CORNWALL YOUTH KILLED WHEN TRUCK CRASHES

When the heavy truck he was driving west on No. 2 highway, ten miles west of Cornwall, Friday afternoon, left the road and crashed into a large elm tree, Joseph Claude "Pete" Bonnevillie, 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Bonnevillie, Cornwall, was instantly killed. His terribly crushed body was removed with much difficulty from the battered cab.

According to information given to police by Clarence Bowen, Toronto, driver of a Smith transport truck, he was driving along the highway when the truck Bonnevillie was driving ran up behind his truck. Bonnevillie is said to have sounded his horn and then proceeded to pass. When about even with the Smith truck, the wheels of Bonnevillie's truck are believed to have struck the soft shoulder, which pulled the vehicle off the road. The truck rolled for about 400 feet before it collided with a tree. The impact was so great that a 100-pound bag of sugar was thrown 30 feet, it was said.

Herbert Moss, a farmer near the scene of the accident, saw what had happened and immediately rushed to the spot. Bonnevillie was dead at that time, but Moss, Leo Lemire and Charles Empey, who ran to the truck removed the body.

Friday, the thirteenth, brought tragedy into the Bonnevillie home. The young man was well known in Cornwall, where he participated in various sports. He was born at Lancaster, but had resided in Cornwall for a number of years. Surviving are his parents, four brothers and seven sisters.

DEATH BLAMED ON TREMBLAY

After deliberating for 45 minutes, a coroner's jury at Cornwall Wednesday blamed Arthur Tremblay, 29-year-old carpenter, for the hammer-hatchet slaying of Rene Tessier, 34-year-old railway worker, in Cornwall on the afternoon of Aug. 31. "From the evidence produced, we believe that Arthur Tremblay was responsible for Tessier's death," the verdict read.

The inquest opened in the Counties' Courthouse, Cornwall, on Friday last, but was postponed until Wednesday night owing to the absence of several witnesses. Tremblay who has been formally charged with the murder of Tessier, sat patiently throughout the hearing. When Coroner Dr. C.J. Hamilton announced the verdict, Tremblay showed no signs of emotion, and after the court room was cleared of spectators, he was escorted back to his cell in the counties' jail to await preliminary hearing of the charge against him.

Tremblay is alleged to have been drinking with Tessier on the afternoon of Tessier's death, and to have brutally murdered Tessier with a hammer and a small hatchet. Tessier's battered body was found in Tremblay's small house about two hours after the crime had been committed.

W.M.S. OF UNITED CHURCH HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of United Church Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Meikle, it being a "Friendship Meeting". After singing a hymn, Miss Gillespie read from the Bible, a prayer by Mrs. Stata following.

Mrs. Cameron was appointed as delegate for the Sectional Meeting to be held Oct. 3rd, at Winchester Springs.

The devotional leaflet was given by Mrs. Smith, after which Mrs. Ed. Mullin favored the gathering with a beautiful vocal solo.

The study period was then taken by Mrs. Reddick, "Highlights of the Year's Work". The work of Africa was given by Miss Jane Smith, China by Mrs. Merrill, Japan by Miss Gould Smith, Trinidad by Mrs. Cameron, Western Canada by Mrs. Blanche.

After singing a verse of "Blest be the Tie that Binds," the meeting closed with the benediction. A social hour followed, and delightful refreshments were served.

WILLIAMSBURG W. I.

The September meeting of the Williamsburg Women's Institute met at the home of the Misses Almada and Sarah A. Whitteker on Thursday evening last. The attendance was not large, but much enthusiasm was evident. The roll call, "Don't for the Year," was well responded to and some interesting items were given. The cemetery committee reported good work done on the cemetery, and a bill for work done by the caretaker, Mr. Stuart, was ordered paid.

A very interesting paper, "Travelogue," was given by Mrs. Macdonald, who described her trip last winter from east to the West.

At this meeting, a decision was made that at the October meeting, plans would be made for the winter's work and social activities.

At the close of the meeting, several games were enjoyed, after which the hostesses served a delightful lunch, and a social hour was spent.

DR. GEORGE F. MOUTHROP

(Buffalo Tribune-Herald, Sept. 19) Funeral services for Dr. George Franklin Mouthrop, well-known West Side dentist, were held Monday from the home at 273 West Perry street. Dr. Jeschke of St. Luke's Evangelical Church officiated. Burial was in Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Dr. Mouthrop suffered a heart attack on September 11th, and passed away on September 13th at the age of 63 years. The funeral was under the auspices of Queen City Lodge, F. & A.M.

Born in Ogdensburg in 1872, he received his preliminary training at Morrisburg, Ont. and at a Normal School in Ottawa. He taught for several years in Morrisburg.

In 1895 he came to Buffalo where he entered the University of Buffalo Dental School, from which he received his degree. He began his practice at 42 Lawrence Place and later moved to 273 West Perry street where he practiced for 36 years.

Dr. Mouthrop was a prominent man on the West Side, and well known to many due to his fraternal affiliations. He belonged to Queen City Lodge of which he was a past master. He was a member of Pilgrim Circle, P.H.C., which he organized 30 years ago with Mrs. Mouthrop. He was supreme auditor of the P.H.C. at Sharon, Pa. He belonged to Mizpah Lodge, of which he was a past noble grand. He was a member of the New York State Dental Society and a member of the Church Council, belonging to St. Luke's Evangelical Church.

Many beautiful flowers decorated the grave and many friends and relatives attended the funeral services. Five supreme officers of the P.H.C. from Sharon and Jamestown were present, and relatives and friends attended from Ottawa, Can., Syracuse, Rochester and Niagara Falls.

He is survived by his wife, Alice I. Mouthrop (nee Merkley); a daughter Mrs. Adeline J. Martin, Jr. and four sisters, Mary and Macy Mouthrop, Mrs. Anna Barker of Antwerp, N.Y., and Mrs. John Gossman.

TWO PAY FINES FOR CRASH

In the village of Cardinal Sunday afternoon, a sedan driven by Fred Jackson, undertaker of Cardinal, was struck broadside by a car driven by Ralph Bloomfield, Montreal, as the Ontario car was about to turn into a driveway. Mr. Jackson's car was carried 16 feet by the impact. Harold Vineberg, Montreal, was a passenger in Bloomfield's car, but none of the three men involved suffered serious injuries. Both drivers were charged with negligence in magistrate's court at Brockville, and found guilty, paying fines of $10 and $5 costs, each.

HIGHWAY MENACE

The Department of Highways has announced that a night patrol of main roads is to be established and that special attention will be given to cars with one headlight. Again and again there have been warnings of close surveillance along this and other lines. Yet the one-eyed automobile continues to be met on the highways, people continue to drive without permits, trucks without the required equipment, and other vehicles with faulty brakes continue to be used.

—Kingston Whig-Standard.

A GOOD REPORTER

The driving power that produces a good reporter must exist within him. It is enthusiasm, keen interest in life as it is being lived, an ability to find the full and rounded flavor of existence and to glory in it. No reporter driven by external forces ever produced a story that was worth an inch of space in his newspaper.

Love of work, joy that can be found only through achievement, the "fun of the thing," figure more largely in newspapering than in virtually any other occupation.

Perhaps there is little of conscious idealism and less still of "highly-souled motives." But there is a curiosity, an earnest interest in the jobs at hand, and they meet the need just as well.

—Hamilton Herald.

The pretty girl, according to Dorothy Dix, likes to be told she is "intelligent," and the intelligent girl likes to be told she is "pretty." Oh, well, as a rule we prevaricate cheerfully in either case.

A CANADIAN GUIDE BOOK

No Canadian about to visit Europe for the first time would dream of going without some sort of guide book. He or she would want to know which spots are the most worth seeing, which have the greatest historical or scenic interest, which places he or she could afford to miss.

Yet for the Canadian who is traveling in Canada there are almost no up-to-date guide books at all; and that is a pity, because Canada is an immense country, and few of us are very familiar with much of it outside of our own immediate bailiwicks.

Here's a chance for some enterprising publishing house to give us a Canadian Baedeker.

A FISH AND A BOY

One of the differences between a fish and a boy friend, says a girl friend of the Colym, is that when you try to catch a fish it swallows the hook but a boy friend will swallow the line also.

JUST IN THE RECORDS

Mr. J. P. Bickell, Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Ontario, sends us this tabulation of "suspensions imposed under the various provisions of the Ontario Highway Traffic Act" during the first seven months of this year and last:

| | 1934 | 1935 |
|---|------|------|
| Reckless driving, resulting in personal injury or property damage | 753 | 965 |
| Speeding | 33 | 43 |
| Driving, no license (in accident) | 54 | 127 |
| Criminal negligence | 14 | 18 |
| Other offences | 58 | 98 |
| Failure to satisfy judgment | 35 | 52 |
| Policy cancellations | 403 | 465 |
| Failure to return to scene of accident | 73 | 64 |
| Intoxication | 167 | 245 |
| Total | 1590 | 2077 |

Presumably these suspensions include the impounding of license plates as well as the taking up of drivers' permits.

It is good that the penalty of suspension is being imposed freely by the Department in serious violations of the traffic laws. It would be better if the added penalty of publicity were attached.

When a driver's plates are seized, or his permit suspended, through departmental action, the punishment is a matter between the individual and the Highway officials. The general public are not advised, because this information does not go to the newspapers. The Journal suggests again that more publicity would add immeasurably to the effectiveness of suspension as a deterrent of recklessness.

ALAS, POOR DOBBIN!

London, England, is to be conspicuous five years hence because of the absence of horses from the streets, according to present plans of the Ministry of Transport. It is intended to inaugurate a completely mechanized system, the forerunner of which will be in operation in the near future. The busiest thoroughfares are to be closed to horse-drawn traffic shortly. While the Minister of Transport, Mr. Hore-Belisha, has the power to put an end to traffic by horse, he doesn't wish to do so without giving the owners fair warning.

In any event a percentage of the animals will be able to "pinch-hit" on the farm. Others can retire to meadow and pasture for well deserved rest. The occasional one may even be developed into a steeplechaser or flat runner for the enjoyment of racing fans!

Machinery and modern invention have replaced Old Dobbin in many spheres, but we doubt that he will fade from the picture entirely for a long time yet.

"SOCIAL TELEGRAMS"

Melbourne. — Another special telegram form will be introduced by the Postal Department. It is a social form for invitations to bridge parties, dinners, reunions and other social events. Beneath a scroll with the words "Social Telegram," will appear a drawing in 4 colors of a young man in the dress of the last century bowing gracefully to a young woman wearing a crinoline.

Five special forms are already available — for birthday, Christmas and New Year greetings, and for messages on Mother's Day and Anzac Day.

OLD SUSSEX HOUSES

"Which of the hundred of old houses in Sussex, still inhabited, is the oldest?" asks the Rev. A. A. Evans in his book, "A Saunterer in Sussex." He supplies his own answer:

"In a dip of the Downs between Exceat and Litlington is Charleston. It was, as the name implies, a car's tun, but three is no sign today of its Saxon beginning except the silted-up creek at its edge and its hidden position. The present house, still in full use, has windows, graceful nook-shafts, stiff-foliaged capitals and other features of the Transitional-Norman style, and which tells you it was built about 1200.

"Close to it and to the south is West Dean rectory house, of age about 1280, and possibly the oldest inhabited parsonage house in England.

"The third, and apparently much the oldest, is that of Barton in the parish of Pagham, which has wailing, gabbling and other features which indicate a dwelling house or 'aula,' of some years before the Norman Conquest."

—Coming Events Britain

"OVER-FISHED" NEW ZEALAND

The time is rapidly approaching when, unless remedial measures are taken, the value of trout fishing as a stimulus to the tourist industry will decline through its very popularity. Throughout recent seasons, particularly in the Taupo district, there has been a state of overcrowding that destroys the sport for the average individual. The available waters have been "flogged to death," not only in holiday periods but all through the season. All the best waters to which there is access have been over-fished.

—Auckland News.

"A NATION'S HEALTH"

Who dare to suggest that any sick human being can be allowed today to lack all that is necessary and practicable for his skillful and humane treatment, and for his speedy return to good health? In the provisions of medical care, the State has a very definite duty to perform, a duty which, as the "Guardian" has clearly shown, has been cruelly neglected; and it is extremely heartening to know that the Governor has recognized the fact, and that he has under consideration measures designed to bring about an improvement in conditions which have long been a disgrace to this Colony and a menace to the welfare of its people.

—Trinidad Guardian.

THE COMMON ENEMY

Spare a thought for those who fight the common cold. It costs the nation £50,000,000 a year—about a pound apiece for the colds of the people. While we fight new diseases, just diagnosed, we forget the common cold which strikes down 50,000 people all the time. If somebody said that 50,000 folk had been affected or injured

SPORT HOT SHOTS

BY KEN. EDWARDS

KING OF THE TURF

Man O' War, that glorious stallion, son of Fair Play was beaten twice but only once in an actual race.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kane, in 1916, sent the mare Mahubah to the court of the stallion Fair Play to breed her for Major Belmont.

In Jan., 1918, the foal had grown a red-golden chestnut coat of the Fair Plays. Since the little horse had come along in turbulent times, Major Belmont himself named him Man O' War.

In 1918 Man O' War was auctioned off to Sam Riddle of Berlin, Md. for $5,000. Man O' War's only public defeat was at Saratoga in 1919 by Harry Pagne Whitney's, Upset, ridden by Willie Knapp, won by a neck.

When John P. Grier and Man O' War raced in 1920, Man O' War set a new world's record of 1.49 and 1/5 for the 9 furlongs, later lowered by Peanuts at Aqueduct in 1926 to 1.48 and 3/5.

The stallion's last race was at Windsor, Canada. A purse of $75,000 and a $5,000 gold cup were offered. Man O' War went to the post a 1 to 20 favorite, he lead as he pleased, was eased up twice and then won by eight lengths. Riddle poured the champagne out of the golden Trophy, had it filled with fresh water and Man O' War drained the cup he had just won—the cup that came at the end of his wonderful racing career.

He had started in 21 races and was beaten in public in only one. The old champion is now 18 years old. He has been at the Faraway farm in Kentucky since 1921.

Some of God's noblest sons, I think, will be selected from those who know how to take wealth, with all its temptations, and maintain godliness therewith. It is hard to be a saint standing in a golden niche.—Becher.

Betterment In Trade Is Seen

Montreal. — Evidences of continued upward movement in Canadian business despite midsummer conditions are given in the monthly business summary of the Bank of Montreal, just released.

Building construction was higher in June than a year ago and higher again in July, the report says. The external trade of the Dominion, despite a slight recession in June, was higher in July than a year ago and for the first six months of the year was four per cent. above the 1934 half-year record.

Gold production in the Dominion is reaching new high levels and expansion is being shown in several important lines of the manufacturing industry. The automobile output for the first six months is well above that of the 1934 period.

An increase in trade with the British Empire is also noted, with corresponding advantage to Canadian producers. The tourist trade, "which has become so important a factor in the general international balance, gives evidence of materially increased volume during the present season," according to the bank summary. The gain is well distributed among the provinces.

Electric Farms

One of the biggest experiments of its kind is being tried in the North of England. More than 600 farms in Durham, Northumberland, and Yorkshire are being completely electrified. Current will be used for threshing, grinding, and practically all the chores about the farms. Formerly only the most modern dairies were electrically equipped, and farmers considered that up-to-date methods would not pay. But a few electrical farms scattered about England have done so well that popular opinion has been revised. Even soil can be warmed by a series of resistance wires placed at various levels, according to the crops required.

Vitamin K Has Arrived

Vitamins, which are named after the letters of the alphabet, have now reached the letter K. The new vitamin which bars this label is found in the fat of pigs' livers, hempseed, and certain vegetables, and is said to be useful in preventing anaemia in chickens.

Vitamins A, B, and C, which are found in liver, milk, butter, and many green vegetables, promotes growth and helps to fight germs. Vitamin B, which is found in yeast and egg-yolk, wards off neuritis. Vitamin C, which is found in most fruit and vegetables helps to prevent scurvy.

But what of the lesser-known vitamins?

D is found in most substances where A is present, except animal livers; prevents rickets.

E is found in wheat-germ oil, lettuce, and peas; prevents sterility.

F is rather a mystery. A scientist claims to have discovered it, but biochemists are inclined to suspect that it is one of the familiar vitamins masquerading as something new.

G is found in most substances where B is present; good for nerves and digestion.

H is found in milk, yeast, kidneys and liver; value not yet determined. I and J are doubtful starters; their discovery is claimed but not proven.

Actress Fears Boring People

Hollywood. — Katharine Hepburn shuns the public, especially interviewers, because "you are expected to say things that are impressive." And this from an actress whom not a few in the film colony have looked upon as a "Garbo mimic."

"Solitude hurts. The criticism that goes with it hurts, too. Think of Garbo. I wonder if much of her appeal isn't due to that very loneliness.

"Actors," she continued, "are in such a world apart. They are governed by mood. They have a special talent for what they are doing, which doesn't necessarily mean that they have other talents. It doesn't signify that they can meet the public, talk to the press and have all the various contacts with people outside the profession.

"They are expected to say things that are impressive. And when they don't, people are disappointed. Personally, I am so dreadfully afraid of boring people that throughout my career I have always sought to avoid outside contact.

"How often it has been said of players in motion pictures: 'Oh, I've met her and she's got so much,' or he's very disappointing when you know him."

Bridge Of Sighs

This is a true bridge story: was only a beginner, but she meant to keep her end up, and so she was not at all abashed when her partner said, "Do you know you revolved?" "Well," she replied, after a short but impressive pause, "what of it? . . . I had my reasons."

The Week In Ottawa

OTTAWA. — Prime Minister Bennett will open his election campaign this week with a radio address over a wide hook-up Friday night at nine o'clock, daylight saving time. He will speak for a half hour. Mr. Bennett is scheduled to make three more radio addresses after Friday; on Monday, September 9, Wednesday, September 11 and Saturday, September 14. All speeches will commence at nine o'clock, D.S.T.

There is more or less an air of tranquillity around Parliament Hill these days, about the sole activity being the odd session of Cabinet. Throughout the province of Ontario, however, nomination meetings are being held by all parties, and present indications are that there will be more men in the field at the general election on October 14 than there has been in some time. Of course, there is always the possibility of one or more candidates dropping out at the last minute in the various ridings, and consequently the field will narrow down. However, scrutineers and tabulators are going to have one of the toughest jobs they have ever had to handle.

According to the list of executive positions to be filled in the new Employment and Social Insurance Commission, there are a few juicy plums to be picked. Salaries range from $4,000 to $6,000. As a result of publication of the available positions influential persons have been besieged with applicants. Whether or not it will do them any good is questionable, because it has been stated that no Civil Service Commission will have much to do with the selection of men for the commission's offices.

In spite of the fact that the government's Housing bill has been the target for some very scathing criticism, the Finance Department last week issued a report to the effect that lending institutions were being swamped with applicants for loans, and inquiries as to the working of the act. It looks like all of fifty millions of dollars will be involved by the time the scheme gets under way properly. About half of the applicants are from private individuals who wish to build homes and the balance by contractors who intend to build for sale.

United States manufacturers, many of whom have established branch plants in Canada during the past four years, still have confidence in the future of Canada, and are expressing intention of either adding to their Canadian plants or establishing new ones. Some United States interests have definitely stated that they want to establish branches or addition in Canada in order to receive the benefit of the British Empire preferential tariff.

Canada is making trade concessions to two Dominions, it was announced in governmental circles last week. Most-favoured nation treatment, extended by orders-in-council to New Zealand and Australia, places these Dominions on the same footing as foreign countries to which Canada has given this concession—notably France. It means that the lowest treaty tariff imposed on imports from countries outside the Empire will now be applied to similar imports from Australia and New Zealand, if that tariff is lower than the British preference or the intermediate rate. In effect, it continues to these British Dominions the advantages of the lowest rates established with other countries since the Ottawa agreements of 1932.

While there is yet no confirmation, it has been rumoured that Earl Rowe, ex-member of Parliament for Dufferin-Simcoe, and Omesime Gagnon, former member for Dorchester, will enter the Cabinet as ministers without portfolio. Both men have been mentioned for cabinet posts for some time. It also seems to be a toss-up as to whether or not Lucien Gendron, K.C., noted Montreal lawyer, will be placed in the Cabinet. There has been some talk of his being appointed solicitor-general to succeed Hon. Maurice Dupre who, it is said, may be the next minister of marine.

Nature's Own Salt-treated Speedway

While Canadian engineers and research scientists have been working out methods of creating good highway surfaces by treatment with common salt, the world's most famous race-drivers have turned to natural salt-treated speedways for their world record attempts. Photo shows: A stock car speed test on the new speedway of the great salt desert in Utah where Sir Malcolm Campbell in his famous Bluebird set a new world's record and bettered 300 miles per hour.

Gordon. The campsite is well wooded and admirably suited for Scout camping games.

MARRIED TEACHERS ARE SEEING LIGHT

(Time)

Axel Anderson, fireman, had almost won the hand of Rita Coates, teacher, when the Lynn, Mass., school committee intervened last month to say that Miss Coates could not have both her job and Axel. "This condemns me to the life of a spinster," mourned Rita Coates. "I have no choice unless I wish to desert my father and mother who are absolutely dependent on me."

In countless U. S. cities marriageable teachers currently find themselves in the same fix as Rita Coates. Recently the National Association of Women Lawyers, meeting in Los Angeles, was at pains to appear solicitous in revealing that teachers less virtuous than Rita Coates find solutions less virtuous than hers.

According to President Percilla Lawyer Randolph of the Women Lawyers, it is common practice for a teacher to divorce her husband, keep on living with him. By working fast a teacher can go through marriage and divorce before her school board gets around to dismissing her. Said Felice Cohn, Nevada's only woman lawyer: "An appalling number of women teachers come to Nevada for 'convenient' divorces. Five of them came on the day I left Reno. Four of them told me they wanted such divorces. Most of them intend at some time to remarry their divorced husbands."

Meanwhile lovesick teachers took heart from two straws in the wind: (1) In London the County Council agreed, after holding out for 12 years, to hire married women as teachers.

(2) In Washington Dr. Caroline Ware, onetime N.R.A. Consumers' Adviser, onetime associate professor of history at Vassar, prepared to sue the University of Wyoming for breach of contract. Ground: Wyoming offered her a job in its Summer school, reneged when it found she was married.

Fashion Ideas To Eke Out Your Wardrobe

Oddments picked up at the end of the sales make your clothes do double time. . . .

A New jacket, bag, or scarf means new life to that old suit.

Underalls that look like Bond street can be sewn up from some of the more delicate cut-lines.

A new jacket bag, or scarf means will be able to step out again. And—if you can't sew yourself—you know some one who can.

Length of chiffon finely pleated—neck to shoulder deep—and mounted on a band of crepe gives you an evening wrap or something for sitting pretty in bed.

To run up a pair of slick knicks, tack a dash of coffee-colored lace to that satin—or nylon—or crepe remnant.

Strip of mink, ripped from the fray of an old coat, makes a royal looking mount on a low neckline for night. Best on a stiffish stuff . . . brocade or velvet.

Plaid organdie makes a hard working dinner jacket because the different colored strands will link up with most of your gowns. Wide frills gathered into the armholes give a good sleeve line.

Breton sailor hat (worn perched—not pulled—on) with a stock and gloves—all from a good broad plaid taffeta. (Maybe you'd better get an experienced hand on to the hat and gloves.)

Another glad bedtime rag—1½ yards turquoise blue velvet makes it. The border of finery is needle-run lace appliqued on.

Sun-catching kit, made from one of those cotton and nautical scarves that come cheap these days. The straps button on at waist back.

EVERY DAY LIVING

A WEEKLY TONIC

CUTTING THE HOUSEKEEPING ALLOWANCE

A lawyer friend of mine once told me in conversation that it was his considered opinion, after many years of practice, and during which he had handled some thousands of 'domestic' cases, that ninety per cent. of domestic troubles, many of them leading to the Divorce Court, were inspired by some monetary problem. I have come to believe that he was pretty near right. My own post-bag reveals the truth of his statement, for I am frequently being asked for advice on some domestic problem, and almost invariably there is money connected with it somewhere.

Here is an extract from one such letter. The writer is a married woman—I fancy a devoted and faithful wife and mother—she writes: "I have been fifteen years married. Until now, the only complaint that I could ever make against my husband was that he never seemed very willing to take me into his confidence in matters financial. He would never discuss his business affairs with me. Sometimes it hurt me, but I tried hard not to let him see it.—A relative of mine died some time ago and I inherited some money. Now that I have money, my husband has cut my housekeeping allowance which never was more than was needed to keep the home going respectably. He is showing a meanness that is very annoying, yet I do not want, for the sake of our two children, to stir up strife in the home. Can you advise me how to act for the best?"

Of course, there is more to this letter than I have quoted. But I have quoted enough to show the problem. I have profound sympathy for this good woman. But I am just wondering what motive prompts the husband's behaviour. Some men, you know, do not talk business or money matters with their wives for this good reason that they do not want to worry their wives. They may be wrong. Indeed, I think in most cases they are. I have known such men land themselves in trouble, and in many cases that have come to my attention, if they had confided in their wives and trusted to their intuitive wisdom they might have been saved from floundering on the rocks.

Other men don't talk business with their wives because they feel that women don't know anything about business. They are certainly wrong. There are many women who have far better business ability than some men who pride themselves in being "business men."

But what both husbands and wives should remember is, that marriage is a partnership. A worthwhile wife is always anxious to share, not only her husband's joys and successes, but also his cares and burdens. The husband who denies his wife that privilege may be doing her, not only an injustice, but a very serious injury.

In this particular case it is no use speculating why this husband is so reticent about talking business with his wife. The real question is—why, because his wife happens to come into a little money on her own, has he taken to cutting her housekeeping allowance. A woman is entitled to have a little money of her own. Besides, since she works for her husband in the home, she has also a right to her share of what he earns, so the husband ought to allow his wife a housekeeping allowance generous enough to give her a small margin for herself. The chances are, that even that margin will be used for the home.

I don't wonder that my correspondent is beginning to feel aggrieved, but I do feel that she will never be able to do a thing about it until she has had a perfectly frank and open conversation with her husband. She does not seem to have had this. Perhaps her husband is quite unconscious of doing anything wrong. He may be carrying some burden that she knows nothing about. He may even be anxious to talk things over with her, but finding it hard. Let my friend make the approach to her husband, and let her do it in a kind, but firm and frank way, and if that does not clear the air I will be glad to hear from her again. She may have something more to tell me that will give me a clue as to the real trouble.

Girl's Hobby Pays Dividends

Works Way Through College By Raising Spaniels

Most hobbies are expensive luxuries to those who indulge in them. But Miss Gertrude Shanks' hobby pays dividends. In fact, it paid her way through college, for her hobby is cocker spaniels, and for the last five years she has devoted her spare time to raising the silken-haired, long-eared little chaps and selling them, at her home in University Heights, O., suburb of Cleveland.

Last June Miss Shanks was graduated from Western Reserve law school, fourth in her class. She was elected to the Order of Coif, honorary law fraternity and to Phi Beta Kappa. She will attend the University of Minnesota when the autumn term begins continuing her study of political science begun at Reserve. She won a scholarship for this advanced study, which not only paid her tuition for a year, but also gave her $600. She has been selected also as an alternate for a $1,300 scholarship to Yale University law school.

UNDECIDED ABOUT FUTURE Gertrude is undecided about the future, whether she will make law or political science her life work. She is working this summer in a law office, and likes it. She would like to be a regular lawyer, she states, pleading her own cases in court.

I was first introduced to Lady Fawn, mother of six roly poly little fellows. Lady Fawn has been ill and her mistress says she is "just like a child who has been spoiled by a lot of attention." Lady Fawn is fawn colored all over and is a prize winning dog. At present the Cranston kennels contain four female cockers and 12 youngsters of varying ages. When petted they socially chewed a finger or shoe strap. They like Gertrude's old shoes to chew on.

"I do not care for trick dogs," she says. "I like dogs that are intelligent and do unexpected things, like children picking up their own tricks. No one taught Lady Fawn to shake hands, and yet she does it very prettily. She also flushed a woodcock near here recently. The name cocker spaniel comes from the fact that they are English hunting dogs, and their favorite game is the woodcock. They do not point like the usual hunting dog, but flush their game. They make for the woodcock's nest and flush the bird straight up, so that the hunter can bag it. You remember in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" Elizabeth's dog was named Flush, from this habit of flushing game." Cocker spaniels are quiet dogs, Miss Shanks tells me. They do not bark, even at strangers, but they are very intelligent, affectionate, companionable and excellent watch dogs. They are fine playmates for children. Prices range from $20 up to $50 or $60 for the cockers with the best points.

News And Information For The Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Swede Roots for Seed

Swede roots for seed may be stored either in outside pits or in a dark, well ventilated cellar, free from frost, yet sufficiently cool to keep them from sprouting too early in the spring. When the roots are pulled, the tops should be cut off about an inch to an inch and a half from the crown.

A Good Time to Raise a Foal

According to the Dominion Animal Husbandman, there is at present a definite scarcity of good, fresh, young horses for farm and city work and an increasing demand for them at fairly remunerative and generally increasing prices. Since it takes four or five years to breed, raise and develop a horse to marketable age, it will be some time before the demand can be satisfied, therefore present prices may be expected to hold or even improve for a number of years. It would seem, therefore, that it would be a profitable venture for any farmer who has a reasonably good draft brood mare, that he can spare from heavy work, to breed her and raise a foal.

Cheese Board Order

The Local Board hereby orders that all cheese manufactured by the following factories shall be sold through the medium of an organized cheese board: Registered Numbers 840, 871, 628, 708, 1153, 763, 998, 1293, 883, 872, 320, 706, 529, 922, 91, 737, 996. And further, that the South Leeds Cheese Patrons' Association is hereby designated as the agency through which all cheese from the aforesaid factories shall be marketed. Factories are exempt from this order during any period in which they are making a special type of cheese, such as High Colour, Washed Curd, Triplets, Twins or any cheese made on special order which is other than the regular export type. This order to become effective on and after August 31st, 1935.

Potatoes as Stock-Feed

When the true value of potatoes as feed for live stock and poultry is realized, much larger quantities than at present employed will be used. With high prices for stock and poultry feeds, and a surplus of potatoes in Eastern Canada, stock raisers near the plentiful supplies of potatoes have a good opportunity to reduce their feed bills by feeding potatoes. Other countries make much use of potatoes as stock-feed. In Germany, for instance, only 30 per cent. of the total potato crop is used for table purposes, and approximately 40 per cent. for stock feeding. On the other hand, in Canada 4.5 per cent. of the crop finds its way to the table, and only about 11 per cent. for stock feeding. Stock raisers would be well advised to inform themselves on the proper methods of feeding potatoes in the ration to ensure the best results. In brief, potatoes are in fact "watered" carbohydrate concentrates. They may be used, therefore, as a substitute for barley and corn, as in the rations of pigs, in which case it is important to bear in mind that four pounds of potatoes are equal to one pound of cereal meal.

Cutworm Control

Although the farmer knows much about the matter, the amateur gardener little suspects that long before he sows his highly-prized seeds, an enemy has been waiting in preparation for immediate assault. This is the cutworm, which attacks all kinds and conditions of plants, and so far as agriculture is concerned, is such a menace that each year the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture publish the latest intelligence on the most effective means of counteracting the ravages of this destructive pest. Bran bait has given most effective control for many years, and it is made up as follows: bran 20 lbs., Paris green 1/2 lb., molasses 11 qt., water about 2 1/2 gals. In making the bait, the dry ingredients should be mixed thoroughly first. The molasses is then stirred into the water and this solution added to the bran and Paris green. In mixing the bait, only enough water should be added to reduce the material to the consistency of wet sawdust. The mixture must not be made sloppy, but should be so that it will crumble in the hands and slip through the fingers easily. Land that was heavily infested last year should be treated before the plants are set out. This is done by broadcasting the bait at the rate of 15-20 pounds per acre a few nights before transplanting. The bait should be spread in the evenings just before dusk, and if possible on a still, warm night.

Assistance for Sheep Industry

Ontario sheep breeders and sheep raisers are again to have the benefits of the Ram Grading and Ram Premium Policies. The Dominion government, realizing the importance of a continuous policy in the production and use of good rams, are providing liberal assistance so that farmers may buy good rams with confidence at a reasonable cost to the purchaser. The Government is anxious that purebred breeders of sheep should continue to improve the purebred flocks so that better quality rams and ewes may be produced. Furthermore, it is hoped that as a result of the use of grade rams on grade flocks throughout the province, the quality of market lambs will show a marked improvement.

All purebred breeders will be given an opportunity to make application for the Ram Grading Service and the premium which will be paid on graded rams will be as follows:

| Purchase of | By Dominion Department of Agriculture |
|------------------|---------------------------------------|
| XX Ram Lamb | 4.00 |
| XX Yearling Ram | 6.00 |
| XXX Ram Lamb | 6.00 |
| XXX Yearling Ram | 10.00 |

These premiums apply only on rams officially graded under the Federal Ram Grading Policy in 1935. Applications for Ram Grading should be mailed to James Telfer, Paris, Ont.

Housing Farm Equipment

Want of care of farm equipment causes heavy inroads in the operating costs of a farm, and the fact is not always appreciated that a machine should not be left out in a field or shed unless properly protected at all times from the effects of weather. It is not always feasible to afford this sort of protection to machinery on a farm, but a great deal more can be done to prevent deterioration than is sometimes the case. Machinery requires suitable housing all the year round, if the overhead is to be kept in check, although often in the exigencies of farming, this is not always an easy matter. In the absence of proper protection from the weather, rust and decay play havoc with the various parts, and careful farmers make it a rule to get their machines under cover as soon as possible. These farmers know that stabling for machinery is as necessary as for the livestock. Besides building inexpensive but efficient sheds for their machines, they make it a rule to inspect each machine every day to see that the bearings have been properly oiled, that the nuts are tight, and the working parts are in alignment and working smoothly. These precautions have saved money, prevented loss through delay, and obviated exasperation and worry. The present-day machine-worked farm really requires to be equipped with a forge, an anvil, a stock of dies, a drill, a tool grinder, and sets of hammers, wrenches, punches and chisels, not to mention a supply of stock repairs for replacement of parts.

CANADIAN NATIONAL

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS.

A Great Agency of Public Service.

The C. N. R. is one of the world's greatest transportation systems. Its length of track alone entitles it to that distinction, but its chief claim rests upon the nature and extent of the services it renders. While entering practically every important centre in Canada it also serves widely diversified and distant areas, and in very many instances is the sole agency providing railway facilities.

The C. N. R. is a large direct employer of labour, and indirectly, by virtue of the nature of its freight and other services, also enters importantly and indispensably into the commercial and industrial activities of the Dominion... creating new wealth... distributing raw and manufactured goods... enabling more employment and wages to be provided.

Notwithstanding the sparsely populated condition of much of the territory from which the C. N. R. obtains its freights of grains, minerals, forest products, etc., its charges for haulage are very low... Canadian railway freight rates are probably the lowest in the world. On an average the C. N. R. receives less than one cent for hauling a ton of freight one mile.

Of every dollar of revenue received the C. N. R. pays more than one half to its employees as wages, and it purchases every year many millions of dollars worth of Canadian made or produced materials. The C. N. R. also pays in the course of a year over six million dollars in various taxes.

These facts, although thus briefly stated, are of tremendous importance to Canada and Canadians. They are here presented in the hope that greater patronage will follow a wider appreciation of the part this great railway system is performing in the commerce and development of the Dominion... and of its vast potentialities for future service. Standing as we are at the beginning of an upward swing in business generally, renewed and enlarged opportunities to use transportation facilities present themselves. The C. N. R. is ready and anxious to serve... efficiently and economically. Its departments embrace passenger and freight transportation, express, telegraphs, steamships and hotels.

During the present season the C. N. R. is providing special fares and excursions between points throughout Canada. These are exceptional travel bargains. The nearest C. N. R. Agent will be glad to give full particulars.

MR. E.J. SCHWERTDFEGER

Following an illness of several weeks, Edward Jacob Schwerdtfeger passed away at his home in Williamsburg Township, at midnight on Tuesday, September 17, 1935. The late Mr. Schwerdtfeger, who was in his 81st year, had always enjoyed excellent health until a few weeks ago, when an illness culminated in a stroke on Sunday morning, from which he failed to rally.

He was the son of Wm. J. Schwerdtfeger and his wife, nee Catharine LaPointe, and was born in Froatburn on June 23, 1855, and lived in the vicinity during his entire lifetime. In 1884 he married Sarah Marcellus, who, with three children, survives. They are: Mrs. John Morrison, Morristown, N.J.; Mrs. James Wells, Montreal, Que. and Mr. Milford Schwerdtfeger, at home; also eight grandchildren. One sister, Mrs. Frank Marcellus, and one brother, Mr. Simon Schwerdtfeger, Froatburn, also survive.

The funeral was held Friday afternoon, September 20, from his late residence, thence to St. John's Lutheran Church, Riverside, of which church deceased was a life-long member, and for many years a member of the Church Council. Interment was made in St. John's Cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs Roy Schell, Delbert Suds, Fred Wells, Wm. Dafeo, John O'Shaughnessy and Durham Wells.

The profusion of flowers and the large attendance testified to the high esteem in which the late Mr. Schwerdtfeger was held.

Rev. W.A. Mehlbacher, who conducted the service, chose as his text, Rev. 14:15, "Thrust in thy sickle, and reap; for the time is come for thee to reap; for the harvest of the earth is ripe." After a fitting comparison of the material harvest, the Pastor drew attention to a more significant spiritual harvest and closed his remarks with the following appropriate verse:

"Christ is risen! Christ the First-fruits of the Holy Harvest field, Which will all its full abundance At His second coming yield."

Then the golden ears of Harvest Will their heads before Him wave, Ripened by His glorious sunshine From the furrows of the grave."

SYNOPSIS

Maud Barron awakes with a premonition of disaster. She hears padding footsteps. Rushing into her father's study she finds him dead. Dr. Sidney Foster, a friend, is joined by Detective "One Eye" Uttok, a mulatto, who has never lost a man.

The passengers were disembarking her perisider at Plymouth. She reached the shelter of the harbour was scudding across the deck and the Hoe, high above the harbour, loomed out of a mist that was half rain. The port authorities came out and Dr. Foster went on deck to fulfil his duties with them. The passengers were all ready, crowded in the deckhouses and saloons, waiting for the tender that was to land them. Maud Barron stepped out into the rain and held out her hand to Foster.

"Doctor, why have you avoided us?"

"Er—avoided? Not at all. But my duties, you know, keep me busy. You are looking very well now."

Yes she was looking well. Her cheeks were flushed, but whether it was the wind or her suppressed excitement he could not tell. "I have been indebted to you," she began.

But he cut her short with a smile. "Not at all. Not at all. I am delighted to be of use."

"May I continue to rely on you, on your help and guidance if I need them?"

"Certainly. Certainly."

"I may take you at your word."

"Do so. I beg."

"Thank you so much. You are sure you mean it?"

He laughed and held her hand. "Of course I mean it, Miss Barron. I'll give you my London address."

"It would be useful," she murmured.

He fumbled in his pockets and produced a card on the back of which he wrote hurriedly.

"I shall always be found there," he said. "And if I am not there when you write I won't be long before I return."

"Good. And you know where to come if you wish to call at Shirley. You have been before, you know."

"A long time ago, but I remember Shirley. Well, I hope you reach home safely and keep up the improvement. If you are too busy perhaps Mrs. Gibbs would send a note to the Meridian when she gets on the road again to tell me that you are back to your usual."

They shook hands and parted, and Foster watched her as she went down the gangway. Why had she insisted on his promise? He thought he detected a nervousness in her. He watched the pale yellow hat she wore as it took up a position at the stern of the tender. He saw Mrs. Gibbs and William Hughes next to the yellow hat. And then as the tender moved towards the shore there was a swift flutter of hands, a handkerchief moved up and down, and the rain blotted out the yellow hat in the general obliteration of items.

Dr. Foster went down to his room and stayed there.

An hour or two later the Meridian steamed out on her way to dry dock, which she reached next day.

That same night Dr. Foster left Southampton by a late train for London. He began his studies the following morning and continued them at an almost dangerous state of concentration for a week. He ceased his research work one morning just before lunch when the maid of the boarding house handed him a telegraph envelope. Foster tore it open, and read:

"Please come to Shirley immediately. Need you urgently. Green ghost has appeared.—Gibbs."

CHAPTER VII.

HUGHES'S INTENTIONS

Foster packed a suitcase and caught the first train from Waterloo for Surbiton.

Shirley was one of the old manor houses that one sees now and then in that typical piece of English landscape that lies beyond the village of Hook and stretches in undulating serenity to Epsom, Leatherhead and beyond to Dorking.

As Dr. Foster drove out to the mansion he looked gladly at the landmarks he was passing and recalled the pleasant times he had passed in the district. He recalled the day at Box Hill. They had rambled over the place, viewing the steep slopes from either side and then they had got into the car and gone deeper into the country, away down past Guildford and through lanes he could only dimly remember. But mainly he remembered how Maud had, on Box Hill, taken off her hat and shaken her hair free to the wind and sun and marched up the slope lithe and graceful as a fawn. At the top they had stood, all of them, on the side facing Dorking, watching the other hills and the lazy smoke of the valleys and the picturesque landscape that spread at their feet.

What a change had come over her life since then! What a chance had come over his since then! He thought of Captain Swathling, and then his mind reverted to William Hughes. He wished he could analyse Hughes, but he felt that he was not quite able for that at present. He must see what direction Hughes was heading. What was subtle and he was cunning too; and masterful also. Hughes had claimed the girl, if not in words at least in deed, claimed her with a definite finality that could not be mistaken. Had he any real right to the position of protector? The answer to that could only be found by watching and waiting.

He was brought to the present by the taxi drawing up at the door of Shirley. So absorbed had he been in his speculations and dreams that he had not noticed having swung in from the main road and through the gates of the grounds.

He was shown into the morning room by Mrs. Gibbs, who met him in the hall.

"I am glad you've come so quickly, doctor," she said. "Maud urged me to wire for you. It came last night and has nearly driven her out of her wits."—(To Be Continued)

Rogers Joins Bunch Of Old Joshers

Some of Will Rogers' quaint thoughts are recalled from the pages of a book written by his old friend, the late Charles M. Russell, Montana cowboy artist. Russell died several years ago as he was about to complete the book, "Trails Plowed Under," a collection of reminiscences of the old west, illustrated by his own paintings and drawings. The book was published last year.

Rogers wrote the introduction in the form of a letter to his old friend in the other world. It was done about nine years ago.

With characteristic modesty Rogers disclaimed the ability to write an introduction. Continuing, he said: "There ain't much news here to tell you. You know the big Boss sent a hand over and got you so quick Charley. But I guess he needed a good man pretty bad. I heard they been working short handed over there pretty much all the time, I guess its hard for Him to get hold of good men, they are just getting scarce everywhere . . .

" . . . I bet you hadn't been up there three days until you had cut your old pencil and was a drawing something funny about some of their old punchers. . . . I bet you Mark Twain and old Bill Nye, and Whitcomb Riley and a whole bunch of those old joshers was just a waiting for you to pop in with all the latest ones, what kind of a bird is Washington and Jefferson. I bet they are regular fellows when you meet 'em ain't they? Most big men are."

"I would like to see the bunch that is gathered around you the first time you tell the one about putting the limburger cheese in the old nestors whiskers. Don't tell that Charley until you get Lincoln around you, he would love that, I bet you and him kinder throw in together when you get well acquainted, darn it when I get to thinking about all them old hands up there, if I could just hold a horse wrangling job with em, I wouldn't mind following that wagon myself. . . .

"I will run onto me old dad up there Charley, for he was a real cow-hand and I bet he is running a wagon, and you will pop into some well kept ranch house over under some cool shady trees and you will be asked to have dinner, and it will be the best you ever had in your life, when you are a thanking the women folks, you just tell the sweet looking little old lady that you knew her boy back on an outfit you used to rep for, and tell the daughters that you knew their brother, and if you see a cute little rascal running around there kiss him for me. Well cant write you any more Charley dam papers all wet, it must be raining in this old bunk house."

"Of course we are all just a hanging on here as long as we can. I dont know why we hate to go, we know its better there. Maby its because we havent done anything that will live after we are gone."

"From your old friend."

"Will."

Planting Trees On Farms

Observes the Brussels Post.—There is a Perth County farmer who some years ago started planting trees in a ravine on his property. He said he knew it would never be possible to cultivate the land, and he wanted trees there for two purposes. The first may seem simple — he liked trees — and then he was certain the bush would be a good place for pasturing cattle in hot weather.

The trees are such as are found in ordinary woodlot, but there are a number of spruce and pine as well. The spot today is a place of beauty. That is not all. Last Winter he took out eight cords of wood, and the stuff he removed was surplus growth or broke ndown trees. He says it looks better now that the eight cords of wood were removed. To look at the place today one would think trees had never been removed from it. It is much easier to get young trees today than it used to be, and there are plenty of farms where there is a piece of land which might well be put to growing trees. The people on the land today may not get the benefit, but the next generation will.

Campus Clothes Must be Both Smart and Useful

The Co-ed's Wardrobe Is On Display From Morning Until Night, So Use Discrimination.

The college term is at hand and co-eds are busy choosing their wardrobes.

First of all, if you haven't much money, choose your clothes of durable material that doesn't wrinkle or spot and don't have fussy trimmings that have to be cleaned or renewed. Have it plain in cut and not too obtrusive in color. If you are one of those people who just must have a touch of color about you, use it in scarf and belt so that you may change it without too much expense when you're tired of it, or it needs renewing.

Here is a list chosen by one of the shops as a guide for your college "trousseau":

STREET AND CAMPUS

- Harris tweed coat.
- Fur coat, if possible.
- 2 tweed skirts.
- Twin sweaters in gay colors.
- 1 slip-over sweater that will contrast with skirts.
- 2 woollen dresses (for campus dates and football games)
- 2 silk afternoon dresses (one dark and one bright).
- 1 tea dance dress.
- Dress coat fur trimmed.

EVENING WEAR

- 2 evening dresses (both quite formal).
- A long velvet wrap.
- Evening slip, if necessary.

UNDERWEAR

- 1 girdle (even if you are thin)
- 3 brassieres.
- 3 pairs step-ins.
- 2 pairs of woollen bloomers (you'll appreciate these in January).
- 1 or 2 pairs flannel pyjamas.

- 3 slips.
- 6 pairs hosiery.
- Silk or satin negligee.

- A riding habit, if you ride.
- A ski-suit with matching or contrasting woollen accessories, cap, scarf, mittens, socks, etc., and ski boots.

Liver-Fed Trout Make Big Gains Seven Ounces Each In 11 Months

From The Canadian Fisheries Bulletin

As proof of what selective breeding and efficient feeding methods can do in hastening the growth of trout, consider the case of speckled trout fingerlings raised at the fish hatchery operated by the Dominion Department of Fisheries at Antigonish, N.S., where they reached in 11 months as great a weight as three-year-old fish living under natural conditions and foraging for themselves.

There were 10 fingerlings in the lot that was studied and all of them were the progeny of selected parents. When first put on the scales these fish babies weighed less than a pound, all told, or, to be exact, 15.2 ounces, but in slightly less than 11 months they had grown to weigh 700 ounces, which simple arithmetic shows to have meant an average of seven ounces each.

Other studies — for instance, research by fisheries biologists in Ontario — have indicated that trout living wild take about two and one-half years to reach an average weight of seven ounces, though it must be kept in mind, of course, that bodies of water, like parcels of land, vary in their fertility and fish grow faster in some lakes and streams than in others.

The fingerlings handled in the Antigonish test were not only the product of selective breeding but they were fed, of course, in accordance with approved hatchery practice. For the most part, their diet consisted of beef liver. In approximately the first month of the test their aggregate

A dressy hat for afternoon clothes.
Evening slippers, sandals either silver or dyed to match dresses.
Evening bag either beaded or brocade.
Earrings and other jewellery to be worn with evening clothes.
Pearl stud earrings and necklace for daytime clothes.
1 pair slippers.

LUGGAGE

- 1 trunk.
- 1 week-end case.
- A "duffle bag" is a handy thing to have around and one of those rubber-lined toilet rolls or handbags is almost a necessity to carry your toilet things to and from the bath.

GOOD TASTE

Of course, all these things need not be brought for immediate use. The list is just a "guide" to help you choose your frocks. If you want to be dressed in good taste, choose simple things in good taste, because they may be easily cared for but because simplicity is always the hall mark of good taste. Don't discard all your old things — you may be glad to have them.

Hawk Shadow

Gerald Raftery, in the New York Sun.

A hawk on rocking wings goes darkly over
The placid meadow,
Casting on sunny slope and bank
Of clover
His cruel shadow.

A stillness goes before him as he passes,
This death who flies,
And furred and feathered heads
Shrink from his eyes.

With peering, cruel head he soars
Away
And out of sight —
And then a raucous crow caws out his say
To hide his fright.

IMPORTANT MEAL TOO OFTEN OVERLOOKED

Thinking up variations year in and year out for three square meals a day—it's a career all by itself, even if the census makers and other statisticians do persist in putting the housewife down as one with no occupation.

Breakfasts are particularly difficult, if we are to judge by the letters that come to this desk voicing plaintive calls for help.

Kinds of Breakfast

The very light breakfast includes fruit, some sort of bread—such as toast or rolls, and a beverage—milk, cocoa or coffee. This type of meal is suitable for adults whose habits are sedentary and who eat adequate noon meals.

The slightly heavier, though still light breakfast adds cereal to the above. This meal is convenient because it provides the essentials of the children's breakfast and takes care of adults who are moderately active physically.

The medium breakfast consists of fruit, cereal, eggs or their equivalent, bread and beverage. It is suitable for school children, adults who are active physically and those who take very little luncheon at noon.

The heavy breakfast adds an extra hot dish to the medium breakfast menu. Persons who are engaged in strenuous muscular work and those whose total food requirements for the day are high need this kind of meal.

For Inactive Persons

Keeping these classifications in mind, it is simple to plan one breakfast menu which will meet the needs of all members of a family no matter how diversified their interests. The inactive person may merely refuse the extra dishes and concentrate on the light or medium items.

The child's breakfast should furnish every necessary element for proper nourishment. His stomach has been without food for the longest period during the twenty-four hours, and is ready for a meal which will supply food for energy since an active child uses up a vast amount of nervous and muscular energy during the day. Fruit or fruit juice, hot or cold cereal with cream or top milk, milk or cocoa made with milk, toast and a soft cooked egg makes a full-balanced breakfast for a growing child.

VALUABLE USES OF ICE AND ICE WATER

To a great many people, ice has become simply a means of making summer drinks refreshingly cold. We're apt to overlook the many valuable uses of ice and ice water, as well as cold, in the household, laundry and sickroom.

Here are a few suggestions: A chilled knife will cut meringues, cakes and pies in neat, even slices, without sticking. Simply dip the knife in cold water each time before cutting a slice in a meringue-covered pie, and you will have evenly cut slices.

Ice water is used to thaw out frozen fish before it is cooked.

Several minutes' standing in cold or ice water makes hard-cooked eggs easy to shell.

Ice water washes the salt from butter that is to be used in making pastry.

Cold makes cream whip better and easier. Place cream, bowl, and whipper in the refrigerator a while before whipping cream.

Ice water and chilled utensils make pastry more tender and flaky.

Cold makes bread that is too fresh, "firm" for sandwich cutting. Place bread in electric refrigerator an hour and it will resemble day-old bread when cut. Angel-food cake also cuts easier after placing a while in the refrigerator.

Cold sets the flavor in dishes such as soups and stews. Store these dishes in the refrigerator and reheat for second serving.

Chilling makes cookie dough easier to roll, and permits using less flour.

Ice cubes folded into a dampened soft muslin or cheese cloth make an excellent face pack to stimulate the skin.

Cold storage in the refrigerator makes facial cold cream go farther.

Ice water applied to face and hands is first aid in fainting.

Ice water compresses are the best bandage for an eye which has been injured or cut by a foreign particle, until the doctor comes.

Ice water baths and ice packs are used to reduce the patient's temperature in case of sunstroke.

Soaking a new toothbrush in cold water overnight will prevent the bristles from loosening until the brush is ready to be discarded.

Cold or ice water helps remove grass stains. Moisten stain with cold water and cover it with soda, let stand for two hours, and then rinse out in warm water.

Cold water removes egg stains on dishes or cloths. Dishes which have contained eggs should always be rinsed in cold water before putting in hot soap suds.

Cold water loosens the dirt in clothes. Make a suds of cold water to soak clothes before laundering.

Cold water poured over frozen plants may save them. Cover the plants with newspapers and set in a dark place several days.

Chilled air sometimes offers quick acute condition, temporary relief may be had by putting the head inside a refrigerator which holds relief to hay-fever sufferers. In an temperatures well below 50 degrees.

EGGS IN MANY GUISES ENRICH VEGETABLE MEALS

Eggs are always good as a substitute for meat. Only, when you feature eggs in the meal proper, be careful not to serve an egg-y dessert such as a custard or soufflé. All vegetables combine deliciously with eggs, and scrambled or poached eggs and a crisp salad make a fine luncheon.

Unless many vegetables are included to furnish bulk, eggs are good on a toasted foundation.

Eggs, Chilean style, are piquant and appetizing. Try them for dinner some evening.

Eggs Chilean Style

Two cups chopped fresh tomatoes, ½ cup grated cheese, ½ cup chipped dried beef, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 2 tablespoons shredded green pepper, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon butter, 4 eggs, 4 squares hot buttered toast, fresh cress.

Press tomatoes through a coarse sieve to remove seeds. Add cheese, dried beef, finely chopped, onion, pepper and paprika. Cook over a slow fire until cheese is melted. Add butter and eggs slightly beaten. Stir and cook until eggs are just set. Serve on hot buttered toast and surround with water cress. The tang of the cress is perfect with the egg and cheese combination.

Egg and ham timbales are economical but are so "dressy" in appearance that you could serve them at a guest luncheon.

Egg and Ham Timbales

Four eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, ¼ teaspoon onion juice, 1 cup finely chopped ham, 1 cup milk, six rounds of toast.

Beat eggs until light. Add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Turn into individual, well buttered timbale molds and place on many thicknesses of paper in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes or until firm to the touch. Turn each timbale on to a round of buttered toast and surround with creamed peas. Garnish with tiny sprigs of parsley and serve at once.

Peach Fritters

Three or four peaches, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 3 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup milk, 1 egg.

Pare peaches and cut in thin slices. Mix and sift flour, salt, sugar and baking powder. Beat egg until light with milk. Stir in dry ingredients and when well blended and smooth add sliced peaches. Drop from spoon in deep hot fat heated to 370 degrees F. on a fat thermometer or hot enough to brown an inch cube bread in sixty seconds. Drain on crumpled paper and serve with raspberries crushed and sweetened.

MAKING CURTAINS FOR A FRENCH WINDOW

The French window which is really a long narrow glass door, with no small casement windows on either side of it, needs only a simple pair of floor length curtains, and a finish across the top.

This finish can be a flat pelmet of the curtain material, or a contrasting one, repeating something else in the room; or a painted plywood one—enchanting if well done; or mirror glass.

The French door with casement windows on either side, in suburban or country houses, is quite another story. This needs unsophisticated curtains of chintz, cretonne, folkweave, slub repp, or linen, and should be floor length at the French door and sill length at the side windows. A box-pleated matching valance running across the top gives continuity and makes the curtains a set.

LOOSE MAT ON POLISHED FLOOR IS DANGEROUS

Polished floors are certainly a guarantee of cleanliness in the house. And polished floors, provided we know them to be polished, are not exactly a direct source of danger, for like Agag, we can go delicately over them. But the polished floor when its polish is concealed may be very dangerous. A loose mat on a polished floor is a thing to be avoided, for it is extremely liable to slip away from the feet of the unwary person, causing him to fall heavily.

It is the suddenness with which a mat on a polished floor will slip from under a person that is disconcerting.

Particularly dangerous is a mat placed just at the foot of a staircase if the floor of the hall is highly polished. A person is so liable to run down stairs and step on to the mat which flies from under him, so that he falls heavily on his back and strikes his head on the stairs.

Whenever you commend, add your reasons for doing so; it is this which distinguishes the approbation of a man of sense from the flattery of sycophants and the admiration of fools.—Steele.

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON XII — September 22
JAMES (A GREAT CHRISTIAN LEADER).—Acts 15 : 1-21;
James 1 : 1-17.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he hath been approved, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord promised to them that love him. James 1 : 12.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time.—The council at Jerusalem took place at some time between A. D. 47 and A. D. 52, the date being determined by the particular chronological scheme the student chooses to follow. It fell between the first and second missionary journeys. The date of the Epistle of James cannot definitely be determined. It was no doubt written before the council at Jerusalem. Some place it as early as 45 A.D.

Place.—The council of Jerusalem took place in the Holy City. No doubt James wrote his Epistle from this city also.

James, a servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ. It is significant that the author does not speak of himself as the brother of the Lord. It was more to be bond-servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ than to be brother of the Lord after the flesh. "To the twelve tribes which are of the Dispersion." "Greeting." The literal meaning of the word is to rejoice, and here it would mean, I wish you joy.

"Count it all joy, my brethren." Brother is a form of address to a member of a strictly defined society such as the Jewish or the Christian brotherhood would address to other members whom he recognizes as equals. "When ye fall into manifold temptations." It should be noticed that the word temptations in the margin is translated trials. It is a word used, in a general sense, of proving and testing, and thus also of adversity, of affliction sent to prove or test a man's character.

"Knowing that the proving of your faith worketh patience." Patience here implies not only mere passive submission, but the perseverance which does not falter under suffering, in the midst of the trials and temptations of which James is here speaking.

"And let patience have its perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, lacking in nothing." The form of the counsel implies that the work might be hindered unless the will of those who were called to suffer co-operate with the divine purpose.

"But if any of you lacketh wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth to all liberally and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him." Wisdom is more than knowledge and is better. Man may have extensive and accurate knowledge, and, at the same time, be anything but wise.

"But let him ask in faith, nothing doubting : for he that doubteth is like the surge of the sea driven by the wind and tossed." Lack of faith is virtually making God a liar.

"For let not that man think that he shall receive anything of the Lord." Whether the word Lord here refers to the Father or to the Son, is difficult to determine. Possibly, however, the word was used without the thought of a distinction between the divine persons.

"A doubleminded man, unstable in all his ways." Doubleminded is a most expressive word, as if the man had two souls; one trusting, the other doubting; one for and the other against. The double-minded man whom St. James has in mind is the man whose moral nature is enfeebled by the vacillation and double-hearted condition of his own soul.

"But let the brother of low degree glory in his high estate." The brother of low estate is, of course, the one who is either exceedingly poor, or without prominent place in a community or in the life of the Church. He is a child of God through Christ, heir of eternal blessedness; instead of resenting his poverty and being discontented with his obscurity, let him remember that he is a prince and glory in it.

"And the rich, in that he is made low : because as the flower of the grass he shall pass away." How many rich men have, in the last four years, since the terrible depression which has come upon our land, known what it is to be made low! In this one is also to rejoice, because it compels him to see that he may lose everything, and that he is just as dependent upon God as the poorest of his children.

"For the sun ariseth with the scorching wind, and withereth the grass; and the flower thereof falleth, and the grace of the fashion of it perisheth : so also shall the rich man fade away in his goings." It is amazing how many truths the writer of this Epistle illustrates from the scenes of nature. The love of nature which runs through them was, no doubt, remembered and cherished in the village home at Nazareth, and it forms another link between St. James and his divine Brother.

"Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he hath been approved, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord promised to them that love him." A crown is given to the victor, and, in many cases, is worn by those who are truly kings. Thus a crown speaks of both triumph and sovereignty.

"Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God." Thus did Adam insinuate that he fell because of God's gift to him of Eve (Gen. 3 : 12); cf. Prov. 19 : 3; 30 : 8, 9. "For God cannot be tempted with evil, and he himself tempteth no man." He who was absolutely righteous could not be the originator of sin. He tries men, but does not tempt them.

"But each man is tempted, when he is drawn away by his own lust, and enticed." Lust, or rather, desire, in its widest sense, includes desire for safety, riches, ease, as well as sensual pleasure. Adversity and persecution expose man to the evil solicitation of his lower nature. In both, desire tempts the will to depart from what it knows to be the will of God.

"Then the lust, when it hath conceived, beareth sin : and the sin, when it is full-grown, bringeth forth death." Desires never remain dormant. They are alive and powerful; they grow; they lead on to other things.

"Be not deceived, my beloved brethren." Cf. Gal. 6 : 7. Satan is liable to deceive men into believing that those truths and laws which have just stated are non-existent.

"Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above." The two nouns are different in the Greek; the first expressing the abstract act of giving; the second, the gift as actually bestowed. The perfection of the one flows from the goodness of the other. "Coming down from the Father of lights." James would have us to know that God is the father of all forms of light, moral, intellectual and spiritual. "With whom can be no variation, neither shadow that is cast by turning." The best and most perfect of all gifts has come from above—the unspeakable gift of God's dear Son, and, with the gift of his own Son, he gives you the gift of the Holy Spirit.

"What made you a multi-millionaire?" a reporter asked of a big razor blade magnate.

"My wife," answered the man of sharp practices.

"Ah, her tactful help and advice in times of great need, I suppose?"

"Nothing of the sort. I was just curious to see if there was any income my wife couldn't live beyond."

FU MANCHU

By Sax Rohmer

THE SEVERED FINGER—Cadby's Visitor.

With the remorseless memories of Fu Manchú's murders harrowing my mind, I reached the house of his latest victim. The shadow of that giant evil seemed to lie upon it like a palpable cloud. I ran up the steps and rang the bell . . .

Cadby's landlady greeted me with a queer mixture of fear and embarrassment. "I am Dr. Petrie," I said, "and I have bad news about your lodger, Mr. Cadby."

"Oh the poor, brave lad!" she murmured.

"There was a terrible wailing at the back of the house last night," the woman told me excitedly as we entered the hall. "And I heard it again tonight, a second before you rang."

Fu Manchú! A da-coit had wailed in the lane when Sir Crichton Davey died. . . .

I told the old lady what I considered necessary about Cadby's death, and presently, to my astonishment, her grief was lost in embarrassment. Then the truth came out!

She pointed shakily up the stairs, and stammered: "There's a young lady—in his rooms, sir!"

The Terriers, who won the series in two straight games, will now meet the winners of the Quebec championship series, for the Eastern Canadian title.

Escape by the stairways blocked by the flames, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gillespie reached safety by climbing down a rose trellis when their residence was destroyed by fire last week. Asleep in the second storey of their home, situated about three miles west of Cornwall, Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie were awakened by smoke and the roar of the flames. With no time to pick up clothing or other possessions, they escaped in their night attire.

Married—At Detroit, Mich., on Sept. 7th, Olive S. Cooper, R.N., youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cooper of Brinston, to Herbert A. Freeman, of Detroit. They have just returned from an extended honeymoon to Quebec, and are visiting at the home of the bride's parents.

The E.O.S.S.A. track and field meet will be held at the Athletic Grounds, Cornwall, on Saturday Sept. 21st, and several local athletes will compete. It is expected that the annual Gerald Meikle Memorial Cup sports will be held on Friday, Sept. 27th. Sister Mary Delphine, member of St. Mary's hospital staff of Camrose, Alta., since 1926, passed away quite suddenly on Thursday last. She was born at Chesterville, and was a member of the Lefebvre family. She had trained in St. Francis Hospital, Smiths Falls, but went to Camrose direct from St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Brockville.

The death occurred at his home in Chesterville, on Wednesday morning, of Mr. Ezra F. Droppo, at the age of 76 years, after a very brief illness. Several years ago Mr. Droppo, with Mrs. Droppo, retired from his farm, to pass his remaining days in Chesterville, where he was a much respected and valued citizen.

On Wednesday evening of this week, several citizens were afforded another opportunity of viewing the beautiful night-blooming cyprus owned by Mrs. Frank Woodland. This plant, which usually blooms but once a year, broke away from its natural performance this year, and blossomed twice within three weeks. This species of plant is very rare in Ontario, and many of our citizens were delighted at the invitation extended to them to see it in bloom.

MR. FOOT writes: For twenty years I suffered with a corn. Cress Corn Salve removed it. At Henderson's Drug Store.

Joseph Donovan and John McDade, both of Brockville, were remanded until Monday in Police Court yesterday, on charges of manslaughter in connection with the death of G. Victor Johnston, whose body with a broken neck, was found floating in the St. Lawrence River Aug. 18th. Donovan and McDade were previously charged with disorderly conduct.

Another contract has been given to Mr. Arnold Jarvis to move Miss Gunning's household effects to Toronto from Morrisburg. Mr. Jarvis has also been fortunate in securing a move to Boston from Ottawa, and another from London to Montreal, through Hill the Mover of Toronto, for whom Mr. Jarvis is agent for this district and other points.

A quiet marriage was solemnized at the United Church parsonage, at Iroquois, by Rev. T. Knowles, on Saturday last, when Miss Mabel L. Fraser, Reg. N., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Fraser, Iroquois, became the bride of A. Chariton McInnis, also of Iroquois. Only the parents of the contracting parties were present.

BABY, IN WRECK, MAY LIVE

Lethbridge, Sask., Sask. 15—Medical skill nursed a tiny spark of life tonight in chubby Willie Long, rushed to hospital here unconscious and suffering from five nights of exposure. The 1-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Long of Macleod was found by searchers, lying beside the bodies of his parents.

The Longs left their home Sunday evening. Their wrecked automobile was found, wheels up, at the foot of a 100-foot embankment. The mother had been killed instantly, but the father had crawled from the wreckage in a last effort to summon aid. His body was found a short distance from the car.

Mrs. Long was a distant relative of former Premier Henry of Ontario.
