Pioneers Maintain Lead In League Playoffs

Playing Coach Gord McMillan of Williamsburg-Brinston Lioneers has been the spark to the Pioneers leading their best of 7 League finals 3-2. Gord started playing ball with the Pioneers at age 15, now at age 41, a grandfather, he fills in whenever a player is absent. Having played first base only once in his 26 years, he has proved very capable in taking over for the absent Russ Casselman. In the 5th game he scored the insurance run and narrowly missed on another attempt.

Pioneers defeated Brockville Stars 3-1 in Brockville with Big Doug Casselman striking out 13 of the 18 players he faced in the first 6 innings. Doug gave up 4 hits and struck out 17 in the 8 innings. Roger Hodgkinson gave up 10 hits, walked 2 and hit 1 batter, and struck out 6. 7 Pioneers were left on base, and 3 for the Stars. Stars got their only run in the 7th, with 1 out, Don Fenn doubled up right center and then scored on Hodgkinson's single to left.

In the 3rd inning with 2 out, Larry Cooper took first after being hit by a pitched ball, then scored on Paul Beckstead's double up center. In the 4th Gerry Belanger doubled down the left feild line, moved to third on a sacrifice by Bill Hogaboam and scored on Ted Smith's single up cencenter.

Top of the 9th, with 2 out, Gord McMillan singled to left field. Larry Cooper doubled to left center, McMillan slid home and was declared safe. This upset the Stars catcher Don Fenn (who was already mad after striking out). The umpire attempted to clean off the plate with Fenn quickly kicking the dirt back onto the plate. The umpire then ejected Fenn from the game, which left the Stars with no spares. Their manager, Bob MacDonald, League President, got ready to play. Pioneers suggested that maybe their coach wanted to play instead. MacDonald then got mad, walked off the field, his team followed and the game was never finished. Hopefully before this is read, the 6th game will be played.

Report From Queen's Park: BY HON. DON IRVINE

"If you can't beat them in the alley, you can't beat them on the ice."

The invasion of this attitude into our national sport has been a source of increasing concern to many people. To discover the causes of increased violence in amateur hockey, and some possible remedies, the Ontario Government through the Ministry of Community and Social Services authorized the Investigation and Inquiry into Violence in Amateur Hockey. The Commissioner of the Inquiry was William McMurtry, a Toronto lawyer. The findings of the investigation are significant, and will have a profound effect upon the future direction of amateur hockey in Ontario.

In this column, I would like to outline the recommendations made by the McMurtry report. Naturally we cannot hope to completely reform amateur hockey overnight, but we must make a concrete effort to bring back some of the basic ideals inherent in all athletic endeavours.

The McMurtry report recommended that the goals and purposes of amateur hockey be more fully defined. Since fewer than 1 per cent of all organized minor hockey league players ever turn professional, the system should not be designed to promote the elite. It should fit the needs of the majority who play for fun and recreation. Amateur hockey should stress the importance of skill development and active participation. This participation should be the goal toward whcih the entire system strives.

The rules of the game should be developed so as to create an environment where skill and positive attitudes excel. There should be an individual rule structure designed to meet each level of amateur hockey. In the early stages of a young player's development, he should be concerned with the attainment of skills and should not have to contend with defending himself against members of opposition teams. Violence should not be tolerated at any level of amateur hockey, and game misconducts should be instituted to prevent fighting. I am pleased at the recent announcement of the Ontario Hockey Association in this matter. Any OHA player who receives a five-minute fighting major will be ejected from the game. In addition ot this, the OHA executive announced that any player wh oreceives three fighting majors in one single season will be reported to the president of the association who will consider further disciplinary action. These provisions represent a concrete step to control the ever-increasing rate of violence in amateur hockey.

In the area of coaching, the inquiry presented further recommendations. The institution of coaches' clinics and mandatory certification for all coaches in amateur hockey were suggested. Through a process of education, a more healthy attitude towards competition and officials will be established. Coaches have the major responsibility in moulding the attitudes and behaviour of each player on the ice. If it is proved that a coach condones or encourages a violent approach to the game, then he should be disciplined. The coach should also be made accountable for any game or match penalties which are assessed to any member of his team.

Certification programmes should also be set up for referees. The OHA and CAHA have taken steps to provide such programmes, and they are to be commended. It is necessary to ensure that the rules of the game are applied consistently, and that the referees have the respect of all players, coaches and fans. To this end, instruction and certification of referees would prove most beneficial.

The report further suggested the creation of an Ontario Hockey Council composed of representatives from various sectors including hockey, coaching, physical education and sports psychology. Such a council would at first be responsible for formulating the objective of amateur hockey, and structuring the rules to meet these objectives. It should further supervise the curriculum of coaches' and referees' clinics and be a resource centre. The council would report to the Ministry of Community of Social Services regarding the allocation of available funds.

Suggestion was made that the Ontario Government give financial assistance to the associations which regulate the teams, such as the OHA and OMHA. The community sponsors will still be required for each individual team, but the associations who regulate these teams should receive administrative grants from the Provincial Government.

The inquiry further suggested that the Government make representation to the media, particularly the television industry, with regard to coverage of professional hockey games. There is a need to place less emphasis on the violence of the sport, and more stress on the skill and finess involved.

Hockey, our national sport can be one of the most positive educational forces in society. It has the capacity to teach young boys discipline, understanding and respect. We must not allow the game to deteriorate through increased violence.

The efforts of the OHA and other associations in trying to eliminate fighting from amateur hockey will help to provide a better environmnet for all young players.

ANOTHER FIRST FOR HOSP. AUXILIARY

Another first for the Auxiliary to the District Memorial Hospital was staged last week when approximately 100 volunteers were the guests of the Board of Governors at a dinner meeting.

In her opening remarks, the Auxiliary president, Mrs. F. M. Cass, expressed the thanks of the guests to the Board of Governors through its chairman, Mr. George Elliott; to Mr. Stel, hospital Administrator; to Miss Legris and the nursing staff; to Miss Charleston and the dietary staff; and to the maintenance men who set up the tables for the dinner and later prepared the room for the general meeting whcih followed.

Mr. Elliott, Mr. Stel and Miss Legris each expressed appreciation of the assistance which the In-service volunteer program contributes to the hospital.

Appreciation was also expressed to Mrs. Sunny Boyd for her decorating efforts; to Muriel's Flowers for flower arrangements; to Mrs. Rose Beeman, present Volunteer co-ordinator for the auxiliary and to convenors of volunteers from the various units under whose organization the volunteer service is carried out.

Guest speaker for the meeting which followed the dinner was Miss Winifred Shooter, who is presently on the staff of the Ontario Hospital Association, as Co-ordinator of Volunteer Services. Miss Shooter traced, briefly, the history of hospital work in Canada from 1639 when the first hospital was founded in Quebec, through the time when a lengthy illness and hospitalization could be a financial disaster, to 1941 when the first hospital insurance plans (Blue Cross, P.S.I., etc.) came into effect, to 1959, the organization of the government-sponsored hospitalization scheme as we know it to-day. To-day's society demands adequate health care and we, the people, through unions, through voluntary associations and through our elected representatives in government, have moved a long way toward that end until now our health care system is one of the finest in the world.

Miss Shooter continued to point out that a growing need for the future is the establishment in communities of Health Care Centres which would take the load off Emergency departments by supplying care 24 hours a day, 7 days a week for those illnesses not requiring the use of expensive hospital equipment or the active-treatment beds, at the same time substantially reducing the overall cost of operating the hospital.

In emphasizing the fact that volunteerism must play an important part in the hospital of the future the speaker used two quotes: "The kind of culture we have means that we must do volunteer work to keep the culture going" and "The expectations of our society to-day are so high that it is just not possible for them to be attained by professional staff alone".

In her closing remarks Miss Shooter paid tribute to all who, by their hours of volunteer service, are showing the way.

Mrs. E.L. McCartney, president elect of the auxiliary, thanked Miss Shooter for her thought-provoking and informative address and presented her with a small memorial of her visit to our hospital.

During the evening a special award was presented to Miss Gladys Bayne who, during her term as president, had the foresight to introduce the idea of In-Service work to the auxiliary members. Miss Bayne, in expressing her thanks, gave a brief resume of the work of the auxiliary since its inception in 1948 with special reference to the introduction of volunteer work.

Awards of merit recognized the contributions of Mrs. Sunny Boyd, first volunteer Co-ordinator, who has a record of 484 hours of volunteer service; to Mrs. Jessie Summers, with 444 hours of volunteer service as well as valuable contributions in executive positions of the auxiliary; and to Mrs. Midg Smith, with 396 hours of ser-Howard Mancmfwypetaoicmwfyp vice. The contribution of Mrs. Howard Manchester, who clocked 292 hours of service, received honourable mention.

Mrs. Rose Beeman, the present Co-ordinator, asked for the continued support and co-operation of the volunteers, suggesting that 10 additional workers could be used in the various service areas of the hospital. She also reminded all volunteers of the orientation meeting to be held later in September.

RED CROSS IS ALWAYS THERE WITH YOUR HELP

Using electricity wisely isn't just a matter of avoiding waste.

Being watchful to avoid the frittering away of kilowatthours is everyone's concern, in the interest of economy and conservation of valuable energy resources.

But for some people, living in older homes with outdated wiring, restricted use of appliances is not always a matter of choice. They do not have sufficient circuits to serve normal needs without resorting to 'octopus' outlets and extension cords. The result: overloading and blowing of fuses.

These conditions also tend to diminish the performance of appliances and shortens their life.

Inadequate wiring is not only inconvenient, it can be a safety hazard. If you have any doubts about the capacity of your home's wiring have it checked by a qualified Electrical Contractor. Then, use electricity wisely... and safely.

Ont. Home Renewal Program

PART ONE

Provincial funding for a major program of home repairs and rehabilitation was announced September 19 as part of the Ontario Ministry of Housing program to ensure adequate housing for all citizens of Ontario.

The new program, called Ontario Home Renewal Program, makes funding available to every municipality in Ontario, and is specifically aimed at low and moderate-income families.

The funds, available to municipalities which have or will adopt a minimum standard of housing and occupancy, provides loans up to $7,500 to homeowners who wish to bring their principal residence up to these standards.

The program extends considerably the opportunity for home renewal where previously funds were only available in designated areas under the federal-provincial Neighborhood Improvement Program and the federal Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program All municipalities meeting the by-law requirements are eligible for OHRP funds - where no organized local government exists, the Ministry of Housing will administer the program.

OHRP funds are aimed directly at the needs of homeowners with a maximum annual income of $12-500 annually. A portion of the loan is "forgiveable", that is, not paid back after a pre-determined period of continuous occupancy in the repaired home.

Interest rates on the portion of the loan to be paid back are geared to the homeowner's income, and range from no interest at all to a maximum of eight per cent per year.

The OHRP program is administred directly by the participating municipality which, once it has been granted funds, handles applications, nispection, terms and amount of the loan, and repayment.

OHRP is designed to provide loans for essential housing repairs such as struuctural and sanitary improvements and the upgrading of plumbing, heating, and electrical systems. Non-essential repairs or work such as additions to a home, a second bathroom or garage, or beyond-minimum-standards work is not eligible for loans.

All work done must be designed to bring the home up to the minimum standards set by the municipality. These standards must be approved by the Ministry of Housing.

In announcing details of the new program in an address to a Municipal Housing Workshop in London, on September 19, the Hon. Donald R. Irvine, Acting Minister, said new housing alone cannot meet the needs of all Ontario's residents, and it is a false economy to adopt the wholesale destruction of older neighborhoods to accommodate new buildings.

"We concluded there are areas which are just as much in need of government aid in the renewal of their homes as those covered by the NIP and RRAP operations," Mr. Irvine said. "We decided to move beyond the confines of these two programs and introduce OHRP."

Mr. Irvine said the provincial government has set aside $10 million for the operation of OHRP in fiscal 1974-1975, and has set target figures of over 3,700 units of older housing to be benefically affected by the renewal programs. It is expected the $10 million allocation will be repeated for the next two years.

"Ontario has approximately 2.5 million residential dwellings and at any time about five per cent or 100,000 of these homes are in need of structural repair," Mr. Irvine said.

This 100,000 figure is roughly equal to an average full year's production of new housing in Ontario. Without a program to maintain these houses Ontario would be in danger of losing as many units of housing as are brought on stream annually, the Minister said

Much of this older housing stock was built at a time when materials and labor costs were substantially lower, and the OHRP program is designed to ensure this housing is kept in good repair and will provide many more years of use.

Actual processing of municipal requests to take advantage of the OHRP program are to be handled by the Community Renewal Br. of the Ministry.

The branch also will work with municipalities wishing to institute the required minimum standards of maintenance and occupancy by law or building maintenance and health, safety and sanitary standards.

The Community Renewal Br. is also operating seminars and work shop training sessions for municipal employees whose role as building inspectors will take on greater importance under the OHRP program.

Full details of the program will be available to interested homeowners within a few days from the municipal clerk or building inspector's department in participating municipalities.

For homeowners in unorganized municipalities, this information can be obtained from the Community Renewal Branch, Ministry of Housing, 801 Bay Street, Toronto.

Part two of this series will outline the specific steps a homeowner should take to apply for an OHRP loan, and will provide typical examples of cases in which the program can be applied.

JIM LANGABEER PROVIDES 'HOME COMFORT'

Years ago, the words 'Home Comfort' meant enough blankets to keep out ice-cold air and a well-tarred roof to keep out the rain. Blankets and tar are still important, but their function has been enhanced considerably by modern building materials and furnaces.

Winters are no less harsh now and damp air none-the-less chilling, but since the home has seen so many improvements, the words 'Home Comfort' to many in and around this area mean a telephone call to BP's Jim Langabeer.

Jim's the local BP agent who distributes fuel oil, farm gasoline, diesel oil, stove oil for space heaters and specialised lubricants for both farm and industrial use. His wife Grace handles the books and the phone. From their home at 56 Meikle Street, Jim Langabeer is also a qualified electrician and an experienced furnace serviceman.

Besides being an active businessman, Jim's 'work' extends to his community. He is currently vice-president of the local branch of the Canadian Cancer Society and participates in their annual fund raising activities.

For the past eight years, Jim has been a member of the Morrisburg and District Canadian Club. "Members come from all parts of our community, and we try to bring in people who can talk to other people, at all levels," he explains.

Jim and members of the Loyal Orange Lodge No. 3127 really get involved in a variety of odd projects. Two of these include the installation of the clock high atop the Morrisburg Municipal Building . . . and, the drinking fountain in the Town's Shopping Centre. Lodge No. 3127 has also arranged a 'skating day' each winter, an 'oyster supper' each summer, and with a flair for the humorous, the Lodge sponsored a 'best-decorated bicycle contest' last year at Morrisburg's 'Old Home Week'.

Jim Langabeer is also the Grand Master of the Provincial Grand Orange Lodge, Ontario East. He has also been Master of the local Lodge, District Master (Williamsburg-Matilda) and County Master (Dundas).

(Bob Anderson - Photo Features)

As a representative of the Lodge, Jim has been a director on the board of the Ontario East Triangle Court, which is a non-profit, low-rental housing project for senior citizens in Batawa, Ontario. "We raise money any way possible," says Jim, "selling chocolate bars, bingo, tag days, donations, memorial contributions . . . everything and anything we can think of." Phase One of the building project is scheduled to begin this Fall. The first phase will cost about $¼ million. "Phases Two and Three will happen as funds become available", says Jim.

Giving service is a way of life for Jim. He is aware that each customer has special needs. He understands their problems; like furnaces needing fuel in a hurry, farm equipment needing motor oils and lubricants, and BP gasoline and diesel fuel for truck and tractors. While he's been concentrating on summer 'fills' for the past few months, he's now helping customers prepare for the soon-to-arrive winter chill with BP heating oils and equipment.

The eagerness and enthusiasm with which Jim looks after customers is refreshing these days. In Morrisburg, 'Home Comfort' means a call to BP's Jim Langabeer. Just ask his neighbours, or better still, phone Jim direct at 543-2005 and learn firsthand!

THE SECOND FORTY

Daughter's Boy Friend

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

My 17-year-old daughter has been dating a boy she met at a church function a few months ago. Because I object to his background, we argue about hom constantly. She claims she loves him and says I'm bigoted. I suspect she is seeing him on the sly. What can I do to break this up? E.A.

Dear E.A.:

By your constant opposition, you're doing a first-rate job of forcing your daughter to ally herself with this young man. At 17, she is young enough to meet some one else and she may, if you stop forcing her to defend her present beau. At the same time, try to overcome your prejudices: there is always the possibility your daughter may marry this young man. What difference does his background make, if he loves her and makes her happy? The choice of a husband is hers, not yours.

Cat Lovers:

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I have an elderly aunt who keeps 20 cats. (Last year, she had 30.) The cats roam freely over furniture and appliances and the house is a mess. My aunt and her husband go with food in order to feed the cats and, as a result, they are unable to offer callers more than a cup of tea. I find it difficult to visit them. The odor and the mess are offensive. Yet, I would like to keep peace in the family and continue to see her occasionally.

C.C.

Dear C.C.:

If the unhygienic conditions repel you, perhaps you might invite your aunt and uncle to visit you, and thus keep peace in the family. If there is no one in the family who can talk to them about curbing their feline population, their family physician may be more convincing, particularly if they feed the cats at the expense of their own nutritional needs.

PAUL ROULEAU TO REPRESENT GRITS IN STORMONT

Paul Rouleau, a local lawyer, was nominated on Saturday as the Liberal candidate in the Oct. 17 provincial by-election for the riding of Stormont.

Mr. Rouleau, 44, is a partner of Lucien Lamoureux, the former Speaker of the Commons.

He said if the Conservatives are returned to office in the next provincial election they will impose regional government on areas where it isn't wanted.

"If the Conservatives are not toppled, all of Ontario will be under regional government from Ottawa to Windsor."

The Stormont seat has been vacant since former provincial labor minister Fern Guindon resigned to contest unsuccessfully the July 8 federal election as Conservative candidate for Stormont-Dundas.

On Friday, Guy Leger, a 34-year-old alderman, was selected as Conservative candidate.

PUBLIC LIBRARY MONTH OBSERVED DURING OCTOBER

"Your Public Library — Doorway to the World" is the goal and theme of Public Library Month to be observed by some 85 public libraries across Eastern Ontario in October.

Sponsored by the Eastern Ontario Library System, the month, to feature a myriad of special events and exhibits, will aim to focus public attention on the role of today's public library as a major community, cultural, information, and educational - resource centre.

"This month comes at a time when inflation has hit the plans of many libraries to increase services, while the provincial government's proposal to stop direct grants to libraries could further reduce funds," said Mrs. Betty Butterill, chairman of the Library Month committee.

"We hope everyone will visit their local library to see the varied service it does offer, and support efforts for improved public libraries in Eastern Ontario," she said.

The public will have an opportunity to show their interest for improved services by signing "Support Slips" which will be available in all Eastern Ontario public libraries during October.

CARE is more than just a package

It's people helping people

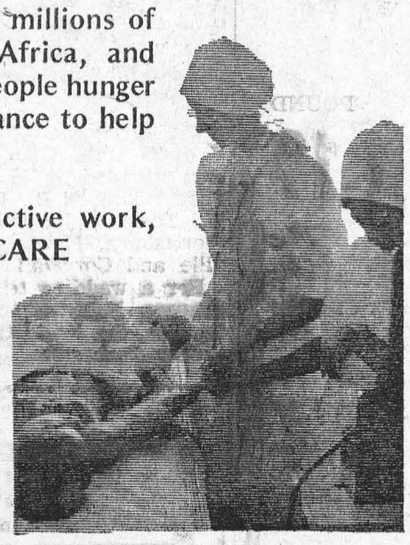
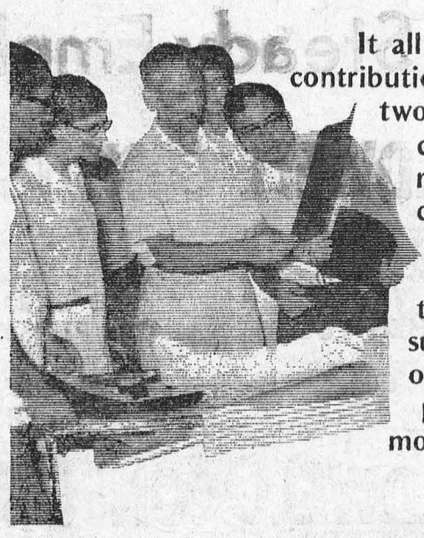
Each day CARE feeds millions of hungry families in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. But, these people hunger for more than food: the chance to help themselves.



They yearn for productive work, for education, for tools. CARE works to satisfy these hungers.

Throughout the developing world Canadian CARE teams co-operate with local people in an effort to provide better nutrition, safe water, permanent housing, less illiteracy, more and better medical services, and information about family planning.

Through CARE's partnership program local governments give what they can and the people volunteer their labour.



It all starts with YOUR contribution to CARE. For two dollars CARE can provide nourishing food to 180 children. Five dollars provide a CARE MEDICO team with enough suturing material for 20 operations. Ten dollars provide enough cement to mold 400 construction blocks.

CARE is people helping people to help themselves. But most of all, CARE is YOU making all this possible.

CARE is a non-governmental, non-profit organization and all donations are tax deductible.

Send your dollars to:
CARE of Canada, Dept. 4,
63 Sparks Street, Ottawa, Ontario, K1P 5A6

Please cut out this coupon and return it with your donation. CARE will send you an official receipt and a report on current programs overseas.

YOURS SINCERELY

BY MRS. WELLWOOD ADAM

The Summer days have passed all too quickly, and I, for one, have enjoyed each of them, no matter what up and down degrees of heat and chill we have experienced. There are now signs of the Fall colours in the heavy green of the trees and shrubs, omens of the beauty that is to be ours in the near future. Have you heard, also, the cries of the first vanguards of the great Canadian geese wending their way over Morrisburg as they go their sure, annual way south for the winter to come?

Yes, we are certainly nearing the end of September now, and so we await the beginning of the winter activities . . . commercially, in the church life, in the home .. . in the community generally.

The first one here, I think, has been a rummage sale, always a yearly event among certain of our church people for much needed funds. It is good to know that most everyone helps in various ways towards its success.

It is really amazing what a wealth of things of all shapes and sizes, of odds and ends, can be found at a rummage sale! Especially if one is abole to set out with a feeling of adventure, to perchance find some exciting hidden treasure in this conglomeration of "bits 'n pieces', as we say.

I read quite a story during this past week of a lady who loves to visit the shut-ins near her home.

You see, she often takes her small recorder and various records around with her to some of her old friends, and playing them gives a lot of pleasure indeed.

For example, one elderly man loves to listen to that great deep voice of Paul Robeson singing "Silent Night", at any time of the year. Another delights in hearing the well-loved cheery notes of the Scot's singer, Sir Harry Lauder, happily singing "Keep right on 'til the end of the road . ." .

Well, this lady had recently popped in to a rummage sale, taking with her a few unwanted things of her own to help out. She noticed some records on display in a corner, quite a selection, too. So she poked around for some time among them, and actually found what she considered to be the "find" of the year! You will never guess, but it was a very old recording of the voice of that tremendous and powerful singer of past years . . . Dame Clara Butt . . . and among her selections was "Abide with me." The reason for her enthusiasm over her "find" was that an older shut-in had once said how she wished, O, so much, that she could hear Dame Clara Butt again, for many, many years had passed since she had heard that glorious voice.

And now, at long last, this very old and unwanted record had been found in a rummage sale! I know that Dame Clara has been gone for a very long time, but I have the feeling had she been alive, she would have felt proud to know that her voice, from an old scratched recording, still has the wealth of tone in it to thrill someone's heart!

Yes, indeed, there is a treasure-trove of wealth of many differnt kinds to be found, not only from a rummage sale, if we stop awhile and look and listen for it. Take this quotation, for example, and you will see what I mean. Someone unknown to me wrote down the following thoughts, many long years ago, and they have lived a long time, ever since, and likely to last for many more.

"This I know:

I have planted a garden, so I know what faith it.
I have seen tall trees swaying in the wind, so I know what grace is.
I have listened to birds singing, so I know what music is.
I have watched young children playing, so I know what entertainment is.
I have seen a cloudless morning so I know what beauty is.
I have seen a gorgeous sunset, so I know what grandeur is.
I have lived in a happy home, so I know what love is.
And because I have experienced all this, I know what wealth is!"

(end of quote")

Would you agree with that unknown writer? I know that I do, very much so!

Todays Health

Let's face it, nobody thinks they actually want to go to hospital. But some of us assume we ought to be in hospital if we're sick enough to need professional nursing, and often that's true.

But not always. Health planners are becoming increasingly aware that hospital care is not only highly expensive, but that it ma yalso impose burdens beyond the illness itself. For example, unfamiliar surroundings and disrupted patterns of day-to-day living. And many times the patient only needs professional nursing for about an hour each day.

An increasing popular alternative is home care. Obviously, there's no way you're going to have a team of surgeons operating in your own bedroom, but there are certain health problems that can be just as effectively treated in the home. Among these are post-surgical care, and various forms of rehabilitation nad convalescence.

How does home care work? Well, first, says the Ontario Ministry of Health's principal program adviser on home care, Dr. Robert King, anyone insured under OHIP is eligible. But it's available only on the recommendation of your physician.

Ontario now has more than 40 home care programs, and most of these are administered by local boards of health or by the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Among the services provided are physiotherapy, occupational and speech therapy, diagnostic and laboratory procedures, and visiting nurses and homemakers.

The homemaker sees to the smooth running of a patient's home during the treatment period —and may look after children or elderly people who normally depend on the patient.

For more than 33,000 patients admitted to Ontario's home care program in the year ended Last March 31, says Dr. King, the average length of stay was 24 days at a cost of less than $10 a day. This compares with average hospital costs of eight to ten times that amount.

But while economics makes a compelling case for home care, there are other advantages both to the health care system and to the individual patient. For instance, the person who doesn't actually need a hospital bed — and who can be assured of competent care at home — can free that bed for someone who really needs it.

Moreover, continuing home treatment by professionals, coupled with the encouragement and support of the family in one's own environment, is a sound formula for effective health care. Not only that, but home care also hands back at least some of the responsibility for therapy to the patient and the patient's family, making them participants in the therapeutic process.

But home care doesn't replace hospital care. It's an alternatvie to hospital care that only works where doctor and patient agree that the home provides an environment that is better than, or at least as good as, the hospital.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Andy has just started Grade five. This would not be newsworthy for many 10-year-olds — but Andy has had some unsettling years with frequent moves and school changes and general upsets. Despite these he has never had a failure.

Good-looking Andy is French Canadian and Anglo Saxon in descent. He has wavy blonde hair, hazel eyes and fair, clear skin.

Healthy and active, Andy loves outdoor activities. Team games do not appeal to him — he prefers things a boy can do on his own or with one or two others. He is an excellent swimmer and enjoys camping, fishing, hiking, nature study. Andy spends a good deal of time reading. His hobbies are sketching, painting and cooking. He has a good voice and likes to sing.

Andy is affectionate and outgoing, inclined to be boastful but not really self-confident. He is high-strung, enthusiastic and sensitive.

Warm, mature parents with a fondness for outdoor life will be right for Andy. They will need to be patient while this boy who has moved often learns he is now finally and really settled and part of a family. He has the makings of a fine son. Andy should be the youngest or the only child.

To inquire about adopting Andy, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. For general adoption information, please contact your local Children's Aid Society.
