Here AND There

by Kay Kay

Things you wouldn't know if you didn't open your mail: "The horseless carriage will greatly reduce the death rate in cities", Dr. James J. Walsh foretold in 1900. He reasoned that since houseflies like to lay eggs in horse manure, the coming of the horseless carriage would result in manure-free streets and would remove a serious source of infection.

Good old Walsh certainly goofed. The flies are still with us and the horseless carriage is killing us off like flies.

Labor Day Weekend . . . one last chance to go out on the highway for a holiday weekend, messing around with danger and careless drivers. But don't you worry, the report now is that most of those smash-ups are not accidents . . . just carelessness. So you'll be right in there with the best of them. If half the people who are going to be involved in a crash this weekend, just took time to keep their eyes on the other driver, what a fine holiday weekend it would be.

When our Canadian PM goes visiting around the country we all expect he can go without being molested or threatened physically, at least. But in recent weeks it appears that Canadians are heading in the same direction as citizens of many other countries. They are throwing aside all that we stand for as a democratic country and instead of heaping verbal abuse alone, are now resorting to violence. t would be a sad day if our Prime Minister or anyone else for that matter, couldn't feel free to travel across Canada without an army of guards.

Where are the decent, law-abiding citizens of this land, when these things take place?

We've had a few offers of corn in the past couple of weeks but for those who still have a few ears left, why not give some of the following a test:

ROASTED CORN

Pull husks from corn cob and remove silk. Spread cobs with soft butter and sprinkle with salt Pull husks back over cob and twist the ends together. Roast directly on hot coals or on the grill. Allow 15 o 20 minutes, turning occasionally.

BACON AND CORN

Wrap bacon slices diagonally around corn cob and secure with toothpicks. Wrap in foil and then bake directly on hot coals or on the grill. Allow 20 minutes, turning occasionally.

PARSLEY-BUTTER CORN

Serve fresh corn on the cob with this spread: To ¾ cup melted butter, add ¼ cup finely chopped parsley and a dash of garlic powder. Stir well and use hot.

Wed at Belleville

St. Joseph's Church, Belleville, Ont., was the scene of an attractive wedding ceremony, when Monseigneur A. Carley united in marriage, Karen Mary Buchanan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Buchanan, of Chatham, N.B., and Robert Taylor Arthurs, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthurs of Cardinal. Sister Mary Avila rendered the nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a full length gown in redingote style, of peau de soie and organza trimmed with embroidered daisies. A six tier shoulder length veil of organza was held in place by a cluster of daisies. Her floor length train was attached to the shoulder of the dress and she carried a crescent of white shasta daisies and roses.

Mrs. Karole Hay, of Amherstview, sister of the bride, was matron of honour and wore a mauve floor length gown of chiffon over taffeta, trimmed with embroidered daisies. She carried a basket of white shasta daisies.

Misses Janice Buchanan, Chatham, N.B., sister of the bride; Tara Arthurs of Cardinal, sister of the groom; and Charlotte Kerr of Belleville, as bridesmaids, were all similarly attired as the matron of honour, in shades of yellow, green and blue respectively.

Lorelie Hay, niece of the bride was flower girl and wore a floor length gown of mauve chiffon over taffeta.

Gary Arthurs attended his brother, and the ushers were: Douglas Campbell of Port Credit, Ont George Miller and Bill Fowler of Brockville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Parish Hall, with the mother of the bride wearing pale blue crimplene, with matching hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the mother of the groom, who wore a pale green lace coat and dress ensemble, matching hat, white accessories and pink and white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Cape Cod, and the New England State the bride wore pale blue lace ensemble, with white accessories and a mauve orchid corsage.

On return they have taken up residence in Hamilton.

Beach and Parks Closing for Season

Iroquois swimming beach and the supervised park will be officially closed for the season this Saturday, a notice from the municipality announces today. This does not mean that residents cannot keep using the beach or parks but it does mean that there will not be any supervision and parents are asked to take note of this.

Hundreds of people have used the beach during the summer's hot days and nights and the park has had its share of activity with youngsters. Both are a decided asset to the community and its residents, young and old alike.

SWIMMERS FINISH YEAR

The summer's gone! It's back to school next Tuesday and the first sight of those busses coming into town is a clear sign of Fall.

Tent-trailer site coming into its own

With an almost full season behind it, the Iroquois tent-trailer area has had an excellent year. Councillor Jack Saver reports that close to 300 individual registrations have been recorded at the area, with people from all over Canada and the United States availing themselves of the facilities. It costs $2.50 per night to use the site, plus an extra 50c per night if electricity is required. Genzmer Clark and Howard Locke are in charge of the campsite, which includes the use of washroom and other facilities at the main building on the grounds.

Perhaps one of the reasons why the area has been used to a greater extent this year is because it is a quiet area, away from the noise of the community, close to the locks and the St. Lawrence and close to the highway. Signs advertising the park have been spread around the area this year to help bring more people to the community as well.

With a steady increase each year in the number of people travelling with tents and trailers it is expected the revenue will also increase to bring a definite return to the municipality.

Plans completed for fair at South Mountain

Total purses of close to $1300 will be paid out at the South Mountain Fair races on Saturday, September 6th, being held in conjunction with the Mountain Township Fair Friday and Saturday, September 5 and 6.

The two-day fair will feature the 4-H Calf Club show on Friday, with an evening program of the Ottawa Valley Light Horse Show.

On Saturday there will be exhibits of light and heavy horses, cattle, agricultural and domestic exhibits and in addition the Allan Shows will bring rides for the youngsters' amusement. On Saturday evening a wind-up dance will feature Gilles Long and The Longfellow, a country and western band.

All in all the South Mountain Fair promises to be one of the best staged in Mountain Township.

Iroquois has new brochure

A new brochure proclaiming the good life in Iroquois and the advantages of locating here has been published and ready for use. Adorned with multi-colored pictures of golfing, fishing, swimming, tourist sights, hunting and boating, the brochure is an excellent medium of advertising the village. Copies will be made available through various distribution centres and to prospects seeking information about the village.

The pamphlet delves slightly into the history of the village and all the amenities offered in the community.

Why Bother Going Back to School?

In the next two weeks there will be a number who will be saying to themselves "why bother going back to school, it's a lost cause. What am I going to gain by spending another year in that place?"

With that kind of attitude, there probably won't be much sense in going back to get a better education. But just for a moment, take a look around you. Of the ones who have the same education as you, how many have good paying jobs. How many are satisfied with their lot in life and how many wish they had stayed in school just a few years longer.

One other thing you might be considering, is staying out of school "for a year or two" and then going back. Did you ever check to see how few of those who dropped out ever went back? The number is so small it is hardly worth mentioning.

And for most of those who did go back, it meant a great deal of sacrifice. Why wait a couple of years to sacrifice when you don't have to by going back this September?

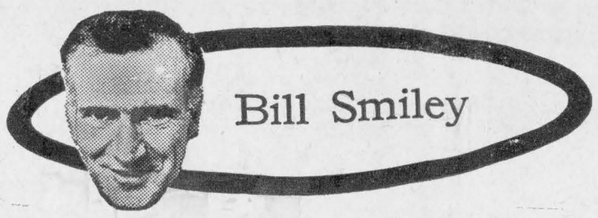
As for an education there are some who will tell you to see how well so-and-so did and he did it without an education. Again the number who make it the hard way, is a small percentage of those who dropped out. More and more, industry is demanding higher educational standards in its employees. They feel that it is easier to train a better educated person . . . and they're doing the hiring so we can't argue with their decision.

Many young people have a goal in life and go after it; but there are those who perhaps have not had the same opportunity to receive the kind of guidance necessary to aid them in their thinking and in their planning. Advice is available to you at your school. All you have to do is ask. If you aren't sure of what course you should be taking, qualified people will help you make the decision; based on your needs, your ambitions and your capabilities.

Now is the time to get that education that will stay with you all your life and will help give you a more complete and satisfying future.

That's why you should bother to go back to school.

Walter Safety says, "Investigate conditions BEFORE entering the water, and always swim with a buddy."



The kids are pathetic

It's been a rough summer for a lot of people, including yours truly. There's nothing like getting home, exhausted, after a trip and finding (a) that your wife has lost the house key and you have to break in through a cellar window, and (b) that an oak limb 40 feet long and ten inches thick has fallen across your hydro lines during a storm.

However, these are minor things. I got into the house with no more than a scraped knee and a bad temper, and a good neighbor had climbed up and sawed the limb in two, allowing half of it to crash down on my fence.

But this is a mere bagatelle compared to what others have gone through. Teachers are supposed to recharge their batteries during the summer vacation, and hit school in September tanned, fit and bursting with idealism.

We'll be lucky to open this fall, the way our staff is folding up. A hernia and a heart attack, a total collapse f r o m exhaustion, various slipped discs and other ailments have decimated the ranks. All I have is a touch of heartburn, and I attribute that to a couple of days of Bloody Marys for breakfast, served by friends we were visiting.

It's been a bad summer for a lot of parents. First, two kids I met on a visit to the old home town, told me nonchalantly that they'd flunked their first year at College. Their parents weren't quite so nonchalant. Apopletic is the word.

Same day I met an old friend who was at his cottage. They'd left one son at home, working. The night before, my friend had received a call from the police in his home town. They had raided a big teen-age party. At his place.

A friend of my daughter, a pretty, blonde 17 year old, had a stroke and her right side is paralyzed. No need to ask how her family feels.

A distraught mother told me three weeks ago that her 14 - year old daughter had disappeared, run off with another kid. She phoned, collect, this week from Vancouver. Alive, but who knows what she's been doing? The lady is a good mother, in every way. Has two daughters, one a fine, steady girl, the other a young rip. Why?

And everywhere you see them on the highways, dirty, bearded, long-haired. Hitch hiking from nowhere to nowhere.

Some of them cluster in "communes" in the big cities. A commune is usually a falling-down house in a slum area. It has a kitchen of sorts, a toilet that work occasionally, and the rest of the floor space is covered by mattresses and sleeping bags.

Theoretically, everyone contributes for food, rent and chores. In reality, there are usually two or three working and the rest just drift in and out like alley cats. This produces personality clashes and hassles and a very unhealthy psychological atmosphere. Add drugs to this boar's nest and you have some pretty sick young people.

They claim they're opting out of a sick society. Work is a dirty word. They are meditating, seeking a higher spiritual life. There's a lot of talk about vibrations and Buddha and pure love for everyone. All this in a pig pen?

The young people are rather pathetic, but I grieve more for their parents, who simply don't know how to cope with a way of thinking and living so alien to their own. They are loving, frustrated and helpless.

And I save a little pity for myself. Got a letter from my daughter, from Montreal, telling me cheerfully that she had one cent. Wired her some money yesterday. Got a collect call this morning saying she couldn't cash it because she had no proof of identity. Phoned the Montreal telegraph office, told them it was OK to cash it. No can do. Confirmation had to come from our local wire office. Called them, got off a wire and presumably she cashed in, as she hasn't called back yet.

So, the original bite, plus two wires, plus two long - distance calls to Montreal. Should all kids, at birth, be placed out on a lonely hillside for the shepherds to adopt? We might be flooded with shepherd's pie, but it would certainly make life a lot simpler.

$$ and Good Sense

Several weeks ago I wrote a column about consumer credit and its importance to our economy and way of life. As a result I received a letter from a gentleman who claimed that credit was "nothing more than a tool of big business."

My reply to his was: "Brother you're so right"! Of course, he was speaking negatively while I was replying in positive terms. Yes, credit is certainly a tool of business, just as a wrench is a tool of the mechanic. Or a hammer a tool of the carpenter. Without them, it's certain that these two specialists could not provide their vital service. A little exaggerated, perhaps, but the point is obvious.

Here's another way of looking at it. Some time ago a medium-sized electric refrigerator cost over $3,000. This was way back when they were made by hand and sold for "cash on the barrelhead". The demand was simply not there for assembly-line production. People just didn't have $3,000 to plunk down for a refrigerator when their old ice-box was "just as good."

But the entrance of consumer credit brought about a rapid change. Assembly line production. No more "cash on the barrel head." The cost of the refrigerator was reduced drastically permitting more people to buy them and to buy them on their credit. It meant more savings, too. Credit also aided the economy because mass production meant more jobs of all types for millions of workers. It also enabled manufacturers to improve the efficiency of their operations as well as provide research to improve their products.

No one in the consumer credit field is going to claim that consumer credit is totally responsible for this great change in our economy. But no one, on the other hand, can deny that credit, intelligently used, has not had a far reaching influence on our economy.

TODAY'S CHILD

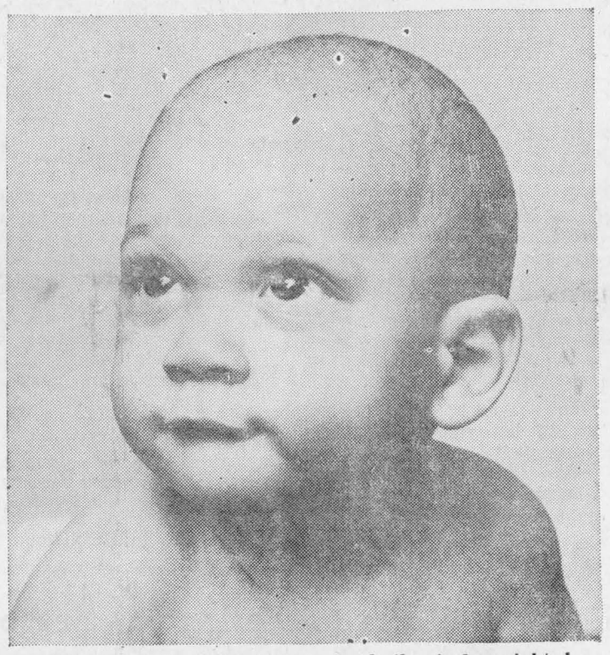
Toronto Telegram Syndicate



Why are you interrupting my bath, Andy might be asking with that questioning look. This appealing baby is of black and white parentage. His white ancestors were Italian, Scottish and Irish so he is almost a United Nations himself. Andy is eight months old, healthy and sturdy with big dark eyes, scant light brown hair and pale complexion. He is very active and already quite strong. He is alert, responsive and good-natured. He chatters cheerily with a few recognizable words. He likes attention from children or can be quite content playing with toys in which he takes an increasing interest. He needs loving parents who will value his heritage. To inquire about adopting Andy please write to Today's Child, Department of Social and Family Services, Parliament Buildings, Toronto 182. For other information about adoption ask your local Children's Aid Society.

Lands & Forests Report

WANTED—RED PINE CONES

by P.E. Anslow, B.Sc.,
Timber Supervisor

This year the Department of Lands and Forests requires as many bushels of red pine cones as possible. It has been some years since a good seed crop for red pine occurred and for this reason every effort will be made to collect all available red pine cones this year.

The forecast this year is for a light crop only but despite this fact it is still necessary to carry out a collection program.

The price of cones delivered in good condition is $8.00 a bushel and anyone wishing to earn a little extra money this September is urged to give red pine cone collecting a try.

Cones will be received at three Lands and Forests headquarters in the Kemptville District as follows:

Lanark Headquarters — Lanark.

Kemptville Nursery — Kemptville.

Larose Headquarters — Bourget.

For further information contact your nearest Lands and Forests office or telephone the undersigned at 258-3411 area code 613.

SMOKESTACKS

All around the world They marvel at American industry. Factory chimneys send great clouds of smoke skyward as we produce more and still more. There seems to be no end to man's progress, whether here on earth or out in the vast mystery of space.

In spite of all we do, there is still so much that we cannot do. For all our power, we are still frail and vulnerable. God has given us many capabilities, but we were never meant to "go it" entirely alone. To think that we need nothing beyond ourselves is not self-confidence—it is brashness.

There are moments when we all need to look into a special kind of mirror, by which we may re-examine our lives. Such a mirror may be found in church where God's word, if we really listen to it, can help show us the truth.

Why not go and listen in your church next Sunday?

Farmers' Union

The Ontario Farmers' Union is graduating into a new plateau of dynamic farm organization, Walter Miller, National Farmers Union Vice President said in Guelph today.

Mr. Miller was elected Vice President of the new National Farmers Union at the founding convention held July 30 - 31st in Winnipeg. "The objectives being reached today are not new but were conceived by the pioneers of farm union in the initial beginning of organization," he said.

There is no vacuum of representation in Ontario, nor will the Farmers Union allow a vacuum to occur, Mr. Miller said. "It's business as usual while the structural changes are being made, after which time the problems of Ontario farmers will be dealt with more effectively, with the backing of the total National organization".

"Inquiries coming into the Saskatoon and Guelph offices from all across Canada indicate clearly that the concept of one totally integrated national organization of farmers is winning the approval of the more progressive farmers. Farmers recognize that the farm organization structures of the past are inadequate in meeting the present day need and farmers must now overcome this obsolescence, the greatest of which was restricting their organization to provincial level and government controls."

"With the new National Farmers' Union, provincial boundaries will no longer keep farmers divided and exploiting elements in the establishment will be dealt with at their own level and strength", concluded Mr. Miller.

VICIOUS CIRCLE. A bitter price war between wheat exporters, including Canada, appears to be a more distinct possibility now as the International Grains Arrangement members failed to reach any form of unanimity on the future of world wheat prices. Garden Notes

Many flowering plants benefit from the removal of dead flowers, say horticulturists with the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food.

Faded and dying rose blossoms should be trimmed off to prevent seed setting. In so doing, energy is directed into the production of new growth and more blossoms will occur later in the season.

Hardy phlox that have flowered should have their heads removed. Again, this prevents the formation of seed and promotes a second crop of flowers.

To keep annuals blooming for a longer time, remove faded flowers. Otherwise the growth of young buds is checked by developing seed pods, and no further flowers will develop.

As soon as red raspberries have finished bearing, cut out old fruiting canes, advise horticulturists with the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food. Red raspberry canes are biennial; they grow one year, fruit the following year, then die

Old canes should be cut off at ground level. The removal of old canes soon after bearing helps prevent the spread of disease to new growth. The trimmings should be burned if dease was evident.

He speaks several languages and is a voracious reader. At an age when most people are thinking of retiring (67), James Bannerman has no intention of slowing down.

Watch Those Trailers

It's that time of year again; cottages are being closed, summer vacations are ending and boats trailered back from the lake for winter storage.

The Ontario Safety League warns trailer operators to double check the condition of their equipment before taking an extended highway trip. The important parts to check are wheel bearings, hitch and safety chains tie-down straps; and be sure your taillights and indicator lights are working perfectly. After summer's use, the wheel bearings may well need cleaning and re-packing. Check nuts and bolts on the frame of the trailer, the hitch and supporting rollers and cushions, to be sure they are all tight. A loose bolt could create a major catastrophe on a crowded highway.

And once out on the highway, remember your trailer manners. Keep your speed well within the stated limit. Always remember the added length and weight of your load and give yourself more time for all manoeuvres such as stopping, passing and changing lanes. And above all, use your indicator lights to make your intentions known well in advance of the move. Use hand sginals as well as mechanical signals where traffic conditions make it desirable to give extra emphasis to your intention to turn, or stop.

Don't Be Careless

The boating season in Ontario passes all too quickly. The early season hazards of acquiring 'sea legs" and working the bugs out of equipment have passed. A whole new set of hazards arise which usually bring on a rash of late season accidents.

The reason for these late season problems is quite simple — the old bugaboo of carlessness from becoming too familiar with procedures and surroundings. Safety precautions rigidly followed at the beginning of the season in the operation and equipping of the boat are relaxed; lifejackets are left ashore; rules of the road and rights of way are neglected or disregarded storm warnings are not taken seriously, and unwise decisions are made to continue the cruise in spite of rising waves.

The Ontario Safety League warns all pleasure boaters to maintain safety procedures, and exercise even greater vigilance and care in the operation of pleasure boats as the season advances. Be sure you are not one of the late season casualties.

Ottawa Ex Drawing Them In

All the rythym and romance of the enchanted south seas can be captured by visitors to this year's Central Canada Exhibition.

A visit to the EX's new Bandshell to see one of two daily shows by the Tahiti Nui Revue should be a 'must' in every fairgoer's book of things to see and do. The 36 dancers, singers, drummers and guitarists are socking it to large crowds every day at the Bandshell at 4:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m.

Copper-skinned bodies in authentic, colorful costume pulsate to the rythyms that are native to their villlage home on the beaches of the island of Tahiti. If you think the group is having a ball, you're right. They sing, dance and play like they do at home, with the main object being for all to have as good a time as possible.

Tahitian dancing is a living art form, with a smooth blend of the old and new. Some of the dances have remained unchanged for centuries, while others are modern and reflect the changing culture of the island.

The "otea" is a ceremonial dance of homage and welcome, and has remained unchanged since discovery. Movements are rapid and abrupt to the violent beat of sharkskin and hollow log drums.

The "aparimas" are dances of the legends and life of the island. Movements are smooth and simple, telling such daily tales as the normal routine of fishing in the blue ocean or climbing the tall palm trees to pick coconuts. Or they can become a history lesson, relating the story of how their ancient Polynesian ancestors crossed the seas to Tahiti in their huge ocean canoes.

The Tahiti Nui Revue are making their third North American tour this year. They have appeared in night clubs, at fairs, conventions, and on television in both Canada and the United States.

The Revue was first formed in 1965 by Paulette Vienot, a successful Tahiti tour operator. She still manages and tours with the company. In July, a month after their formation, they entered Tahiti's famous Bastille Fete competitions and won first place honors for dancing, drumming and costumes.

Area Girl Drowns

Brenda Joan Durant, 14, of the Williamsburg area, drowned Monday afternoon at Muskrat Lake near Cobden, one hour after she had arrived there to spend a week at the Ottawa Valley Pentecostal Camp.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Durant was accompanied by her twin sister, Beverly, when the tragedy occurred. Relatives said that the two girls were swimming in a fenced-off area when Brenda began to flounder. Her sister ran for help but a rescue could not be effected in time.

The victim attended Elma Composite School during the past term and would have entered Seaway Valley High at Iroquois in the fall.

Message that their daughter had drowned was awaiting the parents when they arrived at their home one mile east of Williamsburg late Monday afternoon.

The victim is survived by her parents and by two sisters, her twin and a younger sister, Geraldine.

WE HAVE WEEDS TOO

In the Iroquois Post this past week a note about keeping weeds cut, I wish some one would come to Hanesville and see once where our old White School stood and where the new road has gone through, there are weeds and dirt three feet high. We do try to keep our own side of the road mowed but it's pretty discouraging to look across the road at such a mess. At least our school yard was kept clean even if we didn't have school in the summer time..

A TEST TO DESTRUCTION. Marnie Ellison of the engineering staff at General Motors of Canada in Oshawa watches with some apprehension while Bill Murphy, precision inspector, carries out a destructive sealt belt test. Each day, seat belts selected at random from supplier shipments are put in this strength-testing machine that simulates body stress. Belts are required to withstand a 5,000 lb. load and regularly exceed this figure by 40 to 60 per cent.

Menu of the week

Glazed Back Bacon*
Parslied New Potatoes
Cabbage Slaw
Sweet Cherries by the Bowl

This is the month for fresh Ontario sweet cherries, available in increasing quantities from now to the end of July. Select plump, well-colored cherries, free from blemishes. Cherries with stems on keep longer than those without stems.

From now until mid-September, Ontario new potatoes will be in season. Buy them in quantities that you will use quickly, as they do not keep for as long as the later, more mature crop.

Glazed Back Bacon*
3 lbs back bacon
whole cloves
brown sugar
orange marmalade

1. Remove casing from meat.

2. Place on rack, fat side up.

3. Bake at 325 degrees for 2 hours or more. (If thermometer is used, bake until thermometer registers 170 degrees).

4. Score in diagonal lines that cross to form diamonds. Place whole cloves in center of each.

5. Pat brown sugar into surface, then spread lightly with marmalade.

6. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes.

Upper Canada Open Water Ski Championships

On Saturday, August 30 and Sunday, August 31, Canada's top male and female water skiers will be competing in slalom, jumping and trick skiing at Crysler Marina near Morrisburg.

Among the competitors, will be the six members of Canada's World Water Ski Team who have just returned from the World Water Ski Championships held in Denmark.

Competitive events will run from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on August 30 and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on August 31. Nearly 80 water-skiers from across Canada are expected for this two-day event.

There will be eight classes of competitors, four male and four female, in each of the three major categories.

Water Skiing is one of Canada's rapidly growing recreational sports, attracting people of all ages. Competitions range from children under 13 years of age to veteran water skiers.

The Upper Canada Open is an opportunity to see Canada's best water skiers in action along with the "thrills and spills" which are a part of this spectacular sport.

Trophies and prizes will be awarded to the winners in each category at the conclusion of the competition on Sunday afternoon.

You Need Shur-Gain pasture dairy ration

Lush green pastures are high in protein, but low in carbohydrates and energy, so despite the fact your cattle were fed well all winter, they could lose weight if fed only pasture.

Maintain your herd production throughout the early growing season with SHUR-GAIN Pasture Dairy Ration. It provides energy lacking in lush green pastures because SHUR-GAIN Pasture Dairy Ration is high in carbohydrates.

Appointed Director of Social Service

The Winchester District Memorial Hospital is pleased to announce the appointment of Mrs. Martine D. Gow as director of a new department of Social Service which has recently been established at the hospital.

Mrs. Gow, who lives in Russell Ontario, will be working on a part time basis at the hospital and, in addition to working with patients who have problems and are in the hospital, she will also be available for consultation in the community. The addition of a social service department as part of the treatment team in the hospital should help provide maximum care as well as ensuring the general well being of patients. Mrs. Gow will work with patients with family problems, will help in discharge planning and help patients who have problems which in any way affect their illness.

Mrs. Gow was born in Belgium in 1939; she moved to England as a baby and completed her high school there. In 1958 she came to Canada and started studying at night for her degree. She worked at the Montreal Children's Hospital for one year and taught at the Montreal School for Retarded Children for two years.

She completed her B.A. in 1963, graduating from Sir George Williams University, majoring in psychology and sociology. From 1962 to 1964 she worked as a social worker at the Children's Aid Society in Ottawa and from 1964 to 1965 in Cornwall at the Children's Aid Society. In 1965 she returned to take her Master's Degree in social work at McGill University at the same time as her husband. She did her field work at the Montreal Neurological Institute.

In 1967 Mrs. Gow and her family moved to Russell, Ontario. Mr. Harry Gow works in Ottawa as a probation officer for the Department of the Attorney General. Mr. and Mrs. Gow have been married for eight years and have four sons. Mrs. Gow will be returning to McGill University in September, commuting one day a week, to complete her Master's Degree.
