Chapter, including Glengarry, has a team of visiting nurses which not only have a tradition of excellence but are evolving into nursing roles of contemporary competence.

P.S. Did you know? Government House in Ottawa has a plaque in Lady Aberdeen's honor unveiled, appropriately, by our first woman Governor General, Her Excellency Jeanne Sauvé. This plaque celebrated VON's 90th birthday in 1987 and was even unveiled by Ishbel's granddaughter, Lady Harmsworth.

P.P.S. From Doris Butters of N.S. Museum comes this tidbit. A farewell gift given to the Aberdeen's was a 108 piece dinner service showing various aspects of Canada birds, flowers, mushrooms, fish, animals and scenes of historical import. Two of the artists were ladies from Nova Scotia. The dinner service is still intact in specially built showcases in the Aberdeen's castle in Scotland. Marie Elwood, retired Curator of History, who visited there last year, photographed the collection. It's taken out and cleaned regularly by the housekeeper who trusts no one else to do this. Doris says "it is remarkably beautiful."

Kenyon Township

Council Briefs

The regular meeting of Kenyon Township Council was held at the Kenyon Township hall in Greenfield on Tuesday, April 20 at 7:30 p.m. The following are among items dealt with by council.

Marcoux Road gets safe

A near tragedy and a petition signed by 13 Marcoux Road residents has spurred Kenyon Township council to caution motorists.

The petition requested that the township erect signs alerting motorists to the presence of children at play on a heavily populated strip of Marcoux Road.

Council concurred that motorists drive too fast down the residential road, and that recently, a child was almost hit by a car.

There are 22 children living on lots 12 and 13, council concurred.

"We'll do what we can but some of the responsibility is theirs too because the road is not a place for children to play," said Reeve Wilfred Vallance.

Two signs will be erected, one at each side of the residential area.

Council pondered the possibility that more such requests will be received from other neighborhoods.

Priorities put in place

Endorsing a resolution asking the province not to cut recreation funding would contradict Kenyon's attempts to cut spending at the counties level, council decided.

Council refused to endorse a resolution from the Municipal Recreation Association which has opposed cutbacks in funding for recreation programs.

Reeve Wilfred Vallance told council he believed that asking the province to maintain recreation funding would defeat the purpose of council's April 6 resolution to cut spending on SDG United Counties council.

"Would we rather see that (recreation funding) cancelled, or supplementary funding for roads...if we support everything, we won't be in a position to yell if they (province) cut something (we need)," said Councillor Blair Williams.

"I couldn't vote for it (the resolution). The province is talking about cutting social services. I don't know how we could be responsible and ask the government not to cut in this area," adding, recreation should be funded from the community level.

Deputy Reeve Donald Besner and Councillor Gwen Morris supported the resolution.

Council later refused a request for financial support from four township residents who will take part in the Canadian National Broomball finals in Newsfoundland this week.

Council stated it does not support individuals, but rather organizations. The township will send a letter of congratulations to the athletes.

Plows ahead in Kenyon

Kenyon Township will put $150 toward a full-page advertisement in the program for the 1993 plowing match, to be held in Kenyon this year.

The township traditionally donates funds to the Glengarry Plowmen's Association.

Safety encouraged

Smoke detectors in Kenyon Township homes will be strongly encouraged by the municipality.

Council agreed not to follow Cornwall's lead in passing a bylaw to force residents to install smoke detectors. Enforcement would be difficult, members concurred.

Had there been deaths due to fires in the township, there might have been more reason to pass the bylaw, said council members.

Kenyon branching out

Arbor week will be celebrated in Kenyon Township, but the details have not yet sprouted.

The township agreed to recognize the week, April 30-May 9, by possibly planting a tree somewhere in the township as a symbolic gesture. There may also be hedges available to township residents who want to plant them on their properties.

Township gives break

A property owner who has been the focus of the property standards committee's repeated attempts to enforce the new bylaw told council he was waiting for the snow to melt before starting work on his property.

The committee has been trying to get the landowner to clean up his property and to do something about the house, believed to have been condemned, but the landowner did not respond to their orders.

The township has now given the landowner until May to obtain a building permit and clean up the house and property.

Tenders called for

Kenyon Township will tender for insurance and auditors this year.

Last year, council made a decision not to automatically go with the same insurance companies and auditors as previous years, but to check competitive rates.

Morris appointed to vote

Councillor Gwen Morris will vote on behalf of Kenyon Township at the Glengarry Golf Club.

The township will vote during the annual meeting of the golf club.

College winners announced

Dunvegan's Robin Rock was the recipient of the Interprovincial Pipelines Bursary for above average academic standing during St. Lawrence College's 19th annual awards banquet to honor outstanding academic and athletic achievements.

Serge Picard of Alexandria was one of the team mates from the college's hockey team which received the championship Team Trophy for 1992-93.

Alan Borris, an electronics student from Finch, received the Thomson Consumer (R.C.A.) Scholarship Award for academic achievement and St. Isidore resident, Daniel Labelle, received two academic honors, the Student Association Scholarship for the most promising student and he was also placed on the Principal's List for having made a significant contribution to the quality of student life.

Ratepayer denounces 'pay'

It's seldom that a ratepayer will react so quickly and strongly to something going on in the township.

But even council was impressed by the swiftness with which Helen Faubert Gravel reacted to a budget request from the volunteer Property Standards Committee.

Gravel told council she'd squeezed herself in for the April 20 meeting to say she opposes paying the committee members.

The committee was appointed with the understanding that members would not be paid for the work.

"Why even let them in the door? Wasn't it supposed to be a volunteer job," asked Gravel.

"I don't feel the committee should be remunerated in any way, shape or form. We can't get paid for everything in life."

She also told council that if she submitted a pay request for a volunteer job that she does, "It would only be right that it would be pitched back in my face."

Reeve Wilfred Vallance assured Gravel that the committee's budget request has not been approved, and later said, "I'm quite sure you'll be satisfied with the route we're going to take on it."

Vallance later told The Glengarry News that the budget request was for a "considerable" amount and that he had received calls from concerned councillors soon after the request was received.

Councillor Blair Williams told Gravel, "Your points are really well taken. Our general approach has been to involve people because they are committed to the community and not because they'll get paid for it."

Gravel also tried to discourage council from spending money on awards for landowners upgrading their properties, an initiative suggested by the property standards committee April 6.

Volunteers should embrace change: MacGillivary

Maxville Manor workshop salutes tireless workers

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Your heart beats as fast as a drum, adrenalin courses through your veins and suddenly everything is crystal clear.

This response isn't a case of love at first sight or vigorous exercise but rather change.

Change, says Lynn MacGillivary, is the only thing certain in life.

MacGillivary, the public health nurse who works at the Eastern Ontario Health Unit, was one of the keynote speakers at the 1993 Annual Maxville Manor Workshop for volunteers held at the Maxville Sports Complex on Thursday, April 15.

People who are afraid of change and resist it are more likely to be stressed out than someone who rolls with the punches. The trick, says MacGillivary, is to know what type of personality you are and deal with change the best way possible.

And volunteers, such as the 35 people who attended the afternoon workshop, are not impervious to this recurring dilemma.

Some are pressed into action because they retire and have too much time on their hands.

"Retiring is a natural change but some people have problems coping with it. Some may volunteer their time to remain active.

"Volunteers have an extraordinary knack like having an interest in others, developing new friendships and keeping old ones. They enjoy leisure time, they're active and in good health. They take life as is," says MacGillivary.

Anne MacGillivary

Change is natural and also healthy. The Maxville resident says people who get stuck in a rut simply coast on auto-pilot. Many are inactive and their health actually suffers.

"Change isn't necessarily bad," says MacGillivary. "It adds a little zest to your life and keeps you on your toes because you have to keep adapting."

For the Maxville Manor volunteers, change is at the forefront of their thoughts these days.

The Manor is undergoing an extensive expansion project. The work has taken place both on the inside and outside and some volunteers have expressed apprehension about the radical changes.

"At this point it's easier to see what you're losing than what you're gaining. The inside is being torn apart and the trees out front have been levelled to make way for these changes."

In the long run, the Manor, its residents and the volunteers will feel much better, says MacGillivary

Phyllis Burtonshaw, the volunteer and outreach services coordinator for the Maxville Manor, says the workshop is a necessity. It not only provides a forum for speakers to give volunteers a few valuable tips but also recognizes the work and dedication of the volunteers.

Myrtle McDermid, Vivian Valley, Verna MacGregor and Vera MacEwen have all been volunteering their time to Maxville Manor for 25 years. Each received a Volunteer Service Award, consisting of a set of coins, in recognition of their everlasting loyalty.

Eugene Cardinal, who works at the Cornwall campus of St. Lawrence College in community access, spoke earlier in the day about future challenges for volunteers.

At the Maxville Manor workshop held Thursday, April 15, longtime volunteers (from left to right) Myrtle McDermid, Vivian Valley, Verna MacGregor and Vera MacEwen each received a volunteer service award, a small set of coins. Each volunteer has been donating their time and energy to the Manor and residents for 25 years.

Chalk one up for Kenyon deputy reeve

By Lesley Cadham
News* correspondent

Kenyon Township Deputy Reeve Donald Besner has succeeded in his quest on behalf of 45 ratepayers to get the Apple Hill waste disposal site open on alternating Saturdays.

Reeve Wilfred Vallance told council he wasn't against giving the new schedule a try.

But he doesn't expect the Apple Hill site to be used much on Saturdays, particularly since the township now has residentail garbage collection.

Besner brought a petition signed by about 45 people earlier this month to council requesting the site be open.

He said residents who work weekdays were concerned that they wouldn't be able to get to the Apple Hill waste disposal site on the one day it's open-- Wednesday. The Dunvegan site is open every Saturday.

Vallance concurred with Besner's claim, adding that he'd found that people who work all week were concerned that they wouldn't be able to get to the dump during the week to use their two free garbage disposal days.

Vallance's suggestion that the township have the site on alternating Saturdays only from May until the end of October, drew resistance from Besner, who finally discouraged council from putting a limit on the length of time the new schedule will be in effect.

The site will be open from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays that are an even number on the calendar. This could mean that occasionally, the site would be closed on Saturdays two weeks in a row, or open on two Saturdays in a row.

A custodian will be hired to work the three hours at the site. The Dunvegan site is not affected by the changes to the Apple Hill site.

Postal delegation not speaking for majority

Charlottenburgh Reeve Dave MacDonald has learned recently that delegations to council may not always speak for the majority.

Talking to The News, Thursday, MacDonald expressed his amazement upon learning that more than 123 residents of Martintown have requested that their postal boxes be moved to the commercial establishment in the hamlet which has handled the postal retailing for Canada Post since the post office closed, Feb. 15.

On Feb. 9 a delegation headed by John Delanty, had asked for council's assistance in ensuring that the postal boxes not be moved from the former post office building. The group was worried that green boxes might be substituted instead.

Council agreed to write a letter on behalf of the residents to ask Canada Post to leave the boxes in the post office.

Reeve MacDonald said he was astonished to learn from Cam Trotman of Canada Post, that of the 136 questionnaires returned from 211 distributed to Martintown residents, only 13 were against the move to house all postal services under one roof.

"It really blew my mind," said the reeve.

Kenyon pushing for downsizing of SD&G council to save money

Lesley Cadham
News* correspondent

Kenyon Township Council is recommending that United Counties Council be downsized to save taxpayers money.

Kenyon Councillor Blair Williams, who proposed the resolution seconded by Councillor Owen Walker, has made no secret that he is opposed to taxpayers paying so much money to fund a counties council of 38 members.

A council that size cannot operate efficiently, said Williams, who initially outlined his concerns in a letter to the editor published in The Glengarry News March 31.

Williams has been trying to rekindle a spark which appeared on counties council in 1990, when members voted to remove the 17 deputy reeves from the counties level of government. The decision was reversed in 1991.

"My views haven't changed in the last couple of years," Williams told council.

"(Council) could maintain efficiency and cut down membership significantly. The resolution is not intended for any other purpose than that."

Deputy Reeve Donald Besner was the only one of five council members who opposed the municipal resolution.

And Besner, who could see his counties position eliminated through downsizing, did not hesitate to explain his opposition.

Besner said there are several committees of counties council which would lose a lot of membership if the size of counties council was diminished.

Other people on the committees would have to do more work, and would probably get more money for it, so the counties would not be saving that much by eliminating half of council, he said.

In response, Williams suggested the committees should be reviewed to determine whether there's a need for all of them, and to determine whether positions on committees could be filled by laypeople rather than elected officials.

According to SD&G Clerk-Treasurer Ray Lapointe, there are 10 committees of council, each made up of five elected officials.

In addition, about 10 counties council members are also appointed to the boards of agencies such as Children's Aid Society, Eastern Ontario Health Unit and SD&G libraries.

The committees and boards meet on the average once a month, and members are each paid $80 per meeting plus mileage.

Last year, municipal politicians were paid $194,000 for duties involving counties council.

The resolution will be sent to all municipalities within the three counties. Williams said he does not intend to try to change the size of counties councils other than SD&G's.

Students learn about business

Bottom line, profit and loss, interest rates, consumer habits, advertising techniques and career exploration are just some of the topics that grade 7 and 8 students at Roxmore Public School have been following through Junior Achievement's Project Business program.

Roxmore Public School is one of 13 elementary schools throughout S.D. & G. piloting the program during the 1992/93 school year. Operated by Junior Achievement of S.D. & G. — a non-profit organization fostering business and entrepreneurship in schools — the program matches volunteers from the business community with interested teachers to introduce students to the thrills and chills of the business world. Flip Flockton of Flockton Consulting and Sue Page have teamed up to deliver Project Business to 19 enthusiastic students at Roxmore Public. The program was sponsored by Universal Terminals of Cornwall.

Friday, April 30 will mark the graduation of the grade 7 and 8 class, and Junior Achievement of S.D. & G. President, Gail Kaneb, was on hand to award certificates to the following students: Jason Barkley, Danielle Geleano, Chantal Cholette, Keith Dollard, Angel Hamilton, Beck Jackson, Lisa Lee, Brian MacDonald, Leeann Mitchell, Miriam Montsion, Jamie Nuttall, Bill Quan, Jermy Brozincevic, Nick Loyer, Matthew Montsion, Cindy Picken, Tim Stephens, Daniela Stucki, Nathaniel Van Mol.

For further information contact: Flip Flockton (Director — Project Business) 525-2483; Sue Page (Roxmore Public School) 346-5502.

39ers discuss bus excursion to U.S., parking considerations

Glen Sandfield
by Lorna Chapman
874-2408

39'ers plan trip to Ogdensburg

There were 60 present for the April 21 meeting at the Church on the Hill hall when the 39'ers partook of a wonderful pot luck dinner. Everyone brought their specialty for the well laden table. The many diverse dishes were all delicious and much enjoyed by the group. The dessert table, too, was filled with all sorts of tasty sweets.

As there was no birthday cake this month, Ken Malpass was wished a very happy birthday in song, and promised his special piece of cake next month. His birthday was on that meeting day. In the absence of the president Stella Kingston (because of illness), Vice-President Doris Spencer chaired the meeting. It began with the singing of O Canada, followed by the 39'ers theme song, and the singing was accompanied by Bessie MacLennan at the piano.

Correspondence included some literature and a newsletter from OCSCO. A pamphlet "Seniors Shaping the Future" was included, and put out for members to read. Elizabeth Groot's favorable financial report was followed by details of the May 26 trip to Ogdensburg, Massena, etc. The bus will pick up people at the Alexandria Curling Club at 8 a.m. on the 26th. The group wishes to get an early start, so those who are going are asked to please be prompt. There will be several stops for meals, shopping and sightseeing during the day. The idea of obtaining USCO wooden nametags was not accepted by the membership.

The group was informed that those people at the T. R. Leger across the street from the church have been kind enough to park farther away so as to enable the 39'ers to park nearer and not have to walk very far. This is a public street, and there are no parking restrictions. The 39'ers would like to express their sincere thanks for such thoughtfulness. That was really neighborly of you. It is wonderful to find such consideration for the members of a senior club.

Pete and Carolyn Bock recently arrived back from a visit with her parents in Wallnut Creek, California. When they left here, it was lovely and warm; down there it was summer and they got back to be greeted by a full blown winter snowstorm. Talk about climate shock! They couldn't believe their eyes! We talked Saturday when I met her on her way back from visiting her beaver, but he wasn't in evidence that day. He has quite a wonderfully built construciton down on their property, and the visiting ducks just love the pond he has made for them.

Tel. 874-2076

Glen Robertson Optimist Club was host to Dalkeith and Alexandria members for an interclub meeting. Thirty-eight people were present.

Among them was Lieutenant-Governor Lorraine Lanthier and special guest, Micheline Blain who is an advertising co-ordinator for Skylar Publications which is a firm involved in printing picturesque maps of different municipalities.

Last Wednesday, pupils at Laurier-Carriere were treated to a hot dog dinner, courtesy of the Optimist Club.

Last Saturday, many people attended the Gala-Personalité for District East Ontario at the high school in Hawkesbury.

Representing Zone 6 was Martin Chenier of Alexandria, Michele Lafrance of Glen Robertson and Mélanie Legault of Green Valley.

The 10 participants had to be from age 14 to 19 years old and had three tests to go through.

Mélanie Legault won for artistic expression, Miss Personality and Miss Sociability. It was a very enjoyable evening and congratulations to everyone of you who participated. You all possess a great deal of talent.

Congratulations to the members of the Optimist Club who were involved in the foundation of a junior club (Grades 4 to 8) and an alpha club (Grades 1 to 3) at Laurier-Carriere.

Women teachers oppose NDP cuts

''Government resources for young children can not be stretched any further,'' Margaret Dempsey, President of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario warned Premier Bob Rae April 5.

Speaking on behalf of the province's 42,000 public elementary women teachers at the social contract meeting called by the premier, Dempsey said, ''We already have a social crisis for many children in this province. You only have to look at the number of children who line up at food banks. When the government talks about cutting costs by cutting services we wonder what place children have in these negotiations for a new social contract for Ontario.''

Darlene Flaro's Glengarry Pharmacy club (dark jerseys) faces off against Sylvie Menard and SunLife on the opening night of the 1993 Ladies' Ball Hockey League season on Monday. SunLife won the game 2-0 while Tapis Ricahrd and Seaway Express were also winners.

Short off-season for women

The sticks didn't stay in storage very long for local women as the 1993 Ladies Ball Hockey League got underway on Monday, exactly two weeks after the completion of the sponge puck campaign.

The ball hockey loop sports six teams this season, up from last year's five, which means that every team will be in action on Mondays and Thursdays.

Newcomer Maxville joins a league roster which includes veteran teams Tapis Richard Ranger, M and D Sports, Glengarry Pharmacy, SunLife (formerly Chez Bob) and 1992 league titleists Seaway Express.

On the opening night of action, the defending champs did the expected by blowing out M and D Sports 6-0.

Debbie Nadon fired in a pair of goals for the Express while singles were added by Lise Durocher, Donna MacGregor, Carol Blais and Gino Lalonde. Kista Casselman chipped in with three helpers.

Sue Villeneuve was in goal for Seaway and records the shutout.

SunLife also recorded a shutout win on the first night of the 1993 season, downing Glengarry Pharmacy 2-0 as Gillian Chaddock stopped all the shots in the SunLife goal.

Laurie Wheeler scored both goals for the winners while Julie Bissonnette had a pair of assists.

The other game on Monday saw Tapis Richard defeat Maxville 3-1.

Cathy Depratto, Sue Stewart and Helen MacDonald each scored once for Tapis as Vivian Lewis had two assists.

Carol McDonald had the Maxville marker.

Cornwall champions

Double duty

On the men's side, not only did Rudi Payer Sport win the regular season title in the Char-Lan league, many of the same players were on the Rudi's entry that won both the regular season pennant and playoff title in Cornwall. The Char-Lan club included (back row) Chris Armstrong, Bruce Mitton, Greg Deschamps, Taffy Pye, Jason Struthers, Rudi Payer (front), Bruce Tessier, Mike Laframboise and Gareth Pye. Deschamps, Tessier and Gareth Pye, along with Benjamin Pye, Junior Blanchette and Andy McCuaig (not pictured) also played on the Cornwall team.

Rebs banquet to be held Friday

The Char-Lan Jr. B Rebels, who had a revival season in 1992-93 with a second-place finish and an appearance in the St.Lawrence Division final, will be holding its year-end awards banquet this Friday night in Williamstown.

The festivities get underway at St. Mary's Hall with cocktails at 6 p.m. with dinner and the presentation of awards to follow.

It's also expected that the return of the coaching tandem of Philip Brown and Jeff Carter will be officially confirmed on Friday.

Members of the public wishing to attend should contact team president John Chafee at 347-3650.

Soccer ref clinic

The Glengarry Soccer League will be holding a pair of refresher courses for referees and linesmen in the upcoming weeks.

The courses, which are also intended to get officials up to speed on rule changes for 1993, will be held on Saturday, May 1 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. for senior refs and linesmen and on Sunday, May 16 from 1 to 4 p.m. for minor soccer arbiters.

Both sessions will be conducted at the Glengarry Sports Palace field.

GSL goalies beware

The major rule alteration that GSL officials will have to be wary of this summer is the adjustment that prohibits netminders from picking up balls that have been kicked to them by a teammate.

The rule was introduced last year in time for soccer competition at the 1992 Summer Olympics in Barcelona by FIFA, the international ruling body for the sport and was used in high school play last fall.

An indirect kick is awarded to the opposing club when a goaltender picks up any ball that was kicked to him by a teammate. For the purposes of the rule, deflections or loose balls as a result of slide tackles will not be considered as passes and may be picked up by keepers.

Goalies are still permitted to play passes from teammates with their feet.

The man in charge of implementing the rule is the league's new referee-in-chief, Wayne McMillan, who takes over from Andy Lawson.

High school season on hold again

The start of the 1993 girls high school soccer season, originally rescheduled for yesterday, has been pushed back again.

At a special meeting in Cornwall on Monday, school officials decided to wait another two weeks before kicking off the schedule in order to allow the soccer fields to dry.

The league had hoped to get started yesterday (Tuesday), a week later than first scheduled, but last Thursday's snowstorm and steady weekend rain washed out those aspirations.

The earliest games will be played now is the week starting Monday, May 10, 17 days before the Eastern Ontario championships on May 27.

As a result, SDG teams will have to play tournaments to complete the regular season schedule.

Soccer tourney kicks off Saturday at Rec Centre

Six bantam soccer teams - three each in the boys' and girls' divisions — will be in action in an indoor tournament in Williamstown on Saturday.

The clubs will square off in tournament play at the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre with the top clubs meeting in a championship game. The girls' title game is at 3 p.m. while the two top boys' clubs will go head-to-head at 4 p.m.

Char-Lan, Glen Sandfield and Laggan will make up the girls' division while the boys' line-up includes Char-Lan, Glen Sandfield and Alexandria.

Also on Saturday at the Rec Centre, Char-Lan Minor Soccer will be putting on a coach's clinic featuring fromer Canadian Olympic team member Paul James.

The clinic will run between 1 and 4 p.m.

On Sunday, the minor soccer association will be holding its registration session for the 1993 session.

Registration time runs from 1-4 p.m. and again, the Charlottenburgh Recreation Centre will be the site.

Ball hockey begins

The 1993 Alexandria Men's Ball Hockey League season gets underway next Tuesday with some juicy opening-night matchups.

Perennial champions Marc's Canteen will embark on yet another title defence by facing off against Titley's in the first game of the schedule at 7 p.m.

Jake at Work, one of the biggest challengers to the Canteen for the league throne, will follow with a game against Mc-Mac Tents.

At 9 p.m., Brodie's Bombers (formerly the Greenfield Wings) will take on the erstwhile Baribeau Sharks, who are still seeking sponsorship for the 1993 season and have not yet adopted a new name.

In the nightcap, Frenchie's will be looking for its first ever points when they hook up with the expansion Dalhousie Bruins.

Baribeau, which was known as Champions last summer, has opening night off.

Colts left out in cold by arrival of Citadels

You have to feel sorry for Cornwall Colts owner Don Derry right now.

Derry, a resident of South Branch Rd. in the outer reaches of Glengarry County, is in the process of having the rug pulled out from under him by the City of Cornwall.

It was a year ago that Derry purchased the Massena Americans, a struggling tier II junior hockey franchise, and moved them to Cornwall - a city that was still choking on the exhaust fumes from the major junior Royals' moving vans.

The Colts brass made it clear from the beginning - they hadn't come to Cornwall to replace the Royals. They simply wanted to operate a tier II franchise while slowly working towards the possible return of major junior hockey.

The Colts made a lot of mistakes — like losing centreman Martin Laroche to Brockville after botching the waiver process or "forgetting" to show up at a league meeting — but between a second-place finish, hosting the all-star game and a first-round playoff victory over Hawkesbury, Cornwall's first season in the CJHL would have to be rated as a success.

Don Derry
Colts owner

Cornwall hockey fans, desperate for a quick junior fix, and Civic Complex management, desperate for a tenant after the abdication of the Royals, certainly were glad the Colts galloped into town.

But with the recent emergence of negotiations between Cornwall and the Quebec Nordiques to move the NHL club's American Hockey League farm team to the city, you can excuse Derry and the Colts for feeling like jilted lovers.

Derry told the Standard-Freeholder last week that the city had been putting off negotiations to draw up a new lease for the Civic Complex since January.

Sports scripts

By J.L. Lefebvre

Now, Mayor Ron Martelle is speaking optimistically that an agreement can be reached with the Nords to move the Halifax Citadels to Cornwall, leaving the Colts to wonder about their future in the city.

Char-Lan Rebels John Chafee, who served as a scouting advisor to the Colts last season, has empathy for Derry's plight.

"I feel sorry for Don," said Chafee. "(The arrival of the AHL) would obviously be quite a drawback for him."

But Chafee doesn't think that Derry will just throw in the towel if professional hockey lands on his doorstep.

"I don't think he's going to just pack it up. He's got too much invested in the team to do that.

"I think he's going to try (co-existing with the AHL) for a year and see what happens. Who Knows? Maybe this AHL thing will just be a flop."

Chafee is a little puzzled by the fact that the Nords are thinking about moving to Cornwall in the first place.

"I can't really see why they would want to leave Halifax. They've been averaging 3,000 people a game this year and that's a drop from the past four or five years. Do they think they're going to get more in Cornwall?"

The Rebs president says he doesn't blame the city for its interest in attracting a professional team.

"It would be good for the city, there's no doubt about that. Because of the geography, a lot of the AHL clubs would be staying overnight and dropping some money along the way," he said.

The local team would also bring in more money to the area since the players would be looking for housing for themselves and their families and pros would obviously have more money to dispose of than teenaged juniors.

All this is no consolation to Derry, however, the man who brought a junior franchise to Cornwall when no other hockey group would give the city the time of day.

You know that somehow, someway the NHL spin doctors are going to find a way to shed some positive light on the ratings netted by ABC's recent telecasts of the NHL playoffs.

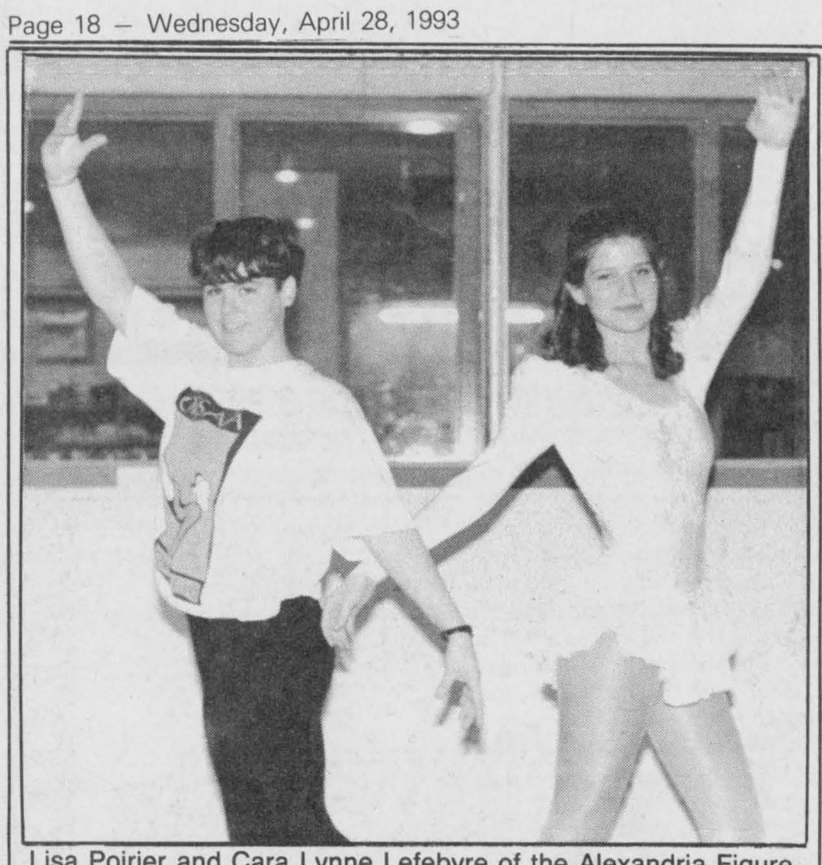
Despite the fact that network execs got the NHL to alter the playoff schedule to get the prime matchups for Sunday afternoon, the total viewership of the three regional games ranked seventh among televised sporting events in the U.S. this weekend.

Hockey's Nielsen rating of 3 ranked behind a Bulls-Knicks NBA game (5.9), gymnastics (4.3), Nets-Spurs basketball (3.9), baseball (3.7), bowling (3.6) and golf (3.5).

The apathy towards hockey is such in some places in the U.S. that some ABC affiliates pulled the plug on the telecasts in order to show old movies.

The dubious good news is that the hockey telecasts finished ahead of CBS' presentation of the U.S. college Greco-Roman wrestling championships.

Of course, if the NCAA allowed its competitors to wear wacky outfits and use flying drop kicks and piledrivers, the wrestling probably would have thrashed hockey too.



Lisa Poirier and Cara Lynne Lefebvre of the Alexandria Figure Skating Club have earned the right to be called gold-medal winners after the recent successful completion of the tests.

Alexandria ice aces earn their gold medals

A pair of Alexandria Figure Skating Club members reached the pinnacle of their sport on the amateur level recently by earning their gold medals.

Cara Lynne Lefebvre, 18, earned her gold in the dance category while 16- year-old Lisa Poirier did double duty in picking up gold medals in the dance and preliminary classes.

A figure skating gold medal is the end of a series of stages, including various levels of bronze and silver, figure skaters must pass through over the course of their careers.

The skaters must pass tests to advance to the next level, and as Lefebvre puts it, the gold medal "is the pot at the end of the rainbow."

There are four different dances involved in the test for the gold medal.

Both skaters have honed their ice craft with years of practice as Lefebvre, a student at Glengarry District High School, has been skating for nine years while Ecole Secondaire Regionale Glengarry pupil Poirier has been at it for an even decade.

Short of moving on to national competition, there is no futher progress possible for the two skaters in their sport. Instead, they may choose to work on variations of the categories for which they've already earned gold.

Both express an interest in becoming instructors and Poirier and Lefebvre have already begun to work with junior programs in Alexandria as well as helping out with the younger members of the AFSC.

Citadels in Cornwall

Cornwall mayor Ron Martelle and Quebec Nordiques president Marcel Aubut are expected to announce at a press conference today that the Seaway City is the new home of the NHL club's American Hockey League farm team.

Cornwall has been rumored as a potential AHL site ever since a game between the Fredericton Canadiens and the St. John's Maple Leafs drew a sellout crowd at the Civic Complex this season.

The Maple Leafs had scheduled a game in Cornwall because of a labor dispute in St. John's.

The first AHL in Cornwall rumor was that the Leafs would make Cornwall their permanent home.

Then, speculation grew that either the Ottawa Senators or the Calgary Flames would establish their farm clubs in Cornwall, but those teams wound up in Charlottetown, P.E.I. (Senators) and Moncton, N.B. (Flames).

Earlier this month, word broke that negotiaions had begun between the city and the Quebec Nordiques, who were said to be dissatisfied with their arrangement with the Halifax Citadels

Negotiations culminated last week when Martelle went to Quebec City last week to speak to Nords' officials, after which the mayor announced that he was confident of his city's chances of landing the Citadels.

There was apparently just cause for that confidence as a press release issued by city hall yesterday stated that "Mayor Ron Martelle and Mr. Marcel Aubut... will be making a joint announcement" at today's press conference.

Ecole Ste. Marie wins badminton tournament

A team from Ecole Ste.Marie in Green Valley beat out five other entries from local French elementary schools to take first place in a badminton tournament in Alexandria earlier this month.

Ste.Marie won all three doubles events to finish ahead of both teams from Elda Rouleau in the overall standings.

Ste.Marie's category winners included Richard Leblanc and Simon Menard in boys' doubles, Joanne St.Denis and Marie-Paule Lefebvre in girls' doubles and Celine Brunet and Marc Pilon in the mixed event.

Rouleau dominated the singles events by winning both the boys (Luc Brunet) and girls (Sophie Ranger) championships.

The other schools involved in tournament play at Ecole Secondaire Regionale Glengarry were Ste.Therese, Laurier-Carriere and St.Joseph of Lancaster.

Jerseys for sprites

The Lancaster Township boys sprite team has jerseys for their first minor soccer season this summer thanks to the Alexandria branch of the Royal Canadian Legion. Matthew Cooney, Thomas O'Shea and Adam Lancaster and Lancaster Township Soccer Association member Rob Lancaster (back row, far right) accept the sweaters from Legion members Cliff Mullins (treasurer), Bev Fournier (vice-president), Darlene Campeau (president) and Rheal Fournier.

Village of Maxville

The regular meeting of Maxville council was held in the council chamber on Tuesday, April 13 at 7 p.m. The following are among the items dealt with by council.

Auditor's Report

Winston Irwing, MacKillican Associates of Renfrew, presented his annual report with suggestions and advice where applicable.

The books were closed for 1992 with a favorable surplus of $70,000 and a reserve of $215,000. The sports complex showed a small, yet significant surplus of $2,138.

Irving pointed out that "for a village your size, its commercial assessment is relatively high compared to villages of similar size."

The report also indicated that the village's pledge to the Manor building fund was $100,000.

Firefighters make presentation

Chief Donald Sabourin and education chairmain, Martial Brabant, spoke on behalf of their project to make smoke alarms mandatory in all homes and business establishments.

Their request to have a bylaw passed to that effect was received favorably by council and a by-law will be written up and eventually passed.

Spring clean-up

There will be a special spring clean-up during the week of May 10.

A local contractor will be doing tree trimming as well and any branches in backyards should be placed at the street for disposal through a chipper.

Youth Award nominations requested

Nominations for recipients of the Canada Day Youth Award should be submitted to the village clerk by April 27.

The nominees should have distinguished themselves in the fields of community participation, promotion of Canadian values or environmental initatives.

Kennel bylaw

Bylaw #93-08 was duly passed and it states that no premises may have more than six dogs, six cats or a combination of dogs and cats to a total of six.

All dog owners are reminded that dogs must be licenced annually.

Is it live, or is it Memorex?

Exhibition offered again

For the seventh time in Ontario, from April 30 to May 2, the Hawkesbury Sportsplex will host its commercial exhibition, an event which will be far-reaching.

The public will have a chance to acquire knowledge on numerous programs and services offered by the 210 participants, including government municipal, banking and educational representatives.

The Ontario Science Centre's Science Sideshow is rolling into town on Friday, April 30, with some of the best exhibits from the world-famous Science Circus.

Until Sunday, May 2, more than a dozen activities and hands-on exhibits will delight, inform and dazzle visitors. They can watch flowers shatter into pieces after being immersed in liquid nitrogen at 196 degrees below zero. They can remove George-the-Torso's lungs, heart and kidneys and try to put them back in the right places. They can even become human gyroscopes by spinning a bicycle wheel while standing on a turntable. There are puzzles and illusions to baffle and amuse.

Science Sideshows visit communities throughout Ontario each year. Enjoy the Hawkesbury Science Sideshow at the Sports Complex on 412 Cartier Boulevard from April 30 to May 2.

Science Sideshow hours are: Friday and Saturday, 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Sunday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Free with admission to the Greatest Commercial Exhibition of Hawkesbury.

Each participant will be expected to show the consumer its way to improve the citizens' quality of life, by workshop and or display, and the consumers will be able to take advantage of the experience from certain exhibitors.

Spring into summer Show planned for June in Alexandria

Bookings for booth space for the Alexandria and District Chamber of Commerce's "Spring into Summer" show in early June are going extremely well.

The show's floor manager and sales coordinator Dean Picher said last week that about half of the available spaces have already been locked in, with promises of more on the way.

It could be evidence that area businesses are emerging from the recession, as an attempt by the chamber to host a trade show last year fizzled because of a lack of interest. The show is normally held every other year, and the last one was held in 1991.

The year's "Spring into Summer" exhibition will be highlighted by the hosting of CJOH's "Homegrown Cafe", a popular television talent show hosted by the station's weatherman J.J. Clark.

That alone should attract larger than usual crowds, and chamber officials feel this lure should help exposure for exhibitors.

The chamber has also made other major changes to the show's format. The center of the floor aisles will be devoted to the display of automobiles, while the middle section of display booths will be divided into modules of four, to permit easier flow for viewers and two-sided exposure for exhibitors.

The show, which will be held at the Glengarry Sports Palace from June 3 to 5, also will feature longer hours on Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Despite these improvements, the chamber is maintaining its previous rental fee for booths: $200 for chamber members and $175 for every other booth rented by the same party. Non-members will be charged $250 per booth, and $200 for every other booth.

To book a booth in the show, prospective participants should call Dean Picher at 525-3463 as soon as possible. All booth spaces will be rented on a first-come, first-served basis.

Lancaster and District Curling Club members have announced the winners in their recent building fund draw. Grand prize winner of $500 is Shirley MacDonald. Merchandise winners were James Fraser, D. Andre, C. Van de Ligt, Ernie Larocque, Joan Little, Blair and Cheryl Snider, Steven Proctor, Norman Fourget, Jack Crombie, Rick Roy and Gregg Lynch.

The 1992-1993 curling season has now come to a close and first place winners of the "Last Chance" bonspiel were Tony Wetering, Amy Ward, Mary Sparey and Marlane McDonald. Taking second place were Hugh Blair, Roly Fobert, Bob Younie and Blanche Fobert.

Throughout the season a senior men's team has been quite active. The team was skipped by Don Snider with team members Keith McKay, Les Wert and Roly Fobert. They won in Riverfield, Ormstown and also won the Parnell Trophy in Prescott.

Congratulations to everyone. The club hopes to see everyone at the curling banquet on May 1.

Lan Char Senior Centre in Lancaster invites mature drivers in the area to take advantge of the "55 Alive" driver refresher course for mature persons which is now being organized. There are seven persons already enrolled and 20 are needed.

This course is provided in cooperation with Maxville Manor and Glengarry Outreach. The charge is $25 each and the course runs for six to eight hours (one day). It could be instrumental in lowering the driver insurance rates for those who participate!

The centre would also like to sponsor a euchre tournament which would be connected to the "Senior Games" and interested participants are asked to call.

The centre is holding a bingo on Thursday, May 6 from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. and all seniors are welcome. For more information on any of the above, call Sharon or Rosemary at 347-1175.

Alexandria okays 1.8% pay hike

By Greg Kielec
News editor

Alexandria council has given a 1.8 per cent pay increase for approximately 50 non-unionized part-time and full-time town employees this year.

The raise, retroactive to Jan. 1, goes to Alexandria administrative, roads and recycling plant employees and firemen, and to the school crossing guard and waste supervisor.

The recommendation for the pay hike — less than half of last year's 4.5 per cent raise — was made by the finance committee and approved by town council members at a recent meeting.

Jean Guy Levert, head of public works, said he is pleased with the raise.

"I'm very happy. We didn't expect more than that," said Levert, who represented town employees in the wage discussions.

He said the raise is equal to pay hikes received by workers in surrounding municipalities.

Clerk Leo Poirier was also satisfied with the pay hike.

"It's a raise. It's probably more than a lot of people are going to get," he said yesterday.

Young mediators: Students settle disputes at Elda Rouleau School

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

A schoolyard bully pokes, prods, kicks and slaps a smaller student in a show of force.

The two get into a scuffle and the fight is eventually broken up by some students or a teacher. The pair are sent to the principal's office where they are reprimanded for their behavior.

It's a scene which has been played out at Ecole Elda-Rouleau like any other school in Glengarry County.

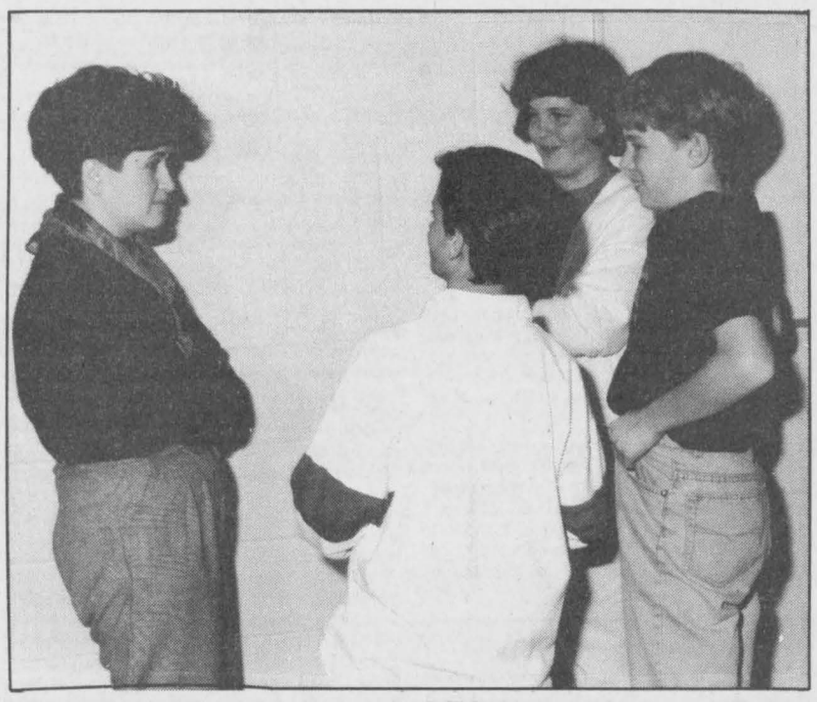
Roger Cayer would like to see a kinder, gentler society. But for now, the principal of Ecole Elda-Rouleau will settle for a peaceful playground.

His vision is shared with 10 young students who recently participated in a three-session workshop which trained them to become student mediators. Groups made up of two to four mediators will patrol the playground and if conflicts arise, the mediators will try to steer the two parties towards a peaceful solution.

"I had my doubts at first but it's pretty good. I came here with the idea of helping people. The teachers already have enough to do," says Dan Boisvenue, a Grade 7 student.

Like most kids his age, Boisvenue dreams of becoming a police officer and thinks this will bring him one step, albeit tiny, closer to realizing that dream.

Dianne Gauthier taught the students a variety of techniques on ways to disarm people. She didn't demonstrate any judo or karate moves. Instead, she demonstrated ways that these students could talk their peers out of doing something they might regret later.



Dianne Gauthier does role playing with a trio of Ecole Elda-Rouleau student mediators to see how they will handle several different conflict situations. Although they're a little rough around the edges, another session should smooth out all the wrinkles, Gauthier says.

"Violence is so prevalent in society because of TV and the media. Children must be shown that there are other ways to resolve their differences other than by making fists and punching one another senseless," says Gauthier, the resource coordinator who works for the Industry Education Council Start program.

However, she quickly points out that the student mediators will be used in all sorts of conflict situations. From a potential fight to a dispute over playing on the monkeybars, the aim of the program is to resolve conflicts through peaceful means.

Cayer says that in their younger years, students are more impressionable and open-minded to a new idea. He looks at this program as a preventive measure instead of a way of solving a problem, especially since Grade 4 to Grade 8 students are less likely to mix it up.

During the second session held last Friday, Gauthier split the students into groups of four so they could role play various situations they will encounter. They had the basics down but were still a little rough around the edges.

Cayer figures the mediators will make their debut on the school playgrounds sometime within the next few weeks. Elda-Rouleau is only the fourth school to participate in the program out of the 20 francophone elementary schools that fall under the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Separate School Board.

Gauthier says the teacher(s) at the playground during recess and lunch hour will remain. The student mediators will patrol the playground and be on the lookout for telltale signs that something may be about to happen such as rising tempers or clenched fists.

A report will be filled out, the mediators will be distinguished through a t-shirt or armband and will be required to attend meetings and report for duty on time. It's the next best thing to a job - no pay but lots of rewards in the form of self-satisfaction.

Boisvenue says it won't be his job to leap in and sacrifice his body to save a fellow student or to break up a fight. Instead, he and the other mediators will ask both parties to tell their side of the story and let them develop their own solution to the problem.

"Our job isn't to go running to the principal when something happens. This is confidential and we're neutral," says Boisvenue.

The hope is that cooler heads will prevail in all sorts of circumstances.

Police say public is best weapon against crime

By Scott Ferrier
News* reporter

Two years ago, Charlottenburgh Township residents were mad as hell and they weren't going to take it any longer.

The township was beseiged by a rash of break, enter and thefts. But Charlottenburgh residents fought back by following Lancaster Townships lead and initiated their own Neighborhood Watch program.

The program was an overnight success.

"Charlottenburgh does have crime, we readily admit that. It's no worse or no better than other areas in similar size. Your'e obviously concerned, that's why you're here," Lancaster OPP Staff Sergeant Jim McWade said Monday, April 19 at the first general meeting held by the Charlottenburgh Neighborhood Watch program at St. Mary's Hall in Williamstown.

"We need your help. We don't have enough cars, men, eyes or ears. That's where you all come in," McWade appealed to the audience of 120 people.

People are suspicious by nature. And in the area of law enforcement, that's one of the most valuable tools.

Over the years, police in general lost touch with the community. Residents hesitated to call the police if they saw something out of the ordinary such as a suspicious vehicle or person circling around their block, McWade said.

It's better to be safe than sorry.

"Don't be embarrassed to call us if you see something suspicious. You're doing your job by calling us so we can do our job and check it out.

"If it was a false alarm, your neighbor finds out about it and feels better," because everybody is looking out for one another, said McWade.

Although the crime rate and number of occurrences have increased by 15 per cent, the number of crimes per household (one out of 163 in 1991 compared with one out of 225 in 1992 to date) has dropped in Charlottenburgh.

In a previous interview, Const. Gilles Ruest of Lancaster OPP who works as the police advisor to both the Charlottenburgh and Lancaster program said the real challenge will come in the coming year.

"Everybody's keen the first year. The crime rate dropped significantly in both Charlottenburgh and Lancaster but we expect it to jump," said Ruest.

But the two way street which partners police with the public doesn't stop at Neighborhood Watch. It also includes Crime Stoppers.

"As a police officer, this is one of our most valuable tools," said Sgt. Dave MacDonald, the coordinator of several police programs including Seaway Valley Crimestoppers.

The concept of paying for information which will lead to the solution of crimes is a practical alternative. MacDonald said that since Crime Stoppers was undertaken a little over a year ago $2,700 has been paid to informants.

The dividends have been much more. They include: recovery of $45,000 worth of stolen goods, $35,000 worth worth of drugs, 22 arrests and 25 solved cases.

"It doesn't matter who runs the program, it's successful everywhere," MacDonald commented.

Crimestoppers features a crime of the week in newspapers, on radio or television. People with information can call the toll free number without divulging their identity.

VOLUNTEER OF THE WEEK

This week we have a team of volunteers, Lorna and Gordon Winter.

Lorna and Gordon live in Maxville, where Gordon was born and where the couple have spent their married life. Since Gordon's retirement as a teacher in Cornwall, they have found more time to work together for their community. They give their time to Meals-On-Wheels, Maxville Manor, their church, and the Maxville Horticultural Society. Mrs. Winter has been with Meals-On-Wheels since its organization began 19 years ago.

Lorna & Gordon Winter

Lorna has served as a treasurer of the Maxville Manor auxiliary, has been in charge of the tuck shop for a number of years, and is presently a member of the Pastoral Care Committee at the Manor. Gordon has been on the Board of Management, has served as treasurer for two years, and is presently editor of the monthly newsletter.

Lorna served as treasurer for the Horticultural Society for 19 years, retiring last year. Gordon has served as past president and secretary, as district director of District 1 and as provincial president of the Ontario Horticultural Association.

Gordon works with the Superannuated Teachers of Ontario, has acted as chairperson of the Committee that arranged the writing and publication of Maxville's Centennial Book, and presently works with the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario, and is the Maxville correspondent for The Glengarry News.

Births

MacDONALD — To Brendan and Marian (Lawson) at Winchester and District Hospital on Thursday, April 1, 1993, a daughter Kyla Margaret Alexandra, 9 lbs. 2 ozs. She is warmly welcomed by Larry and Helen MacDonald, Lorne and Sandra Lawson and extended families.

CHARBONNEAU — Jean-Pierre and Nancy (Lapierre) are proud to announce the birth of their son Austin, 9 lbs. 8 ozs. on Tuesday, March 30, 1993 at Hotel Dieu Hospital, Cornwall. Proud grandparents are Bud and Jeanne Lapierre of Alexandria and Paul-Emile and Hortense Charbonneau of Green Valley.

Cards Of Thanks

McKINNON— The family of the late Hope McKinnon wish to thank all relatives, neighbors and friends for the many acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy, memorial donations, floral tributes, cards, letters, telephone calls, masses and all the food we received at the time of our bereavement. Special thanks to Drs. Shields, Bates and DeYoung, Anna Van Loon and all the nurses in the Intensive Care Unit at the Hotel Dieu Hospital. Our sincere thanks to Sister Gertrude, Rev. Heather Kincaid, Father Joseph MacDonald and Monsignor Rejean Lebrun for making the service so special. Also thanks to the pallbearers, the organist, Bruce Runions, the soloists Anna Van Loon and Joanne St. Denis, and to Allan Raymond, the piper outside the church. Thanks to Munro and Morris Funeral Home in Alexandria and to Nancy Ripley, Flora MacDonald, Ellen Bissonnette, Iona Luscombe and all who helped in preparing and serving the lunch after the service. May God bless all of you for all your acts of kindness. They will always be remembered.
—Charles, Robert, Michael and Eric McKinnon. 17-1p

JAMIESON — I wish to sincerely thank Dr. Roman and the staff of Glengarry Memorial Hospital for the good care I had while a patient there. I want to also thank all relatives and friends for visits, gifts and cards both while I was in the hospital and after I came home. Your many acts of kindness will never be forgotten.
—Hazel Jamieson. 17-1p

MENARD — I would like to say thank you to my family and friends for all the kindness shown me while I was a patient in CCU Hotel Dieu Hospital, Cornwall and 5th floor south, the Alexandria ambulance and hospital for the good care; the cards, flowers and visits have been sincerely appreciated. Thanks to doctors and staff and to all those who prayed so much.
—Edouard Menard. 17-1p

SEGUIN — I would like to thank friends and relatives for their gifts and cards while I was in the hospital. Whenever I needed support, you were there to help out. So, I hope you know that when I say "Thanks for being you" I mean it sincerely, I mean it from the heart.
—Mrs. Denise Seguin. 17-1p

In Memoriam

McCORMICK — In loving memory of brother Archie who passed away May 3, 1992; Mother, May 1, 1959, and Dad, Aug. 21, 1943.
We hold you in our hearts,
And there you will remain,
To walk with us throughout our lives,
Until we meet again.
—Ever remembered, Robert, Duncan and Tena. 17-1p

MacGREGOR, Wilma — In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother who passed away April 28, 1985.
There is a bridge of memories,
From here to heaven above,
That keeps you very close to us
It's called the bridge of love.
As time goes on without you,
And days turn into years,
They hold a million memories,
And a thousand silent tears.
Cherished thoughts of times together,
Will hold you in our hearts forever.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by Cameron and family. 17-1p

STANG — In loving memory of a dear mother Laurette, who passed away April 30, 1992.
Our family circle has been broken,
But our hearts still ache with sadness.
Beyond a smile, lies a tear,
No one will ever know.
What it meant to lose you, mother,
You never deserved what you went through.
When the days are sad and lonely
And everything goes wrong,
I seem to hear you whisper,
"Be brave daughter, you're not alone."
One thing that makes me glad is
That I had you to share those precious years
We had together.
But I will always remember,
My whole life through
The last words I had with you.
You tried so hard to stay with us,
You suffered too much in silence,
Your spirit did not bend,
You faced your pain with courage
Until the very end.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by your daughter, Thérèse Ouimet.

In Memoriam

BINETTE — In loving memory of a dear son Lucien, who passed away three years ago, May 1/90.
Deep in our hearts there's a picture,
More precious than silver or gold.
'Tis a picture of a dear son and brother,
Whose memory will never grow old.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by Mom, Dad and family. 17-1p

STANG — In loving memory of my dear wife Laurette, who passed away a year ago, April 30, 1992.
We made our vows together,
And said: "Till death do we part,"
So, when God came and took your hand,
My whole life fell apart.
When I look back upon our lives,
Just one thing makes me glad,
That you chose me to share with you,
The precious years we had.
—Always remembered and always in my heart, loving husband Moise. 17-1p

URQUHART — In loving memory of a dear husband, father, grandfather and great grandfather, Alex, who passed away April 29, 1991.
Two years have passed
Since you were called away,
How well do we remember,
That sad and weary day.
—Lovingly remembered by Hazel and family. 17-1p

STANG — In loving memory of my dear mother Laurette who passed away April 30, 1992.
One year has passed and my heart still aches,
Secret tears still flow,
For what it meant to lose you,
No one will ever know.
They say that memories are golden,
Well maybe that is true,
But I never wanted memories,
I only wanted you.
It broke my heart to lose you,
But you didn't go alone
A part of me went with you .
You will never be forgotten mother,
For I thought the world of you.
—Always loved, your daughter, Marie-Paule. 17-1p

—LAVIGUEUR—
In loving memory of a wonderful wife and mother, Mrs. Claire Lavigueur, who passed away May 3rd, 1989.
There is a bridge of memories
That keeps you very close to us
Its called the bridge of love.
She suffered patiently and long
Her hope was bright, her faith strong,
The peace of Jesus filled her breast
And in His arms she sank to rest.
We miss you in so many ways
We miss the things you used to say
And when old times we do recall
That's when we miss you most of all.
Sadly missed and always remembered by loving husband Rene, children Raymond, Steve, Marie, Sandy, Suzanne, Carol, JoAnne, Monique and Eva.

THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF KENYON
NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING
The Council of the Corporation of the Township of Kenyon intends to consider an Offical Plan Amendment to the Township's Official Plan. Pursuant to Section 17(3) of the Planning Act (R.S.O. 1990), Council will hold a public meeting on May 11, 1993 to outline the content and effect of the Official Plan Amendment. All those interested are hereby invited to attend the meeting, and express their view on the Official Plan Amendment.

PURPOSE OF THE OFFICIAL PLAN AMENDMENT
The purpose of the proposed Official Plan Amendment is to redesignate a portion of Lot 27, Concession 1 from Agriculture Resource to Rural-Marginal.

The subject property abuts other land designated Rural-Marginal and abuts Hazard Lands.

EFFECT ON THE OFFICIAL PLAN AMENDMENT
The amendment will redesignate the lands to Rural-Marginal and permit them to be used for those uses in the Rural Marginal Designation.

PUBLIC MEETING PLACE
Township Office, Greenfield, May 11, 1993 at 7:00 p.m.

For further information, or to review a copy of the amendment being considered, contact:

Nicole Cholette, Jacques Renaud get volleyball awards

North Lancaster

By Bernadette Campeau 347-2572

The North Lancaster Volleyball club held a team supper in Valleyfield on April 24 when prizes and awards were handed out.

Receiving an award for sportsmanship were (ladies) Nicole Cholette and (men's) Jacques Renaud. In second place Gonda Kerrebyn took it for ladies and Yvon Renaud for men's.

Ten 6/49 tickets were given out to winner Diane Labrecque, Mashoud Janjua, Marc Villeneuve, Michel Cholette, Yvon Renaud, Célyne Renaud, Christianne Elie, Roger Campeau, Scott Maloney and Nicole Cholette.

As a sign of appreciation Jacques and Christianne Elie received a plate from the team for their continuous efforts which made the 1992-93 season a great success.

Please note that volleyball will still continue on Wednesday nights.

Grades 7 and 8, under the direction of Roger Campeau, Jacques and Christianne Elie have been practising since February for a tournament to be held on May 15th at ESRG. We hope they do well.

Visiting dog sparks interest in fire prevention at school

Maxville
by Gordon Winter
527-2888

A bilingual Sparky spent two days in Maxville visiting the students at our local schools. Martial Brabant, chairman for the local fire prevention committee, introduced Sparky to the students on April 20 and 21 with the first day spent at the public school. The Fire Marshall's office in Kingston scheduled the two events.

Mr. Brabant, who used his days off from his employment with Villeneuve Transport in Dyer, was very pleased with the success of the two days and with the co-operation he experienced from all those involved. He was particularly pleased that Sparky could speak French, that all the meetings with students at the St. Bernard School were in French and that French signs were available to them.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mathieu, Glen Garden Village apartments, have returned from Florida as has J. T. MacKenzie.

Bryce Morrison, Guelph, spent a few days last week with his sister, Ardis and Vernon Campbell.

John Williams drove to Guelph on the weekend to pick up daughters Julie and Heather who have completed their terms at the University of Guelph.

Barbara and Doug MacDougall, Burlington, visited with his mother, Dorcas, for a week.

Marcella Lemberg, Toronto, was in the village last week for the funeral of her aunt, Christena MacIntosh and was the guest of Catherine McEwen. We extend sympathy to Mrs. Lemberg's other aunt at the Manor, Flora MacIntosh in the death of her sister.

Her many friends from bygone years will be sad to learn of the death of Elizabeth Hamilton MacKenzie in Ottawa on Sunday. Mrs. MacKenzie was the only daughter of the late Rev. J. H. and Mrs. Hamilton and grew up here until she trained to be a nurse and then joined the RCAF. We extend sympathy to her husband Murdoch and family and to her brothers, Chalmers, Walter, the Rev. Stephen and the Rev. Ross and their families. She was predeceased by her oldest brother, Hugh.

Grant MacRae, Ottawa, also died last week and we extend sympathy to his family including his wife Kay and her family with her first husband, the late Donald Kippen.

We also offer our condolences to the Fuchs family from south of Dominionville in the recent death of Mrs. Fuchs.

Back in March, the Canadian Senior Women's National Curling Competition was held in Edmonton and Marjorie McEwen Stewart played third on a team from Calgary which represented Alberta. The team reached the semi-finals and played off against the Ontario team which eventually earned the gold medal with Manitoba receiving the silver and Alberta the bronze.

Mrs. Stewart is the wife of Duncan from Stewart's Glen and the sister of Elizabeth Stewart. Marjorie and Duncan live in Airdrie, a short distance north of Calgary. We congratulate this Maxville native and offer our apologies for not having publicized her curling prowess sooner.

To Dan Vallee goes congratulations and very best wishes for continued good health on the occasion of his 91st birthday on Friday. Mr. Vallee is well and is able to continue living in his own home by himself. He is probably the oldest male resident in this village, noted for its ladies who have reached advanced ages with the good health to remain at home.

Lorna and I enjoyed an early taste of spring while visiting in Tecumseh and Grimsby where the lawns were ready for trimming and the spring flowers starting to bloom. However, the late taste of winter on our arrival home on Friday wasn't appreciated. We were reported to have received at least 30 cms. of wet snow.

The land around Windsor was drying up well and the fall wheat crops looked good. Considerable fall plowing had to be left until this spring.

I called at the funeral home to pay my respects to Bill Duperron and to visit with his family which numbers nine children rather than six which I reported last week. Burial will be taking place here later and residents will be able to visit with the Duperron family then.

* * *

We think of southern Ontario as being more built up than here with less wildlife. However, within two miles of Grimsby, there is a large herd of deer and there are flocks of wild turkeys flourishing in woods on the escarpment.

While away, I attended a meeting of the Provincial Goodwill Committee of the Superannuated Teachers of Ontario in Toronto.

Hockey fever is escalating in the village. Boston and Chicago fans are sorrowful but those cheering for the Maple Leafs and Canadiens remain hopeful. Whatever the outcome, the cheers or moans will not come on the same evening. If Canadiens should win, we can almost guarantee that cheering will be heard all the way from Laggan and if the Leafs should win, the local convenience store may be giving discounts to all loyal supporters.

A muskrat visited Peter Street one night. It ambled across the street and had time for a swim in a puddle. Apparently at this time of year, fighting occurs and certain males have to move out. The one I saw probably came from along the CNR tracks.

Community policing is reported to be the way of the future. To form a group here, representation is needed from Dunvegan, Greenfield, Apple Hill and the village. Interested persons of all ages and backgrounds are invited to leave their names with any of the local merchants and a meeting will be called later to provide information.

We have the names of the winners of the Lions Club Calendar Draw for

Kenyon Agricultural Society discuss preparations for Maxville Fair

three weeks. For the week of April 5 they were Rita Seguin, Jim Bolton, Cornwall, Mary Weese, Trenton, Bernice and Harry Valley, Moose Creek, Rene Aubin and Rene Gratton, Cornwall. For the next week, they were Karen and Brian Campbell, Dunvegan, Adel and Leonard Walker, Berwick, Gerald Thauvette, Moose Creek. Claudette Matte, Cornwall, Judy Lawyer, New York, and Darlene Lacroix, Apple Hill. For the week of the 19th, the first five were from Maxville: Tanya Rozon, John D. MacLeod, Donna McDonald, Carol Hamilton and Willie Kippen followed by Linda Brown from Long Sault.

The Kenyon Agricultural Society held a regular meeting on April 19 to continue preparing for the Maxville Fair which will be held on May 28, 29 and 30, 1993. Each committee is busy finalizing plans for activities. The ball tournament begins on Thursday, May 27 and anyone interested in submitting a team please contact David Findlay at 527-2537.

Friday, May 28 has the Children's Sports Day in front of the grandstand followed by a play entitled ''Echo-trek to Earth'' which will be performed for all children in front of the grandstand. The Friday night entertainment in the Angus Gray Hall will be ''The Bayou Boys,'' a Creedence Clearwater Revival clone band.

The main entertainment in front of the grandstand on Saturday night will be the ''Monster Truck Mania.''

Sunday afternoon entertainment for the children in the Angus Gray Hall will be a puppet show put on by Jesters Childrens Theatre. The popular baby show will also be held.

Many other activities during the weekend are also scheduled. Please plan to attend and support your local agricultural society.

The Kintra Artists Club will meet on May 17 at 7 p.m. at the St. Elmo Church Hall. New members will be welcomed. Artists wishing to participate in the show at the Highland Games on July 31 are asked to phone 527-1195.

At the May 17th meeting, plans will be made for the third annual show in November.

Once again, the Newsletter from the public school contained interesting material. In a chess tournament, Andrew Nickerson, a junior kindergarten student, won in the grade one group. Jesse Jackson and Travis Pelletier won the Kenyon Optimist Club contest for designing a club logo. The hot meals program is proving very successful.

Carol Hall, life underwriter of SunLife of Canada donates $2,000 to Weldon MacIntosh, Maxville Manor fundraising committee member. The donation was made to help the Manor's corporate fundraising division.

A team consisting of Lisa Sabatini, Rodney Benton, Cathy Toxopeus and Melissa Tyrell came fourth in a French Scrabble Tournament.

Education week is May 3-7 with Open House the evening of the fifth.

The April meeting of the local Horticultural Society saw a crowd of about 75 enjoy a delicious pot luck supper and a very interesting speaker. She was Karen Carriere from Newington who spoke on perennials, showed slides on many that are recommended for this area and had some for sale at a very reasonable price. Long time members were encouraged to have several new members signed up.

The charter night for the Kenyon Optimist Club will be held in the Angus Gray Hall on May 1st with dinner at 7 p.m. and dancing at 9:30. Marie Peters at 527-3408 will supply more information to all those requiring it.

At the service in the United Church last Sunday the following young people were confirmed. Laurie Ferguson, Sarah Haynes, Lora Jaggassar, Brian Johns, Logan McIntosh, Kelly MacRae, Anona Siwik and Eden Siwik. All are members of a Sunday School class taught by Joan Fergusson who prepared them for confirmation.

The Young-at-Heart Euchre parties are back in full swing but the turnout at the first one was down a bit. Cecile Currier, Moose Creek, had top score for the ladies, followed by Onagh Ross, Martintown and Elizabeth Briere, also from Moose Creek.

Ken MacLeod, Dunvegan, led the men in scoring with Mac O'Byrne coming second and James Campbell, Athol, who proved he can also play euchre, as well as bridge, received third prize.

Rita Seguin received the door prize and 50-50 draw winners were Eva McHugh and Ellery MacMillan (twice) from Finch, Violet McDiarmid, Moose Creek and local players Christina Cumming, Ann Michaud and her daughter, Gloria Rolland.

The next euchre will be on May 3 in the Anglican Church Hall at 8 p.m. as usual.

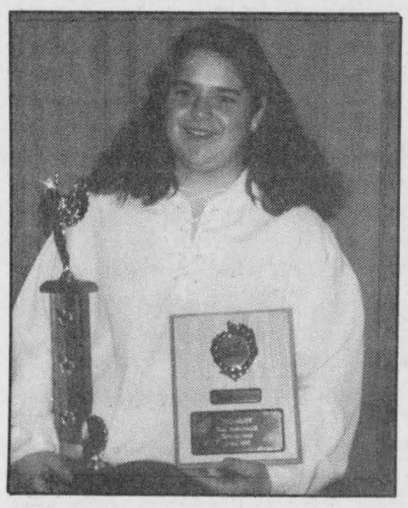
Are you planning on attending ''A Breath of Scotland'' next Monday evening in the Sports Complex? The Lions Club members will appreciate your support.



Mélanie Legault

Green Valley girl wins honors at speaking meet

Green Valley

The Green Valley Optimist Club was well represented by Mélanie Legault at the ''Gala Personalité'' contest for District East Ontario held in Hawkesbury on Saturday, April 24.

Mélanie is the daughter of Raymond and Jeanine Legault of Green Valley. She was strongly supported by family, friends and Optimist Club members.

Mélanie was honored with the title of ''Mlle. Socialité.'' This title is awarded to the most friendly and social person amongst the participants of the gala.

For the best artistic expression, Mélanie once again took top honors. We must admit that Boubou contributed a great deal to her success.

After a skill-testing question and answer quiz, the judges left to deliberate their decision as to who would be the lucky winner.

Competition was tough but Mélanie was presented with the title of ''Mlle. Gala Opti-Jeunesse.'' A cash award was presented to her as well as a plaque and trophies for her winnings.

Congratulations Mélanie for your talented success. We look forward to seeing you in other local productions.

A surprise birthday party was held for Paul Poirier of Poirier Bus Lines on Saturday, April 24 at the Smithsfield Hall in Lancaster. Paul and Gloria's families, along with the bus drivers, were there to help Paul celebrate the big 40. A very surprised Paul walked in to applause and a song of Happy Birthday. Paul thanked everyone for coming. Later in the evening, a lunch was served.

Knights of Columbus regular meeting is on Monday, May 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the church hall in Green Valley.

A reminder to all Green Valley Optimist Club members; don't forget the Kenyon Charter Night to be held at the Angus Gray Hall in Maxville on Saturday, May 1. Show them you care by being there.

Birthday wishes going out to Chad Borris who will be two years old on April 30; belated birthday to Yannick Borris who was one year old on April 17. Happy birthday to Colette Viau on May 2. Belated birthday to Bruno Lalonde on April 12.

God bless and have a nice week.
