Big Blow Buffets Buildings Wed. Afternoon Twister Topples Trees, Silos Crash, Hydro Off

A roaring, twisting, short-lived cyclone all accompanied by heavy hail and rain passed over this district Wednesday afternoon about 2.30 o'clock and in its passing left broken buildings, uprooted trees, felled hydro lines and general wind damage estimated from $10,000 to $15,000 damage.

The hardest hit were residents on the Ridge Road just east of the White Crossing. Albert E. Smith puts a replacement value of $4,500 on the damage that was done to his farm buildings and their contents. Silos went down in a row in the path of the blow that seemed to move on a north-west to south-east direction.

At about 2.30 p.m., the gloom over everything presaged something out of the ordinary by way of a storm. For a few minutes the wind and rain seemed to be all that would be felt, but then the hail started to pound and the heavens opened up with the really big guns. In the path of the twister, the residents of the farms in the area describe the first sight of it as a dense white twisting mass moving very fast in from the north-west. In the midst of the blow nothing could be seen or heard above the howling and battering of the storm. When a sixty-foot carriage shed pops up in the air and lands in a crumpled heap well clear of its foundations, not fifteen feet from the house and nothing is heard of the fall, there must be a lot of loose noise about. That is what happened at the Smith Farm.

After the weather cleared the country began to assess the damage. The path of the twister seemed to be within a comparatively small area. The Boyne had plenty of rain and hail and heavy wind but reports nothing but a few tree limbs down. Some damage was done in the Winchester area. By the time it had reached the Smith place the blow was at its height. A carriage shed containing much farm machinery, a new Chrysler Sedan, a farm truck and a roadster, took the full force of the wind. In spite of the fact that it was one of the strongest buildings on the place, the whole 60 foot length of it was picked up and dumped onto the front lawn. Falling timbers and broken woodwork made a junk heap of much of the machinery. The cars and truck are sorry looking objects, with the steel tops badly battered and broken. A piece of iron went sailing through a window on the west side of the house and landed with a thud on the sofa.

Leaving the Hill, the twister swept down to the farm of Thos. McCadden and gave the silo a playful nudge that was like a giant's slap. The silo splintered. Six big trees around the house tipped out and made much unexpected firewood. Hydro poles were next for the taming cyclone and five tipped over effectively blocking Highway 43 with their prostrate lengths.

By the time the wind had reached the village much of its force had been spent. There was still enough in the bag to tumble Erwin Merkley's silo and topple a series of trees on Howard and Albert Streets.

Hail damage to glass was extensive, but as we go to press, all the reports are not in. West of Winchester, much damage was caused to buildings, with the Cayer farm suffering the most. A new barn that was under construction there was tipped off its foundations and the old barn moved.

In the severe electric storm that followed at five o'clock, little damage was done although some trees were struck by lightning.

SECRET ATOMIC WEAPONS ? OR WHO WENT "BOOM"?

Last Thursday evening a large, interested audience was listening to a capable and serious young speaker at the annual Ladies' Night Dinner of the Chesterville Chamber of Commerce. Everything went well, with special emphasis on the roast pork and dressing. When the speaker of the evening got warmed up to his subject everyone relaxed and was enjoying the intellectual food. Mr. Rawsthorne was expounding on the greatness of Canada's resources. "Our rivers," he said, "our mines, our farms, our atomic---". At the word 'atomic' the steam safety blew on the furnace in the next room. It took some time for the excitement to die down and for the speaker to continue with the remark that although he was much taken with the service he had received up to that moment, he really hadn't expected sound effects, but many thanks just the same.

REEVE GRAVELS WATERHOLE RESIDENTS GRATEFUL

Resident of Victoria Street are grateful to Reeve Charles McMillan for the labour he expended on their behalf. After the storm yesterday, the street was completely flooded at the corner of George and Victoria where the sidewalk has been "low for a long time", to quote. It was a small lake there yesterday afternoon, and after the reeve passed by and saw the condition, he immediately commandeered a truck, hauled over a load of gravel and dumped some into the hole. Now one can walk dryshod down town.

Chamber of Commerce Ladies' Night Successful Event

On Thursday evening of last week the members of the Chesterville Chamber of Commerce entertained their ladies at the annual ladies' night dinner in the diningroom of the Trinity United Church. President R. C. Dillabough was in the chair and about 150 guests enjoyed a bountiful and well served meal.

After a toast to the King was proposed by Howard Fulton, President Dillabough introduced Mr. Wm. Cook to the audience. Mr. Cook sang several numbers to the accompaniment of P. G. Hewitt and his delightful voice added to the pleasure of the occasion.

W. J. Carr offerd a toast to the ladies and Mrs. Eric Casselman replied to the compliment.

President R. C. Dillabough made a few observations on the work of the Chamber for the past year. He was of the opinion that much had been accomplished but that there remains a great deal to do "Commerce and commercial interests are needed in a community to keep it alive and on the move," he said. He expressed the thanks of the Chamber and of himself to all those who had had anything to do in making the evening such a success.

Mr. Ralph Rawsthorne, the speaker of the evening, was introduced by G. H. Barkley. Mr. Rawsthorne is the Eastern Canadian Field Representative of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. He took as his topic, "Canada Unlimited".

The speaker outlined Canada's position in the world of commerce today. He pointed out that during and since the war, Canada has become the third largest producing nation in the world. To maintain that position and to better it, it will be necessary, he showed, for Canadians to examine closely the system of 'free enterprise', our fifth freedom.

Our system is only a practical way to produce and distribute things that are needed by all of us. It is the right to vote, the right to free enterprise for individuals, the right to your own religion and the right to belong to any organization that had democratic principles.

Mr. Rawsthorne stressed the need for harmony in our dealings in our communities, our homes and in our governments. We must look more to the needs of others if we are to succeed. The speaker quoted Lord Halifax as saying that 'service is the rent we pay for our room on earth', and that seemed to be a good motto for everyone to pay heed to.

Th speaker was thanked by M. A. Flynn on behalf of the Chamber and guests.

Unusual Tulips Presented To The Record

We are sporting a lovely bouquet of purple, red and yellow tulips on the office safe these days. Mrs. Stanley Dillabough brought them in and along with their beauty, pointed out a very peculiar thing for tulips. There are many blossoms on one stem, something that is very rare in the tulip business. One of the purple tulips has five flowers or buds on the one stalk and some of the reds sport three and four. Everyone of the stems has more than one bloom. Mrs. Dillabough says she has had this particular variety of tulip for nine years, but that this is the first time that they have grown with multiple blossoms.

R. H. "DICK" FAWCETT OF ETHIOPIA, IN AUDIENCE WITH HAILE SELASSIE

We received a letter from "Dick" Fawcett in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, this week and we note in an enclosed copy of the "Ethiopian Herald" that Dick had audience with H.I.M. Haile Selassie on April 14th. Something to note was the hour of the audience, 9.30 in the morning. The King must be an early riser. In the same issue of the weekly paper is a news piece regarding 500 cases of school supplies that had been sent from Canada and had arrived. Included in the supplies was everything needed for school except blackboards and desks.

C.G.I.T. FRIENDSHIP RALLY

On Saturday, May 14th, several members of Trinity United Church C.G.I.T. motored to Prescott and attended the Friendship Rally held in the United Church there. During the day, the girls assisted with the program by staging a mock Chinese news broadcast. The girls and their leaders are grateful to Mr. Ralph McMillan and Mr. Melvin Durant for transportation to Prescott.

Dr. Amos Clayton and Mrs. Clayton, formerly of Chesterville, are leaving soon for an outpost station in Baffinland, to be the resident doctor for the area. The section is inhabited by Eskimos. Some of the members of the community will recall an address at Ladies' Night of Rotary in May, 1946, when Mrs. J. G. NO MAGIC FORMULA

The more any government actually dispenses in the way of social security, the more irresponsible people expect of it and the more they squeal when they don't get it.

That is why Britons generally gasped with pain and gloomy despair when the politically courageous Sir Stafford Cripps brought down a budget which not only failed to give some relief in the matter of the world's highest income tax, but actually hoisted the cost of already severely rationed foodstuffs.

The Labour Government in a bare few years since war's end has indulged in one of the greatest social security orgies since the time of the Romans and their "bread and circuses" policy and, in his budget address of April 6th, "Sir Austerity" Cripps told Britishers flatly that high taxes must be continued to pay for such things as social services and food subsidies. Surely, Britishers must now understand that government largesse cannot be freely distributed unless the taxpayer himself forks over the money freely to the government. Governments alone have no money and no wherewithal to create it except by taxation, and if governments want to retain their popularity by the bribe of bigger and bigger social services they must at the same time risk the people's displeasure by imposing bigger and bigger social services they must at the same time risk the people's displeasure by imposing bigger and bigger tax schedules.

In effect, Cripps' statement made it crystal clear that the cost of social services is footed by the beneficiary of these same services and that the obligations were assumed not temporarily, but for all time.

It is the "for all time" remark that is sharply pointed. The British have found out the hard way that one can't get something for nothing, and Canadians who are eager to try the experiment of socialism here should stop and think before they demand more and more social services, which simply add to the burden of their own taxation, directly and indirectly, and destroy incentive and the sense of responsibility.

We now know there was no secret formula for Great Britain and there is none for Canada, either. The myth that funds for social services and benefits can be obtained from rich people and wealthier corporations has been exploded many a time.

Certainly, there is no such personality as a government magician who has mastered the art of leger-demain to the extent that he can pull fat social security dollars out of a hat indefinitely without putting any equally fat tax dollars in. If there is such a miracle-maker, by all means let us expand our social services, but, until such a one is found, let us stick to common sense and a tax rate that, for all its imposing height, is still not an Everest in the tax mountains of the world.

The True Scientist

A farmer was driving down the road with an experiment station man as a passenger. Seeing a horse in a pasture, the farmer asked: "Is that a white horse?"

The scientific man, fixing his eyes on the animal for a long time, finally answered: "Well . . . yes . . . on this side, at least."

Color In The Cowpen

I never saw a purple cow,
I never milked one, too,
But in my time I've milked a few,
Whose milk was mighty blue!

SO THIS IS TORONTO

By
R. J. DEACHMAN

So this is Toronto and a fine big boy you are. Perhaps I should call you a girl – you're very gentle in some ways, rather tough in others. There was a time when everybody in Huron, my old county, went to Toronto Exhibition, at least once in a lifetime, talked about it for the remainder of their days. When I first went to Toronto you could get a good breakfast of 12½c on Yonge St. Where does the half cent come in? You paid a quarter for your breakfast and got back a chit good for tomorrow's breakfast. Try that on a modern restaurant, tell me the answer you get.

I saw Toronto again when I was attending the Ontario Agricultural College. Prizes were offered for student judging that year. I won $16. I picked up $20, on the same basis, in Winnipeg. I was a fairly good judge of beef cattle in those days. Now I know a good piece of steak when I get it. I got more kick out of those dollars than any other money I ever earned. A little goes a long way when a man is working his passage.

I saw Toronto again, on a night of tragedy, when a great fire flamed through the business area. I was sorry for Toronto that night but I knew, of course, that the phoenix rose from its ashes and renewed its youth. If a stuffy old bird like the phoenix could do it why couldn't Toronto? Toronto, with Ontario behind it, could do almost anything – even some things which, to others, seem very strange.

There was no room in the inn when I reached Toronto but why worry over such troubles, it reminded me of old times. The usual thing happened. A man came along who knew how to do things. It took just two minutes to fix me up and I had a lovely room overlooking the Lake, 15 floors up. The air was clear and the sun was shining. Far below lay the railway tracks, the lake shore and then the Island. Toronto keeps pushing the shore further out into the lake but that's nothing new, all the world is doing it, but at times, the waves come back - for revenge probably - and get it.

I did two things that day I went out to see a man who edits a Power Magazine for farmers. He told me, and he's right, the average man has no idea what is going to happen to agriculture in the future. By new methods, new implements, progress along chemical and biological lines, the whole face of agriculture will be changed - should I say "lifted". These things, of course, will come from the colleges, from the cities. The city will have much to do with things which help the farmer. Human progress does not come from isolation. It was industry which, in the last century, lifted much of the burden from the back of the farmers, there is still more to be done.

A friend of mine asked me to go with him to the Annual Meeting of Noranda Mines which happened to be held that day. It was quite interesting but Lord what muddles war makes of human progress. Noranda sells its gold to the Government and gets paid in Canadian funds. Then if we want to travel in the United States or buy products over there the Foreign Exchange Board sells us this American exchange at a fraction above par. So we levy a tariff on American goods to keep them out and take American exchange from those who earn it and use it to bonus imports. It's not logical is it? Who mentions logic in this bad age, when men not yet old, can count half a dozen wars fought mostly to end war - and the end is not yet!

I went early to the station that evening - there is nothing more interesting than humanity on the move. There was one chap in early middle life, who had taken just a little too much. He was by no means drunk - just kindled. He walked diagonally, if you know what I mean. His hat had a rakish flare. His face had the expression which lingers on the face of the cat which got blamed for swallowing the canary. He walked down the ramp from the ticket office to the place where the public waits for the out-going trains.

Then he knew there was something missing. He felt in all his pockets. He took off his hat and felt along the inner face of the band. He looked at the hat in order to make sure it was his, then he looked through all pockets again. At last it came to him. He seemed for a moment to sober up. He moved quickly, went back to the waiting room and came back with a coat over his arm and believe it or not the tickets were in the coat. He took them out looked at them and smiled. He was happy again. He felt both smart and satisfied.

Then there was a woman, smartly dressed, with a little girl carrying a child's broom about four feet long. Father greeted his wife then picked up his little girl and put her on his shoulder but she hung on to the broom. Life, for little girls like that must be much the same in all the civilized countries of the world.

GOOD TIMBER

THE tree that never had to fight
For sun and sky and air and light,
That stood out in the open plain,
And always got it's share of rain,
Never became a forest king
But lived and died a scrubby thing.

The man who never had to toil,
Who never had to win his share,
Of sun and light and air,
Never became a manly man
But lived and died as he began.
Good timber does not grow in ease:
The stronger the wind, the tougher the trees.

The farther sky, the greater length;
The more the storm, the more the strength;
By sun and cold, by rain and snows,
In tree or man, good timber grows.
Where thickest stands the forest growth,
We find the patriachs of both
And they held converse with the stars,
Where broken branches show the scars;
Of many winds and much strife—
This is the common law of life.

Athletic Outlet

The prison superintendent was noted for his reforms, especially in athletics, but, in spite of his efforts, prisoners remained sullen. One day he said: "I've given you tennis, football, billiards, and concerts—what more do you want?"

"Give us a cross-country run."

Who Changed ?

Addressing his father, a young man of 25 said: "When I was 15, Dad, I thought you were an old fogey."

Father: "And now?"

Son: "Honestly, Dad, I'm amazed how much you've changed in 10 years."

High School Wit

Girl: "Why are you wearing your sox inside out?"

Boy: "My feet were hot, and mom told me to turn the hose on them."

Tough Situation

A man went to a physician, complaining of prolonged headaches. The doctor told him to stop smoking.

"I have never used tobacco in any form."

"Well, then, stop drinking."

"I am a total abstainer."

"Late hours, then, and fast women."

"I am always in bed by nine. I am a bachelor and live with my old maiden aunt. Now, seriously, what causes my headaches?"

"I don't know," said the balked doctor. "I guess your halo's pinching."

And the Madam Was Happy

A down East Lady of some means hired a genealogist to trace out her family tree. After months of work, the genealogist delivered a pedigree from "the 400" and running back to the 15th century. The woman admired it until she spied one small limb on which this notation appeared: "Aaron. Youngest son. Died in electric chair. Sing Sing."

"That's preposterous," the lady spluttered. "I won't have it. You must change that."

The genealogist, being conscientious, was adamant, but all his objections were over-ruled. "I won't accept it that way," the lady insisted, "I shan't pay you until you correct it."

Reluctantly, the conscientious genealogist took the tree back to his workshop. Pondering the situation for days, he finally altered the objectionable limb as follows: "Aaron. Youngest son. Occupied the chair of applied electricity in one of the nation's best known institutions. Died in the harness."

Thrown From Buggy Seriously Injured When Horse Runs Away

Walter Wicks, 87-year-old Winchester township farmer, suffered a fracture of the skull and arm and other severe injuries, when a runaway horse threw him from his buggy at the corner of Ottawa and Main streets, Winchester, Friday morning.

Mr. Wicks had only purchased the animal the evening previous and had driven about two miles when the horse bolted when one rein broke. He was thrown against a building. The runaway continued west on Main until it crashed into a stationary bread truck and freed itself from the buggy.

Dr. H. S. Gross took the unconscious man to the Winchester Memorial Hospital where he is in a critical condition.

Proper front wheel alignment is highly important!

You may be driving side-ways and never know it! A bad bump at the curb can sometimes throw your car's wheels out of line. Then you'd literally be dragging your tires side-ways over miles of highway.

Don't risk it. It's cheaper and safer to drive in now for our Precision Wheel-Alignment Service. We'll check your steering, inspect front-end alignment, balance front wheel assemblies and equalize your tire pressure.

Drive in today—our factory-trained mechanics know your car inside and out.

Ontario Launches Improvement Plan For Dairy Herds

Aimed at improving quality of dairy herds, 13 "Dairy Herd Improvement Associations" have been organized in nine counties of the province, the Live Stock Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, disclosed. Others are to be organized at once.

A letter, outlining the plan of organization, has gone out to all Agricultural Representatives in the province urging that steps be taken to get dairymen interested in the dairy herd improvement plan.

W. P. Watson, Ontario Live Stock Commissioner, said that 13 dairy herd supervisors, whose duty it will be to work with the associations already in existence, were given a short-course of instruction at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, last week. They started work on May 1.

Organization of the dairy improvement associations is part of a dairy herd improvement policy being inaugurated by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Some of the regulations governing the new associations follow:

A Dairy Herd Improvement Association shall consist of not less than 24 nor more than 26 members. It is not essential that all reside in the same county, nor shall there be any limit to the number that may be organized in a county.

Membership is to be restricted to owners of grade or mixed herds. A herd consisting of grades and pure breds shall be considered a mixed herd.

Member must maintain a TB tested herd and own or use a pure-bred sire.

The Ontario Live Stock Branch will provide a supervisor for each dairy herd improvement association, who shall visit each member 12 times during each year. These visits may be made without advance notice but in so far as possible will be at monthly intervals.

On each visit the milk of each cow under test shall be weighed at each milking and supplies of each shall be taken for a composite sample for the Babcock test. He shall also conduct a test for butter fat, and record data relative to the cost of producing milk on the farm of the member. He shall also identify each cow and grade heifer calf by eartag. All heifer calves must be identified before they are two months old. Date of birth, name of sire and identity of dam of each grade heifer calf must be recorded in a book provided.

Modern Version

An optimist and a pessimist got snowed in for the Winter in an Artic igloo. All they had for food was a barrel full of flour. In the middle of the Winter the pessimist gazed into the barrel. "Already," he groaned, "it's half empty."

The optimist took a look. "By George," he chirruped. "It's still half-full."

The Supreme Champion of the annual show of Shorthorn Cattle at Perth, Scotland, recently, was "Cruggleton Account", owned by Mr. Albert J. Marshall, of Bridgebank, Stranraer. Buyers from all over the world came to Perth for the shows and for the sales which followed.

DEFEATING DIPHTHERIA

For the seventh consecutive year death from diphtheria in Britain have been the lowest ever recorded. Last year they totalled 150 compared with 2,641 in 1941. It was in that year that the United Kingdom Government initiated the national campaign for immunizing infants against this deadly disease. Since then outbreaks of diphtheria have also shown an equally spectacular and steady reduction. In 1941 nearly 51,000 cases were registered. Last year there were only 8,034. The campaign will be continued this year. The aim is to immunise three-quarters of all babies in Britain before they reach their first birthday.

will gladly call on you

"We Liberals have dedicated ourselves to maintaining a high level of employment and income, because that means a high and widely distributed standard of living for our people."

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent

You share— every Canadian shares— in the greater

Opportunity Prosperity Security

brought about by constructive Liberal policies

Liberals mean what they say. Look over the record of the last five years — the most impressive period of prosperity and growth in our history. It shows that Liberal performance exceeds Liberal promises.

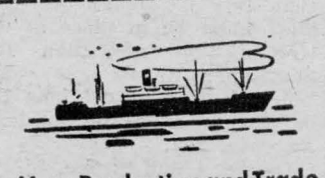
Under Liberal policies, Canadians can be confident that this forward march will continue — that Liberal promises will again be carried out.

More Jobs—More Income

More people are working than in any previous peacetime period — nearly a million more than in 1939. National income is three times as high as in 1939, is more widely distributed than ever before.

More Savings

People have nearly 2½ million more bank accounts than before the war. They have put aside more than 4 billion dollars in personal bank savings.



More Production and Trade

The products of our farms and forests, factories and mines and fisheries are worth twice as much as ten years ago. And Canada's exports are more than four times greater. Canada is the world's third largest trading nation.

More Family Allowances

The federal government has, since 1945, invested one billion dollars in Canada's children. Four million boys and girls in 1¾ million families are receiving a better start in life. Benefits are being extended this year.

More Old Age Pensions

Federal payments have been twice increased since 1945. The new pension basis is now increased to $40.00 a month, providing greater comfort and security for the aged and blind.

National Health

Health grants to provinces are helping to build a stronger nation. Many projects are already under way: nine province-wide health surveys; 13,000 additional hospital beds; training for health specialists; increased health services and research.

Aid to Home Builders

Close to 300,000 dwellings have been built since the war. More homes have been built in Canada, in proportion to population, than in any other country; and more were built last year than any time in our history.

And lowered taxes as well!

By careful administration the Liberal government has established these records and been able at the same time to cut the national debt by 1,625 million dollars.

And every budget since 1945 has announced lowered rates of taxation.

Church News

MOREWOOD UNITED CHURCH

The services at Morewood United Church were conducted on Sunday by the minister, Rev. W. J. Copsey, B.A. The theme of the morning service was "Hope In God" Based on the forty-second and forty-third psalms. The back ground of this combined psalm is the rebellion under Absalom David in exile is depressed because he is cut off from the house of God; but he learns through experience that God is ever near to the seeking soul and triumphed over depression and rose on the wings of faith so that he could say, "O send forth thy light and thy truth; let them lead me; let them bring me unto thy holy hill and to thy tabernacles. Then will I go unto the altar of God; unto God my exceeding joy; yea upon the harp will I praise thee, O God, my God." Depression comes at times to every one. It may come through weariness from over work, or through sickness, or from a consciousness of sin or from sorrow and anxiety. This psalm shows the progress of the human soul from gloom through a mixture of light and shadow into the full light of trust in God. "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God; for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance and my God."

ARTIFICIAL EYES TO SUIT ALL TYPES

William Shakespeare did a brick business at the BIF. He is an East England manufacturer of artificial eyes suited, he says, to every human eye on the face of the earth. At the end of the war he switched over from the glass to the plastic type and has since then built up export trade all over the world: Russians, Chinese, Africans, Americans and Europeans are among his clients for a product which he claims unequalled for matching power and general high quality. A native buyer from East Africa told him that the range he exhibited at Olympia was far superior to that offered by any other company he knew overseas. An Indian buyer described the samples as the finest quality he had ever seen. He had a supply sent immediately to India by air mail. This manufacturer makes eyes specially to order. He has produced, for example, a bloodshot eye to be worn as and when required and a range with enlarged pupils - a spare used mainly by women for evening wear.

GRANTS TO HOSPITALS AT WINCHESTER AND KINGSTON

The Department of National Health and Welfare has approved grants totalling more than $49,000 to assist in meeting the building costs of the Winchester and District Memorial Hospital, and St. Mary's of the Lake Hospital, Kingston, Hon. Paul Martin has announced.

Almost half the money appropriated annually under the national health plan is being used to encourage hospital building, Mr. Martin said. Grants to individual hospitals are fixed on the basis of increased bed capacity at the rate of $1,000 per bed for general hospitals and $1,500 per bed for hospitals treating chronic illnesses. These grants must be at least matched by the province.

The Winchester and District Memorial Hospital, completed last December, is a new institution with a bed capacity of 32 and complete medical, surgical and obstetrical facilities. It serves about 12,000 people in Winchester, Chesterville, Kemptville, Finch and surrounding townships. The federal grant will total more than $15,300.

If a new or used tractor would help you were interested

You already know that you can borrow money from this Bank under the terms of the Farm Improvement Loan Act, to buy new farm equipment, construct new buildings, buy new stock, or make any other worthwhile addition to your farm.

But did you know that this Bank can also make these loans to finance the purchase of used farm equipment, and to make repairs or alterations to existing farm buildings?

If you want to sell your old tractor to get a new one, and your buyer hasn't enough ready cash, ask him to discuss his problem with the Bank of Nova Scotia. Remember, if farm improvements will help to make your farm more profitable, we're interested.

Meeting of Trustees Favours Tp. Schools

A meeting of trustees of Public Schools in Winchester Township invited by the local school inspector to look into the matter of a township school board for the township, voted strongly in favour of the change at a meeting held in the Winchester Village Town Hall, on Monday evening. Sixteen members voted in favour of the change with four members abstaining from voting.

A resolution was framed to be presented to the Winchester Township Council at its next meeting, urging that body to pass the necessary by-law so that the township could go under township area administration in January next, and the individual boards receive the additional Legislative Grants payable this Autumn to individual school boards and continued thereafter to the Township School Board.

The committee chosen to interview the municipal council consists of representatives now members of present school boards from school sections 15, 9, 4 and U.S.S. 21. They are Messrs. Willis Robinson, Mack Curran, Hugh Porteous and Stewart Mattice.

For a township school board to take office as of January next the by-law for formation of a township area must be passed on or before July 1st. All present school boards would continue in office until December 25th of this year.

Camps for Crippled Children Key To Correction

"The crippled child need not be a burden on Society. In the old days a crippled child was doomed to a life of misery and failure—useless to himself and Society. Abuse was their lot—today, every crippled child has a fighting chance at life and one of the first steps in their rehabilitation is the training they can receive only in special camps."

Interviewed recently in Toronto, Miss Elizabeth Fairfield, Reg.N., Ontario Society for Crippled Children Camp Director, spoke plainly regarding the crippled child problem for Ontario and its 11,000 known afflicted youngsters. Miss Fairfield a graduate nurse by training has practical orthopaedic knowledge, and has been in charge of the camping facilities for the Society since return from overseas service in the Canadian Army Medical Corps. As head of these camps Miss Fairfield is in a good position to observe the fine effect such care has upon crippled children. At present three camps are in operation: Woodeden near London servicing Western Ontario; Blue Mountain on Georgian Bay, Central Ontario; and Merrywood-on-the-Rideau near Smiths Falls for Eastern Ontario. Each year almost 600 children receive a holiday, which has even deeper significance with its undertones of training imparted to these crippled youngsters.

One of the first axioms on orthopaedic correction, particularly in cerebral palsy cases is, that for initial training the child must come directly under influence of trained personnel away from the home. This as a form of discipline, instils self-will and the necessity to help themselves. "Medical science can only go as far as the child's will allows it to go," said Miss Fairfield, "and at these camps they first learn to help themselves and even though it is only at play, it is the 'key' to their rehabilitation."

In a further description of the work, Miss Fairfield described how at these camps inaugurated by Ontario Service Clubs crippled children took part in activities which were hitherto thought impossible. Some Crippled Children, many even in wheel chairs, go on overnight camping trips and sleep out in the open. It is almost miraculous to see the improved mental attitude in these children after finding out they could participate in such activities. When children return to a normal routine of training, after such morale building, invariably medical science has a better job of finishing its task of rehabilitation.

Special care and experience is necessary in constructing these camps; many factors have to be considered. Pathways must be so constructed that wheel chairs can make unhindered progress. Bathing facilities, which may mean merely a tub or shower to ordinary people requires special engineering for crippled children. A fine problem for example would be to give a crippled child a bath or shower knowing that this child can be handled in no other way except in a wheel chair.

Each camp has three registered nurses on staff, including the matron. An adult counsellor is required to every four children. Male counsellors are chosen for strength as well as ability, for there is much lifting of children during bedtimes, nap-periods, bathing and at play. Special personnel and equipment make the costs high. The present estimate is $4.75 per day per child. Actually a convalescent hospital, all hospital features are hidden to create a holiday spirit so necessary to their mental rehabilitation.

In talking about these fine camps Miss Fairfield explained that much of the financing came from the sale of Easter Seals which over 120 Service Clubs throughout various Ontario communities are selling in their neighbourhood. These clubs work in conjunction with the Society in helping children receive this camping service. Last year, with the help of funds received through Easter Seal sales, a new camp was opened to service the Eastern district. It is hoped that with the funds raised this year, the nursing services of the Society will be expanded, and it may be possible to start work on a camp site to service afflicted youngsters in Northern Ontario.

LISTENING-POST IN EUROPE

Things have been humming at the CBC's offices in London ever since the CBC Overseas Unit was established in December, 1939, to cover the activities of Canadian troops in Britain. During and since the war the unit developed into a busy branch office of the CBC, providing Canadian radio with a listening post on Europe and much of the world. In this photograph, Andrew Cowan, the CBC's European representative, is seen with (left to right) secretaries Joan Kimber and Eleanor Swallow and program assistant Daphne Burrows. Frequently heard from, but not seen here, is Matthew Halton, the CBC's European correspondent.

Needed Evidence

"I am looking for a criminal lawyer," said the stranger. "Have you one in your town?"

"Well," said the native, "we're pretty sure we have, but we can't prove it."

Too Good to Omit

With apologies to all women, whom we hold in genuine high esteem:

"And will you tell me, for the obituary, perhaps, what were his last words?"

"He had no last words. Perhaps you had better just say that his faithful wife was with him to the end!"

Vitriol

First old pal: "Ah yes, George, I remember your wife well . . . after all these 30 years. Tell me, has she kept her girlish figure?"

Second old pal: "She's not only kept it—she's doubled it."

Bravo, Mrs. Wotzchieski!

Mrs. H. Ambrose Fenwell: "Why, my deah! My ancestahs arrived on the Mayflowah."

Mrs. Wotzchieski: "Yeah? I guess mine came over when the restrictions were tighter."

How True!

City cousins praise the soil,
And rural life do oft extol,
But on a job like scooping corn,
Won't touch it with a ten-foot pole.

Wednesday Radio Play

'To Tell The Truth'

Morley Callaghan's play To Tell the Truth was first written under another title, in 1938. The directors of the famed New York Theatre Guild immediately took an option on it for production in 1939. The play was already under rehearsal when the war came along, but the production was suspended because the Guild's directors felt that its action-springs were out of tune with the new tempo of everyday life.

The play remained in Mr. Callaghan's trunk until June of 1948 when, at the persistent request of Mayor Moore, one of the directors of Toronto's New Play Society, he brought it out for revision and possible Canadian production. Mr. Moore was excited by this play about a young Canadian in a big American city and plans were made to include the work in the New Play Society's coming season.

When it was presented in January of this year, To Tell the Truth started arguments in the press, on the radio and among the public. Most of those who saw it either liked it a lot or not at all.

Among those who liked it a great deal was Ernest Rawley, manager of Toronto's Royal Alexandra Theatre. He liked it so much that he invited Mr. Moore and his New Play Society Company to perform at the Royal Alexandra. It was the first time in the history of the forty-six-year-old theatre that a Canadian company had appeared in a play by a Canadian author.

Once again, in its larger setting, it became the centre of violent argument. However, at the end of the one-week run, the play was optioned by an American producer, Jack Yorke, who flew up from New York just in time for the Saturday matinee, bought the play after the final curtain went down and was on his way back to New York before supper-time; and plans are under way for To Tell the Truth to open on Broadway in the fall.

On May 25th Wednesday Night listeners will have an opportunity of hearing this controversial play in an adaptation by Mr. Moore, who produced and directed its stage performances. Esse W. Ljungh will direct the radio presentation, which will include most of the original cast—Don Harron as George, the young Canadian who crosses the border to seek adventure; Dianne Foster as Dini, the girl whose life he changes; Lloyd Bochner as Taylor, the successful hotel-keeper; and many others.

The many friends of Mrs. Sadie Droppo who is on the sick list, wish her a speedy recovery.

R. C. Bogart was a business visitor in Chesterville, Monday afternoon.

A Moral

In the light of barbs, thrown at managers, entrepreneurs, and the "thrifty" class, this sign in a city office seems to have real meaning:

"Work hard for 8 hours a day and don't worry; then in time you may become a boss and work 18 hours a day and have all the worry."

Yeah, Why Wait

"Now, children," smiled the Sunday School teacher sweetly, "I want you to be so still you can hear a pin drop."

After a silence had reigned for an interminable 30 seconds, a kid in the corner yelled, "Okay. Let 'er drop!"

FOCUS ON TEXTILES

At this year's British Industries Fair, which is open in London and Birmingham simultaneously from May 2 until May 13, the focus will be on textiles. Lancashire Mills are preparing some of the most attractive cotton pieces for display at the Fair. Cotton has become more and more a fashion fabric and throughout the world is being used in the manufacture of evening gowns, afternoon frocks, bathing costumes, and day dresses. Picture shows: Joan Blakemore, a mill girl who works in Salford, on holiday in Blackpool, wearing a three-piece Horrockses cotton.

Wind, Dust, Wheat

As I backed the car out of the yard I looked anxiously at my coal shed. The way it was teetering in the wind, I expected I'd come home to find it blown through the dining room window. But I had to go to town. And what could I do to anchor the coal shed if I stayed? What can anyone do to anchor anything when the spring "blow" comes ?

We're having another "normal year" in Saskatchewan. And everybody is trying to laugh it off !

Arrived in town, I found nearly all the farmers there, to get away from the sight of the fields in the air, no doubt. And as one after another appeared the hilarity grew. Everyone knew why he was there!

"Were you in the field,"

"Yah! All morning!"

And then they'd all rock with laughter. You'd thing the "blow" was the best joke that ever happened. "Well, how do you like this?" "Just like home!"

"You're looking pretty cheerful, you must like this wind',, I said to a neighbor. "Say, you don't get a wind like this every day," he replied with mock pride.

One man had been up on his windmill all morning. "Trying to get above it?" some one joked. 'No, trying to fix it," he joked back.

And all the time the wind raged and the prairie spewed its cover into the air. You couldn't see through the black curtain of dust from the summer fallow. Even the roads were "blowing", for the sand swirled in brown sheets this way and that, leaving the track full of holes, like our hopes.

Add to this the twenty cent payment on wheat. Farmers are joking about that, too, calling it just "interest in our money." One farmer solemnly declares he feels he should give twenty-five dollars of his cheque to the Chicago Grain Exchange as a donation of appreciation. "But for Chicago maintaining a world price, we wouldn't be getting this payment," he points out. Drought and wind and grasshoppers are making Western farmers very conscious of what they lost on the wheat deal.

My neighbor asked me, "Could some of my people ride out with you? They came on the train unexpectable, and I can't take all the luggage and them."

So we stowed his guests in my car. One of them explained they were in the country for a month to put in a crop.

"Think there's going to be a crop this year, eh?"

"Oh, we hope. I guess that's what you have to do in this country. You just gotta hope!"

Hope for the unexpectable!

I reached home. The wind had subsided to a mere whisper. I looked at the prairie lying deceitfully calm. I thought, "Oh, you're beautiful, only right now you look like the cat that swallowed the canary!"

But my coal shed was still intact. And the chockecherry by the gate astonished me. It was covered with budding leaves. So delightfully unexpectable !—Prairie Born

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! Rhubarb pudding was my grandmother's favorite dessert. Few words ever pleased her more than her family's praise of Rhubarb Betty. As a good cook her advice was: If you can cook well, do it in various ways, frequently!"

Now here are several recipes you can use frequently during the next four or five weeks.

COCOA SHORTCAKE PUDDING

4 cups of ½ inch rhubarb
½ cup granulated sugar

Grease a large casserole and put in rhubarb and sugar. Sprinkle over a few drops of red colouring. Add the following cake mixture:

Blend in 6 tbsps. shortening and ½ cup brown sugar. Beat in 1 egg and then ½ cup milk with ½ tsp. vanilla.

Mix in another bowl, 1¼ cups sifted cake flour, 2 tsps. baking powder, 4 tsps. cocoa and ¼ tsp. salt.

Combine shortening mixture into dry ingredients gradually. Drop batter by spoonfuls over rhubarb.

Bake in a preheated electric oven at 350 degrees about 50 minutes. Yield: 8 servings.

SCALLOPED RHUBARB

2 cups soft crumbs
3 cups diced rhubarb
2|3 cup granulated sugar
2 tbsps. butter
½ cup seedless raisins
2 tbsps. water

Mix crumbs with melted butter and place 1|3 in the bottom of a casserole. Cover with ½ of the rhubarb, sugar, water and raisins. Sprinkle with more crumbs, then the remaining fruit, etc. Top with remaining crumbs. Cover. Bake in an electric oven at 375° for 30 minutes. Uncover and bake until rhubarb is tender and crumbs are brown. Serve with cream or hard sauce. Yield: 5 servings.

RHUBARB TAPIOCA

1|3 cup quick cooking tapioca
3 cups rhubarb
1¼ cups boiling water
1 1|3 cups sugar
2|3 tsp. salt

Put tapioca in double boiler, add boiling water and salt; cook until tapioca has absorbed water. Peel rhubarb, cut in ¾ inch pieces and sprinkle with sugar. Add to tapioca; cook until tapioca is transparent and rhubarb is soft. Serve with sugar and thin cream. Serves 6 to 8.

ORANGE BISCUIT RHUBARB

2 cups bread flour
1 tsp. salt
1 or 1¼ cups milk
4 tsps. baking powder
2 tbsps. shortening
3 cups diced rhubarb

Mix dry ingredients and sift twice. Cut in the fat with pastry blender. Add liquid gradually, mixing with a knife. Put the diced rhubarb in greased casserole and sprinkle with ½ cup sugar, 3 tbsps. water and a few drops red coloring. Then drop the batter by spoonfuls over rhubarb. Bake in electric oven at 375° for 30 minutes.

Variations:

1. To the dry ingredients add 1 tsp. pastry spice.
2. To the dry ingredients add 1|3 cup finely minced peel.
3. To the llquid add ½ tsp. pineapple extract.

RHUBARB JUICE

To 3 cups rhubarb, add ½ cup sugar and 3 cups water. Cook 10 minutes at boiling point. Let stand until cool. Strain, then chill. Serve in place of orange juice or tomato juice. (May add a dash of red coloring or strawberry extract.)

RHUBARB-PINEAPPLE JAM

1 large pineapple
4 cups diced rhubarb
Juice of 1 lemon
7 cups sugar
2 oranges, grated rind
2 oranges, diced pulp
½ cup raisins
½ cup walnuts

Cut the edible portion from pineapple and chop finely. Add diced rhubarb, lemon juice, orange rind and pulp, and sugar to pineapple. Let stand overnight. In the morning add raisins and cook slowly until thick. Stir frequently and add chopped walnuts to be cooked for 5 minutes. Pour in hot sterilized jars. When cool cover with melted wax.
