DUNDAS COUNTY LOSES FINE CITIZEN

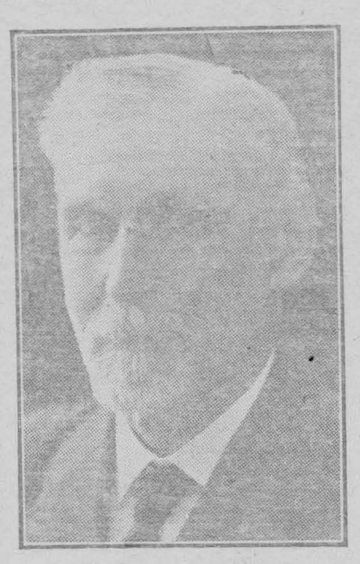

The passing of Aaron Sweet at his home in Winchester at noon Friday January 8th, removes from this district one of Dundas county's most prominent citizens, and a man who was well known throughout eastern Ontario and other parts of the Dominion.

He had been in good health until about a week before his death, when he became suddenly ill.

The late Mr. Sweet was born at Hemmingford, Que., 83 years ago, a son of the late Richard Sweet and his wife, Eleanor Broder, sister of the late Andrew Broder. He came to Morrisburg in 1868, where he attended grammar school. After a brief apprenticeship here he entered the general store of his uncle, Andrew Broder, of Winchester.

Rose Quickly.

His Keen business foresight

brought him speedily to the fore and he arose from one responsibility to another until in 1876 he became a partner and finally the owner of the business, which is known as the "Big Store," operated under the name of A. Sweet & Co., since 1881.,

Mr. Sweet first entered the public life of the community in the year 1875, when he was elected deputy-reeve of Winchester township. The next year Winchester was incorporated as a village and Mr. Sweet was honored by being elected Reeve and "first citizen" of the newly incorporated municipality. After serving in this capacity for two terms he retired owing to business pressure.

Elected to Legislature

In 1923, he was nominated as standard-bearer of the Conservative party for the Ontario legislature and won the election by a good majority. At the close of the term he retired from public life. Prior to this he had been president and secretary of the Dundas Conservative Association for a great many years and was always an interested supporter of his party

In industrial pursuits, Mr. Sweet has had an active career. He was associated with the building of Winchester's Community hotel, the skating arena, the organization of the Agricultural Society of which he was president for many years, the Horticultural Society, and many other local organizations. He was a charter member of the local 100 Club and Morrisburg Canadian Club, and very seldom missed a meeting of either. He also took a keen interest in education and was a patron of all clean sport. He was one of the men who advocated an Old Home Reunion for Winchester a few years ago, and took a prominent part in planning the program which will be remembered by all who attended,.

Active in L.O.L.

Mr. Sweet was a past county master of the Orange Association and a member of L.O.L. No. 862, Winchester. He had been active in Masonic circles for many years and was a life member of Henderson Lodge No. 383, Winchester; Ottawa Lodge Perfection, Rose Croix chapter; Moore Consistory, Hamilton, and Karnak Temple of Mystic Shriners, Montreal. He was a past district deputy grand master of Eastern District No,. 21, A.F. & A.M., and a few years ago was honored with the advancement to the membership of the Supreme

The funeral was held on Tuesday at 8.45 a.m. from her late home to St. Patrick's church for solemn requiem high mass. The body was then taken to Notre Dame vault pending interment in Morrisburg in the spring.

PASTOR AND WIFE HONORED WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

The United church parsonage, at Elma, was the scene of a pleasant party on December 26, the occasion being the 25th wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. R. S. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Smith came from Bury, Que., to their present charge at Elma last July.

About 50 guests were present from both charges, Winchester Springs and Elma. A pleasant social evening was spent including the signing of the bride's book of 25 years ago. During the evening a short address was read by Mrs. Carkner and Rev. and Mrs. Smith were presented with a silver tray and cream and sugar service and a wool blanket by the Elma charge, after which Mr. J. Webb spoke a few words and presented a purse of silver on behalf of Winchester Springs.

The Smith family, including Miss Dora, principal of a high school in Quebec City; Herbert, of McGill University; Arthur, teacher at Farnham and Mary, of Morrisburg Collegiate, were at home with their parents for the Christmas season and their wedding anniversary.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Smith thanked their people very kindly for their rememberance and also voiced their appreciation for the installation of the electric lights in the parsonage.

The church at Elma is also enjoying electric lights which were donated by Mrs. Amelia McMillan Lambkin in memory of her parents.

MORGAN—MacLEAN

A quiet wedding of much interest to the people of this community took place in Eaton Memorial church Toronto, on Saturday, January 2nd, when Mrs. Eleanor MacLean of Morrisburg, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Wickware was united in marriage to Mr. David N. Morgan of Banff, Alberta, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morgan of Montgomeryshire, Wales, Rev. H. S. Osborne officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan spent a couple of weeks at Toronto, Port Credit, Windsor, Detroit and Kingsville, arriving in Morrisburg Saturday last, where they will spend the winter months.

The bride, who is a native of Morrisburg, enjoys a large circle of friends, having from childhood taken a keen interest in all things pertaining to the welfare of the community, and the United Church, of which she was a member, Sunday School teacher, and member of the choir. For more than three years she was engaged as librarian in Morrisburg, was President of the Women's Institute and W.M.S.. Her departure, in the Spring, to reside with her husband in Banff, will remove from our midst, one of our leading citizens, who we are sure, will have the best wishes of a host of friends for happiness and prosperity in her new home.

MISS MARY E. SNYDER

STAR RUBY

By Louise Jerrold

Synopsis of Story so Far:—

Albertine Tevans, alone in the world, works in a departmental store. She falls in love with Dennis Maxwell, young jewelry salesman, but is worried by a rumor that he has got into some sort of trouble with his firm. Out of a clear sky, her rich great-Aunt Celia, whom she has never seen, invites her for a visit. The night before she is to leave, Dennis acts very mysteriously, then thrusts a star ruby into her hand and bolts. She later hears that he took a plane to New York. The next day, when she reaches the little town near which her aunt lives, she is met at is station by her aunt's chauffeur — sinister-looking man in dark glasses.

CHAPTER IV.

The car crossed the railroad tracks, rattled noisily over a bridge and followed a course over a series of small hills that reminded Albertine of a roller coaster.

The chauffeur was sitting very erect seemingly intent on the rough road before him, but Albertine had a creepy feeling that, behind his dark glasses, he was watching her in the little rear-view mirror.

It was, she found, less than a thirty-minute drive from the station to her aunt's estate. This was surrounded by a high wall, and there were impressive iron gates, which the chauffeur unlocked and then locked again when they had passed through. A driveway made a graceful ascent between beds of flowers and sloping lawns.

As they neared the house, a great castle-like pile of grey stone, Albertine forgot her feeling of fear. She was excited, thrilled now.

The car stopped and she saw, on the wide steps of the house, a tiny old lady with snow-white hair. Albertine did not wait for the chauffeur to open the door or her. She flung it open herself, leaped out, and flew into the arms outstretched to welcome her.

"Albert's little girl! Albert's," Aunt Celia was saying.

"I—I hope you'll like me," Albertine's voice trembled. After all, there was nothing overpowering about Aunt Celia. She was simply a lonely old lady, now weeping quite openly.

The chauffeur, with Albertine's suitcase, stood awaiting instructions.

"Take it to the blue room, Bates." Aunt Celia said, a bit sharply.

She stumbled as she started up the steps with her niece.

"I'm near-sighed," she explained, "but I won't wear glasses. I hate them! Bates makes me so nervous with his."

"Does he wear those awful dark glasses all the time?"

Aunt Celia nodded. "Some temporary eye trouble. But I needed a new houseman and he had such excellent references. I brought him with me from New York."

Albertine stopped short. "From New York? Oh, yes—the policeman at the depot said——"

"Policeman? Oh, you mean Bob Fletcher, of the State Police."

"He said," Albertine continued, "that you have some other guests. If I'd known, I could have come later."

"Poppycock! I invited them to come back from New York with me partly to help entertain you. They are charming young Russians—Count Michael Loupakoff and his sister, Yelena. We'll go into the drawing room now so that you can meet them."

The drawing room was a little overwhelming. It was large and high-ceilinged, with richly colored Persian rugs, elaborately carved antique furniture, and enormous mirrors in heavy gold frames.

At the far end of the room, a man was softly playing a lovely old concert-grand piano. His smooth black head was bent so that Albertine could not see his face. Nearby, stood a breath-taking beautiful young woman, who lifted languorous brown eyes and smiled faintly as Albertine and her aunt approached. She said something in an undertone to the man who instantly dropped his hands from the keyboard, and rose.

"Countess Yelena and Count Michael, may I present my great-niece?" Aunt Celia said, with old-fashioned formality.

The Count, whom Albertine guessed to be around thirty, bowed low over her hand and kissed it. Countess Yelena smiled graciously enough, but her eyes were cold.

"So this," she said in a throaty voice, "is Albertine, of whom we have heard so much!" There was a slight, foreign accent to her words. "Lovely, isn't she, Michael?"

"Very lovely." The Count was handsome, with dark eyes and a wisp of a mustache.

It was exactly like a movie, Albertine thought.

"So warm on the train," she heard herself saying. "And I'm awfully rumpled. I think I'd better go to my room and change."

Yelena turned to Aunt Celia. "Let me go with her. Stairs are so bad for your heart."

The two girls passed Bates in the hall. He had exchanged his chauffeur's coat for one of white linen, but he still wore the colored glasses.

The Countess sighed. "He is such a perfect servant. I was loath to let him go. He was with us for the first two years we were in America. But with times as they are——" She made a vague, fluttering gesture.

Albertine said, "I can't get used to those colored glasses of his. They are so queer. But then, everything is so queer."

"What is queer?" Yelena asked quickly.

"Visiting Aunt Celia—and meeting you. Would—would I be impertinent if I said that you're more beautiful than anyone I've ever seen?"

The Countess' laugh was low and musical. "Of course not. I should bless you for the compliment, because you're such a child, you make me feel very old."

They had reached the door of the blue room. Albertine flushed as she saw the Countess glance at the shabby suitcase, which Bates had placed on a luggage rack.

"I don't know whether Aunt Celia told you," she said, lifting her chin a trifle. "But I work for my living. I'm not apologizing—I only want you to know why I haven't got a lot of pretty things."

"The American girl is so clever, Yelena drawled. "And so pretty. Michael, my brother, is very susceptible to beauty."

Was that a warning, Albertine wondered, when the Countess had gone.

When she had changed, she slipped downstairs again, and found the others still in the drawing room. Yelena, who was moving restlessly about the room, turned as Albertine entered.

"Ah, Albertine is with us again," and Albertine saw her exchange a swift look with Michael over Aunt Celia's head.

Michael rose and came to meet her. "I have been waiting to sing to you. One is permitted to say — certain things—when one's words are set to music."

He seated her near the piano. Then softly, in Russian, he began a song with a poignantly sweet melody.

When he had finished, Yelena said, a trifle sharply, "Miss Tevans is waiting to hear her favorite — the one about the little red boots."

Michael laughed. "My sister," he told Albertine, "doesn't care for 'The Kiss'—the one I just sang. It brings back memories of an old love affair, I imagine."

Yelena whirled, he eye flashing.

"As a matter of fact, the last time heard it, you——"

"Yes, yes," Michael interrupted placatingly. "I remember. Now for our hostess' favorite."

Albertine felt embarrassed. She glanced at Aunt Celia, but the old lady seemed serenely unconscious of the tension in the air.

Ontario Town Blames It On Leap Year

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont.—Maybe it was the leap year influence that made marriage figures the only section of the vital statistics department to show increase last year over 1935. Twenty-three more couples were married to reach a total of 236. Natural increase in population was 391 against 409 in 1935.

A FLUFFY CAKE

At this season of the year, everyone is just a little tired of the richness of holiday food. What is left of the Christmas cake can be carefully stored and used at another date, but now is the time to serve something a little less heavy and sweet. A light, fluffy, sponge cake is just the thing. For the bridge, tea, for Sunday night suppers with ice cream or for practically any occasion, this cake will be a credit to the hostess and a joy to the guests.

Sponge cakes depend on air for their fluffy, light perfection. The air may be beaten into the egg whites or yolks, or sifted into the flour and held there by the light, deft folding of the ingredients. Of course, the ingredients must be the finest and particularly the flour. Specially milled, soft winter wheat which has been sifted and re-sifted till it is as fine as the millers can make it, is the first step towards cake successes.

A sponge cake is not necessarily expensive. Even if only one or two eggs are used—it can taste like a luxury cake when made wtih the right kind of flour.

ORANGE CAKE

(P. 20—Latest Cake Secrets)

1¼ cups sifted cake flour.
1¼ teaspoons baking powder.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 cup sugar.
1 tablespoon grated orange rind.
2 eggs and 1 egg yolk.
¼ cup orange juice.
¼ cup water.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add ½ cup sugar and orange rind to eggs, and beat with rotary egg beater until thick and lemon-colored; add remaining sugar gradually, beating very thoroughly; then orange juice and water. Add flour gradually, beating with rotary egg beater until smooth. Turn into greased tube pan and bake in moderate oven (350 D. F.) 55 minutes, or until done. Remove from oven and invert pan one hour or until cold.

EMERGENCY SHELF

Home-made pickles and preserves, olives, canned fruits, meats, soups and fish go a long way in helping the woman who has to entertain, be ready and able to meet emergencies easily and graciously. The popular home is always the one in which the guests do not feel they are disrupting the entire household by their presence, the one in which everything appears to run easily and without effort.

The modern emergency shelf is different from that of our mother's because it is not a supply of seldom-used provisions for special occasions only. Although it may include a few specials, it is, for the most part, simply a generous supply of the semi-perishable staples which are always on hand for family use.

In order to help your meals on their merry way to satisfying the purse, the appetite, as well as the body needs, you will find it well worth your while to follow these recipes and use them often:

BARBECUED BEEF

One and a half pounds of round steak or braising beef (three-quarters of an inch thick); salt and pepper and flour.

Method: Pound the meat thoroughly with a wooden beater. Rub with salt and pepper and flour well on both sides. Brown quickly on both sides in a small amount of shortening. Add following sauce:

Sauce: One and one-half cups hot water, 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ teaspoon tobasco sauce, ½ cup tomato catsup, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire Sauce, 1 lemon, juice.

Method: Bring to a boil and pour over the meat. Cover closely and cook slowly over fire for two hours. Garnish with slices of sour pickle and lightly sauted green pepper slices.

MUTTON ROWLETTE

One and a half slice mutton (forequarter), mustard, 2 cups of bread crumbs, ½ cup butter or drippings, 2-3 cup hot water, 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Method: Rub meat with mustard, salt and pepper to taste. Prepare a dressing of the remaining ingredients and place over the meat. Roll meat and dressing and tie or skewer fast. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Brown all over in hot shortening. Make a brown gravy by adding two tablespoons of flour and two cups hot water. Pour over meat roll and simmer on top of stove or in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., until very tender—about three hours.

ORANGE PRUNE SALAD

18-24 prunes, cooked, 1 pkg. cream cheese, 1 tablespoon nuts, chopped, 2 tablespoons top milk, salt and paprika, 2 oranges.

Method: Remove stones from the prunes. Mix cheese, nuts, salt, milk and seasonings and stuff the prunes. Arrange attractively on a lettuce leaf with slices or sections of orange. Serve with a tasty French dressing. Garnish with paprika and serve icy cold.

BAKED BEAN CROQUETTES

Two cups baked beans, salt and pepper, minced onion.

Method: Drain and mash beans into a smooth paste. Season with salt, pepper, onion. Shape into cutlets or croquettes, dip in beaten egg and crumbs and deep fry in shortening at 380 D. F. Serve with tomato catsup.

Serve croquettes with a baked potato. A crisp green salad will complete the meal.

Another Liner Is Contemplated

Cunard-White Star Plans 30,000-Ton Ship

GLASGOW — The Cunard White Star Steamship Line announced last week a contract for construction of another passenger liner for the Atlantic trade is under negotiation. The new vessel will have a tonnage of 30,000 to 10,000 and a speed of 22 or 23 knots. She will be approximately half as large as the Queen Mary.

The keel of "No. 552," sister ship of the Queen Mary, now under construction at the John Brown Company shipyards, has been almost completed, it was announced. When finished, the liner is expected to be the world's largest with a total tonnage of almost 90,000.

Shipyard workers' hopes for the New Year are centred upon the possibility the same company may soon obtain a £7,500,000 ($37,500,000) contract for the construction of one of Britain's new battleships. Some 1,000 are already employed on the "552," and the number is increasing as the work progresses.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

"Proud" In Scotland

A rather significant aspect of the accession of King George VI and the Queen Consort Elizabeth is the sentimental effect that it will have in Scotland. The fact that the Queen is a descendant of an ancient Scottish family should bind the northern part of the United Kingdom to the Monarchy. A good deal of humor has clustered around the remark of an old Scottish woman when she heard that the Princess Louise, the daughter of Queen Victoria, had married the Marquis of Lorne, a scion of the illustrious House of Argyll. "The Queen will be a proud woman this day," she said, "with her daughter marrying an Argyll."—Brantford Expositor.

Safety on the Roads

More strict regulations governing the issuance of drivers' permits, stiffer penalties for violations of traffic laws and stern treatment of those convicted of driving while under the influence of alcoholic beverages would do more to reduce motor accidents than any speed-limit law could do.— The St. Thomas Times-Journal.

She Began Early

A feminine stenographer, employed by a United States railway, has just been retired after 47 years of continuous service and that must be regarded as a pretty long spell.—Brantford Expositor.

A Good Sign

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police can be depended on to know what they are talking about when discussing bad men, what they do and with what weapons. It is therefore all the more encouraging that they have words of praise for the recent legislation requiring the registration of firearms of the revolver type with the police authorities. Certain crimes have been either solved or their solution has been materially helped by the fact that the revolver or pistol used could be traced through records.—Montreal Star.

Wheat Picture Improves

The world's wheat picture grows steadily better for Canada. At the end of 1932 the world's surplus was 625 million bushels; at the end of 1934 it was 375 million bushels; at the end of 1937 (according to estimates) it will be but 125 million bushels. This is what is behind the recent sensational rise in wheat prices, which mean so much for Canada.—Ottawa Journal.

Learn of the North

The year 1936 has been a noteworthy one for Northern Ontario in that an exceptionally large number of Cabinet members and other government luminaries have seen fit to pay this section of the province a visit.

There was a time when it was a rarity indeed for a Minister of the government to venture into the North country, but all that is now passed. During the year just concluding, scarcely a month passed when some important government official did not visit the North. The latest visitor in this respect was Hon. Norman Rogers, Dominion Minister of Labor.—The North Bay Nugget.

More Farms in West

Here is some interesting and rather astonishing news from the West. Despite the drought, the depression and a cessation of immigration during the past five years, there has been an increase of nearly 12,400 farms in the Prairie Provinces, bringing the total up to 300,462 in 1936 compared with 288,079 in 1931.—London Free Press.

The Nightshirt's Appeal

The Charlottetown Guardian points out one peculiarity of the nightshirt which should appeal to every Scottish heart. It is a one-piece item at the laundry, while pyjamas "is" two. Or should we say "are"?

Historic researches conducted by the International Night Shirt Club have disclosed evidence that some of the greatest men in history from Nero to Napoleon, and from Gladstone to Lincoln, wore nightshirts.—St. Mary's Journal-Argus.

Thornton Memorials

The late Sir Henry Thornton could have wished no finer monument than the respect and honor in which his memory is now held by thousands of employees of the Canadian National Railway. That has just been attested by the placing of a memorial plaque in the rotunda of the Union Station in Winnipeg and the placing of similar plaques in fourteen other cities across the Dominion.

The men will never forget the sincere and friendly interest which the late president took in their welfare. He also sought their co-operation. Hence the institution of the joint boards in certain departments of the system, where the men had a voice, along with the management, in settling differences and dealing with problems of various kinds.

The way in which Sir Henry took the men into his confidence, and the considerate and friendly spirit in which he always met them, is now recalled with deep appreciation, and a genuine desire was felt to erect memorials at all the main points on the Canadian National.

Sir Henry Thornton was not only a great railway executive, he was a big man. He showed it in strong human qualities and real concern for the well-being of the large Canadian National family who were making possible the vast improvements of the railway and the high status which it ultimately reached.—Winnipeg Free Press.

For Two-Cent Postage

It would be a commendable idea if the reign of King George VI brought back "penny postage." Canadians would welcome the two cent letter rate warmly. If a two-cent commemorative George VI stamp came with the rate it would give a happy touch to postal reform. — Brandon Sun.

THE EMPIRE

Empire Migration

It is more than 20 years since the steady and uninterrupted flow of migration from Great Britain to the Dominions and Colonies ceased to be a regular feature of the Empire's corporate life. It is true that various specialized eforts have been made in the meantime — in South Africa, for example, by the 1820 Memorial Settlers' Association—with varying degrees of success, to establish British emigrants in the Commonwealth overseas. But unless what we have termed "the steady uninterrupted flow of migration" from Great Britain can be resumed and maintained on the old pre-War level, nothing is more certain than that some of the outstanding qualities of the British race will be lost forever, both in Britain itself and in the Dominions, Colonies and dependencies.—Johannesburg, S.A., Times.

Life on $6 a Week

Somebody said that it was impossible for a girl to live in London on 30s. a week. Somebody replied that thousands of typists and shopgirls were doing it. A woman's magazine trying to discover how the feat was done, has found a girl who pays 12s. 6d. for her bedroom which she lets during the day for 7s. 6d. She spends her evenings at the public library, acquiring knowledge that may enable her to earn more money. Evidently it is just possible, but only for a girl who can be happy without lipstick, new frocks, cinemas, and dances. Could you? Could your daughter?—Manchester Sunday Chronicle.

HOUSES OF OLD CANADA BUILT TO ENDURE FOR CENTURIES

Pioneer Carpenters Took The Place of Masons in Early Days; Stone and Wood Combined

MONTREAL — An old building that was being pulled down by a gang of professional wreckers in the eastern section of the city, revealed strikingly how the pioneers planned, in addition to offering hints for current construction practice. There is only one way to see how a house is really built, and that is when it is going up or coming down, a wrecker observed.

Buildings and homes built more than a century ago are especially interesting, for during that period things were just as experimental as in the present era. Houses of the same period built by different men often show very striking variations in material and structure.

The first homes in Canada were of wood, built by carpenters developed during early colonization days when skilled woodworkers were as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth. Since there were few mansions in the colonies, the first stone houses were built by carpenters, which accounts for the composite type of construction in which wood is used with stone — showing that the workman was more familiar with framework than stone construction.

Big Stone Lacking

It is quite possible that colonial builders used wood in their stone houses often for the good reason that they lacked stone in the larger sizes. Wood lintels over doors and windows are the weakest part in most old houses. Had the houses been built by stone masons instead of carpenters, there would have been arches where long stones were not available.

A survey of old houses in some localities show that stone additions to a home were not bonded with it. The new wall was an entirely independent piece of masonry with no attempt to tooth the new into the old. Early builders realized the danger of disturbing a dry well. They further realized the possibility of the new wall shifting before it came to rest. Almost invariably a series of additions represented individual houses, one built against the other.

The best example of this type of building is the old Wall of London, originally built by the Romans. Bastions uncovered from time to time, along along the walls were not bonded to it. They were built later, and probably in places where the original wall had fallen. These little fortresses rather leaned towards the wall, acting as buttresses. The builders of both the Wall of London and the colonial stone houses foresaw the impossibility of preventing a long wall from cracking and so they made joints without bond at intervals.

Square-Shaped Nails

The tearing down of very old buildings and houses reveals how old-time builders kept their heavy and wide plank floors in place. The boards quite often were face-nailed with iron nails from four inches long, square-shaped and tapered. When these boards are pulled off by the wreckers, the nails are invariably found bent—most of them had turned in the floor joists. Where a nail had hit a hard knot, it curled up in much the same way that a dandelion stem curls up when split.

Anyone planning a heavy colonial floor might draw a lesson from the things exposed by the wreckers and use few nails but the right kind, and large enough to do the job.

World Output Of Gold High

Big Increase by Russia Is Largely Responsible For New Peak

WASHINGTON — United States treasury experts recently calculated the world's 1936 crop of gold at a new peak and pondered its effect on international money markets.

Production estimates for the world including Russia, suggested the total output of gold this year might approximate 40,000,000 ounces, as compared with a previous peak of 30,000,000 in 1935.

Estimates for the first 10 months of 1936 showed Russia alone mined 4,500,000 ounces more than during the corresponding period last year, and that world production outside Russia had been stepped up 2,500,000 ounces.

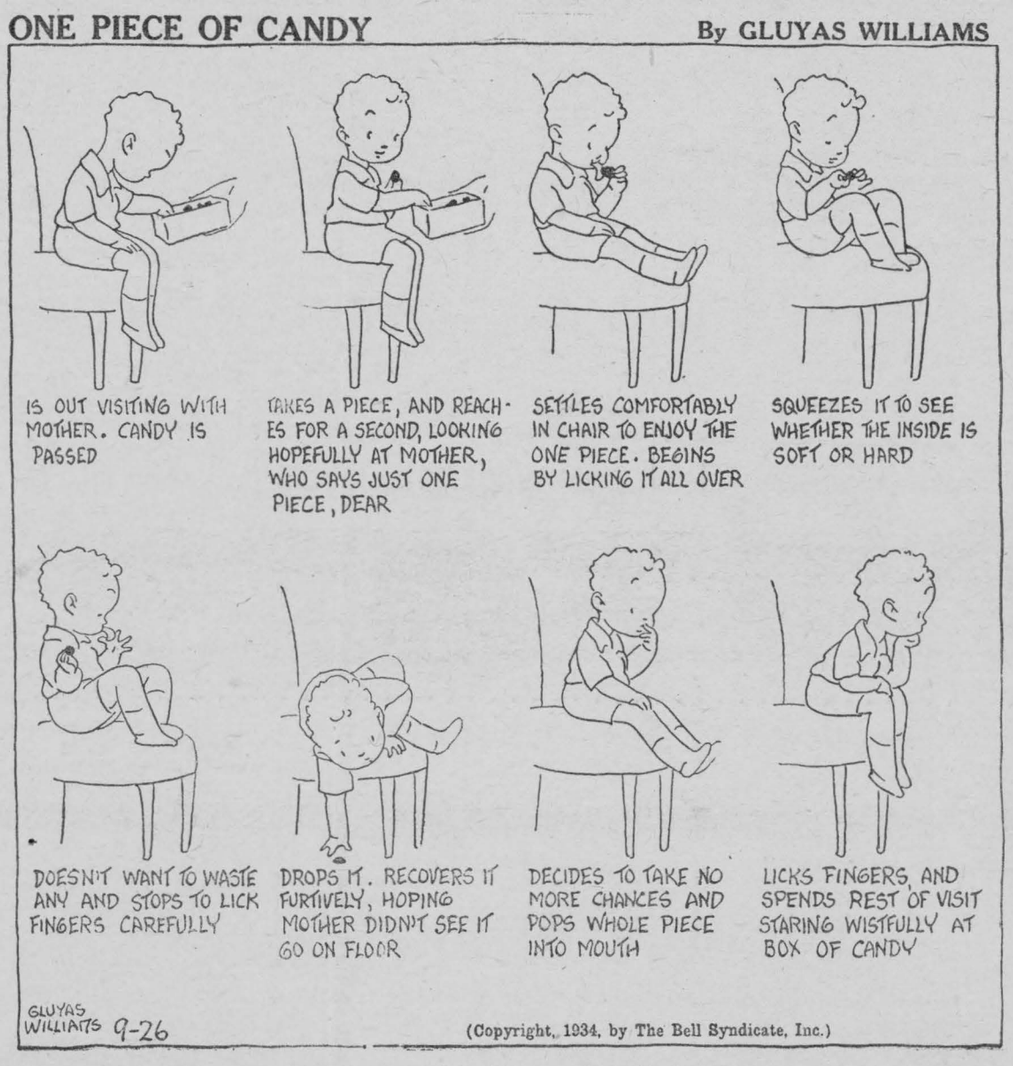

Normally, experts said such a large amount of new gold would tend to lower the value of money. The tight grip governments now have on their monetary structures, however, makes it difficult to predict how the outpouring will be reflected in money markets.

SPORT HOT SHOTS

By KEN EDWARDS

Last week we talked about tuna, this week it's swordfish. The new and popular sport is angling for swordfish. This is carried on extensively off the coast of New Zealand and Catalina Island, California.

The first swordfish taken on rod and line off the Atlantic coast weighed 193 pounds; that was in 1927. The mouth of a swordfish is much softer than that of a tuna, therefore it may shake the bait more readily.

If we say that the tuna fish is a terror to fight then the swordfish is a rip snortin' demon when he has been hooked.

Sometimes, when he is harpooned, the free end of the rope is tied to a keg and thrown into the water allowing the big brute to tow it around until exhausted It may be an hour or more before he is able to be gaffed by the dory-men.

Sometimes the powerfully driven sword has been known to pierce a two-inch plank. The greatest Nova Scotia swordfish catch in its history was 2,220,000 pounds in the year 1935. In 1928 the world's record swordfish was caught on rod and line in New Zealand. It weighed 673 pounds.

A Tribute To Spinach

Writes the Stratford Beacon-Herald — A six days bicycle ride was completed at Madison Gardens the other night, and the cook for these men who pedal night and day for a week (with brief rests) without going anywhere in particular reveals that they consumed half a ton of spinach. String beans came second with 988 pounds. Each man downed seven small steaks per diem, eight quarts of water and a gallon of coffee in the same time. When one is engaged in such strenuous physical tasks it is necessary to "stoke" pretty heavily.

It is rather significant that spinach was the largest item in their diet. This vegetable which is supposed to be so rich in iron has its detractors who say the mineral is not in an assimilable form. But the fact that experienced six-day bicycle riders place such faith in it is evidence that they have found it valuable.

However, if we ever enter a race of that kind we're going to choose Popeye as our partner. He can eat our share as well as his own and do most of the pedalling while we sit gracefully on the back seat and we wave our hand prettily in acknowledgment of the plaudits of the spectators.

Swing Music

HOUSTON, Texas — The popularity of "swing" music will likely wane within a few months, Mrs. Montie Beach, president of the Dancing Masters of America, says, but the tricky tunes may have a lasting influence upon ballroom dancing. "It seems that swing dance music, an apparent novelty which probably will begin to lose its popularity within a few months, may have some influence on the manner of dancing the waltz and fox trots," she says.

Mrs. Beach, first woman president of the dancing masters and only person ever elected to that office four consecutive terms, said laymen, college youth and motion pictures had originated most of the dancing steps in recent years.

"Most steps originate with laymen and are perfected by the masters," she says.

Highland Depopulation

Sir Donald said it was appalling to think that the Highlands were gradually being depopulated. The whole trouble was, how were they going to provide a living for the people? They must have some subsidiary source of existence. He

Council of the 33rd Scottish Rite Masons.

While interested in all these various activities, Mr. Sweet's chief interest was in the church, where for over fifty years he was one of the most loyal and generous supporters of its ministry and service. He was recording stewart of the United church (formerly the Methodist) since 1884, and the last member of the trustee board elected that year to pass to the Great Beyond. The late Mr. Sweet was prominent in every sphere of community life, he was a friend of everyone and his place in Winchester will be hard to fill.

Besides his wife, the former Miss Mary Esther Boyd, whom he married on October 11th, 1881, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. B. L. Carr, of Morrisburg, and two grandsons, Benjamin Langton Carr and John AAaron Carr also two brothers, Fred Sweet, of Hemmingford, Que., and William Sweet, of Vancouver, B,.C,.

Dignitaries of Church, state fratenal societies and the citizens of the community paid their last respects at the funeral which was held from the family residence to the United church. An impressive service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. S. Atchison, assisted by Rev. John A. Waddell of Western United church, Ottawa, and Rev. John MacKay of MacKay United church, Ottawa, both former pastors of the local church.

Long before the service was scheduled to start, the church was crowded to capacity and many remained at the entrances and in front of the church while the service was in progress. Over 300 Masons were present to pay their last respects to a departed brother and viewed the body while it lay in state at the residence, prior to the service.

During the service at the church, the choir was under the direction of Miss Alice Singleton. A solo, "My Task", was very feelingly rendered by Mrs. Percy Durant.

Rev. Atchison spoke in glowing terms of the useful life the deceased had lived. He referred to him as a fine Christian statesman who, he believed, died without an enemy in the world. He spoke of his work as secretary of the Official Board for over 50 years, and of the faithful manner in which he had served his church. Mr. Atchison paid a fitting tribute to the deceased when he said "he was a man of God. He adorned the doctrines of God and was a trustee or custodian of all the good things in life."

Following the service, members of Masonic lodges from Ottawa, Cornwall, Russell, Chesterville, Morrisburg, Williamsburg, Finch, Montreal, Hawkesbury, Port Hope, Kempt ville, Farrans Point, Cardinal, Prescott, Aultsville, Iroquois and Lancaster joined with the brethren of Henderson Lodge No. 383 A.F. & A.M., in the Masonic service. The ceremony took place in front of the church and was conducted by Wor. Bro. H. G. Graham, master of Henderson Lodge, assisted by Rt. Wor. Bro. Geo. A. Cass, D.D.,G.M., of Eastern District No. 21,. During the parade, Wor. Bro. C. B. Timmins acted as director of ceremonies,. This office had been held by the late Mr. Sweet for many years.

Following the Masonic service interment was in Maple Ridge cemetery, where it is estimated that over 500 people had gathered to await the arrival of the funeral cortege.

The following past district deputy grand masters were among those present: P,.D.D.,G.,M.,—Rt: Wor. Bros. J. H. Putman, E. J. McCleay, A. H. McKee, Dr,. J. A. Dobbie E. S. McPhail. all of Ottawa; W,. WINCHESTER HENS START NEY YEARS RIGHT

Dr. S. A. Merkley, who keeps a flock of hens as a hobby, is a firm believer that human beings are not the only creatures to make New Year resolutions.

From the way his 1837 hens have been laying since January 1st, he is of the opinion that they have decided to start the New Year right. On New Year's Day he collected 175 eggs from 175 pullets and 22 old hens. This was an increase of 50 per cent. over any day since they started to lay. On January 2nd, they laid 177 eggs; 3rd. 177; 4th, 178; 5th, 181, and the 6th, 178 eggs, a total of 1066 eggs in six days.

This is considered somewhat of a record for young pullets. Dr. Merkley has an incubator started with 400 eggs. His original intentions were to raise the chickens for broilers, but with his strain showing such good laying qualities, he may raise the new chickens for layers.

HEPBURN SEAWAY SWITCH FORESEEN

"I would not be surprised to see a right about turn by Premier Hepburn with regard to the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway," observed Hon. W. Earl Rowe, Ontario Conservative leader, who is in Ottawa for another session at least as Federal member for Dufferin-Simcoe. Mr. Rowe, on his own part, expressed interest in the story that President Franklin Roosevelt is preparing to push the Waterway treaty through the United States Senate.

Voicing considerable satisfaction over the conservative victory in the East Hastings Provincial by-election recently, Mr. Rowe declared, 'Daily the position of the Hepburn Government is growing more difficult. Almost every day brings fresh evidence of the Government's mismanagement of the school tax question, and every month adds further confusion to the whole position of the Government with regard to the hydro electric issue. The East Hastings Conservative victory was only a further evidence of the general disatisfaction throughout the Province with the present administration at Queens Park."

MRS. HOWARD MERKLEY

The entire community of Williamsburg were grieved to learn of the sudden death of Ethel Alford, wife of Howard Merkley which occurred at her home north of Williamsburg on Friday evening, January 8th, 1937.

Although not feeling as well as usual on Thursday and Friday, Mrs. Merkley had been about her home duties in her usual way. Early in the evening on Friday her illness became more severe. Medical aid was at once summoned, but she failed to rally and passed to the Great Beyond about 10 o'clock.

Her sudden death was a great shock to her husband and family; also to her many friends in this district. Mrs. Merkley was of a very quiet and retiring disposition., She was held in high regard by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

Deceased, whose maiden name was Ethel Alford,was a daughter of the late John Alford and his wife Rachel Wholeham. She was born on November 27th, 1882, where she spent her girlhood days, until her marriage to Mr. Howard Merkley, May 8th, 1908. She came to reside on the Merkley homestead near Williamsburg until her death..

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon from her late residence to St. Peter's Lutheran Church,Williamsburg, where a large circle of relatives and friends gathered to pay a final tribute of respect to the memory of Mrs. Merkley, and to offer loving sympathy to the bereaved family. The services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. C. R. Cronmiller, who spoke comforting words from the text taken from 1st Thessalonians verses 14-18. The choir was in attendance and led in the singing of the hymns "Rock of Ages", "Jerusalm the Golden" and "O Blessed Sun Whose Splendor.." Misses Beatrice McIntosh and Vivian Barclay rendered a duet. "Good Night and Good Morning" the choir assisting in the chorus. Mrs. C. R. Cronmiller presided at the organ.

Mrs. Merkley is survived by her husband, three daughters, Gertrude and Ruth at home and Mrs. Aden Marcellus of Rowena. Two daughters, Edna and Rena predeceased her some years ago. The remains were conveyed to the family plot in Fairview Cemetry Morrisburg for burial.

Beautiful floral offerings, testifying to the high esteem in which deceased was held, were received from husband and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Aden Marcellus, Mr. and Mrs. George Gillard and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Merkley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Garlough, Mrs. Gertrude Alford and family, staff and pupils of Chesterville High School, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phifer, Mr. and Mrs. Stirton Phifer and Miss Vivian Barclay.

MISS ELLA M. SHAVER

There passed away recently a lifelong resident of Avonmore in the death of Ella Magaret Shaver. She was born in Avonmore on April 9, 1881, a daughter of the late Ira Shaver and of his wife, formerly Elizabeth McNeil. The late Miss Shaver had filled an important place in the life of Avonmore, having been active in all phases of church and community life.

She was a member of St. James United Church and formerly of St. Andrews Presbyterian church, and for forty-five years had been a Sunday school teacher. Scores of boys and girls who have grown up in Avonmore have thus been influenced by her unassuming Christian character. She had also acted as Mission Band leader, secetary of the Womens Missionary Society, and president of the Women's Association. She was also an officer in the Avonmore Women's Institute, and past district deputy of the Rebecca's.

She leaves her mother and two sisters — Misses Mary and Ethel Shaver of Ottawa. Another sister, Mrs. T. S. McCrea, predeceased her in 1910.

The funeral was held from her late home in Avonmore to St. James' United Church. The service was conducted by Rev. J. C. Eastcott, B.A.,B.D. Rev. N. MacLaren of Moose Creek, assisted in the service. Interment was in Avonmore cemetery.

Winter Breeding of Chicks

The poultryman with proper equipment can handle chicks in midwinter with as little mortality as with April chicks,. He may not get as high percentage hatch at later on, but even the hatchability of eggs is being controlled by the feed. January chicke will cost more as eggs are higher priced to start with. Then it will take more fuel than with spring brooding. But there is more time for looking after the chicks there may be less disease and mortality; broilers will catch a high market, and pullet should be laying early in the fall or even in late summer when egg prices are at their peak. Of course, if many started hatching all their chicks in January the higher prices for broilers and eggs would be wiped out, and chicks hatched at some other season would find the best market. Brooder houses unsuited for prolonged zero weather and the higher price for chicks will limit the number going in for January chicks. Nevertheless there should be good returns for the few who do, and they can prolong the use of their equipment, as those who have January chicks usually have another batch in the spring so as to have pullets coming into production at different seasons. January chicks will go on to range early in the season, or they may be raised indoors until ready for the laying pen.

Farmers' Account Book

The Canadian farmer may be absolved from the accusation that in taking stock of his farm business at the present time he is only following the futile fashion of making good resolutions for the New Year. It just so happens that the seasons of the year when good resolutions are popularly supposed to have a special virtue coincides with that period of the year which affords the farmer the best opportunity for making a detailed survey of his business, past and future.

To-day, farming is more of a business proposition than ever before, and the farmer who does not know the exact state of how he stands with reference to every item connected with the farm is at a disadvantage with the farmer who does. Somewhat more than a rough and ready method is necessary.

A record of each department of the farm business should be kept because it is the only way of finding out which part of the farming pays and which does not. To assist the farmer in this very important matter, the Dominion Department of Agriculture issues a very simple and useful little account book which may be obtained from the King's Printer at a nominal price of 11 cents. No special knowledge of accounting is necessary and a record of transactions can often be made in less than one hour per week.

Alsike 17c per pound for No. 1 grade, 10 to 15c for country run. Timothy 6 to 7c per pound for No. 1 grade, No. 1 (sealed) 6 3-4 to 7c, 4 to 5c for country run. Sweet clover 6c per pound for No. 1 grade, country run 4 to 5c. Timothy-alsike mixture (50 per cent. alsike) 6 1-2c per pound for country rn seed.

Supply: 224,000 lbs. of red clover scattered throughout district but main supply in Ottawa Valley; 97,000 lbs. of alfalfa mainly in St. Lawrence counties and Kingston to Oshawa district; 150,000 lbs. of alsike almost entirely in the Kingston to Oshawa district; 1,682,890 lbs. of timothy in Prescott and Russell counties and St. Lawrence subdistrict 105,000 lbs. of sweet clover confined almost entirely to St. Lawrence sub-district and Kingston to Oshawa area and 100,000 lbs. of Timothy-alsike mixtues in northern Ontario.

Demand: A very keen demand has developed for red clover. Shipments are going forward to the United States and in some instances farmer buyers are bringing trucks and cars over to do business direct with Canadian farmers. It is expected that the entire available supply of red clover will soon be out of farmers' hands.

Very little information available in regard to the demand for alfalfa. Timothy is moving more freely than at any time during this cop year. Alsike continues to move but the best quality of seed is already gone. Sweet clover has received very little attention to date but seed is now moving to the seed cleaning plants to be cleaned.

Western and Southern Ontario

Prices: Red clover 21c per pound for NNo. 1 grade, 15 1-4 to 17c for country run. Alfalfa 17c for No. 1 grade, 11 to 14c for country run. Alsike 16c for No. 1 grade, 81-4 to 13 1-2 for country run. Supply: Red clover 318,750 lbs.; AAlsike 387,000 lbs.; Timothy 1,156,100 lbs.; Alfalfa 425,375 lbs.; Sweet clover 153,225 lbs.; Canadian blue grass nil. It is estimated that there are some 450,000 lbs. of alfalfa seed more than reported previously.

Demand: The buying by our merchants for their spring requirements and for their export trading is resulting in a good demand for the three clovers and alfalfas at good prices. Very little interest is being shown in regard to timothy. Red clover and alsike are in brisk demand, while alfalfa has softened somewhat in comparison with last month.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON III.

JESUS THE WATER OF LIFE
(John 4: 1—54.)
Printed Text John 4: 7—26

Golden Text—Whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst. John 4:14.

The Lesson in Its Setting

Time.—December, A.D. 27.

Place.—The discourse with the Samaritan woman took place at Sychar in Central Palestine between Mt. Gerizim and Mount Ebal. The rest of the chapter narrates events occurring in Galilee, especially at Cana and Capernaum.

7. There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water. "A woman, and as such, lightly regarded by the popular doctors (cf. v. 27): a Samaritan, and as such, despised by the Jews.

Jesus said unto her, Give me a drink. "He opened the conversation with a request on the human level, the level of His own human necessity.

8. For His disciples were gone away into the city to buy food. It is possible that one of the disciples carried a vessel for drawing water up from the well, and that, because they were absent, a stranger had to be asked to draw water up for the Lord.

9. The Samaritan woman therefore saith unto him, How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me? The word here translated "askest" is a word of petition, as from an inferior to a superior; but when Christ refers to that request of hers, He does not take up and allow her word, but uses the phrase, "who is it that saith to thee." Who am a Samaritan woman. (For Jews have no dealings with Samaritans.) "Rabbinis precept forbade Jews to eat bread or drink wine with the Samaritans. The Jews despised them as a mongrel people with nondescript faith (2 Kings 17: 24 ff.)."

10. Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God. As far as we know, the water was not drawn up for the quenching of Jesus' thirst. He drops the matter of his need for literal water, and He turns the attention of the woman from things physical to things spiritual.

And who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink. Two things then this woman did not know, the gift of God, and the identity of the person who stood before her. Thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee living water. God's greatest gifts are available to His children, whatever their merits, simply by asking (Matt. 7: 7, 8). "a common expression for running spring water of a cistern or reservoir, and used as a symbol of spiritual blessings with great frequency in the Old Testament."

11. The woman saith unto Him, Sir, Thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: whence then hast Thou that living water? The woman finds it impossible to comprehend the spiritual aspects of our Lord's statement, and, for the most part, confines her attention to the matter of drawing literal water from the well immediately before them; yet, in her question, "Whence, then, hast Thou living water?"

12. Art Thou greater than our father Jacob, who gave us the well, and drank thereof himself, and his sons, and his cattle? There is nothing in the Bible to substantiate the claim of the Samaritans that they descended from Joseph, and hence could call Jacob their father. "When the Samaritans asked Alexander the Great to excuse them from tribute in the sabbatical year because, as true sons of Joseph they did not till their land that year, he pronounced their claim an imposture and destroyed Samaria."

13. Jesus answered and said unto her, Every one that drinketh of his water shall thirst again. The Lord Jesus does not stop to compare Himself with Jacob, but He does state a truism which she could not deny, namely, that the water in this well could only temporarily quench the thirst of any who drink of it.

14. But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst. (Cf. 6: 35; Rev. 7: 16; 21: 6) Here Christ gathers to a head innumerable promises of the Old Testament, and thus claims them as fulfilled in Himself; e.g., Isa. 41: 18; 48:21; 49: 10; 55:1. See also Psalm 36:9; Jer. 2: 13; 17:13. But the water I shall give him shall become in him a well of water springing up unto eternal life. Christ received into the heart by a believer imparts eternal life. The spiritual life which we have from Christ can never dry up. It goes on and on for all eternity.

15. The woman saith unto Him, Sir, give me this water, that I thirst not, neither come all the way hither to draw. Not only has the curiosity of the women been aroused, but Christ has stirred up within her heart a deep longing for this living water of which He is speaking, though she does not fully comprehend what He has been saying.

Jesus saith unto her, Go, call thy husband, and come hither. One is surprised at the sudden change in the line of Jesus' conversation. At the moment when she asked the Lord for this living water, He told her to go back to the city. He did not bestow upon this woman the gift of eternal life when she was keeping buried out of His sight, and probably out of serious consideration, the shameful sin in which she was living. Christ must bring her to an acknowledgment and a confession of this sin first.

17. The woman answered and said unto Him, I have no husband. Apparently this was an attempt to evade an examination of which she was afraid. "She would rather have these pages unturned. Jesus saith unto her, Thou saidst well, I have no husband: 18. For thou hast had five husbands; and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband; this hast thou said truly. We must not forget that this terrible resume of this woman's life was not something which she confessed, but was something which He had knowledge of and reminded her of.

19. The woman saith unto Him, Sir, I perceive that thou art a prophet. The word here translated "perceive" "marks contemplation, not immediate perception."

20. Our fathers worshipped in this domain; and ye say, that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship. The mountain to which this woman referred is Mount Gerizim, which was for the Samaritans the holy mountain of the world.

21. Jesus saith unto her, Woman believe me, the hour cometh when neither in this mountain, nor in Jerusalem, shall ye worship the Father. Our Lord does not decide the question as to the superiority of one location over another, though, of course, if He had spoken about it, He would have exposed the fradulent claims of the Samaritans; but He simply announces to her that the time would come when the worship of the Father would be determined no longer by some geographical limitation.

22. Ye worship that which ye know not: we worship that which we know; for salvation is from the Jews. The Samaritan religion had only the Pentateuch for its Bible: it repudiated the Psalms and the writings of the prophets. Furthermore, it had added many idolatrous practices and pagan superstitions, so that the God whom they worshipped was not the true Jehovah of the Old Testament.

23. But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth. True worshippers here are contrasted not so much with the insincere as with those who worship imperfectly. That which is imperfect can never be finally true. To worship "in spirit" is to commune with God in one's spirit, for the preposition "in" has reference to the sphere in which worship moves.

For such doth the Father seek to be His worshippers. "The Father is seeking in the Son for true worshippers, and therefore men are encouraged and enabled to seek Him in spirit and truth (John 1: 17)."

24. God is a Spirit. By saying tha God is a Spirit, Christ means that God has no bodily form. On the other hand, God does have substance or essence. God is not a mere idea, or a construction of the mind, like a mathematical formula.

And they that worship Him must worship in spirit and truth. Worship of God which is not in accordance with Gods nature is not true worship.

25. The woman saith unto Him, I know that Messiah cometh (he that is called Christ): when He is come, He will declare unto us all things. This is the only place in the New Testament where Christ is referred to as the Messiah, with the single exception of a proceding notice in this same Gospel (1:41). The word "Messiah means the Anointed One.

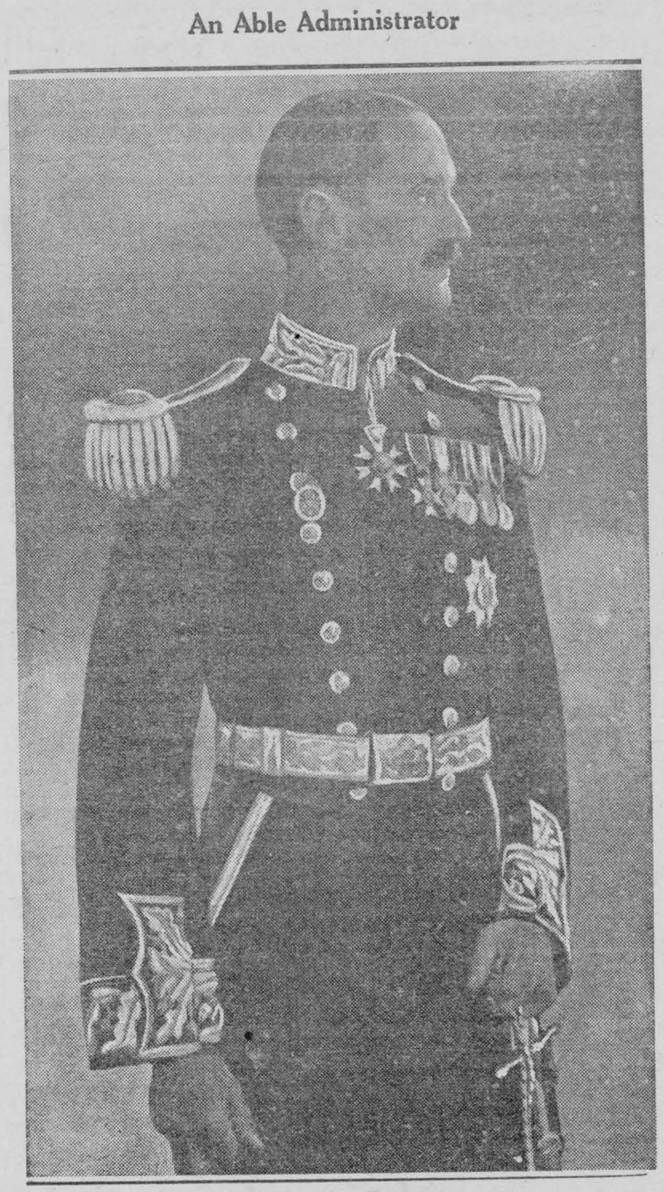

26. Jesus saith unto her, I that speak unto thee am He. These words probably did not express a surprising truth to the women, who had been led to see so many great spiritual truths this hour. It is an undeniable acknowledgment, on the part of Christ, that He believed Himself to be the Messiah sent from God. If we do not accept His verdict about Himself, we characterize His as one who spoke falsely, or one who was under a delusion.

Farm Problems

Conducted by PROFESSOR HENRY G. BELL
with the co-operation of the various departments of Ontario Agricultural College

Question:— (a) "Has there been very much experimental work carried on in Ontario to determine if the use of fertilizer in this province is profitable? Will it pay me to use fertilizer wth my spring grain crop?

(b) I intend to grow 10 acres of table turnips (Rutabagas) on a clay loam soil which will receive eight loads of barnyard manure per acre. What kind of fertilizer would be suitable for these conditions and how should it be sown?'—T. B., Waterloo County.

Answer:—(a) The Ontario Agricultural College has been carrying on fertilizer experiments in various parts of the province for several year. During the last seven years, a very definite campaign of testing the suitability of various fertilizers on the farmers' own farms has been in progress. Over 6500 plots have been conducted on a total of over 1300 farms. This work has proven quite definitely that profit is to be gained by wise use of fertilizers in supplementing the fertility of the soil and of manure which has accumulated on the farm. The average gain in cereals that has been obtained is from 10 to 15 bushels per acre. Fertilizers on potatoes, over a six-year period have given an average increase of 55 bushels per acre. Fertilizers on alfalfa have produced an average increase of almost two tons per acre. All these increases and similar improvement in other crops have been obtained from moderate application of such as 250 lbs. per acre on cereals, 375 lbs. per acre on alfalfa and 750 lbs. per acre on potatoes. At prices which have prevailed for fertilizers and for crops, exceeding good interest on money invested in fertilizer has been realized. (b) On turnips, 2-12-10 fertilizer has given largest yields, at the rate of 200 to 250 lbs. per acre. This is a fairly heavy application to make through the fertilizer dropper attached to the turnip drill. It has been found better practice to drill the fertilizer over the turnip area before the land is ridged for seeding.

Question: (a) "I grow cabbage and cauliflower for early market. My soil is a light sandy loam and I would like to know what fertilizer and the quantity per acre should be used to give the earliest results.

(b) I have an eight-year-old asparagus bed which produces an excellent yield so far as quantity is concerned, but after about the third cutting, the tips become stringy. Can this be corrected by the use of a balanced fertilizer and what analysis would you recommend? Also, please give me any other information which you think would benefit the crop. Up until now this asparagus bed has never received anything but barnyard manure.

(c) Do I need to use fertilizer when I follow a rotation in which a green crop, usually alfalfa, is plowed under every four years and the land receives a good application of manure every four to five years."—W. S. S., Essex.

Answer:—(a) For cabbage and cauliflower, good results have been obtained from use of a 4-8-10 fertilizer at the rate of 1500-2000 lbs. per acre. This should be worked into the soil along the rows, before the plants are transplanted. Particularly good results are obtained also from an additional light application of nitrate of soda around the plants, but not touching them, about two weeks after the plants have been set out and sometimes again at a period of another two weeks. Do not apply more than 10 lbs. per acre in one application.

(b) Asparagus can be helped materially by the addition of fertilizer in spring. We would not advise a mixed fertilizer, but an application of 100-200 lbs. per acre of nitrate of soda, or cyanamid, should give good results This should be scattered along the asparagus rows before the tips begin to show and worked into the soil by light harrowing After the asparagus is cut, the application of such fertilizer as 4-8-10 gives great strength to the crop for the next year.

(c) The rotation of crops which includes legumes such as alfalfa and sweet clover or common clover, adds organic matter to the soil and makes some addition of nitrogen. Other crops take out nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash, and of course legumes remove considerable potash and phosphoric acid from the soil. If manure is added, quite a bit of nitrogen will be supplied, a small amount of phosphoric acid and a valuable amount of potash, so that for general cropping systems with good rotation of crops, there is necessity for addition of more phosphoric acid and potash than is returned in manure. Whether or not there is need of more nitrogen will depend entirely on the type of farming and the soil type.

MINING FLASHES

The No. 1 diamond drill hole at the Kenora property of Kenecho Gold Mines has reached a depth of 520 feet, and has intersected 16 feet of mineralization, including three feet of quartz believed to be a new vein, according to a wire received at the head office from Chas. Young, managing director. The quartz contains pyrite and fine sulphides, while the wall rock is also mineralized for some distance on either side, it is stated.

Heva Cadillac Gold Mines is preparing to speed up work on its property located 1½ miles south and slightly east of the O'Brien in Cadillac Township, Quebec, officials report. At present, the company is building a permanent set of camps and a large crew of men will be put to work to open up a shear zone which was discovered some time ago, which consists of a sheared porphyry with narrow blue quartz veins. The transmission line from Northern Canada Power is about one mile distant from the northern boundary of the property and the property is less than a mile from the new C.N.R. line from Senneterre to Amos.

Production at Shawkey Gold Mining Company for December was the best month in the mine's history, with output valued at $41,000, according to V. M. Ryan, mine manager. For the first ten months of 1936 output totalled $267,558, with $10,000 to tailings and a general overall extraction of 96.5%. There is a considerable tie-up in the mill circuit due to the unusually large percentage of free gold in the ore. Drilling continues from underground, with success having been met with, while a programme of drilling on surface is to be carried on in an effort to disclose the extensions of the veins encountered on an adjoining property to the west. Drilling is also to be done to establish the No. 1 vein at a depth of 250 feet below the 575-foot level.

In a communication to Empress Consolidated Gold Mines the General Engineering Company reports that in accordance with the agreement between the two companies, the latter undertook to act as technical superintendent of the property. Correlation of all available sampling, drilling and assay data has been the primary objective and this work has been actively prosecuted under their direction since Dec. 15th. Most of the assaying since Dec. 15th has been of sections of drill core and work is proceeding of sampling the adit, surface exposures, and additional drill core. R. W. Howe, consulting engineer of the company, reports rapid progress being made in re-check work Decision to re-samply all work to date has made it necessary to run an unusually large number of assays. The assay plant is being operated two shifts a day. Two drills are engaged in a series recommended by engineers in the locality of Trench E, west of the lower adit, and Trench F, east of the adit, in both of which considerable free gold was exposed in previous work.

Doreva Gold Mines has made important additions to its already large holdings in Bousquet Township, Quebec, during the last few days. The acquisitions comprise the south half of the Vaughan claims lying to the north; claims owned by Engineers Exploration the east; the Gravelle group of claims adjoining the Engineers Exploration on the north, and the Ash group adjoining the Gravelle to the east. The company now holds a total contiguous area in excess of 4,200 acres extending a great distance along the strike of the Cadillac ore zone. Development is being advanced with 3 drills and surface crews with portable compressors engaged in operations. The work is a formulation of a definite program of underground development after determining the best location with a working shaft. A prospect shaft is now being sunk at one of the important showings. A crew of 42 men are employed.

Underground work on the 200-foot level at the Sturgeon River property of Brengold Mines indicates a possibility that No. 2 and No. 7 veins will intersect at a point below the 200-foot level, officials report. To explore the possibilities at greater depth as indicated by underground work already completed, as rapidly as possible, a diamond drill contract has been let and the drills will be working underground within the next few days. A very comprehensive underground diamond drill program has been laid out and the area to the south and west of the present underground workings will also be explored by a number of long flat holes. Lateral work continues on the 100 and 200-foot levels, with veins Nos. 2 and 7 being opened on the former horizon. Drifting on No. 2 vein is also underway on the 200-foot level, while a crosscut is being driven to the southwest to explore the downward continuation of No. 7 vein.

The Machine

"It is said that machinery manufactures unemployment, and the machine has been cursed as something which takes work from men. This is a superficial point of view which cannot be justified except in a very narrow segment of production. If the machine creates unemployment in one industry, it causes other industries to arise. It puts at the disposition of the masses articles formerly reserved to the aristocracy. It gives birth to new needs, new trades, and new opportunities for profit. Did the linotype create unemployment in the printing industry? For a few months, perhaps. After that time, it inspired periodicals by the hundreds and books by the thousand. The machine killed the stagecoach, but it gave birth to the automobile.

"It is impossible to demonstrate whether the loss or the gain is the greater. In very truth, the only irrefutable proof would be to show that unemployment made its appearance with the machine. But that is impossible. There were unemployed before the eighteenth century. The only difference is that they were called the poor, or beggars, or vagabonds. It will be sufficient to consult the arsenal of laws against begging in France and England to realize that unemployment is a heredity plague, far antedating the utilization of steam or coal."—Je Sui. Partout, Paris, France.

Junior Farmers Visit International Harvester Plant

When prize-winning boys and girls, 75 in number, members of Junior Farm Clubs, representing the different provinces, visited Hamilton a short time ago, one of the most interesting interludes was a trip to the Hamilton works of the International Harvester Company and the picture shown above was taken after a trip through the large plant. F. M. Morton, vice-president, who is also honorary president of the Canadian Council on Girls' and Boys' work, received the group and conducted them on a trip through the farm implement factory and binder mill. Mr. Morton is seen in the centre of the second row. At noon there was a tasty luncheon served, at which J. G. Rayner, president of the Canadian Council, extended a generous word of praise to the Harvester company for its courtesy and contribution to the pleasant associations to be carried away by each visitor as a life-time memory of the trip. Among other tributes, Mr. Rayner explained that a part of the funds necessary to carry on club work accrued from the proceeds of a gift made years ago by the International Harvester Company. Among those in the group are the following Ontario Club Members:— W. W. Werry, Hampton, Ont.; G. F. Robson, Denfield, Ont.; Frank J. Giffen, Creemore, Ont.; Mac Walker, Campbellcroft, Ont.; Floyd Metcalf, Bowmanville, Ont.; Beverley Shouldice, Shallow Lake, Ont.; Carrol Nicholls, Port Hope, Ont.; Arthur Banting, Alliston, Ont.

Like King George V., the new King has associated himself with Scouting in various ways. He attended the great London gathering of Wolf Cubs held at Hyde Park in 1921, the Imperial Jamboree at Wembley in 1924 and the London Cup "Palava" of 1926.

A photograph of the new King, when the Duke of York, shows him in full Scout kit and wearing the Silver Wolf, Scouting's highest honorary award. The decoration was presented by Lord Baden-Powell in 1926, in recognition of the Prince's service to the Movement as President of the Boy Scouts Association of Yorkshire and of London.

His ideas on the responsibilities of citizenship were thus outlined to a gathering of youth by the King when Duke of York and President of the London Boy Scouts Association:

"I want you to realize that you have a great responsibility to take up with the duties of citizenship that lie before you. You may think these problems have nothing to do with you; that it is other people who have them to solve. But don't believe that. It is only when every man and woman realize their responsibilities to their country in general that a happy country can result, because not one of us is put into the world for himself alone. Make yourself effective in your job, and do it with all your might, because dishonest and ineffective work is wrong to your fellows and to your country Therefore we must all do the best we can."

Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden will be in personal charge of the contingent of Boy Scouts representing that country next summer at the 5th International Scout Jamboree to be held in Holland. His staff of assistants will include Count Folke Bernadotte.

Accident Prevention

More protective equipment is being issued to Britain's pitmen, states the Safety in Mines Research Board. The result is a decline in colliery accident rates, particularly those relative to head injuries. In 1933, miners in one South Wales pit, unprotected by hats, suffered from head wounds at the rate of 0.79 per 1,000 man shifts worked. But last year when eighty-five per cent of the men that worked underground wore hats, the rate dropped to 0.075 per 1,000 man shifts. Altogether 140,000 of these hard, strongly-built hats were supplied to miners in 1935.

Other accident risks have been minimized by the adoption of safety boots with reinforced toes and instep. More conveyor-belt workers are now wearing gloves. But it is insisted the glove habit, once adopted, should not suddenly be discarded, hands becoming soft under its influence. Knee and elbow pads proved successful in forestalling beat-knee and beat-elbow. Of non-fatal accidents, eye injuries exact the severest toll. Here goggles are a reliable precaution.

At Steetley Colliery, where research workers tested an experimental lighting installation at the coal face, greater safety, it was found, occurred with increased illumination. Unfortunately, the Board's invaluable investigations are hampered by lack of funds.

WITH THE CURLERS

Two rinks representing the Morrisburg Curling Club in the Edinburgh Granite Competition held in Montreal January 8th, 9th and 11th succeeded in winning the highest average score of the eligible clubs, thereby getting as the prize, eight sets of granite curling stones, presented by T. Howard Stewart. This competition was inaugurated in 1924 by Mr. Stewart, with the idea of having more Clubs adopt the granite game. Ottawa and Montreal Districts are the only places in Canada where the granites are not played. These districts still stick to the iron game. The competition was the largest this year since its inception there being 240 rinks contesting. Once the granites are won by a club they are not eligible until all the members of the association have won them.

Morrisburg were drawn against two rinks from Granby winning both games.

OPTICAL GLASS

Might rightly be called the greatest boon to humanity. Through it you are able to see properly and to perform your daily task.

Without glass the progress of the world would be greatly hampered, if not entirely stopped.

Defective vision would remain defective; astronomy would cease; scientific research would cease, because glass is necessary for astronomical and scientific research as it is for the correction of defective vision.

But thanks to glass, we are able to, it might almost be said, make the blind to see.

HOCKEY NEWS

JUNIORS WIN 3—1 OVER KEMPTVILLE

The local juniors struck their stride Monday night when they took the visiting Kemptville team into camp by 3 goals to 1. The score might easily have read 3-0, had the local defence been a little more careful in clearing the puck,. Every man on the team was out to win the game and every one turned in a stellar performance. Johnny McCoy, the goalie, stopped all kinds of shots with ease, especially during the last period, when the visitors were pressing the play. Johnny made some wonderful saves, often coming far out of his net to rob incoming forwards. Although the game was not rough, several players suffered minor injuries,. The game was well handled by Hector Murdoch, of Prescott.

Scorers were: Morrisburg, Gamble Tindal, R. Smith. Kemptville — Johnston.

The lineup.

Morrisburg—
Goal—McCoy.
Def.,—McIntyre, Weir.
Cent.—P. Smith.
Wings—Dillabough, Gamble.
Subs,.—R. Smith, Tuttle, Tindal, Coons, Casselman.

Kemptville—
Goal—Hicks.
Def.—Reddick, Dickinson.
Centre—Fairfield.
Wings—Tallman, Daye.
Subs.—Carmichel, Johnston, Wornell, Hughes.

Of interest to his friends in the district, is the announcement that Chuck Lapierre, of Chesterville, who played a few years ago for the Morrisburg Tigers, has resigned his position as guard at Burwash Industrial Farm to join the International Police Force at Garson.

Cornwall Canadiens took it on the chin, in Iroquois Tuesday night, when the boys from Hochelaga scalped the French foemen and skated off with a 7—1 decision. It was the first defeat for Canadiens this season. We are told that Ross Wylie, who starred a few years back on the Iroquois Junior team outskated and outplayed any other man on the ice Tuesday night, and that's saying something.

Little Tommy Cook, veteran centre ice man of the Chicago Black Hawks, has fired his last shot in the sombre livery of the Windy City crew. Clem Loughlin, Hawks' manager, announced on Sunday night that Cook, who had been under suspension for a week for 'infraction of the Training Rules' had been given his unconditional release,. Cook may sign up with Montreal Maroons.

The local Juniors, who played Kemptville Monday night and defeated them 3—1, certainly didn't look like the same aggregation that bowed 5—0 to Prescott, and 10—2 to Cardinal. The boys displayed class in every division from the goal out to centre, and it would be unfair to single out any one player as the star of the evening It is to be hoped that, having found their 'sea legs', the team will continue its winning ways.

There is one man in the N.H.L. to-day who has constantly crossed up the experts in their efforts to count him out,. The gent in question is Babe Siebert, pesently with Montreal Canadiens,. Siebert, who was let go by Maroons when they broke up the three S line of Siebert, Smith and Stewart was taken on next by the New York Rangers,. Lester Patrick sold him to brother Frank at Boston because he once kicked an opposing player with his skate. At this time the Brawny Babe was supposed to be nearly washed up,. He was converted from a forward to a defenceman at Boston, and subsequently paired with Eddie Shore, one of the all-time greats of the game,. When he and Shore were selected on the Canadian Press All-Stars, it was figured that the great Eddie had "carried" him to this honor. Last summer Siebert was sold to Canadiens., The difference that he made to this team can be seen by comparing the position of the French men to-day with their position at this time last year,. In the meantime Shore, Siebert's old partner at Boston seems lost. For the first time in years his name is not among the scoring leaders. The Babe, on the other hand, is well up on the list, with five goals and seven assists for a total of twelve points,. He may be growing old (he's 33 now) but you would certainly never know it,.

NATION VAALLEY WINS IN WINCHESTER LOOP

Williamsburg divided points with Hy Bessin's juniors of Winchester in the first game of Tuesday night's Town Hockey League double-header the final score being 3-3.

R. Casselman and C. Marcellus gave Williamsburg a two-goal lead in the first 9 minutes of play, but Nairn Boyd and Dave Melvin got the equalizers for Bessin's before the period ended. D. Hutt scored the visitors' other goal in the second period, and C. Hulquist tied the count for Bessin's in the final period Both teams battled hard, but were unable to break the deadlock.

Nation Valley Wins

In the second contest, Nation Valley Red Wings handed Chas. Cross' Maple Leafs their first defeat of the season, 2-1 in a close-checking game.

Alford and Elmsley were the scorers for the winners, while Art Summers dented the twine for the Maple Leafs. The ice was fast and the game one of the best played this season.

First Game

Williamsburg—Goal, Van Allan; defence, Marcellus and McIntosh; centre, Barkley; wings, R. Casselman and Hutt, subs, Schell, Soucie, Whittles, Bailey and C. Casselman

Second Game

Maple Leafs—Goal, Williams; defence, Cross and McLean; center, Kenny; wings, Wylie and Helmer; subs, Carkner, Summers, Stuart and Dixon.
