Hon. Adam Beck Coming.

The Honorable Adam Beck, Chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission, will be present at the Chesterville Park on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 15th, and will deliver an address explaining the Hydro-Electric scheme.

As it is the intention of the Commission to extend the Hydro-Electric Power through Eastern Ontario, all farmers and others interested in obtaining cheap power should attend.

Death of Neoviate.

Miss Nellie Dillon, of Arnprior, died on Wednesday in the House of Providence at Kingston after a few days' illness of peritonitis. The deceased had been in the institution for the past six weeks, with the intention of taking the veil. The remains were sent to her home for interment.

Died from Burns.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Meehan of St. Regis Falls, died last night from burns received from a lighted "cat-tail." The child, in company with comrades of her own age, had soaked rushes in oil and was using them for torches.

Mr. Petepiece Dead at Merrickville.

Mr. George Petepiece, father of Mr. T. E. Petepiece, of the Post Office staff, Cornwall, died at his home in Merrickville, on Tuesday, at the advanced age of 79 years, after a ten days' illness of pleuropneumonia. The late Mr. Petepiece was born in the township of Oxford. He is survived by his widow five daughters and four sons.

Hon. James S. Duff Coming.

The Winchester Fair which will be held this year on Sept. 3rd and 4th, will have the distinction of being opened by Hon. James Duff, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario who has promised to perform the ceremony. Preparations are under way to make the fair this year the best in the history of the society.

Stormont W. C. T. U. Wants Local Option.

The annual meeting of the Stormont W. C. T. U. was held at the township hall, Cornwall Centre, with a large attendance.

Mrs. Bigelow, of Aultsville, presided. Mr. J. H. Roberts, of Montreal, secretary of Dominion Alliance addressed a large mass meeting in the evening. Mr. Roberts described the temperance situation in Quebec and Ontario, and expressed pleasure at learning that another attempt was to be made to carry local option in the township of Finch.

Freen Heard From.

We have just received a letter from Mr. Freen Hummel of Rose-town, Sask., from which we would draw the conclusion that he likes that part very much, especially the salary he commands in his business pursuit. The following is clipped from the Rosetown Eagle, published at that place:—

"J. Smith's house on Third Ave. has just been completed and Graham Bros. house on the same avenue is nearing completion. Both houses have been built by F. Hummel, of Chesterville, Ont., and are finished in first-class manner throughout and speaks well for the class of work the contractor is doing."

Keep This in Mind.

Next Wednesday and Thursday are the days selected by the Chesterville Driving Park Association for their celebration. Besides the horse races and athletic events, there will be many special attractions. On the evening of the first day a grand concert will be held in the Music Hall, and an assembly in the same hall on the evening of the second day. Come and be with the crowd.

On account of the celebration taking place here on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, The Record will not be published until Friday.

Edward Vincent of Montreal dived from a boat in Brome Lake, Que., and being unable to regain it was drowned.

Engineer Killed in Rear-End Collision.

Engineer Joseph Muldoon was almost instantly killed. Fireman T. Keller had his leg broken and train despatcher W. J. McCutcheon sustained serious injuries in a rear-end collision on the Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal-Toronto line at Tweed early Sunday morning. Muldoon and Keller were on the engine of an eastbound freight which ran into another freight standing on the main line at Tweed. McCutcheon had just left his work at Havelock and boarded the standing train. Twelve cars were demolished and the engine of the eastbound freight badly smashed. Engineer Muldoon is from Smith's Falls, Fireman Keller from Havelock. An investigation is being held into the cause of the wreck.

TOWN MUST GET OUT

UNHAPPY FRANK, ALTA., WILL MOVE OUT OF DANGER.

The Mountain Pass Village, which suffered disaster in April, 1903, has had an adventurous history since it was founded twelve years ago and now a new town-site will be provided.

In one of those deep narrow valleys characteristic of the passes which run through the Rocky Mountains, the town of Frank is situated. On both sides of it there are large mountains. To the northwest stands Goat or Bluff Mountain, which runs in a southwesterly direction; while to the southwest lies the famous Turtle Mountain, which runs towards the northwest. The two mountains are separated only by the narrow pass at the western end of the town, and in the angle caused by them, the town of Frank is built.

The story of the town begins about the year 1900, when the hills in the neighborhood attracted numbers of prospectors, who searched them carefully for indications of coal and minerals. About a year later H. L. Frank arrived and started what is known today as the Canadian Coal Consolidated Co., Limited. This organization has spent a great deal of money in the work of prospecting and development, and to-day possesses one of the best-equipped mines in the Pass.

The new town thus started progressed very rapidly. It was organized the same year as Mr. Frank arrived, and occupied the site on which the business part of the town now stands as well as considerable ground to the east of it. People came in in considerable numbers, and in one year the population of the town grew to over eight hundred people. Frank had the prospect of becoming the business centre of the Pass.

One morning the people of the town were awakened by a tremendous crash, and discovered that half the town had been destroyed by a great mass of lime-stone. When they went to bed the night before this rock had been resting three thousand feet up on the top of Turtle Mountain. But on the morning of the 29th of April, 1903, at about 4 o'clock, this peak, which had overhung the valley for so long, slid or toppled off and came down with a crash which was felt at MacLeod, thirty miles away. The rock-slide covers nearly two square miles of ground, and many of the great boulders are as large as tenement houses. It did not run down the side of the mountain, but looks as though it had leaped into the air and never touched until it hit the ground, reaching right across the valley, which it covered with lime-stone from forty to two hundred feet deep. The loss of life has never been fully known, but it is estimated that about ninety people were killed. There have been greater disasters, but few that have been marked by a monument so lasting. It is likely that in ages to come the lime-stone will still cumber the valley, and will remind people of the story of the disaster.

There are many stories told of heroism shown in those appalling circumstances. There was a switch-gang engineer for instance, who was near the old mine mouth pulling out cars when the crash came. He got away safely but he waited to disconnect his engine from the cars before he went. Still more striking was the courage shown by a couple of young men. A freight train conductor called for a volunteer to cross the slide and signal to a passenger train, which was expected at any moment and which might rush into the great mass of rock. His call was answered by two men from his own train, who climbed over the masses of rock for over a mile in the darkness and through an atmosphere full of choking dust. They could not see and they could hardly breathe, but they kept on and arrived in time to flag the train.

The C.P.R. which runs through the valley made great efforts after the disaster to level the rock and get its line across. This was done in a few weeks. For five months the town was absolutely dead, as a new opening had to be made to the mine, the present shaft had to be sunk, and other preparations had to be made before the work of the community could be resumed. But once a start was made the town grew very rapidly and now has about twelve hundred people in it. Frank, to-day, has as fine a lot of miners as any mining camp in Canada. They are good workmen and nearly all own their own homes, but owing to a long strike which lasted for eight months last year, they are not now in a position financially, to make the move which has been ordered.

The decision to move the town of Frank came as a result of the report by Prof. Brock in 1910 on the condition of Turtle Mountain. This report pointed out the serious danger of further rock-slides from this mountain, and when it appeared it immediately became clear that the town of Frank could not be allowed to continue in its present position.

The coal company has already had a new town site surveyed to the west of the present one, and outside the danger zone. It is said that they will exchange lots in the new townsite for those held in the old position. It only remains to raise money for the moving. Strong efforts are being made to get assistance from both the Federal

"Fruit-a-lives" Cured Her Kidneys

Miss MAGGIE JANNACK

MOUNTAIN, ONT., DEC. 14th, 1910
"I desire to let the world know the great debt I owe 'Fruit-a-lives' which saved my life when I had given up hope of ever being well again."

For six years, I suffered from dreadful Kidney Disease. My legs and lower part of my body were fearfully swollen. The pain in my side and legs would be so bad that I would faint with the agony.

Five different doctors attended me and all said it was Kidney Disease and gave me no hope of getting well.

A kind neighbor visited me and mentioned the cure of Mrs. Fenwick who had been cured of a sickness like mine. I took "Fruit-a-lives" and in a short time, I began to feel better—the swelling went down—the pains were easier—and soon I was well.

I have gained over 30 pounds since taking "Fruit-a-lives"—and my friends look upon my recovery as a miracle."

and the Provincial Governments to enable the little mining town to start afresh in its new position. Hopes are entertained that this will be only a matter of a short time, and that Frank will soon again take its place as the business centre of the Pass.

The fastest railway run in Great Britain is the forty-four and a half miles between Darlington and York, at an average speed of 61.7 miles per hour.

A CONFESSION.

Dear little boy with wondering eyes
That for the light of knowledge yearn,
Who have such faith that I am wise
And know the things that you would learn.
Though oft I shake my head and smile
To hear your childish questions flow,
I must not meet your faith with guile;
I cannot tell, I do not know.

Dear little boy, with eager heart,
Forever on the quest of truth,
Your riddles oft are past my art
To answer to your tender youth.
But some day you will understand
The things that now I cannot say,
When life shall take you by the hand
And lead you on its wondrous way.

Dear little boy with hand in mine,
Together through the world we fare,
Where much that I would fain divine
I have not yet the strength to bear.
Like you with riddling words I ask,
Like you I hold another hand,
And haply when I do my task
I, too, shall understand.
—Peter McArthur in The Globe.

EXTENDED COURTESIES.

How Andrew Broder Loaned Orange Hall For the Mass.

It seems that we will have to surrender the account of harmony between Orangemen and Catholics which came out of Waterville, Quebec, but fortunately there are other incidents of the same kind in, apparently well authenticated, Canadian history. An exact parallel, in fact, to what was reported to have taken place in Waterville, occurred some years ago in the county of Dundas on the St. Lawrence. "Andy" Broder, M.P., who is highly popular with all sections of his constituency, was the good fairy in the case. A priest of the county was seeking to organize a congregation in a settlement where he had no church. It was his custom to hold the mass alternately in the homes of two of the more prominent of the members of his flock. The services were held periodically only, and one Sunday when he arrived he was shocked to find that his two chief parishioners had forgotten that this was the day of his visit and had gone off and locked up their houses. As soon as the other members of the congregation became aware of the state of affairs, consternation spread. What was to be done? Here was the "Father" come specially to hold mass, and there was no place large enough in which to hold it. Then one of the troubled ones bethought himself of their member of Parliament, who happened to be in the village that day. So off they went to him and asked for his advice.

Andy" is a Methodist, but that did not daunt the troubled Catholics at all. They knew he was a man and an Irishman. Nor did the difficulty trouble "Andy" either—perhaps for the latter reason. There was an Orange hall in the place, and the big Irish-Canadian went straight off to the keeper of the keys and opened up the hall, and mass was celebrated there under the picture of William the Third and all the insignia of the L.O.L. Of course, there were a few croakers in the lodge, who feared that some dreadful consequences might ensue from this radical departure from established usage. But Andrew Broder is never at a loss for a reply.

"Do you think," he said to the doubters, "that it would do King William more harm than he did them?" And that was the end of the criticism.

Poet Is Honored.

At the commencement exercises of the University of Ottawa recently the degree of Doctor of Letters was conferred upon William Chapman, the distinguished poet, of Ottawa. The elite of Ottawa society was present at the pleasing function and the address delivered by Dr. Chapman was vigorously applauded, whose works have been twice crowned by the French Academy of Paris. The academy of Jeux-Floreaux, the most ancient body of its kind in France, has also honored him, so that our distinguished fellow citizen reflects literary glory on the capital and on the university which has been pleased to create him a member of its alumni. The poet was born at Beauce in 1850 and was educated at Levis College and studied law for a time, but his inclinations have ever run to literature. He has published a large number of volumes of great merit, his poems receiving the highest prize of the French academy in 1910. He has been decorated by the Government of France and has had several signal honors showered on him by literary men in Paris. He is a poet of large view and a simple, beautiful style and his writings are marked by a fervent patriotism and are very popular in Canada as well as in France.

A Flier In Oil.

The Dominion land office at Calgary the other day was the scene of a lively gamble. By the payment of as small a sum as five dollars a half hundred people booked for the big fortune event. Applications for claims were made on the petroleum and natural gas rights underlying territory near Okotoks, where oil drilling operations will be begun as soon as machinery arrives.

There were in all over 100 sections of land filed on by the applicants, who in most cases filed blindly.

READ ABOUT THE GREAT INVENTION THE ECCENTRIC SPROCKET WHEEL

Long spokes give greater tying-power. (See arrow A.)

Short spokes give swifter bundle discharge. (See arrow B.)

When you take hold of a heavy stone, exert all your strength and it refuses to budge, what do you call for? A long crowbar, of course. Why? Because greater power is obtainable with the long lever.

The great invention—the Eccentric Sprocket Wheel (note arrow C)—is built on the principle of the lever. The long spokes (see arrow A) and note how much longer than at arrow B) act as long levers—give greater leverage power.

It works out this way:

On our No. 3 Binder, when the bundle is about to be tied, the chain is pulled over the long spokes, which exert all their great leverage power—fully 165% per cent. more than is obtainable with the ordinary wheel. The grain is compressed far more tightly. You get a neater, more compact bundle and save considerable TWINE. Easier to pick up, Easier to carry, easier to shock.

Immediately after our Knotter ties the bundle, the chain is pulled over the short spokes (see arrow B) and note difference in length of spoke as compared with arrow A). The shorter spokes greatly increase the speed of the chain. The bundle is given a swifter discharge than with ordinary wheel, and the needle is speedily brought back out of the way of the downcoming grain, into position for the next sheaf.

The Eccentric Sprocket does this, too—it prevents that "jar" or "jerk" always noticed on other machines when a bundle is being tied and discharged. You will not feel it on the No. 3; neither will your horses be annoyed by it, nor "the life" of the machine be shortened. Frost & Wood No. 3 runs along and does its work without even a suggestion of that "jerk."

Now, you see why every maker would put the Eccentric Sprocket Wheel on his binder if he did not control the patents for Canada. You see why it's wise to invest a post card and get our Binder Booklet so as to become thoroughly posted on the peer of them all—the Frost & Wood No. 3.

You are on the right track when you start investigating our No. 3—the binder that is built by a purely Canadian Company, who thoroughly understands Canadian conditions. We would like you to read a few of the hundreds of testimonials we have received from Canadian farmers, which back up our claims to the letter.

The Late E. R. Markell.

Word has just been received at Cornwall of a railway accident at Calgary, Alta., on July 27, in which E. R. Markell, formerly of Cornwall, was instantly killed. The Calgary Daily Herald, in reporting the accident, said: E. R. Markell of Cornwall, a brakeman on the work train on the G. T. R., was instantly killed this morning at 3 o'clock, when the train he was on as it was coming north ran into two engines that were standing on the main track at Ardley, 10 miles south of here. The engine was backing up, drawing its train, and Markell, the head-end brakeman, was sitting on the engine, and next to the engine was a box car and behind it a long string of flats. They were travelling about 20 miles an hour and when the impact came the box car was thrown up on the front of the engine, crushing Markell almost beyond recognition. Two of the engines were disabled and the other came here for a doctor and then went on to Mirror for assistance to clear the track picking up the doctor as they went back, but they got off the track a couple of miles on this side of the wreck and the party were obliged to walk the balance of the distance. Coroner Dr. Sharpe of Lacombe, Alta., arrived here on the afternoon C.P.R. train and proceeded to Ardley on the G. T. P., an engine having been sent for him. An inquest will be held. Deceased had been only working a few months and leaves a wife and two children, one of whom he has never seen, it being only a few days old. Mr. Markell, who was 27 years old, was a son of W. M. Markell of Lunenburg and a brother of Arthur C. Markell and Jennie C. Markell of Lunenburg and H. E. Markell, trainmen on the Smith's Falls division of the C. P. R. He was married to Eva Winters, daughter of G. C. Winters, Wales.

Axe Falls at Cornwall

Cornwall, August 3.—The political axe was used to a very large extent on the canal staff here about two or three months ago, when no less than 15 officials were discharged for political reasons, and Conservatives put in their places. But the big axe fell today with terrific force when Mr. W. A. Stewart, who for the past eleven years has been superintendent of Ontario St. Lawrence Canal, received his discharge.

The dismissal took the form of an order in council passed on July 27th to take effect on August 1, and says that the Ontario St. Lawrence canals had been abolished. This looks very much as if a new position will be made, entailing the same work as was done by Mr. Stewart. The news of Mr. Smith's forced resignation came as a bolt out of a clear sky, as, while he was appointed while the Liberals were in power he never took an active part in politics. Furthermore ever since the change of Government Mr. Stewart's position has been anxiously looked forward to by Conservatives as one of the prizes, but as he had been on so long since the change of government it was thought that the local member had resisted the pressure to make a change, and it certainly looks as if he had, but apparently some outside force has been working silently for his dismissal.

Mr. C. D. Sargent who until Mr. Stewart's dismissal, was on the engineering staff of the department, has been appointed to the position of superintendent engineer of the Ontario St. Lawrence Canals, and will do the same work as Mr. Stewart.

SAVE YOUR HAIR

Don't Use Preparations Containing Poisonous Sugar of Lead or Sulphur.

Even if you have healthy hair you ought to use a little Parisian Sage once a week as a hair dressing. It keeps the hair healthy; prevents scalp itch, falling hair and dandruff, and—baldness.

But be sure you get Parisian Sage. There are many imitations. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every carton and bottle of Parisian Sage.

It banishes dandruff, stops falling hair and scalp itch, and imparts to the hair a brilliancy and lustre that all women, as well as men, love so dearly. Parisian Sage is daintily perfumed and refreshing hair dressing. It's the best hair tonic you can buy. Large bottle 50 cents at W. G. Bolster and dealers everywhere.

Railway Official Sees Business Men.

Cornwall, Ont. August 2.—Mr. S. E. Leger, of Montreal, travelling freight agent, Canadian Northern Railway, was in town this week interviewing manufacturers and business men with regard to a fast freight service on the Ottawa-Montreal section of the C. N. R. which will be operated in connection with the Ottawa and New York Railway.

The special freight will leave Montreal at 10 p. m., due to arrive in Ottawa at 7:30 the following morning, leaving Ottawa at 9 a. m. due to arrive at Montreal at 7 p. m. Direct connection will be made with the O. and N. Y. for shipments to and from all points on their line.

CITY OF THE FUTURE.

Town Planning Is Canada's Next Great Step.

Canada is waking up to the immense importance of the city planning and housing question. One of the most significant features of the day is the assembling of the great National Canadian Congress on City Planning at Winnipeg. It is the first gathering of the kind ever held in the Dominion.

Canada's interest in city planning has gone ahead in the last few years. The support of the former Governor-General, Earl Grey, was responsible for the visit of Mr. Henry Vivian, the chairman of the Co-partnership Tenants, Ltd., of England, in 1910. Mr. Vivian pointed out, in a tour of the country, that there was urgent necessity to plan the cities on well-defined lines, tending to the health of the community and the beauty of the localities. No single man has done more towards the solution of the housing problem in England than Mr. Vivian, and he brought his English experience under the notice of the Canadian public who view the city as something more than a place to make money.

Mr. Raymond Unwin, the greatest of English town planners, visited Canada last year, and experts from the United States have also advised public and private authorities in Canada on questions of urban development on far-seeing lines.

The city of Winnipeg was the first city in Canada to institute a City Planning Commission. That was done in 1910, and Mr. F. J. Cole, who has a good fund of European experience behind him, was appointed secretary. This commission was appointed by special charter for the sole purpose of studying the growth of Winnipeg and making plans for its future. It consists of twenty-four prominent public men, and its work has already been productive of much good.

Calgary, Alberta, has followed the example of Winnipeg, and, last December, formed its City Planning Commission. Mr. G. W. Lemon has been selected as secretary, and the commission has been very energetic in its work, going closely into the questions of street improvements, street lighting and a civic centre.

Quebec has gone in for the appropriate laying out of the battlefield, Toronto has taken up the matter of a federal square, and Ottawa is planning concerning the Parliament Buildings and their relation to the surroundings. Vancouver has retained Mr. Thomas Mawson, of England, for the design of a city parks system.

The Grand Trunk Railway has laid out its Pacific terminus, Prince Rupert, on scientific lines, as also the Canadian Northern Railway has laid out its Western terminus, Port Mann. This latter railway has in addition acquired land behind Mount Royal, Montreal, and commissioned Mr. Frederick G. Todd, landscape architect, of Montreal, to lay it out as a model city.

The movement towards the cultivation of a progressive civic spirit is also taking root, and in several cities proposals are on foot for the creation of garden suburbs on the lines which have been so conspicuously successful in England.

Canada is face to face with a big problem. Try as one may it is impossible to stem the tide citywards. The lure of the west is as much to the new cities as to the land, and it is essential that these cities should start aright.

City planning is not a fad, but a necessity of the time, and far from its being an extravagance, it is a positive economy. It is the first asset of a city, because the combination of art with utility will at once make for its well-being as a thoroughly equipped sphere of communal prosperity and of individual happiness. It is an attempt to put the city on a first-class business basis.—Guy W. Hayler, M.R.S.I., in Canadian Courier.

Don't delay Another Day Ordering an Ideal Green Feed Silo

Don't put off ordering your silo thinking that there is still plenty of time.

There has been such a demand for Ideal Green Feed Silos this year that some farmers who wait too long may get left.

That late corn, even if planted in July, will make fine silage. Get your order placed now and your new silo up in time to take care of your corn.

You know you ought to have a silo, so what's the use of putting off ordering it a single day longer.

Thousands of successful owners are thankful for the day they erected an Ideal Green Feed Silo on their farms.

Our large, illustrated Silo Book contains much valuable information about silos and silage. Sent free upon request.

WOODEN culverts are unsightly, dangerous, expensive, short-lived.

Which kind of a culvert does your waggon cross?

DOES the road you use pass over rickety, dangerous wooden culverts, that are constantly in need of repairs and often washed away entirely? Or is it carried safely across the low places by modern, everlasting culverts? Build your which not only cannot be washed away, but actually grow stronger with age and use.

Every farmer owes it to himself to insist that the money he pays for road-taxes be spent to the best advantage. As a ratepayer, he is entitled to the best roads that can be made with that money. When culverts are washed out, and the road rendered impassable, he not only suffers inconvenience but may also be caused financial loss by inability to get necessary supplies in time for spring planting. And at best, with wooden culverts, part of the money that should be used to make better roads must be spent every year for repairs.

Insist upon Concrete Culverts

It will pay you and everybody else in your county.

Winchester Township Council.

Minutes of meeting of Township council held Aug. 5th.

Members all present.

The minutes of last meeting read and adopted.

Bylaw 182 for payment of orders and accounts, read 1st, 2nd and 3rd time, passed, signed and sealed.

Bylaw 193, being a bylaw appointing John Middagh as commissioner for the removal of fences from road allowance opposite Lot 1, con. 1, read a 1st, 2nd and 3rd time, passed, signed and sealed.

Noon adjournment.

Moved by Dillabough, seconded by E. Countryman, that the council deem it advisable to open up the nine mile road between lots 12 and 13 in con. 6, also headline between cons. 5 and 6 across lot 12, and that a bylaw be prepared accordingly.

Moved by H. Dillabough, seconded by J. A. Bogart, that Mr. J. D. Stewart, collector for the west side, be instructed to continue the levy and collection of taxes for 1911 still unpaid.

Moved by George Earle, seconded by E. Countryman, that the commissioner for N. E. be instructed to have road allowance between lots 12 and 13, cons. 11 and 12, cleared, if found practicable.

Moved by H. Dillabough, seconded by J. A. Bogart, that the engineer's report on Kittle creek drain be laid over until next regular meeting, Sept. 2nd.

Council then adjourned to meet at Winchester, Sept. 2nd, at 10 a. m.

Fruit Growers Met

A meeting of the Dundas Fruit Growers Association was held in the Agriculture Office at Morrisburg, on Saturday last, to discuss the advisability of placing a car-load lot of McIntosh Red apples on exhibition at the flower and fruit Show to be held at Toronto in November.

Mr. E. P. Bradt addressed the meeting explaining its object and outlining briefly the excellent work that has been done by Fruit Growers Associations in advertising other counties. It was the opinions expressed by all present that the United Counties should be represented by an exhibit worthy of this section of Eastern Ontario.

A Committee consisting of Messrs. E. S. Casselman, Harold Willard and E. P. Bradt, was appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the placing of such an exhibit.

U. S. May Block Drainage Canal.

According to unofficial advices received here United States Secretary of War Stinson will refuse to allow the Chicago drainage canal system scheme, which, according to Canadian expert engineers, would have seriously lowered the water on the Canadian lakes, and diverted from the water power of Niagara and the St. Lawrence.

This matter was argued at Washington by Daniel Mullin, X. C., of St. John, N. B., representing the Canadian government, and by the representatives of Canadian power and shipping interests. The matter is one of supreme interest to Canada, as it is contended the Chicago drainage system would lower the water in the Great Lake harbors more than 6 inches. Should the decision go against the Canadian government the question will probably be referred to the government International Waterway Commission for final arbitration and decision.

G. T. R. Moves to Prescott.

According to an agreement entered into between the Grand Trunk Railway and the town of Prescott the company will remove its terminals from Brockville to Prescott within the next two years in consideration of a fixed assessment, cheap water and light, and the building by the corporation of a subway at a dangerous crossing at estimated cost of $25,000. The Grand Trunk binds itself to expend $150,000 in terminal facilities and has already 845 acres of land purchased or under option to meet the requirements of the new engine shops and yards.

The change will mean the removal from Brockville of at least 500 men who represent a payroll of about $350,000 annually. All that now remains to give Prescott the boom is the ratification by the ratepayers of a bylaw authorizing the subway expenditure and necessary land purchases, which it is said, will carry by a sweeping majority. Brockville has been a terminal of the Grand Trunk since its construction 57 years ago.

A Sudden Death.

A sudden death occurred near Berwick on Sunday, at the residence of Mr. B. Welsh, when James Hughes of Chicago, who had only arrived a few days before, passed away. It seems that he was in good health when he arrived here and on Saturday about noon he was taken suddenly ill and died on Sunday morning. Drs. Marcellus of Finch, and Gormley of Crysler, were in attendance, but their efforts were not successful.

The deceased was a son of John Hughes of Chicago, formerly of Connaught, who with his son Michael of Chicago, arrived here on Tuesday morning for the funeral; also two sisters, Mrs. McLean and Mary of Chicago, and Sabina Hughes of Indiana, attended the funeral.

The remains were removed from the residence of B. Walsh to John D. Grady's, from where the funeral took place yesterday morning to the Catholic Church at Crysler, and which was very largely attended.

Horse Show at Morrisburg.

The horse show at Morrisburg on Tuesday and Wednesday was favored with fine weather and large crowds were in attendance to witness the keenly contested events presented to the public. Besides the races there were many special attractions and there was something doing all the time.

Noted Clergyman Dead At Kingston

Kingston, August.—The Rev. John Hay, B. A., B. D. died yesterday from pneumonia, aged fifty-five years.

He was for twenty years pastor of Renfrew Presbyterian Church retiring recently owing to impaired health. Dr. Hay moved to Kingston two months ago. He graduated at Queen's in 1882 and was pastor of Cobourg's Presbyterian Church for a number of years. He was a trustee of Queen's for a number of years. A widow and several children survives.

Noted Orangeman Of Ontario Dead

Brockville, Ont., August 6.—Mr. Thos. Berney, one the leading men of Leeds County, died yesterday afternoon at his at Athens after a long illness. He was prominent in the affairs of the community, and as a commercial traveller was widely known throughout the province. He served in the village council as reeve and was an ex-member of the counties council. For many years he was also postmaster of Athens and occupied high positions in the Masonic and Orangemen's fraternities. He is survived by his widow and several children.

Prints Tickets 'While You Wait'

The Prussian State Railway have installed at the larger railway stations a machine which prints railway tickets 'while you wait' enabling them to dispense with the great stock of tickets to all towns in the empire necessarily kept on hand under the old system. A turn of a large wheel to the name desired and a pressure on a lever and the ticket with its cost plainly printed on it, drops from the machine. By a self registering connection, the ticket seller at the end of his period of duty can tell exactly how many tickets he has sold and the amount he is to turn over to his successor, while formerly he had to take inventory of the entire stock each time he went off duty, his successor having also to check up tickets on hand, involving sometime an hour or more hard labour.

Wm. Breen died as the result of material crushing him at Dufferin Power & Light Company's works near Horning's Mill.

Jas. B. Squance, Grand Junior Warden of the Ontario Encampment of Odd-fellows, was totally burned in his carriage factory at St. Thomas.

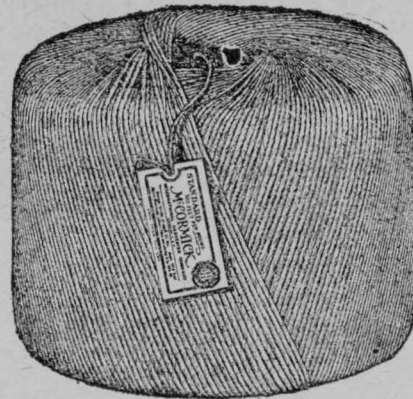

Arbitrators inquired into Crown grant of glebe lands Chatham.

Miss Miller, one of Vancouver's two women constables, arrested a 'masher.'

The Public School at Milverton was burned; loss $9,000, insurance $5,000.

Two hundred and fifty British teachers arrived at Montreal on a visit to Canada.

The Board has in hand the revision of tariffs of fees of county units and of the rules and tariffs of surrogate and division courts. The Board has had several sessions in and a good deal of progress has been made with the work. It is taking up here the rules of the division courts and Mr. Ellis, the travelling inspector of these courts is present.

Edward McNulty Dead

The village of Iroquois lost one of its most valued citizen on Saturday last in the death of Edward McNulty, who for many years has been an outstanding figure in its business. Remaining in his native town Mr. McNulty built up a business of a class that is seldom attempted and more rarely carried on successfully in a place of this size. Not only the village but the citizens of the adjacent townships in Dundas and Grenville owe more than perhaps they realize to his enterprise in bringing to their door goods of a class generally to be found in large cities.

Smoke Consumer Works Perfectly.

An Ogdensburg man by the name of Cartin has invented a smoke consuming device which works perfectly, even when wet coal is put on the fire.

A number of prominent citizens and out of town capitalists witnessed the test at Prescott and a stock company will likely be formed at once.

Society Burglar Stole $250,000

Chicago, August 5.—After 24 hours work the police yesterday completed an inventory of the art treasures, brick-a-brac, jewellery, silver plate and other articles stolen Jacob F. Guthrie, alleged society burglar and forger, now under arrest, and announced that the goods recovered are estimated to be worth $250,000.

After an examination of the barn and the room in a storage warehouse which Guthrie used to hide a portion of the articles stolen the police estimated the value of the property found at $250,000.

Telephone Wires Going Underground

Fifty men will arrive from Toronto this week to begin operation on the asphalt pavement on King Street at Brockville.

The Bell Telephone Company has also begun laying conduits for carrying their wires under ground to the proposed new office on Apple Street.

The western crop is estimated by General Passenger Agent Hinton of the G. T. P. at double that of two years ago.

New Five Dollar Note Popular.

Ottawa, August 6.—The five-dollar Dominion note has met with a hearty welcome. Up to the present the circulation of these notes is $3,300,000. One development is that the total value of the Dominion notes in circulation is little changed, the banks having substituted the new notes for the much larger certificates of gold deposits which pass only between banks.

Net $40,000 a Month.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Incorporations by the Dominion Government under the Companies Act has apparently become an important source of revenue. According to the notices of incorporations granted during the past few months, the scale of charges levied by the State department under the Act, it would appear that the receipts from this source must net the Federal Exchequer an average of about $40,000 a month.

Chinamen Were not Embarking for U. S.

Prescott, Ont., August 2—The three chinamen who were arrested by the United States officials for an alleged attempt to cross the boundary line, assert that they had no intention of entering the neighboring republic, they were merely rowing and fishing on the river as has been their custom for some time, that the officials had no right to arrest them and that they will put up a strong fight.

All three are recognized as good citizens and it has pointed out that had they intended to violate the law they would not have tried to go in broad daylight.

The Marriage Months

Marry when the year is new, Always loving, kind and true, When February birds do mate, You may wed nor dread your fate, If you wed when March winds blow, Joy and sorrow both you'll know, Marry in April when you can, Joy for maiden and for man, Marry in the month of May You will surely rue the day, Marry when June roses blow, Overland and sea you'll go, They who in July do wed, Must labour always for their bread, Whoever in August be Many changes are sure to see, Marry in September's shine, Your living will be rich and fine, If in October you do marry, Love will come but riches tarry, If you wed in bleak November, Only joy will come, remember, When December's snows fall fast, Marry, and true love will last.

Paper Mill Passes Under New Control

Although the papers are not yet signed, it is generally understood that the Cornwall mill of the Toronto Paper Company will shortly pass into new hands—the same interest that control the Cornwall Paper Mills at Mille Roche, the Barber Mills at Georgetown and the Montrose Mills at Thorold. Mr. Courtney, the manager of the mills here, is leaving Cornwall shortly and will enter a company that proposes building a new mill at Beanbournis, Que. This mill will manufacture high grade papers, such as are now made in Canada only by the Roland Mill. If the local deal goes through the mills will be enlarged immediately.

Consulate Asked Inquest be Held.

Smith's Falls, Ont., August 2—Ivan Corrozan, an Austrian was killed while trying to board a C. P. R. freight train on the ninth of August, 1911, and was buried in the Roman Catholic cemetery. The incident was forgotten until the consulate in Montreal demanded an inquest, Dr. McCallum, the coroner summoned a jury and this morning the evidence was heard. The verdict was that the man met an accidental death.

A case of poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, has appeared in Hamilton.

Odgersburg Men Were Easy Marks

Whiskey barrels are a scarce article in Odgersburg just now and there is an aching void in the bank accounts of a good many liquor dealers of that city as the result of the operations of a clever young man who went through there six weeks ago and bought up all the casks the dealers had to offer. They have yet to get their pay. The men who got so neatly stung have kept silent about the matter until now and the news came out yesterday. It is estimated that from $700 to $1,000 worth of barrels were obtained by the soft-tongued stranger. There probably was not a liquor dealer in the city visited by him and who had empty casks on hand who did not make a sale. The stranger was a smart, likeable chap. "Got any empty whiskey barrels to sell?" was his stock query as he stepped into the presence of the proprietor. "Certainly. What are you paying?" was the response. "$1.50 f. o. b." said the stranger, and this being a good price the transaction was quickly closed. The stranger produced a pad of printed forms and wrote out a receipt which he handed back to the dealer, explaining the as soon as he sent his book to the office cheques would be mailed for barrels. The dealers hustled the barrels out of their cellars, glad to get rid of them, and carters were busy for the next few days taking the "empties" to the New York Central Station, where they were loaded into freight cars for Albany, as the liquor dealers supposed.

When the cheques did not arrive within a reasonable time, one of the dealers wrote to Albany address given on the printed voucher which he had given him. The letter came back with the information that there were no such firm. Then the same dealer took the matter up with the railway officials and learned that the barrels had been shipped to the same house at Philadelphia. He thereupon wrote to Philadelphia and the letter came back unopened yesterday. The printed matter on the voucher was as follows: "Credit voucher. Empire Cooperage Company, dealer and buyer of all kinds of heavy cooperage, scrap rubber all kinds. Home 'phone 1650-M, 396 Broadway, Albany, N. Y." The stranger wrote the initials "A. S." in the space before the word agent at the bottom of the paper.—Brockville Recorder.

Flew Like Bird Skimmed Water and Rose Again.

Brockville, Ont., Aug. 6—Lieut. Elyson, head of the aviation department of the United States army performed a remarkable feat on the river last night.

Lieut. Elyson in his hydro-aeroplane was to have raced the Bearcat, a motor boat, at forty miles an hour. Something went wrong with the boat and it failed to materialize. The event was extensively advertised and about 600 left here on the steamer Thousand Islander to witness the race. As the steamer reached the cross over over light, nine miles from here, on her return the attention of those on board was attracted by a small speck far behind which quickly assumed large proportions.

In about a minute from its appearance the aeroplane, speeding along at the rate of seventy miles an hour, reached the Thousand Islander. It made a graceful dip, settled on the surface of the water and slid smoothly along for 25 yards. Then with the same ease with which it had alighted the aeroplane rose in the air, circled twice about the boat and faded away in the distance.

Titanic Relief Fund Was $2,000,000

London, August 5.—Although the funds for the relief of the Titanic exceeded $2,000,000 reports made to the Lord Mayor indicate that all of this will be required to maintain the allowances now made for the relief of the dependants of the victims of the disaster.

Of 673 of the crew who were drowned, 535 belonged to Southampton and 138 to other places. For those belonging to Southampton, claims have been made to the Mansion House Committee for 239 widows, 533 children under 16 years of age and 213 other dependents.

It has been decided to obtain before October 1, more exact actuarial calculations as to the amount required for the relief of the dependants of the crew and passengers. Meanwhile half wages are being paid to dependants of the drowned crew.

Claims have been received also on behalf of the dependants of 416 of 917 passengers lost on the wreck.

Rev. Dr. James D. Morrison of Vernon River P. E. I., has been appointed Bishop of Antigonish.

Her Aged Lover

A Correspondence That Brought About a Change of Heart.

By GWENDOLIN TURNLEE

"My dear young lady," said Mr. Peckham, attorney at law, to Miss Lamond, supposed heiress, whose estate he was managing. "I see but one way out of the tangle. Unless you are prepared to do as I suggest I fear your property will pass into the hands of John Paddock."

"Your plan is?"

"Marry him."

"Oh, heavens!"

The girl sat thinking with a distressed look on her face. Finally she asked, "Why are you so sure that he will accept this—that unhallowed plan of settling the suit?"

"Because he proposed it to me at our last meeting."

"Why, he has never seen me."

"True, but he has learned from me that you are a very clever, a very comely and altogether attractive young lady."

Miss Lamond was too absorbed in the matter of discussion even to thank the speaker for the compliment. She told him that she would take a week to think the matter over. If at the end of that time she decided to look favorably on his suggestion she would notify him and Mr. Paddock could then open the gossamer negotiations. She spent the seven days in an agony of vacillation, then took seven days more for further consideration. At the end of the second week she was so worn with indecision that she spun a coin to decide whether she would lose a fortune or double it with an unattractive elderly man thrown in. The coin turned up for the marriage. Miss Lamond at once informed Mr. Peckham of her decision.

Within a few days came a formal letter from Mr. Paddock stating that he regretted that he and Miss Lamond had become entangled in the meshes of the law and he was ready to do anything to arrive at a settlement. He did not feel that it would be just to those who would come after him to surrender any part of a property that the law would give him. If Miss Lamond could bring herself to unite the two estates by marrying a man so much older than herself and with no pretensions to personal attractiveness his suit against her estate would be withdrawn and he would do his best to make her an affectionate husband.

Women do not always shrink from marrying men older than themselves simply because of the difference in age. A hope came to Miss Lamond that there might be a possibility of her becoming attached to the man she was intending to marry, and this hope influenced her reply. She wrote Mr. Paddock that even to save a fortune she could not consent to marry a man who would be repulsive to her. She was ignorant of both his appearance and character. She proposed the matter be handled with deliberation in order that they might gradually draw out a knowledge of each other; then, if they were mutually pleased, or at least not mutually displeased, they could carry out the matrimonial plan of stopping litigation. Both the matter of her letter and the delicacy with which it was expressed were calculated to win the respect and admiration of any good man.

The reply to this letter, which suggested only a general method and gave no especial plan of procedure, caused Miss Lamond great satisfaction. It was full of sympathy, regretted again the necessity for her making a marriage of convenience, and the writer offered to do anything in his power to make it as little distasteful to her as possible. He suggested that the courtship be begun by correspondence. Possibly by this means he might show Miss Lamond what manner of man he was, and if his thoughts, his impulses, his inner nature were not disagreeable to her, on seeing him she might be favorably predisposed to him in the flesh. There was not a word as to any doubts on his part that she would be agreeable to him.

From the beginning of the correspondence Miss Lamond began to throw off the repulsion she had conceived for such a marriage. She wondered how a man of John Paddock's age, especially one whom she had been disposed to consider a skulflint, could, away down in his nature, have such admirable emotions. "When I think of my imperfections," he wrote, "I despair of ever winning the heart of so estimable a young lady, and I cannot be content with a mere union of interests. Possibly the world and I may have exaggerated my disagreeable traits, or may not a better nature in me have been warped by that battle with the world which every man who succeeds—especially in building up a fortune—must fight?"

This excuse that the man made for himself appealed strongly to Miss Lamond. Her father had made a fortune, and she had often heard him say that the work was crucifying to the instincts of a gentleman. She replied that she understood how a man might appear to the world and even himself to be spoiled by this struggle with those who were endeavoring to beat him, but that Mr. Paddock had shown plainly that his true character had come through the contest unscathed.

Miss Lamond was beginning even to excuse her aged correspondent for having beaten her at every point in the legal struggle they had had. She admired him that he had the ability to do so. She ceased to consider him as her adversary, but the adversary of the lawyer who managed her affairs. She began to treat Mr. Peckham with some coolness, a feeling taking possession of her that she would rather rely on Mr. Paddock's judgment and executive ability than on Mr. Peckham's. Had she possessed the services of such a man as the former doubtless her affairs would not have got into such a distressing condition.

The correspondence had resulted so favorably that Miss Lamond began to think of a meeting between herself and her correspondent. She tried to think of meeting a repulsive old man, but pictured an elderly gentleman who greeted her with a kindly smile. Thinking he might not consider that their correspondence had sufficiently prepared her for the meeting, she determined to inform him that so favorable had been the impression created that she was now positively desirous of seeing him.

A reply came to this that he was now suffering from an indisposition, but that as soon as he was in a condition to go out he would call upon Miss Lamond, but with great trepidation lest upon seeing him she would not be able to confirm her part of the contract for which they had been preparing.

So great was the change in Miss Lamond's sentiments from what they had been when Mr. Peckham announced the matrimonial plan that she was enabled to write him a letter in which she expressed considerable solicitude for his health and begged that he would keep her advised of his condition. She wrote this letter in the evening and in the morning was preparing to carry it to the post when, taking up the daily paper, she glanced first over the advertisements of special sales, then ran her eye down the death and marriage columns. She started.

Died—Paddock, John, at his residence after a protracted illness. Friends will kindly omit flowers. Funeral private.

Miss Lamond could not believe her eyes; but, turning them to a column of obituary notices, she read that John Paddock was the wealthy manufacturer who had made a large fortune. The notice was very short, and no encomiums were passed upon the deceased. She remarked especially that he had been helpless for several weeks before his death.

Here was a mystery. She had been receiving letters with view to a matrimonial arrangement from a man who was not able to write—in fact, was dying. Had she not received one from him the evening before announcing an "indisposition?" There was something uncanny about the matter. It made her flesh creep. Rushing to the telephone, she called up the office of Peckham, Tuttle & Hill, attorneys. Mr. Peckham was out of town, and no one else of the firm knew anything about the Lamond estate's business.

Miss Lamond could think of no other way of getting information as to the mystery and was obliged to wait. The day after the funeral she received a call from a man on whose card was the name of John Paddock Traver. She looked at it wonderingly; then, catching an idea that the mystery of her aged lover was about to be solved, she hurried downstairs.

A young man was standing in the drawing room who advanced toward her with a very singular expression on his face. It was amusement mingled with embarrassment and a tinge of guilt.

"Miss Lamond, I believe?"

"I am."

"I have come to enlighten you upon a matter which I fancy you may wish to hear explained. You know of the death of John Paddock, I suppose."

"I do."

The young man looked hard at a chair, and Miss Lamond mechanically asked him to be seated.

"My uncle, Mr. Paddock, whose secretary and man of all work I have been, some time ago told me that he and your attorney, Mr. Peckham, had arranged a marriage between himself and you for the purpose of settling out of court the suit between the two estates. Being an old man not fitted to conduct a courtship with a young woman, he desired me to write you in his name. I continued to conduct the correspondence, writing the letters you received from him and informing him of the progress of his suit for your hand till a few weeks ago, when he sank so low in health that no worldly matters interested him."

"I am my uncle's sole heir, and I have come to tell you that the suit against you will be dropped. The will was opened only this morning, and at the earliest possible moment I will meet your attorney, Mr. Peckham, with a view to coming to an arrangement that will leave you in the full possession of your inheritance."

Mr. Traver paused again. Miss Lamond continued her stare, but presently the corners of her mouth began to quirk up and her whole face broke into a smile.

When Mr. Peckham returned he called on his client and said: "The matter was a put up job between Mr. Paddock and myself. He knew that he had but a short time to live and had made his nephew his heir. His and your estate are inextricably mingled. He and I formed a plan to bring about a marriage between you and John Traver. You are to marry the nephew in stead of the uncle."

"But this Mr. Traver. What?"

"Oh, he can take care of that himself. He'll doubtless speak to you at an early date."

He did speak and was accepted.

Ant Colonies.

An ant nest or colony arises from eggs laid by one or more "queens." The developing young are tended by the sexless neuters, or "workers." The maggots, or larval ants, are fed by them, often nourished out of the nurses' mouths, and are as carefully watched in respect of the temperature and other conditions of the nurseries as are infantile human beings. When full development occurs the pupae change into ants, which are either winged or wingless. The latter are the "neuters," or workers. They may develop big jaws and appear as the "soldiers" of the colony. Those which are winged are the founders of new colonies. They are of both sexes, and they produce the eggs whence the new generations will be evolved.

Doughnuts.

Light, tender doughnuts quite unlike the usual solid kind are made with a cupful of sugar, a teaspoonful of butter, two eggs and a cupful of milk. Mix a scant pint of flour that has been sifted with two rounding teaspoonfuls of baking powder, making a paste that is soft. Stand the bowl containing it on the ice until it is very cold and then roll it out and fry before it loses its shape. The idea is to make the paste a little softer than can be rolled before it is stiff with cold and to use as little flour as possible. The doughnuts should be turned continually while they are frying.—Baltimore American.

Too Professional.

"I saw that man gazing into your eyes," said Maud.

"Yes," replied Mamie. "I felt compelled until I learned that he is studying to be an oculist. I had the same disappointing experience with a young dentist who was always anxious to make me smile."—Washington Star.

A Clear-Headed Duke.

Concerning the Duke of Connaught there is a story which illustrates the lucidity of his mind and its grasp of detail. At the big Wiltshire manoeuvres before the South African war the duke commanded the northern army. The correspondent of a prominent London daily who had interviewed the duke with reference to the disposition of his forces on the eve of an engagement approached some of his friends and remarked, "Well, they can jolly well say what they like about some people getting credit for the suggestions of others, but just look at these," and he produced some voluminous note which he had been making. "The duke has just reeled these off to me from his own head without a scrap of paper or a word from another soul. They give the position of every battalion under his command."—London Graphic.

This Is Authoritative.

The Geographic Board of Canada has decided that hereafter this is the way to spell Timiskaming and Temagami—not Temiskaming and Temagami, the letter "e" being replaced by "i." The decision was made following an investigation into the Indian origin of the words.

AN ACADIAN AUTHORESS.

Grace McLeod Rogers Makes a Specialty of Canadian Folk Lore.

Many hearts, vexed to preserve to this Canada of ours its golden wealth of unreclaimed tradition, sighed as people sigh for "a light untimely snuffed," when Grace McLeod Rogers, its saviour in Nova Scotia, put aside her highly successful literary enterprises for the, to her, dearer duties and joys domestic, says The Canadian Courier. Those hearts, however, are about to be comforted, for now her four splendid boys are "out of arms," as she puts it—the eldest, a freshman, carried off this year Acadia College's trophy for essay writing—Mrs. Rogers' facile pen has been re-assumed.

Canadian folk lore is Mrs. Rogers' field, particularly in its Nova Scotian features. Her first volume, "Stories from the Land of Evangeline," appeared when Mrs. Rogers was Grace Dean McLeod. It won immediate recognition, both here and across the waters, as a native product of rare beauty by virtue of both its matter and authorship; its tales being incorporated into the School Readers of three countries, Canada, New England, and Old Scotia, and widely used also as supplementary reading.

Later productions were published from time to time in the best periodicals of Canada and the United States. These were written usually upon request and were characterized, always by the reality of subject, the delicacy of diction, and the high pervading spirit which marked that initial series of province tales. Love of the Has-Been, a faculty for research, and a genius for adapting her language to her theme, account for Mrs. Rogers' achievement. And the lapse of years has served only as a mellowing of these powers, to judge from latest examples of her work.

But for more than "pennish" reasons might this authoress be proud. She is the daughter of the late A. J. McLeod, distinguished as barrister and author, and is also the niece of R. R. McLeod, the well-known litterateur. Her ancestry includes the Warrens and Hopkins of Mayflower fame and the Dunvegan McLeods of Skye. The Nova Scotia Historical Society claims her as a member—a distinction she is the first woman eligible to enjoy. Also, in company with Miss Marshall Saunders—whose story about her pet goats lately appeared in print—she received last June at the hands of Acadia College the honorary degree, M.A. But while she fondly cherishes her family traditions, instanced by her writing when she gave her photograph, "The scarf is my McLeod tartan—I must always wear it about me"; and while she delights in her varied honors as in the symbols of her countrymen's goodwill, modesty of the sincerest type is the crown of this woman's woman-nature. "I am only a woman," somewhere she writes, "not even the much-abused 'new woman' bristling with Academic honors, member of societies legion, and burdened with suffrage, and school bill and tariff, but a simple-minded, old-fashioned one, believing in love, and home, and 'the untrodden ways'."

An Interesting Theory.

That the increased efficiency, due to climatic conditions, of the transplanted Britisher will soon make Canada the centre point of the British Empire is the statement with which Prof. Willis Moore, chief of the U. S. weather bureau, has startled Londoners recently.

Prof. Moore declares it can be scientifically demonstrated that the climate of the North American continent is producing a race which in mental and physical energy promises to be distinctly more efficient than any past nation of the Northern Aryan race. He bases his theory on the fact that the northwest winds of Canada, blowing with great velocity from an extreme altitude of vast electrical potentiality, release more ozone in the proper state for human breathing than in any other place in the world. The climate of Canada differs from the marine climates of Europe in the fact that most of the winds originate over land areas and that they carry oxygen which is readily transmuted into ozone by electricity, whereas the marine winds of the British Isles and the European continent are lacking in the means for releasing this virile element. Consequently the Canadian weather expert maintains that the Canadian can no more control that nervous energy which is the marvel of Europe than he can stop his own breathing.

Geologists Coming.

The twelfth session of the International Geological Congress, held in Ottawa, Canada, during 1913. This is the first time this country has been honored with this important meeting and the following details in advance will be of interest to our readers:

Since the first meeting of the congress in Paris in 1878, meetings have been held in Italy, Germany, England, the United States of America, Switzerland, Russia, Austria, Mexico and Sweden. At the last congress held in Stockholm in 1910 there was an attendance of 850, and it is expected that this number will be exceeded in Canada next year.

Geologists from every quarter of the globe will attend the congress and for many it will be their first visit to Canada. They will include professors from the leading universities and mining schools, officers of the various Government geological surveys and mining departments, and geologists and mining engineers in private practice.

ESSEX HAS INVAS'ON.

Ontario County Getting Rich Farmers From the U. S.

People of the West may boast of the army of settlers which is crossing the border to take up land in Canada, and of the large amount of capital which they are bringing into the Canadian West. But if they do, the people of Essex county in Old Ontario have perfectly good reason to boast just as loudly, for the same thing is happening right there and right now as is going on in the West, says The Globe.

Since the spring of the present year sixty families of the United States have sold their farms in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois and have moved into Essex county, where they have bought new farms, and are now settling down to become Canadian citizens. According to the figures of the Canadian Immigration office in Windsor, these sixty families have brought with them an average of between $5,000 and $10,000 each, and their total capital thus would amount to in the neighborhood of $500,000. Besides this they have brought horses to the value of $25,000.

Most of these families are good, old-fashioned farmers' families, varying in number from three to eight. Many of them in addition have brought their own hired help, and accordingly have not to face the great problem of securing farm labor.

Several real estate companies are exploiting the Essex farms, advertising the county extensively through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and thereby acting in a manner as immigration agents. The campaign was started by them last year, when they brought over between forty and fifty families. This year they are operating more extensively, and before the end of the summer it is expected that the number of families will run up to nearly one hundred.

It has been the modus operandi of these companies to buy an Essex farm of from 200 to 300 acres, set immediately to work to put in the best of condition, tile-draining the land where it has not been already underdrained and putting the buildings in good repair. They will then pay the expenses of a prospective buyer from across the border to come and inspect the farm, and furnish him with all information as to what crops the land is best suited to produce. They sell the farms at prices ranging from $60 to $85 an acre, the greater number of sales having taken place near the higher figure. For the most part the new Canadians are well pleased, and with reason. For they have sold their old farms in the States at from $125 to $150 an acre, buying for little more than half the price new farms in the best of condition and soil which is better than that they have left.

His Own Medicine.

Rev. Jesse Gibson, secretary of the Upper Canada Bible Society, is a clergyman of rather ample proportions, and good nature, whose work causes him to occupy many pulpits throughout the country setting forth the aims, efforts and progress of the Biblical organization. He has always prided himself on being an optimist and never worrying needlessly. He said in a recent discourse—and this probably accounts largely for his cheerful disposition.

His faith in his own example and precept was severely tried a few months ago on the occasion of a visit to the busy thoroughfares of old London. In company with a Methodist friend, whose guest he was, they were motoring through Trafalgar square, every inch of space of that teeming section of the great city being filled with people, carts, busses, automobiles and other vehicles. Mr. Gibson could not conceive coming through the tangled and condensed mass unscathed, but still the car in which he was seated sped on. It seemed to the clerical visitor that if the machine had on another coat of varnish there would be a collision sure, so narrow was the escape at many points. He held in as long as possible, fearing a wreck every moment, in which he would be a victim. Finally, the wheels of the automobile came a shade nearer than usual to an obstruction. The Canadian emitted a lusty yell, which somewhat alarmed and irritated the driver, who was propelling his own car. The latter gave him one sharp look and said testily: "Look here, sir, I am at the wheel, and your outcries are not very reassuring. Why in thunder do you not practice some of the doctrine you preached about the other day—not to worry?" The jibe went home, the nervous clerical subsided, and actually came through alive.

He Saw Him Coming.

Nearly twenty years before Wilfrid Laurier became Premier, when the young French-Canadian member was made Minister of Inland Revenue in the Mackenzie Cabinet, a Toronto Liberal visited Ottawa, which was then considered a more serious journey than it is to-day, and called on the Premier.

Transacting his business, the visitor announced his intention of returning the same night. But Alexander Mackenzie demurred. "No, no," he advised his friend. "Stay over tonight and hear young Laurier put through his estimates. It will be a treat." So it proved to be; thus, early in the public life of the youthful member from Quebec did his character reading leader discern in him the promise of future greatness.

Farmers Worried by Woodchucks.

A farmer on the American side of the river, driving from the village of Rossie to Gouverneur, counted more than 50 woodchucks while covering a distance of 20 rods. The country is also overrun with cottontail rabbits.

Both the woodchucks and rabbits are very destructive to clover, beans, lettuce, cabbage and all garden produce. The farmers around Rossie are suffering much loss from the voracious animals.

Mr. J. C. Stewart of Dalmeny, Ont. has been appointed by the Ontario Department of Agriculture as judge of dairy cattle at the following fairs: Perth, Winchester, Cornwall, Belleville and Shannonville.

Three hundred and seventeen people were burned to death in Canada last year and seventy-three persons have lost their lives in the same way this year. Coal oil and matches are dangerous articles in careless hands.

The Provincial Board of Health has gone over the new regulations based upon the changes made in the Public Health Act last session. The final changes have been made, and the regulations will now go forward for approval. When the regulations go into effect consumption will be included among diseases which physicians are compelled to report.

The town clerk of Prescott has received a notification from the hpro-electric commission that as the material is being ordered for the transmission line from the point where the power is developed to Prescott, the town should immediately take steps to adopt its station equipment for use of the power which will be delivered early in the autumn.

A beautiful wedding service was conducted at high noon on Wednesday of last week at Morrisburg by Rev. Mr. Strike, of the Methodist church, when Miss Aggie Isabel McIntosh, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George McIntosh, of that town, became the bride of Mr. W. Cass, youngest son of Mr. J. L. Cass, of Winchester.

Dorothy, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mansfield, Abel street, Smith's Falls, met with a very painful accident on Monday night. The child stumbled over some boxes in the yard and bit her tongue, almost severing it. Her face was also badly bruised and she will likely lose a number of teeth. Mr. Mansfield rushed the little girl to Dr. Anderson's office where her tongue was treated. She is now at home, but suffering a good deal, being unable to speak or eat.

Mr. J. C. Webster, furniture dealer, who has just returned from his cottage at Charleston Lake, tells of an interesting experience he had while there. Early one morning with his young son he was taking a walk around his island when he noticed a huge bird sitting on a stone at the water's edge. On closer inspection it proved to be an eagle and Mr. Webster lost no time in making an attempt to capture the prize. He secured a rope and tried to lasso it, but did not succeed in doing that. The bird, however, in dodging, slipped into the water and was unable to get out. Mr. Webster and his boy then jumped into a skiff and took after it. It made a savage lunge at the oar and then a rope was thrown over one of its talons and in this way it was secured and hauled to shore. It was safely tethered there until a suitable cage could be secured and in that it has since been kept. The eagle is a beautiful specimen of the gray variety and measures six feet from tip to tip. It appears to be quite content in its new surroundings and is very much tamer than when first captured. It is quite an object of curiosity to the cottagers and residents of that locality. Mr. Webster says he intends to liberate it as soon as the cottage is closed for the season—Rideau Record.

Bible Society Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Chesterville Branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society will be held on Sunday next, Aug. the 11th, at 10.30 a. m. in the Presbyterian Church. Mr. David McElroy of Ottawa, travelling secretary, will be present to deliver an address on the aims, object and work of the Society, and to hear the report of this Branch for the past year. All who are interested in the work of this society should be present to enjoy the address and assist in whatever way they can in such an important missionary work.

The first C. N. R. train to reach Smith's Falls was on Tuesday last when an engine and five flat cars arrived over the C. P. R. tracks. It is expected that the line from that town to Ottawa will be in operation by this winter.

David Lynch, of Jasper, late clerk of the township of Wolford, has been appointed acting preventive officer of customs, with headquarters at Brockville. He will be relieving officer in the province of Ontario.

Chief Mooney, of Prescott, telephoned the police the police this morning requesting them to be on the look out for a young man supposed to be Wellington Clark, wanted for horse stealing. Clark is 20 or 25 years of age, fair complexion, and when last seen was wearing a light colored suit and black hat.

Married at the residence of the bride at Iroquois, on Monday evening, July 29th, 1912, Rev. D. O. McArthur B. D., officiating, Joseph Hilton, of Reaburn, Man., to Mrs. M. Nicholson, Iroquois. It was a quiet wedding, only a few friends being invited. Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Cassan acted as witnesses, and Jas. Flannagan saw to it that the pleasing event lacked nothing in setting, his presence being a sufficient guarantee of that. Mrs. Nicholson is a charming young widow of Iroquois, while Mr. Hilton, who is a westerner, enters the matrimonial field for the first time, and of course has much to learn from his fair spouse. Although a resident off the West for many years, Mr. Hilton intends making Iroquois his home for the future.

Victim Returned to Stop the Search for His Remains.

When two of the crew on a light Grand Trunk freight train saw a man, apparently a tramp, try to board the train and fall backward off the fender, they believed that he must surely have been instantly killed. The train was running at a high rate of speed and directly the next station was reached the engineer reported the accident to Prescott, where orders were given to have the track searched for the body.

A group of sectionmen were in the act of getting a hand car on the rails, preparatory to rushing away, when a depalidated stranger strolled into the station, and seeing the men struggling with the car and hearing a chance remark about an accident, calmly volunteered the information that he was the victim adding nonchalantly, "You can't kill a Shamrock."
