Matilda Council reaffirms commitment to seniors

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The proposed senior support satellite office for Matilda Township has passed one more hurdle. The Ministry of Health and the Three United Counties have entered into a written agreement to fund renovations at the former Stampville Public School.

Three United Counties project coordinator Debbie Dewitt was extremely pleased with the announcement that funding of $125,000 will be put towards the renovations.

"I am so happy for Mrs. Zandbergen and her group of volunteers," said Ms. Dewitt. "For the last three years Joan (Zandbergen) and her group have been working towards this and it's very good news."

At times over the last few years the proposed senior support centre in Stampville has come close to becoming a reality. "Then the situation would change and it would look like it was never going to happen," added Ms. Dewitt.

With the news that the funding has been approved Matilda Council can go forward with the tendering of the contract and work on the site could begin as early as next spring.

The Reeve of Matilda Township, Charles Barkley was also pleased with the announcement and gave a great deal of credit to the Matilda seniors organization.

"I'm glad to see this and I think it's a great opportunity for our seniors," said Reeve Barkley. "I kind of came into this at the halfway mark but Lorne Mellan and all our seniors deserve a lot of credit."

A satellite office of the Park Lane Seniors Support Centre in Williamsburg, the Stampville location would operate between 10 and 25 hours a week.

"We'd be offering many of the same programs we have in Williamsburg," explained the Park Lane's coordinator Janet Levere. "And a satellite office in Stampville will make the programs more accessible (to the seniors in the Matilda/Iroquois area)."

Although Ms. Levere could not say which services would be offered specifically, she did mention that services such as the foot care clinic, Meals on Wheels and the Diner's Club could be handled out of the new location.

Reeve Barkley also felt it was important for the area seniors to have a place of their own.

"They have a room at the hall (in Matilda) but in Stampville they'll have the whole building to themselves for shops or what have you."

With the announcement of the funding, Council passed a resolution to look after all of the outdoor maintenance of the facility.

Reeve Barkley reminded council of the municipality's commitment to the project and the resolution to cut the grass in the summer and look after the plowing in the winter was passed unanimously.

Council will also be looking after the heating of the building but the Park Lane Seniors Support Centre will be offsetting that cost with rental payments of $250 per month.

Clerk Horner was questioned by council as to what the heating of the facility would cost per year, but Mr. Horner explained that those figures were not available.

"The cost to heat the school won't be the same (as it was when it was operated by the school board) because it will only be used a couple of days a week," commented Mr. Horner.

In order to cut down on the heating costs, councillor Jim Locke suggested council look into reactivating the boiler system.

"The hot water heaters have never been touched and all of the unions and excess holes are still in place."

No decisions were reached as to how to cut down on the heating costs. Council did agree to look into the matter further.

With renovations to the school seemingly just around the corner, Mrs. Dewitt was very pleased. "If it wasn't for the volunteers we wouldn't have had this success. It took a lot of time and the Matilda seniors never gave up."

SDEDC comes to agreement with Queen's University to study lands

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Through an agreement between the South Dundas Economic Development Commission (SDEDC) and Queen's University, local industrial lands will soon be catalogued into a marketing package.

An inventory of privately- and publicly-owned lands in Iroquois, Morrisburg, Williamsburg and Matilda Township will be made by a Queen's University student as part of a thesis project.

SDEDC employee Linda Bowers says this industrial land inventory will clean up and update the information the SDEDC already has. The update is important to have because many people come to the SDEDC looking for a package of information on industrial lands.

"What we have now is very unprofessional looking," Bowers says.

According to Iroquois Councillor and SDEDC member Audrey Rooney, one of the municipalities has its industrial land records in three pieces.

"(We're doing this) to improve the existing documentation," Bowers says. "It'll be put together as a joint marketing and inventory package."

Both Rooney and Iroquois SDEDC representative Roger Levesque say cataloguing the industrial lands is essential, if the communities hope to draw business and industry to the area.

"This way someone can come in and look at the (industrial land) maps and decipher the maps and the zoning," Levesque says.

The only cost for this project is about $2,000 in expenses, which will be split by the municipalities. That will pay for the student's expenses while he or she stays in the area. The Queen's student is expected to come to Dundas County in January.

During a brainstorming session, Levesque and other members of the commission decided to pursue an agreement with Queen's University. They decided to take this avenue, as a step towards bringing industry to the area.

"We feel we have to build our tax base," Levesque says. "And we want to get everything under an umbrella."

Once the cataloguing is completed, Levesque says the next step is marketing the industrial areas. And Bowers says the information will be packaged in an appealing way for prospective buyers and developers.

Queen's professors have already expressed interest in helping the SDEDC in the next phase.

"We can get a lot of information from the university," Levesque says. "This is what our universities are for, and we should be using them."

As the agreement has developed, SDEDC members have been busy informing local councils about their plans.

"We're in the initial stage and we're getting cooperation from each municipality," Levesque says. "We work for each municipality and we have to ensure they're behind it."

For Rooney and Levesque, this agreement is a part of what the Santa is coming to Scouts' breakfast

The 1st Iroquois Scout troop will host Santa this Sunday morning from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Iroquois Civic Centre. The Scouts will be serving up delicious pancakes, sausages, juice, and coffee for all those who attend.

The cost is only $2.50 a plate, and children under 6 eat for free. Those who attend will have a chance to sit on Santa's knee and tell him what they want for Christmas.

There will also be a draw for a Christmas stocking full of goodies held at 2 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets are $1 each. The stocking and its donated contents are valued at about $150.

The proceeds from this event will go towards the Iroquois Scouts Jamboree Fund to be held July 1997 in Thunder Bay. About 25,000 Scouts from all across Canada and the northern United States are invited to this event. Twenty-one young people, plus adults, from the Iroquois troop are planning to attend. Each person will need about $1000.

To help these young people with their effort, local residents can plan to attend Sunday's breakfast and at the same time enjoy a visit with Santa.

Matilda Reeve chosen Warden

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The Reeve of Matilda Township has been chosen to be the next Warden of the Three United Counties. Undoubtedly it will be a great deal of work, but Charles Barkley is up to the job.

"It is a great honour to be chosen by your peers," said Mr. Barkley expressing his sincere thanks to his co-workers at Counties Council for electing him to the position.

A one year term, in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, the Warden position moves from county to county so no one county holds the top job for two consecutive years.

"It was our turn (Dundas County) and I'll be the first Warden from Matilda in 15 years," said Mr. Barkley.

The highest job in municipal politics, Mr. Barkley knows there will be a great deal of work, "You have to sit on all of the committees," but he has also prepared for the job.

In S.D. & G. before you can serve as Warden, you must serve as chair of the social service committee, chair of the roads committee and chair of the finance committee.

According to Mr. Barkley, this rule is not written in stone, but it is one that has been followed for years and one which prepares the candidate for the job as Warden by giving him or her the experience and overview of how the Counties are run.

Iroquois Enterprises installs new Baker multi-cut saw

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

A new Baker multi-cut saw is helping Iroquois Enterprises run more efficiently.

Installed on Nov. 14 employees are still ironing out the system details, but plant manager Andrew Davies says changes to their in-house cutting line will improve efficiency and safety.

The old saw only had one blade. Now with two blades, Davies says the company can improve the efficiency of cutting wood up to 50 per cent.

Instead of making three motions to cut the ends and the right lengths, it now just takes two.

"You don't physically spend as much time waiting for the saw to go up and down," Davies says.

Cutting line operator Jim Fawcett sits at a chair controlling the activity of the line. He works with 16 foot and hand controls. Davies says it'll probably take him a month to get used to the controls.

"The joke around here is that it's

Fire damages Brinston apts.

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

A fire, being blamed on a possible electrical problem, ravished a Brinston apartment building early Monday morning.

The Iroquois and Williamsburg Fire Departments were called to the property of Robert Stephenson at the north-west corner of Brinston at 2:22 a.m., after two tenants of one apartment unit awoke to the sound of the smoke alarm and the smell of smoke.

According to Fire Chief Philip Thompson, the tenants could see a glow around the light of the bedroom ceiling, and then fled the building and called the fire department. The fire was seen burning through the roof above the bedroom.

Although the structure of the building is still left, Thompson says most of the five-unit building was damaged. Only one unit of the five was occupied, so no one was hurt.

Iroquois firefighters spent four hours fighting the fire, but then were called back again when the fire started again in the attic. They returned again after two hours.

Thompson says the fire was most likely caused by a wiring problem. There was only one light fixture in the bedroom, and the heating unit was in another room.

"From what we can see we feel it was probably an electrical problem," he said.

The early-morning call was not the only one Iroquois firefighters responded to Monday. They assisted ambulance attendants on the 401, after a van heading westbound hit a patch of ice and ended up in the ditch.

Firefighters also responded to a false alarm on Saturday at Seaway District High School, where they discovered an alarm malfunction.

Late Friday evening, they also responded to a call from an elderly woman living at 34 Church St. She had accidentally left a pot on the stove, and the smoke from the pot filled the house and set off the smoke detector.

Stepping back in time!

Students at Morrisburg Public School took part in Sainte Catherine's Day celebrations on Friday, as they learned about French culture in the 1650s. Through the efforts of French teacher Marie Jasmine, dressed above as Marguerite Bourgeoys (the mother of the Canadian education system), the students were able to spend the morning hammering, nailing, dancing, sawing wood and enjoying home-made taffy.

MPS celebrates a special day

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Students at Morrisburg Public School took part in the tastiest of activities as part of Sainte Catherine's Day on Friday.

Several students and staff members made delicious homemade taffy in honor of Marguerite Bourgeoys and the work she did in helping establish the education system in Canada in 1657.

Students not only made taffy but took part in woodcutting, nail hammering and dancing - activities that were a natural part of life in the 1600s.

However, it's the homemade taffy that is one of the most important parts of the celebration. Bourgeoys had a special purpose for it.

Living in France in the mid-1600s, Bourgeoys was invited by the governor to teach in what is now Quebec. A 30-year-old nun, she came to an "uneducated" community where formalized teaching was a far-distant dream.

The governor gave her a stone barn for her first school house. Eventually, the governor made her the head teacher of the mission school at Mount Royal.

When Bourgeoys started out, she quickly realized that children would need an incentive to attend school, especially Native Canadians who didn't know anything about school. That's where the taffy came in.

She made "pull taffy" using baking soda, molasses and a bit of butter. She made the taffy on Sainte Catherine's Day and used it to bribe the students into coming to school. Looking at today's school system, her efforts were obviously successful.

MPS french teacher Marie Jasmine organized Friday morning's activities. She said all the students from junior kindergarten to grade six took part.

"This is the first time we've celebrated Sainte Catherine's Day this big," she said. "It's the first time we've done it at the school level."

Discussing it throughout the years with individual classes, she decided to celebrate differently this year and involve the whole school. She said it's a way of educating students about Canada's rich history.

"It shows them some of the French-Canadian culture," she said. "And that it can be fun."

Andre Charlebois, coordinator of french-as-a-second language for the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry school board, helped MPS develop Friday's program.

Although this is the first year MPS has been involved in these celebrations, other schools have been participating for years. Charlebois said Rothwell/Osnabruck was also celebrating on Friday.

"They've been doing it a number of years, and they have it (activities) down pat," he said.

According to Charlebois, the celebration takes a lot of preparation, so some schools across the school board only do it every other year. For instance, Dixon's Corners Public School celebrated Sainte Catherine's Day last year with special guest James Dilamarter, school board director of education.

The Sainte Catherine's Day celebrations began across the school board about five years ago. According to Charlebois, these special days and activities help students understand French-Canadian culture.

Sainte Catherine was a martyr in France who lived in about the 14th century. She was single and she was devoted to children and education. However, she was hated by people and considered to be a witch. She was martyred but her memory lives on during this special day on Nov. 25.

As part of the folklore surrounding this day, Charlebois said it is also known as "Old Maid's Day" because Sainte Catherine never married. He recalls as a child, that was the one day of the year students could tease their single female teachers at school.

"It was a traditional fun part of the day," he said.

To this day, the tradition of Sainte Catherine continues as local schools keep the festivities of the 1650s alive.

Public high school teachers in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry have rejected the proposed College of Teachers. During the week of Nov. 20 to 24, teachers voted on the question of whether or not they favored the College. An overwhelming percentage rejected the plan. Santa coming to Morrisburg

by Sandra Lee Johnston
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Here comes Santa Claus, here comes Santa Claus...right down those streets in Morrisburg. Yes, on Saturday, December 9, starting at 10 am, the jolly old elf in the bright red suit will be leading a parade named in his honour. Heralding the season in style, the First Annual Santa Claus Parade will certainly get the Christmas mood into high gear.

According to George Davies, the gentleman in charge of the parade, things are really starting to come together. The hard work will pay off as upwards of thirty units are ready to make this a parade to remember. "This will be the toughest year, but from here on the future parades should fall into place more easily, now that we all know what we are doing," said George in a telephone conversation.

Three bands will keep toes tapping and provide musical accompaniment for the floats and other participants. Seaway District High will have their band and choir involved.The Lancaster Legion Pipe Band will join the festivities as will the Nativity Band from Cornwall.

The Matilda Majorettes will add a flair as will the mascots from the Ottawa Senators and the Cornwall Aces, if indeed they are able to make the event. Hopefully, Spartacat and Wild One will be part of the parade.

The Shriners will join the various other groups who are planning to join the gala affair as it winds through the streets of Morrisburg. An added, special treat for the youngsters will be a Giant MAILABOX into which Santa's helpers will be dropping letters for Santa from those along the route. So, if you have not yet written your letter to the jolly, big guy, now is the time. You can be sure he has it, as you watch it go into the big mailbox. This way Santa can get right to the letters and ensure that you get what you ask for.

Santa will ride on a float decorated as a Winter Wonderland, easy if this weather continues! And he will accept visits from children on the float after the parade. If the weatherman does not cooperate, then the youngsters can say "hello" in person at the Tourist Booth in the plaza area.

The Morrisburg Figure Skating Club will host a Breakfast with Santa before the parade takes off. All you need to do is go to the Civic Centre from 8am until 11am, where for $3 per adult, $2 if you are five to 12 or only $1 if you are under five years old, you can eat with Santa. For $6 you can have your photo with the fat man as well. WOW!

Grab your warm woolies and best smile and come out. Let's welcome Santa in terrific style. Next years' efforts depend on the success of this first try...make it memorable.

Don't forget that a $5 purchase in any store in the Morrisburg Business Improvement Area gives you a ballot in the Christmas draw. You are given the chance to win one of four $500 gift certificates or the grand prize of a $3000 vacation...what a deal! Check out the bargains right here at home and gain the added bonus of a chance to win a wonderful Christmas gift. The draw for the Caribbean cruise or trip to Disney World, as well as the gift certificates will be held later this same evening as everyone is invited to gather at the Operating Training Engineers Institute east of Morrisburg on Highway 2. Ride in style in Lincoln Limo

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

If you are looking to go in style, call 1-800-787-LIMO!

Local entrepreneur James Byers will be offering the area a limousine service in the new year and it is a ride you will not forget.

"I've thought about it for two or three years but it has only been the last six months that I've given it any serious thought," said Mr. Byers from his home in Morrisburg.

He purchased the 1985 Lincoln Limousine from a private owner in the Renfrew area and for the past few weeks has been upgrading some of the equipment.

The limousine seats six comfortably and the standard features include: deluxe console with swivel hide-away Sony colour TV, remote control VCR, illuminated champagne flute holders and flutes, ice bucket, illuminated bar with rock glasses, divider, extra dark tinted windows, rear independent heat/air conditioning, overhead console with rear salon controls, corner reading lamps, mood lighting, moonroof, AM/F-M stereo cassette radio and dark blue velour interior, to name a few.

The idea started as a hobby for Mr. Byers, but over the last few months has flourished into a part-time business.

After attending Algonquin College in Ottawa in the Mechanical Engineering discipline, Mr. Byers returned to Morrisburg where he has worked at Beavers Dental for the last five years.

"I won't be giving up my job at Beavers," stressed Mr. Byers, "but I will be offering the service on a year round basis."

Presently Mr. Byers has another driver in mind for times when he himself will be unavailable, but he doesn't believe his full time job will interfere with his new part-time business.

During the peak season between April and September, the rates will be under $100, a price that is extremely competitive when compared to other limousine companys.

A special off season rate has also been introduced and should attract many in the months from October to March.

For more information about the new limousine service you can call the 1-800 number or phone 543-4099.

Don Graham attends Matilda Council meeting

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The potential for greatness in Matilda is absolutely fantastic. Thursday evening a semi retired landscape planner attended Matilda council to discuss the municipality's waterfront and wetlands.

An avid canoeist, Mr. Don Graham and his son Brian told council that if they were interested, he and his son could put together some plans to beautify the waterfront area.

"With a small group of volunteers we could look at trails for biking or walking and we could make the area a tourist attraction," commented Mr. Graham.

Mr. Graham told council that for many of the people in the area the waterfront and the old Number 2 Highway are often overlooked.

"The view (along the old Number 2 and Lakeshore Drive) from these roads is absolutely beautiful. After Morrisburg, when you are driving to Cornwall, you are not close to the water," explained Mr. Graham adding that Matilda and its neighbouring municipalities with waterfront property should consider taking advantage of the scenic beauty.

Using maps of the area, he outlined the various creeks, inlets and bays along the Heritage Highway and expressed his opinion on the richness of the natural resources.

Councillor Bev Sabourin agreed Matilda is rich with natural resources and suggested council could start small by planting flower beds in Loyalist Park.

Councillor Norm Tinkler was interested in the project but noted, "With the Ministry of Natural Resources policy (on wetlands) it's going to be hard, they don't want you to meddle."

Reeve Barkley pointed out that not all of the land in question would fall under the MNR policy.

"It was very good of him to come out and offer his service," said Reeve Barkley in an interview on Monday. "He came as a concerned citizen and not a lot of people volunteer to come forward."

At the meeting Mr. Graham said he would be discussing the matter with the other local municipalities in the hopes of generating interest in his proposals.

"The idea is that from his chair, he can control everything he needs to control on the line."

The new cutting line system not only includes a new saw but a new cant deck which brings in wood by conveyor belt, two outfeed conveyors and one automatic stacker. The system cuts and stacks three different lengths of wood.

The automatic stacker makes the stacking more efficient. It automatically stacks the predominant size wood, and consequently saves on labor.

"The less physical labor there is, the less chance there is for injuries," Davies says. "To make work less physically demanding, you increase health and lower the chance for injury."

The old saw, taken out Nov. 8, was purchased in the early 80s and was becoming worn. Davies says the saw was at the end of its life cycle and was always in need of repairs.

The cost of the new system is estimated at $80,000. Davies says they spent the money to move themselves ahead in the pallet-making business.

Davies would like to thank those who were involved with this project, including: George Jackson, Robert Jackson, Dan Shaver, Bill Hutt and Jim Fawcett.

"They put in long hours trying to get this up and running," he says. "And Robert Jackson and his crew will probably be working out the bugs (in the system) for months to come."

The new saw was purchased from a company in Arkansas by George Jackson, Robert Jackson and Andrew Davies.

DFA, Mountain Twp. provide building seminar

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Mountain Township and the Dundas Federation of Agriculture (DFA) want to help farmers understand the building code and their responsibilities in constructing farm buildings.

The two organizations are sponsoring a seminar - "Building into the next century: a look at farm building design" - on Thursday, Dec. 7 at the Mountain Township Agricultural Hall in South Mountain. Running from 10 a.m. to 3:15 p.m., the seminar with cover topics such as permit requirements and building designs.

DFA members and township building inspector Richard Sharkey have been working on this seminar since June.

Marion Graham is one of the organizers. She says Sharkey has been alarmed at the number of farmers wanting to build barns, and the number of farmers coming to the clerk's office for building permits. Consequently, he has seen a growing need to educate farmers about the building process.

"He has felt they don't understand the building code," Graham says.

For instance, some farmers may not know they need an engineer to oversee a project if it's a certain size.

Issues such as this one led Sharkey to develop the idea for the seminar, especially when a growing number of people are looking to improve or replace their barns.

"Eastern Ontario is full of barns that are old," Graham says. "It's like all your kitchen appliances are breaking in the same year... they (barns) need to be replaced."

But through the development of the provincial building code and regulations over the years, the process has become complicated. Over the past 38 years, Graham and her husband have built two barns. In her experience, the Ontario Minister of Agriculture and Food (OMAF) took care of the project's engineering requirements.

"It (the engineer) didn't cost us a cent," she says. However, she realizes today's circumstances are different.

People have to pay for their own engineers, and the cost for building is high. According to Graham, people pay at least $450,000 to rebuild a barn.

December's seminar is hoped to inform farmers about these details. It is hoped to clear up any misunderstandings about the building code.

The one-day seminar features three speakers and a farm panel. John Johnston will speak on the building code, permit requirements and consulting agencies. OMAFRA engineer Harold House will speak on looking at freestall and tie stall designs, as well as ventilation. Another OMAFRA engineer Don Hilborn will discuss manure storage and handling systems. The farm panel includes Charles Bennett from Kemptville and Andrew Geertsma from Chesterville.

The hall will be open at 9 a.m. to allow people to browse at information exhibits provided by 18 Dundas County engineers, draftsmen, contractors, farm equipment suppliers, consultants and financial institution representatives.

"There really must be a lot of interest (in the seminar)," Graham says. "We've got 50 people signed up already."

She says people from as far as Brockville have talked to her about attending the seminar.

There will be no registration fee for this seminar, and lunch will be provided. To register call the OMAFRA office in Winchester at 1-800-267-7603 or 774-2313, or Marion Graham at 613-989-6167.

In case of inclement weather, the seminar will take place on Friday, Dec. 8.

Edwardsburgh yards bylaw

by Jeff Brownlee
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Spring cleaning may come early for Edwardsburgh Twp. residents.

The municipality is expecting to have a yards bylaw -- outlining the Dos and Don'ts of yard maintenance -- in force as early as December.

Council gave the bylaw the first two readings at the Nov.20 council meeting.

The current proposal calls for abandoned buildings to be boarded up, yards kept free of noxious weeds, rubbish and waste, including inoperative vehicles, boats, trailers and other machinery.

People who feel the urge to litter, will also be dealt with under the penalty clause in the bylaw which calls for a fine of up $2000 for any offence.

"This is a bylaw to ensure the orderliness and maintenance of property in the township," said Randy Wilkinson, the municipality's bylaw enforcement officer. "It isn't a property standards bylaw."

In July, council tabled a property standards bylaw for the municipality, but sent it back to the planning and advisory committee to be cleaned up.

That document was worked on for approximately five years.

Problems with that draft included loose wording and the possibility that township staff, namely Wilkinson, could get bogged down enforcing the bylaw. There was also the chance that the municipality would have to hire another individual to enforce the bylaw.

Council opted to go back to the drawing board and came back with the new yards bylaw, axing the proposed property standards bylaw.

"We think the yards bylaw addresses some concerns in the municipality," said Reeve David Dobbie.

The concerns the reeve was referring to include the stock piling of derelict, inoperative vehicles and litter in the township.

But now these issues will be looked after, much quicker, added the reeve.

Council hopes to pass the bylaw at the Dec. 4 council meeting. Edwardsburgh residents are encouraged to pick up a copy of the bylaw at the town hall in Spencerville and come to council with any concerns.

New Christmas lights brighten face of Iroquois Shopping Plaza

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The face of the Iroquois plaza is changing this Christmas.

Clear lights now replace old coloured bulbs, and hand-made Christmas figures will soon be set up on the awning.

Under the direction of Iroquois Council and a small plaza decorations committee, the village crew started installing the new lights two weeks ago.

It took them at least a week to finish the installation since the light strings had to be wired to the light posts. But these lights are only the beginning.

Three-dimensional figures - a sleigh, Santa and two reindeer - will be set up on the awning area between the two grocery stores. Seaway District High School grade 10 carpentry students are presently working on this project. Once they have been constructed, the Iroquois Scouts will paint them.

If people like the figures, Rooney says they will continue to add figures to the project each year.

Council looked into new decoration ideas after Peter Swank and other council members wanted to see a change.

"Peter Swank wanted the lights changed after last Christmas," says Councillor Audrey Rooney. "So he asked me to do something with the plaza."

Rooney drew a few community members together and asked Kent McDermid to draw a sketch of the plaza so they could get an idea of the number and location of the posts and trees. Rooney says his drawing is phenomenal.

"It's actually the best artist's rendering of the plaza, the village has ever had," she says. "And it only cost the village a cup of coffee."

Rooney also sought advice from the Morrisburg Business Improvement Association (BIA) on what types of lights are used in the Morrisburg mall. Ordering the lights from McGillis Hardware in Morrisburg, Iroquois now has the same clear lights.

"Through all this, the people are getting new decorations in the plaza and it has cost the village very little because everyone contributed what they could," she says.

With the volunteer work involved, the Christmas lights have been the only cost to the village at about $300.

To ensure that the village is not responsible for the entire cost, it has asked each plaza business to donate $15. So far, only eight businesses have sent money to the clerk's office.

Rooney sees this Christmas decoration project as a cooperative effort.

"In the past you went to council and they paid for it, or it was paid through a government grant, but we can't do that anymore. We have to use the things we have," she says. "You get more things done if everyone cooperates."

Depending on future cooperation and ideas, council is hoping to gradually add new decorations to the plaza each year.

Volunteers make the difference

In this day of fiscal restraint and in the wake of provincial government cuts, it is time for all of us to give what we can best afford to give.

Knowledge.

Time.

I am told, back in the good old days, people took care of people. Neighbours were not looking for handouts, but when they needed a hand up, they were not pushed back down.

Although many service organizations solicit donations from the general public for the underprivileged; for those of us who cannot afford to give a monetary gift, we can give in other ways.

Volunteer.

Volunteer.

Volunteer.

Last week at Matilda Council a local gentleman, Mr. Don Graham, approached council to discuss the municipality's waterfront and wetlands.

A semi retired landscape planner, Mr. Graham and his son Brian told the council that they have a very valuable resource in their waterfront and wetland property.

If there was interest, Mr. Graham volunteered to look at developing the municipality's property accentuating the natural beauty.

He told council that the potential was absolutely fantastic and with the help of volunteers, it would not take much to make the waterfront area a tourist attraction.

One of his suggestions included the beautification of Loyalist Park. A few flower beds would make a world of difference.

In the end, it is not the project that is important, although the natural beautification of our waterfront and wetlands would benefit the area. What is important is the fact that Mr. Graham and his son took the time to volunteer their services.

This fact was not lost on Matilda council who listened intently to his proposals.

If we are to succeed as a community we will have to take the initiative. Each of us will need to spend a few hours a week, month or year helping those around us.

M.C.B.

Called together to build

Like it or not, we're stepping back.

We're stepping back to a time when people relied on one another for survival. An era when men and women gathered to build homes, raise barns and help their neighbors. Although we may be far from barn-raising bees, we seem to be heading to a place where we have to rely on one another for growth and development.

That's where we seem to be heading, only because we have no choice. Government cutbacks are pushing us in that direction. As members of Canadian society we can no longer rely on government to provide and supply our every whim or need.

What government has provided through social programs like health care and unemployment insurance in this country has been healthy and profitable. The programs have improved our quality of life. But now the existence of those programs is being threatened.

It was a good idea then, but as Canada continues to go billions of dollars in debt, she cannot sustain the level of programs she has always provided. Consequently, we can no longer count on government for help.

So what do we do? Looking back to the past, to a time when government bureaucracy was not yet realized, people relied on one another. In sickness, in health, in harvest, and in drought. During the pioneering era, people knew each other. Neighbors talked, cried, laughed and grieved together. Today, we barely know our neighbors' names. We have distanced ourselves under the guise of "independence," hiding ourselves beneath the apparent shame that comes from asking others for help.

As Canadians, as members of a small world community, we can no longer afford (literally speaking) to avoid our neighbors. We can no longer rely only on ourselves and government funding to get us out of deep water.

Although some see the need for cooperation, like various non-profit volunteer agencies, there are others who don't. Some are still expecting the government to provide everything for them. All you have to do is turn on the television and see for yourself. At least once a month, rallies are held on Parliament Hill or at Queen's Park, in protest of some kind of budget cuts. Last week it came from parents and daycare workers. As Harris' government delivers its budget this week, we can expect protest from many more organizations and agencies.

The more government cuts back, the more people have to work together.

In some small way, that is what Iroquois Council has done with its plaza Christmas decorations project. Council members didn't like the way the plaza looked. Deciding to do something about it, Councillor Audrey Rooney began investigating the options. She found two local groups of young people - Seaway students and the Iroquois Scouts - willing to volunteer their time to make the plaza more appealing by creating Christmas figures. The only cost incurred so far, has been for the strings of clear lights. And that cost is being shared between the village and the plaza businesses.

Working together, cooperation...all for a better community. While government funding cuts continue to loom over the horizon, Iroquois can take pride in small steps such as this one. Small steps that have been developing over the past few years through the Haldane Park improvement committee and the Iroquois playground committee.

There may no longer be any houses to build together, but there are enough projects like these to work on.

Provincial government creating new ways to get the job done focus

by P.H.Nicol
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The writing's right there on the wall, in big letters for everyone to see. The days of big government and freewheeling spending are over and cutbacks in funding will be both severe and far-reaching. These financial constraints will affect not only government programmes and the people who run them, but the very structure of government itself.

In the Kemptville area in particular, but across the province as well, we have seen major changes in government ministries such as the Ministry of Natural Resources, the Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs and in agencies such as the Conservation Authorities. As widespread as these changes have been, as disruptive as they have been with dozens of people losing their jobs, it is generally agreed that we have experienced only the tip of the proverbial iceberg. Other and more drastic changes may be just around the corner.

But all is not doom and gloom.

The recent announcement of the closing of the G. Howard Ferguson Forest Station in Kemptville was a startling blow to the community. But out of that announcement came the proposal from the Eastern Ontario Model Forest Group that they and others join forces to take over the operation of the facility; that the community and stakeholders in the reforestation concept come together to reshape the facility's operations and make it more responsive to community needs.

Talks have begun and detailed proposals are being crafted and, at this point in time, no final decisions have been made. But people are talking and trying to make the idea work, and with hard work and good will on both sides, something good is bound to come of it.

While large organizations like the Eastern Ontario Model Forest Group are doing fine work at their level, the Ministry of Natural Resources is developing another programme, this one at the community level.

The Private Land Stewardship Programme has been created in order to bring together land owners, groups and associations and others who join with MNR in the interest of sustaining the health and use of private lands. This type of stewardship is intended to ensure that the government and the private sector jointly take responsibility for actions today which will directly influence the protection of values for future generations.

A basic tenet of this programme will be the creation of Community Stewardship Councils. These are described by MNR as "groups of eight and fifteen people who are respected members of the community who can provide a forum to recognize and influence community involvement and interest in Private Land Ownership".

Mr. Jack Henry, Stewardship Co-Ordinator from the Ministry of Natural Resources in Brockville explains that such councils will be asked to identify community based resource concerns such as beaver ponds and stream bank erosion; anything, in fact, that might raise a concern about the sustainability of the land and the ecosystems it supports.

The memberships of these councils will be made of members from a wide variety of community associations and concerned citizens. To this end, Mr. Henry has spoken to and received support from such diverse groups as local snowmobile clubs, fish and game clubs, members of the agricultural community, the Maple Syrup Producers Association the Nut Growers Association.

The Provincial Stewardship Steering Committee, made up of members from provincial level agencies and chaired by the MNR, will provide guidance to the local councils and will deal with the recommendations and concerns expressed by those councils. This group's primary function is to blend the efforts of the agencies and associations into unified support for the programme.

Acting as the liaison between these two levels will be the Stewardship Co-Ordinators. According to the programme literature, they will "be paid by MNR with the understanding that they work for the community through the Stewardship Council. Their task involves building the necessary relationships and partnerships, working collaboratively with agencies and associations, providing a window to the science and information within MNR and the extensive network that they are a part of. They may also take an active role as the spokesperson for the Council, and in the context of the PLS Programme, for the associations and agencies."

The recently established Grenville Stewardship Council is one of nine such councils which have been created in Eastern Ontario. More will soon be coming on line thanks to a $2 Million fund which has been made available from MNR for this purpose. Other funding is expected to come from founda-

Swampview gang is back

Just plain livin'
with Sandra Lee

I'm B-A-C-K!!!! Those two or three faithful who missed reading this weekly jumble will be smiling as they realize that indeed the Swampview gang is back inside The Chieftain. Those who were always worried that they would find themselves among the weekly ramblings of the short-fat old writer will start peering over their shoulders once again. Be on your guard...she is at it once more!

The title has changed: I am not the Editor this time, but am appreciative that someone felt I could contribute to the weekly efforts of The Chieftain in a writing capacity. Someone once said that you can never go back...well, maybe not exactly the same as before, but I am on the pages of the newspaper again in '95 and the year and some months since last I was here seem long ago. I am glad to be back and hope that I can bring a smile to a few readers' faces as the words are set down on the page each week.

Things did not come to fruition as was hoped when last we wrote this column, but then, it was worth a try. Sometimes those we depend on to throw a life-line when we are in need do not even look our way and we are left stranded. Onward, ever onward and things will work out for the best. We will enjoy the familiar faces and some order to a life which recently has been a bit jumbled about. Drop by on Tuesdays and say "Hi", this will be the only day that yours truly will be in the office, otherwise it will be freelance writings which will be written. Thus you will read articles with a by-line from SLJ throughout the paper, but I will do them from the computer at home...modern technology is wonderful!

Mega thanks to all who have in any way contributed to the recovery of the writer after that fateful day in September when the automobile accident threw the van into the ditch and this typer into hospital. Therapy continues each morning but Tuesday in Brockville and the strength is returning and in another month things should be back to "normal"...my Christmas present from the medical community who have taken such great care of things for me is that I will be done taking that infamous blood thinner ...Coumadin (aka rat poison) on Christmas Day. Ho-Ho-Ho.

There have been some changes around Swampview during the hiatus... son number one is now in the driver's seat (scarey!!), son number two has grown in leaps and bounds and is now towering over his old mother, and the big guy...well what can I say? He has been so terrific during the hospital stays and the uglies at home, the mood swings and such. Speaking of the biggest guy at Swampview, his school renovations are finally complete and rumour has it that the structural changes are so dramatic that the staff will pay to teach there now!!! All kidding aside, it is some marvellous place and should make education more pleasant for all concerned. The atmosphere is so very important to the process.

Scouting takes up a load of the writer's free time and this field keeps the brain busy and the body in shape. This past summer the opportunity of leader training was afforded and you know what they say about "opportunity knocking". The biggest problem was the heat of course, but the experience will live long in the memory. Who would have thought that an old woman could climb mountains with a 30-pound pack on her back and live to tell the tale?

Son number one is taking a role in the annual school play, and to think the family had no idea talent was hidden beneath that cool exterior! We will be in the audience proudly watching early next month. Parent teacher interviews are over for another semester and things are going pretty well for both scholars.

Well, how many out there are really happy with the early onset of winter 95-96? The snow clean up people, the skiers, the snowmobilers and the young snow fort and man builders...maybe, but the rest of us???? Oh well, we all live in the northland where the changing seasons bring joy and so we must like it, grin and bear it at the least!!! As the effort is being typed, the snow is falling and promises from the weatherman suggest we will be snowed in by tomorrow. Snuggle deeper and stoke the fire...and "let it snow, let it snow..." Have you got your Christmas shopping done yet???

It will no doubt take a few weeks to get back into the groove, but stick with me and we will get through the tough spots together. Drop a line and let me know what you think, appreciated for sure.

Take care and stay happy, see you next time.

Don't forget those less fortunate during this holiday season!

the bottom line

WHAT A MONTH WE'VE HAD! SNOW, SNOW, AND MORE SNOW! THE snowmobilers probably have big smiles on their faces! As the season for snowmobiling approaches, people should remember to ride safe and sober. About 38 fatalities occurred across Ontario last year in snowmobile accidents. Only four of those fatalities happened on OFSC trails. Local snowmobiling clubs want to remind everyone the safest place to ride is on the trails. Although trails are not yet open, Kevin Whitteker of the SDSC says they may be ready for use by Christmas. If the snow keeps up as it has been, maybe the trails will be ready much sooner!

OUR BIRD COLUMNIST JUST COULDN'T MAKE IT OUT TO THE CHIEFTAIN this week. So we're sorry, and so is she, that there is no column in this edition. Eden Avery told Karen that she heard some geese flying outside, but because of the storm she couldn't see a thing! Unless there's a storm next week, Bird Notes will be back the first week of December.

WE WANT TO GIVE A WARM WELCOME TO SANDRA LEE JOHNSTON, WHO is back at The Chieftain on a part-time basis. After leaving the business for two years, she's back and ready to help cover local events and council meetings. We're pleased to have her back!

IF YOU CAN KEEP UP WITH ALL THE CHANGES TAKING PLACE AROUND here, we're proud of you all! Since Shell left, we've been busy trying to keep track of what she's been up to. Michael was concerned Monday morning that she got to work. Passing her on the road, Michael saw her waving frantically at him. He thought she'd go off the road. Well, maybe she just misses us here...I mean who wouldn't...Ha!Ha! Hope all's well, Shell!

I KNOW I'M TALKIN' A LOT ABOUT THE OFFICE THIS WEEK, BUT I CAN'T pass this one by...Michael has been dreaming again, but this time, not about women. The other night in his dream, he was interviewing Brian Mulroney in the Iroquois Council Chambers. I mean we know you've got a bit of blue blood in you, Michael, but isn't this carrying your allegiances a bit far?

IF YOU HAVEN'T SEEN KENT McDERMID'S DRAWING OF THE IROQUOIS plaza, you should try and see it. It is a beautiful rendition of the plaza area, and as Iroquois Council members have said, it's the nicest one they've ever seen. A copy may be on file at the Iroquois clerk's office!

* * *

THIS IS JUST A FRIENDLY REMINDER THAT THERE IS ONLY THREE MORE weekends left before Christmas! There are a lot of people you can help this season through the South Dundas Christmas Exchange and other organizations! Let's get in the spirit and give!

Matilda WI hold fall meetings

The W.I. met on October 17 at Brinston Memorial Hall. The roll call was to bring a favourite recipe to share. After business and correspondence, Coral Geurkink, convenor for the evening, introduced the guest speaker, Jackie Barkley. Jackie prepared a complete meal in the microwave in less than 30 minutes. After demonstrating the newest tupperware, some of which she used to prepare our meal, we got to sample her wares. Very good and so easy and quick too. Jessie Geurkink thanked Jackie and presented her with a gift. Janet Barkley read an amusing story called "So God made a farmer". After all orders were placed, the Women's Institute received 15% of all tupperware sales- a grand total of $72.27.

November 13th meeting opened by the President Johanna Westervelt reading a Remembrance Day poem. We observed 1 minute silence for those who served and died for their country. We answered the Roll Call, "Why do you think Canada attracts people from foreign countries?" There were a variety of answers all making a very good point. We were informed of a W.I. trip to a Blue Jay's baseball game in Toronto on Saturday, June 8th, 1996. We have to decide now to reserve our ticket. Our Christmas dinner will be held at 7 p.m. at the Rise n' Shine Restaurant in Iroquois. All members please bring a Christmas decoration, wrapped, to exchange. After all business was addressed Doreen Empey presented the Motto "The most valuable gift one can give to their children is a good example". Johanna introduced our guest speaker Mr. Wytze Douma who entertained us with stories and a video he made on his trip to Holland this summer to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the liberation of the Netherlands.

Mr. Douma was thanked by Doreen and presented with a gift. Emma Barkley closed with a poem by Edgar A. Guest entitled "The Younger Generation". The program ended with Oh Canada. Everyone enjoyed a wonderful lunch prepared by Evelyn Whitteker, Joyce Patterson and Ethel Armstrong.

Playhouse raises $10,000 at auction

The second annual Christmas gift auction was once again a resounding success as the Upper Canada Playhouse raised $10,000 for the running of the theatre. At centre stage was Marshall Button, Mark Morton, Fran Laflamme and auctioneer Flora Dumouchel of Ingleside. The evening was filled with entertainment, laughter, as well as a silent and live auction. Between 180 and 200 people attended the event. A gourmet meal prepared by Button sold for $275.

The third annual auction was another success this year. Over $10,000 was raised through the sale of many packages and individual items including a tin lantern, paintings, and the infamous gourmet meal provided by Button. This year the meal went for $475. Rumor has it, he has to prepare a meal for a few more people than just four.

I had asked him to come in September when we traditionally hold our parish mission but he said his only opening was for this week in November of this year. The man was booked two and three years in advance!"

From the reaction of the parishioners, who enthusiastically attended the four day mission in great numbers, it is easy to see why Father O'Reilly is in such demand. His mixture of stories, jokes, singing and scripture interpretation ran the full gamut from outright laughter by his listeners to quiet, reflective moments. He opened the mission at Mass, Sunday 12th, and spoke each evening to a full church. Masses were celebrated each day as well and at the closing evening, Wednesday, 15th.

Father Eugene O'Reilly is a Redemptorist, a member of the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer, a Roman Catholic order founded in 1732 by St. Alphonsus Liguori for missionary work among the poor. Originally from Ireland, Fr. O'Reilly came to Canada as a young boy with his family, graduated from Windsor University and went on to further theological study in France and Montreal. He was ordained in 1972. Fr. O'Reilly has been pastor of a large parish, Vocation Director of the Eastern Provinces, mission preacher throughout Ontario, Quebec and the Atlantic Provinces, and composer of several religious songs, some of which are in the Catholic Book of Worship. Mission preaching is his full time ministry.

According to Father Shea, a parish is to set some time aside each year for eucharistic devotions. "It is a time of special prayer, a time of spiritual renewal and recharging of batteries," he said. Every five years, the parish has a Parish Mission, a time of more intensive, private prayer over several days; usually there is a dynamic guest speaker. "It really hasn't been five years since our last Parish Mission," said Father Shea, "but, because this is our Anniversary Year (St. Mary's 150th, St. Cecilia's 110th), I thought it would be a special way to mark the event spiritually."

Fr. O'Reilly spoke the first evening on the relationship between humanity and God. In his straightforward style, he told his attentive listeners: "God is not a God who spies on everything we do...He is not a God of fear...and He isn't some "wimp" that just listens and doesn't respond to us. He is a God of love and he sees us as his greatest creation. Even when we find fault with ourselves, He loves us, totally, completely...We may look in the mirror and decide we don't like what we see but we have to remind ourselves that who I am is the one God loves."

The following evening Monday, Fr. O'Reilly spoke on the Beautitudes and their meaning to everyday life. Tuesday evening, three priests from neighbouring parishes were in attendance to facilitate the sacrament of Reconciliation, a time of examination of conscience. The final evening, Wednesday, Fr. O'Reilly closed the mission with these words: "Tonight the mission is officially finished, but the mission is not over, it is not complete." He added that, like Jesus, the master who performed the task of a slave as He washed the feet of his disciples, we must also "wash the feet of others. As He ministered the others, we also must minister to the lonely, the neglected, the sick of our parish and our community."

Father Shea said that the excellent attendance by parishioners at the mission was a guage as to just how successful it had been and he thanked them for coming, "although," he said, "I'm not too surprised. The faith of the people in this parish has always been very strong." The long term effects of the mission, he added, will be noticed in six months or a year when people keep returning to the church, especially if those who might earlier have been discouraged keep coming.

In order to further the work of the Grenville Stewardship Committee, Mr. Henry is meeting this evening (November 1) with representatives of the Agricultural and Reforestation Committee of the United Counties of Leeds and Grenville, and will meet with the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters on November 26.

The MNR document detailing the basics of this programme notes that "In the years of relative financial affluence, it was easy for organizations to operate with single and separate purposes. Today, and for the foreseeable future, the greatest progress will be made by organizations that can see common and compatible objectives and work together for their mutual benefit."

In a recent press release, Mr. Henry expanded on that idea noting that there has been a fundamental shift in the way MNR has treated land issues. "In the past, MNR took the leadership role in the way forest and land resources were handled. Today, they can no longer afford to do what they think needs to be done. MNR can no longer act on behalf of individuals or individual organizations - as stakeholders, we as a community have to find co-operative solutions to these problems."

You can attain more information in regard to the Private Land Stewardship Programming by contacting Mr. Henry. He can be reached at his Brockville office by phoning 613-498-9614 or 613-342-8524. Horticultural Society hosts Annual

At its Annual Meeting on November 21st, the Morrisburg & District Horticultural Society honoured those who have significantly contributed to the beautification of their communities through horticulture.

Four groups of judges toured Iroquois, Williamsburg Township and Matilda Township and, as viewed from curbside, identified 31 gardens which were significant due to the use of design, colour and neatness. Highest points went to:

Casselman Cup - Ron and Sheila Lapier (Morrisburg); Jim McCullough Award - Anna and Gerald Wynands (Iroquois); Rohm and Haas Cup - Wendy Hodgson (Williamsburg Township); Robert Griffin Award - Metje and William Harbers (Matilda Township).

The remaining 27 gardens received Certificates to recognize their gardening achievements.

The Society named Eileen and John Johnston (Mariatown) as the 1995 recipients of the Steven's Award for Excellence in Horticulture. Both Eileen and John played a major role in the revival of this Society by serving on the Board for the past three years, John as President and Eileen as a Director. Through their efforts, Morrisburg was named to operate a Master Gardener Training Program. Both happily share their horticultural expertise in rockery, water and perennial gardening, all of which are demonstrated in their outstanding and colourful property in Mariatown.

Based on points earned in both the June Flower Show and the September Vegetable Show, the following trophies were awarded:

Simser Cup (Highest Points - Cut Flowers) - Dorothy Adlington; Bouchard Cup (Highest Points - Vegetables) - Leo Devette; Rutherford Trophy (Highest Total Points by a Man for Flowers & Vegetables) - Leo Devette; Chamber of Commerce Cup (Highest Total Points for Flowers & Vegetables) - Gloria van Leeuwen.

The Society will resume its meetings at the Morrisburg Civic Centre on the third Tuesday in February in a new format. In 1996, members will take turns presenting meetings which might take the form of a visit to someone's garden, a presentation by the member, a master gardener or an imported speaker, or a bus trip. Perhaps members will each share expertise in their particular areas (cactus, orchids, flower arranging). This new approach could be quite enjoyable for everyone as members get involved in running their Society. Why not join us. For details, contact Willy or Gloria van Leeuwen (543-3308).

Morrisburg Lions roar with 25 goals and three wins this week

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Sports Editor

In three of the most important games the Lions have faced all year, the team rose to the challenge.

Hosting the Alexandria Glens last Wednesday evening in a make up game, Morrisburg hammered the competition with a 9-3 victory in front of approximately 100 fans.

At home on Friday night hosting the second place Kemptville 73's, Morrisburg escaped a shaky second period to come away with a 5-3 win.

At Alexandria Sunday evening, the Lions did it again!

"It was no contest," said General Manager Peter McCooeye of the Lions Sunday night encounter with the Glens. "It could have been 10-1 after the first.

Coach Morrow was pleased with the wins but he wasn't quite as enthusiastic as the General Manager. "We got through the games we needed to win (over the weekend) but we still have a long way to go if we want to get to 500 hockey before Christmas."

Some have wondered if the Lions (7-9-2) with four wins in a row have begun to peak too early, but Morrow is not convinced.

"I don't believe it's a question of peeking too early, I just think we've started to come together a bit. We were 0-7 and we should have been four and three," commented the coach.

Hosting Alexandria last Wednesday night the Lions were unstoppable.

Geoff Hare, Chad Dugay and Chad White combined for seventeen points on the night and were on the ice for seven of the Lions nine goals.

Hare opened the scoring halfway through the first, picked up his second of the night in the middle frame and completed the hat trick in the third.

As well, Hare also assisted on three more!

White was scoreless over the course of the evening but assisted on four of the nine.

Dugay scored one of his own and assisted on five.

Ryan Warner was also on fire last Wednesday night scoring once every period for the hat trick.

The Lions two remaining goals came from Allan Quenville and Travis Froats. Assists on the Quenville and Froats counters went to Nick Dixon, Froats, Quenville and Jon Saunders.

Kemptville

Of all the games last week, the most important was undoubtedly Friday nights encounter against the (11-6-4) 73's. No one wanted the team to go to Alexandria on a losing note and thanks to White's third period counter, the Lions had no worries.

Hare opened the scoring for Morrisburg late in the first period on a feed from White and Froats. With 51 seconds left, Quenville and Assistant Captain Tim Waldroff set up Jon Saunders to give Morrisburg a 2-0 lead after one.

A lapse in the early minutes of the middle frame gave Kemptville a chance to get back in the game and that is just what they did!

Shawn Forbes and Jeff Ricci tied the game for the visitors.

However, White and Hare set up Dugay with 32 seconds left and Morrisburg went into the third with a one goal lead.

Three minutes into the final frame White rocketed one past Jason Benard and it was all over for Kemptville. Hare and Dugay got the assists.

Tim Waldroff added the insurance goal with 4:34 seconds left on a feed from Saunders.

Kemptville's final goal came with just 1:06 left in regulation, too little too late!

Alexandria

Sunday evening in Alexandria the Lions dominated play scoring five powerplay goals and three even strength goals and three shorthanded goals.

Hare, James Cooper and Dugay scored singles in the first for Morrisburg. Assists went to Froats (2), Saunders, James Barnes and Jeremy Gowsell.

In the second singles went to Saunders, Hare, Chris Proulx, Jason Harper and Tim Waldroff. Assists were credited to Chad White (3), Dugay (2) and Allan Quenville.

In the third Hare completed his hat trick and singles were added by Dugay and Quenville. Dugay also picked up two assists.

This week the team hosts Brockville Friday night and then travel to Gananoque on Sunday.

Midget Lions lose first "A" game 6-4

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Sports Editor

After losing their first game in the "A" division, Coach of the Morrisburg Midget Lions Lyle Schell wasn't worried!

After dominating the "B" division in the UCMHL, the Morrisburg Midgets were moved up to the "A" Division.

Hosting North Dundas last Tuesday evening the Lions were in the game until the final minute.

Rob Darling opened the scoring for Morrisburg early in the first period. Darling took a pass from Rob Murphy and drove it past Daryl Beck in the Devils cage.

North Dundas came back to tie the game and take the lead, but Morrisburg's John Derouchie tied it up with a minute sixteen left to play.

The Devils scored two quick ones to start the second period but Morrisburg battled back and answered one.

Darling hit Aaron Orlicky with a pass and Orlicky gave the feed to Matt Dejong who buried it!

Down by one going into the third, Mark Wood hammered a shot past Beck and tied the game yet again for the Lions. The assists on the Wood goal went to Justin Beckstead and Jeremy Adams.

However, North Dundas came back to take the lead with a goal from Rob Desormeaux, his second of the night.

"We could have won," said Coach Schell, "But the difference was goaltending. We outshot them but their goalie was good."

The last North Dundas goal was scored by Derrick Gates who put one in the empty net with 19 seconds left to go in regulation.

Schell believes the Lions can play in the "A" league and remain competitive. "This team is good. So far I've really been impressed with the discipline they've shown (only five penalties in their last game) but they have to work on getting the puck out of our end."

Sunday the team travelled to North Dundas for a rematch with the Devils and defeated them in a convincing 5-2 encounter.

Last night assistant coach Jeremy Morrow was at the helm as the Midgets hosted Cornwall. Check next week's Chieftain for the results.

Morrisburg Minor Hockey report

ATOM C

The Morrisburg Atom White went down in defeat last week, as the Athens Flyers earned a shutout against the team. They lost 3-0.

The Flyers beat Morrisburg's goalie Daniel Adams in the first and third periods. Shots from David Rowat, Barry Livingston and Joshua Mensen made the net.

Despite the effort, the Atom White could not come up with any goals. The Nov. 21 shutout was earned by Flyers' goalie Emory Seffinga.

NOVICE A

In Novice A action, Morrisburg played hard last Wednesday against Cornwall, but the team could not come up with the win. Cornwall won by a score of 6-2.

Morrisburg led in the first period with a goal by Cody Casselman. But by the end of the second period Morrisburg was down by a goal. Janick Lalonde and Ian Boots came up with Cornwall's second period goals.

In the third, Cornwall's offensive play burst through Morrisburg's defense, as four more goals made their way past goalie Tyler Lafortune.

Although Morrisburg added a goal in the third, it wasn't enough for the win. Taking a pass from Matt McDonald, Kent Nugent took credit for Morrisburg's second goal.

PEEWEE C

Morrisburg came away with a win last week against Westport. With a six goal lead, Morrisburg won handily with a score of 8-2.

With two goals in the first by Darcy McCann and Peter Ceasar, Morrisburg led 2-1.

The game remained close in the second period as Morrisburg and Cornwall each added one more goal. Again Morrisburg's third goal came from McCann.

It wasn't until the third period, that Morrisburg broke away and managed to sneak five more goals past the Westport goalie. McCann earned another goal, and Shawn Hitsman took two of his own.

Glenn Mellan and Calvin McIntosh took credit for the two others.

SDSC donates money to Summer Festival Committee

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

Through money it raised at this year's Summer Festival boat and water craft rally, the South Dundas Snowmobile Club (SDSC) was able to donate $50 to the Summer Festival committee last week.

On behalf of the SDSC, rally organizer Kevin Whitteker presented committee co-chair Tracey Stewart with the cheque, Friday.

Whitteker says the club is starting to prepare for the upcoming snowmobile season. The trails are not yet open, and he encourages everyone not to travel the trail areas until the official opening. But the date for the opening is not yet certain.

"Once it freezes and it looks safe for people to go on, then they'll be open," he says.

Whitteker expects the trails to be open by Christmas, but it depends on the weather.

The SDSC is heading into its second year as a snowmobile club. Along with five other clubs, it makes up the Nation Valley Snowmobile Association. The one-year-old association was formed to provide a centralized grooming service for the trails.

Instead of each club buying a groomer for $80,000 or leasing one for $18,000 a year, and instead of each club grooming 120 km, the association has one groomer that grooms 500 kms of trails, 24 hours a day.

Being a part of the association, also means that collectively the clubs have a greater chance to get government funding.

Trail permits

Up until this Friday, Dec. 1, snowmobilers are still able to purchase their trail permits for $80 each. After that, the price goes up to $100.

Whitteker says the pass entitles you to drive anywhere in Ontario on Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs (OFSC) trails. It also includes subscriptions to two snowmobile magazines and a sled-smart card that provides discounts at certain restaurants and hotels.

"If you take all that into consideration, a trail pass isn't all that much," he says.

In the past, club members have found a number of people travelling the trails without permits. With increased surveillance and wardening, Whitteker says they plan to curtail that problem this year.

"If people can spend that kind of money on a snowmobile, they can surely spend $80 on a trail permit," he says.

Considering the volunteer work that is put into the trails, Whitteker says the permits are bargains.

"If there was no volunteer work involved, it would cost well over $500 for a permit, or it (the trails system) just wouldn't happen."

Last year, the SDSC sold 76 trail passes and had a total membership (including spouses) of 160. This year the club is shooting to sell 100 trail passes.

The money from the permits goes towards the association for grooming expenses. Fund-raising efforts like the boat and watercraft rally and Haddo Jamboree help keep the clubhouse and club meeting its other expenses.

If anyone wants to become a SDSC member, volunteer, or become a trail warden, they can call Kevin Whitteker at 652-2467.

Vipers down Cougars

by Michael Bailey
Chieftain Sports Editor

The Long Sault Vipers struck for another two points last week as they defeated the Vankleek Hill Cougars 6-4.

Chris Proulx had an outstanding game for the Vipers finishing off a hat trick early in the third period.

Proulx put the Vipers on the board at 14:34 of the first when he scored on a picture perfect pass from Tim Graham.

The Cougars came back to tie it up, but with 7:46 seconds left in the first, Corey McAllister rocketed a shot past Andrew Higginson in the Cougars cage giving the Vipers the lead after one.

Vankleek Hill tied the game early in the second but Long Sault answered with two before the buzzer sounded ending the second.

The Vipers goals came from Proulx and McAllister.

Proulx notched his third of the game early in the final period with the assists going to Lee Charlebois and Mike Scott.

Ryan Canning scored twice in the final frame for the Cougars, but Mike Scott put the game away for the Vipers when he capitalized on a feed from Jason Prieur with 3:09 remaining.

Hosting the Casselman Stars last Saturday evening, the Vipers kept the game close in the first two periods.

At the end of two the visitors were leading 3-2 on goals from Francis Bryere (2) and Stephane Perth.

The two Vipers counters came from Nick Lebrun and Chris Proulx. Assists went to Tim Gray and Sean Paitras.

Despite the close game in the first two periods, the Cassleman Stars caught their second wind in the third and exploded for five.

Proulx hammered one more past Stephane Adam in the Stars net, but the Vipers were forced to settle for the loss.

Long Sault's next home game will be this Saturday night as they host Rockland at 8:15.

Junior Spartans take bronze at EOSSAA

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Sports Reporter

Despite hard work and strong play last Thursday, the Seaway Spartans junior girls basketball team could not come away with the win they wanted.

Playing in the Eastern Ontario Secondary School Athletic Association (EOSSA) basketball championship in Vankleek Hill, the juniors had no problem defeating Vankleek in the first game of the day. It was the second game they needed to win, to advance against Gananoque in the finals.

Despite a 110 per cent effort by all the players, they lost the game against the MacKenzie High School Mustangs 71-63. But Coach Scott Corden said it was an incredibly thrilling game.

"It was a wild game," he said. "You can quote Lee Madden (former Seaway basketball coach). He said it was the best high school game he'd ever seen."

A fast paced game, Corden said it was the most upbeat game they'd played all season. And Seaway's team is no slouch when it comes to a fast-paced game.

"We like to play fast, but we hadn't played anything that fast," he said. "We do it two or three minutes usually, but we did it for 20 minutes."

Seaway was ahead at the half with a score of 41-37. But by the end, Seaway just couldn't keep the pace.

"They (Mustangs) just seemed to have more stamina and they were shooting extremely well," Corden said. "We were tiring ourselves out, and they seemed to hit everything."

Although Seaway lost, Corden said that game was one of the best the Seaway juniors has played all year.

MacKenzie moved into the finals against Gananoque but couldn't hold their own. They were tired out. As Gananoque took the gold medal, Seaway played against Vankleek Hill and won the bronze by a score of 46-33.

Corden admits their hearts weren't in the bronze-medal game, but they managed to focus on having fun and getting everyone on the team to play.

The juniors ended their year with a record of 19 wins and three losses. Corden said he was proud to see how successful the girls played this year.

Cards of Thanks

SHAVER: In remembrance of Stanly Wilfred Shaver, 1901-1995: We have lost a dear uncle, great friend and a wonderful neighbor in the passing of Stanly W. Shaver who died on November 21, 1995. The wake and funeral service were truly a celebration of Stanly's long life. Thank you to Patsy Henry, Minister of Brinston United Church, for her comforting words and her quick understanding of the admiration and great memories we all have of Stanly. Thank you Lorne Strader for your true friendship of Stanly and for arranging the lunch after the cemetery service at the Brinston United Church. Thank you ladies for the delicious lunch. Some of Stanly's fondest memories were of the times he spent serving the church and being in the company of its members. We would like to thank Dr. Henry Prins for the great care he has given Stanly over the years, Danny McLaughlin from the Marsden-McLaughlin Funeral Home in Iroquois, for all his help, also a big thank you to all who made Stanly's last years more enjoyable by your visits to him.

In Memoriams

EASTER - In memory of our father, grandfather, father-in-law and husband, Kenneth Lorne Easter, December 5th, 1994.
"Gone But Not Forgotten"
One year has passed since we talked to you last
We can't believe it - it just happened too fast.
There isn't a day, that we don't stop and say,
We wished we could've helped you more in some way...
You suffered in silence for a good number of years,
As we're writing this poem, we can't see for the tears.
We're grateful for all the things that we shared,
It gave us a chance to show you we cared.
Now we understand what you were trying to say,
That in the near future, you were going away.
We'll always remember the last words that you said,
You knew it was us standing there by your bed.
As you know Dad, we just live for today,
What goes around, comes around is all we can say.
You and Mother were all that we had,
Always there for us through the good and the bad.
When you died Dad, part of mother died too,
She wanted to die - just to be with you.
We know you're in Heaven - what a good place to be,
But I wish you were still living down here with me.
We'll always be grateful for what you did from the start,
We love you and miss you from deep in our hearts.

Seaway presents play at Upper Canada Playhouse

Opening at Upper Canada Playhouse, on December 6, just in time for Christmas, the Grade 12/OAC drama class presents the children's play, Rescuing Rhyme and Reason. Set in a fantasy world, the play follows the adventures of a group of loyal friends in their attempts to rescue a Prince and Princess from the clutches of a wicked Witch. A cast of 26 plays a variety of delightful characters from Imps to Noise Doctors, from the Ratgang to Furry Creatures. Designed for the young-at-heart, Seaway's drama students hope that Rescuing Rhyme and Reason, directed by W. Gibb will prove a pre-holiday treat.

Matinees are Wednesday, December 6 at 1pm, Thursday; December 7, at 10am and 1 pm; and Friday, December 8 at 1pm. Matinee tickets are $3.00 and reservations can be made by calling 652-4878 between 8 a.m. and 3:30 pm after November 30.

There are two evening performances open to everyone, on Friday, December 8 at 7;30pm and Saturday, December 9 at 7;30pm. Tickets for the evening shows are $5.00, these are only on sale at the door.

The S.D.H.S. students have been working on the play since the end of October. The set, costumes and props have all been designed by members of the actual drama class. Many hours of preparation have gone into this production both during and outside of class time.

We hope to see you at Upper Canada Playhouse December 6 through 9.

Equine seminar Dec. 7

The Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology is hosting the 1995 Annual Equine Seminar on Thursday, December 7. The program this year has been expanded to a full day, starting at 8:45 a.m. due to popular demand. The morning program is focused on the theme of horse health and first aid, with several college equine staff presenting concurrent workshops in the A.M. Barr Arena at the KCAT farm. By working in smaller groups, participants will have the opportunity to ask more questions, discuss specific topics of detail and also gain some " hands on" experience.

The afternoon program will be held in the Parish Building, at the main KCAT campus, and include some displays and a slide tour of the Ontario Equine Research Centre, Guelph. There will also be a presentation on Stable Design and Management and their role in horse health maintenance. The cost to register for the program is $5.00 per person and everyone is asked to bring your own lunch; coffee will be available.

Vacancies at seniors' apartments

by Rebecca van Noppen
Chieftain Staff Reporter

The IROMA seniors' apartment building on Dundas St. is going through a cycle, according to Cornwall and Area Housing Authority project manager, Richard Vinet.

With three rooms coming vacant at the beginning of November, a number of local residents have voiced concerns about the vacancies to The Chieftain.

However, Vinet says there is no reason for people to be concerned. A facility such as this one in Iroquois goes through heavy and light cycles.

"The building is going through another cycle," he said in a recent telephone interview. "People are passing on."

All three vacancies occurred because of health reasons. People age, are hospitalized or are moved on to nursing homes. Vinet said it is part of the nature of this facility.

Seniors' representative Don Rawlings has lived in the IROMA apartment building for five years. He calls it a "famine and feast situation."

"This is the way the ball bounces, with a lull now and again," he said.

With barely a handful of people on the Iroquois waiting list, Vinet said it is hard to fill the vacancies right away, especially in winter. Often people will be asked to move, but due to winter weather conditions will not accept the invitation.

Vinet says some people may be surprised to hear that the waiting list is so small. He has heard people say they've been on the waiting list for three years but have not been able to get into the apartments.

However, some people don't realize they have to update their application to remain on the list. Forms need to be filled out to update addresses and other information. This is a means of verifying their interest in living in the apartment buildings.

Advertising concerns

People have also been concerned that the Housing Authority has advertised Iroquois vacancies in Cornwall papers instead of local papers. One incident allegedly occurred in the summer, but no one could confirm or verify the incident.

There was one vacancy open over the summer. It took the Housing Authority several months to locate someone to rent it. They were finally successful at the beginning of this month.

Vinet said the Authority always makes sure vacancies are advertised in local papers.

"The priority is to give the local people the first choice," he said.

Rawlings said people in Iroquois generally know about the vacancies in the building, because of relatives and friends who tell them about them. That is often the best form of advertising.

Rawlings says he has not heard any complaints about the vacancies or the advertising of the vacancies.

"They (tenants) are not really concerned about the situation," he said. "They are all quite happy and content with their apartments."

However, if people do have questions or concerns, Vinet says they should feel free to approach the Housing Authority and talk with housing manager W.G. Hulls.

Lucien returns to the Playhouse

Marshall Button and his character Lucien have had a busy summer, travelling to the distant Hornby Island off the coast of BC and visiting the not-so-distant Gananoque for a successful four-week run.

Now, audiences in Morrisburg will finally be treated to a double dose of Lucien this weekend.

Two special performances have been scheduled, with Button performing Lucien on Dec. 1 and Lucien's Labour Lost on Dec. 2.

Lucien's Labour Lost, the sequel to the popular original, catches up with the homespun philosopher/millworker from New Brunswick ten years after the time of the first play. Layoffs at the paper mill have inspired Lucien to try his hand at entrepreneurship. He now works a few days at the mill and spends the rest of his time running his bar, The Wooden Squirrel.

Lucien offers wisdom on everything from marriage and religion to politics and the economy. Having survived a drinking problem and a divorce, Lucien is older and wiser, but he still keeps the audience in stitches with his unique perspective on Canadian life.

The original Lucien takes us back to the early days at the mill when Lucien still has a job and is educating the summer student working with him on the ways of the world, like how to avoid work.

Children of the Planet Earth

Alien Baldo, played by Matt Maxwell, is trying to teach Ms. Dee Zaster (right) to take care of the environment. This environmental theme is the message in Maxwell's newest album, Children of the Planet Earth. He performed for local school children at the Upper Canada Playhouse last week. Chieftain photo by R. van Noppen

Students hear environmental message at the Playhouse

The Upper Canada Playhouse had some special visitors last Wednesday as it featured Children of the Planet Earth, a musical presentation with an environmental message.

Two hundred and seventy Morrisburg Public School students came to the show in the morning, and 188 students from Elma Public School and St. Mary's Catholic School attended in the afternoon.

With feet stomping and hands clapping, the young students got into the music from the outset.

"They were all so enthusiastic," says Playhouse publicity director, Cathy Allison. "They seemed to think it was pretty neat." The presentation featured music from Matt Maxwell's newest album, Children of the Planet Earth. Last summer, 12 grade eight students from the elementary school in Cornwall travelled to Toronto to record songs for the new album.

Maxwell hooked up with the students, who now attend General Vanier Secondary School, when he performed in Cornwall. The students were part of the school's Green Team - a group dedicated to raising awareness of environmental issues. They joined in his show and Maxwell was so impressed, he asked them to work with him.

The Cornwall students were again performing with him at the Playhouse last week.

Maxwell, a native of the Maritimes, has been performing for children, usually in French, since the early 1980s. He started out teaching elementary school French but soon saw the usefulness of incorporating songs into his lessons. Since then he has performed across the country and appeared in a television concert series for TVO. He has sold over 135,000 copies of his five albums, and has performed in front of more than 500,000 people since his first album was released in 1983.

All the songs on his new album have messages about looking after the environment, such as reducing waste and conserving energy. With Children of the Planet Earth, Maxwell has tried to ensure the message gets across without being preachy.

Planet Earth's main character is Ms. Dee Zaster, a woman who revels in her 500-channel universe and throw-away world. She is visited by an alien from the planet Baldo who warns her that it's time to clean up the earth. The two travel through time, and back to the future, to visit today's troubles.

Allison says it was good to see the students have fun, while learning about the environment.

INSIDE AN HOUR

Your Chieftain Guide to local entertainment

Inside an hour gives you, our readers a quick glimpse of some of the entertainment, recreation and social events taking place within an hour's drive of Iroquois.

'Tis the season as they say and so for those who are scurrying to get that last minute shopping done or the crafties who are searching for the illusive craft idea to complete their lists, this weekend is looking mighty good.

The Friends of the Sanctuary will host a Wreath Decorating Workshop at the Upper Canada Bird Sanctuary, east of Upper Canada Village on Highway 2, from 1 to 3 p.m. on Saturday, December 2. For info, you can call 543-2547.

Along the same lines, Seasons Shop and Garden Centre in Mariatown will host a Christmas Open House on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 1,2 and 3, from 1 to 5 pm each day.

For the sweet tooth, there are two sales to grab you, both on Saturday, December 2; one is in Brinston, sponsored by the Matilda Rebeka Lodge starting at 11 a.m. The other is in Williamsburg at the United Church Hall. Getting underway at 9:30a.m., and running until 3:00 p.m. This is a Christmas Bake and Craft Sale.

Santa will be hosted by the Iroquois Scouts at the Civic Centre from 10a.m. until 2 p.m. on Sunday. Serving pancakes, sausages, syrup, juice and coffee, the Scouts will serve up a merry brunch costing only $2.50, while those under 6 years eat FREE. The Stocking draw will take place at 2 sharp...tickets can be purchased up to that time on the giant stocking filled with goodies for all ages. It's valued at over $150.00.
