R. J. Jackson

Iroquois Businessman Died at Weekend

Robert J. Jackson, a prominent businessman and member of the community all of his life, passed away Saturday April 10th, in the Kingston General Hospital where he had been a patient for some time. Born in Matilda Township at Point Iroquois on January 6th, 1905, Mr. Jackson attended the Iroquois Public and Iroquois High Schools.

He was a son of the late Alexander Wesley Jackson and his wife Amy Elizabeth Everard.

Mr. Jackson, known throughout a wide area as "Bob" spent his entire life in the wood and lumber business, starting with selling cordwood in his early days and then entering the construction business. Prior to the Seaway he had built up an excellent builders' supply business and on moving to the new village, added a hardware branch to the firm.

In 1959 his son George entered the business and the firm expanded into wood products and the setting up of Iroquois Enterprises division of Jackson Builders' Supply and the business expanded into many wood products specialties. From its initial humble beginnings the firm has developed into a major user of wood from all over the area and a major employer, a tribute to the initiative and energies of its founder.

On May 9th, 1936, Edna Audrey Millard became the bride of Robert Jackson in a ceremony at Quebec City conducted by Canon George Frederick Scott. To the couple were born four children, Frederick George of Iroquois; Mrs. M. (Roberta) Greaves, Perth; Mrs. C. (Nancy) Lamb, at home; Mrs. A. (Marian) Wylie, Ottawa. Also surviving are six beloved grandchildren, Trent, Crystal and Kurt Greaves of Perth; Bridget and Robert Jackson of Iroquois, and Alana Wylie of Ottawa.

During his lifetime, Mr. Jackson took a keen interest in the affairs of the village and was once a member of the Iroquois Public School Board a Past

Watch For Flooding

All that white stuff looked fine when it was coming down and those who liked the outdoors really enjoyed the Winter but now that Spring has arrived with warmer weather, there is a serious threat of flooding. Sump pumps will be working overtime to keep up with the excess of water and residents will now be wondering whether all that wintertime fun was worth the price.

Survey For Geared-To-Income Housing Started In Iroquois

The Ontario Housing Corporation will conduct a survey to determine the need and demand for family housing in THE VILLAGE OF IROQUOIS

A research team from OHC the Ontario Government's housing agency, will estimate the number of families living or working in the community whose housing is inadequate or beyond their financial capabilities.

The demand in the area for housing on a rent-geared-to-income basis will be determined from information gathered through advertising direct mail questionnaires and personal interviews.

The study, which begins shortly, was requested by the Municipal Council.

It will include an assessment of economic trends, growth factors and current and future housing needs in the municipality. In this regard, interviews will be conducted with such community representatives as municipal officials, businessmen, social and welfare workers and the clergy.

Residents and employees will receive letters outlining the government's family housing program and asking them if they wish to participate.

Some interested persons may not be reached by direct mail. OHC urges them to obtain a questionnaire from the municipal offices.

If the survey shows a need for family housing, it will likely be two- storey of semi-detached or row design. The size of the units varies with community needs, but they can have as many as four or five bedrooms. Rent is related to total family income and includes service charges for heat, hot and cold water, stove and refrigerator. The lowest rent is $28. a month.

After considering the survey report, Council can initiate the program it outlines by adopting a resolution requesting OHC to go ahead. OHC borrows 90 per cent of the capital cost of a project from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and 10 per cent from the Provincial Treasurer. The Corporation pays both back with interest.

Housing on a rent-geared-to-income basis is part of OHC's Home Ownership Made Easy (H. O. M. E.) program. Those receiving questionnaires are asked to return them as soon as possible to assist the survey team.

Please! No Dumping!

In the past week or so a number of people, unable to get into the dump on days when it is not regularly open, have left bags and boxes of refuse near the gate or along the road near the gate. With rainy weather or with stray dogs this material can easily become scattered and those requiring to dispose of this garbage are asked to either take it home and bring it back Friday or Saturday or take it to the Village maintenance building where the garbage truck is stored.

Keep Eyes On The Road

A car flipped over on 401 last Thursday and while traffic slowed down to look at the car one driver let his eyes wander too long from the road and another car slammed into it from behind. The second and third car were in the westbound lane while the car that flipped had been heading east.

There's a moral to this short note!

Weekly Report From Queen's Park

The second week of the present Legislature Session was a day short as the House rose on Thursday before Good Friday. In the House itself there was little activity and little of the fire which characterized the opening days of the Session. The Monday was devoted to a full scale debate on unemployment and Members of all Parties participated in large numbers Everyone agreed on the seriousness of the problem but there were few instant solutions. Premier Davis unveiled Government plans to provide several thousand additional summer jobs for students and the Treasurer discussed the problems arising from Federal fiscal inflation and employment policies which have contributed to our present economic set back indicating the difficulties faced by each Provincial Government in this regard. The Liberals contented themselves with berating the Provincial Administration and mildly supporting the Federal policies. On the other hand, the New Democratic speakers, as could be expected, were full of solutions based, of course, on socialistic theories which to date have found little support from the people of Ontario.

During the week, some fifteen Members of the Italian Parliament visited the Ontario Parliament to be entertained by the Govemment and introduced to the House. This is part of a continuing exchange of visits between Parliamentarians of all countries. Usually they visit our National Capital first and then one or more of the Provincial Parliaments to view at first hand the democratic procedures of Canada.

Until the Ontario Budget is introduced on April 26th the Members will be having a less demanding daily schedule since the Government's Legislative Program (i e. introduction of new laws for debate) is rather slow in unfolding this Session. However, there would appear to be no dearth of duties and meetings to keep a Member's time and energies well occupied.

Look in the Book

'Look in the Book' is the advise given on the cover of Bell Canada's new telephone directories to be distributed in Iroquois by April 1.

P.D. Perry Bell's Manager, said that the striking multi-coloured cover is designed to encourage customers to consult the directory for telephone number information before calling the directory assistance operator.

"Many of the calls to directory assistance are for telephone numbers already listed in the directory," Mr. Perry said. "Of the 255,000,000 calls to directory assistance throughout the company last year, approximately 75 per cent were for numbers in the telephone directory.

He added that, despite increasing employee productivity, the cost of providing directory assistance service is growing faster than that of telephone service generally and is driving costs of telephone service up unnecessarily.

The manager said that customers have another reason for 'looking in the book'.

"This year," he said, "Bell has begun to include customers' apartment and suite numbers in the directory listings." He added that this long-term program was started in cooperation with the Post Office in Ottawa as an aid to those who refer to the telephone directory for mailing addresses and which, subsequently, will expedite the delivery of mail to large apartment and office buildings. Mr. Perry said that apartment and suite numbers will normally be added only when a directory listing is revised because of a new street address or telephone number change.

Approximately 1502 copies of the new Bell Canada telephone directory will be distributed in Iroquois, 25,580 in Brockville and 8,820 in Prescott.

A Time for Caution

Warmer than usual temperatures have brought flooding to many parts of this district, with fields and roads covered and driving dangerous in some sections.

While the people living along the Nation and its tributaries have, over the years, become somewhat used to the idea of all that water in their backyards, it is the people who take a drive to see the flooding who are more likely to get into trouble. Water splashing upon the car motor and getting into the brake drums can cause problems and when the brakes are applied and you find you have none, the feeling that comes is unpleasant...not to mention unsafe.

It would be far better if visitors to flooded areas fully realized that flooded roads can cover unseen potholes, washouts and other hazards that we don't usually experience in our everyday driving.

It is very unpleasant to have to walk half a mile or so through water to your knees to get help to haul your car from a flooded road. Not to mention the fact that you may block a road at a time when others may desperately need its use.

The roads system take a terrific beating this time of year and half-load restrictions are in effect. This step is taken to help keep down the ultimate cost of repairing roads with your dollars. And indeed, these costs are high now without adding more to the upkeep.

While we're at it, we might again remind parents to warn their children to stay away from the swollen creeks and rivers. It may be a temptation for youngsters to slosh along the riverbank, stepping on floating cakes of ice, but drownings occur each year from this sort of adventure.

- - how sad it is to attend the funeral of a child whose life was lost unnecessarily due to drowning.

Spring is coming fast and a couple more weeks of this weather and the danger will have passed. Surely it is little enough to ask that extra care be taken in this short period of time to prevent a disaster.

Early Start

Seaway Valley Travel Council met in Iroquois this week to get an early start on preparing for the tourist season ahead. One of their initial steps was to bring the members of the Council together to get them in the mood for promoting tourism in an area that has been one of the fastest developing tourist attractions in Ontario.

With three major attractions, those of the Seaway Locks at Iroquois, Upper Canada Village below Morrisburg, and the Power facilities at Cornwall, we have a great deal to offer visitors and area residents alike.

We're pleased to see the Travel Council taking its first steps early enough in the year to get something done.

What the Council is going to need, however, is the support of every firm and individual to bring about any kind of promotional program that is worthy of what we have to offer. And from what we have to offer, if it is promoted, we stand to gain tremendously.

Let's all give them an assist in promoting this area through the Seaway Valley Travel Council.

THE BILL SMILEY COLUMN

THE HONEST THIEF STILL MUST PAY

By Bill Smiley

Towards the end of a long, dreary winter like this year's, even the most jubilant of spirits begin to flag. The world takes on a gray monotony, about the colour and taste of English gravy.

We seem to be suspended in a vague nightmare in which we are swimming in porridge, with no land in sight. We have forgotten the glory of the individual spirit and our fellow-beings seem to merge into the murk.

Right there is the point at which we need a good spring tonic. In the old days our mothers gave us a physical one, in the shape of a good purge, and it seemed to help.

But in these days of instant laxatives, we need something for the spirit, not the body. I got my tonic this year, just in time. It was in the form of two stories, both true. My faith in the colour and vitality of the human spirit was restored, and I feel like living again.

The first one contained enough irony and humanity to satisfy the most demanding of writers. It concerned a bank hold-up.

The manager was out to lunch when the desperado struck. He slipped a note to one of the tellers informing her that it was a stick-up, then slipped a sawed-off shotgun from under his coat, and went to the front counter.

Chatting happily on the phone to his girl-friend, the accountant had his back to the villain. The latter waited politely for him to finish his call and get the message.

A lady teller, trying to get the accountant's attention, kept hissing at him, "Dave! Dave!" He went blithely on, while the robber began to drum his fingers on the counter with just a touch of impatience.

Finally, he roared in a stentorian voice, "DAVE!". Dave looked over his shoulder and dropped the phone as though it were red-hot, as he looked into that shot-gun barrel, about the size of a Cyclops' eye.

The intruder shoved a bag at Dave and told him to fill it. It was done and the visitor left with what turned out to be $3,000. He got away clean, though three of the staff had rung alarm bells which were directly connected to the police station. A customer saw the getaway car and got the license number.

The chap was picked up about a week later. A sordid little story? Not at all. This was no ordinary hood. This was a man of character.

He didn't go careening off in a mad chase with police bullets and tires screaming. He drove a few blocks to a hotel, went in and had a few drinks. Sensible chap.

What did the hold-up man do with the money? He went to his own bank and paid off a $500 loan. Then he went to a finance company and paid them $1,000 he owed them.

What a pity he was caught! An honest man who paid his debts, pushed by them into an armed-robbery charge. A man of character.

The second story is also true. I just missed seeing it, but an eye-witness filled me in. It's a cowboy story.

The hero lives in a small town. He owns and rides a beautiful horse. On a recent Saturday, he rode uptown, feeling no pain. He wanted his horse to enjoy life, too, so he took him to a hotel and tried to take him into the beer parlour. Unaccountably, he was refused.

Undaunted, he took his steed across the street to a tavern and tried to buy him a double. Foiled again, he was trying to lead his pal into the beverage room of the other hotel in town, when the law arrived.

It was no contest. The cowboy told the cop exactly what he thought of him, for about twenty minutes. He then mounted Old Paint and galloped up the sidewalk of the main street, scattering old ladies into snowbanks and children into store doorways.

Allegedly, when the constable was asked why he didn't put the strong arm on the cowboy, he replied, "I didn't know what to do with the dam' horse." And a perfectly sensible answer.

Don't ever let anyone tell you that Canadians are a dull, mousy, colourless lot. Jesse James was a violent clod and Dodge City a home for old ladies, compared to this bank robber and this cowboy.

REFORM OF ARREST AND BAIL

The House in a rare display of unanimity has enacted an important reform to our criminal law. This law changes the rules governing arrest and bail. The best description given its background was by Mr. Diefenbaker in a delightful and informative speech in which he generously praised Mr. Turner, the Minister of Justice, for introducing the reform:

"Too often poverty has been a passport to prison.

The poverty of an individual has often contributed to his incarceration because of his inability to obtain bail. Not being able to obtain bail, there is a psychological reaction against him on the part of many people. Even though the individual has subsequently been found not guilty, there is always an adverse reaction to the individual who has served time."

OLD LAW STRICT ON ARREST AND BAIL.

Until now, the law dictated the arrest of almost any person charged with a criminal offence. This was done regardless of the seriousness of the offence, the danger which the offender might create in the community or the fact that arrest was not necessary to insure that the offender would appear at his trial. Once arrested the accused person was in the position where he had to apply for bail or face indefinite detention until his trial. Many people remained in jail for the simple reason that they or their friends could not find enough money or security to meet even nominal bail. Even if finally acquitted, dangerous consequences followed if they had lost their jobs, their reputations and their friends while in jail.

NEW GUIDELINES FOR ARREST

Under the new law guidelines are provided to the police for determining whether or not a person should be arrested. They, of course, include the important elements necessary to protect society such as the necessity of preventing another offence, establishing the identity of the accused and preserving evidence. Another important condition is added The police officer is directed not to arrest, if he reasonably believes that these elements of the public interest are protected and he has no reasonable grounds for believing that the accused person will not voluntarily appear at his trial.

BAIL REFORM

The same basic considerations apply if a person is arrested and applies for bail. Judicial officers are directed to release the accused on his own written promise to appear at trial unless there are reasonable grounds for believing that he will not do so or that his release will be contrary to the public interest. These provisions for arrest and bail do not apply to serious charges such as murder.

REACTION TO REFORM

This Bill was first introduced in June, 1970. During the summer, it was discussed with the Provincial Governments and the Association of Police Chiefs. It was modified to make it more workable and practical from their standpoint. Any reform of criminal law is apt to be misunderstood. It is all too easy to say that the law is getting "soft". This reform cannot be criticized from that standpoint. Its basic purpose is to avoid clogging our jails and our judicial administration where no good purpose is served by custody before trial. It eliminates the obvious unfairness which has always existed against poor persons who could not raise bail. It imposes new responsibilities on police officers who have much to contend with under modern conditions. Nevertheless, their position will be fortified because, for the first time, firm guidelines are established in the criminal code itself as to the basic conditions covering arrest and bail. There is general agreement with the purpose stated by Mr. Turner:

"to guarantee the least possible pre-trial interference with individual liberty that is consistent with the proper administration of justice and the interests of the public".

THREE GUNS TO FIGHT MASTITIS WARS.

Mastitis 1 – a broad spectrum antibiotic for use mainly in acute Mastitis.

Mastitis 2 – designed for treatment on a herd basis as Dry Cow Therapy. Use Mastitis 2 to treat every quarter at dry-up time.

Mastitis 3 – contains the most comprehensive coverage against staphlocaccal infection available in Canada – a two-pronged attack against Staph. and Strep.

May we suggest that in your war against Mastitis an effective weapon is to cut off the enemy's supplies. Mastitis is your enemy and the supply for infections is behind the firing lines stored in unclean conditions.

Eliminate all unclean conditions. Then – use the Shur-Gain Mastitis products of your choice to best combat the special Mastitis infections.

Round The Bend

by Sheila Watt

Few things depress me more than the invitation from our school's kindergarten teacher to observe her class at work.

Four times now have I toddled to school, eager to compare the effect of 34 little fiends on Miss Smudge's sanity with my own acknowledged mental instability.

I take a sadistic pleasure in the idea that by observing another adult personality disintegrating under constant childish pressure, I will feel better about coping with my own lot.

I never learn.

The class room looks like home. Crawling children litter the floor with wooden blocks, crayons, trucks and stringing beads, and the mothers communicate with sympathetic smiles, since none of us has been given a megaphone.

I brace myself for the screech Miss Smudge must surely use to silence this bedlam.

She picks her way carefully into the sea of blocks, smiling serenely and holding a little bell.

Tinkle, tinkle, chimes the bell, and 34 children leap to instant standing attention hands on shoulders, mouths closed.

"Good morning, children," she murmurs, after a moment's impressive silence. "Shall we sing morning song for our guests now?"

After morning song comes free painting. A fine mess this should make, I think with relish. Let's see her cope with puddles of paint and rainbow fingers.

Sure enough, one child spills his pot of paint.

"Oh, dear, Johnny," Miss Smudge's smile is warmly understanding. "I see you've had a little accident. Here's a cloth: you mop up and I'll get you more paint."

The old familiar depression creeps over me. I realize I've been through this before.

"We try not to name, blame or shame, "Miss Smudge smirks in reply to one openly admiring mother. "When things go wrong we simply state what we see, what we feel, and what needs to be done. Above all, we never attack the child's character traits."

Sounds so right. So logical. But try it, just try it, at home on the weekend.

"Mum I'm starving. Can I have another banana?"

"No."

"Aw, Mum, why can't I? Can I have an orange then, if I eat it?

"I'm glad you asked me that question. I can tell you what I feel about little girls eating between meals. Since you had lunch half-an-hour ago, I simply don't feel you can be too hungry"

As she totters out mournfully, another hobbles in.

"My shoes are hurting me."

"Oh? I'm sorry to hear that. Where do they hurt?"

"All over. They're too small."

Let's think about this together for a moment, shall we. Aren't those the $10 shoes we had such fun shopping for two weeks ago? And didn't the nice saleslady swear on her bended knees that there was lots of room for growth? Do you think your little tootsies have grown a whole size in two weeks?"

"Yup."

"Then put on your old boots and run outside to play. Mummy is going to have a little rest."

As soon as you put your feet up, the phone rings.

"Mrs. Watt?" You recognize seven-year-old Darlene.

"Yes," you reply patiently.

"I was just wondering - what's Susie doing right now?"

You're going to stay calm, d'you hear, calm-calm-calm.....

"Susie is playing outside in her old boots with her starving sister," you explain pleasantly, "but thank you for calling."

As you return to the sofa the unmistakable sound of splintering glass sends you racing instead to the kitchen. Your kindergarten child is standing beside the open frig (cleaned yesterday) into which she has spilled the entire contents of the milk jug.

"Jus' getting a drink and it fell.

You forget Kindergarten. Forget what the experts tell you. Your voice rises in a crescendo till it reaches a pitch where only the dog can hear it.

But the children understand what you mean.

COMBINES AND CANCER SOCIETY JOINT WINNERS

When a hockey game is played, there can be only 1 winner, But, Tuesday night there were 2 winners, Morrisburg Combines and the Canadian Cancer Society.

Combines were declared Morrisburg Champions with a 17-4 swamping over the Morrisburg Junior Lions in an exhibition game, with all proceeds going to Cancer. Each team added players to replace those who could not make it to the game. Jim Notman of the Nashville Flyers joined the Lions while Mel Tomalty, Pat Brophy and Tom McCable joined the Combines. The score of the game is not really important, the real important fact is that the Cancer Society benefited from the game. Jack Duncan led the Combines with 5 goals, Keith McGregor 4, Mel Tomalty 3, Rick Rushford 2, and Big Doug Casselman 2, Brophy scored once for the Combines and once for the Lions thoroughly upsetting his goalie Doug Hay.

Tom Whelan scored a hat trick for the Lions. The Lions played a good game, but were outclassed by an experienced team. Referees Gord McMillan and Bill Dillabough Sr. handed out 6 minors, 5 to the Combines. Doug Hay was in the net for the Combines while Allen Delage and Larry Cooper shared the net for the Lions. Lions were short the 2 Mabos, while Combines missed defence Shad St. Jean, Ron Quenneville, Steve Casselman, Don Gibbs, Roy Pyke.

Embrun Panthers defeated Shawville Pontiacs 4 games to 1 and now play against a team from Quebec.

Bring home Trophy

On Sunday, March 28, 1971, a team comprised of members of the Ontario Provincial Police Detachment from Morrisburg brought home the trophy from the Eastern Ontario Police Broomball Tournament which was played in Kingston. The boys from Morrisburg beat Kingston Military Police in the first game 1 to 0. The second game against the Ontario Provincial Police detachment from Brockville was a close game with the team from Morrisburg winning 2 to 1. In the final game the opposition came from the Ontario Provincial Police detachment at Kingston and the boys from Morrisburg defeated them 5 to 0.

This is the second trophy won by the Morrisburg Detachment this year with the team winning convincingly to bring home the trophy from the Trenton Police Tournament held in February.

AUDITOR'S REPORT
VILLAGE OF IROQUOIS

To the Members of Council, Inhabitants and Ratepayers of the Corporation of the Village of Iroquois.

We have examined the 1970 financial statements of the Corporation of the Village of Iroquois and its local boards. Our examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Corporation of the Village of Iroquois and its local boards as at December 31, 1970 and the results of their operations for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted for Ontario municipalities applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Parents! Watch Ice-Covered Bodies of Water

Parents! Now that spring is here and the days are getting warmer, instruct your children to keep away from ice-covered bodies of water. Already there have been three children drowned in the Ottawa Valley as a result of breaking through thin ice while playing on it. With the warm temperatures of the day and any currents which may be present, the ice has a tendency to honeycomb which makes it unsafe to walk on.

Ontario Provincial Police in Dundas County patrolled 11,922 miles while working 1,023 hours During this period, 50 charges were laid and 87 warnings were issued under the Highway Traffic Act of Ontario.

Officers from Morrisburg and Winchester detachments investigated 2 thefts 3 break and enters and 16 miscellaneous complaints. One person was charged under the Liquor Control Act of Ontario. As a result of investigations by Provincial Constable THORNTON of Morrisburg Detachment one juvenile person has been charged with 2 break enter and theft charges.

Although Dundas County experienced its first fatal accident of the year, traffic was light with officers investigating 3 property damage accidents.

Provincial Court was quiet with officers spending 5 hours in court while registering 35 convictions.

In Memoriam

AULT - In loving memory of a dear Father, Ancil Ault, who passed away April 11th, 1969.
Two tired eyes are sleeping,
Two willing hands are still.
For one who suffered far to much is resting in God's will.
You never said goodby to me,
For perhaps it's just as well,
I never could have said goodbye. To one I loved so well.
Sadly missed by daughter
Ida. 43-1-P

AULT - In loving memory of a dear Grandfather, Ancil Ault, who passed away April 11th, 1969.
What we would give to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see,
To hear his voice and see his smile, That meant so much to us.
Sadly missed and always remembered by, Grandchildren Helen, Clara and George.
