

REEVE ACCLAIMED —

Reeve Mahlon Zeron of Matilda Township was acclaimed to his 17th and 18th years in that office following nominations on Monday last.

Former Rector at Officiated at Son's Toronto Wedding

The Rev. Dr. L. C. and Mrs. Scott have just returned to England after flying to Toronto for a very happy family gathering. The occasion was the marriage of their younger son, David, to Miss Beverley Lawrie Brown of Toronto. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Albert Edward Brown and the late Mr. A. E. Brown.

Dr. Scott performed the ceremony in the Church of St. Clement, Eglinton, on Saturday, October 26, at four o'clock. He was graciously assisted by the Rector of St. Clement, the Ven. Archdeacon Crostwait.

The bride wore a short dress of eggshell peau-de-soie with matching head-dress. The bride's mother wore a very charming cerise peau-de-soie ensemble with matching hat, and the bridegroom's mother was attired in a turquoise two-piece crimplene suit with dark brown accessories. The reception was held at the Prince Arthur

House on Lowther Avenue and afterwards the bride and groom left for a honeymoon in Jamaica. They will reside in Toronto.

The guests included the whole of the Canadian branch of the Scott clan: Captain John A. and Mrs. Scott with Phillip and Linda from Winnipeg; Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Barlow of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Barlow of Candiac, Quebec; and Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Chapman with Scott and Kent of Toronto.

Dr. and Mrs. Scott would like to take this opportunity of expressing their regrets to their many friends in Morrisburg that they were unable to visit them on this occasion owing to transport difficulties, lack of time and the stickiness of the British Government regarding spending money! They were able to pay a flying visit to Bermuda on the return journey where they enjoyed a few days' sunshine before their return to England.

50th Anniversary Marked at Galt

The first minister to be called to Williamsburg United Church after Church Union in 1926, Rev. Alex Russell and Mrs. Russell recently celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary at Brant Place, Galt, Ontario. On this occasion the congregations of St. Andrews United Church, Williamsburg and Colquhoun Church held a proxy party and showered the couple with congratulatory cards. Mr. Russell served Williamsburg and Colquhoun churches until 1933.

A reception for friends and family was given in their honour by their son-in-law and daughter Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Richardson at the Kress Hotel, Preston.

Mr. Russell married the former Anna Beatrice Jay of Forest, Ontario, in Glasgow, Scotland. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Russell taught school at Parry Sound and Cobalt.

At the time of the wedding, Mr. Russell was a lieutenant with the Royal Flying Corps, having transferred from the 46th Queen's University Battery Royal Artillery in which he served as a gunner.

Following the war, Mr. and Mrs. Russell returned to Canada where Mr. Russell resumed his studies at Queen's. He later served in the mission field in Northern Ontario and ministered in Canada until 1933 when he and his wife returned to his native Scotland.

As a minister of the Church of Scotland he spent six years in Dundee and 19 years in Wharfedale Memorial Church in Kirkmahoe Parish Church, Dumfries until his retirement in 1958.

At that time Mr. and Mrs. Russell returned to Canada and since that time have made their home at Galt, Ontario.

Nominations Held in Many Centres Monday - Here Thurs.

Monday was Nomination Day in many area municipalities for candidates for that new brain-child of Queen's Park, the Regional Boards of Education, the Regional Separate School Boards, and in some places, candidates also for municipal office.

In other municipalities the municipal nominations are slated for Thursday.

In nearby Matilda Township, Mr. Mahlon Zeron was acclaimed as reeve, and will be serving his township for the 17th and 18th year in that capacity.

Other seats on the Matilda Council will be contested, with John Thompson and Douglas Irving asking for election to deputy-reeveship. Five well known men have qualified to contest the three remaining council seats. They are: Harold Harry Small, Charles Farlinger, Lee Shaver and George Cooper.

In Williamsburg Township this is an "off year" for municipal elections as the sitting council will complete the balance of their two-year term. Morrisburg and Winchester are holding municipal nominations on Thursday of this week.

The whole new concept of a regional schoolboard for the United Counties, still leaves many ratepayers baffled, and very, very many, we are convinced with an attitude of helplessness at being "taken over" by the larger centres, so that they will not enjoy the same control over their own affairs, as has previously been the case.

Public School ratepayers in Zone Three (comprising Williamsburg Township, Morrisburg Village, and the village and township of Finch) will choose only one representative from a slate comprised of Douglas Barclay of Williamsburg, Dale Beckstead and Clare Nugent of Williamsburg Township, and Gordon Ross of Finch.

Lorne Mellan and Keith Fawcett will contest the one seat available in Zone 1, covering Mountain and Matilda Townships and Iroquois Village.

One seat is also available in Zone Four, consisting of Cornwall and Osnaburck Townships. Contestants there are Mrs. Helen Graham, Mr. Lloyd Markell and Mrs. Enna Witherspoon.

Zone Two also has only one seat on the new board who will be selected by the voters from a slate comprised of W. G. Reynolds, Eric Casselman, John Hatcher and Lorn Thompson. The area covers Winchester Township and the villages of Winchester and Chesterville.

There are three seats available on this United Counties Board of Education for Separate School supporters. Unlike the other members, these will be elected at large, not on a zone, or ward basis. Only one of those nominated is from Dundas County. He is Mr. Sarsfield O'Connor of Chesterville, and will make a determined bid to take one of the seats on the new board, so that this county may have representation thereon for Separate School supporters. Others nominated for the available posts are: G. E. Desjardins, Martintown; Jean Guindon, Apple Hill; Arcade Trotter, Alexandria; Sylvester MacDonald, Cornwall.

To further compound the situation, there will be also elected on December a Regional Separate School Board (this one for elementary separate schools only). Separate School supporters in this area (and it is a very large one, covering the townships of Matilda, Winchester, Williamsburg, Finch, Roxborough and Osnaburck; the villages of Iroquois, Winchester, Chesterville, Morrisburg, and Finch) will get to choose only one representative from a slate of Patrick Beavers of Morrisburg; Hector Bazinet and Rene Leduc.

Many of these nominated and possibly some still to be nominated at Thursday night's meetings, will be making an appeal in our next issue for your support.

SEEKS SUPPORT FROM S.S. VOTERS FOR COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Board of Education to take office January 1st, 1969, will be composed of 16 members, seven of which will be representing the Separate School Supporters of the United Counties. Four of these seven will come from the City of Cornwall, and the remaining three from the United Counties. The latter 3 will be elected at large throughout the Counties and only one man was nominated from Dundas County on November 18th. He is Mr. Sarsfield O'Connor of Chesterville, and he has asked The Leader to stress to the Separate School supporters in this area, the urgency of getting out to vote on December 2nd. Mr. O'Connor has some experience in school board work and his apparent keen desire to serve, should command the support of those ratepayers in Dundas County who are eligible to vote for him.

TORY ASSOCIATION NAMES NEW OFFICERS AT ANNUAL MEETING

The Progressive Conservative Association of Grenville-Carleton held its annual meeting on November 19th at Kemptonville.

The membership elected Donald B. Hutcheson, an Ottawa insurance executive, as President, to succeed Mayor Donald Irvine of Prescott.

Other officers elected to office were as follows: 1st Vice President, Charles Farlinger, Morrisburg; 2nd Vice President, Sidney Handelman, Ottawa; 3rd Vice President, Edward T. Woolven, Ottawa; Secretary-Treasurer, Gilbert Molloy, Ottawa. Asst. Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Jean Saunders, Prescott.

The guest speaker at the meeting was Mr. David MacDonald, M.P., who spoke on his recent trip to Biafra.

45th Parallel Could be a Tourist Attraction

"Did you know," asks Seaway Valley Regional Tourist Council, "that the 45th Parallel passes right through the Seaway Valley?" Anyone in doubt might dig up that old geography book and have a look.

Find it? Good! Yes, that's it just east of Ingleside on Highway No. 2, and the Tourist Council feels it should be made conspicuous to the great number of tourists who pass by every year.

Some years ago, according to Council President, Reg. Workman, of Winchester, a written request was made to the St. Lawrence Parks Commission, suggesting a large sign and cairn, with appropriate car-stopping area be built at this location. Many tourists, it was felt, would treasure pictures taken at this point, exactly half way between the North Pole and the Equator.

The request was not completely overlooked, since last year a small stone plaque was discovered down near the waterfront with the story on it. Not nearly impressive enough the Council feels, and Parks Commission will again be approached, this time requesting a much more exciting marker, and one that will attract attention and be a real feature to promote.

Mrs. S. Seeley Has 97th Birthday

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

One of the district's more interesting elderly residents, Mrs. Sarah Seeley celebrated her 97th birthday Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cousins, Jellyby, where she has been living for the past four and a half years.

Familiarly known as "Sary", she is the widow of David Seeley of Morrisburg and the mother of Mahlon (Doc) Seeley, a well known Prescott chiropractor; Douglas and Clayton Seeley of Cardinal, and Coleman (Coley) Seeley of Black Lake Road, N.Y. She also has numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren in the area.

A special celebration of her birthday took place this past Saturday in Black Lake where she was taken for a weekend visit with her son. The possessor of a good, strong voice, she had been practising singing with a number of her favorite songs during the birthday celebration.

Despite her advancing years, Mrs. Seeley is still strong and active. She enjoys recalling her early life in Morrisburg and loves to tell of comical happenings in the old days. She has a natural wit and a sly, earthly sense of humor.

LOVES TO SING

Her favorite songs are "Little Brown Jug" and "A Long Way To Tipperary" and often sings them, along with a few others, to the Cousins family.

She was born Sarah Agnes Hess at Williamsburg on November 14, 1871 but spent most of her life at Morrisburg. She left school at 17 and took up dressmaking, learning the trade under the late Lucy Malton, a well known area seamstress.

A hard worker all her life, she believes her excellent vitality and tremendous spirit is due to all the outdoor living she has had. She recalls how she would take the cows out in the morning to pasture and bring them back for milking, pick vegetables along with the men in the field and still have time to laugh, sing and play a few jokes on her neighbors.

She only left Morrisburg because they "uprooted" her during the building of the St. Lawrence Seaway. Her house was the second building from the station and the John Markell blacksmith shop was right next to it. Her husband Dave, whom she fondly recalls as a "fine, strong man", died six years ago of pneumonia.

The recent cold weather and snow throughout Ontario was hard on our "feathered friends" too, as well as on humans. Right now with most of their natural food supply covered with ice, they can use your help, and many local citizens are feeding them. This covey of Hungarian partridge was photographed by Smith's Photo Service.

Weekly Report

IMPORTANT POINTS TO REMEMBER WHEN SELLING TIMBER
By: Clarence F. Coons,
Farm Forester

In Eastern Ontario, most private owned woodlots are small, falling in the 5 to 40 acre range. Wood lot owners sometimes sell their timber without knowing its true value. The frequent price changes in the lumber market, the sporadic and varied nature of timber purchasing and the reluctance of the owners to discuss the prices obtained from timber sales are all factors which make it difficult for woodlot owners to know the true value of their timber.

The following ten points should be remembered when selling your timber:

1. Locate and clearly mark your timber boundaries.
2. Get at least two bids before selling. More than two is advisable.
3. Use harvest methods that will improve your stand and the value of your woodlot.
4. Unless it is feasible to clearcut the stand, mark the individual trees which should be harvested.
5. Always sell timber with a written contract — have your family lawyer draw up the contract.
6. Investigate wood specialty mark-

Warn Kids of Danger

The primitive idea that a child could only learn the danger of fire by being burned has fortunately been abandoned in favour of more enlightened, intelligent methods of teaching. And surely no parent believes that the best way for a child to find out how dangerous a car can be is to get hit by one. Yet too many children are being allowed to learn about traffic in this painful way, simply because they have never been taught to regard a car as a serious danger.

The parent's task is a delicate one, to achieve a balance between complete physical protection which a child must have in infancy, and carefully teaching which he must have as he grows up in order to protect himself.

Too much fear is damaging, and prevents him from coping with danger intelligently; too much confidence may lead him straight into an accident, says the Ontario Safety League.

All children share the ability, and the need, to learn about traffic dangers from their parents, long before school age. The most positive way to teach a toddler basic safe behaviour is to let him watch you, and imitate you. He will do this whether or not you behave safely in traffic, so it's extremely important that you yourself never deviate from the rules you are teaching him.

The OSF stresses particularly the danger of wheeled toys when children are allowed to play on the roadway. Too many parents, who permit their children to play on quiet residential streets because there is little traffic, ignore the main danger — the development of carelessness.

The more accustomed a child becomes to playing in the roadway the less hesitation he will have in dashing across it, or any road, without looking for cars. The basic concept that the road is a place for cars, where he could get hurt, must be instilled very early, and very consistently.

When school days arrive, whether he rides or walks, remember that your child's safety en route will depend heavily on the job of safety teaching you have been able to do during his pre-school years, and on your continued efforts to provide him with proper instruction as he grows up.

7. Sell to a reputable individual or firm.

7. Never rush into signing a contract for the sale of timber.

9. Choose the most suitable method of sale. Timber may be sold by the acre, by the piece count, by lump sum bid, by the cord, by cubic foot measure or by board foot measure. If the sale is to be made on the basis of the board foot measure, investigate the log rule to be used.

10. Contact a Department of Lands and Forests Forester for advice.

150 Million Stamps For New Kids Hospital

Trading stamps have a new image. For the next three months in Ottawa, Hull and Eastern Ontario, Gold Bond Stamps will mean money to the Eastern Ontario Children's Hospital.

"A unique and painless way of contributing" is how Hospital building fund officials describe a project of the M. Loeb Company to aid the $4,000,000 building drive.

Residents of Ottawa, Hull, and the Eastern Ontario triangle are being asked to contribute 150,000,000 trading stamps to the Children's Hospital fund. The stamps may be contributed loose or in books, and for each book or 1500 stamps collected the Hospital will receive $2.00 from the Gold Bond Stamp company, plus an additional 50c from the Loeb company. Officials of the two companies point out that this "dollar redemption" is a special arrangement for the Hospital and applies only to stamps contributed to the campaign.

Objective of the stamp drive is 100,000 books of stamps, worth a total of $250,000 to the Hospital fund.

The stamp campaign will end with a giant lick-in when volunteers from throughout the region will lick all the loose stamps into Gold Bond books. This is scheduled for sometime in February, 1969.

Mayor Reid of Ottawa told the news conference that architect's drawings for "the finest, most up-to-date children's hospital anywhere" are about two-thirds complete, and that enquiries are being received from pediatric specialists all over the world, expressing their interest in practising at the new Hospital when it is completed early in 1973.

Publicity spokesman Pat MacAdam said the campaign committee plans to encourage "stamp collect-

THE SPORTS BEAT

By Glen May

David's revenge was swift

When the Toronto Argonauts slew the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the sudden-death Eastern Conference semi-final it was David and Goliath reincarnated.

For the past eight years the Toronto Double Blue has had unmerciful poundings by the grizzled horde from Tigertown. The yellow and black Tigers used to delight their supporters by leaving the Argos black and blue after each confrontation between the two teams.

Hamilton would use intimidation early, often allowing the Argos to engineer a lead. Before halftime Hamilton would be ahead or very close to it. As the second half started EVERYBODY knew who would win, and why Hamilton would be victorious.

Hamilton has always been noted for playing tough, mean, back-alley football. Argos of past years have been often angelic in appearance and performance. To throw an elbow or lead with a knee has been unheard of in their camp.

The Tiger-Cat Goliaths would only have to show their snarling faces and the cherubic Argos would almost run away, or as they say in the dressing room; "All Hamilton had to do to beat the Argos was to toss their (Hamilton's) helmets on the field."

Toronto defeated Hamilton twice in three games during the regular season, but undoubtedly, the Argos fans did not believe. Close to 8,000 empty seats at the Canadian National Exhibition park vindicated this belief.

The Argos players realized this as the game began. They looked at the empty seats and thought: "The people don't have faith in us." At least this is the way tight end Mel Profit put it.

Psychologically this lack of fan support hurt the Toronto team as the Cats sprinted to a 14-0 lead inside of the first five minutes.

Then along came Bill Symons, the wide-chested Argos halfback with number 33 on his back. We refer to his number because for 100 yards that's all Hamilton players saw . . . and when Dave Mann's convert was good, Toronto was back in the game.

Symons had run for a 100-yard touchdown, Argos players had flattened a few Tigers with crushing blocks, Go Argos Go could be heard in the stands, and obviously Hamilton realized they had to do more than "just toss their helmets on the field."

In the past the Tigers' pride would have been hurt, and in the past this would have generated such a hatred within the Hamilton players that they would have annihilated their Toronto foe. The yellow and black-clad Goliaths would have risen and battered the double blue-clad Davids into submission.

But somehow you sensed the hatred was rising within the Argos. No longer could Hamilton cope with Toronto man-for-man. Argos players began to overpower their foe at every move.

To win in football you must score every time you are inside your opponent's 30-yard line. Four times the Argos were in that vicinity and four times they scored.

As the end neared, the Hamilton club played the role of a loser. Trailing by 12 points and having a third down deep in their own end the Cats elected to punt and give Argos the ball. Hamilton had nothing to lose by trying for a first down — except a little pride if they failed and Argos scored again.

Perhaps, by this time, the Cats had even lost their pride. After all, they had lost everything else.

As the Hamilton fans, still in a state of shock, wandered out of the stadium, you could tell they still didn't believe their Goliaths had fallen.

Hadn't their burly warriors thrown their helmets disdainfully onto the field before the battle? To both questions the answer was yes.

But this time David picked up Goliath's helmet and tossed it right back in his face!

Publisher of The Curler is that outstanding young newspaperman, and graduate from the staff of The Leader, Jack Magee. Jack is a son of Mrs. Donald Magee, and the late Mr. Magee of Morrisburg. Councillor or Pat Kingston of Prescott and his wife Leana, visited his brother Walter in Canton, N.Y. last Saturday, reports the Prescott Journal, and attended the opening of a new shopping centre, where Mrs. Kingston was the winner of a new "Ski-Doo". An added advantage — the machine can be brought back to Canada by paying only the sales tax, since it is Canadian manufactured. Leana is well known to many friends in Morrisburg, where she lived for some years with her parents. She even put in a short time as an assistant at The Leader.

Wilfrid Colligan phoned Thursday morning, to report a robin on his front lawn — so perhaps all the rough weather we have had in the past few days may not portend the beginning of the winter after all.

Friends of Mr. Ross Hess will regret to know that he is a patient in Winchester Hospital, having been suddenly stricken last week.

YOUNG CANADA'S BOOK WEEK AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

The theme of "Young Canada's Book Week" is "Stay on Top With Books". At the Morrisburg Public Library and all other libraries in the country, there is wealth of interesting reading for all ages. Many books are written for certain age groups, and if not read then are lost forever.

At the Morrisburg Library books are chosen with care and new selections are arriving all the time. The Many Poppins books may be enjoyed by both children and adults which illustrates the fact that there is a difference between children's books and children's books.

Among the excellent books for children at the local library are: tales of Alaska, Greece, Israel and all countries. They are educational while presenting a good story.

The difficulty today, is not in finding a book at the library, but in choosing the best one.

MISSIONARY FROM BIAFRA SPEAKER AT KNOX W.M.S.

Miss Dorothy Bulmer, Missionary on furlough from Biafra was guest speaker at the monthly thankoffering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Knox Presbyterian Church.

Using colour slides, Miss Bulmer painted a picture of happy high spirited children who laughed, sang and danced but that was before the present day of starvation and suffering.

The speaker told of the 1966 massacres when over 30 thousand Biafrans were killed but survivors, who belong to the most intelligent and courageous group in Africa remain stouthearted despite great odds. Miss Bulmer requested support toward assisting in promoting a cease-fire for Nigeria.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Donald Menkley, president and thanked by Miss Gladys Bayne.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE VILLAGE OF MORRISBURG

It has been my pleasure to serve you as Councillor and as Reeve for the past eight years; most of the association with our people during this time has been rewarding, educational and inspirational. It is with regret that I find myself unable to serve further, in view of my personal commitments.

It has also been a pleasure for me to be part of an excellent administration which has proven beyond question that long-range planning has placed Morrisburg in a strong financial position. With the advent of regionalism, I feel that a strong, understanding Council is essential and I am sure you will see fit to elect the best possible candidates at the forthcoming Municipal Election. It would further encourage these people who are willing to serve if you take an active part in the nomination meeting tonight, even though I cannot be present because of a business commitment.

At this time I would like to publicly thank the Clerk and his staff, Mr. VanAllen and the boys who are in his charge, without whose help and co-operation this job would be impossible.

Best wishes to all for the forthcoming festive season. Kindest personal regards.

Signed: F.A. Hill, Reeve

DEAR DORIS

advice from
Doris Clark

Tired of doing odd jobs

DEAR DORIS — My daughter was always a "slow learner". She took her two high schools years at a vocational school, where she learned something about business practices and how to handle money. She hasn't really got a vocation. She gets odds and ends of jobs around the neighborhood, baby sitting and washing dishes for parties; but says she would like a "real job".

Any Hope?

DEAR HOPE — Better find out where her interests lie. Surely the vocational school identified her aptitudes.

Does she like people? Or words? Or things? Does she have mechanical aptitude?

Your slow learner is a person; and one needing more help than most in getting guided into the just right spot. With care she can find great satisfaction in working, probably at a job involving a good deal of routine repetitive work. Have her consult the youth counsellor at your Canada Manpower Centre.

DEAR DORIS — I am a dressmaker, with a grown-up family, all married now. My business is growing, with a number of wedding parties coming along and needing gowns. I enjoy it.

Last week my oldest son, whose wife is working, said, "Mother, why don't you give up your sewing and take care of our little Bobbie. We'd pay you."

I was so shocked I didn't even answer. I figure they are on their own now.

Just Mom

DEAR JUST — And so they should be. Junior doubtless cast about for an easy answer to the Bobbie-sitting question, and you were elected.

Probably tells himself that you work too hard, are getting old, would adore to devote full time to chasing a toddler.

You've had your turn at that. Tend to your knitting — I mean sewing.

DEAR DORIS — All of the girls who went out with this boy before are telling me that he's interested only in necking or in sex. But I've been out with him five times and he hasn't even kissed me yet.

All he does is give me nice compliments as, "Oh you're a living doll" etc. He works and comes home every weekend and yet he asks me out only about once a month. All my girl friends are telling me he's doing this just to see if he can catch me going out with someone else. Then he'll break off with me.

Fond Of Him But

DEAR FOND — He may be (1) admiring and respecting you; (2) unsure of your feelings and playing it cool; or (3) playing the field.

It seems you like him a lot. But it just isn't sense to wait around at home for the phone to ring — and to wait in vain, three weekends out of four!

Let the friendship grow, but make it clear — in an off-hand way — that you are not dating him exclusively. If he breaks off, that's his bad luck.

To Pestered Mummy — Your pre-schooler deserves to be your helper when he is so willing. He can wash dishes, dry them, put them away. He can dust. He can polish silver and will love making it shine.

One wise mother took all four of her brood through the dishwashing routines in early years. In fact, this was their after-dinner fun. More than once I heard her say, "Now David, better settle down and eat your dinner."

"If you tease the girls you won't be allowed to help with the dishes."

He settled down.

THAT DAY! As November 22 draws near, the world recalls that day in 1963 in Dallas, Texas, that John Fitzgerald Kennedy had his life ended by a sniper's bullet. The former U.S. president was riding in an open car when felled by gunshots alleged to have been fired by Lee Harvey Oswald. The spot where Kennedy was struck is marked in this picture by a cross. The building is the Dallas School Book Depository.—TNS Photo

THIS WEEK AND NEXT

by Ray Argyle

If Kennedy had lived

It will be five years ago on Friday that President Kennedy was shot in Dallas. It is hard to realize, but if he had not been killed, he would probably now be preparing to turn over the White House to his successor after having been president eight years.

For it is almost certain that had John F. Kennedy not been struck down by the bullets which came singing down from the window of the Texas School Book Depository, that he would have been easily re-elected in 1964.

At the time of President Kennedy's assassination, the lines of the 1964 campaign were already becoming clear. The Republicans were preparing to nominate Sen. Barry Goldwater, and JFK was looking forward eagerly to a campaign which he expected to carry by a good deal more solid margin than his whisper-thin 1960 victory over Richard Nixon.

President Kennedy's last trip, in fact, was a sort of curtain-raiser for the campaign. As is the privilege of all American presidents, JFK was on a "non-political" tour of the West, promoting conservation and the need for more science education, when he turned up in Dallas on the morning of Nov. 22, 1963.

Had he lived to win re-election in 1964, it is likely that John F. Kennedy would have assumed an even more personal control over U.S. foreign policy. There is ample evidence to suggest that he would have quietly released Dean Rusk as his Secretary of State, probably placing in that post either Defence Secretary Robert McNamara, or his Attorney-general brother, Robert Kennedy.

This done, one can speculate rather soundly that the whole course of American and world history from 1964 to 1968 would have been dramatically different.

It is highly unlikely that had President Kennedy lived, the U.S. would have become involved to the extent it has in Vietnam.

It is true that the first American advisors went there under the Kennedy administration. The whole government was preoccupied with the problems of Vietnam, but there was evidence the U.S. would insist on internal reforms in South Vietnam as the price of American backing.

President Kennedy was not a man to turn away from the hard realities of the mid-20th century. He warned as early as January, 1962, that the Communists were engaged in "systematic aggression" in Vietnam.

Despite this, President Kennedy had learned from the Bay of Pigs fiasco and the Cuban missile crisis. He learned to exercise and follow his own judgment, not that of his military advisors.

Combine President Kennedy's increasing distrust of the military with his brother's growing emphasis on social and political reform, as the best solution to military problems, and it is inconceivable that the U.S. would have become so deeply involved in Vietnam if Kennedy had lived.

At home, President Kennedy asked the nation, "If an American, because his skin is dark... cannot enjoy the full and free life which all of us want, then who among us would be content to have the color of his skin changed and stand in his place?" The struggle for civil rights would obviously have gone forward in President Kennedy's second term.

And who would have stood as his successor in 1968? It could have been Lyndon Johnson, but not likely. His brother Robert might have found a place on the Democratic ticket as the vice-presidential candidate.

Robert McNamara could have headed the Democratic ticket in 1968, but more likely the candidate would have been a political figure who is little known or heard from today. Who that might have been, no one can guess, except that he would have been either someone who has dropped from sight with the passing of the Kennedy dynasty, or someone for whom the ladder of political success was denied him after President Kennedy's death. In either event, he would have enjoyed the guiding counsel of the Kennedy brothers in the 1968 campaign, and beyond, and America would be a quite different nation today because of it.

Education to Prevent Fraud

Not all those whose cases are investigated will lose out as a result of the Unemployment Insurance Commission's stepped-up drive against fraud.

A spokesman said today that in the light of a six-month pilot program, it seems that fraudulent attempts to obtain unduly high unemployment insurance benefits represent between 15 and 20 per cent of claims.

In the last financial year, $2,000,000 wrongfully drawn from the Unemployment Insurance Fund was recovered, following investigations. In the financial year ending March 31, 1969, it is expected that some $3,000,000 will be recovered.

With the extended and redesigned program well under way by then yearly recoveries of overpayments may later reach $5,000,000.

"When the amount of fraud starts dropping, we shall know that we are getting somewhere", said the spokesman. "It will not mean that we are relaxing our program of control. It will mean that more and more claimants are realizing that dishonesty does not pay."

The program has two aspects. On one hand it will apply a strong curb to dishonest practices. On the other it will remedy cases where it is found claimants have received less than they should have. In this case, too, adjustments will be made and the program will contribute from both aspects to efficiency in the operation of the unemployment insurance scheme.

To make clear beyond doubt what is permissible and what is not, the Unemployment Insurance Commission is launching this month a large-scale program of public education.

Brochures on the subject of "availability for work" as a condition of benefit, one of the principal areas of abuse, and on the consequences of dishonesty have been prepared for distribution to claimants. Two and a half million copies of each booklet are being printed.

A booklet will also be available for distribution to employers, describing the role they can play in ensuring that claimants receive every penny they are entitled to—and do not receive what they are not entitled to. It also describes the sanctions that can be applied against them, if they act in collusion with untruthful claimants.

A cross-Canada speaker program staffed from within the Commission will concentrate the attention of labour, employer and other involved groups on the need for—and the progress of—the crack-down operation.

Woods Water and Wildlife

Ontario faces a conservation crisis surpassed in North America by only California and the eastern United States. Our prodigal province has allowed many of our precious natural resources to be exploited without thought for the future. For example:

"The fish fauna of the Great Lakes has been completely altered in a decade. The famous fishery on Lake Erie for blue pike, whitefish and cisco is gone". —Dr. W. B. Scott, Royal Ontario Museum, in "The Freshwater Fishes of Eastern Canada", 1967.

"There are reasonable accurate guesstimates from a variety of sources to the effect that by the years 2000 to 2020 there will be virtually none of the good farmlands left in Ontario". —Prof. Norman Pearson, University of Guelph, 26 March, 1968.

"Southern Ontario lacks parks and outdoor recreational facilities to an extent unparalleled by any other major population centre in North America, according to a study made for the Conservation Council of Ontario in 1964.

"The rivers and streams of southern Ontario may have to be reserved in the future for waste disposal rather than as a source of water". —Dr. James Vance, chairman, Ontario Water Resources Commission, 26 March, 1968.

"Ontario has fallen to third place in forest products. During recent years the province has been a net importer of lumber. The depletion of the old growth pine stands will reduce opportunities for expansion of the lumber industry of this province in the next 25 years" according to the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects, 1957.

"The Niagara district is as good a fruit-growing area as there is on this continent, but if present trend continue, fruit growing in this area will disappear by 1980". Agricultural Marketing Enquiry Commission of Ontario Report, 1961.

We have been playing a game of strip poker with the landscape of Ontario. A relatively few people have been winning the early hands — people interested only in quick profits from the sale of conveniences — and all but guaranteeing that our children will lose as the game goes on, not just conveniences, but necessities as well.

For, according to the Federation of Ontario Naturalists, what we save of our wild landscape in our generation will be all that will remain to be passed on.

There will never be another chance!

MOON SHOT. Three U.S. Apollo astronauts will spend Christmas orbiting the moon. An Apollo 8 spacecraft will take off December 21 from Cape Kennedy and fly to within 70 miles of the moon. Navy Captain James A. Lovell will be one of the three astronauts. This will mark his second time in orbit. —TNS Photo

BELL LINES

by Larry Holtby, your telephone manager

Just about everybody has heard or read stories about telephone operators helping to avert tragedies, saving lives and property. But it's the little things that really show the demands placed upon our operators' ingenuity — like the summer bachelor who called an operator to find out how best to cook spaghetti, or the exhausted mother who tried to placate a bad-tempered child by dialing "411" and ordering her truculent off-spring to "stop crying and say hello to granny".

Christmas, normally a joyous season for everyone else, can become a headache for the information group. So many calls are received from children wanting to talk to "Santa in Toyland" that operators begin to wonder if the jolly old gentleman really does exist.

There are some 707,000 calls to Bell Canada Information during an average working day, and while such queries as those outlined above represent a relatively small percentage of the total they still must be answered and they do take up precious time. Information operators are required to use their good judgment in handling customer calls. When they receive unusual requests for information, they normally direct the caller to the reference department of the public library where they are quite sure the required information can be obtained.

For the rest, they grin and bear it.

How observant are you? Try to draw a telephone dial from memory, including all the finger holes, numbers and letters. You probably can't do it on the first try; most people can't. Fortunately, you don't have to trust memory when it comes to making telephone calls. The telephone book is a great source — not just of phone numbers — but of all sorts of valuable information like area codes, details on how to make special types of calls and, of course, all those businesses and services listed in the Yellow Pages. Why not take time now to get familiar with your telephone's best friend?

Did you know the wires in your telephone's "spring cord" have no spring at all? Rather the cord has a permanent wave.

The spring in the cord comes entirely from the cord's outer plastic jacket which is heat treated to set it into a permanent resilient coil. Everything inside the outer jacket is designed to be as flexible as possible — so it won't fight against the spring set in the plastic, and won't tend to break from constant flexing.

Just another example of the planning behind your telephone.

SUGAR AND SPICE

I hate November

Don't worry, I do not have a plan for writing an almanac of the months. But I'm almost certain that most people share my view of November. It is a real bummer.

It may be beautiful in Adelaide, Australia, with bikini-babes on the beaches, and the sun belting down. But in the true north strong and free, it's as sad as the wreck of a once-beautiful woman with nothing left but good bone-structure and great black bags under the eyes.

It is suitably introduced by Hallowe'en, that night when the instruments of darkness have their fling, and people put razor blades in apples and caustics in candies.

It is a time when night comes early and surly, and we draw our shades and creep into the darkness of our souls, and contemplate with horror the five months ahead.

No wonder Guy Fawkes and the other guys in on the deal tried to blow up the English king and parliament on Nov. 5th, 1605, in the famous Gunpowder Plot. But it was probably so ruddy dank that they couldn't keep their powder dry.

No wonder World War I ended on November 11th. Even those tough and stubborn fighters, the Germans, couldn't face going through the rest of another nasty November.

It's a month of soaring fuel bills, last year's rubbers vanished into thin air, mud and wet leaves tracked onto the clean kitchen floor. A month of putting on snow tires a day too late, storm windows a week too late, and studying for exams, a month too late.

It's a gray month. This, in Canada, is symbolized by Grey Cup Day. Isn't that appropriate? It couldn't have been a Lord Brown or Blue or Green or any of those distinguished names who donated our football cup. It had to be a Lord Grey.

Oh, I suppose, for the lunatic fringe of our population, November has its merits. It's deer-hunting month, when one can go out and muddle around in the marshes for $10. The only comment I have here is that the deer population is steadily increasing.

Thanks to the incredible ineptitude of most hunters, people like Skinny Wyonch, the deer are safer from hunters than the church is from tax collectors.

And it's a grand month for those other nuts — the lin-bow-front fishermen. I can't think of anything, on those bone-shaking, moist-laden November mornings, up to your navel in ice-water, more conducive to a long, happy life. Full of arthritis, neuritis, bursitis and plain old rheumatism.

November has a certain grim charm for the misanthrope — the guy who wants everybody to be as mean as he is. For once, he knows everybody is as glum as he, which makes him glumly happy, or happily glum.

It's a month when every normal Canadian gets a rotten cold, which hangs on, with varying degrees of misery, until the 24th of May. If the month when Christmas advertising reaches a zenith of stupidity.

It's a month when your kids quit university, when your roof springs a leak, when your furnace decides it is worn out. When your old back-ache, stunned by summer's sun, starts to ache back. When your car's "fall tune-up" turns into a major overhaul.

It's a month when all your best-laid plans of September turn aft agley and you realize you are running on three cylinders instead of the usual five.

It's a month, this year, when you had to lick a six-cent stamp for the first time in your life. And your poor old Yak friends had to choose, not Snow White, but one of the seven dwarfs.

I would say November is for the birds. But even the birds have enough brains to head south in October. Where does that expression "bird-brain" come from? I hate November.

ACCIDENT TIME

An accident can happen at any at any moment, but certain periods of the day seem to be more dangerous than others for farm people. Most farm accidents occur around 10 in the morning or 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Try to be a little more careful at mid-morning and mid-afternoon. Take a work break; a short period of relaxation will help make you more alert.

For added peace of mind, you should have CIA farm family liability insurance protection.
